NEW LIGHTHOUSES

Port Daniel Harbor to Have
New One.

BADLY NEEDED.

Dept. Considering Placing of Lights Between Campbellton and Dalhousie.

(Special to Events)

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Mariners and fishermen frequenting Port Daniel harbor, Bonaventure County, will be glad to learn that Mr. Marcell, M. P., has been successful in obtaining a lighthouse for the west point of that harbour, which was asked for by them. It is understood that the Lighthouse Board have agreed to grant this improvement with the exception of the harbour light on Port Daniel wharf, this will be the only light between Point Macquereau and Paspébiac, a distance of thirty miles. It was badly needed.

It is understood that the new light and Point Macquereau light recently burnt down will be erected without delay.

It is understood the Marine Department intend making some improvements in lighting up the channel between Dalhousie and Campbellton and that a report has been prepared to that effect and is now in the hands of the officials of that department.

TRAINS DROPPED

The Ocean Limited and other trains Canceled.

On Monday last a change in the I. C. R. time table came into effect. The principal change is the dropping of fourteen trains that appeared on the summer time-table.

The majority of these are for suburban or seaside business, but in the list are included the Ocean Limited and the train between St. John and Point du Chene known as the Boston express. The trains cancelled are Nos. 3, 4, 92, 99, 151, 154, 155, 156, 163, 164, 199, 200, 313 and 314.

No. 199 and 200 is the Ocean Limited working under a three year schedule, which has been in operation two years. Whatever the object of the conference, trainmen will be opposed to any change in the present schedule.

The many rumors which are afloat respecting the conference and retrenchment movement is keeping alive dismissal talk.

OFFICIALS CONFER.

Belief that Minister is Seeking to Overcome Annual Deficit.

Moncton, Sept. 15.—A large number of railway men are in the city today in conference with the minister of railways and his deputy. The object of the conference is to get the views of the officials and heads of different departments connected more directly with the operation of the road with a view of cutting down expenses. The movement is in line with a statement made by the minister at Moncton at the Labor day demonstration when he said every department would be called upon to wipe out late year's $2,000,000 deficit.

How far the minister intends to go in his effort to reduce expense is a question causing serious speculation on the part of the railway employees. The conference today is mainly with the district superintendents and chief train dispatchers to ascertain what improvement can be made in the matter of detention to trains, which it is alleged was a large item in the operating expenses last year.

In addition to the general manager, the chief engineer, general traffic manager and other chief officials in the operating department here, there were present at the conference the district superintendents from Truro, Campbellton, New Glasgow and chief train dispatchers at Campbellton, Truro, New Glasgow and Sydney.

One source of complaint in respect to the expense of operating is the small freight trains running over the road.

Notice has been sent out to the order of railway conductors, locomotive engineers, firemen and others for a small committee from each of the orders to meet the minister and his deputy here tomorrow. The order was sent out by General Manager Pottinger but the exact object of the conference is unknown to the men.

The notice calling the committees to meet the minister has created quite a stir among the men and in some quarters it is thought an effort is to be made to reduce wages.

The trainmen are at present working under a three year schedule, which has been in operation two years. Whatever the object of the conference, trainmen will be opposed to any change in the present schedule.

The many rumors which are afloat respecting the conference and retrenchment movement is keeping alive dismissal talk.

OBITUARY.

ANGUS CARMICHAEL CAMPBELL

Angus Carmichael Campbell died at his home on Second Avenue, Ludington, La., Thursday night, Aug. 24th. He had been a sufferer from Bright's disease for over a year and was compelled to give up his work in the office of L. W. & V. S. Co. last June. He came South in Sept. 1903. The climate or conditions of the South had nothing to do with his disease as it is fatal in all climates. On account of the yellow fever quarantine the remains could not be taken north at present, so the remains were embalmed, placed in a metallic casket and taken to Leesville to be cared for until the quarantine is lifted, when they will be taken to Menominee, Mich., his old home, for burial.

Mr. Campbell was born in Quebec, Canada, Aug. 22, 1857. He had just passed his 48th birthday. He was loved and respected by all who knew him and was held in high esteem by the Company for whom he worked for twenty-two years. Mr. Campbell leaves a wife and two children to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father. The sympathy of friends both in Ludington and Menominee goes to his sorrowing wife and family in their great bereavement.

