HOME AND SCHOOL HELP EACH OTHER

The following paper was given by Mrs. Brazil Seeley at the April meeting of the Hartland Women's Institute:

We are all aware we are living in an age of great institutions. The three greatest of these are the Church, the home and the school. We cannot consider any of these three institutions without associating one with the other. And in the case of the child the home and the school seem to unite. In the home is laid the foundation of the church and the school. The kind of student the child becomes is largely due to the home influences. You all know the meaning of the term—home. It's not the house but the persons and their influences that make the home.

What is School? A place where instruction is given and we send our children to school to acquire an education.

Next comes the question—what is Education? Education is the development of all the powers of the individual, both physical and intellectual.

Now in the home we are responsible for the greater part of the physical education of our children. Here is a chance for the parents in the home to co-operate with the school in seeing that the laws of cleanliness, regularity and proper nourishment are duly enforced. To develop brain power the body must be kept in a good physical condition as the intellectual depends on the physical, thus an ill-fed body retards the education of the child.

Next comes Home Influence. In nine cases out of ten you can trace the failure of the boy or girl in educational matters to the lack of interest and help in the home. We realize that not all parents are able to help their children in their studies at home but they can all encourage them thus showing an interest in their work at school. If you do no more than ask if they are getting their questions right or how many words they misspelled the child readily sees you are interested in the school work and they almost invariably try to do better. If you are fitted to help them at the study hours never be too busy with the little petty cares of the home to deny them the help solicited. You may be busy but the education of your child is vastly more important than the ordinary things of life. Remember in co-operation with the school you are fitting a boy or girl for life. If they become a success or a failure is largely the responsibility of the home influence. Have the children observe regular study hours at home and see that the home work has been finished before they leave for school. The home study is just as important as the school study. Do not expect the teacher to have all to do in the education of your child. You in the home must do your part.

Then comes Criticism. How very careful we should be how we criticize the teacher and in fact the school in general before the child, and how often that criticism is most unjust; perhaps uttered in ignorance of the true facts and if we found out, these facts may be our own responsibility instead of the teacher's. In a great many cases on the teacher is placed the responsibility of the child not grading when perhaps at home there has been shown a lack of interest on the part of the parents and the proper encouragement has not been given to the child. We in the home are deeply responsible for the educational success of our children. Now I do not mean to put all the responsibility on the parents. I think the teacher's part is equally as responsible and I believe that no conscientious teacher will fail to do their part if they know they have the help and sympathy of the parents. On the other hand I think the school and the home should be so closely related that the teacher should know, as much as possible, the home life of the child, thus enabling him or her to better understand the child and the parents to be so familiar with the school life that they may be in position to help the child at home.

I might say in closing that the greater the bond of sympathy and co-operation between these two great institutions, the home and the school, the greater will be the power for the advancement along educational lines in the lives of children in our land.

BATH BASE BALL TEAM ACTIVE

Stirring Games With Juniper and Woodstock—Now Ready for More

The baseball season is in full swing in Northern Carleton county. The local aggregation have played five games to date. The opening games were on May 26 when a double-header was played with the Juniper nine. The first game was called at 3 p.m. The first innings were marked by very loose playing both by the locals and visitors. As the game progressed many good plays were made and long before the game innings were terminated, the fans had become enthusiastic, despite the score piled up against the home team, Juniper carrying home the bacon. Score 11-4.

At 6.30 the teams again assembled and presented a different brand of ball, shutting out the visitors 4-0. Of special note, to many, will be the fact that the "Monquaters," possess this year an interchangeable battery—Shaw, pitcher in the first game, was back-stop during the second battle; Estabrooks, vice-versa.

On June 3 a return double-header match was played in foreign territory. The locals journeyed to Juniper. As a coincidence Juniper won the first game 6-5. Bath pitched the first game 1-9. Shaw pitched the mound in the second. The Juniper battery at these games was James Turner, catcher; "Club" Turnbull pitched. The boys were given a good reception at Juniper and as one of them remarked, "They are all clean sports—men after my own heart." Truly said, men after my own heart. Both aggregations are composed of good sports, the best that each community has to offer; aggregations of which any club, town or community might well be proud of.

On Friday, June 6, the Woodstock players were the guests of the local club and played a game of ball on the local diamond. The initial inning was loose, marked by errors by both teams, the remaining part of the game was marked by thrills. Seldom an inning passing without either double or triple plays being pulled off for the benefit of the fans. The game was fast, thrilling and was the finest exhibition of ball handed out to the fans this season.

Batteries: Visitors, Polchis, pitcher and McKinley, catcher. Home boys—Shaw, pitcher and Estabrooks, catcher.

MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

At the special meeting of the Town Council, held June 6 the following business was transacted:

Treasurer's report was read showing collections for May $140.84, with expenditure of $518.20.

Special committee on Hagerman rebate reported progress and asked an extension of time which was granted.

Committee on lock-up reported they had not been able to come to any definite agreement in regard to purchasing a lot of land to build on. This motion was given extension of time.

Committee on court assessment reported that some facts had been gathered on the matter and requested that a sub-committee be appointed to secure some legal advice. Aldermen W. White, A. Y. Dickinson and C. W. McQuarrie, financial committee, reported the assessment not quite ready, but would be so in a short time. Also reported the purchasing of two rubber stamps for Town Treasurer's office.

The Fire and Water Committee reported motor has been installed in pumping station and is working well. Report accepted. Bills and accounts ordered paid.

Mayor McFarland suggested putting the names of the streets at the corner of each street for convenience of strangers, also to request through the Observer those coming into town with horses to use the place provided by the town for hitching and not tie them to the poles along the street, and to those using cars to park them on the right side of the street. On motion recommendations were carried out.

Mayor McFarland, C. W. McQuarrie and H. R. Nixon were appointed the committee to look after said signs and see they were put up.

The street committee reported they were soon to start work on streets and sidewalks.

It was moved by Ald. W. B. Nixon and seconded by Ald. A. Y. Dickinson that Heckbert Co. be given the following concessions: The first year the company operates they may be exempt from taxes, and that each succeeding year for a term of four years they be taxed on one-quarter of full valuation at regular rates, providing they have at least ten men on their pay roll in Hartland.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The annual memorial service for our glorious dead will be held at Hartland in the United Baptist church on Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. June 22. Every returned man who can come please come and join in the parade in honor of our comrades who did not come back—it's in honor of them, our dead comrades.

Come with uniform or with civilian clothes, just as you please. The service button tells the story and the uniform does not matter—it's your presence that counts and shows honor to your comrades who sleep in heroes' graves.

Let every family that lost a loved one in the Great War come and join in our memorial service for one day let our men be in harmony, in honor or of our. Let in thanksgiving to God, that the sacrifice was not made in vain, that victory was won by the sacrifice. Let us not forget the names of the ones who made the great sacrifice. Let the school child read over the names for their names shall live forevermore. These are the ones we will honor on memorial day together with the countless heroes in other places.

Electro-plating a Canadian Railway Operation

Photographs showing electro-plating operations at the Angus Shops, Montreal. No. 1 shows the tanks in which small articles are hung for plating, and No. 5 the lacquer-ing process. The text below explains the other photographs fully.

Passengers on the Trans-Canada and other Canadian trains have often admired the tableware with which the dining cars are equipped, but comparatively few of the travelling public appreciate the extent to which electro-plating enters into every day use on a Railway. As a matter of fact, practically all metal hardware parts of passenger equipment interior are plated, many of the engine parts, including the copper re-flectors of the head-light are plated, and various platings are used on a thousand and one articles which enter daily into the life of a railroader.
The traveler notices the silver plate perhaps more than any other, but many metals are used by the railroad companies. Gold, for instance, is used by the Canadian Pacific for plating pepper castor tops and similar articles, copper is used on lighting and other metal car fixtures, zinc on refrigerator hardware, nickel on kitchen utensils, tin on rainmen's lanterns, mercury on telegraph elements and aluminum or lead on miscellaneous articles.

At its Angus Shops, Montreal, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has quite an extensive plant where the most of its electro-plating is carried on. The method used by this Company is a simple one but none the less effective.

The articles to be plated are first chemically cleaned, after which they are usually hung from a metal bar into a long vat where they are immersed in a chemical solution which varies with the metal to be deposited. The electric current, which is of low voltage, is connected, the positive pole to the metal plate or plates, and the negative to the bar from which the articles to be plated are suspended. As the electric current flows from the plating metal to the suspended articles, the metal is carried through the solution and deposited in the form of a thin coating over the entire surface of the required article.

This process is well illustrated in No. 2, which shows two electric headlight reflectors in the process of receiving silver plating. In this case the plate of silver is suspended in the centre of the reflector, which is filled with cyanide of potassium solution, and the electric current flows from the plate to the reflector which is, itself, the negative pole.

Illustration No. 3 shows the next step in the treatment of the headlight reflector, which, by the way, gives the highest concentration of light known. This is hand burnishing, the operator burnishing two reflectors in a working day. For articles which can be readily polished by a rotating buffing wheel, this is accomplished in the manner shown in No. 4.

