(Canadian Press Cable)

London, Sept. 29.—The situation in the Near East is as bad as it can be short of actual war. This is the consensus of opinion among the editorial writers of the morning newspapers. "All outward signs indicate that, as is known to the government, it is greater than the general public yet realizes," says the Times.

Deep anxiety is manifest everywhere, and in some quarters there is an insistent demand that parliament be summoned without delay in order to elicit a full statement from the government and give opportunity for endorsement or rejection of its policy.

The main danger is still regarded as centering in the Chanak zone, on the southern shore of the Dardanelles, into which Turkish Nationalist troops continue to move in defiance of the British decree. "Cavalry detachments in bands of 100 or 200 continue to filter in," says the Morning Post's Constantinople correspondent. "They ride under a white flag, or with rifles reversed whenever they are near our troops. They show no aggression but make the British situation military most difficult, and their movements naturally furnish an excellent method of reconnaissance."

The whole British policy, it is said, is to keep the Turks from crossing the Dardanelles into Eastern Thrace, because it is maintained that in this event fighting would certainly occur and the whole of the Balkans would be drawn into the struggle. It is declared emphatically that such a crossing will not be countenanced.

The issue of war or peace still hangs in the air. Violation of the neutral zone by the Turks continues, Turkish soldiers are appearing within a few feet of the British outposts and reconnoitering the whole of the defensive positions. General Harington's orders have been changed.

The cabinet went into session again this morning and probably will continue in conference throughout the day with only necessary interruptions.

The British policy that the Turks be not allowed to cross the straits before the question is adjusted, a peace conference is said to be based on the allied note sent from Paris to Kemal inviting him to such a conference. Would Have British Start It.

The opinion is expressed that Kemal is trying to provoke the British to fire on the Turks so that he can turn to the Mohammedan world and say he has been attacked by the Christians. Should such a thing occur he would naturally raise a grave issue for Great Britain in India, Egypt and Mesopotamia.

DR. CHAPLEAU, WIDELY KNOWN
MAN, IS DEAD
Ottawa, Sept. 29.—Dr. J. R. E. Chapleau, for about forty years chief clerk of the French mode of procedure of the House of Commons, and one of the best known men in Canada, died yesterday in his 79th year. He had been in failing health for some time.

RAILWAYS MAY NOT RECOVER
Montreal, Sept. 29.—Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, who is at present a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital here, was this morning reported as "a little better," but he is critically ill.

PRINCESS VERY ILL AND DEPORTATION HELD UP
Barcelona, Sept. 29.—Princess Nadia Wisniwsky, who was ordered expelled after disclosures in connection with the death of Yves Lefevre de Bellefeuille, a young Canadian, is reported critically ill and will be unable to embark for Italy on October 3, as previously arranged. Young de Bellefeuille was a son of E. L. de Bellefeuille of Cherrier street, Montreal.

AN EGG EVERY DAY FOR FIFTEEN WEEKS
Ottawa, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press)—A world record for egg laying has been established here, at least that is the belief of experimental farm officials. Up to September 20, last, a White Leghorn has laid 107 eggs in as many days, or consecutively every day for fifteen weeks.

NO MERGER
New York, Sept. 29.—The proposed merger of the Inland Steel Company, the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company and the Republic Iron and Steel Company, will not be effected, it was announced yesterday. The situation arising from the action of the federal trade commission in declaring that such a merger would be declared responsible for the decision.

RAISULI GIVES UP

San Sebastian, Spain, Sept. 29.—Senor Prada, Spanish foreign minister, officially announces the surrender of Raisuli, the bandit.

Raisuli has utilized more than forty years of his life in brigandage and was considered the greatest robber in all Morocco.

WILL CO-OPERATE IN COLONIZATION

Winnipeg, Sept. 29.—Assurance that the Catholic Women's League of Canada would co-operate with the Canada Colonization Association in any properly conducted land settlement scheme, was given by Mrs. M. G. MacNeill of Winnipeg, president, at a banquet in connection with the convention of the league, held here last night.

This assurance was given following speeches by Sir John Willison and M. A. Brown, representatives of the Canada Colonization Association, who were given an opportunity to address the gathering. At a business session during the day, numerous reports were considered.

MASS MEETING OF METHODIST WOMEN

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Last night's mass meeting here of the women of Methodism marking the ecclesiastical enfranchisement of women as delegates at the general conference will be historic in Canadian Methodism.

The first woman member of parliament in the British Empire, Mrs. L. C. McKinney of Clarendon, Alta., and Mrs. Peter Rutherford of Toronto, extended a message on "Methodism's call to its womanhood," while Mrs. S. D. Chown, wife of the superintendent of the church, welcomed the guests.

The chair was occupied by Mrs. Gordon Wright of London. Otherspeakers were Mrs. G. A. Walton and Mrs. Grey, national superintendent in the W. C. T. U.

The church was filled with members of the Women's Missionary Society, including the lady delegate at the general conference.

At a preliminary meeting in the afternoon the speakers included Mrs. J. W. Davidson of Saskatoon, and Mrs. Croft of New Scotland.

It was her wish to interpret the message of the Methodist church to the women of the church, declared Mrs. McKinney. Was there any distinctive message apart from the Christian message today? She believed that as in the past Methodism should stand for a personal experience of a personal salvation and the right of the individual to serve God in the way of his own choice. She approved of women entering the ministry in the church.

Mrs. Rutherford's message was a challenge to the women of the church to respond to the call of the women in heathen lands.

Mrs. Wright expressed her satisfaction at the approval of Mrs. Chown, regarding the entry of women as delegates at the conference and her agreement also with the extension of the franchise to women in politics.

Mrs. Grey outlined the work of the Ladies' Aid Societies in the church. The doing good, assisting the sick and the needy. More than 64,000 members were now enrolled and last year's receipts amounted to more than $800,000.

Hon. J. A. Stewart, former minister of railways, is in the same hospital also ill.

MAKE 25 AGE LIMIT FOR THE PENITENTIARY

Senator Choquette Advocates Penal Farms Instead for Criminals Under That Age.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—A plan which would revolutionize the penitentiary system of Canada is to be brought before the Child Welfare conference today by Senator Choquette of Quebec.

The plan is to have the age of twenty-five made the limit for a penitentiary.

He plans penal farms, patterned to a certain extent after the manner of the United States, where a vast improvement on them, as those sent to them would be kept there for two years at least.

Judge Choquette said the attorney-general of Quebec had endorsed the idea. He has arranged for an interview with Attorney-General Rainey on the question.

THIS YEAR'S RECORD OF THE PASSION PLAY

Oberammergau, Sept. 29.—Some 315,000 visitors came to see the Passion Play here this season. The gross receipts of the play itself were some twenty million marks, and the sale of books and photographs a further four million. In addition, other millions were spent in the village shops and restaurants.

Altogether sixty-six performances were given this year since the dress rehearsal on May 9.

The news that one million dollars has been offered for the privilege of filming the play meets with a rather cool reception among the rank and file of the villagers.

Can See No Reason For Arbitration

Commissioner Frink Declares Himself Strongly on Power Company Offer—Says Mandate of the People was for Civic Distribution System
Independent of New Brunswick Power Co.—
Another Session Wednesday.

The common council in special session this morning decided to take up the consideration of the New Brunswick Power Co., at another special meeting on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. The meeting was marked by a clash between the mayor and Commissioner Frink when the latter proceeded to oppose the principle of arbitration. Dr. Frink objected to the mayor interrupting him. When the mayor told the commissioner to "go ahead and talk your head off," Dr. Frink prepared to withdraw, but was prevailed upon to remain when the mayor agreed to withdraw the remark.

Company's Offer.
In opening the meeting the mayor read the offer of the Power Company which was as follows:—

Sept. 28th 1922
His Worship the Mayor and Members of the Common Council of the City of Saint John.

Dear Sirs,—By section 3 of the Act promoted by the City at the last session of the Legislature (Acts of 1922, chapter 74) it is provided that if the company offer to sell all its property at a price to be determined by arbitration based upon its value as a going concern the Common Council may by law accept this offer and enter into an agreement providing for such arbitration. The section stipulates that the provisions of the New Brunswick Railway Act shall apply to the arbitration.

Evidently it was overlooked in preparing this section that the Railway Act was amended in 1919 so that property is valued by the Judge of the County Court in which the property is situated. (See Acts of 1920, pages 161 and 162.) As the company has property in Charlotte, Saint John and Kings County it is provided that three arbitrators shall be appointed by the County Court. There are also other provisions of the Railway Act which make an arbitration under this amendment impracticable.

It is reported that Constantine, former Queen Sophie, and Constantine's brothers, Prince Nicholas and Prince Andrew, are to leave Athens today, but their destination has not been learned. Prince Paul, younger son of Constantine, probably will be asked to remain in Greece.

It is reported that Constantine, former Queen Sophie, and Constantine's brothers, Prince Nicholas and Prince Andrew, are to leave Athens today, but their destination has not been learned. Prince Paul, younger son of Constantine, probably will be asked to remain in Greece.

Paris, Sept. 29.—General Paraskevopoulos, Greek commander-in-chief under the Venizelos regime, when asked by an interviewer today for his views on the possible effect of Prince George's accession to the Greek throne, said: "As I know Prince George he was very much like his father in his sympathies."

Paris, Sept. 29.—Premier Venizelos of Greece returned from Deauville to Paris today, and entered into conference with friends and political associates. The conference, it is understood, will consider whether Mr. Venizelos will reply to the Athens revolutionary committee's invitation to represent Greece at the peace conference and in the allied capitals.

Athens, Sept. 29.—Ex-king Constantine is not imprisoned, but the revolutionary committee has not yet decided what shall be done with him.

The new king assumes the title George II. His father, George I, his grandfather, a prince of the Royal House of Denmark, was born in Copenhagen in 1845 and was assassinated at Saloniki in 1913.

THIS DOES NOT HELP THE SPORT

Boston, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press)—Some of the "old salts," who sail from New England ports have become rather bitter over the controversy as to the eligibility of the Mayflower for the international fishermen's race.

Capt. Wm. Corkum, skipper of fishing steamer Lois Corkum, in an interview with a local newspaperman, declared:—

"The whole trouble with the Halifax trustees is that they are afraid their Bluenose might be beaten. What they want down in Halifax is not a race between fishermen but a race between their pet Bluenose and a tub."

Skipper Corkum expressed the opinion that the Mayflower can carry fish with any vessel in the U. S. or Canadian fleet.

CHILD WELFARE
Protection Officers in Convention in Toronto—Question of Foster Homes.
Toronto, Sept. 29.—The first annual convention of the Canadian Association of Child Protection officers was held yesterday at the parliament buildings, in connection with the All-Canadian Children's Week.

Rev. Amos Lovell of Guelph gave a paper on "The Supervision of Children." "It is absolutely essential to understand the temper and spirit of the child in order to select a good foster home," said the speaker.

TURKS ON THREE SIDES OF THE BRITISH FORCE

Flanks Protected by Powerful Warships.
Confident They Could Hold
Lines Against a Turki-Attack—Bosphorus Taken on Martial Aspect—E.
Kept on Stamboul.

(Canadian Press Cable.)
Constantinople, Sept. 29.—With their backs to the straits, the British forces in Chanak now look out on three sides upon the forces of Mustapha Kemal Pasha. By their recent incursions the Turks have completed their occupation of the neutral zone, in defiance of Great Britain's ultimatum, and a British attack is now imminent.

The British are confident they can hold their lines against any Turkish attack, as their flanks are "Cannak" protected by a powerful fleet of warships, the long range guns of which can sweep the area around the town for a distance of twenty miles, while the Turkish forces are equipped only with machine guns in this sector.

Among the British naval units are the super-dreadnoughts Revenge and Resolution, the most powerful warships afloat.

The British naval authorities are holding up all Greek and Turkish craft in the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, making minute searches for materials of war.

The Greek battleship Averoff, which was taken from Constantinople by a mutinous crew, is proceeding through the strait unmolested by the Turkish land batteries.

Every outgoing train and boat filled to capacity with refugees.

The prospect of war has brought Constantinople newspaper correspondents of every nationality.

Journalistic assault upon British headquarters here has been going on since Gen. Harington has established a half hour councils for the newspaper men which are presided over by Mr. M. A. Johnston, who gained fame in the Mesopotamian campaign and six recently made a sensational escape from several hundred miles from the Turkish prison camp.

When recently a London friend telegraphed Gen. Harington expressing solicitude for his health, he replied only: "I'm fit as a fiddle. I swam the Bosphorus this morning at daybreak in twenty-two minutes."

Several British armored cars of the most modern type rolled through the straits yesterday, giving the capital a vivid touch of war realism.

The Bosphorus also took on a martial aspect when a giant airship carrier and several additional units of the Atlantic fleet, together with three troops transport passed into the Golden Horn.

The British authorities have asked the Greek and Armenian patriarchy to issue circulars in their respective countries, urging respect for law order, and warning their followers to give credence to wilfully exaggerated reports regarding the military political situation.

The British police officials are giving extreme vigilance to prevent armed insurrection in Stamboul, Turkish quarters of the city.

OWNER OF FORD STOLEN IN APRIL GETS IT AFTER BROADWAY CHASE

New York, Sept. 27.—Last April a Ford sedan owned by Charles Bass disappeared from in front of 51 Manhattan avenue. There are so many of the same type in the city that Bass, who lives at 38 West Eighty-sixth street, had no hope of ever recovering it.

The other night while waiting for a line of automobiles to pass at 129th street and Broadway, Bass, who walks since his automobile disappeared, noticed a Ford sedan that held his attention.

He jumped into a taxicab and for twenty-five blocks kept closely behind the suspected machine, scanning it carefully. At 183rd street he called a traffic policeman, who stopped the Ford.

The driver, George Jean, said he bought the car in May, 1922, from Robert Burg, twenty-six years old, of 2010 Lexington avenue. He signed a bill of sale. Detectives later arrested Burg on a charge of grand larceny. Jean was released.

