THIRD MAN OR TAFT IS STILL THE OUTLOOK

Decision Likely to Be Reached In Chicago Late Tonight

Roosevelt Has Bungled It All The Way Through, War Chest is Emptied and His Chances Have Taken a Decided Slump--A Lesson For Him in It As To The Future

(Registered in accordance with the copy-right act of Canada, unauthorized use either in whole or in part or otherwise, without the express written consent of the Times and Toronto Star.)

By H. F. Gadabey

Chicago, June 22--Some of the Taft managers, playing the good old political game of claiming everything until the claims go against you, say that Taft will be nominated on the first ballot. If this is so, why did they waste all year?

The fourth day of the convention was passed in stringing out the proceedings of the credentials committee. The object was to make time while they looked around for a third candidate who was good enough to win. What they want is a reasonable progressive who will let the bosses write the platform for him.

Third candidate or Taft, the nomination comes off today, probably late tonight. Chances are that the nomination will be a politician any longer, it is quite enough to be a prophet. Besides, the facts are behind him.

The delegates cannot be kept together beyond Saturday. Already some have given up their plans to alternate and others are being helped to pay board bills from a tide-over fund collected by their more prosperous associates.

ROOSEVELT BUT GREASE SPOT UNDER ROLLER

Meanwhile the Taft steam roller, shifted to the credentials committee, runs merrily over the grease spot that was once Theodore Roosevelt. It runs over it again and again, making a sure job of it. So far as the national reputation committee is concerned, the Taft machine is going to rub Taft clean out. Every one in a while the roller is stopped and Roosevelt is the remains of a bunch of Roosevelt contented delegates are exhibited to the convention.

Subsequently the colonel missed two psychological moments for a stampede. His followers either lost heart or became impatient to be released from their pledge to vote for him to the bitter end. His colonel, who had always banked on the sure and firm old earth for good footing.

The first thing he told the Chicago reporters when he arrived in town was that he was feeling like a bull moose. As a bull moose he has been considerably deteriorated since then and is feeling sore and savage, but not sore and savage enough to neglect his future. The Rough Rider, as he was called before, is a careful politician, his chances are deliberately calculated. He does not change windmills. So when he made his vaudeville announcement on Thursday night he was heedful to surround it with qualifications. He said he would lead a third party if the people wanted a third party and wanted him to lead it.

At the same time he does not break finally from the republican party. He is loath to leave it because he would like to have its weight and its members behind him. What he says to the republican party is an awful lot of good. Meanwhile, Teddy knows how it feels to be a persecuted hero. First his generals, like Horna, Haskley Stubbs and Demos, tell him they have gone far enough, and that hereafter they are going to nurse their own chances.

As for the doctrine of passive resistance, it goes by the board--the Roosevelt delegates do not sit silent in the convention. They vote on every roll call and get tired every time. Every skirmish loses them a few stragglers. They are afraid to bolt because if they do the rules prevent the national committee to put another delegate in their place. In short the famous Roosevelt resolution is served up at every turn. It is no reflection on the colonel's leaders that he can not get them to do good in anything. The good that should come to Colonel Roosevelt out of this set back is chastened pride and a just estimate of his own value to the people of the United States.

CHARGE AGAINST A LEADER IN SOCIETY

Trafficking in Badges Which Admit to Royal Enclosure at Ascot

London, June 22--A sensation has been caused in society circles in connection with a remarkable application made to the courts for an injunction to prevent a woman, whose name is not disclosed, from trafficking in the badges that admit to the royal enclosure at Ascot. The handling of badges is under the management of Viscount Churchill, of Wyckwood, the fee or grant resting in the king.

MORE INTEREST IN POLITICS

Politics attract increasing attention and the air is full of whispers of intrigues and cabals on home rule and Welsh disestablishment. One section of the Unionists is willing to compromise the dispute over home rule, the Lords opposing the bill this year, thus accepting the inevitable and making Irish self-government a national rather than a partisan gift. This, however, is exceedingly unlikely. The Unionist opposition generally is hardening day by day as the bill approaches the end of the committee stage.

Society is concerned over attacks now being made on charity balls and entertainments. The Hundred Years Ball has brought the criticism to a head. This ball cost fully £80,000 and yielded £5,000 for charity. The organization of charity entertainments has become a regular business, very profitable to the organizers, but yielding often little to the societies patronized.

WILL HAY FEVER BE NEXT "INCURABLE" DISEASE TO BE CURED?

Wonderful Results Obtained by Using Tablets Made From Fresh Fruit Juices—Lady In Cornwall Centre Tried Them

Genuine Case of Severe Hay Fever Completely Eradicated From The System By "Fruit-a-tives," The Famous Fruit Medicine

"I suffer tortures every year with Hay Fever—please tell me frankly if "Fruit-a-tives" will do me any good." You are saying this to yourself as you read this article. First of all, read the facts about this distressing trouble. Hay Fever is not a nervous affliction. There is probably no actual disease of the nerves. But the nerves—and in fact the whole system—is affected by the condition of the blood. The nerves are intensely irritated by impure blood, due to defective action of the bowels, kidneys and skin. In fully ninety per cent of the cases of Hay Fever, there is chronic Constipation, Weak Stomach, Indigestion and hot, dry skin. The great truth of this is shown by the fact that sprays, gargles and other local treatment do not cure. They cannot. The trouble does not lie in the nose and throat, but in the stomach, bowels, kidneys and skin. This is why "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Kemp of Hay Fever.

Corwall Centre, Ont., November 27th, 1911. I was a martyr to Hay Fever for a long time—probably fifteen years, and I suffered terribly at times. I consulted many physicians and took their treatment—and I tried every remedy I heard of as good for Hay Fever. But nothing did me any good. Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and this remedy cured me completely. I am now well, and I wish to say to every sufferer from Hay Fever—"Try Fruit-a-tives." This fruit medicine cured me when every treatment failed and I believe it is a perfect cure for this dreadful disease.

MRS. HENRY KEMP. Impure blood causes the itching eyes, sore throat, irritated nose that we know as Hay Fever. As this is true, the sensible thing to do is to purify the blood by taking "Fruit-a-tives." Mrs. Kemp took "Fruit-a-tives" and is cured. Why not let "Fruit-a-tives" regulate your bowels, kidneys and skin? Why not let "Fruit-a-tives" give you health, and strength and appetite? Why not let "Fruit-a-tives" so build up the system that you won't have Hay Fever this summer? "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices. It is particularly suited to the use of women because it is pleasant to take and acts mildly and gently. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. Dealers in all parts of Canada sell "Fruit-a-tives." But if you are unable to obtain them in your neighborhood, they will be sent you postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A Modern Miracle By RUTH CAMERON

INTO a certain home there came some months ago a little woman of uncertain years and not particularly prepossessing appearance. She was an elderly cousin of the father of the family. Her husband and all her children had died leaving her "the last leaf upon the tree," and as she was practically penniless, this man felt his duty to offer her a home. She had had a rather narrow life in a small country town; she had never travelled much; she had worked hard all her days at that familiar woman's task of trying to make "two hundred dollars do the work of nine." Furthermore, she was a plain little woman, had quiet manners and wore the simplest of clothes. Naturally, the city family who received her, although they made up their minds to be kind and good to her, did not expect to find her any acquisition to their family circle. That was five months ago. And this is what has happened. She has become the intellectual centre of that family. The father talks politics with her, while his wife listens, feeling almost like an outsider. They talk back to her, she weighs the issues of the day, of which he, a man, actually is forced to admit that he has a better grasp than he is credited with. The son, who is a college senior, finds her not only an interested but an intelligent listener when he talks about the new discoveries in the science of chemistry, in which he is "majoring." The daughter, who is reading Tennyson in high school, is surprised to find that "annie" can tell her more about the great poet than the teacher herself. That was five months ago. And this is what has happened. She has become the intellectual centre of that family. The father talks politics with her, while his wife listens, feeling almost like an outsider. LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY Historic Place Where King and Queen Party—The Ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico

