THE ALDINE.
Every issue of the ALDINE is a surprise to all who see it, since it shows a positive growth in art, beauty and literature, from month to month, as gratifying as it is wonderful. "Superb" is the only word which fully characterizes the illustrations for the September issue. The pictures are charming in design and faultless in execution. A copy of Blandford's "Little Rose," drawn by John S. Davis, and engraved by C. Mearns, opens the current number with a flash of beauty almost dazzling for feeling, beauty, expression, and exquisite finish, this picture is equal to a twenty-dollar steel engraving. "A Storm in Utah," by Thomas Moran, is a faithful transcript of nature, showing the scar of the elements in that strange land. The engraving has all the finish of a bank note. The two full-page pictures in this number are "Coming from the Forge," by John S. Davis, and "Kingston, New York," by Kruseman van Elten. The former is a bold and spirited sketch of a scene familiar to all childhood life in the country—two boys on the back of a horse which has stopped to drink from a woodland brook on its way home from the blacksmith's. A dog on the rustic bridge engages the attention of the eldest boy. Van Elten's landscape shows a charming stretch of country, and the ancient city of Kingston, New York. Mr. J. D. Woolward furnishes a general view of the Palisades, as seen from the Hudson river—a striking picture. The other illustrations in this number are "A Bad Job," from the original of Stammel, showing the interior of an ar-mor's shop; "The Women of Schorndorf," from the original of Habertin, a historical picture; three views of Lincoln Cathedral, showing the church, the interior of the Westwerk Transept, and Bishop Langland's monument; and a pretty picture for fall—"Gems of the Changing Autumn!"

The Aldine Company has determined to establish an Art Union, similar to the well-known Art Union in England, and distribute its works of art, both sculpture and paintings, which are constantly collecting, among its subscribers. Art premiums, valued at $2,500, will be distributed among each series of 5,000 subscribers. Subscription tickets, at $6.00 each, entitle the holder to the "Aldine" for a year, to the new chromo, and to a ticket in the distribution of art premiums.

The literary contents of the September ALDINE consist of a poem by Elizabeth Akers Allen, "The Bobolink"; a sweet story of the child love of Nicolo Paganini, from the Italian; an admirable paper on "English Landladies," by Mrs. M. E.
W. Sherwood; "The Story of the Lightning," a poem by Edgar Fawcett; "Theresa and Her Lovers," by Frances Lee; an interesting account of "The Women of Schorndorf," "The Discontented Sister," a poem by H. J. Barren Bostwick; a lengthy article on Franz Liszt, by Elsie Polko; a charming account of St. Martin's Day, a children's festival, by C. W. Conant; "Voices of the Night," by Jessy Barr; "Monsieur Le Blanc," by Mrs. George Barlett; "At the Tomb," by Julia C. R. Dorr; and Lincoln Cathedral, by Ful-fer Walker. The Editorial articles upon music, art, literature, and descriptive of the pictures, are filled with fresh and valuable matter. The Aldine

Poetry.

GOOD-BYE.
Good-bye, good-bye, it is the sweetest blessing That falls from mortal lips on mortal ear.
The weakness of our human love confessing, The promise that a love more strong is near—
May God be with you!

Why do we say it when the tears are starting?
Why must a word so sweet bring only pain?
Our love seems all-sufficient till the parting, And then we feel it impotent and vain—
May God be with you!

THE STORY OF A DREAM.

My only sister, Edith, married when I was scarcely six years of age. My mother died soon after that event; so I was left at home with my father and brothers. My father said I resembled my mother, and I think loved me better than anything on earth. The boys, too, indulged me in every whim. I don't think I had a wish ungratified.
They said I was pretty; and in my youthful vanity I imagined myself beautiful. Ah, me! those happy days of my bright girlhood, when I was careless and light-hearted, dreading no evil because knowing none, are even now a pleasant memory to me.

My sister lived at some distance from home; absorbed in the cares of her family, she rarely visited us, but I spent nearly half my time at Ellangowan, the name of my brother-in-law's place.
I was deeply attached to my sister and her children; and I found a dear friend in the person of her governess, Miss Gray. She was a fragile, golden-haired creature, with tender, intensely mournful brown eyes, the saddest eyes I have ever seen; she was so fair and slight as to look almost childish, notwithstanding her five-and-twenty years.

