

FOSTER'S WARNING TO UNITED STATES

If Tariff Bill Goes Thru Canadians Must Buy Less From Their Neighbor.

New York, Jan. 30.—An appeal for practical "neighborliness" between the United States and Canada was made by Sir George E. Foster, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, and one of Canada's delegates to the assembly of the League of Nations, speaking last night at a banquet of the superintendents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company at the Hotel Astor.

"We are pretty good neighbors to you," said Sir George. "We came over from Canada in 1920 and bought $21,000,000 worth of stuff from you in the United States. This means that every man, woman and child in Canada spent on an average $115 in purchasing from the United States last year. The United States, by the same statistics, came into Canada and bought $560,000,000 worth only, exactly five dollars for every man, woman and child in the United States. Let us be neighbors. Buy as much from us as we do from you. And when we come down here with our goodwill-security Canadian dollars, be above offering us $200,000,000. Disclaiming any desire to "meddle with public affairs in the United States," Sir George referred to the Fordney emergency tariff bill now before the senate in Washington, as a measure that would "prevent us from sending down our cattle and sheep and agricultural products in order that we may pay you."

"Well, there are but two things for us to do," continued the minister. "One is not to buy the extra four hundred million dollars' worth from the people of the United States. That is my appeal to the commercial portion of the United States. It may be a good thing to think of these things before we legislate too far."

"QUEEN OF THE HOBOES" DROWNS WHILE ON TOUR

New Westminster, B.C., Jan. 30.—Evelyn Butler, 17 years old, who styled herself "The Queen of the Hoboes," jumped off the Fraser River bridge here this afternoon into the river and was drowned. The girl left her home in Princeton, B.C., about 10 a.m. and came to Vancouver with the avowed intention of making a tour of the world. She had been detained in Vancouver by the police who intended sending her home. She escaped from a home there and was on her way across the bridge when she saw a boat below. She jumped into the river below, a distance of 80 feet.

RIGHT CONDITIONS THRU STUDY OF ECONOMICS

Montreal, Que., Jan. 30.—James R. Brown, president of the Manhattan Single Tax Club, and well known in New York as a speaker on political economy, addressed the Montreal Reform Club Saturday on "Is it to be Socialism, anarchy or freedom?" He decided that between the Socialist, who wished the government to be all-powerful, and the anarchist, who desired the abolition of the government, the preference should be for personal freedom, and argued that study of economics would remove many ills that at present afflict government systems.

Belleville, Ont., Jan. 30.—(Special.)—Captain Collier, an ex-army officer, has been appointed license inspector for North Hastings, succeeding John Stokes, who has retired under pension after many years of service. He will reside in Belleville.

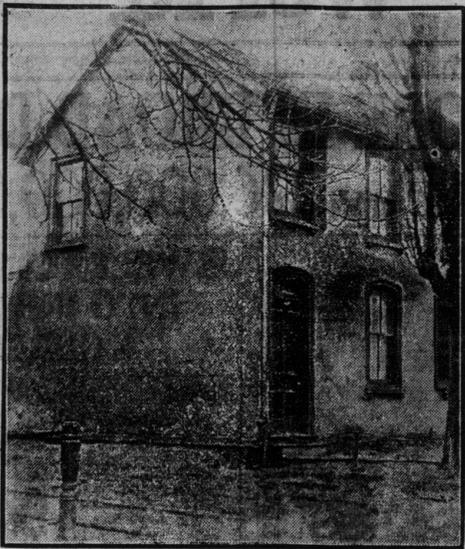

JEWELER BEATEN; STORE IS ROBBED

(Continued From Page 1.) He was struck over the head with something in the bandit's hands—he does not know what it was. He said he felt a sickly sensation and felt himself falling. That was the last he remembered.

