The Heir to Beecham Park

CHAPTER XXVIII

"Nugent!" she said, with a little catch in her breath as she noted his pale, worn face for the first time. The earl turned with a smile so sweet and tender that it made Margery's lips tremble.

"My darling!" he exclaimed, gently. "You here?"

"Nugent, you are ill—worried! Ah, I have been blind not to see it before! Oh, forgive me, forgive me!" Lord Court raised her head tenderly.

"Why, Margery," he said, lightly, "what is the matter? Who has been frightening you?"

"I am nervous about you; you look so worn and ill. Nugent, you must put away those deeds and writings. They distress me."

"You shall not be distressed then, my darling; see—I have put them away at once. But you are mistaken, Margery; I am not ill, only a little tired."

"Tired?" she repeated, putting her hands on his. "Yes, yes, of course! How forgetful I am! I leave you all this tiresome business to do. I am very selfish."

"You are my dear, sweet Margery!" he said, lightly. "But what has caused you this sudden fear, my darling?" "You have been looking ill for so long! The squire has just spoken to me, and it has frightened me; and, Nugent, I want to ask you something. Will you promise to do it?"

"What can I refuse you, Margery?" "Then let us leave here and go back to the manor—the squire is longing to see our dear old home. You will come, dear?"

"Home!" repeated the earl, dreamily, as if the word brought content. Then, with a sudden contraction of his brows, as if from pain, he added, "But it will be lonely for you, my dear one; you will not care for it."

"I wish it with all my heart," said Margery, quietly, glad to see that this proposal brought a gleam of pleasure to his eyes.

"Then," returned her husband, looking with a strange, sad steadfastness into her glorious eyes—"then we will go home, Margery."

CHAPTER XXIX

Back at Court Manor, Margery banished for a while the sad memory of her lost love. This spot was hallowed by the presence of Earl's spirit, and for that reason, apart from all others, was dear to her. The squire revelled in the picturesque surroundings of the estate.

"They may call Beecham magnificent," he said, dreamily, as he stood in the old-fashioned gardens and gazed round on the fragrant flowers, "but this is home."

"Cousin Sholto, you indorse my opinion. I love the manor!" Margery, clad in a long robe of creamy white, with just a knot of black ribbons at her neck and in her broad-brimmed hat, glanced at her husband as she spoke, and smiled at him.

The squire responded to his hostess by a poetical quotation:

"And primroses, pale gems of spring, Lay on the green turf glistening Close by the violet, whose breath is so sweet, in a dewy wreath. And, oh, that myrtle—how green it grew, With flowers as white as the pearls of dew That shone beside! And the glorious rose Lay like a beauty in warm repose, Blushing in slumber."

Margery listened dreamily. Her thoughts had flown to the springtime of her life, recalled by the breath of the flowers, the sweetness of the air. The earl had wandered across the lawn; and, though he looked less grave and worn, the expression of his eyes as he turned from Margery was unexpressably sad.

Margery's reverie was disturbed by the squire, and she was soon deep in an interesting scientific discussion with him. Presently her husband returned, followed by one of the gardeners.

"I am going to the west part of the grounds, my darling," he said. "Marshall tells me the men are going to cut down that dead tree this morning. It was struck by lightning in the autumn."

"I will come with you, Court," broke in the squire. "In my young days I was rather good at that sort of thing."

"Come, by all means, Marshall, see that there are two extra axes ready."

"You are not going to help them, are you, Nugent?" Margery asked, quickly and nervously.

"Yes, my darling. But don't be afraid; I am, as schoolboys would say, a 'big gun' at wood-cutting—I am not, Marshall?"

"Indeed you are, my lord," the gardener replied, solemnly.

"May I come and watch you?" The earl hesitated.

"I should be afraid, darling, as the splinters fly about so rapidly; but perhaps I can place you in a safe corner. Run and put on some stronger shoes; the ground is damp down at that corner. You have good ropes, Marshall?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Eczema on My Face Completely Relieved"

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S., writes:

"Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I tried nearly every kind of medicine that I heard of with no result. This lasted for over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, who bade me give Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease."

"I will follow you directly," said Margery; then, as they turned, urged by an uncontrollable impulse, she called, "Nugent!"

The earl came back at once. "You are sure there is no danger?" "Quite sure—as certain as any man can be."

Margery smiled, raised her lips to his, and he kissed her. A faint flush rose to his brow at the simple action; and then, with a swift, tender look, he turned and walked rapidly away.

Margery went quickly to the house and changed her shoes for a stronger pair; then, seeing the look of earnestness on Pauline's face, she good-naturedly told the maid to put on a hat, and they started together.

The sound of voices and of heavy blows led them to the exact spot, and Pauline, in her excitement, could not repress little shrieks and exclamations of astonishment. As they turned the corner the earl came toward them, he had removed his coat, and, with his strong right hand grasping the ax, his face flushed from the unwonted exercise, he looked almost handsome.

"Come here, my darling," he said, leading Margery to a safe nook. "Crosbie, stand by my wife. We shall soon have it down, poor old tree! How well I remember it in my schoolboy days! You are frightened, Margery?"

"No," she answered, with a smile, though her heart thrilled with strange apprehension.

The squire came to her, looking dejected.

"I find that years have greatly lessened by strength," he remarked, with a little sigh, "and I must look on now."

Margery did not answer; she was watching her husband. She heard his clear, ringing voice directing the men, saw his straight even strokes, and the excitement overcame her dread. It was a novel scene, and one that pleased her, though the sight of the gray dead trunk, the remains of a noble flourishing tree, saddened her somewhat. Pauline covered and shrieked as she heard the great, rough mass crack; but Margery never moved; the bustle and vigor of the men roused her spirit—she almost longed to assist. The earl, glancing now and then at the group of watchers, caught the gleam of her eyes, and, smiling, he waved his hand toward the girlish figure that looked so fair and graceful in its white robes against the background of young trees and bushes.

"It was not such a tough job at it looked," observed the squire, as he watched the men throw stout ropes round the great trunk and knot them firmly, preparatory to dragging the tree to earth.

Margery nodded her head absently; she was lost in the excitement of the moment. She saw the earl wave them further back toward the bushes, felt Pauline draw her on one side, though her eyes never left her husband's form, and then came a moment of silence. Suddenly a mighty crash sounded in her ears, while a cloud of dust obscured her vision.

"Is it all over?" she asked, vaguely, turning to the squire; but her cousin had left her side and was hurrying to the group of men.

"Mildred will return," queried Pauline, with a little shudder. "Ah, what terrible noise!"

"I will wait for Lord Court," answered Margery; then, after a little pause: "But, Pauline, what is the matter? Some one is hurt!"

"They crowd together—that is all, mildred. Shall I go and see?" "No; I will."

Drawing her skirts together, Margery left her retreat and approached the group. As the men looked round and perceived her, she thought they seemed alarmed and pained. She quickened her steps, and then the squire came toward her.

"You must let me take you to the house, my dear," he said hurriedly. "Your husband wishes it."

"What is the matter? Some one is hurt! Cousin Sholto, don't stop me! I know now—it is Nugent!"

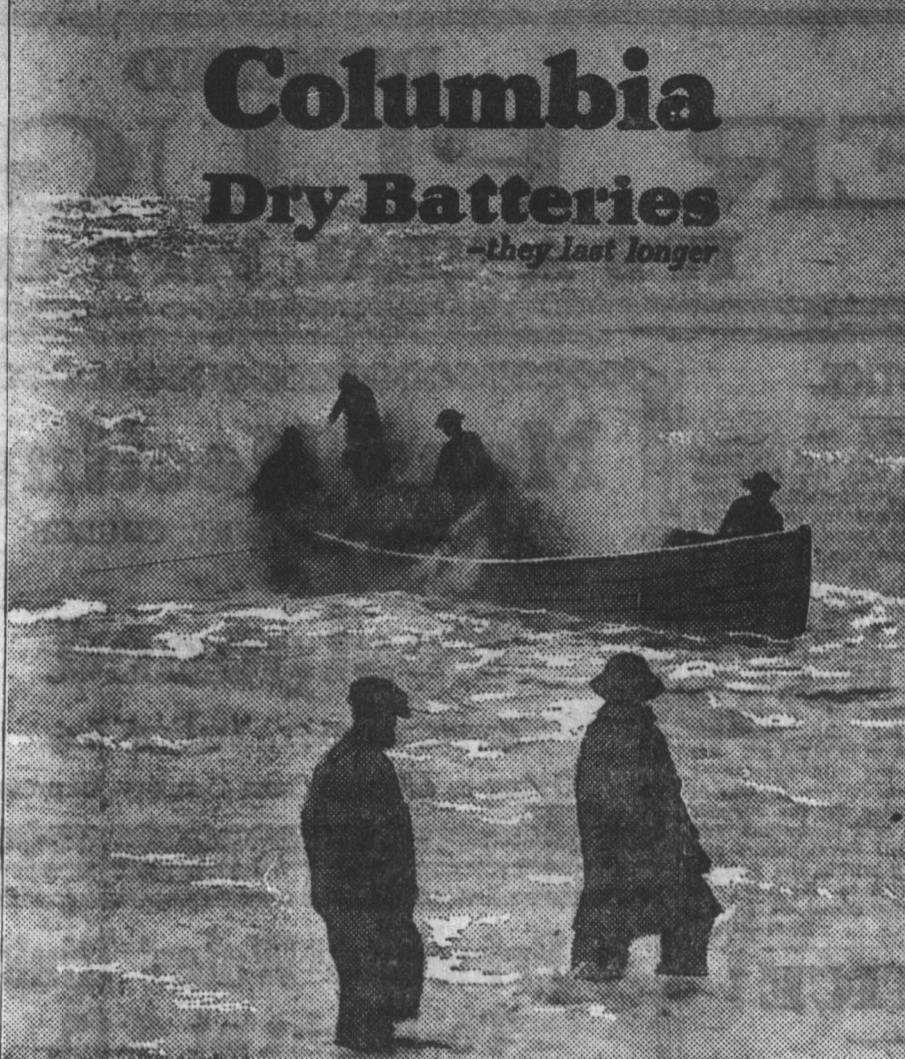

She pushed the squire's trembling hand to one side, and with swift steps approached the group. The men fall back in silence, and in an instant she was on her knees beside a silent, prostrate form with face of deathly hue.

