

Cable Broke and the Elevator Fell; Chas. Martin Falls Three Stories

Probably Fatal Accident at the Building of Greene, Swift & Co.

Mr. Charles R. Martin, 816 King street, employed as shipper by the Sidway Manufacturing Company at Greene & Swift's building, on Talbot street, met with a serious and probably fatal accident this morning by the falling of an elevator.

He was removed to Victoria Hospital, and Dr. Moore summoned.

The latter has not arrived at any conclusion as to the probable results of the man's injury, but his spine is affected and there are internal injuries.

Fell Three Stories.

Martin was taking goods up to the third floor, and while coming down the cable broke, and the elevator crashed down to the basement.

The safety clutches with which the elevator is supposed to be supplied, utterly failed to work, and the man struck the floor with terrific force. The occupants of the building heard the crash and rushed to the man's assistance. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the hospital. He was conscious, but was suffering much pain.

The injured man was a former street car conductor, and quit that employment some time ago to enter the service of the Sidway Company, which has a factory in the Greene, Swift Company's building. He was about 35 years of age, and unmarried.

Automobile Frightened the Horse; Angus Beattie Was Badly Injured

Well-Known Resident of Westminster Victim of Accident Near Pond Mills.

Mr. Angus Beattie, of con. 2, lot 15, Westminster, whose postoffice address is Pond Mills, was seriously injured last evening shortly after 6 o'clock, through his horse becoming frightened at an automobile, and running away. Dr. H. A. Stevenson, who attended Mr. Beattie, says he will recover, although his injuries are very serious.

Mr. Beattie was driving along the Vauxhall bridge road, and was proceeding south, when an automobile came suddenly into sight from a side-road.

The horse, usually a very quiet one, became frightened, and with great suddenness bolted for the side of the road. There is a deep ditch at each side, and the buggy in which Mr. Beattie was riding was overturned. The driver was thrown out and the horse raced madly down the highway toward home.

The man in the automobile never stopped, but let out the machine at full speed and made his escape.

Mr. Beattie was rendered unconscious, and lay on the side of the road for over half an hour.

The first intimation his family had of the accident was when the horse, which had freed itself of the harness and buggy, galloped wildly into the farmyard.

A search was then commenced, and the unconscious form of Mr. Beattie was found lying on the road. He was carried to his house, and Dr. Stevenson was sent for. He did everything possible for the unfortunate man, and said today that he feels that Mr. Beattie will recover. Mr. Beattie's head was badly cut, his face was gashed, and he was badly shaken up.

The people of the district are incensed at the automobilist for running away and allowing Mr. Beattie to lie on the roadside. It is said the auto has been identified, and that an action for damages, and a criminal prosecution, will follow immediately.

Mr. Beattie is one of the most respected residents of Westminster.

No Increase in Price of Flour Here

The jump in the price of wheat at Winnipeg has resulted in an advance in the price of flour in Montreal and other eastern points going up in sympathy.

Inquiry at the offices of Hunt Bros.,

the local millers, today elicited the information that as yet there is no likelihood of the price of flour being advanced in the city.

Flour now sells for $2.50 per cwt to the grocers here and it retails for $2.75.

BALKY HORSE THIS MAN'S UNDOING

Because his horse became balky on Dundas street, near Wellington, last night, Thomas Jackson found himself in the police court this morning.

Jackson, who is a London Township farmer, yesterday attended a horse sale at Lambeth, and while there he partook of too much of the cup that cheers. Last evening about 9 o'clock he was driving down Dundas street when his horse, which by the way, looked to be a fit candidate for the boneyard, stopped short and refused to budge.

Entreaties and threats were alike in vain, and Jackson drew from his buggy—a democrat—a board about 8 feet long and commenced to beat the stubborn animal. In a moment a crowd of perhaps 400 people had congregated. When the animal would start, the crowd, which was out for some fun, yelled "whoa" in a chorus and the beast would stop. Policeman Noonan came along at the moment and placed the infuriated driver under arrest.

The arresting officer this morning testified that Jackson had been drunk and that the horse was in a terrible condition, having all the appearances of being starved.

"It wasn't my fault I was arrested," declared Jackson. "It was the fault of the horse. Why the policeman couldn't drive it himself, and had to call for help. Even then, with one officer leading him and the other driving, he wouldn't go, so I guess the policeman themselves must have been—"

"That will do," interrupted Magistrate Love. "You are discharged, but don't ever drive that poor horse about the city again."

Five Thousand People Took in the Grocers' Picnic at Springbank

Big Time at the River Park—A Feature Race That Was a Feature.

The last Wednesday half holiday of the season was fitly celebrated yesterday afternoon by the retail grocers in one of the greatest picnics that has been held at Springbank this year—in fact it is doubtful if a better time has ever been had any time than at the picnic of yesterday.

There was fun all along the line and not one dull moment during the afternoon.

Features new and original were rung in at every turn, in fact so many of them were jammed into such a brief space of time that everybody well nigh forgot that they were features. Fully 5,000 people were on the grounds, and the time they had! Most of those present were heard to remark that they had not seen such a crowd since the old boys' celebration two years ago. It was, indeed, a large crowd, they were all out for a time, and they were not disappointed. There was something doing every minute of the way.

Feature of the Day.

The feature of the great day's doing was the special three-legged race between Ed. Ryan and his partner, Mrs.

Cartledge, and Alf. Johnson and his partner, Mrs. Finch. Some poet once remarked that there was nothing so rare as a day in June, but he never attended the grocers' picnic with such a race as a feature. The ladies are somewhat stout, but are full of fun, and the race they made of it would beat indigestion to death, and make every dyspeptic fat within three minutes, if laughing helps any.

It was funnier than three days at a circus. Of course, it was a dead heat, not an eye-lash dividing the two couples at the wire.

Boxing Contest.

The next greatest event of this eventful afternoon was a boxing bout in barrels between R. J. Wood, alias "Dick," and Chauncey Smith. This was worth three trips to Springbank itself. This terrific contest was waged through three fierce rounds in which much perspiration was split. Dick was there with the straight jabs and soon had the hair all worn off Chauncey's head. The latter countered beautifully on Dick's sylph-like waist, and had him breathing every few minutes. It was a rare sight. The affair ended in a draw, neither man having enough wind or hair to go on. Everybody laughed at this stage for more than ten minutes.

Close and Exciting.

The other contest were close and (Continued on Page Ten.)

BROKE A RULE MET HIS DEATH

Coroner's Verdict Over Fatal Accident to Grand Trunk Switchman Jennings.

The jury empaneled to inquire into the death of the late Hugh Jennings met at the police station last night, and after hearing the evidence of a number of witnesses, brought in the following verdict:

"That the said Hugh R. Jennings came to his death in the city of London, on the Grand Trunk tracks, on the 24th day of August, 1907, by walking in between the cars while in motion, to uncouple them, his foot in the meantime catching between the guard rail and the main rail, causing him to fall, and allowing one truck to pass over him. While the deceased was guilty of an infraction of the rules of the company in trying to do this work as he was doing it, he was also negligent in not being careful of his own safety in enforcing the said rules."

The most important witness examined by Coroner MacLaren was Mr. Ellis Parry, who was working with Mr. Jennings at the time of the accident.

He said that Jennings went down the line to cut off a car, and that he saw him jerk at the lever a couple of (Continued on Page Eight.)

STRUCK ON HEAD BY A BALL BAT

Mr. Geo. B. Leach, of This City Injured at Springbank Park.

Mr. George B. Leach, brother of Mr. C. J. Leach, the well-known Princess avenue grocer, was struck by a baseball bat while taking part in a ball game at Springbank Park yesterday afternoon. Dr. Cline, his physician, says there will be no serious consequences, although Mr. Leach was knocked unconscious by the force of the blow.

The ball game was being carried on by a party of which Mr. Leach and his brother, Mr. C. J. Leach, were members, and it was full of fun, and very friendly.

Mr. C. J. Leach was at bat, and when the pitcher delivered the ball, the batter struck at it. Being somewhat out of practice, Mr. Leach failed to grip the bat as securely as was necessary, and it swung out of his hands.

Immediately behind him was his brother, George, and the bat struck the young man on the head, rendering him unconscious.

Dr. Cline was summoned, and he had the patient removed to the city, and at his home he rapidly recovered. Today he is resting easily, and is improving satisfactorily.

Mr. C. J. Leach felt very badly over the affair, but no one was to blame for the accident. It put a damper on the spirits of the little party, however, and all returned to the city early.

HOTELMAN FINED FIFTY AND COSTS

The Britannia House Proprietor Admits Infraction of Liquor License Law.

But one of the three cases against city hotelkeepers was settled in police court this morning. Mr. Morrow, proprietor of the Britannia House, pleaded guilty to the charge of violation of the license laws, and was fined $50 and costs.

Mr. Thomas Morkin, of the Morkin House, pleaded not guilty, and was held over until tomorrow morning.

It was reported that Mr. Thompson, proprietor of the Clyde House, had settled the case against his house out of court by paying a $50 fine, but Inspector Galpin, who is prosecuting the cases, stated that he had heard nothing about the matter.

The two spotters, or "secret service men," as they call themselves, were not present in court this morning, but it has been learned that they arrived in the city from St. Thomas about 12 o'clock this morning. The pair, one of whom is an ex-bartender in the Britannia House, are said to be boarding on Dundas street.

SOUTH SIDER CHARGED WITH WIFE BEATING

Policeman Thomas Fish, of the South Side, was today called from his beat to arrest Charles Allison, who lives nearby. It is alleged he was drunk and beating his wife and children.

Allison is a sewer-pipe layer, and lives on Orchard street. He has been before the police magistrate on several occasions.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—On June 30 last the Intercolonial Railway showed a surplus of earnings over expenses of $400,000, compared with $62,000 the year previous. For the nine months ending March 31 last the surplus was $219,000, so that the increase in revenue is growing. In 1905 the deficit on the Intercolonial was $1,725,000. In 1904 the deficit was $900,000.

Worst Drouth for Years Hits This Neighborhood

The Crops Are Seriously Injured and Cattle Are Suffering Badly.

Market Clerk James Dean is authority for the statement that large numbers of the near-by farmers are much worried over the severe drought which is visiting these parts.

