CHAPTER VII

"I thought you might like a lecture money, Sir Lionel."
Mr. Simmons' accent was never more pronounced than when talking with Sir Lionel.
"The gift of prophecy has fallen on you, Mr. Simmons. Yes, I wish some money, and I suppose a little will do, provided our ideas of size agree."
"How much, Sir Lionel? You know I can haf jooost as much, now, as you vant."

"Do you know, Simmons, I had a suspicion of that, myself."
"The death of that poor unfortunate—"

"Your compassion only increases his misfortune," said Sir Lionel, grimly, and Mr. Simmons knew that his condolences or congratulations were not at all necessary.
"Well," he hastened to say, "you had only to say how much."
"Five thousand pounds," said Sir Lionel.
"And ven do you vant it?" said Mr. Simmons, cheerfully.

"Can you let me have it this afternoon, without incommoding yourself? I would rather not put you to any trouble."

Mr. Simmons' smile at this reminder of yesterday was a painful thing to witness.

"It will be no trouble, Sir Lionel."
"Then let me have it this afternoon. And, what had you in your mind by way of security, Mr. Simmons?"

"Just a note of hand, Sir Lionel."
"Secured of course by a mortgage on the property already somewhat covered?" queried Sir Lionel, carelessly.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Simmons, as if he would accept the proposition as one of his patron's jests. "That property carries all that it can carry, Sir Lionel. This note would be payable upon your coming into the Basingwile property."

"I don't own the Basingwile property yet, Mr. Simmons," said Sir Lionel, with sudden sternness, "and I do not propose to borrow any money on it. But I do own this other property, less the mortgages on it, and I intend to keep it and pay the mortgages. If you have any memory at all you will recall the paper I showed you yesterday. It was a list of my property, with appraised values and sums borrowed on it. Yesterday it was worth to me just the sum I borrowed on it, but the property of the heir of the Basingwile estates is of more value than that of a ruined spendthrift. So, Mr. Simmons, if you choose to give me five thousand on that property you may. If not, you may leave me. Nothing but yes or no, Mr. Simmons."

"You are so sharp, Sir Lionel," Mr. Simmons began to protest, when he saw Sir Lionel reach out to tap the bell. "Well, yes, then; but I'll make a close shave—"

"No details of your business, if you please, Simmons. They do not interest me," said Sir Lionel.

To be beaten in a transaction, and then refused the right to protest, was so bitter to Mr. Simmons, that he gave way to his feelings to Harrison on the way out.

"Sir Lionel is a sharp vun," he groaned.

"I'll tell him you say so," said Harrison, coldly, and turned as if to do so.

"If he doesn't know it already, it isn't no use to tell him," said Mr. Simmons, desperately, and then plunged out of the house.

"I'll not ride this afternoon," said Sir Lionel to Harrison, a little later; "but I shall make a call, and I would like the carriage brought around."

"I am glad for her sake," he murmured to himself, as he was driven by Lady Flora's, "that she will not be obliged upon to make any sacrifice. That a noble—what a glorious creature she is!"

Who would have doubted it to see her when she greeted him!

"I would not go out," she said, simply, "I knew you would come."

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. KISSINO, 931 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

He hardly dared to do it; but he kissed her.

"And I knew you would expect me," he said. "Have you heard anything about me?"

"Have I, indeed!" she exclaimed, with an adorable smile. "Why, all London is talking about it."

"About what?"

"Your farewell supper."

"I don't mean that."

"Then what do you mean?" she asked, her beautiful eyes opening wide with wonder, as she drew back and looked at him from arms' length.

"Something has happened that will solve the problem of what I ought to do."

"Tell me quickly, then," she said, and drew him to a chair, while she took another. "I have worried about it ever since we parted. Your honor is so sensitive that I feared it would—"

She bent her head, and hesitated. He took her hand and held it.

"Would what?" he demanded.

She tossed her head up and looked resolutely at him.

"Would make you think my happiness lay in separation. And, Lionel, I could not bear that. Whatever you tell me, don't let it be that."

"No, my darling," he answered. "The thing that has happened will bring us together. Lord Barham is dead."

She shook her head doubtfully.

"Lord Barham!" she said, hesitatingly and perplexedly—"I don't know—Oh, Lionel!" she suddenly cried; "you don't mean—not the heir to the—the earldom of Basingwile?"

"Yes, I am the heir now."

"Oh, Lionel!" and her clasped hands fell in her lap.

"You are not sorry?" he said.

"Sorry!" she repeated, musingly. "Not sorry—no. But we could have been happy—and he was so young—" only a boy, wasn't he? I think I have heard so. And there was so much in the future for him."

"And I thought you cold and heartless!" said Sir Lionel, deeply touched.

She laughed.

"What kind of a part would I play in society if I betrayed my feelings to everybody? Oh, Lionel, what a relief to have some one with whom it is a merit to be natural!"

He spent an hour with Lady Flora, and went away feeling that she was the noblest woman in the world, and that it would be difficult for him to be worthy of her.

"Home!" he said to the driver, as he stepped into his carriage. "I will go home first," he said to himself, a smile of enjoyment playing about his mouth, "and then I will go and let Carrie have a look at the famous Sir Lionel. Now, what a good thing for those two little creatures that I have become of some consequence again. They shall study art, or anything else they wish. Was there ever such an honest, unaffected creature in the world? Simplicity itself! Flora must know her. Flora is just the one to appreciate a nature like that of Phyllis. I will bring them together. Fancy Flora in those attic rooms! What a fairy vision she would be to the cripple!" He laughed aloud in the pleasure of the picture he was drawing. "The famous Sir Lionel would dwindle by the side of the more famous beauty. But Phyllis is beautiful, too. Not so magnificent, not so grand; but equally beautiful, I should say—though it is heresy for a lover. I wonder if she will seem as beautiful when I see her by cold daylight, without the fresh glamour of her charming innocence to beguile me?"

