AN OLD WARRIOR GETS HURT.

Michigan Editor and Author Dies Suddenly—Strange Collapse of a Kansas City Building.

Gibara, Province of Santiago de Cuba, May 28.—Senor Alberti, editor of the Don Claridades, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown assassin at the theater Sunday night.

Alberti was an active politician and his paper recently has been criticizing the action of the American officials, particularly the election orders.

Hidalgo, who killed Capt. Smith, collector of this port, in January, was editor of the Don Claridades. Alberti had received threatening letters which he ridiculed in his paper.

Will Dress Like a Man.

London, May 28.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The favorite wife of the shah of Persia, a beautiful Circassian, will accompany him during his forthcoming tour in Europe, disguised in male attire."

Census of Aleutian Islands.

San Francisco, May 29.—Capt. Cushing, of the revenue cutter Rush, which has sailed for the Arctic, will take a census of the inhabitants of the Aleutian islands, after which he will devote his attention to the Behring sea seal poachers.

Gen. Bragg Hurt.

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 29.—Gen. Edward S. Bragg, commander of the famous Iron brigade, was thrown from his horse and seriously injured, his right leg being broken in two places. As Gen. Bragg is 74 years old and in spite of his vigorous constitution, his advanced age renders the injuries very serious.

Dies Suddenly.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Richard Storrs Willis, author, editor and teacher, died suddenly Monday of heart disease at his home in this city. Mr. Willis was 82 years of age.

Building Falls.

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—A three-story building at 1302 Grand avenue, in the business center, occupied on the ground floor by Jacob Goodman as a second-hand store and above by Mrs. Mary Sohn as a rooming house, collapsed at 4:20 Monday afternoon, burying seven persons in the ruins. It is believed none of the injured will die. John W. Moore, aged 70 years, former mayor of Kansas City, was most seriously hurt. The building, which was an ancient structure, had been condemned several months ago and had recently been weakened by workmen excavating for a new building on the adjoining lot. The building collapsed almost without warning, the walls bulging out and the roof crashing in before the any of the inmates could make a move to escape. The wreck was complete.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

With his face beaten and bruised until it presented all the colors of the Union Jack, Chas. Anderson was before Magistrate Prinrose on the charge of "d and d." Charles had made a disturbance in the Pavilion, where, it was said, he deported himself in a manner unbecoming a gentleman. He was fined $10 and costs or 10 days on the public works.

There were only 24 sons of toil present this morning with claims against Matheson Bros., Samuel and John, laymen on claims 10 and 11 on "Snipbur." The Mathesons have assigned the dumps to Thomas Chisholm, a brother-in-law to Alex. McDonald, owner of the claims, and it is to get action on the dumps that the suits are being brought. After hearing a portion of the evidence and considerable argument from the attorneys representing the parties to the suit, further hearing was postponed until tomorrow morning.

Case Dismissed.

The case of A. F. Holloway, who was charged with misappropriating the proceeds from the sale of two cases of eggs was in Justice Dugas' court Tuesday, having been sent up from the lower court. When the case was called the complaining witness, A. P. Langden, was not present and Judge Dugas, after censuring the absent prosecutor for not appearing to substantiate his charges, dismissed the case.

KRUGER ON DECK.

Conducts Transvaal Government From His Office in Box Car.

SAYS THE WAR HAS ONLY BEGUN.

The Boers Still Have 1000 Prisoners as Hostages.

DUKE OF WELLINGTON DEAD.

Carter Bill is Now Alaska's Law—Brady and Other Incumbents Are in the New List of Officers.

London, June 8, via Skagway, June 14.—The Transvaal government is now in a railroad car which is sidetracked at Machador station. A correspondent who called to interview Kruger in his portable office, found him smoking a long pipe and taking matters easy. Kruger said: "Yes, the British occupy Pretoria, but that does not by any means signify that the war is ended. I am not such a fool as to be taken prisoner so long as I have this locomotive. It is a lie that I have £2,000,000. But I decline to state where the treasure is. If Roberts wants it, let him find it if he can."

Transvaal Secretary Reitz, who is with Kruger said: "You may depend upon it, the war is not yet over. We intend to fight to the bitter end and may probably retire to Lydenburg, where we can hold out many months." And Kruger spoke up with: "Yes, the real struggle has only just begun. I fear there will be much bloodshed, but it will be all Britain's fault."

There seems to be some difficulty about the surrender of prisoners, as only 3500 have yet been turned over by the Boers; of this number 129 are officers. The Boers are still holding 1000 prisoners as hostage.

Duke of Wellington Dead.

London, June 8, via Skagway, June 14.—The Duke of Wellington died today, aged 83 years.

Serious Results Feared.