Many of the farmers claim that it is the most severe spell of dryness that has ever been known hereabouts. Wells, springs and even creeks that have never gone dry before are now barren of water, and it is said that unless relief comes soon there will be much suffering among the cattle.

Mr. Allan Grey, a London Township farmer, residing back of Hyde Park, has at present 65 head of cattle, and not a drop of water on his farm. As a consequence Mr. Grey is compelled to drive the thirsty beasts to a creek which contains a scanty supply of water, and which is located at a great distance from the farm.

Not only will the cattle be seriously affected if the drought continues, but the crops of late potatoes, tomatoes, corn, etc., will also suffer to a great extent.

Mr. Dean stated that the complaints were not confined to any one particular locality, but seemed to be from every direction.

HE DOUBLED UP IN TWO ROLES

From the role of complainant in a stealing case John Worwick quickly fell into the position of a defendant on a charge of drunkenness this morning at the police court.

Worwick and Douglass McConnell, it is alleged, together started out for a good time, and finally wound up by being thrown out of their boarding-house on Ridout street.

Later Worwick discovered that he was minus a valuable watch and chain and he blamed McConnell for the theft. The accused denied the charge and the other man had him arrested early this morning.

There being several hours until time for court to open, Worwick proceeded to lay in a stock of stimulants along the line of fancy and mixed drinks, with the result that when court was eventually called to order he could see two judges and three or four McConnells. Even then everything might have gone all right had not Worwick insisted on entertaining the spectators and annoying the court with a string of advice directed to no one in particular, and everybody in general, with the result that he was finally arrested and locked up while the case against McConnell was held over until tomorrow morning.

Lightness of the Market Is the Cause of the Boost in Rate.

The continued tightness of the money market has caused the banks to advance the rate of interest to borrowers. On loans which formerly paid 6 per cent, 7 is now being asked.

Notices have been sent out by several of the banks advising customers of the increase.

In making the advance the banks have acted individually, each judging for itself the charge to be made, according to the nature of the loan and the security.

A local banker stated to The Advertiser today that he knew of several cases in which 10 per cent had been refused on a large loan, and for no other reason than the scarcity of money. The same banker said the rate would undoubtedly come down again, but it might go up a little higher first.

In some quarters the continued tightness is viewed with some alarm and predictions are frequently heard that many small firms will have a hard time saving themselves from the wall unless the market loosens up.

Another prominent banker—manager of one of the largest institutions in the city—stated that the increase has been in force for some time, but that he does not anticipate any further increase. He thinks high water has been reached.

Committee Recommends Building Inspector Be Appointed at Once

No. 3 Thinks There Is No Reason for Delay—Hucksters on the Market.

No. 3 committee met last evening and took up the matter of the appointing of a building inspector.

It was decided to recommend to the council that an inspector be appointed at once.

The retail grocers protested against hucksters cornering the farmers' produce on the market.

The market clerk was instructed to proceed against all hucksters found acting in contravention of the bylaw. The grocers stated that six or seven hucksters corner all the produce brought in by the farmers, and sell it again on the square or peddle it from house to house.

These men live outside the city and pay no taxes or licenses.

The grocers do not object to farmers selling their produce, but they do object to the hucksters. The market clerk knows who they are, and as they violated the city bylaw the grocers wanted the committee to instruct the clerk to proceed against hucksters.

Ald. Garratt moved that the clerk be instructed to see that the bylaw be enforced, and the motion carried.

Fire Chief's Report.

Fire Chief Clark submitted his weekly report. He had received 500 feet of Paragon hose, which was tested and placed in service. The new hose was of good quality.

Five-Acre Field of Grass Was Burned

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the firemen were called to the corner of St. George and Regent streets, where a 10-acre field of grass was found to be on fire.

All attempts of the residents of the district and the owners to overcome the flames failed, and at last the firefighters were called.

The men found it necessary to use a couple of lines of hose, and after a time the fire was overcome.

There is some talk of incendiarism. For a time fences and houses were in danger. About five acres of grass were burned.

Mr. McKellar Doesn't Want a Job In London Collegiate Institute

Evidently Has Heard of How the Local Board of Education Rewards Merit.

The board of education has not yet filled the position made vacant by the promotion of Mr. McCutcheon to the principalship.

The board accepted the application of Mr. H. S. McKellar, of Owen Sound, and notified him yesterday of that decision.

Mr. McKellar wired last night, however, that he would not come. Mr. H. G. Martyn, the second choice, was wired at Berlin to come, but no answer has been received from him as yet.

It is not expected that he will accept. No word has been received from Mr. J. F. Vanevery, of Owen Sound, who it was thought, would take Mr. Ferguson's department of English.

The board will probably have to advertise for a teacher.

Stratford Gives Up River Water

The Stratford Beacon says: "Following the resolution of the water commissioners at their special meeting on Monday afternoon, when they decided to prevent the use of city water for lawns, gardens, etc., the small supply of river water which has been entering the mains along with the artesian well water was cut off, and with the exception of a few hours last evening, when the Grand Trunk Railway asked for a supply owing to the small quantity which they were receiving from their pumping plants at the Little Lakes, only spring water from the artesian wells has been pumped through the mains.

"Street watering has also been discontinued, and a large quantity of water is being saved on this account."

The water was filtered, but Stratfordites, who have been using both the filtered and the spring product, will have none of the former.

And this water was taken out of the Thames far above London, where there is less liability of contamination than there would be in the north branch at London.

Mayor Judd for Board of Control; Would Be a Good Thing for the City

Resolution Put Before Ontario Municipal Union Was Discussed.

"The resolution submitted to the Ontario Municipalities' Association yesterday to change the system of voting in the county council, basing it on the amount of assessed property is only another attempt to make the county council representation satisfactory to all parties concerned," said a prominent county official this morning.

"Several attempts have been made along the same direction, and the problem is still far from solution. The Ross Government changed the old style, and divided the counties into what one might call small electoral districts. This policy was satisfactory or not, just as you looked at it. There was considerable complaint from the towns and villages on this system, as they were practically unrepresented, the majority of the members coming from the rural districts.

"The Whitney Government changed all this, and adopted the old system. The result is that the towns and villages have their own representatives, but they are very much in the minority, and are practically disfranchised. They are not satisfied, and this movement is another attempt to equalize matters. It looks like a reasonable agreement and might work all right."

Wide Tires.

"What do you think of the idea of bonusing owners of wagons who change from narrow tires to wide ones?" was asked.

"That is hardly necessary," he added. "Ever since the agitation for good roads commenced, wide tires have become much more common than heretofore, and nearly all the newer wagons have wider tires. I hardly think that bonusing would do any good. The wide tires will come soon, and it would do no good to try and hurry them. There would be plenty of room for graft, and the present method will accomplish the desired result slowly but surely."

Boards of Control.

Mayor Judd was enthusiastic over the action of the Ontario Municipalities' Association in making the principle of boards of control apply to all cities between 45,000 and 100,000 population.

"I have all along advocated that and still think that it is the only solution of the question," he said to The Advertiser this morning. "London would be much better governed than it is at present, and the citizens would be better satisfied. It will come sure."

"What do you think of the suggestion that the railway and municipal board be empowered to approve of money bylaws without securing the permission of the Legislature?" was asked.

Only Applying a Principle.

"That is all right," he said. "It is only applying a principle generally that is applied in specific instances at present. If, for instance, debentures system were to be issued they would be issued with the permission of this board, which has control of that matter. It would save much inconvenience, and would be most satisfactory to all concerned. It merely enlarges a recognized principle."

CARTER GRABBED LIVEWIRE

Son of a United States Brigadier-General Instantly Killed.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—L. H. Carter, son of Brigadier General W. H. Carter, head of the department of the lakes of the United States army, was killed instantly last night by an electric shock sustained in the dairy room of the University of Illinois at Champaign, where young Mr. Carter was a special student.

The victim had been working during the summer months in the agricultural department of the university, in order to get some practical experience. His summer term of work was almost ended.

Young Carter was stone dead when found. As is customary in industrial schooling, he had been set at the task of polishing and cleaning a combination electric and gas chandelier, hanging from the ceiling of a room in the university dairy. He had been working at it for some time, when a piercing scream was heard by C. G. Potter, a fellow student employee, who was busy in an adjoining room in the building. Potter rushed to the aid of the young man, and found he had been stricken by a current of electricity.

Carter had been standing upon a small stationary engine while reaching up to the chandelier. The engine was fastened with bolts driven through the concrete floor. A ladder was leaning nearby and when Potter rushed into the room Carter's lifeless body had fallen over against it, both the hands of the dead man were still clutched tightly over the chandelier, which had been partly wrenched from its fastening in the ceiling.

Daring possible electrocution Potter seized the body and it fell to the floor, thus breaking the circuit.

With Women, It's Looks First

The average woman considers her looks first, her health afterwards. That's why we hear of so many cases of broken health and nervous prostration. She wears furs and heavy garments on a cool afternoon; in the evening with the thinnest kind of gown, she attends the theater or party.

These foolish irregularities in dress reap their own reward in suffering. It is only when colds that lead to pneumonia result that she gets frightened and seeks a remedy that restores health. Let her take Ferrozone!

It soon gives vigor to the body, quickly brings color to the cheeks, restores the nerves and strengthens. Ferrozone sharpens appetite, invigorates digestion, adds weight; it gives the muscles tone and elasticity that makes the ailing one feel young, strong and vigorous.

ARTFUL WIDOWS

How the Workhouse is Used in Their Second Courtship.

London, Aug. 28.—The Lambeth Guardians fully agree with old Veller's advice, "Beware of Vidders."

In that district widows of the poorer class are very numerous, and finding their "encumbrances," to be a hindrance to a second marriage, they have adopted an artful way of getting round the law.

The question came up on Wednesday at the meeting of the guardians, when it was stated that there were at present "a large number of children under the care of the board." On Tuesday night there were exactly 94 children under the roof of the workhouse in Renfrew road, but there are also some 500 in the schools maintained by the guardians.

The artfulness of the widows is exercised in their method of concealing the existence of their offsprings, who are "children of the state," when on the eve of a second marriage. It was stated that at this meeting of the guardians that when the husband of a woman possessing several children dies, the widow places the offspring under the care of the guardians and returns to her home. Subsequently she becomes acquainted with another man, who, after a time, offers her marriage. No mention is made by the bride that she is the mother of four or five children. A few days after the wedding she goes to the guardians, secures possession of her children, and conveys them to her much-astonished second husband, who has legally no power to refuse to keep them.

