ANOTHER LETTER FROM FRANCE

Corporal Mark A. Starratt Writ's His Sister, Mrs. Beatrice Messenger, at Mount Rose

Dear Sister:—I must get busy today, and write you a letter and let you know I am still alive and that I received your letter sometime ago, before I went on leave in fact. Did you get the cards and note I sent you from London? I certainly had a fine time over there and wish you could have been there too. I had never been there before so everything was new to me. It was pretty nice to get back to good old Blighty again, believe me. It was exactly 29 months from the day I left for France, that I landed in England again. Imagine my feelings if you can, but it's no use you trying either, for you cannot do it. I felt as if every one I met was my friend, and when I went to bed that night after a hot bath and a square meal I had not a care in the world. Well there are a thousand and one different places to see in London, and I managed to take in a few of them. Perhaps I'll have a chance again some day to see more of it.

I suppose people's tastes differ, but places like the Westminster Abbey did not interest me so much as the Zoological Gardens, though of course the Abbey is a wonderful place, but I suppose I did not fully appreciate the architectural beauty of the place. In that little book I sent you, you will see a picture of the Rose window, but you can get no idea of the beauty of the window from the picture. Many of the tombs of the different sovereigns, and other people famous in English history have been built up all round with sandbags: to protect them from bombs, I suppose. The colors of a lot of the Canadian regiments are in there too, hung on the tomb of General Wolfe. But the works of nature appeal more to me than the work of art and I spent more time out doors and on the river. Was up to the Zoo in Regents Park one day, and saw every kind of beast, bird, fish, insect and in fact everything that walks, crawls or flies I guess.

Madame Tussand's Waxwork exhibition is very interesting too. Everybody that was anybody in English history is there, or at least a very life like imitation of them. The tableaux mentioned in that catalogue I sent you are very good too, but after looking at the one representing the Execution of Mary Queen of Scots, I was almost ready to cry it looked so real and pathetic. There were some gruesome looking sights in the Chamber of Horrors, a very imaginative person would be likely to have had dreams after visiting it.

But the best of all was the day at Windsor Castle. Windsor is about an hour's ride from the city by train. We got out there about 11 o'clock, just as the guard was changing. The King was at the castle; so the guard mounting was quite an important ceremony. A guide took us in tow then and showed us all over the place except the Tower, which I would like to have got into. They say one can see over 13 counties from the top of it on a clear day. The state apartments were wonderful, beyond words. Our guide explained everything as we went along but by the time we got through our head was so full of a confused bunch of dates and facts that it was impossible to get them all straightened out.

Afterward came luncheon and I was wondering what on earth I was going to say if Princess Mary should speak to me which she eventually did, but it was only to ask me if I would have some more tea, and I managed to thank her though I suppose I blushed like a school boy. However, they were all very nice, and our numbers sort of gave us confidence so we came through with a flying colors. Princess Mary and Princess Alice were both there and several other ladies. Lady Minto was one of them and she talked quite a long time to us Canadians. She had been in nearly every part of Canada when Lord Minto was Governor General. Afterward we went up to the reception room when the King and Queen were to see us. We just marched slowly past them, and they stopped two or three of us, shook hands and talked to us for a few minutes and then it was all over. It was about 3 o'clock when we came out of there and we then went down to the river, got some boats and stayed until about five. We then went back to the city, had tea at a restaurant and afterward to the theatre so it was quite a day's outing.

Not the least of the joy of leave was the joy of getting some good things to eat. I had hardly expected that food would be as plentiful as it was, but I had no difficulty in getting all I wanted. Taking the war and everything into consideration, things did not cost so very much more than when I was there in 1916. Anyway, to sum it all up I sure had one dandy time, and I hope to have the opportunity again some time of visiting London. However, if the war keeps on progressing as favorably as in the past months or so, I might be visiting Canada by this time next year, and that would be a little better than London or Paris, wouldn't it? Things are coming our way pretty good now, so will hope for the best. Must close now, love to all.

