Knowing What we Want to do

And Keeping at it Everlastingly is the Concrete Fact about this Business.

Our aim for the past seven years has been to give the people of Brockville and vicinity the best Dry Goods possible for the least money. Nothing diverts us from this plain purpose, and every day we come closer to our object. All sorts of devices are employed to capture business, such as Bankrupt Stock Sales, but the great idea that undergirds this business is reliable goods at reliable prices.

Not by any Possibility, Nor Under Any Plea

Small good merchandise be sold lower than in this store, and we guarantee to protect our customers every time. We do not want buyers except when buyers want us, and then we only ask for the courtesy of a call.

BREAKS OUT IN MONTREAL.

The Investigation in That City Reveals More Aided Men.

Montreal, Nov. 26.—The investigation now in progress in this city has revealed an amount of corruption among the aiders that makes Toronto's experience in that line appear small.

At the examination of Mr. Hopkins the architect who planned the Street Railway Company's building which recently collapsed, killing men, his evidence showed that tenders for the building were not altered their tender twice after the other tenders were opened.

Mr. Hopkins reluctantly admitted that he had allowed the contractors to practically do the work just as they pleased without his supervision.

"You were being paid," said Mr. McGibbon, "to superintend the work and you allowed a contractor to go on without knowing in what particulars they were going to differ from his specifications?"

"On the condition that they returned responsibility for the change."

At the time the contracts were let the Street Railway Company, which is practically the same company that controls the Toronto Street Railway, were seeking a franchise from the city and in the face of this gave contracts to five aiders.

Mr. Morikin, hotelkeeper, swore out warrants for the arrest of the alleged perpetrators of the crime by way of the telephone exchange, a distance of 130 miles.

Two young strangers, named Effe and Thompson, were sentenced to seven months in the Central Prison on Wednesday for plotting obstructions on the Grand Trunk tracks.

Mr. C. H. Wood of Maxville, Ont., went to Morrisburg on Friday and drew $100,000 from the bank.

DIED FROM NEGLECT.

A Repulsive Case Developed at Ashburn Village.

WHITBY, Nov. 26.—An inquest at Ashburn village, ten miles from here, has developed one of the most repulsive cases ever chronicled in this county.

At that village lives a man named Thomas Howard, aged 74, whose wife is Sarah Howard, a daughter of a former husband who is now 30. Her name is Sarah Jane Davidson.

Recently Sarah Jane was ill and was buried by Howard in the garden beside two other children. Mrs. Davidson had formerly borne. The neighbors gossiped and the tales reached the ears of County Crown Attorney Farwell.

Howard testified to being the father of the child, and that the young woman had had three children by him. He swore that they got milk for this child, but it would not take it, and they fed it on bread and water. The child only lived six weeks.

No doctor had been called to attend to the child. The evidence of the mother and daughter, however, did not corroborate his state-ments. They said they wanted to have a doctor called in, but the old man would not let them.

The jury found that the child died of neglect, want of nourishment and proper medical attendance. Warrants for the arrest of the parties will probably be issued.

KILLED IN CORNWALL COTTON MILLS.

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 24.—James Kerwin, colored Cotton Mills Canada branch, was found dead in the basement of the sawmill with his back to his head, his hands and feet were crushed to pulp.

Kerwin was formerly a roller cover and had been in the hospital for some time. He was familiar with his work and while in the act of stepping over the belt was caught by the two-foot wide driving belt that runs the electric light dynamo and was carried over the shaft. A portion of the unfortunate man's clothing and hat were found about thirty feet from the body. The remains were removed to the company's office and an inquest will be held. The deceased was about thirty-six years of age and was a small family.

Hunting Accident Near Bradford.

BRADFORD, Ont., Nov. 24.—On Thanksgiving Day a number of Toronto sportsmen in this vicinity hunting. One of them, who was a doctor, mistook the black cap on the head of Mr. Tom Bennett, of this place, for a black squirrel and placed a dozen shot in the back of Bennett's neck. Bennett and another man were killed.

Wrote Up His Own Suicide.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 24.—Dr. James Lucas, a graduate of Edinburgh University, has been practicing in Winnipeg for several years, but with poor success, chiefly because he was without a license. He visited the office of the Free Press, offering for sale a volume entitled "Wrote Up His Own Suicide."

The volume is a collection of letters and reports of the doctor, and is a very interesting and valuable work. The doctor thought the man was intoxicated, but promised to look over the manuscript. He then wrote up his own suicide.

SHOW US YOUR HANDS.

SOME OF THE SECRETS OF THE SEERS OF PALMYRA.

Whether there is anything of truth in the art of palmistry or not is a question of difficult decision...

The Mount of Jupiter is at the root of the index finger. Its indications are ambitions, honors, taste and ambition...

Next to be considered are the three fingers of the hand, which are the most important accidental ones...

The third prominent line in the hand, beginning at the base of the middle finger and extending through the middle finger...

