MCCURDY DECLINES TO MAKE ANY PROMISES ON PORT IMPROVEMENTS

Deputation From London, Port Stanley and Middlesex County Waits On Minister of Public Works, But Receives Little Satisfaction Following Presentation of Case — Money Scarce, Declares Minister in Reply to Representatives.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Ottawa, May 18.—A deputation representing London and Port Stanley waited upon Hon. F. B. McCurdy, minister of public works department, this morning and urged the carrying out of improvements in the harbor at that point. Included in the deputation were Mayor Little of London, Ald. Wilson, John A. Moore, John Cousine of Middlesex, and Sir Adam Beck. They were introduced by Hume Cronyn, M. P. for London, and Frank S. Glass, M. P. for East Middlesex.

Mr. Glass represented to the minister that the improvements were very necessary in order that large shipping should be accommodated. He declared that in the past ten years the sum of $365,000 had been appropriated by Parliament for harbor improvements at Port Stanley, but that only $54,000 had actually been expended. He advised that the Government adopt any of the recommendations of its engineers and undertake emergency improvements, including the removal of the east pier, the dredging of the upper harbor and the construction of a lift bridge, so that large vessels could get through. Other improvements could wait.

Mr. McCurdy refused to make promises. He declared that it was a question of providing money, and money was scarce.

Sir Adam Beck backed up the appeal of Mr. Glass, as did also the members of the London deputation. He declared that freight was rapidly increasing and that the harbor accommodation was inadequate to take care of it. The east pier should be removed and the upper harbor dredged.

NEW SCHOOL ON EMPRESS AVE. SITE NEXT YEAR

Fourteen-Room Structure To Be Erected.

SOUTH LONDON WELL OFF

New Victoria School Will Give That Section Another Boost.

With the awarding Tuesday by the board of education of the contract for the building of the Victoria School, the construction of which will give South London better public school accommodation than any other section of the city, the attention of the ratepayers in other sections is being directed to the school needs of their own particular sections, and interest is already being shown in the matter by inquiries as to what the board intends to do for them.

In order that these inquiries may secure the information they desire, the board is today publishing a list of the Public School Inspector Greer. His reply was as follows:

"Remember I am not speaking for the board, the trustees may decide to do more than has been already suggested or less as circumstances may direct. But at the present time the probable building program for 1922 will include an entire new school unit at Empress avenue of 14 rooms, a four-roomed school in the Hamilton road district, to be extended in time to a full school unit, and the completion of the Tecumseh avenue school by the addition of two more rooms to complete the unit."

In view of the condition of the present school at Empress avenue, which has been admitted by the inspectors and the trustees to be in a very poor state, it is understood that the plans for the building of a new school here will be considered this fall, and arrangements made to commence the work at the earliest possible date. Considerable complaint has recently been made by the ratepayers of West London at the neglect which has featured the board of education's treatment of the school situation in that part of the city, and the building of the Victoria school when South London is in such a state of neglect, has created a bitter feeling against the trustees who are alleged to have shown special favor to that part of the city to the detriment of other sections.

The construction of the new Victoria school will give South London, at least till such time as the present Victoria school is torn down, and according to Inspector Greer that is unlikely for two or three years any way, 14 class rooms, distributed as follows: Two Victoria school buildings, 14 and 10 rooms respectively; Wortley road school, 12 rooms; Tecumseh school, 10 rooms, and Riverview school, 10 rooms.

USELESS U. S. VESSELS TO GO TO JUNK PILE

Washington, May 18.—"A bargain sale" of obsolete naval vessels, including battleships and destroyers, may be held by the United States navy department soon, it was indicated today. A study is being made of various ways of getting rid of a large number of useless war craft, it was said, and it was indicated that the example of Great Britain might be followed in selling useless ships to be broken up for junk.

MOTHERS AND BABIES THROG TO CLINICS

Over eighty babies were registered at the opening clinic of the Child Welfare exhibit held in the Technical School this morning, and everything points to big clinics for the rest of the week. The above picture recently taken of the Talbot Street clinic gives some idea of what the big waiting-room in the Technical School looked like this morning when it was filled with mothers and babies. Four pairs of lovely twins were among the wee ones examined this morning, and no happier mothers could be found than the mothers of these self-same twins.

ADVANCE IN WHISKEY PRICES TO GO INTO EFFECT ON FRIDAY

Mail Orders for Booze at Old Price Must Be In by Thursday.

NO GREAT RUSH YET

Doctors and Druggists Bolstering Waning Supplies.

Friday of this week is the day set for the new advance in the price of whiskey and other alcoholic beverages. Inasmuch as the local Government dispensary is involved, Thursday, at 4:30, will mark the finish of the old price list. As every well-informed "man-around-town" is aware, this is the regulated hour for cessation of activities for the day at the dispensary, and the officials of that bureau wish to impress upon their patrons, past and expected, that order, verbal, through the mails, by wire, or even cable, must reach there by that time Thursday to become effective under the old price list. As a Government institution, regulations must be carried out to the letter, and exception will be made in no case, however insuring the appeal.

Four of them were finally released on $500 bail and the fifth on $200.

Chicago, May 18.—The ministers of the United States were urged to do all in their power to crush any and every sentiment that we hear against England, in an address last night by Rev. Charles S. MacFarland of New York, general secretary of the federal council of Churches of Christ in America, before the congress on reduction of armaments.

LONDON CHINESE CONTRIBUTE $116 TO WELFARE FUND

John Tom Canvasses Fellow-Countrymen.

SURPRISE HEADQUARTERS

Many Contributions Still To Be Received.

Without any solicitation on the part of the United Welfare Fund Association, John Tom, a local Chinese restaurant keeper, took it upon himself to see that all his fellow countrymen in this city were given an opportunity to contribute towards the welfare fund. He personally called on nearly every Chinaman in the city and carefully explained about the fund and the many institutions requiring help. His efforts met with a generous response, for he was able to turn in $116 to campaign headquarters.

On learning that the fund had not reached the total desired by the association, Mr. Tom turned resolutely back to his friends, informing them that they would have to contribute still more money. The Chinese of the city are reported to be enthusiastically backing Mr. Tom in his charitable work.

One of his friends informed the Advertiser today that Mr. Tom was a fine fellow. He had been in the hospital, sick for some time, and even now he comes out for only a few hours each day. When the contribution was received by the office of the campaign, they were greatly surprised, for no one knew of Mr. Tom's activities, and it had not occurred to anyone that the Chinese would be so generous.

There will be no further announcements of totals for a few days, as all contributions are not yet in, and considerable checking remains to be done.

Following is a partial list of the contributions made by the employees of industrial and commercial concerns in this city. Many of the employees where the shops were not so well organized, contributed through the travelers, accounting for the comparatively poor showing made by some of the business places.

SOLDIERS' AID FINDS HOMES FOR SEVENTY-FIVE YOUNGSTERS

Bears Cost of Upkeep for Little Ones in Private Families.

Believing that private homes are far better for little tots and babies whom fate has placed in need of homes and of parental care, the Soldiers' Aid Commission have, in looking after the welfare of 75 soldiers' children that have come under its care, placed them in private homes with much success, the commission bearing the cost of the care of the little ones.

"A baby," said Mrs. C. B. Edwards, who, as vice-president of the local Soldiers' Aid Commission, is responsible for the direction of the welfare work, in answer to an inquiry by The Advertiser today, "must have a considerable amount of personal attention if it is to grow and learn, as a normally-cared-for child. This personal care is practically impossible in an institution, and while no one would seek to deprecate the great value of the work done in an institution, we should like to give the unfortunate little ones a nearer home, and such can only be done by placing them in private homes."

"We find that there are a large number of homes in the city open to take care of children requiring temporary care, and that the institution, which is usually the last resort, is not the best place for a child. The opinion of the commission, as a result of experience, is that no child should be kept in an institution for a longer period than three months."

"While these conditions prevail," said Mrs. Edwards, "it is greatly to be regretted that more people with means are not ready to open their hearts and their homes to these often-neglected but deserving little pieces of humanity and thereby make unnecessary the institution which is usually the last resort. The hundreds of homes at present closed, and the desolate that could be easily made real centres of cheer and happiness for the children of the city, are a result of the war while in the cause of humanity."

All the 75 children at present under the care of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, 12 are under two years of age, and the rest are between two and five years of age. In the past, the commission has been able to place many of these children in private homes, and it is hoped that the commission will be able to do so in the future.

In connection with the abandonment of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, families at Port Stanley as a result of the decision of the Welfare Fund Association to include it in its list of needs, the commission has been able to place many of these children in private homes, and it is hoped that the commission will be able to do so in the future.

Asked about these plans, Mrs. Edwards said that she would shortly be making an appeal to the Women's Institutes around London, asking that 100 homes be opened for the children of the city, and that the commission will be able to place many of these children in private homes, and it is hoped that the commission will be able to do so in the future.

The W. C. T. U. of the London district reported that it had raised $119.03 for missionary purposes. All reports, both of membership and finance, showed the churches in business and further reports will occupy this afternoon's session.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY'S HEADQUARTERS WILL BE REMOVED TO WINNIPEG

Regina, Sask., May 18.—A. Maharg, M. P., was the choice of supporters of the Martin Government for the provincial elections, following a convention held at Moose yesterday. He will contest the Moose constituency.

MEXICAN FIREMEN BREAK UP RADICAL DEMONSTRATIONS

Mexico City, May 18.—Radical sympathizers attempted to force their way into the Chamber of Deputies last night to attack members of the Liberal-Constitutionalist party, who were holding a caucus there. The men engaged in the disorder were dispersed by the fire department.

The streets near the congressional building were filled all the afternoon, with the police and people who were awaiting developments. Aurelia Manrique, a Socialist deputy, made an impassioned harangue and large numbers of people gathered to hear him, the Chamber. The timely arrival of the firemen stopped the demonstration, and the radicals transferred their activities to Alameda Park, in the center of the city, but the firemen again intervened, and the crowd was dispersed. One Socialist deputy, who remonstrated with policemen, was arrested.

METHODIST CHURCHES IN LONDON DISTRICT IN FINE CONDITION

Hale Street Shows Largest Increase in Finances and Membership.

GENERAL BUSINESS

W. M. S. Raised $119,039 for Missionary Purposes Last Year.

A busy session of receiving reports of the different circuits in the London Methodist district was spent this morning in the Colborne Street Methodist Church, where the district meeting is being held. This afternoon, members to the stationing committee at the London Methodist conference, to be held here in June, will be appointed.

Hale Street Methodist Church in London, smallest Methodist Church in the district, showed the largest increase in finances and also in membership. The finances of this church have been increased 300 per cent over those of the previous year. The total membership of the Sunday schools and Young People's Societies in the district is 10,294, an increase of 116 over last year. From the Sunday schools and Young People's associations, 451 were reported to have joined the church. These two organizations raised $9,058 for missions during the past year.

The W. M. S. of the London district reported that it had raised $119,039 for missionary purposes. All reports, both of membership and finance, showed the churches in business and further reports will occupy this afternoon's session.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS BELIEVE LIQUOR CAN BE TAKEN

Constitutionality of Proposed Legislation Would Be Tested.

