Orchards in Bloom.

Beaks of bloom on a billowy plain, Odors of orris in the air, Pink-tipped petals that fall like rain— Ah! a garden, everywhere! Round the garden in the blue above, Glimpse of gold on the hill-tops green, Orbits of yellow, the long June day, Fields of emerald, tulip white, Yellow and azure far outspread, O, the mysterious and delight In the sweet of the clove, blossom red! Youth in the veins of the earth and the sky, Intending joy in the beams of the day, Never a hint that by-and-by Fields shall be ripe and golden, and that the flowers that bloom and perfume here, In the soft march of summer-time To dark, untraced winds shall turn. Sweet to the senses it is to sip Fresh from the bowl of the blossoming year, Making joy once more to dip Deep in the orchard-odors here. Beaks of bloom on a billowy plain, Odors of orris in the air, Pink-tipped petals that fall like rain, Sweet beyond every where.—Arthur Westworth Eaton, in the June, Canadian Magazine.

IN THE FOG.

BY RICHARD HARRING DAVID.

As long as Inspector Lyle remained in the house my father decided that I, as one of the legal advisers of the family, should also remain there. But there was little for either of us to do. Arthur did not return, and nothing occurred until late this morning, when Lyle received word that the Russian servant had been arrested. He at once drove to Scotland Yard to question him. He came back to us in an hour, and informed me that the servant had refused to tell anything of what had happened the night before, or of himself, or of the Princess Zichy. He would not even give them the address of her house. 'He is in subject territory,' Lyle said. 'I assure him that he was not suspected of the crime, but he would tell me nothing.' 'There were no other developments until two o'clock this afternoon, when word was brought to us that Arthur had been found, and that he was lying in the accident ward of St. George's Hospital, and found him lying there together, and found him lying in bed with his head buried in my chest. He had been brought to the hospital the night before by the driver of a hansom that had run over him in the fog. The cab horse had kicked him on the head, and he had been carried in unconscious. There was nothing on him to tell who he was, and it was not until he came to his senses this afternoon that the local authorities had been able to send word to his people. Lyle at once informed him that he was under arrest, and with what was charged, and though the inspector warned him to say nothing which might be used against him, I, as his solicitor, instructed him to speak freely and to tell us all he knew of the occurrences of last night. It was evident to any one that the fact of his brother's death was of much greater concern to him, than that he was accused of his murder. 'That,' Arthur said contemptuously, 'is damned nonsense. It is monstrous and cruel. We parted bitter friends at that time, and I will tell you all that happened—not to clear myself, but to help you to find out the truth.' His story is as follows: Yesterday afternoon, owing to his constant attendance on his father, he did not look at the evening papers, and it was not until after dinner, when the butler brought him one and told him of his contents, that he learned his brother was alive and at the Both Hotel. He drove there at once, but his brother had gone out without giving any clue to his destination. As Arthur had not at once come to see his father, Arthur decided that he was still angry with him, and his mind, turning naturally to the cause of their quarrel, determined him to look for Arthur at the home of the Princess Zichy.

