Toronto's Ball-Tossers Annihilate Springfield.

Pigeon Race from Toronto to London on Monday.

Eastern and National League Scores—The Windsor Races.

BASEBALL.

TORONTO 22, SPRINGFIELD 0.

Toronto, May 23.—They are called the "Ponies" down Massachusetts way, but they looked like a lot of broken-down street car horses, did these Springfield ball players, upon the conclusion of yesterday's game with Toronto. The scrappers had things all their own way, thumping the ball all over the field, for doubles, triples and home runs, until Pitcher Jordan and the rest of Tom Burns' pets cried aloud for mercy. There is no such article in baseball circles, however, and the Torontos swiped the ball for 26 hits and 2 runs, being the record up to date, and fattening their batting averages.

Springfield could not solve Dunn's curves, a single solitary and scratchy single decorating their base-hit column. This is the best pitching feat ever made in the Eastern League or since professional ball was introduced here. In only one inning did Springfield get a runner as far as second. Three rattling double plays on the part of the Torontos show the quality of their work in the field.

SCRANTON'S NEW MEN.

Buffalo, May 23.—Harry Simpson, the owner of the Scranton baseball club, is a millionaire. He is disgusted with the poor showing made by the team, and is determined to strengthen it at any cost. Yesterday he signed Pitcher Harper, formerly of Brooklyn, and this morning "Arlie" Latham was signed by telegraph. Buffalo was also after "The Dude." Scranton is to be congratulated on his acquisition, and he is the best coach in the business, and can still play a good third base. He will be a great attraction wherever his club goes.

THE TURF.

GOOD FOR THE COMPANY.

Woodbine Track, Toronto, May 22. — A big consignment of race horses (all of Windsor's entires) have just been landed here by the Canadian Express Company's special. Owners and consignees of the same speak in the highest possible terms of the treatment received, both as to car accommodation, dispatching at Windsor, running time, and delivery at Toronto, and claim that the similar service in "the States" has never excelled, and in a great many cases fell very far short of, the Canadian Express Company's handling. The shipment contained the pick of the southern and western "winners," who are being constantly moved around the country. This is certainly very complimentary to the management of the Canadian Express Company.

MESSENGER PIGEONS.

FROM TORONTO TO LONDON.

Toronto, May 23.—Yesterday Mr. James Gardiner, president of the Canadian Federation of Messenger Pigeon Clubs, received a communication from the secretary of the Forest City Messenger Pigeon Club, of London, requesting his to act as liberator in a race from Toronto to London. He wired back his acceptance, and the birds will be liberated from the top of the Mail and Empire building on Monday morning about 9 a.m. This is the first time the Forest City Club has flown a race from Toronto.

THE WHEEL.

The finance committee of the Quebec City Council has voted $1,000, with a probability of a further grant, to the Quebec Bicycle Club to aid in entertaining the wheelmen attending the C. W. A. meet on Dominion Day.

E. Cooper, Angus McLeod, W. McIntosh, Fred Westbrook, J. H. Wills, Fred. A. Foell, Chas. Werrick, L. A. Calahan, J. H. Gratz, and F. W. Young are all after the "long green" at Brantford on Monday.

Andrew Pattullo, of Woodstock, has returned from Hot Springs, and it is probable that he will be prevailed upon to retain the chairmanship of the C. W. A. good roads committee.

New York, May 23.—The first daily cycling paper ever published in the English language appeared here this morning. It is the Daily American Wheelman. This paper has been one of the leading weekly papers devoted to wheeling interests for the last three years. It believes the growth of cycling news renders it necessary to issue a paper every day. The paper will be seven columns, four pages, and will chronicle the cycling news of the world. The weekly will be continued.

SYRACUSE TO STOP "SCORCHING."

Syracuse, May 22.—Mayor McGuire and other Syracuse officials will follow the example of New York city in trying to prevent "scorching" by bicycle riders. Six policemen are to be mounted on wheels for duty on the prominent thoroughfares. There have been several serious accidents owing to "scorchers."

When the Rush for Springbank Sets in on Monday.

The Pleasures of the Trip—Lilies at the Coves—River Views and Landscapes—The Cemetery.

For the last few days the advance guard of the great army of pleasure seekers which will invade Springbank on Monday have been "spying out the land," and not one of the large number of visitors has returned disappointed. While they may not have found the place overflowing with "milk and honey," they found it completely filled with inviting and interesting nooks and crannies, any one of which are worth a visit. Many people have never yet seen the vast collecting ponds where the water is gathered from the springs. In some cases the water may be seen bubbling through the earth at the bottom of the ponds. The water is so transparent that the bottom seems in some cases to be only a couple of feet away, where, in reality, it is six, seven and even eight. These ponds abound in pretty speckled trout.

From the collecting basins the water is pumped by powerful machinery into the reservoir on the top of Springbank hill. This immense basin, nearly an acre in extent, slopes inward and downward to a point at the base, where it is connected with the main for the city. The work of the machinery is finished as soon as the water reaches the top of the hill, and the force of gravitation carries the sparkling liquid to the town.

Next to the beautiful views afforded by the hill, the system of waterworks is perhaps Springbank's best attraction. The pumping houses contain the most approved steam and hydraulic machinery, and the flywheel in the engine house is the largest in this section of the country, and a novel sight of itself.

Springbank abounds with wild flowers of every description, from marguerites to wild roses. The woods contain all the natural treasures, which will make the spot a regular hunting ground for the student, and the limestone formation of the rock makes even the river bed a perfect paradise for geologists.

The grounds contain a whirligig and baseball park, and the extent of driveway is large enough to permit of several series of games and races being conducted at once. Seats are scattered about under the trees to the very top of the hill, and where these are not to be had, the grassy slope makes a couch which no tired mortal need despise.

But one of the chief attractions at Springbank will always be the trip by rail. Cars leave the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets every few minutes, and proceed via Richmond and York and Stanley streets to the Wharncliffe. And at the bridge on the Wharncliffe the traveler gets his first glimpse of the beautiful scenery about to be traversed. The car waits on the overhead bridge while the conductor goes ahead to set the switch, and the people on the car have a charming view to the west. Close at hand are the well-cultivated and nicely-laid-out Rosedale trial grounds. Further on is the river and the Cove bridge, with the rising ground beyond, and there is generally a train in sight to add to the novelty of the view. The trolley moves on and swings into Railway street, and for several hundred yards the course runs parallel with the railroad. All at once the railway appears to rise, but it is only the car slipping down a hill and in a moment the car is passing the Coves. Just now the water is dotted with white and yellow water lilies, making a charming picture. To the left are to be seen the shooting platforms and targets of the rifle ranges, and to the right is the Cove bridge and the river once more. The line runs close to the river until Griffiths' old deserted mill is reached, and across the river is a 50-foot vine-clad embankment. The line then dips to the southwest, passing behind a beech grove, and emerging at the cemetery, reaching the river again. The car stops at the cemetery, and steps lead up to the City of the Dead. The cemetery, with its hallowed memories and tender associations, is one of the great objective points for travelers on the line.