Ottawa, May 18.—Canadian Press.—Questioned this morning whether the Ontario Legislature would have power to pass legislation empowering it to seize liquor supplies in cellars of private citizens, justice department officials expressed opinion that it would. This opinion was given unofficially, however. It pointed out further that the question of the constitutionality of such procedure would have to be decided by the courts.

A dispatch from Toronto states that a bill will probably be introduced next session providing for the confiscation of this liquor and compensation of owners for the amount seized.

WILLIAM MCFADDEN IS ALSO FOUND GUILTY OF MURDERING TORONTO MAN

Counsel for Prisoner Puts Up Strong Plea—Delivers an Unmerciful Arraignment of "Patsy" Hotrum—London Man Is Calm Throughout Progress of Trial.

Toronto, May 18.—William McFadden was sentenced by Mr. Justice Logie to be hanged on August 3. Sentence has not yet been passed on Roy Hotrum by Mr. Justice Kelly, because an application is before the court for a reserved case.

Toronto, May 18.—William McFadden of London, Ont., was found guilty this afternoon on the charge of having murdered Leonard Cecil Sabine.

The jury returned this verdict after a short deliberation. Two men now await sentence for this crime—Roy Hotrum and William McFadden. Each of these men denied his guilt on the murder charge, although admitting complicity in the robbery.

CONLEY GETS 15 YEARS.

Toronto, May 18.—Arthur Conley, gangster, was given 15 years by Mr. Justice Logie this afternoon.

MAKES STRONG PLEA.

Toronto, May 18.—When William McFadden was led into the assize court this morning for the trial of his case on the charge of having murdered Leonard Cecil Sabine in his drug store at the corner of Manning and Harbor on the night of Saturday, March 5, the courtroom was only partly filled with a mildly interested crowd. Garfield McFadden, brother of the prisoner in the box, was the only relative of any of the parties involved who was present when addresses to the jury were commenced.

McFadden himself has stood the strain of the trial incredibly well. This morning he appeared as unconcerned and indifferent as ever, sitting in the prisoner's box with knees crossed and hands resting on them. He occasionally would glance around the court or even lean over to retie his shoelace. The jury's verdict is expected this afternoon.

WAGE REDUCTION TO BE EXTENDED TO ALL RAILWAY EMPLOYEES

Only Two U. S. Roads Had Requested Such a Sweeping Order.

Chicago, May 18.—The general reduction of wages for unskilled railroad employees, effective July 1, forecast by the United States Railroad Labor Board in an announcement last night, will be extended to all classes of railroad employees, it was reported today.

Western, Chicago and Alton and a few other carriers have requested that the wage reduction be extended to all classes, provision was made in the board's announcement for the filing of "other petitions" up to June 6, and it was believed others of the 180 Class A roads would amend their applications to include shop, train service and other classes of employees. The new applications filed up to June 6, the board's announcement said, would be decided to take effect also on July 1. The June 1 decision, it was announced, would cover applications filed prior to April 18, and those filed since will be decided June 6, all to take effect July 1.

Average Raise 20 Per Cent.

Nearly half of the 180 Class A roads in the United States filed their disputes in time to have them docketed before April 18, but only a few requested that the wage reductions apply to all classes. No intimation was given in the board's announcement as to the probable extent of the cut. Last July the board increased wages of unskilled labor and some other classes 20 per cent, making it retroactive to May 1, 1920.

The decision last July affected approximately 2,000,000 men, and granted increases totaling nearly $500,000,000 a year. The average raise then was 20 per cent. The normal number of unskilled employees on Class A roads, railroad executives said, was 500,000, but in anticipation of a wage cut the number of maintenance of way employees has been kept considerably below this figure.

SIR SAM'S CONDITION IMPROVES.

Ottawa, May 18.—Reports on the condition of Sir Sam Hughes still show a continued improvement. He was reported much better last night and passed a satisfactory day.

"McFadden, single-handed practically, is here fighting at the forces of the crown directed by my learned friend, the very able crown counsel, Mr. Gordon Waldron, assisted by the detective force of this great city," said Fletcher Kerr, counsel for accused, in opening his address to the jury. "It is a very serious matter we have under consideration. No more serious matter can be placed upon you, gentlemen, to decide. If McFadden is convicted, he certainly is a danger to the community. No commutation of the death penalty can be expected."

Judge Checks Counsel.

Justice Logie here drew up Mr. Kerr and told him it was very unusual for counsel to refer to the death penalty. "These cases within counsel's limits," he said, "intimating that counsel was not correct in one statement."

"Let us refer now to the Conley and Hotrum gang," proceeded counsel. "These are the kind of men they were. The first time that Hotrum comes into view, the first time we hear of him, is on his own admission, in the penitentiary, and we have here a list of convictions such as I venture to believe you have never before had presented to you against any man who has been tried in this court. These convictions range from July, 1915, when he stole a handbag, to offences of robbery, which he was sentenced to the penitentiary, right up to the crime of murder of which he was convicted last Saturday."

John Conley, his bedfellow, has admitted being a hold-up man, out on these robberies, pillaging stores of the city of Toronto, and Arthur Conley, his uncle, we find, was in the penitentiary at the same time as Hotrum, and the next thing we hear of him is that he was at 90 Markham street under the same roof, a gang of the most dangerous criminals that we have ever been able to apprehend."

Character Evidence.

"We find John Conley and Roy Hotrum sleeping together," continued counsel to the defence. "At the head of their bed we find cartridges of .32, of .38 and of .45 calibre, as well as two revolvers. Surely, when you consider the moral character of these men, it is an organization of desperadoes."

Counsel then referred to character evidence given by witnesses yesterday on behalf of his client.

"I feel certain that if McFadden had not been laid off last autumn when 20,000 other men were unemployed," said Mr. Kerr, "that he never would have been mixed up with this gang."

"But now let us turn to the 'Patsy' Hotrum, who was shot by McFadden, brother of the prisoner in the box, was the only relative of any of the parties involved who was present when addresses to the jury were commenced."

McFadden himself has stood the strain of the trial incredibly well. This morning he appeared as unconcerned and indifferent as ever, sitting in the prisoner's box with knees crossed and hands resting on them. He occasionally would glance around the court or even lean over to retie his shoelace. The jury's verdict is expected this afternoon.

FRANKLIN K. LANE EX-U. S. CABINET MINISTER, DIES

End Due to Heart Disease Following Operation.

Rochester, Minn., May 18.—Franklin K. Lane, former United States secretary of interior, died at a local hospital here early this morning. Death was due to an attack of angina pectoris.

Mr. Lane was operated on here May 6 for gallstones and appendicitis, and was said to be recovering when heart disease, from which he had suffered for some time, set in. He had been in the hospital for several months. Hospital physicians expressed the belief that the operation would remove the heart action, but an attack early today developed fatally.

Immediately after he had recovered from the influences of the anaesthetic, Mr. Lane said: "I am surprised to be alive. I hope to be able to live a long life, doing good things for ever."

VESSELS COLLIDE IN HEAVY FOG

Both Steamers Able to Proceed After Mishap.

Halifax, N. S., May 18.—The British steamer Holby, collided with an unidentified vessel in a dense fog off Sable Island shortly before midnight, according to a radio message picked up by a wireless station at Glasgow, Head, Guysboro County, N. S., at 1 o'clock this morning.

A second message stated that both vessels were proceeding. The Holby gave her position as latitude 45.34 north, longitude 58.55 west.

The steamer which collided with the Holby is supposed to be the Lady of Gaspe, which sailed from Halifax today for St. John's, Nfld.

The Holby, a vessel of 2,262 tons, was en route from Pictou, Nova Scotia, to Louisbourg, Cape Breton.

CLAIM POLICE NOT ENFORCING HEADLIGHT LAW

Almost Every Night Drivers
Confused and Blinded
by Glaring Lights.

SAY L. M. C. OFFICIALS

Trouble Is That Bulbs Are Not Properly Adjusted.

Numerous complaints have been received, not only by the Motor Club in this city, but by the Ontario Motor League throughout the whole province, that a large number of car owners are ignoring the law regarding the use of non-glare lenses. Officials of the London Motor Club claim that the police are not properly enforcing the regulations, although instructions to the contrary have been issued by the department.

Of almost any road on any night glaring headlights blind and confuse the drivers of passing automobiles, it is claimed, despite the fact that a law prohibiting such lights was passed by the Ontario Legislature recently. Practically all of the offending cars have been equipped with lenses recommended by the department, but in almost every case they are not properly adjusted.

ANOTHER AGED WOMAN IS SENTENCED TO JAIL

Let Aged People's Home Contrary to Rules of Institution.

No sooner does one aged person leave the jail than another is admitted, it seems. Only a few days ago Mrs. Sarah Nelson, aged 84, was sentenced to two weeks in the institution for more than two weeks, was released. She had been found a home. Tuesday Annie Marshall, another aged woman, who until last Wednesday was an inmate of the Aged People's Home, was remanded to jail for two weeks.

Mrs. Harris, who devotes her time to the welfare of female prisoners who appear in police court, said that the officials at the home would not take Mrs. Marshall back unless she was ordered there by the city council. Their reason was that she had left the home of her own accord, thus violating the rules in force at the place.

On Saturday and Sunday, said Mrs. Harris, the aged prisoner's board was secured for her and paid for, but the people to whom she was sent refused to keep her.

Mrs. Marshall is charged with vagrancy. While she is confined in the jail an effort is made to have her taken back to the home.

HOUSING COMMISSION

Nine Houses Sold During Past Week by F. B. Lavender.

That there is still a big demand for homes in the city of London, and that despite the all-around depression and shortness of money, there are still some working men who have been careful enough of their earnings to be in a position to buy their own homes, has been very clearly shown during the past week, according to a statement made to an advertiser reporter today by F. B. Lavender, who has been handling the sale of the houses erected by the housing commission since the real estate agency which had undertaken to dispose of the houses in 45 days, gave up the job without having sold a single house.

"During the past week," said Mr. Lavender, "I have sold nine houses, two on the Garfield avenue location and seven in the Pine Lawn subdivision. These sales have netted for the commission $17,215.48, or an average of $4,148.8 a house. There are still more than 50 houses to be sold."

STILL ON THE JOB AFTER FIFTY YEARS IN LONDON BUSINESS

Hubert Ashplant Receiving Congratulations of Friends

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Tells Young Men How to Succeed in the World.

Fifty years ago Tuesday, a young emigrant from Devonshire, England, arrived in London, which was then a city of 10,000 population, with a few pennies in his possession, to start him in a new country. Today, he is one of the best known retail shoe merchants in Canada, and is receiving the congratulations of his scores of friends and business associates on his anniversary. The young emigrant was Hubert Ashplant, proprietor of Ashplant & Co. with two modern shoe stores in this city, a downtown establishment, and a branch in East London.

When interviewed by The Advertiser regarding his anniversary, Mr. Ashplant, who is now in his 71st year, and enjoying the best of health, stated that he has no intention of retiring from the business which has constituted his life work, and pleasure. "I would be lost out of the business," he declared, "and would not know what to do with myself. I went to work at the age of 14 years, and at 20 launched out for myself, coming to Canada with several young fellows, who have all made good. I had nothing to lose, as I did not have enough money to pay my fare back to England in case of failure. I started in to work here in the stockroom of John McMechan Company, on Dundas street. I worked for nine months in this wholesale shoe warehouse at $5 a week, and saved money."

