The returns came in better last evening than for some years past, in spite of the number of ballots to be counted. At a very early hour it was seen that Ald. Stevely would have a large majority.

Large crowds were in front of The Advertiser office, and remained there until practically all the returns were in.

Shortly before 10 o'clock, when Ald. Stevely's majority was assured, the crowds became insistent, and called for Ald. Stevely to make a speech. He spoke from The Advertiser window.

Mayor-Elect Speaks.

Ladies and gentlemen, I am glad to stand before you in the proud position of mayor-elect of this city," he said. "I thank my friends for the work done by the whole city.

"The splendid support I received in all parts of the city proves to me that my long record of service in the city council has met with approval. As mayor of the city I will use my best endeavors to advance the city's interests, and you may rest assured that nothing will be done except what is for the best interests of the people of London. I represent no class and no section, but will work for the whole city.

"For my opponent I have nothing but the kindest feelings. He is in a somewhat similar position to that which I occupied two years ago.

"I am very tired after the hard campaign, and do not intend making a speech. All that I can say is that I thank you for your splendid support today, and wish you all a prosperous and happy new year."

For some time, Ald. Stevely had to bow to the shouts of his admirers, and he was met on the street with throngs of friends, who congratulated him on his splendid victory.

Would Not Talk.

In front of the Free Press office a fair-sized crowd gathered, and as time passed, and the returns showed the results, people began to wonder where Ald. Matthews was.

Not until the returns were nearly closed did he put in an appearance.

To an Advertiser reporter Mr. Matthews said he had nothing to say.

"After staying for about five minutes in the office, he evidently made up his mind not to address his supporters, and, bidding those near him an abrupt 'Good-night,' he left and went home."

It was evident to all that he felt his defeat keenly.

Six New Faces.

Six new faces will be seen at the first meeting of the council.

Seven members of last year's council sought re-election, and all won with one exception.

Ald. Cooper, the "Old War Horse," was left at home, although he was elected by a large majority.

Magistrate Punishes Bad Boy Gang

The court room was crowded with West London youths and witnesses, when the charges of rowdiness, which were preferred against fourteen West London lads were investigated by Magistrate Love this morning. With the exception of three of the boys, all were found guilty, and fined or ordered to make good damage done to property. Several of the ring-leaders were fined $5. Magistrate Love gave the boys a warning against appearing again in the court. The case of James Wilson, charged with selling tobacco to a minor, was again enlarged for a week.

THE STREETS MUST BE KEPT TIDY

Owing to the carelessness of a number of men who remove paper and rubbish from the yards of downtown stores, a great many complaints have reached the police regarding the untidy conditions of certain streets.

Chief Williams has decided to give the matter his attention and will endeavor to stop the nuisance. Daniel McMullin was the first offender to be captured.

EXECUTION IS TOMORROW

Preparations Now Made for Hanging of Boyd at Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—For the murder of E. S. Wandle, the colored proprietor of a York street restaurant, John Boyd will be hanged on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. Preparations for the execution are now well under way.

"DE-LIGHTED"

Former Londoner Loses Both Legs
Peter Steele Injured at Carleton

A Terrible Accident Befalls a Well-Known Railroad Man—Life in Balance.

Mr. Peter Steele, formerly of this city, now of Toronto Junction, fell under a moving train at Carleton Junction last evening, and had both legs cut off. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital. His recovery is not expected.

Mr. Steele, who was formerly a conductor on the C. P. R. running out of Toronto, has of late been chairman of the grievance committee of the C. P. R. employees.

Yesterday afternoon he went east to Ottawa on some business in connection with the trainmen. He got off the train at Carleton Junction, and when the train started he attempted to board it.

His feet slipped, and he fell under the car. Both legs were badly mangled, and had to be amputated. He was taken on the train and taken to Ottawa where his injuries were dressed. His relatives have been notified.

Chairman Darch Says Another Scheme

"The Komoka scheme being defeated, I guess the people do not want that scheme," said Chairman Darch of the water commission to The Advertiser this morning. "The duty of the commission will then be to submit another scheme at the earliest possible time. Of course, I cannot tell you what that scheme will be. I will have to confer with the other members of the Board, and we will do something."

Further than this he would not talk on the subject.

Fair Sailing for the New Hospital

The large majority for the tuberculosis hospital is indeed very encouraging to those who have interested themselves in this undertaking and will supply the city with something sorely needed. It will also strengthen the county in their endeavors to assist the same project.

According to the arrangement entered into the county is to pay 40 per cent of the building and equipment and maintenance. The city pays the other 60 per cent. The county officials will have a bill entered at the next session of the Legislature for the setting aside of $4,000 without taking a vote of the people.

Until this special legislation is secured, nothing can be done by the county officials. Hon. Adam Beck has for some time opposed the scheme, but it is said that, owing to the overwhelming majority in its favor he will withdraw his opposition, and that there will be no opposition in the House when this matter comes up.

A site has been secured outside the city. The donation of Mr. Blair of $20,000 will cover the expenditure in connection with it.

THE C. P. R. LINER MOUNT ROYAL.

DR. ATTRIDGE RECOVERS

Ex-Highgate Man, Shot by Woman, Able to Leave Hospital.

Detroit, Jan. 7.—Dr. James A. Attridge, of Highgate, Ont., who was shot through the brain by Mrs. Florence Griffith in the latter's apartments several weeks ago, left Harper Hospital this morning. Although the bullet pierced the brain, the man has recovered and the physicians who operated upon him declare he will show no ill-effects of the wound. Mrs. Griffith, who, after shooting the physician, attempted to end her own life, is also recovering in Grace Hospital. It is not yet known what legal proceedings, if any, will be brought against either of them.

OFFICIAL FIGURES
MAKE NO CHANGES

In the List of Those Elected—Mayor-Elect Stevely's Majority Placed at 1,009.

City Clerk Baker gave out the official returns of the mayoralty, water commission, council and board of education elections at noon today. Ald. Stevely's official majority is 1,009. Mr. William Jones' majority over commissioner Saunders is 1,323.

The bylaws will not be declared until tomorrow, although the official figures are given below.

Niagara power carried by a majority of 1,819.

The fire halls carried by a majority of 52.

The consumptive hospital had a majority of 1,452, the vote being more than two to one in favor of the hospital.

The Komoka scheme was defeated by 552.

C. P. R. LINER SAFE IN PORT
ARRIVES AT QUEENSTOWN, IRE.

Long-Missing Boat Steams Into the Irish Port With All Hands Well—Delay Was Due To Boilers.

Queenstown, Jan. 7.—The long-overdue steamer Mount Royal steamed slowly into Queenstown today, and the news of her safety was received with gladness in shipping circles. She had not been heard in many days, having been last reported off the Lizard Dec. 10 and watch was being kept for her on both sides of the Atlantic and as far south as Bermuda.

The Mount Royal belongs to the Canadian Pacific Railway's Atlantic service. She left Antwerp Dec. 7 for St. John, N. B., with 300 Hungarian emigrants and a crew of about 100 men. She was first definitely sighted off Old Head, of Kinsale, 16 miles west of this port early today. She was then proceeding slowly under her own steam, and signaled that she was coming in here. She declined the help of a tug that was sent out to assist her, and came in alone.

The Mount Royal had trouble with her boilers, and was compelled to put back. Shortly after leaving the British coast she encountered a series of violent gales. She battled with the heavy weather for a fortnight, until Christmas Eve, when serious trouble with her boilers developed. The steamer was then in longitude 24:50 west and latitude 45 north. The engine-room staff ultimately succeeded in obtaining a moderate supply of steam, but the weather was such that the captain reluctantly decided it was best to make for the Irish coast. The steamer was headed about and steamed slowly into port. Passengers and crew are all well.

Rumor That He Follows Scott
Is News To Senator Coffey

Has Not Given Any Thought as To the Secretaryship of State.

A dispatch from Toronto this morning states that Senator Coffey has been prominently mentioned as a successor in the cabinet of Hon. R. W. Scott, whose retirement will likely take place before the next general election. "The news comes as a complete surprise to me," said Senator Coffey to The Advertiser this morning. "more particularly in view of the fact that the venerable and highly-esteemed gentleman who now holds the office of secretary of state and leader of the Senate, is still quite competent to perform his duties, and those who know him express the wish that he may yet be spared for some years to serve his country. His career has reflected great honor upon Canada, and the end of his term will come all too soon."

Regarding his possible acceptance of the office, Senator Coffey could say nothing as he had never given the matter any thought.

THE LAST TRIBUTE TO NED HANLAN
THOUSANDS ATTEND THE FUNERAL

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Jan. 8.—The funeral of the late Ned Hanlan, once the world's greatest oarsman, took place this afternoon from St. Andrew's Church, King street, to Necropolis Cemetery. From 11 o'clock till 1:30, the body lay in state in the church, viewed by thousands. A private service for the family was conducted at the house on Beverley street, public service taking place at the church at 2:30. Rev. T. C. Brown officiated. The funeral procession formed up, proceeding along King street, up Yonge to Gerrard to Necropolis Cemetery, followed by thousands in carriages and on foot. The pallbearers were Joseph Wright, Jake Gaudaur, James Rice, New York, former Toronto oarsman; David Ward, H. J. P. Good, Captain John Wilson, Fred Mossop, Charles Pearson.

Controller Ward, Ald. Church, Mayor-Elect Oliver and Messrs. Spence, Bradin and Stewart officially represented the city council.

Boy Had Close Call From Injury

A little boy named Carroll had a close call from being seriously injured at the corner of Richmond and Dundas streets, yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock when a Belt Line car which was turning south took the switch the wrong way, and the rear trucks started up Richmond street.

This caused the car to strike a rig belonging to the City Parcel Express, and the horse became very much frightened and jumped wildly.

The little boy was standing close to the wagon and before he could escape was knocked down and badly bruised.

A COUSIN OF EARL GREY SUICIDES

New York, Jan. 6.—A young man who registered at the Hermitage Hotel yesterday afternoon as H. Clay Duberley, Canada, committed suicide there tonight by swallowing some narcotic poison. He was found unconscious in his room and died while two physicians were working over him.