Greenland, where King George and Queen Mary are to attend a luncheon party as the guests of the Hon. William F. T. Smith, Lady Estlin, and the late Duke of Clarence, elder brother of King George, while Mrs. de Fuhr also played an important role in overcoming the many obstacles in the way of the marriage of the late Duke of Fife and the Princess Royal. King Albert of Belgium has declined to accept the guardianship of his aunt, the ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico, and the trusteeship of her great fortune which, since the time when she became insane, in 1867, was administered by her brother, King Leopold, until his death. During those forty years she has been under restraint in one chateau or another in Belgium for the last decade in that of Bouchoir, near Brussels. The administration of her fortune was a source of intense bitterness between Leopold and the Imperial House of Austria, the ill-fated Charlotte having become an Austrian archduchess by her marriage to Maximilian, brother of the emperor. Leopold, despite the fact that much of Charlotte's money was derived from Austrian sources, declined to give any accounting, or to permit anyone but himself to have a voice in the control of the estate. King Albert has, however, changed all this, and after consulting with the Austrian emperor and securing his consent, has appointed as administrator Prince Ernest de Ligne, who will keep Emperor Francis Joseph fully informed of all matters connected with the management of ex-Empress Charlotte's fortune, as also of the treatment which she receives. Prince Ernest is the only brother and heir to the head of the house, who is tenth Prince de Ligne of the Holy Roman Empire, French Prince d'Amblise et d'Alpinoy, and a Spanish Grandee of the First Class. The de Lignes do not belong to the mediocrity of Europe, yet it is to them that King Albert is indebted for his crown, the Belgian crown having been tendered by his Belgian people to the prince's great grandfather, the eighth Prince de Ligne, in 1830, after their successful war for separation from the Kingdom of Holland. It was on his suggestion that it was thereupon offered to Queen Victoria's uncle, Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg, France agreeing to the selection on the understanding that Leopold, widower of Princess Charlotte of Wales, should marry Princess Louise of France, one of the daughters of King Louis Philippe. The then Prince de Ligne was moved in the matter by purely patriotic considerations, realizing that the independence of Belgium would be safer if thus guaranteed by a king allied to Great Britain and France, than by one who had no such connection.

Daily Hints For the Cook

FANCY SANDWICH. For date and nut sandwiches, take one cup of dates, one cup of English walnut meats, one half cup of cream, Franklin entire wheat bread. Wash the dates and remove the inside white lining. Chop them very fine and add the walnut meats chopped very fine. Mix to a paste with the cream, and spread between thin slices of buttered Franklin entire wheat bread. Remove the crusts and cut into fancy shapes. MEXICAN SALAD. Chop the meat of a dozen English walnuts fine. Spread well washed and drained lettuce leaves round a salad bowl and over these in the bottom of the bowl arrange two bananas peeled and cut in thin slices. Mix the chopped walnuts with mayonnaise dressing and spread over the bananas and mix together. Mix flour with two tablespoons of cold milk and add to the boiling milk. Cook ten minutes. Mash celery in the water in which it has been cooked and stir into the boiling milk. Add latter and seasoning of salt and pepper to taste. Strain and serve. The flavor is improved by adding a cup of whipped cream just before serving.

A GLANCE AT SITUATION IN IRELAND

Belfast Business Man Talks of The Agitation Against Home Rule FIGHT TALK NONSENSE Hope to Have Good Share in Representation in the New Parliament - Attitude of The Presbyterian Farmers is Set Forth

(Times' Special Correspondence) Dublin, June 21.-"Will Ulster fight?" is a question which is being asked by many sincere friends of Ireland and the answer to it depends on the politics of its giver. There are a lot of eminent politicians in the North of Ireland who are declaring loudly that "Ulster," by which they mean Belfast, Derry and Ulster country lying between them, will fight in the event of the passage of the home rule bill by parliament, and they back their assertion by terrible tales of drilling and arming by "loyalists" in the Orange lodges.

Only a few weeks ago Lord Mayor McDermid of Belfast, declared, in the House of Commons, that he knew that 60,000 young men in Belfast owned revolvers and that there were 100,000 of these deadly weapons in the hands of Unionists in the North of Ireland, while there were between 200,000 and 300,000 in the hands of Nationalists in the same area. Belfast drill meetings at Orange lodges for if not to use them" asked the Belfast Lord Mayor, and he pursued his policy making British flag creep by vague hints of thousands of rifles which he declared had been smuggled into Ireland in cargo of coal.

Mr. McClinton, D.D., pastor of the C. P. R. church, accompanied by Superintendent Downie, left this morning by the Boston express for St. Stephen. Mr. McNicol will return to Montreal tonight. The C. P. R. passenger department is looking forward to an exceptionally good tourist season this summer. There are no important special attractions to divert the tourists this year and the tourist booking agencies are arranging for an unusually large number of parties to tour the province. Eleven burial certificates were issued by the Board of Health during the last week. The causes of death were as follows: Phthisis, two; drowning, two; senility, myocystitis, heart disease, sarcoma of eye, broncho-pneumonia, cerebral hemorrhage and carcinoma of prostate, one each. The members of the Army Medical Corps, under command of Colonel Walker will not train at Camp Sussex this year but will go to Canada. The first train for Aldershot will leave for there at 10 o'clock, on Sunday.

Another significant straw is the attitude of the great Hamilton family of which the Duke of Abercorn is the head. The duke is the greatest nobleman in Ireland and his family, since the days of King James II, has been noted for its success in picking the winning side. The present duke led Ulster in the agitation against the Gladstone home rule bill. He it was who coined the phrase, "Ulster will fight, and Ulster will be right." Today he has not been heard on the subject, and his brothers, who are eminent Unionist politicians, and his sons have been equally silent. They have left the leadership of the forlorn hope to Lord Londonderry, a descendant of the infamous Castlereagh of the union period, who is more noted for enthusiasm than ability. There is not a doubt that the Hamiltons look forward to holding the place they have always occupied as leaders in Irish politics.

Another factor is the attitude of the Presbyterian farmers. The extreme Orangemen have always been drawn from the Presbyterians, but the backbone of Unionism has been the sturdy stock farmer, known as the "Scotch Irish," but really a purely Irish in most cases as their Catholic neighbors. These men can no longer be worked into a frenzy of excitement over a home rule question. It would be wrong to say that they have become home rule rulers, though many of the younger generation have done so, but they have outgrown their suspicion of their Catholic fellow-countrymen. The extension of local government is responsible for this, as it is brought about for the first time the uniting public bodies of men of different faiths. No movement in the "Ulster" counties could succeed without these men, who are so prepared to accept home rule and take their part in working it. The answer to the question is "Ulster won't fight, and Ulster will be right."

and illustrations. The Halifax dry dock is not forgotten, nor the statement that "Halifax harbor is one of the finest and safest harbors in the world."

What shall be said of a minister, representing the city of St. John, who issues, with heavy gilt letters on the cover and his own portrait on the first page, for circulation in Canada and other countries, a book that fails to tell the world about the strategic position of the Bay of Fundy?

"The Bay of Fundy is deep, and anchorage at high water is difficult. Fogs are frequent and prolonged; on this account navigation is difficult, particularly to strange mariners."

The information is added that the port of St. John "is the terminus of several steamship lines in winter." Here is another paragraph, under the heading: "Ice Conditions in Canadian-Eastern Waters."

"The deep water harbors on the Atlantic coast and Bay of Fundy are open all the year 'round, but floating ice from the northern waters and from the northern part of the Gulf of St. Lawrence sometimes obstructs and entirely blocks navigation until a change of wind takes place."

On the subject of "Harbor Improvements" it is stated:

"In the waters within the coast line and harbors, bays and coves in Nova Scotia, dredging has been done during a period of 20 years, in 112 localities. In New Brunswick the same kind of work has been done in the same period, in 111 localities."

If the student of this book is diligent enough to consult the references to St. John which occur in paragraphs scattered in various parts of the book, he will perhaps learn that besides being "difficult" the port of St. John is also "safe"; and besides being sometimes blocked by ice it is also "always accessible." He will also learn something about Partridge Island, the reversing falls, the tide, the wharves and elevators, the early history of the city, the scenery, climate and bathing facilities. If he has time and patience and a passing acquaintance with the history, he may, by piecing together the various items of information, get a very fair idea of the port as it is and as it was.

There is no reference whatever to Courtenay Bay, nor to the strategic position of St. John in relation to the transportation interests of Canada; no hint of the fact that this port is the key to the Atlantic port situation at the present time; no reference to the possibility of the Canadian Northern coming here; no announcement of the fact that the whole aspect of affairs with regard to St. John has changed within the last two years; no mention of the proposed steel-plant or steel shipbuilding, or the dry dock, or the new wharves at West St. John, or the new C. P. R. elevator, or of the fact that St. John must be when it is the terminus of three transcontinental railways because a great all-the-year-round port for Canadian traffic.

