Have You Read This?

It is well worth your while, for it is a delightful story. Cloth, 50c; if mailed, 52c. KENNEDY SQUARE By F. Hopkinson Smith. Kennedy Square, a place of "birds and trees and flowers," is both abiding place and symbol of that small and charmingly select coterie of aristocracy in the old South. St. George Wilnot Temple, "a perfect embodiment of all that blood had bequeathed him," is the center of the group portrayed in this story and at his invitation enters also Poe at the beginning of the Poe's prominence. The love of a tempestuous youth, born a gentleman, for "the proudest and loveliest girl on earth," furnishes the theme of the tale—a love tested by pride by a duel by hospitality and by the devotion of faithful blacks; a love in the evolution of which character is deepened and chastened and strengthened.

Incompatibility

"Tell me about Mrs. Challoner," said Marian ingeniously. "Of course she is beautiful," she added in matter-of-fact tones.

"Not only beautiful, but charming," returned the husband, opening his watch case, and exposing his wife's profile.

"What classical features!" exclaimed Marian with enthusiasm. "Dark?" she inquired.

"Dark hair, blue eyes, matchless complexion," recited the husband. "If I were able to give her wealth and commanding social position, she would have the world at her feet. She belongs in a mansion instead of in a New York apartment. She is like a precious stone badly set. I have worn myself almost out in an unsuccessful effort to afford her the proper background."

Challoner paused, a tired, hopeless-looking expression drifting into his eyes. "We expected to accomplish a great deal when we married," he added. "I haven't been running in anything like proper form. Professional success is won in the face of the stiffest possible competition in New York. It requires the genius of making friends that are wealthy, more than anything else. It's been hard for us, especially for my wife, to accept the lot of mediocrity."

"Mediocrity," echoed Marian. "You are anything but mediocre!"

"Thank you," smiled the other gloomily, "but I'm afraid you're more sympathetic than judicial in your conclusions."

"But when two people love each other," pursued Marian, "what difference can the absence of great wealth and background, as you call it, make—provided of course that there is enough for comfort?"

"All the difference in the world," was the answer. "Love rarely flourishes, or even holds its own, in the face of starved ambitions, unfulfilled aspirations, and lowered ideals. This

State Loans to Traders.

Chancellor's Scheme to Aid Foreign Exchange.

An arrangement designed to remove the inconvenience to trade caused by the break-down of the foreign exchanges was announced recently by Mr. Lloyd George as a result of a series of conferences with traders and bankers. In the absence of the usual exchange facilities it has been impossible to export or import goods in any appreciable quantity.

Under Mr. Lloyd George's scheme the Bank of England will provide acceptances with the funds necessary to pay all approved pre-maturity bills at maturity. This will release the drawers and endorsers from their liabilities as parties to the bills, but their liability under any agreement with the acceptors for payment or cover will be retained.

The acceptors will be under obligation to collect from their clients all the funds due to them and to apply those funds to repayment of the advances. Interest will be charged at 2 per cent. above Bank rate. The Bank of England undertakes not to claim repayment of amounts not recovered by the acceptors for their clients for a period of one year after the close of the war.

To facilitate fresh business, the joint stock banks have arranged, with the co-operation, if necessary, of the Bank of England and the Government, to advance to clients the amounts necessary to pay their acceptances at maturity, where the funds have not been provided in due time by the clients of the acceptors. On these advances, too, interest at 2 per cent. above Bank rate would be charged.

How French Avenge Deteat at Sedan.

London, Oct. 1.—During the strategic retreat of the Allies Southward from the Belgian frontier, the French troops exacted from the Germans bloody revenge for the French retreat at Sedan 44 years before.

On this same battle field, according to the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, the Germans suffered one of the worst defeats of the present invasion. They were led into a trap which cost them thousands of men.

He says:

"The French could have held their positions indefinitely, but strategy required them to continue falling back, with the remainder of the Allies, along the line. Here is the story of the second battle of Sedan, as told by the correspondent:

"The French General ordered his troops to fall back across the river and take up positions on the opposite heights. The bridges were mined, but were left standing in order to deceive the Germans into thinking that the French were retreating hastily.

"The fuse succeeded. The Germans advanced across the bridges in close formation. When several German regiments had crossed, the French blew up the bridges and the French artillery started firing into hundreds of German columns which retreated hastily to the river, only to find the bridges gone.

"The French regiments then advanced with quick fires and the merciless slaying continued until dusk. Many Germans threw down their arms and attempted to swim the river and large numbers were drowned. When nightfall came the French brought up searchlights and continued the work of carnage.

"The artillery threw shells at the rate of a dozen rounds a minute into the German ranks and varied its tactics by throwing incendiary shells into the forest, where part of the German forces had taken refuge. The burning woods lit up the whole front of fifteen miles.

"In the morning an armistice of two hours was granted to allow the Germans to bury their dead. The French had suffered the loss of only a handful."

English Army "Little and Contemptible."

London, October 1.—The Times to-day says that it is able to give from a thoroughly reliable source the text of an order issued by Emperor William to his army on August 19. It follows:

"It is my Royal and Imperial command that you concentrate your energies for the immediate present upon one single purpose, and that is that you address all your skill and all the valor of my soldiers to exterminate first the treacherous English, and walk over General French's contemptible little army."

Making a Soldier.

New York Press.—"Kitchener's war school uses a twenty-six week course to prepare a man to be shot over. This causes impatience among the patriots and at the same time cures them. Every young man that enlisted for the Spanish War expected that he would be snapping at the foe as fast as a steamer could take him to Cuba, and undoubtedly the same spirit prevails in England. But Kitchener knows the folly of sending untrained men into the field against such a machine as the Kaiser's. The English clerk, rushing to the colors, is getting at Aldershot a taste of the discipline which made the Sirdar master of Egypt."

A General Survey.