On a bureau in the room were found letters addressed to the Hon. Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada; James Grey Duberley (the young man's father), West Cannons, Yarmouth, England; Miss Amy Stanshore, Lady St. John, Melchbourne Park, Bedford, England; the Hon. Hugh Masters, Buckworth Rectory, Huntingdon, England.

Apparently Duberley was a distant cousin of Earl Grey. The daughter of a younger brother of the second Earl married James Duberley, of Gaines Hall, Huntingdonshire. The Governor-General of Canada is the fourth earl and a grandson of the second earl.

DROPPED DEAD RISING TO PRAY

Elora, Ont., Jan. 7.—Edward Farrow, of this town, dropped dead at a prayer meeting being held in Chalmers Church last night. He had just risen to pray when he collapsed and expired almost instantly. The church was very warm and it is believed that the cause of his death was heart failure. Mr. Farrow was seventy-six years of age and an enthusiastic member of the Methodist church here, and for some time was a local preacher.

Chief Justice Opens January Assizes

The January assizes opened this morning before Hon. Chief Justice Sir Wm. Meredith.

The address to the grand jury was not a lengthy one. His lordship was pleased to state that the jury had no criminal cases to be tried, as in the only one on the list, that of the crown vs. Noah, murder, a true bill had been found at the last assizes.

His lordship stated that he had read in the newspapers that a large number of Central Prison men were at present confined in the county jail. The jury was instructed to investigate the matter, and if possible learn the reason for the present congestion in the jail.

The Lamond vs. Grand Trunk damage action was transferred from the jury to the non-jury list. The case is being heard today.

The cases of Cole vs. Canadian Fire, Cole vs. London Mutual, Cole vs. Hartford, Cole vs. Monarch, and Fitzgerald vs. Barbour were also transferred to the non-jury list.

No settlements were recorded.

A. O. U. W. Installation.

The installation of officers of Star Lodge A. O. U. W. No. 367 will take place this evening.

Don't Take Milk at Night!

Milk in any form taken at night is apt to cause digestive disturbance. Your night's rest is not refreshing. To appease hunger or merely for comfort's sake, "BOVRI" in the form of a bouillon or sandwiched between thin bread and butter is excellent. After this light supper you will sleep well and awake refreshed.

STEVELY ELECTED MAYOR

Gave Ald. Elect Parsons a hard run for the last position. Another to fall by the wayside was ex-Ald. John Forristal, a man who made a splendid alderman, and whose election was looked upon as a certainty. He finished fourteenth man, just seventeen votes behind Mr. Parsons.

The new-men elected are ex-Ald. Greenlee, Donald A. Stewart, Donald Ferguson, ex-Ald. Armstrong, Charles G. Moorehead and Robt. Parsons. The old councillors to be elected were Ald. Beattie, Ald. Gerry, Ald. Stevenson, Ald. Rose, Ald. Booth and Ald. Saunders.

Wm. Jones Elected.

The contest for water commissioner was even more one-sided than the contest for the mayoralty. Ex-Commissioner William Jones defeated Ex-Commissioner Saunders by 1,326 majority.

Mr. Jones' election was conceded from the beginning. He has had a long experience on the commission, and is considered an authority on water matters. He is a shrewd businessman, and will bring a scheme for the solution of the water shortage before the citizens immediately.

Mr. Saunders was in favor of the Komoka scheme, and worked hard for it, but it was defeated.

Vote a Large One.

In spite of the fact that during the morning a comparatively small vote was polled, there was a decided change in the afternoon, and a large vote was registered—considerably larger, in fact, than last year, although somewhat smaller than in 1906, when Ald. Stevely and Ex-Mayor Judd were the contestants.

In 1906 there were 6,405 votes polled for the two majority candidates; in 1907, 5,919, and this year, 6,270 votes were polled.

There was quite a large women's vote polled in the afternoon, much larger than was anticipated. The larger vote polled this year is reflected in the aldermanic contest.

Last year Ald. Matthews led, with 2,414. This year, Ald. Beattie, the first man on the aldermanic list, has 2,876, over 450 more.

The other candidates all run higher than last year in total vote.

The Council.

Seven of the aldermen elected were on the slate as in favor of allowing the people to vote on the question of Sunday cars.

Several of those who will allow the vote to be taken are not in favor of Sunday street cars themselves, but take the position that if a sufficiently signed petition is submitted to the council asking for a vote on the question, the vote will have to be taken, allowing the people to settle it themselves. The Rational Sunday League were well pleased with the results.

Politically, the council is made up of eight Liberals, three Conservatives and one Conservative Labor man, with a Liberal mayor. Ald. Beattie is a barrister, Ald. Gerry a contractor, D. A. Stewart an undertaker, Donald Ferguson a lumber dealer, Andrew Greenlee a harrister, Ald. Rose a liveryman, Ald. Booth a painter, Chas. G. Moorehead a cabinetmaker, Robt. Parsons a hardware merchant, Ald. Stevenson a physician, Ald. Saunders a carriagebuilder, and Geo. W. Armstrong a manufacturer.

The Bylaws.

As was anticipated the bylaws all carried with large majorities with the exception of the Komoka scheme.

The power bylaw carried practically three to one.

The consumption hospital bylaw had a large support and the fire halls bylaw carried splendidly.

This latter vote was a tribute to Chief Clark, as it was on his recommendation that the halls were voted for. The Komoka scheme was buried with its advocate Commissioner Saunders.

Board of Education. The board of education contest was a good one. Trustee Strong withdrew, leaving three of the board to seek reelection.

They were Trustee Teasdale, Trustee Westervelt and Trustee Weekes. As was expected all were re-elected.

Trustee Teasdale polled a large vote, heading the poll. His action in supporting R. A. Liff for the principalship of the collegiate some months ago was high-minded and fair, and his large vote was a tribute to the man who believed in fair play.

Trustee Westervelt polled a big vote. The new-comer to the board of education is Rev. D. S. Hamilton, pastor of the First Congregational Church. Mr. Hamilton is a public-spirited citizen, and will make a valuable acquisition to the board of education.

Trustee Weekes did well. The small vote polled by Rev. Victor J. Gilpin is smaller than his friends expected.

Dr. Kingsmill was fifth man, and was a few over a hundred of being elected. Barbour and Trafford were not high.

The Elected.

Teasdale	2,556
Westervelt	2,512
Hamilton	2,363
Weekes	2,226

The Defeated.

Kingsmill	2,112
Barbour	1,497
Trafford	1,454
Gilpin	1,251

Alliance Interfered.

The Lord's Day Alliance is also well pleased with the complexion of the council.

"We are perfectly satisfied with the council," said Rev. E. B. Lancelley to The Advertiser this morning. "We supposed to be on the Rational Sunday League slate. We know that the only man who came out straight on a Sunday street car slate was buried, and he was Ald. Cooper. He took the ground that it was illegal to put a by-law to the people and we take the ground that it is illegal to put a by-law to the people."

The Elected. Ald. Beattie, who headed the list of aldermanic candidates, is one of the past year's council. He has had municipal experience before, but dropped out for a couple of years, coming back last year. He was chairman of No. 1 committee during the year, and made a very good record on the finance committee.

Ald. Gerry. Ald. Gerry is one of the old standbys of the council, and as usual was close up. This year he again is in second place, being just behind Ald. Beattie. Ald. Gerry has had many years of hard service in the council, and as he has been a conscientious and hard-working alderman, his election was assured as soon as he announced his candidature.

A Strong Candidate. One of the real surprises of the campaign was the run made by Mr. D. A. Stewart. Mr. Stewart has never before ventured into the local municipal arena, and his splendid run is a sincere tribute to his worth. He will make one of the very best aldermen, being a shrewd, painstaking businessman. Although it was conceded that he would poll a large vote, his friends scarcely hoped that he would be so near the top. Within two hundred of first place is doing very well for the first time out.

Dan Ferguson. Dan Ferguson is another new-comer who has done exceedingly well. He is well known in the city, having been in business for many years. He ran for the water commission and was beaten by Chairman Darch after one of the most memorable contests in the history of the city. This year, after a great deal of pressure, he decided to try his canvas was short, but his splendid record entitled him to consideration, and he won hands down. He is a businessman of capacity and experience, and should make his mark in civic affairs.

Ald. Stevenson. The return of Ald. Stevenson to the council was conceded. During the year he has served on the council he has taken a keen interest in civic affairs and the work. His work the past year entitled him to consideration. He served on No. 1 committee, and did his work in splendid style. His high standing is gratifying to his friends.

Ald. Rose. Ald. Rose is another of last year's council to be returned, and he materially increased his position in the race over last year. He ran as the nominee of the Trades and Labor Council, but his name also appeared on the Conservative slate. Last year he served on No. 2 committee, where he did good work. He was a strong advocate of day labor, and insisted on its being carried out in all civic contracts.

Ald. Greenlee. The return of ex-Ald. Greenlee to the council is welcomed by a large class of citizens. Mr. Greenlee has had seven years of experience in the council. He has served on several important committees, where he has shown himself independent and resourceful.

Ald. Saunders. This makes Ald. Saunders' fifth year on the council. He has always been elected by a comfortable margin, and this year was no exception to the rule. He has served on No. 2 and No. 3 committees, where he has given conscientious service. He is particularly independent in thought and action. Ald. Saunders will do good work this year on the council board.

Ald. Booth. One of the seven members of the council seeking re-election, was Ald. Booth, and he was again elected in a comfortable position. Ald. Booth last year was a member of No. 3 committee, and ably assisted Ald. Gillean, chairman of No. 3 committee, in making a splendid surplus. He was also chairman of the special committee dealing with the Grand Trunk in the matter of track elevation.

Ald. Armstrong. Ex-Ald. Armstrong comes back to the council after an absence of a year. Last January he was defeated by a small margin, although his pet scheme, the swimming baths bylaw, was carried. He came out this year on the same platform, and was elected by a fair margin. He has had considerable municipal experience and has done good service.

Ald. Moorehead. Mr. Chas. G. Moorehead is another newcomer to the council. Mr. Moorehead made two attempts to get into an aldermanic chair, and each time he fell short by only a few votes. This year he was more fortunate, and although in eleventh place, had a comfortable margin. He came out as a representative of East London, and polled a heavy vote in the eastern section of the city. He should make a good alderman.