There was a fine opportunity to tell the whole truth about St. John, but it has not been done. Possibly the reader will say the book was issued some time since, but it bears on the first page a fine portrait of Hon. J. D. Hazen and on another page the date "Ottawa, May 10, 1912." It was issued for the 12th Congress of the Permanent International Association of Navigation Congresses. More than that, a copy of it was presented with the compliments of the British government to each member of the great British touring party which was lately in St. John. The announcement is made by the deputy minister of marine and fisheries that "the book has been published for distribution in Canada and other countries"; and the introduction says that it was "compiled under instructions from the present minister of marine and fisheries and his deputy, by an officer of the department."

But there are some pictures of St. John in this wonderful book. A view of the reversing falls and the two bridges is the "Intercolonial Railway, Entrance to St. John, N. B." On the opposite page is an ancient view of the harbor from Fort Howe, showing the old Lively timber pond where now the new C. P. R. freight sheds are located. Let the reader forget this picture it is reproduced quarter size on another page. There is also a view of the Customs House, a New Brunswick moose and some salmon, the bore at Moncton, a third view of the Lively timber pond, which no longer exists, pictures of the Boston steamers Governor Cobb and Gov. Dingley, and the Prince Rupert at Digby pier.

It does not appear to be necessary to offer much comment, unless to observe that every little harbor from Quebec through the lakes receives honorable mention, and that the rest of Canada, outside of New Brunswick, fares well at the hands of the compiler of this book. Sydney and Halifax do exceedingly well, along with North Sydney and Lunenburg. Nova Scotia as a whole puts New Brunswick in the shade, both as to descriptive matter

TO A STAR

Thou graceful, light-robed fairy star, And as I watch thee gaily away, I listen for thy voice to say: Some word of love, but I ne'er hear.

Thy tones, like music, soft and clear. But yet thy dainty tunes I guess, And from thy lasting loveliness, I know the song that thou could'st sing.

Although I hear no music, In silvery cadence, like the bells When o'er the earth the Yuletide dwells.

O, fairy star, thy silence keep! Thou surely art a mystery deep, And though no language tells thy song, Yet praise kind to thee belong: For 'tis through love thy mysteries are far from our mortal reach. O Star!

—Allen Ward.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

DO YOU GET IT?

A tall Western girl, named Short, long loved a certain big Mr. Little, while Little, little thinking of Short, loved a lass named Long. To make a long story short, Little proposed to Long, and Short longed to be even with Little's shortcomings.

So Short, meeting Long, threatened to marry Little before Long, which caused Little, in a short time, to marry Long! Query: Did tall Short love big Little less because Little loved Long?

SEVERE NEURALGIA

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

There is an excellent reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the most severe cases of neuralgia, sciatica and other complaints of the nervous system.

The Roman Catholic church has provided at Silver Falls an institution where children of that faith may be cared for, but for the orphans of other denominations in St. John there is only the poor house. It is true there is the Protestant Orphan Asylum and the Wiggins' Male Orphan Asylum, but these together have only a limited accommodation which is always taxed to the utmost, and therefore the Municipal Home must be the refuge in cases such as that to which reference has been made. The fact is not creditable to the city of St. John. The Municipal Home at the present time is forced to do the work of several institutions. If there is an advanced case of tuberculosis, there is no other institution whose doors are open. The friendless old people who are without means or the ability to earn a living find shelter within its walls. Cases which some will perhaps contend should be treated in the general public hospital are sent to the Home instead. The Times is informed that four operations for cancer have been performed on patients in the Alms House in one day.

When will the city have a public hospital large enough to meet all the requirements of such an institution? When will there be an sanitarium for advanced cases of tuberculosis? When will there be ample provision for all Protestant orphan children? These are questions that may fairly be pressed home upon the attention of the citizens. The city of St. John needs something besides better streets, better housing and greater evidence of prosperity. It needs those institutions by the presence of which the real character of a community is determined. Unfortunately there is no other institution whose doors have been reserved or partially reserved in the poor house. The institution is well conducted and has an excellent school, but people have not yet arrived at that stage of Christian development where the graduates of such a school is not regarded as inferior socially to those more happily circumstanced.

But in any case the Municipal Home should not be expected to do the work of several institutions, each occupying a distinct field. Surely it ought to be possible to improve conditions, especially with regard to care of the orphans and those who are in an advanced stage of tuberculosis.

It is easy to get bands and a procession to celebrate a political victory, even one which may mean loss rather than gain to the community. How would it do to develop the spirit which rejoices over and celebrates the opening of playgrounds and other institutions which are of unquestioned benefit in every community?

Alarming Decrease in Population of Country

LATE SOCIETY FADS

Visits to the Home of the Apache—Clemenceau is Recovering—Treasure in an Old Desk—A Mean Swindler

(Times Special Correspondence.)
Paris, June 21.—In view of the alarming decrease in population, M. Mesmay, former war minister, has laid a draft law on the table of the house proposing a bonus of $100 to mothers for every child after the third. This sum can either be taken as a whole or half left to form an annuity, or else the whole left for this purpose. The annuity will be paid according to the rules of the national administration, varying according to the number of children born, the age of the mother at the time of bearing, and the time when the annuity would begin. For instance, a woman who during the ages of twenty and thirty-one had borne eight children could enjoy an annuity of a little more than $100 from the age of sixty.

Society Visits the Apaches
Paris society has caught another craze. It was quite the thing to give Apache balls at one's house, but the latest notion is to visit him in his dancing-halls. Adventurous and high-spirited young men go to see the big dance the "chaloque" or the "Java." And the Apache is really a model of behavior. He may stab you in the street but while you are under his roof his manners are perfection. One of the most noted "hale moustaches" is "Robinson" at the gate of Saint Ouen. Another is the Gravilliers, where artists like Lepape and Noel have drawn many "strange" sketches. A charming rendezvous is the "Assassin" Ball at La Chapelle. Notwithstanding the name, nothing happens inside the ball. "Monsieur les Assassins" are too refined to begin when ladies are present.

Clemenceau Recovering
M. Clemenceau is fast recovering from his dangerous operation, and his wit—that terrible biting wit—has returned with the color to his cheeks. Naturally, he has amused himself considerably with the situation at the chamber, reflecting with the easy philosophy of a convalescent that the deputies, if they do their duty, will have to work ten hours a day in order that the budget and electoral reform may be voted before the long vacation in July.

His enemies have remarked that he was being nursed back to health in a Catholic institution which, with its symbols of religion, seems in contrast with the anti-clerical past of the distinguished patient. Marcel Boulenger's "Marche aux Fleurs" which is the book of the week, is an interesting study on marriage for money. "Marrages de raison," he says, finish off ten better than unions concluded in a blind and tender haste. At one time he draws an ungracious picture of clever business men trying to get the better of each other while they are in the "dot." The moment the bargain is struck, the two conspirators adopt the domestic mask and talk tenderly of the happiness and dignity of their children. Is it not a masquerade, he asks. "We want to avoid as far as possible these mercenary marriages," declares the author, "and we shall see then fewer unhappy couples."

A Paris Tragedy
A woman living away from her husband in a flat in the Rue Beaumart, for which she paid a rent of $1,200, with her little girl, who is fifteen and thirteen years of age, was found dead in her room with the corpse of a druggist, who was in a large way of business in the opera district lying near her. The girl, who was the children had knocked at the door, and, receiving no answer, had called the man-servant, who broke it open. The little girl recognized the druggist to whom her mother had frequently given orders for medicine. There was no trace of a bruise on either of the bodies, nor was the faintest odor of gas to be detected. The druggist was married and was living quietly in a villa at Joinville-le-Pont. The corpse had been removed to the morgue. It appears that the druggist was breathing when the doctor who had been called in arrived at the house, but that, despite his efforts, death soon followed. When the police commissary came to hold his investigation the whole establishment was in the greatest confusion. The two daughters were in hysterics; a maid had to be prevented from throwing herself out of the window; and the dog, a splendid animal, would not allow anyone to approach the corpse of his mistress. At last the official was able to proceed to his examination, and the obvious inference was that the death had been caused by lying on a table near a couple of glasses which had contained some liquid. The articles have been sent to the municipal laboratory in sealed packets.

Meanwhile speculation is rife as to the motive of the tragedy. Some think that this must be another drama passionnel, while others conclude that the woman may have contemplated suicide, and that the druggist, having heard of her determination, hurried to the house to endeavor to dissuade her, and, having failed, resolved to die with her. Diannay reigns at the shop, which is situated in the Rue Montmartre. The druggist's assistant says that he did not feel uneasy when his employer did not put in an appearance as he thought that he must be spending the day with his family at Joinville. He adds that the druggist was a man of very regular habits, and that no one who knew him would ever have imagined that he could end his life. It really looks as if the druggist found, when he arrived in the Rue Beaumart, that the woman had already taken poison, and was so overcome with grief that he followed her example. He was fully dressed, with the exception of his coat, which he had laid on a chair.