He did not go, however. That was a pleasure he was obliged to put off, and it was surprising how it disturbed him to have to do it. But when he reached his apartments there was a man waiting with a message for him.

"I am the valet of Lord Basingwell," he said, in a manner of haste and trouble.

The trouble was too honest for Lionel to trifle with.

"Sit down. Tell me what your errand is."

"Lord Basingwell is dying. He felt the sudden death of Lord Barham very much more than was anticipated, and was prostrated—partial paralysis the doctors say; but when I left he was in full possession of his senses. He knows he is dying. He insisted upon knowing. His greatest anxiety is to see you before he dies. He says he has something he must communicate to you. I came away by the earliest train I could take."

"Where is he?"

"At Basingwell."

"When is the next train out?"

"Four-thirty."

"That will give us just time to catch it," said Lionel, with a sigh; but he would not disappoint the dying man, though he had no doubt that the communication had something to do with his own past, reckless life.

He and Lord Basingwell were only distantly connected, so that there were no ties of blood to draw them together, and hitherto there had been no ties of interest; for who could have suspected that the young and vigorous boy would be taken away? Then the dying earl had always been a careful, an almost parsimonious manager, and the few times the two men had met it had been with manifest want of sympathy. Lord Basingwell could not but look on Lionel's course with reprobation, and Lionel did not blame him for it.

But even if the dying man wished to caution him on his habits—needless as the caution now was—he would not refuse him the satisfaction of doing so. He was glad that he could reassure the old man.

It was night when they reached Basingwell, and the valet had assured Sir Lionel that a warm meal would be waiting him; but they were met at the station by a coachman, who said the earl had grown rapidly worse; so that there was nothing for Lionel to do but to go directly to the sick room, hushing the apologies of the valet with kindly words.

The housekeeper, the nurse, and the doctor were in the room when they reached it, and the dying man lay as if already dead on the great bed in which in by-gone times kings had slept.

"Is he dead?" whispered Lionel, seeing that even their entrance had not roused him.

"No. It is a stupor from which he will recover in a little while; but his mind is growing clouded, and it is doubtful if he will be able to tell you what he wished to."

"Have you any clue to what it is?" asked Lionel.

"None whatever."

"Has he long to live?" asked Lionel.

"He can hardly live through another stupor. The shock of Lord Barham's death seemed to affect him unduly, or he might have recovered from this stroke. He was wrapped up in the young lord, but he was such a—"

Lionel noted his hesitation.

"Please speak plainly. I may need every hint of his character to enable me to fathom his words when he tries to talk to me. I know him very slightly."

"Well, sir, he was a very hard and selfish man, and not given to sentiment of any sort. But he took this very hard. His words showed that."

"What words, please?"

"His words on hearing of the accident. He said nothing for a full minute, they say, and he was always quick of speech, and then burst out, 'It is a judgment on me!' Hush! he is stirring. Heavens! he is sitting up!" and the startled doctor ran to where his patient had risen like one galvanized, and was staring about the room.

"Where is he? Where is Sir Lionel? Did he not come? I am blind! Doctor, don't let me die till he comes. Justice must be done!"

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1509—A TRIM AND BECOMING STYLE.

Junior Dress in Semi Princess Style, With Convertible Collar.

Plaid woolen in soft blue and brown tones would be nice for this, or shepherd check suiting with facings of white pique. For more dressy effect, one could choose poplin, taffeta or velvet, with facings of silk or satin. Plaid silk with brown velvet, white satin with black taffeta, or messaline with poplin would all be equally attractive. The Pattern is cut with panel fronts, that join full skirt and waist portions. The waist back has no lines. It has a deep tuck at the sides, and is stitched over the skirt below the belt. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 12, 14 and 16 years. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 14 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1522—A SIMPLE BUT ATTRACTIVE STYLE FOR HOME OR BUSINESS WEAR.

Ladies' House or Home Dress, with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

As here shown striped gingham, in blue and white was used, with white line for trimming. The waist and skirt are cut on simple lines, with front closing; deep pockets trim the skirt, and a broad collar finishes the waist. The sleeve is dart fitted in wrist length, and is finished with a neat cuff. In short length a turn back cuff forms a suitable trimming. This style is good for all wash fabrics, also for taffeta, poplin, serge, corduroy, voile, and velvet. In blue serge with facings of blue or black satin, it would make a splendid business dress. The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 yards at its lower edge.

LONDON, Jan. 20. The Governor, Newfoundland: A British submarine grounded on the Dutch Coast. The crew were rescued by a British destroyer and a Dutch warship. No lives were lost. Headquarters in France report six German aeroplanes attacked an enemy supply depot, northeast of Albert, causing considerable damage. In fifteen aeroplanes were brought down. Two British machines were lost. Enemy trenches were raided north of the River Lys and several prisoners were captured. Two enemy aeroplanes bombed Nancy. French aeroplanes retaliated on the railway stations at Metz and Arrasville. German attempts to cross the Drims have been repulsed. Two German attacks near Dvinsk were also repulsed. In the Caucasus considerable success has been obtained and the enemy dislodged on a 66 mile front. They withdrew in disorder towards Erzurum. General Aymer continues to advance and is now about six miles from Kut. BONAR LAW.

Premier Briand and other representatives of the French Government, who attended the recent British War Conference, also left for Paris.

THE RIVAL AIR FLEETS.