Upon completion of the polishing operation, articles to be so treated are placed in a metal container and, by means of a small compressed air gun, sprayed with suitable lacquer. If it is desired to oxidize the plated article in order to make it harmonize with woodwork or other material, as is often the case with copper platings, it is exposed to heat or vapor, or immersed in some solution prior to the application of the finishing coat of lacquer.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company was the first large corporation in Canada to install its own electro-plating plant, but during the last few years this method of protecting metal from oxidation has developed into quite an industry and one which employs a large number of Canadian workmen.

Brown Six-Row Potato Sprayer

BROWN POTATO SPRAYERS have for several years been the favorite with the potato growers on the St. John river for the reason that the clog proof nozzle makes it possible for the operator to spray for hours without stopping to clean the nozzles.

THE DOUBLE CYLINDER DISPLACEMENT PUMP takes its power from wheels by a convenient chain drive direct from axles thus doing away with side motion and drive chain trouble. The pump has brass plunger 2 1/8 inch in diameter, packed with graphite composition, from the outside thus assuring a high pressure at the nozzles. All check valves in pump are brass fitted to brass seats and can be easily ground or replaced. Large air chamber tested under higher pressure, that assures a steady pressure at the nozzles.

REVOLVING TWIN PADDLES in tank to assure Bordeaux mixture being well mixed when in operation.

THE HUNDRED GALLON TANK is square and of cypress wood, with the top removable in case of any trouble in the tank, whereas with the barrel tank sprayer it is impossible to do this.

THE WHEELS ARE GENUINE SARVIAN WHEELS, 4 feet in diameter, with 3 inch tire, all of good material that will stand for years which is very necessary in a sprayer that is to carry 100 gallons.

THE AXLE is cold roll steel 1 3/4 inch in diameter and we have never yet known one to break.

Hundreds of these sprayers are now in use and have given perfect satisfaction. We have a limited number for the season of 1921 and would advise anyone in need of a sprayer to place his order with us or with our agent nearest to him. The price is $200 on reasonable terms.

CENTREVILLE GIRLS GUIDES ORGANIZED

Active Work Among Young Women of Nearby Town

The first Centreville troop of the Girl Guides Association was organized by Mr. Lester January 17, 1924. The officers elected by the company are: Captain, Mrs. L. Roy Willemant; 1st Lieutenant, Mrs. Jack Lee; 2nd Lieutenant, Alice Smith. The company was divided into two patrols, the leaders being the Misses Laura Smith and Lillian Goodspeed and assistants, Cassie Reid and Dorothy Trafford. The Guides sold 500 pictures for the buying of the literature. The leaders took up when literature arrived and all passed the test successfully March 21, 1924.

The Guides for a good lesson are helping to support an Armenian child for a year. They received the ten dollar badge May 12 and had the enrollment ceremony May 24, where we were presented with our badges.

The guides are studying for second class tests on Friday, May 23. The Swallow patrol gave a party in visiting the Owl patrol, games and music being the amusements. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

The Girl Guides attended the Methodist church Sunday, May 25, to celebrate Empire Day. The Rev. Hugh Miller, who is the pastor of that church spoke very nicely to the guides, inviting them to come again.

On Monday, May 12 the guides were given a lecture on first aid by Mrs. Dr. Peppers, formerly a graduate nurse from Massachusetts General Hospital. The guides are planning an entertainment of which the proceeds are for the buying of the guide uniform.

PENS FAMOUS IN HISTORY.

Souvenirs of the Great Events of the Past Ages.

Where are the shows of yesterday? asked the reporter. Some- times wonder what has become of the pens that have acted in the great events of history, or that set down on paper the immortal fancies of the giants of literature.

Visitors to the Record Office will recall on the library desk the pen which Sir Walter Scott's busy hand ceased to cap only a few hours before his death. During a trip in France this spring I spent an hour at Les Chartreux, Rousseau's home near Chambray, and saw in the room occupied by him the veritable quill with which he wrote the famous "Confessions." With one exception these are the only instances I know of the preservation of the writing instruments of the great names of history.

In my ignorance I recently wasted an hour or so in the British Museum in an attempt to discover notable relics of this kind. The pen with which King John made his mark on Magna Carta; that which signed the death warrant of Charles I.; the pen with which the girl Queen Victoria entered in her journal the impressions of that memorable night when she was summoned from her bed to mount the throne of Great Britain; and the ornate fountain pen employed by Mr. Lloyd George at Versailles.

"I'm afraid you won't find anything but a few pens," said the courteous attendant to whom, after my fruitless search, I had recourse. "A collection of pens famous in history and literature would be exceptionally interesting. But I doubt if there is any museum in London where such a collection exists."