Ald. Parsons. The twelfth man on the list is Mr. Robert Parsons, the East London merchant. He was one of the dark horses in the race, and really furnished a surprise. He ran very strongly in the east end, and with that large support was able to pull through. He gave Ald. Cooper, the old war horse, an awful race, and beat him out by seven votes.

FRUIT BETTER THAN DRUGS

MODERN WAY TO CURE DISEASE.

Wonderful Results in Kidney, Liver and Skin Troubles.

Apple juice is the natural liver tonic, and increases the flow of bile. The bile, secreted in the liver, is the only purgative common to the human system. Apple juice also stimulates and strengthens the kidneys. Orange juice beautifies the skin and complexion as nothing else will. Figs and prunes increase the digestive fluids, strengthen the stomach, and build up digestion.

The medicinal part of fruit is much less than one part in a hundred. That is, in one hundred pounds of apples, there would not be a pound of the bitter substance that cures kidney and liver troubles.

An Ottawa physician discovered a method by which he combined the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes in such a way that an additional quantity of the bitter principle was added to the new compound. Then he further added rare tonics and internal antiseptics which greatly assist the intensified fruit juices in curing a disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the name of this new discovery—and thousands of people owe their good health to its virtues. For Constipation, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Skin, it is a certain and speedy cure.

If your druggist does not handle "Fruit-a-tives," refuse substitutes. Inclose price—50c a box, 6 for $2.50—we will send your order postpaid. Fruit-a-tives Limited, - Ottawa, Ont.

LONDON, TUESDAY, JAN. 7, 1908.

THE VOTE.

The election of Mr. Stevely by a majority of a thousand showed a praiseworthy degree of discrimination on the part of the electors. They were not influenced by party feeling to as great an extent as some former occasions, and felt free to decide the contest upon the merits of the two men.

No serious arguments could be advanced in favor of Ald. Matthews' candidature. It was not contended that he had greater ability than his opponent. His municipal record was not so lengthy as Mr. Stevely's and certainly not more useful. He had the prestige of having headed the aldermanic poll for two or three years, but men who have a large voting strength when they run for minor offices, often find that it fails them when they aspire to something higher.

Mr. Stevely has the qualifications which should make a successful mayor. He has shown himself capable in the management of his private interests, which are on no inconsiderable scale, and the city will get the benefit of his business training. As a member of the council for eight years he has displayed initiative and capacity, and he enters on his new duties thoroughly familiar with municipal routine. His success as president of the local board of trade is another favorable augury.

Mr. Stevely's election is a personal, not a party, triumph, and he may be depended upon to eschew partisanship during his term of office.

The electors have chosen on the whole a good city council. One or two of the defeated candidates deserved election, but there is cause for satisfaction in the absence from this year's board of two or three men who had little to recommend them, but who have contrived to be elected hitherto.

There is a significance in the school board elections, which should not be lost on some of the trustees. The poll was headed by Dr. Teasdale, who was the only one on his ticket to be elected. Citizens have not forgotten his creditable part in the matter of the Collegiate Institute principalship. He declined to join his party colleagues in their indefensible treatment of senior members of the institute staff. People have appreciated his spirit of fair play. It is to be hoped this matter will be as fresh in their memory a year hence when the men responsible for the outrage may ask for their votes again.

The impracticable Komoka scheme has been given its quietus, in spite of popular sentiment in favor of the retention of spring water for drinking purposes. Last year the citizens were asked to pronounce upon it at short notice, and it came near to adoption. They have since had time to weigh it. Two eminent engineers, who have reported upon the problem within the past year, have recommended other solutions. The way is now clear for the consideration of these alternatives. The members of the new waterworks board will be expected to approach the question with an open mind, and place the remaining schemes fairly before the ratepayers for their judgment. In a recent letter which has not been heretofore published, Mr. Willis Chipman, the noted Toronto engineer, says of the situation in London:

"If a large fire should break out in the business section, the fire losses would be estimated in millions. The question of fire protection does not appear to have been given the attention it deserves by the water commissioners. I am strongly of the opinion that the fire underwriters will shortly demand that all cities of the size and importance of London must install a high-pressure system in the business districts, otherwise each wholesale business, factory and important building, will be equipped with an independent fire system, drawing water from tanks fed from the city mains. This will be much more expensive in the long run to the parties benefited than the high-pressure system. If the construction of the high-pressure system be delayed the city will be forced to purchase a large number of steam fire engines, which will be expensive to maintain, and cannot compare in efficiency with the high-pressure system."

Mr. Chipman has laid his finger on one of the weak spots of both the Komoka and the river filtration schemes. No plan will be complete which ignores the vital matter of fire protection. The high-pressure system is the answer to a series of great calamities, and sooner or later every important urban community will adopt it in self-defense. In this city it would serve two ends. It would immeasurably improve the fire-fighting facilities and prolong the period in which spring water may be used for domestic purposes.

The power bylaw carried in the city by a vote of three to one. Similar bylaws were carried in all the municipalities embraced in the Niagara power scheme, excepting Ingersoll. No one who is not an electrical expert can understand the minutiae of the scheme, but people have placed faith in the assurances of its official promoters. If it can be financed successfully by the various municipalities, it will prove to be of considerable benefit to many thousands in Western Ontario. It means an extension of the functions of municipal government in an untrodden field, and citizens must exercise the greatest care in the choice of men to be entrusted with working it out. As for this city, there is no general disposition to do injustice to private interests. No doubt many supported the bylaw on the assumption that the local electrical company would be given an opportunity to dispose of its plant, or such portion of it as could be used economically by the municipality.

The majority for the hospital for consumptives bylaw is satisfactory, though it is surprising that so humane a project did not appeal to the large number of ratepayers, who cast their votes against it. The erection of a sanatorium is now an assured fact, if the Provincial Government will do its duty. The institution will wipe out a reproach upon the city and county, and will be the means of combating the white plague in this district with a degree of effectiveness which could not be obtained in any other way. The philanthropic ladies and gentlemen who have promoted this good work, against discouragement in unlooked-for quarters, have their reward, and are entitled to the thanks of the community.

The bylaw for the erection of fire halls in the north and east ends found favor in districts which were not to be directly benefited. The ratepayers showed good citizenship in this respect. The fire brigade has been raised to a high state of efficiency, and with a high pressure system in the congested district the city's fire-fighting facilities would be second to none.

CANADA AND THE WEST INDIES.

The campaign conducted by Sir Daniel Morris in the British West Indies and British Guiana in favor of better trade relations with Canada appears about to bear fruit. Recently the Argosy, an influential journal published in Demerara, published an article vigorously advocating reciprocity with the Dominion, and a later issue of that paper indicates that the movement is gaining headway.

Addressing a meeting at Barbados, Sir Daniel pointed out how that island was specially interested in reciprocity with Canada, as the Dominion in 1906 took nearly 70 per cent of its sugar and 90 per cent of its molasses and syrups. Sir Daniel's opinion is that the only means of safeguarding the West Indian sugar industry is for those colonies to offer Canada some preference in the local markets and thus avoid the danger of foreign countries stepping in and taking away what might be readily conceded if united and immediate action were taken.

Following the example of British Guiana, Barbados has decided to join the other island colonies in organizing a special conference to consider the desirability of approaching Canada and arranging such reciprocal relations as may be found mutually advantageous to the countries concerned. The conference is to be held this month, and as there seems to be the utmost unanimity of opinion among the people of the various islands in favor of closer relations with Canada, it is but reasonable to look for overtures along that line in the near future.

Taken individually the trade of any of these islands does not amount to a great deal, but as a whole, and directed into one channel, it reaches the respectable sum of nearly fifty million dollars annually. The islands are beginning to realize this, and to see that only by united action can they make themselves worth bargaining with. To the efforts of Sir Daniel Morris is mainly due the fact that the islands are being brought to a true sense of their position, and to recognize that in Canada may be found their best and most profitable customer. In his capacity as trade organizer for the different islands, Sir Daniel has been carrying on an educational campaign that is meeting with gratifying results, and to prepare himself for his work he visited Canada a year or so ago, gaining some valuable information while here. Of course, any overtures for closer relations that may come from the islands are certain to receive due consideration at the hands of the Government at Ottawa.

THE INSURANCE BILL.

From time to time since the insurance commission made its report comments and suggestions have been made with the intent of securing as perfect and workable a law as possible. The Minister of Finance has not adopted the bill drafted by the commission, but instead has introduced a bill which does not conform either to the bill of the commission or the act under which life assurance has satisfactorily worked in Canada during many years past. It is not contended that the existing law is perfect, but it is on the whole very good and much to be preferred to either bill now under consideration. A summary of the points to which reference has been made might be useful at the present time.

Section 15 requires that the securities to be deposited with the Government shall be the securities of or guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada, one of the provinces, or the United Kingdom, or if put up by a foreign company the securities of or guaranteed by the Government of that country. The treasury board may accept other securities. It is suggested that any of the securities in which a company may invest should be accepted as well.

Section 36 requires cost of new business and renewal business to be given separately and in detail, and "when any item of general expenditure is not referable solely to the cost of one or the other such item shall be distributed in such detail as may be sufficient to show whether the distribution has been equitable." It is suggested that this should be struck out. It is irksome and unnecessarily expensive. It is almost impossible to comply even in part with this clause and would lead to untruthful and unreliable statistics. Each year of experience adds value to the statistics of life assurance, but these statistics should be true.

Section 42 makes provision respecting the liabilities of the company and the method allowable in reaching a valuation. This clause was suggested to meet the apparent injustice of compelling a company to put up security in addition to the expenditure of money to secure new business. It caused a young company to appear impaired when it should not have done so. It is further suggested that the clause might go even to greater lengths than it does. It should commence Jan. 1, 1908, and be retroactive for five years.

Section 52 deals with the amalgamation of two companies or the reinsurance of one company by another, and it is suggested that sub-section 7, which declares that no company which has an impaired capital shall be allowed to amalgamate, should be struck out. If the policyholders are protected that should be sufficient.