LONDON, Jan. 20. The assertion made by a section of the British press that the German aerial service has recently been perfected to such a point as to surpass that of the British, is not endorsed by Harold J. Tennant, Parliamentary Under Secretary for War, who was questioned on this subject this afternoon in the Commons. Tennant said that military authorities were satisfied that British airmen had given a good account of themselves in recent fighting. The German method of fighting in the air, Tennant said, is of a defensive nature. The new Fokker monoplane, which have been described in the press as superior to those of the Allies, are well adapted for defensive work, the Under Secretary explained, but are incapable of making long flights. If the Germans adopted the offensive and went behind the British lines, he thought they would meet machines quite equal in efficiency and speed as the Fokker.

Fat Without Fear of Indigestion or Sour, Acid Stomach

Instant relief! "Pape's Diapepsin" ends your stomach trouble forever.

Wonder what upset your stomach - which portion of the food did the damage - do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated - just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful - it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Podgoritz with his troops. The Montenegrin Government has been installed at Scutari in Albania.

FIGHTING RESUMED.
ROME, Jan. 20.
 Fighting between Austria and Montenegro has been resumed. Montenegro notified Italy officially of this fact to-day. Montenegro's decision was communicated to the Italian Foreign Office from the Montenegrin Premier. The note is to the effect that King Nicholas and the Montenegrin Government have rejected all terms offered by Austria, and that fighting has already been resumed along the whole front. King Nicholas remains with his army to organize the defenses of the country.

KAISER RETURNS TO GERMANY.
SOFIA, Jan. 20.
 Emperor William, who to-day was at Nish, where he met King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, has returned to Germany.

'TIZ' PUTS JOY IN SORE, ACHING FEET
 "Oh, how 'Tiz' gladdens tired swollen, burning feet - it's glorious. Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, aching, tender, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions. No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief just use "Tiz." "Tiz" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "Tiz" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions."

Get a 25-cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "Tiz." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.

THE GRIP.
 Now, when a man has got a cold that makes him bark and yip, he talks about his aches untold, and says he has the grip. As well to claim when chilblains flit your toes around about, and cause a picayunish hurt, that you've rheumatic gout. The grip, it is a fell disease, unlike the garden cold, and it was shipped across the seas, from Russia's frozen world. Oh, it is fierce and it will cook the goose of any gent, and make the cold of commerce look like twenty-seven cents. The men who've had it should receive due credit for the same, and if they die they ought to leave a long-enduring fame. Alas, distinction for them moulds no laurel wreaths this trip, for skates with common, ten-cent colds, all say they have the grip. I've had the real imported thing, indorsed by Nick, the czar, and I, of course, would like to spring grip stories, near and far. Alas, this world no solace holds for one to whom it's due; for all the skates with tinhorn colds remark, "I've been there, too!"

Everyday Etiquette.
 "When anyone calls and I am not at home and they leave their card, do I owe them a call or should they call again?" asked Marjorie.
 "You owe the call. Your not being at home makes no difference. That was your loss and the visitor has paid her obligation," replied her mother.

FOR XMAS GIFTS.
 Newton on Ayre, Scotland, Jan. 3rd, 1916.
 Dear Mr. Editor, - I dare say you will agree with me that I'm not a professional correspondent when you read this letter.

But I would just like to thank through the medium of your paper all the ladies of the Newfoundland W. P. A. and others who so kindly sent us the Xmas gifts of cake and chocolate which I can assure you were thoroughly enjoyed.

We have just entered another year and I trust it will be a successful one for the British Empire and our Allies. Anyway, we will do our little "bit" towards that and to the best of our ability when the time comes as the Regiment is at present doing. We are not very large in numbers, compared with other larger Colonies, but what there are you will agree is of the right kind of "stuff".

I think the people at home have good cause to be proud of the 1st Battalion and you may be sure the 2nd Battalion won't be lacking when the opportunity comes.

A draft of us were expecting to leave here a few days hence for Xmas, but for unknown reasons were delayed, but we are eagerly looking forward for the orders to move off. We all enjoyed our Xmas and New Year here in Ayre, and we are hoping to spend a happier time in Newfoundland when we have beaten the Germans and Turks.

We are all in best of spirits and not a bit down hearted, but eagerly looking forward for the chance to show our mettle.

Now I must wish all a Happy and Prosperous New Year and success to the Evening Telegram.

I am, sir, yours respectfully,
 L. C. WALTER E. ALEXANDER,
 No. 1504. P. O., 1st Nfld. Regt.

Visited Wandsworth Hospital.

Mr. G. W. McLeod who had been in England purchasing goods for the Royal Stores, returned to the city by last evening's express. While in England Mr. McLeod visited Wandsworth Hospital where many of the boys of the Newfoundland Regiment are undergoing treatment. The wounded soldiers are being well cared for and all were delighted to meet Mr. McLeod and get the news from home.

Mr. McLeod brought with him a splendid photograph of Wandsworth Hospital which is on exhibition to-day.

Eloquent Address by Rev. Dr. Jones.

BEFORE ST. THOMAS'S MEN'S BIBLE CLASS LAST NIGHT.

Subject: "The Teaching of Jesus Concerning Divorce."

There was a large attendance at St. Thomas's Men's Bible Class last night and the Rector, Rev. Dr. Jones, delivered an eloquent and instructive address on the subject of Divorce. The rev. lecturer prefaced his address by referring to the passages of Scripture in the New Testament, bearing on this subject, viz.: Matt. 5:32, 19:3 and 9; Mark 10:11; Luke 16:18. He tried to interpret the mind of Jesus and His teaching from these passages, which he said had taken almost twenty centuries to fully understand. The teaching of Jesus concerning Divorce is now only beginning to be understood, and this is, the indissolubility and sanctity of marriage and home life. On these our religious, social and political life depend. In Newfoundland we are not troubled with divorce cases, but we all know and read of them happening in other countries, and some of the causes are defective social arrangements, too soft a creed and lack of moral ideals.