Discovery of Crime. Mrs. Shoot returned to the store about 5.45. When she entered there were several customers waiting to be served. Recognizing her, some of them asked her where her husband was, stating that they had been there about ten minutes and he had not put in his appearance. Becoming alarmed, Mrs. Shoot ran in next door for a friend. Together they searched the upper living-room apartment, where the Shoots live, but found no sign of the missing jeweler. Then coming downstairs, Mrs. Shoot went to the cellar door, which she found to be bolted. Unfastening it, she saw her husband lying at the foot of the stairs, still unconscious. After reviving her husband as best she could, Mrs. Shoot went to the safe, which she found had been rifled of the entire contents. She at once notified the police and detectives and plainclothesmen were quickly on the scene. Entered By Rear Door. Mr. Shoot stated that the gunmen entered the store by the rear door opening on a lane leading to Bulwer street. His office commanded a clear view of the front door. Mrs. Shoot when she arrived home found the rear door open, evidently left so by the men in their hurry to get away from the place.

The most remarkable feature of the case is that Mr. Shoot's loss is not greater. Not a thing in either of the showcases or on the shelves was disturbed. The bandits apparently timed their "job" most opportunely. As it was during business hours, the big safe, about six feet in height, was standing with its swinging door open. Also open was the small burglar-proof safe within it. In this latter the valuables were kept. As none of the men were masked, Mr. Shoot got a clear view of their features. "I would be able to identify them in ten years' time," he emphatically declared. Two of the men, he said, were over six feet in height and the third was about 5 feet 6 inches. All were dressed in dark clothes and wore caps.

SCENE OF SATURDAY'S SHOOTING

FOIL HIGHWAYMEN UPON GUELPH ROAD

Man and Woman Motorists Fired at Three Times by Hidden Bandits.

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 30.—(Special.)—An attempt at highway robbery was made last night on the road between Rockwood and Guelph, when Roy Young of the former place was stopped as he reached the top of Moore's Hill, some two miles west of Rockwood. He was driving along in his auto. He noticed a fence rail across the road and stopped in order to remove it, but as he hesitated before getting out of the car a man had better hurry out and remove the rail or he would know the reason why. He then came to the conclusion there was something wrong, and instead of getting out of the car he "stepped" on the gas and speeded away.

Escapes Bullets. As he did so three shots were fired, but fortunately none of the bullets hit either Mr. Young or his sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Young, who was with him. All three bullets struck the car, one hitting the hood, another the frame of the cover and the third entered the rear of the body of the car. This bullet was found in the car this morning. The Guelph police are on the trail of the would-be robbers.

CONSECRATES ANEW ALLIES SOLIDARITY

British and French Papers Agree in Satisfaction With Settlement.

London, Jan. 30.—The London Times, in an editorial on the Paris conference, says that the settlement may be open to objection in more respects than one, but has "the supreme merit that it consecrates anew the solidarity of the allies."

"The decisions are drastic enough to teach Germany that the allies do not mean to be trifled with any longer. They are not inconsistent with her economic restoration, and they are not—despite the German outcry—unreasonable in other respects. If Germany refuses, the Times adds, the allies may be compelled to apply to the letter the terms of the treaty."

French Press Pleased. Paris, Jan. 30.—Satisfaction with the decisions arrived at yesterday by the supreme allied council regarding German reparations was expressed unanimously by newspapers here today. Many journals praised Premier Briand for the sagacity in which he conducted the interests of France during the sessions of the council.

"Yesterday was, perhaps, the happiest and most important day we have known since the armistice," said The Petit Parisien, governmental organ. "At last we shall be able to negotiate abroad bonds of the German treasury corresponding to our share of the first annual payment for reparations. Exchange will in a few months be improved and stabilized. Trade will revive, there will be an end to misery and the cost of living will be reduced."

President Millerand was given praise for his work in inaugurating a policy which is considered to have resulted in complete success for France.

Furnishings were taken from Mr. McRae's store to the amount of $400, while Mr. Deguerre lost cigars, tobacco, cigarettes and chocolates valued about $150. After receiving information, Constables Donald Campbell, Village Constable W. Dobson and John A. McRae motored to a large swamp on the Sutton line between Pefferlaw and Sutton and secured one of the burglars, also the greater part of the stolen goods. There are supposed to be three men in the party, two of whom are still at large.

Auxiliary police were rushed to the scene, but the assailants escaped. A police patrol was fired on near Virginia, County Cavan, last night. The police returned the fire and three of the attacking party were seen to fall. There were no police casualties. One of the members of the ambushing party which was surprised by military forces Friday at Coachford, County Cork, died in a hospital here today of wounds received in the engagement.

