MANY RUMORS TO FOLLOW UP

Sure Now That F. H. Triffts was in City Late Report That He was Seen in Gypsy Settlement Road is Not Substantiated—A Car Crossed Bridge at 2 a. m.—Someone Said "I Told You Not to."

If being supplied with rumors would solve the mystery of who murdered Frederick H. Triffts, the detective department would have had the guilty person or persons in their clutches within a few hours after the terrible deed was committed. Every day a large number of rumors of "tips" reach police headquarters and these have to be sifted in the hope that somewhere among them lies the answer to the puzzle.

Asked if the city would offer a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the criminal, Commissioner Thornton said that he had this matter under consideration and would likely have a resolution ready for presentation to the council meeting on next Tuesday. Mr. Thornton left at noon on a business trip to Halifax and will be away until the first of the week.

CAR ACROSS THE BRIDGE AT 2 A. M.

The detective department last evening interviewed Mr. McBeth, C. P. R. gate man at the crossing near the bridge, who had been on duty on the night of the crime, and told the detectives he had seen a large closed car come over the bridge about two o'clock. He could not say how many or who were in it, but he heard some talking. The only words he could get clearly were "I told you not to." This was repeated twice. The hope was expressed this morning that this might offer some assistance in the solution of the mystery. It is one of the most pertinent pieces of evidence yet uncovered.

The detectives last evening again interviewed Captain Wood, who declares that he saw a closed car on the night of the murder. Inquiries were made to ascertain the denomination of the money which Mr. Triffts made payment for the tobacco. It was thought that he might have broken a bill which would afford some clue, but he paid fifteen cents in silver. Captain Wood seemed quite positive as to the identity of his customer, and his daughter, who is employed in the store, was also satisfied that it was Mr. Triffts who made the purchase. Tobacco Mr. Triffts in the dead man's pocket corresponding to that which Captain Wood says he sold him.

Questioned regarding two automobiles which had passed along the avenue between two and three o'clock on the morning of the crime, the detective department disclaimed all knowledge of them.

Detective Biddiscombe yesterday interviewed a man named McLean, who is in the city from the United States. Mr. McLean was able to satisfy the department as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder.

An additional piece of information was given to the detectives yesterday when Captain Arthur Wood, who conducts a fruit store in Waterloo street, said that Mr. Triffts entered his store about midnight Wednesday night and bought a plug of tobacco, referring to it jocularly as "fruit cake," as was his habit.

Mr. Wood did not know Mr. Triffts by name but recognized him from his picture in yesterday morning's papers. He said that Mr. Triffts came from the direction of Paddock street and heads to confirm the belief that the unfortunate man returned to his garage after filling his engagement in Douglas avenue at 10.30 p. m.

The fact that Miss Mand Perry and John O'Connor are both sure that they saw the murdered man in the vicinity of Paddock street about 12.30 and also that George Thomas is confident that he saw Mr. Triffts around King square at about 2 o'clock in the morning all point to this. The Triffts garage and house are connected by a telephone extension and if one rings the other would, and Mrs. Triffts says that the telephone did not ring around two o'clock.

With reference to the patrolling of the avenue, Chief of Police Smith said last night that he had received a report from Policeman Lindsay. The latter had gone all the way out the avenue to the bridge at 10.30, but had not gone out so far later owing to the great amount of territory he had to cover. The chief admitted that the man had too much ground to cover, but said that one man was all he could spare as he had only two cars reported to have driven out the avenue at two and three o'clock on the morning of the murder. In one of them was a man who it is reported that he thought he saw a car stopped near Bentley street, facing the bridge, but on the proper side of the street. He was quite positive, however, that there was no car standing on the wrong side of the street opposite the observatory. A report was current yesterday to the effect that a man giving McLean as his name was in the city several days before the murder and admitted that he

The name McLean has been mentioned in the case before. A member of the family accompanied by some personal friends of the dead man made a trip yesterday morning to Musquash and examined every road and by-road for distinctive marks which might designate the route of the car in which Mr. Triffts was murdered. Visits also were made to Duck Cove and Belva's Point. Nothing important was discovered. Arthur Triffts, son of the murdered man, checked up the mileage of the car in which his father met his death and came to the conclusion that the car had travelled about fifty-three miles on the night of the crime.

All we want now is fer him to stay on the job fer a spell an' you'll see one o' the finest crops we've had fer years—takin' 'em up an' large—as the feller says. Some folks'll hev hay to sell this year that was killin' off young stock last year because they couldn't get feed. It beats all how much we hev to depend on the weather fer everything. Too much rain dries up the crops in London way more fer bread, an' too much mud at the Mash Bridge makes a man from the Settlement wonder whether you fellers in St. John ever goes out to your front door to see what it looks like—yes-ir."

Disaster Coming Unless Energetic Grip on Situation is Taken—A Critical London Writer—Berlin Government May Fall.

(Canadian Press Cable) Berlin, July 8.—The decline in the value of the mark, apparently brought by the assassination of Foreign Minister Rathenau and the consequent loss of confidence in the stability of the state, continues, despite the action of the government and the Reichbank in throwing great sums of foreign money on the market to stem the depreciation of German currency. Manufacturers are declared to be buying foreign money to purchase raw materials and the public is following suit in order to unload marks.

Disaster Coming Unless Energetic Grip on Situation is Taken—A Critical London Writer—Berlin Government May Fall.

The Frankfurter Zeitung declares the collapse has been due not so much to foreign countries selling marks, as to Germans who "in wild furies fought to obtain foreign currency." The great danger seen by this newspaper is that of a rapid rise of prices, proportionate to the decline of the mark. Despite the grain requisition bill, much dearer bread will be inevitable. Climbing prices have caused the monetary stringency and the banks are already overwhelmed with requests for loans.

Disaster Coming Unless Energetic Grip on Situation is Taken—A Critical London Writer—Berlin Government May Fall.

Disaster is coming, the newspaper warns, unless the situation is handled energetically. The educated classes will be forced into the proletariat, and their discontent will be an increasing menace to the state. The Frankfurter Zeitung demands the enactment of a law against the hoarding of foreign currency. It urges the reparations commission, in view of the present situation, to make new arrangements until Germany is able to obtain a loan.

Disaster Coming Unless Energetic Grip on Situation is Taken—A Critical London Writer—Berlin Government May Fall.

Investors believe foreign markets are slow in following Berlin's lead in unloading marks. However, it predicts that it is not improbable that marks will be sold on account of this new decline. London View. London, July 8.—The collapse of the German mark, which is featured by the newspapers, is accompanied by reports that Germany will be unable to meet her July reparations payments due a week from today. The plight of the European exchanges calls for some gloomy comments.

Disaster Coming Unless Energetic Grip on Situation is Taken—A Critical London Writer—Berlin Government May Fall.