Rome, June 8, via Skagway, June 14.—Pope Leo's condition has reached an alarming stage and serious results are feared. His relatives have been summoned to his bedside, as it is hourly expected he will reach his last. Cardinal Rampolla alone is permitted to be near him, save his immediate relatives.

No News From Roberts.

London, June 8, via Skagway, June 14.—No news has been received from Lord Roberts. He has not communicated a word for the past three days and has not permitted the sending of dispatches to the press. The inference is that he is resting, or so maneuvering as to surround Botha, when his capture will be assured.

Gen. Buller has taken the offensive and has engaged the enemy at Van Wycke Hill. No details of the battle has been forwarded.

Carter Bill is Law.

Washington, June 8, via Skagway, June 14.—The Alaska code was signed today by the president, and the judges appointed are Melville C. Brown, the present incumbent, James Wickersham, of Tacoma, Wash., and Arthur H. Noyes, of Minnesota. The U. S. marshals will be: James M. Shoup, present marshal; Cornelius L. Vanoter, of St. Michael; G. G. Perry, of Iowa. U. S. district attorneys are: Robert Freidrich, Joseph K. Woods, of Montana, and A. M. Post, of Juneau.

It is believed that Wykersham will be detailed at Nome and Noyes will be stationed at Circle City.

Gov. Brady, of Alaska, was reappointed.

Territorial Court.

In Justice Dugas' court the case of the Queen vs. Steipovich, charged with stealing hay occupied all of yesterday and was still on trial this forenoon. It is being tried before a jury.

Before resuming the hearing of the Steipovich case this morning, the matter of the time for hearing other cases now on the docket was discussed. As to the libel suit of Clark vs. H. J. Woodside, the judge said it will not be heard until after the vacation.

In answer to an attorney's question as to whether any criminal cases will be heard after the 25th of the present month and before September, the judge said that the summer vacation began on the 25th and he hoped the judge would take it. When the attorney asked if it was not likely that the new judge now en route will take up the criminal docket and proceed with the trial of cases, Judge Dugas said he hoped he would.

George O'Brien, who is held in jail on commitment papers issued from the magistrate's court at Selkirk, will be tried on the charge of robbing a scow between now and the 25th. O'Brien will not be heard on the charge of complicity in the Christmas day triple murder near Minto this term.

Struthers Didn't.

The report current yesterday afternoon to the effect that John Fred Struthers would pay the fine of R. D. Sutherland when he paid his own was unfounded. Struthers paid his own fine, but Sutherland, not having the funds at hand or to his credit, is still confined.

A subscription has been started for the purpose of raising the money to liberate him. The other member of the trio, W. S. Brown, was put to work this morning on his three months' sentence.

Street Improvements.

The upper block of Second avenue has been covered with a layer of slabs which are in turn being covered with gravel which is being taken from the upper side of the avenue and distributed where needed. The labor is being performed by prisoners and when completed that portion of the street which has formerly been almost impassable for teams, will be one of the best thoroughfares in the city.

Her Pleasing Duties.

"Yes, all the boys called that pretty Miss Slimmers—the angel of the hospital." "Somebody told me she didn't do a bit of work." "That's right. All she did was to come around in the evening and give the boys a good night kiss."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FIRE PUT OUT BY RAIN.

Boston Divine Healer Indicted as a Fraud—U.S. Bonds to the Amount of $25,000,000 Called In.

San Francisco, May 28.—The reports published in eastern papers that there have been five deaths recently in San Francisco from bubonic plague are denied here. If the plague exists, the people of San Francisco do not know it, as nothing has been published about the alleged prevalence of the disease. It is stated that there has been no attempt to suppress the news, but that the city authorities, remembering the former groundless scare about the plague, are awaiting definite developments before warning the public.

That there have been a few deaths from suspicious causes in Chinatown is not denied, but it has not yet been conclusively shown that they were plague cases.

Railroad Fare Reduced.

Spokane, Wash., May 28.—On and after July next, passenger fares in this state will be reduced to three cents. News came here in a telegram from General Agent Whitney, of the Great Northern railway, saying: "On July 1st we will reduce passenger rates in the state of Washington on the lines of the Great Northern to three cents per mile instead of four cents."

Negroes Hanged.

Birmingham, Ala., May 28.—Walter Gordon and Beauty Ingram, colored, were hanged at Putaw Friday for the murder of Tom Buntain, a clerk in a store at Clinton, who was murdered one night about a month ago and the place robbed. At Talladega, Elbert Curry, a young negro was hanged for the murder of Pink Dobbins.

Rains Put Out Fire.

