They were, for the most part, a vague, unmeaning jumble of seeming predictions applicable to no special event, and without point or general metered and coated the nam with a carmer glaze. A much finer way is to glaze it with strong meat, jelly, or any savory jelly you may have, boiled down rapidly until it is like glue, taking great care during this boiling-down process to prevent burning. This jelly should be brushed over acter, who lived more than three hundred

The same rule for boiling holds good with beef. Corned beef is generally a hard, salt, dry fare; but properly cooked, public in 1677.

In 1862, Mr. Charles Hindly, of Brighton, England, issued what purported to be an exact reprint of "A Chap-book Version of Mother Shipton's Prophecies, from the Edition of 1448." In this, for the first time, there were point and pith, and special application. All modern discoveries were plainly described, and one prophecy which began:

hard, salt, dry fare; but properly cooked, it should be more tender than roast meat and almost as juicy. That any boiled meat shall be tender, it is necessary to remember that the process must be slow. Different people have made such different interpretations of the expression, "slow boiling," that it will be well to be explicit. Most people think that if the whole surface of the water is in a state of slow spullition, this is slow boiling. For boiling meat a this is slow boiling. The richest man in England at present is the Duke of Westminister, whose income from London property alone is estimated at £400,000. His rural land estates yield some £100,000 more. His total income from real and personal estate aggregates about $3,500,000. Great as is in this income, it does not come up to the come, enjoyed by Jno Jacob Astor and Wm H. The Overseer was, it ems, fully justified, under the, law in making the seizure, and Mr. McFee, knowing, as he must have done, that Mr. Mowat had no option but to seize, seems to have acted most imprudently in not taking the advice tendered to him before the seizure was made. It may be that McFee thought he but as he made himself the judge of that matter, and took the responsibility attaching, he has only himself to blame when the highest court in the Dominion pronounces him in error. Our remarks respecting the hardship of Mr. McFee's case were based upon the statement of the Citizen, from which it appeared that the only evidence the Overseer acted upon was the fact as presented, viz.—that McFec's boat vas caught in the act of coming to the shad on board. If that were the only evidence before the Overseer we would still maintain our former ground. We are glad, however, to learn that every opportunity was given to Mr. McFee to avoid the trouble into which he seems Overseer Mowat, like a loyal with the following remarks:officer, endeavors to make the matter appear better for the Government by saying the drifting in the Bay of Fundy is "on account of the shad fishery." He protects himself, however, by interpolating the words, "if I am right."

upper parts of that Bay thousands of fathoms of nets are drifted every night during the season for shad and in the lower parts there are, at the same time, other thousands of fathoms being drifted for Salmon. We cannot understand the process of reasoning by which those intrusted with the management of our Fisheries at Ottawa justify the prohibi-Fisheries at Ottawa justify the prohibition of drifting for Salmon in the Bay Chaleur, while they can see no harm in permitting it in the Bay of Fundy. It is fair to assume that they are not guided in the matter by knowledge and a desire to intelligently administer the interest entrusted to them, but by an expediency which seeks for justification only in the promotion of purposes as only in the promotion of purposes as transient and unworthy as they are foreign to the great industry that is thus prostituted. The celebration of the National Festival of our fellow countrymen of French origin was appropriately inaugurated yesterday by a Pontifical Mass, said by His Grace Archbishop Taschereau, the successor of the venerated Laval in the primatial See of Quebec-the mother, so to speak, of the some seventy dioceses which have sprung from her. The weather was, up to near surnamed the Maccabeus of Canada, by the conclusion of the sermon when a light shower fell, somewhat overcast, when the sun shone out gloriously, which elicited the remark from a hystander that such might be the history of this Canada of ours-dark, and sombre and troubled in her early days, but bright and resplendent as she grew to age. The scene presented was truly a magnificent one. On one of the hillocks of the "Cove Fields," on the site, almost, of the old French fortifications, an altar was erected under a circular canopy around which was an appropriate inscription. In the foreground the different sections with allegorical cars, banners, &c., took up their allotted position, and everything was conducted in a manner which reflects the highest credit on the President and all his subordinates-as usual a great deal being due to the latter. The attendance is variously estimated, but, During the celebration of the Pontifical low Mass two choirs stationed on either side of the altar sang the Kyrie, Gloria, and Credo in a remarkably fine and correct the correspondence incurred by such sales is carried on through the aid of numerous orchestra and were under the Zouaves carrying their magnificent new banner and also the Carillon flag, entered