The Poor Law does not allow a widow to have her children in the workhouse while she remains outside and looks for a second husband. If children go into the workhouse she must accompany them, but it is possible for her to have a certain amount of leave. This may extend for a fortnight at a time, and although the guardians will not allow it to go on indefinitely it may still be sufficient to permit of a second courtship. In that case, if the guardians are satisfied that the woman is of good moral character, she may claim her children and formally present them to the second husband.

GEN. FRENCH'S NEW POST

Brilliant Cavalry Leader To Be Inspector-General of the Forces.

London, Aug. 28.—It was officially announced by the war department on Tuesday that General Sir John French on relinquishing his command at Aldershot, will succeed the Duke of Connaught as inspector-general of the forces, Sir John's post at Aldershot being occupied by Lieut.-General H. L. Smith-Dorrien, commander of the Fourth (Queen's) division of the army in India.

General French served in the Royal Navy for four years before receiving a commission in the Eighth Hussars in 1874, and transferred to the Ninth Hussars, in which regiment he served in the Sudan campaign in 1884-5, and in the actions of Abu Klea, Gubat and Metemneh. He commanded the regiment from 1889 to 1893, was employed as assistant adjutant-general at headquarters 1895; and served there until 1897, when he was appointed brigadier to command the Second Cavalry Brigade.

He was transferred as temporary major-general to the First Cavalry Brigade at Aldershot in 1899, and appointed major-general to command the Cavalry Division in Natal in the same year, and subsequently had charge of the Cavalry Division in Lord Roberts' forces throughout the operations ending in the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria.

Lieut.-General Smith-Dorrien served in the Zulu war (1879), the Egyptian war (1882), the Sudan campaign (1885), and the Sudan Frontier Field Force (1885-6). He was in the Chitral Relief Force in 1885, served on the northwest frontier of India (1887-9), and in the Nile expedition (1889). He was major-general commanding the Ninth Brigade in South Africa in 1900, and was adjutant-general in India from October, 1901, to May, 1903.

It is estimated by the Department of Agriculture of the United States that last year's crop was produced and gathered at a saving of $65,000,000 over what would have been the cost of raising an equal crop 50 years ago. This saving was accomplished by the use of modern agricultural implements.

2,000 EXPERTS IN ESPERANTO

Remarkable Progress Made for Establishment of a Universal Language.

London, Aug. 28.—It is twenty years since the first text-book on Esperanto was issued. It was but a small thing, and, unadverted, was hardly noticed. Today thousands of people are conversant with this auxiliary language, and nearly 2,000 experts in the tongue from all parts of the world assembled in congress at Cambridge gave the nearest welcome to Dr. Zamenhof, the inventor.

Dr. Zamenhof, who is a Warsaw oculist, has made the establishment of Esperanto his life work, and avers that a knowledge of it will insure a traveler a hearty welcome in any quarter of the globe. It is not hard to learn, for the inventor says that a professor was able, after a month's study, to deliver an hour and a half's address in it upon quite a technical subject. It is said that Tolstoy learnt to read Esperanto fluently in two hours.

It was announced on Tuesday that the only delegate officially representing any government was Lieut. Cardinal, of Belgium, and a telegram of thanks was immediately sent to the King of the Belgians. A message of good wishes was also dispatched to King Edward, who graciously acknowledged the message.

The whole meeting, including the drawing up of the rules, the appointment of officers, and the reports from delegates, was conducted in Esperanto, and any member who inadvertently dropped into his native tongue was ruled out of order.

It was somewhat surprising to find such a good attendance at the congress, because numbers of the delegates became so engrossed in a Punch and Judy show that they could scarcely tear themselves away. When Punch made desperate efforts to deliver his soliloquies in Esperanto, the enthusiasm of the visitors was something to behold.

In the afternoon 500 Esperantists visited the Garden City at Letchworth, where they were received by Mr. Ebenezer Howard, the founder. There is already an Esperanto society in the Garden City, Mr. Howard himself being an enthusiast. The visitors were enchanted with the cottages.

At night numbers of the delegates visited the New Theater, and witnessed a performance of the popular farce, "Bobs and Cobs," as it is spelled in Esperanto.

What is Esperanto? The grammar of Esperanto consists of sixteen short rules. There are no irregular verbs, no definite articles, and no genders. The definite article "la" is invariable. The parts of speech are recognizable by the final vowels, a, e, i, and o, added to the root, and adjectives, adverbs, verb, and noun, respectively. Thus father is "patro"; paternal, "patra"; paternally, "patre"; to father, "patri." The root words number about 2,000, selected from the Indo-European languages, according to their degree of internationality; and from them, by suffixes and prefixes, all the rest are derived. For example, the prefix "mal" expresses the opposite of the word to which it is attached. Thus, "bona" means good; "malbona," bad.

According to a writer in the Nation, all that is necessary to correspond with somebody who has no knowledge of Esperanto is to "inclose" with your letter written in Esperanto a small instruction book, costing a penny, written in whatever language your correspondent may have.

In Mr. W. T. Stead's opinion Esperanto supplies the one absolute necessity for the federation of the world—a simple, regular, neutral key-language capable of universal adoption.

ARMY TO SEND US 25,000 THIS YEAR

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Brigadier Howell, of the Salvation Army, who has just returned from England met the Premier today. Brigadier Howell says that the army has 5,000 applications from parties desirous of coming to Canada. Next year the army expect to send to this country from 20,000 to 25,000 immigrants.

A GALT ELOPEMENT

Church Elder Said to Have Disappeared with Domestic.

Galt, Aug. 27.—A special to the Globe says: During the old boys' reunion here there was employed at the restaurant of Mr. O. Osgood a woman, Mrs. M. Jennings, who formerly worked for Mr. J. Maule at the Central Hotel in Dundas. Nothing was known of the woman outside of the fact that she performed her duties creditably. During the week Mr. Osgood was having some painting done on his premises, and Peter Meyer was engaged to do the work. Nothing unusual was noticed and Meyer worked around the restaurant for several days. On Saturday, however, both Mrs. Jennings and Meyer were missing, and the only conclusion that can be arrived at is that the twin have departed for parts unknown. A friend of the woman arrived from Dundas on Saturday, and immediately drove to Berlin in search of the missing parties, but was unable to locate them. Nothing is known of the woman, with the exception that she was married in Dundas and has no family. Meyer has a wife and a number of children in Galt, who feel keenly over the affair. He was recently elected an elder in one of the churches.

SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE RUN RED IN—Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, rub a little in the hand, and apply it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. It is the only medicine that does not afford relief, which is usually the case, when rubbing. The Oil will gradually penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

THE GREATNESS OF COMMON LAW

Conspicuous Characteristics, Definiteness, Precision, Exactitude, Says Bryce.

Portland, Me., Aug. 28.—The capacity of the city hall was severely taxed today by those who desired to hear the address before the American Bar Association convention by Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States.

Mr. Bryce, in his address, indicated the distinctive quality which marks the common law of both England and the United States, which, he asserted, was acquired 200 years ago, and which has remained distinctive until now. "Although the substantive provisions of the law have been changed in many respects by the economic and social progress which the two branches of the race have made, and by the new conditions under which these branches live. We must still with true awe of the common law as being the common possession of the United States and England, because that spirit, those tendencies, those mental habits which belonged to the English stock, when still undivided, have been preserved."

Mr. Bryce said that among the characteristic notes of the common law "its firm grasp of the rights of the individual citizen and its recognition of state, and the executive as clothed with authority of the whole community, as being an effective power, entitled to respect or obedience, and the obligation of the individual wherever and whenever it does not trespass on the rights which are legally secured to him."

Mr. Bryce continued: "To secure the due and equal recognition of these two principles, there must be present a third characteristic. The law must be precise. Now precision, definiteness, exactitude, are conspicuous features of the common law. 'The spirit of the common law is a conservative spirit, which stands upon whatever exists, disliking change until change has become necessary.'"

Mr. Bryce said that the characteristics of those to whom we owe the common law were: "They were strong men and pugnacious men; they respected authority; they could at need control their impulses; they were not given to change; they were not fertile in theory or invention. With these qualities they started on the work of making a law."

A resolution criticizing President Roosevelt for commenting upon the trial of the beef trust case in the northern district of Illinois, a year ago, and advising the presiding judge and his rulings, was introduced at the final session today by George Whitehead, of Baltimore.

It created instant disapproval from all parts of the hall, and President Parker repeatedly asked Mr. Whitehead to withdraw it. The latter insisted that it be acted upon, but a motion to lay it on the table was carried.

The convention adjourned, after election of officers, J. M. Dickinson, of Chicago, being chosen president.

THE WAYS OF WINGHAM

Vigilance Committee Will Punish the "Hoodlums"—Lady Badly Burned.

Wingham, Aug. 27.—Mr. Duncan has accepted a position as traveler for a large stove manufacturing establishment. Mr. Duncan came here four years ago, and immediately started to organize what is now Wingham's famous town band. Mr. Rigley, also of Wingham, and a splendid musician will take the position vacated by Mr. Duncan as leader of the band.

Mr. Walter Rose, of Teeswater, formerly Miss K. McTavish, of Wingham, met with a very serious accident on Friday. In cleaning some furniture she had a mixture on the stove which caught fire, and in throwing it out her clothing became ignited. She had the presence of mind to wrap herself in a quilt, but yet she so badly burned that she lies now in a critical condition. Mr. Rose is manager of the electric light plant at Teeswater.

Mrs. Carson is in her hospital suffering from a second paralytic stroke. Her precarious condition causes her friends much anxiety.

Last week two Wingham young ladies left home to accept positions in Toronto. They were, Miss May Knox and Miss Norma Hession.

The big jump of five mills on the dollar on this year's assessment means $5 a year more for the smallest taxpayer to pay and yet we smile.

Football (Tuesday) even. Our prairie wear was contented look. Why? Because of the nice rain that fell all the morning. It was badly needed and much appreciated.

