The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

OR
"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XXVI

Frank was speaking in a low earnest tone, slowly, as if he wished to impress upon his sister the importance of what he was saying, sadly with an intense sadness.

"I think I was almost unconscious as I staggered out of the house," he said, as Sidney entered the boudoir; "but the cold air and falling snow cooled my heated brain, I suppose; for it seemed as if I grew suddenly calm and composed. I could see my danger clearly. I knew that if my gun were found beside the unfortunate man who lay there dead, I should be suspected of being the cause of his death; perhaps convicted of his murder; and my first instinct was flight. As I rushed down the avenue I had no other thought. I did not pause to think who had done it; I did not wait in my cowardly selfishness to see if any help could be rendered; my one thought was to find safety for myself. As I rushed down the avenue a man passed me hurrying up to the house; then seemingly changing his direction, he turned and followed me. But I ran too swiftly; he did not come up with me, and I lost him in the snow."

"Go on, Frank!" urged Christie, in an eager, almost passionate whisper, as he paused, her hands gripping his still more tightly, as if her fingers had a grip of iron.

"He was wrapped in a great fur-lined coat, and his soft felt hat was pulled over his face; but I recognized him at once, and then—and then I knew all!"

"All?" the girl repeated, with breathless lips.

"Yes, all. Wait, Christie; it is too horrible. I cannot speak it; you could not hear it in this house."

There was a tone of agony in his broken voice which struck painfully on Sidney's ears as she stood still, spell-bound, immovable, her hands grasping the stilet portiere for support.

"It is too horrible!" he went on in a moment. "And yet to you I feel as if I must tell it—you, my sister, who, as years go by with my innocence unproved, may even think me guilty."

"Ah, who knows?" he added, with great bitterness. "My father believed in my guilt; why should not you, unless I can tell you who the guilty person was? But—but—it seems horrible believe in peace," she added, with a low wail of pain, "until your innocence is proved, until you are free from the stain which you have borne so long, until the murder is brought home to the man who committed it, until the murdered is proved to be—"

"Ah, no, no, no; for Heaven's sake do not say it—it is not true! Oh, great Heaven, it is not true!"

The voice was hoarse and broken and strained with anguish as it fell upon his ear. Frank started, and turned pale as death, and Christie turned her colorless face to where Sidney stood, her little hands outstretched, her slender form awaying to and fro as if she were about to fall.

"It is true!" Christie said, with a strange, awful calmness. "The murdered is Stephen Daunt!"

CHAPTER XXVII
"It is not true—it is not true! Frank have pity—take back those dreadful words! They are not true—there has been some terrible mistake—they are not true! They cannot be true, I tell you!" Sidney cried, with a strange heart-broken fierceness, as she glanced from one pale face to the other in dubious supplication. She had not drawn near to Christie and her brother, for in the attempt to do so her strength and failed her and she had fallen forward upon her knees, and knelt by the door still.

Looking at her, with intense pity in his sad eyes, Frank Greville thought he had never seen such an intensity of woe on any face before; and yet for many months his life had been passed amidst suffering and sorrow of various kinds. Her face had lost all its beauty in the dreadful change which had come over it in that horrible minute; it was gray in its pallor, and all light seemed to have died out of the miserable eyes which looked up at him with incredulous horror and misery. When she spoke, uttering her passionate entreaty for denial of what she had heard, her voice had been a low, sweet tone. She was crouching where she knelt like one in intense bodily anguish, who was suffering from a sudden and mortal wound. In her face there was a look as of one who had seen some awful crime committed; her white gasping mouth, the convulsive trembling of the fragile velvet-clad form, the stricken horror in the great wide eyes, were terrible to look upon.

Frank turned his face from her, and covered it with his hands. She dragged herself on her knees to his side, and lifted her little trembling hands to his arm.

"It is not true," she gasped—"it is not true! It is a dream, a horrible dream, a terrible, dreadful mistake! You were mistaken, were you not? Oh, Frank, look at me—let me meet your eyes! It is a hideous dream! Oh, think, oh, think—he is my husband, and I love him—I love him more dearly than life, than honor, than aught in this world holds! Tell me that you are mistaken, tell me that it is not true! Quick, for the love of Heaven, lest I die before I hear the words!"

Frank—the he had risen to her feet now, and stood with his hands resting heavily on his shoulders. "Is it possible, having seen me, you still cherish that hope—you still deceive yourself as to the future? Do you not see that I am dying—that the same hand which killed him has dealt me my death-blow? And I cannot—I cannot

From Rags to Silk

"ONE NIGHT IN ROME," DELIGHTS MAJESTIC PATRONS.

Miss Taylor has forsaken the rags she wore in "Peg O' My Heart" and "Happiness" and appears in her new picture in the beautiful gowns of a young Italian duchess. The story of her forced departure from Italy and of her later thrilling experiences in London where she adopts the guise of a fortune teller, of international intrigue—combines to make a swiftly moving mystery-romance.

In her newest production Miss Taylor is shown as a beautiful young Italian duchess. Following the mysterious death of her worthless husband, she is forced to flee Italy and she takes the guise of a fortune teller in London. The excitement of "one night in Rome," tense though it is, fades into insignificance when the story carries the characters to "one night in a castle near London."

An unusually strong-cast supports Miss Taylor in "One Night in Rome." Playing opposite the star is the gentle and popular leading man, Tom Moore, who appears in the role of a young English diplomat. Mr. Moore scored successes recently in "Manhandled" and "Big Brother."

J. Martley Manners is the author of "One Night in Rome," and he also made the screen adaptation. It is presented by Louis B. Mayer.

It will be repeated to-night, when another large audience is expected to witness an exceptionally strong feature.

SOUTH AFRICA CANCELS TIMBER ON ORDER IN AUSTRALIA.

The South African Government has cancelled orders which it had given for western Australian timber, the reason, therefore, being given as the interference by the Australian seamen's unions with South Africa's chartered steamers. This is a development of the unofficial strike of British seamen, which for the past two months has interfered with shipping at Australian, New Zealand and South African ports, but has now been called off at all Empire ports except London.

Flame in Water

Submerged in water, an oil flame invented by a Belgian scientist, Oscar Brunler, will burn for weeks without going out. It is claimed, and so avoid most of the heat loss of an ordinary boiler. A device similar to a carburetor blows a spray of crude oil mixed with air into the burner under pressure. Water is kept out of the burner until the flame is well started, then allowed to rise around the flame and cover it.

In all boiler work this is avoided by bringing the flame of the fuel into the closest possible contact with the water. The Belgian inventor is said to have obtained almost perfect efficiency by putting the flame directly in the water.

Escaped German Criminal Lunatic

RE-ARRESTED AFTER 7 YEARS' FREEDOM.

BERLIN—An extraordinary story of murder, "magic," and imposture, going back a quarter of a century, will be told in the Baltic courts shortly, when a man named Joncke is tried on a charge of escaping from a criminal asylum.

In March 1900, the body of a girl named Louise Berger was discovered hidden in some bushes near Potsdam. Her murderer, the man Joncke, who had induced her to believe in his occult powers, made her swallow strychnine, telling her that it was a magic potion that would make her "rich and beautiful."

Joncke, who was adjudged insane, escaped from the asylum seven years ago, and has now been found by the police in Nuremberg, where he was known and respected by all the villagers as "Count de Waldes, one of the new poor." He worked as a manual laborer, and a tattoo mark on the arm, displayed in the course of his work, betrayed him to the police.

After his escape Joncke travelled about the continent, imposing on wealthy

Bride of Sixteen and a Mutiny

DUBLIN—An echo of the mutiny of the Connaught Rangers in India was heard at Castlebar when the wife of James J. Devers was charged with bigamy. She was alleged to have married a returned American after her husband had been sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment for his part in the mutiny.

The woman, Mary Devers, who is now only 22, said that she was a mere child of 16 when she married Devers at Eunserone in March, 1919, and after supporting her for three months her husband went to India and left her destitute in Ballina.

The husband said that he rejoined the British Army on July 7, 1919, and was sent to India, and his wife drew separation pay. For taking part in the Connaught Rangers' mutiny he was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment, and when he was released after serving two years and four months, he returned to Ballina, and found that his wife had left.

He then joined the Free State Army, and was later discharged as medically unfit. While he was in the Free State Army he was visited by his wife, and she denied the story that she had married again, but he had since ascertained that she had gone through a form of marriage with a returned American, named John Walsh, and was living with him.

Accused, who said that Walsh would go bail for her, was remanded to Sileog Gaol until the next district court.

Metal cloth is used for the collars, cuffs or pockets of little velvet over-bouse suits.