A hand with spreading fingers indicates a mind of artistic bent. A poet, painter or musician may have knobby and square tipped fingers...

Long fingers show a peacemaker, a steadfast friend, also a suspicious one. Short nails signify one who is not a peacemaker...

TABLE MANNERS. In the Old Days of Herd Eaters and Bread, milk, butter and cheese were the staple articles of food...

It is not for the sake of old times, as you say. Old times! Something rose in the girl's eyes...

Self Denial Week.
The Salvation Army are preparing for their annual Self-Denial Week, which will be celebrated throughout the Dominion of Canada, from December 1st to 8th, inclusive.

The proceeds, which have been raised in other years through this concentrated effort, has been a remarkable testimony to the Army's development and activity. Every member of the Army, as well as the numerous friends of its institutions, are asked to abstain from some or all luxuries, and in some cases, officers and soldiers have determined to do without even such necessities as ordinarily considered necessary in order to raise funds to support the Salvation Army in its many different branches.

The Social operations, especially, have been greatly developed during the last twelve months, and as a natural consequence, the demands upon the funds of the Army have increased, which will require greater efforts to raise an increased amount during this Self-Denial Week. The total amount raised for it is $28,000.

An Athenian in Boston.
Last week Rev. J. Ferguson and wife returned from a pleasure trip to Boston. Mr. Ferguson was in the city for a Reporter representative and in response to a request for a report of his trip, he gave the following brief account:

On Oct. 1st we packed our trunks and lists and started for a pleasure trip to Boston by way of Montreal. We left over the last named place one day, took a cab and travelled all day in the city, taking in Mt. Royal, from which we had a delightful view of the city and surroundings. Leaving next morning at 3 a.m., we took the Vermont Central R. R. to Boston. The Mount-Hamshire scenery through Vermont and New Hampshire was really grand. The Boston depot, where we arrived, is the most spacious building on the Continent, except Philadelphia. Boston city is a beautiful city of beauty and wealth, but its streets are all shapes, lengths, and angles, wide and narrow, crooked and straight. It is a good place for a stranger to lose himself; but, if lost, he will find a friendly person to help him out.

Beacon Hill is a beautiful eminence on which the State house stands, in which we saw many of the old flags tattered and torn with bullets, mementoes of the late war, with many other relics of history. Bunker Hill looms up in the distance from Beacon as a spot of sacred memory to the American. The tower erected there is 221 feet, with two hundred and ninety-four stone steps inside by which you may climb up to the top and feast your eyes and senses, to your heart's content.

The suburbs of Boston are beautiful beyond any description that I could give. I would not forget New Cambridge, where Harvard University is situated. The location is beautiful. The grounds are large and well kept, buildings are fine and spacious—one dining hall seats 1200 students. This is one among the many of the kind. There are in attendance at present about three thousand students. One spot I must mention. There stands a big chimney on the street just outside of the Harvard grounds, and before that there is a date stone stating that under the shade of that tree Washington first took command to free his country. This is a sacred spot to the American. Boston University is Methodists—a large massive brick building, near Beacon Hill in the centre of the city, well filled with students. The churches are very fine, though not extremely large, but quite artistic in design, and fine music in abundance. We heard some very fine preaching in Boston, but nothing superior to other large cities. I have not time to write or speak about our tour to Brooklyn, New York or Long Island; suffice it to say, that while a part of Long Island is a sandy plain with much shrubbery, the south eastern part is very beautiful indeed. The rich men of Brooklyn and New York are turning their attention to Long Island to make it one of the finest summer resorts.

I think after viewing the cities above mentioned, in reference to churches, Montreal bears the palm; not so much in the number of churches as in the architectural design. This is my opinion.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

DAHLIAS AND BEEKREPPING.
"It seems that bee-keeping cannot be made successful where dahlias are largely cultivated. A very successful beekeeper began to grow dahlias, and those that reached the bees made very little honey."—Page 336, November Mayflower.

I have often noticed when all visible conditions required to form a successful spary seed present that there was a missing link and with the best attention the bees were at a standstill or declined altogether. Such cases remain a mystery. Invariably poison has forced itself before me. But when or how or where is the query. We have much to learn that is curious in this matter. Bees will work on digitalis or fox glove and lobelia, also tobacco flowers. A feed delivered to a hungry queen from the above bloom might prove disastrous, and possibly kill an entire colony. It is certainly proved that a queen will not certainly prove fatal to her in this delicate infantile stage.

Bees will visit such flowers, a novice should know, only in an emergency. I have seen them on all the above, but with what results I cannot tell. CHRYSANTHEMUMS.
These bright graceful flowers are yearly growing in favor. Plants grow from 12 to 18 inches high and bear a profusion of bell-shaped flowers, some belted and zoned with the most clear and vivid colors. The intenseness of coloring has earned them the name of "Painted Dahlias." Few flowers are finer for cutting or bouquet making than a late autumn chrysanthemum. A certain chrysanthemum, has for some time past been supplying that pulp with lovely bouquets formed from several varieties of the above. I must give her the credit and confess to though I never saw the chrysanthemum so fine until I saw the several kinds so clustered. They certainly enliven the desk of that young and popular clergyman, Mr. Wright. They would prove a pleasant object to the eye in Ontario. Try it—anybody, and so.