On his advice I visited the Record Office in Chancery Lane, the London Museum, and Sir John Soane's Museum in Lincoln's Inn. My solitary find was in Soane's House collection, where there is shown the goose-quill which George III. threw down upon the table when blindness sealed his eyes. Does any reader know of a pen that has been in continuous use for, say, ten years and upwards? As to the quill, its use was usually brief. Yet history records at least one instance when a single quill wrote the entire literary output of a prolific divine.

This was Dr. Warner, the eighteenth century author of no fewer than forty-four volumes. He was known as "Single Pen Warner."

It seems incredible that these fascinating souvenirs of the great events of the ages should have been allowed to perish. Perhaps they are dispersed up and down the country in private collections. Here is a suggestion for the man of wealth who is looking for a hobby—to amass a collection of the famous pens of the past and present, and to down the country in private collections. Here is a suggestion for the man of wealth who is looking for a hobby—to amass a collection of the famous pens of the past and present, and to down the country in private collections.

The story of the evolution of the pen would make an absorbing feature in such a collection, showing the early efforts to realize the idea of a magazine or newspaper pen, from the "fountain inkhorn" of the eighteenth century, and Bramah's tube of thin silver from which the ink was forced into the nib by squeezing, down to the present automatic fountain pen, handsome in appearance and supremely workmanlike in design, which provides a perfect instrument to the writer of this favored age.—A. P. G. in Family Herald.

Tommy's "Hussli."

The Alderston, England, command has ordered that minor repairs, such as attaching buttons to tunics, rejoining parted seams, and darning small holes, should be carried out by the soldier himself with the assistance of his "housewife" (pronounced hussli by the quartermaster sergeant). But where, in the opinion of the commanding officer, the damage is beyond Tommy and his "hussli" the garment shall be taken to the garrison shops and the repair executed on the wait-and-see principle.

In the garrison the order is regarded as a direct incentive to matrimony. The soldier, unlike the sailor, is not a journeyman. The "hussli" is looked upon as an article to be produced only at kit inspection and not to be lightly opened for re-affixing buttons when string or a safety-pin is available.

Oyster Rebuff.

In the British House of Commons, objection was taken to the action of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries in granting to the Sensalter and Ha Company the fishing rights over a square mile of water to the north-east of the Isle of Sheppey, in the estuary of the Thames.

Major Rugeley-Brose said this was an area from which oysters, mussels, and starfish were obtained, and the action of the Ministry was a serious deprivation of the rights of the fishermen in Tollesbury, Essex, and Whitstable, Kent.

The Government left a decision to the House, and the bill sanctioning the grant was rejected by 184 to 61.

A Full Mechanical Staff.

Ferdinand de Mac-Irving, the eminent tragedian, comedian, and the rest of it, was billed for a one-night show at Jaffray-on-the-Moors. So he sent a telegram to the proprietor of the local theatre: "Will hold a rehearsal to-morrow night. Have stage manager, stage carpenter, property man, assistant electrician, and all other stage hands there without fail." Within a few hours he got a reply from a proprietor who wired back: "He will be there."

A Big Mistake.

Five hundred paperworkers at Valleyfield Mills, Edinburgh, struck because one man left the trade union. They remained on strike for four months, received $50,000 in strike pay, and lost $150,000 in wages. They are now going back to work. The one man is still outside the trade union.

ROYAL OAK, MICH.

I thought some of the people of Carleton County who have boys and girls, brothers and sisters out here might like to know something of this place. It was first settled over 100 years ago by a shoemaker named White and was named by a man called Lewis Cass. Cass was overtaken by night on one of his tramps through the woods and made his bed under a large oak tree and upon rising in the morning exclaimed "What a Royal Oak." A tablet today marks the place where Gen. Lewis Cass slept on that night. The first subdivision was laid out in 1836. The first school, a Baptist, was built in 1829. A library was opened in 1870. It was incorporated as a village in 1891 with a population of 400. In 1921 it became a city. George Dondors being the first mayor. It is exclusively a residential city with over 90 per cent of its population owning their own homes. It has two large banks and two nice theatres. The population now is 45,000. Our present Mayor is Alex G. Miller.

Things are looking better in this city lately. All our boys who have come have been successful in securing work. One thing noticeable is that a Canadian boy can get a job quicker than one living here.

Frankie Styles is working for the J. F. Graves Lumber Co. Alton Cullen has a position with the Gifford Lumber Co.

Jay Dow is making good with the Gifford Lumber Co. as is also Weldon Tompkins.

Henry Crockett of Stickney Brook has secured a position with the Gas Co.

Bliss Foster, George Clark, Lou Foster and Moody are all doing well. The big league games are always well patronized by Carleton Co. boys.