Like a Politician's Speech

Professor Alfred Tenyson DeLury, M.A., LL.D., dean of the faculty of arts and head of the mathematics department at the University of Toronto, is well known for his ready wit and unflinching humor. During a lecture to a class of undergraduates a rather lengthy expression occurred which was found after some time to equal zero. To find this result had required the greater part of an hour.

"So you see," said Professor DeLury, "the expression, like a politician's speech, is nothing more than an expensive way of saying zero."

The ultimatum, while giving 24 hours of issuance of orders, allows sixty hours for assurance that they have been carried out by both parties. AT THE FAIR

C. D. SLEATER.

At this booth is shown the machines used in the manufacture of eyeglasses. In fact it is a well appointed workshop where all who are interested may see for themselves how a pair of spectacles are made. Hundreds of people have availed of the opportunity, and watched with interest the various processes of grinding, polishing and mounting lenses. Glasses that will correct almost any defect of vision are made, and many different kinds are shown, amongst them the Kryptok glass, which absorbs injurious rays.

G. BROWNING & SON, LTD.

Sixty years ago the firm of G. Browning & Son, Ltd., was in its infancy. From small beginnings with constant endeavor to produce the highest quality at lowest prices the business grew by leaps and bounds, and to-day it is one of the most prosperous of our local industries. Thirty-five varieties of biscuits are exhibited in neatly arranged fixtures. No. 1 hard bread in bags, halves and quarters are also shown. The recently introduced "Crabbi" soda cracker is featured. Only by the use of the best grade raw materials handled in a scientific and sanitary manner is the production of such high class products made possible. The goods exhibited are from stock carried to supply the market.

ARCHIBALDS.

Archibald Bros., Ltd., Harbor Grace, have a very attractive showing of a few lines of ladies' low cut shoes. They are all in the latest style with the new colors—golden tan and rusby tan. Also they show a very pretty shoe in patent leather with reptile edging and buckle. The buckle, which is on quite a number of the shoes, conceals the stray button and is removable if so desired. The shoes are the latest word in style, and can be bought in the stores at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6.50. They are handled by Baird's, Royal Stores, Ayre & Sons, Steer Bros., Knowling's and Smallwood's. Messrs. Archibald may justly feel proud of their display. Their ambition is to have their shoes worn by every woman who desires to look dresy, and invite comparison with an imported shoe to demonstrate its better value of the home product.

MRS. CHANCEY.

Much favorable comment has been bestowed on the exhibition of fruit, flowers and novelties shown at this booth. The articles are all made of colored papers. The different leaves, buds, flowers and fruits imitate the natural as closely as the nature of the materials of which they are made will permit. The display is skillfully ar-

They urge that all purchasers insist on being shown Archibald's products. Including boots this firm manufactures over one hundred styles of ladies' footwear. Messrs. Archibald hope to develop an export trade, and at present are making connections with a sales agent to place some of the lines in the London market. Two interesting pamphlets in connection with the shoe industry are distributed at the booth.

DODGE BROS.

Messrs. Lester and Elton, agents for the Dodge motor car, have on exhibition a handsome 5 passenger special touring car selling at $1700. They also display literature in connection with Graham Bros. Trucks, for which they are agents. It may be interesting to know that 22 Dodge cars were sold in this city last year. Dodge Bros. firm changed hands recently for 146 million dollars. Fifty million dollars was paid for the good will of the firm. The purchaser is the well known financier, Dillon Reid. The cheque for 146 million dollars was sent by aeroplane from New York to Detroit, and by this method of transportation over $8,000 in interest was saved.

CHARLES HUTTON.

Mr. Hutton's booth is especially a musical one. The Williams piano player is the center of attraction. It is so constructed that the smallest child may operate it. It has also a transposing device by which a singer is able to have his or her song played in any key that may be required, a great convenience. The Emerson Piano which has stood the test for over forty years. Mr. Hutton says "Pianos may come and pianos may go, but the Emerson goes on forever." The Brunswick Gramophone with all wood Tone Amplifier and altona playing all records without changing attachments or needles. The Godrich and Dominion Organs are very cheap in design, both new and slightly used at prices to suit everybody. There is an assortment of small musical merchandise such as Gramophones, Mandolins, Violins, Guitars, Ukaleles, Banjos, Drums, Cornets, etc. The whole booth is most artistically decorated, reminding one of a well furnished musical studio.

F. G. A. BOOTH.

The Feldians Grounds Ass'n., which is planning to turn the Tannery grounds into an athletic stadium, are finding a ready sale for their tickets giving to the winners a free trip to New York, Halifax or Corner Brook or as an alternative prizes running from $1000 to $25.00. Already the ground has been purchased as well as an eyegore for years. Arrangements have been made for its removal and the laying out of playing fields, and a cinder track with a 1/4 mile circumference. It is believed that this will be turned into one of the beauty spots of the city eventually.

S.S. Geraldine Mary

HAS "STICKLESTAD" IN TOW.

The following message was received by Messrs. A. Harvey & Co., Ltd., last night from the captain of the S.S. Geraldine Mary:

"Connected with Sticklestad at 4 p.m. October 26th, now heading for St. John's, about 700 miles off. Will report progress later."

The Sticklestad, it will be remembered, was reported with her tall shaft broken, on October 5th and sent out an S.O.S. Later the Reindeer I. came down from Halifax to render assistance but a continuation of gales and the distance of the disabled vessel from the coast made it impossible for her to effect a rescue. The Geraldine Mary left Botwood on October 20th with a load of paper and seven passengers and reported on Friday that she was proceeding to the assistance of the Sticklestad.

It can easily be imagined what discomfort must have been experienced on board the disabled vessel during the storms that have prevailed since she met with the accident.

Shipping

S.S. Elven, reported yesterday in a disabled condition in mid-Atlantic, was abandoned at 11 a.m. and the crew of 32 rescued by the American merchant ship American Trader, according to a message received by Superintendent Collins, of the Marconi Co. The Elven is a Norwegian ship, and was bound from Rotterdam to Sydney.

INTER COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL.

Collegians Defeat St. Bon's.

Conditions for playing football were far from desirable yesterday afternoon as there was a very high wind blowing which made it almost impossible to control the ball, but despite this the Collegians and St. Bon's teams played the third game of the second round and victory went to the former by a score of 3 goals to 2, getting their win in the dying moments of a most exciting game. Both teams were changed somewhat from their last appearance.

First Period.

Referee Phelan called the players together at 4 o'clock, with St. Bon's defending the western goal, and having the advantage of the wind. Within a short time an effort to score was made by St. Bon's, but was unsuccessful. The Collegians resolving to take all the advantage possible, pressed hard, but the wind was so high that it was difficult to accurately judge a shot on the goal and many times they went wide. St. Bon's then staged an attack on the M.C. goal, and in the right wing which safely landed in the twines. Upon resumption of play St. Bon's again came down field in massed formation but the Collegians had set up a solid defence and frustrated all attacks. To the great surprise of many the Collegians made a successful getaway to the western end where Johnson made a pretty dash towards the goal area, the ball was passed to Barbour who availed of a good opening and scored the equalizer. St. Bon's put more vim into their play and many were the narrow escapes on M.C. goal. Time after time the ball hovered round the eastern goal, but luck always appeared to be against them. Success came, however, about six minutes before the close of the period when a corner kick was secured. Graham, for St. Bon's, placed the ball nicely across to the goal mouth and in a scrimmage which followed No. 2 went up for St. Bon's. The half-time whistle then sounded, with St. Bon's leading by 2 goals to 1.

Second Half.

When the teams changed ends the hopes of the Collegians' supporters were raised to a high pitch, as they realised that with the wind in their favor their team had a big advantage. The players also realized this and decided to avail of an opportunity to score as soon as possible. The St. Bon's, however, were not laying down on the job and were determined to at least hold what they had. A regular storm of attacks were made by the M.C. forwards from the outset, which all went for naught. The play was changed to the western end by St. Bon's, but they found it difficult to control the ball against the wind. The Collegians then confined the ball to St. Bon's territory for some minutes, when a corner was secured. Johnson took the kick and placed the ball into the goal mouth, and in the scrimmage, the ball found its way into the net, much to the rejoicing of the M.C. supporters. The score now tied, both teams played hard for the advantage, but the Collegians with the wind in their favor had matters practically all their own way. Time after time they stormed the St. Bon's citadel, but the ball was prevented from going through by good defence play. On one or two occasions St. Bon's managed to set the ball up field, but not far enough to get within shooting distance of goal. Time was now fast drawing to a close and there was every appearance that the game would end in a draw. However the hopes of the M.C. supporters were better realized just before the close, when Puddister scored the third and winning goal for his team from a corner kick. In the dying moments of the game there was much excitement, with St. Bon's making frantic efforts to get the ball west. The full-time whistle then sounded leaving the Collegians victors by 3 goals to 2.