During the lull in the flow of information from the war theatre in France and Belgium, it may not be amiss to make a general survey of the war in its many theatres, scattered throughout the world. In the Pacific German Samoa, German New Guinea, and the Caroline Islands have been seized. Sieges are also being laid to the German capital and port at Kia Chou in China. These operations are being conducted by the Japanese with the assistance of British white and Indian troops. As the fortifications are strong, somewhat like those of the Russian fortifications at Port Arthur before the Russo-Japanese war, it was announced before operations began that they would be long and tedious and no news of a decisive character was to be looked for until towards the end of November. Of course, the Germans are isolated and can bring no support to their garrison there, and there is every likelihood before Xmas comes that this German Province will be in possession of the Allies. At the time the war commenced the Pacific and the Indian Oceans were, however, the least guarded by British cruisers. The Germans had four cruisers there. Two were large and powerful, the Gneisenau and the Scharnhorst. The tonnage of each was 11,420 and they were armed with eight 8.2 inch and six 5.9 inch guns. These appear to be in the South Pacific. Last week we heard of their depredations at Papeete, a part of the French Society Islands. They appear to have left the North Pacific to put plenty of sea room between them and the Japanese Navy, which has undertaken to keep clear the sea way between the Far East and British Columbia, and so far as our information goes they appear to be doing it. The other two, the Leipzig and Emden, have made for the Indian Ocean where they have done some damage to shipping. Madras and Zanzibar have had a visit. At the latter place a small British cruiser was destroyed. They have however not been able to interrupt the transport of troops either to France or to the East Coast of Africa, or of troops from New Zealand or Australia. The most formidable unit the British had in these waters at the commencement of the war was the battle cruiser Australia, which is able to dispose of all the four Germans should she come up to them either singly or together. Her tonnage is 18,800, and she carries eight 12-inch and sixteen four-inch guns, and has a speed of 23 knots. The British cruiser has in all probability been too busy conveying troops to go in search of them.

A force of British white troops, Indian troops and probably black troops is being organized to seize German East Africa. As to German South West Africa, the South African Union troops under General Botha will look after it. German Togoland and the German Cameroons have already been seized. Last week we heard of a great haul of German shipping being made in the Cameroons, and quite early in the campaign the wireless station of Togoland was seized. From these indications it seems likely that before Christmas Germany will not have a colony left. Her wireless stations will have been taken and when the contingents from India and the Colonies have been safely conveyed, the German cruisers now at large will be hunted down. Already they appear to have been driven out of the North Atlantic and the North Pacific. So far we have heard of no German cruisers breaking through the blockade of the Heligoland Bight or of that of the mouth of the Baltic.

Turning to Europe, we find the Mediterranean a closed sea to our enemies. The Austrian fleet, after some losses, said to include one of her finest battle ships, is bottled up in her naval harbors, one of which is being reduced by bombardment. On the land Herzegovina has been overrun by the Montenegrins and the latter and the Serbians have seized much of the territory of Bosnia, and are now approaching the capital, Sarajevo. The Serbians have also captured Sennin, an important town opposite Belgrade, on the left bank of the Drina. The Russians have taken the province of Bukovina, and the greater part of Galicia, and have also made a descent through the Carpathian Mountains on Hungary. They have invested Przemysl and have the main line of their forces extending from Cracow, through Czesochova to Kallish. For some days past we have heard nothing of what is taking place along this line. This is one of the most important lines of contest for on this fight depends much. It is along this line that the Russians have most of their forces, and opposed to them is a gigantic army of Germans and Austrians. The fight here will influence largely the fortune of the war in France and Belgium. Should Russia be successful in breaking German and Austrian resistance here, the Germans must withdraw from France and Belgium to meet the hordes of the Russians. Antwerp is apparently cut off from communication with Ostend, but whether the Germans are trying seriously to capture Antwerp is not clear. They may be bombarding and attacking as a demonstration to hinder the army in Antwerp assisting the allies further south. In the latter place there seems to be little chance for the allies to do it by weakening their line further north and eastwards and though at points the advance guards may be driven back, the Germans can only do it by weakening their line on the Aisne. In France, the allies turning movement seems to be progressing slowly but surely. The Russians report success in driving the German invaders out of the provinces of Swalki and Lomaha and claim a great victory at Augustowo.

The Gloucester's Fight With the Giant Goeben.

On the morning following our departure from Brindisi, our fears of the German warships, which were said to be sinking all boats carrying passengers belonging to hostile nations, had vanished, as no ships at all had been sighted, writes an eye-witness of the fight between the Gloucester and the two German cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

Suddenly the news spread that some had come into view. I fixed my eyes on the horizon, and stared hard but could catch no sign of ships.

After some time, however, I began to distinguish two dirty yellow smudges. These grew and grew until I was able to recognize them as steamers. They were not ordinary steamers, though; these were too long and narrow.

Then the whisper went round, "German cruisers." "Who said so?" "The captain."

The captain on his bridge is looking attentively at the newcomers, shading his eyes with his hand, preferring his own unaided eyesight to any telescope.

The first is the Goeben, says the captain presently, the second the Breslau. They are German boats, he explains, and he looks so delighted that one might think he had made a pleasant discovery.

I ask him how he can recognize the boats.

"I've seen them before," he answers phlegmatically. "The Breslau isn't much of a cruiser, though her speed is good. But the Goeben is one of the best the Germans have got."

"Will they attack us?" I asked.

"I don't know," says the captain.

And suddenly the dull boom of a cannon shot shakes the air. Are we being attacked? But the smoke comes from the horizon, and not from either of the cruisers.

The murky little cloud vanishes gradually, and we see another ship—narrow and long like the other two, but considerably smaller.

"An English cruiser," says the captain.

Now we see clearly that the other two are getting away, and that this little fellow is racing after them. They are leaving us on one side, but are nevertheless sufficiently near to be distinguishable. "The Gloucester," announces the captain.

The Gloucester is pursuing the enemy, and with a rapid turn gets alongside.

Smoke and fire come from the English vessel, and then again the Gloucester is chasing the other two.

We had by then grasped the fact that we were witnessing a naval battle—a sight unique in its thrilling beauty and impressiveness. It is a picture which I shall carry in my mind to my dying day.

Even to the most ignorant it was obvious that the little cruiser Gloucester was anxious to get ahead of the German ships. At last the Gloucester caught up the Breslau, which was behind the Goeben. The Breslau turned immediately and opened fire. The Gloucester turned broadside on, and the Breslau, after getting a good dose of firing, took to her heels, the Gloucester following and waltzing round, firing at the Breslau first from one side and then from another.

Then the enormous Goeben turned and made for the Gloucester. Having sent a few shots at the Goeben, the Gloucester began to make off, the Goeben following and shooting at random. The Gloucester continued to send a few well-placed parting shots as she retreated.