ST. JOHN SIEGE BATTERY WINS FIRST PLACE

Very satisfactory news came to St. John last evening from Ottawa, which announced that the Governor-General's Cup for first place in general efficiency (heavy and siege artillery), had been won by the Fourth Siege Battery of this city. The Eighth Siege Battery of Charlottetown has won second place and the Association Challenge Cup. In the gun practice competition for field artillery, first place and the Oswald Challenge Cup were won by the 52nd Battery, of Digby (N.S.), while in the same competition for heavy and siege artillery, first place, with the Wilson Smith Challenge Cup, was secured by the 4th Siege Battery, St. John, and second place, with the Mercer Challenge Trophy, by the Seventh Siege Battery, Montreal.

The Governor-General's Cup, for first place in general efficiency (field artillery), was won by the Thirty-first Battery, Vancouver. Second place, including the Lansdowne Cup, went to the Ninth Battery, Toronto.

Major E. M. Slader is the commanding officer of the Fourth Battery, which is a West St. John organization of many years of high standing. Major Slader has worked hard to increase the efficiency of the battery, having started early last spring. The battery has been together from year to year and is composed mainly of old timers. The firing detachment which went to Petawawa this year consisted of forty-four.

GAIN IN CITY DEMAND TO SAVE THE DAYLIGHT

(New York Times)
Daylight saving time was officially turned back in its flight at 2 o'clock this morning, shortening the afternoon golf game by an hour. The change took place not only in New York City, but also in many other cities and towns in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The former frankly dislikes daylight saving as much as ever, but is not gaining that it has become a popular city folk.

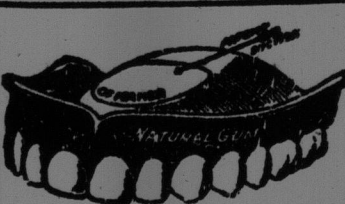

Trains schedules will not change, but the trains will actually be moved forward an hour so that the commuter's time of arrival will synchronize closely with the departure time of the through train to which he may wish to change. That problem has been the most vexatious feature of the system, about the only one the city man could take exception to. It seems always to necessitate elaborate mathematical calculations to avoid wasting time in making connections.

Of course, the waking hour of the baby and the dog will not be affected. That may be a source of irritation, particularly to mothers who find that they have to get up an hour earlier to warm the morning bottle. Not even Marcus M. Marks was able to work out a system of making the baby's appetite like with the change in clocks.

One interesting speculation in the city has been how much coal daylight saving has saved the country this summer, at a time when every pound saved meant much for the coming winter. Nobody who has anything to do with fuel distribution would hazard a guess as to what the saving amounted to, but it must have been considerable. The saving of coal that results from pushing the clock ahead an hour was shown in France to amount to 200,000 tons, a fact which was used as an argument for continuing the practice.

The benefit to the health of those who dwell or work in cities has been pronounced, according to health officials. Workers in factories and offices who have gained an hour of sunlight and fresh air after getting home at night have shown increased vigor and health. The economic gain because of better work is also believed to have been considerable.

The daylight saving movement seems to be growing. The year after it ceased to be compulsory there was a violent reaction, particularly in the rural districts and even in some smaller cities. But after this had worn off, many municipalities which dropped it for a year began to restore it. Many small towns in the farming districts never got over their antipathy to a plan which seemed to them superfluous, inasmuch as their residents were generally up with the sun. The compilation of the hired man quitting an hour early was the last straw. The railroads also had to maintain standard time for their trains because of the variations in time throughout the country.

But an increasingly large number of cities began to push the clock ahead in the summer and a National Daylight Saving Association was formed under the leadership of Marcus M. Marks, former President of the Borough of Manhattan. It has reported steady progress. It is being steadily increased the number of cities and states using it will be larger than ever, whereas the farmers' opposition is expected to linger.

FLORIDA JUDGE REMOVED.

He Had Ruled That Analysis Must Precede Dry Law Arrests.

Tallahassee, Fla., Sept. 29.—Judge J. R. Johnson of St. Lucie County Court, who recently ruled that state analysis of blood could make no arrests in prohibition cases unless the liquor involved had been determined by analysis to be intoxicating, has been removed from office by Governor Hardie.

The removal order, it was learned, was signed after more than 1,500 county residents had signed a petition asking the removal of both the judge and County Prosecutor Carpenter because of the alleged laxity in law enforcement. No action was taken concerning the latter official.

To cope with the situation resulting from Judge Johnson's liquor analysis ruling, Sheriff Merritt advertised for a chemist to test the "kick" in all disputed liquors, but, so far as known, without response.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 29.—Mrs. A. Remington has found out why her young roomer nourished such a passion for the strains of his two phonograph records. He played them incessantly for thirty days.

Some policemen crawled through a hole in the roomer's wall, which Mrs. Remington did not know was there, and showed her a blow torch and a trail from there through the wall of an adjoining clothing store. The clothing store safe was half drilled through.

FAMILY USES WINDOW TO ESCAPE FLAMES

Smith's Falls, Ont., Sept. 29.—Fire broke out in the home of Mr. Hawkins had made such headway before the inmates were awakened from sleep by smoke that they were obliged to get out of the house through an upstairs window. Husband, wife and four children, one of them an infant of three weeks, descended a ladder. All were in night attire. The furniture was destroyed and the residence badly damaged.

A few hours earlier fire broke out in the home of Mrs. Ranger, a widow, when only a small grandson was in the house. The boy was rescued through a window by firemen, who extinguished the blaze before much damage was done.

KINGSTON HOUSEHOLDERS LIMITED TO ONE TON COAL

Kingston, Sept. 29.—The city council will appoint a fuel controller at present, but will depend upon the coal dealers to sell householders only one ton of hard coal a month till the close of the year, unless they deem that two tons may be necessary. Hard coal is coming into Kingston in fair quantities, and it is not thought that there will be any shortage during the winter.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE HARD FOR COUNTES

Moscow, Sept. 1.—(A. P., by mail)

—Higher education having been a privilege of the comparatively few to-do, in Russia, the offices of American Relief Administration are crowded with princesses and occasional countesses.

For the A. R. A. needed a numerous staff of translators and found them among the educated young women of the city, many of whom were adorned with titles.

They did well, for the English princesses who went out to Russia in the old days before the war were considered young women, and worked hard. But a translator often has his own point of view as to what is worth translating, and sometimes also amusing errors creep in. One young woman, a countess, whose duty it was to translate the Moscow papers, invariably added a list of the current theatrical entertainments. Based on her previous training, this was a list of real news. One of her no recorded that "The Shaver of Sevil" would be given in Moscow that night.

NOTHING TO ARBITRATE.

Mayor McEllen submitted the latest offer of the New Brunswick Power Company—an offer to arbitrate—to the city council this morning, but no action was taken upon it. Commissioner Frink, without hesitation, declared himself opposed to arbitration and insisted that the mandate of the people as expressed at the polls last spring should be obeyed. Dr. Frink's objection and the statement of his position with respect to this proposal, which the citizens will refuse to consider for a moment, knowing as they do that they are being asked to submit something to arbitration when they have nothing to arbitrate, will meet with warm public approval.

The citizens who declare themselves so forcibly in April last will certainly resent any effort at city hall to endorse the arbitration proposals of the Power Company. It has been expected all along that Mr. Bodell and his associates would make some such proposals after they had tried several other things, but the taxpayers of St. John are not asleep. If they were to submit to arbitration they would have to be bound by the result no matter what the finding might be—whether it was fair and just, or not. And St. John has not forgotten how it has made out with the Power Company on previous occasions when a third party was called in. The city should have had every reason to expect the fullest measure of protection when the question of rates came before the legislature. But the city lost heavily. Now it happens to be in a position where it has the right to take the Masquash power at cost and defend it at cost, and where it is not obliged to compete with the existing monopoly or to throw off the burden of high rates for light and power under which this community has been forced to struggle for so many years.

Only the most irritating kind of delay would result from a City Hall decision to ask the citizens to pass upon a question of arbitration. As Dr. Frink pointed out this morning, the people already have settled that question, and they would be quick to place responsibility for further quibbling and fiddling upon the matter. Their mandate was recorded by an overwhelming majority, and the policy for which they declared was decidedly against any arbitration with respect to the New Brunswick Power Company's property.

The Power Company does not give value to the watered stock, and is not based on an inflated valuation of its physical assets, it is at liberty to do so, but if that offer is too high it will not be considered by the citizens. The new Mayor will go to City Hall determined to protect the city's interests solely—and he will not take arbitration. The public will expect the city missionaries, at the special meeting next week to inform Mr. McEllen of the New Brunswick Power Company that the city has nothing to arbitrate.

KEMAL'S NEXT MOVE.

While the negotiations with Kemal continue, the forces of the Turkish leader are taking possession of the neutral zone on the southern side of the Dardanelles—and now are in control of practically all that territory with the exception of the Chanak district, where the British troops are entrenched. Meanwhile, British reinforcements are being rushed to the zone and preparations are being made to resist the further advance of the Turkish leader and his forces. The situation has now become serious and the danger of hostilities more acute.

Whether it is to be peace or war depends now upon the next move of the Turkish leader and his forces. The sagacious exchanged between the commander-in-chief and Kemal has been couched in friendly terms, and General Harington still expresses confidence in Kemal's moderation, but the latter has shown no sign of withdrawing his troops or of giving up his demands to the level of his terms.

The Turkish leader is not anxious to deal with the situation. He would prefer to have a fanatical people whose recent victories have whetted their appetites for further conquests, and who may be prepared to act with the reason of a child. The danger is that the high reputation of the Turkish leader would dictate.

In the loss of control of the situation, Kemal Pasha pointed out by Toronto Globe, which says:—

"The submergence of the moderates and Kemal regards himself as the leader of the reasonable men in the Turkish Assembly—beneath the rising of Moslem fanaticism is not only visible, but extremely probable. Here Kemal has been able to ride the tide. His great victory over the Greeks may prove his own undoing, lead the extremists in his army to the Assembly to demand that he sweep the infidel out of Constantinople and the Dardanelles by the sword. If Mustafa Kemal yields to the extremists and consents to such an attack, or if his authority is ignored, there is danger of a tragedy along the Bosphorus far more terrible than that which attended the looting and burning of the Christian quarters of Smyrna. Kemal Pasha, who is said to be the son of a Salamis Jew, knows Western Europe and its strength. He will not voluntarily enter upon so hopeless a conflict. But he may be no longer a free agent. The Turk hopes for all, and may be disposed in his ignorance and fatalism to put fortune to the touch. To him the reckoning is greatly to be preferred to the slow and doubtful procedure of a Peace Conference."

Although the intentions of the revolutionaries in Greece have not yet been declared, it is assumed that it is their purpose to resist the restoration of Greece to Turkey, and such a declaration might be expected to strengthen the determination of the Turkish Nationalists to deal with the question of Thrace's future in their own way without waiting for the deliberations of a peace conference.

There is much in the situation to cause anxiety, and until an agreement with Kemal Pasha is reached that anxiety will continue to make itself felt. Britain is ready for what may come, whether it be peace or war, and what the choice will be may depend upon Kemal's next move.

The government of Nova Scotia has found it necessary to withdraw all Crown lands from either sale or lease. It is explained that the measure has become advisable owing to the rapidly diminishing wood supply, and in the interest of the preservation of waterways, water powers and water supplies. The need for the conservation of forests has been recognized in Nova Scotia, and the provincial government has taken steps to safeguard the forests, but the action of the government of Nova Scotia will be a fresh reminder of the great need for the careful husbanding of our resources.

The Irish Parliament is dealing firmly with the unfortunate situation with which it is confronted. The approval given yesterday of the proposals for the establishment of military courts, for the purpose of trying persons charged with hindering the restoration of order or who endanger public safety, furnishes further evidence of the determination of the members to protect the interests of the state and its people. President Cosgrave again has pointed out the terms upon which peace may be secured—terms which the government cannot be expected to moderate.

Too much is being said about the eligibility or otherwise of the American flycatcher for the fishermen's race off Nova Scotia. The matter is being taken out of the realm of sport.

BROWNS OUT IF BEATEN TODAY

Yankees Failed to Get the Needed One Game Yesterday, Mainly Because of Former Members.

New York, Sept. 29.—Balked by the Red Sox in the game of the series largely because of the stellar play of three of their former team mates, the Yankees resumed their hunt today for the elusive "matrimonial certainty" in the American League pennant race.

Needling but a single victory to clinch the championship the Yankees failed yesterday in their attempt to settle the issue despite the fact that Joe Bush, star American League pitcher, was on the firing line. Bush did well but could not match the brand of hurling uncoiled by "Rip" Collins, former Yankee, who piloted the Red Sox to a 3 to 1 decision. The hitting of Derrill Pratt and Johnny Mitchell, also Yankee castoffs, figured in all the Boston scoring.

The St. Louis Browns, whose remaining chance in the race rests on the possibility of a tie, which would result if they win all of their remaining three games while the Yankees lose the same number yet in their schedule, will get into action today against the White Sox after a lay off of several days. A defeat for the Browns would automatically eliminate them from the contest, regardless of how the Yankees fare.

Should the unexpected happen, however, and the Browns tie the Yankees for the pennant, a play-off of three games would be necessary to decide the championship. These games would have to be played in neutral cities of the league, probably Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. Such an eventuality also would necessitate a postponement of the world's series.

Washington and the Athletics, the only other major league clubs active yesterday, split a double-header. Rommel, Athletics star, being knocked out in the first game, which the Senators won, 9 to 4, while the Philadelphia team slugged out a 12 to 4 victory in the second contest.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis
Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 117. THE RECEPTION OF CONTINUOUS WAVES.