Opens Stores. As a retail shoe clerk at $7 a week, and was married on a wage of $10 weekly. I stayed at this for five years, and then my boss died, and with my cousin, I opened a shoe store in the Molsons Bank Building, known as Ashplant & Tanton. We had a branch store in the Hiscox Block on the site of one of the theatres, and it was known as Tanton & Ashplant, and a branch store in East London, which I still retain. This continued for 30 years, and then my partner died, and I ran the market store myself, while his son took the other downtown store. "I have been in business for myself for 44 years," continued the veteran merchant, "and have been in the present store for 12 years. The old Molsons Bank store was one with steps leading down to the street, and was in an arcade connecting from Dundas street to the market. When I first came to London, Dundas street was gravel, and was later paved with wooden blocks. At that time we worked early and late, having our hours on the street in front of the store before 7:30 a.m., and working late every night. However, I am in favor of better hours and early closing."

Some Good Advice. "Any young man who wants to get along in life has to lay a foundation, and what a man sows he will reap. There is no finer country for a young man to wish to go to than Canada. It is the land of Canada for me. The opportunities of today are so great now, that the whole trouble is too much spending. The young man can hardly hold himself, the influences are so great now. It is the young man, with steady habits, good control of himself, and a little larger and pep to win the confidence of his employer who is bound to make good. A man is known to his associates as what he is, and common sense is what counts. The faulty, fast living, giddy young man usually gets left. I am the oldest businessman on Dundas street today, and can trace the causes of most failures to fast life. The first man I bought out was smarter than me, but he was out driving all the time and in a few months his business was for sale. The man who wants to get rich quick gets left."

Must Give Value. "In all my business dealings, I have sought to do unto others as I would be done unto myself. I have made mistakes. A businessman cannot be too careful with his customers and must give value for each thing he does. He should make it right, in the right spirit, and his customers will stick to him. I have four generations of one family wearing my shoes because of this. The only trouble now is that the child wears daily, the finer shoes which used to be for Sunday only, which I feel are not serviceable for everyday wear. We used to sell many children's shoes with the paper toes, but these are a curiosity now."

The Good Old Days. "During my 44 years in business," declared Mr. Ashplant, "I have bought out 20 wholesale and retail shoe merchants who have failed. When I started the price of a pair of first-class men's shoes was then $3.50 to $5, and women's shoes were sold at $1.50 to $2. With some pairs for $1. There was no style then, and the styles were not changing. The shoes were more staple, but there were much finer goods in stock today. I did not spend my money on cigarettes and theatres, and all the hum of business had the training of good parents. I do not know the taste of liquor or tobacco."

Fine Buying Spirit. "I have been home to England three times during my 50 years in Canada. I have never been sick of any account. I have never found a more honest and better buying spirit of the public than today. The spirit is good, and demands the best of attention of the businessman. It used to be four times harder to sell shoes. It will be a year or two before things go back to normal. However, the one-price system of goods today is 50 percent better than 40 years ago, when bartering was the custom. "When I came to London," concluded the shoe merchant, "the principal buildings were on Dundas street from Talbot to Clarence, with certain wholesalers on Carling street. Richmond street below opera house in this vicinity. There was a hand fire brigade, and a tank at the corner, including Dundas and Richmond street, where water was stored in case of fire. There were many fires then, and because of lack of water they were burned out. Mr. Ashplant has in his possession photos of himself at the ages of 20, 35 and 50 years, which he proudly displays along with those of his stores at different stages of his career, showing his progress made in the shoe business."

SPECIAL SPEAKERS ARE ANNOUNCED FOR CONVOCAION DINNER

Prof. W. D. Henderson and
Dr. Charles Saunders Expected.

THIRTY GRADUATES
Western University Banquet
To Be Held in Tecumseh
House May 27.

Prof. W. D. Henderson, head of the extensions department of the University of Michigan, and Dr. Charles Saunders, at Ottawa, are announced as the special speakers for the annual convocation dinner of Western University, which will be held at the Tecumseh House on the evening of Wednesday, May 25. Prof. Henderson has definitely accepted the invitation to be present and speak, and Dr. Saunders, in a letter just received by the dinner committee, states that he fully expects to be present for the gathering. Dr. Saunders is being honored this year with the degree of LL.D., and will come to London a couple of days before the convocation, at which he will receive the degree.

The graduates of this year will, as usual, have the special place of honor at the head tables. There are about thirty graduates in all this year, this being the last of the war-year classes which were cut down to small numbers, but next year will see a considerable increase in the number of those graduating from each faculty.

The valedictorian for the arts class will be Miss Margaret Gemmell, who during her four years at Western has taken an outstanding part in all student activities, and in this year, as last, taking the leading part in the university play.

The valedictorian for the graduating medical class will be named within the next day or so. This year it is the turn of the medical men to provide the chairmen for the dinner, the practice being to have arts and medicine alternate in this honor, and Mr. J. H. Venn, M.D., dean of the medical faculty, will probably be in charge of the evening's program.

The musical part of the program is being looked after well and some attractive features are promised. Already word has been received from a number of graduates outside of London that they will be present for the gathering.

CHURCH UNITY SUBJECT OF INTERESTING PAPER
READ BY REV. ARMITAGE
History of Movement Shown to Date
From 1867.

Rev. W. Leslie Armitage of St. James' Church, South London, gave an interesting paper on the subject of "Church Unity" before the Anglican Church Association in Croydon Hall Tuesday. At the last meeting of the association it was arranged that two meetings be held during the month of May, the first to be devoted to church business entirely, and the second to a paper dealing with subjects in connection with the church.

The history of the movement for church unity through the various Churches, Canada, England and the mission fields was outlined by Mr. Armitage. He traced the history of the desire for church unity through the various Lambeth conferences, when an appeal was sent forth, by the bishops and archbishops attending to every denomination with earnest prayers for church unity and fellowship.

Reference was made to the first expression of desire for unity in the conference of 1867, when the bishops passed the following resolution: "We are deeply sorrowed that we view the divided condition of Christ's flock throughout the world today." etc. The splendid appeal made at the last conference was quoted with other resolutions dealing with the subject. Mr. Armitage, after a long discussion followed, and the clergy extended him a hearty vote of thanks for the presentation of the paper.

HAYMAN & SONS TO ERECT VICTORIA SCHOOL AT $162,900

Amount of Contract $20,000
Lower Than Architect's Estimate.

SECOND LOWEST TENDER

But Toronto Contractor Wanted Work On a Cost-Plus Basis.

John Hayman & Sons, contractors of this city, were awarded the contract for the erection of a new fourteen-room public school on the grounds of Victoria School by the board of education at a special meeting held Tuesday afternoon. This action confirmed the recommendation of No. 2 committee, which bureau one hour earlier. The tender which was the second lowest, amounted to $162,900, and a clause will be placed in the contract stipulating that the building be completed by December 31, 1921. The lowest tender was received from a Toronto firm on a cost-plus basis, but it was not accepted because of the difference between it and the local one, and as it gave no guarantee of actual cost in attempting the experiment. The estimated cost of the school building is $185,000 for the school building and equipment, but has been authorized by the city council.

The new school will face Whidncliffe road, west of the present building, which will be used to accommodate the children until the new structure is finished. The latter will be a single-story school, with an auditorium to seat 250 people. There were ten tenders in all, and a striking feature was the low figures submitted by the major bidders. The accepted one being $20,000 less than the estimates. Sub-tenders were not awarded. The bulk tender accepted was estimated by Architect L. E. Carruthers to be ten per cent less than the estimates. The high tender submitted was from a Brockville firm at $187,737.

For Playgrounds Use. The contract was addressed by E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, who asked permission of the board for the use of the school grounds after hours and during vacations for playground purposes, under supervision. The discussion hinged on whether the commission would be responsible for damage, but after the manager explained that no trouble was experienced at Ryerson and Tecumseh Schools, thus enabling athletic clubs of the city to use the playgrounds for league games, while junior stars cavort on the school grounds, Mr. Buchanan declared that the project should really be under the board's supervision, as it is part of a child's education to play, and helps to build character.

"It is a matter for the city," commented Trustee Colledge. "Baseball Diamonds. Small baseball diamonds for younger boys will likely be provided at Rector, Aberdeen and Alexandra Schools. "I went to see a man in London, West today to obtain permission to use the old St. John's Club land for playground purposes," said Manager Buchanan. "He has just purchased it, and told me I could not get it, as he wanted the boys of the vicinity to play ball there, and that was my mission, and we are now working together to get things into shape."

FRANCES NICKAWA DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Talented Cree Maiden Charmingly Interprets Poems of Pauline Johnson.

Not often has London the opportunity of hearing such a recital as that given last night at St. Andrew's Hall under the auspices of the Girls' Canadian Club, when a full-blooded Cree Indian maiden, Frances Nickawa, from the West, presented a program of readings from Pauline Johnson's poems. Miss Nickawa has come to the east, heralded as Pauline's worthy successor, and in her own last night she lived up to her reputation. The writer heard Pauline Johnson recite her own poems here in the old Collegiate Institute assembly hall many years ago. And that marvelous little dramatic poem "As Red Pines Die," as it was given then by the poetess herself, has been a vivid memory, recalled again last night with the same force, as it was read by Miss Nickawa. The Girls' Canadian Club should be congratulated on its first venture.

Perhaps the most beautiful of all the numbers given last night was the final one, "The Cattle Thief," in which the Indian poetess strikes to translate into verse the passionate indignation of the heathen red man, who has been robbed of his food and hunting ground by the Christian white man. All the fire of her race was thrown into Miss Nickawa's interpretation of this masterly poem. Appearing as she did in Indian costume, the impression on her audience was only the more vivid, and could not help but stir up a feeling of sympathy towards the Indian with his righteous cause for complaint.

In marked contrast to the former two poems was the delicate, happy, "The Song My Paddle Sings," another Pauline Johnson poem, read with the same sympathetic understanding and art. The delightful legendary poem "Dawdine" and "Canadian Born"

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.)

The Cliff of Eave Swallows, the last of our six species of native Swallows, are back. Years ago they built their globe or bottle-shaped nests on the eaves of overhanging cliffs. With the advent of civilization they changed their habits, and built on the outside of barns under the eaves, hence their changed name. In the old days there was scarce a barn in the country that did not have a colony of these useful birds. Persecution by the Sparrow has driven them away to a great extent, till now they are comparatively scarce. They may be found in small numbers scattered throughout the country. There are a few colonies at the barns of Mr. Joseph Beck, near Thornedale, and a small one at the cheese factory near Dorchester.

On the way to work after returning from the ponds, the plaintive long-drawn "Pee-e-e-e-e-e" of the Wood Pewee was heard in the city. This little fly-catcher has the saddest notes of any of our birds. Living in the city, it may be seen or heard all summer. One is usually seen on Ridout street south, in the neighborhood of Col. Galt's residence, and on the Worley road, in the vicinity of Col. Smith's grounds.

On Tuesday morning the fields were teeming with the indescribable, rolling, bubbling songs of innumerable Bobolinks, so many singing at once that it was often impossible to hear the notes of some of the smaller songsters for which we were listening.

Along our city streets just now the clear flute-like song of the Baltimore Oriole is heard to perfection, and the orange and black musician is a pretty sight against a background of green leaves.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A "CHEAP" CUT IN PORK OR BEEF?

