Sinn Fein Awaits Call to Re-summe Committee Conference.

Nothing Significant in Delay, is Feeling in London—Report That Some Unionists in England are Pressing for Formation of New Coalition Party.

London, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Premier Lloyd George probably will have to abandon his visit to Washington or at least postpone it until the closing sessions of the conference there, because of the critical situation in the negotiations with Sinn Fein Ireland, it was asserted by several well informed newspapers here today.

Everywhere it was admitted today that the Irish negotiations had made little headway, and although hope had not been relinquished, there was a tendency to regard the outlook as being less favorable than was a day or two ago.

Political writers remarked that if the negotiations broke down, the premier's trip to America would be obviously impossible, while, if a break in the conference was avoided, it was difficult to see how a settlement could be reached for a considerable time.

The accumulation of other pressing business was also urged in some quarters as contributing to the improbability that the premier would be able to carry out his desire to go to the conference.

London, Oct. 27.—The Sinn Fein delegates to the Irish conference marked time today in anticipation of a communication from the government fixing a date for a renewed sitting of the conference committee. This committee is composed of Premier Lloyd George and Austen Chamberlain for the government, and of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, representing the Sinn Fein delegates.

A summons for a renewed session of this committee was expected by the Sinn Fein delegates last night, but up to 1:30 o'clock this afternoon had not arrived at their headquarters. The delay, however, is said to have caused no further anxiety in Anglo-Irish circles, which claimed to attach no especial significance to it.

The Sinn Fein delegates attribute the recent delays in the conference solely to the government, and say the delegates from Ireland are anxious to sit long and hard.

They say they are awaiting a communication from the government, and claim absolute power to handle the question.

The joint conference committee, which has held a few sessions during the last few days, has not confined itself to the situation created by Eamon De Valera's message to the Pope, but has discussed all the points involved in Lloyd George's original offer.

A renewed sitting of the conference was expected to receive the report of the committee is not anticipated before next Tuesday.

It added that if the Sinn Feiners pay attention to the state of political opinion here, they will recognize the importance of imposing no unnecessary delay.

Austen Chamberlain, a Unionist member of the coalition government, yesterday received Unionist agents from the Sinn Fein delegates. These reported the difficulty they were having through out their constituencies in reconciling Unionist opinions to many acts of the Lloyd George administration.

They urged the formation of a new coalition party in which the Unionist would pre-ferentiate, but Mr. Chamberlain's reply was non-committal.

London, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Various reports concerning the Irish negotiations were current here today, but they carried little weight owing to the secrecy observed by both sides.

The Daily Graphic printed a rumor that the negotiations had been suspended, and that an important communication was expected from Dublin. Elsewhere it was said attempts to find a formula by which the conference could be continued had failed and that the Irish delegates were holding out for concessions that would counter-balance any lessening of their demand for independence.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—Partition of Silesia under the decision of the council of the League of Nations, it is not accepted by the German government, declare Chancellor Joseph Wirth, in the Reichstag last night.

He said that reference of the Silesian problem to the League of Nations was illegal in that it was contrary to the terms of the Versailles treaty, and Germany would make clear her stand against the carrying out of the plan for drawing the Polish-German frontier through the Silesian district under dispute.

At the same time the government would send a delegate to sit with the Poles during the negotiations relative to the economic situation in Upper Silesia.

Budapest, Oct. 27.—Former Minister of the Interior Benesky, who has been an active participant in Charles' attempt to regain the Magyar throne, was arrested yesterday and imprisoned here.

There was a report that the authorities had picked up a despatch purporting to come from former Emperor William of Germany, extending congratulations to Charles upon his entry into Hungary.

There was no confirmation of the authenticity of the despatch.

"But look what happened to him," said Hiram.

"That's just it," said the reporter. "He is going to be looked after for the rest of his life. No worry about jobs, or taxes, or the high cost of living—or anything like that. He will live at the public expense, and be as happy as the day is long."

"You don't need to do that," said Hiram.

"How else can I get what I want?" demanded the reporter.

Loot In Robbery Of Mail May Total Ten
Millions of Dollars

One Story is that Loss of $3,000,000 Already Determined—Postmaster-General Goes to New York to Take Charge of Investigation.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—A special despatch from New York to the Gazette says:

Indications that the mail robbery at Broadway and Leonard street on Monday night, from the viewpoint of loot got by the robbers will establish a world's record.

Already it has been definitely established that considerably more than three million dollars in negotiable securities was contained in the stolen sacks. The postal authorities do not dispute reports that the total booty may reach the enormous figure of ten million dollars.

Chief Takes Charge. New York, Oct. 27.—Postmaster General Hays arrived here today to take personal charge of the investigation of last Monday's registered mail robbery by auto bandits, who held up a mail truck and escaped with five pouches filled with bonds, securities and currency.

The post office officials still withheld definite figures but statements issued by banks and brokerage houses show a total known loss of $2,925,000. This was exclusive of a large shipment of currency reported to have been included in one of the pouches and which was said to have been the main object of the robbers.

Some of the securities, it was pointed out, were listed in the owners' names and the thieves could scarcely hope to dispose of them. It was feared these securities might be destroyed and Frank Havranek, driver of the looted truck, was called from his home for another questioning by post office inspectors today.

Havranek has been under almost constant examination since the robbery occurred and yesterday added important details to his story of the hold up.

Among these was the detail of a black auto which, he said, pulled ahead of the mail truck and slowed down, apparently for the purpose of aiding the bandits, who came up in a green car.

Havranek also looked over the rogues' pictures at police headquarters and selected the photograph of one gunman who, he said, closely resembled one of the hold-up men.

DIG PROPERTY DEAL IN CAPITAL

The Timothy Lynch Estate, Where Governor Wilmut Once Lived.

(Special to The Times) Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 27.—The Timothy Lynch estate property in Regent street immediately adjoining the residence of the C. N. R. and the line of St. John and Quebec Railway has been sold to Frederick J. Tins of this city.

The transfer of the property is preparatory to a building development which will be undertaken by Mr. Tins. The latter has erected a considerable number of dwellings in various parts of Fredericton during the last few years. It is estimated that at least fifteen lots can be laid off on the property. Houses of the bungalow type are said to be contemplated.

The Lynch property in old days was owned and occupied by the late Hon. L. A. Wilmut, who was the first native lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick. It was purchased by the late Timothy Lynch about forty years ago. Several years ago the C. N. R. purchased the southern portion of it.

The police, however, have been unable to determine definitely the origin of the fires, the despatch said.

Up to last midnight twenty-two bodies had been recovered from the wreckage of the explosion and many others, reported missing, are believed to be under the debris. Three hundred and fifty injured persons are being treated at hospitals.

BIOLOGIST DENIES CHANCE EVOLUTION

Dr. Lucien Cuentot Says Insects' Mechanical Devices Evidently Result from Design—Cuttlefish an Example.