I liked her from the first; but she was very shy, and it was some time before my childish overtures of friendship met with any response; and even when we had grown to love each other, she still maintained an impenetrable reserve concerning her early life. She received no letters, avoided all company, and appeared to have a morbid terror of meeting strangers. I had a girl's curiosity; and Miss Gray never spoke of herself, and answered all questions with a gentle reserve that was more repelling than rudeness. Ever ready to sympathize in the troubles of others, she never spoke of her own griefs—and griefs I was convinced she had. I was determined that the owner of those sad, brown eyes, had a history; but my sister laughed at what she styled my romantic notions.
Miss Gray had come to her highly recommended; she was devoted to her little charges; there the interest which Edith had in her governess ended.

I was twenty when I first met Rupert Gordon.
For two years I had reigned as a belle, and as yet I liked never known a grief. The first time I looked upon his face, the first time I listened to the persuasive music of his voice, I loved him—loved him with all the mad recklessness of a headstrong girl's first love. I saw that he was handsome, and my fancy endowed him with a thousand heroic attributes, then I knelt and blindly worshipped my idol. Oh, the passionate fervor, the deep, trusting tenderness lavished upon that shrine! I could scarcely believe in the reality of my happiness when he confessed his love and asked me to be his wife—his wife! I would have been content to be his slave!

Surely the course of true love never flowed smoother than did ours. Rupert was all that was desirable; my father heartily approved of my choice; the relatives on both sides were highly pleased; so it was settled that we were to be married at once.

The few months of my engagement passed rapidly away, and the time of my marriage drew near.
Edith was unable to come to us, until the day before the wedding; and by my particular request, Miss Gray and the children were to accompany her.

Now, it was one of my peculiarities that I never dreamed; but at this, for three nights in succession, I dreamed precisely the same dream. I tho't I was clasped in Rupert's arms, close to his heart, and my happiness was complete; then Miss Gray, her pale face wet with tears, came and begged me to leave him. I could not account for it, but she inspired me with a great terror, and I awoke close to my lover. Gently, her sad eyes gazing pitifully into mine, her ice-cold hands restraining me, she loosed my clinging arms, notwithstanding my frantic cries. I saw Rupert vanish from me, and I knew that he would never be my own again.
Then I awoke, weeping bitterly. This dream produced a painful impression upon me at first; but in the general confusion and excitement I soon forgot it.

The seventeenth of May was to be my wedding day; on the sixteenth, Edith and her family arrived, all in high spirits, the children in a perfect fever of excitement over Aunt Mary's marriage.
Everything in the house was in a state of preparation for the ceremony next day; so after luncheon I took Miss Gray up to my room to show her my wedding dress, too, with its shining satin folds; and looking at myself in the mirror, I could scarcely believe that the face peeping from beneath the mist-like lace veil and delicate wreath was mine. It looked so flushed and radiant with happiness. Miss Gray, in her quiet, gentle way, was almost as excited as I. She listened to all my praises of my lover, and rejoiced in my happiness; though I had been her sister. I was still standing before the mirror in my bridal robes, when Miss Gray, who was standing at the window, gave a sharp cry of pain, and turned to me with such a ghastly face that I was frightened.

Who is that? Oh, tell me, who is that? she gasped.

I looked out, and saw Rupert coming up the avenue. My noble Rupert, with his happy careless face.

A CHILD'S LOVE.

One beautiful afternoon in May, a child was wandering thoughtfully along the flowery banks of the Genes, his back turned to the village, and his grave eyes fixed vacantly upon the blue expanse of waters, like a troubled soul vainly seeking companionship. He appeared to be about thirteen years of age, his face was pale and sorrowful, his eyebrows strongly marked, while his dark eyes sparkled with a weird brilliancy which at times had an almost sinister expression.

He remained lost in thought some time, his head resting upon his slim, nervous hand, listening to the murmuring waves, as they broke at his feet, gazing sadly to the distance with unutterable longing. Suddenly the joyous laughter of childhood broke quietly upon his musings; a little girl came running across the waving field and threw both arms enthusiastically about his neck.

Oh, you naughty, naughty Nicolo; what are you doing here? I've been looking everywhere for you! Uttering these half scolding words, she continued to overwhelm him with caresses, and laid a little basket filled with wild roses and explanations at his feet, in token of her childish affection. The shadow of a smile flitted across the boy's face as he looked down at his laughing eyes; he ran his fingers through her floppy curls, gave a sly, cautious look around, and whispered:

I ran away from my father, Gianetta; he gave me leave to rest, so I came to this lovely place—you know how I value my short liberty, and how I adore the murmuring of these waves! Listen to their weird music!