The house had been pointed out to him, and though he had never visited it, he had passed it many times and knew its exact location. He accordingly drove in that direction, as far as the fog would permit the hansom to go, and walked the rest of the way, reaching the house about nine o'clock. He was admitted by the Russian servant. The man took him to the drawing room, and at once his brother ran out and embraced him. He was followed by the Princess Zichy, who also received Arthur warmly. 'My brothers will have much to talk about,' she said. 'I am going to the dining-room. When you have finished, let me know.' 'As soon as she had left them, Arthur told his brother that their father was not expected to outlive the night, and that he must come to him at once. 'This is not the moment to remember your quarrel,' Arthur said to him; 'you have come back from the dead only in time to make your peace with him before he dies.' 'Arthur says that at this Chetney was greatly moved. 'You entirely misunderstood me, Arthur,' he returned. 'I did not know the governor was ill, or I would have gone to him the instant I arrived. My only reason for not doing so was because I thought he was still angry with me. I shall return with you immediately, as soon as I have spoken to the Princess. It is a final good-bye. After to-night, I shall never see her again.' 'Do you mean that?' Arthur cried. 'Yes,' Chetney answered. 'When I returned to London I had no intention of seeking her again, and I am here only through a mistake.' He then told Arthur that he had separated from the Princess even before he went to Central Africa, and that, moreover, while at Cairo on his way south, he had learned certain facts concerning her life there during the previous season, which made it impossible for him to ever wish to see her again. Their separation was final and complete. 'She deceived me cruelly,' he said. 'I cannot tell you how cruelly. During the two years when I was trying to win my father's consent to my marriage she was in love with a Russian diplomat. During all that time he was secretly visiting her here in London, and her trip to Cairo was only an excuse to meet him there.' 'Yet you are here with her to-night,' Arthur protested, 'only a few hours after your return.' 'That is easily explained,' Chetney answered. 'As I finished dinner to-night at the hotel, I received a note from her from this address. In it she said she had but just learned of my arrival, and begged me to come to her at once. She wrote me she was in great and present trouble, dying of an incurable illness, and without friends or money. She begged me, for the sake of old times, to come to her assistance. During the last two years Zichy has utterly passed away, but no one could have dismissed the appeal she made in that letter. So I came here, and found her, as you have seen her, quite as beautiful as she ever was, in very good health, and, from the look of the house, in no need of money. 'I asked her what she meant by writing me that she was dying in a garret, and she laughed, and said she had done so because she was afraid, unless I thought she needed help, I would not try to see her. That was where we were when you arrived. And now, Chetney added, 'I will say good-bye to her, and you had better return home. No, you can trust me, I shall follow you at once. She has no influence over me now, but I believe, in spite of the way she has used me, that she is after her queer fashion, a good girl, and when she learns that this good-bye is final there may be some, and it is not fair to her that you should be here. So, go home to-night, and tell the governor that I am following you in ten minutes.' 'That,' Arthur said, 'is the way we parted. As I left him on more friendly terms, I was happy to think he had returned in time to make up his quarrel with my father, and I was happy that he was shut of that woman. I was never better pleased with him in my life.' He turned to Inspector Lyle, who was sitting at the foot of the bed taking notes of all he told him. 'Why do you make common sense,' he asked, 'should I have chosen that out of all others to send my brother to the grave?' For a moment Inspector did not answer him, but he was acquainted with Inspector Lyle, and if you are not, I can assure you that he is a very remarkable man. When often applies to him for aid, and he has never failed on my father's part. He has the greatest possible respect for him. Where he has the advantage over the ordinary police official is in the fact that he possesses imagination. He imagines himself to be the criminal, imagines how he would act under the same circumstances, and he imagines to such purpose that he generally finds the man he wants. I have often said to Lyle that if it had not been a detective he would have made a great success as a poet, or a playwright. 'When Arthur turned on him Lyle hesitated for a moment, and then told him exactly what was the case against him. 'Ever since your brother was reported as having died in Africa,' he said, 'your family has been collecting money on post-chits. Lord Chetney's arrival last night turned them into waste paper. You were suddenly in debt for thousands of pounds—for much more than you could ever possibly pay. No one knew that you and your brother had met at Madame Zichy's. But you knew that your father was not expected to outlive the night, and that if your brother were dead also, you would be saved from complete ruin, and that you would become the Marquis of Edam. 'Oh, that is how you have worked it out, is it?' Arthur cried. 'And for me to become Lord Edam was it necessary that the woman should die, too?' 'They will say,' Lyle answered, 'that she was a witness to the murder—that she would have told.' 'Then why did I not kill the servant as well?' Arthur said. 'He was asleep, and saw nothing.' 'And you believe that?' Arthur demanded. 'It is not a question of what I believe,' Lyle said gravely. 'It is a question for your peers.' 'The man is insolent!' Arthur cried. 'The thing is monstrous! Horrible! Before we could stop him he sprang out of his cot and began pulling on his clothes. When the nurses tried to hold him down, he fought with them. 'Do you think you can keep me here,' he shouted, 'when they are plotting to hang me? I am going with you to that house!' he cried at Lyle. 'When you put those bodies I shall be beside you. It is my right. He is my brother. He has been murdered, and I can tell you who murdered him. She first ruined his life, and now she has killed him. For the last five years she has been plotting to make herself his wife, and last night, when he told her he had discovered the truth about the Russian, and that she would never see him again, she flew into a passion and stabbed him, and then, in terror of the gallows, killed herself. She murdered him, I tell you, and I promise you that we will find the knife she used near her—perhaps still in her hand. Turn his head away and stared down at the floor. 'I might say,' he answered, 'that you placed it there.' 'Arthur gave a cry of anger and sprang at him, and then pitched forward into his arms. The blood was flowing from the cut under the bandage, and he had fainted. Lyle carried him back to the bed again, and we left him with the police and the doctors, and drove at once to the address he had given us. We found the house not three minutes' walk from St. George's Hospital. It stands in Trevor Terrace, that little row of houses set back from Knightbridge, with one end in Hill Street. 'As we left the hospital Lyle had said to me, 'You must not blame me for treating him as I did. All is fair in this world, and if by angling that boy I could have made him commit himself I was right in trying to do so, though, I assure you, no one would be better pleased than myself if I could prove his theory to be correct. But we cannot tell. Everything depends upon what we see for ourselves within the next few minutes.' 'When we reached the house, Lyle broke open the fastenings of one of the windows on the ground floor, and looked in by the trees in the garden, the reception room, which was the first room on the right of the hall. The gas was still burning behind the colored glass and red silk shades, and when the daylight streamed in after us it gave the hall a hideously dismal look, like the foyer of a theatre at a matinee, or the entrance to an all-day gambling hell. The house was oppressively silent, and because we knew why it was so silent we spoke in whispers. When Lyle turned the handle of the drawing room door, I felt as though some one had put his hand upon my throat. But I followed close at his shoulder, and saw, in the subdued light of many tinted lamps, the body of Chetney at the foot of the divan, just as Lieutenant Sears had described it. In the drawing-room we found the body of Princess Zichy, her arms thrown out, and the blood from her heart frozen in a tiny line across her bare shoulder. But neither of us, although we searched the floor on our hands and knees, could find the weapon which had killed her. 'For Arthur's sake,' I said, 'I would have given a thousand pounds if he had found the knife in her hand, as he said we would.' (Continued from page 1.)