Treasure in Old Desk
A treasure of about $4,000 in gold and bank notes has been found in an old desk, sold some time ago at Auxerre. The desk, a very old-fashioned piece of furniture, belonged to the vicar of a village in the Yonne, who died some time ago, and it was sold with the rest of his belongings. The desk had been carefully examined by his heirs and also before the sale, and nobody ever noticed a small secret drawer. The purchaser himself examined it carefully and did not see it either. It was sent on to Auxerre, where the purchaser lived; but when it arrived it was almost in pieces, as if it had been broken open for purpose, and the secret drawer was then discovered. It contained the amount mentioned in gold and notes. There was no mention of this sum in the vicar's will, and his heirs had never heard of it either. It is supposed that either the money had been confided to him by some parishioner or that the vicar himself perhaps was unaware of its existence. Inquiries are now being made to trace its possible owner.

A Mean Swindle
The latest victim of craft tricks on a tradespeople is a dress-maker in the Rue Saint Honoré, whose delight was great when a smart-looking individual who had been introduced by a customer as a distinguished nobleman, gave her an order for $2,000 worth of costumes, for, as he was introduced in the English, she had turned the nobleman in the work, calling frequently to watch his progress, and suggesting various alterations, which raised him considerably in the estimation of the costurier, who complimented him on his taste.

At last the dresses were finished, and the count was in his apartment at a hotel near the boulevard. "There was no brought with the bill. He looked them all over carefully, and had come to the conclusion that they were worth the cash he had paid. He turned the girl hurried back to the shop and when she saw him when she returned the nobleman had disappeared with the costumes, and nothing has since been heard of him. The dress-maker has been questioned by the police commissary of the district, and she has no doubt that she acted in good faith, under the impression that he was a great personage.

TO HONOR MEMORY OF DISCOVERER OF VANCOUVER

A Movement is Started in England—Memorable Voyage Was in 1792

(Times Special Correspondence.)
London, June 11.—A movement has been started in London to honor the memory of Captain George Vancouver, a famous explorer, after whom the Island and City of Vancouver are named.

Captain Vancouver, who was an officer in the British navy, made his memorable voyage of discovery in 1792, but no attempt was made to form a permanent settlement there until 1848, when the Hudson Bay Company built a fort and trading station. Captain Vancouver died in 1798, and was buried in the old parish graveyard at Petersham, Surrey. His grave is neglected, and the only indication of its existence is an insignificant stone. In Canada, though his voyage is given its due importance in dominion history, yet no present nothing has been done to erect either statue or other monument to him.

We are reminded of the work of another famous explorer by the pupils of the elementary school at Marton, Yorkshire, the birthplace of Captain James Cook, a famous navigator and discoverer. Last year the school children of Sydney, New South Wales, sent to the Marton school a handsome copy of the Australian Commonwealth in honor of the great seaman whose discoveries and voyages in the Pacific did so much to extend and maintain the British Empire. The letter accompanying the flag, signed by the Welland school children says:

"The Canadian flag is presented to Marton school by the pupils of the public

FAIRMOUNT

The Magee Property

The Choicest East St. John Subdivision—Which will be Placed on the Market within the next Few Days

From every standpoint, FAIRMOUNT is the most attractive spot in the Courtenay Bay District, offering the same unparalleled advantages to investor and homeseeker. Beautifully situated on the Red Head Road (which is destined early to become the main thoroughfare of this important section of the city), it is but twenty minutes walk from the present car line and five minutes from the corner marking the city limits. Land in this section is already feeling the effect of developments now in progress, and its values will further increase by enormous strides, enhancing its now great attraction as

A Safe, Sane, Profitable Investment

FAIRMOUNT lies just between Tisdale Place and Courtenay Bay Heights. The land slopes gently towards the bay, commanding a magnificent view of the New Harbor, the Great Railway Terminal Sites and historic old Fundy Bay. The ground, which is easily workable in every section, is wholly free from low levels and ditches. FAIRMOUNT has been planned along strictly modern lines, and improvements are being carried out at considerable expense. Streets have been broken, temporary sidewalks put down and the lots staked off. The fine, up-to-date buildings already on the property are completed and occupied. Still another advantage is the clear, cool spring water which can be found anywhere in FAIRMOUNT. Negotiations are now in progress between the City and the landowners relative to the City water supply.

The Lots Are of Generous Size and the restrictions are moderate, bringing FAIRMOUNT prominently to the fore as the Choicest Residential Subdivision in this new wing of Saint John.

A Lot in Fairmount may mean the beginning of your fortune—It will assure you of a home.

MR. McNICOLL OF THE C. P. R. IS IN ST. JOHN

The contract for the new C. P. R. elevator at West St. John will be let in a few days according to D. McNicoll, general manager of the C. P. R., who arrived here yesterday. The contract has been delayed until the bids work and billing at Blue Hook could be completed, and this is progressing satisfactorily. The work on the elevator will be commenced at once.

Mr. McNicoll went over the Central railway yesterday and said that he was much pleased with the country it traverses. He said the work on the Fredericton-Minto line would be rushed, and they hoped to complete it by September.

Mr. McNicoll was non-committal regarding the C. P. R. plans for the Temiscouata Railway, and said that the time was hardly ripe for doubling the I. C. R. rails from St. John to Halifax in connection with their plan for securing running rights over the government road.

Europe's oldest sovereign is the Emperor of Austria, born in 1830, the youngest the King of Spain, born in 1850.

RECENT DEATHS

The many friends of John Bradley, who for more than sixty years has been a resident of Bridge street, North End, will hear with regret the sad news of his death, which occurred yesterday after a lingering illness at his home, 64 Bridge street. Mr. Bradley was in the 74th year of his age and was well known throughout the North End, where he conducted a blacksmith shop for many years. He is survived by two brothers, Charles and David, of the city, and three sisters, Mrs. Edward Dalton, of Montreal, and Mrs. Agnes Collins and Mrs. Catherine Gallagher, of this city.

Michael Keating, chief clerk of the customs department, in Halifax, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. He was putting on his coat prior to going home for lunch when he was stricken with paralysis. He had been thirty years in the customs service.

Pumps Vim Into Worn-Out Men

If you feel tired and stupid, with no ambition to get out and hustle; if you have spells of despondency and a desire to give up the fight, you need new energy. The race is to the strong. Show me a failure and I'll show you a weakling, lacking in courage, strength and ambition, three essentials to the make-up of a successful man.

I can take a man like that and pump new energy into his body while he sleeps, and in a few weeks' time transform him into a giant in strength and courage. It is proven that energy and electricity are one and the same thing. If you lack the energy, you can get it only by filling your nerves with electricity. Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt does this. Wear it while you sleep. Feel the invigorating stream of electric life in your nerves, its vitalizing spark in your blood. You wake up in the morning full of new life, new energy, and courage enough to tackle anything.

My Belt sends a steady current of electricity into the nerves and vital, building up vitality and strength and removing the cause of disease. No pain can exist in a body charged with electric life.

You can have no rheumatism, no weakness, no inactive parts, for the life generated by this appliance gives health and strength to every organ.

Dr. McLaughlin:—
Dear Sir—I am pleased with your treatment. I feel like a new man. I have gained over twenty pounds. I would not be without it for any money.—DAVID CRAWFORD, Oso Station, Ont.

I GIVE IT FREE.
Get my 80-page book describing my Electric Belt, with illustrations of fully developed men and women, showing how it is applied. This book tells in plain language many things you want to know and gives a lot of good, wholesome advice for men.

Costume Ball With King George As Patron

A CHILDREN'S COLONY

It is not from fear that the X-ties disguise themselves in algebraic formulas. As a matter of fact they are understood to be quite proud of their efforts. Let the following sentence from the manifesto explain their methods:—

"One of the views that the judgment of the public is more often influenced by the painter's name than by the merits of the picture, they sign their works simply with a number and the club sign. In this way they are content to allow their works to be judged upon their merits apart from all other considerations."

Consequently when critics with a reputation for accuracy in their judgments are asked to help in the selection of a collection they will be unable to look at a helpful name before committing themselves to praise or blame. The X-ties however, do not mind seeing their names on checks.

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, June 12.—The costume ball to be held at Olympia on July 3 in aid of King George's pension fund promises to be one of the most brilliant affairs of the season. Under the direct patronage of His Majesty, it will be attended by prominent people of rank and fashion.

With the assistance of F. G. Plummer and a committee of the Royal Club, under whose auspices the coronation ball took place, the work of organization for the "Ambassadors' Ball" is being taken in hand by E. H. Payne, of "Miracle," fame.