"Nugent!" she cried, bending over him, in agony. Then, as he still lay perfectly still, she looked round wildly. "What is it? Fetch a doctor quickly—your master is hurt!"

Divers Worst Enemies

Where the Shark and Octopus Are Well in the Background.

In almost every story that deals with diving, the diver is attacked by either an octopus or a shark.

Now, an octopus is a nasty beast, but one large enough to trouble a diver is seldom seen in the comparatively shallow waters which are all that a diver can work in.

As for the shark, at his best or worst he is a cowardly beast, and the diver has only to turn on a jet of air from his helmet to scare him out of the neighborhood.

Far worse than either devil-fish or shark is the hideous sting-ray, sometimes called the whip-ray. It grows to a very large size, and is similar in shape to a plaice, but considerably larger.

The writer has seen one the size of an ordinary dining room table. The creature is provided with a long, whip-like tail, armed with a toothed barb. This barb, which is not at the end of the tail but some way down it, is as highly poisoned as a snake's fang.

The ray, unlike most fish, knows its own powers and is very aggressive. It is found in all warm seas. As recently as July, a well-known French diver, named Cappadona, was attacked by one of these villainous fish, while engaged in repairing a submarine cable off Toulon.

The brute attacked without provocation, and dashing at him, struck the diver with a dangerous whip. The diver drew a dagger and managed to drive the blade through the ray's head, between the eyes. Even so, the great fish struck and struck again, its barb cutting deep into the rubber of the diving suit.

Cappadona was hauled up in an utterly exhausted condition, with his diving suit leaking badly.

In Eastern waters hundreds of divers are employed to search for pearl shells. The pearl shell oyster is as big as a dinner plate and a man cannot bring many up at a time. In this work his chief danger arises from a wicked little brute called the stone fish.

This fish is only a few inches long, but its bite is extremely poisonous. It makes its home under the pearl shell, and it is when picking up a shell that the diver is attacked, his barb hand being bitten.

If this happens, the diver remains under water as long as possible, for the pressure causes bleeding at the bitten part, and this, to some extent, expels the poison.

Crushing the Nation

London Morning Post: The Death Duties, following in the wake of mortality, not only despoil the dead, but bankrupt the living. It is a tax which might have been invented by a German for the destruction of England, since its repeated raids on Capital break up established business and old families alike, and draw money into the Exchequer which should fructify in land and industry. Coke of Norfolk could not have reclaimed a great part of Holkham from the sea if the landowner's capital in his day had been subject to such periodical raids. We seem to remember a speech made by Mr. Lloyd George in which eloquent tribute was paid to the patriotic work of the land-owning class, and we may have to look it up now that that politician has started upon a fresh campaign against it. Their disappearance, we fear, is only delayed by the sale of their treasures and the letting of their houses, and when we think of their services in the Army, the Navy, and to take just a few things, the L.C.C. is responsible for clearing away slums—it is now engaged in clearing 34 acres!

It also supervises the laying out of streets and the construction of buildings, and maintains 370 miles of sewers.

Then it has in its charge the maintenance of 1,000 elementary, 67 secondary, and 300 technical, and evening schools; the largest tramway service in Great Britain; 120 parks, and open spaces; a fire brigade with 65 stations and 200 motor fire appliances; an ambulance service of 11 stations, and 10 mental hospitals accommodating 18,000 patients.

It has many other duties, such as various public health schemes, the granting of all sorts of licenses, looking after the safety of the public at about 650 theatres, music-halls, cinemas, and so on; enforcing the observance of the various shop acts; and inspecting more than two million weights and measures.

Such an enormous number of duties and responsibilities are more easily understood when it is realized that the population of London is nearly 5 millions, equivalent to that of the whole of Australia.

Looking After London

L.C.C. ELECTIONS TAKE PLACE THIS WEEK.

The next election of members of the London County Council takes place on Thursday, March 18th, and those elected will have a huge amount of work to attend to.

Old man now feels 35

Mr. Colbourne, a man of eighty years of age, after having taken Carnol, now feels like a man of thirty-five.

When the average man or woman passes the age of three score and ten (seventy years), generally his system needs toning up once in a while. Naturally his vitality is reduced. He is easily fatigued. Sometimes his appetite fails him. He doesn't always sleep soundly.

Mr. Colbourne says that his father, who is 80 years of age, felt like a man of thirty-five after taking Carnol, but read the son's letter: "I want to recommend your Carnol tonic to everyone who is in need of a good tonic. I had very sore lungs and was in a very weak condition. People said I wouldn't live for six months. I was thoroughly discouraged to think that I had only a short time to live. One night I was reading a newspaper and saw Carnol advertised, so I made up my mind to try it, and the very first bottle I took I noticed I was gaining in weight and felt much stronger. Now I wouldn't be without Carnol. I recommended it to several people and they said it was the finest tonic they had ever taken. My father, who is now a man of eighty years of age, says that he feels like a man of thirty-five after having taken Carnol. Everybody I recommend Carnol to says they wouldn't be without it. They say it is a life-saver."

Miners Are Ready to Save The Mines From Flooding

Epidemic of Influenza Adds to Miners' Hardships--Wall St Journal Believes British Empire Will Withdraw From League--33 Killed in W. Virginia Mine Explosion.

STRONG ACTIVE HEALTH SITUATION SERIOUS.
HALIFAX, Mar. 17. An devoted all my energies and... strongly criticized Austen Chamberlain's Geneva policy, and said the Tory party had rejected the protocol simply because the Labor party had created it. Mr. MacDonald said that the proposals of military security in the form of pacts were just the old world raising its evil hand again. He predicted that not a single self-governing Dominion would put its name to any pact that Mr. Chamberlain prepared as a substitute for the rejected protocol.

GERMANY AND THE LEAGUE.
BERLIN, Mar. 17. Germany plainly is confronted with a case of Hobson's choice with respect to her ultimate decision about joining the League of Nations, in the opinion of various party newspapers. They caution the Government to proceed slowly, however, in arriving at a definite conclusion. The bulk of current opposition to Germany's unconditional entry into the League centers about her surrender to the Covenant which, in the opinion of Die Zeit, which customarily reflects the views of Foreign Minister Stresemann, constitutes the pivotal point in the whole controversy. Germany must not permit herself to become involved in a procedure which would inevitably provoke a declaration of war upon her by some other power, says the newspaper, adding that Germany is wholly disqualified from conducting even a war of defence.

FEDERATED CHURCH MOVEMENT NEXT.
TORONTO, Mar. 18. After Church Union will come the opportunity for Dr. Drummond's suggestion for a Federated Church movement, is the opinion of Dr. Clarence McKinnon, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, when interviewed to-day. Dr. McKinnon said there was a call for another conference to settle some issues in the Church Union movement that have developed, but he did not think any good purpose could be served by such a step now.

N. S. GOVERNOR HONOURED.
AMHERST, Mar. 17. Lieut. Governor J. Robson Douglas was honored in his home town this afternoon when he was tendered a civic welcome by the corporation of Amherst and its citizens, it being his first visit here since his elevation to the gubernatorial office last January.

A MERITED SENTENCE.
MONTREAL, Mar. 17. Dr. Lucien Roch, who took part in the robbery of the Bank of Hochelaga branch at Bordeaux suburb early in 1921, when $1700 was stolen, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary this afternoon by Judge DeCary.

COURZON STILL MUCH EXHAUSTED.
LONDON, March 17. Lord Curzon, who has been ill since his collapse at Cambridge early this month, passed a fair night, it was learned this morning, but is still much exhausted.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL STRIKE IN ALSACE.
STRASBOURG, March 17. Conflicting claims are made regarding the extent of the Catholic School strike which was called throughout Alsace by the Bishop of Strasbourg in protest against the Herriot Government's institution of inter-confessional or religiously neutral schools. The Catholic newspapers and authorities say it was a great success, while the Socialists term it a failure. The strike was called for only one day yesterday in the country and for three days at Colmar, where it is continuing.

IMMIGRATION TO NOVA SCOTIA.
HALIFAX, March 17. Returns of the Department of Industries and Immigration, as tabled in the House to-day, showed that 3,876 persons, classed as settlers, arrived in Nova Scotia through ocean ports from the United States, during the year ending Sept. 30, 1924; this being 985 fewer than last year. Of these 976 were from the British Isles, 220 from Scandinavian countries, 1,883 from Newfoundland, 148 from the United States and 589 from other countries including British possession.