The Gloucester then commenced to manoeuvre, approaching the German cruiser first from one point and then from another, and then suddenly endeavoring to get right away. But the Goeben was the faster of the two, and the distance between them diminished rapidly.

Unexpectedly the Gloucester stopped dead and turning round proceeded to bombard the Goeben. The thun-

Woman's Recruiting Song.

"YOUR KING AND COUNTRY WANT YOU"

So many requests for a popular recruiting song have reached us that we arranged with Mr. Paul A. Rubens to write and compose a woman's recruiting song entitled "Your King and Country Want You." The entire profits derived from the sale will be handed to the Queen's Work for Women Fund, which has been started to provide work for those women who have lost regular employment through the war.

The words of the song are:

We've watched you playing cricket, And every sort of game, At football, golf, and polo, You men have made your name; But now your Country calls you To play your part in war, And no matter what befalls you We shall love you all the more! So come and join the Forces, As your fathers did before.

Refrain.

Oh, we don't want to lose you, But we think you ought to go, For your King and your Country Both need you so. We shall want you and miss you, But with all our might and main We will thank you, cheer you, kiss you When you come back again!

2.

We want you from all quarters, So help us, South and North, We want you in your thousands, From Falmouth to the Forth. You'll never find us fall you When you are in distress, So answer when we hail you, And let your word be "Yes!" And so your name, in years to come, Each Mother's Son shall bless!

Refrain.

Oh, we don't want to lose you, (Etc. as before.)

The song is published at the price of one shilling.

The arrangements for publishing the song will be made by Messrs. Chappell and Co., 50 New Bond-street, London, W., without charge, so that the entire profits derived from the sale will go to the Queen's Fund, while Mr. Rubens has very generously promised to hand over all royalties derived from the sale. The new song has already achieved a very widespread popularity owing to its simplicity and direct appeal.

Graydon, of Caledonia, who writes:—"I wouldn't think of going to bed without knowing we had Nerviline in the house. I have used it for twenty odd years and appreciate its value as a family remedy more and more every day. If any of the children gets a stiff neck, Nerviline cures quickly. If it is earache, toothache, cold on the chest, sore throat, Nerviline is always my standby. ## Tea or Coffee Hurt You?

No need to get mad now, tear up the paper, or shout "non-sense, good tea or coffee never hurt anyone."

You know better than that, for you can point out all around you folks who are the worse for their slugging.

Think over a few tea or coffee drinking friends and casually enquire if they are entirely and perfectly well and just how tea or coffee treats them.

If it hurts others isn't it just possible—?

Catch the drift, don't you?

In fact after having studied the matter a bit it will become plain that if you are a tea or coffee-drinker the chances are that some form of incipient or perhaps fixed organic disease due to tea or coffee has set in, headache, biliousness, constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness, heart flutter or others of the well-proven tea and coffee ills. One can refuse to look the thing squarely in the face and peg along with the tea or coffee. Some day Nature will haul him up short.

It's a Poor Bargain

to swap health and clear, business-like head for a few cups of tea or coffee each day.

Every tea or coffee toper tries to wiggle round and charge his aches and ills to weather, overwork, too much or too little food, this, that or the other thing, but how he hates to admit that the real enemy is his Master, tea or coffee.

A Sure Personal Test

will locate the exact cause of your steady destruction of health, if that cause be tea or coffee. It's worth knowing the plain, sober fact before organic heart trouble or other disease sets in, which perhaps cannot be cured.

The test is pleasant, accurate and satisfying—

Quit both tea and coffee absolutely for ten days and in their place use POSTUM.

Postum now comes in two forms. Regular Postum must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form made in the cup instantly, with hot water. Both kinds of this famous food-drink have a delightful flavour and are absolutely free from caffeine (the drug in tea and coffee) or any injurious substance.

If in a few days you begin to sleep soundly at night, digest your food better, stomach and bowels show signs of recovery, or the old feeling of weakness at the heart leaves, or head works clearer, (the ails of tea and coffee drugging are multitudinous) the facts will be before you, and

Guards Prove They Are Not "Only Out For Show."

London, September 28.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in France pays warm tribute to the excellent work done by the British guard regiments who generally have been supposed to be kept only "for show purposes." He says they have done more fighting than any other of the units of the British expeditionary force.

"In the recent crossing of the Aisne they achieved a glorious feat of arms," continues the correspondent. "They were allowed to cross by a pontoon bridge without any opposition, but no sooner had our cavalry, headed by the Scots Greys, begun crossing than a rain of shrapnel burst upon them; those who were not killed outright were drowned."

"A stretch of open country a quarter of a mile long lay immediately ahead of the guard, then a wood leading up to the Heights somewhere along or behind which the death-dealing German guns lay. The order was given to advance, but though the gallant troops escaped the crowning misfortune of falling upon barbed wire, they were received, as was to be feared, by a murderous machine gun fire. On approaching the cover the guards fixed bayonets and charged. They took six guns in five minutes, and tonight they are in the British lines."

"The charge created a necessary diversion, allowing our heavy artillery in turn to enter the lists. Not until the pontoon bridge had twice more been destroyed, however, were the German big guns silenced. Thanks to the admirable reconnoitering work of two aviators the crossing of the Aisne was then concluded in comparative immunity from shell fire."

"That night the guards got their just due of congratulation."

Confident of Victory.

Nish, Serbia, Sept. 29.—The Serbian War Office issued the following today: "The next few days will see the Austrians expelled from Serbia. Their sole remaining foothold is in the mountains southwest of Krupana, where our forces are winning in the fighting in the mountain passes."

Find Krupps Had Plants in France.

Paris, Sept. 29.—The amazing rapidity in mounting their heavy siege guns, which alone enabled the Germans to destroy the forts around Maubeuge, is now explained by revelations throwing a flood of light on the secret preparations made in France by the German General Staff. Without even attracting suspicion this work has been going on for years.

In the spring of 1910 an estate belonging to the Duc de Luynes, about a thousand acres of land, comprising a plateau in the forest of Lanieres, five miles from the fortifications of Maubeuge, was sold by auction in four lots. The most important of these lots, containing a hill overlooking the Maubeuge forts, was purchased by a certain Gilbert Marty, of Brussels. Now the discovery has been made that Gilbert Marty was merely a man of straw acting for Frederick Krupp.