Leaving Woodland behind, the line leaves the river side again, and skirts Wonderland, reaching the river once more at the Cooper property, and disclosing to sight the fiest stretch of water the Thames can boast of hereabouts, with Springbank only a mile away. A couple of hundred yards further on the cars enter an avenue of trees, out of which they emerge, only to find themselves at the Springbank hotel station. Passengers may disembark here or stay on the cars and ride for nearly a mile through the grounds through wood and meadow.

A ten minute service with trailers has been arranged for Monday, and 2,000 people an hour can be handled. Special constables will keep order. The evening display of fireworks will include all of Hand & Co.'s latest ideas. Among them are devices in which are to be given aerial salutes, a trolley car in fire, run across the river on a wire; discharge of shells, with meteoric rain; eight-pointed star, surrounded by eight small wheels, with golden sprays; fountains of fire, monster revolving wheels, commencing with a rainbow, center turned by eight fiery meteors, changing to fixed color device and a colossal fire portrait of Mayor Little.

The hotel has been repainted, and Caterer Dawson has had the whole nicely furnished and equipped. A band concert was given at Springbank this afternoon, and will continue this evening.

Veterans of 1866

Annual Meeting—Will Celebrate June 2 at Springbank—The Officers Elected.

The veterans of 1866 held their annual meeting in the City Hotel last night. President James Jury occupied the chair. The members present were: R. McBride, W. Mercer, H. Pratt, W. T. Duff, Thomas Scott, Geo. Taylor, James Busby, James Crawford, R. W. Rollston, H. Arbuckle, A. Kennedy, J. Stanton, and W. A. Chittick.

Secretary Mercer read his annual report, which showed the membership to be 60 active members. The receipts during the year were $28 25, and expenditures $5 25, leaving a cash balance on hand of $23.

Mr. George Taylor said he thought the Society of Veterans might with justice look for some recognition for the services they had rendered to their country. The opinion was that it was an impossibility to get any recognition from the Government. The Government that had been in power so long had failed to grant anything to them. The men under Wolseley who went to the Red River expedition in 1870 had received 160 acres of land, and those of 1885 had obtained something, but the veterans of 1866 had never received any recognition for their services against a foreign foe, but those who had quelled internal squabbles had been rewarded. The Government might be asked for a grant, but at this late day it was almost hopeless to expect one.

Mr. W. T. Duff thought that if they could not get anything from the old Government, he felt confident that they would be recognized by the new one. If the Government would not recognize the men who had turned out against a foreign foe, it was worth the subscription price to meet and talk over old times among themselves.

Mr. R. McBride moved that the association celebrate June 2 in commemoration of the battle of Ridgeway, by a demonstration at Springbank, and that was unanimously carried.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: George Taylor, president; W. T. Duff; vice-president; W. Mercer, secretary-treasurer.

Celebration Committee—George Taylor, W. T. Duff, R. McBride, James Busby, R. W. Rolston.

Secretary Mercer was voted $5 for his valuable services during the past year.

The society will meet every three months in the future.

Marlborough's Duchess the Cynosure of All Eyes at the Drawing Room.

Wore a $10,000 Dress and Priceless Jewels.

Fleecing Visitors to Moscow—Heavy Press Expenses—The Queen Concerned About Sir John Millais.

Special Saturday Cable Letter to the "Advertiser."

London, May 23.—The past week has been the gayest of the year. It was crowded with parties of all kinds, and began with the drawing-room of Monday, which was the most brilliant of the season. Never has there been such a sumptuous display of costly fabrics, laces, jewelry and flowers, and, among the display of the magnificent dresses there were a number of costumes embroidered with gold, silver, and even with brilliants. Owing to the lovely weather the crowd on the Mall and around Buckingham Palace was most dense, and the people were eager to see the occupants of the carriages. The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough had an old-fashioned single chariot. But there was a rush to get a sight of the bride, and it was with great difficulty that the people were kept from touching the vehicle. The young duchess bore the ordeal of being stared at for over an hour with great composure. The duke, who was one of the few men attending, wore a yeomanry uniform. In the palace the Duchess of Marlborough attracted the greatest attention. She wore her wedding dress, which was ablaze with diamonds, and the celebrated pearls which her mother gave her, a string of which broke in the ante-room, but all save two were recovered. The society papers comment favorably upon the appearance of the duchess. Vanity Fair says: "If young and lovely duchesses will go to court arrayed in £2,000 dresses, their necks covered with ropes of pearls and their heads adorned with tiaras worth £10,000, not to mention countless jewels massed on the front of their dresses, they must not complain if they attract pushing attention. It would have been supposed that the Duchess of Marlborough would have obtained an entree, but like other great ladies, she patiently took her turn, and must have had a weary wait on the Mall."

SIR JOHN MILLAIS' ILLNESS.

The interest shown by the Queen in Sir John Millais' illness, as testified by the sending of a special messenger for the morning's bulletin, is not entirely due to his position as president of the Academy. It is rather accounted for by the fact that the artist is suffering from a cancerous affection, the exact counterpart of that of the Queen's son-in-law, the late German Emperor. Although every means is taken to conceal the fact from the public, the recent operation was one to remove the cancer, not simple tracheotomy, as bulletined in the press reports.

CHARLES DICKENS ILL.

Charles Dickens, the son of the celebrated novelist, has been dangerously ill, but is now out of danger.

BAYARD A SWELL.

The United States ambassador, Mr. Thomas F. Bayard, has purchased a 100-guinea horse from the Duchess of Connaught, and rides it daily in the Row. Mr. Bayard will spend the Whitsuntide holidays at Lord Dartmouth's.

A BANKRUPT EARL.

At a meeting of Earl Poulett's creditors, his liabilities were shown to be £220,000. The property is mortgaged to the extent of £200,000, and the income will not suffice to pay the interest. The earl's insolvency is due to a judgment of £189,000, obtained against him as trustee of Lord Aylesford's estate.

PARTIALITY FOR THE ARMY.

The Queen's birthday honors show the usual partiality for the army over the navy, and it is causing much dissatisfaction. Four K. C. B.s go to the navy and seven to the army; there are no C. B.s for the navy and 28 for the army.

ROYALTY'S DOINGS.

The Queen is to start for Balmoral Castle on Tuesday, and the Prince and Princess of Wales, their daughters and Prince Charles of Denmark are to go to Sandringham today.

The Prince of Wales will shortly visit Cliveden, and Mr. Willam Waldorf Astor has invited a large party to meet him there.

FLEECING MOSCOW VISITORS.