It is too bad of your father, sighed the child, to torment you with those hateful exercises; you will die of overwork! Poor Nicolo, so mother said to me, is much too delicate; his lawless violin will be the death of him before long, and it will be his father's fault! And mother is right! she added, looking anxiously at the young boy's worn face.

Do not fear for me, Gianetta, replied Nicolo! I shall not die yet; I must grow up to be a man! Look, how strong I am! He drew himself up to his full height, his dark eyes flashed and a smile of rare tenderness played around his ripe lips. With his strong arms he lifted his little playmate and held her suppended over the water for some seconds.
Suddenness did not linger longer in the heart of a child. Gianetta seeing him so gay, continued singing, passing ever and anon for some bit of childish gossip. Nicolo listened, amused, at the artless prattle about her flowers, her doves, her games, and her dolls, and whenever he sank into an unconscious fit of abstraction, Gianetta quickly brought him back to her with a playful shake or tender kiss.

The children remained on the strand until the stars came out one after another, smiling alike on the serious eyes of Nicolo and the suppended ones of the pretty Gianetta. Then, indeed, they turned their steps homeward, their arms wound around each other in the innocent loving embrace of childhood. After a long walk, they turned down a narrow lane, at the end of which stood two humble cottages, overgrown with vines—one the home of Gianetta, the other of Nicolo. At the threshold of the former stood the mother of the little girl, anxiously awaiting the return of the children, whom she tenderly embraced as they came running up to her; then, wishing each other good night, Nicolo crossed over to his home.

On entering his dingy little room he sighed deeply, raised the window to let in the mild night air, and opening a chest, drew from it an old violin. Seating himself near the casement, through which the silvery moonlight flooded, he passed his fingers across the strings, and drew from them the most entrancing strains of music, dying away at times into wonderous melancholy, then swelling into triumphant gladness.

Scarcely had he commenced playing, when a large spider crawled out of the vines and came on the shutter.

Welcome! cried the young musician gayly, as it advanced, he laid his finger on the window sill allowed the spider to make its way over it, and placed it in triumph upon his violin, where it remained during the whole performance, as if enchanted by the wonderful music of the music.

Nicolo continued practicing until his eyelids closed in sleep, and not until the sun shone into his eyes did he awake from his sound slumbers. He arose, and replaced his music, still sleeping companion carefully upon the vine leaves.

Every time that he laid aside his violin, when inspiration or strength failed, he sank into his habitual morbid reverie. The absence of the spider increased this feeling of solitude, for he was attached to the creature with all the passion of a fervent and unhappy disposition. His father was a hard and relentless master—his dead mother he only dimly remembered as having smiled upon him with infinite sweetness as she sang him to sleep with her gentle lullaby. But that was so long, long ago, and now he had no friends; for the children of his own age avoided the dreamy, reserved lad. Only little Gianetta was good to him, coming often to his room and listening in silent admiration to the inspired music of his violin. "But Gianetta detested the spider. "There is wickedness in it!" she would say, with a dainty little shudder, and so the insect was never admitted during her visits. When his fingers grew stiff with exercise, Nicolo softened the hours by telling fairy tales, romantic adventures and his own hopes for the future to his delighted little companion, who would listen without daring to interrupt, her eyes gleaming with joy, as she pressed the feverish hands of the agitated narrator. Sometimes Nicolo told her of Mozart, who was already famous at the tender age of six. Oh, Gianetta! he would exclaim, how shall I seem beside him! And hot tears chased down his attenuated cheeks. In vain the pitying Gianetta tried to console him—his was the jealousy common to genius!