Milwaukee, May 27.—A Journal special from Menominee, Mich., says: Heavy rains Tuesday night and Wednesday put out the fire at Fisher, which had spread to the west side of the track and threatened the destruction of the main portion of the town. The loss is estimated at $500,000; insurance only $100,000.

Divine Healer Indicted.

Boston, May 28.—Francis Truth, who advertised himself as a "divine healer," was indicted by the United States grand jury on seven bills aggregating 20 counts for alleged fraudulent use of the mails.

A Bond Call.

Washington, May 28.—The secretary of the treasury has issued a call for the old two per cent bonds to the amount of $25,000,000, the amount outstanding, the interests to cease on the 1st of September.

THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1900.

THE CASE OF MAHAN.

The case of John J. Mahan, who for two years has been endeavoring to secure title to a claim on Dominion creek staked by him, is now being aired before Justice Dugas, acting as a commissioner of investigation. A sufficient amount of evidence has already been brought forward to warrant the hope that the commissioner will go to the very bottom of the case if it be within the powers of his commission so to do. The evidence of W. E. Burritt, as reported in Tuesday evening's Nugget, certainly opens up a very wide field for speculation.

Mr. Burritt's evidence was substantially to the effect that the claim had been recorded in his name without his knowledge by clerk Hurdman, who was at the time recorder for bench claims in the gold commissioner's office. At a later date, at Hurdman's request, Mr. Burritt had transferred the property to Dr. Simpson.

This evidence, in conjunction with Mahan's testimony as to the circumstances attending his original staking of the ground, and the manner in which he failed ultimately to secure a record thereto, points clearly to the practice of certain usages in the gold commissioner's office during the time when clerk Hurdman presided over the bench claim desk, which may well be investigated even at this late date.

If it is a possible thing so to do, Hurdman himself should be placed on the stand, even though he is now on the outside. The case is an important one, as it involves property of considerable value, which is now in process of being worked. More important, however, even than this, is the opportunity which is presented to determine in a measure the nature of alleged crooked transactions which occurred in the gold commissioner's office during the early days of the Klondike boom.

If Mahan has been wronged and unjustly and illegally deprived of a claim which rightfully should belong to him, the wrong should be righted, even though two years have elapsed since it was committed.

CANNOT BE TOO SEVERE.

The United States government is putting forth the most strenuous efforts to secure the conviction of certain officials in the Cuban postal service concerned in perpetrating wholesale frauds upon the government. The officials in question are endeavoring to take refuge behind the peculiar relations now existing between the United States and Cuba, and thus far have managed successfully to resist extradition proceedings.

The government is pressing the matter, however, and a decision of the supreme court is anticipated shortly whereby the criminals will be turned over to Uncle Sam for punishment.

The occurrence of such an episode at this particular time is most unfortunate for the cause of good government in Cuba, and the offenders certainly merit the most severe punishment.

The United States government have undertaken to reorganize the unsettled affairs of Cuba and furnish that unhappy island with a form of government suited to its requirements and based upon the principles of civil administration as ordinarily followed in the great American republic.

To this end the postal system and other equally important features of the civil service have been introduced into Cuba, with results which, until the discovery of the recent frauds, have been most satisfactory.

The government has all along realized the moral effect which a practical demonstration of honest and efficient administration of the laws would have upon the people of Cuba, as contrasted with what they had been accustomed to under the Spanish regime.

To this end special care has been given to the selection of men to occupy the various positions of trust in connection with the public service in the island. In spite of this care, however, and in spite of the object so strenuously sought, some of the most trusted of the government's agents have violated the confidence imposed in them and have defrauded the government out of sums aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The guilty men have been detected in their work and no effort will be spared to bring them to a proper punishment for their offenses. Whatever form that punishment may take, it cannot under any circumstances be too severe.

The extension of the telegraph line to Eagle City should be made as soon as possible. The American government contemplates the construction of an Alaskan line from Eagle City to St. Michaels, and in all probability will carry out this important work during the present summer. If, in the meantime, the Dominion line is extended on down to the international boundary telegraphic communication will be established up and down the entire length of the Yukon before fall. If present plans do not fail to carry there is no doubt that the work will be completed within the time mentioned.

COULDN'T MAKE IT PAY.

BY THE DISCOVERER OF BONANZA.

I crossed the summit in '85
With some boys by the name of Day;
We drove our stakes around the lakes,
But we couldn't make it pay.

I went to the Salmon the following year
With spirits light and gay,
And worked and worked and never shirked,
But I couldn't make it pay.

I went to trading the following year;
Bought goods out at Dyea;
But the Indians laughed and had a graft,
So I couldn't make that pay.

Then I mined on the Auburn Hootalink,
Rocked out 'bout five a day,
Not quite enough to live, and tough—
So I couldn't make it pay.