As I look at flowers arranged in their heavenly beauty, gently moving in the breeze, as if promading, they seem trying to talk to me and I listen with delight to their inspirations, sometimes almost wild in my world to come that I may there learn all they wished to tell me in. O the glorious rise of a late autumn chrysanthemum and rain and they herald from the Land of Beulah.

Caintown locality observed Thanksgiving day appropriately in listening to a discussion from me of the meeting to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, sore throat, Tonsillitis and Deafness. 60 cents. At J. P. Lamb's.

Those lovely and touching lines, "Beautiful snow," were never more vividly brought to mind than they were by the exhibition of that emblem of purity last Sabbath morning, when every twig and branch on all the trees donned their white lace robes and all manner of euclidean figures might be seen traced in fantastic order. It is one of Heaven's favorite similes.

A Murrain in Theresa Cattle.
Considerable alarm is felt by the farmers near Theresa, N. Y., over what appears to be a murrain in several herds of cattle in that vicinity. Mr. Fyke, out of a herd of seven has lost four, they being the only one left. John Countryman has lost two calves; John Hawn one two-year-old and Henry Mallett two calves. The cattle all had the same symptoms. They are taken weak and drop at the mouth and nose. The disease is the earliest stage, and if it spreads is not speedily checked, the farmers will call upon the state veterinarian.

Satisfied Patrons.
We are informed by a patron of Caintown cheese factory that the quality of the cheese is pleased with the result of the season. Mr. O. L. Gibson, who is a resident, has made cheese in this factory for many years and by careful attention and hard work has won a permanent good name for that factory. His desire to oblige, and his skill, give him a good deal of extra work. He has a great deal of extra high prices, as he affirms a reaction and equivalent depression are sure to follow with crooks and short turns to recover the excess. His observations through a number of years has enabled him to make a pretty accurate forecast of prices. In his conclusions he has been aided, not only by his extensive reading, but by his convictions of right and wrong. His opinions have sometimes proved useful to the long experienced and successful salesman, Mr. McDonald, who has acted in that capacity for many years for this factory.

From Illinois.
A copy of a special illustrated edition of The Comet, published at Clifton, Illinois, reached us this week. It contains the following sketch, accompanied with an excellent photograph of the subject: Nathaniel Stevens, M. D., is a native of Canada, being born at Athens, Ont. He was educated at the public schools of his early home, and for a time was a teacher. From early youth he conceived a liking for the practice of medicine and surgery. The opportunity developed for carrying into effect his cherished desire and he commenced the reading of Materia Medica and in time gained some of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont. After a brief practice in the Queen's Dominion he cast about for broader fields and in the spring of 1891 came to the States, finally settling at Ashkum, Ill. Dr. Marshall, who had gained a lucrative practice here, removing to Chicago, made opening for another physician, and Dr. Stevens succeeded him. In the time that he has lived in Clifton he has grown in favor and is recognized as a physician of prompt success and skill. As a surgeon he has successfully performed several difficult operations. Although comparatively young in years he has much sought after by older doctors in consultations and his advice is followed with good results.

15 Years of Itching.
Was Golding commercial traveler 1300 Esther st., Toronto, says: For 15 years I suffered untold misery from Itching Pills, sometimes called pin worms. Many and many weeks have I had to lay off the road from this cause. I tried eight other pills and ointments and so called remedies with no permanent relief to the intense itching and stinging, which irritated by scratching would bleed and ulcerate. One half a box of Chase's Ointment cured me completely.

A WONDERFUL RECORD.

HISTORIAN FROUDE'S REMARKABLE ABILITY AS A WORD PAINTER.

One of the most striking figures among English men of Letters of the Century—The Great Triumph at the University of Oxford.
A painstaking critic speaking of James Anthony Froude at the time (two years ago) when he was appointed by Lord Salisbury, in his capacity as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, to Regius Professor of History at that University, said: "He is a historical painter and one of the first in this or any other time. In his history of England as the man and woman of the sixteenth century live again. The blood flows in their veins. Their faces are known to their acts, motives, methods, environments are visible or conceivable to him who reads these luminous pages."

The saw mill at Elbe Mills will be in full repair in a short time for the winter's cut of custom logs. Now is the time to have your logs cut into lumber and get the benefit of the U. S. market, as the Democrat party now in power has admitted lumber free. The people of the U. S. seem to be very dis-satisfied with Democracy as the fall elections show. The probability is that the next will be Republican and a high tariff will probably be put at once put up, and the free trade act of the present administration repealed. This will close the market for lumber from Canada and therefore the only sure way for getting logs to get cut into lumber is the present winter, and get from $2 to $10 per M. more than the home market brings.