"According to reports, pork has dropped in price. Why has the retail price remained the same?" asks the consumer, "because," the local butchers reply, "everyone insists on having choice cuts, and this keeps the price up, as we must pay for both choice and ordinary cuts."

With both sides of the question, as presented above, the advertiser this morning interviewed city retail butchers, to ascertain just what constitutes a choice cut. "The choice cuts of pork retail at 42 to 43 cents a pound here," declared a prominent butcher. "That is for the choice cuts of loin. Shoulder pork sells for 20 to 25 cents per pound, fresh hocks at 12 cents, and salt hocks at 10 cents per pound. Ham retails at 33 to 35 cents a pound, smoked. The legs, backs and sides go into bacon at 40 to 45 cents a pound, and bacon is not up at 40 cents. People have a sweet taste for the choice cuts."

"But the cheaper pork is not left on your hands," suggested the reporter. "To a certain extent it is," replied the butcher. "The cheaper cuts do not all go. The average butcher does not handle the whole hog, and the packer's price is gauged on the percentage of what he buys. It is a long way from the pig walking around to the butcher's block, and contrary to the way things used to be, the packer must get his profit."

Depends on Demand. "We buy anything we get a demand for," declared another local butcher to the advertiser. "Cheap cuts must be cheap, because if there were only a few cents difference the consumer would buy all choice cuts, and the cheaper meat would be left entirely on our hands. We sell shoulder pork chops at 28 cents a pound, but everybody wants loin. The difference in price makes a choice cut."

worth while, but all the public has a delicate taste. The packers change conditions from those of old times."

Packers Control. "There was a time," said a third local retail butcher, "when the pork was killed locally, and a butcher could go to the market, make a good buy, and sell accordingly to his customers. Now Government inspection practically forces all fresh meat to go to an abattoir. The packers step in, and we have no control of the price. The packers have control of the meat, but we buy odd lots from drovers, although our main source is the packing house, and conditions are not as before."

Beef Prices. "Beef has been down for three weeks, but everybody wants frying meat in warm weather. The big demand is for beef from the hind quarter, and the front quarters are passed up. However, cattle do not grow all kinds, and as the fronts must be disposed of by butchers, hinds are raised in price to encourage the sale of fronts. We could sell cheaper beef if the people would stand for it, because there is a distinction in the quality of meat handled. Shoulders of beef sell at 18 to 20 cents a pound, flanks at 15 cents, briskets are the same, while steak which everybody wants in contrast to the choice cuts, is just as choice. Beef sells at 35 cents a pound. They want steak because of the summer season's approach."

The first informant explained that lamb is up in price because of the "mint season," when old lamb is about done, and the new meat is just coming in. "In addition," he explained, "the farmers do not raise lambs like they used to. However, lamb and shortening is away down. We sell good shortening at three pounds for 40 cents, and five pounds of lard for a dollar. During the war it was 38 and 40 cents a pound."

WORK STARTED ON SEPARATE SCHOL IN WEST LONDON

Two-Room Structure To Be Known as St. Joseph's

CHANGES AT ST. PETER'S Christian Brothers to Take Over Building—Pupils for Sacred Heart.

Work commenced yesterday upon what will be known upon completion as the St. Joseph separate school. The new building is to be a spacious two-room structure, and is being erected at the corner of Wilson avenue and Roger street, West London. The lot, two acres in area, is a part of the old Kelly estate.

This summer will also witness the addition of two rooms to the St. John separate school on Hill street. This work will proceed directly, as the contractors have promised to complete both jobs in ample time for the reopening of schools after the vacation.

With this additional seating capacity at disposal, separating changes are outlined by the separate schools for the next term. St. Joseph's school, upon completion, will provide accommodation for the children of West London, together with those living in the extreme western section of South London.

It has now been definitely decided to place St. Peter's school at the disposal of the Christian Brothers. The pupils of that institution will in future attend what was formerly the Sacred Heart Convent, at the corner of Queen's avenue and Colborne street. The primary motive for this change is that, with the parish hall easily accessible for lectures, general educational and religious duties and gymnasium work, more time will be allowed the Christian Brothers in their care of the boys. It is intended also next term that first-year high school work will become part of the work at St. Peter's. It is not unlikely that in due time the name of De La Salle will be supplemented for the latter name.

With this rearrangement of classes it is felt that undoubtedly the educational work will be carried out to greater advantage and satisfaction.

FARM LABOR IS MORE PLENTIFUL

Crop Prospects All Through the Province Reported Excellent.

Toronto, May 17.—Reports of crop prospects made to the Ontario department of agriculture, as published by the department, wind up with the statement that farm labor is easier to procure than for many years, and that there is employment in other lines of work. Fall wheat is reported to be showing a fair top. In spring grains the seedling is practically over in most counties in Ontario. The grain-sown crops look well, particularly on tilled fields.

Orchards are in unusually full bloom in most cases, and apples are particularly promising. In Lincoln County, leaf curl is beginning to show on some trees. In Norfolk County black currants and gooseberries have been injured 85 per cent by frost.

The fall in cattle prices is noted in the report, the Huron representative of the department mentioning that at a recent sale cows brought from $30 to $35, which a year ago would have brought $150 to $175.

LABOR BOARD SAYS WAGES MUST BE CUT

Unexpected Announcement Regarding Railway Situation Is Made At Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 17.—The United States Railway Labor Board announced today that it had decided that "prevailing conditions justify, to an extent yet to be determined, a readjustment downward of the wages of the employees of the carriers, which are parties to the disputes already heard by the board."

The announcement, which affects labor on practically every railroad in the United States, was entirely unexpected, as the board only began formal consideration of the case yesterday. The announcement today was made only a few hours after the close of the hearings, which have been in progress since early in April. Neither the roads nor the representatives of the unions had expected any announcement for several weeks.

On July 29, 1920, the board rendered a decision increasing the pay of all classes of railway employees approximately 21 per cent, or about $600,000,000 a year.

Several months ago a number of railroads announced they could no longer operate under the award, and announced reductions averaging about 20 per cent for unskilled employees. The workers appealed to the board, which decided that the roads could not make any summary reductions, but must first hold conferences with their men, and then, if no agreement could be reached, submit the case to the board for decision.

Practically every large road in the United States then held conferences with its unskilled employees regarding reductions, and about a dozen refused to accept cuts, carried the case to the board.

Nearly a hundred cases in all were thus appealed, and the board finally decided to hear them as a unit instead of separately.

Today's announcement was the first indication of its attitude on the wage question. Railroad officials at night expressed themselves as being pleased at the board's statement, and expressed the opinion that the same conditions which it was found applied to unskilled labor would also be applied to skilled workers. Representatives of the employees refused to comment on the board's announcement until they had time to study it carefully.

MOUNT ELGIN GIRL STRANGELY MISSING

Got On Train and Has Not Been Seen Since.

TILLSONBURG, May 17.—Tillsonburg has been stirred by the disappearance of Gladys Bowen, aged 12, while en route from her grandmother's, near Aylmer, to Tillsonburg. She left Aylmer on the afternoon Grand Trunk train and was to take the C. P. R. train to Mount Elgin, but as yet has not arrived, much to the distress of her parents. She is the daughter of Mr. L. Bowen, R. R. 1, Mount Elgin and had been on a visit to her grandmother near Aylmer. Her uncle, who is employed in the condenser at Aylmer, saw the young girl board the train and that is the last known of her whereabouts. The matter has been placed in the hands of the police. The girl has blue eyes, light hair, and is about four feet six inches tall and of a slight build. When she boarded the train for Tillsonburg she wore a checkered coat, pink hat and carried a small hand bag.

"DOLLAR DAY" SALES MAKE NEW RECORDS

TILLSONBURG, May 17.—During the past two weeks a large percentage of local merchants have reported a rising increase in sales, and "Dollar Day" today swept away all pessimism as to the buying strike in this part of South Oxford. With the auto as a great factor, the streets were crowded from the early morning with shoppers from far and near, and several times during the day it was impossible to gain admittance to several stores. In the drug stores and ladies' and gent's furnishings business exceeded that of any former Dollar Day.

FARMERS' WIVES TO DISCONTINUE MAKING BUTTER

No Money In It At Present Prices, They Declare.

DRESDEN, May 17.—Many farmers' wives are to be excused from the butter-making business, as they will not continue to supply them with butter at present prices. The creamery, thus saving the labor involved in making butter.

Crops are in splendid condition in this district, especially the wheat, which seldom looked better. While a few sections have had one or two nice showers, rain is greatly needed. The fine weather has given opportunity for early seeding of all small grains, and a large portion of the corn crop is already in. Clover is looking well and pasturage is good, but the tremendous slump in the price of butter and the low price of eggs, coupled with the fact that high prices of groceries and feedstuffs are still sustained, is exciting much unfavorable comment and dissatisfaction among the farmers, who are only receiving 20 to 25 cents per pound for butter, and 20 cents for eggs.

First Instalment of Reparations Money Handed To Committee

PARIS, May 17.—The reparations commission officially announced today that Germany had placed at its disposal 150,000,000 gold marks, partly in gold and partly in foreign currency.

It was added that the reparations commission was making arrangements to accept delivery of the payment. The reparations commission, in its reply to the German Government accepting the payment of 150,000,000 gold marks, makes it clear that this amount will be received only on account of the billion marks due May 31, which must be forthcoming before that date in gold or approved foreign currency, bills, or drafts on the German treasury, endorsed by approved German banks and payable in pounds sterling at London, francs at Paris, or dollars at New York.

The commission will meet tomorrow morning to decide what city shall be designated to receive the 150,000,000 marks, probably either Cologne, Coblenz or Mayence.

AUTOPSY SHOWS DETROIT CHILD WAS MURDERED

Max Ernest Strangled After Mouth Was Crammed With Earth.

DETROIT, May 17.—An autopsy today on the body of Max Ernest, six years old, found in a ditch on the east side last night, showed the boy was murdered, according to Coroner James E. Burgess. Death was caused by strangulation, the doctor said. The examination, he added, showed the boy's mouth had been crammed with earth and that a cloth or rope had been twisted about the neck.

While the autopsy was in progress, police again questioned Mrs. Elizabeth Leven, 58 years old, held since last Saturday on a charge of abducting the boy. She admitted, according to the officers, that she had been with the boy on a street car in the general vicinity of the spot where the body was discovered, but denied any knowledge of his death.

The authorities claimed this afternoon to have traced Mrs. Leven's movements last Wednesday night, when the boy disappeared, to the ditch where the body was found hidden under a pile of brush. She was seen, they announced, leading the boy out Drexel avenue, on the eastern outskirts of the city, a few hours after he disappeared from his home in the north end section. In asking Mrs. Leven's arrest, Frank E. Ernest, the lad's father, told the authorities he believed she might have kidnapped the boy to avenge fancied wrongs in business dealings.

THOSE NASTY LITTLE PIMPLES

That Come On the Face Are Caused by Bad Blood.

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by the unsightly pimples and various other skin troubles, caused wholly by bad blood.