Then I worked three years on Forty mile
In gravel, muck and clay—
I dropped my roll—seven hundred in the hole—
So I couldn't make that pay.

The upper river then, I tried;—
Three winters did I stay;
The big A. C. got all from me,
And I couldn't make it pay.

Next year I fished on the Klondike
With nets and traps I lay;
I expected fun but there was no run,
So I couldn't make it pay.

Then I mushed up the Creek Bonanza,
Which is better known today,
Did I have good luck? Well I found some truck,
And I guess I'll make it pay.

RIVERS ARE LATE IN RISING

Navigation Was Not Open When the Ice Passed Out.

The Long Period of Waiting Will Make the Short Season a Busy One When Once all Craft is Afloat.

The fact that the Yukon continues to remain at a fixed stage with but little navigation is not gratifying to the owners and operators of large steamers either on the upper or lower river.

It can not be learned for a certainty what amount of snow there is back in the headwater countries of the Hootalink, Big and Little Salmon river and other streams tributary to the Yukon to melt and thereby raise the portion of the river this side of Thirtymile; but on the upper rivers and lakes it is authentically stated that the rise will be very slow.

A report has been brought down, although it is not vouched for, to the effect that the railroad construction party, in order to get along the bank of Lewis lake which lies on its line between Caribou and Whitehorse, lowered the water in that lake by opening a channel on the west side, and that now the overflow water from that lake which formerly poured into Lake Marsh runs off to the eastward and does not get into Marsh. It is also said that there is not a great amount of water now flowing into either Lindeman or Bennett lakes and that the prospectors drawing two feet and more for getting over the caribou bar are not at all favorable, as the water there was still quite low, only 16 inches deep, eight days ago, and at that time it was not reported as rising over an inch in 48 hours.

There has as yet been very little warm weather and no warm rains to melt what snow there is in the country surrounding the upper lakes. Yesterday at Bennett the mercury stood at 55; at Whitehorse it was 50 and at all points on down from which reports were received the messages said "cool and cloudy."

A theory is advanced, and it looks like a feasible one, that the rise in the upper lakes and river is caused more from the water oozing from the ground as it thaws in the early summer than from the melting of snow and ice. If this theory is correct, all that is needed to bring about the desired result is continuous warm weather, and the sooner it comes the better pleased will be the operators of the many large steamers which now only await water sufficient to insure them against being hung up on bars in an attempt to come down the river for the purpose of entering regularly into the summer's trade.

The fact that navigation is not regularly open by long odds when the last piece of ice passes down toward the sea has been fully demonstrated this spring. The river has now been free from ice for 30 days, and yet only to light draught craft can it be said that navigation is open.

If conditions on the upper rivers and lakes do not soon change for the better the capacity of the transportation companies will be strained to the utmost to handle the thousands of tons of freight now at Bennett and Skagway awaiting transportation and the thousands of tons which will arrive between now and the end of the season. In the meantime many shippers will provide themselves with scows and not wait for the steamers and run the risk of having their goods left at Bennett when the end of the season arrives, as was the case with many shippers last fall.

Skagway a Military Post.

The site offered by Skagway for a United States military post has been accepted by Gen. George M. Randall, commander of the department of Alaska. The news came in a letter received from the general to Capt. Hovey. In the letter the general asks for all deeds, surveys and other papers in regard to the site, and states that he wants them right away so he can forward them to the secretary of war for approval. The general is particularly anxious to get the data right away because he will leave Seattle soon, it is expected, for St. Michael.

The chamber of commerce committee, says the Alaskan, will go to work on preparation of the information and raising of the money to buy the site. Surveys will also have to be made in a hurry.

It is thought likely the war department will approve the plans to be submitted by the general, and that before many weeks definite orders will be received. The report from Seattle may be sent to Washington by wire, and the business transacted in the shortest possible time. It is thought that should the general get away from Seattle before the department makes its decision in the matter that the final word may be forwarded right to Capt. Hovey and he be authorized to take up the work of putting the site in condition for occupancy.

The site under consideration is on the west side of the Skagway river between Seventeenth and Twenty-first avenues, and comprises thirteen and a fraction acres. It is partly cleared, but considerable clearing and grubbing will have to be done to put the ground in condition for use as a post site. It is likely, therefore, the site being accepted, that the troops will not be on the ground to call it their home until fall, but it may that some of the boys will have an opportunity to prove their abilities as landscape beautifiers and reclaimers.

THE SOLDIER'S EXPERIENCE.

Why the Old Man Loved the Mignonettes.

The Hermit of Chelsea College Gardens Spins an Interesting Story of Love and Flowers.