Yesterday's game was the last of the second round, and the Collegians, by their win yesterday, are now perched at the top of the League table.

PRESENTATION OF CUP & MEDALS

To Junior League Champions.

A meeting of the Nfld. Junior Football League takes place in the T.A. Club rooms to-night, when the Higgins-Hunt Trophy, and gold medals, won by the T.A. football team, champions for 1925, will be presented. The T.A. Athletic Association have arranged for a concert to be followed by a dance in honor of the occasion. An enjoyable evening is anticipated.

GOLFER SPURNS GOLD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—21-year old Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, has again turned down an offer beyond $10,000 for a series of golf articles, because he feels that to lend himself to authorship would make him a "pro" morally if not in the legal way of golf-dom.

Jones, in addition to that $10,000, could make $50,000 between now and next summer by becoming a professional. But he is insistent that the prospect of making a million would not cause him to divert from his pathway of amateurism. The Atlanta recently rejected a similar offer of $10,000.

RENAULT BESTS WARD.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—Jack Ward, (197-1-2) extended Jack Renault, (204-1-4), Canadian heavyweight champion, to the limit, before the latter got the decision in a 10-round bout at the Mount Royal Arena last night. Renault floored Ward in the first round, but from the beginning of the second round to the finish Ward fought carefully, and at times returned punch for punch with his opponent. He evened things in the second round by knocking the champion down with a blow to the solar plexus.

In the fifth round Renault floored Ward for the second time, but the colored fighter quickly recovered and was exchanging blows with the champion when the round ended. The sixth found Ward more than holding his own and he landed several lefts to Renault's face and chin that forced the title holder to break ground. In the other rounds, however, the champion held the advantage over Ward.

MASCART LOSES AGAIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Twelve sensational rounds were fought here by Edouard Mascart, the French featherweight champion, and Lew Hurley, aggressive New York boxer, the latter earning the decision of the judges by a strong finish in the final three rounds.

The pair slugged toe to toe without a let up in the first four rounds, then slackened their pace until the tenth, when the American swept Mascart to defeat with a furious rally.

STREBLING WINS BY K.O.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Oct. 22.—William (Young) Strabling, to-night, knocked out Tommy McFadden of New York, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the State Fair Grounds.

"Unguarded Women" Has Strong Plot and Cast

Headed by Screen Favorites Richard Dix and Bebe Daniels.

If we were asked to sum up in one sentence our impression of "Unguarded Women," the Alan Crosland Paramount production that opened at the Nickel Theatre last night, we would say that "It glows with the divine spark of life." It has that intangible something that grips the heart and stirs the imagination because its appeal is to the fundamental emotions of mankind.

All the headlights of the dramatic story, which Lucy Stone Ferrill wrote and which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post under the title "Face," are emphasized in the screenplay.

Our sympathy is enlisted right from the start when we realize the mental agony of the hero whose conscience will not let him forget that it was cowardice at the critical moment during the Great War that caused the death of his best friend. We appreciate his feelings when he meets his comrade's widow and sees her waiting for her womanhood and ruining her reputation because she lacks the steady influence of an honorable man. We want to cheer and applaud his efforts to save her even at the cost of his own happiness. And then comes the smashing climax—the final thrill that sends us home smiling and contented.

Richard Dix, as the hero, imparts a naturalness and sincerity to his role that is bound to add thousands to the countless other thousands of his admirers; Bebe Daniels gives a vivid portrayal of the reckless widow; and Mary Astor plays her part of the loyal fiancée with all the winsomeness of her appealing personality.

Wake Up St. John's!

If there are any who do not find food for thought in the following clipping taken from a Canadian journal, it can only be because they have no desire to consider such matters from a local standpoint, or because their doubts are traitors, and make them lose the good they oft might win by fearing to attempt. It reads:—

SYDNEY.—Delighted with the increase in tourist traffic this summer brought about by the provincial advertising campaign of last winter, Sydney and Cape Breton people are preparing for renewed efforts to double the influx of visitors in 1926.

In spite of hard times and the need for civic economy, Sydney has taken the lead by spending $80,000 in needed city paving this summer, and has just now voted another $80,000 to pave all approaches connecting the city streets with the surrounding system of excellent provincial highways.

The above indicates emphatically what can be accomplished to effect civic improvements provided there is the will to achieve and confidence that the effort required will be justified by results.

Sydney is a town with a population of 22,545, and during the past year no less than four miles of streets have been paved. In St. John's, a city of 36,444, according to the last Census, one mile of paving has been laid in the last quarter century. Sydney is a town with a population fully alive to its possibilities and convinced that they can be exploited; the city of St. John's is the capital of a Colony, numerically larger, far more important commercially than its nearest neighbour, and by no means secondary in respect of its natural resources, but a prey to inaction. Here we are obsessed with the idea that such and such an improvement cannot be effected, while the prevailing spirit even in the little backwoods towns of the Dominion and the United States is that it can and must.

What is the matter with us as a body of citizens? Are we the victims of politicians, who withhold from the city a full measure of civic government, fearing that it might exercise too great an influence upon matters in general? If such is the case, it is quite time the city awoke to the fact that it comprises one seventh of the people of the Island, and discarding its spineless attitude, insisted upon its fair share of the revenue and its right to administer it.

The trouble, however, seems more deep rooted than that, and shows itself in the doubts expressed in certain quarters whenever a new movement is mooted. This coterie of blue raincoats can foresee nothing but failure in any attempt to make St. John's a tourist centre, while everywhere else the traffic is proving a source of wealth. They are full of foreboding regarding an up to date hotel; they decry the neglected state of the roads, and denounce the expenditure of money to improve them; they have been loud in their protests because the port was lacking in up to date docking facilities, and now that enterprise has been shown and this drawback will soon be removed, they are equally loud in prophesying that it will be a white elephant.

People of such limited vision are to be found elsewhere also, and have tried to impede progress in many ways. They resisted the introduction of machinery to take the place of hand labour; they ridiculed the idea of communicating by cable across the Atlantic; every advance in medical science was to them fraught with danger, and the application of scientific knowledge to the various fields of industry spelt disaster, but whereas they have been regarded as cranks in other countries, here their opinions have been allowed to exercise too much influence over the minds of the public. It is quite time that the community decided to turn a deaf ear to these individuals, to cast aside its fears, and to show greater confidence in the opportunities which the city offers for development in every direction.

We should have less confidence in the awakening of a public spirit were it not for the fact that in other respects the members of the community are so keenly alive to keeping up with the times. In business circles there is enterprise, in educational matters there are signs of a great awakening, and in church affairs, as a people we give second place to none in the interest we take and the support we give to every movement which makes for their advancement. Let us show the same solicitude for our city, and in a short time the effect will be remarkable and a never-ending source of gratification.

Schr. Utowana Total Wreck Near Tilt Cove

"On Every-body's Tongue"

Life Savers are certainly on everybody's tongue these days. Wherever you go, you will find people munching the delicious Life Savers. At the Nickel, in the street car, at the Fair, at Bridge Parties, dances, motoring, walking, after smoking, after eating, Life Savers are just right for all occasions when a sweet is required. Children love them; grown-ups love them, everybody loves Life Savers. To-night at the Fair complimentary samples of Life Savers will be given out to all visitors to the Life Saver Booth.—Oct 27, 11

PEPYS-BEHIND THE SCENES

Oct. 26th.—The greatest ado in the Club this day about the business of the town rates, being that most do think the increase mighty unfair and would protest against it. The Avalon Telephone Company writes to the Telegram sheet and among other things do intimate that they will ask the Legislature to permit them to still further increase their rates, which says Povey, is a thing beyond all reason.

anon abroad, and meeting with Stories, he talks of the Municipal Election and is willing to wager me that there will be even more candidates this year than in the last election. He mighty indignant about the whole thing, being that he says 'tis only the coming election that makes the Council active in the matter of collecting Poll Tax and he now finds he must pay for 3 years at once or be haled to the Petty Court.

My wife reads the Telegram sheet this day with more eagerness than ever before and I did think 'twas my journal that did interest at last, having a foretime called it the worst trash she did ever read. But Lord, I do find 'tis an article on Bridge that she reads, albeit should she read every book that was ever writ on the subject she would never play the game better.

A strange tale this day of a lady who did have the ticket that won second prize in the Halifax Marathon Sweep, and leaving her house to claim the $1,000 prize, the wind takes it from her hand and blows it away, nor can she find it again. Never, indeed, have I heard of such ill-luck following so soon on good fortune.

