ABOUT TORY "LOYALTY"

Now that the Fenian Editor of United Ireland has finished his tour, how would it do for Mr. Daniel O'Brien McGillicuddy, of the Goderich (Ont.) Signal, to start out with a lecture on "The shortcomings of the Queen, the Governor-General and the Tory party in Canada?" Anything to catch the vote?

The above, from the London Free Press, is a specimen of the twaddle to which even alleged leading Tory papers are forced to resort for lack of argument on the O'Brien-Lansdowne controversy. So far as the editor of the Signal is concerned, the personal scum from the subsidized Tory organ is of no value where he is known, and of less value where the Free Press and its editor are known. It is quite true the Signal and its editor favor British fair play and freedom of speech in all cases and under all circumstances, whether it be to a righthanded fratricide like Rev. Dr. Kane (Cain) or a rick-riding landlord hunter like Editor O'Brien, of United Ireland; and it is quite true that the editor of the Signal is quite willing on any platform, and before any audience, to meet any opponent of the principle of freedom of speech, and discuss the question at issue; but when Josiah Blackburn of the London Free Press states that Editor O'Brien is a Fenian, and when he insinuates that Daniel McGillicuddy is an upholder of disloyalty, then he has foully and deliberately lied, and the truth is not in him. When the Fenians invaded Canada in 1866, and when Josiah Blackburn hid in an office recess of the Free Press, (then published on a backstreet in London), Daniel McGillicuddy was one of the first to be enrolled for active service in the 14th Batt. at Kingston, in defence of his adopted country against the invaders. The Free Press is only the mouthpiece of that gang of loyalists which is composed of men like Jim. L. Hughes, Josiah Blackburn and that nondescript, Dr. Wild, who shout loyalty "for revenue purposes only," and who would cease to be loyalists and would cry out against the Governor-General or the Queen, or anyone else "Crucify them!" if the pap were held back. For the benefit of Mr. Josiah Loyalist Blackburn of the Free Press (Tory for revenue purposes only), we will give an extract from Canadian history, out of many at hand, wherein the "loyalists" of the "Gentleman's Party" stand out as champions of the Queen's representative in Canada. The incident is taken, not from a Reform source, but from a staunch Tory authority as the "Life and Times of Sir John A. Macdonald," written, with the approval of the hero of the work, by J. E. Collins, as staunch a Tory as Josiah Blackburn, or any other Tory who ever lied for his party, and accepted pap for his lying. The following, which will be found on pages 127, 128 and 129, is the extract.

"On the afternoon of April 25th, he (Lord Elgin) drove into town at the call of the ministry, to assent to a customs bill, which in consequence of the opening of navigation, it was imperative should go into instant effect. The rumor having gone abroad that assent was to be given to the obnoxious 'rebel bill' as it was called, a number of persons opposed to the government, and all of them 'gentlemen,' packed the galleries of the assembly. They made no stir beyond taking snuff or shaking their canes, but before serious injury was done to anybody. But this was only a small outburst of Tory loyalty. Upon the Champ de Mars that evening gathered a large and turbulent crowd. The meeting had been called by placard and Mr. Augustus Howard, nephew of the chief justice of Upper Canada, and a society man, was in the chair. This gentleman made an inflammatory speech, and was followed by Mr. Erskine; Mr. Ferres, a newspaper editor; Mr. Mack and Mr. Montgomerie, another journalist, all 'gentlemen.' The chief subject of the harangue was, 'Now is the time for action,' while frequently above the din could be heard the cry, 'To the parliament buildings.' After the chairman had made the closing remarks he shouted out, 'Now boys, three cheers for the Queen; then let us take a walk.' The cheers were given and the walk was taken. Up to the parliament buildings surged the crowd of gentlemen loading the names of Lord Elgin and the ministry with blasphemous and obscene epithets. The windows were attacked with stones, after which some hundreds of the mob rushed into the building. The assembly was sitting in committee when the visitors burst through the doors. The members fled in dismay, some taking refuge in the lobbies, and others behind the speaker's chair. Then the rioters passed on to their work. Some wrecked furniture, others wrenched the legs off chairs, tables and desks, while some demolished the chandeliers, lamps and globes. One of the party, in the midst of the melee seated himself in the speaker's chair and cried out, 'The French parliament is dissolved.' He was hurled from his place and the chair thrown over and wrecked. The man was torn out of the hands of Mr. Chisholm, the sergeant-at-arms, and subsequently left as a trophy of victory in the room of Sir Allan McNab, at the Donegal hotel. In the midst of the riot and destruction there was a cry of 'fire.' Flames were then found in the balcony and almost simultaneously the legislative council chamber was ablaze. The party left the building, which in a few minutes was doomed. There was little time to save any of the contents, and out of 20,000 volumes not more than 200 were saved. A full length portrait of Her Majesty, which cost £2,000, was rescued, but on being brought out of the building one of the loyalists punched his stick through the canvas. The fire companies promptly turned out on the first alarm, but on their way to the building fell into the hands of the gentlemen engaged in the incendiarism, who detained them till everything had been destroyed by the flames.

Through some misunderstanding the military were not on hand, and the mob only left after the most brilliant part of the conflagration was over, down with victory, and at last for new conquest. It was a direful night in Montreal. Many a blanched face was seen in the gleam of the conflagration, and a deep shudder ran through the community at the simultaneous clanging of the bells. While the fires of the burning building shone in their windows the ministry held a cabinet and decided to meet the following morning in the Bonsecours Market. There are occasions when feelings lie too deep for words, and the opening of the next day's session seemed one of these. Mr. Baldwin, who made a motion, spoke in a low voice, as if under the influence of some painful spell; but the worthy Hamilton knight to whom the mob had brought their choicest spoils was in his prime at talking condition. It is not worth while to record here what he said, but it is worth stating one last comment upon the quality of the loyalty with which the ears of the House had been so long assailed—"a loyalty," he said, "which one day incited a mob to pelt the governor-general, and the public records, and on the next day sought to find excuses for anarchy."

The men who mobbed William O'Brien are the political spawn of those who stoned the Governor General, burned the Parliament buildings at Montreal, and who destroyed the portrait of the Queen. The "loyalists" of today are no better or no worse than the "loyalists" of fifty years ago—like the Bourbons, the Tory Party never forgets anything that is bad or learns any thing that is good.

SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, assumed office as Lieut.-Governor of Ontario Wednesday last.

The foolish action of the Tory mob in Toronto has earned a barrel of money for the O'Brien mission. At the Boston meeting $20,000 was raised for the League funds.

IT ALMOST looks as if Chapleau will step down and out from the Cabinet and accept the position of Lieut.-Governor of Quebec. In such an event it will be amusing to watch the harmonious relations between His Honor, and Hon. Premier Mercier.

OUTSIDERS estimate the spring suit of the editors of THE SIGNAL at about $10,000, without trimmings. It is ornate but not pawdy, and there is no attempt at display on our part. There is but one drawback: It is of light brown fabric, and those who know most about it say "it won't wash." We don't feel a bit proud, however, and still talk to the neighbors in a friendly way, as of yore.

If Hon. Mr. Chapleau retires from the position of Secretary of State, we would suggest that John R. Dunn be appointed to the office. Dunn and Pope would then be in the same department of public service, and they could easily manipulate things so that the electors of the Dominion would be of little importance as factors in the formation of the Federal Government. Let's have the Hon. John R. Dunn, by all means.

TORONTO LETTER.

Miscellaneous Matters From Our Queen City Correspondent.

Shade Trees—Street Improvement—The 11 Base Hall Excitement—The Gambling Spirit Engendered.