We have changed the name of Purdys Corner to Canadian Corner. You can always count from 25 to 30 boys on this corner in the evening, mostly from Carleton County.

We still see Victoria Spinney at the wicket in the Savings Bank.

Henry Tompkins of Florenceville is working with the Ford Company. Miss Georgia Britton of Woodstock arrived in the city today.

John Gallagher and Arch Ritchie are both working for the J. F. Graves Lumber Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brownell, Frankie Styles, Alton Cullen, J. Dow, Bill Tompkins, all were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. King, Parent street, where they spent a very enjoyable evening.

Sam Denton of North Devon has secured a good position with a contractor.

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach, that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I tried several doctors, but it seemed nothing they gave me helped. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I tried it, and can say it certainly has done wonders for me. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes."

CAUSE OF DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

(Telegraph-Journal)

Grand Falls, June 8. Coroner G. A. Ryan conducted an inquest on the body of Joseph O'Regan, who was found dead on Wednesday morning. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death caused by a fall from the verandah of his home. Mr. O'Regan and his family lived over a store and there is a heavy stable at the back. It was Mr. O'Regan's custom to go in the stable, leaning over the verandah railing in order to see, as he was afraid of fire. It is supposed that in doing this his feet slipped and he fell to the ground, some distance below, causing death.

Here and There

Shipments of grain from the Grande Prairie and Peace River districts over the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway during the past season have totaled 2,471,000 bushels of wheat and 1,700,500 bushels of other grains.

The longest solid train of red cedar edge grain shingles ever hauled across the continent left Vancouver, B.C., recently for Chicago and the Eastern States. Several other longtrains of this product will be shipped in the near future by the Hunting Merritt Lumber Company, by whom the consignment was forwarded.

A despatch recently sent from London states that Professor Carleton, of the E. P. ranch, is sailing for Canada shortly, taking back with him a number of brood mares and other stock for the ranch. The Prince of Wales continues to evince the deepest interest in all the things of the ranch and keeps in close touch with things there.

Approximately the same acreage as produced the West's bumper crop last year will be under cultivation this season. The outlook now is that over 14,000,000 acres of land will be ready for seed under generally favorable conditions. The estimated acreage to be seeded this year, by provinces, is as follows: Manitoba, 4,450,400; Saskatchewan, 3,354,190; Alberta, 3,472,315.

The value of boots and shoes exported by Canada during the year ended March 31st, 1924, more than doubled the value of Canadian boots and shoes bought by other countries during the preceding year. Last year the exportations were valued at $204,913, and for the preceding year at $130,034. The United States was the chief buyer, taking 2,227 pairs, with Japan second, taking 1,628 pairs.

Concluding her round-the-world cruise, the palatial Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of Canada," docks at Vancouver on May 24th. Reports indicate that this four-month pleasure voyage under the genial care of Captain Robinson, hero of the Japanese disaster, has been a splendid success, the passengers being loud in their declarations of satisfaction.

During the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1924, Canada imported goods to the value of $893,335,491, an increase of $91,000,000 compared with the previous similar twelve months, while she exported $1,045,144,056, an increase of about $110,000,000. The total trade increased in that twelve-month period by about $210,000,000, compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

It is expected that negotiations between the British Government and the Province of British Columbia will lead to the settlement of several shiploads of immigrants from the Hebrides in the province this summer. Each Government proposes to grant $300, or $800 in all, to each family and shelters will be provided them close to the sea, where they can engage profitably in their accustomed pursuit, fishing.

The itinerary of the personally conducted tour of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, en route to their annual convention to be held at Victoria, B.C., August 12th to 16th, has just been announced. Starting from Toronto, a special train for the teachers will proceed west by Canadian Pacific Railway, halts being made at Western Canada's chief points of beauty and interest. It is expected that about 150 will make the trip.

That Sweden is capable of sending 25,000 men to Canada as immigrants yearly was the statement of Otto Elander, prominent Swedish editor, when in Montreal recently. Mr. Elander is touring Canada with the object of studying conditions as they exist in Sweden, settlements here and reporting upon them to his fellow-countrymen desirous of immigrating to this country.

Thirty-seven per cent of all automobiles in Canada are owned by farmers. Ownership of the balance, according to recent statistics, is made up as follows: business men and brokers, 16 per cent; salesmen and travellers, 16 per cent; professional men, 8 per cent; laborers, 4 per cent; contractors and livery men, 3 per cent each, and miscellaneous and no occupation stated, 15 per cent.