THREE JURORS CURED

With Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightown, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some sauce meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the box I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one twenty five cent bottle cured the three of us." Many New Enterprises in the County of Bonaventure.

(Special to Events.)

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Mr. Marcell, M. P., for Bonaventure, and Deputy Speaker of the Commons, has returned to Ottawa, after spending a most agreeable vacation at Carleton, and in the County generally with Mrs. Marcell and his two daughters. All are delighted with their pleasant outing which they hope to make an annual event. Mr. Marcell is greatly pleased at his reception on all hands. In company with Mr. J. H. Kelly, M. L. A., he addressed meeting at Carleton, St. Jean le'Evangeliste, (Nouvelle) St. Omer, Maria, New Richmond, St. Charles de Caplin, St. Bonaventure, St. Alphonse de Caplin, New Carleton, Gaspes, St. Godefroi, Port Daniel, Gaspes and St. Alexis de Matapedia. Both members gave an account of their stewardship and indicated the progress which is being made. Bonaventure County is certainly making great strides and there are indications of prosperity and progress on all sides.

The erection of new wharves and breakwaters, the completion of the railway beyond New Carleton, the building of the new railway to Port Daniel and ultimately to Gaspes, the splendid service of the new steamer Lady Eileen, the opening up of colonization roads, building of new bridges, including a $35,000 bridge at Matapedia, erection of numerous bait freezers, light houses, new mills at Mission Point, Little Gaspes, Marie, and other points. All these are but a few of the improvements made within the last few years. Both members were generally congratulated for the push and enterprise they have given evidence of. Addresses of congratulation were presented to them in all parishes by men of both political parties.

St. Joseph Lewis, July 13, 1905. Messrs. C. C. Richards & Co. Gentlemen.—I was badly kicked by my horse last May and after using several preparations on my leg nothing would do. My leg was black as jet. I was laid up in bed for a fortnight and could not walk. After using three bottles of your Minard's Liniment I was perfectly cured, so I could start on the road.

Mothers Are Helped THEIR HEALTH RESTORED

Happiness of Thousands of Mothers Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

A devoted mother seems to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells her to guard her health, and before she realizes it some derangement of the female organs has manifested itself, and nervousness and irritability take the place of happiness and amiability.

Tired, nervous and irritable, the mother is unfit to care for her children, and her condition ruins the child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The mother should not be blamed, as she is no doubt suffering with headache, backache, bearing-down pains or displacement, making life a burden. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for this condition. It strengthens the female organs and permanently cures all disorders such as this letter describes.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "Being mother of five children, I have had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that hour I date all my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation and frequent flowing spells. I became weak and dizzy, but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so, and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment, and it made me a strong and well woman. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me."—Mrs. Anna McKay, 330 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Report of Tenth Annual Meeting by a Delegate

The tenth annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Brunswick opened in Union Hall St. John Sept 5th with a good attendance.

The President Mrs. C. A. Lindon was in the chair. The singing of a hymn, reading of 146th Psalm and prayer by Mrs. McLeod vice-president opened the meeting. Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson from Boston was introduced; and made a member of convention.

Reports of Superintendents of departments were then taken up.

Mrs. Asker reading a report of Mother's Meetings, written by Mrs. Lodd also a report on Sunday School work by Mrs. Bullock.

Mrs. Troy read an excellent report of the anti-cigarette work. The petition to the legislature had not met with the desired success, but the work had been carried on in almost every union in the province and great interest taken in all subjects. A gentleman from Newfoundland being in the Hall was called to the platform and gave an interesting talk on the work, telling an effective story of how his mother helped him.

At the afternoon session the president read her annual address. After reference to the earlier temperance workers, and the great orators who have taken up the struggle against intemperance.

She spoke of this new force coming into the field with the woman's crusade the outcome of which is the powerful W. C. T. U. of to-day.

"The world's W. C. T. U. has a membership of about half a million," said the president. "Think what a mighty power this is for God and righteousness in this world of ours to-day."

The secretary's report showed a membership of 153. A balance in the treasury of $117.70 was reported by the treasurer.

On Tuesday evening a reception was given to the delegates and visitors by the St. John Unions, at the close of which refreshments were served.