TORONTO, May 31, 1887.
The city just now is looking very attractive. The corporation in the past was not sparing in the planting of shade trees, and the consequence is that many of the streets well deserve the name "avenue." The foliage is very far advanced at time of writing; Bryant's "Leafy June" is here almost before the calendar would show it. A drive along some of the most shady streets at this time of year is a treat. Keep hammering away at the council and population generally at Goderich to plant more shade trees—set them out systematically, and above all, to see that the town council is not permitted to turn the public streets into a pasture or a barnyard, as you like it.

Church street, one of the most popular in the city, is now being "block paved" up to Bloor, and the street cars are not running on it. Between the tracks a roadway of rock is being laid, and when the work is completed there will not be its equal in the city so far as street pavement is concerned. Property on Church street, and indeed on all the respectable streets of the city, has reached a tremendously high figure. A desirable frontage on Jarvis street now costs as much as the stylish mansions erected upon them. Land on Jarvis street a mile from, say the corner of Queen and Yonge street, is readily bought up at $100 to $120 a foot. Dirt is not cheap in Toronto, even if the city only celebrated her 50th anniversary two or three years ago.

The base ball fever is raging here just now. The city has a professional club, one of the International League teams, and the results of the games played are daily bulletined by the newspapers. Hamilton has also a professional nine, and the cities are very jealous on the matter of the merits of the rival teams. The game on Saturday between these clubs was played in this city, and attracted a crowd of 6,400. The home club pounded the "Hams," as they are called, all over the field, and the heart of the sporting Torontonians were joyous and their pockets heavy over the result. The next match between the rival Canadian professional clubs will be played in Hamilton on Saturday, and the betting fraternity of the Ambitious city expect to have their revenge. And here is the great evil of these professional matches. Betting is very general, and sometimes heavy at that. Apprentices bet, employers bet, merchants bet, clerks bet. Sometimes a hat only may be the wager, but often sums are staked on the result that the loser can ill afford to lose. I do not say that civilization has generated betting, because the savages of many lands have indulged in the vice of gambling in some form or other; but our civilization has nourished the gambling and betting spirit, and it is proving a curse to our athletic games and sports. We see what it has done to our oarsmen and our runners. We live in the day of the hippodrome—but unlike the ancient hippodromes the assés are outside the "ring."

THE Hamilton Spectator claims that Goldwin Smith is not a Tory. Will the Spectator be good enough to explain what Goldwin is. One thing we know is, that during the elections of 1878 Goldwin Smith stumped the country in the interest of the Tory party, and he has never since recanted the heresy.

FROM present appearances it looks as if the Board of Trade agitation has received a set-back in Goderich. One more such screaming farce as that of Wednesday evening, and the last nail will be driven in its coffin. What is wanted is to let the moribund Board stay dead, and if a Board of Trade is necessary for Goderich let a brand new institution be organized.

In the vote on Wednesday, on the Queen's County Election case, the Government were sustained by a majority of 19. Amongst the independent Conservatives who voted with the Opposition were, Messrs. Patterson, of Essex, and Boyle, of Monk; on Ontario; and Gigault, Dupont, Ounture and Doyon, of Quebec. Robert Porter voted in favor of the constituency-thief, as we expected.

WHAT'S UP?

Things That Are Happening Around Us

Some Information about Dock Laborers—How Frank Lawrence ran the Justice Shop for the "Trimmer."

I saw by the last SIGNAL that there was a strike by the "trimmers" down at the dock, and that trouble resulted from it all along the line. In the SIGNALS statement, however, there was a discrepancy, so far as the remuneration is concerned, which I will proceed to rectify. You said that the rate per day in Sarnia was $1.50, and that here the rate was $2.25, and the men struck for $3 a day. That is not just how the thing stood. In Sarnia and other ports the "trimmers" charge $1.50 per 1,000 bushels, and a year or two ago the Goderich "trimmers" raised their tariff to $2.25 per 1,000 bushels. Well, according to the latter figures the United Empire last week would have to pay $45 to the "trimmers" for unloading the 20,000 bushels of grain which she brought down for the Big Mill, and as eight men could easily handle that amount of grain inside of ten hours the wage per man would amount to over $5.50, instead of $2.25 per day. If $3 per 1,000 bushels had been given $80 would have been paid to the staff of "trimmers." I don't wonder the captain of the Empire kicked against the imposition—he'd have been more patient and long-suffering than Job if he hadn't. If our laborers charge in proportion for the work necessary in connection with the laying of the mains for the waterworks we'll have to put another cypher to the business end of the sun set down in the bylaw. Why, I remember when I had to do with a dockwolloping gang down east, the boys were willing to pile Rideau canal cordwore at a York shilling an hour for day work, and 20 cents an hour for overtime, and we didn't have any squealing, and every man put in his besticks. And after the labor session was over, and the boys were paid off they usually went home with their stipend, and didn't chafe around with a medical certificate and the boodle in one hand and a black bottle in the other, in the endeavor to irritate the inside of their necks with distilled damnation.

—And this reminds me that quite a little circus occurred over at the police court Thursday last. Some of the dockhands got at loggerheads with their chums on the question of "trimming," and the parties of the first part undertook to "trim" the parties of the second part, and being in the majority, succeeded in their efforts. On the afternoon in question a police court case was the result, and there was a goodly attendance. At the hour appointed his worship was somewhat dilatory in making his appearance, and as some of the interested and disinterested persons were showing unmistakable signs of weariness, Frank Lawrence, the express agent, undertook to run the justice shop in the absence of the mayor. The plaintiff was first cited before the justice pro tem and asked what he had to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him. The reply evidently was not deemed satisfactory, for in measured tones the justice said, "You are no good, anyhow, and I sentence you to six months in the central prison." The sharpness and swiftness of the sentence seemed to drive terror into all concerned, and when one of the defendants stood up before the stern arbiter of the law, pro tem, it was little wonder that his knees smote and his cheeks blanched. "Who did you vote for last election?" was the first question put by Justice Lawrence pro tem. "For Mr. Cameron," was the faltering reply. "You did, did you? Then I'll sentence you to twelve months in the central prison for so doing, and I'll increase it to five years if you repeat the offence." The new justice, it could easily be seen, was warming up to his work, and it was quite possible that the death sentence would have been passed upon one or more of the remaining prisoners, had his worship the mayor not opportunely arrived upon the scene and dispensed with the justice pro tem. Frank contends that he was guided by equity, if not by law, in his decisions, and feels a little nonplussed that they could not be carried out.

Hon. Mr. Lacoste is mentioned as the successor of Mr. Chapleau as Secretary of State.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Wednesday night Meeting ends in a Fizzle

An Old Board Dating Years Back Claims the Honors—A general Stampedé follows the Vote.

Wednesday evening last there was a large attendance of the business men of the town to take into consideration the forming of a Board of Trade in Goderich. The meeting had been called pursuant to adjournment from previous meeting, and appeared ripe for business. Before the gathering convened it was discovered that back in 1875 a Board of Trade had existed in Goderich with a regular staff of officers and executive council. The officers were M. Hutchinson, president, C. Crabb, vice-president, W. M. Savage, secretary, and F. Jordan, treasurer. This organization, it was contended by some, still existed, and on motion Mr. Crabb, vice-president of the old Board was called to the chair. After some remarks from the chair man anent the old board, and cries that led to its subsidence, a desultory discussion took place as to the best manner of forming the proposed Board of Trade—whether to amalgamate with the stagnated Board or to begin anew under the general statute.

Nothing of importance was done, however, until a motion was made to form a brand new board.

This brought out a hot argument, and immediately an amendment was moved that the new Board be formed through the medium of the old Board.

Some of the members contended there was no old Board—that it had died a natural death, &c., and others held that it was still in existence.

When the vote was taken about twice as many hands went up for the amendment. Nevertheless the chairman decided that the amendment had the majority.