This afternoon, as a young lad in the employ of Mr. Griffin was wheeling up on a handcart two large cases containing 36 dozen eggs, to Mr. Armour's emporium, through an unseen obstruction in the sidewalk, the cart was upset, and a terrible collapse was the result. The lad felt the mishap keenly, stating that Mr. Griffin was always so good to him "and now," said he, "see what has happened."

A gang of night marauders has been causing citizens a great deal of trouble lately. Last week we gave a list of their depredations. Since then they have tried twice to gain an entrance into Mr. Pringle's home, but were prevented by Mr. Pringle. From there they went to his tannery, and in looking for loot smashed a beautiful desk. So indignant have our citizens become that a vigilance committee has been organized, who are determined to suppress and punish the offenders.

Though oats and hay are scarce this year, the pea crop is exceptionally good.

A SPLENDID SCENE OF BEAUTY IS LONDON'S CITY HALL JUST NOW

But It's Inside, Where the August Flower Show Is Being Held.

Many a time and oft has the London city hall been turned into a scene of beauty since the London Horticultural Society began holding its periodical flower shows there. But the exhibit now being held eclipses every previous one in quantity, quality and variety. The number of exhibitors is also greatly enlarged and the attendance of visitors has been the greatest on record.

Has Helped the City.

The Horticultural Society directors are delighted with the success of their efforts, and well they may be, when the very unfavorable weather experienced of late is taken into account. The large number of new exhibitors, and the improved quality of many exhibits, prove that the educational work the society has been doing has been profitable to many individually, and also to the city at large.

The trade exhibit put on by the Canadian Horticultural Association, now meeting in annual convention here, adds great interest to the show, and has attracted much attention.

Fine Display of Gladioli.

A specially pleasing feature of the local August flower shows, and one always looked forward to, is the exhibition of the world's best gladioli from Mr. H. H. Groff and Mr. J. A. Campbell, of Simcoe, Ont. Both these gentlemen have many friends and admirers in London, and they are always depended on for a gorgeous contribution of their favorite flowers. This year's display of gladioli has never been surpassed in London.

The show closes tonight at 10 o'clock, and doubtless the old hall will be filled throughout the evening. The local exhibitors were: Mrs. R. J. Webb, Mr. W. Smith, Mr. George

MARTIN-ORME PIANOS

A recognized authority, Mr. Puddicombe, director of the Ottawa Conservatory of Music, says in part:

June 30, 1907. I was greatly surprised and delighted with the Martin-Orme Piano I played on last night. I found it to be one of the most beautiful of all the upright pianos I have ever tried.

That was two years ago. Mr. Puddicombe writes now:

I have had ample opportunity of testing the Martin-Orme Piano in the Conservatory here, and it is perfectly satisfactory.

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

THE WATER SHORTAGE.

Superintendent Moore of the waterworks department is quoted as estimating the present water shortage at 2,350,000 gallons daily, as follows:

	Gallons
Grand Trunk	500,000
Manufactories	250,000
Lawn services	350,000
Street watering	250,000

Our local contemporary, the Free Press, claims that this shortage means a loss of $22,300 to the waterworks department this year, as follows:

	$
Grand Trunk	6,000
Manufactories	4,000
Lawn services	4,500
Street watering	3,500
Holists	2,000

Total

In giving these figures, our neighbor furnishes a convincing argument in favor of the independent high-pressure system. If this system were adopted, the bulk of the deficiency of 1,350,000 gallons would be supplied from the river. The annual cost of the high-pressure system would be $24,000 or $25,000, which would include interest, sinking fund and operating expenses.
Nearly the whole of this amount would be collected from the Grand Trunk, from the manufacturers, and from the city, on account of street watering. Not only this, but a large proportion of the cost of the high-pressure service would not come out of the general tax rate, but would be borne by property-owners directly benefited, who would be recompensed by a reduction in insurance rates.

The independent system, it will be seen, would be a good business proposition for the waterworks department.
By being in a position to supply plenty of water for railway, industrial and street sprinkling purposes, the increase in waterworks revenue would more than cover the proportion of the annual charges of the independent system which would be levied upon the whole body of ratepayers. It would be a money-making scheme for the department. Have the water commissioners duly considered this phase of the question? They propose to spend a great deal of money under the Komoka scheme to increase the water pressure for fire protection, but the scheme
would bring no reduction of insurance rates. The independent system would yield better results at a lower cost.

THE TRAMP EVIL.

While we in Canada have less to complain of in regard to tramps than was once the case, in the United States the tramp problem appears to be becoming more serious than ever.
The comparative freedom of the Dominion from these gentry cannot be ascribed entirely to the "good times,"
for times are also good in the neighboring republic. Besides, "good times" mean plenty of work, and that is what the professional tramp does not want.
Possibly the reason will be found in the fact that we have a better method of dealing with him than our neighbors have. Here, if the magistrate knows his business, the tramp is sent to prison at hard labor, while in the States the tramp is sent to the workhouse, where he is treated with the harshness of all punishments;
over there he is ordered to "move on"
and move quickly. Our plan has the effect of driving him out of the country; their way simply drives him to the next town.

A recent circular issued by the Pennsylvania Railway estimates the losses sustained by railroad companies of the United States because of tramps at $35,000,000 annually, and urges that the civil authorities co-operate in an effort to abate the tramp evil and punish all persons caught stealing rides on trains.
Much of the losses is caused by tramps stealing from cars, which the companies must, of course, make good.
But far greater than the property losses is the danger to life. Frequently obstructions are placed upon the tracks, cars are stoned and signals are interfered with. Because tramps refuse to get off the tracks engineers often put on the air brakes so suddenly as to endanger passengers. Then, again, train crews are often attacked and suits for damages follow the throwing off of vagrants from moving trains. Not only have tramps been killed by tramps, but hundreds of the tramps themselves have met death in one form or other when stealing rides.

The Pennsylvania Legislature some years ago attempted to meet the problem by passing a law authorizing counties to sentence tramps to work upon the public highways. Thus far but two counties have made any considerable use of this authority, and in those the enforcement of the law has operated to keep tramps out of their jurisdiction rather than to improve the roads.

That a severe mandatory law is needed there can be no doubt. Trespassing on railroads should be penalized, so it can be stopped. A month or so at hard labor for stealing a ride would have a most beneficial effect on this most undesirable class of citizens.
By the "move on" policy a tramp is simply thrust by one community on another, and he is followed by a second tramp, similarly thrust by still another community upon the first. Thus during the tramp's progress each place through which he passes suffers to some extent. The tramp problem is one which the legislatures of the various states must sooner or later grapple with, for so long as these ne'er-do-wells are permitted to roam the country
at will they will be a serious menace to society.

THE FUTURE OF CHINA.

An announcement of no little importance is that to the effect that the Dowager Empress of China, who for upwards of a third of a century has been the real ruler of that country, will shortly give up her power, as it suggests the possibility of important changes affecting the Celestial Empire.
There the throne is everything, and on the character of the successor to absolute power depends the future of the country. The Empress has grown old and is said to have an incurable malady. In her hands, the Emperor has been a mere puppet. He was but two and a half years of age when he succeeded to the throne, and if the report of the contemplated abdication of the Empress is true, he will become ruler in fact, as well as in name, at the age of 35.

Already, largely as a result of the
civilizing influence of her neighbor, Japan, China has entered upon a course of reform, with which the Emperor is credited with being strongly in sympathy. For years the influence of the Empress has been against progress, in spite of which progress has been made, and were the Emperor to throw off the conservatism that for centuries has kept China stationary, such changes as have taken place in Japan
might be seen in the former country, only on a vaster scale. In the third of a century during which the Empress has ruled, China's foreign trade has increased by about 150 per cent, while that of Japan has increased eightfold in the same period. China's exports and imports combined now aggregate a billion dollars; if they were as large as Japan's in proportion to population
they would exceed three billions. China has a population sufficient to support a greater railroad mileage than the entire world now has, and were she to embark in railroad building she would draw an immense amount of money from Europe and America. There can be little doubt that whenever the spirit of development seizes her, she will tax the resources of the world, for a time, to provide her with materials.
There still remains the question whether the Emperor is strong enough for a position that is filled with difficulties, or will yield to the influence of the reactionists, of which, unless he can be rescued from his present environment, there appears not a little danger.

The waterworks department would be money in pocket by adopting the independent system.

It may be only a coincidence that Mr. Borden's tour and the early frost come together.

The British chancellor of the exchequer calls the Canadian tariff the best of all colonial tariffs. It is too good for Mr. Borden—it doesn't give him fighting ground.

Ambassador Bryce has been talking to the American Bar Association on the English common law. As a bond of union between the two countries,
the common law is perhaps stronger than blood, language or literature.

The casualty list of the last Fourth of July is 164 deaths and 4,249 injured. Celebrating Independence Day since it was inaugurated has probably cost more lives than the achievement of independence.

Mr. Carnegie dilates on the greatness of the Kaiser, who dined with him. Since the author of "Triumphant Democracy" began hobnobbing with kings, his language about monarchy has considerably toned down.

SIMPLE REMEDY.

[New York Sun.]

Knicker—Confidence has been shaken.
Mrs. Knicker—Dear me, then why don't they get a confidence man to restore it?

DIMENSION.

[New York Sun.]

Stella—What is gossip?
Bella—Something that sounds as big in your ear as a cinder feels in your eye.

HERE'S A STALWART.

[Stratford Beacon.]

Mr. Borden's platform consists of sixteen planks, most of them old and moth-eaten, and the others so thin and weak as to make poor support for a general election.
The thing will not carry its own weight,
not to speak of the load of Foster, et al.

AVOIDING FATIGUE.

[Punch.]

Kindly Old Gent—Don't all those papers make you tired, my boy?
Little Boy—No. I don't read 'em, sir.

THEN CAME MOURNING.

[Exchange.]

Fred (sadly)—It's no use. I told your father that I couldn't live without you.
Edith—And what did he say to that?
Fred—Oh, he offered to pay my funeral expenses.

MR. BORDEN'S FISCAL PLANK.

[Winnipeg Free Press.]