Le Matin Told the Story.

A factory for the making of railroad engines was established on the land. Frederick Krupp, whose close personal relations with the Kaiser are well known, made on three occasions personal visits of inspection to the locomotive factory. These facts, which were published by Le Matin on July 3, 1910, were at the time regarded as a bit of sensational journalism and were discredited.

It is now proved beyond all doubt that in 1912 masonry platforms, nicely levelled and crowned with cement, with balance adjusted recoil buffers, revolving metal supports and a hundred other technical details for laying heavy siege guns were prepared on this supposed engine factory. All these slow operations, involving, through the drying of the concrete masonry, a work of at least nine weeks to complete, were carried out and put in working order by special technical artisans sent from the Krupp establishment at Essen, in Germany.

Had Range of the Forts.

Moreover from these secret gun positions the range and angle of fire from every ridge and defensive point about Maubeuge had been calculated in minute detail and accuracy. Also long underground telephone wires had been laid from unsuspected points in Maubeuge to the gun positions on the hill outside, enabling spies in the town during the bombardment to telephone information about the effect of the shells.

It can readily be guessed from this that similar secret preparations have probably been made by German spies in other places.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.
 Special to Evening Telegram:
 PARIS, Oct. 5. (Official).
 To our left, north of Oise, battle continuing, result undecided. On remainder of front the situation is unchanged.

Russia.—After a ten days' battle the German Army operating between frontier Eastern Prussia, and River Niemen has been defeated and is in full retreat abandoning considerable war stuff. Germans have completely evacuated territories of Suwalki and Lomja.

VIOLENT BATTLE ON WEST WING.
 PARIS, Oct. 5.
 The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon: On our left wing to the north of the Oise, the battle continues with great violence; the result remains undecided. We have been obliged at certain points to cede ground. Along the remainder of the front there has been no change.

AINSE BATTLE STILL INDECISIVE.
 LONDON, Oct. 5.
 General Von Klueck, reinforced with troops from the German centre, continues to make a determined stand against the attempt of the Allies to outflank him. The French, who yesterday officially reported that all the German attacks had been repulsed, and that the Allies had resumed the offensive, followed this to-day by the announcement that, while to the north of this, the battle which commenced seriously on Sept. 25, continues with great violence, no decisive result has yet been reached, and that at certain points the French troops have had to yield ground. The Germans, in their report issued last night, say that the battle is proceeding successfully for them. Both in London and Paris there is the greatest confidence. Although there is some surprise displayed at the success of the Germans in preventing the outflanking movement, there is a feeling, however, that the Germans cannot extend their line much further north without weakening at some point along the rest of the line. The French communication says there has been no change.

RUSSIANS DRIVE ENEMY BACK.
 PARIS, Oct. 5.
 In Russia, after a battle which has lasted ten days, the German army, which was operating between the Eastern Prussian frontier and the Niemen River, has been driven back along the entire line, during its retreat, abandoning a considerable quantity of war material. This army has evacuated completely the territory of the Russian Provinces of Suwalki and Lomja.

REPORTED RUSSIAN VICTORY.
 LONDON, Oct. 5.
 The defeat of the German army, which invaded Russia from East Prussia, appears from Russian accounts, to have been even more decisive than previously stated. According to the Russian Ambassador at Rome, the Germans who, he says, were completely defeated and routed have suffered a loss of 70,000 men, and have been forced to abandon everything. The Russians are now moving forward with the object of again invading East Prussia. This victory, if it is as complete as reported, is of the greatest importance to Russia, as it will prevent the Germans from undertaking any operation from land and sea, which would have compelled Russia to turn at least a part of its attention in this direction. Dealing with Antwerp, the official report says that the situation remains unchanged. Fighting, too, continues in the near east, and the Anglo-French fleet has succeeded in destroying Lusia, an outer defense of the Austrian seaport of Cattara.

IN GERMAN EAST AFRICA.

THE VICTORY AT ANGUSTOWA.
 PARIS, Oct. 5.
 The following official communication was issued by the French War Office to-night: General situation stationary. On our left wing action still continues. In the region of Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse we have repulsed night and day attacks. The Grand Duke Nicholas has addressed to the Minister of War, to be transmitted to General Joffre, a telegram announcing the victory of Angustowa. General Joffre has sent in his name and in the name of the French army, his warmest congratulations to the Commander in chief of the friendly and allied army, on the battle won, which is a guarantee of future success. Two Russian armies are proceeding, one from the west another from the south towards Aldenstein. (In East Prussia 50 miles southeast of Elbing)

Enraged Zouaves Charged Battery.
 Paris, Sept. 30.—The Zouaves are reported by returning wounded soldiers to be covering themselves with glory on the Allies' left. It is related that, one day recently, the French were obliged to recede under a tremendous pressure of numbers and left eight 3-inch guns in the hands of the enemy. This enraged the Zouaves, who begged to be allowed to get them back and recapture the position. When the trumpet sounded for the charge and the Zouaves bounded forward, many turned their heads as they did not wish to see what they thought was sure to happen to them, but on they went, singing, shouting, and defying the rain of machine gun fire. A great proportion fell on the way, but the rest never faltered until they pouched on the enemy's line. It seemed then as if there were only a few bushes of soft steel before the enemy broke and the cannon were immediately trained on the fleeing foe to avenge the Zouaves who had fallen in the charge. N. B. S.—At the regular monthly meeting of the British Society held last night a number of applicants were initiated.

A Good-Bye For Our Boys.
 Au revoir, God be with you, brave Sons of the Empire!
 Afar o'er the ocean 'tis yours there to find
 The reward that is due to the soldier hero—
 The prize-gift to duty by courage assigned.
 Stalwart to stalwart, good-bye one and all—
 Our own, giving heed to the motherland's call—
 Our own, seeking to face whatever may befall.

To save what is theirs the nations are unshrinking
 To save what is ours you bravely them join;
 Forward, lads, forward, nor mind you our longing
 To have you still near us—our own
 Kith and kin;
 Stalwart to stalwart, firm-willed to subdue,
 There is faith in your care of the Red-White-and-Blue.
 With hopes intertwined 'tis the banner of freedom
 Fight for ere long;
 When the tyrant lies bruised in the moid of disaster,
 The triumph of days your deeds will prolong.
 Stalwart to stalwart, the brave by the brave,
 March on unto victory or e'en to the grave.
 Securing a place on the world's architrave!
 Full armed for the fray, from battle to battle,
 'Tis the patriot's warranty of hope that 'is yours—
 Prepared for the worst, mankind to enable,
 When again the good-will of the nations misleads,
 Stalwart to stalwart, good-bye one and all!
 God bless you for heeding the motherland's call!
 God ever be with you, whatever may befall!