(New York Times)
The thousands of ingenious mechanical devices to be found in insects indicate that they were developed from design, not from chance variation and selection according to Dr. Lucien Cuentot, an eminent French biologist, who made the leading address yesterday before the Second International Congress of Eugenics.

Dr. Cuentot outlined objections to the theory of evolution by pure chance on which scientific atheism is based and indicated "harmonies" between recent studies of evolution and religion. "All human devices except the wheel," he said, "are found in nature—the fly, the anchor, the pick, the rail, the groove of guidance, the dovetailing, many musical instruments, etc."

He argued that the insect was endowed originally with the power of developing these clever contrivances in order that it could use these tools when it needed them. His position was apparently in conflict with the school of biologists who deny or doubt "intention" that is, that an insect or other living thing should develop in a given manner because of actual development. Dr. Cuentot did not commit himself definitely with the biologists of the spiritual school and the theologians, but he said:

"One may boldly declare that none of the theories of evolution enables us to understand the genesis of these organs of definite intention; perhaps there are, in addition to the creative causes already known, other factors which have escaped the penetrating minds of our great biologists of the past century and of our own time, and which would enable us to understand the evident intended design of fibrous structures."

Organ of Insect Cited.
The sting of the bee was one of the French scientist's specimens of an organ of definite intention. Another was the ovipositor of the grasshopper, a kind of torpedo tube which it has developed for the purpose of planting its eggs deeply in bark of earth. The leading exhibit of the speaker was the cuttlefish, which has two organs of definite intention. One was its well-known faculty to blacken the water with ink while escaping, and another a system of straps like those of gloves, which buckle on its outer skin at the throat. This device, apparently used by nature for many thousands of years, was not patented by mortals until forty years ago.

Another specimen was an insect which killed its assailants with a deadly poisoned gas. The scientist threw on a screen a picture of destroyers making a smoke screen, and compared it with the cuttlefish's escape. "The inventions of the great war are all met with in animals and insects," he said. He proceeded to cite various examples of camouflage in animals built or colored to blend indistinguishably into their usual background or setting. "Nature's solution differs from that of the craftsman," he continued, "only by its greater perfection, its greater adaptation and its security, and its elegance and luxury of minute detail."

Theory of Modern Biologist.
"But biologists since Darwin have been pure mechanics. If organs have an end, they say, it is because they fulfill a useful purpose in the coordinated organisms; that they have reached their present state by the play of natural causes (evolutionary factors), merciless selection having allowed only the persistence of such organs that were useful or slightly superfluous, never organs harmful to the species. Biologists of the spiritualistic school and the theologians, although accepting evolution, believe in a final causality of a universe and a creative spirit, superior and pre-existing to nature, which leads the latter by the laws he has ordained without direct interference."

From a philosophical point of view there is without doubt a precipice between the two conceptions. Concerning the first one, the finality of the organs is the result of chance variation and selection. Concerning the second one, evolution is directed by the will of a spirit, after an ordained scheme of implied causes. Finally is therefore intentional, whether there is question of the minutely small detail of the leg of an insect or of a bird's eye.

"For the theologian, the general harmony of nature, the marvelous results of efficient causes, makes up the most evident proof of final causality. From a scientific or practical point of view the two conceptions agree absolutely. To explain the formation of coaptations, it does not matter whether one is spiritualistic, monistic or agnostic; whether one believes or not in a final causality."

On the theory that special organs designed for a particular use were developed before the time came for their use, it would be necessary for birds evolving from reptiles to acquire feathers gradually through many generations before they used the feathers for flight. Reptile-Bird of Antiquity.
Dr. Cuentot therefore predicted that relics of a reptile-bird older than archaeopteryx would some time be discovered. The archaeopteryx, the oldest known member of the feathered family, was a bird about the size of a crow with a long tall something like a lizard's, with feathers growing from both sides of it. The scattered remains of two or three were found in fossil deposits in a quarry from which lithograph stone was taken in Germany.

The still older species predicted by Dr. Cuentot will be a reptile-bird with feathers, but without the wings or tail spread necessary for flight. Such a link between reptiles and birds would show the long growth of feathers reptiles before they became sufficiently birdlike to make attempts at flying.
In another part of his paper Dr. Cuentot discussed experiments tending to show how far heredity can be modified by introducing new chemical factors into the composition of the parents. Telling of the experiments of M. Guyer and E. A. Smith last year, he said:
"In injecting into fowl the crushed crystalline lens of rabbits, they obtained a crystalline serum injected into pregnant rabbits, the crystalline, passing through the placenta, affects in a certain number of cases the crystalline lenses of the embryos, which are born with ocular malformations; now this essentially acquired character has been proved hereditary almost in the manner of a Mendelian recessive character and has been found transmissible to the eighth generation."

Study of One-Cell Life.
Dr. H. S. Jennings of Johns Hopkins University discussed attempts to watch evolution in the making by studying one-celled animal life through successive generations, the generations succeeding one another in such low forms at the rate of about 100 a year. Very slight changes were detected. He referred to experiments in which one-celled animals had during many generations acquired a special power of resistance against certain chemicals placed in their environment and had transmitted that resistance through many generations after the chemical had been withdrawn from the environment.
Mrs. Margaret Sanger and other advocates of birth control attended the sessions yesterday, but the speakers were men of scientific eminence and the discussions in the main were technical.

In July of this year two of the bandits, Sacco and Vanzetti, were convicted of murder in the first degree by a jury of the Norfolk County Court. Their trial was entirely fair.

Once upon a time the "Ladies-Who-Love-Dainty-Underwear" called upon the "Fairies-Who-Make-Lovely-Cloth," and asked them to weave a perfect fabric which should contain all the perfections of the materials then in existence, and leave out all the defects.
So the "Fairies-Who-Make-Lovely-Cloth" took the lustre out of silk, and combined it with the softness of Minkonk, and then mixed in the firm, even texture of fine linen, and wrapped about it all the clinging freshness of soft lace, and named it "DIAPHALENE" because they thought the name expressed the diaphanous, silky dream-cloth better than any other name. And then they put HORROCKSES' name on the selvage because that name had come to mean a super-quality in cotton fabrics.
And the "Ladies-Who-Love-Dainty-Underwear" were perfectly satisfied and have used it ever since to make their embroidered, flattery lingerie, and blouses and negliges.