The coronation festivities at Moscow have been reported very fully in the London dailies and on Thursday especially the dispatches had precedence over all other matters. The cost of this news is something enormous, first, because the telegraphic tolls are 11 cents a word from Moscow to London, and, secondly, because the personal expenses of the correspondents are so excessive. No provision has been made by the Russians for the foreign press; every correspondent must pay for his view-point, his transportation, his lodging and living at the same extortionate rates that are wrung from the affluent and extravagant sight-seers. For example, a suite of rooms at a hotel (there are no single rooms obtainable) must be secured for the entire month, and most of them were so secured weeks and months in advance, and at prices ten and twenty times the ordinary traffic rate. The prices of everything edible or drinkable have correspondingly risen, so that the actual necessities of life cost a small fortune. Every driver of vehicles, every waiter and storekeeper, looks upon the sight-seer as his particular prey, and the population of Moscow are little better than armed banditti, holding the representatives of the English-speaking press for king's ransoms. The expenses of every visiting correspondent will vary from $1,000 to $5,000, according to the length of time he tarries. The Telegraph sent three men—its editor, Sir Edwin Arnold, Mgr. Lesage and Special Dillon. The cost of coronation news to the American and Canadian press is proportionately greater, because of additional cable charges.

Make a Pie

Shorten it with Cottolene instead of lard and see what a crisp crust it will have; how delicious and wholesome it will be. Pie made with Cottolene will do a dyspeptic good. Do everybody good because it is good. There is only one secret in cooking with Cottolene—use but two-thirds as much as you would naturally use of lard. Follow this rule and Cottolene will do the rest. Genuine is sold everywhere in tins with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin. Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Wellington and Ann Sts., MONTREAL.

BIG MANITOBA FIRES.

26,000 Bushels of Wheat Burned—A Woolen Mill Destroyed.

Winnipeg, May 22.—McCulloch & Co.'s extensive woolen, yarn and cloth mills at Rapid City were completely destroyed by fire today. The insurance is only $3,000, divided between the Phoenix, Atlas and Guardian companies. The efforts of the townspeople saved the adjoining flour mill and elevator. The fire was caused by overheating in the drying-room.

Winnipeg, May 22.—The farmers' elevator at Treherne was completely destroyed by fire tonight, with 26,000 bushels of wheat. The loss is about $18,000 with little insurance.

X RAYS ON THE HEART.

Something Needed to Diagnose the Real Cause of Heart Disease.

Scientists can hardly confer a greater boon on the human race than in leading an investigation that will result in securing some certain method of preventing the spread of heart disease. A Tesla or Edison, with their X rays, may be able to solve the problem, and yet they can hardly attain greater success than has come as a result of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, a remedy that in the most distressing cases is capable of stemming the worst forms of heart trouble. The fact that in half an hour it will give the patient relief is an evidence of its peculiar adaptation to this trouble, where quick results must often be attained or else the worst happen. Mrs. W. T. Rundell, of Dundalk, Ont., is one of the many thousands who believe they owe their lives to this remarkable discovery.

Why Don't You?

Why don't you make up your mind, once and for all, to get cured of the drink disease? There is no hardship in spending a month or five weeks with agreeable companions, at a beautiful spot like Lakehurst, surrounded by everything to make life pleasant; and there is no more disgrace in going to the Lakehurst Institute for scientific treatment than there is in going to a hospital. Do not, however, associate Lakehurst with the idea of a hospital or an asylum. It is an ideal private residence, where the click of billiard balls, the chink of quoits, the merry laugh and song, and the quick active step which may be heard and seen at all times, are suggestive of the bright, new life that many have found there. For full particulars address The Manager, Lakehurst Institute, Oakville, Ont. xt

An Essential and Judicious Investment—A Policy of Life Insurance.

A pleasant recollection—to turn back life's pages one by one and find naught but a record of duties done. If you have not as yet made provision for your loved ones against a contingency which may at any moment occur, i. e., your death, you have left undone one of the most essential of life's duties. See to it that "the chain of duties performed" may not be broken when Gabriel blows his last trump.

That life insurance is a propelling and beneficent force in modern civilization and an indispensable commodity in the household is attested by statistics, which show that the bulk of estate of deceased persons in moderate circumstances is made up of the proceeds derived from life insurance policies.

By the payment of a small annual premium on a policy of life insurance a man may secure to his dependents, in case of his death, a much larger sum of money than can be secured under any other form of investment, and in addition, if he takes out a policy of insurance on the investment principle, he can, if he survives the period selected and his policy is then in force, withdraw a considerably larger amount than he could obtain through any other ordinary channel of investment.

The Compound Investment Plan of the North American Life Assurance Company contains the above named features, and also specially provides that should death occur during the first ten years, the face of the policy is payable; if death occurs after that, and within the investment period selected (15 or 20 years, as the case may be), there will also be payable a mortuary dividend of the eleventh and subsequent premiums paid thereon. Another very valuable option the insured may exercise after the policy has existed ten years is that he can, if desired, borrow from the company the remaining premiums as they mature, to enable him to keep the policy in force until the completion of the investment period, and should death occur, the full face of the policy is payable, premium loans, if any, being cancelled.

For particulars of this and other attractive investment plans of insurance and for copies of the Company's last annual report, address William McCabe, F.I.A., Managing Director North American Life Assurance Company, 22 to 28 King street west, Toronto, or any of the Company's agents. b

BURIAL OF ARCHDUKE LUDWIG.

Vienna, May 23.—The funeral of Archduke Carl Ludwig, brother of Emperor Francis Joseph, who died May 19, took place yesterday. The services were simple and without pomp. The remains were deposited in the imperial vault in the Capucine Church. The Emperor and the other members of the imperial family, with the exception of Archduke Francis, whom the doctors forbade to attend, were present, as were also a number of foreign princes, diplomats and ministers. A large crowd attended the services.

FIGHTING IN CRETE.

Athens, May 23.—A detachment of Turkish troops at Yoxaris has been besieged by the Christian populace for two weeks, and in the fighting that has occurred eighteen men have been killed. In a fight at Draza ten men were killed. The success of the insurgents has caused a panic among the Turkish rustic population, and large numbers are flocking into the towns for protection, fearing that they would be massacred if they remained in their homes. Fifteen hundred Turkish men, women and children in the country about Retimo have taken refuge in that town.

TO STUDY THE SEAL.

London, May 23.—The Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. George N. Curzon, in the House of Commons said that with co-operation of Canada and the United States, two professors of natural history will shortly proceed to the Bering Sea in order to study the fur-sealing industry. Mr. Curzon said that the regulations for sealing in British Columbia were in some respects contrary to the recommendations of the British Commissioners. But, he explained, they could only be revised with the joint consent of Great Britain and the United States.

MRS. DYER SENTENCED TO DEATH.

London, May 23.—The trial of Mrs. Annie Dyer, the baby farmer, who, with her son-in-law, Albert E. Palmer, was recently arrested at Reading, charged with wholesale murder of infants intrusted to her care, the bodies of a number of them having been found in the river, took place in the criminal court, Old Bailey, yesterday. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, whereupon the court sentenced her to death. On May 16 Mrs. Dyer was judicially declared insane, upon the strength of an examination by an expert connected with the Home Office, and in the course of the trial today a number of experts were called to the witness stand to testify for and against her plea of insanity. Experts, designated by the Home Secretary, will now examine Mrs. Dyer as to her state of mind, which examination will be final, and if she be found by these authorities to be sane she will be hanged.

FEELING UGLY.

Cape Town People Indulge in Wild Talk Regarding Transvaal Matters.