Section 53 seeks to limit the cost of new business. It is suggested that this is an unbusinesslike provision, it bears hardest on a new company, but would not be acceptable to an old company. Each new field entered is an experiment. New and sparsely settled communities should not be deprived of the advantages of life insurance because it may cost a little more to reach them. These sections of the country will fill up, and in time be less expensive. Apart altogether from the interests of such communities a company cannot tell or limit beforehand the cost of new business, much less a new company, and this clause will tend to shut out new enterprises and create monopoly.

Sections 54, 55, 56, 57 and 58 are clauses dealing with the internal regulation of the companies' affairs, which can be better contrived by the directors. Each company knows its own needs best, and contracts that can be made in another way if really wanted are not of the class that should be legislated against. Why should not the agent who succeeds in writing the largest amount of insurance be rewarded, or why should rivalry between agents be prohibited? One of the maxims of equity courts is "Equity aids the vigilant, not the indolent."

Section 60 is the clause defining the limits within which investments may be made. Here again the law as it now is, is better than that proposed. This is true, even if in some respects the new bill would widen the power of investment. There can be no objection to investment in the securities of the Dominion of Canada or any of its provinces, or the Government of any foreign country or state wherein the company carries on business, or municipal or school debentures. It is when the bill seeks to deal with the bonds and stocks that its limitations and restrictions become unworkable and unsound. There should be no hesitation in placing the securities of stocks of chartered banks, trust companies and loan companies on the list. These are securities already sanctioned by the laws of Canada, or each province, and much home and foreign trust money is held by them. If they are excluded it casts a doubt on these securities both at home and abroad, and argues that the laws regulating them are unsound. Trust companies and loan companies deal almost exclusively with real estate securities and the bill sanctions investment in mortgages on real estate up to 60 per cent of the value. These companies give that security with the added security of the benefit of the connections formed by these companies and their facilities for transacting business. There is less liability to loss by fraud or forgery than in individual cases. A life company having a million or two invested in mortgages is to that extent a loan or trust company, and if by purchase of stock or other securities of these companies as good results can be obtained, should they not be permitted to do so? Are the two securities not practically similar? With reference to bank stocks the commission favored these, and the minister apparently did not wish to specially single them out for favor. Then it would be better to permit investment freely in the bonds, debentures or stocks of any other company? These securities would be annually inspected by the department of insurance, and that fact should be sufficient check. The companies knowing that any unwise investments made during the year would likely be objected to, and probably reported to the Finance Minister, would be as careful as the Finance Minister himself. The other provisions of the clause, allowing investment in mortgages to the extent of 60 per cent of the value of the property, and in life and endowment policies, is all right, except that there is no need of the limitation. One loan, where 70, or even 80, per cent is loaned, may be safer than another of only 50 per cent. The discretion should be left with the directors. All the powers referred to should be given to all companies, and whatever, if any, restrictions are ultimately decided upon, they should not apply to the investment of the capital stock of any company, or such part of it as is not required to constitute the reserve.

The freedom enjoyed by England is correct and best suited to Canada, and should the House adopt the English law it will not be necessary to consider the suggestions here made, and which are only made in the event of restrictions of any kind being adopted.

Sections 62 and 63 are matters for internal regulation, and should be struck out. The law should, as it stands, be sufficient protection against the commission of any wrong in the direction indicated.

Section 77 makes a proxy valid only for two months. This is too short, and should be similar to loan company proxies, valid for three years, or similar to the bank act, valid for two years. The management would have the machinery to obtain the proxies, and could easily obtain any advantage desired.

Section 89 makes distribution of profits triennially compulsory. Every five years is sufficiently frequent.

Section 90 and following sections would be better dealt with if left to the discretion of the management of each company. It entails a great deal of bookkeeping and unnecessary work. The competition of the business is itself the best regulator.

Section 97—This section makes standard provisions necessary. Standard provisions, if sound, are all right, but the companies, without obtaining the consent of the department, should be allowed to add such conditions or provisions or new policies as they may be advised.

The subject of life assurance is one in which the whole people are deeply interested, and the suggestions made are with the view of obtaining amendments in the bill proposed so as to meet the requirements of the business. All classes of life assurance have in the past been very beneficial.

From the benefit society, which paid a small sum annually to the widow and each child, up to the large insurance required by the businessman as a security; from the association, in which each member paid a dollar, until death left its members very few, up to the largest assessment company known; from the least to the most successful company, association, lodge or fraternity—all are entitled to encouragement and approval. Where any of these fail, they meet with a measure of success sufficient to justify their existence. The harsh hand of unnecessary restriction should not be laid on them. Every consideration urges and justifies liberal treatment. They flourished in the past because of the good that they had done, and should be allowed to live in the future because of the "good that they can do." There is not a lodge or benefit society or fraternity not greatly interested in this bill. There is scarcely a home without a benefit certificate or a policy. All these unite in asking for a broad, liberal, national insurance act.

THE PANIC AND AFTER.

In endeavoring to account for the recent business panic in the United States, the comptroller of the currency, Mr. Ridley, shows that his views are very similar to those of President Roosevelt. The latter bluntly ascribed it to speculation; Mr. Ridley says the trouble was due to overexpansion of business, and too much trading in stocks. He believes that on no one does the duty of mitigating the effects of the panic fall so directly as on the banks. By their partial suspension of payments and their disarrangement of the machinery of domestic exchanges and remittances, necessary though it may have been, they first brought the effects of the business reaction to bear on their customers and the business public. It is manifestly their duty to restore business to normal conditions by resuming their functions as promptly and fully as possible. That there is the strongest desire and disposition on the part of the banks to do this may be taken as a good sign, and further cause for satisfaction is found in the fact that present conditions are such as to make recovery much more prompt than has been the case after similar financial crises.

What the comptroller considers the striking feature of the panic of 1907 is that, sudden and severe as it was, the trouble with the banks has not been worse, and the failures more numerous and widespread. From Oct. 20 to Dec. 30 last there were but sixteen failures or suspensions of national banks. Of these two have resumed and several others should do likewise in the near future. When contrasted with the panic of 1893, when 160 national banks failed, of which 54 were never reopened, it will be seen that the results of the recent disturbance were not so bad after all. The total number of national bank failures during the whole of 1907—just 21—has been exceeded many times in years when there has been nothing that could be called a panic. The banks have stood the strain of the past month or two better than ever before, and they begin the new year in better condition than they ever were after such a crisis.

39,000 Yards Underpriced New Embroideries

Most important values in Swiss and Cambric Embroideries and Insertions to match. This purchase of 39,000 yards is aside from our regular stock and was bought considerably under price for our January White Sale. It is an enormous lot, and would be too large, if it were not for the fact that the people of London look to us almost entirely to supply their embroidery wants, so we can handle quantities that would be out of the question for others. This lot will prove a highly satisfactory one—among them are Corset Cover Embroideries, beddings, edgings, flouncings, etc., etc.

Swiss and Cambric Embroideries and Insertions to match..... 3c up to 50c yard

THE COMPTROLLER, WHILE recognizing that the panic is over and the worst is past, sees a long period of readjustment and recuperation before the people. Values of all kinds, he says, will have to be rearranged. He predicts more industrial and commercial failures and probably some more bank failures. A period of retrenchment and liquidation must be gone through, but it will be neither so long nor so trying as it has been at other times. The country has been going too fast in business, and all classes of people have been living too extravagantly. The check which must be put to such a state of affairs during the period of readjustment cannot but prove beneficial all around.

THE BRITISH MIRACLE.
[London Mail.]

The award to Rudyard Kipling of the Nobel literary prize, which the testator decreed "to the best idealistic literary work," has caused a good deal of surprise in France, and M. de Vogue, in the Figaro, attempts to explain the honoring of "le glorificateur du monde Anglo-Saxon."

He thinks that Mr. Kipling was chosen as the author most representative of the British race.

"After Shakespeare and Defoe," he writes, "no one helps us to understand the British miracle as Kipling does. He expresses and represents a force which dominates the world. His books bring to mind the scimitar Rock of Gibraltar, bristling with cannon, guarded by gentlemen who play tennis, drink whisky, think life is easy and are each and all ready to suffer atrocious death before relaxing their grip of a piece of the world on which they have laid hand."

"Yet we can hear Kipling gibe at them."

He seems to say, 'I know them. They are very stupid. But they are British. And Britain rules hundreds of millions. The Daily constructed clumsily the British machine of empire. Yet he has never built a finer one since Rome; and he never will create a greater one than Britain.'

SOME DAY, O SEEKER OF DREAMS.
[Arthur Stringer, in Everybody's Magazine.]

Some day, O Seeker of Dreams, they will seek even us!

Some day they will wake, fellow singer, and hunger and want.

For the ways to the lonelier heights! So let us, shy weaver of beauty, take heart,

For out of our dust they will call to us yet!

Let us wait, and sing, and be wise, As the sea has waited and sung.

As the hills through the night have been wise!

For we are the bringers of light, and the voices of love.

Aye, we are the soothers of pain, the appeasers of death.

The dusk and the star and the gleam, and know not whether they tread.

They will come to us crying aloud like a child in the night.

And when they have learned of our lips, Still back to our feet they will grope.

For that ultimate essence and core of all song.

To usher them empty and naked, then out to the answering stars.

Where silence and dreaming and music are one!

THE TEST.

TORONTO'S REFORMATION.
[Ottawa Journal.]

Without intending it, perhaps, Toronto has put herself in shape to get something from the Dominion Government if she asks it this year. A Liberal has been chosen as mayor.

Spence, Harrison and Ward are Liberals, and Hoekstra is a Conservative. In the full council, eighteen aldermen, four controllers and the mayor, 23 in all, twelve are Liberals and eleven are Conservatives. Toronto has plainly broken from political party rule in municipal affairs. Because when the straight party line is drawn in Toronto, the fighting chance is the best that the Liberal gets.

LIBERAL CONVENTION
Many Meetings Being Arranged for—Hon. A. G. MacKay's Busy Time.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Mr. F. G. Inwood, general secretary of the Liberal Association, reports that arrangements have been completed for conventions to be held as follows:

Friday, Jan. 10.—East Lambton, Dominion and Provincial, at Watford.

Tuesday, Jan. 14.—North Renfrew, Dominion and Provincial, at Pembroke.

Thursday, Jan. 16.—East Northumberland, Dominion and Provincial, at Watford.

Friday, Jan. 17.—North Ontario, Provincial, at Beaverton.