A short program of music and recitations was given. A hymn "Seal us for service to-day" caused one to think, "If we could but get into the spirit of that hymn how much more we should accomplish for the Master, how our unions would flourish and with what satisfactory reports we should come up to our conventions." The feature of the evening was an address by Mrs. Stevenson. After thanks for the cordial greeting given her. Mrs. Stevenson said:

"The fourth session opened at 2.30 by a conference on Press work Mrs. Dr. Sprague had some excellent suggestions as to the need of the women being well informed on the work. She thought that the Woman's Missionary Societies got much stimulus from the excellent literature that was provided and if that society was in advance of the W. C. T. U. one of the chief reasons could be found in that."

Mrs. Stevenson said her address would take the form of answering the questions in the box. She thought one might as well try to be a Christian without a Bible as a W. C. T. U. worker without literature. Therefore it was the duty of every Superintendent and officer to instruct herself fully in her department and to keep herself in touch with other workers by correspondence.

The afternoon session closed with a memorial service for members who had passed away since the last annual convention. Several spoke of the loss sustained by the different unions in the death of ten members not less being Mrs. Phillips of Fredericton who had been Provincial Treasurer.

The evening session was somewhat slimly attended owing to the condition of the weather. After scripture reading and prayer a duet was given by a lady and gentleman.

Mrs. D. Grey welcomed them on behalf of the local unions to the fogs and rain of St. John. In asking their prayers for the welfare of St. John unions, she said there was one commercial enterprise in St. John for the prosperity of which she dare not ask their prayers.

It was the traffic which demanded the bodies and souls of our men and women in order that it might prosper the liquor traffic. Mr. Blewett of the Alexandra Temple of Honor was called on and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. Mrs. Henderson of the Woman's Missionary Society also welcomed the delegates.

Mr. McLeod vice-president responded to the words of welcome and greeting that had been extended a them.

Mrs. Stevenson said she would endeavor to answer a question that was sometimes asked: "What is the Woman's Christian Temperance Union doing anyhow?"

The people who asked this question implied that the union had at one time done a good work but that it had outlived its usefulness. The Crusade came like a whirlwind but could not continue for ever. To-day they were going about the work in a different way. They were standing to-day as an organized protest against the legalized sale of strong drink. It meant a great deal to stand for an unpopular cause. The liquor men were beginning to recognize the influence of these white ribbon women. Mrs. Stevenson urged that if the women were unable to do anything to help along the work to just have their names placed on the roll to show that they stood for the cause.

The fact alone that there was a large organized movement in opposition to the traffic had a good influence in itself. She went on to tell at some length of the work done by the W. C. T. U. in her own country and in closing referred to the large World's conventions and the many lessons to be learned by attending them.

Thursday morning's session was opened by a large consecration service led by Mrs. McLeod when one could not but feel it was good to be there.

After receiving the reports of various departments the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Dr. Gray, Fairville; Vice-President, Mrs. McLeod, Newcastle; Cor-Secretary, Miss Nellie Asker, Campbellton; Rec-Secretary, Mrs. Herbert McDonald, Chatham; Treasurer, Mrs. Carrie Robinson, Fredericton; Auditor, Mrs. Gillman, Fredericton.

In the afternoon meeting the time was largely taken up with routine work. The most important matter brought up for discussion was the petition drawn up by a committee favoring a compulsory school law to be presented to the Board of education at Fredericton. After some discussion it was unanimously decided to present the petition to the provincial school board for their consideration.

The convention also discussed the amalgamation of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Unions and declared themselves in favor of Union by a unanimous vote. A committee was chosen to confer with delegates from the P. E. I. convention on the matter.

The evening session was largely attended. Mrs. Stevenson spoke on the subject "The Throne of Iniquity" based on the 95th Psalm. She showed that the term "Throne of Iniquity" was particularly applicable to the liquor traffic. The given a white ribbon she could feel at home in the desert of Sahara. There were many reasons why the W. C. T. U. claimed her deepest love and devotion. She sometimes thought that the magic letters W. C. T. U. might be found stamped on her heart when she died. She loved it because it was a temperance organization and had done so much in opening the doors of privilege and opportunity for women. Because it is a Christian organization in the true sense of the word. She urged all Christian women to help in this way to answer the Lord's prayer "Thy kingdom come."