One day the young musician, under the direction of his father, had been performing a series of monotonous exercises, so that his arms seemed paralyzed. Utterly worn out he laid aside his violin, and leaned his weary head against the window, when all of a sudden he heard a sharp cry. It was the mother of Gianetta, who called to him. Springing up with alacrity, he ran across to his playmate's home. He found the little girl lying on her bed, her form writhing with a raging fever, her breath coming hard and slow, and her bright eyes looking fix-dly into space. On recognizing her friend, she looked at him with a supplicating glance, which Nicolo readily interpreted. With tears in his eyes he ran swiftly for his discarded instrument, crying as he came back:

My sweet little Gianetta, I will play a lullaby to you, and you will be well again! He sat down by her bedside, and forgetting his fati-gued, played with all the fervor of his soul; his anguish, his hope, his love, seemed to breathe from the wondrous tones, and like the voice of angels descending to earth, they soothed with their sublime harmony the pains of the sick child, who, at first, had flinched with wild, feverish eagerness, which gradually gave place to calm repose. The restfulness of her soul was depicted upon her flushed cheeks, her little hands were clasped peacefully, as the murmured gentle prayers for her faithful friend, who with tearful eyes and nervous hands was trying to soothe the anguish of his own breaking heart as well as the pain which racked the form of his sweet little Gian-etta. When he had finished playing, she held out her thin, white hand:

Dear Nicolo, she said in a low, broken voice, I am going to leave you. I hear sweet angels calling me. You cannot follow me; you must remain behind; but far from this place, you will become famous, all the world will speak your name—oh, then, do not forget your little Gianetta! Her head sank back among the pillows, and almost without a struggle the sweet eyes closed forever!

Nicolo remained gazing absently upon her lovely face. Also, for the first time it was dead in his tears and supplications. Wild with grief, he wandered about all day and part of the night, without aim, without any thought save that of his loneliness. He visited the water side where only a few days ago they had been so happy together; he lingered in every spot sacred to their mutual pleasures, and when at a late hour he returned to his room, he shuddered at the awful stillness which reigned there. He looked across to Gianetta's home. The window was open; he could see the child lying asleep in her narrow bed, almost hidden by the profusion of wild flowers which she had loved while upon earth. A priest was kneeling by her side, his venerable head bowed and his trembling lips murmuring prayers for the repose of her soul.
Nicolo threw himself upon his knees: Farewell, farewell my joy, my love! As you have told me, I am going far from this place, where everything recalls my cruel loss; where I cannot find rest nor forgetfulness, deserted as I am by every creature! At these words he trembled—some chilling cold touched his hand.
It was the spider! Poor insect! he cried; the only living thing left to me! Come, I will play to you, for the first time, the air, which my poor Gianetta loved. I will play them as a requiem for her soul!

He took out his violin. The sweet, saturated music flooded the air, wandering out to the little dead child, who seemed to smile at their message. Even the flowers seemed to nod their heads opened corollas, and the weeping priest passed in his devout prayer to the music's divine power.

On the morrow the red rays of the sun fell across a sleeping child, still clasping his beloved instrument, on cords of which lay a dead spider!

The hero of this little romance is Nicolo Paganini.

Telegraphic News.

London, Aug. 31. The final sitting of the International Congress at Brussels was held Friday, and the protocol has been signed by all but the English and Turkish delegates.

The French authorities have prohibited the sale of the London papers containing Bazaine's letter.

Quarantine regulations have been put in force at Queenstown, which causes great hindrance to commerce. All persons are prevented from leaving or embarking on vessels from ports in America, West Indies, Mediterranean and Black Sea until it is ascertained that such vessels have a clean bill of health.

Another battle with the Spaniards is reported in Cuba. Some 2000 Spanish troops are said to have been put to flight.

Gold 98 to 95.

MANITOBA.—Capt. Cameron, R. A., of the International Boundary Commission, has again been heard from. He was in sight of the Rocky Mountains and had not experienced any trouble or interference from the red men.

The Free Press says:—Arrangements are about being completed to have postal matters between this Province and Tlaxcala Bay, and other places on the upper lakes, transmitted by Duluth.

The grasshopper is committing great ravages in the western section of the Province. It is stated that in Osowa all the crops with the exception of potatoes have been completely destroyed.

The bill for the abolition of lay patronage in the Church of Scotland has at length been carried through the British Parliament. It is the first movement towards the disestablishment of the Scottish Church.

QUEEN ISABELLA of Spain has either the taste or the misfortune to be frequently involved in litigation. An action has now been brought against her by her butcher, grocer, fruiterer and other tradesmen, for the amount of their bills, to which her defence is that she contracted with her cook, named Blanchard to provide everything necessary for the table except choice wine and other extras, at the rate of 12 francs a day per head, and that she having paid him the money, he alone was responsible to the shopkeepers.