London, May 23.—A Cape Town dispatch says: "The ugly feeling among the public here against the imposition of a sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment upon the leaders of the Johannesburg Reform Committee is increasing, upon its becoming known that the prison rules are strictly enforced in their cases, and that the condition of the prisoners is unworthy of Kaffirs and a positive outrage upon civilization."

The Times' Pretoria dispatch says: "Two of the liberated reform prisoners were unable to pay their fine, and the raiders forthwith subscribed the amounts, Mr. Barney Barnato heading the list with a large donation. Complications are sure to arise, and the wildest talk is indulged in. The feeling that the Imperial Government will not interfere causes dismay. Mr. Barnato has closed the mines, and has discharged the men belonging to the companies he controls. The burghers are signing a petition to release the prisoners on the ground of the commercial and mining interests of the country.

The jail surgeon, Messum, has for months past denounced its unhealthy condition, but the authorities appear to be callous. Among those who are ill are Mr. Mein, who is suffering from a lung affection, and Mr. Lingham, who has a throat affection. Mr. Mein declines to leave the other prisoners. Duies is insane, with homicidal mania, and there are fears of another tragedy unless he is removed."

Mr. Chamberlain announces that the Colonial Office has received a telegram from President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic stating that the jail regulations would be immediately modified so as to increase the comfort of the Reform Committee prisoners.

One of the best evidences that Ayer's Hair Vigor is an article of exceptional merit is the fact that the demand for it is constantly increasing. No one who uses this incomparable dressing thinks of trying any other preparation for the hair.

Ayer's Argument.

If there is any reason why you should use any sarsaparilla, there is every reason why you should use Ayer's. When you take sarsaparilla you take it to cure disease; you want to be cured as quickly as possible and as cheaply as possible. That is why you should use Ayer's; it cures quickly and cheaply—and it cures to stay. Many people write us: "I would sooner have one bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla than three of any other kind." A druggist writes that "one bottle of Ayer's will give more benefit than six of any other kind." If one bottle of Ayer's will do the work of three it must have the strength of three at the cost of one. There's the point in a nutshell. It pays every way to use

The Manufacturing Interest.

By casting in their lot with the Liberals, the manufacturers would occupy a much safer position than they will occupy if the Liberals get into office not merely without their help, but in spite of their opposition. Mr. Laurier will be Premier after the election, anyway, and the manufacturers may just as well act on this assurance. Many of them are supporting him now; many more will be found voting and working for him a week hence.—Toronto Star.

The fact of the matter is, a very large proportion of the manufacturers of Canada are supporters of Mr. Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat. Many manufacturers are today supporting the Liberal policy who have hitherto voted Conservative. They want a safe, fair Government, and they fear a wild-cat concern like the Tupper Family Compact, that has self-aggrandisement and not the national welfare in view.

Our contemporary gives good advice to those manufacturers—we believe they are now in the minority—whose party affiliations do not yet permit them to aid in re-establishing sound, economical government in Canada. With a progressive, honest and cautious Administration in power at Ottawa, the millions boodled or mis-spent in recent years would not have been collected in taxes from the people, but would have been left with them to spend on products of the Canadian factories and workshops.

Taking this reasonable view of the necessities of the hour, it should not require much argument to convince manufacturers and their employes that they, as well as other classes of the community, would be benefited by a change of administration at the present time. Every dollar of the millions collected in taxes and misapplied was a dollar abstracted from the fund at the disposal of the customers of our workshops and factories.

What a change has been wrought at Springbank by the extension of the London Electric Railway to the ground! Formerly, it was not very difficult to get down to the beautiful resort, but a problem of a most difficult character when one might get back to the city. Now, thanks to the enterprise of the street railway directors, there is a constantly moving car service, and a holiday outing can be entered on at any time, while the return trip can be safely undertaken as soon as the picnickers are ready to return, the city being reached in a few minutes.

The Queen and Britain's Phenomenal Progress.

The celebration of the 77th anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria, and the fact that on June 20 next her Majesty will have reigned 59 years, brings to recollection that her Majesty has now reigned for a greater period than any previous British monarch. Victoria has proved a model constitutional ruler and head of a household, and in this respect her career, during a phenomenally long and eventful reign, has been in marked contrast with that of not a few of her predecessors. In all her dealings with the people and with her advisers, her Majesty has striven to uphold the rights of her subjects, and to so comport herself as to strengthen the tie which binds her to the populace. And if the monarchy stands in higher esteem in Great Britain today than in continental nations, it is because, under the Queen and her advisers, it has never been used to repress the liberties of the people or to restrain their progress. That advancement has been phenomenal. It is emphasized, in a marked degree, by a graphic writer in the Edinburgh Review, who points out the vast changes that have taken place since the Queen ascended the throne. There are 75 persons living in the old land now for every 50 that at time found sustenance there. Great Britain has added 275,000 square miles—a territory larger than Austria—in India; 80,000 square miles—a space as vast as Great Britain—in the rest of Asia; 200,000 square miles—a region as large as Germany—in South Africa; and in East Africa, 1,000,000 square miles—or about half the extent of European Russia. British North America, embracing Canada and Newfoundland, and the British possessions in Australasia, cover one-ninth of the earth's dry land. Canada has been politically reorganized, and translated from rebellion to distinguished loyalty. Constitutional self-government has been given to Australasia, which may count on an expansion in the next century similar to that of the United States in this. The British Empire now embraces an area of 8,500,000 square miles, or, if the subordinate Indian States and the possessions of the African companies be included, of 10,000,000 square miles. It contains a population of some 350,000,000 people. Nearly one person out of every four on the earth owes allegiance, directly or indirectly to the Queen. Its area is larger than that of Russia. It is very doubtful whether China, populous as she is, supports so many people as the British Empire.

When the Queen was born, it was literally true that man could not travel faster than the Pharaohs. The first of the great trunk lines—that between London and Birmingham—was not opened till 1838. A third-class railway ride in 1844 from London to Exeter took sixteen hours and a half. In 1842 there were only 18,000,000 passengers. Now there are 900,000,000, eight out of nine of whom are third-class. The mileage of railways is now 20,000; and their capital has sprung from £55,000,000 to £1,000,000,000. At the Queen's accession steam navigation of the Red Sea and of the Atlantic was "proved" to be impossible. In 1838 the Sirius and the Great Western crossed the Atlantic. The Sirius, of 700 tons and 320 horse-power, took eighteen days from Cork to New York. The Campania, of 12,000 tons and 30,000 horse-power, does it now in a little over five.

The British commercial navy totaled in 1840, 23,000 vessels, almost all of wood, and 2,800,000 tons, including 770 steam vessels, of 87,000 tons; but in 1894 it numbered 21,000 vessels, mostly all of iron and steel, and nearly 9,000,000 tons, of which 6,000,000 tons went by steam. Electric telegraphy was not when the Queen came to the throne. The first year of her reign was the first of the electric telegraph. The Channel cable was only laid in 1851, the Atlantic cable in 1866. Since 1870, when the British telegraphs were taken over by the State, the number of inland messages has risen from 10,000,000 to more than 70,000,000 a year. Then it was one wire, one message, at 80 words a minute. Now six messages can travel by one wire at a speed of 600 words a minute. And the telephone has come in to relieve the telegraph. Postage in 1837 cost 4 pence a letter from London to Windsor, to Edinburgh 13 pence. Now letters are carried for a penny each, throughout the old land, and for a few pence to the uttermost parts of the earth.