It appears the party had trenched the road running from Cork to Macroom. The members of the party who escaped carried off and concealed their slightly wounded comrades, but were obliged to abandon the five seriously wounded.

$85,000 Worth of Rugs in the Greatest Sale We Have Ever Staged

Finest Wiltons on Sale Today at Actual Mill Prices At Least 100 Different Designs and Colors—Every Size

The following was taken from a special article appearing in The Mail and Empire of January 28th, 1921: Carpets Cost More

In studying the trend of business in home furnishings a curious anomaly is found when the Carpet Department is reached. The average buyer has come to take price reductions as a matter of course. He looks for a cut in rug prices as confidently as he does in furniture or clothing or other necessities and recurrent bargain sales planned to move slow stocks and broken lines add to this assurance.

Let us direct your attention to the situation revealed in the article quoted at the left—a situation that means all rug prices are fixed for 12 months at least—then, let us repeat, we are prepared to sell a collection of floor coverings, during February, a full third below market values.

The sensational values are made possible through special arrangement with certain mills whereby we have secured such substantial concessions as to enable us to distribute the biggest collection of floor coverings to which we ever committed ourselves. Many of these beautiful rugs were contracted for months ago, when we felt prices were at a low point. It looked for a time as if we couldn't get delivery at the low prices, but we finally managed it, and the goods are now on our floors at a full third below to-day's best values.

CHRISTIANITY NEED OF SOCIAL SERVICE

Bishop Sweeney Says Love of Humanity Must Actuate Workers.

"Social service is now a great issue and many plans of campaign have been suggested to further the social service work. These plans may be fine in theory, but they will not bear fruit unless the love of humanity and of the Lord our Saviour actuates the social worker. People cannot be reached if you act in a patronizing manner toward them, or if you work among them just as a duty without putting your heart into it. You cannot reach people unless you bring a deep love of humanity into your work."

A Better Business Tone.

The general trend of the news and of the comment of the press, is that business is reviving in many directions and in many lines. Factories that were closed down are starting up with reduced number of employees, some on half-time, and in instances at reduced wages. There is more tendency in the States than in Canada to reduce wages. But, an upward movement is quite visible.

There is also a reduction in prices to the great encouragement of buyers of many lines of staples. Clothes, boots, sugar, rice, bread, flour, oatmeal; in several of the building materials, including lumber, brick, stone, steel and hardware.

There is no falling off in interest, in taxes, in house rent, in fuel. But the universal tendency is downward. Profits are being cut in percentage. A period of readjustment is to be seen all along the line.

The note is one of reviving business under new conditions. And those trying to do business show a much friendlier attitude toward the customer. Everyone is out seeking to do business. And labor of all kinds is recognizing that improved service must go with wages.

That Wayward Province of Quebec.

The ordinary man, when he goes to a circus, will protest that he does so merely on account of the children. The children will go, want to go, must go, and someone has to look after them. Personally, he abhors the circus and regards as vanity all its works and pomps, and thinks they ought to be prohibited by law. Yet the child is apparently never too young nor too old to furnish the father with a good excuse for going to the show, and then nature may be trusted to furnish a barrage of children and even grandchildren later on.

What more disconcerting for the father on his way to the circus than to have the child announce that he does not want to go? It is a perplexing situation. He cannot go into the circus without the child as an excuse, and the child is absolutely bent and determined on going home. In such a situation does the Ontario man find himself today. Up to date he could always blame his drinking on Quebec. Whenever he refreshed himself with any stimulant he plausibly murmured:

I hate the stuff, but these bad people in Quebec force it upon me. And now comes Premier Taschereau and refuses to play any more. He says he will not permit one drop of whiskey to go from Quebec into Ontario. The Ontario people, in whose midst, by the way, nearly all the distilleries are located, will either have to cease drinking or cease blaming Quebec. The Globe indignantly protests that Premier Taschereau is overriding the B. N. A. act. But what are we going to do about it? When Premier Taschereau visits Toronto in the near future he should be kindly but firmly taken in hand. Ontario, like Cousin Egebert of Red-gap, can only be druv so far. The right to blame our wrong-doing upon somebody else is one of those inalienable rights guaranteed us by Magna Charta, the habeas corpus act, or some other article of the British constitution, which we have not the time at the moment to look up. At any rate, the right is so fundamental that even our froward kinsmen in the United States claim to have inherited it as a part and parcel of the common law. No one in that broad republic ever takes a drink any longer without closing his eyes and plausibly murmuring:

Germany and Japan.