This action disgusted a large number of those present, and the chairman left the chair.

This was the third unsuccessful attempt that was made to establish a Board of Trade in Goderich during the past two weeks.

Colborne.

The Court of Revision for the township of Colborne met in the township hall Friday, May 27th. The members having signed the oath required, the following appeals against the assessment were laid before the court, viz.:—John G. Clutton, P. McCann, T. Stuthers and J. Chisholm, all on the grounds of over assessment; but the assessor was sustained in each case, except the latter, which was not taken up, not being a proper appeal. The court then adjourned for dinner, to sit again at 2 o'clock. The court then sat again, pursuant to adjournment. Chas. McPhee applied to have his dog struck off the assessment roll, having killed it, but it was not granted. After a few changes were made, the roll was accepted as correct.

The court then rose and formed a council for the dispatch of general business, the reveries in the chair, members all present. The minutes of last meeting read and approved. A motion moved by A. Young, and seconded by N. Johns that the following accounts be paid, was carried, viz.:—D. Stirling, wood for Mrs. Brindley, charity, purposes, $2.50; J. Kirkpatrick, repairing culvert opposite Bogie's, $1.50; R. Fairford, repairing culvert, 75c.; J. Horton, repairing culvert, $1; T. Morris, repairing culvert on division line, $4; W. Robertson, repairing culvert opposite his place, $1; W. McPhee, repairing culvert on McPhee's crossing, $12; W. Blake, repairing culvert, $5; J. Levy, repairing culvert, $2; W. Young, repairing road on division line, $1; W. Young, repairing road on Barker's beat, 75c.; J. Kennedy, bonus on wire fence, $20; E. R. Watson, painting 2 signs, $1.50; J. Barker, repairing culvert at Joseph Morris', $7; J. Barker, breaking road, $5; Star printing, $0.45; SIGNAL, $21.90; A. Sprout, coffin and shroud for W. Pean in 1886, $14; J. Morris, bonus on wire fence, $14.50; J. E. Toms, P. S. I., attendance and mileage to council meeting on school business, $5.20; assessor, as part of salary, $40. James Gledhill moved, and James Taylor seconded that the reveries be empowered the deed for Samuel Vanstone—carried. The statute labor lists were then examined, and a new beat made numbering 63, to commence at boundary line along the 13th con. to lake road. The clerk was instructed to notify James Campbell to remove his fence off the road, as agreed to.

The council, after agreeing to meet at Dunlop, on Friday, 3rd of June, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of going around and examining the jobs that would be let the following week, adjourned.

FROM WASHINGTON.

What Has Transpired at the United States Capital.

The Big Drill—The Troops Mar over a Grand Competition—"Dark Horse" Looming up from Away Back.

Washington, May 30th, 1887.
The great National Drill which has absorbed all Washington and its many visitors for the past week, draws to a close today. In fact the Drill preparatory work will not be made formally, and until their formal presentation it cannot be accurately known in each instance who the winners really are. The verdict from the grand stand was promptly rendered after every contest, of course, during the progress of the Drill, but the verdict from the judges stand, composed of experienced army officers, whose practiced and critical eyes are supposed to lose sight of nothing that is in the slightest defective either in the manual of arms or in the evolutions of the soldiers, cannot be expected to correspond always with that of the people. Some surprises are in store.

The Drill has been a splendid spectacle notwithstanding the disadvantages it has encountered from rain and cyclones. The greater portion of each day has been beautiful, the soldiers have marched well, and drilled well, and paraded well, and looked well in their variously designed, and in many instances gorgeous uniforms. There has been a grand gathering of them from thirty-one different States, and they represent the flower of the country's militia. They have had a good time together, and the Drill will prove of great advantage to the citizen soldiery in many respects.

The camp has been quite a magnet to the people of Washington and to the strangers here. It has been visited daily by people of both sexes and all ages and sizes, and colors and conditions, who were curious to see how time was passed in this city of tents. The camp was astir at an early hour every morning, and the companies who were to participate in the competitive drills each day always retired early, to a man, on the evening previous, and the guards were kept on duty all night with strict orders to arrest any comrade who should attempt to leave quarters. Such strict discipline was unnecessary however, as every man felt anxious to be in good condition and took special pride in the approaching contests.

But all night long many of the soldier boys were prowling around playing all sorts of pranks on their comrades, utterly ignoring all military rules, and defying the guards. College songs and popular airs formed a portion of their pastime, and merry shouts of laughter disturbed the otherwise peaceful slumbers of the silent soldiers, and rang out clear on the evening air a long distance from the camp ground.

The liveliest interest has centered in the contest of the infantry companies which were drilling for the $5,000 prize. On Wednesday, one of the field days of the drill, the drill of the celebrated Lomax Rifles of Mobile, was expected to be the event of the day. This is called the crack organization of the South, and it was thought it would take the shine off of everything as it had done in the past.

It was a very hard-ame company of men in snow white duck pants, dark blue coats, light blue helmets with white plumes waving and white gloves. Their drilling began and a rare exhibition it was. They first stacked arms and then went through a number of evolutions with wonderful accuracy and precision. In the manual they were as good as any who had drilled up to that time, and in fixing bayonets, they were almost perfect. In lying down and firing—which they did excellently—two of their number met with the unfortunate accident of losing their helmets, which their captain, of course, replaced on their heads. The captain, too, failed to lie down with his company, and stood immediately in front of it while the firing was going on, both of which were considered gross errors by military critics, and will be scored against them. In all of the double quick movements the Alabama boys were finely drilled, and their firing was like one shot, except in one instance, when the explosions were not simultaneous.

But an unexpected treat was in store for the audience in the drilling of two companies from Texas, the Belknap Rifles and the San Antonio Rifles, who have talked modestly of themselves since they have been here. They had not been on the ground five minutes until it was seen that they were "dark horses" for first place. Before they had half finished the program handed their captain by the judges they had made many partisans, and like the Toledo Cadets who drilled on the day before, they were applauded to the echo.

Another Interesting Letter From India.

A Contrast of Today With Thirty Years Ago—The Story of the Terrible Massacre by Nana Sahib.