British exports and imports combined amounted in 1837 to about £140,000,000; in 1894 to more than £680,000,000. Then 1,200 articles were subject to customs duty; now less than one dozen.

But "are the British people better off than they were in 1837?" In 1842 every penny of the income tax raised, exclusive of Ireland, £700,000; now it brings in (inclusive of Ireland) two and a quarter millions sterling. Probate duty was paid on £50,000,000 in 1838; in 1894, on £164,000,000. While the population has increased by 50 per cent, the wealth of the country has trebled. Agriculture has not advanced like other industries; but land in Great Britain, assessed under schedule B., stood at £46,000,000 a year in 1842, and in 1894 was not less, but slightly more. Paupers in England and Wales numbered, in 1839, 1,137,000, and in 1842, 1,429,000, but now only 800,000. The poor lived in cellars when the Queen came to the throne, and had none of the modern means of access to the country. The few parks were closed to them. No wonder that, in 1837, committals in England and Wales numbered 23,600; in 1893 there were 12,300.

The convict population in 1833 was 50,000; by 1893 it had fallen to 4,345 prisoners and perhaps 2,000 ticket-of-leave men. In 1837 there was no effective police force anywhere in Great Britain save in London. Then the lower orders were seething with discontent, breaking out into riots and Chartism. But now "universal content has succeeded universal agitation." Wages are higher now. The necessities and luxuries of the poor are cheaper. Legislation has regulated conditions of labor and has compelled sanitation; and the free library is coming to be almost universal.

The first annual grant made by the State for education dates from 1839. Then the grant was £30,000; now it is £9,000,000. In 1850 one child out of 89 people was at school, but one person out of every twenty was a pauper, and one out of every 700 was a criminal. In 1890 one child out of every eight was at school; but only one person out of every 36 was a pauper, and only one person out of every 2,400 was committed for trial. Social difficulties are yet very grave, but decreasing.

It may be objected that life in the old land is being reduced to a dead level of mediocrity. In architecture Great Britain has produced the Houses of Parliament, the Thames Embankment, and most of the bridges over the Thames. In literature, Macaulay, Hallam, Grote and Froude redeem history, as Thackeray, Charlotte Bronte, George Eliot and Dickens redeem fiction, and Wordsworth and Tennyson poetry, from the charge of mediocrity. An age which has done more to dominate nature, and to explain nature, than all the preceding centuries, cannot rightly be charged with inferiority of intellect. The right of inquiry has been vindicated. Yet the progress of free thought "has not been followed by any decline in religious fervor." More money has been raised for church building, church extension, church endowment and missionary effort, both at home and abroad, than at any previous period in the history of the old land.

The reviewer concludes, Pearson and Nordau—and we might add the Tuppers—notwithstanding, that the last 60 years reveal progress, not decline, in Great Britain. We have faith in the old land yet, and believe that there is a brilliant future for her and for her English-speaking family throughout the world.

J. C. Rykert, who was expelled from Parliament when Sir John Thompson was Premier, has been joyfully accepted by Sir Charles Tupper as a candidate for Lincoln county. Could anything be more significant?

Teachers' Association.

Mr. Dearness' Digest of Methods of Teaching Composition.

Temperance in Schools—Resolution of Condolence With the Family of the Late Miss Manning.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the London Teachers' Association was opened by a discussion of the report of the special committee re the resolutions of the O. E. A. Clause two read as follows: "That it is a matter of regret that the Minister intends to abolish, after 1897, the granting of non-professional specialists' certificates to any but those obtaining the degree of B. A." This evoked some lively discussion, and was finally laid over till the next meeting of the association.

Mr. Althouse reported for the committee on temperance and hygiene resolutions. This report also caused a lively discussion.' Mr. Graham believed that the regulation of the department was being carried out. Mr. Stewart asserted that every teacher exerted every effort to wield an influence on the pupils against the use of alcohol and tobacco. He believed that persons outside the profession did not give teachers too much credit for their work along this line. Messrs. Eckert, Althouse and Graham continued the discussion. An amendment, approving of the general sentiment of the resolution, was subted, and expressing the belief that teachers were doing their utmost to carry out the regulations in respect to this subject, was carried.

Mr. Dearness took up the subject of composition. He said that it was not only an excellent idea to get pupils to express themselves in complete statements, but it is also well to have them separate the words in these statements. Insist upon correct speaking an English in every day work. Give compositions partly written, and allow the pupils to complete these statements. Written exercises should be given in Part II.; and make these exercises simple, but insist upon them being done well. It is better to write the same composition three, four, or even six times than to write as many different essays. The reproduction of stories is a good exercise, but great care should be taken to keep this work within the limit of the child's knowledge. Transcription of the lesson is also a good exercise. Illustrated composition is an excellent exercise, especially in the lower classes, as smaller pupils are not so sensitive about their work. This method will compel a very accurate study of the lesson or story to be reproduced.

In the third class the work should be more systematized. Nature studies might be beneficially introduced at this stage. Mr. Dearness here showed his method of taking up the subject Flies. This was very interesting and beneficial to the teachers' present. He closed an excellent address by showing by means of a class from one of the city schools how the written work might be criticised so that the greatest benefit might be derived by the class.

Mr. Graham complimented Mr. Dearness for his excellent digest of this most important subject.

Mr. Stewart moved a resolution to appoint a committee to interview the railway authorities as to cheap rates being secured for teachers between July 15 and Aug. 30, as at present the announcement of cheap fares was generally made about the last of August. This of course carried without a dissenting voice.

The association expressed sorrow at the death of Miss Manning, an active member. A committee will forward a letter of condolence to the family. The association then adjourned, to meet at the call of the executive.

SUDDEN DEATH AT BERLIN, ONT.

Berlin, May 23.—W. H. Bowman, C. P. R. ticket, telegraph and express agent, died early yesterday morning of heart failure. He, in company with some friends, was walking home from Waterloo, when he was seized with a coughing spell, and in a short time expired. Deceased was 53 years old and a prominent figure in town. He had been town assessor for a number of years.

AT STITTSVILLE!

The Town's Leading Merchant Laid Up.

Rheumatism in various forms is one of the most common diseases there is. It arises generally from impure blood and a broken down system. In the limbs it is painful; in most of the internal organs dangerous, and in the heart usually fatal.

The experience of Mr. S. Mann, the well-known general merchant of Stittsville, is interesting:

"Last winter I was badly afflicted with rheumatism. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Pills. To my surprise, I got immediate relief, and before I had used one box my affliction was gone.

"I was also troubled with biliousness for years, and at intervals of three or four weeks would be laid up with a severe headache and sick stomach. Since using Chase's Pills I have not had an attack of either.