The presiding judge specially cautioned the jury "not to allow the fact that the defendants are Italians to influence you or prejudice you in the least degree. They are entitled to the same rights and consideration as though their ancestors came over in the Mayflower." Counsel for the defense were allowed to file executions for the purpose of appeal up to Nov. 1. In short, every right was granted to the defendants. Their case is not yet fully determined.
The United States the trial attracted only the most casual attention. Apparently, it was one of a hundred similar cases in New Jersey, for instance, the punishment might have followed the crime more rapidly. By Sacco and Vanzetti belong to a sacred class. They are Communists. Intermittent demonstrations were made in Italy. In October an evidently organized protest by the Communists and Socialists was assailed. Manifestations were made against the American Embassy in Rome, and these were followed by other manifestations in spite of the activity of the police. The brethren in France took up the great cause. They sent innumerable letters and telegrams to Ambassador Herick. Finally they sent him a grenade, which failed of its effect on account of the presence of mind of the sometime British bomber who is Mr. Herick's valet.
The Communists, indulging in their cheerful habit of forgery, have manufactured for the judge in the case a statement that the defendants were "guilty because of their ideas." By posters and by articles in the Red newspapers the Anarchists and Communists are urged to insist on the release of these "comrades" and "innocents." In Paris a mass meeting has been called for tonight. In Brest yesterday a mob of syndicalists amused itself by singing the "Internationale" and smashing the windows of the American Consulate. The Communists of Brest, who are going to before the American Embassy. All over Europe, apparently, the various congresses of the Bolsheviks are going to have against a fictitious injustice; accerting their protests from time to time by little pleasantries such as infernal machines. Doubtless the faithless in this country will take up the lamentation.
It is an agreeable state of things if revolution and destruction can't be punished by the courts for their crimes; if a Communist, for example, can't be convicted of murder without provoking combined efforts, assisted by assassination or attempts at it, of his fellows to shield him from the penalty of his crime. FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR BATHURST

Lad Killed—St. John Man, Injured on Railway, in Serious Condition.

The body of a boy thought to be about seventeen years of age was found cut to pieces beside the C. N. R. tracks near Gloucester Junction, a few miles from Bathurst, and a severely injured young man about twenty-one years of age was found near the same place on Sunday morning by J. F. Allan, section foreman, and O. Arsenault, his assistant.

The injured man was rushed to the J. H. Dunn Hospital in Bathurst and it is not expected that he will recover. During odd moments of consciousness the injured man talked somewhat incoherently. He gave his name as Corey Cormick of St. John. He said first that his companion's name was Stewart but later it was Harold White, of Newcastle. A post card mailed from Sweden was found in Cormick's clothing and this taken together with his general appearance and what meagre information could be learned from him tend to confirm the idea that he is a native of that country.

It appears from what can be learned from Cormick that he met White or Stewart in Newcastle and that the two set out to walk to Bathurst in search of work. They set down by the track about four o'clock Saturday afternoon to eat some bread they had with them. Apparently they must have remained until dark if Cormick's story is correct for he says that he remembers seeing the headlight of an approaching train and that after that everything was a blank. Some pieces of bread were found beside the track where the men were found.

FOUR FOUND ASPHYXIATED.

Man and Three Women Are Victims of Fumigating Gas in Cleveland. Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Three women and one man were found dead in an east end apartment building here, victims, the police say, of asphyxiation caused by fumigating gas. They had been dead apparently for twelve hours.

The dead are—Frank Fryer, his daughter, Mable, twenty-nine; Mrs. J. W. Stenhi and Miss Helen Ashleman. The bodies of Fryer and his daughter were found in a suite adjoining that occupied by Mrs. Stenhi and Miss Ashleman.

According to the authorities, fumigation was started in a restaurant which occupies the first and second floors of the building. The gas is believed to have seeped through the floors and up a dumb waiter connecting the upper stories.

BRIDE QUITS WEDDING FEAST AND VANISHES

Sister's $800 Fur Coat and a $500 Gift from Her Husband Gone—Flees in Auto.

North Woburn, Oct. 27.—There is no trace of Mrs. Josephine Koehger, nineteen-year-old bride, who while the wedding supper was being served at the home of her father, Frank Fowdlock, on Bronislaw street, Sunday night, jumped from a window and sped away in a waiting automobile, clad in her sister's $800 fur coat and taking with her $500 in cash, a gift from her husband, and the latter's automatic pistol. The police were busy trying to locate the automobile of special make, in which she was driven away by a colored chauffeur. A young man who was at first thought to have fled with the missing bride was eliminated from the case when the police found him at his regular place of employment. He is said to have been with the young woman until nine hours or so of the wedding ceremony in Cambridge. When the police went looking for Joseph Koehger, the deserted groom, they were unable to find him. He was not at his home in Woburn or at the home of his brother in that town. He could not be located in Woburn, either. The police, however, attach no importance to his absence, because of the opinion that he has started a search of his own for his bride.

CANDIDATES GOINS FOR VOTES

Miss Mathews, Running for Register, Stumping in Evening Dress, Campaign, Statement Reads.

(New York Times) The relation of dress to politics; with social reference to the local campaign, was set forth yesterday in a statement on behalf of Miss Annie Mathews, Democratic candidate for Register of New York County. The thesis on politics she made came from the candidate's headquarters in the Hotel Vanderbilt. The statement after announcing that Miss Mathews "is always well dressed in business hours in a simple modish gown of dark blue," and that she is "equally stunning in evening dress," continues as follows: "Dress is the true expression of character of the individual, whether it be man or woman, but it often shows more plainly in the woman. Consequently, if a woman dresses as if she were going to a party, she is not taking her position seriously. Dressing has its influence on the people surrounding us. The perfect dress should always be a frame for the wearer. In this respect, as a picture, the frame is never over the work of art itself. In other words, a woman's dress should be such as to call attention to the woman herself and the things she stands for."

Y. M. C. A. MAN RESCUES WOMAN FROM RUSSIA; WEDS HER

San Francisco, Oct. 27.—How love triumphed over cruelty and intrigue in Red Russia was revealed when the Y. M. C. A. liner Tenyo Maru arrived here with G. R. Hurlbutt and the bride he won near Vladivostok by saving her and her two brothers from death at the hands of the Bolsheviks. Hurlbutt was for four years a Y. M. C. A. secretary serving in the land of the former caesars. He was ordered out of Archangel by the United States government when conditions there menaced Americans. He went to Vladivostok. There he met Miss Lydia Vasarof. She had visited in San Francisco three years before, but went back to Russia to serve with the Red Cross. Miss Vasarof and her two brothers near Vladivostok were ordered under surveillance by the Bolsheviks as aristocrats under the old regime who were plotting for the overthrow of the revolutionary government. Such an accusation usually is equivalent to conviction. After a short surveillance the victims are seized, formally accused and put to death. Hurlbutt was arrested early in his visit to Vladivostok by the Japanese.

"Man-Woman-Marriage" Scores Triumph.

The most costly and gorgeous super-drama ever seen on the screen of the Queen Square Theatre came there last night. It is the much-heralded "Man-Woman-Marriage" starring Dorothy Phillips, directed by Allen Holubar and presented by Albert A. Kaufman. It is an Associated First National Pictures, Ltd. attraction.

Careful estimate is given to all the wonder pictures of the past in proclaiming this new production as the crowning brilliant in the gladiolus of the screen.