It was a brilliant and exhaustive address to which we cannot do justice in a brief account such as this; but was a source of instruction and profit to those who had the pleasure of hearing it.

At the conclusion, Mr. R. Dowden made a brief speech, in which he referred to some parochial matters concerning the Class, and, on behalf of the Class, extended a hearty welcome to some gentlemen from the outports who are visiting the city, and other visitors of the city who are not members of St. Thomas's Parish.

Next Thursday, the subject will be "The Child," when another helpful and instructive hour is assured.

Mother! Your Child is Cross, Feverish, From Constipation.

If tongue is coated, breath bad, stomach sour, clean liver and bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once - a teaspoonful to-day often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally - look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated, poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Accused Bailed Out On $50,000 Bonds.
 The long delayed enquiry into the unlawful casting away and destroying of the schooner "Henry M. Stanley" on the Labrador in September last was concluded before Mr. F. J. Morris, J.P., and Mr. J. McCarthy, J.P., yesterday afternoon in the Magistrate's Court. The accused five men, who are represented by Mr. Higgins, were committed for trial in the Supreme Court at the next ordinary sitting.

Off Coronel.

NOVEMBER 1, 1914.
 In the stormy Southern sunset, great guns spoke from ship to ship; Swift destruction, death and fire leapt from every iron lip,
 Till two crushed and flaming cruisers vanished dumbly in the night.
 Sank, nor left a soul behind to tell of that disastrous fight.

In the dark they died, our comrades, and without a sign they passed; But they fought their guns, and kept the Old Flag flying to the last; Death is bitter in lost battle, but they died to shield the Right; So they swept from that brief darkness into God's eternal light.
 -Archibald Macmichael.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Dec. 28th, 1915.

THE KING.

It was not generally known that the King was to make his first re-appearance in public on Queen Alexandra's birthday and a great deal of disappointment was felt at the fact, for many people would have lined the route from the Palace to Marlborough House. Society, of course, ever since the King's return from France has been assiduous in putting down its name in the book at Buckingham Palace, but the name of Londoners have had no opportunity so far of late of proving their personal respect for the King. King George may spend some time of his convalescence at one of the two big hotels at Newquay, a Cornish resort much favored by the Royal Family. The Prince of Wales and his brothers have stayed there and the whole of one of the hotels was once taken for three months by the Kaiser. The King is said by those who have seen him during his recent trying period of enforced quiet to have felt very deeply being laid up at such a time. He has been reading a good deal, particularly religious works. His domestic chaplain, Rowland Grant, has gone to the front, and indeed into the trenches, as an army chaplain.

ROYALTY AND CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

Although economy is being strictly encouraged in the Royal Palace since the war, there is to be no reduction of their Christmas gifts. Certain important gifts to near relations will obviously this year, as last, be omitted. The King's Christmas present to the Kaiser, for instance, used invariably to cost anything over £100. The Queen has this year purchased largely from the various enterprises which employ the disabled among our soldiers and sailors, and so have all the members of the Royal Family. The bulk of the gifts are bought in Buckingham Palace itself. The shops patronized by the Royal Family are always ordered in the weeks preceding Christmas to send a large selection of novelties to the Palace for inspection, where two or three large rooms are set aside for their display. Each article is plainly marked with the price and name of the firm. The Queen favors lace, particularly that made in England and Ireland, as she does Irish linen goods and Scottish tweeds and friezes. The King's usual gifts are enamelled buttons, cigar and cigarette cases, teapots and hand-some pencil-cases.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE BUYING.

The biggest of the West End shops are obviously astonished at the briskness of their Christmas trade, which is not confined to the departments with an especial Christmassy allure, but spread through all the small goods departments. One manager thought that the people were buying as many gifts as usual, but selecting cheaper things, while other firms said they noticed no difference in this year's Christmas expenditure. Everyone seemed to have plenty of money to spend. He had been surprised at their sale of very expensive toys; some people were quite cheerfully giving five or six guineas for these. On the other hand, one noticed that in all the shops the chief demand was for useful gifts—gloves and more especially every sort of compact, convenient of the housewife type, so useful for women workers living in compact lodgings. Thousands of handkerchiefs will be sent by letter-post this year instead of Christmas cards—the letter-post will probably be worked hard this year to save the overburdened parcel mail. Finishing-up of every design have blossomed through all the shops. But this year's distinctive gift is the reg-mental badge worked in silver, gilt and enamel, or very splendidly in diamonds and colored jewels. The shops have hardly been able to keep pace with the demand for these, though they are helped out by the big hotels, all of which display in their great showcases badges of the three services.

CHRISTMAS ON LUDGATE HILL.

War has shorn London of one of its traditional Christmas sights, for Ludgate Hill is no longer lined on either side, by hundreds of hawkers selling penny toys. In days of peace the gutter merchants, as they are called, were so numerous that only the earlier secured places in the long, ragged lines that stretched from Ludgate Circus to the doors of St. Paul's Cathedral. They were of both sexes, and the only thing they appeared to have in common was their poverty. The police had to regulate the ranks, subdue rivalries, and prevent encroachments. This year there was no need for official interference. There was only a straggling remnant of the army that used to stand shoulder to shoulder. The total number on both sides of the thoroughfare did not exceed 30 at the busiest time of the afternoon, and they were mostly women, whose trade cries were but a feeble echo of the din of former days. The men have joined other ranks, and the majority of the women too, no doubt, have found more worthy and more remunerative employment. Although "the City" is not partial to the disturbance of old-time customs, few people will regret the disappearance of what was never an edifying spectacle.

AT THE HOTELS.