WAHABIS DEFEATED.
CAIRO, March 17. A despatch from Jeddah reports that troops of the Kingdom of Hedjaz, on Sunday, severely defeated Wahabi tribesmen, who lost 300 in killed. The Hedjaz are said to have suffered 9 killed and 30 wounded.

ARMSTRONG'S REPLY TO MCLEOD.
HALIFAX, March 17. Premier E. H. Armstrong to-night replied to the offer made by District No. 26, United Mine Workers of America, for protection of the mines under lease to the British Empire Steel Corporation, by addressing the following telegram to District President J. W. McLeod: "In reply to your telegram of the sixteenth expressing your willingness for prompt consultation with the Deputy Minister with a view to reaching an agreement as to the conditions in detail of the protection necessary for the coal mines, I beg to say that both the Minister and Deputy will be ready to meet you here at any time you suggest with a view to the fullest and frankest discussion of your proposal."

ALBERTA MINERS STILL OPPOSED.
CALGARY, March 17. The conference between the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, District 18, and the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association in Calgary, to-day broke down, owing to some difficulty that cropped up between the time of the preliminary conference on Monday and the meeting this morning. The miners did not state what was the reason, but withdrew from the conference.

A CODERRE AFTERMATH.
MONTREAL, March 17. A campaign to oust the entire executive committee from office because of "maladministration as revealed by Judge Coderre's report," will be launched in a few days by the Citizens' Association of St. Edward Ward which has chosen as its battle cry "down with (Alderman) Brodeur and his clique."

REPLACING STELLA MARIS.
HALIFAX, N.S., March 17. Captain J. A. Farquhar, veteran Nova Scotia shipping broker and seafarer, sailed this morning for England, where he will purchase a steamer to replace the Stella Maris, which was crushed in the ice and sent to the bottom while accompanying the Newfoundland sealing fleet to the ice last week. The Stella Maris was one of Captain Farquhar's fleet, and was under charter to Job Brothers, of St. John's. Capt. Farquhar was accompanied by four seamen, who will help him man the new steamer. Asked who would bring the new craft out from England, Captain Farquhar replied, "I hope to spend most of the time at the wheel myself." He will be 83 years old next October.

C.N.R. DEFICIT.
The deficit of the Canadian National Railways last year was approximately $57,000,000 in comparison with $52,779,350 in 1923.

FOND GUILTY OF BASTARDLY CRIME.
Norman Thorne, a Crowborough farmer, convicted of murdering Miss Elsie Cameron, a London Typist, has been sentenced to death.

NO REDUCTION IN DUTY ON CARS.
The Canadian House of Commons rejected a resolution proposing substantial reduction in Customs tariff on automobiles and motor trucks.

DON'T WASTE WARREN.
The Senate has rejected for the second time the nomination of Charles B. Warren, as Attorney General of the United States; the vote against the President's appointee being 46 to 39, as compared with a split of 49 to 40 on the first vote. Following Warren's rejection, the President nominated John G. Sargent, of Vermont, to the position.

SHIPPING RATES ENQUIRY.
The British Board of Trade has requested the Imperial Shipping Company to investigate the question of North Atlantic Shipping rates and their effect on Empire trade.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.
Lt.-Col. A. W. Morley, Clerk of the Manitoba Legislature, shot himself on Monday morning, the bullet entering just above the heart. He is in hospital in a critical condition.

LEGISLATION TO PREVENT WATERING STOCK.
The Canadian House of Commons on Monday night passed, without division, resolutions calling for legislation, which will make it difficult and, if possible, prevent the practice of watering what is known as watered stock.

OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH THEFT.
W. W. Dunlop, Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities in Ontario, is faced with a charge of theft, laid in connection with his work at the Government Brick Plant, at Mimico. F. C. Williams was arrested on a similar charge, and Robert C. Kyle on a bribery charge.

AN EXCHANGE.
The Typhoid Fever germs, which killed William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, were given William Darling Shepherd, his foster father and chief heir, upon a promise to pay $100,000 on settlement of his estate. C. C. Falman, Head of the Chicago School of Bacteriology, told States Attorney Crowe yesterday.

NEW U.S. AMBASSADOR TO GERMANY.
WASHINGTON, March 17. Jacob Gould Schurman, now United States Minister to China, was named by President Coolidge as Ambassador to Germany.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN DUBLIN.
DUBLIN, March 17. Armored cars, airplanes, and several thousand Free State troops, with their bands, took part in to-day's military display in Dublin, in honor of St. Patrick's Day. After Mass the troops paraded the principal streets, while airplanes manoeuvred over the city, some of them flying so low as almost to be within speaking distance of the crowds lining the streets watching the display. At College Green, President Cosgrave, with members of his Government and army chiefs, took the salute, as the soldiers marched past. The day was observed quietly as a general rule.

Dun's Record of World Failures
There were fewer failures reported this week to R. G. Dun & Co. than was the case a year ago, a total of 390 comparing with 401 in the earlier period. An increase of 9 occurred in the South, but this was more than offset by a decrease of 6 in the

Supreme Court

(Before Mr. Justice Kent.)
 The matter of Thomas Squires, charged with the unlawful disposition of the body of a child, his daughter, was heard at 10.30 a.m. before the following special jury: Phil Penney, John Howlett, George Howlett, William Thompson, Arthur Samuel Colish, Charles W. Robert Pasch, Robert W. Ritchey, C. E. Hunt opened the case for the Crown and called Samuel Day, witness on Jan. 1st and asked him to swear himself of rumours about his daughter. Witness was called again on Jan. 8th by Thomas Squires, when he made a confession stating that he was the father of the child and that he had buried the body.
 Cross-examined by Mr. King, witness Thomas Squires gave no reason for burying the child without reporting the matter. The first time the witness saw the body was when Const. McKeown made the arrest of the parties. Witness made the mother of the child. Witness, who is a church member and a member of the school board, thought it was his duty to report the rumours about the condition of Miss Squires that had been rife during December to her father. He was asked if he did not report the matter before January.
 The second witness called was Mary Newhook, a midwife of Old Shop. She did not attend Miss Squires. On Jan. 8th Thos. Squires came to her and said his daughter had a child and the body had been hidden in a sheep house. Witness told him the body had been buried and advised accused not to handle the body until some time saw it. Witness went to the house that afternoon and saw the body of the child. She told Thomas Squires that she had heard her daughter was confined. Later she told him she had seen the body of the child. She did not know who hid the body. According to the witness a subsequent story told by Squires contradicted the statement that his daughter hid the body, and he gave witness no reason for hiding the body without reporting it. Witness said there was no mark on the body or clothing to show whose child it was.
 Dr. Anderson, who held the post mortem, and Const. Pittman were the witnesses called. The latter gave evidence of statement made by Thomas Squires admitting his knowledge to the transaction.
 Mr. King for the defence occupied an hour in his address to the jury and asked for a dismissal of the case on the grounds of lack of evidence.

Mr. Hunt for the Crown gave a brief address and argued that there was not a tittle of proof to show that the accused was innocent, and although peculiar arguments were used by counsel to discount the evidence of the witnesses, the Crown's case was uncontradicted. There was, he claimed, no doubt that the daughter gave birth to the child and there was no doubt that the father, being made aware that the matter of the girl's condition was noised around the settlement, tried to hush the matter up by concealing the body. Mr. Hunt concluded at recess hour when Court recessed. After recess Mr. Justice Kent charged the jury and they retired shortly before press hour to consider their verdict.

Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

Up the Old Cow Path and over the hill Hopped the bunny boy, skipperly skip. He didn't care if some ice were still there, For his sure little feet never slip.
 "Is that for me?"
 "Oh, oh, oh!" gasped the bunny boy.
 "Maybe, and then perhaps not," chuckled the old fowl. "It came last night. The Old Dog Driver brought it up in the Billy Goat Stagecoach from the railroad station."
 Just then the Luckmobile, with dear Uncle Lucky and Little Miss Mousie, rolled up the roadway.
 "What are you doing in the barn?" shouted the old gentleman rabbit, hopping out of the old dog driver's car.
 "You're a fine tattler," cawed Professor Jim Crow, happening by just then, with a scowl at the Old Red Rooster.
 And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Enfranchisement in Sight

In moving the second reading in the Council Chamber on Monday of the bill by which the franchise is to be extended to the women of Newfoundland, the Hon. Dr. Robinson delivered a speech which in eloquence of diction and forcefulness of utterance was worthy of the occasion. Those who listened to him were made to realize that however prosy and practical are most of the matters which call for debate in these days, there are still opportunities when oratory, such as marked parliamentary sessions in earlier times, may be used with effect.

The bill passed the second reading by the unanimous consent of the House after many of the members had expressed their hearty approval of its purpose, and its ratification may now be considered as only a matter of time. The applause of the ladies who thronged the galleries to watch the progress of the measure signalled a victory which ended a long campaign conducted without violence or disorder of any kind, but which was none the less determined on that account. Having gained the sweet fruits of success, it now remains for them to make full use of the franchise, and if the methods adopted to secure recognition may be taken as an earnest of the manner in which it will be applied, it is certain that their influence in elections will be beneficial in every way.

The leaders of the movement, however, cannot rest from their labours with the passing of the bill. There is still a long and perhaps an even more difficult campaign before them. Such a privilege, as several members pointed out, carries with it grave responsibilities, which must be clearly explained to the new voters. The right to vote gives no added status to women unless full advantage is taken of it, and without a full knowledge of the power which has been placed in their hands, it might as easily prove disastrous as beneficial. In this educative campaign both sections of the community are equally interested, and they must unite forces in conducting it, and the sooner a common basis of operations is found the better are the chances of preserving harmony and making progress.