"I may add that Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles and skin diseases is just as effective as Dr. Chase's Pills for blood troubles. I have a clerk who suffered terribly from bleeding piles. He tried Chase's Ointment, and in a few days was completely cured."

Agony

The wonderful cure related below is by no means unusual with Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has given health to suffering children, even when health seemed impossible. The secret of its success is that it purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood.

"I wish to tell of a wonderful cure effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Five years ago my little boy was suddenly seized with a severe lameness, apparently in his right knee, which some physicians said was rheumatism, while others said it was hip disease and that it was

Incurable

During the next winter and spring he became rapidly worse. We took Jimmie to a specialist, who said it was hip disease. At this time the affliction became so severe that we could not move him without causing screams of agony. He became reduced in weight to 30 pounds, and was but a shadow of his former self. We had about given up hope when we read of a cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla of a similar case. We resolved to try this medicine. Jimmie was decidedly improved after taking the first bottle. He was even after the second. We have since used over a dozen bottles of the medicine, and the change has exceeded our expectations. James is now able to walk without the aid of crutches and goes to school every day. He has been wonderfully cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. O. RUNDELL, Oakley, Michigan.

Better

Druggist C. C. Tubbs says he knows the Rundell boy has been wonderfully by Hood's Sarsaparilla and that Mr. Rundell is thoroughly reliable. He has a good sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills, both of which are giving perfect satisfaction. He says Hood's Pills seem to be the coming family cathartic.

Cured

CANADIAN SCHOLAR DEAD.

Dr. McIntyre of Toronto—His Career in the West.

Toronto, May 23.—The death occurred here yesterday of Dr. Macintyre, principal of the Presbyterian Ladies' College. He was seized about six weeks ago with nervous prostration, superinduced by overwork.

Thomas Macfarlane Macintyre, M.A., LL.D., was born at Duart, Kent county, in 1841. He was educated for the teaching profession, being for a time a pupil under the late Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, then a grammar school teacher at Wardsville. He began his university course in 1864, and in 1866 accepted the position of adjunct professor of mathematics. In 1870 he received the appointment of headmaster of Bowmanville High School, which position he occupied until, in 1872, he took charge of the Ingersoll High School. Six years later he was called to fill the position of Brantford Presbyterian College, which he conducted successfully for eleven years, removin to Toronto in 1889, where he instituted the Presbyterian Ladies' College, of which he was principal up to the time of his death.

AN ALARMING INCREASE.

The Prevalence of Female Complaints Found to Result Largely from the Kidneys.

Saginaw, Mich., May 18.—Doctors are beginning to turn their attention more exclusively to the causes for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to the remedies for the same. Many cases have been investigated, and among others that of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada, but has now become widely known and used throughout the Western States. This and other similar cases go to show that these troubles are largely due to the kidneys, and that the above mentioned remedy is likely to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this form of complaint.

In Business Circles.

The Waiting Condition Still Continues Across the Border.

Small Sorting-Up Demand at Toronto—Business at Montreal Fair.

New York, May 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review says: There is nothing like reaction in business, though the volume is small. The stock market refuses to obey orders for a panic. Manufacturers are not gaining on the whole, but very few are losing. The business world has the best of reasons for refusing to go into a panic, and it looks hopefully forward to definite improvement as soon as political uncertainties are taken away. The waiting condition, which seems to some people nothing better than stagnation, still continues. But there is a difference. Thousands of orders and contracts are merely deferred because they can be more safely given a little later. There is nothing exciting in the speculative market for exportable products, and the stories about damage to wheat have been numerous, but the general belief regarding the future supply is fairly reflected in the decline of 1.62 cents per bushel. The boot and shoe manufacturers have quite the best of it at present, and although shipments from the east are for the month thus far about 7 per cent less than last year, they are larger than in any previous year, and the factories are nearly all employed full time, most of them having orders for some months ahead. A slight advance in women's grain shoes is the only change yet made in prices, but a general advance is expected. The textile manufacturers are still waiting and the extensive curtailment of production does not strengthen prices in the least. The market for woolens is exceedingly dull, notwithstanding the stoppage of many mills, and there is a slight decline in some grades. Sales of wool have been 2,643,200 pounds for the week at the three chief markets, and for three weeks ending May 21st, 9,187,400 pounds, against 15,948,350 in the same week of 1892. Failures for the week have been 227 in the United States, against 207 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 23 last year.

Bradstreet's report says: The reactionary tendency in prices, shrinkage in railroad earnings, the falling off in bank clearings, and the fact that the present constitutes the beginning of the between-season period, include the more conspicuous features of the general business situation. On the other hand business failures have fallen off sharply. The total number of business failures throughout the United States this week shows a marked falling off from the weekly average during the past four months—216, as compared with 265 last week, and 206 in the like week of 1895. Exports of wheat, flour included as wheat, from both coasts of the United States this week, amount to 1,906,000 bushels, as compared with 1,903,000 bushels last week, 2,754,000 bushels in the week one year ago, 2,310,000 bushels two years ago, and 3,106,000 bushels three years ago. Bank clearings aggregate $991,000,000 throughout the United States this week—a falling off of 2.7 per cent from last week, and 1.8 per cent from the total in the third week of May, 1895.

IN CANADA.

Toronto reports a small sorting-up demand in general lines, with travelers just starting out to sell winter goods.

Montreal wholesale merchants report business as fair only, with no new features. Pending elections induce uncertainty.

A better demand for staples is reported from Quebec city, but rain is needed in the lumber districts in order to get the logs to the mills.

Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Montreal, Toronto and Halifax aggregate $19,821,000, compared with $20,629,000 a week ago, as contrasted with $19,721,000 in the third week of May, last year, and with $13,990,000 in the like week two years ago.

THE TOBACCO EMBARGO

Causes Excitement Among New York Dealers—Congress May Retaliate on Spain.

New York, May 23.—The Advertiser publishes the following: There is a movement on foot among local tobacco dealers and workers to retaliate on Spain for the embargo placed on Havana tobacco by Gen. Weyler. It is nothing less than to put a prohibitive duty on imported cigars. To the end that Congress may take prompt retaliatory action it is proposed that public meetings be held in all the cities and Congressional districts affected. A bill is being drawn, and will be submitted to Congress early next week. It will increase the duty on imported cigars from $3 50 to $10 or more, and provide for a like increase on imported manufactured tobacco. Every effort will be made to push the bill promptly through both branches of Congress, so that it may go to the President before adjournment.

The revolutionists have levied a tax of $5 a bale on planters, which will not now be forthcoming if the United States market is cut off, and the result, it is feared, will be the complete destruction of the tobacco fields. The prohibition order was issued by Spain, it is believed, to strike at the thousands of tobacco dealers here, who rely upon the Cuban product, and whose earnings have largely gone towards supplying ammunition to the insurgents.

Washington, May 23.—Senator Pasco, of Florida, has had another conference with Secretary Olney in relation to Gen. Weyler's proclamation forbidding the exportation of leaf tobacco from Cuba, and was informed that Mr. Hannis Taylor had been instructed to make representations concerning the order as it affects the United States to the Spanish Cortes. He was instructed especially to ascertain whether Gen. Weyler's order was to apply to tobacco in Cuba owned by American citizens. It is also expected that other Governments may protest against the enforcement of the order. It is estimated that citizens of Germany are interested to about the same extent as those of the United States. France and Italy are also concerned.

