A VERY sad death occurred at the Sar-A Very sad death occurred at the Sarnia General Hospital on Sunday morning last when Miss Juanita Cook, only daughter of Adelaide and Lycurgus Cook, of Kerwood, passed away after a short illness with typhoid fever. Miss Cook was well known in Watford, having graduated from the High School here. She then took a course at the Sarnia Business College and at the time she fell ill was in the employ of a Sarnia business firm. She was taken to the hospital for treatment on Monday, August 28th, and on ment on Monday, August 28th, and on the Sunday following she succumbed to a hemmorhage at the age of 18 years, 11 months and 10 days. Her parents and some other relatives were wired for on Saturday and gathered around her before the grim reaper came. Everything possible was done for her, but without avail. The remains were forwarded to Kerwood on Monday and the funeral held from the family residence on Tuesday after-noon at 1.30 to St. Paul's church where ser-vice was held by Rev. H. R. Diehl, a large number of people attending. Interment number of people attending. Interment was made in Strathroy cemetery. Miss Cook (Neta as she was generally known) was a great favorite with young and old while in Watford, and deep sympathy is felt for her stricken parents, who lose an only and affectionate daughter. One of the most successful garden parties that Brooke has witnessed for many years was held on Friday evening, Sept. 1st, on the lawn of Mrs. A. Mc-Gregor, Nauvoo Road, under the auspices of Chalmer's Presbyterian Church, of Chalmer's Presbyterian Church, Brooke. The attendance was the largest for many years and everyone seemed satisfied beyond measure. The position of the platform made it possible for those in the rear of the gathering to hear as plainly as those in front, because the sounds resounded against the brick house. The special feature of the evening's program was the elecutionist, Miss Marietta LeDell, of Toronto, whose wide and famous reputation was sustained by and famous reputation was sustained by her delightful, serious, humorous and instructive selections of the very highest type. No wonder she to-day is recog-nized as Canada's greatest. We are look-ing forward to her return next winter and certainly Miss LeDell, it she returns. will be greeted by a full house. Two of the vocalists, George Murphy, tenor, and R. A. McClymont, baritone, leading vocalists in one of the largest churches their splendidly rendered solos and duets. These two are hard to beat in Western Ontario. Russel Woods, of Wattord, again entertained his andience with his humorous vocal selections which led to encores each time he sang. His voice is fine, and as a young man, he has a good future before him. Mrs. Pete Mc-Gregor's pleasing, sweet and melodious voice was again neard with usual delight. woice was again heard with usual delight.

Campbell emphasized the possibilities in manhood and womanh possibilities in manhood and womanhood and urged upon every individual the true following of their Master, Jesus Christ. Last, but by no means least, were the numerous and splendid selections by the Inwood Band, of which Inwood certainly may be proud. Rev. N. Campbell as leader has certainly shown his ability along the musical line in leading successfully a band of over twenty men. The evening's enjoyment would certainly have been lessened without the splendid band. NOTE AND COMMENT.

There are two many boys and girls in the country and city, more of course in the latter than in the former, who are prone to look upon work as beneath them. There are thousands of them on the threshold of maturity, who maintain the same views and habits which found encouragement in their earlier years What becomes of this class of people? Some of them awaken after a desperate struggle, overcome the habit, and learn to work, to save, and to prepare for the inevitable rainy day. Many of them, however, drift and drift, until they become acceptable recruits in the hobo army. Then they speedily reach the conclusion that things are mighty unequal in this world; that the advantages are all with the rich and that the poor man has no show.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has issued a fruit crop report in which it says: In Ontario heat and drought are reported by most of the correspondents. In the counties of Essex, Elgin, Kent and Lambton high winds have caused considerable damage to early apples

One of the most embarassing things a town editor has to contend with is the disposition of people to wait until the last moment of going to press and then rush in with their items which they "want in this week sure." People do not reflect upon the fact that the paper is made up during the whole week, and that its capacity is limited to just so much and the matter gauged accordingly. If the editor should wait the convenience of those who have something they want published, he would not get his paper out until the next week, and then he would have to delay two or three days until some kind friend had made up his mind about a notice he wants in but which he hasn't been able to prepare just to suit him. A great many people don't get their notices published in consequence of this disposition to put off to the last minute, but those not interested never notice the omission; the paper appears regularly on time, and the world moves on just the same

The White Whale.

The White Whale.