When the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada" left New York on January 30th for her great round-the-world cruise, she was the first Canadian vessel ever to commence such a voyage carrying a regular bookstall in the charge of experienced attendants, in addition to a free library. The stock includes many excellent recent books on travel, which will enable passengers to prepare themselves for the foreign lands they will visit, as well as a large number of novels by the best-known authors.

Of the total wheat exported from Canada in November, amounting to 3,116,000 bushels, by far the greater proportion went to the United Kingdom, which took 1,315,391 bushels. The United States was second largest importer of Canadian wheat, taking 9,010,133 bushels. Italy came next, taking 4,013,112 bushels, and France next, with 2,068,480 bushels. The exports of Canadian wheat to France during this period amounted to 1,223,355 bushels and to Belgium 1,875,216 bushels. Those to Germany totaled 129,320 bushels.

In the keenest competition, embracing entries from all important agricultural districts of the North American continent, Alberta farmers won 43 prizes at the recent international stock and grain show at Chicago. Two grand championships—wheat, Major G. H. L. Strange and oats, J. W. Biglands—went to the province. Major Strange was also first with white field peas and Nipemakers Brothers, of Brooks, first with red clover seed. Major Strange's success is especially remarkable as he has only been a farmer four years.

The latest statements of the earnings and expenses of the Canadian Pacific Railway show that the strong position of that organization has been well maintained, and that a steady improvement has been achieved, in spite of the difficulties of the past few years. The figures for 1923 show gross earnings of $19,136,674, working expenses of $15,189,546, and a net profit of $3,947,127, an increase of $491,222 over that of December, 1922. PRESENTATION

(Edmundston Observer)

Edmundston has lost a good citizen in E. Moore, and Hartland has gained what Edmundston has lost. Mr. and Mrs. Moore and their young daughter left by automobile for their new home on Sunday afternoon. For the last day or two of their stay in Edmundston they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Estey, 21st Avenue.

Mr. Moore was presented at the morning service of St. Paul's church on behalf of the congregation a very handsome travelling bag. The minister in making the presentation said that a member of the congregation, and as a member of the session he had endeared himself to the people of the church, and whilst regretting his leaving us, he was to be sure that he carried the best wishes of the people with him, for a great success in his profession. Mrs. Moore at the Sunday school which followed the morning service was presented with a fountain pen with ribbon and Mr. Hardwick who also made this presentation, assured her of the love which her Sunday school class had for her and the respect and esteem of the people of the church, and the little gift was but a token of that esteem.

It is with great regret that we part with Mr. and Mrs. Moore, and the Observer wishes to go on record the sterling qualities of our friends and to wish them in their new home the greatest happiness and the highest form of success. We trust they will often find their way to Edmundston and can assure them of a hearty welcome in many homes.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

That quality buyers depend upon advertisements as an important aid in selecting what they want.

That there is nothing that gives any business more assurance of steady business than persistent advertising. That with many business concerns the difference between them and success is lack of persistent advertising. That truthful advertising creates confidence and confidence creates more business.

That the business concerns who are the successful ones today pay particular attention to the advertising.

That no business men can afford to let their business drift along and take care of itself. Drifters eventually hit the rocks. Advertising is the power that steers them clear of the rocks and moves them ahead on the seas of success. That you should tell about your business by persistent advertising. IF YOU DON'T, nobody will know you are in business.

That newspaper advertising works fast and sure. It saves you time and money. It saves the people of your trade territory time and money. It serves you both.

MAY FOREST FIRES

In spite of the fact that there was rain almost every day during the month of May and that the precipitation was more than the average, was thus spread over the entire month in such a manner as to do most good in the preservation of the forests. New Brunswick had twenty-four forest fires in May according to statistics which have been compiled by the Forest Service of the Provincial Department of Lands and Mines and are now made public.

The most hazardous periods of the month were May 10th and from May 17th to May 20th, when high winds prevailed and the country was thoroughly parched. Fortunately for the forests there were heavy rains preceding Victoria Day and on May 25th, when the hazard period always becomes acute because of the large number of fishermen whose favorite holiday is Victoria Day, and the result is that since May 21st there have been no forest fires reported, other than settlers burning in violation of the Permit Law.

The twenty-four fires which were reported during May burned a total acreage of 800 acres of private lands and 150 acres of Crown Lands. Practically all the private lands affected were timbered, but most of the Crown Lands had been burned over before, although partially restocking. The damage to privately owned lands is estimated at $3,000. Most of the loss was caused in one fire which burned over 800 acres of timberland at Stewart Brook, Charlotte County; that fire and three others are supposed to have been caused by fishermen and caused the most damage of the month.