There will be apparently very little diminution in the festivities at the hotels, except that there will be no freak entertainments, for the good reason that the people who give them are staying at home in America. At a few of the big Strand hotels there is a fete on Christmas Eve to help a war fund. At another caravansera the programme is as usual, including "gala dinner" on Christmas Day (15s.

gd, a head exclusive of wine and smokes) and the famous New Year's Eve revel at a guinea. These expensive hotels have suffered from the stoppage of the tourist trade. At Christmas they will be crowded by officers from the front and their relatives and friends. After a long spell in the trenches many officers like to return to civilisation by way of a period of luxurious living in a big hotel. The first thing done by an officer who had been in France for a year without a break on reaching London was to engage a suite of rooms at the most expensive of the Strand hotels and give a series of entertainments to his friends. He explained that he had been saving up just for that.

THE VATICAN'S NEUTRALITY.

According to private advices from Rome, Pope Benedict XV. is sedulous in endeavoring to preserve the strictest neutrality in dealing with those representing in any capacity at the Vatican the countries now at war. The latest striking manifestation of this was the fact that on the day Cardinal Hartmann, of Cologne, who was known to be a direct emissary of the Kaiser, was received by the Pope, his Holiness gave a reception also to Cardinal Bourne, of Westminster, while on the day immediately following Sir Henry Howard, who represents British diplomatic interests at the Vatican, was given an audience. In this regard, it is not to be forgotten that Cardinal Gasquet, the English Primate of the Church of most recent creation, resides in Rome, pursuing those historical studies which he already have won him enduring fame in his native country, even the most extreme Protestant with knowledge of the period recognising the great services he has rendered from original documents towards a full and fair comprehension of the social and political movements which led to and culminated in the English phase of the Reformation. The story is apocryphal, but it continues to be told with relish here, of the passage of words between the German and the English Cardinal on their meeting a few weeks since in Rome. "We will not talk of war," said Cardinal Hartmann, "we will not talk of peace," rejoined Cardinal Gasquet. Here, in a crystal, was the whole position, and the Vatican now fully comprehends it.

THE SHORTAGE OF DOCTORS.

The shortage of doctors in the London hospitals is leading to serious difficulties. In one central hospital where there are normally three house surgeons and three house physicians doctors, who are badly overworked, and in some hospitals senior students are being employed on the staff. A London inquest on December 7th brought out the case of a surgeon who had to act as anaesthetist and surgeon at an operation. It is expected that in the new year matters will become much worse. Students who are now completing their course are being urged by the military authorities to join the army as soon as they are through, and in the meantime to get preliminary training in the Officers' Training Corps. It is well known that the medical schools are extremely disquieted by the prospect of a still more severe drain upon the diminishing supply of doctors. It does not appear that in London, at any rate, any large number of women have been taken on the staff, although there are special hospitals entirely staffed by women doctors. A suggestion that is being made that a limited number of doctors now serving in the field should be allowed to return home is not at all likely to be acted upon unless there is a change in the policy of the army medical authorities.

UNFINISHED NOVELS.

Among literary people there is the liveliest interest to see what Lucas Malet will do with the unfinished story of her father, Charles Kingsley. She has, it may be said, endeavored to finish it as much as possible in the style in which he left the first half. The second half was only sketched out in his MSS., and so she has really had the whole of it to write. Those who have seen the completed story say it is practically impossible to tell what Kingsley wrote and what "Lucas Malet" has written. "The Tutor's Story," as the title is, will be an interesting addition to the books left by famous writers, as, for instance, Dickens' "Edwin Drood" and Stevenson's "St. Ives," which Sir Arthur Quiller Couch finished.

AS WE GROW OLDER

Our minds are quite as active as in former years but our strength does not respond when we need it most; perhaps the kidneys are weak, the liver torpid, rheumatic pains or stiffened joints beset us, and we cannot easily throw off the colds that winter brings. What we need is the rich cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion to renew the blood and carry strength to every organ of the body, while its glycerine soothes the respiratory tract, and its hypophosphites strengthen the excitable nerves. Scott's Emulsion is a scientific food, of unusual benefit to those past fifty years—particularly during the colder seasons, it imparts warmth and creates strength. One bottle will prove its worth. No harmful drugs. Scott & Bowne, Toronto, Ont. 15-30

The Wedding Present.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"Suppose a body does hate bric-a-brac, what is she going to do about it when all her friends simply shower it on her for wedding presents?" So a letter friend writes in response to a talk of mine against cluttering up your homes with all kinds of bric-a-brac.

"We have so many vases and little pictures and statuettes and miscellaneous cut glass and all sorts of fool-deal that we really have difficulty in knowing where to put them," she goes on. "We'd like to have just two or three good things about, but we can't. Most of our friends live near and it simply wasn't possible to store their gifts away in the attic, even if we had one, which we haven't (we live in an apartment)."

Little letter friend, I sympathize with you with all my heart. There is no factor which makes for the cluttering of our homes more than the habit of giving bric-a-brac gifts on all occasions, and especially at weddings.

No Wonder Our Homes Are Cluttered.

I think the giving of useful Christmas presents is becoming more the custom, and I wish it might be so with wedding gifts.

There are so many useful things that every young couple needs that no one has any excuse for giving the solely ornamental, the superfluous, the clutter.

Why not make it a rule to give house furnishings instead of house decorations?

Of course, I don't mean merely big pieces. Clocks, lamps, silver, linen—these are all house furnishings, and one can spend as little or as much as one likes upon them.

Find Out What Pattern The Bride Has Chosen.

In buying silver, no matter if it is only one piece, a courteous recognition of the fact that one is buying to suit the taste of the recipient is to enquire of the bride's mother what pattern has been chosen, and buy accordingly.

Pictures are a favorite wedding present, but I think one should be very careful to find out the recipient's taste before choosing. The pictures on our walls ought to express our personality, and it is rather too bad that they often express only the conglomerate tastes (or lack of taste) of our friends.