In the northern seas and many of the rivers is found the white whale, or the Arctic beluga. The creatures are quite common in certain localities, and especially at certain seasons of the year. They are pure white in color and quite handsome, darting swiftly about in the cold, clear waters of the northern rivers. An ordinary specimen measures from 10 to 16 feet in length, and has a large muzzle-like mouth, filled with long, sharp teeth, with which it snaps up its fish food very quickly. It swims very rapidly by doubling its tail beneath its body and striking backward with a powerful stroke, which sends it forward fast enough to overtake most all the fish in those northern waters.

The natives capture them in nets and with harpoons. The fiesh is used as food in certain seasons, and a very fine grade of oil is rendered from it. The skins are prepared and tanned into leather, which is often sold as the hide of the porpoise.

"Booke of Martyrs."

The withdrawal from the sale by auction of the Bunyan copy of "Foxe's Booke of Martyrs" reminds us that Cobbett in his "History of the Reformation savagely attacks Fox and his work, and in one instance at least Cobbett seems to prove his case. Here is the excerpt:—"As a proof of Fox's total disregard of truth, there was in the next reign a Protestant parson, as Anthony Wood (a Protestant) tells us, who in a sermon related, on the authority of Fox, that a Catholic of the name of Grimwood had been, as Fox said, a great enemy of the Gospellers, had been punished by a judgment of God," and that his bowells fell out of his body." Grimwood was not only alive at the time when the sermon was preached, but happened to be present in the church, and he brought an action of defamation against the preacher!" The circumstances will be found in Athenae Oxonienses, Ed. bliss, ii., 789. "Booke of Martyrs."

The Old Story.

"I expected to pay back, as they all do when I started. I soon found that I couldn't do it." Sounds familiar, does couldn't do it." Sounds familiar, does it not? It is the age-old plaint of the embezzler, the absconder, the man unfaithful to his trust. Methods in thett change, but the cry of the thief never. and cousider the irremedial error they were about to commit? The first step is easy; it is also easily avoided, Other steps follow, each increasingly easy. Then comes the awakening, the crash, arrest, and a prison cell.

"I expected to pay back." There is tragedy in the words; suffering and disaster for the man, for his family, and his friends—but a lesson for this dollar-driven generation. For, "I soon found that I couldn't."

The housewife who complained that she "had longed to possess a brass bed for 10 years, but now that she can get one, she discovers that she wants a Napoleon bed in mahogany," has unwittingly summed life. Practically all of our pleasures come from anticipation. Realization is much less colorful and pleasurable. The woman who had pictured for years a nice solid brass bed amounts to much less.

THE OLD-TIME LOVER.

Would Women To-day Stand For His Brutal Method of Woolng.

In the present day of law and order, says a writer, there is a rumor that women love the strong in man; that they love to be fought for and dragged away. Whether it is woman or man who keeps alive the rumor, who sings the song of Man, the Masterful, no one knows.

The annals of the old life, Roman and Teuton and Goth and Hun and Frank, are full of the lover, fierce and terrible. He came, he saw the lady.

terrible. He came, he saw the lady beautiful, he drew his sword and car-ried her away. If any was so bold as to say him no he smote the varlet with the sword and split him to the waist. He was a lover in truth who would not be denied.

And what of the woman? Did she cry and sigh and die? Not that history discerns. She was a lady loved; he carried her away and she gloried in his strength and brutal power. The more the tribute to her charms that she had tamed the beast.

Man was the master then. He rode far and wide, his tribesmen at his back, seeking the woman who should be his bride. As he rode what a thrill must have touched a world of women as it watched his riding! as he paused how these drew back into the shadows or forward into the light! Somewhere among them was one that he would choose. Which one was it to be? On which would his terrible eye fall in approval? Upon which would he descend with a sudden plunging charger and seize and lift and carry far away?

with riper years the world gained law, and commerce came to sophisticate the loves of men. The bride was gained by purchase. Hence comes the wedding ring. It is the symbol of the purchase bond of older days. Brides are still bought in the civilized world today, but not in the words of comto-day, but not in the words of com-merce. A few hundred years ago the price was named out and out and paid. Among the early Teutonic peo-ples marriage was a private transac-tion. The bride's father or her brother sold her as do the savages of to-day, in Africa and the world's dark corners. In America and the bright spots of civilization the purchase still goes on, but the form is changed. Of old-times the husband bought the bride; to-day the bride's father buys the hus-

Chest Inflammation

Suffered From a Heavy Cold, Pleuritic Pains in Side - Constant Cough-

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist of Middleton. "My work kept me out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that activities."