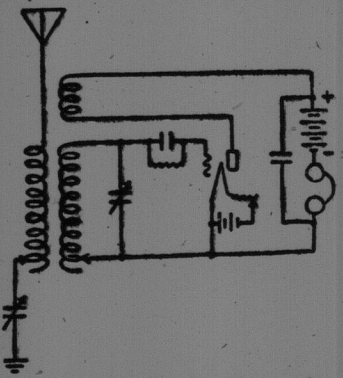

The previous article pointed out the reason why a detector is necessary for the reception of radio telephone or spark signals, while such a device is useless for continuous waves or picking up the "carrier wave" of radio telephone stations. Such signals as these are made up of only of frequency oscillations without the super-imposed audio frequency component. It is therefore necessary to break up the incoming oscillations into groups occurring at an audible frequency.

One way of producing these groups at audio frequency is by means of the slipping contact detector. This device consists of a metal wheel mounted on a motor shaft with two brushes touching it very lightly. When the wheel or disk is rotated at high speed the circuit through the brushes is of varying resistance due to the poor contact with the result that a musical note is heard when receiving the signals from continuous wave telegraph stations. Such a device would give a continuous "musical" in the vicinity of a radiotelephone station when in operation.

Another form of interrupter detector has the periphery of the disk divided into alternate segments of conductor and insulator so that the tone in the receivers is dependent upon the number of segments and the speed of rotation of the disk. A buzzer may also be fitted with contacts for interrupting the receiving circuit at an audible frequency.

The most efficient way to receive signals from a continuous wave transmitter is by means of the vacuum tube. This device is a local radio frequency which differs from the incoming frequency by an amount which is an audible note. When the two frequencies are combined in the receiving circuits a beat note is produced which is the difference between the two frequencies. This is known as the heterodyne and was developed by Fessenden and constitutes a very flexible arrangement for the reception of continuous wave signals as well as a very efficient arrangement.

The locally generated radio frequency oscillations may be created in several ways. An oscillating arc circuit may be connected to the receiving circuit employing the ordinary detector or the arc may be replaced with a more dependable source of oscillations in the form of a vacuum tube.

A more common way of generating locally a radio frequency current is to couple the plate circuit of the vacuum tube to the grid circuit and increasing the coupling until oscillations occur. In this way the three important features of the vacuum tube are all employed to advantage in the same tube which serves at once as a detector, generator and amplifier of radio frequency currents.

In the reception of signals from radio telephone stations the most efficient arrangement of the circuit is obtained when the tube is oscillating at the same frequency as the incoming signal, (at zero beat) under which conditions an increase or decrease in either the inductance or capacity of either circuit will produce an audible beat frequency.

Most regenerative receivers will oscillate if the feedback is increased gradually, so that this form of receiver is very popular, since it is readily adaptable to both spark and continuous wave reception.

Her Revised Grammar.

Teacher was endeavoring to make clear to the youngsters the grammatical order of the sentence. "My father," she pointed out, "is in the past tense. Now, Grace, what tense would you be employing if you should say, 'My father has money?'"

A Unique Suggestion.

A troublesome young woman had been trying for some time, rather indefinitely, to make known her wants to a salesman in a music shop. Finally, the clerk was obliged to say to her, "Pardon me, miss, but if you cannot tell me either the name of the music you want or the composer, I don't see how I can be of any help to you."

The young woman smiled sweetly. "But," she continued, "if you will be so kind as to sing one of the new songs to me, I think the problem would be solved. I should recognize the air at once, I am sure."

Hard Crust.

A man from the country entered a London hotel and saw a crab upon the service table.

"What d'ye call that?" he said to the waiter.

"That's a crab, sir," was the answer. "Looks good. Bring me one and a pint of ale."

The food was brought, and soon the waiter heard his customer's voice, and noticed that his plate was quite empty.

"Hi, waiter, that crab was good," he said. "I never had one before. But I think you baked it a little too long; the crust was awfully hard."

SAILORS' FAMILIES GET GERMAN MONEY

London, Sept. 11.—(A. P. by mail.)—J. Havelock Wilson, M. P., general president of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union, has received official notification from the treasury that £5,000,000 of German reparations money has been finally earmarked for distribution among the dependents of 17,000 British seamen who were done to death by the German sink-at-sight submarine campaign.

During the war merchant seamen on unarmored ships did not rank for pensions or compensation under any naval conditions. Their work in manning food ships was accompanied with great loss of life, and the prime minister, Mr. Wilson, gave an undertaking that in the event of victory the first payment from German reparations money should be for compensation to the dependents of this class of seamen.

EXHUMES FIVE-FOOT SKULL.

Roy C. Andrews' Desert of Gobi Find Belonged to a Baluchitriam.

Peking, Sept. 29.—(Associated Press)—Returning here today from a 3,000-mile expedition into the Khamti and Altai Mountains in Mongolia, on behalf of the American Museum of Natural History, Roy C. Andrews reported finding in the northwest section of the Desert of Gobi a five-foot skull belonging to the Baluchitriam, a large land mammal of the Neocene geological period.

Mr. Andrews said the skull indicated that the beast was fifteen feet tall and twenty-five feet long.

ORGANIZE TO FIGHT DRY LAW

Dr. John P. Davin Picked for Congress by Physicians' Party.

(New York Times)

Physicians living in the 17th Congressional District have decided to nominate Dr. John P. Davin, a representative of their profession for representative of this fall who is opposed to the Volstead enforcement act. They have selected Dr. John P. Davin of 177 West Seventy-sixth street to oppose Herman Metz, the Democratic nominee and Ogden L. Mills, the Republican candidate.

The Medical Rights League is the name chosen by the independent party supporting Dr. Davin. In a circular to the physicians of the 17th District the nominating committee of the new party says:

"A protest of this kind will command the attention of the country. It will be the demand of the American Medical Association at the St. Louis convention this year for a revision of the medical provisions of its members in regard to medical education. Heretofore it has given expression only in this respect to the findings of the corporate body of the organization as represented by the trustees and by the members of the Council of Public Health and Legislation. This protest will accord with the declaration of the Medical Society of the County of New York, which declares that the medical provisions of the Prohibition Enforcement act were irrational, unscientific and against the accepted usage of the world."

Circulars have also been sent by the committee to the druggists of the district. This circular says in part:—"The druggists' patients and the druggists' customers are vitally interested with them in the revision of the Volstead act. Many of them would willingly sign the nominating petition if they were invited to do so."

"In connection with the nomination for Congress from this city of Senator Boylan, the supposed father of the Boylan Drug Law, there is no won foot at Washington a plan for a standardized state narcotic drug law to be imposed in all the states in addition to the existing Federal Narcotic law."

"With Volstead dictating the prescribing of alcohol and Boylan regarding the prescribing and dispensing of narcotic drugs, the need for qualified and intellectual medical representation in the Congress at Washington is obvious."

See Hospital For Burns to Child.

Peekskill, Sept. 29.—Parents of Blanche Warneke, a young child living in Mahopack, have brought a damage suit in the supreme court against the Peekskill Hospital in Peekskill because, they allege, attendants there burned the child, by the application of hot water bottles, while she was a patient.

The board of directors of the St. John Exhibition Association held a meeting last night with E. J. Terry presiding. H. A. Porter, manager of the exhibition, submitted his report and gave an estimate of the finances. He said that there would probably be a surplus this year which would considerably reduce the overdraft of $4,500 with which they started the year.

THRILLING TALE TOLD BY AVIATORS

Sharks Below, Crocodiles Near the Land—Native Ship in Bay of Bengal Refuses Assistance to Men on Wrecked Seaplane.

London, Sept. 11.—(Associated Press by Mail).—"Below us were sharks; near the land crocodiles. We would have been eaten by crocodiles if we had not been rescued by the natives. Then our hopes were shattered, for an undercurrent caught our submerged propellers and fuselage, and faster than we could near the land, we were pulled away from it. Quickly it faded and our hopes sank. We were utterly helpless and at the mercy of the wind and the tide."

The above sentences are taken from the local and thrilling narrative which records the terrible experiences of Captain Norman Macmillan and Captain Mallins while aloft for forty hours on a wrecked seaplane in the Bay of Bengal. They were engaged in a round-the-world flight organized by the Daily News.

"Suddenly we noticed an alteration in the trim of our craft," continues the narrative. "Round and round we plunged, water pouring over us, hanging on teeth and nail, and soaked by the repeated wash that broke completely over us. Evidently we were in a tide whirl."

Perhaps the most impressive thing in the story is Captain Macmillan's account of their abandonment by a native brig which passed near them when they were almost spent. "Mallins could hear beautiful instrumental music," writes Macmillan, "and I the sound of the pipes playing laments in the distance. We did not mention this to each other at the time. We were afraid of that."

"Suddenly we saw a sail away down south. Was it coming up? Yes, slowly. A windjammer. Soon its yards appeared. Gradually it came along. Standing up we could see the hull. It was all we could do to remain upright. We waved our distress flag, signaling the international S. O. S. The brig was coming straight for us. She must almost run us down. She could not fail to see us."

"Was she changing her course? Surely not, but she was. She turned off half a mile away, and steadily passed us within half a mile, with two men looking at us from the poop."

"God! what inhumanity! Surely it could not be."

Mallins frantically waving, slipped and fell half-overboard, cursing at his hurt, cursing the brig and her crew, and writhing in pain.

"Standing on our rocking float I waved and hallooed and fired pistol shots."

"But steadily she swept past, a native brig. Two men on the poop ran forward as she was abreast of us. They saw us, undoubtedly, and were possibly terrified of ghosts and visions. 'But in mercy let them never know we were there!'"

The two aviators were rescued some hours later by a steam launch sent out in search of them.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

The coroner's jury investigating the death of Milton Crow, postmaster of Stewiack, N. S., killed recently in a motor accident when the car swerved and struck the abutments of a C. N. E. highway bridge, have found that the car, driven by C. D. Chisholm, superintendent of the provincial highways board or roadway construction work between Stewiack and Truro, was being driven at an excessive rate of speed. There was also a recommendation that the driver's license be cancelled and that the civil authorities investigate the extent of the culpability of Mr. Chisholm.

It is planned to establish a labor college in Cape Breton and Dr. Clarence McKinnon of Pine Hill has promised to give what assistance he can based on his long experience in labor matters. It is hoped to have the college on a working basis in time to demand representation in the proposed federation of universities.

GETTING INTO FOCUS.

New York World.—Senator McKinley of Illinois returns from Europe saying that the United States may join the League of Nations under another name. Representatives Britten of Illinois returns from Europe convinced that the United States must reconsider the whole matter of the Treaty of Versailles, and the part of aloofness from European affairs which his own party and the Harding Administration have elected to play. So he resolves in the House that the President be requested, "in the interest of the world's peace and industry," to take such steps as he deems wise and pertinent toward bringing about industrial peace in Europe."

Though they are careful not to say so, who troubles both of these new observing Illinois members of Congress is less Europe's peace and industry than the peace and industry of the United States. They would appear to be as much opposed as ever to the Wilson League plan, but they are making it manifest that they cannot get away or get their country away from the Wilson idea that if peace and industry are to be restored in the United States to a prewar measure they must be restored in Europe likewise.

How Faraday Was Rewarded.

(Toronto Globe)

An unpublished letter of Faraday, English chemist and physicist, quoted at the present meeting of the British Association by Dr. J. C. Irvine, principal of the University of St. Andrews, throws a curious light on the reward which was deemed sufficient for discoveries of practical importance less than a century ago. Writing to a friend, Faraday related that a manufacturer had adopted a process developed in the course of an investigation carried out at the Royal Institution. The letter continued:

"He (the manufacturer) writes me word that, having repeated our experiments, he finds the product very good, and as our information was given openly to the world he, as a matter of compliment, presented me with some pairs of razors to give away."

Research work is still far from research.

HIS OLD C. O.

Welcome Surprise for an Unemployed Subaltern.

A dramatic meeting between two officers who fought together in the war has been brought about by the activities of the Guild of Officers in London, a newly formed organization which is endeavoring to procure work for ex-officers who are unemployed.

A retired colonel called at the headquarters of the guild, at 64 Victoria street, Westminster, and inquired if the secretary could recommend to him a reliable chauffeur from among the candidates for employment.

The request was registered, and a few hours later a starving ex-subaltern, who is an expert motor car driver, received the address of the prospective employer.

To their mutual surprise it was found that the colonel was the subaltern's former commanding officer and he received the post at £4 10s a week.

SUCCESS FOR NEW DRAMATIC CLUB

Good House Grooms Locals
in "It Pays to Advertise" at Opera House—Repeated This Evening.

The St. John Dramatic Club played a hit in the presentation of "It Pays to Advertise" in the Opera House last evening. The lines of the drama call for lots of comedy, which was brought out to a most commendable manner by the principals. It was the new club's first presentation and the success achieved augurs well for their future in dramatic circles.

The play was presented under the direction of John U. Haggerty, who appeared in one of the leading roles, and he added another to his long string of successes on the local stage. He essayed the part of Rodney Martin, son of Cyrus Martin, a soap king, and the manner in which he portrayed a difficult role was in keeping with his splendid record.

Cyrus Martin was played by William O'Connor and his interpretation of the good natured, but stubborn old soap king was clever and exceptionally well handled.

Arthur B. Walsh, as Ambrose Pease, the crack advertising man, scored a hit. He had the audience convulsed with laughter and the clever manner in which he brought out the comedy was a feature which was largely instrumental in the success achieved.

William Hurley, appearing as Donald McChesney, gave a clever impersonation of an irate manager of an advertising concern. His acting was consistent and good.

G. G. McGovern, as Elery Clark, won the commendation of all present by a clever portrayal of his lines. He handled his role in a manner which brought out a mirth of comedy.

The acting of Robert McDade as George Bronson, was also good, as was that of Robert Murphy, who made his first appearance behind the footlights; and E. E. Martin who appeared as Johnson.

Florence Walsh proved to be a charming heroine and her acting was favorably commented on by the appreciative audience.

Isabella Gormley was well cast as Contesse de Beaurien. As a character actress she won new laurels and deserved the well merited applause which greeted her performance.

Miss Mary Sharkey and Miss Margaret Cressy also made a hit by the able manner they essayed small but important parts.