"Worth-while books—dictionaries, encyclopedias, reference books of all sorts, and the classics—seem like an ideal wedding gift to me, but I may be prejudiced.

Why Not Lump Several Little Gifts Into One Big One?

Many brides would be very happy if they might only lump a dozen of their smaller gifts together and exchange them for one good solid, much-needed piece of furniture. A crowd of young people in our neighbourhood recognized that, and when one of their number was about to be married, instead of giving individual gifts, they clubbed together for a beautiful easy chair that will be a lifelong reminder of their thoughtful generosity.

Of course, this is often done in clubs, offices, etc., but I wish it could be done among neighbors and social groups more than it is.

The giver who makes a genuine effort to find out the bride's tastes and desires to get something genuinely useful will be very likely to get genuine gratitude in return.

Our Volunteers.

One recruit, Sydney Parsons, of Lush's Right, N. D. B., enlisted with H. Company yesterday, making a total of 2748 enrolled to date. Yesterday was spent principally at indoor exercises and in preparation for the examination for non-coms stripes which will take place shortly. An interesting address on discipline was given by Sgt. A. B. Baird. Owing to the weather conditions no shooting practice was held.

Vigorol

Weak and run-down. Tired and sluggish. Eyes feel heavy. Headaches and feverish. Don't allow these symptoms to continue. Tone yourself up. Get a bottle of VIGOROL, it will do it, and do it quickly. Every spring one needs a good tonic. VIGOROL acts as a general house-cleanser; it goes after every organ and cleanses it. Get it to-day at all drug stores.

Hockey Notes.

Last night the Victorias and Pelicans had another "go" at the Prince's Rink. The ice was never in better condition.

The Terra Novas and St. Bon's will have a "try-out" to-night.

The opening game between the Victorias and Terra Novas, set down for Monday evening, has been extended to Wednesday evening on account of Monday being benefit day for Our Soldiers and Sailors at the Curling Rink. The new arrangement will give the hockeyists more practice.

Golfers Annual.

The Bally Haly Golf and Country Club held its annual meeting on Monday evening last. The reports shown were satisfactory and the officers for the coming year elected as follows:—President—Mr. J. A. Fiddler. Vice-President—Mr. R. G. Reid. Captain—Mr. R. B. Job. Board of Governors: Messrs. C. A. Bruce, A. S. Rendell, Eric Bowring, J. C. Hepburn, J. A. Cliff and A. Macpherson. Mr. Charles Harvey was re-elected Secretary.

Major W. H. Franklin.

We are pleased to learn that Major Franklin's services at the front is winning for him recognition from his superior officers, and particularly pleased to know that he has been mentioned in despatches by Field Marshal Viscount French for "gallantry and distinguished service in the field." The official announcement appears in the London Gazette of January 1st, and though the Major won his honors with the 5th Battalion of the Royal Warwickshires he is mentioned as of the 1st M.G. Regiment. While congratulating Major Franklin, we wish him still further honors and distinction in the service of the Empire.

BELOW THE STANDARD.

How do you feel to-day? Not quite right? Energy a little below standard—not strong enough to make much exertion? perhaps a slight cough? Nyal's Cod Liver Compound is what you need. Don't get frightened about those words "Cod Liver." You'd never know it from the taste. It's a real tonic containing cod liver extract, extract of malt, wild cherry and hypophosphites—a splendid combination. The cod liver extract builds you up—so does the extract of malt. The wild cherry soothes the bronchial tract and the hypophosphites supply phosphorus to the nervous system—just the thing it needs. And the taste is pleasant.

As an all round tonic, strength restorer and body-builder you'll find nothing better than Nyal's Cod Liver Compound—so why look further? You will be pleased.

The price is one dollar.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X. Lamp and GASTEAM Radators fill all light and heat requirements.

British General Has High Praise For Princess Pats.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—Militia orders issued to-day contained a copy of the farewell order issued by Brigadier General W. E. B. Smith, commanding the Eighth Infantry Brigade, to the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry upon their transfer last November from the British Brigade to the Canadian Army troops.

General Smith after placing on record his keen appreciation of the splendid services rendered by the Princess Patricia's, goes on to state that "the gallantry of the P. P. C. L. I. during the fighting at St. Eloi, and later during the second battle of Ypres, when the battalion hung on to their trenches with unparalleled tenacity and lost over seventy-five per cent of their effectives, has won for them not only the admiration of their comrades, but when the history of the war is written, will earn for the regiment a reputation which will stand among the highest in the record of the exploits of the British Army."

Household Notes.

In washing expensive tortoise-shell or very good silver back brushes, use borax instead of soda, lest any of the strong soda-water should by accident touch the back of the brush.

When a sponge gets the least bit slimy, let it soak in strong ammonia and water for several hours; wring it out now and then, and afterwards rinse in cold water, and dry in the sun.

Sweeten the coffee pot occasionally, by putting a tablespoonful of baking soda into it, filling it two-thirds full of water and allowing it to boil for an hour. Rinse thoroughly before using.

Never allow combs to lie in hot water when washing them. Apply the soap and water with a small nail-brush. It is a good plan, too, to draw a piece of thread in and out between the teeth of the comb.

If you keep your hair-brushes scrupulously clean, you will find that your hair does not require to be washed nearly so often, for there is nothing that cleanses it more than a thorough brushing with a clean brush.

If possible, do not allow the merchant to come to your house for the orders. He will probably suggest and advise until you have unconsciously ordered and spent more than you intended. Go over the pantry, plan the meals, and then attend to the marketing accordingly.

If the cuticle of your nails has become hard, try soaking the tips of the fingers in a lather of soap and water as hot as you can bear it, to which the juice of half a lemon and a little eucaly-Cologne has been added. You should do this once a week and then give the nails a thorough manucure.