Your loving brother,
MARK

W. H. Robinson, of Southampton, N. S., brings the welcome news that his health has considerably improved. However, it is still so unsatisfactory that for the present at least he is compelled to lay down the burden of pastoral work. He is moving to Paradise, N. S., where he has purchased a home. The Casualty Lists. An Ottawa despatch says: With the advent of peace, it will relieve the suspense of many people in Canada to know that the casualty lists, ten weeks behind, are tapering off to the end. There are numerous tragic cases where, since the celebration of peace, news has come of men previously killed in action. "We are not exactly certain, but our advices indicate that about five hundred more are to be called," said the acting director. Fire at Biltown A destructive fire occurred at Biltown, Kings county, N. S., early Friday morning, in which the general store and post office, with hall above, conducted by J. A. Dorman, was demolished, also the blacksmith shop adjoining. Stock was valued at $2,000. There was no insurance on the building or stock. The loss is a heavy one especially at this season of the year.

Important for Teachers and Trustees I have received many inquiries from teachers and trustees in regard to grant and salary during the period the school was closed by the Board of Health on account of influenza. For the benefit of all parties concerned, by the courtesy of the Editor I am giving full information below. Grant Provincial and Municipal, can be paid only for twenty days. Schools which were closed for more than four weeks can make up the time, in excess of twenty days, by teaching every other Saturday or by keeping the school open during the Xmas vacation. Salary must be paid the teachers for all time that the school was closed. Regulation 131 of school Manual, 1911, requires that the order of the Board of Health be attached to the return. Owing to the epidemic prevailing over the entire inspectorate I will not exact the written order as, in this case, it would only be a matter of form. The teacher must state in the oath the exact number of days the school was closed on account of the epidemic and enter these days in column 13 of the Semi Annual Return. The teacher must also enter these days in column 13 of the Annual Return in order to ensure the section getting the Municipal Aid for the days the school was closed. Do not write and ask questions about things fully answered here. M. C. FOSTER Inspector of Schools. Port Lorne Red Cross Society. The Red Cross Society of Port Lorne recently sent two bags of Spagnum Moss to Pier No. 2, Halifax. This Society collected twelve dollars in their monthly drive, which will be spent in hospital work. SPECIALIST SAID HE MUST OPERATE

She Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Instead. And Is Now in Perfect Health.

Mrs. F. GAREAU. 153 Papineau Ave., Montreal. "For three years, I suffered great pain in the lower part of my body, with swelling or bloating. I saw a specialist, who carefully examined me and gave me several tonics to take, which did not help me. Then he told me I must undergo an operation. This, I refused to permit. I heard about 'Fruit-a-tives' and the wonderful results it was giving because this medicine is made from fruit juices, so decided to try it. The first box gave great relief, and I continued the treatment, taking six boxes more. Now, my health is excellent—I am free of pain and swelling—and I give 'Fruit-a-tives' my warmest thanks."

A STRONG C.P.R. TEAM

FOR the rigorous programme which Lord Shaughnessy recently adopted as planned by the Canadian Pacific for the period after the war, the Board of Directors have selected to assist Mr. E. W. Beatty, the new President, a team of Vice-Presidents well known for their driving force and executive ability, and particularly strong in the operating department. Grant Hall, who is Vice-President with jurisdiction over all lines, has been aptly described as a "big man physically with a heart as big as his body." "Grant," as he is known by the rank and file of the railway, is a favorite with everyone from the trackwalker up. He is a disciplinarian, but is a just disciplinarian, and is a matter of common knowledge that no matter in what position he may have occupied, since he rose from the ranks in the old Grand Trunk shops, and showed his ability in the old C. P. R. shops at Hochelaga, he has always made it a point to investigate any complaint made to him by a man under his control.

Grant Hall, Vice-President with jurisdiction over all lines.