One dreamy, drowsy afternoon toward the end of June, having nothing particular to do, I sauntered in the direction of the Chelsea college gardens. This shady little nook holds the home of some of our old soldiers. There they sit, in solemn rows of fours and fives, on the wooden benches in the cool, green avenue, dreaming away the long summer afternoon, while they watched the children at play on the grass before them.

A great longing came over me to know something of their lives. If I could come across one alone, I thought, there might be a chance of it. So, with a lingering, backward look at the old fellows, I walked on until I came to a more secluded part of the gardens, where the pensioners cultivated little plots of ground and sold flowers and ferns to the nurse and children, the proceeds of which enabled them to buy tobacco and rum and other small luxuries.

It had been intensely hot, but now a refreshing breeze was tossing the lilac and laburnum trees, and in the cool of the day the old men were all hard at work, watering, weeding and taking opinions as to their respective nurseries. Crossing the gravel path, I came upon a bed composed entirely of mignonette. Its fragrance was delightful, and I paused a moment to enjoy the scent. This little garden excited my curiosity, and I looked with interest at the gardener. His face was thin and lined, with an expression of settled melancholy in it, but there was something in the large, dark eyes and sensitive mouth that took my fancy.

"Here is an opportunity," I thought. "He looks like a nice, approachable old man and, I dare say, would be glad to have a chat." At that moment, as if by some sudden transition of mind, he glanced up and fixed his speaking orbs on me. "What lovely mignonette!" I exclaimed by way of opening fire. He smiled, but it was such a sad smile I wished he hadn't. It somehow made me feel sick and sorry.

"Let me cut you some, madam," he said gravely. "I will in a moment, if you can wait." "Please, oh, I should like nothing better!" I answered, seating myself and looking on contentedly, while my new friend went to work with a long pair of rusty scissors. His face interested me, strangely, none the less when I noticed that the Victoria cross adorned his breast. How could I get him to talk?

"May I ask why you cultivate only one flower?" I inquired, with sudden inspiration. He looked at me again in that intense way of his for at least a minute without speaking, then said irrelevantly: "You have a good, kind face, lady, and..." He paused. "Thank you for saying so," I rejoined, somewhat tamely, feeling bewildered and wondering what was coming next.

"You asked me just now why I only grow one flower. I will tell you if you care to listen." "Yes," I replied eagerly; "I am all attention." "It happened so long ago, yet it seems only like yesterday. Mignon, Mignon!" he half murmured to himself.

I coughed softly to remind him of my presence. "Lady, did you ever love any one very dearly?" he asked abruptly. "Have I?" I returned, somewhat taken aback by this unexpected question. "Well, yes, I have been fond of several people I have met at different stages of my life," was my discreet rejoinder.

"Those two were the only ones I cared for in this world—Mignon and Ralph Stanley." "Who was Mignon?" I queried gently, for the old man's face was full of emotion when he spoke her name. "I always called her Mignon and so did he," he continued, without heeding me; "the name suited her so well. She was never without a slip of this—touching the flowers in my lap—in her belt or gown. She had a passion for mignonette. That is why we called her Mignon, and she was as sweet as the flower itself, with her bluebell eyes and nut brown hair."

"Who was this other?" I ventured to ask after a pause.

Again the veteran seemed to forget my existence as he sighed and said musingly: "To think that I never guessed it. And they were such a bonny pair, too. She could not help loving him, the genial, handsome laddie. Men and officers alike in our regiment simply adored him."

"He served with you, then?" "Yes, but I was only in the ranks, while he held a commission."

"Yet you were friends?" "Friends—aye, that we were; from our schoolboy days we were chums. When Ralph was sent to the Crimean war, I threw everything to the winds, enlisted in his regiment and went, too, and we fought in many a fierce battle together. But one thought kept us up through all—dear little Mignon, the vicar's daughter. Ah, what happy old times they were at the vicarage!"

"Mignon was an only child; her father, our coach, Ralph's and mine. What merry little tea parties we had—just we four, the scent of mignonette everywhere. The garden, the windows and the rooms of the old house were full of it—mignonette, all mignonette!"

My glance wandered to the flowers blooming at my feet as I tried to picture the little scene put before me. "And Ralph loved Mignon as well as I," he pursued, "though neither of us knew the other's secret. Well, those nappy days came to an end. Young Stanley left us to study for the army, while I remained to stagnate in my father's office in town."

"How I envied Ralph's luck! Not that I grudged him any good thing, but my lot in life did seem hard in comparison to his. As the time passed my restlessness and discontent increased. Despite my attachment to Mignon, my humdrum, monotonous existence was so hateful to me. So, when the war broke out and Ralph was ordered abroad, I made up my mind to go, too, in the ranks of the same regiment. Here was an opportunity not to be lost of leading a more glorious life—to fight for my country, my people and for the love of 'old England.'"