George Paillet, financier, who belongs to that section of publicists here who condemn France's attitude on the reparations question, has an article in the Westminster Gazette, alleging that the entente allies, particularly France, deliberately chose a policy intended to prevent the recovering of Germany, and that the very success of their policy is proving their own undoing. He contends that the situation is rapidly moving toward complete destruction of the value of the German currency. "Probably no country will suffer more than France in this disaster," he adds. "As it means that Germany probably will be unable to pay any reparations whatever. The financial destruction of Germany means the financial destruction of France and the impoverishment of Europe for an indefinite period. It would indeed be the irony of fate should France become bankrupt because she demanded more than it was possible to obtain. 'Is it not time,' he asks, 'the entente policy toward Germany was reversed, and effective steps taken to preserve the European nations from the consequences of the disastrous policy hitherto pursued?' Government May Fall.

Washington, July 8.—The fall of the German government is threatened and stringent measures have been enacted for the protection of the republican regime, so the commerce department was advised yesterday in a cablegram from Commercial Attache, Herring in Berlin. The political crisis, resulting from the assassination of foreign minister Rathenau, Mr. Herring reported has aggravated the period of currency depression inaugurated by the failure of foreign loan negotiations and the feeling is now general that Germany faces grave political complications with the fall in exchange, which dropped to the lowest level in history yesterday.

HARD WORK TO SAVE TIMBER

More Than $1,250,000 Loss Already from Fires in British Columbia.

Victoria, B. C., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—More than $1,250,000 worth of standing timber in British Columbia has been destroyed by forest fires up to yesterday, according to official figures.

Logging operators were in session here yesterday discussing how to save the valuable timber from destruction. All logging operations may be suspended in the province because of the fires sweeping the timber areas.

A forty mile gale which swept through the Nanaimo district at Merville, Campbell River and Miesias Point districts, Vancouver Island, since yesterday morning will add enormously to the total loss, so today's reports indicate.

Logging camps at Langbay, where 1,000 men were employed, were destroyed by fire that practically destroyed the village. The camps are on the mainland, south of Powell River.

Airplanes are being used in shipping supplies to the fire fighters. Forest fires burning out on Thursday night have shut down and turned all their employees into the fighting line.

Logging camps on the northern half of Vancouver Island gained new impetus last night when the Comox fire in Strathcona Bay and swept forward to wreck destruction on timber areas hitherto untouched. Weather forecasts are for continued dry weather. Logging railways are burned out in several places.

Late arrivals from Langbay, which was practically wiped out on Thursday night, say that families there are homeless and destitute.

NEW BRUNSWICK HEALTH LAWS

Significance of Rockefeller Foundation Grant

Dr. Roberts Talks of It—This Province a Demonstration Area—Evil Effects of Partisanship—Public Health Nurses.

The Times sought from Hon. Dr. Roberts, minister of health, yesterday, some further information regarding the grant made by the Rockefeller Foundation and the present status of New Brunswick health laws.

Dr. Roberts said that the government had completed their steps to make recalcitrant municipalities pay what they owed to their respective health boards. At the present time the counties of Sunbury, Kings, Queens, Albert, Kent and Northumberland were behind with their payments. The law compels the secretary-treasurer of the municipality to pay, he can pay out of any monies that he happens to have, and the law gives him authority to borrow if need be. On Thursday night the government meeting in Fredericton passed an order that the attorney for the health department proceed at once with attachment proceedings. The doctor added that just as state to adopt uniform municipalities act over the province, the health work of the province will be on a proper working basis.

Dr. Roberts said that he was charged by the opposition that the health programme was his fad, and was an unnecessary expenditure. His answer to that was that New Brunswick's Health act had not only been approved of, and spoken well of, but a great deal of the matter contained therein had been copied by other provinces, and by some states of the union. He said that the uniqueness of the act lay in the fact that it not only deals in general sanitation, which includes the prevention of tuberculosis, venereal diseases, child welfare work and mental hygiene, but there has been incorporated in the act the service of vital statistics, the collection and compilation, which is a collection of vital statistics in every parish, sometimes with assistants. Last March a telegram from Ottawa announced that New Brunswick was foremost in the educational authorities in every parish, sometimes with assistants. Last March a telegram from Ottawa announced that New Brunswick was foremost in the educational authorities in every parish, sometimes with assistants. Last March a telegram from Ottawa announced that New Brunswick was foremost in the educational authorities in every parish, sometimes with assistants.

There is also included in the act, the first in America, said the doctor, a local school inspection under the health act. This matter, concerning the mental and physical status of the child, was formerly left with the educational authorities. Medical school inspection, he said, represents about half of the health budget for the rural municipalities. Finding opposition in some of the rural municipalities to the great expense and to the great army of officials as compared to the provincial health board existing before 1918, which was a department of the province, one looked after nuisances and unsuccessfully trying to combat epidemics, Dr. Roberts made an effort to see if he could get assistance from outside the province in some way, the government having done as he felt, their full duty in this regard, having raised the health budget from $1,600 in 1917, to a gross of $61,000 in 1921, this latter amount being reduced by revenue of $15,000 from the laboratory and central office departments. The Rockefeller Foundation donation of $84,000,000 for medical education, more especially as related to public health, and five millions of this having been allotted to Canada, Dr. Roberts made application for assistance. This began, he said, two and one half years ago, during which time he presented two or three different plans for their consideration. They have sent three different special representatives to make a survey of the work of the health departments and because of financial stringency, he felt that it would be unfair to ask for further immediate financial assistance. The Rockefeller Foundation donation of $84,000,000 for medical education, more especially as related to public health, and five millions of this having been allotted to Canada, Dr. Roberts made application for assistance. This began, he said, two and one half years ago, during which time he presented two or three different plans for their consideration. They have sent three different special representatives to make a survey of the work of the health departments and because of financial stringency, he felt that it would be unfair to ask for further immediate financial assistance.

The doctor said before the board the difficulties that he was having among several of the municipal councils and told them he felt that if this was not overcome, that it might result materially in retarding the wonderful work which has thus far been accomplished, and he made the suggestion that if ever there was an opportunity for a philanthropic organization to grant money at a time when it would promote and conserve the vital interests of public health, then that opportunity was in New Brunswick and at this particular time.

The doctor said he presented another proposition, supposed to be one that the board was in sympathy with, namely the carrying on of health centres in the city of St. John, but this only called for an expenditure of $10,000. When the doctor was leaving, both Dr. Vincent and Dr. Rose, with whom he was conferring, intimated to him that they would like very much to do something for New Brunswick, for they felt that the province was deserving, but the medical school inspection plan was not a part of their general policy, and to conform to that their board would not be willing to do. They assured the doctor, however, that the health centre scheme would doubtless go through.

The International Health Board, constituted as it is, of twelve of the leading educationalists of America, the majority of whom are public health specialists, held a meeting on May 23, recognizing the character that had been observed in so short a time, they decided to step aside from the principle of the plan of medical school inspection advanced by the doctor, namely the payment for two years, of $27,000 per annum.