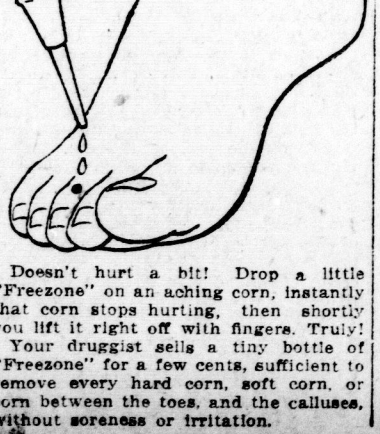

Many a cheek and brow cast in the mold of beauty have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and the possessor of the "pimple face" rendered unhappy for years.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted as well as pain and regret to their friends. There is an effective remedy for these facial defects and that is Burdock Blood Bitters, the old reliable medicine that has been on the market for over 40 years.

It drives out all the impurities from the blood, and leaves the complexion clear and healthy.

Mrs. James Williams, Waterford, Ont., writes: "My face was covered with pimples for nearly a year. I used different kinds of remedies to get rid of them and finally thought there was no relief. A friend dropped in one day and told me I should try Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and used three bottles and found the pimples were all disappearing from my face, and now I have a clear complexion again."

THE NATIONAL RAILWAYS.

One of the most severe castigations which the Meighen Government has yet received is that contained in the speech of W. C. Kennedy, member for North Essex. Mr. Kennedy's criticisms were of a constructive nature. He sought a remedy for the extravagance of the present administration, and for the burden of taxation which now afflicts the country. He particularly directed his remarks to the militia estimates, the appropriation for the mercantile marine, and the present management of the Canadian National Railways. In going to the root of this matter, Mr. Kennedy said:

"Anybody who knows the history of the Canadian Northern knows that the men who were the alleged owners of that road never attempted nor even thought
of making money out of the operation of the road.
That was too slow a method. Their money was to be made out of the building of the road. They were railroad builders, not railroad operators."

Mr. Kennedy maintained that from one end of the country to the other where the Canadian Northern was built and operated, there were subsidiary companies, and the subsidiary companies did not leave much of the parent company when it was turned over to the Government. In suggesting remedies for the present deplorable state of affairs, Mr. Kennedy advocated that a man possessing the confidence of the public be placed in charge. He pointed out that the Government had shirked its responsibility of appointing the directors, and this in the face of the fact that these men were every year entrusted with spending approximately $200,000,000 of the people's money.

In an analysis of the directorate Mr. Kennedy showed that several of its members were largely interested in companies which did considerable business with the Canadian Northern, and thereby demonstrated that these gentlemen are occupying an anomalous
position by being buyers and sellers at the same time.

"How does the Government expect to make public ownership a success under such conditions?" he asked.
In order to restore public confidence in the enterprise Mr. Kennedy suggested: First, that the resignation of the president be called for; second, the resignation from the directorate of men who are associated or affiliated with other companies doing business with the railways.

The remedies advanced by the member for North Essex will commend themselves to all who have at heart the purity of administration and the lifting of the country out of its present financial slough to a position of security and sound progress.

W. L. GEORGE ON AMERICA.

The English novelist, W. L. George, has been giving the readers of Harper's Magazine his impressions of the United States. He is sometimes more amusing than convincing, more stylistic than exact, though he is perhaps even more friendly than he is informed.

He thinks that the absence of servants, or "slaves,"
as he calls them, is the main trouble with the middle-class American home. No slave, no "comfort," for the master and mistress. And yet a moment before he had remarked that the essence of home comfort was a
"dusty, frowsy feeling," generated by an "accumulation
of broken screens, old fireirons, and seven-year-old volumes of the Illustrated London News." So then it needs a slave in the house to maintain comfortable
dishabille and leave a few old odd books kicking about.
Perhaps there is something in that. But when Mr.
George goes on in his next breath to attribute the superior homeliness of sick hospitals in Europe to the sisters of charity, who, he says, are kinder, if less scientific, than the "self-complacent and official nurses"
of America, he seems confusedly to suggest, without intending it, no doubt, that those sisters of charity are a sort of slaves!

The fact is, comfort is what you are used to. Mark Twain wrote an article denouncing all things European,
and claiming for his precious United States everything wholesome, honest, beautiful and worth while. The American traveling abroad misses the bathroom as much as the Englishman his tub and service. A savage from the South Seas will find our minimum clothing
a distress, and our heated indoors an inferno. So tid-ness of interior bothers Mr. George.

He expresses some mild reprobaton of the curtailment of free speech and free press in the United States in the last few years. No doubt occasional tyrannies have taken place, but papers like the New York Nation
are allowed to go on with wholesale attacks upon American institutions, as well as policies. The suppressions have been generally of papers and people resorting or inciting to violence; even flagrant falsehood and pro-
Germanism have been put up with as a general thing.

However, apart from two or three points like these,
Mr. George's article is both entertaining and instructive. The author of "Caliban" is one of the great novelists of the hour, which means that, writing as here with care, he observes men and things with a seeing eye, a shrewd sympathy and a judicial mind.

HONORS WELL-BESTOWED.

By conferring the degree of LL.D. on Charles R.
Somerville, ex-mayor of London, and Charles Edward Saunders, cerealist of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the Western University will be honoring two men who have rendered signal service to the city and to the country as a whole. As a member of the university commission, and of the board of governors of the Western University, ex-Mayor Somerville has done good work in the cause of education. At a time like this,

when scholastic matters are so much in the public eye,
and when such a project is on foot as the extension and development of the Western, it is an appropriate and graceful act to recognize the efforts which have been put forth by such public-spirited citizens.

As the discoverer and propagator of Marquis wheat, it will be conceded that Mr. Saunders, who will be the other participant in this distinction, has conferred a great boon not only on the people of Canada, but on the world at large. This variety of wheat has been described as the best grown anywhere, and this achievement has demonstrated not only the value of scientific agriculture, but the fact that in the person of men like Mr. Saunders the Dominion possesses the best agricultural instructors that the world can produce. Mr.
Saunders is one of London's own sons, and the honor to be extended to him comes at a time when the Western University has in contemplation the addition of an agricultural course to its already comprehensive curriculum. This makes it singularly appropriate.

Now that the Western is receiving from the Government that recognition to which its mission entitles
it, and is launching forth on the broad sea of expansion and improvement, the marks of distinction
which it bestows have an enhanced interest and value.

A SQUARE DEAL FOR THE SETTLER.

In times of difficulty and distress the dependence of all sections of the community upon one another is revealed far more clearly than in periods of abounding prosperity when the need for co-operative action is not so apparent.

At the moment Canada is faced with a problem of immense magnitude: how to induce the rapid and successful development of the vacant lands in the west
in proximity to the railway lines.

The old immigration movement, the combined result of many independent agencies, among them the Government, railways and land companies, was pretty well over before the war came to put a complete stop to enterprises of this character.

Now the factors of the problem are so changed that the old agencies, if they could be revived and got back to work again, could not renew their old successes. Everything is changed; the character of the settlers required, the nature of the appeal that must be made to secure them, and the machinery by which they can be transported and placed in locations where their presence will be advantageous to themselves and
of benefit to the country.

The immigrants most needed are people who will come with a view to securing farm homes for themselves; they must have a moderate amount of capital
now that there are no more free homesteads, and experience in farm work, or at least aptitude for it is desirable. There is no lack in the world today of people of this type to whom the prospect of a home in Western Canada, if it could be brought before them, would make an irresistible appeal, just as there are available for them the very homes they desire if some method can be found to bring the vacant lands and the homeseeker together.

The Western Canada Colonization Association has come into existence in the expectation that it will be able to render a great public service by devising and carrying out plans by which the desirable immigrant in other lands over the sea or south of the line, will be secured, brought to Western Canada, placed on suitable land and given such encouragement as may be necessary to make him a contented and prosperous settler.

The Western Canada Colonization Association will devote its energies primarily to inducing the right kind of settler to come to Canada. It will do this work in coordination with every agency existing, or hereafter to be called into being, devoted to the same purpose. The more the better, provided they work towards a common object and co-operate to this end.

The association is not a land-selling agency. It has no interest in any particular district, and is not concerned in the disposal of privately-held lands. Yet it is very obvious that if settlers are secured for Western Canada they will require land. If they can get the land they want at the price they can afford to pay, in a locality that meets their wishes, the plan will work. After the first thousand settlers are successfully placed the current of immigration will set in steadily, and will never cease until the vacant places in the West are filled.

But the successful placing of the settler after he is secured is the very foundation stone of the enterprise;
lacking it the movement must fail. The Western Canada Colonization Association have asked the people of Western Canada to attend themselves to this matter,
of such vital importance to them, through the agency
of their own Provincial Governments.

In the memorial presented to the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta by the association the outline of the proposed plans are drawn. Briefly, each Government is asked to create a land board
for its province, which will list all vacant lands with prices fixed for two years, and issue maps and literature
showing the location of this land, and giving the facts as to the price and character of the soil. Provision is made insuring a reasonable valuation, and owners will be asked to name agents empowered to make sales.

If this plan is carried out the Western Canada
Colonization Association and every other immigration agency operating outside of Canada will be able to put into the hands of the prospective immigrant the information which will make his removal to a new home in Western Canada a business investment, instead of a highly speculative venture. He will be able to decide beforehand the district to which he is to go, and he will know that when he arrives he will be able to get the land he requires without delay and without uncertainty. The road will be straight before him and the goal will be in sight.

The beneficial effect upon immigration of an arrangement like this, which will offer the incoming settler the assurance of considerate treatment and a square deal, will be beyond calculation. It will remove, too, from the whole movement the incubus of the suspicion that it is a device for selling land for speculators,
and put it in its proper light as a great co-operative,
disinterested attempt to do a real public service—that of settling the empty spaces of the West, with all the incalculable benefits that will follow, in which every interest and every industry will share; the local municipality and school district, the local merchant and railways, the provinces, the cities, and, in fact, the whole Dominion.

SINN FEIN STYLE.
[London Times.]

The worst crime perpetrated by Sinn Feiners in the North of Ireland took place recently, the victim being a poor woman named Kitty Carroll, aged 40, of Aghnameena, 6 miles from the town of Monaghan, who was put through the force of a trial by her assassins and shot dead through the head, her body being left on the roadside.

She lived in very humble circumstances with her father and mother, aged between 80 and 90, and an invalid brother. She was the sole support of the family by farming a few acres of mountain land and keeping poultry. In spite of her humble position, she fell under the suspicion of the I. R. A., and was marked down for assassination.

At midnight on Saturday a knock was heard outside the little cabin, and Kitty Carroll, who had long before retired to bed, arose and opened the door, to find a party of masked men outside. They entered the house, and told the unhappy woman that they had come for her. She resisted with all her strength, but the murderers overpowered her and tied her hands behind her. She was then taken from the house, in spite of her pitiful pleadings that she alone was left to look after the little household, and the men led her for a mile down the lane and across a bridge which fords a little stream. Two hundred yards further on a mock "court-martial" was held in the darkness of the night on the terrified woman, who, being found "guilty" was shot through the cheek, the bullet entering the brain. Her wrist was also shattered.

A cord was found tied round her neck
with the words "Spies and informers, beware! Tried, convicted, and executed by
I. R. A."

Replying to Sir W. Davidson in the House of Commons, Mr. Henry said Miss Carroll wrote some letters to the police concerning illicit drink traffic in the neighborhood. These letters were captured from the local postman by members of the Irish Republican Army, and
this capture was the cause of her death.
After she was dragged out of the house,
her hands were tied behind her back,
and they forced her along for half a mile.
Her dead body with bullet wounds was found in a field.