It seems almost as difficult to find out what is going on in Germany as it is to find out what is going on in Russia, yet Germany is open to the world, with railways, telegraphs, daily papers and parliamentary debates. So she was before the war and yet the world looked on with incredible stupidity as she prepared for universal conquest. The world is now looking on less dully, but with anxiety and suspicion that more or less defeat themselves. Thus in The Empire Mail, an excellent British trade paper, we learn from its correspondent, resident in Germany, the following:

1. Germany intends to flood the British, French and American markets with her manufactured products.
2. Germany has no desire to trade

WHY DIDN'T THEY THINK OF THAT EARLIER?

with western nations, but will devote herself to supplying the inexhaustible demand of the oriental market.

Perhaps she will do both, altho the German chancellor recently told the Reichstag:

We are militarily shattered, politically impotent, and economically gasping for a little breath.

It may be, however, that Germany is looking to the east rather than to the west for economic salvation. The Japanese did little against Germany in the last war, and Germany did nothing against Japan. Not a single Japanese ship, during the entire war, was submerged in the Mediterranean, except one chartered by an English firm with an English crew on board. There is no bitterness between the two countries, and they can plan for mutual business advantage in a business way. Whether between them they can teach the Russian bear to dance remains to be seen.

Fixed annuities paid Austria, it is agreed that the allies should make good the cost of the army of occupation and certain other items. Germany is forbidden to establish foreign credits without the approval of the reparations commission.

Resolution by Council.
The council adopted the following resolution: "The allies, convinced that close union is as necessary in the present peace as it was in the war, are resolved to do all in their power to maintain and strengthen that union."

Some news that brings us glee we hear from China, far away, and makes our hearts beat with cheer, just like a gin trap. There's another writing case, who smokes a big cigar and values his name as much as if it was a bar. It does not matter whom he meets, the fire chief or the mayor, he will write him up, and makes them so softy swear. Still, there are others in the game who have inflated domes, who think that they can rise to fame by writing mushy pomes. So that is why it made us glad, in reading of the news, that out in China things are bad for editors and crews. We're going to start a fund, we think, to give a China strip, to every kind of writing gink who's giving us the pip. We hope to Canton they will go—this much we have confessed—because we now have got to know, the Chinks will do the rest. Oh! will be $250,000,000 gold marks, the export tax being levied on each. It is pointed out that, besides being a sure method of collection of the reparations, it will act as a protective tariff in countries neighboring Germany, which are likely to be flooded with goods made in Germany at a very low cost of production because of the relatively low value of the mark, and which, consequently, cannot be offered in foreign markets at very low prices in foreign money. The penalties agreed upon by the council for violations by Germany will apply to all the agreements already formulated, disarmament and coal deliveries, that document, also at the disposal of the council.

BENGAL REFUSES TO BOYCOTT DUKE

General Strike Partially Effective on Connaught's Arrival at Calcutta.

Calcutta, British India, Jan. 30.—The boycott requested last week by the Bengal provincial congress against the Duke of Connaught, who is in India to inaugurate reform legislation, has been largely a failure, altho a general strike became partially effective today at noon on the arrival of the duke, who was received in state. Thousands of persons cheered the duke along the route from the station to government house, where he was received by the ruling princes. The attempt at boycotting the duke was led personally by M. K. Gandhi, the revolutionary leader.

DIES EN ROUTE TO WORK.

Belleville, Jan. 30 (Special).—Geo. J. Etchells, aged 53, was taken ill on Saturday while on his way to work in the T. R. shops, and died a few minutes later of heart failure in the pumping station. He had returned to work a fortnight ago after illness.

former occasions and again today, in the delays in the matter of disarmament, had due regard to the difficulties that surround the German government in the execution of the obligations which have resulted from the treaty of Versailles. They have formed the hope that the German government will not place the blame for the present situation on the shoulders of the allies, and that the reparations commission will be created if Germany persists in failing to meet her obligations to the League of Nations.