Forcing Yourself To Take Food.

The Terrors of Indigestion Unleashed by the Tonic Powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Victims of indigestion have small choice between two evils—on the one hand a starvation diet, which means great weakness and depression of spirits, and on the other hand forcing themselves to take nourishment in spite of the acute suffering inflicted by each meal. In the search for a cure they find common medicines upset the stomach and render the food more difficult to digest. Laxatives are violent and weakening, and so-called purgative foods merely evade the cause of the trouble and the stomach steadily grows weaker. The common sense way of curing indigestion is the Dr. Williams' way—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that give tone to the weakened digestive organs. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands of the worst cases of indigestion through their simple tonic treatment and one excellent example of these cures is the case of Miss M. V. C. Roberge, Sorel, Que., who says: 'For upwards of nine years I suffered continuously the tortures of indigestion. At times I had no appetite; at others there was a craving for food, but whatever I took caused me the greatest pain. As the result of the trouble I suffered from violent headaches, and I grew pale and weak. I tried many different medicines; some gave me a little relief, but none gave me any permanent benefit until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when I found such help as I had not found before. The pain after eating gradually disappeared, my appetite grew better, and after using the Pills for a couple of months I found myself completely cured, and have not since had a twinge of the trouble. I almost recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who suffer from any form of indigestion. Through their action on the blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure such troubles as anemia, indigestion, sick headaches, rheumatism and all forms of nervous troubles such as St. Vitus dance, and partial paralysis. These Pills are especially valuable to growing girls and women and cure the most distressing and other pains known only to them. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Good Answer.

To the question propounded by Mayor Ross, 'Where will the people employed in the liquor business find work when it is prohibited?' Dr. Dickie said: 'In one of our Michigan towns the 'wets' were wiped out the other day. A saloon-keeper's wife went over to a neighbor's and began to storn about the people taking away her husband's business. 'What am I going to do when he has to close up?' she exclaimed. 'The neighbor had a woman scrubbing the floors, and this woman could stand it no longer. 'I'll tell you what you can do,' she said, with flashing eyes. My husband has been getting $12 a week, and he has spent half of it in your husband's saloon. Now that the saloon is to be closed, he can support me, and you can have my job here at scrubbing.'—Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

Loaf Bread.

It is worth recalling that the art of baking loaves came to Europe quite late in history. Flat cakes were baked even in the earliest times, but as late as the beginning of the nineteenth century, loaf bread was comparatively unknown in many parts of the continent. In 1812, for instance, when an English captain ordered loaves to the value of £1 in Gotherburg, the baker stipulated for payment in advance, on the ground that he would never be able to sell them in the city if they were left on his hands.—London Chronicle.

Heart pains and headaches almost drove me wild. I had spells of weakness and cramps in stomach and limbs. 'Through I tried several doctors, it was money uselessly spent. Finally Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me. I have obtained from this treatment: Sleeplessness and indigestion are warnings of approaching nervous collapse. Onions and Onion Soup.

After one year in research work twelve physicians of Pittsburgh have come to a plausible remedy for consumption. While not absolutely declaring that onions taken internally will cure tuberculosis, these twelve physicians assert that they have, through the prescribing of onions or onion soup, relieved numerous cases of tuberculosis, and they recommend that the physicians of the country follow this lead with an idea of eventually working out an absolute cure. One year ago these twelve physicians held an informal feast at the Fort Pitt Hotel. Dr. Harry M. Goehring during the course of the meal related an experience he had with a tubercular patient in which he had suggested that the patient eat onion soup. The statement of Dr. Goehring caused a long discussion, as a result of which the twelve doctors agreed to prescribe onions to their tubercular patients, it having been agreed among them that onions could do no harm and might do a great deal of good. According to agreement, they met again. All had kept their onion agreement, and as a result all reported that the twelve doctors agreed to prescribe onions to their tubercular patients, it having been agreed among them that onions could do no harm and might do a great deal of good.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 3, 1910.