When Will
 to St. John's?

A correspondent in to-day's issue, in dealing with the question of sanitation in the city, asks if it is not time for St. John's to shake off its lethargy now that Newfoundland as a whole seems to have awakened to new life, and has decided to throw off many of the shackles that have retarded her progress in the past. It is to the capital that the rest of the country should naturally look for a lead, particularly when the proposed Municipalities, to which reference has already been made in the Legislature, have been es-established. At present, however, so far as civic affairs are concerned, there is little that has been accomplished which they might imitate with advantage, and the fault wherever the fault lies rests with the citizens themselves.

To seek the cause of our backwardness as compared with cities of similar size in other countries should be the first object. The authorities claim that the root of all the evils is the lack of money, and although that contention is somewhat at variance with the view so often expressed as to the effect of wealth, it must be admitted that there is more truth than poetry in their complaint. This, however, seems to be an instance where cause is confused with effect. If the inclination was greater; if the urgent necessity for improvement was more fully recognized; if there was less ignorance of what is required and more courage and determination were shown in tackling the difficulties, the means to undertake the improvements would be forthcoming. We have been so long accustomed to the present state of affairs that we tolerate them. Familiarity with the irregularities in the sidewalks enables us to avoid the pitfalls and obstructions. We pass the unsightly dumps that are in close proximity to residences without expressing disgust; we permit stables to be erected cheek by jowl with our houses, and tolerate the stench and the plague of flies which breed in the manure heaps. We pay large sums to maintain a Health Department, while filthy drains poison the atmosphere breathed by our children, and landlords are allowed to rent tenement houses which are no better than deathtraps. We allow articles of food to be distributed with little or no attempt to impose the stringent regulations which other towns have found it necessary to impose, and so we might go on. It is not due so much to lack of funds that these matters are neglected as to fear of causing offence, and when the situation is examined closely it will be found that this apprehension of consequences is in a large measure the basic cause of the deplorable conditions which exist. It is not against any particular Council that the charge is made. There is too great a tendency on the part of the public to let sleeping dogs lie even though they are a source of annoyance. True we look to the Council for a lead, but inspiration, or the prod if you will, must come from the whole body of citizens themselves.

Education and Prohibition

The following article on Prohibition, taken from a copy of the Journal of Education & School World, Dr. Murray, whose opinion is quoted, is the President of Columbia University, New York:—

Prohibition as a political panacea has little claim on our columns, but as a great educational authority, as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler brings a public indictment against it as a gravely demoralizing influence, we may be allowed to note the fact. The gist of his charge is contained in the following extract: "The time has fully come to speak one's mind on the subject of the shocking and immoral conditions which have been brought about by the eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. That the Amendment is not only a violation of the principles upon which our Government rests, but a revolutionary departure from them, is generally admitted. It is defended on the ground that it served an overmastering moral purpose. As a result we now have a nation-wide traffic in intoxicating liquors which is unlicensed, illegal, and untaxed. We have introduced liquor into parts of the country from which it had well-nigh disappeared, and in hundreds of communities we have multiplied many times the saloons. We have brought about a situation in which we challenge the ingenuity and sporting instinct of millions of young persons to test whether or not they can satisfy a law for which they have no respect. We have invited and indeed a spirit and a habit of lawlessness which are quite without precedent, and which reach from the highest ranks in the nation's life to the lowest and most humble. If the Anti-Saloon League on the one hand and the bootlegger and persistent law-breaker on the other, had conspired together to bring normal liquor to the first and second of the United States, they would have united in urging the precise course of action which has been followed." The answer of the Prohibitionists has not reached us.

With the Sealers

S.S. EAGLE KILLED AND PANICKED 5,000 WHITECOATS YESTERDAY.
 A delayed message from Capt. Edward Bishop, of the S.S. Eagle, was received by Messrs. Bowring Bros. this morning, in which he stated that 5,000 prime young whitecoats were killed and panicked yesterday. The Eagle's position is 110 miles S.E. of Bellefleur, and reports are reported good. This is the first news of an encouraging nature received from the sealers on the front, and bright prospects are now being looked forward to.

The Terra Nova reports for no seals, but making good headway, and others of the fleet in a northerly direction.

Yesterday a message was received from Capt. Bartlett, of the VIKING, which stated that he had killed 2,000, while in company with the Eagle. It is quite apparent that the sealers are making good headway, and the balance of the fleet are forcing their way to reach the vicinity. The extent of the patch is not known.

Missionary Centenary Celebration

As the train bearing Rt. Rev. Dr. Pringle will not reach town until tomorrow morning the Centenary Celebration meeting advertised for Gower St. Church this evening is postponed, but will be held on Friday evening instead, at Gower St. Church at 8 o'clock. While the public will no doubt be disappointed, they will appreciate the fact that no other course was open to the Committee in view of the inability of both Dr. Pringle and Dr. Curtis to reach town. Because of this change in the programme the Friday evening services in the four Methodist Churches will not take place, but the people are asked to come to Gower St. Church to hear the story of the history, romance and heroism of one hundred years. Both the speakers for the occasion are known for their eloquence, while Dr. Pringle will have a special message because of his large and varied experience. Everybody will be welcomed to the service on Friday evening.

Hearing To-Morrow

The matter of the Board of Liquor Control vs. Albert Andrews for a breach of Section 22 of the Alcoholic Liquors Act comes up before Judge Morris again at 11.30 a.m. to-morrow, when the points raised by W. J. Browne, B.L., and B. Danfield, B.L., and Supt. O'Neil will be argued.

Flour Prices

ST. JOHN'S, N.B., March 7.—For the second time within the last three days the wholesale price of flour was reduced thirty cents a barrel here to-day. This is the third change in four days, the price having been increased by ten cents a barrel on Wednesday.

St. Patrick's Day Entertainment

"CELEBRITY" WAS A BIG TIME.
 At eight the B.S. Hall was the scene of one of the most successful affairs ever held there. The Ladies' Association, who undertook the arrangements, had their plans perfected for such an occasion, and a happy time was spent by all. An attractive programme of concert numbers and dances provided for those who wished to play. Upwards of 150 couples participated in the dance, which consisted of fourteen items. The Prince's Orchestra provided excellent music for the dance which was heartily enjoyed. Miss Ida Howlett, M. Curtis; Messrs. T. P. Halley and Jack Canning, rendered delightful selections, whilst President Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C., gave an address. At 11 o'clock supper was served by the Ladies' Association and the gathering dispersed before midnight. The 1925 celebration of St. Patrick's Day by the B.S. was certainly the most enjoyable ever held.

T.A. LADIES.

A card party, supper and dance, held by the T.A. Ladies' Auxiliary, was quite up to the standard established by this organization. The dance was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed, whilst the supper arrangements which had all that could be desired. The affair was voted a big success and concluded at midnight.

AT GEORGE STREET LECTURE HALL.

A large gathering attended an enjoyable concert and sociable in the Lecture Room of George Street Church last night. Rev. R. E. Farley occupied the chair. The features of the night were the lecture on Wembley by Miss Ada Horwood, which proved highly interesting and instructive. Among the many pictures shown was one of Master Jack Strang who won one of the beauty prizes in the contest at Wembley. The rendering of solos by Miss Jean Taylor and Mr. H. Courtney and the Ode to Newfoundland, by the audience, added much to the enjoyment of the evening. During the evening teas were served by the ladies.

WESLEY FOLK ENTERTAINMENT.

In the Lecture Hall at Wesley Church last night, a concert and sociable was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, which proved a phenomenal success. The following performers took part in a very enjoyable concert:—Messames H. Small and F. Pike; Misses Calvert, Glendon, Hickey, Howlett, Wood, Hickey, Bastow, Canning, Colton, Corrick, Halley, Dewling, McLeod, Mayers, Lawrence, Sommerville, Wardell and St. Thomas's Merry Makers.

AT HOLY CROSS SCHOOLS.

An entertainment consisting of concert, comedy drama and music, was produced by the Holy Cross Dramatic Company yesterday afternoon, before a large audience, at the Holy Cross Schools. The comedy drama "An Irish Eden" was cleverly acted and drew rounds of applause. Amongst those who assisted were:—Misses McDonald and Moran; Messrs. C. Tobin, J. Healey, T. Dalton, R. Hearn, N. Galley, G. Hearn, P. Jardine, G. Healey, F. Kavanagh, F. Murphy, K. Jardine, E. Jackson, C. O'Keefe and J. Clarke. Specialties between the acts were contributed to by Messrs. W. Flynn, P. Donnelly, F. Novell and T. P. Halley. The play was staged under the direction of Mr. Percy Jardine, who may well feel proud of the success achieved.

AT ST. JOSEPH'S HALL.

The Irish Night concert held in St. Joseph's Hall was largely attended. The programme was of a high order and was rendered in admirable style. The whole audience and consisted of songs by Misses Rose Brophy, K. Conway, K. Hayes, M. Moran, C. Walsh; Messrs. P. Smith, R. Jardine, R. Redmond, T. Doherty; a dance by Miss Nellie Marshall, specially arranged for the occasion; and a ventriloquist performance by Mr. Joe Wheeler. A sketch, entitled "The Irish Linnen Pedlar" made up the second part of the programme and the characters were all impersonated in a way that brought much merriment. The performers were Misses Hayes, C. Larkin, J. Squires; Messrs. J. J. O'Grady, R. Redmond and P. Smith.