Causes of the fires may be summarized as follows: Fishermen, 4; burning houses, 2; settlers, 13; incendiary, 1. Total, 24. The thirteen fires charged to settlers are cases in which settlers ignored the law regarding slash and attempted to burn without a permit. Fortunately these fires were quickly extinguished by the wardens, having been promptly reported by the settlers and neighbors of the offenders. Each one of these thirteen cases is being investigated and prosecutions will follow where the violation was deliberate and intentional.

The one incendiary fire was reported from Queens county, being a case where fire had evidently been set intentionally, to burn over a blueberry area; the fire spread beyond control and burned over some 100 acres of Crown Lands, destroying some valuable growth. Two cases occurred during the month where fires which destroyed houses spread to the woods, one being at Boiestown and the other at Tapley Mills on the windy Monday, May 19th, there were numerous fires on that day in cities, towns, villages and in strictly rural districts.

That the fire pumps which the Forest Service have secured and placed at various points in the province are rendering good service when called upon was made evident when a local ranger used one of the pumps to assist the railway to quickly extinguish one of the four fires which the railways are charged with responsibility for. All four railway fires were quickly extinguished by the railways.

Reports and wardens indicate that a number of fishermen have been found in the woods without registration certificates, but the regulations governing forest travel continue to receive the hearty approval of the public and the law has been generally well observed. All fishermen who were found in the woods without permits were let off with a warning with two exceptions; in their cases prosecutions have been commenced. The period for warnings is now over.

The Department of Lands and Mines is almost daily receiving letters commending the restriction of spring slash burning; residents of rural communities regard the present comparatively safe from fire as being due to curtailing spring slash burning. There have been practically no complaints and the generous support which the public has been given has been highly encouraging.

SAD DROWNING

A sad drowning accident occurred on the Madawaska River near Fraser Companies pulp mill on Monday afternoon. The victim of the accident was Fred Martin who fell backwards off the boom into the water. It appears that his pick did not hold in the log which he was trying to move. A companion working with him immediately on seeing the accident offered to him the end of a pole, saying to him "grab this" but the unfortunate man was either stunned or shocked by the fall and made no effort to save himself, and sank to rise no more.

Efforts have been made every day to recover the body, but up to the time of writing this (Wednesday) have been unavailing. Much sympathy is felt for the young widow with her two little children, the youngest only two months old. The deceased was a native of St. Basile, but had his residence here for some time.

Edward Hale, a car dealer of New Glasgow, N. S., while driving a new closed car to a prospective customer, ran in front of a fast train at Westville station and was carried 70 feet on the bumper of the locomotive and his car smashed to pieces, but he escaped with only a few bruises.

This new Coupe has one seat—45 inches wide—roomy for three. Upholstered in genuine leather. Sun visor, windshield wiper and cowl ventilator add to your comfort. There is a big, deep compartment just back of the seat for packages and the business man's data. Luggage goes under the back seat where there is generous space.

Your business may take you in crowded traffic or on populous roads. Jewett's pick-up is marvelous. Go from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high! Dash ahead when the chance comes—run around slower cars or vehicles. Jewett owners—driving either open or closed models—know the pleasure of exhilarating performance!

FRUIT TREATMENT HEALS KIDNEYS

Concentrated Fruit Juices Give Astonishing Results

Anyone who has suffered with Weak or Irritated Kidneys—with the accompanying miseries of pain in the back, splitting headaches, swollen hands and feet, rheumatism and constipation—ought to try the Fruit Treatment for their trouble.

To those who use intensified fruit juices—"Fruit-a-lives"—for the first time, it seems almost impossible that the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes combined with tonics, could relieve kidney trouble.

But a short treatment of "Fruit-a-lives" gives quick relief and the regular use of these intensified fruit juices or "Fruit Liver Tablets" prove their marvelous virtues.

Get "Fruit-a-lives" today and begin the Fruit Treatment. At all dealers; 25c and 50c a box, or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

ENTERPRISE MONARCH STEEL RANGE

The Death Vampire

By EDWARD T. STEWART

There is a certain region in the south-west where the people have a strange belief. Where they get it no one there or elsewhere can tell. They are ignorant, and ignorance is the father of superstition. And this especial belief of theirs could exist only among a superstitious community. It is that when any one is dying there are vampires who suck the breath from the body.

One winter evening when the snow was falling fast and the wind was blowing it into drifts John Hathaway, a country lawyer, was riding to the county seat to attend court. What befell him he has narrated as follows: I was on horseback, my saddlebag being full of legal documents, luncheon and a flask of brandy. The snow was whirling about in eddies that confused me, and I began to be frightened. I had no idea whether I was on the road or off it. All of a sudden my horse sank down into a drift, falling on his side and pinning my leg under him. The leg was not hurt, for it rested on snow. At least it did not pain me. The horse struggled awhile, then lay still.