Acadia's Anniversary.

Acadia past another milestone in her history this week when the various exercises in connection with the twenty-second anniversary were successfully held. The weather was not at all propitious, and much of the pleasure of the occasion was marred for visitors and residents by the leaden skies and downpour of rain which prevailed almost throughout the entire exercises.

In all other respects, however, except weather conditions, this year's proceedings at Acadia have ranked well in importance and success with those of former years. The attendance of visitors has been large, and the accommodation both at College Hall and in the various places of entertainment in town and in the private homes has been taxed to the utmost. Although the closing of the schools came this year nearly a year earlier than last the fruit trees are in full bloom, and Wolfville would have been at her loveliest had the sun but shone.

The concert given on Saturday evening in the College Hall, under the auspices of the Acadia Amateur Athletic Association, by the Bostonietta Sextette Club was delightful. This sextette under the direction of Prof. C. L. Meloy, soprano, gave to one of the largest audiences ever seen in Wolfville, a choice program, admirably rendered.

Mr. Staats, in 'Fantasie' for Clarinet from 'Pre Aux Clercs,' was endorsed and re-endorsed, while Miss Meloy charmed the listeners with her beautiful voice. Mr. Brown and Mr. Silberman performed their parts of the program in a delightful manner. The Sextette work was magnificent and brought forth much applause. The program was one of the best, if not the best, ever presented to a Wolfville audience.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable state of the weather on Sunday morning College Hall was crowded to the doors by an expectant audience. Rev. Robert Stuart McArthur, of the Calvary Baptist church, New York city, was the preacher of the baccalaureate sermon, and he took as his subject, 'Crowned with many crowns.' The sermon was an able one and intensely interesting, the whole trend being to urge the fact that Jesus Christ is King of kings and Lord of lords, the centre of the civilization of the race.

At seven o'clock College Hall was again thronged when the address before the Y. M. C. A. was given by Prof. George A. Cross, of Newton Theological Seminary, who gave an excellent address, 'The call for Christian Leadership.' The music was of an inspiring character and included a solo by Miss Meloy, of the Bostonietta Sextette. On Monday afternoon the seminary seniors provided the attraction, furnishing to a crowded hall of invited friends, a delightfully entertaining program. Miss Annie Chambers, the president of the class, welcomed the guests in a felicitous address and directed the proceedings admirably. Following the roll call came a vocal solo by Miss Annie Miller, the vice president of the class, and the presentation to each member of a gift, humorously typical of her character or reminiscent of some event in her seminary career.

A verified 'Class alphabet' ingeniously introducing the name of each member and recalling the class history of the year, was read by Miss Myrtle Van Wart of St. John and the valedictory by Miss Elsie King, of Truro, who received high praise. Other musical numbers were a vocal trio by Misses Annie Miller, Mabel Knowles and Mabel Ellison, and a piano solo by Miss Edith Higgins.

A delightful feature of the entertainment was a physical culture drill by thirty young ladies in Greek costume.

HORTON COLLEGIATE ACADEMY.
On Monday evening a large assembly joyfully enjoyed the closing exercises of the Academy. The senior class this year numbers 41, of whom 26 are matriculating in arts and 7 in science.

The attendance at the school has been 123, an increase of 25 per cent. over any previous year. The matriculating class is also the largest in the history of the institution. The matriculants are: Harry C. Atkinson, George B. Atkins, Guy G. Blakey, Hugh F. Corey, Herbert Dew, Cunningham, Cyril D'Almain, Percy R. Douskin, Albert W. Eveleigh, Percy E. Eveleigh, John W. Ellis, Leigh M. Fielding, Harry W. Freda, Maurice F. Freda, Robin W. Goss, Justin E. Gates, Eldos Henshaw, Arthur T. Hill, Frank Higgins, Ayron Johnson, Melvin R. Knott, Harley W. Kirkpatrick, Ernest M. Larkin, Eric W. MacDonald, Ralph L. Messenger, John W. Meisner, Percy F. Murray, Hugh S. Moore, Harry L. Page, Spurgeon Paris, Frank Porter, Amos A. Hovey, Eric Relehardt, Clyde Robbins, Salisbury J. Robertson, Lawrence W. Slack, Clyde M. Sanford, Elmer Westcott, Master W. Young.