The proposal to apply penalties to the reparations and other agreements was presented by Mr. Lloyd George. According to the terms of the arrangement the annuities and export taxes are payable semi-annually. Disbursements for the first two years, six per cent. for the third and fourth years, and five per cent. thereafter. Germany is forbidden to establish foreign credits without the approval of the reparations commission.

THE WORLD'S WEEKLY NOVEL THE HERITAGE OF CAIN

By ISABEL OSTRANDER.
(Copyright, 1918, by W. J. Watt & Co.)

Only the detective went into the room with the doctor. It seemed as if hours passed while the anxious grief-stricken little group lingered in the hall below.

Finally, after an almost interminable interval, Franklin York appeared alone at the head of the stairs. "Can you tell me anything?" cried Robin, springing from his chair. "The crime was committed some time between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning," York replied as he came toward them.

"The doctor estimates it as approximately that from the present condition of the body, altho it may have taken place a little before that time, since the weapon has not been discovered."

He looked steadily at Midge as he spoke and she returned his gaze intently. "Mr. Van Rensselaer, you are interested in photography—can you let me have a camera—a small one with a good lens carrying film rolls instead of plates would suit my purpose—would like a few snapshots before the police arrive and the room upstairs is disarranged."

"Certainly, I've got a kodak, which will be just the thing you need, I think," he said. They left the house by a side door and started across the clearing toward the tool-house.

"There are a few minor details I should like to tell you which it is not necessary or advisable to mention before all the others. A single sharp vegetable knife was found beside the body, crusted with blood, but it played no actual part in the crime which I can see as yet."

"The doctor's examination proves that the murder was committed with a longer, thinner, more keen and pointed blade. A single, slashing stroke from left to right severed the windpipe and jugular vein and went even deeper. In fact, the body is almost decapitated."

Robin's face grayed, and he caught for an instant at York's arm, but he controlled himself quickly, and walked with a firm step to the door of the dark room. He preceded York and stopped just over the threshold with an exclamation of amazement. "Why, some one's been in here!" he cried. "See, they've been at my chemicals."

"It was I," said York quietly. "I wanted a sheet of especially sensitive paper to take an impression and I found just what I needed to prepare it here."

"Oh, that's all right, then. Here's the camera, and this is the size picture it takes—my God!" He dropped the little photograph which he had picked up at random from the table and walked unsteadily to the window. York examined it. It bore the likeness of a slender, beautiful woman, seated on the ground and steps with the sleek head of a great Russian wolfhound resting on her lap. Her lips were smiling, but in her eyes, as in those of the huge dog, a sombre inscrutable shadow dwelt.

CHAPTER III.
Seeking for a Motive,
YORK settled back significantly in his chair. "Who is this Paul Hildreth—a relative of her mother?"

"Yes, at one of his clubs, I believe, since his mother's death several years ago. Before that, of course, he'd wed with her—they were the last of the family."

"What personal impression have you formed of him?"
"I find him charming—every one does. It is the hall-mark of his success."

"His success?" repeated York.
"Mr. Hildreth belongs to the increasing number of families whose finances, thru extravagance, unfortunate speculation, or erratic business, have been ruined. He's not what one would call a disreputable man—in fact, his reputation is excellent. He dabbles a bit in stocks now and then, but has no pretensions to house-parties, yachting trips, motor trips, or any assets to be counted upon in reckoning up expenses—therefore, his popularity, the pleasure in his personality, even the he is ineligible except for the daughter or widow of a nouveau riche—is of great value to him. I do not say that he actually trades upon it, but—he likes society, and is not averse to permitting himself to be entertained."

"In that way?"
"Thru a bequest. By the terms of the will, Mrs. Van Rensselaer, the late Mrs. Victoria, left a large sum of money to her only child, Paul, in the event of her dying first and leaving no children. Midge's eyes filled, and she sat gazing past the detective as if half-unconscious of his presence. He paused a minute and then asked—save one or two in Boston—in all New England, and his name made it so. He was universally beloved."
"And his wife—who was she?"
"Mary Hildreth, of an old New York family. Her death occurred when Victoria was 15—killed in a railroad accident."
"Dr. Bigelow died only two years ago, most sensationally. He was stricken with heart failure and dropped dead in the pulpit on Easter Sunday. Perhaps you remember reading it in the newspapers or hearing it spoken of."