Dr. Roberts said that the Rockefeller Foundation was the first to understand the importance of the health department and that the government would continue to carry on this service as a government service, at the end of that period, the rural municipalities of over fifty per cent health budget, which, he said, should result in greater co-operation with the state. He feels that the opposition does not come so much from the taxpayers of the counties as from certain municipal councillors who either do not understand that to use monies in the prevention of disease and the removal of the physical and mental difficulties is not an expenditure but an investment. We cannot afford to neglect the health of our people of Kings did not want and would not have the provincial health legislation administered in their county, but at a recent election there the health department was one of the principal issues and there was not one word from the beginning to the end against it by the constituents that gathered from time to time at public meetings. The minister feels satisfied that the greater part of the opposition was created and maintained by some councillors of those municipalities who failed to comply with the requirements. Further than this, said the minister, and quite naturally so, for the last two years, some county councils who received the requests of their boards and paid their amounts without hesitation, when they saw other counties not complying, and the counties are in the same position. Therefore, he said, the decision of the government at its recent meeting to carry out the spirit of the last amendment to the act.

While the minister admits that during the last two and one half years he has spent a great deal of thought, time and interest in the New Brunswick proposition, he said today that he could not but feel grateful to the premier and his conferees for having made it possible to accept the principle and give to New Brunswick, in place of a part time, a full time, necessarily inefficient service, one which above all others, should be as possible, and all-time service engaged in by six men specially trained for medical duty from January 1 to December 31, and whose professional lives will be lived in the interests of New Brunswick's future citizens. Efforts are being made, he said, to induce public health nurses, to interest certain voluntary organizations to a sufficient extent to provide public health nurses for the several districts, in which their all-time medical inspectors will carry on their work.

The minister considers that the anti-diparted grant by the Rockefeller foundation to be the greatest compliment among the many that have been paid to the status of public health in the province, because of the fact that the gentlemen whom Mr. Rockefeller selected to administer the $84,000,000 are not men who would expend $54,000 for other than a sound business proposition. I have reason to believe that if this $54,000 is properly administered, that we will not have seen the last of the Rockefeller philanthropy along these lines."

THE FITZPATRICK CASE

Sackville Post.—The men who served on the jury in this unfortunate case were friends and neighbors of the dead man, and probably the majority of them had never before heard of the guard. Under the circumstances their sympathies would hardly be aroused in favor of the officer. And yet it is well to remember these men after hearing all the evidence in the case brought in a verdict exonerating the man who did the shooting. If they could do this knowing all the facts of the case, it is fair for a newspaper published 150 miles away to stir up public feeling against an officer who was only doing his duty as he understood it?

Halifax Recorder.—At the Commercial Club luncheon yesterday the subject as to the form and character which the proposed War Memorial for Halifax should take was discussed. Dr. Macgillivray, secretary of the War Memorial Committee president. He said: The question of the erection of an arch to cost in the vicinity of $50,000 had met with most favorable consideration. Professor John E. Keed especially urged the erection of a Memorial Library. Mr. J. E. McLurg presented the case for a Memorial Arch, suggesting it should be of Halifax County granite and could be erected at the Willow Tree, now the centre of population, and should be provided for by general assessment. Dean Llywd spoke strongly in behalf of the memorial pure and simple. His preference was for a group of statuary.

MARKETING FARM PRODUCTS.

We are familiar with the tempting boxes of apples from Oregon or British Columbia or elsewhere in grocery windows. Mr. E. C. Frost, who is a practical farmer and owner of a productive farm in Maine, foresees a time when window display of "Grade A Certified Aroostook Potatoes" in gay cartons, testifying in bright and striking lettering and decorations to high quality and correct quantity, will be "the newest wrinkle of the modern grocery."

Co-operation and centralised marketing of farm products by scientific methods will bring this result, according to Mr. Frost, and with it will come greater prosperity for the farmer and a saving on the necessities of life for the consumer. We quote:

"It will enable the farmer to find the steady market at fair prices all the year round. It will give the housewife assurance of obtaining a graded article of the quality she wants and can use economically. It will mean that the old potato bag and the ancient apple barrel with a few good apples on top and the rest of its contents tapering off to worm-eaten windfalls must make their exit. It will be an example of modern, agency-making, successful ideas applied to the solution of the farmer's greatest problem—how to control the market he serves."

Mr. Frost would have a nation-wide system of co-operation, with central stations to serve a given territory and distribute for that territory, finding the best markets at all times. Thus:

"Farm products would not then be dumped into New York when the New York market was glutted and the prices broken, but they would be diverted by the head office to Pittsburgh and other cities where the consumers were crying for them. Dumping farm products on local markets at one season is the farmer's greatest handicap. Ordinary business sense would teach any manufacturer that to glut his market would be a first step in the direction of bankruptcy; yet the unorganised farmer is practicing it year after year. The apple growers of Washington and Oregon, the fruit growers of California and the farmers of Florida have proved that in scientific co-operative marketing lies success, steady prices in all seasons and continued prosperity. The same plan must be applied to the products of New England and eastern farms. Official grading, by which the consumer is assured of products up to a standard, and careful packing in standard containers small enough to be easily handled are elementary steps. Potatoes as well as apples must be sold in boxes."

Dealing particularly with the problems of the Maine and other eastern farmers, Mr. Frost says:

"Eastern farmers now throw their crops on local markets in a mass and break prices. Under a co-operative method the surplus, after the local markets were supplied, would flow to the larger markets of Boston, New York, the Middle West and Europe, as naturally as rivers flow to the sea. What the local markets could not absorb at fair prices would be sent where markets would be bare and prices higher."

Mr. Frost points out that with such a system the farmers' selling organization would dictate the price of farm products, just as the manufacturers do, and he asks—why not? There is of course no reason why the farmer should not be as favorably situated for selling as the manufacturer, and a system which would reasonably assure him of a fair return for his labor every year would make for the good of other lines of business. It would be necessary, however, to educate him out of the habit of holding his products for higher prices and not infrequently having in the end to throw them on an overloaded market. Organization would be beneficial and ought to be encouraged, so long as it is not designed to take an unfair advantage of the consumer, and this applies to industry and commerce in general.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The St. Croix Courier does not agree with Mr. N. Mark Mills, chairman of the St. Stephen school board, who in an address before the Teachers' Institute, which was reported in full in the Times, advocated a provincial school attendance law, compulsory in its nature and enforced by the provincial authorities. The Courier says:

"The chairman of the school board would shift the cost of enforcing such legislation from the town to the provincial government, but whether one or the other pays the bills the money must come from the pockets of the people and of the people there are many who believe that when the state has provided free schools for all to attend they should not be further taxed to compel the attendance of the unappreciative. This opinion may be far from idealism but it prevails and should have ample opportunity for expression before any further burdens in connection with schools be imposed. Whether the act be headed Compulsory Attendance or called by other name, the title has but little bearing if its object be the same, though Mr. Mills correctly expresses the mind of very many in indicating a weariness of Thou shalt not legislation. Local option in this matter is apparently lacking in favor with the new king's counsel, but it still has its redeeming features and particularly should not be ignored in the determination of the expenditure of the money of the people in lines that are not approved by all."