The session on Wednesday morning was opened with a Bible reading by Mrs. Cahill who based her remarks on Mal 3: 19 and spoke of the Lord's part and ours in the work. Reports of superintendents were received and included Press and tidings Scientific Temperance, Fairs, Y Work, Fruit, Flower and Delicacy Mission, petitions and Legislation, Evangelistic, jail, and prison work.

Mr. Goabell of the Seaman's Mission invited the delegates to visit the old Chipman House where the Prince of Wales—now King Edward stayed when in St. John.

Mrs. R. L. Stevenson gave a most delightful Bible reading from the parable of the leaves and fishes and morning prayer was usual closed the morning session.

The fourth session opened at 2.30 by a conference on Press work Mrs. Dr. Sprague had some excellent suggestions as to the need of the women being well informed on the work. question was whether or not we would have fellowship with the throne of iniquity. To the votes that meant whether they would remain passive under the present license law or arise and wipe it out at the first opportunity. So long as this liquor question remained unsettled, nothing else would be settled for righteousness. At the close of the address Mrs. Stevenson was presented by the president with a beautiful bouquet of white carnations from the convention. The retiring president was then presented with a similar bouquet.

The banner annually presented to the Union showing the largest increase in membership, was presented to the Campbellton Union, this being the second year it has gone to the same union. The Press Medal was also won by the Campbellton Union.

Resolutions were then passed thanking the St. John people for courtesies extended to the delegates and the convention closed with all clapping hands in a circle, while they sang, "God be With You Till We Meet Again" and repeated the Aaronic benediction.

There is no need for so many women to suffer pain and weakness, nervousness, sleeplessness, anemia, faint and dizzy spells and the numerous troubles which render the life of woman a round of sickness and suffering.

Young girls budding into womanhood, who suffer with pains and headaches, and whose face is pale and the blood watery, will find Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills help them greatly during this period.

Women at the change of life, who are nervous, subject to hot flashes, feeling of pins and needles, palpitation of the heart, etc., are aided over the trying time of their life by the use of this wonderful remedy.

To have a wonderful effect on a woman's system, makes pains and aches vanish, brings color to the pale cheek and sparkle to the eyes.

They build up the system, renew lost vitality, improve the appetite, make rich, red blood and dispel that weak, tired, listless, no-ambition feeling.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS SICK?

Let your morning urine stand for 24 hours in a glass or vessel, and then if it is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish brick-dust sediment, or if particles or germs float about in it, your kidneys are diseased. If the kidneys are well they filter just so much blood, but if they are sick or weak from any cause, they leave the poison in the blood, and this poison affects the entire system.

It is natural to pass urine three times a day, but many who regard themselves as healthy are obliged to pass water six to ten times daily and are obliged to get up frequently during the night. They have sick kidneys and bladder and don't know it. Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills cure Rheumatism and all kidney and bladder diseases, and make new, rich blood.

We will send you a generous sample post paid free, together with our large book on the above mentioned diseases.

THE RETURN OF SHERLOCK HOLMES...

BY A. CONAN DOYLE

The unfortunate young man staggered back and cast a look full of horror and reproach at Bannister.

"No, no, Mr. Gilchrist, sir, I never said a word—never one word!" cried the servant.

"No, but you have now," said Holmes. "Now, sir, you must see that after Bannister's words your position is hopeless and that your only chance lies in a frank confession."

For a moment Gilchrist, with upraised hand, tried to control his writhing features. The next he had thrown himself on his knees beside the table, and, burying his face in his hands, he had burst into a storm of passionate sobbing.

"Come, come," said Holmes kindly. "It is human to err, and at least no one can accuse you of being a callous criminal. Perhaps it would be easier for you if I were to tell Mr. Soames what occurred, and you can check me where I am wrong. Shall I do so? Well, well, don't trouble to answer. Listen, and see that I do you no injustice."

"From the moment, Mr. Soames, that you said to me that no one, not even Bannister, could have told that the papers were in your room the case began to take a definite shape in my mind. The printer one could, of course, dismiss. He could examine the papers in his own office. The Indian I also thought nothing of. If the proofs were in roll he could not possibly know what they were. On the other hand, it seemed an unthinkable coincidence that a man should dare to enter the room, and that by chance on that very day the papers were there. How did he know?"