AT THE STAR HALL.

The Star Ladies' Association held a card party, supper and dance which proved very enjoyable. During the afternoon a party for children took place and the large number of holidays in attendance made it a pleasant and enjoyable time. At night the first part was devoted to card playing, in which a large number of social folk participated. The prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Nowersworth and Mr. J. Cullen. A dance followed and was largely patronized, the music being furnished by the society's own orchestra. The affair lasted until midnight, and was voted an unqualified success.

AT COCHRANE STREET LECTURE ROOM.

The Cochrane Street Mission Circle held a variety sale in the Lecture Room yesterday afternoon which was largely patronized. Following the opening of the sale by Rev. C. H. Johnson, various useful and dainty articles were offered for sale and were quickly disposed of. At 10 o'clock dainty high teas were served, after which an enjoyable concert was held. Rev. C. H.

Johnson occupied the chair and welcomed the large audience. The following contributed selections:

Piano Solos, Misses F. Rendell and C. Mews; Song, Mr. Rendell; Reading, Mr. Halle; Play, Misses G. Baker and Brown and a double quartette, the personnel being Misses M. Mews, Young, Wilson, and Parsons; Messrs. Wilson, Young, Roseworth and Darby. The play "Footprints" was also produced, the cast of characters being:—Mrs. W. Mews; Messrs. M. Mews, E. Mews, I. Taylor, E. Wilson.

The various items were well rendered, and were received with hearty applause.

AT SYNOD HALL.

The annual Irish night entertainment took place last night at the Synod Hall and a large audience was present, including Monsignor McDonnell and some of the city press. The programme was of an especially high order and consisted of solos, duets, madrigals, etc., besides instrumental selections, the performers being:—Messames Hulton and Brown; Misses Mews, Ryan, Withers, Moran, Gibney and Hickey; Messrs. J. C. King, Fred Emerson, Mayers, Canning, Hickey, Walsh, Darcy, Neary and the R.C. Cathedral Choir. The applause which followed each number was evidence of the pleasure the programme was giving the audience.

PRESENTATION CONVENT ASSY.

A real Irish Night concert took place in the Presentation Convent schoolroom last night under the auspices of the Presentation Convent Association. The room was crowded to its utmost capacity. Amongst those present were Monsignor McDonnell; Mr. McCarthy; Messrs. J. J. Sheehan, Flynn and Nolan. The programme was as follows:—Piano Solo, Miss Madge Meany; Songs, Mrs. J. Kelly, Miss A. Curtis, McNamee, G. Redstone, M. Goodland, M. Meany; Messrs. P. Doherty and Macklin and Master Teddy Meany; Recitations, Misses M. Meany, L. Shortall; Master Martin; Violin Solo, Master J. Blidon; Vocal Duet, Miss Howlett and Mr. Canning. A feature of the concert was the graceful dancing by Miss Mary McGrath. Her performance was so much admired by the audience that she responded to three dances. The applause which followed each item was evidence of the pleasure the programme was giving the audience. The success of the concert was due in a great measure to the untiring efforts of Miss Madge Meany, A.T.C.L., under whose direction the concert was held. The interval candy was sold. The affair closed with singing the National Anthem.

ST. ANDREW'S DANCE.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind yet held by St. Andrew's Association was last night's supper and dance. A large gathering attended and spent a most enjoyable time, the catering of the Ladies' Auxiliary being up to the usual high standard, and the music by the orchestra was all that could be desired.

Magistrate's Court

Four drunks were each fined $1.00 and blacklisted. A drunk and disorderly given in charge by his wife was allowed to go, his wife failed to appear against him. A vagrant was discharged. Four trunks were arrested before Judge Morris this morning, and charged with "that they did or on about the 14th inst. of February obtain from the Government of Newfoundland goods on relief, and falsely pretending that they were out of employment. Three of the accused were charged with receiving two amounts of $10.00 each, and the fourth the sum of $10. Evidence showed that all four had been trucking for Messrs. P. and M. Winter at the time the amounts had been accepted, whilst evidence was also produced that they had each received from $20 to $35 per wages per week. Upon conviction three were each fined $20 and costs or 30 days imprisonment, while the fourth was fined $10 and costs or 10 days imprisonment.

To-Night's Hockey Match starts at 8.15.

Personal

Mrs. James P. Cash, who has been confined to her home, dangerously ill, for some days past, took a change for the better yesterday, and it is now only a matter of time when she will be restored to health again. Her many friends will rejoice to learn that her only pain of late in slight capable of bearing the crew. As soon as the pan was reached the crew left the ship, taking their boats and some food with them. Twenty minutes later she went down by the head. So quickly was the ship abandoned that all the guns and telescopes went down with her, and fifteen of the crew were unable to save their clothes. As previously told the Prospero picked up the men a few hours after the ship was lost.

General Skating after the match to-night, with Mount Cashel Band.

Stella Maris Sank Quickly

In connection with the loss of S.S. Stella Maris, word has been received that on the night of sailing and during the following day very heavy weather was encountered, which, it is thought, strained the ship. An effort was made to keep in the Prospero's wake, but this proved unsuccessful. At 6 p.m. Tuesday the ship entered the icefields and made good progress. At 9 a.m. on Wednesday morning every thing appeared to be going well, but half an hour later the engineers reported a leak. The ship was headed for the only pan of ice in sight capable of bearing the crew. As soon as the pan was reached the crew left the ship, taking their boats and some food with them. Twenty minutes later she went down by the head. So quickly was the ship abandoned that all the guns and telescopes went down with her, and fifteen of the crew were unable to save their clothes. As previously told the Prospero picked up the men a few hours after the ship was lost.

Benevolent Irish Society

FIFTH ANNUAL PARADE.

Prepared with ideal weather conditions the annual parade of the Benevolent Irish Society, which took place yesterday, was one of the most successful held for many years. At 9 o'clock the members assembled in the high rooms and were addressed by the Rev. W. J. Higgins, K.C., president. All many happy returns of the day to the Society, as a token of esteem and goodwill from the members. The Society then lined up in the parade and headed by the large band of the C. L. B. Band, with the C. C. Band following, the parade proceeded on, proceeding up New Gower street to Patrick Street, thence to Upper Street, the bands discoursing music on the line of march. Coming to the site of the War Memorial, the King's Beach, the parade halted and President Higgins and Vice-President J. C. Pippy ascended the steps, bringing with them a wreath of shamrocks tied with a ribbon of the Society's colors. The parade then proceeded to the site of the War Memorial, where they placed it on the altar of the Society, then whilst the members and the large number of people who were present stood with their heads, the C. L. B. Band played "My God to Thee." The ceremony, though simple, was very impressive. Continuing, the parade then proceeded on His Excellency and Lady Mayo, and through the President presented their respects to their Excellencies and asked them to convey His Majesty the King their expressions of loyalty. Mr. Higgins deemed a pleasure to call on their Excellencies because of the great interest shown in the work of the Society generally and in the work of the Society. When they first called on them they were living in hopes that they would soon come to the assistance of their fathers would be a double pleasure to come and be able to express their loyalty to the King and Empire. He reported the Society as being in good condition. His Excellency was pleased to welcome the Benevolent Irish Society for the third time, and the sentiments expressed by the President had given him much satisfaction and he felt very much pleased when they were forwarded to him. He felt members would be pleased to know that the King was now recovering from his recent illness and would soon be leaving for the South of France to regain his health. The work of the Society, in the cause of education particularly, was outstanding in the country and all felt proud of the splendid efforts that are being made by the Benevolent Irish Society. He expressed his self-sacrifice and earnestness. He was glad to hear of the prosperity of the Society and wished it continued success.

Illustrated Lecture

ON "BONNIE SCOTLAND."

Scottish people had a great time on Monday night, in the Presbyterian Hall, when Rev. Robert J. Power lectured on "Bonnie Scotland." The hall was crowded with a very interested and enthusiastic audience. The lecture was most enjoyable and was illustrated by beautifully colored slides. Edinburgh, Glasgow, St. Andrew's, Aberdeen, Inverness and other cities were visited. Places of historical interest were shown, as were also some of the beauty spots of Scotland. There was an excursion, too, to Burns' country. An exceedingly interesting part of the lecture was the lecturer referred to the most recent union between Scotland and England in the marriage between the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. Pictures in connection with the happy event were shown. In the course of the lecture Miss Anderson sang very beautifully "Lock Lomond," and "Ye Banks and Braes," as the picture of the scenes appeared on the screen. Before the lecture there was an attractive programme of Scotch songs, and Scotch dances. Four Scotch ladies danced very gracefully. "The Highland Fling," and "Scotch Reel," Miss McDonald, of the Arlie Marks Co., gave an exhibition of the famous sword dance. Three pipers supplied the music, among whom was Jim Daley of the Arlie Marks Co., who also sang some Scotch songs. Mr. H. B. Wardell was at the piano; C. C. Oke had charge of the lantern, which is a particularly good one with dissolving lens. Mr. Alex. Robertson made an excellent chairman. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardice, who were accompanied by Hon. R. Watson, were present. A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. A. Robertson, which was seconded by Mr. J. C. Hepburn and Judge Morris. The proceedings closed with the National Anthem.