The borrowed property is being returned, and the remainder will be stored conveniently for further use, if necessary. The Quartermaster, Capt. H. Some of the men who enlisted, but were not chosen for service, have been paid off, and the others are being kept on for a few days to attend to the camp property.

The Ideal Woman.

By RUTH CAMERON.

We were discussing a woman of the old school the other day. She is a dear, sweet woman, but she has scarcely an interest beyond keeping her home in good order, her table well supplied and her children properly looked after in a physical way.

In the papers she reads on the woman's pages; in the magazines only the love stories. The other day a guest asked her opinion of the Ulster trouble and she didn't know there was any such thing.

When her husband, her grown up children and their guests talk over public affairs and the larger interests of life, at her table, as they frequently do, she seldom listens. There is a remote look on her face; she is wondering if the vegetables are done properly; she is inwardly disturbed because the maid burned up two pieces of toast; she is wondering if there will be enough fish left to cream for tomorrow's breakfast. Again and again she interrupts in the midst of some subject in which the speaker is intensely interested to ask if he will have this or that.

Now is this the ideal attitude for a woman to take or is it not? I claim that it isn't. My opponent in the discussion insists that it is. Woman's first interest is the home, he says. It is her business to make the home pleasant and comfortable. Now I admit that of course the home should be woman's first interest, but need it be her only one?

A woman cannot be a good housewife and mother and take an interest in anything else, says my opponent. Nonsense, I say. I know a woman who has three small children and

Old Perlican Notes.

Among the volunteers now in the city, there are two young men from this place, one named Tuff and the other March. The former is a son of our ex-Magistrate Mr. George Tuff, J.P.; the latter is a son of our Acting Sergeant Alex. March. March paid us a visit a day or two ago and although it was short, the people around here were more than glad to see him. He is a stalwart, able young man and this place is more than proud of him.

During the gale of wind last Sunday, some of our fishermen were put to a great deal of inconvenience. Some of the motor boats on their moorings, filled with water and the men put forth every effort they could to save them from breaking from their moorings and becoming total wrecks. It did not cause much damage on the land, but it caused Mr. Beckett a little trouble, as it blew down his flake. Fortunately the fish was removed.

All our floaters have arrived safely from the Labrador, and they have all secured fairly good voyages. The last to arrive was the schooner Rambler, S. Rodgers, Captain. He is high liner with 300 qts.; he is very fortunate as the codfishery, securing an average voyage every time.

College Football.

METHODISTS VICTORS.

The first game of the inter-collegiate football series was played at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by a large gathering of college students and supporters. The contesting teams were the Methodists and Felldians, and after a hard fought game the Methodists won by a score of 5 goals to 4.

The game opened with the B. F. C. boys defending the western goal. Flavored with the wind these lads succeeded in keeping the leather in the Methodist territory during the first half and when the whistle sounded they had scored three goals to their opponents' one.

Upon changing ends the Methodists became the aggressors and after a few minutes of brilliant combination, that would do credit to a senior league, the Methodists scored their second goal. Play continued brisk for about ten minutes, when the equalizer was scored. Then the enthusiasm of the small boy in the college cap knew no bounds. Somersaults were the order, and when the Methodists scored the fourth goal the supporters of that team cheered vociferously. The B. F. C. boys then spurted and after some clever combination succeeded in netting the equalizer. The remainder of the game was most interesting, and it was not till within a few minutes of full time that the Methodists scored the goal that gave them the victory.

When the final whistle sounded the score was 5 to 4. Mr. W. J. Higgins refereed the game and the players were:—

B. F. C.—C. Parsons, goal; E. Caldwell, A. Constable, backs; E. Jerrett, C. Hunt, W. Tilley, halves; R. White, H. Bishop, J. Wilson, C. Williams, R. LeMessurier, forwards.

Meth. College—E. Grant, goal; J. Curtis, Butler, backs; M. Stick, J. Sellers, Halfyard, halves; A. Mews, Watts, R. Trapnell, Curran, Stick, forwards.

On to-morrow afternoon St. Bon's and Methodists will be the contestants. The former team is considered a strong one and an interesting game is expected.

J. Weldon Wyckoff.

Red McGhee says: The homegrown and the home-made brand of everything in every land is rated pretty high. The farmer likes his home-grown sass and there's an undisputed class to mother's home-made pie. That home-made bunch hit Connie Mack some several seasons back. He tried it with success. He made Shibe park his garden plot and raised young pitchers till he'd got a pretty classy mess.

Take Weldon Wyckoff, graduate. O' Connie got that youngster straight from Bucknell's college mine. The kid's birthplace was Williamsport where Big Six Matty learned the sport and first began to shine. The birthplace, maybe, didn't count, but Connie saw a vast amount of promise in the kid. He brought him up three years ago and worked his cultivator slow so Weldon wouldn't skid. This year he works his regular day. He goes right in and fires away with all a veteran's skill. In five games pitched he'll drag down three. An' that's enough to show that he can twirl that ol' Reach pill. For twenty-two he's goin' some. Mack banks on him for years to come to help cop more burgeses. He's learned a lot in Connie's school. He'll stick, too, if he ain't a fool, to take some more degrees.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Perle Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

The Bell Island Volunteers.

By ROSE M. GREEN. Strong in the force of right, brave in their country's name, Firm with the arm of might, straight to the paths of fame; Kind in the hour of love, true to the hearts they know Holding their cause above, gladly to war they go.

Well might the "Iron Isle" pride of possession feel, Well might she proudly smile, well might her joys reveal Dreams of a future day when laurelled heroes are won And grateful hearts shall say: Sons of our Land, "well done!"

Brave souls their strength have shown, bright words the gloom have slain Till their resolve is known in Britain's war refrain; Then through love's parting tears pride's happy smile is born Driving all doubts and fears from duty's hopeful morn.