Ca I,I lar an wi ne out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe need that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck. Chest and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing essences and medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbage, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica, and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large bottles, 50c, trial size 25c. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

Reciprocity opens our markets to the products of thirteen other countries, every one of which has a high tariff against Canada and if Reciprocity passes they have a right to dump their products on our market free while we will not be allowed to enter their market without paying high duties.

Canada's total exports of farm products 1910, $108,347,694.

Does the foregoing present a cheering outlook for the Canadian farmer?

The Egg Market.

Sir Wilfred said: "A bird in hand is worth two in the bush." The Canadian tarmer can say an egg in his own nest is worth two in the bush-nest that holds eggs at all seasons of the year in many parts of the States when he can only produce them extensively in the summer.

Last year Canada consumed over 700, ooo dozen eggs more than she produced and yet they tell us the farmer gets no benefit from protection.

The United States exported to Canada last year 750,000 dozen eggs; Hong Kong, 41,245 dozen; Chinese Empire, 87,075 dozen.

Canada exported 164,835 dozen of which 39,917 dozen went to the United States.

Fruit.

Owing to climatic conditions the fruit and vegetable industry merits protection.

Any duties collected before the Canadian product is on the market are revenue duties.

The horse trade in Canada was never better than now nor have higher prices ever been paid for horses.

The prices paid in Canada are indisputably better than in the United States. Ontario farmers ship millions of dollars worth to the North West every year.

Reciprocity will lose that market absolutely.

Sheep.

Australia and New Zealand sent into Canada in 1910, 568,989 pounds of butter, 1,149,979 pounds of fresh mutton and lamb, 107,383 pounds of canned meats and paid the duty on same. How much will they send in when duty is taken off?

There are 56,000,000 sheep in the United States against 2,875,000 in Canada.

20,000 sheep and lambs were brought from the United States and sold on Toronto market within the past six months, and duty paid.

The United States produced in 1908, 296,915,000 pounds of wool, Canada produced 11,210,000 pounds.

Wheat.

Argentina produced 193,000,000 bushels of wheat last year. She can land said wheat in Montreal for 5½ cents per bushel, while it costs the western farmer to cents per bushel to carry his wheat from Winnipeg to Port Arthur.

The United States produced 522,229,505 bushels of wheat in 1901. The United States produced 737,199,000 bushels of wheat in 1910.

The United States exported $51,000,000 of wheat flour last year.

Meats.

Who fixes the prices of meats in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and every town and city in the United States? It is the Meat Trusts.

The profits last year of seven firms in the Meat Trust were over $25,000,000.

As the campaign advances the fact becomes more apparent that the Canadian Electors never gave the issues of the campaign the same consideration that they are giving this and everything points to the conclusion that there is too points to the conclusion that there is no much doubt involved in the Reciprocity pact to warrant the farmers and all other electors taking the chance. The Con-servatives will carry the country with a Johnston. pastor of the under a beautiful arch, was performed by the Rev. W. A. Johnston, pastor of the Baptist church. The bride was beautifully gowned in cream chiffon taffeta trimmed with pearls and gold points. Her going-away gown was of brown corded silk. Miss Mabel Brock, of Oakdale, very gracefully performed the duties of bridesmaid, prettily gowned in pale green mull with silk trimmings. The groom was supported by Mr. James Evans, brother, of the bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Carrie Harper, of Hamilton, while little Miss Lois Baldwin looked very dainty as ring-bearer. After the congratulations the guests repaired to the dining room where a dainty epicurian repast was served. "When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use saits or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Special Frayer for Elections.

The Auglican archbishop of Ottawa has issued the following prayer to be said in all the churches of the diocese of Ottawa during the period for the election of members of Parliament:

"Most gracious God, we humbly beseech Thee, as for this Dominion of Canada, in general, so especially for all her people, who are at this time engaged in the election of true and upright and faithful men to represent them in Parliament. Save us from all ignorance, error, pride and passion, and lead us all to the exercise of a sound judgment and the maintenance of true principles so that justice and righteousness and honesty may everywhere prevail amongst us to Thy honor and glory and our own everlasting profit through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Coughs, Colds

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest, it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected part. It's because the healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes, because its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhozone never yet falled to cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, or Throat Trouble, cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asth-ma, Bronchitis, or Throat Trouble. The wonderfully soothing vapor of Catarrhozone instantly reaches the furthest recesses of the lungs, pro-duces a healing, curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and falls entirely to help the throat or lungs.

To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing, and Catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhozone only, 50c and $1, at all dealers.