Yes, we have reached Cawnpore, that city ever memorable in British annals on account of the doings of that foul miscreant Nana Sahib; that city in which began a siege, the miseries of which to the few hundred besieged have never been exceeded in the darkest pages of medical history. It is distant from Allahabad 140 miles, and from Lucknow to the north, where we next proceed, 50 miles. The train is drawn into a fine, large depot equal in every respect to the Union depot in Toronto, built of well dressed grey stone, and we are again besieged by importuning beggars, would-be porters and hotel runners, but a dexterous flourish of a walking stick that would do credit to Jim Flaherty at Donnybrook Fair, clears the road, and we soon find ourselves at the Railway Hotel. This is a low, rambling, cottage-shaped bungalow kept by an old soldier named Joe Lee, who was present at Cawnpore and Lucknow under Gen. Havelock in the early-memorable '57. It is wonderful the retentiveness of memory old soldiers are blessed with. The ordinary old man who is not a soldier generally forgets many of the stirring little episodes of his younger days, but not so the old soldier. Joe, this particular specimen of the genus old soldier under consideration, can sit and relate blood curdling stories of the wanted terrors of a multitudinous enemy with it, of a feeble garrison and scant shelter within, of the heart-rending burthen of women, sick children dying with little or nothing to satisfy their hunger or allay their thirst, of the blazing sun over them like a canopy of fire, and the summer breeze like a furnace blast, and of all the other super added miseries peculiar to this horrible association, we drive to the memorial well situated now in the midst of a beautiful garden. The Government of India has spent a large sum in laying out, planting and beautifying the grounds surrounding this sacred spot, and a number of soldiers are told off, whose duty it is to keep the law and order in perfect order. A magnificent statue in white marble, erected in 1863 by the Government, marks the place where the well was. The statue is surrounded by a large octagonal enclosure, built of white marble in beautiful and appropriate design of Gothic architecture. The statue itself, some ten feet in height, on an octagonal pedestal, represents an Angel of Mercy with arms crossed standing against a Cross, looking down sorrowfully on the sacred surroundings. The inscription on the pedestal is nearly as follows: "Sacred to the perpetual memory of a great body of Christian people who near this spot were cruelly massacred on July 15th, 1857, A. D. by the followers of the rebel known by the name of Nana Sahib, who cast the dying with the dead into the well below." A few rods from his spot is a small enclosure containing 72 mounds where the unknown dead were buried by Havelock's men the following day. We have seen all that remains to tell the sad story of those troubled times, and with a feeling of thankfulness that we can say with one of old, "our lines are cast in pleasant places," direct our way back to the hotel, with the talkative old soldier, who had not for an instant ceased chattering since we started out. With a mingled pleasure and self-satisfaction and a degree of disappointment withal, he over and over again impressed upon us the fact that he, with the rest of his regiment, arrived from Lucknow just 2 hours and 10 minutes too late to prevent the massacre. Just 2 hours and 10 minutes, what a world of difference that short space of time can make in a nation's history! But again we are at the Railway Hotel, and after amusing ourselves looking through the autograph album of all kinds of silly suggestions and remarks. Some had even gone so far as to inscribe within his own book, the opinion as strongly expressed by Conrade of old Dogberry, "they had writ him down an ass." One half the visitors complained that the old landlubber talked too much, some freely opined that the food was badly cooked and the accommodation very inferior, others that the charges were excessive, the wine bad and the attendance poor, all of which we could more or less endorse, while some launched out into anathematizing poetry the alternative lines rhyming with such words as "lamb" and "well" &c. Toward the end of the evening we visited a manufactory where two or three hundred Indian boys and girls were engaged in weaving carpets, bag-stuff, and other coarse material from putri, a preparation much resembling hemp made from the fibres of certain species of Cerechus found in India. Many of these mumble-fingered smart, watchful black-eyed children were working ten hours a day for a sum which would bring them about 40c a month. They are quick and intelligent and very readily take to any work requiring patience and close attention.

through the Christian blood they had spilled and were then blown from the muzzles of cannon. The forces under Havelock speedily routed the murderous rabble from Cawnpore, and their surprise must have been equalled only by the feelings of horror when they found that upwards of 200 Christian women and children had been hacked to death within a few hours of their arrival. Many of the dead and dying bodies were thrown into the well near by the rebels, and the British soldiers were ordered to fill it with many of those yet unburied, and part of the next two days was spent in gathering all the bodies to be found, and burying near the well. Such is the terrible story of the massacre of Cawnpore, and as we proceed through the outlying part of the city we are shown at every step some reminiscences of this dark page of history. The line is pointed out marking the entrenchment near one corner of the entrenchment is a beautiful English church called "All Souls," erected as a memorial church within which are marble tablets covering all the walls, to the memory of one thousand people who met their death in the terrible carnage. From here we drive down the ravine to the Suttee Ghant. The broad stone steps, down which the unfortunate people were hustled into the boats are here yet. The old Hindoo temple which was used as a signal staff for a flag, the sign to begin firing, is still standing. A hundred years ago, doubtless it was the shrine of some deity, which the trembling Indian widows were compelled to give their life on the funeral pyres with the dead bodies of their husbands. And the black picture loomed up before us of the wide, muddy river spotted over with boats full of helplessness, which to the swarms of rebellious along the banks, aided by a battery of four guns, only offered so many targets for rifle practice. What unutterable feelings of anguish this peculiarly doomed spot must have witnessed; what agony of soul; what cowardly exultations on the part of that fiend incarnate and his followers who devised and carried out such a devilish action. From the river side, with its horrible associations, we drive to the memorial well situated now in the midst of a beautiful garden. The Government of India has spent a large sum in laying out, planting and beautifying the grounds surrounding this sacred spot, and a number of soldiers are told off, whose duty it is to keep the law and order in perfect order. A magnificent statue in white marble, erected in 1863 by the Government, marks the place where the well was. The statue is surrounded by a large octagonal enclosure, built of white marble in beautiful and appropriate design of Gothic architecture. The statue itself, some ten feet in height, on an octagonal pedestal, represents an Angel of Mercy with arms crossed standing against a Cross, looking down sorrowfully on the sacred surroundings. The inscription on the pedestal is nearly as follows: "Sacred to the perpetual memory of a great body of Christian people who near this spot were cruelly massacred on July 15th, 1857, A. D. by the followers of the rebel known by the name of Nana Sahib, who cast the dying with the dead into the well below." A few rods from his spot is a small enclosure containing 72 mounds where the unknown dead were buried by Havelock's men the following day. We have seen all that remains to tell the sad story of those troubled times, and with a feeling of thankfulness that we can say with one of old, "our lines are cast in pleasant places," direct our way back to the hotel, with the talkative old soldier, who had not for an instant ceased chattering since we started out. With a mingled pleasure and self-satisfaction and a degree of disappointment withal, he over and over again impressed upon us the fact that he, with the rest of his regiment, arrived from Lucknow just 2 hours and 10 minutes too late to prevent the massacre. Just 2 hours and 10 minutes, what a world of difference that short space of time can make in a nation's history! But again we are at the Railway Hotel, and after amusing ourselves looking through the autograph album of all kinds of silly suggestions and remarks. Some had even gone so far as to inscribe within his own book, the opinion as strongly expressed by Conrade of old Dogberry, "they had writ him down an ass." One half the visitors complained that the old landlubber talked too much, some freely opined that the food was badly cooked and the accommodation very inferior, others that the charges were excessive, the wine bad and the attendance poor, all of which we could more or less endorse, while some launched out into anathematizing poetry the alternative lines rhyming with such words as "lamb" and "well" &c. Toward the end of the evening we visited a manufactory where two or three hundred Indian boys and girls were engaged in weaving carpets, bag-stuff, and other coarse material from putri, a preparation much resembling hemp made from the fibres of certain species of Cerechus found in India. Many of these mumble-fingered smart, watchful black-eyed children were working ten hours a day for a sum which would bring them about 40c a month. They are quick and intelligent and very readily take to any work requiring patience and close attention.

PECULIAR HABITS.

Biting the Nails, Biting the Lips, Sticking Out the Tongue, Beating a Fist, and Other Freaky and Idiosyncratic Ways.