Each heart will dare and do, each arm will strive to win, Souls nerve'd with metal true, all eager to begin, Gone for a little while far from Bell Island's view, Sons of the "Iron Isle" God speed and luck to you!

Only a little space, moments to watch and pray Till each deserted place shall once again be gay, Tears that at parting fell gild bright the future smile And hearts more joy shall tell after a little while.

When hand clasps hand again life shall more brightly burn When peace enthroned shall reign when heroes all return Honoured with vict'ry's shield comes our familiar file Safe to the battle-field back to the "Iron Isle."

At the Crescent.

The patrons of the Crescent Picture Palace were charmed last night with Mr. Frederick Knights singing of "I envy the Bird," the beautiful tenor song from the opera "Serenade". This song gives full scope to Mr. Knights powerful tenor voice and should be heard by all music lovers. The great Eclair moving stars are seen at their best in "The Evil Genius", the two reel feature picture, the superb acting of the Company is seen in the Court House scene where Mabel is tried and convicted for Bouchard's crime; the fire scene is also very realistic. "The Unknown" is a beautiful domestic drama with a pathetic story and compels interest, acted and produced by the Victor Co. "Heart's and Flowers" is a pleasing society melodrama by the Gem Company.

The same programme will be repeated to-night. On to-morrow night a great Milano feature: "The Blind Man's Sacrifice" will be shown.

Fall Rain.

The torrent pours down from the sky, and moistens the earth, hard and dry, and the farmer covets in his barnyard and shorts. "Why didn't it come in July? Ah, then we were praying for rain, for baked was the meadow and plain; and the corn and the oats lost their several goals, the husbandman suffered a pain. Then Pluvius sent not a drop, to rescue the perishing crop; but now, when too late, it comes by the crate, and falls on the cornfield kerflop." And that is the species of thanks that Pluvius gets from the cranks, when the fastest he wields and refreshes the fields with the moisture he keeps in his tanks. The pastures are glowing and fresh, the cattle are putting on flesh; but the farmer is sore and he raises his roar, and sorrow his spirit eunuch. The soil is in shape for the wheat; the outlook is cheerful and sweet; but the husbandman weeps as he stables his sheep, and kicks up a fuss and repeat. Oh, why should we grumble and whine, and shed sundry fountains of brine, over things that are dead? Let us all look ahead, for the weather is sure to be fine!

The 4 British Belles

DRAW GREAT CROWDS.

It's a long way to Germany, It's a long way to go; It's a rough road to Germany, They're gone to face the foe. Don't keep the Kaiser waiting, So they went with heads all bare; It's a long, long way to Germany, But our lads are getting there.

The four British Belles last night packed the Rossley Theatre twice out to the doors, many leaving disappointed at not being able to gain admittance. Those talented young ladies gave the best night's show since their opening. In beautiful costumes, neat, clean and splendid appearance, good singers and dancers, these young English ladies, with fathers and brothers right to the front in the fringed line, they appear each night smiling, not knowing the minute that may bring them the news of the loss of their loved ones, yet they try and bring joy to others. Their opening song last night, "Hullo there, Little Tommy Atkins," was well enclosed. The Buck and Wing dance by the sisters Keen and Miss Crank was applauded to the echo. The beautiful love song by Miss Webster, was a solid hit while the graceful dance by Miss Era Keen was a revelation to theatre goers here, while their finishing song, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary" had to be repeated again and again, and when they added the new chorus, the audience just went wild over it. The British Belles are the finest troupe ever down here and well deserve their name Vaudeville Leaders. The pictures last night too, made a great impression. The Diamond Mystery, a two reel Vitagraph, being the contest story from the moving picture magazine. The others were equally good.

Allies Extending Lines to Belgian Frontier. Brilliant Exploits of French Cavalry and Irish Lancers.

Special Evening Telegram. BERLIN, To-day. Edward Page Gaston, the American, who recently distributed blankets, underwear and clothing to British prisoners, was arrested here yesterday when about to depart from the city. The charge against him was made public. The American Ambassador endeavored to secure the release of Gaston. Gaston is well known in the United States and Europe as a Journalist and Lecturer. His home is Harv, Illinois. At the battlefield, the allied armies after having permitted their adversaries as they thought to exhaust themselves by continued attacks to-day took most vigorous offensive. The British and French however encountered such a strong resistance that their most advanced were compelled to fall back. Only at this part of the long battle line did the opposing troops actually come into close contact. The allied armies are continually extending toward the North and bending Eastward toward the Belgian frontier and are thus compelling the Germans, in order to prevent the crumbling up of their main army, to move large forces from the centre so as to keep pace with the allies whose positions menace the invaders along the whole line. The allies' plan, it is thought, may compel the German to release the pressure on the Belgians. The rapidity with which the French change their positions is remarkable. Two entire divisions of infantry marched nearly thirty miles on Saturday and twenty eight on Sunday. The Germans, however, by means of their airplanes who are continually flying over the lines, despite numerous casualties, discovered the movements and brought up reinforcements to meet them. As the Germans occupy the inside of the circle, they are able to reach an appointed spot with much shorter marches. It was this that enabled them to force the advanced guards of the allies to cede a small amount of ground until further assistance came. The French cavalry executed a daring raid at the back of the German lines where they blew up a railroad tunnel and escaped before their presence was discovered. The Irish Lancers and French Troopers performed a brilliant exploit at another point, getting between the Imperial Guards and their ammunition train by long dashes, zig-zag. They cut off supplies, destroying them so that the Guards' big guns were rendered temporarily useless. General Joan Reuss, seat of the French cavalry died of wounds to-day.

GERMAN FEARS. ROME, To-day. The German Press, according to a communication received here, thinks Great Britain is using pressure to induce the Scandinavian countries, particularly Denmark to abandon neutrality and participate in war against Germany. Deutschland's Seeling, of Berlin, says it is rumored that many hostile ships have been seen in Shaggerack and Cullagat, adding if these ships are British it shows an intention to make a threatening demonstration against Scandinavian States, particularly Denmark.

FRENCH IN FULL POSSESSION OF ALSACE. Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. The correspondent of the Daily Mail says: The Germans are trying to make the world believe that they still hold Alsace, but as a matter of fact the French are there in their thousands, and so well established are they that the enemy has not dared to attack them. There is nothing in front of the French force of occupation—if they wish they can walk right through to the Rhine.