Dr. C. DILLABOUGH, Prop. Elbe Grist and Saw Mills.
The twenty-sixth regular meeting of the Chapter of the Rural Deacons of Leeds was held in the village of Leeds on the evening of the 24th of November. The majority of the clergy of the Diocese were present, the Rev. Rural Dean Grant of Lyn, presiding. Matters of interest relating to the church in the Diocese were discussed, and the question of localizing a church magazine was left over until the next meeting in order that further enquiries as to the success that has attended this effort in other places might be known.

The Rev. G. A. French drew attention to the decision of the Dominion Government to erect a Refractory at Alexandria and suggest the propriety of directing the notice of the Archbishop of the Diocese and the Executive Committee of the Diocese, inquiring them to take measures to safeguard the spiritual interests of any Church of England children that might there. After further remarks from the clergyman a resolution was adopted to forward it to the proper quarter.

A committee consisting of the Rural Dean and Secretary was appointed to collect statistics as to the success or other attending the new department of the Diocese, and to report at the next meeting, as adopted in this Diocese, to report at the next meeting. A discussion on Diocesan missions followed, and a little later the members adjourned to visit the high school, attending to the school, and to the church in the parish of Trinity church, Brockville, on 12th and 13th Feb. 1895. Evening service was held in Christ church, the Rev. C. Young reading the Prayers, and the following addresses were delivered by Revs. O. G. Dubbs, L. B. Stephenson, C. A. French and D. Moore. On the following evening the clergy dispersed for their respective parishes having been invited to entertain by the Rector and his wife and other friends in Athens.

Our Christmas Number.
Since the issue of the Reporter we have obtained the following additional cuts and matter for the 2nd Christmas number. A two col. letter from Rev. Geo. E. Hartwell, who writes from the interior of Prussia, is a paper on the interesting account of "How I came to travel in China." From the interest taken by all classes in anything that bears on the history of a people upon whose eyes of the whole world are turned at present, this article will be of great interest. A fine one col. portrait of the writer will be found at the end of the article. The fine, substantial farm buildings of Mr. M. O'Neill R. Bats, will appear in photographic form as well as a cut of the game, written by Messrs. Bates & Brown, with Chas. Wing, as chess master, and a short account of the business done and the success achieved by the factory the past season. A well written article entitled "A Trip to the Interior of Bly Lure" with notes on the historic and legendary lore of seen in the early history of the settlers along the river front of Yonge. A beautiful two col. cut of the new Methodist church in Elgin, is a lengthy description of this magnificent building; cut of the store and dwelling of John B. Dargavel, Elgin, and short synopsis of the business carried on by Mr. Dargavel; cut of the Elgin creamery, an creamery, owned and operated by Messrs. Murphy & Dargavel; with a few reasons why it pays the farmer to send milk to the creamery after the cheese factory closes; a portrait of David Nicholson, a farmer, one of the most successful farmers in that section, with a few notes on his splendid herd of Holsteins and farm operations; cut of the cheese factory of E. V. Halladay, Elgin, and a short account of the business done during the season of 1894; a portrait of H. S. Davison, one of Elgin's most pushing merchants; portrait of Fred Wood, Elgin, and a few reasons why parties requiring furniture or under-taking should give him a call; a beautiful two col. cut of the residence of Phil. Halladay, Elgin, and a short account of the amount of business done by Mr. Halladay in the sale of agricultural implements during the last season. The Magnetic House, held Remedy Company, with headquarters at Elgin, and Dr. D. A. Ooon as manager, will occupy a small space in the Elgin page; a portrait of E. G. Murphy, Elgin, ex president of the Leeds & Grenville Dairyman's Board of Trade, with short sketch of the responsible positions held by him. Further announcements regarding matter and portraits from Elgin will appear later. One whole page will be devoted to Elgin and vicinity. A two col. cut of the store and residence of James Thompson, Lyndhurst and a few reasons why it is a good place for farmers and others to invest their spare cash will appear. A cut of herd of sheep owned by A. D. Delong, Elgin, and a short account of the success achieved by him in butter making. A special announcement regarding matter to appear from Lyndhurst will appear next week.

EMPEROR WILLIAM DELIVERS AN ADDRESS TO HIS SOLDIERS.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—In the last garden yesterday the Emperor administered the oath of allegiance to the new recruits added to the Berlin, Spandau and Charlottenburg garrisons. The ceremony took place in front of the castle, where an altar had been erected, and the Emperor presided on the occasion of the consecration of the colors of the new battalions. The recruits were addressed by the Emperor himself. After short sermons by both Protestant and Catholic clergymen, the Emperor addressed the recruits, saying: "After you have sworn allegiance to me I greet you as my soldiers. I hope you are all good Christians, for if you are not, you will not be good Christians. You will have to guard and fight for the welfare of the Fatherland, you will have to be my guards—and will enjoy the advantage of serving under my own eyes. You will wear a handsome coat, and the moment you are dressed in this coat you will be something noble. Always remember that the colors before you must never be soiled. Obey the oath you have taken and be courageous, despising death. Not only must you defend the house of the Fatherland, but you must also defend it as you must defend your holy religion, if necessary, with your lives."