From the gorgeous retrospective scenes depicting the progress of woman and the world to the stirring heights and depths of the modern story, Dorothy Phillips must be acknowledged as an accomplished artist of the shadow stage.

Next to Miss Phillips' splendid portrayal of the difficult role must be credited Allen Holubar's story and masterful direction. The star's interpretation of the various emotions called forth excites not only admiration for her own talent but for the genius of Allen Holubar, who wrote and directed this screen epic.

In broad strokes Allen Holubar has painted upon the screen woman as she crouched in the blackness of the cave and looked adoringly at the man who had with his muscles rolled such a stone before the opening that no other man could remove it. Then into the consciousness of womanhood came a knowledge of power, and Holubar has given to the screen a graphic understanding of the Amazons, the woman who mythology tells us hurled themselves into battle and followed Hippolyte, their queen, to death. The mediæval period found another feminine psychology to interpret for the screen. In scenes of "Man-Woman-Marriage" which are laid in the middle ages, Holubar depicts the woman who was content to stay in the moated castle and embroider the saddle-cloth that would be used by her lord and master in battle.

To choose a modern woman for the modern type was a difficult problem. Each woman is different, yet identical. Holubar selected for Miss Dorothy Phillips' modern role the part of the wife of a modern role the part of the maelstrom of frenzied politics and set her as a guide over the destiny of her husband.

Four different women of four widely separated eras of evolution, each typifying the times she lived in, yet each alike. "Man-Woman-Marriage" will finish out the week.

Ancon, Peru, Oct. 27.—Fishermen discovered near here, yesterday, a skeleton which, from clothing still clinging to it, was identified as that of Jos. BREAKS JAIL TO RAISE CROP.

Kentucky Mountaineer, After Providing for His Family, Surrenders.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 27.—Zeke Anderson, a mountaineer of Pike County, who escaped from the Rock Castle convict road camp last spring, went home and made a crop so his family would have food this winter. Then he gave himself up at the State Reformatory. Anderson, according to his story, has never attempted to evade the officers since he escaped and all of his neighbors knew he was at home. In fact, he told officials he made so little effort to escape detection that he came to Frankfort with his family during the summer and stayed two or three days in a fruitless effort to see Governor Morrow about a pardon. Anderson was received at the reformatory in the spring of 1918 to serve fifteen years for murder.

VICIOUS DOG SHOT.

Rabies Treatment Provided for Numerous Victims of Snapping Terrier.

New York, Oct. 27.—Having bitten fifteen or more persons, the small brown and white terrier which started on a ten-mile napping tour of Brooklyn late Sunday night was killed by Mounted Policeman Vincent Daly of the Coney Island station. All of those bitten were treated as a precaution against rabies. Daily, leading two horses to the police training depot at Avenue U and Twenty-third street, Brooklyn, saw the dog just as it leaped and bit Mrs. Lena Mayer, of 1289 Twenty-second street. Daily fired a shot to frighten away children bound to a near-by school, and then with two more bullets ended the terrier's life.

VICE REGAL BALL, QUEBEC CITADEL

Brilliant Event Last Night at Function Given by Lord and Lady Byng.

Quebec, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—One of the most brilliant social functions held in many years was a vice-regal ball given at the Citadel last night by Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Byng of Vimy. Some 500 guests attended and were received by the governor-general's staff. When they had assembled in the ball room, the band struck up the national theme. After the guests had been presented there was dancing until two o'clock.

Ted O'Connor of San Francisco is hailed as the only man who ever found genuine pleasure in a blow-out. While on a motoring trip with his family in Yuba county, a tire blew out and he stopped to fix it, with a mouthful of language appropriate to the occasion. While kicking and storming around the wheel he picked up a gold nugget that weighed in at $18 value.

JAPS MEAN TO LEAVE SIBERIA

Tokio, Oct. 27.—The intention of the Japanese government to evacuate Siberia, turning over the responsibility for peace to the Markoff government at Vladivostok at an early date, is announced by the war office, in confirming a report that Japan would be compelled to carry out the evacuation prior to the opening of the Washington conference, because of the alleged insincere attitude of the Chita administration in the Dairen conference.

SKIPPER DIED DOCKING SHIP.

Capt. Archibald of the Clyde Line Huron Fell Dead on Bridge.

Captain A. E. Archibald of the Clyde Line steamship Huron brought his ship into New York on Monday from Santo Domingo and saw her properly moored at Pier 34, Brooklyn. When the lines had been made fast the captain put out his hand to give the signal for the gang way, but did not reach the whistle cord. He dropped to the deck of the bridge and when the third officer and the pilot lifted him up they saw that he was dead. He was sixty-one years old and had been thirty years in the employ of the Clyde Line, in its West Indian service, of which he was the commodore. He lived at 407 Tenth street, Brooklyn, and lost his wife three months ago. Captain Archibald was born in Eastport, Me., and had spent all his life at sea.

CHRISTMAS TOYS FROM GERMANY

Montreal, Oct. 27.—What is said to be the first cargo of German merchandise of any considerable size to reach Canada since the commencement of the war has arrived here on the freighter West Keber. It consists of toys for the Christmas trade, together with a quantity of German clocks, watches and glassware. The cargo was loaded at Antwerp and Rotterdam.

Fifteen boys have applied to C. B. Allan, secretary of the Navy League, to be registered to attend the naval training school at Halifax. Only five have been sent registration papers, as the others were over seventeen and therefore not eligible. When the first call was made early in the summer only one inquiry was received from New Brunswick. Now there are more than enough applications, as only eight cadets are required.

The Mark of Trade That Means High Grade

We devote this week to a special display of all the new Fashions and Physique Types in

Semi-ready Tailored Clothes

Ease of putting on, with good shoulder draping, is the essential in an Overcoat. In a suit you wish to be fitted—to feel that the garment you wear conforms to your muscular movements. That it feels easy and looks smooth.

Ninety-five per cent. of the Overcoats made today are sold ready-to-try-on. Only our Physique Type System designing assures that the Suit will stay as good as it looks when you try it on.

Before the advent of the Semi-ready physique type system about 30 per cent. was the rule.

The Semi-ready Tailoring System has created a revolution in the Men's Wear trade—for there was a rebellion against the older methods of waiting and disappointment.

Had it not been for the many tawdry imitations of "Semi-ready"—imitations which discouraged and deceived—the Physique Type System of tailoring would be universal.

Come in and see the new Fall Styles—in particular see this display while it is new, distinctive, comprehensive, complete.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS LIKE THEIR NURSING LESSONS

Young Graduates of the Red Cross Courses Meet Emergencies Capably, and Prove How Well They Can Care for Home Patients.