"When I approached your room I examined the window. You amused me by supposing that I was contemplating the possibility of some one having in broad daylight, under the eyes of these opposite rooms, forced himself through it. Such an idea was absurd. I was measuring how tall a man would need to be in order to see as he passed what papers were on the center table. I am six feet high, and I could do it with an effort. No one less than that would have a chance. Already, you see, I had reason to think that if one of your three students was a man of unusual height he was the most worth watching of the three."

"I entered, and I took you into my confidence as to the suggestions of the side table. Of the center table I could make nothing until in your description of Gilchrist you mentioned that he was a long distance jumper. Then the whole thing came to me in an instant, and only needed certain corroborative proofs, which I speedily obtained."

"What happened was this: This young fellow had employed his afternoon at the athletic grounds, where he had been practicing the jump. He returned carrying his jumping shoes, which are provided, as you are aware, with several sharp spikes. As he passed your window he saw, by means of his great height, these proofs upon your table and conjectured what they were. No harm would have been done had it not been that as he passed your door he perceived the key which had been left by the carelessness of your servant. A sudden impulse came over him to enter and see if they were indeed the proofs. It was not a dangerous exploit, for he could always pretend that he had simply looked in to ask a question."

"Well, when he saw that they were indeed the proofs it was then that he yielded to temptation. He put his shoes on the table. What was it you put on that chair near the window?"

"Gloves," said the young man. Holmes looked triumphantly at Bannister. "He put his gloves on the chair, and he took the proofs, sheet by sheet, to copy them. He thought the tutor must return by the main gate and that he would see him. As we know, he came back by the side gate. Suddenly he near him at the very door. There was no possible escape. He forgot his gloves, but he caught up his shoes and darted into the bedroom. You observe that the scratch on that table is slight at one side, but deepens in the direction of the bedroom door. That in itself is enough to show that the shoe had been drawn in that direction and that the culprit had taken refuge there. The earth round the spike had been left on the table, and a second sample was loosened and fell in the bedroom. I may add that I walked out to the athletic grounds this morning, saw that tenacious black clay is used in the jumping pit and carried away a specimen of it, together with some of the fine tan or sawdust which is strewn over it to prevent the athlete from slipping. Have I told the truth, Mr. Gilchrist?"

The student had drawn himself erect. "Yes, sir; it is true," said he.

"Good heavens! Have you nothing to add?" cried Soames.

"Yes, sir, I have, but the shock of this disgraceful exposure has bewildered me. I have a letter here Mr. Soames, which I wrote to you early this morning in the middle of a restless night. It was before I knew that my side had found me out. Here it is, sir. You will see that I have said: 'I have determined not to go in for the examination. I have been offered a commission in the Rhodesian police, and I am going out to South Africa at once.'"

"I am indeed pleased to hear that you did not intend to profit by your unfair advantage," said Soames. "But why did you change your purpose?"

Gilchrist pointed to Bannister.

"There is the man who set me in the right path," said he.

"Come now, Bannister," said Holmes. "It will be clear to you from what I have said that only you could have let this young man out, since you were left in the room and must have locked the door when you went out. As to his escaping by that window, it was incredible. Can you not clear up the last point in this mystery and tell us the reasons for your action?"

"It was simple enough, sir, if you only had known, but with all your cleverness it was impossible that you could know. Time was, sir, when I was butler to old Sir Jabez Gilchrist, this young gentleman's father. When he was ruled I came to the college as servant, but I never forgot my old employer because he was down in the world. I watched his son all I could for the sake of old days. Well, sir, when I came into this room yesterday, when the alarm was given, the very first thing I saw was Mr. Gilchrist's tan gloves s-l-y-i-n-g in that chair. I knew those gloves well, and I understood their message. If Mr. Soames saw them the game was up. I slipped down into that chair, and nothing would induce me until Mr. Soames went for you. Then out came my poor young master, whom I had dandled on my knee, and confessed it all to me. Wasn't it natural, sir, that I should save him, and want to tell him also that I should try to speak to him as his dead father would have done and make him understand that he could not profit by such a deed? Could you blame me, sir?"

"No, indeed," said Holmes heartily, springing to his feet. "Well, Soames, I think we have cleared your little problem up, and our breakfast awaits us at home. Come, Watson, as to you, sir, I trust that a bright future awaits you in Rhodesia. For once you have fallen low. Let us see in the future how high you can rise."