A 40 year old laborer convicted of being drunk and breaking a pane of glass in the boiler house at the Railway Station was fined $2 or in default 7 days' imprisonment.

Ellerdale Released

The s.s. Ellerdale, placed under arrest at the instance of the Government Railway Commission, for salvage settlement, was released yesterday upon a guarantee being furnished to pay assessments made by the Marine Court or award by arbitration up to $75,000. The Ellerdale, it will be remembered, was picked up by the s.s. Prospero and beached at St. Anthony. Repairs to the ship have since been made by divers brought from Quebec by the wrecking tug Lord Strathcona, and on Friday, as she was about to sail for Halifax to go into dock, she was held for salvage claim.

Fish Laden Schooner Ashore at Sandy Point

The schooner Gondola with 2000 qts. of dry codfish went ashore last night at Sandy Point Harbor, according to a message received by the Deputy Minister of Customs from the sub-collector. The message reads: "Schr. Gondola of St. John's bound to Halifax from Harrington with a cargo of 2,000 qts. of dry fish went ashore in the harbor last night. Vessel leaking badly."

Schooner Selman Creaser Battered by the Storm

The schooner Selman Creaser, M. Cluett, master, has arrived at St. Jacques in a leaky condition and otherwise battered by the storm. The vessel was on the passage from Sydney with a cargo of coal. According to a report sent by the sub-collector at St. Jacques the vessel had her jib carried away, and also lost a deckload of coal. The captain said the storm was the worst in his experience.

Obituary

"Until the Day Dawn." The funeral of the late Mrs. Hudson, widow of the late Mr. Geo. C. Hudson, took place Sunday afternoon and was largely attended, interment being at the General Protestant Cemetery. The death struck suddenly, she having been in the best of health, and more severe, as she had been ailing only a few days. Mrs. Hudson had reached the advanced age of seventy-nine. Being possessed of a kindly and unselfish disposition she endeared herself to those who had the privilege of her friendship. In the sick room and in the homes of the poor, where she so often helped by words of encouragement and practical assistance to bring sunshine into the lives of others, she will be greatly missed. In her devotion to her church and her years of unselfish service in the W. M. Society she was an example to many, and we feel that her pleasant smile will be greatly missed by her co-workers in that circle. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. B. McKie and Mrs. G. W. R. Hierlihy in the city, and one son in the United States, to all of whom we tender our sincere sympathy.

Lost Prize Winning Ticket

The winning ticket of the second prize in the Halifax Marathon Sweepstake has been lost. The owner of the ticket, who called at the Telegram Office to-day to insert an ad. feels sure that if the ticket has been picked up, it will be returned.

Hethpool Arrives

S.S. Hethpool, 49 hours from Halifax, arrived in port at 11 a.m., bringing a general cargo, including a number of butchers' cattle. The following passengers came by the ship: L. W. Dinmock, P. Kirwan, H. P. Lesem, R. Gushue.

Supports Guardian

Dear Sir,—This is to place myself on record, as in full accord with the Guardian's letter of yesterday, re the Telephone Question. Is there any way in which subscribers could send their names, and approval to Guardian. It would cost only a stamp to let him know how many are behind him. They could say in their letter exactly what action they were prepared to take.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

GREECE AND BULGARIA RECEIVE THEIR ORDERS.

VIENNA, Oct. 27.—Advices from Sofia say the Greeks are extending their fronts, occupying Novorok, and among other towns bombarding Novohovo. They have received reinforcements from Salonika. According to reports Bulgaria is reported to have concentrated her forces at Melnik, about fifty-five miles northwest of Salonika. At the three delegates from two countries were being handed ultimata from the League of Nations Council in Paris, allowing 24 hours for the two countries to order a cessation of hostilities and sixty hours for the order to be executed.

N.S. VESSELS IN DIFFICULTIES.

HALIFAX, Oct. 27.—In Sunday's storm, the three-masted schooner E. P. Theriault was carried high on the beach at Melgash, where she was to be put on the marine dock. Re-launching will be necessary to save the craft. The schooner Pacifica from Pictou for Charlottetown, with coal, anchored Sunday night inside the Bar at this port, but broke her mooring in the night and stranded. Hopes are held out for the salvage of the vessel and cargo.

Schooner Nancy Lee Lost at Sea

According to messages received, last night the schr. Nancy Lee, owned by the Horwood Lumber Company, has been lost at sea. The vessel left Horse Islands, Labrador, Oct. 23rd, with a cargo fish for Seville. As no word to the contrary was contained in this message it is presumed they are safe. The Nancy Lee, commanded by Capt. Wiltshire, was built for the Horwood Lumber Co. at Campbellton, N.D.B. in 1920. She is a three mast vessel of about 150 tons, length 115 feet, beam 23 feet.

Smugglers Fined

A message from Burin sent by Inspector J. H. Dee to the Deputy Minister of Customs, states that John Maher, Thos. Martin and Michael Hickey of Flatrock were each fined $200 for smuggling. The boat has been confiscated. The smugglers were captured on Sunday at Lawn Islands. On board their motor boat was 120 gallons of rum and 9 cases of other liquors. They have been gone from Flatrock for more than a week and much anxiety was felt for their safety during storms that since prevailed as their boat is not substantial.

Obituary

MRS. PATRICK COLFORD.

(H. P. SHORTIS).

A cable was received yesterday from North Sydney announcing the sudden death of Mrs. Patrick Colford, (nee Grace Kennedy), wife of Mr. Patrick Colford, steel pipe-fitter at the pier, fortified by all the rites of Holy Church. Mrs. Colford was in her fortieth year at the time of her demise.

The deceased lady was the youngest daughter of the late Capt. John Kennedy of Carbonear, one of our most successful and enterprising planters at Sloop Cove on Labrador, and for many years presented the sealfishery in his own vessel, the Jane Almslie and other sailing vessels. He also commanded the S.S. Vanguard.

The deceased was a type of a true christian lady. To a cheerful and deeply religious disposition she added the practice of thrift. She was in good health up to the time of her death, which was due to heart failure. She possessed high principle, gentleness and warmth of disposition, and charity and benevolence to all were the outstanding traits. As a wife and mother she was all that the finest attributes of these terms imply. Sprung from such a good old Irish stock she could be nothing else. Her loyalty to her religious faith, her devotion to her family were traits long to be remembered by her many friends who mourn her loss. Left to mourn their sad loss are husband and six young children; three sisters, Mrs. Dunn of Harbor Grace; Mrs. Butt and Mrs. W. Russell of St. John's; also three brothers, Capt. W. J. Kennedy of St. John's, Stanley and Nicholas of Carbonear. The funeral was held from the family residence to Holy Redeemer Church, where Requiem Mass was celebrated. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.—Request in pace.

Labrador Fish

It is estimated that there are about 35,000 quintals of Labrador fish yet to come forward to St. John's from the north side of Bonavista Bay in schooners. The price in St. John's this week is keeping up to $5.00 and in a few instances $5.25 has been paid. This week fourteen schooners arrived from Bonavista and Trinity Bays with about 10,000 qts., which is being discharged generally at $5.20 per quintal. It is now thought that the price will not decline below $5 this fall, but a good deal depends on whether too much fish is shipped to the markets at one time.

The consumption is fairly good and though there have been some heavy shipments sent out from Labrador, it is expected that they will not congest any individual market as they have been well distributed. Italy, too, is beginning to take Labrador fish and several enquiries have been made for November shipments this week. On the whole the prospect looks much better for sales in all markets than it did at the beginning of this month, and if the situation is properly handled by the exporters here there should be no further decline in price. Our total catch is not much over one million of all kinds, and by the spring of the year dried fish will be a scarce article of food.—Trade Review.

The Telephone Contract

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—If any doubt existed as to the wisdom of my suggestion that the Government publish the Telephone Contract, it should cease after reading the letter from the Avalon Telephone Company in yesterday's Telegram. The contract should be published forthwith. Why this secrecy? The present Government surely have nothing to hide, as they are not responsible for the contract. The public, I feel sure, would prefer that the Government give us the whole document, and not that the Company let us have such extracts as they consider fit to publish. I will reserve any further comment on the demand for an increase in the rates until I have seen the contract.

Yours truly,
SUBSCRIBER.

"The First Year"
True to Life Play

The Initial Bill of Balfour Company in Casino.

The best comedy of our generation said Heywood Brown, the noted dramatic critic of the New York Tribune in tribute to John Golden's play "The First Year." During the two year run of "The First Year," second prize to that of "Lightning"—also produced by Golden, the New York public made this appraisal. Why? Because "The First Year" is life! The characters are people you know—living next door in your own family—perhaps they are even you, yourself. The things that do are the things you do. You will laugh practically to every line in the play; and there are some moments of heart-sweeping pathos that will make you, the same way they have made under the skin of hundreds of thousands of others who have witnessed the bill. But when you are laughing you will have nothing to be ashamed of, for "The First Year" is the greatest of all the great "comic-strip" plays which Mr. Golden has ever produced.