CANADA SHOULD AVOID RUFFLING ORIENTALS

Humanitarian Policy in Dealing With Newcomers From Japan and China Will Avert Danger of Serious Friction, Says Prof. W. G. Smith, at Open Forum.

Canada will either have to solve the problem of immigration from the orient on a humanitarian standpoint or face the possibility eventually of war with Japan's 78,000,000 and China's 400,000,000, according to Prof. W. G. Smith, of Victoria College, who addressed the Open Forum on "Present Pressing Problems of Immigration," on Sunday afternoon.

He had been assured by Japanese authorities that there was no objection to limitation of immigration, even if brought down to 5 per year, but what the Japanese government did demand was that once the Japanese were allowed into this country they be given the same rights as immigrants from any other country. As matters now stand an oriental could, and in many cases did, become naturalized under conditions which would only to become dis-franchised under provincial laws.

There are 50,000 orientals in Canada, the great majority being in British Columbia, where one male in every five was an oriental, and where the problem was rapidly becoming acute as in California. To forbid immigration of these people or to deport them would only lead to war, and the only solution lay in restricting the inflow to the lowest minimum required and to Canadianize and then give full citizenship rights to those already here.

Speaking of immigration from other sources, the speaker advocated a compulsory naturalization for all those who would have free speech. He believed in free speech for those who were willing to accept the responsibilities of citizenship, but would strictly forbid it to all others. If he himself were to become a citizen, he would be willing to become a citizen of the form of government he would quickly find himself deported.

Unemployment Problem. Dealing with restriction of immigration during unemployment periods, he said that the situation as it existed in Canada, should be made known in all parts of Britain and Europe from which immigrants came, and all industrial workers advised to stay where they were. At such times the only class brought over should be agriculturists with sufficient means to establish themselves on the land. The government declared that this was what they had been doing, but during the past year more newcomers arrived in Canada than ever before. During the depression of 1918 more people arrived than in any year for a previous decade, and during the hard times of 1907-8 another period of big immigration was experienced.

"Dumping Machines." Prof. Smith condemned what he described as allowing the transportation companies to become dumping machines. This was brought about by only the most superficial examination being made at port of embarkation, resulting in a very large percentage of rejections at port of disembarkation where the more rigid examination was made. The remedy was to be found in a strict examination before the vessel crossed the ocean, and holding the transportation companies responsible for the type arriving. He advocated fining these companies $500 and costs of return transportation for every immigrant brought over who did not come up to requirements.

Wink at Law. According to the law a government official should travel third class on steamers carrying immigrants, and report on conditions as regards sleeping quarters, food, drinking facilities, deck space allowed per ship's tonnage and general sanitation, but to his knowledge, the Canadian government had never done so. On the other hand, the Chinese government not only had done this, but the facts as found regarding every ship were published and were open to all intending taking passage on them.

CUSTOMS REVENUE NOW AT LOW EBB

Will Climb Again From Now on, Says Toronto Customs Collector.

Toronto imported about twenty million dollars worth of goods this month, judging by the total of the customs revenue. The collections for January, 1924, will total about $2,250,000. "Import statistics appear to show," comments J. H. Bertram, collector of customs, "that we have reached the bottom. Just a year ago we were collecting the highest revenue in our history. January, February and March of 1923 were all record months, and even between April and August we averaged between four and five millions a month. Our first actual drop occurred in October when the revenue fell to $3,452,597. There in November the revenue dropped still further to $2,728,205, and in December it continued to drop, touching $2,449,872. But during the present month the revenue has stood up fairly well, for although there is an adverse difference of something like $200,000 in the comparative revenue for the past two months, this is accounted for by the fact that there was one more working day in December, and the luxury tax was collected for a part of that month."