Saturday, Jan. 18.—East Middlesex, Provincial, at London.

Tuesday, Jan. 21.—Caldwell, Provincial, at Tottenham.

Wednesday, Jan. 23.—South Waterloo, Provincial, at Galt.

Hon. A. G. MacKay, Provincial leader, will address the conventions, commencing with East Northumberland.

WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR WARDENSHIP

Mr. Samuel Oakes, of Caradoc, Makes Statement to The Advertiser.

HON. MR. LEMIEUX BACK; SURE OF SOLUTION

Believes That Jap Immigration Trouble Will Be Satisfactorily Settled.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 6.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux arrived this morning from Japan on the Empress of China. Regarding the result of his mission to Japan, he made the following statement: "Much as I would like to speak, I cannot at present say what is the result of the negotiations. Any statement I have to make belongs to the council. My mission will be completed only after my return to Ottawa, where I expect to be at the end of the week. My colleagues will then be in a position to fully consider the whole question. I have every reason to believe a solution of the whole difficulty will soon be reached. I am pleased to say that the negotiations at the foreign office in Tokio have been carried on in a very friendly spirit. My visit to Japan has been very agreeable and I carry back home none but pleasant recollections."

Mrs. Lemieux did not return with the minister. She, Mr. Joseph Pope and Mr. Baker are coming via San Francisco. Mr. Lemieux declined to be asked to be offered him in Vancouver, owing to his desire to proceed to Ottawa at once.

NORTH HURON LIBERALS

By-Election Campaign in Full Swing—Series of Meetings Arranged.

Clinton, Jan. 7.—The Liberals of North Huron are already actively at work for the by-election, and Mr. F. G. Inwood, secretary of the Ontario Reform Association, has already arranged for the following meetings: Wednesday, Jan. 8, at Mount Carmel; Thursday, Jan. 9, at Shipika; Friday, Jan. 10, at Grand Bend, and Saturday, Jan. 11, at Strong's Hall, Tuckersmith Township.

These meetings will be held in the evening and will be addressed by prominent Liberal speakers.

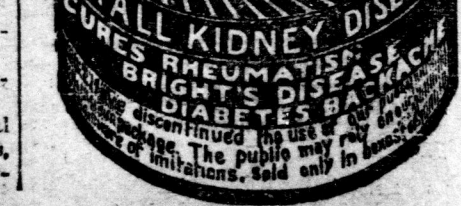

The nomination takes place at Hensall on Jan. 15, and the polling a week later, on Jan. 22.

YEARNING FOR HER AFFINITY.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

"Don't you ever feel a yearning for your affinity?" asked the romantic girl.

"Well, I guess yes," answered the practical married woman. "John's been away on business a week, the cook's quit, the baby's teething, the coal's getting low, and somebody's got to shovel the snow off the walk. You'd have a right to yearn if you were in my fix."

There was not very much to choose between the two in Archie's estimation. Married or dead, Jack would be lost to her, and, according to his view, it must be ever as much easier for a girl to see a man passing into the next world than to have him remaining in this one and putting some one into the place that had been hers.

Margot generally took things quietly, of course; she was not given to making an outcry. He believed, though she did not say so much about it, that she had nearly as much grit as Greta had. And Greta was a caution! But then Greta wasn't silent. Heavens, no! She didn't leave a fellow in doubt as to her frame of mind.

"Are you to be one of Isobel's bridesmaids?" he inquired, when he tired of indulging in reflections.

Advertiser Patterns

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN

4278—IN THE NEW OVER-DRESS EFFECT.

The effect of the draped skirt is ungenially graceful, and the accompanying sketch illustrates a dress for a young girl which demonstrates how charmingly this effect can be obtained with the expenditure of a small amount of trouble. The waist is provided with a lining which serves for a girdle; but this might, if preferred, be finished separately, and thus allow for diversity of underclothes. The overskirt, and mandarin sleeves are cut in one, thus producing the long, sloping shoulder and graceful Oriental effect now so much in vogue. The skirt is cut in five gores, and is quite plain except for bias trimming bands, which afford a quaint and pretty trimming in over-skirt fashion. The dress is designed especially for girls from fourteen to seventeen, and will be appreciated by the mother who realizes how difficult it is to clothe gracefully girls between these ages. For the 16-year size 8 1/2 yards of 27-inch material will be required.

4278—SIZES 14, 15, 16, 17 years. The price of this pattern is 10c.

Tom I have felt that I was taking undue advantage of your generosity.

He interrupted her sharply. "What do you believe you could do?" "I have thought of qualifying as a nurse. Afterward, if Tom gets on, I may go to him. But nursing would offer no immediate livelihood, and I should like the duties, I think."

Sir Anthony ran his eye over her simple pretty gown. He knew little of such matters, but it looked both fresh and dainty, and a question which his greed had kept him from asking hitherto sprang to his lips and would not be restrained.

"What about your dressmaker's bills?" he questioned abruptly. "What have you been doing for clothes since you came here?"

"I have not needed any." She glanced down at her frock and flushed slightly. "My mourning, of course, was all new when I came, and I had a big stock of other dresses and things. They have required some touching up, but I have done that myself. And you gave me some money—twice," she added, her flush deepening.

Once five pounds, and another time ten, he remembered. He did not know that the second had been posted to Tom.

"There will be a change regarding that from now," he said, shortly. "I will give you thirty pounds every quarter, as I have been in the habit of giving Isobel. And don't let me hear anything more about going away. If you have any doubts regarding having earned your living here, I have none; you have fulfilled Isobel's duties for a long time and I am looking to you to take her place entirely after she is gone."

"But I would rather leave Fleechill," she faltered, the tears coming back to her eyes. "Indeed I would, Sir Anthony. You are very generous, and I am more than grateful, but I—I would rather go."

He made a gesture of impatience, and commenced to unfold his paper. "I will not consent," he said, stubbornly.

"But, Sir Anthony—"

"If you go, it will be against my express desire, in deliberate defiance of what you know to be my wishes, and I cannot believe you will do this. Decide for yourself, but you know my opinion. I require you here."

He adjusted his glasses and addressed himself to the Stock Exchange column. In silence, looking into the fire but seeing only a blurred, red mass, because of the mist that dimmed her eyes, was there never to be any easing of the yoke for her? she wondered. Must she stay on and suffer—suffer always, till she was old and gray? She had turned to him again, her face wistful.

"Sir Anthony?"

"Well?"

"If I remain will you make an effort to let me be satisfied on one point?"

"What is that?"

"My parentage. I wish to know who my father was. I have tried to be loyal, to believe that my mother did not intend that we should know, and, therefore, to let the matter rest, but I cannot. I cannot but think that had she had an opportunity of telling us at the end, she would not have left us in ignorance."

"But she did leave you in ignorance," he said, sharply. "I cannot help you."

"It means very much to me, Sir Anthony."

"I cannot do anything."

"Then I must do it myself," she said with quiet resolution. "There must be some one living who knew my mother when Tom and I were born. I will advertise."

"What would it avail you to know?"

"I have never been certain that he is dead," she said in a low voice. "We were brought up to believe that he was, but my mother never actually said so. And very often have thought that he may not be. A stranger, whom she had sent for, was with her when she died, and I have wondered often whether he could have been my father."

"Couldn't you find out?"

"No. None of the servants knew his name—the telegraph which she sent asking him to go to her was sent to the office in a sealed envelope. Mamma was always reticent about her own affairs. But I must know about her marriage. There are various ways by which I may find out, and I will try them all."

Anthony Garrick put down his paper and rose to his feet.

"Take my advice and leave well alone," he said. "You will regret it always if you do not."

"Regret it? Why?"

"Why? Because anything you may discover can only mean the tarnishing of your mother's name," he said, deliberately.

CHAPTER XIX.

Sir Anthony's Discovery.

For a full minute Garrick stood in stunned silence, then her eyes flashed, and she threw back her head.

"That is a lie!" she cried. "I do not believe you. Whatever my mother may have had to bear, she had nothing to be ashamed of."

Sir Anthony shrugged his shoulders. "I cannot for the fact upon you. You will know how angry I have been to saying anything. But you understand now the necessity for leaving matters as they are."

"I understand the necessity of clearing my mother's name," she answered, proudly. "And I shall do it, Sir Anthony. I shall put it out of your power to say to others what you have said to me."

She turned from him and swept across the floor, her slim figure very erect. At the door she glanced over her shoulder.

"I cannot stay here now," she said. "As soon as I can make my arrangements to go, I will."

He twisted the key in the lock after she passed out, and began to pace the room.

What fiendish freak of fate had brought this about? he asked himself fiercely. What had unsettled the girl now, after all these months of quietude? He had been thankful to be rid of Tom—the boy's presence had been a menace to his safety—but Margot was different. She was clever, and possessed unwearied patience. Heaven only knew what mischief she might make if she went away from him and began searching for the past. He had been a fool to touch her pride; he would be a greater fool still if he let her go.

That box her mother had given him—what if she traced that? He ought to have destroyed it at the time; or, at any rate, destroyed the papers which were in it. It was difficult to guess what these were—certificates and letters such as women treasure, undoubtedly, and which would prove condemnatory evidence against him if they were brought to the light of day. It had been the height of folly to keep them, apart from the fear of Margot getting on their track. If anything should happen to him, they would fall into the hands of the first one who turned out his safe and tell their own tale. Well, they never should. He would make short work of them now.

He crossed to his safe and unlocked it, lifted out various documents which were ranged in orderly precision along the bottom, and thrust his hand back into the innermost recesses. But nothing gave the cold metal met his touch; his fingers, groping swiftly, found only empty space.

Where on earth? He put it there; he knew he put it there. He reiterated the assurance to himself as he tore out the contents of the safe, scattering papers and books in confusion on the floor, till the last packet, the last book, was reached, and the interior, bare of everything, lay before him; no trace of the silver-bound box anywhere.

He sat down, a hand on either knee, staring from the empty safe to the litter at his feet, from the litter to the safe again, and tried to collect his thoughts.

He looked the box in the safe. He did not require to question that fact; he had put it at the very back, in a corner, and built up some books before it so that it should not be seen by any casual onlooker in whose presence he might have to unlock the heavy iron door. These books had not been disturbed for months. How long the box might have been missing from its hiding place it was impossible to tell.