The program of the evening was as follows:
Address—Rev. P. J. Stackhouse.
Vocal Solo—H. Trovatore.
Piano Solo—Miss Dorothy Harrington.
Lepold and the Congo—Percy Eveleigh, Buxes.
Vocal Solo—Miss Edith Butcher.
Class History—A. A. Hovey, Ludlow, N. E.
Class Prophecy—H. W. Kirkpatrick, Messersmith, N. B.
Vocal Solo—R. S. Hartley.

Valedictory—W. H. Freda, Halifax.

Before conferring the diplomas Principal Robinson gave a brief address to the class and gave an interesting account of the year's work and of even brighter prospects for the coming year.

The prizes for the year's work were awarded as follows:

The leader of the senior class is Clyde Robins, Wolfville, the prize for this being awarded by Mr. O. P. Goucher, Middleton.
B. Duffy, Hillsboro, N. B., leader of the middle year, received the W. W. Clark prize.
The prize donated by Dr. P. N. Balcom, Aylesford, was won by Fred Fowle, Little Branch, N. B., for the best work done in the junior class.

The English prize was won by Leigh N. Fielding, Halifax, and Clyde Sandford, Burlington, N. S., the donor being Mr. W. M. Black, Wolfville. The business prize donated by W. W. Clark, Bear River was won by Miss Jennie McNatt.

The bookkeeping prize also donated by W. W. Clark was won by Elmer Kenny, Gasperau.
Miss Elsie Hart, Canso, was awarded the prize for rapid calculation. Miss Margaret Colwell, Gasperau was awarded the prize for spelling, both these prizes were donated by Mr. Frank Lowe, Aylesford.

A notable feature of the senior class day exercises on Tuesday morning was the donation, as a class memorial, of a system of electric bells throughout the college building for the purpose of announcing the beginning and end of class periods. The clock governing the system is equipped with an electric program dial by means of which the bells may be caused to ring at any time desired. The plant also includes eighteen bells ringing in the various class rooms and in the college residence. The apparatus was installed by John Starr, Son and Co., of Halifax. This is in line with the custom of senior class presentations to their Alma Mater, and is one of the most valuable gifts of this kind the University has received.

The class day program was varied and most interesting. In a graceful address the class president, Gordon C. Warren, of P. E. Island, welcomed the guests of the class, followed by the reading of the minutes and the class roll call by the secretary. The class officers were then elected for life as follows: President—Gordon C. Warren; Vice-President—Henrietta A. Crandall; Secretary—Mary Evelyn Slack. Following a pleasing vocal solo by Miss Edith Butcher came the Class History by Arthur H. Clute, of Wolfville, a humorous resume of the last year's course. A violin solo by Miss Helen DeWolfe came next, then the Class Prophecy by Willard S. McIntyre, of St. John, which elicited great applause. A musical number by the class quartette, Messrs. Thomas, Steves, Miller and Seaman, preceded the valedictory delivered by Miss Susie M. Dyleman, of Roxbury, Mass.

INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET.
The Inter-class Track Meet was held on Tuesday afternoon in spite of the unfavorable weather. The class of 1911 still hold the trophy, scoring 42 points. The Academy came next with 32 points. The largest number of points was made by Macdonald, of the Academy, who scored 20. Higgins, also of the Academy, broke the record for the pole vault.

In the first event, the 100 yds. dash, Macdonald, H. C. A., was first; second, Roy, '11; third, Atkins, '13. Time, 10 3/5 sec. Record, 10 sec. MacLeod, '02.

ACADIA SEMINARY.
The closing exercises of Acadia Seminary, which took place on Tuesday evening, drew as usual a very large and interested audience.
This useful and progressive institution had during the year the total number of 261 pupils enrolled, including 52 who are registered in Household Science, from the public schools of Wolfville. Of this number 120 have been in residence. Of these resident pupils 14 were from New Brunswick, 1 from Prince Edward Island, 75 from Nova Scotia, 2 from Quebec, 1 from British Columbia, 2 from Alberta, and 2 from the United States, representing Maine, Massachusetts, New York and North Dakota.

The greatest number of resident pupils have entered regular courses, that is courses leading to graduation either for a Diploma or a certificate. The program presented on Tuesday evening was of an exceedingly interesting character, and was delivered in a manner reflecting the greatest credit upon the school.

The graduating class number 37, to whom 39 diplomas were granted. This means that two girls received two diplomas each in two departments. The graduates are classified thus: Collegiate course, 8; Sophomore Matriculation, 10; Piano forte, 13; Voice, 1; Art, 1; Elocution, 2; Household Science, 4. In addition several pupils received certificates for advanced standing in the Collegiate Course and Piano forte, and nine pupils in Stenography and Typewriting.