THE BLACK HILLS.—Gen. Custer has commenced his return march. His men and animals were in excellent condition and they had no trouble with the Indians. It is said that among the Black Hills gold and silver is found in quantities so great that with a pick and pan a single miner may take out $100 per day. The distance from Bismarck to the gold regions is about 250 miles over a practicable route. Citizens of Bismarck are greatly excited, and already expeditions are organizing.

THE GIFT TO PRINCE LEOPOLD of $75,000 a year by the nation, has called forth a sarcastic article from the London "Examiner" which says:—

"The nation is too poor to send out a respectable or complete expedition to observe the transit of Venus. It can not afford to aid the scientific societies of London in building a residence and commodious dwelling place. It refuses, on the score of poverty, to assist in providing the capital of Scotland with a national library. To the subordinate members of the royal family it awards annuities amounting to more than half of what is voted to the entire Department of Science and Art."

GOOD FOR THE STEAMERS.—It having been represented to the U. States Treasury Department that steam vessels of certain lines plying between Eastport, Boston, Portland and the British Provinces, carry passengers and perishable freight, and that any considerable detention at the several ports visited, would be disastrous to the business of the lines, the Secretary of the Treasury has prepared regulations which, it is hoped, will obviate the difficulty.

GLANDERS.—The report of the Veterinary Department of the Privy Council Office shows that glanders increases every year, and further, confesses that the official returns far from giving a true indication of the number of cases. In London it is very widely spread, and some of the Durham colliers seem to have suffered frightfully. On one of them a miner has succumbed to the disease, having been inoculated by washing his hands in a cistern at which an affected animal had drunk. If the disease be allowed to continue unchecked we shall certainly hear of the loss of more human life.

STABBING AFFRAY AT ST. GEORGE.—A St. George correspondent of the "Globe" writes:—

"On Saturday evening last, a number of quartermen were proceeding home, some of them quarrelled, and one of the number, a man named Robinson, was stabbed through the fore arm, the point of the dirk or knife passing through the arm and striking the testis. The wounded man alleges that a party named Lynch stabbed him. An investigation will be had. Some of the parties it is said, were under the influence of 'stabbing rum.'"

SAINT ANDREWS, SEP. 2, 1874.

Chamcook Church Pic Nic.

The Chamcook Church Pic Nic was held yesterday on the beautiful grounds of Geo. S. Grimmer, Esq., at Chamcook. The morning was fair; towards noon, light showers of rain began to fall, but about 2 P. M. the clouds cleared away, and people in their holiday attire were wending their way to the train. At a few minutes past 2 the two carriages were filled, and away they sped for Chamcook, where they arrived in quarter of an hour. The excursionists were soon on the grounds, which were gaily decorated with flags; several rustic tents were erected for the sale of choice articles and as dining rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimmer were unremitting in their attention to all. Their hospitable and elegant mansion was thrown open to their many friends from St. Andrews and St. Stephen, for he it known that a large number from St. Stephen and Calais came down by train and carriage. The splendid lawn, with its rich, soft carpet of grass, and the arbors were dotted with numerous forms flitting here and there, some in little knots, others in pairs, quietly discussing (we imagine) future probable and blissful events; while others again were practising archery, playing croquet, enjoying delightful and exhilarating swings, &c.

The young men and lads amused themselves with games of Base Ball, Quoits, Archery and other amusements. The young ladies the meanwhile plying their vocation at the tables, and with bland smiles and winning persistence ways alluring the loose change from the pockets of the veteran sex for a ticket in "this splendid cake,"—that "beautiful doll,"—"elegant cushion,"—or some other pretty worked article of their production.

The occasional showers somewhat marred the amusements; but the Pic Nic'ers were bound to have a pleasant time, and they had it. It would have required a very heavy shower to damp their energies, and drive them to seek shelter. Fortunately they were not obliged to do so, but enjoyed themselves.

It is due to our Chamcook friends to state, that a bountiful and excellent dinner and tea were provided for all, at a trifling cost. At six o'clock the whistle sounded and the large party took leave of their kind Chamcook friends, got on board the cars, and arrived at their homes, without the slightest accident having occurred during the day, and highly pleased with the Pic Nic.

There were so many nice articles unsold, that we suggest they be brought to town, and placed in some large hall where a concert and fancy sale can be held, and disposed of to the highest bidder. The sooner it is done, the greater the prospect of realizing good prices. It would serve the double purpose of passing a pleasant hour and realize a respectable sum.