Bob Fitzsimmons' Fatal Fall.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 17.—Bob Fitzsimmons, the champion of the world, was killed by a fall from a scaffold at the St. Louis Exposition. He was on a scaffold when he fell, and was killed by a fall from a scaffold at the St. Louis Exposition. He was on a scaffold when he fell, and was killed by a fall from a scaffold at the St. Louis Exposition.

Madison's Expulsion.
MADISON, Nov. 17.—A quantity of paraffine from the village stores of the town of Velez de Beaudalla exploded setting fire to the buildings. The store-keeper, who, with his family, lived in the upper part of the building, was killed by the explosion and his six children who were in bed were killed. The keeper's wife was not injured, but upon seeing her dead children she became a hopeless maniac. The fire was extinguished.

Old-Time Plantation Bricks Almost as Rare as Black Swans.
One sees but little of the old-time southern plantation dachshunds nowadays. The reason is a good one—there are but few to be seen. The passing of the old southern body servant might serve as a theme for an interesting volume, so mysterious and so silent, the march of the great change of them to the homes from whence no traveler ever returns. Nothing is said of importance one would think, and their memories are never left after them in the public prints to tell the tale of the great works of day world that the poor old slaves of the past are dead and gone. Thus for more than twenty five years the race of genuine old-fashioned plantation dachshunds has been playing out in Dixie, and they have been "laid" down to shovel and dirt in the cemeteries of the South.

Few of them are left—just a few—and they are to be found only on the large white-rose plantations of the extreme south. Here and there through out the State of Georgia they are left in the old-time dachshund kennels, and they had stood there around the "big house" like sentinels on the watch-tower to guard the mother and little one while the father slept far away on some battle hill. The fidelity played in this entire life of the dachshund of the old-estate planter. There was a war going on involving their freedom, and yet they stood like a firm phalanx around the homes of the southern soldiers while they were out at war, and these black faced knights braved death at the hands of northern hosts to save the families of the men who had gone to the front to fight for a result contrary to the dark's emancipation.

It was simply because the old fellows knew their masters were really their best friends and that they ought to stand by them. It was simply because they loved their life on the great plantations of the south, protected and upheld by their white friends and owners.

Renovating Solid Candy.
A machine has been patented to clean and put in suitable form a kind of confectionery. It is doubtful if anything could have been devised which would be more appreciated by the patron of the confectionery business on the corner. Take your antique gundrops, for instance, and throw them into the vibrating sieve of the machine. This will clean and put in suitable form a kind of confectionery. It is doubtful if anything could have been devised which would be more appreciated by the patron of the confectionery business on the corner.

THE REPORTER COUNTY NEWS.

INTERESTING LETTERS FROM OUR STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS.

A couple of news and gossip. Personal intelligence.—A little of everything well mixed up.

LYN.

MONDAY, Nov. 26.—Hunting and fish stories are the leading topic here just now, but none of them come up to K's in last week's Reporter.

One of our clergymen put in a good word for life insurance yesterday. A couple of farmers from the Front of Yonge had quite an experience coming from Westport on Saturday evening. What would travellers do if there were no houses of entertainment along the road?

There has been quite a stir in real estate here this fall. When there are no houses to rent people have to buy.

ELGIN.

MONDAY, Nov. 26.—Some time ago Mr. Dub McGehee's hired man, suddenly and for some reasons unknown, left his place and has not been heard from until a few days ago. He has enlisted as a soldier at Kingston.

Rev. Mr. Reynolds has gone for a visit. The pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Mr. Oser.

Mr. Clinton Slay is falling rapidly. Mr. Noel Warrington is very sick. A social gathering at Mr. M. Kirks Monday night. Among the guests were some ladies from Brockville.

The party in the factory was a decided success. Mrs. Lovrin, of Athens, was visiting at Mr. Phil. Halladay's for a couple of days.

GLENBUILL.

MONDAY, Nov. 26.—Some time ago Ethiopian John, while rustling in the woods back of Glenbuill, came upon a very large black bear. Having no weapon and lacking sufficient courage to attack him single handed, he retreated to the house of his host, the well known steam thrashing machine man, where he succeeded in getting a gun and the assistance of "Forge" to help slay the dangerous animal. Throwing off the governor belt they soon arrived at the scene of his bearship, but lo! to their amazement, the bear turned out to be a large black cat. Scorned by John who says that his eyes must have magnified that cat.

On Thursday last a number of our young people spent a very enjoyable evening at the residence of Mr. Geo. Hall.