And then there is the fiscal plank: "A fiscal policy which will promote the production within Canada of all useful articles and commodities that can be advantageously produced or manufactured
from or by means of our natural resources, having due regard to the interests of the consumer as well as to the just claims of our wage-earning population." What does this mean? Increase of the present tariff duties or reduction of them? In this and the other planks of the platform, outside those which are the regular stock-in-trade of every Opposition, Mr. Borden has proceeded upon the principle of the candidate
in the Biglow Papers:

"I don't approve o' givin' pledges;
You'd ought to leave a feller free,
An' not go knockin' down the wedges.
To ketch his fingers in the tree:
Kind o' promiscuous I got it,
Fer the hull country, an' the ground
I take, ez nigh ez I can show it,
Is pooty gen'ally all round."

AUSTRALIA'S LITTLENESS.

[Montreal Witness.]

The greatest British preference professions of the Australian Government having simmered down as regards Britain to a 5 per cent surtax upon foreign goods over and above a prohibitive tariff on British goods, has found like limitations in its relation to Canada. When asked what about the Canadian preference, Sir William Lyne explained that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had made no proposition to him since a conversation he had had with him in London. This, as toward the wedges, is pure rhetoric, to cover a complete withdrawal from the imperialist principle of which that Government, like all protectionists, had been so full of vaunt. What more of a proposition could be made by Canada than a standing reduction towards British countries of about one-third from her general tariff, on condition of some equivalent from other protected colonies. A country that grudges the mother country in return for free trade, miserable and negatory 5 per cent, is not likely to be able to do anything with a proposition based on a 33 1/3 per cent preference. The only thing open, therefore, to Sir William Lyne was to blame it all on Canada.

THE OBVIOUSLY REASONABLE.

[S. E. Kiser.]

A church, we know, is not the place
in which to cut a caper;
The red that's in a glutton's face
Is not read in a paper;
You would not run a doctor's bill
As people run from danger;
But many a man is ready still
To trust a total stranger.

We don't expect the willing cow
To give us apple butter;
We wouldn't think a wooden scow
Had soulful thoughts to utter;
We do not look for spreading wings
To sprout on mules, but gaily
We fancy we shall do great things
And still court pleasure daily.

We never foolishly suppose
That wheat will come from thistles;
Man cannot listen with his nose
Nor make a flute of bristles;
We know 'twould be a waste of time
To look for gold in carrots,
But men still think themselves sublime
Although they talk like parrots.

Your name will not endure if Fame
Has written it in water;
The yellow duckling cannot claim
To be a rooster's daughter;
These things the simplest of us know,
But men persist in thinking
That they are strong enough to go
The pace and keep from sinking.

A HARDER TASK.

[Judge.]

Jodd—When I want to get rid of my wife
for a few days, I just send for my relatives Todd—But how do you get rid of your relatives?

BREAKING IT GENTLY.

[Puck.]

Gerald—Why did you accept me, if you didn't expect to marry me?
Penelope—I wanted to break it to you gently.

NOTHING FOR LABOR.

[Branford Exporter.]

Mr. Borden has nothing to propose for labor. Either because the subject has no interest for him or because the Liberal party has covered the ground so completely that there is nothing he can think of offering.

RESULT OF SCARCITY.

[London Express.]

The scarcity of cottages in Accrington is so great that the matter was brought to the notice of the corporation yesterday, and it decided to hold an investigation. A member complained that the landlords would not let a cottage to a workman with more than two children, and that young married couples were compelled to live with their mothers-in-law, because houses could not be obtained.

Spectators Have Some Fun.

And when it was all over there was some more fun. One of the numerous fouls which went over the grandstand didn't really go and got impaled on a nail or a piece of tin or something.
After the game about a hundred boys,
and also Hughie Jennings, came out to get the ball down. Hats, pop bottles, other balls and stones were but a few of the things thrown. For 20 minutes that gang tried every means they could think of to dislodge the ball,
but there was nothing doing.

About a third of the crowd remained to see the fun, but the ball hadn't come off its perch when the grounds were finally closed up. Jennings only lasted a minute or two, but the boys stuck and had a great time. The

My Lady Cinderella

By Mrs. G. N. Williamson

Author of "My Friend the Chauffeur," "Lady Betty Across the Water," Etc., Etc.

A shudder ran through me from head to foot, and the floodgates of memory were suddenly burst open; but I pressed my lips together and did not speak for a moment, as was well and strong again now that I could bear the shock, or I suppose Miss Smith and the doctor, taking it over together as they surely had, would not have let Lady Sophie come.

"Yes, I will see her; I shall be glad," I said at last, and the door opened. How all the old times rushed back, how the old days crowded round me like pale ghosts, as the handsome, elegantly dressed woman moved softly in! She was very quiet, very subdued in her manner; no doubt she had had her instructions.

"Poor little girl!" she said softly, and patted my thin hand as she sat down by my sofa. The nurse and Miss Smith had gone out. We were alone together.

"It is good of you to come," I said. "I want you to tell me things; will you?"

"Yes," she answered. "They said I might answer any question you asked, for you have been patient, and you are practically well now, only very weak, and they thought if you saw me it might bring things back in a safe way. They thought, too, you might rather ask me than most other people, because I knew all the circumstances from the beginning. And we were very good friends once; do say we are so still, for I have been very unhappy, and shall be so till things between us are as they were before."

"We are friends," I responded; "it is good to see you again. But, you know, things can never be as they were before; I remember everything—everything now. I have just got to live my life the best I can, as I am to get well, I wonder how I got well? How did I escape from that awful house, that awful man? I am afraid of him still. I have seen his face in dreams; it haunts me always, and did even before I could recall where I had seen it, what it meant to me."

"You need not be afraid of him any more," said Lady Sophie; "he is dead. He has shot himself. I suppose he saw that not only was the stake he had played for lost, but that his life was hopelessly ruined. Perhaps, too, there was enough decency left in his black heart to make him wish not to involve his friends in his ruin."

"He was a murderer," I cried. "I know that he killed my mother. Perhaps I could never have proved it. But I feel that it was true, nevertheless. Oh, the horror of that awful night at Arrish Hall! I wonder I have not died of it, even though by some miracle, which I don't understand yet, I was saved."

"You have almost died of it, poor child! You have had brain fever, and for many days and nights no one dreamed that you could live. You couldn't have lived if it had not been for one person who nursed you back to life by sheer force of will, it seemed, and a tremendous power of endurance, when everyone else's hope and strength had failed."

"Ah, yes, Sister Milton, the nurse," I echoed; "Miss Smith told me she had been most faithful and devoted."

"No doubt, but I don't mean Sister Milton."

"Who, then? Did Miss Smith—?"

"I would tell you if you hadn't said one thing a few minutes ago."

"I don't understand. What has that to do with it?"

"You said that nothing could be as it had been before the night at Southwood Park. Of course, I know how you intended me to take that."

"I felt the color stream up to my thin white face."

"I think I have forgiven him," I stammered. "Only, of course, we could never meet. When your ideal is broken nothing can mend it, you know. Lady Sophie, Sir George Seaforth wasn't the man I had thought him; I wish you hadn't made me speak of him this first day with you, but I can't pretend to misunderstand, and if you mean to try and get me to say I will let him come here, it's useless. I never, never want to see him again."

"Not even if it was he who saved your life—not only once, on the night you spoke of, but a hundred times since, almost losing his own in doing it?"

I stared at her aghast and dazed.

"It is true," she hurried on. "I am not exaggerating. He ought to tell you himself, but he would not, I know. You would never hear a word of all he has done from his lips. Perhaps, if not he, your friend Anne Bryden ought to tell you, for part of the story concerns her. But it would be a hard thing for her to confess to you. She has already confessed to me, and conscience has punished her enough, so you shall hear the history of that night and the six weeks which have passed since—if you care."

"Six weeks?" I repeated. "Six weeks! Oh, yes, I do—I do care to hear! But—"

"Don't say any 'buts' until I have finished. I must begin before that; night. There's a great deal to tell, and it's hard to know how best to piece together all the bits of the mosaic. You wrote to Anne Bryden after you arrived at Lull, didn't you?"

"Yes, I said mechanically, in my suspense."

"Well, she was the only one who knew where you were. Meanwhile, you can imagine the state of mind George Seaforth was in, and I was almost as bad. I don't think I ever knew George till then—of what depths of feeling he was capable. I think even you would have forgiven him if you had seen him as I saw him. One of the first things he did, after he had applied for help to Scotland Yard and we had talked over matters together, was to go to Miss Bryden, from whom I thought he might learn something. She had already got your letter, the very day he saw her; it seems; but she told him nothing."

"She knew I would not wish it," I defended Anne.

"No, it was not that. She has told me since why it was. George laid his heart bare to her, humbling himself, and pleading that if she knew anything of you she would tell it. You would not listen to him, but she did; and she realized that he had not been the cold-blooded, deliberate sinner you had believed him. She felt, she says now, that if you had heard him speak you would not have held out against him. Still, she told him she was absolutely ignorant of your movements. Can you guess why?"

"Not unless it was, somehow, for my sake."

"It was for her own—her own selfishness. The first time that she saw George, she admired him above all other men, and she used to dwell upon the thought of him in secret until it became a sort of fascination. She was jealous of you because you were beautiful and could win his love, and because at my house you could meet him every day."

"She guessed that he cared for you. When she came to question her, she knew the whole truth of his feelings, of course, and she told herself that she could not give him up to you. He could never be anything to her, but she could not bear that you should have everything she was denied. That was the reason for her silence, and it was a silence which nearly cost you your life."

"Poor Anne!" I murmured. "Poor Anne!"

"How easy it is for you to forgive her! Not that one grudges it to the poor girl, for she has bitterly repented and done her best to make amends. If she had given Sir George your address at first, you would have been spared the horrors at Arrish Hall. She did not do that, but she had not a peaceful moment after she had let him go. Her treachery to you was corroding her heart; those are her own words about it to me."

"At last she came to my house and told how she had sinned in omission. She gave me your letter, and begged me to let George know as much of the truth as necessary. Of course, I would not betray the confession of her motive. It telegraphed him at once; he was in Devonshire, following up a misleading clew suggested by the police."