This is the initial bill of the Balfour Stock Company's engagement, the Casino, commencing Monday, Nov. 9th. The company also brings clear and refined vaudeville. A big show at popular prices.

Woman Suffrage

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Now that women have the vote we expect them to take the place on school boards. In St. John's if instead of all our School Boards being composed entirely of men, they are at present they were composed only of women we might expect to find boys as well as girls studying Domestic Economy. This is the most important subject any pupil could study and one on which the future welfare of the race depends, and in how many schools is it taught? A woman's place in the home was always told. We are only beginning to realize that when we have discovered what to eat we should have solved more than half our problems. Why the whole problem of environment and evolution is a question of variations in nutrition.

One scientist says: Mechanical hammers effect least. Subtler but much more potent are the influences which we group together as chemical. Abundant oxygen develops and stimulates the whole life, but the influence of food are the greatest of all. Another scientist has proved by experiments with animals and insects that good nutrition tends towards the production of female offspring while starved specimens are usually male. And Meisterlin tells how the bee takes an ordinary bee and by special food produce an insect twice the usual size—the queen. (NOTE—These experiments must now cease.—Ed.)

We must recognize that the influence of human environment is a biological fact of the greatest social moment. Indolent training, miserable social conditions (food, dwelling, occupation) produce weak, bloodless, nervous beings incapable of fulfilling the duties of life. Let us then speed the day to the Democracy Bernard Shaw hopes for—a Democracy which has nothing to do with Bolshevism or Red plots—the new Socialism, Domestic Economy. Yours truly, M.B.

What Women Can Accomplish

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—To-night the Women's Franchise League is holding a meeting in the Casino Theatre. The women have a great many friends now that they have the vote. The cry that women did not want the vote is like saying that people did not want electric light because they had never known anything but candles.

Before chloroform, trained Nurses hygiene and X-ray hospitals were very different from what they are today. Before the discovery of anaesthetics when an operation was necessary four or five men held the patient down whilst the wound was closed with tar. Sir Frederick Treves tells us in those days the same bowl of water and the same sponge were used to wash the sores of a whole ward of patients. Consequently most of these died of gangrene.

Who is there who would go back fifty years? We think ourselves enlightened, but fifty years on what will people think of us when they know that we have six hundred children crushed into a box for six hours a day and another thousand and more children roaming the streets of St. John's without any training whatever. That we have in Newfoundland 42,000 people who cannot read and write.

If the women will concentrate on only two reforms, public health and education, in a short time we shall see a wonderful improvement in this Island of ours. Thanking you for space, I remain.

Yours truly,
SUFFRAGETTE.

The Quest of the Evening Book

It was five o'clock of a Monday afternoon, as Harold Stubbs briskly walked down the street. At an interesting corner he met an old friend, "Harold," exclaimed his friend, "get a copy of the Evening Book. There's an article on page three that will interest you!"

Blithely Harold dashed to a news-stand and deposited two cents. "Give me a copy of the Evening Book!" "Here you are," answered the news-stand, handing him a paper.

"That is next Friday's paper," exclaimed Harold. "I want a copy of today's Monday-Blook!" "Quit yer kiddin'," said the boy. "Who ever heard of selling Monday's issue of The Blook on Monday? Why, today's issue of The Blook was published a week ago Saturday. I don't carry no stale papers," he added, with an arrogant air.

Into the offices of The Evening Blook dashed Harold. "Give me a copy of today's paper," he shouted. The man behind the desk regarded him with a queer air. "This ain't no antique shop," he replied. "What do you think we do—carry every old number of the paper since Noah was first paper stuff?"

"But I want to-day's Evening Blook," persisted Harold.

"There's only one thing to do," answered the newspaper man. "Look into dentists', doctors' and chiropractors' offices among the old magazines and newspapers. Tour through the rural sections and visit old farm-houses. Why, man, the issue we're just publishing comes out a month from Saturday."

But the strain had been too much for Harold. Chills and fever seized him and he hurried home. Chattering, he leaped into bed and called for heavy blankets. "Bring me the one that grandmother stowed away in the attic back in 1902," he yelled. The blanket was brought in, wrapped in sheets of old newspaper. As Harold unwrapped it a cry of surprise escaped his lips. On the floor lay the old yellowed sheets of paper and they carried to-day's date and were copies of the issue of The Evening Blook he had been seeking!—(Judge.)

Little Things Count

The story is told of a quick lunch man who nearly ruined his business by serving his coffee too hot. He opened up in a fine location and seemed to do a rushing business in the middle of the day. At the end of the week, however, he found he barely broke even. It took him quite a while to find out what the trouble was.

The noon lunch period was only of about two hours duration. The man operating the coffee urn served the drink so hot that practically each and every customer had to wait five or six minutes before he could drink it. This made each person take longer for his lunch than he would otherwise and as every seat was occupied, other patrons were kept out. When the trouble was found out and corrected, trade increased thirty-three per cent. and the business began to pay. This shows how little things count in business.—Financial Post.

America's Justice Delays

Russell T. Scott is the most striking illustration to date of the delays and uncertainties in the administration of justice. Brought to trial for the murder of Joseph Maurer, a clerk in a drug store, he first pleaded guilty, hoping thereby to move the court to leniency. He was

Message From Missing Woman

BARNSTABLE—"I have not the slightest doubt that she had been murdered, and after visiting the scene of her disappearance I have come to the conclusion that the body is buried in one of the fields at the top of Coxleigh Woods."

This is the declaration of Mr. Geo. Eschby, of Cardiff, a spiritualistic medium of 15 years' standing, in response to the strange case of Mrs. "Mary Harvey," the 51 year old Barnstable widow who has been missing since she went gathering blackberries with Mrs. Hart, a friend, in Coxleigh Woods, on September 11.

"I Was Buried."

Mr. Eschby, who has been spending a holiday at Barnstable, claims to have received two "spirit" messages from Mrs. Harvey.

"I got into communication with her in the beyond," he said to me, though being allowed by Mrs. Hart to hold in my hand for a few minutes the missing woman's pension book. I received the following message:

"After Mrs. Hart left me in the wood I went on with the picking of blackberries for nearly half an hour by myself, when a man came up to me and struck me on the head with a heavy stick. I became unconscious and my body was buried in the vicinity of the wood after darkness had set in. It was quite true you will not see me again alive on earth. I am sure Mrs. Hart never knew the man who attacked me."

"No Doubt."

Mr. Eschby said the message came very clearly to him, and that he had no slightest doubt about the correctness of it. "The fact that there have been so many hundreds searching for her all through the woods unsuccessfully goes to prove that her body had been done away with," he said. "I have not communicated with the police, as I did not like to do so until I got something more definite. Time alone will tell whether there is anything in these messages."

The police state that there is no evidence of a man having been in the vicinity of Coxleigh Woods on September 11.

Barnstable people, who have been searching for Mrs. Harvey by night and day for a fortnight, beating down the dense undergrowth of the extensive woods, dragging the river and exploring every pit, call on Mr. Eschby to produce a third "spirit" message that will indicate the exact spot where Mrs. Harvey's body may be found. Here, they say, is a test case for spiritualism.

Belgian Registers Novel Protest at Living Cost

BRUSSELS—A novel protest against the high cost of living has been adopted by a prominent Belgian, who walks barefooted through the streets of Brussels, otherwise dressed in the height of fashion.

He wears a monochle and white gloves, and carries a gold-mounted stick. He is generally followed along the boulevards by a curious but sympathetic crowd.

Walters in the fashionable cafes sometimes refuse to serve him, and then the crowd takes his part. He explains that the law does not insist on the wearing of footwear, and that no one ever stops him, protesting in this way against the high cost of everything. He hopes to persuade others to join in his campaign.

Crawl Stroke for Motorboats

The Austrian crawl principle that produces some of our fastest swimmers now has been applied to motorboats. A new propeller invented in Austria resembles a pair of double arms mounted on a horizontal shaft in the "hand" position as a screw propeller. These do not rotate, however, but oscillate, suggestive of the kick-stroke of the crawl.

The new propellers are said to save fuel, conserve power, and increase speed. They may be used also, it is claimed, on airplanes and dirigibles!

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

MAKE IT A GIFT A WEEK.

Have you got your Christmas shopping done yet?

Yes, I meant that to drop into your consciousness like a bomb. Christmas, you say, why on earth should anyone want to talk about Christmas now when one is busy with fall cleaning and fall wardrobe buying? Then you stop to reckon and find that the months aren't quite so many as you fondly thought.