LONDON WORKING BOYS.
[London Daily Telegraph.]

The Prince of Wales could not have presided over a more beneficial gathering than the boxing championship meeting of the London Working Boys' Clubs. The Federation of these clubs, of which Prince Arthur of Connaught is patron and Lord Desborough president, has a membership of over 7,000, drawn from 130 institutions in all parts of London. It holds inter-club competitions, not only in cricket and various sports, but in physical training and rifle shooting, as well as chess and draughts, essay writing, frehand drawing, map drawing, reading, and recitation. There is also a flourishing harpists' club, the members of which are often to be seen in the evening running
in tynes and threes through the traffic
of London in preparation for the real thing across country.

WHERE ENGLISHMEN ARE NOT SERIOUS.

[Detroit Free Press.]

A few weeks before the American golf players were due to arrive in England
for the international matches a follower of the sport told what all good Englishmen do when they are seized with a thought and wrote to the Times. He pointed out that last year one American came within a hair's breadth of running away with the amateur championship,
and that this solitary golfer was not the best who could have been sent from this side. This year, he said, a whole troop of Americans were coming and he suggested that in the light of last year's experience this year would probably be a Waterloo for English golfers unless they selected their best and trained hard for the encounter. Therefore, he urged export golfers to give up their ordinary pursuits and prepare diligently for the invasion.

The letter called out a reply in which a writer maintained that Englishmen
would rather lose like good sportsmen
than train like good athletes and he advised his fellow golfers to drink their beer, play their whist and enjoy themselves as usual, leaving victory to the fates.

The second letter probably represents the bulk of opinion among English gentlemen on the subject of sport. They will prepare up to a certain convenient point; they will try hard and fight gam-ely, but they will not make victory their consuming object of their desire which characterizes the American athlete. The professional may do that, but the British amateur insists that a game is only a game and will not make a business of it.

KITCHEN HANDLES.

In spite of considerable ingenuity in the use of wooden or hollow handles on kitchen utensils, the fact remains that cooking is a hot business, and handling

hot things is one of its problems. Many housekeepers solve it by making padded squares of old scraps of materials to be used as holders and always keeping a good supply of them on hand. Such holders should be four or five inches square, or four by six inches oblong. It is wise to make them washable; everything in a kitchen needs to be washable, and therefore they should not be too thickly padded. Scraps of old cotton batting, sweep-out, stocking stuff, rags of woven underwear or Turkish towel make good padding. For the covering, the good parts of old stockings or any kind of stout cotton cloth can be used. Cross stitching should hold the padding firmly in place, and at one of the corners a small celluloid ring should be firmly sewed, so that one or two holders in constant use can be hung conveniently near the range. A dozen such holders will last about a year, and in any sudden need for handling hot things they are simply invaluable and they are made in a few minutes. Personal Health Service

Antoboyography. IX.—Too Sweet.

There is no doubt that a great number of children suffer grave impairments of nutrition because their diet consists too largely of carbohydrates—starches and sweets. This is the tendency toward which all the cakes, white bread, crackers and pastries and cookies lead. Dad and I certainly do not believe that such a diet is advisable for any boy or child. An excess of starches and sugars in the diet makes a child or boy fat, perhaps, but flabby and anemic and too watery; that is, his tissues retain too much water. He looks white or pale, tires quickly, and usually suffers more or less discomfort called dyspepsia or indigestion.

Piecing predisposes to that condition, because the child with the piecing habit is exceedingly prone to prefer some article which is chiefly starch or sugar, such as cake or cookies or candy, instead of wholesome bread and butter spread with sugar (preferably crude brown sugar because it has not been robbed of the mineral salts), a meat sandwich or bread and milk, or crackers and milk.

Piecing, in the sense of a regular lunch in mid-forenoon and mid-afternoon, is not a bad habit at all; for young children it is a good habit, provided always that the lunch is a wholesome one.

Let no one attempt to credit father and me with the notion that sugar or candy is preferable in any way to bread and butter or meat or vegetables or fruit, even though once sugar or candy is the more nutritious. All we maintain is that live, active, growing, normal children require a liberal allowance of sugar (as such) or in simple candy with regular meals or as dessert; that this sugar is as easily digested as any food a child can take, that it is quickly available for oxidation to produce energy for the muscles, including the heart muscle, of the active child, and that it is a huge mistake, based upon nothing but prejudice, to withhold sugar from a normal boy or child.

And may we say here again that there is no connection between sugar and candy in the diet and infestation with worms.

Dad and I have gone into this sugar question very conscientiously. I can tell you, and so far as normal boys and children are concerned, we are solid on sugar.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Cause of Locomotor Ataxia.

Please advise me what is the cause of locomotor ataxia. (C. R. R.)
ANSWER—In about ninety per cent of cases the cause is syphilis PLUS some such factor as prolonged worry or fatigue. Possibly locomotor ataxia may be caused in some cases by other infections than syphilis. It must be clearly understood that in about one-tenth of all cases there is no evidence that the patient has ever had syphilis. It should also be remembered that at least one-tenth of all cases of syphilis the infection has been innocently acquired.

WINNER OF HOSPITAL

Little Miss Marion Read of Albert street, and the miniature Sick Children's Hospital won by her at the recent County Fair. The little owner of the hospital has been most generous with it since it has come into her possession. For the past two days it has been on exhibition at the Tabbot street school, so that all her little playmates may enjoy it, too. And yesterday it was taken to the Technical School, where it may be viewed by every person who visits the child welfare exhibit opening there today. The hospital stands at the left of the entrance door, with its small owner, in nurse's cap and apron, in charge, receiving small donations for the big hospital. The miniature hospital was cleared $33 on the hospital at the County Fair, the model being donated to the hospital by one of its members, Mrs. A. A. Harris. The miniature hospital was constructed and equipped by Mr. and Mrs. Harris.

BIG BABY WELFARE EXHIBIT OPENS TODAY IN TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Clinics Begin in Morning and Lectures At 3 o'clock.

All the interesting exhibits are in place for the big Baby Welfare exhibit which opens in the Technical School today, under the direct supervision of Miss Bertha Smith, the child welfare nurse and the Child Welfare Association of the city. Great banners advertising "baby" are floating in front of the school, while everywhere on the walls inside are magnificent posters, shrieking out advice to mothers or warning them against the hundred and one mistakes which will keep them from bringing "best babies" to the big annual clinics. The official opening of the exhibit takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Col. W. M. Garthwaite, president of the Child Welfare Association, will declare the exhibit open.

A trip from the entrance door of the exhibit building to the last special room set aside for the big clinics, is full of intense interest. Directly confronting the door, is a variety of posters, not to mention an information desk of the most valuable kind. Just on the left has been placed on exhibition the miniature children's hospital, made by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Harris and won by little Miss Marion Read of Albert street at the recent County Fair. Little Miss Read herself, garbed as a Red Cross nurse, is in charge, and she has with her a small cup ready to receive pennies for the big children's hospital.

Provincial Exhibit. Further along the hall, past a maze of interesting posters, is the turn which leads to the big provincial exhibit in charge of the provincial nurse, Miss Burns. A small room has been set aside for this exhibit, which consists of a remarkable series of illustrated posters, the proper utensils to be used in the preparation of children's food, bath arrangements and a proper child's bed with all the necessary equipment. Here also is stationed the Victoria Hospital exhibit of actual children's feedings to be used at different ages. The next room contains more posters along health lines, but this time the posters of the actual work of the children on the domestic science classes of the different public schools, the exhibit being in charge of Miss Craig.

Interesting original verses of the following type appear on these posters with fitting colored illustrations:

"Work while you work, play while you play. Eat nourishing food and grow fatter each day."

Obstetrical Room. In this room, space has been reserved for a completely outfitted obstetrical room, in charge of Miss Wilson and the Victorian Order nurses. St. Joseph's Hospital also has a very fine model nursery on display here. The last room along the corridor is reserved for moving pictures and lectures.

Upstairs is the location of the big clinic. Miss Helen Gunn, secretary of the Child Welfare Association, is stationed at the head of the stairs, taking the names of all the babies who enter the clinic, while Mrs. Alex. Henderson of the Y. W. C. A. is also there to take the social history of the parents for Dr. Hill of the Institute of Public Health. A fascinating exhibit by the local Kindergarten Association is also to be seen at the head of the stairs, and noticeable among the pieces of work on display are some which carry out ideas learned in the recent kindergarten convention at Detroit. Further along the hall is the tuberculosis exhibit, where a doll's bed with its wee patient is fitted up exactly as the bed of a tubercular patient should be, with sputum cups and paper handkerchiefs near by. This exhibit is accompanied by another attractive display of posters, and is directly outside the big room reserved for the mothers and babies who attend clinic.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

LXXXVII—AN AWAKENED CONSCIENCE

The real Betty Gordon was meanwhile pursuing the quiet tenor of her way at the Red Cottage. The round of duties which village philanthropy afforded did much to restore her to her own normal, cheerful self.

But inwardly many changes had taken place in Betty Gordon. She had been brightened up considerably since the news had reached her from a girl into a woman.

"I somehow feel so old," she often told herself in the solitude of her own little room at night.

She had brightened up considerably since the news had reached her from a girl into a woman.

The two hundred and fifty dollars he had obtained from the pawnbroker on Betty's ring had been spent long ago. Curiously enough, Betty had made no inquiries about the dispatching of the ring.

"The most trusting little soul that ever lived!" Davon styled her, with a half sneer. Sometimes he felt vaguely sorry for her, but he would not actually admit it to her. And yesterday it was taken to the Technical School, where it may be viewed by every person who visits the child welfare exhibit opening there today.

The hospital stands at the left of the entrance door, with its small owner, in nurse's cap and apron, in charge, receiving small donations for the big hospital.

The miniature hospital was cleared $33 on the hospital at the County Fair, the model being donated to the hospital by one of its members, Mrs. A. A. Harris. The miniature hospital was constructed and equipped by Mr. and Mrs. Harris.

Life had been rather difficult for him these days. His friends appeared to be growing somewhat tired of him.

"But I don't exactly blame him," he had told himself, with his own engaging candor, "for I must be a darned nuisance, sponging on them all the way I always do."

And he came to call on Betty Gordon. And Betty—though she had no love for Davon—had been nice to him, as was her invariable custom with everyone she knew. Although she had long since decided to put all thoughts of that young man from her mind, her resolutions were not easily carried out. She couldn't possibly forget him.

Davon, on both occasions, talked lengthily of Trevor. And Betty, despite her better judgment, despite all the warnings of pride and common sense, listened delightedly.

He was a fine fellow, was Jack Trevor—so Davon declared. A little proud and touchy, perhaps—but as true as steel. An exemplary and a faithful friend.

A little lump of ice that had collected for many days round Betty's heart seemed to melt as she listened to these words. Of course, Davon was not altogether reliable. Betty somehow sensed that fact. But praise of Trevor was as music in this simple little country girl's ears.

It was the evening of the day on which Jack Trevor had safely turned the critical corner of his illness, and as Betty was strolling along the country lanes, she ran unexpectedly into Charlie Davon.

If the truth be told, that young man had been finding his presence at the Manor House somewhat superfluous, and had wandered forth in the hopes of meeting this sympathetic little lady, who somehow had the knack of restoring ing his confidence in himself and of putting him in tune with all the world again. Therefore he was delighted at the encounter.