We needs must love the highest when we see it.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

Crossing the Tracks.

The Last of the Street Car Horses Thrown Out of a Job,

By an Interim Order from Ottawa Granting Permission to Cross the Tracks With Electric Cars.

Late yesterday afternoon, an interim order arrived from Ottawa giving temporary permission for the street railway company to cross the different railway tracks in the city. This order throws the last of the street car horses out of employment. Two of the animals have been engaged for some months in fulfilling the letter of the law, permitting only horse-cars to cross the C. P. R. and the L. and P. P. S. R. They stood at the crossings and were attached to the cars, and the motors were thus enabled to cross as horse-cars, although they generally assisted the horse. The order states that up to and including the day of the next session of the special committee for hearing applications, and no longer, unless then otherwise ordered by the said committee, the company may cross the tracks on condition that they shall at their own expense construct crossings and other works and appliances as may be requisite to the satisfaction of the proper officials of the respective roads. The trolley wires of the company are to be erected at least 23 feet above the rail levels, and before any electric car attempts to make a crossing, the conductor is to go forward and see that the tracks are clear.

The order will necessitate a rearrangement of the timetable, whereby the Hamilton road and Oxford street cars may make a continuous trip. The change will be much appreciated by the patrons of the road.

HANGED A LITTLE BOY.

Little Chance of Recovery from the Effects of His Experience.

Ottumwa, Iowa, May 22.—A juvenile hanging took place at Eldon, in the southwest part of this county, yesterday, and as a result a 12-year-old boy is lying at the point of death, and two youths, aged 18 and 22 years, are in jail here, charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Yesterday Mike Evans and Fred Doud became enraged at the taunts of Jimmie Spurback, and procuring a chain, tied it around his neck. Fastening the other end to a board on the stockyards fence, they threw the victim over. The lad struggled wildly to free himself, while the boys who strung him up stood by until the babyish face blackened and his tongue protruded. The youths fled and told the first man they met that they had seen little Jimmie Spurback hanging dead. The victim was hastily taken down and carried to the home of his parents apparently dead.

He was finally resuscitated, but, though still alive, it is not thought he will recover.

A Most Valuable Invention.

In another part of this issue will be found an advertisement of more than ordinary interest. Messrs. Robinson & Landon, of Toronto, manufacturers of the specialties in carriage hardware, own the patent for Canada for an automatic safety pole tip. While the writer was in Toronto his attention was called to this simple and safe article. The appearance and general usefulness of this invention at once struck his mind as combining more practical features than anything of the kind ever seen before. This pole tip is designed in such a manner that immediately the ring of the neck-yoke is put into position, being automatically locked, so that in the event of an accident or a tug becoming unhooked, the pole is held securely to the neck-yoke, thereby preventing, as sometimes happens, a serious accident. One great advantage is its simplicity, and by the formation and position of the lock the greater the strain the more secure is the pole held.

They also manufacture shaft securities on the same principle, but intended for single carriages. These articles are manufactured from the best malleable iron, and are thoroughly tested before leaving the factory, and the firm have solved the problem of preventing so many distressing and fatal accidents. bd&w

The Czar of All the Russias Will be Crowned.

A Loud Sounding Proclamation—Splendid Spectacle.

Moscow, May 23.—The date of the coronation of the Czar, May 26, was formally proclaimed by the heralds to the people at 9 o'clock this morning, and the ceremony will be repeated tomorrow and on Monday. A strong detachment of cavalry surrounded the approaches to the Kremlin, and the general commanding stood in the middle, facing the troops. Around him, all mounted, and wearing rich costumes were the secretaries of the Senate, aides-de-camp, several masters of the coronation ceremonies, pursuivants and heralds.

At a given signal the heralds blew a loud blast on their trumpets, the people bowed their heads, and the Secretary of State read the following proclamation: "Our most august, most high, and most mighty sovereign, having ascended the hereditary throne of the Empire of all the Russias, and of the Kingdom of Poland, and of the Grand Duchy of Finland, which is inseparable from it, has been pleased to ordain, in imitation of all his predecessors and glorious ancestors that the sacred solemnity of the coronation and consecration of his Imperial Majesty, which his Majesty wills that his august consort shall share, do, by the grace of the Almighty God, take place on the 26th of May. By the present proclamation, therefore, this solemn act is announced to all the faithful subjects of his Majesty, to the end that on this auspicious day they may send up to the King of Kings their most fervent prayers, and implore the Almighty One to extend the favor of His blessing to the reign of his Majesty, to the maintenance of peace and tranquility, to the very great glory of His Holy Name, and to the unchanging weal of the empire."

The above proclamation was printed on folio vellum, beautifully illuminated and adorned with the arms, monogram and insignia of the Emperor. Copies were scattered through the crowd, and there was a wild scramble to obtain possession of them. On May 25, the day before the coronation, the ceremony of transferring the regalia to the throne-room of the Kremlin, will take place, and on the same day their Majesties will remove from the Alexandrinsky Palace to the Grand Kremlin Palace. A special mass will be celebrated during the evening in all the churches.

The coronation will take place in the Cathedral of the Assumption, the most secred place in the Russian Empire.

CHATHAM SCANDAL.

Sensational Scandal Case at the Police Court—A Rich Resident's Confession.

Chatham, Ont., May 23.—The city is all stirred up over a scandal, which was ventilated at the police court yesterday. The case is that of the Queen vs. Libbie Lavoie, otherwise Mrs. Blanchard, formerly of Toledo, Ohio, now of Detroit. The prisoner, a handsome young Frenchwoman, was charged with stealing household furniture to the value of $200, the property of Mr. James Millen, a wealthy retired grain merchant, whose furnished house on Richmond street she has been occupying for several months. Miss Lavoie recently packed the goods and shipped them to Detroit. Millen had them seized at Windsor, and the fair one was arrested and brought back to Chatham. She declared that the furniture was hers, the gift of Mr. Milner. Mr. Milner admitted intimacy with the prisoner. He and she had gone on a trip up the lakes last fall, spending several days at Sarnia and Algonac. Letters were produced in court, in which he addressed the little French lady as "My Dear Libby." These letters urged Miss Lavoie to come to this city from Detroit and enjoy a comfortable home which he had prepared for her. He was actuated, he said, by "love and charity mixed," to which the lawyer rejoined, "lots of love, but little charity." The prosecutor further admitted visits to the prisoner in Detroit.

Judge Houston decided to send the case to a jury, and committed the prisoner for trial, but admitted the woman to bail on her own recognizances. Mr. Milner, the prosecutor, is a widower of advanced years, whose wealth and position in the city invest the case with unusual interest.

IT MAKES OLD MEN YOUNG.

Many Years Added to the Lives of Those Who Use This Great Discovery.

What a Windsor Resident of 70 Years of Age Says.