Supreme Court

(Before Mr. Justice Kent.)

MONDAY, Mar. 16. The trial of Annie Squires, charged with concealment of birth, which began Monday morning before Mr. Justice Kent, terminated at 3.50 p.m. when the jury through their foreman, Mr. John Kollway, brought in a verdict of not guilty. Mr. A. G. King for the accused in his address pointed out that there was no intent on the part of the accused to conceal the body. The girl, he said, had been without a mother's guiding hand for three years and she did not properly understand the seriousness of the offence. Mr. C. E. Hunt followed and briefly reviewed the facts as disclosed in the evidence. He pointed out the law in such cases. It did not matter whether the child was dead or alive when it was born, the charge was for concealing birth and burying the body, and the accused herself had admitted putting the body in a box, telling no one but her father about it, and were it not for the evidence of Mr. Samuel Day the matter would probably not be known yet. Mr. Justice Kent in summing up said the case was a short one and the evidence was brief. The girl was charged with concealment of the dead body. It was not sufficient to consider whether there was simply concealment of birth, the jury must also consider if the concealment was by secretly disposing of the dead body. If they found that the girl had buried the body or was a party to it, having full knowledge and giving consent for another to do it, then the jury would have to bring in a verdict of guilty, but not otherwise, and this must be found from the evidence that came before them. The jury retired at 3.10 and returned at 3.50 with the verdict given above. Mr. King then moved for the discharge of the prisoner, which was forthwith ordered.

Arlie Marks Co.

in Powerful Production

"THE GOLDEN RULE" ECLIPSES ANYTHING YET SEEN IN ST. JOHN'S.

It is truly a delight to sit in a theatre and enjoy a good play correctly interpreted by a cast that is capable of pleasing even the most critical. This is the feeling one experiences in witnessing Arlie Marks Co. presentation of Dan Sully's masterpiece, "The Golden Rule," which delighted thousands at the Casino yesterday, and to which many hundreds could not gain admittance owing to the tremendous demand for seats.

The excellent acting of practically every one of the players makes this play, the greatest success that it has gained. Every character is so alive and real that the action of the plot is most convincing. Arlie Marks, who plays the part of Louise Stanley, is charming and natural and handles the role with her accustomed ease and assurance. Paul Brady who plays Father John O'Neil, has the outstanding role. His appearance and professional bearing and the tempo in which he interprets the part are admirably suited to the role. Lindsay E. Power as Dick Stanley gives masterful interpretation to a role which fits him like a glove. Walter Deltina plays a rather "heavy" part which he portrays with marked capability. W. L. Phillips gives a finished performance of Tom Corrigan. He is endowed with a substantial voice which he uses to good advantage. Agnes Stutz as Bedelia Gratten, Father O'Neil's housekeeper, gives a remarkable performance of this character role. Louise Adel as Frances Marvin suits and acts well the part. Herbie Scott gives good account of herself as Nora Gratten. Paul D' Mather renders plenty of good comedy as Michael Cassidy, Sexton of St. Michael's. Clarence is seen as James, servant to Stanley, and portrays the role with realism. And last, but certainly not least, is Joan Evelyn Holmes, who forgot her lines, but this is accountable by the fact that she cannot speak, being only a month old.

The vaudeville was mostly of Irish nature, which fitted the occasion excellently. The familiar airs of Ireland send a pleasant thrill running through your veins, and judging from the enthusiasm displayed all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The settings used in this play are very beautiful, particularly the one used for Father O'Neil's study. To the technical staff much praise is due, and to those who could not gain admittance last night we advise them to see the last performance of this bit to-night.

Following the ceremony the usual congratulatory addresses were delivered and a Jewel was conferred upon Past Master Scandrett, in appreciation of his work during the past year.

Good News for Ailing Women

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines by the medical profession. It will interest every woman to know that in a recent country-wide canvass of over 12,000 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to the results received from its use, the replies received showed that ninety-eight out of every one hundred women had been benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

St. Mary's Church Parish

HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC ANNUAL MEETING

There was a splendid attendance of enthusiastic parishioners at the annual meeting of the Parish of St. Mary the Virgin, Southside, on Monday evening. The proceedings were opened in the usual manner by Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, the rector, who occupied the chair during the proceedings. With him on the platform were Rev. H. J. Goodland, assistant priest, and Mr. G. F. Pike, who acted as secretary. A splendid spirit was displayed by all who took part in the multitudinous and important business of the evening. The keynote of all the proceedings was keen, personal interest. It was good to note that St. Mary's possesses such a strong force of the younger men who count as st. members in the advancement of church interests in their own parish.

The first business of the evening was consideration of the report presented by the rector, who dealt with spiritual conditions within his charge and reported wonderful improvement in many directions during the church year just closed. Mr. Stirling was lavish in his praise of his co-workers but, with characteristic modesty, forgot to mention the fact that St. Mary's had made tremendously progressive strides during the past few years because all connected with the parish have had their rector set them an example of personal devotedness and self-sacrifice that has had an inspiring effect in ever ramification of Church work. St. Mary's is blessed with good leadership and the high interests of the Parish are in able and efficient hands. Monday night's meetings abounded with many graceful tributes to the rector and to his assistant, whose services are already proving highly acceptable to the parishioners. The reports of the different committees were highly satisfactory. In every branch of its various and varied activities the Church has had a really "banner year." Financially, there was reported the largest credit balance in the long history of St. Mary's; and there are no liabilities outstanding. Small wonder that there was displayed so much enthusiasm over the record of the year and so much optimism over the outlook for the future of the parish.

A number of items of important and miscellaneous business were discussed during the meeting. The Parishioners decide to endorse a change of Hymnal. From its inception until the present time St. Mary's has used the old Church Hymnal; now it is to adopt the Ancient and Modern Hymnals. Sentiments engendered by long usage were brushed aside in the desire to have the Church uniform in this respect with practically all the other Churches of the Diocese. The change is to take place in three months' time.

A most interesting debate centred round the plan to erect a new Parish Hall for St. Mary's. There is insufficient accommodation in the present Hall for the varied activities of Parish work and the schools are in cramped quarters in the building. The topic was so big and there were so many phases of the subject to be considered that it was decided to adjourn the debate until a later date, a special meeting is to be called by the rector within the next fortnight. A special committee, consisting of Hon. Dr. Mostell and Messrs. George Badcock, Nathan Andrews, Bert Colton, Max Colton and the rector, ex officio, will report to that meeting on the various aspects of this important undertaking.

The church structure itself is receiving needed attention in the early future. The plan is to complete the tower and to install a bell therein. The Select Vestry will investigate this proposition, ascertain the costs and other necessary information and report to the parishioners. Another, more insistent problem facing the Parish is that providing accommodation for the many who desire to attend Divine Services at St. Mary's. There is a large and constantly increasing waiting list, with few or no pews available for the satisfaction of applicants. The commission to all connected with church management is a high one, but the graver aspect is the difficulty of making it possible for the hundreds of applicants to attend the ministrations of the Church as regularly as they desire.

A grateful and enthusiastic tribute was paid to the members of the Women's Association and of the Sanctuary Guild, who have been unceasing in their work on behalf of the church during the last year. It was pointed out that these devoted workers, during the last two years, on projects that have made the interior of the Church more beautiful and more comfortable. Under the inspiring example and leadership of Mrs. A. B. S. Stirling, these organizations have, most recently, liquidated all the big expense attaching to the provision of a splendid new altar rail and carved oak pulpit that would be a credit to any Sacred Edifice.

Special acknowledgement was also made of the indebtedness of the Church to Mr. G. B. Lloyd, the organist and choir-master. Mr. Lloyd has been in charge of the musical portion of St. Mary's services for almost thirty-five years. During that long period of faithful and efficient service he has been absent from his place only two or three times, and then through illness. Surely few others in Newfoundland can match this excellent record. The concluding business of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—

Rector's Warden—Mr. A. E. Whitten. People's Warden—Mr. G. F. Pike. Registrar—Mr. Harvey Skirving. Select Vestry—Hon. Dr. Mostell and Messrs. N. Andrews, S. Bradbury, George Carberry, J. H. Crane, W. F. Pike, Albert Heath, Elfred Crane, A. Pittman, A. Ebsary, Cyrus Warren and Dr. A. Carnahan. Finance Committee—Messrs. F. W. Dicks, A. Coleridge, Heber Taylor, J. Laddock, J. Crane, Arch Lush, K. Payne and Elfred Crane. Pew Rent Committee—Messrs. Bert Colton, George Cranford, B. Downs, Max Colton and Ed. Cranford. Sidesmen—Messrs. Arthur King, George Carberry, C. Winsor, F. Blackmore, J. Crane, Arch Lush, Elfred Crane, J. Ebsary, H. Taylor, B. Downs, Max Colton and Frank Harvey. Lay Delegates to Synod—Messrs. G. B. Lloyd and W. J. Pike. Cemetery Committee—Hon. Dr. Mostell and Messrs. J. Hooke and S. Bradbury. Organist—G. B. Lloyd. Organ Blower—R. Noseworthy. Sexton—M. Noseworthy. Auditors—Messrs. W. J. Pike and G. B. Lloyd.

After an expression of the appreciation of the thanks of the meeting to the rector and chairman and to Rev. J. Goodland and Mr. G. F. Pike, who assisted him in directing proceedings, Rev. Mr. Stirling concluded the business of the evening by the pronouncement of the Benediction.