How it had been put at he did not waste time speculating. This was of little consequence. Who had got it? was the outstanding question. That person, whoever he or she might be, had either known or guessed his secret. Only such knowledge or suspicion could have led to the theft. Of that he was convinced, and the consciousness that he might be struck at out of the dark at any moment turned him cold with fear.

To Be Continued.

JEALOUSY IS MERE DISEASE

Paris Doctor Says a Cold Douche Is Fatal To "Green-Eyed Monster."

Paris, January 5.—A Paris physician, Dr. Mairat, has formulated the startling theory that jealousy is simply a physiological disease. He says it ought to be treated like other ailments, medically, and that if so dealt with it can be cured.

Dr. Mairat considers there are three forms of jealousy—first, jealous hyperemia or excessive morbid excitement of the sentiments with deep feeling of uneasiness.

Second, jealous monomania, which is closely akin to a mental malady, since it frequently engenders a feeling in the afflicted person that he or she is being persecuted.

Thirdly, jealous madness, or the last and acute stage of jealousy hyperemia, and should be treated as a form of madness.

The doctor's opinion is that sufferers from acute jealousy should be treated by daily and frequent cold douches. He has proved it to be a valuable treatment, frequently bringing a complete cure, and nearly always a great alleviation.

INVENTOR'S TRAGEDY

Clever Canadian Dies of Poison After Strange Remarks.

London, Jan. 6.—An inventor's tragic death led to some remarkable remarks being given at an inquest held on Monday, at St. Giles, on John Keith Reid, late of Lamb's Conduit street, W.C.

Mr. W. Broderick, of Essex Court, said the dead man, who came from Canada fifteen years ago, spent some years at sea, and lately had devoted his time to an invention for night-signaling between ships.

Five years ago Reid made an arrangement with the admiralty to have the invention tested, but they did not do so.

In September he was concerned in the invention of a seamless boat, and he told witness that he had been assaulted and robbed by two men in the fog at Greenwich.

On Thursday, Dec. 15, Mr. Broderick was called to the house in Lamb's Conduit street, when Reid grasped him by the hand and said, "Thank you; this is a horrible affair."

Then, turning over on the pillow, he muttered, "Insane, insane, insane," and after a short pause added, "Fifteen years."

He had borrowed small sums of money from the witness, and also from Mr. Alfred Steinfeld, hotel proprietor, of Queen's Square.

The keeper of the coffee house in Lamb's Conduit street said Reid had not paid his account for the last fortnight, saying he was "down on his luck."

Dr. A. J. Gibson stated that he found a bottle of chloroform under Reid's bed, but could see no trace as to how it had been administered.

Reid told him he was tired of his life and that he had taken four ounces of chloroform and four bottles of chloroform.

He was able to say that he obtained the chloroform by subterfuge from a chemist at Southwark. Death was due to heart failure from the poisoning.

The inquest was adjourned in order that the sale of the poison could be investigated.

The prohibition against carrying petroleum through the Suez Canal, which has been in force for several years, has been removed. The concession means much to European consumers, as about 250,000 tons are annually brought from Borneo and Sumatra. Over three million pens are used daily.

"It's Only a Cold, A Trifling Cough."

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subsides inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

Mrs. C. E. Bismette, Lombardy, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with a hard dry cough for a long time, especially in the mornings, but after having used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, for a few weeks, I find my cough has left me. I can positively say that this remedy is well worth a trial."

Latest News From Far and NearTwo Fast and Exciting Games
Mark Opening of City LeagueHermits Defeat the Waterloos and St. John's Fall Before Varsity.

Those who attended the Princess Ice Palace last evening received a great run for their money, for two more evenly matched hockey contests have seldom taken place in this city.

In the first contest the Hermits took a rattling game from the Waterloos, who, by the way, will bear watching in the near future. The score was 4 to 2.

In the windup, the University seven earned a decision over the newly-formed St. John's team by 3 to 2.

Too Much Slashing.

The crowd was a very good one, and was most enthusiastic in rooting for the favorites. Partisanship seemed about equally divided.

Referee Archie McMahan made it apparent at the outset that rough work was to be tabooed, and there was scarcely a moment when one or more players were not adorning the boards. The boys started in to slash early in the game and Archie got in his work about the same time.

At the jump-off it looked like a Waterloo victory, for the bunch with the red and white sweaters traveled around the ice fast enough to suit the most fastidious. Later, however, their efforts began to tell, and the Recluses got busy.

After three minutes of fast hockey the Waterloos scored their first goal. A moment later Bole was given a pass to the side lines for roughness. Bole is usually a very clean player, but he probably forgot himself for a moment.

Tripping came into prominence a little later, and Dixon was the first man to come beneath the referee's eagle eye.

After several skirmishes up and down the ice, Youngs, by clever stick-work, managed to carry the puck down the ice and send it into the net, tying the score. Hayward and Youngs were ruled off for mixing it up.

First for the Hermits.

There was nothing doing until these players came back, when Dixon landed the Hermits' second goal by a well-directed shot from off the side of the net. The playing now was fast and furious, and both goal-keepers were busy. Wood and Nichols, two of the Hermits' best men, were caught roughing things and took a minute rest each. The Waterloos worked hard to score while these players were off, but it was no use, and both came back with their team still leader. H. Marshall took a breathing spell for slashing, and the half ended with the player still on the boards.

The Second Half.

The second half began almost as did the previous one. The Waterloos scored after three minutes of action, in which both teams seemed most evenly matched.

With the score a tie, F. Marshall and "Hubby" Nichol lived up matters by indulging in a little hugging match, with a consequent trip to the land of rest, for one minute. Just to make the thing more sociable, H. Marshall joined the merry (?) throng on the side lines a second later, for trying to amputate another player's lower limb.

Everybody seemed to get the habit about this time, and Youngs, Hague and Woods followed in rapid succession for either roughing or slashing.

There was fire in Archie's eye as he picked out Peck's bad kids, and the way he went after offenders was a caution—and should be a warning in the future. Hard checking goes all right, but tripping and slashing never helped to make a hockey game interesting.

With two men off the Hermits nearly scored a point at this juncture, and the Recluses' routers almost rooted their heads off.

Waterloos Die Hard.

Linington then took a rest, and just as he came on again, three Hermits took the count in rapid succession, leaving only four players on the ice. It was do or die now with the Waterloos—and they died, albeit they died fighting. Try as they would the Hermit defense was too much for them. The battle was nip and tuck; first one side would have a slight advantage, and then the honors would be the other way. Both goal tenders were as busy as bees warning off shots, and had those players been good boys, the score would probably have resembled one of those 16x18 corner ball baseball games played in Tin Can Alley.

With both teams having their full quota of players on the ice, Billy Youngs broke through the Waterloo defense like a shot and passed to Dixon, who scored goal number three for the Hermits.

The last goal scored by the Recluses was somewhat of a fluke, but it went, of course.

After that it was nip and tuck again, and neither side had much advantage, although the contest ended with the disc near the Waterloo goal. Final score: Hermits 4, Waterloos 2.

The players on both teams worked hard and there was no disgrace in the defeat handed the losers.

THE SECOND GAME.

In the final contest of the evening, the University team won out by a hair.

The game itself was a conglomeration of good, bad and indifferent hockey. All hands worked like demons, but accomplished but little for the amount of energy expended. In their zeal to get there, the boys went into one another rather fiercely, but on the whole the game was not any rougher than the first one. Combination play was almost wholly lacking, and in what little there was attempted the St. John's team led the way.

Varsity Out to Win.

The Varsity crowd was there to win, and the manner in which they scored the two first goals of the game made it look as if they would not seek in vain.

The contest had only just begun when the boys from the big school opened up and raked in a brace of points on well-executed rushes. Then the play slackened up a trifle, and became rather tedious. However, it wasn't long before things were busy again and they went into one another almost like Rugby players. Munro tried to remove "Challenger" Legg's trillies and was ruled off for a minute for his trouble. One of the Woolley family soon kept him company for a similar offense, and soon big Willie McColl joined the crowd for trying to insert Collins' head between a crack in the boards along the side of the rink.

Carrothers' Fine Play.

Twenty minutes after play had begun, the famous "Crow" Carrothers, of Horton and O. H. A. fame, who was out playing for practice, landed St. John's first goal after a splendid rush down the line through the center.

Charley Legg then got away with a neat stunt when he carried the puck through the opposing line, shortly after the face-off, and passed to Carrothers who returned, Legg making the goal. This play was about as pretty a one as one would care to witness.

The St. John's were displaying better combination than the University boys near the close of the half, although the latter were very aggressive and dangerous at all stages.

The half-time score was a tie.

The play was even in the last half, and while some good stunts were pulled off, there was nothing of the sensational about the playing.

There was more fun than a picnic, though in some of the antics of the opposing players, and some one was sliding either on his uppers or his ears every second of the battle.

McGuffin tried to knock down the side of the rink with an opponent, and was off, while Legg took a trip to the side boards for slashing.

Tommy Woolley deserves the prize medal for pulling off the most humorous turn of the evening's fun. "Some-one had knocked the puck past the Varsity net and Tommy insisted that he could hook the disc, with the crook in his stick and shove it in around the corner, whether the goal tender liked it or not. In a moment Tommy and Nixon, the netman, were at it. Then, just to make matters brighter, every player on the ice with the exception of two, engaged in a lively scrimmage in front of the net. The referee finally called a halt just when matters were most lively, and called a face-off in front of and a little to one side of the goal.

Science to the Winds.

With the score a tie, each player battled like a Trojan to do something worth while, and as a result, science was almost forgotten. Shortly before Timekeeper Bell blew the final whistle, Munro got through with a rush and won the game for the University. The final score was 3 to 2. The line-ups:

DOCTOR WANTED TO AMPUTATE

Woman's Toe Saved By Zam-Buk.