On the whole the play was a grand success and the work of the entire cast exceptionally good. The play will be repeated this evening and should attract another capacity house.

The local Y. M. C. A. has received an invitation from Dr. John A. Mott, international secretary, to send delegates to the forty-first international convention to be held in Atlantic City, November 14 to 19. It is not known whether or not any will go from here.

CHURCH OPPOSES EASIER DIVORCE

Marriage is Lifelong Union, Declars Anglican Synod
of Ontario.

London, Ont., Sept. 29.—Anglican clergy and laity, assembled for the provincial synod in Bishop Cronyn Hall, took an undivided stand against divorce and any action on the part of either legislature or church which might tend to make the procuring of divorce easier or more frequent.

With but one change, the articles concerning divorce submitted by the executive of the synod to the general sessions were ratified, reading as follows:—
That this council desires: 1st, to place on record its contention that the law of Christ as regards marriage is the life-long union of one man with one woman, to the exclusion of all others on either side; 2nd, to remind the church public that according to the general synod canon no clergyman of the church shall marry a divorced person while the other partner is still living; 3rd, to affirm that in view of possible legislation on divorce this council strongly protests against any extension of the grounds for divorce.

In the latter clause the words "be-yond what is now the rule in the dominion parliament, namely adultery," were struck out. The feeling manifested by many of the clergy regarding divorce was that no phrase which by any means signified an approval of divorce on any grounds should be tolerated.

"The church knows no innocent party in a divorce case," Canon A. H. W. Whalley of the synod of Ottawa said. "Usually the innocent party is the successful plaintiff and the other should be no weakening or relaxation in our attitude toward divorce."

With reference to the attitude taken by some people that divorce ought to be made more accessible to the poor man, one delegate stated: "You confer no favor on the poor man by putting divorce within his reach. Rather the rich man cursed by the fact that he is able to obtain the decree of divorce. There are scores of families who, irreparably separated, who might have been united and happy had divorce been more difficult for them to get."

RECENT WEDDINGS

JOHN PARIS IS ON THE STAND

That John Paris was in "Truro" (N. S.) on Aug. 2, 1921, the day of the murder of Sadie McAuley in Riverview Park, North End, was the testimony of James William McNaught, then employed as bookkeeper and otherwise in the office of the Eastern Hat & Cap Co., Ltd., of that town, who was called second witness for the defence called at yesterday's session of the fifth trial of the celebrated case. McNaught swore that Paris was in the vestibule of the company's office that day and collected ninety cents due him for work. The first witness for the defence yesterday was Gordon Hayman, of Truro, a carpenter and formerly a police officer. Hayman said that he saw the accused at the Truro railroad station on the night of Aug. 3, 1921, the day after the murder.

Late in the afternoon Paris himself went on the stand and denied that he was in St. John on the day of the murder, but said he was in Riverview Park in his life. He was subjected to a series of stiff interrogatories by Hon. J. P. Byrne, the attorney-general, regarding his movements in July and early August of last year, and his previous testimony relating thereto. Paris admitted that his memory was not good on several points. The cross-examination of the defendant will be continued this morning by Hon. Mr. Byrne, who completed the direct presentation of evidence yesterday morning with the testimony of Sergeant-Detective John T. Power. For the defence G. H. Vernon, K. C., of Truro, put on three witnesses, Hayman, McNaught and Paris. Several other witnesses to support the side of the defence are to be called.

News of the good work of the 4th Battery came in a telegram to Lt.-Col. N. P. McLeod, O. C. the brigade, who said that this was the first time, to his knowledge, that one unit had ever succeeded in capturing all the trophies offered in general competition in Canada.

QUADRUPLTS BORN BUT ALL FOUR DIE

Braddock, Pa., Sept. 28.—Miss Mary Krikoran gave birth to quadruplets at her home last night. One of the babies died shortly after it was born. The others were rushed to the hospital. All of them died this morning. The combined weight of the infants—all girls—was nineteen pounds. Mrs. Krikoran is twenty-two years old and weighs 125 pounds. She is recovering normally, her physician said.

DOCTOR GIVES HIS BLOOD TO SAVE WOMAN

New York, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Rose Pasquella, 26 years old, of 276 First street, Brooklyn, the mother of three children, is now convalescing at the Holy Family Hospital, following a successful blood transfusion. She owes her life to Dr. Felix Scardapane, who gave his own blood to save her.

Mrs. Pasquella was removed to the hospital several days ago for an operation, which so weakened her that Dr. Scardapane, who was attending her, decided that blood transfusion was the only thing that would save her life. Some of the woman's relatives had offered to make the sacrifice, but none appeared. Mrs. Pasquella's husband was willing to give his blood, but was too ill to stand the ordeal. Then Dr. Scardapane, aware that the woman was in immediate danger of dying offered himself.

Two doctors at the hospital assisted Dr. Edwin H. Fiske of the hospital staff, who performed the operation. A pint of blood was drawn from Dr. Scardapane's left arm. He said he quickly recovered from any ill effects.

Dr. Scardapane is 25 years old. He was born in Italy and educated at St. Francis College, Brooklyn.

DIES IN ALMSHOUSE AT 110.

Miss Sarah Bradley Recently Laid Out Her Burial Dress.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 29.—Miss Sarah Bradley, 110 years old, according to reports at the Meriden Almshouse, died there during the night of pneumonia. She had been in good health until a few days ago, and continued alert mentally. Occasionally during the summer she had been carried out of doors in her chair, but recently she had been preparing for the end, even to laying out her burial dress.

Officials at the Cold Springs Home say Miss Bradley was sixty years old when she entered that institution fifty years ago. She gave German as her birthplace. The aged woman held a public reception some months ago, at which Mayor H. P. Kin of Meriden presided.

STATION HOUSE "LAWYERS."

How Legal Experts Develop Among New York Policemen.

(New York Times.)
Every station house has its "lawyer" whom the men of the precinct consult when puzzling questions arise. He is usually a policeman who knows the book of rules of the department by heart and is well versed in civil and criminal procedure. Not infrequently he knows a lot more about law and police business than the captain himself, and the latter, as well as probationary policemen, is always going to him for advice.

It is necessary for policemen to have some knowledge of law, and they must be more or less familiar with court procedure. They must know what constitutes a "citizen's rights" and when these rights have been violated. They must be able to distinguish between misdemeanors and felonies, and when they make an arrest they should know what charge to place against the prisoner. At the police training school students are instructed in these subjects; practical experience on the street later adds to their knowledge.

Among some station lawyers the study of the law has become a hobby, and they spend their leisure conning the works of Blackstone and other legal authorities. When they are off duty it is not uncommon to find them reading law in the city's law libraries.

It is not strange, therefore, that some of these station house lawyers should later graduate into real lawyers. good many members of the traffic division are studying law at the present time. Traffic policemen work prescribed number of hours. When their day's work is done they have ample time in which to study and amuse themselves.

Several lawyers practicing in the city today were former members of the traffic squad, and others prided themselves at one time on being station house lawyers. A former police tenant, who in his day was regarded as something of a station house lawyer for several years has been a successful police business man in a New Jersey community. He finds that his experience as a station lawyer help him greatly in dispensing justice in the town where he presides.

Unfortunately all station lawyers do not belong to the true type. Some of them have literally helped themselves to the job instead of waiting, have thrust upon them. Such constituted lawyers are regarded with secret contempt by their fellow policemen. If there is a discussion of some kind going on in the station, the "per" is sure to precipitate himself into the midst of the debate, and he proceeds at once to take the floor, raising his voice loudly above the others until he has drowned them completely, when he begins to give views on the subject.

Bon Secours Sacristy Held First Montreal Irish Catholic Congregation — History of St. Patrick's.

(Montreal Gazette.)

Although the celebration to be held by the priests and the people of St. Patrick's parish on October 14 and 15 is in honor of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the church, the history of Irish Catholic worship in Montreal goes much further back. It was in 1817 that Father Richards, a covert member of the Sulpician Fathers, invited the English-speaking Catholics of the city to assemble at the old Church of Our Lady of Bon Secours. So few responded at first that the sacristy suffered to seat them, but the numbers gradually grew, and thirteen years later the size of the congregation warranted removal to the Recollets' Church in St. Helen street. This edifice was speedily outgrown by the expanding congregation, but this did not deter the faithful from fulfilling their religious obligations. Those who could not obtain places in the church knelt in the street, in storm or sunshine, the lines sometimes extending to the middle of St. James street. Their pastor, Father Phelan, S. S., afterwards Bishop of Kingston, founded St. Patrick's Temperance Society, the first of its kind in America.

It was to Father Quiblier, Superior of the Sulpician Fathers in Montreal, that St. Patrick's was chiefly indebted for its origin and the erection of the splendid edifice whose anniversary is to be honored next month. The present site was the third acquired for the purpose, others in Craig and Bleury streets having been bought but re-sold. For the property on which the church now stands the sum of $20,000 was paid to the Rocheblave family. Father Quiblier had made an arrangement by which the congregation contributed $12,000, the Fabrique of Notre Dame contributing the remainder of the amount necessary to acquire the site and start building operations.

Ample Proportions.

To the far-seeing vision of Father Quiblier, the dimensions first proposed, when the plans were drawn in 1840, were too small, and through his influence the length of the church was fixed at 238 feet instead of 180 feet, and the width at 100 feet instead of eighty feet. He also succeeded in including in the plans provision for the imposing steeple which is such a prominent landmark in the lower part of the city. In addition to the interest he showed in the material side of the undertaking, he did not overlook the purely spiritual needs of the congregation-to-be, and while on a visit to Europe, he made a special trip to Ireland to secure the services of Irish priests. As a result of these efforts, Bishop Croll, then Primate of Ireland, despatched Fathers Dowd, O'Brien and McCulloch, who soon won the respect and love of their parishioners for their piety and self-sacrificing devotion.

Meanwhile the Irish Catholics had been busy in Montreal, and as the result of a series of meetings they were in a position to solicit the bishop's permission to build their church. This was forthcoming, and on September 25, 1841, the seven corner stones were laid and blessed by Bishop Bourget. Slowly but constantly the walls rose until the immense roof, eighty-five feet above the floor level, were put in place, and on March 17, 1847, Bishop Prince, administrator of the diocese, celebrated pontifical high mass after dedicating the new church to St. Patrick, Confessor, Pontiff and Apostle of Ireland.

Until 1861, the decorative scheme of the church remained incomplete, but in that year, through the initiative of Father Dowd, three permanent altars were erected and the interior work was finished. In 1893, extensive alterations and improvements were undertaken, and the church assumed the aspect which it presents today.

POLAND OIL LANDS.

Government Issues Leasehold Terms on 500,000 Acres.

Poland has at its disposal approximately 800,000 acres of oil fields and the government has decided to lease out this area of nearly 800 square miles for purposes of exploitation to private companies and individuals, according to the Polish Bureau of Information, which has received a statement from Dr. Stefan

Bartoszewicz, Director of the Oil Division of the Polish Ministry of Industry and Commerce. According to the present plans, a plot of approximately 5,000 acres may be subject to one applicant, the applicant is given the privilege of selecting the location for his activities in so far as the first 5,000 acres are concerned. The state may, at the request of the applicant, set aside an additional area of 5,000 acres, but in this case the choice of the location is left to the state. The period of the lease is fixed at twenty-five years, but it may be extended an additional fifteen years, in which case the government's percentage of production is increased 20 per cent. The government is to receive a percentage of all oil obtained. Provisionally, the government's percentage has been fixed at 10 per cent. of the gross production. Should such production be less than fifty tons monthly, the government's percentage would remain at 10 per cent. Should the production be between fifty and 100 tons monthly, the government would obtain 12 per cent, and if over 100 tons monthly, 15 per cent.

The regulations of the government provide that geological surveys of the area are to be completed within one year from the time of setting aside the specified area. In making this survey the lessee is to divide their 5,000-acre plots into zones. During the second year borings must be begun in at least two of the zones.

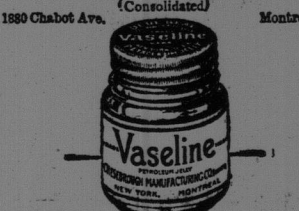

During the third year the number of oil borings must be increased to equal the number of oil zones within the 5,000-acre plots. The division of oil zones from the time of setting aside the specified area. The division will be made by forming lots of approximately 250 acres each, which will then be, in so far as possible, divided equally between the driller and the state. Within the next two years that is, during the fourth and fifth years of the lease, the borings must be continued so that at least one rig is in operation in each of the above mentioned lots. Regulations which have been worked out in considerable detail provide that after the lease may, if he wishes, discontinue operations in the particular zone, but he forfeits the right to renew operations by thus discontinuing drilling. However, after two or more shafts have been sunk in the same zone the driller may continue on any one or more of such shafts.

GIVES LIFE SAVING ELEVEN IN TUNNEL

Workman in Winfield Sewer, 80 Feet Under Ground, Holds Timbers as Slide Starts.

New York, Sept. 25.—One man was killed and eleven others had a narrow escape from death in a tunnel eighty feet under ground at Hayes avenue, Winfield, where a sewer is being constructed. Joseph Fallon, forty years, of 387 Sixteenth avenue, Brooklyn, was buried under tons of sand, and when dug out, after three hours, he was dead. He lost his life attempting to assist his fellow-workmen in escaping.

Joseph Drumright, thirty-five years, of 203 West Sixty-third street, was seriously cut about the head and had his right arm crushed; Michael Schmitt, twenty-five years, of 77 First avenue, was injured about the chest from falling timbers, and Thomas Canavan, thirty-four years, of 73 Sixth avenue, Long Island City, received cuts to his head and a crushed left foot. The other eight men got out with slight injuries.

The Fisk avenue sewer on which the work is progressing is one section of the Woodside trunk sewer, which is to cost $4,000,000, and is to be the outlet for the entire section from Long Island City to Corona, including part of Forest Hills and Jackson Heights. It is twelve feet in diameter and it is a double-barrel sewer. In the Winfield section the surface of the ground is so elevated that engineers decided that the construction would have to proceed in a tunnel. The work is being done by Booth & Flynn, the contractors, who built a number of the rapid transit tubes under the East River and who are now starting work on a tunnel under the Hudson River.