Mr. Payne said that he and his committee had arranged that the beautiful decorations and fittings of the International Horse Show should remain intact for the ball, and that these would be added to a most sumptuous marquee.

"Around the vast interior," said Mr. Payne, "will be trelliswork arches thick with rambler roses, the boxes on the floor will be faced with marble and decorated with roses of all kinds and colors; are lamps, shaped like tulips, to the number of about sixty will provide the main illumination, and distributed among the roses and flowers on the trills arches and elsewhere will be no fewer than 10,000 incandescent lamps of various shades.

"A spring floor, the largest ever constructed, will be laid for this single occasion. It will represent in size nearly four times the space of the Albert Hall.

"Fancy costumes is, of course, insisted upon, indeed, the tickets—which, by the way, are one guinea, and include supper—are sold on the express condition that costume is worn. The names of intending guests will all be sent to the committee. The principal legations have promised to assist, and to form parties attired in the costumes of their various countries."

A Children's Colony

The scheme for establishing a self-governing colony for both boys and girls in England, and in the Republic of America, is well on the way to fulfillment, and the first colony will be established in the town of Dorset.

The farm is a beautifully situated wooded and well-watered country, and is situated on the banks of the Dorset. The plan of the colony is to provide a swimming bath made at the junction of two streams, one of which, the Wringle, is sure to entice by its humorous name.

At El Flowers' Farm, in keeping with the best spirit of social reform today, girls are included in the scheme, and will work side by side with the boys, sharing all responsibilities and all privileges.

Contrary to expectation, it is now stated that it is all probability King Alfonso will not accompany Queen Victoria when she visits Princess Henry of Battenberg in the life of Wight in August. It is quite out of the question, owing to the state of Morocco and the long protection of the negotiations with France that His Majesty should leave Spain for the attractions of Cowes week. He will, however, content himself with hearing of the performance of his yacht in German waters, where they are now taking part in the international events at Kiel.

Lloyd George interviewed

Mr. Lloyd-George has been interviewed by the London correspondent of "The Free Press," and a long communication sent by the journalist covers practically every point in the chancellor's political faith. He explained to his interviewer that the glory of the Liberal party consists in its being able to follow the middle, and working classes in the service of democratic progress. He sounds again the note of alarm against the demands for armaments, and says that, unless the nations of the world take care, there will soon be no money for social reform, for state finance is being invested in guns and warships.

He is reported to have exclaimed: "Since I, a radical democrat, have been chancellor, the navy budget has risen by $60,000,000. The largest part of the British nation, irrespective of party, is, like myself, horrified at that all-devouring tide."

The huge reward, $50,000 offered for the recovery of the will of the late Sir John Murray Scott, does not break the record. Five hundred thousand francs (equivalent to $100,000) was offered in 1894 for the recovery of an American schoolboy, Webster Conkling, who mysteriously disappeared in Paris. The boy, fifteen years old, was on his way to the St. Lazare Railway Station in Paris in company with one of his schoolmasters. The master lost sight of the boy for an instant, and, turning round, found that he had disappeared as though the earth had swallowed him. Conkling's mother, a wealthy widow, began by offering 25,000 francs for his recovery, and then increased the reward to $100,000. The money was deposited in Murray's Bank in the Rue Scribe, but never found a claimant.

Another band of artists have hurled a manifesto at this philistine world. Marinetti and his futurists have barely left the stage before there enters the new society of X-ties. Their symbol, X, may at present be an unknown quantity in the art world, but they intend that it shall become the hallmark of known quantity.

The X-ties, who have sprung up in Chelsea, are about thirty-five in number, and more of them are able pupils of Professor Moira, of the Royal College of Art. They stand for an French cult of portraying the "real" things, they pay no attention to a man as a man, but the X-ties are out to smash the tyranny of names.

When the new school hold their first exhibition, at 25 Bedford street, Strand, during June, the public will search the catalogue in vain for the name of the artist who is responsible for any single picture.

Instead they will read: "Landscape, by X 3121" or "Bacchanals, by XXX 1," and the secretary will utter himself to be torn to pieces by wild critics before he divulges further information.

abony blocks. In front of our tent door was a tall carved pillar, ornamented with strings of human skulls. The people all had the fied teeth and thin, shrunken appearance which are always associated with cannibal rites. And although they one and all stoutly denied knowledge of anything of the kind, every one of our carriers said that not only was the pot in the little hut meant for the sacrifice of human beings, but the two hideous mud figures and their heads were in another shed on the further side of the carved pillar had stant libations of human blood poured over them.

Beware of Ointments for Carrath that Contain Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians as the damage they will do is said to be good you can never derive from them. In Wilds of Africa

P. Ansaury Talbot, accompanied by his wife, has for nearly two years been traveling in parts of Nigeria, large portions of which have never before been visited by a government official, and certainly never by a white woman. For the first time a survey—anthropological, botanical, and in parts geographical and zoological—has been completed almost unintermittently from the Gulf of Guinea through to Central Africa. Describing some of his experiences in the southern bush, he writes: "The bush, with its soft green twilight, dark shadows and queer, which almost invariably kills the suspected person. The ordeals of boiling oil, poured upon the palms of the hands, and of popperones inserted in the eyes, are far less dreaded, not only because their results are practically never fatal, but because the physical anguish entailed is acknowledged to be less intense than that caused by 'esere.'"

"One of the most interesting discoveries was that of the Lake of the Dead in the Olan country."

"A spring of this lake," said Mr. Talbot, "occurs in many of the tribal songs, but for a long time I could not discover the meaning of the word, and all inquiries were failed to elicit information, and I believed I was in the neighborhood of the haunted spot and altered my course, my carriers begged to be allowed to proceed, and were left behind. After a struggle through dense bush we could see the edge of a sheet of water, along the banks of which were the holes of crocodiles, whose tracks covered the shore. The water was a weird one; the surface was absolutely still, and around about were ten foot high bushes, with what were apparently great tufts of creamy flowers. These, however, proved to be nests of tree frogs."

"The place a sanctuary for all wild things, for no hunter would dare penetrate the bush to this dreaded spot. As we stood at the edge of the water, its water is quiet was suddenly broken by a broad ripple, and little fish were seen to spring up, and a great python was seen to crawl about, and around about were ten foot high bushes, with what were apparently great tufts of creamy flowers. These, however, proved to be nests of tree frogs."

"The side of our tent almost touched a little ebony hut built over a large and grotesque-looking pot, the sides of which were ornamented with iron hooks. Before this, about breast high, and the length of a man, was a kind of altar, made of stout

ST. JOHN AND KINGS COUNTY BAPTISTS ARE IN SESSION

Hampton, N. B., June 21.—(Special)—The annual district meeting of the United Baptist churches of St. John and Kings counties opened this morning in the Hampton Village Baptist church. The first hour preached by the Rev. M. F. McCutcheon from Acts xx.24. It was a masterpiece of argument in favor of the church's ability to settle in a satisfactory manner all the disturbing questions of industrial and social life, which so harass and trouble humanity at the present day.

This evening the Women's Missionary meeting is in public session. The evening session was largely devoted to educational work along the lines of missionary effort. The speakers were the

OPEN PLAYGROUNDS ON NEXT TUESDAY

The Playground Association is proceeding in a businesslike way to carry on its work. At a meeting of the executive yesterday it was decided to open the Centennial and Aberdeen playgrounds next Tuesday. They will not be fully equipped for a few days, but it was felt that they should be opened with teachers in charge, as soon as practicable.

It was announced that the equipment for the model playground at the south end had been ordered from Toronto and would arrive very soon. In the meantime the work on the pavilion will be pushed forward as soon as practicable, and no time will be lost.

The president, Miss Mabel Peters, and George E. Day, who had been looking over a possible site for a neighborhood playground in the north end, agreed to give this matter further attention.

The names of nearly twenty new members of the association were received. Meetings will be held fortnightly during the summer season, with special meetings when necessary. The work of organizing the teaching staff was partially completed, and plans for raising additional funds were discussed.

A GHOST TALE OF THE FAMOUS LONDON TEMPLE

Shade of American Lawyer Seen There on the Day of His Death IS A NOTED PLACE

The Fountain Court Where Ruth and Tom Finch Used to Meet—The Church Built By The Knights Templar in 1185

(Times' Special Correspondence.)

London, June 12.—Thousands of tourists visit the Temple every year—there are the annual "invasions," has hardly begun—and, naturally enough, they all choose the daytime for doing so. If they knew all that there is to know about the place, however, no doubt some of them would slip down again after night had fallen, on the chance of seeing the American ghost that haunts this famous abode of lawyers.