The social under the auspices of the Epworth League will be held in the schoolhouse next Thursday evening. Besides refreshments there will be a good programme of recitations, songs, etc. A good time is anticipated.

FRONT OF YONGE.

MONDAY, Nov. 26.—Pond stock has lately taken a tumble, all on account of the rise in water.

We thank our many friends for samples of their trophies of the hunt and now that our epicurean taste has been highly gratified we can spin news with a greater degree of inflation than ever. What we want to know, is bear meat wholesome food? and, if so, in what way is it prepared?

We are proud to know that our old friend Mr. O'Neill has obtained a situation at the Mills.

Mr. Hanna, the present Caintown teacher, has been re-engaged in our school for 1895.

Mr. James Ferguson, of Caintown, has bought the Leeder cheese factory in Westport. Mr. Ferguson is a first-class workman and his goods always commands a good price in the market.

Mr. Newton Avery, of Jantown, who died on the 22nd inst., was taken on Saturday to the vault in Lansdowne, from which place his remains will be removed in the spring to the cemetery in the English church in Westport. Several eminent doctors from different parts convened at his late residence after his death and made an examination of the body, but we did not learn the result.

Mrs. William Peterson has been engaged as foreman at Maple Grove for the present.

Mr. Benson Empey has been engaged to instruct the youths of our school for the coming year.

Wedding bells have again pealed forth their melodies in our midst, it being the marriage of Mr. John Best, of Glenbuill, to Hannah, daughter of Mr. James Brown, of the same place, on the 21st inst. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Knox in the presence of about 100 invited guests, after which all partook of a sumptuous repast prepared for the occasion. The presents were costly and numerous, showing the very high esteem in which the young couple were held in the community. The orchestra from Addison and vicinity assembled about 10:45 o'clock and discoursed some excellent music. The bride and groom left on the 2 p.m. train for Ottawa on a short honeymoon trip, taking with them the best wishes of all that they may be a long and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Saunders, of Brockville, spent Thanksgiving Day with friends in Athens.

Mr. Chester Stevens, of Phillipsville, full of years and honors, departed this life on Friday last.

Evangelist Horner held three services in the Friends' meeting house on Sunday and all were well attended.

Rheumatism is primarily caused by acidity of the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and thus cures the disease.

The annual Christmas Tree entertainment in connection with Plum Hollow Baptist church will be held on Friday evening, Dec. 21.

W. M. Stevens has been appointed cashier for counties of Leeds and Grenville, under a new contract with Ontario Mutual Life Ass. Co., Waterloo.

Last week some miscreant entered the stable of Mr. W. A. Lytle, Wolford, and cut the throat of a calf and stabbed a horse in eleven different places.

This should be a warning: A cook in a restaurant at Peterborough was hanged and killed by a citizen, who was fined $100 or six months in goal, for his fun. Cooks come high.

Canada is to have a great International Exhibition at World's Fair on medium scale. Montreal is the chosen city for the exhibition where it will be held in 1896. It will last for nearly six months from May 24 to October 31.

Mr. Moody, the evangelist, says that no man has a right to be called a Christian who neglects to pay his debts. His opinion is that many church members would receive a shock could they gaze on the Reporter subscription list.

S. Y. Bullis has nearly twenty men working in his shanty south of the village and intends starting his mill as soon as there is snow enough for sleighing. He will then require a large number of teams to haul logs and wood.

On Friday evening, shortly after leaving Lyn, the B. & W. express struck a cow with disastrous results. The cow was instantly killed and the engine and tender derailed. No serious damage was occasioned to the train and it reached Athens only about three hours late.

Wm. Hickey of the "Corners" has just closed a successful season's business in the manufacture and sale of his celebrated fire escape and roof ladder. He proposes extending his business very much in the spring and intends manufacturing a large quantity during the winter in readiness for delivery in the spring.

The contractors have about completed the brick work on the new Catholic church, Athens. The roof is ready for the tinsmith and it is expected that the building will be enclosed this week. The contractors and general speak in very high terms of the quality of the brick furnished by Messrs. Ross and Earl.

Mr. Charlie Tennant has bought the Ira Tennant farm—adjoining his own—in all 375 acres, making him the most extensive farmer among the hills and dales of that locality. Charlie runs a big silo, about 30 cows, and understands the swine business quite well. He is a rising young man.

A union Thanksgiving service was held in the Methodist church on Thursday last, at which Rev. J. J. Cameron addressed the people and was assisted in the service by Rev. J. A. Kennedy and Rev. J. M. Hagar. The song service rendered by the union choir was particularly fine, and the whole meeting was much enjoyed.

The disappearance of the snow and frost enabled those who neglected to gather in their root crop at the proper time to do so. We imagine that the cold fingers and disagreeable handling roots at this season would set as an incentive in the future to farmers to gather their root crop at the proper time. During a short drive out in the country a few days ago we noticed a large quantity of Indian corn still in the field unharvested and several large patches of turnip still in the ground.