How the Treaty Was Made

A Story Inspired by the President's Peace Plan

By F. A. MITCHEL Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

In the changes that have come over Europe the principalities of Pertonia Weaden have disappeared from the map. They were carved out of the ancient territory called Helvetia and were adjoining provinces. For years the boundary line between the two was a matter of dispute, and much blood had been spilled without any progress being made to fix it permanently. At last war had reduced them both to bankruptcy.

One day a young man, Herman von Gratz, rode into the capital of Weaden, drew up at the palace of the reigning prince and announced himself as an envoy extraordinary from the sovereign of Pertonia, having power to make a treaty with his neighbors of Weaden establishing a boundary line. At the time of his arrival the minister of foreign affairs was with the prince, who, having heard Von Gratz's announcement, turned to his cabinet officer and said:

"Count von Steinwitz, negotiate a treaty such as this young man is sent to make. I do not wish to see it or be consulted with regard to it till it has been signed, sealed and delivered. Then, if it is satisfactory to me, I will make you a marquis, giving you at the same time one of my estates. If the treaty fails to meet my approval you shall lose your head." At this the ambassador looked very much astonished.

"What surprises you?" asked the prince.

"A coincidence. My sovereign the Prince of Pertonia has imposed upon me the same conditions." "Indeed!"

"Yes, your highness, with this addition, that the treaty must be made. I cannot escape by a failure to agree." Turning to Von Steinwitz, the prince said:

"Add that condition to those I have named. Take my brother sovereign's representaive to your castle and keep him there till you have come to an a25 gm J. W. McLAREN, WATFORD.

The minister and the ampassa bowed themselves out, mounted horses and rode to Von Steinwitz's castle. There was a great difference in years between the two diplomats, Von Steinwitz being over sixty years old, while Von Gratz was scarcely thirty. The former was not much worried for his head, for he was a veteran in diplon cy and had no fear but that he could outwit the younger and less experi-enced man. Upon their arrival the host placed his guest in the handsomest suit of apartments in the castle, left him and, going to his cabinet, or-dered an attendant to say to his daughter, the Countess Bertha, that he wished her to come to him. In a few minutes the maiden joined her father, and he said to her:

"A young diplomat is here from the king of Pertonia. Make it your business to win his heart."

"Yes, father," said the girl dutifully and retired. She asked no reason for this strange request, and none was offered. Like all girls of that period, she was accustomed to hear and to obey. Parents did not give reasons for Von Gratz met Bertha von Steinwitz at supper the same evening. No orders were necessary in either case so far as love was concerned, for the young diplomat as soon as he set eyes on the countess was enraptured. And Bertha in the handsome face and figure, the intellectual cast of Von Gratz's head and countenance, saw an ideal such as she had treasured from childhood. After the meal the crafty count withdrew to his cabinet, leaving the two together.

The next morning after breakfast Von Steinwitz, instead of inviting his guest to begin the negotiations, ordered horses and falcons to be brought and sent his guest and Bertha out for a hunt. All day they rode through the woods attended by a retinue of courfound any attempt to fascinate her companion repulsive, but needless, She had only to be herself to win him, and she gave her heart to him without the asking. Love is a finer diplomat than any earthly sovereign has ever employed. The two breathed it in with the pure air. When their birds took flight for the coveted game, though their eyes followed, their hearts remained in proximity. And when the hunt was ended and they rode back to the castle they took no thought of love; the little god alone had a care for that.

The second day was like the first. And so the time passed. Love progressed, but not the treaty. Ten days had gone by, and not a point in it had been discussed. Then the young diplomat began to realize that he loved his antagonist's daughter. A new feature had come over the treaty. If the count achieved a diplomatic advantage the lover would lose his head. If the lover secured a victory the father of the girl he loved must die. There could be but one happy result-a treaty so inspired by generous motives that the work when finished would be satisfactory to both sovereigns.

Then one morning the count, instead of devising new pleasures for his guest, invited him into his cabinet, and the two sat down tegether over papers and maps.

Now, Herman von Gratz had been sent on this mission because he was a wonder in the game of diplomacy. The two principalities were to him but chessboards. If he gave up a town and gained an island, if he left out a province for future consideration and sliced off a peninsula, it was all for a final checkmate of his enemy's king. During this first morning, when pre-liminaries for the struggle were alone taken up, his mind was upon a differ-ent matter. He was thinking of Bertha and that if he possessed her she must be given him by his opponent in the diplomatic game. But the next day, when the battle began, he temporarily forgot his love, and the older man was surprised to learn that he had a genius for an antagonist.
"Let us proceed," said Von Gratz,

"methodically. When I grant you a province for a town or an island we will mark the same on our map, and the agreement shall be immutable. If we do not proceed thus we shall make no treaty and both suffer the penalty."