An occasional fanning of the hair when loose does it a tremendous deal of good. Most people don't let sufficient air get to the scalp, and that is where the fanning acts as such an excellent tonic. After a shampoo dry the hair with warm towels, and then fan it until almost every separate hair stands on end.

The "Atilla" Case.

The case of the two seamen Murphy and Green, convicted of the larceny of a quantity of provisions from the bark Atilla, the property of Balne Johnston & Co., was disposed of yesterday afternoon and in view of extraordinary circumstances put forward on their behalf, the defendants were liberated on giving heavy bonds for their future good behavior and restoring the stolen articles of food, which consisted of two barrels of flour and 50 pounds of beans, or their equivalent value. Mr. Gibbs, K.C., and Mr. Higgins, who acted for Murphy and Green, respectively, made a strong plea for mitigation of punishment, pointing out that both defendants were never before court before, had previous good records as their thirty years' experience in seamanship showed; also it was intimated that the flour and beans had become damaged on the last voyage of the Atilla as a result of the Brazilian climate, that this food was refused by the crew and that it was taken by Murphy, the cook, who considered them his perquisites. Green sharing in the $4 the two barrels of flour were sold for. Mr. F. Mews, Counsel for Balne Johnston & Co., stated in advance that his clients did not press to have dire punishment inflicted on the accused, but merely to put a stop to the practice that was going on. He hoped that His Honor's judgment would meet the exigencies of the case. Mr. F. J. Morris, who presided, advised very strongly on the improper and illegal custom prevailing amongst Nfld. seamen, particularly cooks, for many years, as to what they considered their perquisites at the end of a voyage. This, he continued, was very applicable to the sealing voyage and he had personal knowledge of cases. Any food left over after any voyage, said His Honor, does not constitute the cook's perquisites, as it is the property of the cook's master and should be protected. After reviewing all the evidence surrounding the case, His Honor ordered to furnish two bonds in $200 and $100 and costs of 6 months imprisonment, and Green was ordered to give two bonds in $100 and $50. The bonds were signed and the prisoners released.

Amusements.

AT THE CRESCENT.
The Crescent Picture Palace presents to-day "The Closed Door" an interesting detective drama produced by the Kalem Company featuring Marion Sais and Arthur Shirley. A great wild animal story is "The Tyrant of the Veldt," all the scenes of this feature are laid in South Africa. "A Day's Adventure" is a very exciting Biograph drama with a strong cast including Harry Carey, Charles H. West and Claire McDowell. One of the best Ham and Bud comedies is "Rushing the Lunch Counter," Lloyd V. Hamilton, the funniest man in the movies, is a riot of fun in this great comedy. Mr. Dave Parks, baritone, the man with the voice, sings "When I First Met You," one of the latest ballads. Extra pictures at to-morrow's big matinee for the children.

THE CINDERELLA DANCE.
Patrons who attend the British Theatre to-night are assured of a most enjoyable time. In addition to the regular program, there will be a dance which will be held in the lower Hall. This is a unique feature and is offered to theatre goers for the first time. The drama will be informal and only those who attend either of to-night's performances will be admitted. Madame Timmons will be chaperone. The first show will begin at 7.15 and the second will conclude at about 10.30 when the Cinderella Dance will commence. The program will consist of five dances. The picture programme will be up to the usual standard of excellence and a most pleasant time is in store for all who attend.

THE SELIG CO. GIVES THE QUARRY
To-day there is a new programme at the Nickel Theatre and it is up to the usual standard. Nothing but the best is the Nickel's motto and patrons of all classes realize that they get the best there. The great feature for to-day is "The Quarry" by the Selig Co. This is a film adaptation by Gilson Willets of the world-famous novel of the same name. It is a very absorbing story of the underworld, and of how a victim of circumstantial evidence is finally exonerated. "When the Fates Spin" is a beautiful Essanay drama with Bryant Washburn in the lead. "His Mother's Portrait" is another grand and touching story. The comedy is "Whose Husband" by the Vitagraph Co. To-morrow there is a bumper matinee for children, and on Monday there will be a great holiday entertainment.

Some Roads, These!

Road 3,384 Miles Long for Motors Only
The longest made road in the world is just now nearing completion. It is 3,384 miles in length, and extends from New York to San Francisco. Primarily, it is designed for motor traffic, but other vehicles will not be debarred from using it. Its average width is about sixty feet, and it passes in a direct line through twelve States and more than 200 counties. It has been christened Lincoln Highway, after the martyred President who freed the slaves.

The famous "Exiles Road," which runs across Siberia from Nishnevgorod to Ke-akh-ta, a distance of about 5,900 miles, is, of course, longer than the above, but it is not, strictly speaking, a "made road," having been beaten originally into a trail by the feet of the poor exiles in the pre-railroad days. It is now chiefly used by horse-dealers from the steppes of the far interior, and it is said that there are always half a million horses on the road, and that every dealer knows every other dealer from one end of it to the other.

The longest street in the world, taking the meaning of "street" as a thoroughfare bordered with houses, is Western Avenue, Chicago, which is twenty-two miles long. Its nearest rival is Halstead Street, also in Chicago, which is two-thirds of a mile shorter.

All First Class Druggists Sell Salvia Hair Tonic

SALVIA destroys dandruff in ten days. The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Debrett and the War.