The following essay is the product of a public school pupil of a neighborhood town: "Hens is curious animals. They don't have no nose, nor no teeth, nor no ears. They swallow their own waste and chew it up in their crops inside of 'em. The outside of hens is covered with inter pliers and inter feather dusters. The inside of a hen is sometimes filled with marbles and shirt buttons and such. A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals, but they'll dig up more cabbage plants than anything that ain't a hen. Hens is very useful to lay eggs. Hens has got wings and can fly when they get scarce. Hens sometimes make very fine spring chickens."

The School of Mining and Agriculture Kingston, has established a dairy department in connection therewith and its formal opening will be held on December 13th. The school will be under the management of Dominion Dairy Commissioner Robertson, and Mr. J. A. Buddick will be resident superintendent and instructor, assisted by competent teachers. There will be a series of eight regular courses, specially for cheesemakers and butter-makers who have had the experience of working one season at one of these branches. Each course will include practical instructions for two weeks in either cheese making and the testing of milk or butter making and the testing of milk. Any student may take both courses. For admission to the school the applicant must be at least sixteen years of age and be a member of the Dairyman's Association of Ontario or of the Ontario Cheesemakers Association. Anyone may become a member of one of these associations by enclosing an annual fee of one dollar a year to the burar of the school.

MR. R. C. HORNER.

Mr. Horner's Relation to the Methodist Church Discussed by Rev. J. M. Hagar.

Before delivering his sermon at the Methodist church here, last Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Hagar means a few remarks respecting Rev. Mr. Horner's coming to Athens to hold services, and the attitude toward them which should be taken by himself and his congregation. When we consider that Mr. Horner had come to Athens, it is not surprising that his remarks respecting Rev. Mr. Horner's church, the latter's remarks appear to us most temperate and moderate, and we are informed they were delivered in an eminently Christian spirit.

He spoke in substance as follows: "You are doubtless looking to me as your pastor for counsel respecting the services begun in our town this morning by the Rev. Mr. Horner. The subject is one of delicacy, inasmuch as he has visited this place before as a conference evangelist, and many of you believe he was means of blessing to you. If he was with us to-day in the same relation, my duty would be to advise you to give him your most hearty co-operation. But, unhappily, Mr. Horner is with us not as your pastor, but as a minister in active conflict and hostility towards our church and conference, and this alters the case entirely. Before, he was with us to build up and strengthen our church; now, if his purpose be the same as at New-berns, he comes to do us harm, and to divide it.

"But it has been said 'Mr. Horner's quarrel with the conference is a just one; the conference has dealt unjustly with him, and the sympathy of all right-minded people should be with him rather than with the conference.' This is Mr. Horner's contention and has been stated repeatedly, and has brought him much sympathy, while the conference side of the question has never, so far as I am aware, been yet given to the public, and I feel it my duty as a representative of the conference to give you a fair, honest statement of the conference action in the case and leave to your judgment to decide on which side your sympathies should be.

In every ecclesiastical organization, as in the State, there must be authority somewhere, some persons vested with authority to direct and govern. In the Methodist church the authority governing ministers is vested in the conference, acting under the discipline of the church. Like every other minister, at the conference, let me read to you out of our discipline, page 227, the ordination vow of obedience required of every minister. The president asks, 'Will you reverently obey the chief ministers, unto whom they are committed the charge and government over you; following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions, submitting yourself to their godly judgment?' The candidate answers, 'I will do so, the Lord assisting my weakness.'

"Like every other minister, at his ordination Mr. Horner took this vow of obedience. If Mr. Horner was ordained only as an evangelist, this is his claim, though the fact is not so understood. But, suppose we admit that he was ordained as an evangelist, this does not alter the case respecting obedience. If Mr. Horner understood that he was being ordained as an evangelist, then he understood that he was bound to obey the chief ministers, unto whom they are committed the charge and government over you; following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions, submitting yourself to their godly judgment. There is no escaping this conclusion. The meaning of the vow is as plain as words can make it, and is as binding on an evangelist who takes it as on a pastor.

"It is this vow of obedience that, like a silver cord, binds together the ministry of our church. But for it, the itinerant system would be impossible; but, true to their vow, our ministers and evangelists go where they are sent, and conscientiously regard for this vow is one of the chief glories of our church, for scarcely once in a century is there found a minister to violate it.

"Unhappily, Mr. Horner, after taking this vow, sought to keep it, but he was excused from keeping it. Some of his methods were objectionable to the authorities of our church, yet he persisted in following them. It is a well understood custom of our church that no minister or evangelist should hold services on any circuit without the consent of the pastor. But Mr. Horner held services on some circuits without even asking the pastor's consent. He did so on my circuit in Ottawa, preaching on the hours of my Sunday service to the neglect of my duty to hear him. He did the same on the Skead's Mills circuit, near Ottawa, putting up his tent right across the street from the Methodist church and holding Sunday service on the minister's hour.