"Good evening—I'm so glad to see you," he called out, raising his hat with an air of elaborate respect. "And I've some news that perhaps will interest you."

Betty's young face brightened. She had been feeling desperately dull at day—and even the company of Charlie Davon was a relief. Besides, perhaps he was the bearer of news of Trevor.

"What is it?" she said. "Do tell me."

"Davon dived into his pocket and produced a telegram."

"This came from April," he remarked nonchalantly. "And this is what she says. 'Crisis safely over—Jack getting better—may bring him down soon to Manor House.'"

A quick flush spread over Betty's pretty face. Davon, looking up sharply, saw the red in her cheeks and sent by the roadside. Then the flush faded, leaving her very white.

"Here, sit down—you aren't going to faint, are you?" With rough kindness he piloted her to a stone seat by the roadside. It was amazing how this young girl cared for Trevor!

"Well, it's good news, isn't it?" he went on, speaking more gently. "For Betty somehow had the faculty of drawing out the best in people—even with such men as Charlie Davon."

The young girl nodded—and the quivering of her lips showed the emotion that she felt.

"You must come over to the Manor House, and see Jack for yourself, when April brings him down," said Davon, earnestly, anxious to console her.

But Betty proudly shook her head. "Oh, I couldn't possibly do that," she said quickly—then stopped, as though vexed at what she had said.

As he looked at her white face, Davon, the hard-hearted, actually felt a tiny twinge of compunction. She had been so good to him on the occasion of his two visits—and though he somehow knew she didn't care for his approval of him, he had appreciated her well-meant kindness.

April and he—how were they repaying her? Had he not pawned her ring—the ring he had promised to dispatch to Trevor—for two hundred and fifty dollars? He had squandered every cent of the money, too.

"But I'll pay it back to her!" he told himself with a sudden novel sense of righteousness.

Dear Miss Grey,—What have I done that I do not see my letters in print, and that I get no answer of any kind from you? This is my third letter to the Mail-Box, and as I didn't hear anything of the others, I thought I would try again. I asked you before if you would please let me have Help's address, as she offered to give some clothes to anyone who needed them, for a girl of 12. I would be very glad to get them, and would pay postage, also, if anyone has any clothes to spare for a little boy of 5 and one of 7 I would be thankful. I will leave my address with Miss Grey in case anyone would be so kind as to help me. At Christmas time, but I like Canada the best. It is a fine place to raise children, and I have some very good friends here now. If those old London boxites would like to write to me, I should be pleased to have them do so. I am very fond of reading when I have time and discussing books helps a person to know good authors.

Now I'm bringing up children: I have five, and I think a taste of the strap is a good thing. I used to have the cane when I was small, and I don't think it hurt us any, and I am a none of ten.

MOTHER LUCY.

Ans.—Am mailing a few seeds, Mother Lucy.

Dear Miss Grey,—It is quite a while since I have written to the Mail-Box, and I thought it time I was sending another note to the S. C. H. fund. I saw where Charman had some bulbs to grow in the house she would send to the Mail-Box if anyone cared to have them. I would like to have some, as I have a few? Are they to be planted in flower pots in the house or in vases in water? I have seen some bulbs planted both ways. I am sending a few packages of seeds. I am sending a few packages of seeds. I am sending a few packages of seeds.

Ans.—Possibly Charman will see your request and send you bulbs. Thanks for hospital mite.

Dear Miss Grey,—Am coming again for help. Would like to get some crochet patterns, daisy chain and some suitable for pillowcases. Am returning those you sent me, also the pieces to rectify. Would like to get some slips of begonia called begonia, and also some slips of the angel-wing begonia, and one of Lady Washington geranium. Would pay postage for same. Am inclosing mite for S. C. H. Hoping to hear from you soon, and wishing the page all success.

Ans.—Am mailing some crochet patterns, but the daisy chain is not in at present. Thank you for the hospital mite.

Attention, Anchor.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wrote twice before, but have never seen my letters in print. I thought I would try once more, as I see where Anchor was inquiring for a yellow chrysanthemum. I would like to exchange with her, so please send me her address. I would like also a slip of a house rose as well, and could exchange a begonia or fuchsia, or almost any kind of a plant. As I sent a dime each time I wrote. Hope that this letter will meet with better success, for I asked for a sachet and never received it. Do we have to pay to have a letter printed on your page? Wishing the Mail-Box every success. NANCY.

Ans.—No, you do not have to pay to have your letters printed in the Mail-Box, but you have to observe the following rules, which you apparently did not know of. 1. Write on one side of the paper. 2. Write with pen and ink. 3. Address the letter to Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box, London Advertiser. Am mailing address and sachet, as requested.

Wants Addresses.

Dear Cynthia, Would like addresses of Lonely Jack and Carrot. Do not print this unless the above pen-names addresses are not in your hands. Thank you. I remain, KEALOHA.

P. S.—Inclosed find stamped, addressed envelope for the above.

Ans.—Will Lonely Jack and Carrot kindly send in their names and addresses?

Dear Miss Grey,—Isn't this cold weather? I should think you'd let another one near your warm fire. I have just finished reading your page, for it doesn't irritate.

ST. MARYS AND FULLARTON OPEN NO. 5 GROUP OF N. W. B. A.

ST. MARYS, May 17.—Full pump and ceremony will tomorrow afternoon mark the opening of the N. W. B. A. season for No. 5 group. Mayor N. L. Brandon will throw the first ball over the home plate in what promises to be one of the fastest games ever played on the local diamond, when Fullarton will oppose the local veterans' team. It is some years since St. Marys has boasted of a baseball team, and therefore everyone is looking forward with more than usual interest.

May 24 Gets London Bowlers
Away On Impressive Program

Practically every bowling club in the city is choosing May 24 for the official opening, though each day of sunshine from now on may see some of the trundlers out at the kiddy, preliminary to starting away on the regular season. The game is in old-time bowlers' believe, for the biggest year it has ever experienced in London, which always boasted a small army of enthusiastic trundlers and provided a steady growth in new clubs and new additions and improvements to greens.

The visit of the British bowlers here in September will probably be the outstanding event of the season, and in the seventh inning Bill Pike stole home while Pinto was winding up. The game was played in a drizzle of rain, but both teams held up well. The score:

London—A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E.

The Elmwoods have made big strides and now have fifteen greens available with new members enough to make sure that their grounds won't have a chance to look vacant at any time during the season. The southsiders have proven what young and virile organizations can do from small beginnings, and their events are proving a big attraction to the bowlers in general.

Small Clubs Active.

Amongst the smaller clubs, the same activity is noticeable. Matthews have added more greens and new members. All Saints have also a new bunch of bowlers. The Elmwoods have made big strides and now have fifteen greens available with new members enough to make sure that their grounds won't have a chance to look vacant at any time during the season. The southsiders have proven what young and virile organizations can do from small beginnings, and their events are proving a big attraction to the bowlers in general.

Footballer Suspended Six Months by L. and D. Council

J. Smith, of Public Utilities, Draws Heavy Verdict For Assaulting Referee.

Jimmy Smith, centre halfback of Public Utilities football team, who was banished from the Utilities-Grand Trunk game at the Heights last Saturday when he was suspended for six months during the playing season by the executive council of the London and District Football Association.

This is the most serious case to appear before the council, and they showed considerable courage in taking the course they did and making the sentence sufficiently impressive to stop at the outset any tendency toward rowdiness in London and District football circles.

It came out at the hearing last night that the referee had been struck twice, thus constituting a case of assault, rather than the more simple offence of striking an official.

Fred Dent of Sarnia, vice-president of the London and District, presided at the hearing. He was assisted by the referee, who was also present.

Public Utilities admitted the player striking the official.

Smith is one of the best footballers in the district, having an honorable career of 26 years of first-class football in the old county behind him. Though recognizing the justice of the verdict, many fans will regret Smith's absence from the game. There was some talk of an appeal being made to the O. F. A.

W.O.B.A. Returns to London
This Year For July 25-30

Executive Decides At Meeting Yesterday On Dates—C. K. Bluet Is New Secretary of Association.

The big classic of Western Ontario bowlers, the W. O. B. A. tourney, returns to London again this year, and is slated to take the greens for the period between July 25 and 30. This was decided at a meeting of the executive held in the Tecumseh House yesterday afternoon.

The return of the tournament to London after being held in Brantford last year brought with it a totally new suggestion of the committee to hold preliminaries among the different clubs affiliated with the W. O. B. A., and have the finalists come to London for the final clash. This would be along the lines of the Tankard curling competitions, and it was believed by the members of the committee that this would work out more satisfactorily than the big tournament has. The tournament, however, will be run along the old lines for this year, but this suggestion will probably be acted upon at the regular meeting, which takes place during the tourney.

C. K. Bluet has been appointed to succeed Dr. Wood as secretary, the latter having tendered his resignation some months ago.

Among those in attendance at the meeting were Messrs. Turnbull, W.D. Kompass, Macpherson, Barrie, Bluet and Spry.

It would add to the difficulties of commerce.

The effect of the budget would undoubtedly be to discourage and hinder trade. Throughout the world today there was a notable change manifest towards the protection of industry. "In my judgment," Mr. Crear asserted, "the policy of extreme protection was never suited to this country, and never less so today."

Develop Resources.

The policy of Canada should be one which would consistently encourage the development of her natural resources.

Out of Canada's total exports for last year, amounting to $1,100,000,000, nearly one-half were exports which came directly from the farms and $945,000,000
were accounted for by goods based on natural resources. Textiles had only amounted to $12,500,000.

Mr. Crear concluded his analysis of exports by citing the examples of the rubber and clothing industries. After forty years of protection the rubber industry last year contributed to the exports of Canada only $10,800,000; and
these figures proved beyond dispute
where the real wealth of Canada lay.

It was the height of economic folly to protect industries that were not based on natural products of the country; and would it not be wisdom to shelve our policy so as to encourage the development of the industries of agriculture and of the forest and other natural products? That was the policy that we were now convinced, would be adopted before long in Canada.

How It Works Out.

Protection would simply accentuate combines and mergers. One of the crying evils of the past had been the exploitation of the poor of Canada by stock watering. In the shoe industry, for example, the Ames-Holden-Mc-Creedy combination had been formed in 1911. The combined stock of the old companies was $3,500,000. By the merger the combined stock of the new company was $10,000,000. He believed he was well within the mark
when he said that in 1911 the common stock was practically water. As a result of the protection of 20 per cent.
which this industry enjoyed the common stock sold in 1920 at $137 per share.

The Dominion Glass Company has been formed out of the Diamond Glass Company with $1,000,000 in stock; the Sydenham Glass Company, $500,000, and to be had in Canada.

Mr. Crear said that in 1911 it had sold at less than $30. In 1920 it had sold up to $119 and down to $73.

Is Not Opposed.

"I have been represented," said Mr.
Crear, "as being opposed to the establishment of industries in this country.
I am not opposed to the establishment of industries. I would like to see industries established. I am opposed, it is true, and I trust I shall always be opposed, to a system which permits the export of goods, which exploits the great mass of the Canadian people in order that a few individuals may profit."

He was turning to discuss the effect of the new taxes, when he was interrupted by Mr. Crear, who asked him whether he was still in favor of increasing the British preference to 30 per cent.

Mr. Crear, "in saying that we are still in favor of increasing the British preference to 30 per cent."