Fallon was digging at the heading of the excavation and the three men most seriously injured were just behind him when they were started by a strange whistling sound, which they immediately understood to be a slide of some kind. They dropped their tools and started to run, but were all caught by the falling earth and timbers. Fallon for a time made an effort to hold up some of the timbers so that those in front of him could get out. When he started himself he was crushed by the weight that had slid down.

Louis Thombone of 101 Ninety-seventh street, Corona, another workman, was descending the winding stairway into the shaft as the workmen began running out. He came upon Drumright, Schmitt and Canavan and then other workmen ran to his assistance. The three men were freed and sent up the shaft. Then the digging for Fallon started. It was two hours before his body was reached.

After the accident a depression on the surface four feet deep and about twenty feet in diameter indicated where the cave-in had occurred. An investigation was made by John W. Moore, superintendent of buildings, and J. Frank Perrine, chief engineer of sewers in Queens. They said that they found that the contractors were using every possible precaution. The big viaduct of the New York Connecting Railroad is but thirty feet from where the tunnel is being cut through, and there is a possibility that vibration caused by the heavy trains on the viaduct may have caused the earth to slide.

Boys, Pups, and the Front Page. (New York Herald.)

The terse letter subjoined was received yesterday:

"To the New York Herald: Have you gone crazy—to use a full column of the front page of the Herald to tell of a boy who lost his pup when the papers are all crowded with important things?"

"A FRIENDLY READER.

"New York, Sept. 19."

No, the New York Herald has not gone crazy. Papers become demented only when they lose track of the human race and never put the boys and the pups on the front page.

Our correspondent forgets the variety of news appetites. There are ten thousand young men in New York who could tell him how many home runs Babe Ruth has made this year but could not tell him whether Scutari is in Europe or in Asia. There are a hundred thousand mothers in New York who have not the slightest interest in Southampton or Lenox but who like to read about the boy and the pup. For the boy might be their own boy.

The world likes to read about boys, and especially about boys that own pups. The boy and the dog have been pals since the axis of the earth first began to creak under the weight of the human race. There were boys and pups before Babylon, but Babylon and its brass gates have gone and the boys and their pups remain. There will be lost boys with lost pups, and kind policemen to find and feed them, long after wars and strikes have disappeared.

And so often as something happens to a boy and a pup that makes the world recall its youth the New York Herald will find room on the front page for it, even if it has to relegate the doings of some stodgy statesman to the inside.

Mayor Tells About It at Conference With Power Commission—To Bring It Up at City Hall Today—Further Talk For and Against Retaining Safe-guard Clause in Hydro Contract.

In opening the meeting between the city commissioners and the members of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission yesterday to discuss the proposed contract for the Musquash energy, the mayor announced that the New Brunswick Power Company would agree to arbitration in connection with the sale of its property to the city. If this offer of arbitration—which the citizens will undoubtedly resist with all the power at their command—was not acceptable to the city council, he proclaimed his willingness to take over the power company property from the hydro commission, if they would expropriate it, which it is known the commission has no intention of doing.

Some progress was made in the discussion of the proposed contract. Although the mayor declared his intention of taking no part in the discussion during the session, he changed his mind apparently.

There was further discussion of the section relating to the city being prevented from handling the power for others for resale, and the clause was allowed to stand for further consideration. All the other sections were agreed to tentatively, it is, however, known that the contentious sections are passed later.

Those in attendance included the mayor and all the city commissioners; Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., city solicitor; Premier Foster, Hon. Dr. E. A. Smith, chairman of the Power Commission; C. O. Ross, chief engineer; Gordon Kribs, consulting engineer, and J. D. P. Levin, solicitor for the Power Commission.

Another Move.

Calling the meeting to order, the mayor read a statement, in which he referred to the turning down of different recommendations of his by the council, expressed the opinion that "a steam station as a standby is necessary," and said that he had succeeded "through Mr. Bodelle" in getting the New Brunswick Power Company to offer to arbitrate the sale of its property to the city. "If this offer of arbitration is acceptable," the statement read, "I will favor the execution of a contract with the hydro commission for the Musquash power. If it is not acceptable, I wish to advise the hydro commission that if they will expropriate all of the property of the New Brunswick Power Company I will on my part agree to vote on behalf of the city to take it from the hydro commission at the cost to them. The city has no power of itself to expropriate the New Brunswick Power Company property. I further understand that the hydro commission can expropriate for the city only such property as lies within the city limits, and they cannot expropriate the gas property, and there is some doubt about the railway property. I am also advised that to dismember the property in this manner would probably result in an award of damages, which added to the cost of expropriation, might exceed in value the cost of the entire property. I believe the hydro commission is in a position to secure from the government the necessary power to expropriate all the property, and if the hydro commission will agree to do this I will favor the execution of a contract for the Musquash power.

For Expropriation.

"Furthermore, if the hydro commission does expropriate all the property of the New Brunswick Power Company, the water rights owned at present by the New Brunswick Power Company on the Lepreau and Magaguadavic rivers should be included, as I believe the city should own these water rights until such time as they are needed to be developed for the electrical business of St. John, and I am willing to agree that when that time arrives that the city will sell to the hydro commission these water rights provided they are developed exclusively for use of St. John. I am firm in this conviction, because the hydro commission has given the city of Moncton a preferential right to the purchase of a considerable portion of the power of Musquash, and as the power requirements of the city of St. John are now very large and may be considerably extended, the city should be in a position to secure its energy under the most favorable circumstances.

"I will call a special meeting of the city council for tomorrow morning to consider this offer of arbitration, and upon the conclusion of such meeting will immediately notify your commission of the action taken."

Will Discuss Proposition.

When the mayor had concluded Commissioner Bullock expressed the opinion that the council should go ahead and discuss the proposed contract regardless of this turn of affairs. This attitude was also taken by the other commissioners.

The mayor said that so far as he was personally concerned he was not going to take part in the discussion.

Commissioner Wigmore expressed his pleasure to see that the matter had arrived at a point where they were talking of expropriation, but he, too, thought that a discussion of the proposed contract should continue.

The mayor again joined in to say that there were two or three things in the proposed contract to which he was personally opposed. He would therefore take an interest in the discussion, but he did not intend to participate.

Consideration of the proposed contract from the place where the committee had stopped at the last meeting was then proceeded with.

An Agreement.

Section 6, having to do with the right of the commission to discontinue the supply temporarily for repairs, etc., Dr. Baxter suggested that the city secure legislation to make this clause a part of all contracts between the city and consumers, as this would automatically relieve the city of any claim for damages on account of a shut-down. This section was agreed upon with this understanding.

Section 7, dealing with the granting of permission to representatives of the city and the commission to inspect each other's installations, was also agreed to.

Considerable discussion developed over section 8, which provided for the relief of the commission or the city from any claim for damages due to a stopping of the supply on account of strikes, lock-outs, fire, explosion, act of God or the king's enemies, or any other cause beyond the control of the commission, or the city respectively, in which case the commission would not be bound to deliver or the city to receive distribute or pay for such electric energy during such periods.

A Definition.

Dr. Baxter suggested the addition of the following words: "And the total quantity to be agreed upon to be paid for by the city, whether used or not, should be reduced by the average amount, which would have been consumed during the period of discontinuance, this average to be arrived at by taking the previous and subsequent months' consumption and averaging them. The words, 'act of God' not to include shortage of water, destruction of upkeep on dams or other construction of the commission by flood, scouring, faulty construction or maintenance."

Mayor McLellan was of the opinion that the premier should be inserted as to damages.

The premier thought that if this was included it should be reciprocal.

Mr. Levin observed that the contract already contained such a clause.

Commissioner Thornton thought that the former draft was a poor one on account of the fact that under it the city could receive no damages for interruption, but Dr. Baxter explained that it would be useless to insert such a clause as the commission really would have no money to pay a claim for damages.

Duration of Contract.

Section 13 referred to the duration of the contract. Dr. Smith said that the Moncton contract was for fifteen years and the commission was willing to give St. John the same length of contract. He preferred thirty years.

Mr. Kribs said that if the commission desired it, it could amortize some of its bonds in fifteen years. Some of them were for ten years, some for fifteen and some for twenty.

Commissioner Thornton said he understood that the commission proposed, in the event of selling to places just outside the city, to credit the city with the amount of energy thus supplied.

He thought that something should be inserted in the contract to this effect.

Dr. Baxter said that according to the act the city could arrange with other municipalities to supply them with energy, but in the case of Lancaster and East St. John, as these localities were not incorporated, the city could not deal with them.

Electric Light Districts.

The premier said that it was proposed to promote legislation creating electric light districts with which the city could arrange for supplying. Under the act the city was confined to supply within the city limits.

Dr. Baxter said that he was under the impression that there was an idea prevailing in Lancaster that they would prefer to control their own distribution. Personally he thought that the overhead could be reduced by their receiving their supply through the city.

Mayor McLellan said he understood that the power supplied outside the city would be credited to the city's account.

"If it came through the city's sub station," observed the premier.

Dr. Frink said he understood that East St. John and Lancaster would be supplied through an independent system.

City Would Get Credit.

Mr. Kribs explained that the commission did not desire to have a sub station every mile or so along its main transmission line. He said that the city sub station would be the natural distribution point for many loads not within the city limits, and any energy passing through that station would certainly be credited to the city's account.

Why should East St. John and Lancaster want separate sub-stations when they know that they are going to get the current at cost?" asked Premier Foster.

The premier asked how Rothery would stand if the city acquired the assets of the New Brunswick Power Co. If this should come to pass, he thought that the city should be protected in regard to its investment in that locality.

Dr. Baxter said that Kings county would hardly go to the expense of erecting another sub station when it could get its supply through St. John.

Mr. Kribs asked if the city did buy out the power company if it would have a legal right to hold sections outside the city limits. He said that in Ontario they would not.

Dr. Baxter said there was legislation in existence now that covered that.

The mayor observed that there was not much fear that the people of Rothery would want to go into competition with the city.

Premier Foster said, regarding section 12, which referred to the handing over of the energy to someone else by the city, that it touched upon the policy of the provincial government and before making any definite decision he would like to talk the matter over with his colleagues.

Mr. Kribs said that the commission had set a peak load on the plant and could get about twenty per cent. overload. He said that they would not split hairs and felt that the two parties could get together on the question.

It was decided to postpone further meetings until it was seen what came out of the mayor's proposal regarding arbitration.

Independent of the New Brunswick Power Company the company might attempt by injunction or otherwise to prevent the city from entering into competition with them. In that case there would be a delay in the city getting on with distribution and meantime it would be compelled to pay for the current contracted for. The possibility he thought was remote but in the event of its occurring, he thought that the city might like to be in a position to resell at least a part of the energy which it could not distribute. The matter, he thought, might be settled by a plebiscite.

Dr. Baxter said he could not see what right the power company would have to take out an injunction. Before it could do so, in any case, it would have to undertake to assume whatever damages resulted to the city by means of its action.

Premier Foster thought that the whole section was contingent upon the policy adopted by the council, and that there was not much use in discussing it with the commission.

"Yes," answered the mayor, "but why should this city be discriminated against in favor of Moncton?"

Mr. Kribs answered that the Moncton people had notified the commission that they intended to buy the tramways company distribution system after the completion of the distribution contract which would extend over three years.

Commissioner Frink said that there was a possibility that the city would have more power available than it could distribute for some time and asked if the city could not resell some of it.

Mr. Kribs said that this was a matter of contingency. In some towns in Ontario where the two corporations were in competition it was not unusual for one to help the other in cases of emergency so that the public would be better served.

The mayor asked why the citizens should be "penalized" by the acts of a government before they have a chance to accept them.

People Protected.

Mr. Kribs said that he disagreed with the mayor on this point. The section was inserted to prevent the people from being penalized.

Commissioner Frink crystallized the whole intent of the section by remarking, "I take it that the policy of the government in inserting this section was that its product should not be sold to someone to peddle out at a profit."

"Exactly," commented the premier. The section was allowed to stand over for further consideration.

Section 6, having to do with the right of the commission to discontinue the supply temporarily for repairs, etc., Dr. Baxter suggested that the city secure legislation to make this clause a part of all contracts between the city and consumers, as this would automatically relieve the city of any claim for damages on account of a shut-down. The financial statement showed receipts of $911.36, expenditures of $834.38, and a balance of $77.98. Mrs. Ellis reported that the hospital patients in the St. John County hospital. For the Lancaster D. S. C. R. hospital, Mrs. Taylor reported sixty men in the institution. Mrs. Allan reported that flowers had been received all summer from William Brodie and from Mr. MacFarlane of Quispamsis, and had been distributed to the hospitals, and, in one case, to the Old Ladies' Home. Mrs. Doody said that through the summer fifty-nine men had been given directions in addition to the men from the St. John County hospital who had been taken to the exhibition. The Red Cross had also arranged for ten for the men who went to the exhibition.

Mrs. G. A. Kuhnring spoke of the interest being shown in Red Cross work through the province.

It was decided, since the committee had the power to add to its numbers, to invite two members of the Moncton society to join the committee.

SELL POPPIES ON ARMISTICE DAY AGAIN THIS YEAR

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—With a view to relieving distress among returned men during the winter, the Great War Veterans' Association will again this year hold a nation-wide poppy sale on Armistice Day. The flowers of remembrance will be sold through the G. W. V. A. branches in cities and towns from coast to coast.