Majestic Patrons Delighted with Feature and Feast of Music. Charles Winninger and Hugh Cameron, two of Broadway's best known comedians, appear together in Thomas Meighan's "Pied Piper Malone."

As Meighan's latest Paramount Picture, "Pied Piper Malone," adapted by Tom Gearghy from Booth Tarkington's original story at the Majestic Theatre. Mr. Cameron plays the village photographer and you'll die laughing when he has an entire group "watching the birds" and ready to be shot and then has to tell one of the men to stop posing with his thumbs in the armbolts of his vest.

Lois Wilson heads the supporting cast which includes George Fawcett, Cyril Ring and Joe Burke. The story of "Pied Piper Malone" deals with the life of the Malone family, whose prestige permeates the little waterfront town on the New England coast that Booth Tarkington knows so well, having spent most of his summers there for many years. Interest is centered principally about Jack, the only unmarried son, but not to the exclusion of six brothers and six sisters.

Yesterday the large audience was charmed with the programme, particularly the feast of music from the orchestra and Jacobson and Evans, which will be repeated to-night. The following is their programme: "If ever I get up my Irish," "My Irish Rosary," "Come Back to Erin," "Killarney," "Believe Me If All These Endearing Young Charms," "The Wearing of the Green."

Used By Millions of Mothers For Croup and Colds. Over 98 million jars of Vicks have been used in the past five years. This means the unbroken confidence of a vast army of mothers. They like Vicks because it solves a great problem—how to treat croup and colds without that continual dosing, which is so harmful to delicate little stomachs. Being applied externally Vicks does not disturb the digestion. It can be freely used without the slightest harmful effect.

Vicks brings prompt relief from croup and often checks even the worst cold overnight. There is nothing to swallow. You just rub it on.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES. (Anglo-American Telegraph Co.) THE KING DEPARTS TO-MORROW. LONDON, March 18. King George leaves to-morrow on the southern trip prescribed by his physicians following his recent attack of Bronchitis accompanied by Queen Mary. He will leave in the morning for Dover, thence to Calais, where the party will board the British royal train which is usually kept at Dunkirk in readiness for such occasions. Arriving at Genoa on Friday they will embark on the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The itinerary of the Mediterranean cruise has not yet been arranged. Owing to King George's frequent absence since his enthrone in 1900, the appointment of a special Commission to care for business of State while he is away has an air of novelty, and newspapers print at length the quaint official announcement issued from the Palace yesterday in medieval phraseology.

CURZON'S ILLNESS CAUSES ANXIETY. LONDON, March 18. The condition of Marquis Curzon is causing for increased anxiety, says a bulletin issued by his physicians this morning. He passed the night unsatisfactorily and yesterday's improvement was not maintained.

CANADA AND THE LEAGUE. OTTAWA, March 18. The Canadian Parliament was not consulted and should have been consulted on Canada's attitude to the League of Nations Protocol, Senator Polier declared in the Senate last night. For lack of parliamentary endorsement Premier King's despatch to Geneva lacked force, Canada was drifting into a system of alliances similar to that which produced the Great War. Isolation was not impossible and without the safeguard of the League of Nations Canada might be committed to participation in future wars.

COLOGNE OCCUPATION INDENTURED. PARIS, March 18. Diplomatic circles believe that Cologne bridgehead is likely to remain occupied for an indefinite period as a consequence of the rejection by the British Government of the League of Nations security protocol.

Obituary

THOMAS GRANT. Thomas Grant has died. He was born in the town of Holy Church, Thomas, eldest son of Bernard and Annie M. Grant of this town. The deceased left his home about two years ago and engaged in fishing out of Boston and, like most Newfoundlanders, rapidly pushed his way to the front. About four months ago, however, he contracted a heavy cold which necessitated his entering hospital. None of his friends thought his condition serious, but complications set in and despite the best medical attention the end came on the above date. Deceased was of a bright and cheerful disposition and he won friends wherever he went. The blow is a heavy one to his parents as previous to his passing away they had news of his getting better and would soon return home. The funeral took place from the home of his cousin, Mrs. Edward Mansfield, 535 E. 8th St., South Boston, and was largely attended, quite a lot of his Newfoundland friends being present. To the bereaved parents and relatives we extend our sincere sympathy. Though our young friend is sleeping in a foreign country he still lives in the affections of the people of this town. To realms beyond the azure dome, With arms outstretched God's angel say Welcome to Heaven, home, sweet home.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mrs. William Sparkes wishes to express her sincere thanks to all kind friends for their many acts of kindness during her bereavement, especially Supt. Morris, Mr. Andrews and the staff of the car barn for their kind attendance at his last moments, Undertaker Carnell for preparing his body for burial, and Rev. Stirling for kind words of sympathy; also the Rev. Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. Benson, West End Fire-Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Down and family, Mr. and Mrs. Coon, Miss Ella Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Barnes, Mrs. Dave and family, Miss Hilda Burton, Mr. Bennett Burton, Mrs. Eales, Miss M. Burton, Miss B. Churchill, Mrs. A. Hicks, Mrs. S. Dewling, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Horwood, Mrs. Temple; also for notes of sympathy, Mr. Stephen Gray, Mrs. Annie Harris, Harbor Grace; Mrs. Jessie Reid, Bay Bulls Arm; Mr. and Mrs. T. Warfield, Somerville, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and family, New York; I also wish to thank the staff of the car barn for wreath; also Dr. A. Tait for attendance to her husband during his brief illness.

The complete list of material is as follows: Bakelite or hard rubber panel 3/4 inch by 7 inches by 26 inches; hardwood baseboard 3/4 inches thick, 25 1/2 inches long and 8 inches wide; 3 radio frequency transformers which will be described to-morrow; 3 00025 Mfd (17 plate) low-loss variable condenser; 1 type 601 Micadon grid condenser with grid leak clips; 1 001 Mfd bypass-fixed condenser; 3 Du-biller 1 Mfd mica condensers; 2 standard neutralizing condensers; 1 3-megohm grid leak; 3 50,000-ohm Daven resistance units with mountings; 3 500,000-ohm Daven resistances with mountings; 5 4-ohm fixed resistances for filament control (Amperites used); 1 10-ohm rheostat; 1 2-circuit telephone jack; 1 1-circuit telephone jack; two 4.5-volt C batteries (Eveready type 751); 6 blind-end posts; 6 standard tube sockets; 3 4-inch dials for 1/4-inch shaft; 4 dial indicator buttons; 6 UV-201-A tubes; 1 120-volt B battery; 1 6-volt 75-100 ampere-hour storage battery; 1 Loudspeaker with cord and plug; 1 headset with cord and plug; 1 cabinet to fit set; 20 feet of 14-lb bus-wire.

The baseboard layout is shown above. The approximate location of all parts should be duplicated as closely as possible so that all the parts will fit in properly. The two neutralizing condensers are not shown in the diagram, but are located beneath the two radio frequency transformers L3-L4 and L5-L6, sufficient space being provided therefor. Also the two jacks do not show. These are mounted below the filament rheostat. Their location can be found in the panel layout published Monday.

Proceedings at the Legislative Council

MONDAY, March 16.
The Council met at 3:30 p.m. for adjournment. In moving the second reading of the Act to Amend the Statute of the Consolidated Statutes of Newfoundland, entitled "Of the Franchise of Members of the House of Assembly."

DR. ROBINSON said—Mr. President, this Bill which has received the unanimous approval of the House of the Legislature, makes a precedent after that of the purpose which it involves, and one, which, even if it is not followed, might do much to settle the acerbities of political life, and to rekindle the spirit of a by-gone age when, to Macaulay's memorable words:

"No man was for a party, and all were for the State."
The Government is almost universal in human liberties are cherished. That in an ideal few will assent, but despite its demerits, and in many ways, it is the best, if not the only method, that man's ingenuity has devised whereby the will of the majority may be carried out to the advantage of the Government assured.

Looking up the Hansard of that year I am interested to note that the motion for the second reading closed with these words:—"When we deliberately refuse the woman taxpayer, the woman bread-winner, the right of the franchise, we are giving cause for agitation." A quotation which indicates clearly that the vision of that time was not limited to professional aspirations. In a land where indirect taxation prevails every woman is a taxpayer, and it is not a pleasing comment, or one for self-congratulation, that these obvious rights have been so long withheld. But for legislation—legislation which has been conducted in a manner beyond reproach, and worthy of all praise, agitation which was not merely invited, but demanded by the failure to recognize the just rights of woman-citizenship—this measure would not be before us to-day. There are in our midst some women, who have enjoyed the full rights of citizenship in other parts of the Empire, but have been compelled by our insistent conservatism, on arrival in our midst, British subjects and our kinfolk, to surrender the rights which other lands, justly and wisely have accorded them, and resume their places among the non-voters, the criminals, the imbeciles and the immature of the land. There are those whose sisters are citizens with all the rights and privileges of their brothers; whilst their wives are excluded. It is well to deplore these injustices, and it is humiliating, but the opportunity to remedy them is now.

for right and justice that they seek the franchise, and it is in that spirit their claim should be regarded, not a condescending gift, but a ready and grateful acknowledgment.

Voltaire said, "the reasonings of men are not worth one sentiment of women." He may or may not have been right. Women also reason, and men are influenced by sentiment, and "woe worth the land" where either or both fail to play their part. In this instance sentiment may whither but it is reason that shouts aloud.