The substance of the Courier's contention appears to be that the minority should rule, for there can be no reasonable doubt that a majority of the people of the Courier's own town would promptly vote in favor of getting every child of school age in school, the only exception being in the case of one here and there compelled to aid in supporting the family.

There is some danger, in placing emphasis upon the convenience of the taxpayer and the views of certain parents, that the rights of the child may be overlooked. Society owes a duty to every child. A child is not a chattel. Having been launched into life it has a right to good health and the education and training necessary to prepare it for good citizenship and for a gainful occupation. The obligation rests on society, if parents are too ignorant or indifferent or selfish, to intercede in the child's behalf, since it cannot fight its own battle, and since the future welfare of society depends upon the character of all its units. Neglect of childhood is paid for in later years. All human experience bears out the truth of this assertion. The people can afford to pay for school-houses, school teachers, and whatever is necessary to get all the children at school. They cannot afford not to pay. It is an economic as well as a moral question. The well-educated child becomes a better producing factor, and less likely to create burdens for society to bear. The press of the country, because it influences public opinion, should be sound on this question. A forward policy in education is of the highest possible value to the state, and it should reach every child in the community. The way to accomplish that end is through a provincial law universally observed.

HYGIENE IN PLAYGROUNDS.

There are seventy-three playgrounds for children in the city of Philadelphia. In all American cities supervised playgrounds in the summer holidays are recognized as a necessity. Referring to the opening of the grounds in Philadelphia the North American says:

"So far, 182 experienced physical training and playground instructors have been assigned to summer positions, and Miss Elizabeth O'Neill, who is in charge of the playgrounds, yesterday expressed the opinion that there would be enough teachers to man the full number of playgrounds through the entire summer. The summer playground is an institution of great value to thousands of boys and girls, who, without a cool place to go for play and athletic training, would be forced to lounge about on hot, overcrowded, dirty streets. This year the playground will afford even more advantages than heretofore, since there will be classes in hygiene for those children who are eager to combine play with education. The health education will be carried on by the playground authorities in co-operation with the Child Federation. The federation will provide instructors for the classes and the playgrounds will organize the Little Mother League. For those boys and girls who are interested primarily in athletic work, there will be tournaments of all sorts. In addition, there will be parades and weekly play days in which all the children of the playgrounds will take part."

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has just issued a report dealing with statistics of towns and villages in Canada having a population of 1,000 to 5,000. One paragraph is of special interest because it compares east with west. We quote: "With regard to liabilities, both classes of towns (1,000 to 5,000 and 5,000 to 10,000) as well as the cities, situated in the western provinces have a larger per capita debt than similar municipalities in the eastern provinces, as the following statistics show: Towns of 1,000 to 3,000 in western provinces $104.42, in eastern provinces $72.05; towns of 3,000 to 10,000 in western provinces $223.96, in eastern provinces $77.74; cities of 10,000 in western provinces $234.97 and in eastern provinces $166.82."

New York Times—"The business of determining who's who in Dublin and Southern Ireland proceeds rapidly and wholesomely. No doubt it is to be entertained of the outcome or of its rightfulness. The Irish Free State has shown the most exemplary patience. Its government cannot be accused of a single hasty or militaristic act. It has given De Valera and the small minority ranged with him every chance to persuade the Irish people to adopt De Valera's views. Instead of being convinced they have firmly and definitely decided the other way."

Preserving time and advances in the price of sugar seem to have a close affinity.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis

Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 47.

AMPLIFICATION.

Amplifying the minute amount of energy contained in the electric waves is an exceedingly important function connected with the operation receiving circuit employing the vacuum tube. To understand the two classes into which amplification is divided, it is necessary to refer to the relation which exists between radio-frequency and audio-frequency.

Nature so designs the delicate mechanism of the human ear that normally it fails to detect vibrations above 10,000 per second. It has been arbitrarily decided, therefore, that radio-frequency oscillations are those in excess of 10,000 cycles per second, while audio-frequency oscillations are those below 10,000 cycles per second, and therefore within the range of audible sounds.

Oscillations of radio-frequency from a distant transmitter may be intercepted by a receiving antenna and amplified in one or more stages, each stage containing a vacuum tube so adjusted that the signals, although increased in power, retain their original frequency. This is known as radio-frequency amplification.

The next step utilizes the valuable rectifying property of the vacuum tube in converting the oscillations of radio-frequency into oscillations of audio-frequency, or in other words to "step down" the frequency. If it is desired to further increase the power of the signals, the oscillations of audio-frequency may be amplified through one or more stages and then rendered audible in the receiving telephones or through the medium of a loud speaker.

Stages of audio-frequency amplification cannot be added indefinitely due to the fact that undesirable sounds in the receiving circuit will also be amplified to such an extent as to prevent the reception of the desired radio signals. Some idea may be gained of the rapidity of the oscillations of the electromagnetic waves if it is realized that a wave of 200 meters in length has a frequency of 1,500,000 cycles or complete oscillations per second. For a wave of greater length the frequency is less; for example, a wave having a length of 600 meters oscillates at a frequency of 500,000 cycles per second.

The valuable property of amplification makes possible the use of the coil antenna for the purpose of receiving signals from long distances. This form of antenna, as explained in previous articles, possesses valuable directional characteristics but requires a higher degree of sensitiveness in the receiving circuits than would be the case if the ordinary type of outdoor antenna were used. The necessary amount of amplification to obtain the same results is considerably greater in the case of a receiver using the coil or "loop" aerial than could be the case if an outdoor aerial of the usual dimensions were employed.

In general, the same results obtained by an outdoor antenna, a detector and two stages of audio-frequency amplification, would necessitate in the case of the coil or loop aerial, two stages of radio-frequency amplification, a detector, and two stages of audio-frequency amplification.

CAMPAINING BY RADIO.

In anticipation of the coming campaign for Congress one of the western senators recently took time by the forelock and by means of the radio telephone spoke from Washington, D. C., to his constituents in Indiana, 600 miles away. The senator, published in The Herald, writes:

"The 600 and 1,000,000 radio receiving sets are installed in the United States. The electric waves traveling with the speed of light at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, carried the words of the speaker to this large and unseen audience, listening attentively but unable to reply."

"JUNIPER."

