A Paducah (Ky.) merchant publishes the following card in the local newspaper, "As an incentive to young men who consemblate matrimony, I offer to the first couple, residing in this city or county, who shall marry in the year 1875, a nice breakfast table."

Colonel knew it. Looking savagely at the red head of the saucy young stranger, he replied:

"When they made me and had me all finished except my hair, they told me they had nothing left except red hair. I told them then that I wouldn't have any. I would rather go without. They might save that for impudent young popinjays and fools."

The young inquisitive and joker was perfectly willing to drop the subject. WOULD respectfully invite attention to the following useful and appropriate GOODS for the A. D. 1849. Shawls, Dresses.