"How I dreamed of the home coming after the work was done! Death had no place in my mind. How I anticipated the meeting with Mignon with the love light that I—poor fool—imagined she felt for me shining in her soft blue eyes. I thought I would pour out my heart and tell her I had come back to claim her, never to part any more. Ah, if I had but known!"

He smiled again in his melancholy way and continued: "Yes, if I had only known that she cared for Ralph I should have been spared many a heartache in after years." The old soldier gazed abstractedly at his mignonette and doubtless lived over again that memorable campaign, while I wondered if the cross on his breast had anything to do with his history. He answered my glance.

"I am coming to that now, lady. One bitter November night, or rather morning, we awoke to find the enemy bearing down on us in overwhelming numbers before our camp was astir. The men, however, soon roused and fought shoulder to shoulder amid the roar and din of cannon, which madly denied alike men and beast. After awhile I became conscious only of one thing—a figure a few yards ahead of me fighting for dear life. I can see the look on his face now! It was transfixed, shining with dauntless courage that quailed not before the onslaught of the Russians. I believe, at that moment, Ralph lived in every fiber of his being. He gloried in a fight—no one more. He was surrounded and cut off from the rest of us by six or seven of the enemy double his size. Suddenly he staggered and fell. Then I found myself struggling and crushing through countless forms and brandishing steel until I reached the stricken figure. There he lay so white and still, with his brave young face upturned to the leaden sky. My arms went instinctively round him, and as I turned and faced the lot of them—perhaps it was fancy—but a change seemed to come into their eager, glittering eyes as they involuntarily fell back a pace or two. It was only for a moment. They again pressed forward, and no doubt the pair of us would have been quickly cut into mince meat out for an unexpected diversion created just then by the arrival of the Enniskillen dragoons. With their aid the Russians were completely routed, and in the confusion of their retreat and flight I managed to carry Ralph safely back to camp."

"And you escaped unscathed?" "No, unluckily, lady, I received some very bad cuts on my head and back, which brought about my discharge from the army as being unfit for active service. When I had somewhat recovered, Ralph told me that Mignon had promised to become his wife, and six months later they were married."

"Did Mignon ever know that you cared for her?" I asked rather huskily. "Yes; many years after, when they came to see me here, I think, as they carried away some of my mignonette, they both guessed it for the first time."

A bell near by clanged out the tea hour as he finished speaking, so, with a close clasp of the hand, my old man and I parted—Chicago Herald.

A Serious Charge.

Bennett, May 24—Ted Cullen is in jail here charged with the attempt of rape on an 11-year-old girl, May Neilson, last Thursday afternoon. The little girl, it is said, was playing on the streets and was enticed into a room at the jail by Cullen. The father of the little girl swore out a warrant for the arrest of Cullen, and he is now behind the bars.

Cullen is a well-known special provincial policeman. The foregoing report is corroborated by Judge D. L. Fry, formerly editor of the Atlin Globe, who arrived last evening from Bennett. He reports further that Cullen was given a preliminary hearing before magistrates Vickers and Clifford, and remanded for trial. Mr. Fry says further:

"Since the arrest of Cullen a new charge has been made against him by a woman who says that prior to his arrest on the charge of attempted rape he cut a hole in her tent and took out something, but that she was then afraid to proceed against him because he was a policeman."

"The little girl who it is alleged Cullen attempted to victimize is a child of delicate frame, and such an act as is charged against Cullen cannot be too roundly censured. I have known men to be hung in some states for the far less heinous crime of horse stealing."

"I looked up the statutes of Canada and found that rape is punishable in that country by life imprisonment, and attempted rape by two years in jail and a whipping."—Alaskan.

Filipinos Lost Heavily.

Manila, May 21.—A force of 500 insurgents attacked 25 scouts of the 48th regiment near San Jacinto, Province of Pangasinan, on Monday, May 7, but were routed by the scouts, ten of their number being killed. The Americans lost two killed.

On April 26 the rebels burned and sacked the town of Trocin, near Bulan, murdering natives who were friendly to the Americans, and two Spaniards. The Americans killed 37 of the insurgents.

On the same date Major Andrews, with two companies of troops, attacked Gen. Mojica's stronghold near Ormoc, Leyte island. Mojicas had brass cannon and plenty of ammunition, but after three hours of fighting the insurgents fled. Their loss is not known. The Americans lost two killed, and eleven wounded. They destroyed the enemy's rifles, powder and stores.

THE CUBAN POSTAL FRAUDS.

New Officials Begin Systematic Stealing Very Soon.

Postmaster Thompson's Fall From Grace a Surprise to Officials at Washington—A Clean Sweep.