One might think, considering the number of old Knights Templar who lie in the Temple Church—to say nothing of Oliver Goldsmith just outside—there would be ghosts in plenty stalking through the arched passages and shadowy courts of the Temple, but oddly enough—the American specter—with enterprise character of its nationality—is the only one that is on record as ever having been seen there.

What? Never heard of our American ghost? gasped a bencher of the Inner Temple to the writer a few days ago. "Why, it is one of our most cherished possessions."

The name that this ghost bore in life was Judah P. Benjamin and his owner was one of the greatest figures on the Confederate side in the Civil War before he crossed the Atlantic to become one of the most brilliant barristers ever known in this country. He was admitted to Lincoln's Inn on January 13, 1866, and called to the bar on June 6 of the same year. He is entered as follows: "of London, 34 years of age eldest son of Philip Benjamin, late of St. Carolina, America, merchant, deceased."

In a surprisingly short time, Benjamin had developed into one of the most successful advocates the English bar ever has known. Suddenly, however, at a time when he was making something like $125,000 a year, he tired both of England and the law, and went to spend his remaining days in Paris.

Benjamin's chambers were in Lamb's Building, behind the Temple Building, and one evening just after dusk, as his successor, accompanied by a solicitor and a groom from Paris was returning to these chambers, which he now occupied he noted a little detour ahead of them. "Hello," he exclaimed to his companion, "there is Benjamin."

"It is Benjamin, by Jove," said the solicitor. "He must be back from Paris," remarked the clerk. In another minute they had reached the chambers, when a tale from Paris was handed to the barrister. It contained these words: "Benjamin died this afternoon."

Since then there is no record of Benjamin's ghost having been seen, but a dozen of the place would be surprised if they must be back from Paris," remarked the clerk.

"Let him that is a true-born gentleman, And stands upon the honor of his birth, If he suppose that I have heeded truth, From off this brier pluck a white rose with me."

To which John Beaufort, Duke of Somerset, who has just accused Richard of being the dishonored son of a traitor, replies: "Let him that is no coward, nor no flatterer, But dare maintain the purity of the truth, Pluck a red rose from off this thorn with me."

And Warwick, the King Maker, rejoins: "This brawl today, Grown to this faction in the Temple Shall send, between the red rose and the white, A thousand souls to death and deadly night."

to meet the shade of the "ex-rebel" and eminent "Q. C." when night has fallen on the quaint little town that is the Temple.

"The most elegant spot in London." Charles Lamb, who was born there, called it, and surely enough, with its Gothic halls, its picturesque chambers, doll old quadrangles, verdant lawns, trees and flower gardens, and its shady nook where a little fountain plays, in the midst of a rocky, the Temple merits this distinction. It was this "Fountain Court," you will remember, that Ruth, in "Martin Chuzzlewit," used to meet Tom Finch, "with the best little smile on her face that ever played in opposition to the fountain and beat it all to nothing," while in the Temple, too, dwelt Thackeray's "Pendennis," as well as his illustrious creator, who had chambers in the same "Brick Court," where Goldsmith lived, wrote and died, and where Blackstone lived afterward. Goldsmith's grave is just outside, in Brick Court, and is one of the most impressive things in London, with its simple inscription, "Here lies Oliver Goldsmith."

The Knights Templar, who moved over from Holborn to the banks of the Thames in 1185, and built the famous Temple Church, had, as the end and aim of their existence, the conquest of the Holy Sepulchre. Nine of their number are buried in the church and their effigies, in full armor, mark their resting places. Another part of the church which is always shown to tourists, is a small pentagonal cell, with slits through which the choir can be seen. In this narrow dungeon recalcitrant templars were jailed, and there is a cheerful tradition that here starved to death, while, day by day, the services of the church were chanted in their ears.

It was in 1346 that the Temple land was leased to the "doctors and students of the law," forming the "corporation of the Inner and Middle Temple," who have retained possession of it ever since, as members of the legal profession manage to do most things that they once got into which is the reason for being of the Temple as it exists today, is something quite peculiar to the English bar. It is a little separate town composed of rambling buildings, divided into small flats with the inhabitants' names, numbered in bewildering profusion, on either side of the front doors. Each little flat forms a separate set of chambers for little groups of men, all engaged in different branches of the legal profession.

It is a curious state of affairs, derived clearly and distinctly, in English fashion from the habitations and customs of the old Knights Templar themselves. Every-body, except eight-seers, you meet there, is in a hurry. One needs barristers, in wig and gown, either bound to or returning from the law courts just across Fleet street; silk-hatted solicitors, brief in hand, "articled clerks," with hands full of papers bound with red-tape, and cheery messenger boys, all dashing through the ancient ways of the Temple as if their lives depended on saving seconds.

It is a queer fact that, in order to be admitted to the bar in this country, the aspirant must eat so many dinners in one of the Inns of Court. To do so in the Middle Temple Hall is no hardship, at all events, for the old place provides food for the mind as well as for the body. In 1692, Shakespeare is supposed to have acted in his own "Twelfth Night," on the day at the end of the hall. The oak roof and Shakespearian decorations, the longer of the two tables at which the benches and students dine was given by Queen Elizabeth, the smaller was constructed from the timbers of Drake's ship, "The Golden Hind." On the wall, among several royal portraits, is Van Dyke's famous equestrian one of Charles I.

In the gardens of the Temple, which look out on the Thames Embankment, is held yearly now the Temple flower show, which is one of the social events of the season. An ornamental rery marks the spot in the yards where the famous quadrangle took place between Plantagenet and Somerset, which led to the War of the Roses. It is interesting to stand there with one's Shakespeare in hand, and read the bard's version of the "pluck a red rose" in which Richard, Duke of York, says:

"Let him that is a true-born gentleman, And stands upon the honor of his birth, If he suppose that I have heeded truth, From off this brier pluck a white rose with me."

To which John Beaufort, Duke of Somerset, who has just accused Richard of being the dishonored son of a traitor, replies:

"Let him that is no coward, nor no flatterer, But dare maintain the purity of the truth, Pluck a red rose from off this thorn with me."

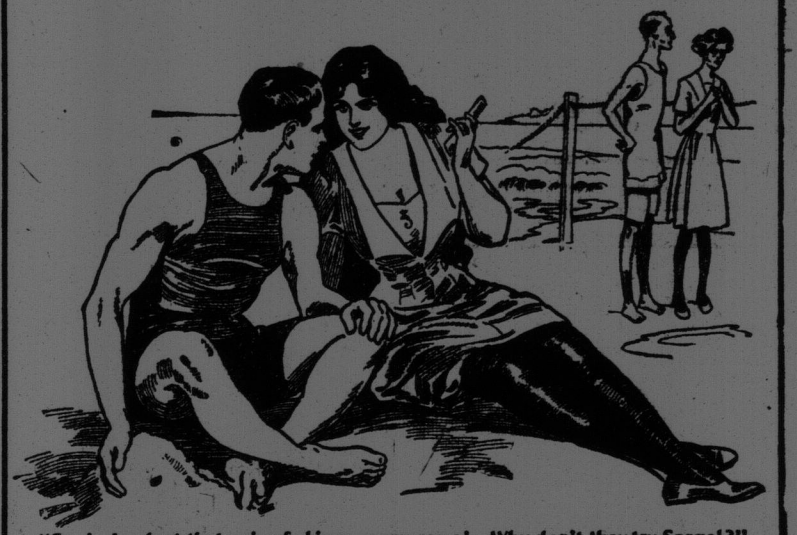

And Warwick, the King Maker, rejoins: "This brawl today, Grown to this faction in the Temple Shall send, between the red rose and the white, A thousand souls to death and deadly night."

Be Sensible With That Corn

Don't pare it. That merely removes the top layers. And that form of home surgery is dangerous. A slip of the blade means infection. That means blood poisoning, sometimes. A chemist has discovered a way to end corns. This discovery is embodied in our B & B wax—the heart of a Blue-jay plaster. Apply this little plaster and the pain ends at once. Then this B & B wax gently loosens the corn. In two days the whole corn, root and all, comes out. No pain, no soreness. You completely rid yourself of the corn. There is no other way to do this. That is why Blue-jays is the only treatment used by folks who know. It has removed already fifty million corns. Let it deal with yours. A in the picture is the soft B & B wax. It loosens the corn. B protects the corn, stopping the pain at once. C wraps around the toe. It is narrowed to be comfortable. D is rubber adhesive to fasten the plaster on.