(By Able Huston Evans)

For some twisted reason, I Love what many men pray by—Lean-fingered and rock-climbing things, Blister-bored, far from springs Of sweet water, wringing up Moisture from the rock's own cup. Or drinking in at every pore Dew and sea mist, if no more: All things harsh, and slow of root, Pungent, racy, sparse of fruit—Heather, gorse, and upland fir, Lichen, moss—and juniper!

What are two lean years, or three, Tattling of Necessity, Who on stony-breasted earth, Long since learned to thrive on dearth?—Long as ledges, will endure Your rooted grass and roots obscure; Aye will batten on the stone After man is dust and bone.

LIGHTER VEIN.

Not Serious After All.

Western exchange: "The report of the wedding of Tom Barr and Lizzie Flynn as published in The Herald the other day is all wrong," writes Magistrate May, who says it was a fight instead of a wedding. We are glad it is not so bad as first reported.

Her Heart.

Husband—A wife's place is in the home.
Wife—Maybe, but home's where the heart is, and my heart's at the picture show.

"Old Man Briggs passed away quickly, didn't he? The doctor was there only once to see him."
"Yes, medical science has made wonderful strides forward of late."

Father Knew.

"Now, Jimmy," said his Sunday school teacher, "I want you to memorize to-day's motto; 'It is more blessed to give than receive.'"
"I know it now," replied Jimmy. "My father says he has always used that motto in his business."
"Oh, how noble of him!" said the teacher. "And what is your father's business?"
"He's a prize-fighter, ma'am."

ROB EX-CONFIDENCE WOMAN.

Burglars Sack Sophie L. Burke's Detroit Home—Get $20,000.

Detroit, July 8.—Sophie Lyons Burke, seventy-six years old, once an internationally known confidence woman, told the police that her home had been robbed of $18,000 in diamonds and from $6,000 to $7,000 in bonds by burglars who broke in while she was away.

"I returned from Put-In-Bay, had lunch with a friend and then went home to find my house ransacked and the floor strewn with empty boxes, books and other articles," she said. "I have no idea who did the job, and I am unhappy to think that men would do such a thing to an old woman who devotes a large income to prison relief work."

She said the diamonds were a legacy from her son, who died recently in Seattle.

$2,000 IN CASH AND BONDS HIDDEN IN BEGGAR'S CLOTHES

New York, July 8.—Wearing ragged clothes which concealed $2,000 in bills and Liberty bonds, Aaron Lewis, fifty-two, who is also known in the downtown lodging district of Brooklyn as Harry Davis, was arraigned before Magistrate Charles J. Dodd in the Adams street police court, Brooklyn, charged with vagrancy. He was sent to the observation ward of Kings County Hospital.

Lewis was arrested by Policeman Daniel J. Spellman of the Poplar street station, at Bridge and Sands streets, beggling from pedestrians. After the prisoner was taken to the station house he was searched and wads of bills were found in his torn pockets. He lived recently, he said, in a lodging house on Tillary street and slept since then in hallways.

Man in the Street

A new shade for material for ladies' dresses is Chinese blue. Probably Pekin waists will be made in that color.

Since the price of cigarettes went up a lot of the boys have been rolling their own; since the advent of the short stockings, many of the girls—well, I'll leave it to you!

That home brew contest for women at a western fair is off. It is rumored that the prevalence of a song entitled, "Somebody Brewed For Someone," caused the promoters to reconsider.

The ladies have one cause to be thankful for the long period of wet weather that has marked the summer so far—at least the damage done to their complexions has been negligible.

Eleven men have been sentenced to death in Petrograd for interfering with the seizures of church treasures. It is horrible to think what would happen to them if they stopped a burglar in their own homes.

The feelings of the man who dived into the river to find two cases of bottles with the real stuff, and found two bottles of pop, must have been similar to those of the man who started for a dance in the town hall and found a reform meeting.

A man in Islip, L. I., owes his life to the fact that his coat collar caught when he was thrown through the windshield of his car. Who will say that "back to nature" habits are the only aids to longer life?

Billy's army of hikers has quit. Why not get Charlie Burkin or the Dills to enlist?

After every crime there is always some chap who has the solution absolutely without any possibility of doubt. And in nine cases out of ten he burks up the wrong tree.

These Hoovers in the United States seem to run to things anatomically. One of them during the war bled himself with the nation's stomach, while his namesake is now carrying honor to the nation through the scull.

"It is raining again," said one man on Thursday.
"You should be more careful in your use of words," said another. "It is not raining again—it is still raining. Get it right."

Unconscious Compliments.
Ladies are not as a rule in the habit of handing out compliments to unknown men on the main streets of our city, but yesterday one of the fair sex presented a neat one—unwittingly of course—to a Woodstock lawyer, a member of the St. John bar, and a local newspaper man all at the same time in front of city hall. Approaching the trio, she called the new man to one side and asked, "Is the new man in this party?" To the reporter's negative she said, "They told me upstairs he had just come out, but he was a tall, thin looking man, wearing a light suit and a light hat."

The up river visitor looked at the local legal light and acknowledged that the latter fitted the description. The St. John lawyer returned the compliment. Both turned to the newspaper man and—beg pardon, he's writing the story.

BLAKE REACHES EGYPT.
Alexandria, Egypt, July 7.—Major W. T. Blake, the British aviator, who is attempting an airplane flight around the world, arrived here today from Crete.

A deposit of $200 by Harry Wetmore, in connection with having liquor illegally in possession, was forfeited yesterday afternoon in the police court when he failed to put in any appearance.

In St. Rose's church, Fairville (N. B.), Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, Rev. Father Collins officiated at the marriage ceremony, which was followed by a nuptial mass, of Miss May Hayes of Ready street, Fairville, to William J. McNulty, of St. John. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Charlotte Hayes, while James L. McNulty, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of brown canton crepe with hat to match. Thirty guests sat down to luncheon after the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. McNulty left later for places in New Brunswick and over the border. The bride is a young and popular member of St. Rose's parish and has been very prominently identified with the affairs of that parish. The groom is a well known newspaper writer and has at different times been employed on papers in St. John, Boston and Connecticut.

BEHIND SCHEME OF COLLEGE MERGER

Halifax, July 7—Representatives of the Universities of Acadia, Dalhousie, King's and Mount Allison, and unofficial representatives of the University of St. Francis Xavier, at a preliminary meeting held in the province building here today, appointed two committees to consider the various details involved in a scheme of federation that would be acceptable to each of the units involved, as a basis for consideration, and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"That we consider some form of consolidation of existing higher institutions of learning in these maritime provinces is necessary for the proper progress of our people and we undertake to do all in our power to bring this about."

Other decisions reached by the conference were to invite the University of New Brunswick and the Pine Hill (Presbyterian) Seminary to appoint representatives on the committee that will discuss a draft scheme, to invite the governments of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland to appoint delegates to the conference and to meet again at Halifax on August 24, for the purpose of considering the reports of the two committees charged with the work of discussing the points involved in a tentative scheme.