A. D. MacTier, Vice-President of Eastern Lines. D. C. Coleman, Vice-President of Western Lines.

Westerners will tell of the time when he was in charge at Revelstoke some dozen years ago, and when he worked night and day for a week in the mountains to lift one of the worst snow blockades in the history of the transcontinental railway. It is a matter of record on the Revelstoke division that "Grant" could get more work out of a body of men than any other half dozen men, and it is largely because he knows how to take off his own coat (if they do such things in snow blockades) and do his own share of the work.

Grant Hall was born at Montreal, November 27th 1883, and was educated at Bishop's College and School, Lennoxville, Quebec. He joined the C. P. R. in 1887 as locomotive foreman and from 1893 to 1898 was general locomotive foreman on the Intercolonial Railway at Moncton, New Brunswick. In September, 1898, he returned to the Canadian Pacific Railway, where he was consecutively general foreman, first at the Winnipeg shops; master mechanic of the British Columbia division; superintendent of motive power; general foreman and car department; western lines; from November, 1911 to December, 1914, assistant general manager, western lines; when he was appointed Vice-President and General Manager, Eastern Lines. Mr. MacTier is very popular with the men on the road, whose interests he has always made his first concern. He has always insisted on giving proper credit for meritorious service. This is the first time that a special Vice-President has been appointed to look after Eastern Lines, and it is a tribute to Mr. MacTier's special ability that he should have been chosen by the Directors to fill it.

Famous Pass over the Rockies

WHEN Sir George Simpson, in 1841 made his overland journey round the world, in the interests of the Hudson's Bay Company, no region impressed him with its sublimity and wild grandeur more than the ridge of the Rockies between the prairies and the Upper Columbia Valley. The pass by which he crossed this ridge still bears his name and is used by a few of the more adventurous tourists, but still more by Alpine climbers with ambitions to scale Mount Assiniboine, a pyramidal monarch of nearly 12,000 feet high. The description of this pass across the Great Divide is contained in the journal written by Simpson. After crossing the Bow, following one of its tributaries which is evidently Healy Creek near Banff, he to the southeast of Mount Brett, he says: "We were surrounded by peaks and crags on whose summits lay perpetual snow; and the only sounds which disturbed the solitude were the crackling of prostrate branches under the tread of our horses, and the roaring of the stream as it leaped down its rocky course. "About seven hours of hard work brought us to the height of land, the same snow were between the eastern and western waters. We breakfasted on the level isthmus, which did not exceed fourteen paces in width. All our kettles for this one lonely meal of the Columbia and the Saskatchewan, while these willing feeders of two opposite oceans, murmuring over their beds of mossy stone, could hardly fall to attire our minds to the sublimity of the scene. "But between these kindred fountains, the common progeny of the same snow wreaths, there was this remarkable difference of temperature, that the source of the Columbia snowed 40° while that of the Saskatchewan raised the mercury to 53°."

the thermometer meanwhile striking as high as 71° in the shade. "From the vicinity of perpetual snow, we estimated the elevation of the height of land to be seven or eight thousand feet above the level of the sea, while the surrounding peaks appeared to rise nearly half that altitude above our heads. "In addition to the physical magnificence of the scene I here met an unexpected reminiscence of my own native hills in the slope of a plant, which appeared to me to be the very heather of the Highlands of Scotland. I carried away two specimens which, however, on a minute comparison I found to differ from the genuine staple of the brown heaths of the land o' cakes. "The Simpson Pass is now used chiefly by sportsmen, who find this a convenient way of reaching the wonderful hunting grounds of the Kootenay Valley from Banff, the chief outfitting point in the Canadian Pacific Rockies. The route is also being used by the more adventurous tourists who desire to go camping and fishing on a week or fortnight's trip instead of taking their vacation in a more leisurely way near the big hotels. One such party of tourists made the trip last July, finding the pass very much freer from snow than they had been led to believe from Sir George Simpson's description. Indeed, it was an Alpine meadow on which the horses found sweet and ample pasture. The panorama of the British Columbia mountains was particularly fine. A stone boundary mark signifies the line of the Great Divide between Alberta and British Columbia. Jim Brewster, the cowboy king of the Rockies, discovered a few years ago, the trunk of a tree on which Sir George Simpson's guide had left their mark. This section of the tree was cut out so as to preserve it from further decay and is now a treasured relic in the Brewster Museum.