"Just look at that girl!" Yes; it is Miss Blank. What about her?" "Don't you see her tongue?" "Oh, yes. Isn't it perfectly dreadful? They say she always sticks it out like that when she's thinking about anything." The young woman in question was promenading the east side of State street early yesterday morning, attired in a bewitching costume and a pensive expression, while the tip of her little tongue protruded in a manner anything but fascinating between two lips of the description known to novelists as coral. "Yes," said one of her feminine acquaintances, "she always does that when thoughtful or worried. It's one of those terrible habits which, when once contracted, stick closer than a million brothers. Miss Blank began it when a child, and no one ever took the trouble to break her of it. Now, poor girl, it mortifies her terribly to be told about it, though, of course, she is anxious to cure herself. But, then, nearly every one has some curious little habit which he would be very glad to break if he could; some trick more or less unpleasant, caused in the first place probably by nervousness. We all know the man who tugs at his moustache and the one who perpetually pulling up his collar. Then there is the girl who is always rubbing one eye, as if in search of a stray eyelash, and the man who can't be quite happy without some more or less fragile article to twist and bend and turn about in his fingers. Anything and everything, from your finest lace handkerchief to your new and extremely delicate paper cutter, is sacrificed to the demon of nervousness which possesses him, heart and yet you can't find it in your robin of his plaything. He is quite happy and at his ease so long as he is allowed to twirl and twist as much as he wants to, but bereft of the temporary object of his affection he would be abjectly miserable, and you know it. Many a man can talk fluently and well while winding something—anything—about his finger, who without it, would be constrained, awkward, silent. One of the most annoying forms of this disease in the incessant tattoo which some people keep on their knees, or on the table or whatever happens to be the most convenient as a keyboard. I have noticed that musicians usually indulge in this habit, and it is a very trying one, though I don't know that it is worse than 'twiddling your thumb.' You don't know what that is? Why, clasping your hands with the fingers interlaced, and then moving the thumbs slowly, very slowly, round each other. Nearly all old English people are addicted to this habit, and look upon it as a refuge from ennui during times of enforced idleness, such as that "blind man's holiday," when it is too dark to work or read, and yet not dark enough, according to English notions, to light the gas. At this time of day an old Englishwoman will sit and 'twiddle her thumbs' so many times from right to left and then so many times from left to right, until one begins to think she has discovered the secret of perpetual motion. The habit gains such a hold upon the men that they are unable to sit unoccupied for a moment without immediately beginning to 'twiddle.' "Of course, every one knows people who bite their nails, and nearly all of us can remember some girl who has destroyed what was intended for a pretty mouth by a senseless fashion of biting or rather gnawing at her lip. This is one of the most difficult habits to break, and at the same time one of the commonest. If you want to see how widespread it is, just go over to one of the State street drygoods establishments about 10 o'clock on any fine morning. Monday morning is the best, because Monday is the favorite shopping day. Didn't you know that? Oh, yes, it's a fact. Any floor walker will tell you that more business is done Monday morning than any other time during the week that is, in the big shops. Of course in the cheap ones Saturday is the great day. Why should Monday be popular? Oh, I suppose it is the reaction after Sunday's enforced idleness. On Sunday one can't shop, and when one wakes on Monday morning it is so delightful to feel that all restrictions are removed, and that there is nothing to prevent one from shopping all day, it inclined to."

WOMEN IN JOURNALISM.

Some of the Brightest Who Live by the Pen.

It was more than a century ago that one of the finest minds in all England left a little country house and journeyed to London to become the editor of one of the largest and most influential papers of the day. Her work was exhaustive, Mary Wolstonecraft rose to become one of the bright and shining lights of the Fourth Estate. Her powerful reply to Burier's pamphlet on the "French Revolution" elicited universal comment from all writers of that age for the original thought set forth in reply. Imagine the astonishment of those who held the narrow prejudice of that day when it was discovered that the writer was a woman. From her time we come down to later times, when Margaret Fuller as literary editor of the New York Tribune adorned the columns of that paper by the wit, the analytical taste and brilliant paragraphs from her finely trained and erudite mind. She died during a severe storm off Long Island coast, but she left to the world a shining mark and a brighter glow of sympathy for women in journalism for all times to come. In 1830 Miss Sarah J. Hale became editor of the Ladies Magazine, of Boston, and not long afterwards of Godley's Ladies Book, which she continued to edit until a few years ago. Among the names of women who have gained lasting fame in journalistic work, Miss Mary Louise Booth, whose successful writing for nineteen years has embellished the pages of Harpers' Bazar, and Mary Mapes Dodge, who wears the laurels of successful authorship, are examples of what women may do in this line if given a chance. Mrs. Crawley, or Jennie June, as she is best known, wields an editorial pen which is always well furnished with a tempting variety of dishes. Her income may be only half as large as her next-door neighbor's, yet, judging from the appearance of herself and home, a person would easily think it was twice as much. She makes the daintiest dishes out of food that another woman would condemn as useless. She will make over a dress in the latest style, and when done look as well, if not better, than her neighbor, who has just come out in a new suit of rich material and stylish make. "I can't understand," remarks this neighbor, "how Mrs. B. manages to keep herself and home looking so nice; her husband doesn't get but half what mine does, and her family is larger than mine, yet she never seems to have any difficulty about getting along. I do believe that if her income were one-half what it is now, she would still manage as well as I do now, for she is such a planner." This is all very true, and very likely if the woman were cut down to one-half her usual income she would certainly get along almost as well as her wealthier neighbor. Her one faculty seems to be the managing or planning how to utilize articles and food that most people would throw aside. Such a person, in buying material for clothes, seldom purchases any kind but the most serviceable, both in color and quality. Because a cloth is of the latest fashion is no indication to her, for her clear head reasons that the fashion is so changeable and the dress she is about to purchase must last her for so long, that she cannot afford to follow this lady unless the goods are of a durable kind. They must be those that can be sponged, pressed and made over, to look almost as good as new, after being worn some time, before she will think of purchasing. Then in making the dress she always chooses a pattern that does not cut into the goods to any extent, so that in making over they will have all the goods she may wish without joining, or without having to try to match it in the store, as all know that it is almost impossible to do the latter where the goods have been worn for some time. A woman of this kind is a treasure to her own family and also to the neighborhood in which she resides. A friend has a garment to make over; it is all ripped apart, sponged and pressed, and just here she becomes helpless. She is sure she cannot go a step farther towards remodeling that dress. She knows there is not cloth enough to make it into the pattern she wished. She is heartily discouraged, when in comes the woman planner. Her clear head understands just what is the matter, and in a little while she explains away the difficulties in her friend's way, and makes everything so plain and simple that the friend is mortified that she didn't think of that same way herself. Very nearly all neighborhoods have this woman or her prototype, and it would be well for housekeepers to cultivate her acquaintance, as there are many things that can be learned from her, and the more we have of such women the better.

SCROFULA.

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has an equal as a remedy for Scrofula, Humors, Erysipelas, Canker, and Catarrh.

I have suffered, for years, from Catarrh, which was so severe that it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. After trying other remedies, and getting no relief, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and in a few months was cured. — Susan L. Cook, 909 Albany st., Boston Highlands, Mass. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is superior to any blood purifier that I have ever used. I have taken it for Scrofula, Canker, and Salt Rheum, and received much benefit from it. It is good, also, for a weak stomach. — Millie Jane Peirce, South Bradford, Mass. Tottie, innocent yachd did you say? "I didn't say yachd," retorted said she was outside, and had inside. "Ah! I see," pouted, blandly, and whispering, while she turned planation from deduced a dog's snoring at her wheeling array. "The Utopia a breadth of two in natural wood is lighted by gas tank." KNOX CHURCH PULPIT.—Rev. A.
 Meidrum will occupy the pulpit of Knox church Sunday evening next.

G. T. R. DETECTIVE.—The lost goods detective of this railroad division was in town Saturday last on professional business.

OFF FOR HOLIDAYS.—Mrs. Thos. Mc-Gillivray and her three children left for Stratford Saturday last to visit her parents.

AT THE CITY OF THE STRAITS.—Wm.
 Lee, the local agent of the Beaty line of steamers, spent four days in Detroit on a business trip.

OCCUPIED THE PULPIT.—Rev. Mr.
 Legear, of Stratford, occupied the Victoria St. pulpit very acceptably
 Sunday morning last.

RAINS.—The excellent rains of the past week have caused a forward rush in vegetation, and have kept down the dust
 in Goderich, to some extent.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.—The soap works
 on the Huron road, recently carried on by J. Brown, have been purchased by J. A. Naftel, who will carry on the business.

A NEW POSITION.—Major James
 Thomson, formerly town clerk of Goderich, is now cashier in a bank in Neche, Dakota. His old friends here will be pleased to hear of his promotion.