I was now in terror lest I should be obliged to lie there till I froze. The flask and the luncheon were in the pocket of the saddlebag that was under the horse, and I could not get at them. If ever a case looked hopeless it was this, for the thermometer stood not far above zero, and not being able to move, I was pretty sure to go to sleep, and that meant death. I felt sure that I was beside the road—probably my horse had stepped off it into a ditch—and persons usually were passing, but what was to be expected in such a storm? And night was already falling.

I managed to raise my head far enough to look about me within narrow limits. A few hundred yards ahead was a house, but as yet there were no lamps lit in it. I shouted, but there was no answer.

Whether I slept or not, whether I was simply benumbed by the cold, how long I remained unconscious, I do not know, but suddenly I was aroused by a spasmodic struggle of my horse. It seemed to me that my leg was free. I tried and found that I could move it. I struggled to free myself from the drift and clambered up on to higher ground, where the snow was not so deep. It struck me that I had regained the road.

Glimping toward the house I had seen, I saw a light in one of the windows. I wondered if I had strength to go there. Getting on my feet, I started and to my surprise walked with tolerable ease. Having reached the house, I pushed the front door open and stood in the hallway. The only light was from the lamp I had seen in the window, and I now saw that it was in a bedroom in the rear. The door of this room was ajar, and I entered. There was plenty of furniture, but it was dilapidated. Thus far I encountered no person.

I fell exhausted on the bed and lost consciousness. Presently I felt suffocation. I awoke, conscious that I was losing my breath. I felt a pair of clammy lips on mine. Putting out both hands, I grasped a pair of arms, cold as marble, and with a strength born of horror hurried whoever was on me away. The light in the room must have gone out, for I was in darkness.

Yet in another moment I was looking at a light. I saw dimly a different scene from that in my bedroom. It was a lantern a few yards from me and higher than I. By it I made out a team, and a dark figure was behind the light. Then I felt arms under mine, and I was lifted and dragged up on to the level, where a man was holding the lantern. Then both men lifted me on to the wagon. One got in with me, the other on to the seat, and we moved on. The horses struggling through the snow, the man beside me shaking and rubbing me.

After awhile the wagon stopped, and I was helped into a house, where a hot drink was given me and I was put to bed.

The next day I was all right. I asked for the men who had rescued me and was told that they had gone on. I asked what had become of my horse and was informed that he had succumbed. My next question was about the house where I had slept, and after describing it I was told that it was haunted and on that account had long ago been deserted. I told of my sleeping there and of my dream or nightmare or whatever it was.

I was talking to an old woman, a young woman and a young man, the younger woman's husband. When I had told of flinging off the monster the three looked at one another.

"Now, Sam," said the old woman to the man, "after this will you still refuse to believe?" The man looked much disturbed. "What do you mean?" I asked. "Why, stranger," she said, "you was a-dyin'! A vampire was a-suckin' yer breath. Ef it hadn't been for the two men as come along and pulled you out of the snow the monster 'd a' got ye. Ye wasn't in the haunted house at all."

"Yes, he was, maw," said the young woman. "The vampire put the light in the window to entice him there fer to suck the breath outen him."

Convinced that my nightmare had been occasioned by my cramped position, I left this intellectual group. I had been kept from freedom by the warmth of my horse's body.

FINDS HER BOY

Editor Hartland Observer,

Dear Sir: I thank you very much for your interest in my boy who ran away. I haven't located him yet but had a letter from a lady in Kilburn saying he had been working there, but had left and went up river. So it is some satisfaction to know he is alive and well. I have no doubt but that he will soon be home. Thanking you again for your kindness, I am,

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. N. B. Rogers.

MRS. ZOPHER PHILLIPS

Mrs. Zopher Phillips died at her home, Upper Woodstock, on Sunday morning, aged 83 years. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Charles Chase, Salem, Mass., Mrs. Hegry Tedlie, Hartland, Mrs. Clarence Britton, Upper Woodstock; one son Davis, Upper Woodstock; one brother, J. J. Hale, Grafton. Funeral was held on Tuesday conducted by Rev. E. B. McLatchey.

A policeman walking along the side of the canal and seeing a youngster crying, stopped him.

"What's the matter?" he queried. The youngster pointed to a hat which was bobbing up and down in the middle of the canal.

"My brother—" he sobbed. In a dash the courageous constable plunged into the water. He came up, but with the hat only. "Can't find him," he gasped. "Where was he standing when he fell in?"

"He didn't fall in," the boy blurted out. "He is over there. I was going to tell you he threw my hat into the canal, but you wouldn't let me finish."