Only a few changes in the teaching staff of the Seminary will occur this year. One of these means a decided loss to the school, the retirement of Miss Eliza Wells, the vice-principal. Through a term of three years of most exacting service, Miss Wells has shown herself to be possessed in large measure of all those qualities which go to make her the right woman in a difficult place. Other changes affect the departments of Art and Violin where Miss Richardson and Miss Plans are resigning.

Plans are now on foot for a large improvement in the Seminary. The increase in the number of courses, and the numerical increase in students, necessitate the immediate construction of the Fine Arts Building so long wanted.

The graduating class have presented the sum of sixty dollars to be added to the fund of twenty-five dollars already on hand to purchase a reflector scope for use in the different lecture courses of the Seminary.

The graduating class comprised the following:

Lila Vivian Corbett, Lakeville; Daisy Locke Eaton, Lower Canada; Anita Merle Eiderkin, Amherst; Mary Katharine Hoare, Halifax; Margaret Caroline Neill, Oyster Bede Bridge, P. E. I.; Lma May Nowlan, Havelock, Digby Co.; Emma Sophia Oxner, Chester Basin; Gwendolyn Vaughn Shand, Windsor; Myrtle Gladys Van Wart, St. John; Lois Eva May Westwell, Maboune.

PIANO FORTE COURSE—Bessie Abigail Bodd (2), St. Stephen; Myra Borden Chambers (1), Wolfville; Mabel Tabor Elkin (2), St. John; Edith Evelyn Higgins (1), Wolfville; Elsie Rosalie King (3), Truro; Helen Arabelle Knowles (1), Avondale; Hattie Carlyle Longand (3), Halifax; Annie Laura Martin (2), Gasperau; Annie Stewart Miller (3), Bear River; Beatrice Southern Rockwell (1), Wolfville; Grace T. # SAVED FROM THE KNIFE

Appendicitis Cured By "Fruit-a-tives"

Newburgh, Ont., Feb. 12th, 1910.
"Just about a year ago, our daughter Ella, (fourteen years), was taken with terrible pains in the right side. The pain was so severe that we had to carry her to bed. We at once put her under the care of a first-class doctor, who pronounced it a case of Appendicitis and advised an operation. We took her to a hospital in Kingston where she was again examined by an eminent specialist. He said she had Appendicitis and must be operated on at once if we wanted to save her life. As we had taken her to Kingston for this purpose, we were ready, but our daughter was afraid and cried and begged so pitifully, that we postponed the operation until the next day. Luckily for us and for her an uncle came in with some 'Fruit-a-tives' and insisted on Ella taking them. Good results were apparent almost from the first dose, and the continuous treatment cured her."

W. FOX, (Father), LILLIAN FOX, (Mother), graduate of Mr. and Mrs. Fox, and Miss Ella who always uses 'Fruit-a-tives'.

CONVOCATION DAY.
Interest in the anniversary functions culminated on Wednesday morning, when at 10 o'clock College Hall was packed by a vast audience to witness the graduating exercises of the class of 1910.

After four days of persistent rain the sun shone brightly and all nature put on gay attire. At the appointed hour, to the music of the precessional band and faculty, followed by governors, senate and graduates entered the hall, and took their places.

DOCTOR THE CAUSE NOT THE EFFECT

If you are afflicted with boils, pimples, scrofula, salt rheum, eczema, or any other indication of impure blood, don't waste time and money in external remedies for the treatment of these symptoms.

YOU CAN AVOID ALL THESE THINGS BY TAKING NYAL'S BLOOD PURIFIER

Sometimes there are no outward symptoms of impure blood, but instead there is a feeling of languor, a run-down listless condition, loss of appetite, showing that the organs and tissues of the body are not being nourished as they should be.

The use of Nyal's Blood Purifier is followed by the most pleasing results. The boils heal up and disappear; the skin becomes soft and smooth again, instead of harsh and scaly, or pimply. The liver is stimulated, the blood enriched, and soon the whole system feels the beneficial effect of this excellent remedy.

Pure blood means health and strength. Nyal's Blood Purifier makes pure blood.

The occasion will be an important one for our town, and a large number of visitors will be here. This is the first time, we believe, that the Grand Lodge has ever held its annual meeting in the Valley and it certainly speaks well for the attractiveness of our town that Wolfville has been selected as a meeting-place this year. The accommodation of the community will no doubt be heavily taxed to provide entertainments for the large number of visitors who will be here, and it is hoped that citizens generally will do all in their power to make this visit pleasurable. If the weather is favorable we feel sure our Masonic friends will find Wolfville fully up to their expectations.