A hectic rush, no hue of health, lay upon the waxen cheeks of the motionless figure in the perfect bed. This was none other than Mr. Smith, today stricken down with scarlet fever, although it was not until the end of the class yesterday that he pulled through an almost hopeless case of diphtheria and on the previous morning he was so unfortunate as to break his left leg, his right arm, and his collarbone. Yet all this was nothing unusual for Mr. Smith. He has been laid low and revived with gusto every school day since the Red Cross Teaching Centre began showing the Julia Richman High School girls how to take care of sick people—and to keep them from getting that way.

This person is the wax patient who submits to the young nurses' ministrations. He is quite heavy, so that after they have learned to lift him the graduates of the courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are able to surprise slumbering relatives by suddenly sitting them up in bed. He was enjoying a fever bath this morning, a careful little girl attending to the treatment with deliberate and gentle technique, while in the two other high schools in New York where these courses are now given his confidant were probably being cured of pneumonia or made comfortable with pillows exactly placed.

"The girls have taken to the work beyond all our expectations," said Miss Benn, the nurse who teaches the Julia Richman students, as she sat in her sunny class room after the period. "At Wadleigh and the Washington Irving high schools it has turned out just as here—so many girls want to take this course, which is elective, that some of the other classes, usually the most popular, are quite deserted, and the students flock in to learn about bandages and babies, thermometers and pills."

"There is no reason, of course, why so many intelligent women should still be inadequate to meet the emergencies of sickness, and I think that the war-time training in nursing woke people up a little to the possibility of learning how to care for a great many cases at home without taking years for study. One need not be a graduate nurse or a medical student in order to be competent and helpful when sickness comes to the family."

The enterprise of teaching high school girls the elements of nursing has to combat, too, the ancient notion that nature or destiny or some mysterious power instructs all women in the care of babies and patients without conscious effort on their part. The truth is, you have to apply yourself pretty severely to follow the lead of an alert class down in Matt demonstrations which are given in the Red Cross course and to master, in applicable fashion, the textbook material which accompanies these. They are not "map courses," the girls admit, but they eagerly sign up for the work just the same.

CLEMESHA'S CANADIAN BATTLEFIELD MEMORIAL

This memorial, designed by F. Chapman Clemesha of Regina, will be used to mark the following sites where Canadians fought in the Great War: Passchendaele, St. Julien, Vimy Ridge, Dury Cross Roads, Bourlon Wood, Courcellette, and Hospital Wood (point of farthest advance in front of Amiens, Aug. 8, 1918).

The course as given in the three schools consists of fifteen lessons, which cover such subjects as: indications of sickness; equipment and care of the sick room; beds and bed-making ("My mother says she never saw any one like me for squaring corners," one pupil confessed); bathing, feeding the sick; medicines; application of heat, cold, and counter-irritants; babies and their care; care of patients with communicable diseases; common emergencies; and special points in the care of children, convalescents, chronics, and the aged. It will be seen that the scope of the lessons covers most of the situations that one may be called upon to meet when illness visits a home.

At other places besides the schools the Teaching Centre is carrying on the work which it began in 1916, when so many nurses' aids were thus prepared for war-time service. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has arranged for the course to be given for its women employees, and several other large insurance companies are planning to make the same arrangement.

At the Harlem Teaching Centre of the Red Cross, Mrs. Winfield, an expert in the care of babies colored nurse, teaches the colored women of the neighborhood and finds them men of the neighborhood and finds them to apt pupils. Last year the Teaching Centre had an alert class down in Matt demonstrations which are given in

LAUDER ASKS END TO ALL WAR

An Audience Ready to Laugh Hears a Serious Appeal for Disarmament—Refers to His Slain Son.

(New York Times)

The audience was willing to laugh its loudest at a benefit performance for the United British Relief Committee of New York at the New Amsterdam Theatre last night when Sir Harry Lauder wriggled out in front of the curtain and stalked with swinging limbs in the bare six inches between the curtain and the footlights to the center of the stage.

"I didn't come to make you laugh. I came to talk to you," he said when the welcoming shouts died down. "When I heard that you were going to help the boys who fought for you and for me, I couldn't keep away."

"I was in America when the war broke out, but I was in London later and saw the boys march," he said, "and their bayonets gleamed in the sun. But it's all wrong, it's all wrong! There is but one way and that is through a union of the English speaking."

"There is France, France that some of you and that I saw. France is not so big as she was before the war. Some of you own a wee bit of France now that it is all over. I wish I could see you."

"But it's going to stop," he continued. "Great things will be done. Great things must be done. And there is a way in sight at the conference at Washington. It is for the English speaking people of the world to make war impossible, not for a generation or two, but for ever."

"The opportunity has come. We must not throw it away. Oh, I wish I could foster in him a spirit, not of ambition for the glory of the battlefield, but of brotherly love."

"We've shown that we can be brave in the trench and when the guns roar in their loudest. Let's be brave at home. Let's make it worth while and glorious to be brave at home. The time has come. War is all wrong. It's wrong, I tell you."

"And now I'll sing you a little song," and Sir Harry left the theatre with the gallery stamping its feet to "Sing, sing, that's the thing to make you cheery."

The New Amsterdam Theatre was filled for the benefit performance which is to raise funds for the aid of British veterans living in New York. Ambassador and Lady Geddes were scheduled to have attended the affair, but Glaston Armstrong, British Consul General to New York and Honorary President of the United British Relief Committee, read a telegram from Sir Auckland regarding that preliminary arrangements for the arrangement conference kept him in Washington. Sir William Wiseman, Chairman of the Organizing Committee, introduced John W. Davis, former United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, who praised the relief work of the committee among the 8,000 British veterans now living in New York.

In the programme, which was arranged by C. Hamilton, the following among other singers and stage people appeared: Jack Hazard, Leon Erroll, Irving Berlin, Elsie Janis, Irene Castle, John Barclay and Peggy Wood. The first act of "The Bill of Divorcement," with the cast playing, was also given.

EXPLORERS FIND GLACIAL MARKINGS ON MAUNA KEA

Evidence of prehistoric glacial activity on Mauna Kea, the highest island mountain in the world, which towers 18,778 feet above sea level on the island of Hawaii, Hawaiian group, have been discovered by a party of scientists and laymen who recently climbed the mountain and spent two days looking for traces of glaciation among the valleys on its slopes. These traces were found in abundant measure.

Dr. Herbert E. Gregory of Yale University, director of the Bishop Museum at Honolulu, and A. O. Burkland of the United States Geological Survey were the scientists with the party.

Dr. Gregory says that the party found the whole top of Mauna Kea to have been glaciated—that is, covered with ice—during the glacial period of the world's history, roughly about 100,000 years ago. He says the evidence lies not only in the boulders and other signs, but that the best proof is in the topography of the valleys around the summit. Ridges and valleys cut by moving characteristics descend from those formed by the action of streams.