A SPANIARD'S RETORT. "Henry Clay, our minister to Spain," said a Washington official, "gets on well in Madrid because he has a great affection for the Spanish people. Mr. Clay, while no champion of the bull-fight, hates to hear the Spaniards abused for cruelty on this head. He tells an anecdote of a Spaniard traveling from San Sebastian to Biarritz in a first class compartment with an American. "You Spaniards are a great nation," the American said. "But I can't understand how a nation that produced Velasquez and Valdez can stomach the savage cruelty of the bull-fight." "The Spaniard rolled his black eyes at this, inhaled a great cloud of cigarette smoke, and said: "You have in America a number of societies for the prevention of cruelty to children, I believe?" "Yes." "And they do good work?" "Oh, splendid work." "Now the Spaniard showed his white teeth in a smile. "Well, senior, such societies would be useless in my country," he said. "The man who would lift his hand against a little child has not been born in Spain."

Father, Mother, Sister, Brother, All Should Use Parisian Sage

Prevents Baldness—Banishes Dandruff—Stops Falling Hair and Itching Scalp PARISIAN SAGE is a family hair tonic and dressing that will do much good in every home. The man who uses PARISIAN SAGE, if only occasionally will never grow bald. Baldness caused by dandruff germs which dig down into the roots of the hair, de-vour its nourishment and cause the root to die and the hair to fall and thin out. PARISIAN SAGE is a scientific hair remedy that not only kills the dandruff germs, but gives the hair root just the same nourishment that nature gives it. PARISIAN SAGE first kills the germ; then nourishes the weakened hair root and causes a growth of healthy hair. This same nourishment (PARISIAN SAGE) causes the hair to grow vigorous which means that the hair becomes full of life and lustre, and grows radiant and beautiful. Thousands are wasting time, losing hair and growing bald because they are using superficial tonics. While they use them, the scalp and make it feel refreshed, they do not get to the root of the hair, where the real destroyer of hair, the pernicious dandruff germ, thrives and multiplies. Try PARISIAN SAGE for all hair trouble; it is a safe death to the germ; it gives life to the hair; it is pleasant to use and so harmless that it can be used by every member of the family from the oldest to the little tot. Get a 50 cent bottle today, and if you are not satisfied that it is just as good as claimed, your money back without any squabbling. Sold by A. Chipman Smith and druggists everywhere. Get with Auburn hair on every cartoon and bottle.

Donnelly pitched for the winners and Barber for the losers. The Rocklands are now leading this league, with the St. Johns second and the Victoria third. The Nationals defeated the Missions 5 to 3 in the North End Junior League game last night. Gill pitched for the winners and Corrigat for the losers. Marathons Lost. The Marathons went down to defeat yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Woodstock team, the score being 15 to 4. Tarbell, Wood and Winter did the pitching for the Marathons. Winter went in in the fifth inning and held the visitors down. Seven hits were made off of Tarbell and Wood. Delano pitched good ball for the visitors. The heavy hitting of the Woodstock team won the game for them. The teams will play again at afternoon when Sweet will do the twirling for the home team. Schedule of West End League. The schedule for games in the West End Church League is as follows: June 24 - Fairville Methodist-Ludlow Baptist at Tilton's Corner. June 25 - Fairville Baptist-Charlotte St. Baptist at Tilton's Corner. June 27 - Fairville Methodist-Charlotte St. Baptist at Fairville. BLACK PERIL SCARE AGAIN IN SO. AFRICA

Attacks Upon White Women - Vigilance Committees Formed and Women Practice Revolver Shooting. Johannesburg, June 21 - The black peril scare has once more set its seal on Johannesburg. This time almost a condition of panic prevailed. Vigilance committees are springing up all over the place, and the gunshots are ringing a harvest. Women are donning cartridges to revolver practice. The daughters of the Transvaal, a local body of female volunteers, who divide their time between domestic work and amateur military, are extending their sphere of usefulness so that non-members may learn how to fire firearms and practice revolver shooting. In Turfontein, a thickly populated suburb of Johannesburg, a woman was not only attacked by unknown Kaffirs, but was carried from her room, where she was sleeping with her baby, to a plantation 150 yards away. She died from shock. Similar instances, although fortunately unaccompanied by fatal results, are occurring not only in Johannesburg, but in the Orange Free State and Cape Colony. In spite of this reign of black terror, the Johannesburg government does nothing to show that it has the welfare of the community at heart. For this reason the people of Johannesburg are turning to their own hands. Kaffir drivers are becoming a constant occurrence. A recent "drive" took place at Forest Hill, a suburb at the south of the town, somewhat beyond Turfontein. A number of native drivers were arrested, and 400 determined men gathered together armed with revolvers, shot guns, sjamboks, and sturdy branches of blue gum trees. For a time they listened patiently to the speeches offering suggestions as to the best means of contracting the growth of black outrages. Suddenly one of the crowd jumped up and drew a revolver. "We've sapped enough," he cried. "Now's the time to act. Come on! We'll have the drive now, and dispense with resolutions!" In a moment order was thrown to the winds. Dozens of revolvers were drawn, and the chairman's appeals for order fell on deaf ears. "Volunteers who know the road?" was the first cry. Thirty or forty stepped forward. Each guide was told off to take charge of a couple of score of men, and a move was made for the Kenilworth plantations. All natives found abroad were subjected to a severe cross-examination. Three natives and a Cape Boy all provided with the requisite pass, were escorted back to their "huts," homes, and plantations. All natives found abroad were subjected to a severe cross-examination. The excited crowd were looking for a black about 5 ft. 6 inches high, hatted, booted and grey suited. Every native answering to the description was stopped and examined by the angry drivers, whose blood was now thoroughly up. Natives who tried to escape received a rough handling. There were so many gangs abroad that any black, after refusing to submit to full inquiry, who attempted to get away, fell foul of other search parties and soon received the whiplash of a sjambok. A running black, as may be surmised easily, was asked no questions, but laid by the heels at once. Six natives, roughly answering the description, but able to prove their innocence of any outrage, were temporarily handed before the police arrived on the scene and endeavored to calm the maddened crowd. In the plantation are huts inhabited for the most part by natives. In one of these huts a grey-suited Kaffir was found. He had no pass, and, frightened by the armed force round the door of the hut, he attempted to escape. A mad chase began. He knew the neighborhood well, and soon put a good distance between himself and his pursuers. Shots began to ring out and the drivers grew reckless. Several running natives, it is said, were hit, but the grey-suited Kaffir, who was innocent of all outrages, got clear away. The "drive" was followed next day by an episode of native servants, who were determined to take no risks. On the following day some one in the misty haze ran off with a black man from the top of one of the shafts. The dangling figure could be seen for miles around, and the journey southwards to view the body, while in town dozens of shopgirls climbed to the roofs of the buildings in which they were employed to catch a glimpse of what became known as "The Dancing Demon." The spectacle scared the native population and many boys openly announced their intention of returning to their kraals. Unfortunately these are the better-class boys, so that if they carry out this threat the local servant problem will become an acute one. The population of India is over seven times as large as that of the United Kingdom.

LEE PROPERTY IS SOLD IN TORONTO

Syndicate Buys the Ninety Acres From the Eastern Terminal Real Estate Co.

What is considered about the largest real estate deal yet transacted in the Courtenay Bay district was successfully concluded yesterday when D. F. Pidgeon, manager of the Eastern Terminal Real Estate Company sold to a Toronto syndicate the ninety acres of land known as the Lee property, which has been under option to them for about a month. The price was approximately $100,000, a little more than $1,000 an acre, which would have seemed phenomenal only a short time ago. The Lee property is considered one of the most valuable in the bay territory, as it is directly opposite the site of the dry dock and comprises some splendid acreage. It extends from the Municipal House to Little River. It is not definitely decided as yet whether the Toronto real estate men, who are large capitalists, will make subdivisions of the land, or will keep it unopened for a while.

LOCAL NEWS

AN ANGLIN CORRECTION. Advertising in this morning's and evening's papers read that the ticket sale for the Miss Anglin appearances will open Monday, the 17th, whereas Monday the 24th is intended.

THE ALLAN LINERS. Allan S. S. Tunisian, from Liverpool, arrived at Quebec this morning. Allan S. S. Corsican from Quebec reported by wireless and will be due at Liverpool at noon today.

JUVENILE COURT. In the juvenile court today, Roy Day, charged with riding a bicycle on the grass in King Square, pleaded guilty and was fined $8. The fine was allowed to stand. A case against the young lad charged with lighting a bon-fire in Durham street on Thursday night ended in an $8 fine which was allowed to stand.