Means Stagnation.

He maintained that the taxes imposed by the budget would mean stag-nation of business and lack of employment for labor. In addition, the taxes proposed would, because of this effect upon business, fail to produce the revenue which the country required.

Mr. Crear made a number of suggestions to the Government as to methods of increasing the revenue. He suggested an increase in the income tax with an income of $2,000 was taxed
at $1,000 or $1,500, while in Great Britain the tax was $600.

There was another source of revenue which was perhaps a new well underground. This was a tax on the value of land. It had been mentioned by Mr.
Tupper, and it had been referred to
by Mr. Ballantyne as a land tax. Mr.
Crear desired to emphasize the fact that a tax upon unimproved values
was a tax upon a different thing from a tax upon land.

Should Call Conference.

He thought it would be well for the Government to call a conference not only of representatives of the provinces of Canada, but also of representatives of the large cities, with a view to arriving at new taxation measures.

Mr. Crear said that the Canadian manufacturer must pay taxes and obligations of all kinds to the Dominion and every province in which he operates, and yet if his information was correct, Mr.

SERMON ON MOUNT MUST BE LIVED TO CONVERT EAST

Only Teachings of Jesus in Practice Will Impress Buddhists.

DANCING IS BARBAROUS Greater Evil Than Strong Drink, Says Returned Wo- man Missionary.

With a vast knowledge of the world
and its ways at her command, garnered by actual contact with the masses in every quarter of the globe, Mrs. D. R.
MacKenzie, war worker and missionary of unusual prominence in the Methodist Church, delivered a powerful message
to a representative audience at the Colborne Street Church last evening. A war worker in the last great struggle overseas; fleeing Russia just before the advent of the Lenin administration; a Red Cross worker in the Russian-Japanese conflict; an extensive traveler in foreign countries, and on the continent of America, and altogether some 42 years a missionary in company with her husband, Dr. MacKenzie, in Japan and Korea, Mrs. MacKenzie's fund of information and varied experience relates to the Christian struggle against the gods of Japan and the Far East, seemed inexhaustible.

With wonderful poetic and descriptive genius, she depicted the story of Buddhism in Japan, and held her audience tense with interest as she described her visit to the innermost shrine of the Buddhist faith, as the first foreigner, she said, to pass through the sacred passages, halls and gardens of that famous temple of the heathen East.
Portraying the mischievous and spiritual hopelessness of the East, the speaker
affirmed that Buddhism was slowly losing its grip and looking to Christians for relief.

"And what have you to offer?" she asked. "Until the Sermon on the Mount is upheld and lived up to by human beings, can the Christians hope to convert the millions who now live in ignorance and unhappiness?"

Toward the close of her address, the speaker dwelt upon the social decline of Christian people, and deplored the great, savage race for wealth by those whose efforts could be better directed in useful channels. That the same people who have eliminated the only ray of hope—the Bible—from schools, but yet tolerated the dance hall,
is only a relic of the barbarous ages,
was beyond her understanding.

"Of strong drink and the dance, the
two great enemies to the human race,
I have always claimed that the dance
is the worst," she said.

LONDON MAY HAVE FINANCIAL ADVISER

Appointment of Commissioner
May Be Result of Motion
At Council.

That London may in the near future
have a financial commissioner whose duty
it will be to advise the various committees, the city council, the board of education, the public utilities and the numerous committees in regard to their spending power and whose business it will be to see that the trustees efficiently combined with strict economy is the result that is anticipated from the motion of Ald. Cameron Wilson which the council at its meeting Monday referred to a committee comprising Ald.
Harley, Cameron Wilson and Wenige.
The committee will consider the matter
and report its findings to the council.

WALLACEBURG GIRL, ARRESTED AS VAGRANT, ALLOWED TO GO HOME

Had Been Living in London for Two Weeks Without Working.

Carrie Wilson, of Wallaceburg, a girl
of 18 years, was charged with vagrancy
in police court Tuesday, and after admitting that she had been here two weeks and had not been working, but informing the court that she had her railroad fare to Chatham, was allowed to go. She was escorted to the train by Mrs. Harris, who appears in court on behalf of female prisoners.

P. C. Louis McCaughy apprehended
the girl in C. P. R. depot Monday night.
Although she had her railroad fare, there were a number of young men
hanging about the depot, and McCaughy,
not thinking that she would be in good company with them arrested her for her own safety.

Chief Robert Birrell stated that her conduct had not been what it should have been during the two weeks that she has been here.

METHODISTS HOLD DISTRICT MEETING

Three Probationers Will Be Ordained At Conference
in June.

Proceedings of a routine nature held
the attention of those attending the opening of the ministerial session of the annual meeting of the London
Methodist district on Tuesday afternoon
at the Colborne Street Methodist Church.
The general session of the conference commenced this morning at 9:30.

Preliminary exercises only occupied
the attention of the ministers at Tuesday's gathering, some 40 ministers attending, including 15 on the superannuation list. Following the custom of former years, the character of every minister present was reviewed and open to allow any objection entered against their moral or religious character or their doctrinal views and teachings during the past year.

The following probationers will be ordained into the ministry of the Methodist Church on the evening of Saturday, at the time of the Methodist conference in the Askin Street Methodist Church: C. Elmer, A. Harold Johnston, and E. W. Jewett, R.A. The latter has been chosen assistant pastor to Dr.
Sparling, who succeeds Rev. R. G.
Peever in June at the First Methodist Church.

ASK IMPROVEMENT OF HARBOR AT PORT

London Deputation To Meet
St. Thomas Representatives At Ottawa.

To urge improvement to the Port Stanley harbor a deputation composed of several representatives from this city, the county of Middlesex, St.
Thomas, Port Stanley and the county of Elgin have left London for Ottawa,
where they waited upon the minister of public works.

London is represented by Ald. P.
J. Watt and W. A. Wilson from the city council, Mayor E. S. Little and Sir
Adam Beck appearing for the L. and P.
S. R., and John Moore representing the Chamber of Commerce. Deputy Reeve for Middlesex County, and Mayor Brinkman and City Solicitor Doherty for St.
Thomas. Practically the whole of the county council of Elgin, accompanied by representatives from Port Stanley, waited upon the minister Monday.

The party will urge that the Government proceed with improvements,
according to plans drawn up by the department's engineer in July, 1920. The deputation from Elgin and Port Stanley urged yesterday morning that the bridges at Port Stanley be changed and that the inner harbor be improved considerably.

POLICE CAPTIVES ARE RETURNED TO WINDSOR

Drago and Shearin Charged With House-Breaking—Boy Sent Home.

Harold (Slim) Drago and Harold Shearin, two Windsor men, were sent back to the border today by the local police to stand trial. It is alleged, on charges of house-breaking, Drago was arrested Saturday night by Detective
Sergeant Robert Egleton and Detective Thomas Bolton, while his partner was arrested Monday night by Detective Harry Down and Constable Louis McCaughy.

A small boy, said to have stolen $50
from his father in Windsor to visit his mother in Montreal, was located here
and sent back to his father, as he lived a shorter distance away than the other parent. The mother and father are separated.

J. M. DONOHUE WILL REPRESENT CAR MEN, ARBITRATION BOARD

Providing the Government Accedes to Request of Street Railway Union.

NO WORD RECEIVED
Men Are Still Hopeful President Currie Will O. K.
Yearly Agreement.

If the trouble existing between the London Street Railway and its employees passes into the hands of a board of conciliation, the men will be represented by J. M. Donohue, who recently fought and defeated the City Gas Company in its attempt to collect the readiness-to-serve charge. This announcement was made by John Colbert, president of the Street Railwaymen's Union.

Although the Government was asked for a board more than a week ago the men have received no reply up to the present time. Despite this unfavorable delay the men feel confident that their request will be granted.

It is not known definitely when Charles Currie, president of the company, will be in the city. The men are hopeful that he will agree to their demands for a yearly agreement, although they are still going ahead with their plans for an arbitration board.

Officials of the company when interviewed today stated that there were no
new developments as far as the company was concerned. They have not appointed anyone up to the present time to represent them on the board of arbitration.

LATE JOHN RICE APPARENTLY TRIED TO BOARD TRAIN

Jury's Verdict At Inquest Attaches No Blame To Anyone.

Evidence given by Bert Tuxford at
the inquest held at the police station
Tuesday night into the death of John Rice last Saturday evening, tended to indicate that Mr. Rice was attempting to board the Grand Trunk work train
at the Hale street crossing.

The following were examined and granted terms of probation: William M.
Selling, Richard S. Hoskin, Luther Butt,
Fred Manning and O. Gerald Lawson.
Rev. W. J. Ashton, district chairman, will preside during the conference.

At the Hale street crossing when he fell between the cars and was run over,
Mr. Tuxford noticed him walking slowly towards the track and observed him discard a cane or stick he had in his hand, as if preparing to catch onto the train, which was traveling at perhaps twelve miles an hour. Then the witness observed him dive between the third and fourth cars, but believing that he had been unsuccessful in attempting to board the train, shouted to the engineer, B. W. Lee, to stop. The train was halted at a distance of about three car lengths from where the body lay.

The verdict returned by the jury was
as follows: "That John Rice came to his death on the evening of Saturday,
the 13th inst., by being run over by a work train of the Grand Trunk Railway
at the Hale street crossing. No blame is attached to the employees or the company."

Object to Sunday Milk Collection At Border Factory

London Presbytery Passes a Resolution Against Innovation At Thamesford.

At the afternoon session of the Presbytery on Tuesday, Rev. W. S. Galbraith of the Presbyterian Church at Thamesford brought up the matter of the Borden Milk Factory demanding milk to be taken by the farmers to the factory on a Sunday. Rev. Mr. Galbraith stated that besides desecrating
the Sabbath day it prevented farmers engaged in this work from coming to church. After much discussion the following resolution was passed:

"The London Presbytery views with alarm the encroachments being made upon the sanctity of the Sabbath for commercial purposes. It regrets that certain milk factories within the bounds
of this presbytery request their patrons
to deliver milk on the Sabbath day for manufacturing purposes. Such actions are against the conscience of our Christian people, and it therefore appeals to the officials of the factories to withdraw this request and return to its former practice, and urge our people in this as in all other matters to maintain the sanctity of the Lord's Day."

Objects to Taxes.
The matter of the wood Park Church congregation objecting to paying excessive taxes on the sewer construction was brought before the Presbytery, and the moderator and managing board of the congregation were asked to look into the matter.

Rev. D. C. McGregor reporting for the Forward Movement committee, stated that $4,727.96 had been paid in cash in the Presbytery of London in the first two payments.

Dr. McDonald requested that the presbytery be represented at the 80th anniversary of the Kintore Presbyterian Church, on May 29. Rev. John Currie was appointed. Rev. A. L. Carr made a similar request for the diamond jubilee services at Crinan on the 12th of July. Rev. E. Stuart of Dutton and Rev. Mr. Crawford of Westminster were appointed.

THREE EPOCHS IN WOMAN'S LIFE

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark on her career—the first when she changes from a care-free girl to a woman, the second motherhood, and the third is change of life. Most of the misery which comes to women through ill health dates from one or another of these periods, but women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable remedy
and has been very successful in overcoming the ailments which may come to them at these times, as it is a natural restorative for such conditions.
Nearly a half a century of success en-