CRISIS IN SPAIN. Special Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, To-day. A cable from Madrid to the Tribune says: The long expected crisis caused by the political parties favoring and opposing war is at hand, and it is officially announced to-day that the Government had decided to postpone the opening of Parliament in order to avoid a discussion affecting the neutrality of Spain, which seemed inevitable on account of the attitude of the different parliamentary groups. As soon as the report became known, Count Romanos, the leader of the Liberal Party, called a conference of the most prominent members of his party, which was attended by several former members of the Cabinet. It was decided at the meeting to urge the Government to open Parliament without delay, thereby complying with the provisions of the Constitution. It is taken for granted that, as soon as the Lower House is in session the Liberals will force a debate on the neutrality of Spain. Newspapers print open letters sent by Freemasons in Spain inviting their colleagues in Spain to start a campaign in favor of France. Although Freemasonry in Spain does not form a strong organization, the appeal will be accepted by the progressive element.

German Theologians and War.

A Reply from Anglican and Non-conformist Churchmen.

(Canadian Press Cable.) London, Sept. 29.—In reply to the appeal addressed by German theologians to "Evangelical Christians abroad," a manifesto was issued here to-day, signed by the heads of the established Church of England and by Non-conformist leaders, justifying England's action in connection with the European war.

The manifesto refers to the authors of the German document as "men whose honesty, capacity and good faith, there can be no question," but expresses amazement that such men should commit themselves to a statement concerning the political causes of the war which depart so strangely from what seem to us to be plain facts in this grave hour of European history.

"It is upon these facts we rest our assured convictions that for men who desire to maintain the paramount obligation of fidelity to their plighted word and their duty in defending weaker nations against violence and wrong, no possible course was open but that which our country has taken."

After reviewing the negotiations that preceded the war the manifesto continues: "We can only suppose, incredible as it seems, that those honorable and gifted men who signed the German appeal were unaware of the obligations to which we were bound, and also of the story of the negotiations."

After expressing the hope that the time will come when it again will be their privilege to work with the German theologians in behalf of Christianity, the signers of to-day's manifesto adds:

"There must be no mistake about our position. Eagerly desirous of peace, foremost to the best of our ability in furthering it to promote a close fellowship between England and Germany, we nevertheless, have been driven to declare that dear to us as peace is, the principles of truth and honor are yet more dear. We have taken our stand for international good faith, for the safe-guarding of smaller nationalities, for the upholding of the essential conditions of brotherhood among the nations of the world."

Among the signers of the manifesto are the Archbishops of Canterbury, York and Armagh; the Bishop of London, the Rev. R. J. Campbell, Dr. John Clifford, the Rev. F. B. Mayer, Dr. Campbell Morgan and Dr. Robertson M. Nicholls.

Fads and Fashions.

Broad hip sashes crossed in an original fashion mark many of the new evening robes.

This season the fashionable woman will stand erectly and have her arms definitely defined.

The all-black frock with an artistic dash of color promises to be fashionable this winter.

Velvet mingled with souple cloths or cashmere de sole is much used on the new winter models.

The short shoulder cape appears on some of the new travelling mantles, called nauticant artilerie.

Underwear of cotton crepe, extremely simple, in white or in dusty colors, is fashionable and practical.

Felt effects in tulle overskirts, shaped in a variety of styles, will be popular for young girls' dance dresses.

Long sleeves will continue to be worn even when the longer sleeves of winter are here. The gloves will be worn over the sleeves.

Sleeves of velvet costumes are in marked contrast to those of the strictly tailored suits. The latter are invariably set in; the former continue the vague long shoulder line.

A reverse fashioned in gold braiding and a little gold introduced on the broad inset belt to many long loose coats is a bright note that adds a certain cachet to the new models.

A novel notion in many of the basque coats is the graduating length and short open front, which displays the basque in a cascade fullness. This idea gives much charm and grace of line to the figure.

The steve set in at the armbone in here. It is long and tight, with fullness at the top. It sometimes flares at the wrist in bell shape and sometimes it is buttoned straight from the shoulder to the hand.

THE WAR—CHAPTER XV.
I. C. MORRIS.

Having spoken of Europe and of its cathedrals, we will now turn our attention for a moment to the domestic side of this war, and devote a chapter to its discussion. This is a phase of the question which, amid so many other topics, is somewhat lost sight of.

We speak of the ships and their armament, of the cities and their buildings, and of the armies and their millions. All these things are necessary to war, and they represent the material an aggressive and defensive side of it; or what may be termed its active side. But there are other aspects from which it may be viewed.

Those of us who have followed up the movements of this war and who have studied it from the various illustrations of our local papers, must have been very deeply impressed by the sight of the refugees of the different cities which have been besieged. Men, women and children have had to leave their homes, and with their little belongings tied in a bundle, they have been obliged to flee in any direction which might offer shelter. These conditions have been the lot of all; and rich and poor, young and old, weak and strong have all fared alike. Out into the heat and dust, out into the storm and rain, out into the darkness of night, out into the wilderness of ruin, and out into the suspense of the morrow, and the uncertainty of its results, they have fled. Bereft of all that the human heart holds dear, and stripped of the comforts of their homes, and frightened as if birds of prey, they have been exposed to these distresses. Without shelter they huddle in groups, and daily endure the awful penalty of war.