As a matter of fact, I wish I had written this reminder two months ago. I really think that the ideal time for anyone to do Christmas shopping is in August.

Either then or in January or February.

Double Value.

I have a friend who does practically all of her shopping at those two times. They are the times of sales and also the times when the stores are the least crowded. She gets almost double value for both her time and her money.

"But don't you feel kind of out of it to have nothing to do when every one else is doing Christmas shopping?" someone asked her.

"Nothing to do!" she said, "don't worry. I do the bulk of my shopping through the year but there are plenty of last minute things to be done, the things I used to do in a horrible rush the last few days before Christmas and say I'd do next year."

A gift a month is also a wonderful slogan (or make it two a month if you have one of those atrociously long lists). A gift a month, bought, paid for and wrapped up. Lying in your cedar chest. Something to go and look at when the world is going wrong and you want to be cheered up.

What Does Christmas Mean?

Of course some people think any such forwardness absurd and out of the spirit of Christmas. One woman I know says she can't do her Christmas shopping then because she can't feel Christmas in August. Maybe not. But I should think one might feel just about as Christmasy, if by that one means full of the spirit of goodwill and jollity, in August as one does in the few last days before Christmas when one has left to much to be done and one feels hounded and driven by the things that have got to be done.

I wish that Christmas had never been thought of or oneself had never been born.

It's too late of course to do one's shopping in August or follow the gift a month rule. But a gift a week is still a possible slogan. Put it on your banner and the spirit of consideration and altruism will surely bless you with a happier Christmas.

Name of the Hotel

Dear Sir,—I have noticed certain proposals in regard to the name for the new hotel. As Newfoundland is a land of caribou, large numbers of tourists have and will again visit Newfoundland for the purpose of caribou shooting. Our stamps were designed from the caribou. Our stamps were designed from the caribou. The caribou stood for Newfoundland at the time of the great war, and our soldiers badge was designed from it. I am quite sure that it would please all Newfoundlanders if the new hotel would be called "The Caribou Hotel."

LILLIAN HARRISON TO ATTEMPT CHANNEL SWIM IN 1927, PARENTS SAY.

BOULONGE, Oct. 22.—Miss Lillian Harrison, the youthful Argentine swimmer will make her next try at the English Channel in 1927. Her parents made this announcement aboard the steamer Highland Loch, which is taking them to Buenos Ayres. Miss Harrison has already made several unsuccessful attempts to swim the Channel. The girl, who is now in a Swedish Institute in London, will pass the year in learning Swedish massage and acclimating herself to the European climate, so as to be able to make her next attempt under the best possible conditions.

Gold-Tipped Furs, Fashion

LONDON.—Women who wish to be in the latest fashion this winter must wear gold-tipped fur.

This amusing fashion has come to London via Paris. The fur is the common foxhine dyed to match the color of the frock it adorns. It may be in Egyptian red, jade green, or any other fashionable tinge. Then the fur is dipped in gold and the effect is rather like the gold dust sprayed on the branches of a Christmas tree.

Among the new furs used for the autumn coats, and, for that matter, for making them also, is gazelle skin, a pelt, the soft, velvet, smooth surface of which is particularly attractive.

Fads and Fashions

In some of the collections one sees printed designs on velvet.

There is great variety in fabrics and combination of fabrics.

The absolutely flat back has yielded to some elaboration.

Very gipsylike is the low, broad girde that swathe the hips.

Georgiose evening wraps of metal brocade are lined with velvet.

Jewel-like beaded dresses are a feature of every French house.

Brilliant jewel-like embroidery is significant of the evening mode.

The trimming and interest of cut is generally centered about the hips.

Women are choosing men's suitings for winter sports and street wear.

A huge collar of white fox is used on a very rich ensemble of black crepe.

There is a decided reaction against the severe lines of the boyish mode.

Both tails and chiffon are used for the more diphonous type of dance frock.

A sleeveless overblouse of dull gold is worn over a skirt of black velvet.

chans are less willing to-day to say that a patient has been cured of cancer than they were formerly. Recurrences from the growth of particles which have remained dormant for a very long time may occur. After five years, however, the chance of recurrence is relatively small. Consequently, physicians are coming to measure the success of the various methods of treatment which they employ in terms of the number of five-year cures which have been effected.

Not Contagious or Inheritable. With the increasing knowledge, opinion is becoming more and more securely settled that cancer is not due to a parasite. It would be a great step forward if the public would learn to accept this opinion, for the possession of it would dispel not a little of the fear with which cancer is regarded. It would also help to put an end to the promotion of some of the quackery, that greatest of all cruelties, as so many writers have declared.

If cancer is not due to a parasite, it follows that the disease is not transmissible from person to person. This is true of all diseases. It also follows that a serum cannot be prepared which will stop it. It should be generally recognized that cancer is not communicable, for a belief that it is infectious has not infrequently led to the shameful neglect of patients who have had need of the best care and attention which could be given to the sick. Persons need have no fear to live or work near one who has cancer.

As to the inheritability of cancer, the general opinion among qualified students of this question is that the disease itself is not inherited, but that a certain lack of resistance toward it may now and then exist in a family for two or three generations. Experiments which have been made in breeding large numbers of mice have led some persons to get the wrong idea that cancer or a predisposition toward it might exist in some families indefinitely. It is true that by carefully selecting mates through hundreds of generations, strains or families of mice have been produced which are more susceptible to certain forms of transplanted cancer than is commonly the case, but nothing like such a predisposition occurs among mice which are left to mate as they will. The great difficulty with which susceptible can be produced among the results are highly artificial. Apparently they have no analogy among human beings under the ordinary circumstances of every-day life. For practical purposes, it is reasonable to consider that cancer is not transmissible from parent to offspring among human beings.

The Prevention of Cancer.

Within the last few years it has been found that the inciting cause of cancer is in practically all instances some form of chronic irritation. At the site of the growth there has been for a considerable time a mechanical, chemical, bacterial or other irritating condition which has in some way so disturbed the natural resisting and repairing function of the tissues that they have at last given way and set out upon a career of unrestrained and unresistable growth. This theory has now been so thoroughly investigated as to be accepted universally as a fundamental and completely established fact. To prevent cancer therefore is to prevent the chronic irritations which lead to it. One should be aware of the broken tooth or dental plate which continually irritate the tongue, cheek or gums; of the spectacles which make the head sore behind the ear, on the temples or nose; or any sore which will not heal; of the mole or wart that changes in color, size or appearance; of indigestion which will not stop and cannot be explained; of any unusual discharge from any part of the body and of any lump which does not go away.

When any of these conditions occur, you should go at once to a capable doctor and do what he advises. At once means to-day. If the trouble is not cancer, your discomfort will thus be removed. If it is cancer, your promptness may save your life. In dealing with this disease delay is not merely dangerous; it is fatal.

Tragic End of Stunt Girl
PELL 300 FEET FROM PLANE.
NILES, Mich., Oct. 19.—Jumping from a speeding airplane after discharging her parachute, Miss Dagmar Stedman, 21 years old, fell 300 feet into Lake Sturgeon near here, during a stunt exhibition, and was injured fatally. She was unconscious when taken from the water by rescuers and died shortly afterwards at Niles hospital. More than 500 residents of the vicinity, who have watched Miss Stedman daily death each Sunday for the last five weeks, saw her take the final plunge. They realized as she hung without her parachute to the bottom of the plane, that something was amiss and stood silently at the rim of the lake awaiting the impending tragedy. A boat had been launched several minutes before she fell.

The Advancing Knowledge of Cancer.

What Everyone Should Know.

By GEO. A. SOPER, Managing Director American Society for the Control of Cancer.

The scientific knowledge which lies at the basis of a true conception of the causation, prevention and cure of cancer is being added to through such research institutions as the Institute of Cancer Research of Columbia University, the State Institute for the Study of Malignant Diseases at Buffalo, the Cancer Commission of Harvard University, the Imperial Cancer Research Fund of England, and hospital and research organizations such as the Curtis P. Huntington Memorial Hospital, Boston; the Memorial Hospital, the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, in New York City; the Bernard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital, St. Louis; the Albert Steiner Ward for Cancer and Allied Diseases, Atlanta; the George Chase Christian Hospital and Clinic, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; The American Oncologic Hospital, Philadelphia; The Pennsylvania Cancer Commission; The Middlesex Hospital in England, and others.

The total number of persons who are working constantly for the discovery of new facts which may be usefully employed in the control of cancer is large. Many of them are surgeons, other radiologists, and not a few are out-and-out research workers giving their whole time to this work. Unlike quacks who work secretly and do not take anyone into their confidence, these students of cancer are constantly discussing their findings with one another and publishing their findings where all workers in this field can see and profit by them.