KINTAIL CALEDONIAN GAMES.—In
 some unaccountable manner the prize list of the Kintail Caledonian games was delayed and did not come to hand until late Thursday afternoon, and consequently too late for publication this week.

LEFT FOR CHICAGO.—Thomas Graham,
 who has been for the past year resident in Goderich, left for Chicago Wednesday last. He will, we understand, take his old position in a commercial agency in that city.

STAY AND TAKE TEA.—The Martha Washington tea party, to be given by the ladies of Knox church, will be held to the Palace roller rink, West-st., on the afternoon and evening of Thursday,
 the 9th inst.

ANOTHER LOCAL AGENT.—E. E. Seager
 has accepted the agency for several reliable fire and life companies, and is prepared to sell risks at reasonable rates
 at his office, Hamilton street, opposite Colborne hotel.

FROM REGINA.—Mrs. Dixie Watson,
 of Regina, is now visiting friends in Huron county, she has been in Clinton and Wingham, and intends to visit Goderich and other points before she leaves for her western home.

TAKING HOLIDAYS.—Hilton Holmes,
 of the Bank of Commerce, has gone to Toronto to spend his holidays. On his return James Strachan, the local seller, will leave for a trip east, taking in Ottawa and Montreal.

ONE OF THE OLD SCHOOL.—Mr. and Mrs. John Savage, of Lucknow, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. G. W. Berry, Lighthouse street. Mr. Savage is one of the "old-timers," his contemporaries
 being Sheriff Gibbons and Thos. Kydd.

He has resided in the Huron tract for over fifty years.

A GOOD IDEA.—It has been proposed that Elgin street should be made an avenue by planting chestnut trees down
 its centre from Huron road to the lake.
 If this were done and the trees planted on each side of the street where they are now missing, we would have one of the prettiest drives in the whole Dominion.

CLERICAL APPOINTMENT.—D. M.
 Buchanan, formerly of Goderich and now
 a student of University College Toronto, has been appointed by the Home Mission committee to occupy for the summer vacation, the change recently vacated by the resignation of Rev. Mr.
 Nixon at Stratford, Ont. He goes to assume his clerical duties this week.

A SPIDER BITE.—There is an old country superstition that it is unlucky to kill a spider. If some medical lights of New York are right, the spider should be treated with no such compunction.

The case of a boy who died from the bite of a spider is recorded in that city. The bite of a spider is said to be much like that of a scorpion, and liable to be fatal.

ON AN INSPECTION TOUR.—C. Donovan, of Hamilton, Provincial Inspector of Separate Schools is in town on a professional trip. He visited St. Augustine
 Thursday, and will inspect Goderich Separate School today. Mr. Donovan is an Irish Home Ruler from the word
 "Go," but his love for the land he left only enhances his loyalty to the land he now inhabits.

THE GENERAL SESSIONS OF THE PEACE.
 The general sessions of the peace will meet on Tuesday, June 14th at 12 o'clock noon. There are a number of appeals from justices of the peace decisions, principally Scott Act cases.

There are also three or four civil cases.
 A full panel of petit jurors has been selected for the occasion, being the first time under the new act.

REVISION OF THE ACT.—The
 revision for the town of Goderich in the clerk's office Monday last at 10 o'clock. There were only four appeals, three of which changes were made.

D. Davis's assessment on income was reduced $500. Geo. H. Parson's assessment on lot at harbor was reduced $300 and Mrs. Watson's assessment on property was reduced by $300.

WORTHY GENTLEMAN.—The
 next week D. will be a book 132
 pages with pictures on nearly every page.
 Every picture is either original
 or being specially produced for this
 use, and there will be a great demand
 for it. It will be for sale at all book stores or can be had by sending 10c
 direct to Geo. Oakes, Toronto.

H. S. LITERARY MEETING. At the opening meeting of the High School Literary Society on Friday evening the following program was presented:—Duet,
 the Misses Ellard; reading, Miss Shar-man; recitation, Miss Struthers; selections, the editors; solo, Mr. Halls; recitation, Miss G. Johnston; reading, Miss Halse; reading, Mr. Taylor; recitation, Miss McCullough; duet, Miss Struthers and Heddle.

A LITTLE MIXED AS TO SEX.—The
 following item is correct in some of the particulars, from the Guelph Mercury, but is astray in regard to
 sex. The "bouncing girl" is a boy—on Sunday last. Dan McGillivray, of the Goderich Signal, smiled more than an ordinary smile when his wife presented him with a bouncing baby girl. Her good health to the latest arrival. May she live long and prosper.

ST. GEORGE'S VESTRY MEETING. At
 the adjourned vestry meeting of St.
 George's, held last Thursday evening, the auditors report on the year's income
 and expenditure, as presented by the wardens at a previous meeting was adopted.
 Before separating the rector addressed
 the vestry on a question of importance to the church, and on the unanimous wish of the vestry promised to bring his family to Goderich in a few days.

FAREWELL SERVICE.—Captain Zimmerman, of the Salvation Army, considered with Mrs. Zimmerman, their well-wishers at the army barracks Sunday evening. The address by the Captain was a particularly practical one, and was appreciated by his hearers. He has been stationed here for the past nine months, and leaves Goderich with the best wishes of all with whom he came in contact.

RETIRED FROM JOURNALISM.—Geo.
 Moir, formerly principal of the St.
 Mary's Public Schools, but for the last few years editor and proprietor of the Exeter Reflector, returned to St. Mary's last week from Exeter, and intends to permanently locate in the stone town.
 He will assume the duties of the principal of the St. Mary's school, and will be accompanied by Goderich residents, as the opponent of Rev. C. E. Morrow in the Victoria hall meeting during the Scott Act Campaign.

MAYOR'S COURT. Harry Lippert, Wm.
 McSwain, Robt. Williams and Eph.
 Mountney were cited before his worship, Mayor Seager, Thursday of last week, charged with using profane and insulting language to John and Daniel Murray. The plaintiffs and defendants were all dockhands, and the trouble resulted from the "trimmers" strike.
 After hearing evidence his worship fined Lippert, McSwain and Williams $1 and costs, each. Mountney was acquitted.

S. S. CONVENTION.—A meeting of the Sabbath School workers of the town will be held in the lecture room of North street Methodist church on the evening
 of Tuesday, the 7th inst., at 8 o'clock,
 to hear reports from the billating committee, and to make final arrangements for the reception of the delegates to the convention to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 14th and 15th. Every interested school teacher and all others
 interested are requested to attend this meeting.

FROM THE PASTOR.—Rev. A.
 Meidrum, who for the past four years
 has occupied a pulpit in San Francisco,
 in connection with the Presbyterian denomination, arrived in town Monday
 last to visit the scenes of his youth.

He returned a Mr. Moir to the Rock Island, Ill. but has not yet decided to accept. He and his wife and child will remain in Goderich for the next month or so, visiting his numerous friends. Life at the Occident seem-to have agreed with him physically.

BOISE SHIPPER.—J. Hicks, Mitchell, shipped a load of horses from Gode-
 rich to Algoma Mills Saturday last.
 Mr. Hicks wanted to ship by the Beaty
 Sabbath school teacher, and all others
 interested are requested to attend this
 meeting.

WORTHY GENTLEMAN.—The
 pages with pictures on nearly every page.
 Every picture is either original
 or being specially produced for this
 use, and there will be a great demand
 for it. It will be for sale at all book
 stores or can be had by sending 10c
 direct to Geo. Oakes, Toronto.

 lishers.

Thomas Robinson, of Kingston, a veteran Orangeman, and who figured as Grand Marshal in Montreal at Hackett's
 funeral, died suddenly yesterday morning of apoplexy. He was a widower, a case in court, and while being cross-examined he dropped down. The recent loss of his wife proved a great strain on him, and rendered him unfit to stand any excitement. He was a leading water in the Customs.