FIFTY HOODLUMS ASSAIL POLICEMAN

P. C. Hatton Pluckily Holds Prisoner Till Reserves Rush Up.

A near riot occurred at Manning avenue and Queen street on Saturday afternoon, when P. C. Hatton (65) attempted to arrest a returned soldier named John Kelly, 73 Niagara street, on a charge of drunkenness. Hatton, however, held his prisoner until the arrival of police reserves when the crowd was quickly dispersed. Hatton had just sent in a call for the wagon and was standing by the patrol box holding on to his prisoner when someone in the crowd that had gathered incited those assembled to "jump the cop" for arresting a returned man. Hatton, still holding on to his prisoner, backed into a nearby doorway, drew his baton and protected himself as best he could against the onslaught, while two citizens rushed to telephone for police reserves. At the arrival of the reserves, Hatton, still pluckily holding his man, was nearly exhausted. The number and viciousness of the attacking crowd had worn him down. No further arrests were made, as Hatton was unable to identify the man who had incited the riot. Hatton estimated the number of the attackers at between 50 or 60. Very few of them returned soldiers, he said, most of them being young hoodlums who delighted in securing an excuse of "beating up a cop."

TOO EXPENSIVE TO LIVE ON TABLOIDS

Must Rely Upon Digestive Apparatus, Says Dr. Hunter in Lecture.

"Digestive Processes" formed the subject of a very interesting lecture delivered by Dr. Andrew Hunter of the biological department of the Toronto University, at the Physics building on Saturday afternoon. He declared that only one thing now prevented the dyspeptic and the hard men of the world from abolishing their meals in favor of a few little tablets, and that was the question of expense. Dr. Hunter said that the same purpose of the bulk of the nourishment that one had to, or liked to, eat now could be attained by feeding in place of the starchy foods, pure glucose, and in the place of the proteins, such as meat, nuts, and whites of eggs, pure amino acid. "We should thus save all the trouble and pain of indigestion," remarked the lecturer. "Also since the tablet can be manufactured artificially, we should conserve the diminishing supply of meats and cereals. The contents of these two diminutive tablets, (which he displayed), would give a perfectly good substitute for one pound of meat. So we could, if driven to it, replace a steak by a tabloid or two of synthetic amino acid." "The 'nut' is more bulky than our present meals," he pointed out. "To secure at present market prices, you would have to spend about $150 on the preparation of the tabloid. Obviously, for a long time, we must rely upon our own digestive apparatus to manufacture the amino acid."

AFFORDED RICH BOOTY TO ROBBERS

FOR CANADIAN WEST SOLDIERS DISPUTE MINISTER'S "FACTS"

Manitoba Treasurer Also Says Everybody Getting Down to Good Hard Work.

That the west had already largely recovered from the deflation of prices, and that business was getting back to better and more stabilized foundations, was the opinion expressed yesterday by Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer of Manitoba, who was in Toronto on his way to Ottawa. He also predicted that the coming year would be one of the largest in the way of development that the western provinces had ever experienced. "Mr. Brown said that the general depression was rapidly passing and that there has been less of it in the west than in the east. 'We in the west are not so close to the stock exchange as you are in the east,' he declared, 'and as a result fewer people have been affected by the deflation of stock securities. Speaking generally, the deflation in prices came more slowly in Canada than in the United States, and I don't think there was the same amount of harm done here.'"

SLIGHTLY AFFECTED BY COURT REFORMS

Toronto Has Already Adopted Practice Commended by Committee.

The present police court system in Toronto is but slightly affected by the recommendations of the Ontario public service commission, with the exception of the proposed change in name to "provincial" or "district" court. One of the principal recommendations brought in by the commission is that police magistrates devote their whole time to this work and have no connection with any other profession or business. This has been the principle followed in Toronto for many years. Of the four police magistrates now occupying the bench, only James Edmund Jones devotes part of his time to other duties than those on the bench. The reason for this is that his appointment as yet is only temporary. If it is made permanent, he, too, will relinquish all outside connections. The regular inspection of police magistrates' offices and audit of their books, another of the principal innovations recommended, has also been the custom in Toronto for a long time.

POLICE CAPTURE SIX ALLEGED GAMBLERS

At 5:45 yesterday morning, the West Toronto police rounded up six alleged gamblers in a house and were taken in custody to No. 8 by the following officers: Hot Bez, 318 Royce avenue, and Carl Donnee, 59 Kingsway avenue, by P.C. Parker, Mike Joworski, 307 Royce, and Jan Rovsal, 288 Royce avenue, by P.C. Holmes, and Harry Capil, 50 Kingsley avenue, by P.C. Moore.