Since the foregoing was written, we learn that it has been decided to hold a Tea Meeting and Dance at Chamcook, on Friday evening next. No doubt the affair will be well patronized, as good music and a pleasant time may be looked for.

A MEETING of the Directors of the Charlotte County Agricultural Society was held at Agricultural Hall, Bay Side, on Friday last, when the List of Premiums was arranged, and the days for holding the Ploughing Match and Fair and Show decided upon. It will be seen when the list of Premiums is published in our next issue, that special prizes will be awarded for pure bred cattle, which have been introduced into the County through the instrumentality of the Society; indeed it would be difficult to find in this vicinity any stock which has not a mixture of imported blood, either Yorkshire, Devon or Alderney. From well informed farmers we learn, that the number of young cattle of improved breeds to be exhibited at the Fair will surpass any former show.

ADVANTAGE OF ADVERTISING.—In the STANDARD of Wednesday last, "a Gold Pen and case," were advertised as lost; the next morning, a gentleman came to the office, and having received a description of the case and pen, returned it, generously refusing to receive any reward. We mention the fact, as evidence of what an honest and true hearted person will do, from an innate sense of true honesty, and to draw a contrast between the mean, selfish, and dishonest individuals, who recently picked up a purse and ring, also advertised as lost in the streets, but who, unlike the finder of the gold pen, had not the honesty even to claim the liberal reward offered; and the owner of the ring being willing to give even more than its intrinsic value, as it was a family memento.

The "Globe" has recently had a new dress of handsome faced type, which places it in the front rank of neatly printed daily journals. While we do not agree with some of its political leanings, we can admire its excellent digest of the latest news, its fair editorials and the ability it displays in discussing great questions. We write this, without any desire of detracting from the merits of other journals. They are good, and we can truly state, that with them all we are on best terms. Our long experience has taught us a lesson which we believe to be a useful one, viz: not to meddle in the local affairs of other Counties where papers are published.

THE WESLEYAN SABBATH SCHOOL PIC NIC held on Wednesday last, in the grove on the Dunn farm, Joe's Point, gave great pleasure to the children of that school, who enjoyed themselves with swings, playing games, and social chats. A long table was erected in a rustic arbor, and loaded with cakes, tart, pies, raspberries, coffee and tea, which were served to the pupils about four o'clock, and after they had been abundantly supplied, the teachers and parents sat down and enjoyed themselves. The Rev. Mr. Tweedie, the pastor, and the Superintendent, Capt. Balson, were indefatigable in their efforts, to render the children happy. As the shades of evening were "closing o'er them," all returned to their homes, delighted with the Pic Nic.

In company with the Senior Trustees of St. Andrews, we visited the School taught by Miss Addie Hanson, at Bay Side, on Friday. Although Miss Hanson has been only a short time in charge of the school, it was apparent that progress had been made by the pupils in their studies. Their knowledge of History, Grammar, Arithmetic and spelling was creditable, and the manner in which they read, would do credit to any school.

Some of our Riflemen left for Sussex on Monday last, to present at the Provincial Rifle Competition on the 1st inst. We trust they may be as successful in bringing home prizes as in previous years.

The Hon. Dr. Parker, from Halifax, was here for a few days on a visit to the Hon. Dr. Tupper. His Hon. Judge Fisher and family were here this week.

T. T. ODELL, Esq., returned from England in the steamer "Republic" of the White Star Line, and arrived here yesterday afternoon. The climate and roast beef of his native country, evidently agree with him, as during his short absence he has grown stout. He purchased his Fall and Winter stock of goods, most of which will be open this week, and particulars given in our next.

The Committee of Plymouth Church has reported favorably to Mr. Beecher. Glad of it, there will now be an end to the infamous sensation scandal. Even had the allegations been true, their publication should never have been tolerated.

On Wednesday afternoon last, Mrs. Craig, wife of Mr. John Craig, was suddenly taken alarmingly ill, exhibiting symptoms of poisoning. Dr. Harry Gove was immediately called in, and pronounced it a case of poisoning from fish which she had taken for her dinner. The Doctor informs us that it is a peculiar idiosyncrasy in individuals, who sometimes have severe and dangerous symptoms after partaking of simple articles of diet. A gentleman of his acquaintance is invariably very ill after eating strawberries. We are pleased to learn Mrs. Craig is rapidly recovering.

The last number of our witty contemporary "Quip," has a cartoon of the Government enclosed in what is supposed to be a "lumbering" it hits right and left.