ON PLAYGROUND

The regular monthly meeting of the Playgrounds Association was held last evening in the Y. M. C. A., with A. M. Belding presiding in the absence from the city of W. K. Haley, president. A report from Miss Ida Heffer, the general supervisor of the various grounds under the jurisdiction of the association, was read and considered. The report noted the present conditions at the city playgrounds and said that they were being well patronized by the children. Miss Heffer brought up the matter of interference by outsiders at the Allison playgrounds and it was decided to supply the playgrounds' representative at that grounds with a badge to signify his authority.

Hardly the Car you'd buy to-day

The science of lubrication has kept step with the development of the automobile industry. Today—when you buy the grade of Imperial Polarine Motor Oils recommended for your make of car or truck you get proper lubrication instead of "just oil." The Imperial Chart of Recommendation eliminates all guess work. Look up your car on this Chart. No matter what type you own or how much you paid for it, you will enjoy better satisfaction at lower operating cost and less upkeep expense if you use exclusively the right grade of Imperial Polarine Motor Oils.

Vacuette Suction Cleaner
NOT AN ELECTRIC MODEL "C"

The Vacuette Suction Cleaner not only does the work of an electrically driven suction cleaner but it costs considerably less, is almost noiseless, cannot get out of order, weighs but seven pounds and there are no wires or plugs to bother you or electric bills to meet. There are no wires, plugs or switches on the Vacuette for it runs without electricity—no electric motor to get out of order, or to oil; no fuses to be blown out; no danger of shocks; no trailing, entangling wires, breaking lamps and pulling down fixtures. The Vacuette has the convenience of an old fashioned carpet sweeper, yet it has the efficiency of an electric high priced cleaner.

Compare the real values—the Vacuette gives you better service, yet costs only one half as much as a good electric cleaner. Remember! There is no electric current being used—no wires, plugs, switches, fuses or motor to replace or repair—absolutely no upkeep expense—just results—most economical for your first cost is your last.

A Vacuette will be used in every home just as quickly as the knowledge of its worth becomes known. Every user means at least five more. So we place the Vacuette in your home to prove itself without obligation on your part. Write, wire or telephone at your earliest opportunity for this free demonstration.

THE SCHOOLS AS SOCIAL CENTRES

Not Merely Rallying Places for Children of School Age

An Inspiring Paper Read by Rev. R. A. Robinson Before the Teachers' Institute Last Week.

(By Rev. R. A. Robinson.)

What can you do, then, as teachers? The first and the main thing for you to do, at present, is to prepare yourselves. Study the local conditions. Study the writings of others and the methods they have used. Think on these things. Let them grip you. Be interested in people as people—as living human beings with vast latent possibilities. Do not give up as hopeless the individual or the locality. In very old days a shepherd boy became the great King David. On our own times, the log cabin, as our neighbors to the south have realized, has had its path to the White House. Lincoln, the rail splitter, became one of the greatest presidents of the United States, and, at his funeral, an Englishman was heard to remark, "Before he died he belonged to you (of the United States); now he belongs to the world and to the ages." Remember the history of our Motherland. I hope you have all grasped the idea of the meaning of history as a wonderful science. In our school days we thought of it as an array of dates, to which we had to fit names and events in weary sequence. But to us now it should be the wonderful story of the development of the human race, or of a nation from savage infancy to the present stage of its civilization. We read the legends of the Druids with their bloody rites; we see the tribes of barbarians fighting the invader; we go on to the glorious days of chivalry; when war was the ideal occupation, and conquest, even like national robbery, the ambition of kings and people; we come to our own days in which the peace-maker has become a grander title than the conqueror, and he who saves life is the hero above him who takes it. have passed while this was developing and now we, in our generation, are called upon to do our part and strive to help to bring about the next forward step. There must be beginnings, but we already have beginnings. Study and think and, after a while, talk and act!

From you, as those who do so great a part in preparing the future citizens of their life's walk, must come much upon which will depend the whole future of the country. In your Normal School course you would be given something to study on psychology, (one of the most prominent studies of the day), and, perhaps, you thought most of how you could creditably pass your examination on that subject among the rest. But in this you were being given an introduction into one of the greatest of all studies—next to that of God—the study of man. Man is the highest object in creation, so far as our senses can perceive. Mind and spirit are wonderful mysteries, connected as they are with the physical world over which we are supposed to be supreme. In teaching and training the mind, you are preparing the royal element in creation for its kingly mission. "The best result of all these efforts," says an agricultural professor, "is not to make rural life easy, but to make it noble. All obstacles need not be smoothed away, but enough of them to make conquest possible. It is not effort and struggle that derive farm life of satisfaction, but continual and unobtrusive success. Success is necessary to any degree of satisfaction, and to the growth of noble character."

Do not get the idea that, should you undertake a forward move, the people are going to flock to your banner and everything go with a swing. But, remember, obstacles are things to be overcome, not to fall down before, as Satan would have the Lord Himself bow, if only once, before him. I was once required the use of a school house for religious services, connected as they were with the public building. Out of that refusal came a movement which resulted in the erection of a much more suitable building, finished, containing an organ, and all owned by the church.

You can tell me nothing about the lack of interest, the narrowness, the selfishness, you are likely to meet. I am more sure that the wide ones who will tell you, "What is the big idea? What do you expect to get out of this? Where is your graft?" And how people will tell you, "I don't know, but I'll be there if you preach a sermon, I should remind you of the multitude who raised enthusiastic "Howanms!" one day, and the very next, joining in the same road. "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" But I would mention this not simply as an example of the sickness of the multitude, but to remind you that the way, the Way of the Cross, leads to a resurrection, that success along high lines of endeavor is through patient endurance, through suffering and through sorrow finally turned into joy. And that joy alone is genuine which comes not from the possession of a reward, but from the consciousness of a battle bravely and fairly fought—a life's work well done.

ADMITTS SHOOTING CHILDREN IN AUTO

Youth Says He Fired at Car, Thinking It Empty, to Celebrate the Fourth.

New York, July 8—Max Rubin, 20, of 265 South Second street, Brooklyn, admitted to Magistrate Dale in the Gates avenue police court that he fired into a light-covered commercial motor truck Tuesday night at Washington avenue and B street, seriously wounding Joseph Gordon, 15, of 120 St. Mark's avenue, Manhattan, and Fannie Gordon, 2, sister of Joseph, and Samuel Simon, 14, who lives a little same address as the Gordons.

Magistrate Dale held Rubin without bail on a charge of felonious assault for examination. Two others arrested with Rubin by the police of the Coney Island station, where the high-powered car containing the assailant and friends was stopped, were discharged. Rubin exaggerated them. They were Joseph Rosenberg of 219 East Fourth street, Manhattan, and his brother Herman.

Rubin told Assistant District Attorney Voss that he did not know there was anybody in the body of the car in which the children were riding. He fired the shots to celebrate the Fourth, he said, and used the side of the Cumberland Street Hospital in a serious condition.