Since 1907 there has been a well-established organization of scientists who are engaged in studying cancer, called The American Association for Cancer Research. The President is Dr. Channing G. Simmons, Surgeon of the Cancer Commission of Harvard University, and the Secretary is Dr. William H. Woodrow, of the Institute of Cancer Research, Columbia University, New York. This Association has a membership of 143. The papers which are presented at the annual meetings are eagerly awaited by students of the cancer problem in Europe and America. They are published in the Journal of Cancer Research.

What Everyone Should Know. Twelve years ago, the Society was established to carry on a campaign of education as a means of turning the existing knowledge of cancer to the fullest account. The founders knew that it would not be necessary to wait until a complete cure for cancer had been discovered before systematic help could be given to the 250,000 or more sufferers from this disease who existed in the United States and Canada.

The hopes of the organizers have been fully justified. During the dozen years of its existence, the American Society for the Control of Cancer, has given instructions by means of lectures, newspaper articles, radio talks, and other vehicles of publicity in all parts of the United States and in many of the Provinces of Canada, and it is estimated that not less than 50,000,000 people have thus obtained their first lesson in regard to this disease. It will, of course, be necessary to follow this up with further instruction. The public has received some knowledge of the early symptoms of cancer and has been told to go immediately to a competent physician upon the first appearance of the disease. About 25,000 volunteer workers are engaged in this educational work in the course of the year. The Society maintains national headquarters at 370 Seventh Avenue, New York City, where it is glad to answer inquiries on any and all aspects of the cancer problem.

How Cancers Start.

The new knowledge teaches that cancers always start in a small way. At first they are miniature cancers. They grow slowly and insidiously. Consequently, the person who is attacked by one may not become aware that anything is seriously the matter for a long time. A cancer of the skin, for example, may continue for several years without causing pain or other marked inconvenience.

Not only is a cancer small to begin with, but it appears to be a distinctly local disorder. Present day knowledge gives no reason to suppose that it is a constitutional or blood disease. On the contrary, the weight of evidence is opposed to that supposition. No general disease is in any respect like it. No disease necessarily precedes it or is related to it. It often attacks persons who appear to be in perfect health.

In its early stages the cancer does not affect the general health nor the patient's spirits, and this is particularly true if the patient does not know nor suspect that he has cancer. It is only after the cancer has progressed considerably that the general health is impaired.

While the cancer is small, it is completely removed by surgery or destroyed with X-rays or radium, or, in fact, by any other means, that is at the end of it. This could not be so if cancer were a disease which affected the whole body.

If, instead of being completely removed or destroyed, the original cancer were a disease which affected the whole body, it is permitted

"Guardian" Returns to the Telephone Charges

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I note by your issue of to-day in which you publish my letter re Telephone Rates that you also publish a statement from the Telephone Co. signed "R. J. Murphy, Managing Director." Mr. Murphy's letter answers my question as to whether or not the company has the right to increase its rates at will, and that answer is clearly that it has no such right. Therefore, the attempt of the company to increase its rates, as indicated in the circular sent to subscribers, is illegal and what is technically known as ultra vires, that is, beyond the power of the company. Before going further I would like to suggest to Mr. Murphy and his associates to give consideration to the question as to how far such an attempt to abate their franchise renders them liable to a forfeiture of their charter.

However, that is for the moment another matter, which will defer for the present. Mr. Murphy informs us that "the new regulations mean absolutely nothing to them" (i.e. the majority of subscribers) "and do not affect them in the slightest." I must take Mr. Murphy to task for this statement and point out to him that it is incorrect. The "new regulations," as he calls them, purport to increase the rates of subscriptions for telephones and assume that the Telephone Co., has a right to do so; and, as I have already pointed out, would indicate that the Company takes the position that it not only has the right to increase the rates now, but that a further increase or increase in rates may be made any time the Company desires to do so. I do not propose to discuss the rights or obligations of the Company towards delinquent subscribers, as I am not concerned with them. I belong to the class of subscribers who for thirty years have used a telephone and have always paid for it.

I can, however, sympathize with Mr. Murphy in the matter of additional cost to our various businesses caused by the necessity of "employing collectors to harry our debtors until their bills are paid." I have no doubt that there are quite a few business men in this town who have had similar experience but I have not heard of any who have increased their charges on that account.

Whilst I am not sufficiently informed of the technicalities of the telephone business to be able to state positively what is the ratio of expense to the number of telephones used, I must confess that Mr. Murphy's suggestion that "increased production increased unit cost" is one which will need some demonstration before I can swallow it. I can quite understand that "as the number of subscribers grows larger capital expenditures for plant equipment must be made" but it does not at all follow that the unit cost increases. According to all the rules of economics it seems to me that the result is quite the reverse, unless indeed extravagance and inefficiency prevail. I do not for a moment suggest that such conditions obtain in the affairs of the Avalon Telephone Company. On the contrary, I understand that the greatest economy is exercised in the payment of most of the Telephone staff and I think it only fair to conclude in other directions of outlay.

The whole situation as I view it emphasizes the necessity for a Public Utilities Board with full jurisdiction to deal with such matters. The Telephone Co. has its rights, which must be respected, and the public is in the same position. The action of the Telephone Co. in attempting to assert a right which their charter does not give them, makes me feel that the only way in which the public can be adequately protected from such a Corporation is by having them subjected to a strong intelligent and disinterested tribunal such as a Public Utilities Board would be, if properly selected.

I have again to ask my fellow telephone subscribers to wake up and cooperate with me in this matter. Mr. Murphy's letter, which, in addition to admitting the absence of right in his company to increase its rates indicates that a further increase in rates is not outside the contemplation of the Company, makes it all the more necessary that a firm stand should be taken now and that this imposition should be "nipped in the bud."

Yours very truly,
GUARDIAN,
St. John's, Oct. 26th, 1925.

The Originals"

Business Entertainers Return To St. John's Again In April.
P. Kiely, Manager of the Nickel Theatre, has just received news from the "Originals" Company, from Regina, Saskatchewan, where these brilliant entertainers have been smashing all theatrical records with their new "Thumbs Up." The following is an extract from the Regina Daily Post:

GROWTH AND JOYOUS "ORIGINALS" SHOW.

Soldier Troupe Exhibit Added Cleverness In Their Latest Offering.

As part of its quality as sheer entertainment, the outstanding feature of the Originals, in "Thumbs up," which commenced a three-day run at the Regina Theatre last night, is the cleverness of the stage management. Combined with this professional experience the former warriors have that enthusiasm and whole-hearted interest in their show usually displayed by experienced and first class entertainers.

From the opening chorus, which impresses members of the organization with the guile of the various mimes, right through to the delicious skit, "The Princess Just Married," on which the captain descends, the acts trip along smoothly and despite the fact that there is a set plot, continuity is preserved and the audience thrilled, amused, beguiled and dazzled in turn.

These persons must be one of the greatest and most feminine impersonators on the stage. Besides making use of all the artifices usually employed, he seems to assume the very personality of a charming lady, his serene voice carrying out the illusion completely. His wig, first green, then Auburn, now black and then fair, is particularly good.

Bob Anderson, the "low" comedian, the last word in drollery; and Jimmy Goode, black as the ace of spades, an admirable foil.

Out of the song and dance hits it is difficult to select one or two for praise. The standard set by the first act is maintained throughout. What attracted the crowded house most last night, was the glimpse of the line but "over there" behind the lines, with the drooping Gotha paying periodic visits, dropping bombs closer every time.

Stuart Callaghan, the other "lady," in the show, has a clever and within the artificial blackface, Jimmy Goode, that a well done with a splendid line of black chat.

"Oh, Be Yourself" is an attempt to show what would happen if social distinctions were removed and one were allowed to say, not the obvious well-meaning things, but just what one thinks. The result is uproarious. The chorus is well drilled, while the combination of male voices is balanced and effective. A precise orchestra, under the direction of Leonard Young, rounds off what the audience last night testified as a striking success.

The Originals made their first appearance in St. John's last spring, and everyone in this city remembers the marvelous performances offered by these world famous soldier entertainers. Their thousands of friends and admirers here will be delighted to know that Mr. Kiely has arranged to bring this excellent organization to the Nickel Theatre again in the spring. They are to appear here early in April, after the Lenten season is over, and will remain for two weeks. The Originals will commence a world tour next May, visiting first the British Isles, then South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and then back to Canada.

Is a New Ice Age Approaching?