INSPECTOR OF ANATOMY. Mr. J. C.
 Stevenson has been appointed by the Ontario Government to the position of Inspector of Anatomy for the town of Goderich and the townships of Goderich, Hullett, Tuckeramth and Stanley. This appointment is made under the statute entitled "An Act respecting the study of anatomy." To this inspector must be reported the finding of the body of any person in the territory named who has died without relatives or friends, or that remains unclaimed by any person entitled to the same. The inspector takes possession of such body, and deals with it as directed by the Act.

WEST HURON TEACHERS' SEMI-ANNUAL
 INSTITUTE.—The teachers of West Huron will hold their semi-annual institute meeting at Exeter next week,
 on Thursday and Friday, June 9th and 10th, beginning at 9 o'clock a. m. Wm.
 Houston, M.A., parliamentary librarian,
 has been appointed by the department to act as director, and will deliver a lecture on Thursday evening on "Educational Maxims," to commence at 8 o'clock. Choice music may be expected. By regulation all the teachers of the division are expected to be present.
 Trustees and others interested in education are cordially invited.

ROYAL ARCADEM.—At the regular meeting of Goderich Council, 998, held on Tuesday evening last at the Oddfellow's hall, two candidates were initiated, and a large amount of general business done. The receipts by the Supreme Council during the months of January, February and March of this year were $586,805, and the amount paid out during the same time for death claims was upwards of $450,000. There are now 1039 councils in the United States and Canada, with a membership of over 75,000. Persons desirous of joining the Arcadem can obtain particulars from R. Radcliffe or Wm Campbell, secretary.

HYMENAL.—Tuesday last a quiet wedding took place at the residence of D. Gordon, St. Patrick St., the occasion being the marriage of his daughter Anne M. and Rev. G. F. Salton, pastor of the Victoria St. church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E.
 Gell, of Seaford and G. R. Turk, of Gode-
 rich. After the service the company—chiefly close personal friends of the bride and bridegroom, sat down to a wedding breakfast. The bride was the recipient of a large number of costly presents. The happy couple left on the noon train for the East, whence they will take the Dominion line steamer Vancouver for Europe. They will be absent two months. THE SIGNAL'S editorial slipper follows them.

A LEGAL POINT.—At Osgoode hall,
 Toronto, last Friday, an important point
 was raised in regard to the Scott Act.
 On motion for certiorari to bring up a conviction under the Act, it was contended that the Scott Act is repealed, and is not in force in any county in Ontario,
 for the following reason:—The Statute which repealed the Scott Act, and the Statute which has been issued in a new form
 under the name of the Revised Statutes of Canada, and by their old statutes
 consolidated therein have been repealed
 and re-enacted in revised form, but it is claimed that the Scott Act once repealed
 will not be re-enacted in revised form,
 of the people, and having been repealed
 is not in force until it has been again voted upon. The point will be argued fully on the return of the certiorari.

g by Miss Weston. The were brought to a close by the Wagon, by a male (bard) and a chorus of fifty. The receipts were about over $500—cleared.

D TRIBUTE.—The London is:—Some of the fruit shipped States are wide awake and foreign markets for know that some of those largely last year and who at with Mr. A. McD. Allan, re anxious to make an en him to handle their fruits on the Continent, and interest in these countries. However, that Mr. Allan duced to accept such an e his services for this line to Canada to be lost to it (indeed, from his experience year, added to his former the subject and his position ut of the Fruit Growers, is felt that he will see it, to continue to work for the trade cannot afford to lose lone so much to advance of horticulture generally, has justly earned, at the British press, the high title Fruit King.

The entertainment which the Sabbath school intends to have, will be a lawn social. It will be held on Geo. Rutledge's lawn on the evening of June 17th. The young people are sparing no pains to make it a success. What the Ebenezer folk take hold of they generally make go through, and no doubt, this one will be no exception.

Sheppardton.

Arthur Horton is erecting a commodious bank barn on his farm, Commercial Road. John Stuart, stonemason, is building the foundation and John McAuley is doing the framework.

A REAL ESTATE CONVEYANCE.—The Kincardine surveyor was in our midst during the week, locating the line between the farms of Messrs. Foley and Yeollner, according to his survey Mr Foley will lose several acres, and Mr Zeollner will have them added to his portion. Said piece of land has long been disputed territory, and there will probably be an appeal, and redistribution before the matter is built.

JUBILEE FEAST.—The young people of this place recognizing the fact that Tuesday was Her Majesty's Birthday, decided to celebrate it after the manner of small country places, by holding a picnic. Although the weather was somewhat unfavorable, a goodly number of the young people assembled in Robert Sturdy's grove, and spent a most enjoyable afternoon, swinging, quitting, &c. When tired picnicking, the crowd repaired to the Orange hall, where preparations had been made to hold a jubilee ball, John McAuley, violinist, discoursed the sweetest of music, while the light-footed, merry hearted youth glided through the mazy evolutions of the dance till long past the 'twining hour of night. Although the crowd was large the best of order and good feeling prevailed. All went merry as a marriage bell, and when all was over, everybody present agreed that they had spent a good time, and wished many happy years to the gracious lady, whose birthday they had the honor of celebrating.

Two-sided Question.
 Louis... the complaint made of incompetent servants. Less is said about the... of young women who... the position of mistress with... knowledge of its requirements than the newly imported servant of... Such women might not to expect... They do not deserve it, and their ignorance makes them incapable of giving the instruction that makes good servants.

The writer... the following conversation between two young women... of whom was soon to be married.

"I do not dread sleeping house," she said. "Too much rather board, but Frank would keep house. But do you know I never made even a loaf of bread in my life."

"Nor I," said her companion, in a tone indicating that she thought there was merit in the admission.

"Once I tried to make a sponge-cake, and it was an awful fizzle," said the bride to be.

"But you'll keep a servant, of course?"

"Mercy, you! I hardly know the first thing about housekeeping. Somehow or other, mamma always attended to things at home."

"When I marry," said the young woman, not yet enjoying the faculty of being "engaged," "I shall have it all ready underlined that I am not responsible for affairs in the kitchen."

"There is a friend just how ignorant from what to do, and says I am so ignorant I can't even make a loaf of bread."

"I don't know," she said, "but I shall just depend on my servant. I'll dread it, for you know it is immediate and ignorant servants are."

"Somebody might have been said about the ignorance and mediocrity of young mistresses, and about long-suffering husbands, and divorces that come from the angry words and bitterness caused by incompetent housekeeping; but they are women who are not sensible enough to know bread and serious view of this very serious matter—Yvonne's Companion.

Serious Burns.
 When a serious burn occurs, the clothes must be removed as soon as the fire is extinguished. The patient's consideration should be to get the clothes off, without pinning, as the least grazing brings the skin too. The injured part should be thoroughly cleansed with water, and the clothes cut away. If any part of the garment sticks, let it remain. Dip sticks in a thick solution of common baking soda water, and place over the burnt surface, binding tightly so as to keep them in place. As soon as a dry spot appears on this dressing, wet it again by spraying with soda and water over it. As the saturating will exclude the air there will be no smarting. A rubber sheet, a piece of oil cloth, a gossamer cloak, or any water-proof article can be spread on the bed with a blanket over it to receive the exudate. Should the feet be cold heat must be applied to them, and a little stimulant given if the pulse is weak. It is well to have the bed covering warm and light. A doctor should be called without much delay. A burn is serious in proportion to the amount of surface involved. A deep burn is not as dangerous as a superficial one twice the size. In severe burns, pain is an encouraging sign; it shows there is still vitality left. Stools may be treated in much the same way. Sweet oil may be poured over the surface and covered with flour. Anything that excludes air will relieve pain. Patients suffering from such accidents should have concentrated, nourishing food—and as much as they can take with ease. In order to do the necessary repairing, nature must have plenty of material with which to accomplish its work. Physicians should prescribe opiates.