Engineering. Honorary degrees were awarded as follows:—

Doctor of Divinity—Rev. R. S. MacArthur, of New York, Rev. David Hutchinson, of St. John, and Rev. W. F. Armstrong, of Kingston.

D. C. L. to Mr. Chas. F. Myers, of New York.

M. A. to A. O. Blenus, of Manitoba, Dr. L. C. Smith, of Lynn, Mass., and Alexander Mackay, of Halifax, Supervisor of Schools.

After the morning ceremonies brief addresses were given by Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, Dr. Bryce, of the University of Manitoba, Principal Sexton, of the Nova Scotia Technical School, and others.

A very pleasing feature of the celebration on Wednesday evening was the presentation of an address accompanied by a purse of $1000 to Professor Robert V. Jones, who has just completed fifty years service in connection with the institution.

The presentation was made by Mr. E. D. King, of Halifax, in an excellent address to which Dr. Jones responded with deep feeling. At the close of the proceedings Dr. Jones received the hearty congratulations of many friends.

Addresses followed by Doctors Borden and Johnson, of Grand Pre, who both expressed their enjoyment of all the exercises they had witnessed and gave their good wishes for the school and everyone in anyway connected with it. They referred to the noble work the school had done in the past and the equally good work it is doing in the present.

Mr. Patterson in closing spoke of his regret that the services of his headmaster, Mr. Gregg, were no available for another year. He had, however, two years at the school and had by his faithful application to his work and his unflinching interest in the students' welfare, won the respect and confidence of all. Mr. Gregg has just obtained his M. A. from Acadia, and as he is destined for the ministry he expects to continue his studies in Boston in September. The good wishes of all follow him.

Mr. Patterson also regretted that his venerable father, Mr. A. McE. Patterson, although present, was too indisposed to speak even briefly. Mr. Patterson, as has been ascertained from statistics this spring and has been almost completely confined to the house for some weeks. In July Mr. Patterson will see, if he lives, the fiftieth anniversary of his purchase of Acadia Villa School. During the half century, lacking but a few years, that he spent in and for the school, he sent hundreds of young men out from it, better fitted for life's work because of his efforts on their behalf. Young men all over Canada today, and scattered elsewhere throughout the world, have reason to, and do think gratefully of the man who made their welfare his first interest always.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by singing God Save the King, and another school year at Acadia Villa has passed into history. The year has been a very happy, successful one, and the prospects are bright for next year. Acadia Villa is a Home School in the real sense of the word. As a boarding school, for young boys especially, it is unsurpassed.

The prize winners follow: $5. Preparatory class—Spelling, dictation and reading, Louis Bowers. $5. Junior class—Spelling, dictation, and reading, L. Payzant.

Acacia Villa School Closes. The closing exercises of Acadia Villa School, Hortonville, N. S., took place on Thursday, May 26th. On Sabbath, May 22nd, was celebrated what has for very many years been known as 'Acacia Villa Sunday.' Two admirable sermons were given, morning and evening by the Rev. F. E. Barrett, of Hantsport. His earnest, helpful words will long be remembered by the lads to whom they were addressed, and will be productive of good results in their lives. A choir of students from the school under the direction of Mrs. Patterson furnished the music at both services, delighting the congregation with the sweetness and heartiness of their singing. Solos were also given by Miss Woodman, music teacher at the school; Mr. Patterson and Imrie Borden, a day student at the school, whose clear soprano voice gives much promise for the future.

On Thursday morning the sun shone bright and clear and at nine o'clock oral examination of classes was begun. This was continued till noon when students and visitors adjourned to the large dining hall where dinner was served. At 1.30 a further examination of classes was held, and those present at both morning and afternoon classes were, in their respective classes, as follows:—

Students in all the classes had responded. The teachers were certainly to be congratulated upon the results attained. The students gave evidence not only of understanding what they had been taught, but also of an ability to think, reason and conclude for themselves.

The classes were followed by an exhibition of physical drill under the superintendence of Mr. Gregg, and never have the students appeared to better advantage in the exercises gone through with. It was a credit alike to themselves and their teacher. At its close a base-ball match was played with a Hantsport team. Both teams played a splendid game, resulting in a score of 9-6 in favor of Acadia Villa.