Lee Chunn, 301 Yonge street, was arrested on Saturday night by Detectives Tuft and House on a charge of theft. The Chinaman is alleged to have stolen five cases of Chinese whiskey from a room on Celestial named Mark Puh, 16 Elizabeth street. Chunn was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Puh.

GIRLS APPLYING FOR CIVIC RELIEF

Twenty Were Given Meal Tickets at the Aid Depot on Saturday.

Registrations at the Civic Relief Depot, Krausman House, on Saturday up to half-past one totaled 1,839 for single men, and 44 for married, 17 of the latter being new cases. Miss Galbraith stated that the figures relating to the registration of married women should be a distinct decrease, but that this was accounted for largely by the registrations at the D.S.C.R. depot under Harry Young. The D.S.C.R. depot is now dealing with several hundred cases a day. All of the cases applying at the D.S.C.R. are pensioners from the C.E.F.

Brigadier Fraser of the Salvation Army is hard at work, and up to midnight Friday night was busy getting all kinds of underwear and other clothing ready for those in distress. Among the latter were one or two who had suffered loss by fire at the Forum building on Friday morning. Girls formerly employed at the factories were applying yesterday at the relief office for meal tickets. They were 20 in number, and desired to keep going until conditions improved. They stated they had been unable to procure employment anywhere. Sergeant Major Crofton stated that these girls were deserving cases, and that the privileges of the civic relief depot applied as much to them as to any others.

VARSITY BUILDINGS MAY BE DELAYED

High Costs Likely to Prevent Their Immediate Construction.

The royal commission on university finances may recommend the government to withhold the $4,500,000 which Toronto University wants for new buildings until the cost of labor and materials have become lower. They may also suggest that the legislature take some action to provide money for the university needs as they arise, instead of ear-marking grants to that institution for maintenance as usual. From 1906 to 1914 the university was allowed 50 per cent. of the revenue from succession duties, but the allowance was not permitted to exceed $600,000. Succession duties now amount to $5,347,000, and if the commission recommends that the full half be allowed the university it will help out to a great extent, although the latest for maintenance alone this year is two million dollars. The university has $450,000 a year from its own sources.

WILL URGE CITY TO BUILD HOUSES

The board of control will be urged this week by Ald. MacGregor to send to council a recommendation for the adoption of his motion to appoint a commission of city officials to build as a civic scheme several hundred small houses for rent or sale to soldiers and working men.

Suggestions of Commissions Are Bewildering to Mayor

"I am bewildered trying to keep track of the recommendations of the various provincial commissions. One of the most absurd is to retire the police magistrates on the board of police commissioners," said Mayor Church on Saturday. "We could not get on without Colonel Denison, as his experience and wise counsel is invaluable to the citizens in these days of stress and strain, and his tact and good judgment has in cases of trouble, strikes and riots, been very valuable. A similar bill was before the legislature last session, and was voted down by an overwhelming majority in the private bills committee, and was opposed by all the large cities in Ontario. We have the report of Sir William Meredith in this connection, which entailed into the police department strikes. I am sure the citizens will not approve of any such move, and I am going to appear before the committee and oppose the bill. The report is a mere academic one in this connection, and just shows how useless some of these commissions are."

CENSORS TO DEAL WITH THIS FILM

Will Today Announce Decision in Regard to Disputed Picture.

The executive of the Amputation Association of the Great War recently held a meeting to discuss the proposed production of the motion picture play, "Passion," in a local theatre. They claim that the picture was produced in Germany and that many of those acting in it were probably participants in the great war and for that reason a resolution was passed, requesting ex-servicemen and women and citizens generally to petition Hon. Peter Smith and the official censors to ban the picture. "The matter is now under the consideration of the censors. Major Hamilton said Saturday that they would announce their ruling today. He said that the matter had been under consideration for some little time and that the picture had passed the old board of censorship, and that the company which intended to show it had paid the duty upon it. He pointed out that as a majority of the board of censors were returned soldiers they could be trusted to do the right thing in this connection."