We read of those who have been cut down on the field of battle by the flying bullets, or by the exploding shell, or by the deadly shrapnel; we also read of those who from exhaustion and weariness lie down to die; and we accord to them all the plaudits of the hero. This they deserve, and this they will continue to get. From the four corners of the Empire the praises of our soldier lads are being shouted. From the million printing presses of the world their bravery is being published, and "down the hearts of the nation's multitudes" they are proclaimed its protectors. But under the domestic feature of the question there is also a heroism, and also a self-sacrifice and also endurance, and also death. This feature of the war may not attract the attention of the majority of the people in the distance, nor may it awaken that consideration which the more direct aspects of it present; but it is none the less a part of the price, and none the less notable. The purpose and result of civilization have been to uplift mankind, and to advance it to the best ideals of the times. This is what has been aimed at. For this the best men have counselled; and all our seats of learning have taught with this object in view. But opposed to all these blessings, and contrary to all these expectations, has come this terrible scourge of war, and with its blight almost blotted out the progress of the ages. The effects of this blight are evident on every side. The shipping of the world has been checked, and many of the gates of the highways of traffic are closed to commerce. Our great ocean liners are half dismantled, and from the floating palaces of three months ago, they have been reduced to colliers and troop ships. Everything that stands for the comfort of life and for the domestic welfare of the people has been shadowed, and the homes of millions of innocent children and gentle women jeopardized and destroyed. These homes may have been costly and grand, or they may have been humble and plain, but they were dear to the people, and they afforded that shelter, and offered that privacy, and enshrouded that affection, which only home life can develop. These homes contained all that the people cherish. The mementoes of absent ones, the treasures of loved ones, and the reminders of the past. But in spite of all these associations the inmates had to flee, and like herds of buffalo fleeing before a prairie fire of the west, they have had to run. And yet they were all innocent. The little children hadn't done anything wrong, the sick ones hadn't broken any laws of the land, the aged ones hadn't violated the rules of war, nor had the mothers and daughters been guilty of any breach of neutrality. The aged and tender and innocent ones were the angels of the household, and while their bread-winners sought for the where-with-all to live, they kept the home, and by their love made it worthy of the name. Now they are homeless. Like a great crowd of shipwrecked passengers on some lone shore, they wander about, and like them wonder, "will relief soon come—or will it ever come. They have lost their all. War has ruined them. They are now refugees; and for long years to come they cannot expect to be any better. The war may not continue many months, but its results will be felt for a generation, and the social and domestic life of the people of Europe must endure its aftermath. (Continued.)

War Articles

WORTH FOLLOWING.

The "Witness" articles on the War Situation are appreciated throughout Canada by the best informed people, for their clearness and sincerity, as well as for their fine spirit, breath and foresight.

The Montreal "Weekly Witness" is a truly great national paper. It always has been and still is absolutely owned and edited by Douglas, Mr. John Redpath Douglas being its editor.

While some papers are notoriously and obviously at the beck and call of predatory interests, there are others like the Montreal "Weekly Witness," that have maintained their independence. It has never grovelled. It has never louted. It has never pandered. The "Witness" is its unique self, loved by its friends, hated by its enemies.

During the past three generations it has conscientiously, devotedly and very efficiently, served its country in many ways, notably in its campaigns for Temperance, Righteousness, Religious Liberty, Education, and Lower Tariffs, looking towards lower cost and higher plane of living. If Canada is not yet enjoying to the full the benefits of these things, it is far ahead of many other countries in most of them, and this is due in no small measure to the stand, or, more correctly, the splendid campaigns of the "Witness" whenever opportunity afforded. The welfare of the Canadian farmer in particular has always been considered of prime importance by the Editor of the "Witness," and the "Witness" has done yeoman service to agriculture.

Generations of our finest Canadian families have literally been "brought up on the Witness," as many of the most eminent Canadians will testify and they continue its devoted admirers.

Besides the moral and political aspects of this great newspaper, it has attractive features embracing all the interests of the family and a splendid Farm and Poultry Department. Its short and serial stories are strong and fresh, and they alone are worth several times the price—one dollar a year. To bona fide New Subscribers mentioning the name of this paper, one trial year may be had for only 65 cents, or three months on trial only fifteen cents. The publishers are, as always, JOHN DOUGALL & SON, "Witness" Office, Montreal.

The "Weekly Witness" has now no connection with any daily newspaper and is the healthier for it.

The 1914 Moustache.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Sivash."

Nothing, not even the general international ill-feeling and the wheat crop in Kansas, will distinguish the year 1914 so much as the return of the moustache to the American scenery.

Census officials estimate that the moustache has increased in numbers this year by over two hundred per cent. The winter was unfavourable and much seeding and ploughing under was done. But a favourable spring, with warm weather, and a fall in the price of microscopes, produced marvelous results. The total visible supply of moustaches in this country is now above 5,000,000.

The new moustache can be readily told from the old standard gauge lip muffer. It is remarkable for its almost inconceivable tenacity. The amount of material and labour expended upon a moustache of thirty years ago would equip an entire sophomore class of to-day with misplated eyeglasses.

Economy of goods and attention to detail is the watchword of to-day. Fourteen hairs on a side makes an excellent lip gauge moustache nowadays. Some young men are more lavish and grow a profuse affair as large as a small yellow caterpillar, but such extravagance is rare. If a young man were to let his moustache sprawl out beyond his nose on either side and curl at the ends he would be barred from the society of his kind for unwarranted ferocity of disposition.

The new moustache can be raised easily. The only tool necessary for cultivation is a pair of tweezers. By using these the proprietor of an upper lip which is to be landscaped can discourage an unbalanced enthusiasm on the right side which has produced twenty-one hairs and can bring the cup down to balance a more sterile and barren left side which has only produced eleven hairs with reports of rust and firing in the dryer sections. The new moustache may be smaller than the old, but it does not save the producer any time. The care, support and training of a few pallid filaments, their arrangement in a tasteful design and the exertions necessary to attract the attention of a careless and near-sighted world to the same, has kept many a young man from engaging in any other pursuits this summer. For this reason we should all endeavor to be kind and not ask the proud occupant of a four-quart show hat with a French crown why he doesn't wipe the soot off of his lip.

Sulphate of Ammonia.

St. John's Gas Light Company.
Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN. Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly,

Analyst and Assayer.

Command of the Sea.

Not until the war is over and its various phases may be studied in the light of the fullest reports can it be said with any approach to accuracy what would have been the fate of the French army if the English force had not succeeded in escaping from the enveloping German movement, or worse yet, if there had been no English force there at all. On the one face of things either hypothesis would seem to have spelled an irretrievable disaster for the French, though it is to be borne in mind that General Joffre, if he had not had the small, but splendidly efficient English army to depend upon, would in the nature of things have made other and possibly effective dispositions of his battle lines. Yet enough has already appeared to show that the command of the sea which alone made possible the transfer of the British troops to the Continent was of an importance almost impossible of exaggeration. The naval historians will one day be declaring that this war, although fought on land, was decided at sea, or with slightly more accuracy, in the shipyards in which England constructed such a feet that the Germans did not dare to contest with it for the command of the sea.—Springfield Republican.

The tightly fitted bodice, with narrow shoulder effect, set-in sleeves and fopping a skirt with at least three and sometimes nine ruffles, is the very latest of fashion's fancies.