But for the timely arrival of a box of Zam-Buk, Mrs. E. Foster, 34 Myrtle street, St. Thomas, Ont., would have lost her toe. She says: "I am most thankful to discover that Zam-Buk is a real life-saver. For about nine months I suffered cruelly from the effects of having a corn removed by my little toe, for with its removal a hole remained and my toe was in a terrible state. For months I was unable to wear a shoe, and as the toe showed no signs of healing and was in such a shocking condition the doctor thought it necessary to amputate it. About this time I received a sample box of Zam-Buk, and began using it on my toe. The first application gave me the greatest ease from pain and encouraged me to give Zam-Buk a thorough trial. Two months after commencing with Zam-Buk there was no sign of a hole, for the flesh grew in very firmly, and all soreness and pains were entirely banished. Zam-Buk brought about this healing when all other remedies failed. We find Zam-Buk so valuable that we would not be without a box in the house."

Zam-Buk heals cuts, bruises, old wounds, running sores, eczema, ulcers, boils, eruptions, scalds, scabs, itchy piles, chapped hands, horns, scales and all skin diseases. 50c box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Company, Toronto. Three boxes, $1.25.

GEORGE DIXON LOSES LAST FIGHT
GREAT BOXER DEAD AT NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 6.—The greatest fighter of his time and the winner of several hundred fistic encounters, George Dixon, the negro pugilist, familiarly called "Little Chocolate," died today in the alcoholic ward of Bellevue Hospital, a victim of a long fight with drink. Idolized in his prime by thousands as a pugilistic hero, George Dixon passed away practically penniless and without friends.

Dixon was 27 years old and for many years held the title of featherweight champion fighter.

He fought several hundred ring battles, his first fight being in 1888, when he whipped a boy named Johnson in Halifax, N. S. From that time until Terry McGovern knocked him out in 1900 and broke his heart, no man of his weight ever whipped him. He won the featherweight title in 1891 by whipping the champion, Cal. McCarthy. Dixon was a veritable fighting machine, his attack and defense being perfect, and his peculiar ability to strike a blow from any position made him a formidable opponent.

Dixon won thousands of dollars in the prize ring, which he spent with convivial companions.

A wasted, worn figure was brought to Bellevue Hospital two days ago and ticketed in the alcoholic ward as George Dixon.

To the doctor he said he had fought his last fight with John Barleycorn and late today the former champion died.

umpire raised his hand a goal had been scored. This, however, is not the case, and the new rules show explicitly that the goal umpire has no jurisdiction over the awarding of a goal, but simply states that the puck has entered the cage from the front. The referee judges whether it lawfully entered the cage and may give his ruling even after the puck has passed between the two goal posts.

A decidedly radical change appears in connection with foul or rough play. A clause appears in the new rules which states that the referee shall use his good judgment in awarding a penalty and see that the penalty does not work against the better interests of the non-offending team. The rule was adopted so as to do away with an intentional foul made by a man to stop the game when his opponents had a good chance to score.

A Change Made.

A change was made in the rules that refers to the games. It was the custom when two teams were tied at the end of the second half for the captain to argue whether they should continue to play until one team had scored a goal, or for an extra period of ten minutes. There was always an argument prevalent that when the goal

RACE HORSES COSTLY

New York, Jan. 7.—The registration committee of the Jockey Club has completed figures which show that the annual cost of race horses in America is practically $10,000,000. The figures will be printed in a report of the national bureau of animal industry, a branch of the department of agriculture. The report shows that last year $8,212,500 was spent for the care of 7,500 thoroughbred race horses in various parts of the country, an average of $3 a day for each animal. With the percentage of purses won, paid to trainers and the salaries of jockeys and stablehands, transportation and other odds and ends, it is stated that the total will easily reach $10,000,000.

Despite the fact that it was election night and that a strong counter attraction in the form of the City Hockey League games were on, the crowd at the indoor baseball games in the Armories was the biggest in the history of the local game. There were nearly four hundred people present.

C Company hung the sign on the Army and Medical Corps in spite of the slants and curves dashed out by our friend "Fattious" Early. The score was 14 to 10. This battle was a hammer right off the reel, and the winners had to travel every second to keep a lead.

In contest number two the invincible H Company took a spill out of D Company by a score of 8 to 4.

Jeffries umpired both games in a very satisfactory manner.

The rooting of the fans reminded one of the stirring scenes at old Tecumseh last summer, when the McClarys and the Stars were hooked up and both were right.

Rider and Carlidge performed for a Company, and Early and Andrews for the A. and M. in the curtain-raiser, while Richards and Anderson, and Hayes and McQueen served for the other two teams in the windup.

A meeting of the executive will be held next Saturday evening for the purpose of taking steps to appoint an official scorekeeper to keep tab on the runs, hits, etc., made during the remainder of the season.

It is also announced that the officers of the regiment have donated cups for the best averages.

GAUDAUR AT TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Jake Gaudaur, of Atherley Junction, another ex-champion of the world, arrived in the city yesterday to attend the funeral of his old-time friend and rival.

Jake is a big man now, and feels like one more race. His weight is 220 pounds. Gaudaur won the world's championship from Stanbury, and later lost the title to Towns. Jake is staying with his former backer, Richard Disette, at the Empress Hotel.

Paderewski frequently sits at his instrument until well into the small hours of the morning, says TI-Bitt. Hence he seldom rises until 9 or 10 a.m., and immediately he is dressed he gets to work, generally practicing on the piano, but often composing. He keeps to his task until 1 o'clock, and not a minute earlier does he break his fast.

Ottawa Victorias and Wanderers To Play Thursday and Monday.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Trustee Foran, at the urgent request of the Victoria Club, had a conference last night over long-distance 'phone with President Jennings of the Wanderers, with reference to dates for the cup games.

Wanderers are agreeable to playing the first game Thursday night, providing the Arena can be secured, and Dr. Baird, of Victorias, goes to Montreal today to endeavor to make the necessary arrangements in connection with Wanderers. If the Arena cannot be had, it is understood that the trustees will order the match played in some other rink.

Some time ago Wanderers were told to be ready to defend the cup early in January, and while they preferred not to play this week, they are willing to meet Victorias Thursday.

It may be stated with probable accuracy that the dates will be Thursday and Monday, both games in Montreal. Nothing has been said about the suspended Wanderer man, Glass, but it is understood that Victorias will not object to his playing, even if the suspension has still a few days to run.

THONEY LEADING BATTER OF LEAGUE

Fourteen .300 Hitters on P. T. Powers' List—McGinley the Best Pitcher.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—President P. T. Powers has finally issued the Eastern League averages. The delay is due, it is said, to the negligence of Montreal's scorer to send on the scores of the games played in that city to the Eastern League president.

The averages, belated though they are, will furnish an interesting study for the fans. In all departments of the game the Toronto players are prominent. Fourteen batters are credited with an average of .300 or better.

Wood, Connor, and Hoey, who played 11, 14, and 15 games respectively for Toronto, have averages of .367, .352 and .333 in the order named. Then comes the actual leader of the league, Thoney, with .329; Joe Kelley was sixth with .323. Carrigan was ninth with .319. Frill of Newark, was the poorest stick handler in the league, according to the figures. He failed to make a single hit in 14 times at bat.

Mitchell was the best pitching fielder. He played 14 games, and accepted 47 chances without an error. McGinley was the local team's winning twirler and the best pitcher in the league. He won 22 and lost 10 games.

It may be stated with probable accuracy that the dates will be Thursday and Monday, both games in Montreal. Nothing has been said about the suspended Wanderer man, Glass, but it is understood that Victorias will not object to his playing, even if the suspension has still a few days to run.

NOAH MURDER TRIAL ON TOMORROW

The much-postponed Noah murder trial will probably begin tomorrow at the assizes.

The crime of which Noah is accused dates back to last spring. Thomas Noah and Absalom Fox attended an Indian dance on the Muncie reserve. About 2 o'clock in the morning Fox and Noah became engaged, so it is alleged, in an altercation. Noah at the time was said to have been seated or standing in a buggy by the house where the dance was being held. Suddenly someone plunged a knife into Fox's forehead clear to the handle.

The knife was alleged to have belonged to Noah, and he was arrested the next day by High Constable Hughes and Constable Northgroves. The Indian, who is a very well-behaved and popular young fellow, was found along the river bank on the reserve, standing back of a clump of willows. Apparently he made no great effort to escape arrest.

Since his incarceration in the county jail Noah has been an ideal prisoner, and is today the most popular inmate of the place.

Noah, or "Tommy" as he is known by his fellow prisoners, is an accomplished musician, a beautiful writer, and is generally well educated. He and an English prisoner have lately taken a great fancy to one another, and are termed "pals" at the jail.

Of late Noah has declined to take his daily outing, owing to lack of warm clothing. He displays no interest whatever in the approaching trial, and to see him contentedly reading a book or playing his mandolin one would fancy that he had not a care in the world. Noah is about 29 years of age.

Meredith, Judd & Meredith, and R. M. C. Toote are defending the prisoner.

The Grand Trunk and Its Operators

The Grand Trunk officials are not very well pleased at the attitude of their telegraph operators regarding the decision made by the Government commission recently.

They claim that the men are trying to take undue advantage of a clause regarding Sunday work, which is not very specifically worded.

The men claim that, according to the clause, they are entitled to 20 cents an hour overtime for all work on Sunday.

The company claim that the custom has always been for the men to be paid by the month, and that if they are called to work on Sunday, which quite frequently happens, they are not entitled to any extra pay.

Readjust it.

It is likely that the railway commission will have to readjust this clause before the matter is finally settled.

If they do not, a prominent official said this morning, that the company will probably go back to the method in vogue 25 years ago of paying by the day, when the salary will, to a certain extent, be reduced—that is for those who do not work on Sundays. These men will be out just about four days' pay each month. The men, on the other hand, threaten to appeal to the commission if such action is taken.

Fireman Luttan Hurt at St. Marys

Fireman James Luttan, of 871 Lorne avenue, was taken to Victoria Hospital this morning as a result of an accident which he met with near St. Marys.

The rear trucks of the tender of the engine on which he was riding left the track, and in trying to climb down over the back end of the tender with the necessary tackle to replace it, by

Fireman Luttan missed his footing and fell with the heavy jacks on top of Notwithstanding that he suffered exceedingly Fireman Luttan stuck to his post, and continued his work until London was reached.

Upon examination by Dr. Seaborn it was discovered that the hip had been fractured, and the injured man was sent at once to Victoria Hospital.