ESCAPED.—Two men and a boy confined in the Jail, escaped last night, by cutting the iron bars of the window.

THE NEW LAKE or SEA in Africa. The French government has recently voted the sum necessary for the formation of a great inland sea in Algeria, 190 miles long by 36 broad, to the south of Biskra. It is thought, by the "Revue des Deux Mondes," that the result of this measure will be a great improvement in the climate of the interior, a great addition to the facilities for inland transport, and the introduction of commerce and civilization into the very heart of Africa. The Chott Mal-Rir, "Chott" implying the bed of a lake, the proposed site of this inland sea is found to be at least 90 feet below the Mediterranean; while the Chott Sallem, with which it communicates, which lies between it and the sea, is 54 feet lower still. A chain of "chotts," of smaller area but equal depression, extends thence to within 12 miles of the coast of Tunis, at the Gulf of Gabes, and a canal connecting the nearest "chott" with the sea would admit the waters of the Mediterranean, and convert the desolate region of Chott Mal-Rir into a great inland sea. The estimated cost is only three millions of dollars, and the engineering difficulties, after the experience gained during the construction of the Suez canal, would be inconsiderable.

At a recent sitting of the Academy of Sciences, Paris, M. de Lesseps stated that, on the war budget being presented, a sum of $5,000 would be applied for to cover the expenses of the definite survey of the basin. The engineers intrusted with the operation of cutting through the Isthmus of Gabes will then start from Biskra, with the aid, not only of the Governor General of Algeria, but also of the Bey of Tunis, equally interested in the success of the enterprise.

It has been suggested that, while it was very practicable to cut the proposed canal and admit the water of the Mediterranean to the desert, the ultimate result, owing to the rapid evaporation, might simply be the formation of an immense deposit of salt. This appears to be also the view taken by M. Ch. Honyvet, who, at the above sitting of the Academy, gave a paper on the subject. He observes that the Mediterranean sea, of course, be tapped as they propose, and an immense inland sea formed; but that a vast surface of evaporation will thus be exposed to the sun's rays; and that, as the loss of water by this action can only be replaced by the sea through the canal, the end of the whole operation will be the formation of a thick crust of salt at the bottom, where, by all navigation will be stopped in a short time, and millions will have been spent to create a gigantic salt pit, and nothing more.

New Industrial Resources of French Colonies.

A French commission has recently carried on extensive investigations into the resources of the colonies of France, with a view of determining as to whether certain indigenous productions can be utilized for industrial purposes. From the results elicited, it appears that active measures will be taken for the introduction of some products and for the cultivation of others. Special attention is to be given in the Reunion Islands to the cultivation of vanilla. Plantations are established, which will be renewed every ten years, and are designed solely for the propagation of healthy slips for distribution, it being hoped that, by this means, the gradual disappearance of healthy plants may be checked.

The Tahiti Islands furnish the finest variety of mother of pearl now known; but commerce therein is at present carried on by English and German merchants. French government officials have been supplied with funds, and efforts will, through them, be made to establish a French trade, both in this substance and in tortoiseshell. Rainis is found in large quantities in Tchiti, but is too costly a production to figure in commerce. Another variety, also adapted to textile manufacture, has been recognized in the Antilles and in French Guiana. The crop averages about 3,420 pounds to the acre, the white fibers being some 6 feet in length, and worth 18 cents per pound. This yield per acre is superior to that of sugar. The sap of the "balata miossop," or Guiana gutta percha tree, was rejected, in 1867, as valueless, on account of the friable properties of the resulting product, and the resinous effluence which appeared thereon. Some fragments of the plates employed in the tests have lately again been experimented upon, and the material is now found to possess all the qualities of good gutta percha. The former defects were due to bad preparation. Further investigations into this product will be inaugurated.

The commission has also found a large deposit of valuable fertilizer in the bones of the cod from the fisheries of St. Pierre and Miquelon. The remains are rich in phosphate of lime, and contain 31 per cent of ossein.

SULPHUR IN ICELAND.—Dr. Bloke gives a full and clear description of the vast deposits of sulphur occurring in Iceland, and points out the necessary steps for its utilization. For its shipment he recommends the port of Husavik, which is accessible all the year round, and which is situated very near to the sulphur beds of Lake Myvatn, Krabla, and Reykjahlid. The mines are not only rich and extensive, but easily worked. The sulphur can be supplied at half the cost of that furnished by the Sicilian mines, which it is believed will soon be exhausted. The earth impregnated with sulphur contains from 50 to 60 per cent, and is from three to six feet in thickness. Vapors arising from the interior of the earth continually deposit fresh supplies.