"We went up one valley, over the summit, and spent the night," the scientist explains. "After that we went down to another valley. Both were well glaciated. We intend to follow up the study of the mountain from time to time until we have examined all of the valleys to make a complete picture and a map showing the extent and size of the glaciers, we will have to await the completion of a topographic survey, which Mr. Burkland will make on top of the mountain. When his survey is finished we will then be able to construct a map which will restore the old glaciers and will show them to have been formed of ice a couple of hundred feet thick and from two to three miles long."

EXILE IS DEPRESSED.

Veil of Gloom Settles Over Household at Dorn.

Dorn, Oct. 27—A veil of gloom appears to have settled on the ex-royal household similar to that of the period of the ex-Kaiser's death. The ex-Kaiser is about to celebrate the third anniversary of his arrival in Holland with all the memories of Germany's debacle, but this year as a widower.

William Hohenzollern is also much depressed by the anniversary of the ex-Kaiser's birthday. Besides a special service on Sunday there was also a memorial service held at Dorn on Saturday. Simultaneously a service was held at Potsdam which was attended by all the Hohenzollerns in Germany. The ex-Kaiser sent an enormous wreath of yellow roses from his garden to be laid on the ex-Kaiser's grave at Potsdam.

After the service the ex-monarch withdrew to his apartments and would see no one but his daughter, Victoria Louisa. Economy is the order of the day in the house of Dorn, although many people think this is only a comedy to impress the Dutch tax authorities, as the question of taxes is not yet settled.

FIGHTING FOR HEALTH.

(Physicist's Culture.) We suppose one may say that health is something like greatness. Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them. However, the parallel in respect to health does not include the third clause. Most of us must achieve health by our manner of living. For it is not sufficient merely to be born strong. In many cases one must not only search and strive, but actually fight for health.

GREAT SKATERS TO COME HERE

Y. M. C. I. Awarded Dominion Championships.

Word Comes from Louis Rubenstein of Montreal, Secretary of A. S. A. of Canada—Means Big Sporting Event.

The prestige which has been in the past gathered for St. John by her skating men at home and abroad will be materially strengthened this winter if plans which are now being made are carried out. Louis Rubenstein, secretary of the Amateur Skating Association of Canada, in a letter to Charles A. Owens, chairman of the physical committee of the Young Men's Catholic Institute, writes that that organization had decided to award the Dominion speed skating championships to St. John. The matter has been under consideration for some time by the physical committee, resulting in the application for the sports being made and Mr. Rubenstein's reply.

The Dominion speed skating championships is the premier series of outdoor skating events in Canada. An eight-lap track is required for the performances.

Mr. Rubenstein, in his letter, makes reference to the right of St. John to hold these events, because of the calibre of the skating men that have been turned out from here during the past. These include McCormick, the Breens, Merritt, Whippley, Duffy, Dalton, Logan, Gorman and Garnett and a score of others who have acquired fame and honor on the ice. It will be a big feather in St. John's sporting cap to stage an event as this within its boundaries. It would mean that local followers of the sport would have an opportunity probably of seeing such noted speed skaters as Russian, Canadian champion; Jewstraw, former international champion and one of the fastest skaters in the United States; Joe Moore, who won the three mile event at Lake Placid last year and other events during the best international meets; McWorter of Chicago, the pride of the west; to say nothing of numerous other cross-country skaters, who have won fame by their speed on the blades.

AWARD $3,300 IN DAMAGES

Jury's Finding in the Woodstock Automobile Case—Were Out Six Hours.

(Special to The Times.)
Woodstock, N. B., Oct. 27.—The circuit court late Wednesday evening concluded the civil case of Gordon W. Green, administrator of his wife's estate against D. W. Ross and Byron Ross. The jury remained out six hours in answering the questions submitted to them by the judge. They found that Byron Ross was negligent and that Mrs. Green was also negligent, but that Ross, if he had had his care under proper control, might have avoided the accident. They also found that Byron Ross was the servant of his father, Dr. D. W. Ross, but that at the time of the accident he was not acting within the scope of his employment. They assessed the damages at $3,300, proportioning the sum among the husband and the children of Mrs. Green.
The judge this morning ordered a verdict to be entered for the plaintiff against Byron Ross for $3,300, and a verdict for the defendant, D. W. Ross, M. C. H. Hay, F. C. and R. H. Hartley were for the plaintiff; W. P. Jones, K. C., for D. W. Ross, and M. J. Hayward for Byron Ross.

MILITARY NEWS

The first aid lecture in the Army this week was given by Dr. J. A. McCarthy on Wednesday afternoon. The next week the lecture will be given on Thursday by Major S. S. Skinner, medical officer of the district, who returned yesterday from Montreal, where he has been for a week attending a meeting of the medical board of examiners for Canada.

ANNIVERSARY OF ST. JAMES' CHURCH

The members of the congregation of St. James church met in the school hall last night and celebrated the seventeenth anniversary of the consecration of the church in a most delightful, social evening. The hall was effectively decorated with flags and bunting and presented a very gay appearance. It was hardly big enough to contain the large assemblage. An excellent programme of music was well rendered and speeches reminiscent of the splendid traditions of the church were heard with evident appreciation. Rev. H. A. Cody, the rector, was the chairman and gave a short address of welcome after the National Anthem had been sung.

Miss Celeste Andur opened the musical programme with a solo and Miss Marjorie Pierce gave a reading, after which H. E. Collins sang. John C. Kee, churchwarden, related some of the history of St. James' and told of his recollections of the past rectors, church wardens and vestrymen. Mrs. Rayworth gave a piano selection and, after a reading by Conrad Evans, Rev. James Milidge related many interesting things concerning the old St. James' church, which he remembered clearly, and told of the old time happenings.

Miss Angeline Gregory danced a Scottish dance and, following a reading by Miss Vera Roberts, Mr. Simpson sang a solo and a duet was sung by Miss Dorothy Kee and Arnold Kee. Rev. J. H. A. Holmes, rector of St. Jude's, brought the greetings of that church. The first rector of St. James church, Rev. John Armstrong, was also the first rector of the younger church, St. Jude's, and it was discovered last night that Mrs. J. H. A. Holmes, the wife of the present rector, is a great-grand daughter of Rev. James Armstrong, the first rector. The Doxology was sung at the close of the programme, and refreshments were served during the social hour which followed.

The members of the Women's Auxiliary, the Girls branch of the W. A. and the Chancel Guild were in charge of the refreshments.

On Monday evening the Young People's Association of St. James held its special observance of the anniversary in a badminton tournament and a supper following. Toasts were given and responded to and the occasion was a very merry one.

The Little Boy who doesn't want to run

HOW often have you seen him standing quietly by, watching his playmates run and jump, or preferring to stay at home when the other children go out? He doesn't want to play because he is "just tired," and yet the wistful look on his little face tells you that he is longing to join the game.

Look to his feet. Perhaps that tired feeling comes from ill-fitting, uncomfortable shoes that cramp his toes or hurt the tender soles. A child cannot explain just what makes him stop his play. He says he is "just tired."