PRICES HIGH. In sympathy with the higher prices prevailing on other articles the cost of barley, split peas, etc., has advanced and is now at about the highest known in years. The supply at hand is none too large and it is expected that the market will in no way relax until the receipt of the new crop.

CORONATION ANNIVERSARY. It was just one year ago today that King George V. was crowned, and in honor of the first anniversary of his coronation, a royal salute was fired at noon. The birthday of the Prince of Wales is to be observed tomorrow and flags in honor will be flown, while there will be a salute on Monday. He will come of age tomorrow.

WORK APPRECIATED. The president of the Catholic Immigration Bureau, under the charge of the St. Monica's Society in this city, has received letters of appreciation in several places in western Canada. A letter of thanks for information, circulars and expressing interest in the work was also received from the Archbishop of Montreal.

LEASES RECORDED. The following leases have been recorded: Thomas Gilbert, et al. to R. J. Sullivan, for seven years, property in Second street; Mrs. H. S. Pidgeon to D. B. Pidgeon, $1,000, for five years, property corner Main and Bridge streets; Mrs. Lillian E. Sweeney, to G. W. Williams, ten years, property in Waterloo street; Sarah E. Smith, to W. V. Milton, $1,800, assignment.

LINEN SHOWER. Friends of Miss Agnes deForest gathered last night at her home, 45 Peters street, and tendered her a linen shower in honor of an event to take place next week in which she will take the name of a young man from Marvillie. She was heartily congratulated and was the recipient of many useful and pretty remembrances. Refreshments were served and a few pleasant hours spent.

FIRE CALL TO BANK. The chemical engine responded to a telephone call to the Charlotte street branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia about eight thirty o'clock this morning. When the office was opened the place was found full of smoke and a hurry call for the fire department was sent in. Further investigation showed that the smoke was coming from a clogged flue and the firemen were not needed.

TO CHARLOTTE CAMPS. Miss Tingey, secretary of the Tourist Association, with Miss Maud Magee and Miss Mabel Thomson, left this morning by the U. B. Southern Railway for Prince of Wales, where they will leave the railway and proceed to Charles Raynes' camp, combining a visit of inspection by Miss Tingey with a pleasant week end trip. W. W. Gerow, secretary of the Fish, Forest & Game Association, will accompany the party. They will return on Tuesday.

SUNDAY SACRED CONCERTS. A citizen suggests to the Times, and states that the suggestion has met with favor among many other citizens, that sacred band concerts on Sunday afternoon from three till five o'clock, on King Square, would be a great boon to thousands who cannot go out of town, and especially to old people who cannot go to the parks. He suggests that the seats on the square be reserved for older folk and the ladies, and that a few policemen see that this regulation is carried out. In many other cities such sacred concerts are given, and this citizen is convinced St. John should follow their example.

THE POISONER AT WORK? A dog in death agony in the old burial ground was one of the unwelcome sights of yesterday afternoon. Surely there is a better way to overcome any trouble caused by vagrant dogs than the scattering of poisoned meat, if that is the mode being adopted. Man has no better friend among the lower animals than the dog, and properly constituted people, at least, have no objection to a dog that is provided for the public utility. It might be a good thing for the N. B. Kennel Club to look into this matter and, if the pole owner is at work, trace him and see what a call to the police court will do for him.

MARRIAGES AND BIRTHS. Registrar Jones reports twelve marriages during the week. Seventeen births, including twelve future voters, were also recorded.

THE PICNIC SEASON HERE

Watters' Landing Off the List This Year—Two Outings Were Held Today

The picnic season has come. The happy children of several Sunday schools of the city are joyfully looking forward to the annual event which means so much in their summer enjoyment, and even the grown up members are anticipating the yearly outing with pleasure. In the course of a few days the season will be here, all its gaiety and the advance of the Sunday schools upon the picnic grounds will be a daily event. It is the hope of the others that they will be blessed with weather so ideal for the purpose as has been given today for the first two of the season, the Main street Baptist Sunday school and the Trinity Sunday school, the latter at Westfield Beach. Large numbers are in attendance at each.

The matter of suitable picnic grounds should not be left to one with excursions from St. John, but it seems to be, however. In former years the grounds at Watters' Landing on the river were the most popular, but no outings will likely be held there this year. The picnic sheds were of the kind formerly passed their copiers and purchased elsewhere, peanuts, and popcorn are no more to be the scene of outings, and the shelter of the friendly trees at the summit of the old familiar hill will no longer welcome the "passers-by" at meal time. The removal of Watters' Landing from the list of picnic grounds is greatly regretted.

The grounds at Westfield Beach have long been popular, but their popularity has not been so marked as the former. At present, however, they are the most patronized. The members of Main street Baptist church are holding their picnic today at new grounds at Robney, and it is expected that these will become popular in the near future. Sheds have been built and swings and other conveniences are at hand, and the grounds are also ideal for the purpose.

Day's Landing in the past has had its share of attention, and it is probable that many picnics will be held there this year. There are many other favorable spots along the St. John and Kennebec rivers, which could easily accommodate large crowds of picnickers and with the expenditure of a few hundred dollars in the erection of sheds, improvement of beach, placing swings in position and other essentials would make up-to-date picnic grounds.

AGAIN THE "KNOCKER"

How a Persemitic St. John Man Nearly Kept Outside Capital From Coming in Here

St. John is going ahead rapidly, but it is doing so in spite of the ardent efforts of some pessimists who, whether knowingly or through ignorance, are doing their utmost to discourage the influx of outside capital. It is hard to say that any of St. John's citizens are so lacking in loyalty as to deliberately injure the city's prospects when they are away from home, but stories which filter back from Montreal and other centres prove this to be the case.

One of the most recent illustrations was brought to light in Montreal recently. A syndicate which has been paying some attention to St. John investments met to confirm a sale which had been recommended by one of the members. Another member promptly announced that he could not consent to any more purchases in St. John. He had recently been talking to a man whom he described as a leading business man from St. John, who told him that the talk of advancing values in the city was all a myth and that St. John property at present prices was a poor investment.

The fact that a resident of the city would talk this way was very discouraging but fortunately another member of the party had another story to tell. From personal experience he knew of a company which had recently opened up a new branch of their business in St. John and their sales had been 200 per cent higher than they had expected, and their store was just across the street from the property under discussion.

Others could tell similarly encouraging stories and it was finally decided to complete the purchase. If they had not been so well informed, however, the pessimistic talk of the St. John man might have scared off a group of men representing large sums of capital who are seeking investment here.

Another St. John man, while at dinner in a Montreal hotel, was heard discussing a recent property purchase in St. John and declaring that the price was twice as high as similar property could be sold for profitably. He was overheard by a friend of one of the investors and a message was sent informing the St. John man that the purchasers would take all he could find then at the price he mentioned. So he has not profited by the opportunity.

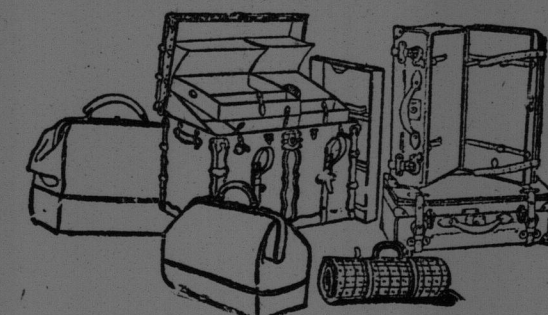

SILVER AT COURTENAY BAY?

It is reported that men at work in the construction being done at Courtenay Bay by the Norton Griffiths Co. have struck a vein of quartz, and that some of it has been sent to a mineralogist in Montreal.

The vein is said to be about six inches in depth and it has been said by some that the specimens of the quartz greatly resemble silver.

BEEF PRICES HIGH. It was noted in the Times last week that the price of beef had reached a record in St. John and the statement may easily be repeated today, for no time has it been known when that commodity was in such poor supply and brought such a fancy price. "Talk about the cost of living in New York," said a householder yesterday, "why when you pay the present price asked for beef and want a change to veal or pork, and pay nearly as much, well the beef city is not so very much ahead of this, when it comes to buying meats at least and the difference in the size of the places being considered." It is practically impossible to purchase barreled beef at first hands and until well on in next month no change in the situation is expected. There will be a slight relief in the fresh beef supply probably early next month but no liking for a change in any case in barreled beef until late in August, allowing time for the new grass fed cattle to be ready for the market, and for the necessary preparations regarding them.

MARRIAGES AND BIRTHS. Registrar Jones reports twelve marriages during the week. Seventeen births, including twelve future voters, were also recorded.