The poppies are being made by disabled men in Canadian hospitals and all the money derived from their sale will be kept in Canada. Last year the poppy sale was held jointly under the auspices of the association and the French Society for the Relief of Orphan Children in the War Areas, and half the money resulting was sent to France. The poppies were also made in France last year. Officials of the G. W. V. A. basing their estimate on the 900,000 poppies distributed last Armistice Day, are preparing for a sale of 1,125,000 this year. Relief funds for use in Canada amounting to approximately $40,000, were raised last year, while an equal amount went to banish distress in the war-stricken areas.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE

Montreal, Sept. 29.—(10:30)—Further liquidation in listed issues on the local stock exchange featured the early morning trade. The outstanding stock, from a point of view of weakness, was Brazilian Traction, which, after yesterday's disastrous performance, registered a new low on its present downward journey by touching 40 1/4. The last sale in this issue yesterday was at forty-one. Of the papers, Abitibi was active though unchanged at fifty-seven; Brompton bagged another point to thirty-one, and Howard Smith was down three-quarters at 76 1/4. Half point declines were registered in Bell Telephone at 110 1/8, in Detroit Railway at sixty-seven, in Dominion Canners at thirty-six, in Dominion Textile at 173 and in National Breweries at 62 1/2. Besides the issues mentioned, Shawinigan dropped a point to 110, and Montreal Power was down at 97 3/8.

A front tire of the machine burst. The car skidded against a pole and overturned. Young Welsh just missed hitting the pole. He received a fractured leg and is badly cut and bruised.

PARIS BEING CROSS-EXAMINED

All Morning Session on the Witness Stand

Attorney Gen. Byrne Puts Him Through Questioning in Various Phases of Murder Case—Many People in Court to Follow the Proceedings.

For the entire duration of court this morning John Paris was on the witness stand at his trial for the murder of Sadie McAuley. He was subjected to a grueling cross-examination by the attorney-general, Hon. J. F. Byrne, as to his movements in Truro on August 2, 1921, and almost constant reference was made to his testimony at previous trials. He persistently maintained that his memory had failed him considerably since the last trial because of what he had gone through, and chafed somewhat under the constant fire of questions and demands upon his memory.

There was a large crowd of spectators in the court room, and interest in the testimony was keen. The evidence of Luther Smith as to having seen Paris in Douglas avenue on the day in question came in for discussion. The court rose at one o'clock to resume at 2:30 this afternoon.

The accused, resuming cross-examination by the attorney-general, identified Conductor W. J. Capson as the conductor of the train on which he came from Truro on the night of August 3. He identified Mrs. King of Sagwa as the lady in whose house he had been while fighting the Westfield fire. He admitted having told her that the St. John police force was too slow to catch the murderer, as it was very unlikely that the man would be in St. John then. He denied saying that he was one of the three men who found the body of the child. He admitted saying to Mrs. King that the fellow who buried the child made a mistake in putting the little stones on top of the big ones. He swore he could not write. The attorney-general produced a check and asked the accused if that was his signature to it. Paris said he thought it was, and then said he had no doubt of it. He could only write his name. He swore he had learned to write after December 30, 1921. He swore he had learned to write from a debtor in jail, and he wrote the same name as he had then. He had been in the condemned cell when he was brought to the city. He denied knowing where Luther Smith lived.

He was subjected to a rigorous cross-examination as to his movements in Truro on August 2, 1921. When pressed for answers to some questions, Paris said that his memory was not so good as at previous trials. He said Paris recounted the transaction between him and McNaught, an employee of the Eastern Cap Company. He produced a receipt for a telephone to Mr. Ogilvie when he (Paris) asked to see the latter about a bill for work.

Paris said he knew a John Paris who worked for Mr. Ogilvie. He could not swear that he was not in the company's office on the day of August 2. He said he was in the Eastern Cap office between 1 and 3 o'clock. He had said previously sworn it was between 1 and 4 o'clock. It was sometime between these hours. He said it was between 7 and 12 o'clock the morning of August 2 that he was in Oscar Clyde's house.

To the attorney general Paris said Mr. Smith never said he saw him on Douglas avenue on August 2. Asked as to what he did say, accused said Mr. Smith swore he saw a man "that looked like me."

He denied being in the park on August 6.

On previous trials Paris said he swore he never had a mustache. He corrected himself and added, "It all depends on what people call a mustache."

Paris said that to his own knowledge he never swore he was clean shaven on August 2.

The attorney general read his evidence from a previous trial where he (Paris) had sworn he was clean shaven. To this Paris said today "it must be correct."

On August 6 he said he was hauling ashes for different people in West St. John. He did not know the names.

Asked about a soft hat Mrs. Calvin swore she saw Paris wearing on August 1, Paris took the hat, scanned it closely and said he had doubts as to whether it was his or not. His was a better hat. This hat had a similar bow to his.

He admitted from the evidence that Little Sadie McAuley had been murdered. He said that he did not think one man could place the rock, described in court, over the child's body. If it took two men to lift it from the body, as Detective Power said it did, he could not see how one man could roll it over the body. He was satisfied one man committed the crime from the evidence, but his own opinion was that it took more than one man to roll the large rock in the position already described. He did not think one man, if one man did it, would afterwards ask another man to help bury the body. One would not have to handle a body to know its weight, especially of a child if the age was known.

The court here took recess until 2:30 o'clock.

RESIDENCE ON GONDOLA POINT ROAD BURNED

The home of Frank Jackson, carpenter, on the Gondola Point road was totally destroyed by fire about ten o'clock this morning. Mr. Jackson was working at Riverside and Mrs. Jackson was alone in the house. She was unaware that the house was on fire until notified by some people who saw the fire from the road.

The blaze started in the upper story and although neighbors were able to assist Mr. Jackson in getting out all the furniture from the lower floor, that in the upstairs rooms was destroyed. It is understood that the loss is partly covered by insurance.

THE PULP MILL WATER MATTER

Further Statements Today at a Special Meeting of the Commissioners.

After the special meeting in connection with hydro matters at city hall this morning, F. Sanford, asked to have a hearing in connection with the proposed agreement with the Nashua Pulp & Paper Co., regarding the installation of a 16-inch water main to their plant. The mayor said he was not in favor of taking any other matter up at the meeting, but the council decided to go into committee to hear Mr. Sanford. Mayor McLellan left the chair and it was taken by Commissioner Frink.

Commissioner Wigmore explained the pulp company was limited to 4,000,000 gallons a day, which was equal to 2-788 gallons a minute. As they were not drawing an even amount over the whole twenty-four hours, the company asked for not to exceed 4,000,000 gallons a day. He said the ten inch pipe could be sealed by the city and used only in case of fire, when it could be again sealed by the city.

Mr. Sanford said that the company was asking for a limit of 3,500 gallons a minute but were agreeable to a maximum of 3,000 gallons a minute and never more than 4,000,000 gallons a day.

Commissioner Frink thought the engineer should be present to give his opinion.

Mr. Wigmore moved, and it was agreed, that the petition of the company should be recommended to the next meeting of council.

Mr. Sanford said that some of the New York officials of the company were passing through the city today and he would like to assure them that the city was agreeable to their petition.

Dr. Frink said that the mayor had criticized the petition and he would like to have him present when the matter came up for final decision, so it was left over until next council meeting.

The committee arose and on motion the council adjourned.

LIQUOR CASE EVIDENCE HEARD

The case against Patrick O'Keefe charged with selling liquor unlawfully, was resumed this morning. Three lawyers appeared, W. M. Ryan for the prosecution, J. A. Barry for the defendant and E. Ritchie in the interest of Daniel Doherty, one of the witnesses.

Otto Wilker was recalled to the stand and said that he had accompanied the liquor inspectors into a beer shop. He had gone into this shop previously, he said, and ordered a drink of ginger ale. While in there he began to feel sick and left. After leaving, he said, he remembered nothing until he was taken to the police station, charged with drunkenness. He said, a friend named Murphy was with him.

Daniel Doherty said that he formerly rented one of the shops on this piece of property but had given it up in 1919. He said the property belonged to Thomas Sweeney and there were two shops on it. He did not employ anyone in the other shop, he said, and had not been in there since Sunday night. He did not employ O'Keefe, ex-Policeman Barrett, or Frank O'Neill.

Mr. Ryan said that a summons had been issued for O'Neill but that the police had not been able to serve it.

Mr. Barry asked that a deposit be accepted or that bail be given but the magistrate refused. Mr. Barry then offered both the deposit and bail and this was accepted. O'Keefe put up $200 and entered into a recognizance for $400 while Mr. Barry and Mr. Ritchie each entered into a recognizance for $200. The case was put over until Monday at 11:30 o'clock.

WORK OF CATHOLIC LADIES HERE

Report of St. John Diocese at Winnipeg Meeting

Organization and Activities of Two St. John City Sub-divisions, and One Each in Moncton and Sussex Re-counted at the Catholic Women's League Convention.

St. John Diocese.
The report of St. John Diocese Sub-division of the Catholic Women's League of Canada submitted at the meeting in Winnipeg today is as follows:
The St. John Diocese Sub-division of the Catholic Women's League was formed at Rosary Hall, St. John, N. B., January 19th, 1922, under the direction of Rev. William Duke, chaplain of the St. John sub-division, with the sanction of His Lordship, Rt. Rev. E. A. LeBlanc, Bishop of St. John.
The diocese sub-division is composed of the sub-divisions St. John (Cathedral), St. John (North), Moncton (St. Bernard's), and Sussex, N. B., branches, with a total membership of 388. Representatives from each of these sub-divisions were present at the organization meeting, and the election of officers, with eleven councillors from the different sub-divisions, resulted as follows:
President, Mrs. David P. Chisholm, St. John.
First vice-president, Mrs. James Friel, Moncton.
Second vice-president, Miss M. H. McCloskey, St. John.
Third vice-president, Miss Sarah Lyach, St. John.

Treasurer, Mrs. William Devine, Sussex.
Recording secretary, Mrs. Ellen I. Reid, St. John.
Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jas. E. McMurphy, St. John.
Quarterly meetings of the diocese board were decided on, and at the second meeting, held in Moncton, April 18th, 1922, the following organization committee was elected:—Mrs. D. P. Chisholm, Mrs. Reid McManus, Miss McCloskey, Mrs. John Owens, Mrs. Gerry, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Devine, Mrs. Friel.
At this meeting it was resolved that a "historical scrap-book" be kept, reports of the diocese sub-division and outstanding events of the different divisions to be recorded therein. Mrs. James E. McMurphy was appointed historian.

The second quarterly meeting was held at Sussex on July 24. The principal business of this meeting was the election of Mrs. D. P. Chisholm as diocese delegate to this convention. Regarding the organization work of the diocese sub-division, reports have not been received from the organization committee, but progress has been reported.

At both the quarterly meetings the visiting members of the board were very pleasantly entertained after the business sessions.
The next and last quarterly meeting of the year takes place in St. John in October, when convention reports will be presented.

Reports of the activities for the past year from each of our sub-divisions have been compiled as follows, according to religious, social service, membership, immigration, education, child welfare, girls' work, and civics ramifications:—

St. John (Cathedral).
Mrs. Richard O'Brien, president. This sub-division was formed by the amalgamation of the Catholic Girls' Guild and the St. Monica's Society, in June, 1921, with 250 members; present membership 380. Rosary Hall, an ideal home for young Catholic working girls, under the capable management of Mrs. M. Owens, forms the centre of girls' welfare work. On hundred girls were in residence during the year and positions secured for twenty-five.
Efficient committees from the league have done excellent work in promoting religious, educational and physical de-development, not only to those making Rosary Hall their home, but to all working girls, strangers in the city, to whom a cordial invitation is extended to attend the fortnightly social events and the weekly physical classes in St. Vincent's gymnasium.

This gymnasium is the most recently completed department in the new Catholic High School building and has been pronounced by those competent to speak on the subject, one of the most modern equipped in Eastern Canada. It is the centre of the physical activities for girls, the different classes for high school girls, junior girls, and voluntary members being under the supervision of committees from the sub-division which has taken over the management.

At the first annual demonstration of the physical class, $19.65 was realized from the sale of Candy.
An admirable course of six lectures was given, comprising:—Child Welfare, by Mrs. Richard Hooper; Jerusalem and the World War, by Dr. E. J. Ryan; Matilda of Tuscany, by Judge Carleton; Dante, by Daniel Mallin, K. C.; and Woman's Work and the Christian Ideal, by Rt. Rev. E. A. LeBlanc. Silver collections taken at these lectures netted $232.65.

A social evening to promote membership was held in Knights of Columbus Hall and a large audience was present. Reports from standing committees were presented and addresses were delivered by His Lordship, Bishop LeBlanc and Rev. Father Duke. Both speakers complimented the league on the large amount of work accomplished. Music and refreshments added to the enjoyment of the evening.
A year ago, in August, Mrs. Robert Kneil, national organizer of the C. W. L., addressed a large audience of our Catholic women, telling of the work done by the league in the different countries of Europe and America.
Two book showers added many volumes to the library of Rosary Hall; and by various ventures, such as teas, sales, etc., the social committee realized $596.50.
The religious committee served breakfast once a month to boys of the Industrial Home on Communion Sunday, and carried out systematic visiting of our different public hospitals.
The immigration committee, of which Mrs. John Owens, member of the Immigration committee of the National Board of the C. W. L., was convener, met all steamers arriving in St. John, the Winter Port of Canada, and reported cases where assistance could be rendered strangers coming to Canada. $46 was voted to Abbe Casgrain, port chaplain, for port work.
At the Cathedral high tea, members managed the candy, beverage and home cooking booths, making the sum of $483 for the new High School fund.
The membership committee reported 400 members enrolled.
The public activities included the management of a booth in the child welfare department at the annual St. John Exhibition. One hundred members assisted in the work of taking the religious census of the City and County of St. John. Members also worked on the following tag days:
Poppy Day for the benefit of the starving children of Europe.
Rosebud Day for the St. John Children's Aid Society.
Baby Day for the free milk fund for children.
Public Health Day to aid in the establishment of a public health centre where free clinic for the prevention and treatment of diseases will be held for the benefit of the public, especially children.
And for the Anti-Tuberculosis Society's appeal held recently.
Large sums of money were collected for these deserving causes.
By selling admission badges, a large number of our members assisted the young men of our Catholic Institute who managed the National Amateur Skating championship races held at Lily Lake, and also gave assistance on the evening of the races when a banquet was tendered the visiting skaters and friends.
To finance St. John's International Rowing Championship representative, Hilton Belyea, members assisted in tagging.
As members of the film committee of the National Board of the C. W. L. of Canada, Mrs. D. P. Chisholm has reported to the convener, Lady Hingston, regarding the local and provincial cinema.
This sub-division is affiliated with the St. John Branch of the National Council of Women of Canada and has participated in many of its endeavors, especially for the advancement and protection of women and children.
In connection with Rosary Hall and other various enterprises, in all, the sum of $4,045.67 passed through the hands of this sub-division during the first year of its existence.