"But before all these developments had come about something else had happened, which you must hear now, before you can understand how serious a misfortune George and I had reason to think your disappearance. In any case, his grief and remorse would have been terribly hard to bear—anxiety as well; but as it was we feared a great danger to you. "You had left the drawers of the Chippendale desk scattered over the floor of your room—or, rather, as you had told me, Diana Dunbar had left them so. When I called George to consult with me there, after you had gone, I told him of her visit, what she had said, what she had done. You and he had had a talk about the man Wynnstay; George knew more than I knew of the matter, but I remembered what you had told me of the escriptoire. "We exchanged details of information, and agreed that there was something exceedingly strange under the Dunbar's interest in you, which they ought to share with their solicitor, Mr. Wynnstay. It was certain that Diana had availed herself of her privileges as George's friend and your acquaintance to gain access to the room where she thought the desk would be, after hearing of the sale from Wynnstay."

"George would not have touched the escriptoire until you should have been brought back; but I was very much excited, very indignant that the desk should not be left alone and at the mercy of their scheming until the secret drawer and the papers which might be hidden in it were found. I am not a patient woman, as you know, and I acted without hesitation."

"I did not wait to search for such a drawer, but I flung the escriptoire on the floor before George could stop me, and broke it. I found what I wanted, Consuelo; and it was a discovery worth making."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Ring Out the Old, Ring in the New." What was the discovery? I echoed, with growing interest.

"Wait!" cried Lady Sophie; "that will come by and by. There are other things to tell first, but now you can guess why we were anxious about you. A motive was supplied—a motive strong enough to tempt unscrupulous ones to evil things; and though your friends had not been able to trace you, we feared that your enemies might have been better informed from the first."

"When George got my telegram he started at once for Dorsetshire, and went straight to Miss Smith at The Pines. It was about 10 o'clock when he reached the house, and she was just going to bed; but when he sent up a message, she dressed again and saw him. You were at Arrish Hall, engaged as secretary, and had written in the afternoon that by your employer's permission you would spend the following day with her."

"There wasn't a scrap of evidence against the man who called himself Raynor, but George, whose suspicions were ready to take fire, was horribly worried and perplexed. He thought it possible that the advertisement of which Miss Smith told him might have been a plot arranged by those whose interest it was to secure you and certain things that were yours."

"Still, there was no real reason to believe that your situation was not genuine, and he hardly felt justified in going to Arrish Hall at half past eleven at night (it would be that or after by the time he could arrive there, as he had to wait for a train)."

"The house would probably be closed for the night, and the prospect of waking up the sleepers and explaining his errand seemed almost a hopeless one, especially as (if all were well) you would refuse to see him—refuse, perhaps, to hear anything he wished to say."

"Still, he could not rest and take his chances. Some time later he walked over to Arrish Hall, found the house shut up and quiet, only a big dog barking at the intruder. Undecided and miserable, he started to walk away, but he felt irresistibly drawn back, with a horrible feeling that anything might be happening in that lonely house."

"He resolved, finally, to risk all, and rouse the house, rather than have to repent his hesitation too late. As he reached the door he heard a scream."

"In another three minutes he had broken in through one of the lower windows, cut and bleeding from the shattered glass, beating off the dog that clung to him and tore at him as he struggled through. Now you know how you were saved. If you want more details, you shall hear them all some other time; but don't speak yet. There's more to tell."

"Already you were delicious. George carried you to The Pines in his arms. When he would have given you into the care of Miss Smith, believing it better that he should be out of your sight, you clung to him and would not let him go; though you did not seem to know who he was."

"The doctor—fetched from Lull by a servant—said that it would be dangerous to thwart you; and from that night, for weeks, until you slept naturally and came to yourself again, he never left you for more than an hour on end. If he were sent away to sleep—half dead for want of it, as he was—you would call and your voice would instantly bring him back."

"He was half skeleton, half ghost, at the end of three weeks. How he lived, no one knew, but he hardly seemed to be of flesh and blood—he was iron. He never broke down until you had fallen into a doze, like a child's, one day. Then, when he was not needed, he sank into a chair, half-fainting, and appeared to share with their solicitor, Mr. Wynnstay. It was certain that Diana had availed herself of her privileges as George's friend and your acquaintance to gain access to the room where she thought the desk would be, after hearing of the sale from Wynnstay."

"Your forgiveness! What do you think, what do you say, Consuelo? Can you forgive George Seaforth now?" My eyes were streaming with tears.

"Where is he?" I asked. "Is he still at Lull?"

"He's in the next room," said Lady Sophie. "Shall I call him?"

"I nodded, for I could not speak when the door opened and someone came in, I could not see for the mist of tears. But I held out my arms, and was clasped closely—oh, so closely yet so gently, as if I had a butterfly body to break—against the heart that had kept my lamp of life burning from its own flame, during the past blank, yet lurid, weeks."

"Darling—my darling!" whispered the voice that had soothed me in my delirium. "Do you forgive me?" "Do you forgive me?" I answered "I love you—I love you so."

McGILL IN B. C.

Branch of the Great University Being Established at Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 28.—In an address to the Canadian Club, Dr. J. D. McGill, prior to returning to Montreal, after five months' organization on a larger scale of the local branch of McGill, as a nucleus of a new provincial university, said the minimum initial cost of the proposed state university would be $250,000 for buildings; equipment and maintenance, $40,000 yearly; McGill is spending $100,000 on buildings, which, with equipment, would be transferred to the Provincial Government, when the latter is ready to take it over.

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

A SMART SHIRTWAIST GOWN—6941-6945.

For rough-and-ready there is nothing that can compare, so far as comfort, neatness, and serviceability are concerned, with the shirtwaist frock, provided only it be of correct style and shaping. In the accompanying illustration is shown a modish combination of the popular tucked blouse, which is becoming to almost every type of figure, and the new 6-gored skirt, the most distinctive feature of which are the circular shaping of the front and back gores and the overlapping side seams, ornamented in this design with small fancy buttons. The waist, which may be made with either full-length or shorter sleeves, is modeled in polka-dotted brown and white foulard, while the skirt is made of golden brown Panama. The gown, however, may be prettily developed in poncee, shantung or rajah, or in linen, canvas, or any of the mercerized cottons. For the medium size 3½ yards of 27-inch material will be needed to make the waist, and 7 yards of material of the same width to model the skirt.

Two patterns: 6941—6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.
6945—5 sizes, 22 to 28 waist measure.

The price of these patterns is 20c, but either pattern will be sent upon the receipt of 10c.

QUOTING CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO CALLANDER--STARS LOSE TO SAINTS

CALLANDER IS QUOTING CHAMPION; HYMAN TROPHY GOES TO TORONTO

Bob Callander, the clever Toronto quoter, had no difficulty in defeating Errington, of this city, yesterday, in the final game for the Hyman trophy by a score of 61 to 23. The cup now goes to Callander, and all championship games will be played in Toronto until an outside man wins the title.

The Hyman trophy was offered for competition in 1903, and the winners have been as follows:

1903—Callander.
1904—Callander.
1905—Bell.
1906—Bell.
1907—Callander.
The winners in the events this year were as follows:

Second Series.

1. Humphrey, 2. Wood, 3. Miller, 4. Sabine.

Third Series.

1. Wright, 2. Treble, 3. Lytle, 4. Talbot.

Trophy Match.

1. Callander.
2. Errington.
3. Nickell.
4. Robson.

B. D. HUMPHREY, of Toronto, winner of the second series in the quoting tournament. Humphrey several years ago was one of the best in the business, but has not been following the game for some time.

THE PASSING SHOW IN SPORT

Callander's victory in the quoting tournament was a popular one, even if our local champion was defeated. Bell says that he is out of the game for good, but we hope not.

For the next three years at least all championship quoting matches will take place in Toronto. With Bell out of it, when will London ever get another opportunity to fight for a piece of bric-a-brac?

It looks as though Captain Murphy, the well-known marksman, would again be one of those to make up the famous Bisley team. The captain has been doing some great work at Ottawa.

There's been nothing but challenges floating in ever since the newspaper Champs trimmed the bunch from the rival sheet at Tecumseh Park. Among those who crave for an opportunity of relieving us of our laurels are Frank Love's municipal sharks, and Jack Hughes' constables and magistrates. We accept the latter deal and suggest next Thursday for the date of the massacre.

Cite this: City Hall, Aug. 28.

H. B. M.—I hereby warn you that the warrior from this dugout are camped on your trail and will cheerfully take the scalps of your Champs any time they will stop running long enough to permit of the operation.

Yours, In exasperation,
J. BELL.
Ex-champion quoter and manager of the McClarys.

And now they say that Burns had injured his hand. If Johnson gets off that lucky when the pair meet he will doubtless consider himself fortunate.

Quoters as well as baseball players have their hobbies, and but few of them use the regulation weight quots. Callander throws a seven-pounder. Bell one a quarter of a pound heavier and Errington tosses only a four pounds and a quarter quoit.

Dan McEwen recently sent Lil Bars, 2:12, against her own record at Readville, and succeeded in clipping off a second.

The matinee fever seems to be dying out locally. The fields are growing smaller and the spirit of competition less keen. Johnny K. left just at the wrong time. At least one of Mr. McCartney's horses could make him hit the high spots just at present in Class A.

You can't hold down Captain Robson. The captain has had the prize-taking bug for nearly fifty years, and seems to be constantly growing worse—or rather better. The captain was hot on the trail of the big winners in the quoting tourney.

Billy Wagner is just in from Niagara Falls where he has been trying to figure out just how long it will take to get that much-touted power to London. Wag accompanied the Stars to St. Thomas yesterday and as usual gave a good account of himself. Wagner is there at all points.

The Hon. J. E. I. Stein is said to be convalescing rapidly from his recent illness. It certainly was hard lines for the veteran on Tuesday. When he played close in everybody poked out, and vice versa.

Shades of smoked lemons! It is rumored that they are talking of handing over the Montreal franchise to Hamilton. Why not London? The burg-by-the-bluff may be some things on drawing houses to a rugby or a lacrosse match—but baseball, never.

It is also said that St. Thomas will try and keep up a city league next season. There is only one way to get together such an aggregation, and that is to stop all trains from running during the season.

Montreal will probably wind up what has proven to be a disastrous season next Sunday.

ROBERT CALLANDER, of Toronto, the recognized champion quoter of America, and winner of the famous Hyman trophy.

DUFF STUART WON CHALLENGE CUP

Captain of 6th D.C.O.R. With a Possible Won Cup in the Borden Match.