For Parents.
 There is a lesson for parents in the following story:—A pretty story about a German family discloses the secret of a happy home, where joy abounded, though there are many "good and clothe."

A teacher once lived in Saratoga who had hard work to support his family. His chief joy in life, however, was in his nine children, though he was in a tight task to support them all.

His brain would have been, and his heart sunk had he not trusted in his heavenly Father, when he thought of the number of jackets, stockings and dresses in the course of a year, and the quantities of bread and butter they would eat.

His house, too, was very small quarters for the many beds and cribs, to say nothing of the room required for the noise and fun which the merry nine made. But the father and mother managed very well, and the house was a pattern of neatness and order.

One day there came a guest to the house. As they sat at dinner, the stranger looking at the hungry children, said, compassionately, "Poor man, what a cross you have to bear!"

"If a cross to bear?" asked the father, wondering; what do you mean?"

"Nine children and seven boys at that?" replied the stranger, adding bitterly, "I have but two, and each of them is a nail in my coffin."

"Mine are not," said the teacher, with prompt decision.

"How does that happen?" asked the guest.

"Because I have taught them the noble art of obedience. Isn't that so, children?"

"Yes," cried the children. "And you obey me willingly, like the two girls I laughed roughly, but the seven youngsters shouted."

"Yes, dear father, truly."

Then the father turned to the guest and said: "Sir, if death were to come in at the door, waiting to take one of my children, I would say—and here he hurried off his velvet cap and hurried it at the door: "Rascal, who cheated you into thinking that I had one too many?"

The stranger sighed; he saw that it was only disobedient children that make a father unhappy.

Fun and Fancy.
 A clergyman who was officiating at the funeral of a young girl, began this discourse with, "Oh! may the bereaved father find consolation for the death of his only daughter—and then happening to remember there was another daughter, the offspring of a second marriage, he added hastily—by his first wife."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron. Its control over scrofulous diseases is unequalled by any other medicine.

A father asked a lady what made him lie in bed so long. I am biased, said he, in hearing counsel every morning. Industry advises me to get up, cloth to be still; and so they give me twenty reasons for and against. It is my part to hear what is said on both sides; and by the time the cause is over dinner is ready.

Howick.
 SHOCKING FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Monday evening last a dreadful accident happened near the village of Gorrie, where, by a highly esteemed and well-to-do farmer named Gilpin met with his death. He, with a couple of others, were riding on a wagon from one of his farms to another; at one place one of the men jumped from the wagon, causing a board to fly up and start the horses, which ran away with Mr. Gilpin on the wagon doing his utmost to stop them. To keep himself from falling Mr. Gilpin appears to have thrown his arm around the front axle, and as his horses were plunging along, the tongue, which had come out of the neckyoke, caught in the ground, and threw the wheels over, pinning Gilpin between them and the ground. In this position he was dragged along for some distance before parties could reach the horses and stop them, when it was found that his head was almost ground to pieces. Life was extinct. He had been in business in St. Marys before coming to this part of the country, was a member of the Baptist church and held in the highest respect. He leaves a wife and eight children—having been twice married to mourn his melancholy death.

Household Hints.

COOKIES.—One cup of butter, one cup of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of soda, three eggs, flour enough to roll out thin.

GINGER CAKE.—Two cups of sugar and one cup of lard, scalded together; and one dessertspoonful of baking soda; when cool add flour enough to make a dough; ginger to taste; roll out and cut into shapes with cutter; bake in a medium oven; rub a little syrup over the tops before using.

TEA BISCUITS.—One quart flour, four teaspoonfuls baking powder, about the size of an egg of butter, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, and half cup of currants; grate little nutmeg; bake twenty minutes in a quick oven.

Sally Linn for Breakfast.—Four teaspoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one of lard, four eggs, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder; use half milk and half water, to thin batter, and bake in a quick oven.

HOW TO CLEAN DRESSES.—Get five cents' worth of soap-bark from the druggists (about a teaspoonful). For one dress, take half of it and steep in about one quart of boiling water for about half an hour or more, then strain with a cloth.

ORANGE PUDDING.—Peel and slice, removing the seeds, of four or five oranges; put them in layers in a pudding dish, with sugar between, and set aside. Boil in a saucepan one pint of milk, add one tablespoonful of corn starch, make smooth in a little milk, add the well-beaten yolks of two or three eggs in which a little sugar has been mixed. Stir until thick and sufficiently cooked, and pour hot over the fruit. Beat thoroughly the whites with half a cup of sugar, spread over the pudding, and brown lightly in the oven. To be eaten cold. The juice of the oranges forms sufficient sauce.

A QUICK DESSERT.—Grate the yellow rind from a sour orange, free the pulp from its seeds and white membrane; beat three eggs with a teaspoonful of sugar, add to the grated rind pulp the juice of the orange, put a tablespoonful of butter into a frying pan, and when hot, cook the mixture in the form of an omelette.

BAKED EGGS.—Break six or seven eggs into a buttered dish, taking care that each in whole and do not encroach upon the others as much as to mix or disturb the yolk; sprinkle with pepper and salt, and put a bit of butter on each. Put into the oven and bake until the whites are set. This is far superior to fried eggs, and very nice for breakfast served on toast or alone.

LEMON PIE.—One lemon, juice and rind grated, one cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs, one cup of water, one teaspoonful of corn starch; put all in a small tin pail. Stand the pail in a pot of boiling water, and boil thick; make a nice puff paste, line the plate and cook the paste alone; when done a very light brown pour in your mixture; put on the top the whites of the eggs beaten stiff with sugar.

FOR A SILK DRESS.—While the liquid is warm, take a piece of white flannel and dip into it at intervals, and rub the silk, or satin, with it until it seems cleansed. When done, pull the material straight and hang it to dry; do not iron either the silk or satin. If the dress is very much soiled, use clean liquor to rinse it; but do not use clear water for silk, or it will not stiffen up well.

For a woolen dress, dip the part to be cleansed, or the whole of it, if needed, into the liquor. This can be rinsed in the same, after washing, or in clear warm water. If very dirty put the dress to soak in a tub, in the liquor, with more water added, before cleaning or washing. The woolen goods should be pressed before they are quite dry.

Water in which potatoes have been boiled will cleanse delicate colored woolen or worsted goods. The dress will be wet all over. Use no soap. Rinse in clear, warm water. Press while still damp. This will not injure the most delicate colors.

The liquor in which soap bark has been steeped, when used cold, is excellent for washing blue lawns that are easily faded. It should be washed with more water than is used for woolens.

Backache, stitches in the side, inflammation and soreness of the bowels, are symptoms of a disordered state of the digestive and assimilative organs, which can be corrected by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. As dinner pills, and aids to digestion, they have been found to cure constipation.

Foul Feet in a Cow

Cows and horses are subject to a disease of the feet similar to scratches in horses. Diseased granulations, similar in appearance to the head of a cauliflower, break out and excrete a thin, acrid matter. The treatment should be to dress the diseased part with caustics, such as powdered sulphate of copper (blue vitriol) or sulphate of zinc (white vitriol), rubbed up smoothly, will clean sweet lard, and give the animal repeated doses of one ounce of potassium sulphate as an alterative. The salt should be given every other day for a week or ten days.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Bosch's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the suffering consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all druggists and dealers in the United States and Canada.

CAMPBELL'S TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Paleur, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The curative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Improvished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable. In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentina are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders.

Sold by all Dealers in Family Medicines. Price, $1 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.