Some 20,000 years ago, toward the close of the great Ice Age, Europe was a country of bleak, treeless plains, much like Siberia or northern Canada of today. Wandering, primitive men lived on herds of reindeer and wild fowls that roamed the plains. Towns, villages, and farms were unknown.

Will history repeat itself, with another Ice Age like the last one? Will the present European civilization vanish? The startling prediction that Europe is drifting nearer and nearer a new Ice Age was made recently before the South African Association for the Advancement of Science by General Jan Smuts, former Boer commander, British general during the World War, and later Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa. He placed the advent of the new ice at 10,000 years from now, although, he predicted, long before that time European life will have altered beyond recognition by people living in our day.

The climate of Africa, he added, also will become gradually cooler, moist, and rainy, with the result that the present stretches of wilderness will pass away. In all probability, he said, our present human races will have disappeared before this next phase, giving place to higher species.

You will be forever sorry if you do not accept the invitation to the Novelty Dance. Oct 28, 21

The Luby Vaudeville Trio

PROVE A SENSATION.

This talented combination which opened a short engagement at the popular Star last evening proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that they are high class entertainers of the finest type. They go through their work in a way that cannot but immediately win the hearts of any audience. Not one of the large gathering last evening was prepared for such an evening's entertainment. The opening number was in the hands of Mr. Luby, who sang "Old Pal of Mine," and the moment he began, a pin could have been heard to drop and the applause that greeted him at the close was deafening. For an encore he sang a Yodeling number which again won for him rounds of applause. Mr. Luby is, it was stated in this paper, a war veteran, and is valued to such an extent that he remains the use of his arms, but his loss in this respect is ably made up in his clear sweet voice.

Mr. McDonald, the pianist, in his monologues, brought down the house, whilst his playing won the admiration of all. His singing at the final with Mr. Luby, was likewise well received. In appearance Mr. McDonald looks in perfect physical condition, yet few of the audience at first realized he is a legless soldier.

Mr. O'Toole the strong man of the combination proved in his work to be one of exceptional ability in his class; his bridging and bending of steel bars being a revelation in this line, and this was shown by the big reception given him at the finish of each act. The performance is being repeated this evening, whilst for to-morrow night they will give a complete change of song and act.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

If you were dying to-night, how much money would you give to live a few hours longer? If you were going to have an operation, how much money would you pay to prevent the operation? If you knew your child was going to be operated on, how much would it be worth to you if you could prevent the operation. Would you pay the small sum of $10.00? Just as soon as you wake up to the fact that you don't know very much about taking care of your body and get some one to teach you, there will be less cutting and carving of the human body. You want to make a little effort and put something in life and then you can enjoy and take something out of life. Don't sit down in the corner and whine if you are not feeling well, don't sit down and wait for things to move over to you, get up and get what you want. I can see you a well developed, strong, healthy body for the small sum of $10.00. Are you ready to receive it? How long do you want to think it over? How much do you value $10.00? Which would be the better bank to put $10.00 in, a bank built out of wood or bricks, or your own body? Don't fool yourself by thinking you are strong enough. It is impossible to be well developed, strong and healthy, unless you exercise your muscles. Every muscle is fed by blood, when it is exercised. Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls, if you are interested in your future life and health, I can teach you how to wait for me, and please don't keep waiting from day to day. As soon as I go back to U.S.A., the same course will cost you $30.00. Am just making you a present of $20.00; would like to, but cannot stop in N.F. very long. Special notice to all pupils: I will be in St. John's Saturday and Monday, Oct. 24th and 26th, 1925.

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

Mr. Happy Sun on Saturday morn
Awoke Mrs. Cow with her crumpled horn.
By brightly shining into the shed
As she lay on her clean home-made straw bed.

"Dear me," she exclaimed, getting up on her feet. "I hope the Kind Farmer milks me early. So many little boys and girls are going to the picnic.
I wonder how many bottles of milk they will need." Just then in came the Kind Farmer, and sitting down on a three-legged stool, he soon filled the milkpail, for Mrs. Cow never moved, except now and then to whisk a fly from her flank with her long tail.

"Pretty soon, not so very long, past the barnyard hopped Little Jack Rabbit, his muskack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw."

"Where's my bunny boy going?" enquired Mrs. Westbrock, looking down from his perch on the Big Red Barn.
"It will be a beautiful day."
"I hope so," answered the little rabbit, "for I'm going on a picnic."

"A nesting party, you mean?" crowed
Cocky Doodle, flapping his wings.
"Maybe and perhaps," laughed the bunny boy. "Any way, I must be off, and away to my picnic, clipperty-clip, lumpy up to the wharf on the bank of the River Sipp. The Billygoat Berry-boat lay there waiting for all the little bunny-boys and rabbit girls from miles around. Yes, indeed, all the little girls from Lettuemere, Carrot
City, Turnip Town, Clover Dell, Bunnybridge and Rabbitville were there, with baskets of luncheon, on their arms and happy smiles on their faces."

"Here comes Little Jack Rabbit!"
shouted Cousin Cottontail waving her handkerchief as her five little cottontails clung to her skirts. The next minute the whistle went:
"Toot, toot, tooty tooty toot,"

Says Dole System Sapping Vitality of British Youth

MRS. BOOTH, WIFE OF HEAD OF SALVATION ARMY, SAYS GREAT HARM IN THE SYSTEM.

That the dole system is undermining the character of the young people of the British Isles was the opinion given by Mrs. Florence E. Booth, wife of the head of the Salvation Army, who arrived in Toronto from Winnipeg to-day.

"You mean that the dole system is sapping the vitality of the nation and making them lazy?" she was asked. "Yes, I do."

"It seems a pity that the government does not do something better for the boys who are just leaving school than to put them on the dole. Almost anything is better than idleness. Even to call them up and put them through a few hours' drill each day would be better than having them do nothing."

Mrs. Booth pointed out that in greater London, about 7,000 boys graduated from school each year. If these do not find employment they immediately go on the dole. The number graduating in the whole country was about 200,000 she said.

Refuse House Work.
Mrs. Booth added that she was also opposed to the granting of a dole to girls; giving as one cause for this opinion, the fact that, while domestic servants were very difficult to obtain in the old country there were 200,000 women drawing the dole. All of these were quite capable of entering domestic work but refused to do so.

"Again it would be far better if the government spent money on training homes where the young women could learn household work rather than spend their time in complete idleness. The difficulties of the dole are being realized by the Government and they are now tightening up in the distribution by rigid enquiries. Many people are ashamed to take the dole, but unfortunately the attitude of some is quite different. A friend of mine in London wanted a chauffeur. An applicant came for the position and was told the wages would be 35 shillings a week and a house. He refused to accept the offer stating that he "would not work for ten shillings a week." On the dole this man draws 25 shillings a week."

"Intermediate" Misnomer.
Mrs. Booth was pleased to note a decrease in the drinking of alcoholic beverages in England and was enthusiastic in her praise of the radio which was knitting many families together again and keeping the young people at home in the evenings when they might otherwise be out night after night.

As a police magistrate of some six years she was strongly opposed to the indeterminate sentence as used in the courts of the old land and Canada. "There is a strong taint of injustice in the indeterminate sentence. They seem to think placing a girl on an indeterminate sentence is saving her from prison when quite the reverse is the case. Indeterminate is a misnomer and the whole principle seems based on the mistaken notion that mere time is a corrective or healer. Why, sometimes indeterminate sentences are given first offenders which, as actual sentences, would never be given."

a criminal. I believe in punishment for the young but it should be short and sharp, then give them another chance.

Speaks Here Twice.

"You cannot substitute reform for punishment nor even mix the two. There was a time when dancing classes, lectures and all sorts of educative schemes were given in prisons. Why should we do more for those who have broken the laws of the country than for those who have held those laws inviolate? It is not right. Any amount of preventive work is better than work amongst the prisoners."

Mrs. Booth is in Canada to conduct two great Salvation Army congresses, the first of which has just concluded in Winnipeg and the second of which opens in Massey Hall to-night. She is accompanied by her daughter, Captain Dora Booth, who is paying her first visit to Canada and will be followed by her son, Brigadier Bernard Booth, who is planning to visit Western Canada shortly.

Forty-three years ago this month she married Bramwell Booth, son of the founder and present head of the Salvation Army. On the inauguration of the women's social work of the Army she was placed in charge of the modest beginning. She held that post until the death of the founder, when she assumed greater responsibilities. She has written books and hundreds of articles, been received in audience by monarchs and world rulers and is recognized as an authority on social problems of the day.

Her Toronto visit will be brief but will include an address on the "Salvation Army Problems of To-day," at Massey Hall, and "Women's Opportunities," under the auspices of the Toronto Local Council of Women in Convocation Hall Monday.—Toronto Daily Star, Oct. 17.