St. John (North) Sub-Division.
President, Miss M. H. McCloskey. Organized April, 1921, with 105 members. Present membership 378. Held nine regular, two special and seven executive meetings. A constitution was approved and various resolutions adopted.
Eloquent and practical addresses were given by Rev. George Daly, C. S. S. R., and Rev. George Coffin, C. S. S. R., on the aims of the Catholic Women's League, and by Miss Katherine Greany on Catholic social work.
Miss McCloskey was sent as delegate to the C. W. L. convention held in Toronto in 1921.
Members worked in registering women of the parish in order to make use of the vote, assisted on Rosebud tag day for the Children's Aid Society; in the C. W. L. booth at the annual high tea, and bazaar of St. Peter's parish, when the sum of $375 was realized for the new St. Peter's Boys' School.
For the St. Patrick's Day entertainment in aid of the orphans, members disposed of many tickets. A pantry sale netted $65 and a lottery and after-noon tea added $100 to the funds. The sum of $50 was received for League work from J. D. O'Connell, the "Orphans' Friend."
One large and ten smaller bridge and social evenings were held, netting $200.
Social service was rendered in conducting sewing classes for fifteen to twenty young girls of the parish. Material was supplied and much useful work accomplished. A nourishing lunch added much to the sociability and enthusiasm of the workers.
Young lady members did splendid work in sewing for the benefit of foreign missions. For educational advancement, $100 was donated towards the new school.
This sub-division is affiliated with the local branch of the National Council of Women and co-operates in many of its movements for public good.
Moncton Sub-Division.
Mrs. Jas. Friel, president. Organized September, 1921, with seventy members. Present membership 175. Eight general and ten executive meetings were held during the year. Four lectures were given as follows:—The Aims and Objects of the League, by Rev. Father Savage; Franchise and the Rights of Women, by Jas. Friel, K. C.; Child Welfare, by Miss Alberta Burns, R. N., and Miss Doherty, R. N.; Social Reform, by Rev. Dr. McDonald.
For the purpose of raising funds, one whist party, one pound party and two teas and sales were held. Amount received from the various sources $742.26; amount disbursed, $212.43. Thirty-three baskets were given to deserving families at Christmas, also a Christmas tree and treat to the children of the parish. Much relief work was done in the parish during the last winter and in co-operation with the Central Relief Committee of Moncton, this sub-division assisted in providing hot lunches for school children and in sewing for the poor.
Meetings were held two evenings in the month and on each Saturday afternoon and have proved a success both socially and financially.
Sussex Sub-Division.
Mrs. Wm. Devine, president. Organized October, 1921, with twenty-eight members. Present membership fifty-five. A membership committee was formed and members appointed to visit families negligent in matters of faith, to promote attention to Christian duties. A children's Missionary Society was formed for the purpose of aiding the western missions, and thirty-eight members were enrolled. A pantry sale realized $23.50, and the children of the missionary society are preparing to put on a play.

The foregoing summarizes the reports of our four sub-divisions, recording as briefly as possible the work of our faithful committees along the lines of Catholic endeavor. To them and to our president much credit is due for uniting into harmonious whole the majority of the Catholic women of St. John Diocese.
With best wishes for the success of this convention, and to the Catholic Women's League in the fullest import of its all-embracing motto—"For God and Canada," this report is respectfully submitted.

Fights and Turns Back a Charging Bull.

An escaped bull, in its wild career through the streets of Hounslow, Eng. was met and worsted by a monkey. At the corner of a street an Italian organ-grinder, the monkey's master, was churning out melody. The bull made straight for the organ; the grinder made for safety.

The charging animal bore down upon it with a small wand it had been using in its performance. The bull tossed the monkey, but the little beast retaliated with a fierce tooth-and-nail attack on the head of the bull. Disconcerted and scared, the bull later at Isleworth.

WARMS HUNTERS TO BE CAREFUL OF HUMAN LIFE

In Licenses Note is Made of Fact That Eighteen Men Were Shot Last Season in Mistake For Game.

(Special to The Telegraph.)
Fredericton, Sept. 28.—The big game season will open on Monday next. October 1 is the first official day, but as the game hunting is illegal on Sunday, October 2 will be the day. Game shot already has been killed on special license which can be obtained by the payment of an extra fee. The big game licenses will be sent out from the crown land office this week for distribution among the vendors for sale in order that the hunters may lose no time. The number of licenses is expected to be about the average.
Already Chief Game Warden L. A. Gagnon has a parting killing case at Sussex. Three men are charged with killing off of season which does not open until October 1. It is not known yet when the case will be heard.
The department of lands and mines is attaching to each big game license sent out a warning to hunters to be careful of human life. Note is made of the fact that eighteen men were shot in mistake for game in 1921 in this province.

THROWS ACID AT HUSBAND; COMES PANIC AT THEATRE

Infuriated Wife Hurls Bottle of Carbolic Acid at Spouse and Burns Five.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 28.—Five persons were burned by carbolic acid said to have been hurled by an infuriated wife, while a crowded audience was nearly thrown into a panic at the Globe Theatre here.
Mrs. Mollie Cantor, 36, wife of a garage owner here, and mother of a four children, was arraigned before a justice of the peace on two charges of assault and battery preferred by her husband, Henry Cantor, from whom she is said to be separated, and by Harry Kolmetzky, husband of Mrs. Mary Kolmetzky. Mrs. Cantor was released under $800 bail in each case for the action of the Grand Jury.
The uproar occurred near the end of the performance of a play entitled, "An Eye for an Eye," in which a jealous woman figure, Mrs. Cantor sat far in the rear of the orchestra. Her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Kolmetzky were seated in a front row. Mrs. Cantor was seated between the two men. The police say she previously purchased a three-ounce bottle of carbolic acid at a local drug store.
Awaiting her opportunity at an interval moment of the play, the excited woman is said to have dashed down the aisle to where her husband was sitting, and to have hurled the contents of the bottle at him. The liquid sprayed in all directions and persons near by dashed to safety. Screens attracted the place was in a state of great excitement.
A riot call was sent to the police station and a score of reserve troops responded. Before they arrived the management had restored order and the patrol wagon was used as a barricade. Mrs. Kolmetzky is still in the hospital. Kolmetzky, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Sabota and Cantor went home after treatment.

HUNDRED FIGHT; SIXTEEN KILLED

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 28.—Sixteen men were killed and several wounded in a battle near Progreso, Chihuahua, yesterday between rebels headed by General Hernandez and federal troops. Hernandez and his followers were routed. Four federal men were killed. The insurgents numbered 46 and the federal 66.

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.
In the year of 1889 I was attacked by Muscular and Subcutaneous Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know for over three years. I tried every remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, and some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.
I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and subcutaneous rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it, and it has proven itself to be that long-sought-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, One Dollar, but understand I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free. Don't delay. Write today.

PEOPLE THROG TO SEE CRUSOE

Unique's Production of Favorite Story Makes a Hit—Opening Chapters Much Enjoyed.

Robinson Crusoe, the most popular figure in all literature, at last has been brought to life on the screen. The crowds which filled the Unique Theatre last night saw the famous childhood story start out on his celebrated adventures, as the first chapter of Universal's eighteen-chapter picture, "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," was shown. Harry Myers, who recently gained screen popularity in "The Connecticut Yankee," plays the role of Crusoe. "Robinson Crusoe" will be shown at the Unique every Thursday, Friday, Saturday, for the next seven weeks.
The filming of Daniel Defoe's universally read adventure story marks an epoch in the screen world as it is the first great work of literature to be put in screen serial form. It is a result of Universal's announced intention to take the blood and thunder out of serials and to make them educational as well as entertaining.
The opening chapter of "Robinson Crusoe" shows the young adventurer on his early travels, before he is shipwrecked on "Crusoe's Island," and in his Yorkshire home. The seventeenth century costumes and settings are done with great care, and no opportunity seems to have been overlooked to make the picture accurate. The only liberty taken with the book is the introduction of a sweetheart for Crusoe. This serves to lighten the interest rather than to detract from the story.
Crusoe is seen winning the consent of his parents to go to sea. His later adventures in the hands of the Moors, his escape, and his second voyage as navigator in a privateer are shown in dramatic scenes. Harry Myers is excellent as the dashing young Crusoe.

New Method Of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression on the minds of the women of Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in the world. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist for the whole or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

Paris Fashions Deceit Women Must Wear Hats at Functions.
(New York Times)
If a woman wants to be truly shocking in Paris this season she will appear hatless at smart functions. Such a thing simply will not be done by those "in the know," according to Mme. Anna Bruck of Bruck-Weiss, importers who returned last week with the latest Paris fashion that says that the hat is now as important to the ladies toilette as her gown. Once on the hat remains there, no matter what she says.
"Women in Paris for some time have shown a growing reluctance to removing their hats," said Mme. Bruck. "Their hats are put on with utmost care and in most cases the hair, arranged to fit the hat, does not look so well if the hat is suddenly removed. The need of removing the hat has caused the Paris fashion designers to design hats that must be created to meet the demands of the fastidious woman. So now the hat is the smart woman's constant companion."
"As a result the hat which hugs the head at every angle has finally appeared and is meeting with distinct favor abroad. It is really a skull-cap with all sorts of variations. It gives a splendid line to the silhouette of this season and its severe lines are a relief from the elaborateness of most of the costumes."
"The practice of making the hats to match the gowns is still in favor. With the evening gowns are always shown the matching hat of silver or gold cloth, which can be worn with the most elaborate gown throughout the evening, whether at the theatre or a formal party. Shaded velvet matched the smart evening frocks. Metals are seen everywhere and the brightest colors are the vogue of the moment.
"The new craze is really the most startling. It remains to be seen whether or not American women will adopt it, for it is extremely trying. It even required the withdrawal of the faithful waists—so important for so many years. Now the hair is drawn flat over the head, showing the ears and depending upon the line of the head entirely for beauty.
The full skirts seem to have acquired a superiority over the draped gown that early in the season showed such promise. The French women show a marked preference for the new fashion and the draped skirt will have a struggle if the present indications are correct."

Two Million Run-Down Women in Canada!

Lack of Iron and Vitamins the Principal Cause. Ironized Yeast Builds Great Strength in Few Days.

You Can Quickly Have New Strength Now for the Asking by Taking Ironized Yeast!

Madam, there is one thing you should know. When you are exhausted, pale, haggard, at all run-down, you cannot build yourself up by means of unnatural drugs. All healthy, strong, robust women have bodies that are rich in vitamins and iron. These are natural builders. Remember that, that yeast vitamins must be thoroughly ironized in order to make you rise gloriously from your exhaustion. The yeast you take must be, not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This is why you should take only Ironized Yeast. It is the only ironized yeast produced in the world. It is the first and last word in body force, nerve energy, blood richness, because it is Nature's own. In your body breaking down in middle age, do you look older than you really are, is your complexion pale, lumpy, watery, stomach weak, have you dark rings about the eyes, are you exhausted at little exertion? For the love of your own body, your health, your future and long life, take Ironized Yeast! Take Ironized Yeast! Be sure you get no substitute or imitation. Sole package, each containing 40 tablets. Each tablet has the name of the manufacturer, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Sales Agents. There's a new life waiting for you from now on!

SEEK HARDING'S AID IN WAR ON CANCER

American Society Will Start a Nation-Wide "Drive" Against the Scourge.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Prominent cancer specialists expect to ask President Harding within a few days to lend his aid to a movement in education to the public in protective measures against this strange malady. The president will be asked to use his influence in a "drive" against cancer, which has started a similar educational movement have been directed against tuberculosis and other diseases.
There has been such an alarming spread of cancer within recent years that the American Society for the Control of Cancer, which will conduct the drive, considers it imperative that the people of the United States should have a better knowledge of the symptoms and treatment of the disease.
With no thought of frightening the people, but merely to call their attention to facts which must be faced, the society, in announcing the drive, which will take place in the week of Nov. 12-20, asserts that while up to July 1919, 76,483 American soldiers were killed or died of wounds or disease in the great war, no fewer than 180,000 persons died of cancer in the United States during the two years since the war was involved in the war. Cancer causes one out of every ten deaths of persons above the age of 40 in this country, and in persons above 40 cancer is more prevalent than tuberculosis or pneumonia, the society's experts say. There are 100,000 persons in the United States now, afflicted with some form of cancer, it is asserted, while thousands of dollars are wasted annually on worthless cancer "cures."
All over the country men who have spent their lives in cancer research will be in charge of local campaigns aimed at disseminating information by means of lectures, personal work and newspaper publicity. The assertion that cancer is not a constitutional nor blood-borne disease, but that it should be hereditary taint and that there should be no stigma of disgrace attached to it will be stressed in the campaign. Men and women will be taught that certain definite symptoms precede every cancer and that these warnings should be heeded at once.
Scientific papers dealing with the work thus far accomplished in trying to find the cause of cancer will be given to the public and despite the fact that up to this time the origin of the disease is unknown, the public will be asked not to lose hope, but to believe that science will in the end find this cause.