The Canadian Angle

AN amusing skit on the effect of the new C. P. R. president's hat appears in the Chatham "News"—this effect being produced, doubtless, by the law of suggestion. The hat of Mr. Beatty is said to be tilted at a rakish angle; and the moment that this was found to be the case, the mimicry of that hat became a sacred duty on the part of the employees, according to the story. In the good old days of Baron Shaughnessy, says the writer, the brisk and businesslike boy who delivers our C. P. R. dispatches used to march into the office with his natty blue cap set square across his noble brow.

E. W. BEATTY, New C.P.R. President.

That cap was a fixture there. We got used to it. It seemed part of the established order of things. One could as easily imagine the boy pushing it to one side or the other, as one could imagine a breeze on the Nile upsetting the great Pyramid. One day last week we got a shock. Into our office tripped the youngster with his cap tilted rakishly over one ear.

"What's the matter, kid?" we enquired. "Getting the fur?" "Nope," and he brisped out again without troubling to explain. But we have just discovered the truth. Baron Shaughnessy used to wear his hat square-set across his forehead. But the new resident of the C. P. R.—its first Canadian-born president—Mr. E. W. Beatty, invariably carries his chapeau tilted at a rakish angle. There are whispers going down the line that sedate firemen and brakemen and conductors all over the 18,000 miles and more of the C. P. R. are giving their headgear a shove to the east. A commercial traveller through the West, who has escaped the flu, his system being then crowded with nicotine to give the germs even the slightest foothold, mentioned to us just this morning that he had seen bell-boys in the C. P. R. hotels out there with their caps entirely off their heads and hanging from their ears, like pagan ornaments. He saw that in more than one of the C. P. R. hotels; and what the effect may be if the new practice is prevalent throughout the eighteen C. P. R. caravansaries, it is impossible to gauge. Telegraph operators in the 15,000 offices of the C. P. R. Telegraphs have been widely affected by the new movement in hats. The workmen in the great Angus car shops at Montreal, and in the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg and Calgary, show, it is said, scarcely one piece of headgear that retains the old Shaughnessy

Send In Your Crop Estimate

We observe that the forms for the Nova Scotia Crop Report have been sent out to crop correspondents. The obtaining of accurate crop statistics is always a difficult undertaking, and if any of our readers have received one of these forms we would suggest that prompt and careful attention be paid to the same. Everyone should co-operate to the utmost in this highly important work.

Not a Winter Uniform

A band had been formed at a Western Normal School, and, as is frequent in such cases, there was not enough money at first for complete uniforms. However, the following notice in the school paper created quite a sensation: "The Normal School band uniforms will consist of cap and coat at first, with the probable addition of trousers at a later date."

Big Business In Coffins

The coffin and casket manufacturers of Canada are busy. It is reported that Christie Bros., of Amherst, were obliged recently to refuse a telegraphic rush order for 1,000 coffins. The company is kept busy at present with its local trade.

FLAVOR-FULL KING COLE ORANGE PEKOE TEA. Undoubtedly there are degrees of flavor. Take Fruit for instance—you select an orange, and eating it you find it to be flavory, certainly, but sharp—acid; choose another, a riper more matured fruit, and it is luscious, the flavor is mellowed and rounded—it is FLAVOR-FULL.

Make a little meat go a long way. Even a small quantity of meat goes far and becomes most nourishing and satisfying, if combined with BOVRIL.