Notice the deformity caused through ill-fitting shoes worn in childhood. This is how nature intended the foot to grow—the Hurlbut way.

HURLBUT cushion sole SHOES are made for growing feet. They are scientifically constructed to give a correct natural tread and to give room to grow for every toe. Children shod with HURLBUTS are free from foot troubles. And they are economically shod, for the high quality of HURLBUTS insures the lowest cost per day of wear.

Save your child pain in later years by fitting HURLBUTS now.

Write for booklet about Hurlbut "Rebuilt Service" and we will tell you the name of the Hurlbut dealer nearest to you.

THE ORPHANS' FAIR.

The Protestant Orphanage Fair in St. Andrews rink attracted a large crowd again last night and the attendance has exceeded all that the organizers hoped for. The games were well patronized. Supplies for the fair have come to hand in liberal quantities. The prize winners last night were as follows: Bean board, Bert Edwards; ladies bean board, Mrs. J. T. McCormack; devil-among-the-tailors, S. A. Ruby; bagatelle, Willard Filmore; ten pins, R. Campbell; excelsior, Fred Wilson; door prize, club bag, James Stone.

The 26th battalion band provided an excellent programme of music at the Fair last night.

A MONCTON VISITOR.

Mrs. A. Whitehead Lemaire arrived from Moncton last night and is staying at the Sign of the Lantern in Princess street. Mrs. Lemaire was born in Newport, Wales, and is a meddlist of the Royal Academy of Music. She toured the British Isles in opera, pioneered musical enterprise in Ceylon, spent one year in a tour in South Africa and has visited most of the large centres of the United States. She had been teaching in New York for two years after the war and went to Point Du Clene for the summer to escape from the heat. Having paid a visit to Moncton she was delighted with her reception there and has made that city her home at present.

EXPORTS INCREASE
Figures for September Show Betterment Over Those of Preceding Month.

A statement issued by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association says: "The total value of exports for September reached a value of $9,457,927, a decline of $7,033,665 as compared with September, 1920, and an increase of $1,436 over the preceding month of August. Exports of news print for the month amounted to 1,294,138 cwts, compared with 1,212,228 in the corresponding month last year, an increase of 11.7 per cent. (288 tons) over last year, showing that, contrary to some reports, Canadian newsprint is not losing its competitive position in European competition, although increased Canadian production capacity should also be taken into consideration in comparing this year's exports with last. The month's figures indicate a continuance of the steady upward movement which has followed the drastic decline in April, with the exception of the month of June, as shown in the following table:

March	$12,407,476
April	6,946,239
May	7,931,525
June	6,788,282
July	6,866,858
August	9,457,927

Comparative figures for the first six months of the current fiscal year show:

1921	$38,379,508	$15,504,159
1920	43,228,774	44,217,712
1919	37,412,946	46,628,728
Total 1921	$46,183,667	$7,248,476
Total 1920	$46,628,728	$7,248,476

Fullwood amounting to 46,608 cwts, valued at $664,420, was exported to the United States in September, 1921, compared with 151,541 cwts, valued at $2,046,884 in September, 1920. For the six months' period in volume and value of pulpwood exported to the United States were: 1919, 615,444 cwts, valued at $8,856,465; 1920, 632,121 cwts, valued at $7,405,332; 1921, 421,388 cwts, $5,546,785.

THE BUSINESS COLUMN
EDITED BY MANSFIELD F. HOUSE

Five Clerks Always Share Williams' Profit.
One-fifth of the net profits made by Hansp Williams, a hardware dealer, of Fort Springs, are re-distributed among five salesmen in his store who are termed profit-sharers. They divide that one-fifth equally. Last year it amounted to considerably more than $300 for each of them.

Those five profit-sharers run the business. Of course, they take suggestions from Williams, but they carry the responsibility of the store's success, which they run it well. They know that they allow stock to accumulate which they must dispose of later at a loss or without profit, their clerks for profit.

Williams says his scheme is ideal in practice. It has relieved him of many responsibilities, and he has seen the progress of his business. He has five men looking out every minute for means of reducing expenses or turning goods at a profit. All are vitally interested because their pocketbooks are affected very directly.

Under this plan the store has a maximum of six profit-sharers. No more will be accepted. All other employees are on a straight salary basis. But they realize that the men who are not profit-sharers may leave, death may remove one or some other contingency arise which will offer an opportunity to fit themselves to be chosen when a vacancy occurs. The chance of becoming a profit-sharer is so enticing, from a financial point of view, that it offers a very real incentive toward better work.

Williams started his profit-sharing plan in 1908. At that time he picked out four men, his employes and assistant. "If we make as much money in 1908 as we did this year I am going to give you $500 each," the store duplicated its 1908 record, and Williams gave the four men $500 each. That was the beginning.

The $2,000 profit was one-fifth of the $10,000 profit made by the store that year. That ratio has been maintained ever since.

The Williams store was started in 1886 with a capital of $775, and the first year the sales totalled $1,000. Eight years later the sales totalled $10,000. It was then the profit-sharing plan was started. Since then the annual sales of this store have increased to more than $500,000. And they are being maintained.

Three Pink Hens Made Splendid Dye Display.
Back in the days before the world was converted with the name of Volstead and when the Eighteenth Amendment was referred to only with a sneering "Prohibition," the late Joseph Milner & Sons' drugstore wanted a distinctive window trim and, with the aid of the three hens, they got it.

In fact, the entire population of Florence, Ala., will tell the world they got it, for the whole town crowded around Milner's to catch a glimpse of the flesh-pink, the blue and the green which called attention to the merits of the dyes or not, but the fact was that each of the pullets wore around its neck.

Business conditions in Alabama have not been so good lately, and Milner's thought it was about time to remind people that they could make over their old dresses and hats by dyeing them at home, thus saving the cost of a new outfit. And he thought the firm made the experiment of dipping a hen in a dye-bath, to see whether the color would "take" on feathers. The hen was overjoyed at the baptism of color, but the bright pink came out beautifully and the test was repeated with two other dyes from stock. The window display followed, with such success that Milner's plan of dyeing was a repetition of the stunt featuring geese the next time, and fixing them up with stripes of red and blue and green and Persian orange.

Guess What's Coming Down Your Coat Get It Free.
When Conrad Sporch came to the decision that it was time to follow in the footsteps of Henry Ford and cut his price, he did not do so until he had explored all possibilities in it and made just a little more noise than his neighbors, with the result that he had a very large sale.

In each of his four large candy stores throughout the loop in Chicago Sporch serves luncheon and dinner as well as selling candy and soft drinks. And he has a very large and comprehensive menu, too, with some seventy-five items listed. Every day for thirty days one method of buying luncheon and one from the soda menu was reduced in price all the way from ten to twenty-five per cent, and a separate list made of those, as well as billboard advertising announced that a guessing contest was in progress. The list of names of those who had formerly bought merchandise in large amounts, but for some reason had not been using their accounts during the last few months. Then a well-worded letter asking why the account had not been used in several months and inviting suggestions which might improve the store service to the public was mailed to each of these customers.