He Wanted No Help.

The humor of a situation sometimes depends not merely on a spoken phrase, but may turn on the way it is used, the accent that marks the expression. One day recently a tottering, peevish old man entered the lobby of a fashionable New York hotel and made a more or less labored advance toward the guest rooms. He was not a guest, but had been in the house on earlier occasions. One of the hall boys who had been but a little time on the force approached the old man and in a manner that should have indicated a disposition to be courteously helpful said to him, "Anything you want, sir?" The old man misinterpreted the hall boy's inquiry as a challenge. He halted for an instant, long enough to glare at the youth, then resumed his way, saying more to himself than in answer to the query, "Going up to see my mother."

And, sure enough, he was on his way to see his mother, ninety-eight years old, who was younger in appearance than he and not so peevish by half.

A Heart to Heart Confession.

"It seems," he said, "to give her the greatest happiness just to sit and listen to her talented husband talk."

"Yes," she replied, "the silly little things! Sometimes it seems to me that when a woman is foolish she can be about seven times more foolish than any other creature on earth."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Adventure of the Golden Pince-Nez

No. 10 of the Series

Copyright, 1904, by A. Conan Doyle and Collier's Weekly.

Copyright, 1903, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

W I look at the three massive manuscript volumes which contain our work for the year 1894, I confess that it is very difficult for me out of such a wealth of material to select the cases which are most interesting in themselves and at the same time most conducive to a display of those peculiar powers for which my friend was famous.

As I turn over the pages I see my notes upon the repulsive story of the red leech and the terrible death of Crosby, the banker. Here also I find an account of the Addison tragedy and the singular contents of the ancient British barrow. The famous Smith-Mortimer succession case comes also within this period, and so do the tracking and arrest of Huret, the boulevard assassin, an exploit which won for Holmes an autograph letter of thanks from the French president and the order of the Legion of Honor. Each of these would furnish a narrative, but on the whole I am of opinion that none of them unites so many singular points of interest as the episode of Yoxley Old Place, which has been drawn not only the lamentable death of young Willoughby Smith, but also those subsequent developments which threw so curious a light upon the causes of the crime.

It was a wild, tempestuous night, toward the close of November. Holmes and I sat together in silence all the evening, he engaged with a powerful lens deciphering the remains of the original inscription upon a palimpsest. I deep in a recent treatise upon surgery. Outside the wind howled down Baker street, while the rain beat fiercely against the windows. It is a strange thing, in the very depths of the town, with ten miles of the handiwork on every side of us, to feel the iron grip of Nature and to be conscious that to the huge elemental forces all which has brought you out in such a gale."

"It is indeed, Mr. Holmes. I've had a bustling afternoon. I promise you. Did you see anything of the Yoxley case in the latest editions?"

"I've seen nothing later than the fifteenth century today."

"Well, it was only a paragraph and all wrong at that, so you have not missed anything. I haven't let the grass grow under my feet. It's down in Kent, seven miles from Chatham and three from the railway line. I was wired for at 8:15, reached Yoxley Old Place at 5, conducted my investigation, was back at Charing Cross by the last train, and straight to you by cab."

"Which means, I suppose, that you are not quite clear about your case?"

"It means that I can make neither head nor tail of it. So far as I can see, it is just as tangled a business as ever I handled, and yet at first it seemed so simple that one couldn't go wrong. There's no motive, Mr. Holmes. That's what bothers me. I can't put my hand on a motive. Here's a man dead—there's no denying that—but, so far as I can see, no reason on earth why any one should wish him harm."

Holmes lit his cigar and leaned back in his chair.

"Let us hear about it," said he.