JURORS MUST NOT TASTE IT.

Tallahassee, Fla., July 8—Jurors in liquor cases in Florida in future are expected to sip the beverage in the courtroom. The liquid evidence, for the State Supreme Court opines that such a practice may violate the Volstead act.

The court's opinion was expressed in a lengthy decision quashing the judgment of a county court and affirmation by the circuit court, because the defendant was convicted on evidence obtained without a search warrant. When the defendant was on trial in the county court, members of the jury were permitted to sip the evidence. In discussing this phase, after severely criticizing the obtaining of evidence in an illegal manner, the decision said:

"Even where all the jurors drink of the liquor, this is a very questionable proceeding, and may be a violation of the Volstead act."

WASHLINES SAVE BOY'S LIFE

Falls Five Stories From Roof and Escapes With Broken Ankle.

New York, July 8—The washing of several families in the rear of 96 East Houston street was spoiled in saving the life of James Conderin, 10, who lives there. He went up to the roof with several other boys to play ball and fell off.

It was five stories to the ground, but James bounced from washline to washline until he hit the roof of a shed. When persons ran to him expecting to find him dead they found that all James had suffered was a broken ankle.

DAREDEVIL INJURED.

Would-be Moon-Shooter Hurt in Head Dive.
Ashbury Park, N. J., July 8—Charles N. Fitzgerald, celebrated dare-devil, who in 1916 offered to shoot to the moon in the interests of science, is in a serious condition as the result of a 222-foot head-dive from an aeroplane into the ocean before a holiday crowd here. His jump is said to be a world record. Fitzgerald, who was piloted by Jack Casey, plunged head first from a wing-tip with the machine traveling seventy miles an hour. He touched the bottom in thirty feet of water. Life guards brought him ashore. He is suffering from a twisted neck, broken wrist and possible internal injuries.

BOUGHT THE RYE BUT IT WAS GRAIN

U. S. Prohibition Agent's Experience With a Toronto Man.

New York, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Last week Mayor Mravag of Elizabeth, N. J., received a letter from Toronto, Ont., offering him "twelve full quarts of Morgan's pure Canadian rye" for $18.

The mayor wasn't interested much, but turned the letter over to Prohibition Enforcement Agent Cone of Newark. The latter scented an anti-Volstead plot, and mailed the money as directed.

Yesterday the parcel post man delivered a package to Mr. Cone. It was rye all right, but not the thirst-quenching kind. It was the grain instead of the essence. Cone says they can't possibly touch the "alicker" that sold it to him.

AUDACIOUS VANDALISM

Paris, July 8.—A valuable seventeenth century bronze statuette, representing King Louis Fourteenth standing before a marble mantelpiece in the Great Monarch's bed chamber, mysteriously disappeared yesterday from the Versailles Museum. The statuette was firmly fixed on a wooden stand ornamented with heavy brass, from which it was wrenched by the thief. Museum attendants suppose that the theft was committed during the luncheon hour by a foreign tourist or souvenir hunter, who must have been possessed with considerable nerve and audacity, as the room is rarely empty for more than a few moments at a time.

OF INTEREST TO N. B. FARMERS

(Special to The Times)

Fredericton, N. B., July 8.—James D. Thomson of Ottawa wool grading expert for the live stock branch division of the department of agriculture arrived in Fredericton on Thursday night and will take up the grading of the wool collected here through the co-operative wool growers' association. The wool amounts to 25,000 pounds. That is less than it was last season because the farmers who are desirous of getting ready money are selling to itinerant wool growers.

The most expensive ball ever imported into New Brunswick arrived at Harzey yesterday. It is a three year old Jersey, which has been imported for the Jersey cattle raisers' club by the Harzey Agricultural Society. That club was the first of its kind in eastern Canada.

Thomas L. Hetherington formerly live stock superintendent of the New Brunswick department of agriculture is now in N. B. in the interest of the co-operative wool growers association.

PARTRIDGE TIRES

Take the Tire-Makers' Advice

—and you will buy Cord Tires every time, not fabrics. That is, unless you want size 30x3 1/2, in which case either the Cord or Partridge Trump fabric is unequalled. The Trump is the only Canadian fabric built on the cord process.

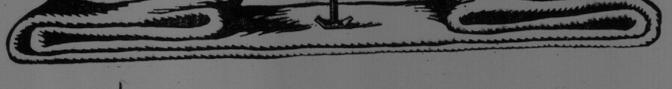

In all other sizes, there is no question of comparison. For instance a 34x4 1/2 fabric at $39.50 will not give half the mileage of a 33x4 Partridge Cord, its approximate equal in size, costing only $38.50.

GIRL TRIES 3RD TIME TO DIE

Margaret Buckley Takes Bichloride Tablets in Movie Theatre — Likely to Recover.

New York, July 8.—Miss Margaret Buckley, daughter of H. V. Buckley, of Kansas City, Mo., on June 17, said she had poisoned herself by mistake in taking three tablets of bichloride of mercury for asperin. On last Wednesday afternoon she swallowed five more tablets of the poison and then waited for death in a balcony seat at the Capitol Theatre, at Broadway and Fifty-first street. Although this is said to be the third time she has been a patient at Bellevue Hospital for poison treatment, physicians were hopeful last night of again saving her life.

The early afternoon performance had started when an usher noticed that Miss Buckley appeared to be ill. She had collapsed when she reached her, but regained consciousness as he carried her to a rest room. There the girl told the matron of taking the tablets and of her desire to die. If she survives it will be due to the prompt action of the matron and employes in forcing the girl to take several large doses of eggs and milk to counteract the effects of the poison. On her theatre chair were found two books, one of which bore the title "In the Potter's Hands."

MOST OF THE AILMENTS THAT MAY ATTACK YOUR BABY

arise from improper feeding, and it is important that mothers should understand that baby will thrive best if fed in the natural way—at the breast. This will not be so difficult of accomplishment if the prospective mother includes in her daily food a bowlful of Nestlé's Health Diet. But there are very many cases when the baby cannot be breast-fed, and then an important decision has to be made—"Which food shall we give our baby?" It is nearly a century since Nestlé's Food was first made, and the remarkable way in which delicate and discouraged children have thriven on it has caused its fame to extend throughout the world.

Babies thrive on

According to the brief statement of Miss Buckley she had swallowed the tablets after a light luncheon in a nearby restaurant. "My only friend is Miss Wilson of 1 West Seventieth street," she told Police- man Reicher of the West Forty-seventh street station. At the address in West Seventieth street it was said Miss Wilson was a private secretary to a woman living in an apartment there, and that both had departed for a summer home without leaving an address. Miss Buckley said she lived in an apartment at 100 West Ninetieth street. One of the two women who occupy this apartment said Miss Buckley had not lived there since June 17, and had been there only two weeks previously, renting a room.