Rockville Ranges, Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The conditions today are almost perfect for shooting. The officials this morning decided to have an extra list of those who came next in order below those who got into the Grand Aggregate, so that if the Grand Aggregate contained a large number of persons not eligible for Bisley, such as visitors and civilians, those next in order might also shoot for the Bisley aggregate.

Pte. Nicol, of the Thirteenth, Hamilton, again won the running man's contest. Warrant Officer Raven, of the British team, holds the record so far this meet for revolve shooting, making 52 out of a possible 60.

Staff-Sgt. Drysdale, of Third Victorias, and Lieut.-Col. Spearing, of the Fifty-third, made possible today in the Gibson match.

The Borden match, seven shots at 600 yards, is shot without the use of verniers. The modern sights have attachments which do away with the need of verniers, and those with the old sights where verniers are needed claim they are at a disadvantage by the rule and asked that they be allowed to use them. The change would require a meeting of the executive, which could not be assembled this morning before the match opened, so the rule was not changed. The object of the provision was to take the match as near active service conditions as possible.

Borden Match Scores.

The following are the chief scores in the Borden match out of a possible 35: Challenge cup, medalion, and $20.—Capt. Duff Stuart, Sixth D. C. O. R., 35; 1st, Sergt.-Major F. W. Utton, R. C. R., 34; 1st, M. S. Price, R. C. R., 31 each.—Patterson, Seventy-seventh, 34; Staff-Sgt. Thompson, Ninety-first, 34; 33 each.—Sergt.-Major Diamond, R. C. R., 33; Lieut. J. F., 33; Capt. J. E. Hutcheson, Forty-third, 33; Capt. W. C. Frank, Forty-sixth, 33; Lieut. Herby, Thirtieth, 33; Mr. McGregor, 33; Major P. P. Moore, Ninetieth, 32; Sergt. Sergt. Moscor, Sixth D. C. O. R., 32; Lieut.-Col. Leclair, Sixty-fifth, 32; Mr. W. C. Clarke, Sixteenth F. A., 32; Pte. Whitehouse, Tenth R. G., 32; Sergt. Crooks, First C. A., 32; Corp. H. Steele, Thirtieth, 32; Col. J. H. Cowan, British team, 33.

The first place among the tyros team of five men was won by the Sixtieth D. C. O. R. team of Vancouver. Score 187. The Forty-eighth Highlanders and Seventy-eighth Regiment were tied at 183 points, and the R. C. R. and the Thirtieth of Hamilton each made 181.

DETROIT TIGERS CREEPING AHEAD

McAleer's Team Goes Down in First Game Before the Tigers.

Detroit, Aug. 29.—Except for one bad inning for Donovan and a couple of bad ones for Powell, the first game between the Tigers and St. Louis was a perfect pitchers' battle. In those two bad divisions when the Tigers got to Powell for eight of their nine hits, Detroit piled up a nice total of scores. It looked very sweet with the game 4 to 1 until the sixth when the William that is wild did his duty by his reputation. With two on bases Donovan walked the next three and forced two runs over the plate. It looked rather bad. But Bill came back stronger than ever, and though he was touched up for two doubles in the latter part of the game, the result was never much in doubt.

Barring these few slip-ups both twirlers made it one of the most interesting contests seen on the home grounds. Donovan struck out five men and granted the visitors but five hits. Detroit got four hits off Powell in the second and a like number in the fourth. That was about all. Cobb got his only hit of the day in the fifth, but the next three were out easily. Powell retired four men.

"Wild Bill" Has the Speed.

Donovan had a world of speed all the time. On occasions he had the Browns swinging at his twirlers like sand lotters. Barring the sixth inning, his control was just about perfect. At one time it was too perfect for Umpire Billy Evans. That was in the ninth with two out, Spencer on third and Powell at bat. Bill sent over a beauty which appeared to cut the lower right-hand corner of the plate about three inches. Evans called it a ball. Then came a couple of strikes that a blind man couldn't miss. The Bill delivered another which cut a plate in the same place. Again Evans called it a ball. It was just too much for Bill. He put up a vigorous kick, and because Bill doesn't often kick it must have been that they were legitimate strikes.

Downs' Error Costly.

The Tigers' only error was made by Downs. Only one, but it was costly. George Stone had struck out the first time up and when he faced Donovan in the fourth he was ready to do or die. He did. Into deep right he sailed one that was easily good for three bags. Cobb made a perfect throw to Downs, but Jerry got tangled up somehow and fumbled the ball until it was too late to get Stone, who scored with a nice margin. Strangely enough, Jerry got the benefit of the only error on the St. Louis side of the score. Downs singled and went to second on Schmidt's grounder to Powell.

Then O'Leary fouled to T. Jones and Jerry started for third. Jones made a perfect throw and Yeager fumbled it. But the extra base didn't get Jerry much for Donovan doubled to left and he must have scored anyway.

The fun started in the second. Rossman landed on Mr. Powell for a single to center. Downs followed with a hit to left. Schmidt attempted to sacrifice, but just popped one up in front of Stevens, who got it easily. Then O'Leary singled to left and the bases were full. To help his own cause along, Donovan followed up with a clean hit to center, and Rossman and Downs crossed the plate.

Jones fled to Stone and coughing forced Donovan, Yeager to Waller. Again in the fourth the Tigers got busy. The inning started with Downs' single and the succession of plays which put him on third. Donovan got into the big batting class then with the double to left which scored Jerry. Davy Jones followed that up with a single, bringing in Bill. On the throw to the plate to catch Donovan, Jones took second. Then Coughlin drove one at Powell. It was pretty hot and the Brown twirler fell all over himself trying to get it. Davy going to third in the interim. But it was not to be. Crawford sent an easy fly to Niles. That ended the scoring.

In the fifth Detroit got her ninth hit, Cobb singled to center and was sacrificed at second by Rossman. Try then stole third, but he was caught by Jones and Schmidt fled to Hemphill. The rest of the time they went out in one, two, three order.

The Browns were retired in the same fashion in the two opening innings. Stevens started the third by striking out. Then Bill walked T. Jones and Powell. But that was all. Niles struck out and Hemphill fled to Crawford.

Stone Gets a Triple.

Stone started the fourth with that triple which, assisted by Downs' error, sent him home. The other three went out in order. Stevens walked in the fifth, but was caught stealing. Schmidt to Downs, and the next two were easy.

In the fifth, however, the momentous doings happened. Niles started things by singling to center. Hemphill straightaway forced him, Downs to O'Leary. Stone followed with a single to right and Hemphill took second. Then Bill took his slump. He filled the bases by walking Pickering and forced Hemphill home by passing Wallace. Not content with that he handed a free passage to Yeager and forced in Stone. Hartzell, batting for Stevens in an effort to continue the run getting, forced Pickering at the plate, O'Leary to Schmidt. T. Jones struck out and ended the agony.

In the seventh they went out in order. After Stone and Pickering had struck out in the eighth, Wallace doubled to left. He never got any farther. Yeager grounded toward second and Downs made up for his error used to promote and cloak fraud.

STARS BLOTTED OUT BY SAINTS

Railwaymen Trim the Satellite by Seventeen to Nine.

And the Stars fell! The Saints lit upon our own Satellite at St. Thomas yesterday and corralled 17 runs, while the locals only landed 9.

The contest was ragged all the way and errors were almost as numerous as spectators. Faticus Earley started off for the Stars, but was taken out of the box in the sixth, after thirteen hits had been garnered off his delivery. Bill Graham then came in from the second station and dished up benders for the next two innings, allowing but two hits.

Orr put up just about as bad an exhibition of twirling as did Earley, and allowed eleven hits in the first four innings. In the ninth the Londoners again fell upon his delivery for two runs, but St. Thomas' big league runs, but St. Thomas' big lead could not be overcome.

The score by innings:

St. Thomas . . . 10 3 2 4 3 0 . . . 17 15

London . . . 2 1 2 0 0 1 0 2 . . . 9 15

Batteries — Orr and Retz; Earley, Graham and Jeffries. Umpire, Howell.

LARGE ENTRY FOR TWILIGHT GAMES

Many Good Men Will Be Out for Handicaps at Queen's Park.

The second of the twilight meets inaugurated by the Y. M. C. A. will be held tomorrow night at Queen's Park. Physical Director Brent this morning stated that the entry list would be double at least what it was on the first occasion.

Amos, Sweeney, Strauss, Chapman, Campbell, Brock, Carruthers and others will be on hand and liberal handicaps will be given novices.

The events on tomorrow night's card will include the 220 yard dash, the half-mile race, and the high jump. The meets are held solely for the purpose of boosting track and field sports in this city, and everybody is cordially invited to turn out and compete.

The first event will be called at 7 o'clock.

"BOOKIE" CLEARS OUT

Gets Cold Feet at Ithaca and Stops Betting.

Ithaca, Mich., Aug. 28.—The sole "bookie" got cold feet today and stopped selling pools. When the betting contingent wended its way towards the spot where pools were sold on preceding days a sad sight greeted their eyes. The stand was shut up and the absence of the proprietor made it look as if the lid had been clapped on.

One of the wisecracks then remembered having seen the "bookie" going toward the railroad station at a tolerably rapid rate, with his belongings carried under his arms. He looked thoroughly disgusted with things in general. Ever since the meeting opened luck has been against him and he lost steadily. The attack of cold feet was brought on by a bad run at several other meets.

As on Tuesday all favorites cleaned up first money in their respective races. Incidentally Dewey G. lowered the track record in the 2:13 pace by one-quarter of a second. He covered the distance in 2:13 flat. In the other heats he did no better than 2:16 1/2. Bill Brino also had things all his own way in the 2:22 pace. J. B. Wilkes, who ran second, was not dangerous. Phoenix Party lifted first honors in the running race.

The largest crowd of the week was out this afternoon, fully 5,000 being present. For a change the association was blessed with fine weather and as fast a track as could be wished for.

Summaries:

First race, 2:20 pace, purse $200:

THE FLOWER MEN IN CONVENTION; ASSOCIATION IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Horticulturists Gathered Here in Tenth Annual Conference.

The tenth annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association was opened yesterday afternoon in the board of trade rooms, with a splendid gathering of delegates. Canadian cities were well represented and there were several delegates from the United States.

Deep interest is being shown in all the papers, which are very thorough and cleverly thought out.