Even Tennyson, a Victorian of the Victorians, and no friend of wider franchise, whether for males or females, spoke of "woman as the lesser man," a not too complimentary definition it may be, but at least a recognition of her partnership and comradeship in the stress and strain, the sorrows, the joys and the triumphs of life. To the die-hard anti-feminist may we not say as Browning, another of the great Victorian poets did:—

You forget too much
That every creature, female or the male,
Stands single in responsible act and thought,
As also in birth and death.

No power on earth can relieve either man or woman of their responsibilities before God or their fellows. It has been left for man to assume the sole prerogative of control, and thereby at times to lessen at others to increase his burdens; whilst refusing to share with his co-burden bearers, and sometimes the bearer of burdens far heavier than his own—those rights and privileges which, rightly used, may do more towards lightening the loads of all. The times have changed and we must change with them or lag behind, the self-confessed victims of an isolation which has blinded our eyes to the movements of the years; our ears to the calls of right and justice; whilst our memories are arrested at the threshold of the World War.

There were no women more pure, more noble and more inspiring, than the wives and mothers of the Victorian age, but these moved in a world far different to this in which the women of the present live. Their was the right to these of to-day are asking. But they desired it not, nor was there any need such as now. The paths they traversed were secluded, and their interests were more centralized. Steam, Electricity, Radio and a hundred causes have widened woman's horizon in these days, and womanhood, essentially the same, has larger spheres of both interest and duty. No longer may her sense of citizenship be limited to the home circle. She, too, has learned, perhaps better in many ways than men themselves, its responsibilities, and with courage, and confidence, and proved ability, prefers to face them, in the times of peace, as she did so well and so fearlessly in the days of war. Florence Nightingale lit a lamp whose rays burn more brightly as the years pass by and whose oil is that of "Sisterhood," which recognizes the kinship of humanity, and the unity of its interests, irrespective of race or sex.

It is said that woman won the right to the franchise as the result of her self-sacrificing work during the years of war. He would be churl indeed, and ingratitude, who refused the tribute of his admiration and his praise for what was there accomplished by the daughters of the Empire, and of our own fair land. Surely, they then proved the mettle of their pastures, their courage, their adaptability, if proof were needed, of that no doubt can linger in the minds of men. The tribute of the Great War Veterans of Newfoundland, presented recently in resolution form, was as graceful as it was merited. They voiced convictions gained on fields of battle, where, in full comradeship, the gentler sex shared their dangers and discomforts, their service and their sacrifices. But it was not the justice of their claims that the war demonstrated; rather was it the blindness of those who refused the recognition due long before that fateful day of August, 1914. During those weary years women did, in very deed and truth prove their fitness, but the proof was there and the right to the franchise also, from the day that the demand for equality in citizenship was voiced, and before that day. What the war did was to dispense prejudice, and to cause man to voluntarily step down from his self-erected pedestal.

Rights endure though wrongs may multiply. There are times when rights may be surrendered in the common case. Sometimes, and not seldom, the insistence on rights is at the expense of duty and service. To the enduring credit of the women of the twentieth century when the call came, rights were not forgotten, but their assertion ceased, and the privilege, the joy and the suffering of willing service were substituted. It was merely incidental that this self-surrender provided the key to unlock the door of justice. The ultimate triumph of justice is assured, no matter how adverse the winds, or how long the bay tree flourishes.

For right is right, since God is God. And right the day must win. To doubt would be disloyalty.
Loyal to their convictions, there was a larger loyalty which for the time submerged these in the wider sea of service. It is fitting recompense that thereby came more full recognition of the rights, the pursuit of which for country's cause had been thereby temporarily stayed.

I do not propose, Mr. President, to advance lengthy arguments in support of this Bill, as to do so would be not only unnecessary, but impertinent. Each Hon. Member is fully cognizant of the purpose of the present Legislation. If "Woman's Suffrage" were a new proposal, or one which had not been accepted generally throughout the Empire, and by most civilized lands, its history and the story of its successes would be expected. But these are all familiar, and it would be as futile to weary you with vain repetitions as to attempt to pant the lily, to carry coals to Newcastle, or, as a well-known and highly respected medico, did in the days of his innocence, bring codliver oil to Newfoundland for the benefit and behalf of his prospective patients. It is sufficient to say that the Bill confers the franchise on all women over 25 years of age on the same terms and conditions as it is now conferred on men over the age of 21. In Britain the age limit is 30. In many lands it dates from legal majority. The present proposal is a compromise, and will, I trust be accepted by the Chamber in that spirit.

Whilst I fall to see why, ultimately, there should not be absolute equality between the sexes, until the franchise involves a literacy qualification the path of wisdom. My hope, if not my confidence, is that the Government may at the next session see fit to so further amend the Electoral Act as to take such steps as may be necessary to abolish the marking of ballots by returning officers, except in cases of physical disability, and without involving hardship to the aged. It is a sad commentary and a shameful one, on our educational system, that the illiterate vote continues so important a factor at successive elections. Moreover, there is a further hope that the day may not be distant when a section of the Act, abandoned twelve years ago, thereby causing grievous scandals at successive elections, will be restored, or substituted by some section equally and if possible more effective. These, however, are matters for Government responsibility, and the present is a private Bill. It has passed the Assembly unanimously, because of the singleness of its purpose, and the total absence of controversial details.

I am not, Mr. President, under any illusions as to the effect of the Bill if and when it finds its place on the Statute Book. It will produce neither a new Heaven or a new earth. The Millenium will not dawn. The old Party system will not disappear. As a matter of fact I have yet to learn that women, whether without the vote or with it, are less partisan in their views and sympathies than men. Indeed, until such time as a more effective form of Government than that of party is discovered—and there is nothing in that direction presently in sight—I am not sure such would be desirable. Not the less is it matter for congratulation to the women of the country that they have been granted their just claim in the Elective Chamber, not by any one party, but by all parties, and will be thus in a position, both individually and collectively, to exercise their new powers and responsibilities solely in what they consider will be the best interests of their country. It is a right recognized, rather than a gift. But if as a gift it is considered, then the gift is free, and without those conditions which might possibly be regarded as attaching to a party measure.

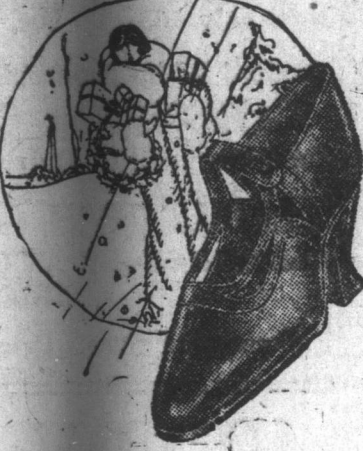

Nor am I in any way disturbed by fears of sex warfare. The interests of men and women are inseparable. History will, in all likelihood repeat itself. Women will have the Legislature open to their admission, but it is very doubtful whether the applicants will be many. The right will be theirs, but right and inclination do not necessarily coincide. Some years have elapsed since the vivacious and courageous Anglo-American, Lady Astor took her seat in the House of Commons. There are only three women there to-day. It is an illuminating fact that of the first two women members of the British Parliament, one was a Conservative, the other a Liberal, whilst the first actually elected the Countess Markievicz who failed to take her seat, belonged to another party. Where the country stands most to gain is in the widening of interest in matters of what may be not happily spoken of as domestic policy. There are spheres of community interest in which men must necessarily walk like Agas, delicately. The home life, education, hygiene, community interest, philanthropy, will find new and more qualified champions. Woman's influence will probably not be greatly increased, for that influence is already beyond computation; but with the fulfiling of citizenship there will come larger opportunities, and with the increase of these deeper appreciation of the responsibilities which equality in citizenship will place upon them. Woman will stand to gain by her enfranchisement. Man will gain even more because of the comradeship in citizenship which it cannot fail to inspire.

The primal duties shine like stars, The charities that soothe, and heal and bless, Are scattered at the feet of Men like flowers.

So said the gentle Wordsworth. Long time has woman scattered ties may it soon be less, in this land, as now in so many others, to traverse the pathway of public, as well as of private duties, and if the journey is to be unobstructed, and on thorny roads, it will neither frighten nor repel them.

It is not so long a time ago when the Mother Lands were ruled by pocket boroughs and faggot votes. The franchise has gradually grown until to-day it comprehends both there, and in almost every division of the Empire, its manhood and its womanhood. Prejudice has been dissipated, objections have disappeared; a wider citizenship has arisen, and with it a wider patriotism. What is true of the whole is true of the part, and that it is true, 1914 to 1918 bears indubitable witness. So may it be said of Newfoundland as the great poet said of the land from which our forefathers and foremothers sprung.

A land of settled government, A land of just and old renown Where Freedom slowly broadens down Firm precedent to precedent.

May the precedent which the Bill now before this Chamber is endeavoring to establish prove a far forward step towards that stability of Government, and that sense of citizenship, with its services, its responsibilities and its privileges, the duo recognition of which by women equally with men is essential to national prosperity, happiness and progress. "Hæc dona tibi Ferro" is a familiar motto. May it be your privilege, Mr. President, to complete the gift, of assent to the women, to Newfoundland, ere many hours have passed, by officially notifying the Speaker of the House of Assembly that the Chamber cordially unites in its presentation.

Mr. President, I now have the honor and the privilege of proposing that this Bill be read a second time.