HORSES "DOPED" SAYS INSPECTOR

Humane Society Official Report Received Regarding Woodbine.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Complaints that race horses on the Woodbine race-course were not being properly cared for, and that artificial stimulants were being used by horsemen to prepare their horses for races, have been made to the Toronto Humane Society. The complaints are being investigated by Inspector Ballingall of the society, who has been on the course since the fall meeting opened.
"We have received complaints of horsemen not taking proper care of their horses, and also that dope has been used," said Inspector Ballingall while he was in the paddock prior to the seventh race, observing the condition of horses being saddled for the race. "Here are thousands of people putting up their money hoping to get a winner, while some horsemen are using artificial stimulants," he said.
Claims Evidence of Dope.
"Look at those horses. There is no reason why they should be perspiring on a cool day like this. Some of them have gone to the post as if they had been lathered for a shave. No one can convince me, from what I have seen that these horses have not been doped," continued the inspector.
Inspector Ballingall said there had been instances during the Jockey Club's fall meeting of horses having their tongues tied before they went to the post, and declared these had been serious cases.
Inspector Ballingall complained that some poor colt driver would be summoned to a police court because, in a fit of anger, he might have used his horse roughly, while kind-hearted citizens, who could not witness a thing of this kind on a public thoroughfare, would tolerate it in the name of sport.
During the recent Thoroughbred race meeting, Inspector Ballingall stated, he had been summoned to the race-course to inspect a two-year-old horse which had not been raced, but had broken down during its training, from the use of drugs. He ordered the horse to a farm.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Both Mother and Daughter

Lumsden, Saskatchewan.—"My mother had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and when I needed something for my periods I took it and got good results. I recommend it to women with any female troubles and I know other women who have been helped by it and do the same."—Mrs. Max Rietzen, Lumsden, Saskatchewan.
Many cases like this come to our notice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is often recommended by the mother and the grand mother too, for bear in mind, it has been helping women for nearly 40 years.

Women Tell Each Other

In your own neighborhood are women who know the value of the wonderful medicine and they talk one another about it. So if you are troubled with irregularities, a tired feeling, nervous or sleepless spells, or have other annoying symptoms caused by some form of trouble, you have only to ask your neighbor what she thinks of you taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GERMAN MARINERS GREATLY HUMBLER

Petrograd, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press by Mail).—The port of Petrograd, principally frequented today by small German steamers, furnishes striking illustration of what the confiscation of Germany's biggest liners by the Allies has done to the old officers of the German merchant marine. Once plying the bridge of Atlantic carrying thousands of passengers, 3 officers are now commanding, or directing watches on tiny tugs that are the shores of the Baltic. From over 40,000 tons to less than the command held by Willy, once captain of the "Im-

RISK LETHAL GAS FOR CURE.

Voluntarily inhaling deadly gases to the point of asphyxiation, several prominent scientists and physicians have used each other as subjects in experiments resulting in the discovery of improved resuscitation methods which are expected to save hundreds of lives each year, it is announced by the American Gas Association.

The most effective treatment of gas poisoning, the experiments revealed, was the inhaling of oxygen combined with carbon dioxide. When supplied with manual artificial respiration, this treatment was found to be even more effective in reviving the asphyxiated person.

A startling result of the experiments was the conclusion of the doctors and scientists that many methods of resuscitation now practiced have a doubtful value, if any, according to their report.

Participating in the experiments, and unconsciousness in a tightly sealed chamber where they remained in the fumes for periods of 30 minutes, were Dr. Howard W. Haggard and Dr. Yael del Henderson, both of Yale University; Dr. Boyd R. Sanders of the United States Bureau of Mines; Dr. Cecil E. Drinker, Dr. Walter B. Cannon, Dr. Davis L. Edsall of Yale, and a group of scientist members of the American Gas Association.

LOCAL NEWS

The Baraca Brotherhood and the Philatelic class of the Central Baptist church had a much enjoyed get-together night last evening in connection with the week of rally services. Refreshments were served at the close of a pleasant social gathering.

A linen shower was tendered Miss Phoebe Armstrong at the home of Miss Mildred Adams in Lansdowne avenue last evening. The gifts were suspended from a pink and blue sunshade, which was presented to the bride-to-be by little Miss Patricia Cameron. The evening was pleasantly spent in cards and dancing, and hearty good wishes were extended to Miss Armstrong.

Members of the young women's class in Main street Baptist church Sunday school, of which Mrs. MacLean is teacher, gathered at the home of Mrs. Francis, Millidge avenue, last evening in honor of Miss Elva Morrell. During the evening Miss Morrell was given a handsome set of Limoges tea service, accompanied by an address of appreciation. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The engagement of Crown Prince Prince Frederick of Denmark and Princess Olga, niece of King Constantine of Greece is reported to have been annulled by mutual agreement.

FANS LOOK FOR BETTER BASEBALLMuch Expected of World's Series This YearPlaying Usually of a Higher Standard Than Throughout the Season—Some Figures Compiled.New York, Sept. 28.—Baseball fans expect a better brand of playing in the world's series than is displayed throughout the season, and as a general rule their anticipations are well-founded, excepting the freak incidents that develop a few marvellous plays and a few incredible misplays.Airtight pitching is expected of the pitchers. They are supposed to give few bases on balls, to have absolute control of the ball, and to pitch a masterful, "heady" game. The hitting is supposed in advance to be sharp and devastating when a battery of swatters opens up—but above all the fielding is expected to be flawless.Last year there was an average of only one and three-eighths errors a game—five-eighths for the New York Nationals, who won, and three-fourths of one error a game for the Yankees, who lost—which is very close to perfect baseball. Yet the series was decided by misplays on the defence; the Giants won the last two games on errors.The Giants offended in only three games and the Yankees in five of the eight, three players on each team accounting for all the errors. Frank Frisch, the Giant second baseman, made the majority of the Nationals' mispays—three out of the five, and Earl Smith, a catcher, and Arthur Nehf, a pitcher, each made one of the other two. Frisch's errors were distributed over three days.Mike McNally, Yankee third baseman, made as many errors as Frisch, though as the series was summed up,
both were bulwarks for their teams.
Like the Giant second-catcher, his three misplays were spread over three days. Aaron Ward, the Yankee second baseman, made two errors in two days, and Roger Peckinpaugh, who played shortstop, accounted for the other.The third was the only game of the series in which neither side was credited with an error.Ward made a fatal misplay for the Yankees in the crucial seventh game after both teams had won three games each. It was in the fourth inning when the score was tied and the world's championship was still hanging in the palm of the gods. The play was not credited as an official error, but the chance for an assist and put-out was so palpably easy that virtu-Genuine Velour

classified the play as Ward's failure.

Frisch, the first man up, was out easily at first. Young hit a hard ball toward right field. It appeared that the play would be an easy one for Ward, but he juggled the ball, permitted it to roll about his arm, andYoung was safe, stealing second a moment later. Kelly fanned, but Emil"Irish" Meusel came through with the hit that meant a run.

It was a similar incident that finally decided the championship in the next game, which was won and lost in the first half of the first inning, the first fifteen minutes of play. Burns, leadoff man of the Giants, was easy picking, but Bancroft and Young werewalked, the latter against the protest of Hoyt, who claimed the last ball he pitched was a strike—and many agreed with him.

At any rate Kelly sent an easy

grounder to Roger Peckinpaugh, the Yankee shortstop and captain, whopermitted the ball to wriggle through his legs and then became so concerned by his own errors that he did not go after the ball quickly, and thefleet-footed Bancroft scored. Young nearly scored from first.Underwear

Despite those two bases on balls, a number of the critics credited Hoyt with pitching the best game of the series, and the best game of his career. As a matter of fact, the last two games were pitching duels, the latter between Hoyt and Nehf and the previous one between Mays and Douglas. The scores were two to one in the seventh game, and one to nothing in the eighth.Old Time Thrills.
None of the Old Guard who take their baseball straight ever will forget the series of 1908 when Orville Overall and "Three Finger" Brown, pitched the old Cub machine of the "genuine mahogany" days to four victories to one defeat against Detroit. Ed Hud-back and Ed Pfeister were other hurlers of the old Cubs.In the hotel lobbies now they are heatedly discussing the pitching duels between Christy Mathewson and Rube Marquard of the Giants against Chief Bender and Eddie Plank of the Athletics of only 10 years ago, and how Franklin J. Baker, the young Marylander, was permitted to sign "House Run" before his name when the dust had cleared away.Others talk of the "Hitless Wonders" of 1906—the team of the late Jags
Donahue and the amusing Nick Altrock that swamped Franch Chance and his briarling Cubs, four games to two, and how Donahue made several one-hundred catches of badly-thrown balls by stretching an unbelievable length while holding one foot on the bag.They talk, too, of "Babe" Adams, the old war horse of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won three games for the "Smoky City" team from the Tigers of other days—the 1908 American League champions.The Boston tribe speaks touchingly —almost tearfully—of the 1912 series which the Red Sox took from the Giants, winning four, losing three and tying one. "It was in the eighth and final game at Boston on October 16 when the score was a tie at the end of the ninth," so the legend runs."The Giants scored one in the tenth," says the Old Fan. "Score one and led.
Harry Hooper did the job. Why, sir!
he leaped over the fence and took Doyle's long hit that was ticketed for a home run and, as it turned out later, it was the saving play of the series. It was the deciding play. That was the climax."At any rate the world went to pieces for the Giants in their half of the inning. Snodgrass muffed a long fly hit by Eagle who batted for Wood. Engle went to second on the error. Snodgrass tried to redeem himself on the next play by safely catching a terrible liner that Harry Hooper hit with the intention of ending the series.Christy Mathewson, twirling for New York, put all the fooling to rest by pitching to Yerkes but the batter walked. Then Fred Merkle, the Giant first baseman, muffed a foul from the bat of Tris Speaker and then—
"That," breaks in the listener, "was the climax. That, not Hooper's catch, was the deciding play. Now I was there and—""And then," goes on the first speaker, frowning, "Old Tris singled and Engle came home with the tying run. Yerkes made home with the tying run. Yerkes scored the winning run one minute and eight seconds later—by my watch-when Gardner sent a long sacrifice fly to Devore."None of the fans forget the triple play made unassisted by Wangman of Cleveland in the fifth inning of the fifth game against Brooklyn in 1920; Einer Smith's homer with three on in the first inning of the same game other Bagby's homer with two on in the fourth inning, also of the same game.
None of the howling mob who shook the concrete Polo Grounds in the first inning of the first game last year when Mike McNally, who had hit a two-bagger and had gone to third on Sehag's sacrifice, stole home with Mays getting ready to hit the ball.SPORT NEWS OF Twins May Meet in Game.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 29.—Brother in crimson may meet brother in blue on the football field this fall.The fifth meeting of the Daniels twins have parted with a handclasp, Eugene to enter with the class of 1928 at Harvard, Martin to go to New Haven and become a full-fledged Ell yearling. The Daniels boys are eighteen. They had their birthday last week, and entering different universities, are separated for the first time. Gene reported as a candidate for guard on the Harvard freshmen.
Martin is scheduled to do the same at New Haven. The boys played the regular guard positions on the Salisbury school eleven of Connecticut.

GOLF.

Women's Contest.

The ladies of the Riverside Golf Club held the ladies of the Westfield Golf Club to play a match on the Riverside course yesterday, and the match resulted in a decided victory for the Riverside players, the score being 46 to 1 in their favor. The losing team was playing its first match and its defeat
by seasoned golfers was in no way discreditable. The Westfield players are looking forward to making a better showing when the two teams meet again.The Riverside ladies were hostesses at luncheon and at tea at the club house. Mrs. W. H. Shaw presided at luncheon, and the afternoon and a pleasant social time was much enjoyed.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 29.—The two weeks' fall Grand Circuit meeting here will come to a close today when three class events, the 213 trot, 206 pace and the 210 trot will be down for decision. Fields in all of the events are comparatively small. It is an-

Walter Damrosch, leader of the New York Symphony Orchestra, has written a fascinating series of reminiscences, beginning this issue, full of sparkling anecdotes of the musicians, composers and opera singers he has known in the forty years of his musical career.

The Mother Story of our Greatest Man, by Edward W. Bok

The former editor of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL tells a hitherto unpublished story of mother love and inspiration in the boyhood of our greatest American, portraying vividly one of those crucial but rarely chronicled moments that make history. Full of the deep, rich understanding of motherhood, it is a story that every woman will treasure.

What Charlie Chaplin thinks of his Fun-making Job

Are you tired of the sugary heroines, conventional movie plots and sentimental fade-outs? Charlie Chaplin proves himself a real student of the film in telling why the movies must throw out the sort of pictures now being produced. Also, he has a delightful account of how he gets his ideas for his own pictures.

What You Can Do for the Sweat-Shop Worker

Elizabeth Frazer begins a series of articles outlining a definite program by which women with the vote can better the condition of millions of their sisters chained to the wheels of industry. No woman's club or political-study class should neglect serious consideration of these articles as a basis for effective political action.

If You Love Puppies, Read Terhune's New Story

The author of the Lad stories—the most popular dog stories that ever were written—is writing for The Journal a new series about puppies. Dynamite is the first one—the story of a collie pup whose playfulness led him into a magnificent adventure and made a happy romance. It is told with all of Albert Payson Terhune's skill.

How David the Psalmist Became One of the Greatest Poets

Job, Solomon's Song, the Psalms—by William Lyon Phelps.
Why Grow Old?—by Ethel Lloyd Patterson.
Silhouette Photographs of the Children—by Alice Van Leer Carrick.
When Your Home is Not Good Enough for You—by Sarah D. Lowrie.

Can Your Boy Hope to get an Honest Education?

The school of the future will give individual attention to your child. No holding down the bright boy to the slower pace set by the dull ones. Taking each boy and girl separately and making them think about their life work. Charles A. Selden describes the amazing housecleaning in education that America has actually started upon and what you can do to help.

The Little Dog Who Couldn't Sleep—and Other Stories

Sophie Kerr—Hedge Rose.
Clifton Lisle—Raheela Colleen.
Frances Noyes Hart—Noel.
Ian Hay—The "Liberty."
Eleanor Hallowell Abbott—The Little Dog Who Couldn't Sleep.
Joseph C. Lincoln—Fair Harbor.
George Weston—A Ticket for Adventure.