On the night of June 17 Miss Buckley was removed from the Hotel Claridge to Bellevue, suffering from mercurial poisoning. Two men accompanied her in a taxicab, one of whom said he was her father, a traveling salesman of Kansas City. At the Claridge last night it was said Mr. Buckley had departed several weeks ago. Miss Buckley is twenty-four years old. She was discharged from Bellevue several days ago. The first time she was there her case was diagnosed as ptomaine poisoning.

CLERGYMAN'S SISTER CONTESTS HIS WILL

Riverhead, L. I., July 8.—Objections have been filed in the Surrogate's Court to the probate of the will of Ezekiel Braddin Hamilton, by his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sutherland, of Toronto. The will drafted by Mr. Hamilton himself, left $5 to each of his brothers and sisters, and bequeathed $500 each to several friends. Mrs. Sutherland alleged in her objection that the will was not executed by Hamilton, that he was not of sound mind and memory on the date of making of the alleged will was obtained by fraud, undue influence and duress, and that interpolations and alterations were not made according to law. Mr. Hamilton, who was formerly an Episcopal clergyman, died suddenly on April 1 in the Long Island house here.

NEW YORK HAD 55 FIRE ALARMS ON JULY 4

Advantages of a safe and sane Fourth of July are reflected in the report of fires received by Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan. There were fifty-five alarms in Manhattan. Of these sixteen were maliciously false—that is, boxes were pulled by children or adults with a warped sense of humor. Twenty-five of the fires were caused by fireworks, usually by sparks falling on awnings or curtains. Chief Valentine Fendrich of the Fire Alarm Telegraph Bureau said that the total damage at these fires did not exceed $200.

The average number of alarms in Manhattan was about thirty, he said. There were fifty-five alarms turned in in Manhattan on July 4, 1921; fifty-seven in 1920, eighty-five in 1919 and forty-nine in 1918. In Brooklyn and Queens twenty-two alarms were transmitted on the Fourth, and forty in 1921. "It was an unusually quiet Fourth," said Commissioner Drennan. "Although there were doubtless a few violations of the city fireworks ordinance, there was considerably less noise than last year, and if things quiet down from year to year in the same proportion none of the dangers of the old-fashioned celebration will survive."

PLANT HAS STOMACH. That certain insect-devouring plants secrete juices containing a powerful digestive ferment which acts like that of the human stomach has been determined by Dr. Joseph S. Hepburn of the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia. One of these plants is the Venus fly trap, which is a native of North Carolina. Each of its leaves is provided with several trigger hairs, and closes like the pod of a lima bean. When an insect comes upon the leaf, it may touch one of the trigger hairs, but nothing happens. As the insect moves about upon the leaf it may touch the same trigger hair a second time, or it may touch another trigger hair. In either case, on the second contact, the leaf snaps shut upon the helpless insect. A liquid is poured out and the carcass of the insect is digested. The investigators demonstrated the presence, in the secreted liquid, of a digestive ferment which acts like that of the human stomach.

MUCH BRIGHTER AT SYDNEY, N. S.

Steel Plant Pay Roll $10,000 a Day After Monday—Miners, Too, are Busy.

Sydney, N. S., July 8.—When the open hearth furnaces commence making steel on Monday, the payroll of the Sydney steel plant will amount to $10,000 a day for the first time since November 22, 1920, so it was announced at British Empire Steel headquarters here last night.

On that date the depression in the steel trade first began to be felt here and various departments of the plant closed down one after another until at one time there were barely 1,300 men working three days a week.

During the last three months business has been picking up and still further improvement is looked for. Local business conditions reflect the increased industrial activity. This is supplemented by full time at the mines, which are rushed to supply orders from Upper Canada and the United States.

FORMER U.N.B. MAN HEADS KALAMAZOO

Dr. Allan A. Hoben is the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. R. Robinson, at Grand Bay. Dr. Hoben, who has been on the staff of Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., has been chosen to succeed Dr. H. L. Stetson as president of Kalamazoo College. In an article which describes him as "teacher, soldier, writer and educator," the Kalamazoo Gazette of June 29 says:

"Dr. Allan Hoben, newly appointed president of Kalamazoo College is a man with a rare interest in youth and the realization of the fullest possibilities latent in young man or woman. His books on 'The Minister and the Boy,' the 'Church School of Citizenship,' and the one entitled 'Life Investments,' which is a series of syndicated articles to be published this fall, are all concerned with the problems of youth.

"Nine months with the fifth division in France and service for several years as field secretary for the Juvenile Protective Association in Chicago are sidelights on the academic career of the man who is to step into the position of one of the leading educators of the state.

"Dr. Allan Hoben received his A. B. degree from the University of New Brunswick in 1895, his M. A. from the same institution in 1897. He studied for three years at the University of Chicago receiving his Ph. D. degree from there in 1901. While a student at Chicago he held a New Testament fellowship and specialized in the New Testament and sociology. In 1905 he went to Newton Theological Institution, where he pursued a theological course, graduating in 1908. For twelve years following his resignation from the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Detroit, he held the chair of associate professor of practical theology at the University of Chicago, leaving there in 1919 to accept the chair of sociology at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

"He comes to Kalamazoo highly recommended as a man of strong executive capability, a man of delightful personality with a powerful influence over young people. Throughout his career as a college professor he has made many close friends among his students, is highly respected, and is becoming well known nationally as a gifted educator."

NEW MARK BY AILEEN RIGGIN

Star Girl Swimmer Coming Here for Next Saturday—Clips Record in Race, Also Wins Diving Match.

A letter received by Frank White from Joe Moore, New York, this morning tells of more great work in the water by Aileen Riggins, girl swimmer, who is one of the noted stars coming to St. John for the big aquatic carnival on next Saturday.

He sends word that four world's and one American swimming records for women were created at a water carnival in the seventy-five-foot open air pool of the Brighton Beach Baths the other day.

Miss Riggins set her mark in free style swimming. Competing in an invitation 300-yard handicap against Miss Ethel Baker, junior national champion at 220 yards, who received a start of five seconds, she earned victory by four yards in 4m. 17 3/8-8s, clipping 5 2-5 seconds from the American record for a seventy-five-foot pool, hung up by Miss Charlotte Boyle in the same bath on April 19, 1919.

Miss Riggins also evened up matters at the meet for the defeat suffered at the hands of Miss Elizabeth Becker of the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, in the national fancy diving championship at Brighton recently.

They tried conclusions in a scratch contest from the same springboard, and Miss Riggins returned the winning total of 102.05 points, against 91.65 points scored by Miss Becker. Little Kathryn Brown, twelve years old, was third with 85.95 points.

A 100-yard handicap swim for members of the New York W. S. went to Miss Lillian Stoddard, junior national 800-yard champion, in the actual time of 1m. 15 3/8-8s.