The number and nature of the responses to the letter were surprising. In some instances women customers gave definite reasons for not using their charge accounts, others explained that they intended buying within the immediate future, while still others took the time to visit the credit manager and talk over the matter of their accounts. Numerous suggestions outlining opportunities for store improvement not only proved valuable in increasing the operating efficiency, but went a long way toward eliminating personal grievances and building good will.

Here's a Brand-New Idea for a Sale.
A men's wear dealer in New Rochelle, N. Y., cunningly hit upon an effective means of cashing in on the interest of his public in the latest achievements of "Babe" Ruth, finally hit upon the idea of announcing a special "Babe" sale, at which the prices of all merchandise would be based on the home-run record by the home-run king.

"When the 'Babe's' score touched the forty mark this enterprising dealer ran an ad in the local papers, addressed to the ball fans of New Rochelle, announcing that when the king of forty-three runs the store would hold a 'Forty-three Sale' in honor of the event. Dollar in hand, the customer would get forty-three cents, collars at two for forty-three cents, $60 suits at $48, etc.

"Watch the baseball news, and watch our windows," the public was advised.

"When Babe Ruth passes the forty-three mark, our prices will go accordingly, and it's bound to happen soon, so be sure to make your purchase before Babe says another."

Try to Memorize Your Patron's Day.
Believing that regular customers of a retail establishment appreciate the compliment of being recognized by the salesclerk and greeted by name, and that such evidence of interest leads to a substantial increase of sales, the Hutzler Brothers department store of Baltimore is urging its employes to "memorize" five customers regularly every day.

"Practice on the faces of the customers you know. Make it a rule that you are going to learn five new names every day and you will be surprised to see how soon you will know all the regular customers," the Hutzler staff force has been told.

"You will find it by doing this you will soon have more regular customers, too."

The firm is developing this idea to a greater extent than merely having the salesclerk greet and greet by name, however. While even that little feat of memory is regarded by the management as an excellent means of building up good will and making sales, the employes of the Hutzler establishment are being encouraged to go even further and make it their business to be able to recall little details about the customer's previous purchases, her tastes, prejudices and attitude toward prices, etc.

Offered $75 Suit For $1.
One of the best trade-pulling stunts of the year was originated by Mayer Israel & Co. of New Orleans, La., when they advertised a full suit, worth $75, for $1 to the first man who fit it.

An unusual size—forty-six long—was advertised, otherwise the suit would have been carried away as soon as the doors were opened. But it was not until the late afternoon that the lucky man appeared, a prominent railroad official.

Instantly, nearly five hundred persons applied for the suit. When they found their figures didn't belong into the category, they looked around the store and made purchases of other bargains.

Use "Suburban Days."

Merchants have combined in a series of "Suburban Days" sales as a special effort to introduce stores and their offerings to shoppers from communities near Allentown.

Retailers feel they are not getting all the suburban patronage they should and one day a week will be devoted to special advertising for the out-of-town buyer, and far exceeded expectations. Similar reports come from the retail and wholesale stores into which the waves of purchasers flowed every day.

SALES IDEAS SHOULD BE WORKED OUT IN ADVANCE.

Figuring out advertising plans before a season opens, consistent use of special on which very attractive prices can be quoted, careful study of the advertisements of big city stores and a consistent advertising campaign using all mediums have been important factors in the success of the Morton Mercantile Co. in Morton, Minn.

This company believes in advertising and every season plans a campaign in advance, according to R. E. Simon, a member of the firm. These have had surprisingly good results.

As a basis for its advertising, Morton Mercantile Co. goes to market frequently and picks up specials that can be priced and advertised to advantage. In May, for example, Mr. Simon bought a large number of lively items that are featured in a large circular, including athletic underwear, curtain materials and hosiery. The wide distribution of this circular throughout the trade territory of the store resulted in increasing volume three times over that of the same week the previous year.

The territory is carefully watched, and when advertisements and circulars fail to produce business from certain localities, Simon specializes on that section and shows in additional "red-hot" specials until the prospects do respond with orders.

The store has four letters of welcome which it sends to persons who have just moved into its trade territory. These letters are run off on a duplicating machine, the name and address of the prospect filled in, and they are sent out by mail, with postage paid. A large supply is always kept on hand.

The sending of circulars with circular letters has also been a sale builder for this store. Last spring the store sent out 1,000 letters on circulars. Three switches were attached to each letter. The store sold almost as many gingham in one month as it had during the entire previous year.

Got 100 P. C. Replies From One Sales Letter.
According to Richard Flannigan, advertising manager of the B. Forman Company, an Indianapolis, Ind., virtually 100 per cent. returns were received from 500 personal letters addressed to business men, all of whom had accounts at the store, asking them if there was any other member of the family who might be more interested in the advertising and direct mail matter sent out from time to time. The bulk of the replies were from the men who had accounts at the store, and the letter prompted the credit manager to inaugurate a little stunt devised to bring forth improvements in store service and to stimulate inactive accounts. The list of customers having charge accounts was checked off and a separate list made of those who had formerly bought merchandise in large amounts, but for some reason had not been using their accounts during the last few months. Then a well-worded letter asking why the account had not been used in several months and inviting suggestions which might improve the store service to the public was mailed to each of these customers.

Old Watches Boomed.
In order to create interest in a watch-selling campaign recently, Leo M. Kraus, an Indianapolis jeweler, issued a classified advertisement calling for old watches and offered a prize in the form of a watch to the person who brought in the most watches. The contest was a success, and the jeweler was able to dispose of a large number of old watches.

Tries Out Value of Vari-Colored Lights.
The Greenwald Apparel Shop of Hutchinson, Kans., is experimenting with a series of colored lights devised to bring out the values of merchandise being displayed in their store windows. If the new lights prove satisfactory other merchants who are closely following the example will in all probability install similar lights.

The color units being used consist of reflectors similar to those regularly employed by window decorators, with a color screen of gelatine or glass, or have a colored glass ball. This ball may be attached to the electric lamp, thereby going away with the old methods of using improvised screens or dipping the lamps in color.

"Dig out your self-warmers" was the advice of N. M. Scott, of H. Choate & Co., Winona, Minn., as a method of "Getting Some Profits Out of Business." In an address before the Business Builders' Conference.

"The longer goods are on your shelves the greater the increase in their cost and the greater the decrease in your profits," Mr. Scott said, and added, "Goods are not well bought until all sold." The speaker also advocated the practice of getting out on the floor and meeting customers, saying he could get some one to write his letters or estimate his profits for him in his office, but he believed in getting out on the floor himself and mingling with the customers.