"The extent to which the peerage has voluntarily surrendered the lives of its sons to the service of the Empire is strikingly illustrated in the pages of the new 'Debrett,'" says the Pall Mall. "A roll of honour of more than 800 names of those who have been killed or have died of wounds fills twelve pages, and an analysis of the list shows that it contains:—

- 1 member of the Royal Family, 6 peers,
 - 16 baronets,
 - 6 knights,
 - 7 M.P.'s,
 - 164 Companions,
 - 95 sons of peers,
 - 82 sons of baronets,
 - 84 sons of knights.
- "The cruel way in which fate has hit some families is shown by the list. "Changes in the succession to more than 100 titles have been caused by the deaths in the war. "In quite a number of instances the peerage is threatened with extinction owing to the death of all possible heirs. Half a dozen baronets are also left without heirs, and several titles are in doubt owing to the heirs being reported 'missing.'"

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.

A Look Backward.

London Times:—Our searches of American ships have, it seems, a deterrent effect upon American trade ventures. Vessels are withdrawn "from their usual routes," while insurances and cargoes are refused. No remedy, it is observed, can be obtained in Prize Courts for these wrongs. Did not we suffer, and suffer grievously, from them and from kindred injuries in the Civil War? Do Americans forget how they practically wiped out the whole industry of Lancashire and plunged its population into dire distress? Did we complain? No; their sufferings were acute, but their sympathies and the sympathies of the whole English democracy remained true to the North. They believed that the North was fighting in the cause of human liberty and moral right, and therefore they were patient. Some reciprocity, it may seem to Americans as well as to us, might be expected from Washington in the day of our trial.

Paris corset makers are said to favor the laced-in-front corsets. Ribbons are used now, and will be used still more for trimming. Skirts are coming to be more elaborately trimmed than waists. It is quite proper for the afternoon blouse to button down the front at the back.

A short puff just below the shoulder line is another new sleeve notion. Ribbon braid is a favorite trimming for half-season hats and bows. The separate train when worn for full evening dress is usually cut like a sash and attached to the waistline at the back.

St. John Telegraph, 11th.—One of the most amazing accidents in theatrical circles in St. John for some years occurred last Thursday, when a singer was suddenly stricken almost dumb in the middle of a song.

On Thursday evening last she was singing at the theatre, when suddenly something snapped in her throat, and her voice left her almost completely.

The young lady was forced to stop in her singing, and was taken to the Lansdowne House, where she was a guest. On examination it was found that one of the vocal cords, under the severe strain of constant singing, had collapsed.

The accident seemed to affect her very seriously, and she took the Boston train for her home on Thursday night. Being very weak, she was taken to the station in the ambulance, and her condition was considered quite serious.

Connecticut.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

Connecticut is a narrow strip of land along Long Island Sound which is used as a right of way by several lines of railroad and automobile speedways leading into New York. It is a sort of back porch to New York City, in fact, and its name is a corruption of two words "Connect" and "Ticket," the two principal topics of conversation among a large majority of the citizens.

Connecticut is a pleasant state filled with pleasant towns which are anywhere from thirty minutes to 150 years away from New York. Its population in the daytime is about 500,000, but this swells to over a million at night, providing everyone catches the last train home. Owing to the fact that Broadway is within easy walking distance, almost all the big theatrical managers try their new plays on Connecticut audiences. If the State ever becomes unpopular it will be because of the plays which she did not discourage.

The chief products of Connecticut are firearms, pocket knives and college graduates. Connecticut is one of the most peaceable States in the Union, never having been known to turn a rascal out, but it furnishes the weapons by means of which the quarrels of the whole country are carried on. No western or southern quarrel is considered a success unless it is eked out by a nickle-plated undertaker's friend from Connecticut.

Connecticut is chiefly famous as the seat of Yale University, a magnificent institution of learning which is only scored upon about once in every three years. Yale is situated at New Haven except after a football victory, when it overflows into three States. It contains more than 2,500 students, each of whom believes that the rest of the country has been settled in order to furnish an admiring audience for his university. New York is full of captains of finance who hope in time to become famous by having a son on the Yale football team.

Yale is a very wealthy school and its old graduates continue to die off and leave their money to the college at the present rate, each student will eventually have an individual dormitory. Its students are very democratic, the captain of a university team being often seen with his arm over the shoulders of some common senator's son.

Connecticut has never produced a president, but it educated the present incumbent. Its capital is Hartford, a handsome city which shudders every time a fire alarm is sounded anywhere in the United States. It is the fire insurance center of the country and there have been no automobiles bought in the town since the San Francisco earthquake.

How War Affects Birds.

The tumult of arms and the noise of artillery do not make the same impression on all kinds of birds. Whereas some do not seem at all exercised nor affected, others are terrified and take flight, so says a writer in L'Ami des Animaux, Geneva, from which we have translated the following:

In the north of France, in the midst of the horrors of battles, blackbirds stay in the bushes or hedges, practising the strictest neutrality. The lark delights the combatants with his morning song. A pair of swallows made their nest in the heart of the trenches, where, due to the humanity of the soldiers, they were not allowed to want for anything. The starling and the gray bunting have no fear of the war. On the contrary, the yellow bunting, the timouise, the chaffinch, and the goldfinch, have almost entirely disappeared. The partridges and the buzzards fly with all the strength of their wings to escape bombs and bullets.

England has become a place of refuge, a sort of terrestrial paradise for these fugitive birds. But there also they may be reached at times by the flying projectiles.

Your Boys and Girls.

Teach the children to drink water instead of visiting the soda fountain each time they feel thirsty. Any pure water is healthy. If a chemist gave you an analysis of your drinking water it would, no doubt, be found pure and full of all sorts of health giving minerals which would inspire you with the deepest respect for the water which your children have so deeply despised.

Drinking a glass of water a half to three quarters of an hour before each meal will rinse out the little stomachs and better prepare it to receive the food that follows. Then between meals, encourage them to drink water from one to two glasses. Nature demands for either food or water are similar, and to give the stomach food each time one feels the sensation of hunger is often the cause of chronic stomach trouble.