The closing concert took place in the Assembly Hall, at eight o'clock. The programme was long, but every number was of such an excellent character that the audience was surprised at its close to find that it was nearly eleven o'clock. One of the chief features of the evening was a mandolin solo by Miss Huestis, of Halifax. It and a trio in which Miss Huestis was joined by Miss Stuart, of Grand Pre, on the violin and Miss Woodman on the piano, were both much appreciated by the audience. Miss Woodman's vocal solo gave much pleasure as did also a piano duet played with Miss Patterson. Another pleasing number was a ladies quartette by Misses Woodman, Stuart, Huestis and Mrs. Patterson. The other numbers were by the students. Their piano solos were exceptionally good and must have rewarded their teacher for her unceasing efforts on their behalf. The choruses were also good. The essays and readings were of a high order and were given in good style. Special mention is deserving of a dialogue given by a dozen or more junior boys and a play by four young ladies, day students, and two young men. They were given with naturalness, energy and enthusiasm that is often not equalled by more experienced actors. At the close of the programme Mr. Patterson announced the prize winners and asked Mrs. Patterson and his teachers to present them. A list of the successful ones is given below.

Addresses followed by Doctors Borden and Johnson, of Grand Pre, who both expressed their enjoyment of all the exercises they had witnessed and gave their good wishes for the school and everyone in anyway connected with it. They referred to the noble work the school had done in the past and the equally good work it is doing in the present.

Mr. Patterson in closing spoke of his regret that the services of his headmaster, Mr. Gregg, were no available for another year. He had, however, two years at the school and had by his faithful application to his work and his unflinching interest in the students' welfare, won the respect and confidence of all. Mr. Gregg has just obtained his M. A. from Acadia, and as he is destined for the ministry he expects to continue his studies in Boston in September. The good wishes of all follow him.

Mr. Patterson also regretted that his venerable father, Mr. A. McE. Patterson, although present, was too indisposed to speak even briefly. Mr. Patterson, as has been ascertained from statistics this spring and has been almost completely confined to the house for some weeks. In July Mr. Patterson will see, if he lives, the fiftieth anniversary of his purchase of Acadia Villa School. During the half century, lacking but a few years, that he spent in and for the school, he sent hundreds of young men out from it, better fitted for life's work because of his efforts on their behalf. Young men all over Canada today, and scattered elsewhere throughout the world, have reason to, and do think gratefully of the man who made their welfare his first interest always.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by singing God Save the King, and another school year at Acadia Villa has passed into history. The year has been a very happy, successful one, and the prospects are bright for next year. Acadia Villa is a Home School in the real sense of the word. As a boarding school, for young boys especially, it is unsurpassed.

The prize winners follow: $5. Preparatory class—Spelling, dictation and reading, Louis Bowers. $5. Junior class—Spelling, dictation, and reading, L. Payzant.

Acacia Villa School Closes. The closing exercises of Acadia Villa School, Hortonville, N. S., took place on Thursday, May 26th. On Sabbath, May 22nd, was celebrated what has for very many years been known as 'Acacia Villa Sunday.' Two admirable sermons were given, morning and evening by the Rev. F. E. Barrett, of Hantsport. His earnest, helpful words will long be remembered by the lads to whom they were addressed, and will be productive of good results in their lives. A choir of students from the school under the direction of Mrs. Patterson furnished the music at both services, delighting the congregation with the sweetness and heartiness of their singing. Mrs. B. W. Wallace, of Prince Albert, Sask., who is visiting relatives and old friends in town, received this week from Mr. Wallace a telegram announcing that the big musical chorus of that city, of which Mr. Wallace is director, had won first place at the provincial musical festival recently held at Saskatoon. Mr. Wallace himself was the lieutenant-governor's official for the baritone solo.

On the return of the chorus to Prince Albert they were met by bands of music and an auto parade and a big reception was given them. The citizens of Prince Albert contributed five hundred dollars towards the expenses of their representatives at the festival, which was a grand affair, and participated in by all the leading musical organizations of the province. Mr. Wallace's many friends in this country, who are familiar with his musical talent, are very glad to learn of the great honor that has come to him in his adopted home.

Boys' Camps. There is more fun in a camp for boys than can be imagined by a person that has never been in one. The camps conducted by the Maritime Committee of the Y. M. C. A. have become so popular that it is now necessary to run them in two sections. The Directors chosen are men who are interested in the development of boys and want to see them have a wholesome good time. These men with their able assistants insure a perfect outing to the boys.

You Blame the Stomach. But chronic indigestion will disappear when the liver, kidneys and bowels are set right by DR. A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS.

You are skeptical. For you have tried many medicines and still suffer from indigestion with all its annoying symptoms.

Leave the stomach alone, for the source of trouble is in the intestines, and healthy digestion can be restored by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills.

Mr. G. D. Bennett, Maple Grove, Megantic Co., Que., writes:—'I had dyspepsia very bad. The food would sour, my stomach would swell up, I suffered a great deal and could not sleep. As the result of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I am now entirely cured and can eat any kind of food. They have made a new man of me and I cannot say too much in their praise.'

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmans, Bates & Co., Toronto.