"I've got my facts pretty clear," said Stanley Hopkins. "All I want now is to know what they all mean. The story, so far as I can make it out, is like this: Some years ago this country house, Yoxley Old Place, was taken by an elderly man, who gave the name of Professor Coram. He was an invalid, keeping his bed half the time and the other half hobbling round the house with a stick or being pushed about the grounds by the gardener in a bath chair. He was well liked by the few neighbors who called upon him, and he has the reputation down there of being a very learned man. His household used to consist of an elderly housekeeper, Mrs. Marker, and of a maid, Susan Tarrion. These have both been with him since his arrival, and they seem to be women of excellent character. The professor is writing a learned book, and he found it necessary about a year ago to engage a secretary. The first two that he tried were not successful, but the third, Mr. Willoughby Smith, a very young man straight from the university, seemed to have been just what his employer needed. His work consisted in writing all the morning to the professor's dictation, and he usually spent the evening in hunting up references and passages which bore upon the next day's work. This Willoughby Smith has nothing against him, either as a boy at Uppingham or as a young man at Cambridge. I have seen his testimonials, and from the first he was a decent, quiet, hardworking fellow, with no weak spot in him at all. And yet this is the lad who has met his death this morning in the professor's study under circumstances which can point only to murder."

The wind howled and screamed at the windows. Holmes and I drew closer to the fire, while the young inventor slowly and point by point developed a singular narrative.

"What can he want?" I ejaculated as a man stepped out of it.

"Want? He wants us. And we, my poor Watson, want overcoats and crabs and galoches and every aid that man ever invented to fight the weather. Wait a bit though! There's the cab off again! There's hope yet. He'd have kept it if he had wanted us to come. Run down, my dear fellow, and open the door, for all virtuous folk have been long in bed."

When the light of the hall lamp fell upon our midnight visitor I had no difficulty in recognizing him. It was young Stanley Hopkins, a promising detective, in whose career Holmes had several times shown a very practical interest.

"Is he in?" he asked eagerly.

"Come up, my dear sir," said Holmes' voice from above. "I hope you have no designs upon us such a night as this." The detective nodded the stairs, and our lamp gleamed upon his shining waterproof. I helped him out of it, while Holmes knocked a blaze out of the logs in the grate.

"Now, my dear Hopkins, draw up and warm your toes," said he. "Here's a cigar, and the doctor has a prescription containing hot water and a lemon which is good medicine on a night like this. It must be something important which has brought you out in such a gale."

"It is indeed, Mr. Holmes. I've had a bustling afternoon. I promise you. Did you see anything of the Yoxley case in the latest editions?"

RUSSIA DISCLOSES WAR

Troops Will Be Sent To Punish Marauding Tartars

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—A war has been proclaimed in the Caucasian districts of Zangezur and Gabsiel where Tartars are killing the Armenians without distinction of sex or age. The country is flooded with bands of Tartars. Many thousands of Tartar horsemen have crossed the frontier from Persia and joined the insurgents in killing Armenians. At the village of Minkend three hundred Armenians were slaughtered. Despatches say that mutilated children were thrown to the dogs and the few survivors were forced to embrace Islamism in order to save their lives.

Naphtha firms are out off from the delivery of oil fuel to the shipping companies who are now confronted with the necessity for suspending their services and discharging employees, which would result in leaving thousands with no means of subsistence.

The salt works at Baskunchak have been obliged to close owing to the scarcity of fuel and this will paralyze the fishing industry.

Tiflis, Caucasasia, Sept. 12.—A hundred social democrats were killed or wounded to-day in a conflict with Cossacks at the town hall and many were trampled to death in a subsequent panic. Two thousand social democrats had forced an entrance into the town hall which had been closed owing to the celebration of a religious holiday, the beheading of John the Baptist. Revolutionary speeches were made and the chief of police ordered the meeting to disperse. Part of those present obeyed but the remainder refused and some revolvers were fired. A large force of Cossacks drawn up outside the building then fired repeated volleys into the crowd, killing 30 and wounding upwards of 70. In the ensuing panic many persons fell and were trampled to death by their comrades and the pursuing Cossack.

combines the best oil with the valuable hypophosphites so that it is easy to digest and does far more good than the oil alone could. That makes Scott's Emulsion the most strengthening, nourishing food-medicine in the world.

bodied man and woman that is willing to work. That is patent to all. And yet we are told that there are scores of able bodied men walking the streets of our big Canadian cities, even in Winnipeg and other cities out west, in idleness. Why is this? It must be that they refuse to leave the city because they do not care to go and live and work in the country.