Havana, May 27.—Warrants were issued Wednesday evening for the arrest of E. P. Thompson, the Havana postmaster; W. H. Reeves, deputy auditor of the island, and Edward Moya and Jorge Mascaró, Cuban clerks in the stamp department, and by 7 o'clock all were lodged in the Vivac, the tombs of Havana. This was done under the advice of the postal inspectors who arrived Wednesday. It is considered now that Reeves is equally guilty with Neely. Investigation as to the record of the clerk in the military department who handled several hundred dollars' worth of stamps proves that the transaction, so far as he is concerned, was legitimate. The stamps were purchased at the request of his brother, who is a stamp collector in the United States, for $800. They were of the old issue and were obtained from Neely. The arrest of Thompson caused great surprise in the city. It is looked upon as the precursor of many other arrests. Gen. Wood felt, as did the special inspectors, that it would be better to have the suspected persons arrested and to give the men opportunity to obtain bail than to keep them indefinitely under close supervision at a time when the detectives are badly needed for other work.

Havana, May 27.—Postmaster E. P. Thompson, of Havana local office, has signed a sworn statement in which he says that September 16 last, being in need of money, he took from the money order funds $35, giving his memorandum as a receipt for the same. When the inspections were held Mr. Thompson ordered a clerk in charge of the money order department to place remittances received that day, which would not have to be accounted for until the following day, sufficient to cover the amount of his receipt, which Mr. Thompson then paid. He also admits that Charles F. Neely, late financial agent of posts, at Havana, indorsed a bill for $350 which Thompson had discounted by the North American Trust Company. Thompson admits other irregularities in connection with his department.

Washington, May 27.—The confession of Postmaster Thompson at Havana came as a complete surprise to the officials of the postoffice department, who had generally been of opinion that among those who could not possibly be involved in fraudulent transactions was Mr. Thompson, who was regarded as a man of high integrity. The postmaster general read the printed statement, but made no statement.

A Splendid Concert.

All indications point to a splendid entertainment for Sunday night. The Field Force band has tendered its services on frequent occasions to assist in various public entertainments and the proposed benefit is only fitting recognition of the band's valuable services. A program is being arranged which includes the best talent in the city, all of whom have come forward cheerfully in aid of the good work.

In addition to the Field Force musicians there will be a number of the best local musical artists to assist in the orchestral portion of the program, together with the most talented singers of the city. The program will be a varied one and will not be confined to musical numbers. The Palace Grand has been secured for the occasion and will be handsomely decorated.

Wholesale Litigation.

During the past winter and spring, while there was continuous litigation in which, to use a provincialism, "master and servant" were involved, it was not often that more than two or three claimants were in court at one time. Now, however, things have changed, as it is not unusual to see from 10 to 25 men all in court at one time with complaints against the same party, the party usually being a mine operator who has a lay. These days it is not unusual to see every man that has been employed about a mine from the foreman down to the dishwasher in the cook house all in court with the common complaint—suit for services rendered.

In many instances the gold has been washed out of the dumps and is not in evidence, while the laborers are still holding their empty sacks. There is no concealing the fact that, so far as labor is concerned, things are in a deplorable condition in the Klondike district.

Few Small Boats Leaving.

The travel down the river from Dawson in small boats is now principally confined to the class that desires to depart unannounced and by stealth. Nearly all those who camped here all winter and until the ice departed in order that they might continue on down the river have gone, and, aside from those who slip away at night, very few small boats have departed in that direction within the past several days. A number of scows, however, are daily arriving from above and many of them will continue on down. It is said that there are fully 100 scows yet at Bennett, besides many now en route, which will make the journey to St. Michael.

Wrecks in Whitehorse.

The unusual condition of the water in the upper river makes navigating the rapids a very dangerous proceeding at the present time. The water is extremely low and rocks protrude in every direction. At the jump off at the extreme end of the rapids there is but a narrow channel not more than 20 feet wide with shell rocks protruding on either side.

The number of scows wrecked this spring is something almost incredible. Out of 30, 16 went to pieces on the rocks, and of the last six but one came through. The scows are now coming through empty, the cargo being portaged around to Whitehorse.

BRIEF MENTION.

Chas. E. Severance, of the Bonanza Water Co., is in the city from Chechako Hill.

The weather at upper river points as far as Bennett reported as being "cool and cloudy."

Mrs. Frank Close and two daughters expect to leave for the outside in a short time.

R. K. Latimer, who conducts a boarding house on Chechako Hill, is in the city on business.

Leut. S. E. Adair is on his way back to Dawson and is expected to arrive on one of the first steamers.

Major Wilson from Bennett and a former resident of Dawson, arrived today in a scow 10 days from Bennett.