Mayor Judd yesterday formally opened the convention by delivering an address of welcome. He declared himself delighted to welcome a body of men who do so much towards beautifying the homes and cities of the land. He hoped that the convention would be productive of new ideas, and would be exceedingly profitable to the delegates. He tendered them the hospitality of the city, and wished the members of the convention success and prosperity.

Mr. A. T. McMahon, vice-president of the board of trade, in the absence of President Sam Stevely, also welcomed the convention on behalf of the board. He hoped that the convention would be a great success, and that the delegates would be much profited by the meeting.

Mr. J. A. Campbell, of Simcoe, responded on behalf of the association. Mr. J. H. Dunlop, of Toronto, was to have replied, but he was unavoidably absent. In a brief speech Mr. Campbell thanked the mayor for the hearty welcome, and assured him that the delegates would not be slow in taking advantage of the hospitality of the citizens of London. He thanked them for their kind wishes.

The Annual Report.

President W. J. Lawrence, of Eglington, read the president's annual report. He traced the growth of the industry during the past few years. Then all the large private and commercial establishments were centered in Ontario and Quebec; now, many establishments of large proportions were located in every province of the Dominion. The work of the association was growing very rapidly, and the delegates were showing greater interest in the association. He was much pleased to come to London. The association had met here five years ago, and the memories of that occasion were very pleasant.

The modern improvement in the details of the trade were dealt with at some length. The construction of greenhouses was more scientific than heretofore, better light, better heat and much stronger construction. The trade had made wonderful strides, and the men of Canada were not slow to see the advantage of modern improvements and utilize them. He also suggested that the trade establish a uniform price for plants and flowers. This would assist the business materially.

NORMAL SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPT. 17

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Aug. 23.—Normal Schools at Toronto, London and Ottawa will not open until Sept. 17 this year.

The alterations which have been in progress are not yet completed. The Toronto and Ottawa Provincial model education department announces that schools will open as usual on Sept. 3.

THE NORTH BRANCH ALMOST DRY; HOW WOULD FILTRATION FARE?

The Taking of Water Would Also Start Much Litigation.

The north branch of the River Thames these days does not give the advocates of the filtration scheme much confidence in their plan. It was stated that there was not enough water coming down the north branch at present to fill a four-inch pipe. Investigation proves that this is absolutely correct. The dams on the north branch have been removed, and the flow of water is extremely small. Oldtimers who have watched the flow of the river for years unhesitatingly state that they never saw so little water coming down as at this moment. The bed is almost completely dry, and where the water is to come from to run a filtration plant is a mystery to those who have lived along the river for years.

WAS GOING BAIL FOR WRONG MAN

A rather humorous and yet somewhat pathetic incident took place in the police court this morning, when Edward Smith, a blacksmith, appeared before Magistrate Love on a charge of having stolen a coat and vest belonging to a roommate named James Groomer.

No witnesses were on hand, and it was decided to adjourn the case until tomorrow morning.

"Can you procure bail, Smith?" asked the magistrate.

"I'll bail him," shouted someone, with a rich brogue, who later turned out to be Mr. Thomas Morkin, the aged proprietor of the Morkin House.

Mr. Morkin made his way from out of the large group of spectators present, and went up to the clerk's desk where stood the prisoner.

"I didn't steal the coat and vest," began Smith. "You see—"

"Get out!" cried Morkin. "Sure I thought you was another fellow. I don't know you from Adam."

Smith, who protested his entire innocence, was finally allowed to go on his own recognizance until tomorrow morning.

and prevent many abuses that are creeping into the trade.

The address was discussed by the members of the association at some length, and many of the suggestions contained in it will be acted upon.

Sound Finances.

The evening session convened at 7:30 o'clock and was well attended. The reports of the different committees, as well as the report of the secretary, were read. All were most satisfactory. The membership of the society had increased materially, and the finances were in a satisfactory condition. Four splendid papers were heard from Mr. Duggan, of Brampton; Mr. Thomas Manton, Eglington; Mr. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y.; and Mr. A. Gilchrist, Toronto Junction.

The paper prepared by Mr. Duggan was read by Mr. H. Simmers. It was on "The up-to-date methods of conducting a commercial florist's establishment." Mr. Duggan suggested many things, such as bathrooms for employees. It would make them contented. The employees should be treated with courtesy, and their comfort looked after. Flowers should be promptly placed on the market, and thus a prompt delivery to the customer was assured.

Value of Advertising.

The value of advertising was dealt with. Mr. Duggan advised generous advertising, and suggested that the advertisements be changed frequently. He had tried this with much success, and unhesitatingly advised the trade to follow that rule.

The business should be run on a cash basis. It was the safest and best method.

A paper on "Experience with Lilies for Easter Trade," was read by Mr. A. Gilchrist, one of the foremost growers in the country. He advised early marketing of the lilies. He thought that lilies could be grown in Canada as well as in Japan, and thought that the experimental stations should take this matter up as soon as possible. Some times he had ordered bulbs from abroad, and had not always received what he had ordered. This would be overcome if the bulbs were grown in Canada, as he thought they could be.

"Plants Versus Flowers for the Holiday Trade," was the subject of a paper read by Mr. Thomas Manton, of Eglington. He thought that flowers were more appreciated at the holiday season than plants, especially in smaller places. Flowers were more profitable than plants. It was better for the retailer, as it required more knowledge on the part of the retailer to show plants to advantage than it did to show flowers.

Mr. F. R. Pierson, of Tarrytown, New York, read an enlightening paper on the "Advantages of Connected Greenhouses Over Single Greenhouses." The wide, separate, east-and-west house was much superior in his opinion, as it generally admitted more sunlight than any other. This was a very important feature from the producers' standpoint, as sunlight was the prime factor for the greenhouse man.

A session will be held this morning, and this afternoon the delegates will be entertained by the local committee.

WOODMEN OF WORLD ANNUAL OUTING

Camp Number Two Have Delightful Picnic at Springbank.

Camp No. 2, Woodmen of the World, held its annual picnic at Springbank yesterday afternoon, at the west end, the grocers occupying the east diamonds and grounds.

The picnic proved a very enjoyable one from every standpoint, and the several hundred people who were present returned to the city tired but very happy and well satisfied with the day's outing.

A feature of the sports was a game of ball between the ladies and gentlemen. Major Brown was umpire, and he narrowly escaped lynching. No matter what kind of a play the ladies made, he gave decision which made him the white-haired boy with the fair sex, and the men declared he was a robber.

At last when a riot appeared about due, the umpire was able to discern a foul ball, and distinguish a basehit from a three-bagger, and quiet was restored.

The game resulted in a victory for the ladies by a score of 17 to 5.

The following was the lineup: Ladies—Miss M. Joyce, pitcher; Mrs. Mills, catcher; Mrs. Hignam, first base; Mrs. Spicer, second base; Mrs. Lewis, third base; Miss H. Joyce, center field; Mrs. Kibbler, right field; Miss Webb, left field; Mr. Hall, shortstop.

He also spoke of the increased use of uniform way of dealing with this problem, that the greens should be paid for when furnished with flowers.

He also spoke of the increased use of southern greens in Canada, owing to the better cold storage facilities. He thought that in a few years southern greens would be used as extensively in Canada, proportionally, as in the United States.

LOCAL MARKET.

The market today was a very good one for a Thursday. The usual lines were represented, and there was a good demand. There was very little change in prices. The farmers who have threshed this year's crop of oats say that they are yielding from 20 to 30 bushels to the acre. As the average yield in ordinary seasons is from 40 to 45 bushels, it will thus be seen that this year's crop will hardly be two-thirds of the average. These farmers who have threshed their wheat are well pleased with the result, as 30 to 40 bushels to the acre is the report in the majority of cases. Grain-Oats sold well today, and there were a large number of loads offered; sales were made at $1.40 to $1.45 per cwt for new oats and $1.46 to $1.50 for old; most of the loads sold at the higher figure; the millers are paying 85c for both old and new wheat.

Hay and straw—There were only 11 loads of hay offered today, as against 35 yesterday; there should be an exceptionally good demand for hay at tomorrow's market, as there will be none offered on Saturday or Monday, the latter being a public holiday; sales were made today at $15 to $16 per ton. Straw is dull, at $6 to $6.50 per ton. Butter and Eggs—Butter sold at 20c and 21c for crocks and 22c for pound rolls. Eggs sold at 16c to 17c for extra and 15c for standard. Potatoes—Potatoes sold quickly at 80c to 90c per bu; cabbages went at 40c to 50c per dozen; celery, 40c per dozen; tomatoes were in fair demand at 35c to 40c per basket; unless there is rain soon and the weather is warmer, the crop will not be up to expectations; beets, onions, lettuce and carrots sold at 20c per dozen.

Fruits—Apples, as usual, sold quickly at $1 to $1.40 per bushel; a few home-grown pears were offered, which sold at $2 per bu; plums and peaches sold by the dealers at 90c to $1 per bushel.

Dressed hogs sold at 89c per cwt; they are going to be lower in price, as the buyers expect a big slump in the price of live hogs.

There were no changes in the prices of poultry or butchers' meats.

The Health of the Hair

When the natural secretions decrease, when the hair becomes dry, splits at the ends, and comes out in combing, when the gloss disappears and the hair becomes gray or faded, the ill-health of the hair is indicated.

The success of Oriental Balm and Quinine Tonic is due to the fact that it restores the hair-producing organs to their natural vigor.

It also encourages and promotes the secretions of the hair follicles, and thus gray or faded hair regains its original color, new growth begins and freshness and beauty restored. 50 cents bottle.

PROSECUTE AGITATOR

Roadhouse Being Charged With the Violation of Lemieux Act.

Cobalt, Aug. 28. — The latest move against the union is the summoning of Organizer Roadhouse, Jas. McGuire, and Wm. Hewitt to appear before Magistrate Brown here on Thursday on a charge of violating the Industrial disputes investigation act, a clause in which provides that no one shall incite to come out on strike or to remain in strike. The penalty imposed is a fine of not less than $50 a day or not more than a year's imprisonment.

The case is of peculiar importance as being the first instance in the history of Canada, in which an agitator has been charged under this act. For the defense E. E. A. DuVernet will in all likelihood appear.