The count saw the necessity, but acquiesced reluctantly. The boundary ran for a distance of some 500 miles, at times the natural division being a mountain chain, at times a river. The field on which the game was played was so broad that only one who had a head fitted for the purpose could retain at one time its different parts. The players sat down to work at 10 in the morning and never ceased even for a meal till 10 at night. Then on the concessions of both parties they drew the treaty. When it was finish ed it must be signed, for every step in it was irrevocable. Von Gratz put his signature to it without reading it. The count dreaded to do the same, but there was no escape. Then his antagouist leaned back in his chair while Von Steinwitz read the document. He had not half finished it when he paled. His enemy.

For a few moments the count gave himself up for lost, Then suddenly ered his instructions to his daughter. He had given them with a view to providing for such a contingency as this and had observed the results. Retaining his presence of mind, he expressed no dissatisfaction with the treaty. The seals of both principaliattached, and the instrument was de facte.

"You will remain as my guest a few days longer," said the count, "while engressed copies are being made, then I suppose I shall be obliged to part with you."

"And your head," added Von Gratz. For the first time the two looked at each other, not with duplicity, but in their true relations. "Yes," replied the count in a tremulous voice, "with my head."

"Had I not played a better game than you it would have been my head to drop under the ax."

"It surely would." "A boundary line equitable to both sovereigns could not pertain to this treaty. For centuries both have spilled blood over it, and now that an advance has been made in the method of settlement one of us must get the better of the other, and the one that

"How can it be otherwise?" "What may come in future times I know not. Perhaps it may be a growing sense of justice when diplomacy will not mean an intellectual battle with armies looking on to give moral support to the players. In the case before us love comes in to abrogate that treaty we have just made and construct another. In striking you I strike your daughter, whom I love.

That I cannot do." Taking up the treaty, he tore it into

"Now let us make a compact, inby intellectual superiority, but by

The old count looked at his younger victor in astonishment. Then beads of perspiration stood out on his face, and he trembled. Lastly he folded Von Gratz in his arms with the words:

"My noble son." It was the lover who made the new draft of the treaty, while the old man sat giving his faculties time to regain their equilibrium. For an hour Herman jotted down memoranda, making erasures and adding new data on the map, then wrote out the articles of agreement. When the statement was finished he handed it to the count, remarking:

"There is no war in that; there is peace. There is no victory gained by intellectual supremacy; there is prosperity. It is not based on justice, for human justice is seldom determinable It is based on the one simple word 'love."

Von Steinwitz read the document and saw in it that equal division of advantages which must satisfy one who possessed the slightest sense of equity. When the treaty was presented to the two sovereigns each thought the other had gained the lion's share. But after reading it each saw this was not so and felt a sense of relief and satisfaction that a necessity for bloodshed was past and his people might devote themselves to binding up their wounds, tilling the soil and making articles necessary to their comfort.

When it became known that a maiden had inspired the treaty and that she was to marry one of its makers both principalities rose up to celebrate the nuptials. Gifts poured in from all quarters, and there was more enthusiasm in the festivities than at any royal marriage that had ever occurred.

Toronto Markets.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Receipts at the city cattle market to-day were 77 cars, with 1,100 head of cattle, 1,000 sheep and lambs, 700 hogs and 260 calves.

Trade was moderately active, and prices steady. There was very little to tempt buyers in the way of anything choice, though choice qualities would have sold well had they been available. The run was light, and the medium to good butcher sold steady to firm, but the light common mixed cattle were slow, and the common mixed cattle were slow, and the light rough eastern stockers hard to sell.

For stockers and feeders of good quality there was an improved demand, many farmers in for the exhibition making enquiries.

Quotations were: Extra choice heavy butcher, $6 to $6.25; medium choice, $5.50 to $5.75; choice fat cows, steady at $4.50 to $5; medium $4 to $4.25; common mixed butcher, $3.50 to $4.50; canners, $1.75 to $2.50.

Stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $4.85; light common eastern stockers, $2.50 to $3.25. Calves, steady at $4 to $8.

Calves, steady at $4 to $5.

Sheep, market dull at $3.50 to $4.25;
bucks and culls, $2.50 to $3.25.

Hogs, market 30c to 40c lower than