The telegraph wire was grounded yesterday, but was working all right and was kept hot with business today.

W. H. Bishopricks, a former prominent business man of Skagway, arrived yesterday by scow from up the river.

A large raft of logs arrived this morning from up the river, but it was not learned for which mill company they were consigned.

Mr. Eiwell, of No. 0 Eldorado, will leave for the outside on the steamer Flora. During his absence the claim will be in charge of Henry Dosier.

It is unofficially stated that the scant dressing residents of Fourth and Fifth avenues and on the intervening alley will be made to vacate that portion of the city in the near future.

The Villa de Lion, across the river, is in the hands of paper hangers and decorators this week and will, in a few days, be a delight to the eye. The popular resort will be reopened to the public within a few days.

Papers in a suit entitled Belcher vs. McDonald were filed in the territorial court yesterday. Belcher, in behalf of the estate of Alex Calder, is bringing suit against Calder's former partner, Alex McDonald, for money. Attorney Woodworth appears for the complainant.

Judge J. H. Allen, of Seattle, is a new arrival in Dawson. Judge Allen is the father of W. B. Allen, who has been on Sulphur creek during the past winter. He will spend a few days in Dawson and then go on down to Fortymile to look after certain mining properties in that district.

$8680 for Ottawa.

After all reports from the various committees having in charge the Ottawa fire relief fund were turned in the total sum realized amounted to $8680. This amount has been forwarded by wire to Ottawa through the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the officials of which agreed to remit the amount realized without charge.

There were three sub-committees appointed to raise the money. One to solicit subscriptions in the town, another to perform the same work on the creeks, and the third to organize a public entertainment. The amount mentioned above is the combined result of the efforts of the three committees.

MEAT FAMINE IS NOW ON.

Butcher Shops Out of Meat and Close Up.

Heavy Consignments Expected Soon—No Pork for Past 30 Days—Canned Meat Now Has Its Day.

This morning three of the leading meat markets were closed by the proprietors owing to the alarming scarcity of meat, they having no fresh meat of any description, neither, beef, mutton nor pork.

There has been no fresh pork in town for the past month and the supply of beef was completely exhausted, save some few quarters held by the Denver and Victoria markets. The shops which have closed temporarily are the City market on Second avenue, the Bonanza and Bay City markets on Third street. For that matter all shops in town can be said to have closed save to their particular customers.

Chas. Murphy, of the Bonanza market said: "We are practically out of beef, pork and mutton. What little we have, we will sell for from 60 cents to $1.25 a pound. I do not think meat will go any higher but if it does we will not continue in the business, at least not until prices come back to an equitable rate."

Chas. Bussard, of the Bay City market said: "We have closed up temporarily, but expect to do business again tomorrow. Ten head of cattle arrived yesterday and $600 a head is asked for them—$6000 for the lot. There are lots of cattle at Bennett, but owing to the low stage of the water it is impossible at present to ship them in. There are a number of scows on the way down, however, and probably there will be plenty of beef in a few more days."

At the City Market there was but a few pounds of boiling beef and no hind quarters.

Mr. Waile, of the Victoria market, said: "What little we have at present is saved for our old customers and sells for $1.25 per pound when taken by the half beef. There is no profit at that price. We expect 160 head in soon, however, and will then have plenty for all. We had to refuse restaurants this morning. Fortunately there is plenty of eggs in the city, consequently the lack of meat will not be so severely felt. Canned meats will have to be served in many places. We have had no mutton since last Friday and pork has not been seen for the past month; there is none in town. We paid for five steers and one cow $3500 a few days ago. They cost us $1 a pound on the hoof. We are losing money right along on the stock at the prices even at their high figure, but will continue to supply our customers as long as we can obtain a pound of beef."

It was learned later in the day that the stock which was held at $600 a head was sold to Chas. Bassault of the Bay City market and Murphy Bros., of the Bonanza market for $525 a head. They will weight dressed about 675 pounds each.

They Look Moth-Eaten.

To a great extent the same old signs hold good. In the winter it was easy to distinguish new arrivals over the ice from their smoked ham complexions. The same complexion is acquired now by those coming down on scows, and in addition to the dark, brown color, very few noses escape becoming more or less blistered on the route which gives them something of moth-eaten appearance for several days after landing. However, a large portion of the travel from above is by scows at the present time.

To Meet in Court House.

Beginning this evening the Yukon council will hereafter hold its meetings in the courthouse at 8 o'clock instead of in the commissioner's office at 3 o'clock in the afternoon as has been the former custom. Henceforth the meetings will be open to the press and public, and all who are curious as to the manner in which the local ship of state is steered are at liberty to gratify that curiosity by attending the meetings.