ANNATO.—In the two French colonies of Martinique and Cayenne, there are more than six thousand acres under culture with annatto (bixa orellana), the annual produce being three million pounds. Although French Guiana has nearly five times the extent of land under culture with this plant that Guadeloupe has, it only produces about two thirds of the whole quantity. The production of annatto now exceeds the demand, as no fresh use has been found for this coloring substance, unless it is the manufacture of suet butter. Annatto is used to give the yellow color of tallow butter.

SUMMARY. The Chignecto "Post" says last February a person calling herself Miss Wilson and professing to come from Montreal, solicited subscriptions for "Autumn Leaves," a quarterly to be issued by herself commencing in April last. A large number of ladies in this vicinity subscribed and paid in advance—and have since waited in vain for "Autumn Leaves."

IN LOCK.—A mysterious looking package arrived at Augusta the other day, by express from California, addressed to E. F. Pillsbury, Esq., of the Maine "Standard." On opening it Mr. Pillsbury found an elegant gold watch, a present to him from a Mr. Putnam, who was a law student of his in his office at Farmington. The watch is valued at $300.

A singular accident is reported from Mount Vernon, Ind.—On the 18th August, two men were blasting out a well, and one of the charges failed to explode, they quit work and went to supper. On return water was thrown into the well, and both men descended, when the charge unexpectedly exploded killed each of them.

Mr. Saml. Hutton, one of the Paris crew, met with a serious accident last week. While at work in the loft of his fish store, Carleton, he fell backward and had his hand badly cut.

HOW HE WON HER EAR.—There comes from North Carolina a story that a Mr. Justice Goforth had been courting a Miss Pointedexter, and, as she flatly rejected his offer, he grew frantic and ran up and caught her by the ear in his teeth. Her shrieks soon brought all the family to her assistance, but the girl's father had to insert the potato between Goforth's teeth, and her mother came to the rescue with a rolling pin, but the cannibal could be detached from his hold. This omnivorous junior, is probably a relative of the man who declared that before marriage he was fond of his wife that he thought he could have eaten her, but the ceremony had not been performed a month before he wished to heaven that he had—and doubtless she agreed with him.

The Aldine,
AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY JOURNAL, UNIVER-SALLY ADMITTED TO BE THE HANDSOMEST PERIODICAL IN THE WORLD, A REPRESENTATIVE AND CHAMPION OF AMERICAN TASTE.

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there are the chromes besides!

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won a world-wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is an admitted fact that its wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yielding to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantage of superior artistic quality with greater facility of production. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the artist's original.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view of the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at a trifling cost, enjoy in his own home the pleasures and refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Thos. Moran and J. D. Woodward. The Christmas issue for 1874 will contain special designs appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractions any of its predecessors.

PREMIUM FOR 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thomas Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view in the White Mountains, New Hampshire; the other depicts the Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12x16) and appear as exact fac-similes of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20th, 1873.
Messrs. JAMES STURTON & Co., Genl. Agents, 1-100 Broadway, New York.
Gentlemen:—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful reproductions by mechanical process of the original paintings. Very respectfully, (Signed) THOS. MORAN.

TERMS.
$5 per annum in advance, with 10 Chromos free.
For 50 CENTS EXTRA, the chromos will be sent mounted, varnished and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscription must be sent to the publishers direct, or remitted to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in case where the certificate is given, bearing the so-called signature of JAMES STURTON & Co.

CANVASSERS WANTED.
Any person wishing to act permanently as a local canvasser will receive full and prompt information by applying to JAMES STURTON & Co., Publishers, 55 Maiden Lane, New York.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinecar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINECAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINECAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease which is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use VINECAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.
No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.
Grateful Thousands proclaim VINECAR BITTERS the most wonderful Laxative that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their sad tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remain long during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's VINECAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.
Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Scalded Skin, Gout, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, &c., &c. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINECAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gonorrhoea, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINECAR BITTERS occasionally.
For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pus-tules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scourf, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.
For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is most perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, that assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only medicine that attempts to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose—see VINECAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Bores; cleanse it when you find it clogged and thickened in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your sufferings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