They are not the men who succeed in this country. If the man who is willing to adjust himself to his new environment, and will put his hand to any honest work that offers that will find Canada what so many thousands who have worked their way upward have found, a country that has generous reward for the man of industry and thrift. The man who thinks that all the good things are within the boundaries of this town or that city, and refuses to go ahead has some stern lessons to learn. They are not the class wanted in Canada to-day. We not only want able-bodied, but strong, hearted, industrious men, who will be patient and hopeful, but at the same time, earnestly desirous to improve themselves and make their country better.

THE GAME SEASON

Preparations For An Active Hunt For Duck and Partridge

The big game season opened September 15th, and until the last day of November it will be permitted each licensed hunter to shoot one bull moose, one bull caribou or two deer, with this restriction, that the game must be taken between an hour before sunset. Dogs and artificial lights may not be employed in the hunt, except that the former may be used to expel wild animals from cultivated fields.

The shooting season for ducks, which opened Sept 1st promises to be one of the best for some years past. Interested parties state that in consideration of the fact that there has been a good deal of damp weather along shore, which is particularly good for web-footed birds, the outlook is very encouraging.

The number of parties this season will probably be unusually large, owing to the fact that sportsmen will be privileged to shoot partridge as well as ducks, and the quantity of shooting irons and ammunition that up to the present time has been sold by dealers in sporting supplies bespeaks a heavy season.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE.

Catanzaro, Calabria, Italy, Sept. 8.—A violent earthquake at 3:55 o'clock this morning caused serious loss of life and widespread destruction in Calabria. The towns of Calabria and Martirano were almost entirely destroyed. At Monteleone di Calabria seven persons were killed outright and many were injured by the collapse of the prison. The Pizzo district is said to be almost entirely destroyed. The walls of the hospital collapsed, injuring some of the patients.

All the houses at Ste Faconi have been wrecked by the earthquake. It is feared that a hundred persons are buried in the ruins. The villages of Piscopio have been destroyed.

It was hoped that the district of Nicastro had escaped, but that also has been seriously affected.

At Martirano all the buildings collapsed, including the barracks of the gendarmes. Six hundred men have thus far been taken from the ruins. There are other victims.

At Ste Faconi, all the houses have fallen and it is feared that a hundred people are under the ruins.

The village of Piscopio, and Tripani are also destroyed.

A Persistent Backache.

CANADA'S REVENUE

More than $750,000 Greater for July and August Than last year

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—The finance department issued the usual monthly statement of revenue and expenditure of the dominion today. For the two months of the current fiscal year ending with August the revenue was $11,635,351, compared with $10,887,145, an increase of more than $750,000. There was an increase in all branches of the service.

The revenue for the month of August was $500,000 greater than for August last year. The expenditure on ordinary account for the two months was about the same as last year, but there was an increase of about $750,000 on capital account. This increase is almost entirely upon public works and railways.

REASON, MY LORDS.

Hails Mr. Turgeon over the Coals for Welcoming Protestant Visitors.

Quebec, Sept. 15.—The French Canadian Conservative organ, L'Evenement, is very angry because the Hon. A. Turgeon in the absence of Premier Gouin and Hon. J. C. McCorkill, the latter the Protestant representative in the Provincial Government, attended the opening session of the General Anglican Synod and extended greetings and a hearty welcome to the Bishops and clergymen and delegates of the General Anglican Synod. L'Evenement deprecates Hon. Mr. Turgeon's audacity and almost threatens him with excommunication.

USE

LeSoleil gives the Conservative organ a severe dressing for its unwarranted display of ignorance, bigotry and want of hospitality, by saying in the conclusion of its editorial on the subject: "The only hope that remains to us is to secure pardon for Mr. Turgeon's inconceivable action. We may do so by representing to the angry high priests of L'Evenement that annually at the New Year season the Lord Bishop of Quebec, a high placed Protestant, presents his respects to his Grace the Archbishop and that the latter, a good Catholic by the way, is not only pleased to receive his distinguished visitor, but to pay him a similar mark of courtesy.

Heaven save us from citing the above fact to incriminate his Grace and to expose him to the terrible exigencies of L'Evenement. We only do so to establish a precedent which saves Hon. Turgeon from the melancholy fate with which he is threatened. After that if we fail to appease the terrible wrath of the Conservative Olympus, and if Hon. Mr. Turgeon must suffer exemplary punishment, let him at least recognize that we have done our best to defend him, and that he owes his sad fate solely to the enormity of his crime and the perversity of his intentions."