Local Items

The Normal School reopened this morning after the Christmas holidays. There were no new students reported, and the opening was a very quiet one.

The announcement of the sighting of the Mount Royal was made by the manager of the Bijou Theatre to the large audience present last night.

At a regular meeting of the A. Y. P. A. of Christ Church last night, Mr. Jack Mason gave a very interesting paper on tuberculosis. There was a fair attendance.

Mr. H. C. McMordie, who spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. McMordie, of Helmut avenue, has returned to Toronto to resume his studies at Varsity.

The delay in bulleting the returns from Subdivision 8, of Ward 4, last night was not caused by a disagreement of the poll officials as reported, but by the very large vote, and the extra care with which the ballots were counted. The deputy returning officer, Mr. T. G. McCracken, has served in that capacity for years, and has the reputation of being most careful and accurate. There was the utmost harmony among the officials at his booth.

Knows Nothing. Mr. P. H. Bartlett stated this morning that he knows nothing of the story sent out from Toronto to the effect that his name had been mentioned in connection with the filling of a vacancy on the non-jury assize clerkship list. Old-fashioned Christmas.

An old-fashioned Christmas tree and ladies' aid society of Chalmers Church, Santa Claus will present a gift to everybody present. A good programme has been provided.

Enjoyable At Home. An enjoyable at home was given by the nurses of Victoria Hospital last night to which a large number of citizens were invited. The evening passed most pleasantly and was brought to a close by a dance.

Address on Sports. The St. John's Athletic Club will shortly hold a weekly series of addresses on national sports, beginning Thursday evening when Mr. John Stevenson, of Elmwood avenue, will speak on "Scottish Sports, Past and Present." There will also be given a short Scotch musical programme.

Mr. Wm. Brown Home. Mr. William Brown, the G. T. R. engineer, whose fireman was killed by the explosion of a locomotive at Pontiac, Mich., three weeks ago, and who was seriously injured himself, is in the city visiting his relatives. He will rest quietly here for a week or two, before returning to Detroit for the inquest.

Will Be Courtmartialled. Private Power, of Wolseley Barracks, will be courtmartialled as a result of an attack which he made upon Sergeant Dunkerly recently. Power was accused of slandering the sergeant and was found guilty. As he was passing Sergeant Dunkerly he hit him a heavy blow, but was overpowered before he did any further harm.

Easy to Take Easy to Operate. Because purely vegetable—yet thorough, prompt, healthful, satisfactory—

Folk games and dances, which will culminate in a play festival in the city hall on Saturday evening, to which the public is invited. Miss Mari Ruef Hofer, of Teachers' College, New York, is in charge of the work. Miss Hofer is known throughout America for her work in connection with vacation schools and playgrounds. She has compiled a collection of popular folk games and dances, from which the games of Saturday evening are taken. Those interested for the principal offices will be very keen. The list is as follows: President, President Art Sippl and J. H. Fowler; vice-president, Mr. F. A. Jones and Mr. Frank Millson; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Claude Brown and Mr. Art Beal.

Frank Adams, the husky-looking vag, who says he comes from New Brunswick, asked Magistrate Love for another week's lodgings at Castle Carter's at this morning's session of the court.

Adams says he is expecting a letter from relatives, that will provide him with the wherewithal to take him home, but until its arrival he prefers to stay in jail rather than work.

The case of a merchant charged with striking a young man from him, was enlarged for a week.

The defendant pleaded guilty, but the exact cost for doctors' attendance cannot be learned yet. The case thus stands in abeyance.

Parrello Stock Co.

Opened Week's Engagement at the Grand Last Night.

The Parrello Stock Company opened a week's engagement at the Grand last night to a large house. The opening bill was "The College Girl," and if the work of this excellent company in this particular play was a criterion there is every reason to believe that the Grand will enjoy crowded houses the balance of the week. "The College Girl" is a play new to London, and is patterned somewhat after George Ade's famous play, "The College Widow." Miss Alice Kennedy, who portrayed the part of Gail Hurdle, "the Girl," is a sweet, winsome and very pretty young lady, and will no doubt win a lot of admirers before the week is finished. Her personality and mannerisms are of the sort that make you want to see more of her and miss her when she is not occupying the stage. The scenic display of the company is the best ever seen here with a repertoire company, and surpasses more than half of the companies that advertise a card of scenery and other accessories. The vaudeville features, which are introduced between the acts, are some of the best ever given in London, and alone are worth the price of admission. The company as a whole could not be improved upon, and if some of the managers with more pretensions undertake to be as careful in the selection of their players as Manager Parrello has been there would be less dissatisfaction among those that pay their good money to see a show. To-night's offering will be the four-act western drama, "The Way of the West," in which Miss Kennedy will be seen as Letitia Wassen, the cowboy girl. On Friday evening Manager Bowers and Manager Parrello announce that an amateur contest will be given and three cash prizes will be awarded to those that make the best showing. The audience to be the judges. Those who wish to participate will kindly leave their names at the box office on or before Friday noon.

Yeates-Gilmour.

Toronto Globe: On Saturday afternoon, Jan. 4, at the residence of the bride's father, Emma Hawkins Gilmour, only daughter of Dr. J. T. and Mrs. Gilmour, and Mr. Percy McCutcheon Yeates, of Hamilton. Rev. J. A. Rankin conducted the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. H. Hincks. Mrs. Charles Gilmour was matron of honor; the bridesmaids were Miss Rhonda Yeates and Miss Sutherland, of Hamilton; the flower girls, Jennie Clendennan, cousin of the bride, and Eve Hazel Blewett. The groom was supported by Mr. C. G. Williams, of London.

The election of officers of the Liberal Club will be held next Friday and Saturday evenings. There has been a great deal of interest shown in the campaign, and there promises to be some interesting contests. The contests for the principal offices will be very keen. The list is as follows: President, President Art Sippl and J. H. Fowler; vice-president, Mr. F. A. Jones and Mr. Frank Millson; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Claude Brown and Mr. Art Beal.

BRISK DEMAND ON THE MARKET
LOCAL MARKET.
London, Tuesday, Jan. 7.
The market was well attended by the farmers, and was a surprise to the buyers, as they expected a slim market, owing to the fact that yesterday was election day in the township and many of the farmers thought that the farmers would have time to prepare any great quantity of produce for today's market.

Hay and straw—There were 16 loads of hay on the stand today; sales were fair at $15 to $16 per ton. Straw sold at $8 per ton; most of the sales were made at $14.50.

Butter and Eggs—Butter was steady at 26c for crocks and 27c for pound rolls by the basket. Fresh-laid eggs sold at 30c; they were more plentiful today than for some time back.

Vegetables—Potatoes sold quickly at 80c per bushel; onions fetched 80c to 90c per bushel; celery, 40c per dozen; lettuce, 30c to 40c per dozen; cabbage, 40c to 50c per dozen.

There was no change in the prices of poultry, butchers' meats or apples; sales were not any too brisk.

Grain—Sales were particularly well represented. Sales in the various lines were only fairly brisk, and there was not any great change in prices.

Wheat—Wheat was well represented today; sales were brisk and prices were steady at yesterday's quotations, at $1.44 to $1.48 per cwt; most of the sales were made at $1.45.

Hay and Straw—There were 16 loads of hay on the stand today; sales were fair at $15 to $16 per ton. Straw sold at $8 per ton; most of the sales were made at $14.50.

Niagara Power Carried Three to One Komoka Scheme Snowed Under Tuberculosis Hospital Bylaw Is Approved—Two New Fire Halls for the City.

The Niagara power bylaw carried by a majority of 1,849, practically a three to one vote. The bylaw had a majority in every polling sub-division in the city, and a large majority in every ward.

The vote was little different on a concrete proposition from the vote last year, which was considered to be not much more than an expression of opinion.

This year the bylaw received 104 votes more than it did last year, but there were 441 more votes against it.

The bylaw carried well in the outlying districts, much better than was anticipated in some quarters.

Komoka Scheme.
The Komoka scheme was defeated by a majority of 571. Last year it was defeated by 76.

It was beaten this year in every ward, and in almost every sub-division.
The citizens as a rule were not impressed by the scheme, and all it did was to delay for a brief period, the solution of the water problem of the city.

Tuberculosis Hospital.
The hospital for consumptives, as
was expected, achieved a splendid victory. It carried in every ward, and was substantially supported everywhere. It is to the credit of the citizens of London that so worthy an object was supported so handsomely. It will greatly assist the county in getting special legislation to pass its grant to this hospital without taking a vote of the people. The matter will be brought before the Legislature early in the session, and it is expected that work will be undertaken in the spring.

New Fire Halls.
The fire halls bylaw carried splendidity. The growth of the city towards the east and north demanded better fire protection. The citizens generally took Chief Clark's view that the halls were needed, and supported the proposition without question. The new halls will be of great assistance to the brigade and the citizens.

Approved—Two New Fire Halls for the City.

The Niagara power bylaw carried by a majority of 1,849, practically a three to one vote. The bylaw had a majority in every polling sub-division in the city, and a large majority in every ward.

The vote was little different on a concrete proposition from the vote last year, which was considered to be not much more than an expression of opinion.

This year the bylaw received 104 votes more than it did last year, but there were 441 more votes against it.

The bylaw carried well in the outlying districts, much better than was anticipated in some quarters.

Komoka Scheme.
The Komoka scheme was defeated by a majority of 571. Last year
it was defeated by 76.

It was beaten this year in every ward, and in almost every sub-division.
The citizens as a rule were not impressed by the scheme, and all it did was to delay for a brief period, the solution of the water problem of the city.

Tuberculosis Hospital.
The hospital for consumptives, as
was expected, achieved a splendid victory. It carried in every ward, and was substantially supported everywhere. It is to the credit of the citizens of London that so worthy an object was supported so handsomely. It will greatly assist the county in getting special legislation to pass its grant to this hospital without taking a vote of the people. The matter will be brought before the Legislature early in the session, and it is expected that work will be undertaken in the spring.

New Fire Halls.
The fire halls bylaw carried splendidity. The growth of the city towards the east and north demanded better
fire protection. The citizens generally took Chief Clark's view that the halls
were needed, and supported the proposition without question. The new halls will be of great assistance to the brigade and the citizens.