"Towards the world the unseemly spectacle of a Methodist minister running an opposition service across the street while the circuit minister was preaching. You can easily see that such conduct would provoke enmities and set our circuits in a blaze of disturbance.

"But for all this Mr. Horner was not brought to trial. Though any one of the ministers of the circuits he had invaded might have brought charges against him, none of them did so. He was the forerunner of an unblemished. But the conference last June was determined that his troublesome irregularities should be dealt with. When the discussion came up Mr. Horner was absent. The conference wishing to give him every opportunity to defend himself, would not discuss either him or his work in his absence, and so adjourned the discussion, paid the fare of a delegate to go beyond Ottawa and persuade Mr. Horner to come to conference. A committee was appointed to reason with him. This committee had several conversations with him, and the conference asked him to address them. He was absent, and the conference asked him to address them. He was absent, and the conference asked him to address them.

"The following would cease his irregularities as an evangelist and become amenable to authority like the rest of us—Mr. Horner would give no satisfactory answer.

"2.—Would he go to a circuit if appointed to one?—No, he would not.

"3.—Would he resign from the ministry, thus saving the disturbance of a trial and thus part as good friends?—No, he would not.

"The position of the conference was confessedly difficult. Mr. Horner had an evangelizing which under proper control might be of great service to the church and they did not wish to lose him. Besides, he had many warm followers, and to deal with him according to discipline might lead to an unhappy agitation, or even disruption of our church. They wished therefore to avoid a conflict, and to come to some amicable understanding with him which would secure the peace of the church. Many of Mr. Horner's friends in the conference, both lay and clerical, urged him to be at peace with the conference, or resign. But Mr. Horner would yield nothing and was so utterly impracticable that the conference, in looking for him under the sun to do but to submit unconditionally to Mr. Horner, or make Mr. Horner submit to them, as he had promised in his ordination vow. Surely no reasonable person would blame the conference for choosing the latter course. In a conference of 200 ministers it is unjust to require 199 to give authority, and all we owe to go about as he chose and disturb the churches. And in this decision they showed great leniency: they did not bring him to trial but gave him a chance for reconciliation by appointing him to a circuit.

For myself, knowing the whole case from the beginning, I cannot see that Mr. Horner has any just cause of complaint against the conference. On the contrary, the conference has great cause of complaint against him. During my ministerial life I have known several ministers to come up to the conference, and I have known some of them to be very good men, and I have thought they should, but it would not have justified me in disobeying the conference, or trying to disrupt the church. If Methodist ministers were so generally disobedient to the conference as Mr. Horner is, the church would long ago have been blotted out from among the churches.

"From this showing, every word of which I believe to be true, it will be seen that Mr. Horner is less deserving of sympathy than many of his friends suppose. His troubles are plainly of his own making, and he is asking too much of his friends in expecting them to respect his conduct and follow him out of the church of their fathers, which under God has been so great a blessing to them.

"If I were asked the cause of all this trouble, I would ascribe it to the great selfishness of Mr. Horner's will which is out of all proportion to his intellect or judgment. He is a man of great force of character, and men of this stamp have to guard lest their wills develop into willfulness and obstinacy. I doubt whether Mr. Horner has had this wisdom; hence the source of his weakness.

"His being stationed at Combermere, as a small back mission, has been a great blessing to the church, and it is to be regretted that the Conference wished to humiliate him. And, indeed, it does look like a slight, but when explained it will be found there was no such intention. Mr. Horner had declared he would not go to a circuit, and no important circuit, such as would otherwise have been given him, would think it had been treated fairly if conference should send them a minister, knowing he would not go, and thus leaving the work without service. Combermere was accustomed to the occasional service of students, and others, and the conference thought his refusal to go would occasion less disturbance in Combermere than elsewhere; hence the Conference would have been glad to give him a good station if he would have taken it.

"On many accounts I think his coming among us to be regretted. His attempt to run a new Church in Ottawa, and the spirit now prevalent among Christians which it towards closer union, than towards disunion. Our local circumstances here were greatly improved by the late union, and the bickering and jealousies and differences of forty years were largely healed, and the church has gained yearly in consolidation and strength and usefulness. It seems to me a great pity, yea, a great wrong, a sin, to introduce division and strife and contention among them who have become one in loving sympathy and effort. Truly no reasonable person could expect us to assist in such disruptive work. Surely those who ascribe to him, however sincere they may be, have not considered the injurious results likely, to flow from dividing those whom the Master prayed 'might be one.' I fear also have not considered that the association of his name with a movement for Jordan, Gas Inspector, will say: 'It is only a question of years when there will be a general suspension of the luxury.' I will not be surprised if in less than four years there will be no natural gas for the factories. In many sections the wells show only a pressure of 30 pounds, the highest 60. I will guarantee that since the first well was sunk in this district there has been $25,000 worth of gas wasted."