Mr. James Sherwood, of Windsor, Ont., has attained the ripe old age of 70 years. A few years ago he suffered from an attack of paralysis, and a second attack came on him twelve months ago. The result of this trouble was to seriously derange his digestive organs, and complicated nervous troubles followed. He obtained from Labelle & Co., Windsor, a bottle of South American Nervine. It had an immediate effect on the stomach trouble, and on the nerves, besides strengthening the heart's action, which had become weak. He says: "I consider it the best of medicines. It has relieved me of pain, built up my health, and has given me a good appetite. I will always keep it in my house." At this season, trying to all, but especially to the old and very young, a safe and effective tonic should be kept at hand. South American Nervine is the best on the market.

Business men on a Chicago street, tiring of appeals to the local authorities, have the street cleaned at their own expense.

THE WEATHER TODAY:
Fine and cool.

S. & I.

HOT AFTER THEM.

Our parasols are in demand. They're fashionable and serviceable—that's partly why. The other part is that they are selling at very close prices. It used to cost quite a bit for an up-to-date parasol. It doesn't now, We have whittled down the expenses of our store by adopting the cash system, and buy our parasols at close cash prices, therefore the ladies of today can command elegancies that queens scarcely cared to touch a few generations ago.

HERE'S A PARASOL

For $2 50 It's a beauty from end to end and all over the cover. It is covered with shot silk, has gold-tipped Paragon frame, shot silk covers to match. Without the cover we sell it at $2 25. As we said, it's a beauty.

DON'T WANT BIG PRICES.

Though all our parasols are really magnificent we don't want big prices. Take our $1 75 Striped Colored Silk Parasol, with Dresden pattern border, it is easily worth $2 25, and more than likely you have paid that for less stylish articles.

$3 buys a very dressy Parasol with new chiffon linings, Dresden effects. Last year such a parasol would have cost $3 50, and for aught we know some are selling poorer articles for that price this season. We have styles, handles, colors and sizes to suit everybody. Nowhere else in Canada will you find a better choice.

Parasol Umbrellas are for rain and sun, just as you may happen to want to use them. A handsome line, with rustic horn or metal handles and Paragon frames, we are selling at $1—very close price for such good value. With sterling silver mountings we are offering a $1 75 line for $1 50.

TEXTILE BUCKSKIN is uncrushable and keeps the skirts and sleeves of summer gowns in full flare and puff of fashion through all kinds of weather and wear. All colors, 25c per yard.

CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 23.—Hogs—Estimated receipts, 14,000; active; common, 5c lower; others steady to strong; light, $3 25 to $3 50; mixed, $3 15 to $3 40; heavy, $2 85 to $3 30; rough, $2 85 to $3.

Cattle—Receipts, 100; dull and nominally unchanged.

Sheep—Receipts, 3,000; strong.

TORONTO.

Toronto, Ont., May 22.—The Toronto cattle market today was a poor one. Recipts were 59 cars, including 2,700 hogs, 252 sheep and lambs, and 138 calves. There was scarcely any buying for Montreal. Export cattle were slow. Reports from Britain were bad and dealers here are advised that prices in France and Belgium have fallen off to the extent of 10 cents per head. This had a depressing effect on trade. The demand for export cattle was slow, and very few sold at over 4c per lb, while ruling prices were $3 75 to $3 90 per cwt for good cattle. In butchers' cattle the very best sold at 3c per lb, and only a few sold higher than that. Medium sold at 2 1-2c to 2 3-4c, and common at 2c to 2 1-4c per lb.

Sheep and lambs were dull. There was practically no demand for them. Good grain-fed yearlings and lambs were steady at 4 3-4c to 5c per lb; spring lambs sold well at $3 to $4 each.

Calves were steady at $3 to $5 each. Bulls quiet and prices nominal at 2 3-4c to 3c per lb. Stockers and feeders were not offered in any quantity, and good feeders were quoted at $2 75 to $3 50 per cwt, and light stockers at 2 1-4c to 2 1-2c per lb.

Hogs were firmer for best bacon at 4 1-4c per lb. Heavy, thick, fat dull and not wanted; they were quoted at $3 50 per cwt. Stores steady at 3 3-4c to 4c per lb. Sows for breeding purposes, 3c to 3 1-4c per lb; stags and rough hogs, 2c to 2 1-4c per lb, and not wanted.

HORSE MARKET.

Reviewing the horse market outlook, the New York Herald sizes up the situation in a few words, as follows: "There is nobody in the horse business just now doing any worrying. It is many years since there was such a genuine demand for good horses and at really good prices. This has been brought about mainly by three prime factors: First, the restrictions in breeding operations, which are now beginning to tell; second, the fact that the number of those who can afford to buy and drive high-class horses are continually on the increase; thirdly, and lastly, everything that Americans are not smart enough to secure is gobbled up by agents for English and European firms.

Motions for the trial will not be made until the finding of the other case is decided.

THIS IS FUNNY.

Modern Education in Chicago—Children Who Never Saw a Sheep or Hog.

Chicago, May 23.—Through John E. Rastall, formerly of Kansas, it has been developed that one-third of the children of one of the principal grammar schools of Chicago have never seen a live sheep or hog, though all have seen lions, tigers and other animals of the tropics. The matter has been taken up by the press, on the belief that the same ratio of children throughout the city have never seen a live sheep or hog, and the park commissioners will be requested to place specimens of these animals in the zoological departments of the parks.

SLEEPLESSNESS is due to nervous excitement. The delicately-constituted, the financier, the business man, and those whose occupation necessitates great mental strain or worry, all suffer less or more from it. Sleep is the great restorer of a worried brain, and to get sleep cleanse the stomach from all impurities with a few doses of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, gelatine-coated, containing no mercury, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money will be refunded.

Magnolia Still Ahead.

Aldermen and Shade Trees.

The London aldermen seem inclined to temporize with the maple tree borer. They make a great mistake. No half-way measures, such as the council proposes, will save the beautiful rows of trees along our streets. The work should be thoroughly done by specially appointed agents, and at the corporation expense. Even if some citizens do purchase the liquid for the treatment of their trees and apply it, the borer will still be permitted to continue its destroying work on others, and in this way hundreds of trees will be destroyed. We believe that less than $1,000 now spent would save the trees, whereas if this is not spent, this valuable civic asset, which is worth to the city hundreds of thousands of dollars, may be destroyed in a short time. It will be a disgrace to our civic managers if this turns out to be the case. Again, we say that co-operative stamping out, and not voluntary effort, can alone accomplish the necessary work.

Monday's "Advertiser."

Monday being a holiday, all editions of the "Advertiser" will be printed at an early hour in the morning. All city papers will be delivered in the morning, and those far out of town will be mailed by earliest trains. News agents and newsboys should bear this in mind.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

—There was no police court this morning.

—Wm. Kipp will erect two $800 houses on the west side of Thornton avenue.

—Miss Bradburn, of Colborne street school, is visiting friends at Dorchester.

—The first pay by the check system was inaugurated on the C. P. R. in this division yesterday.

—The street railway offices have been removed down town to the basement of the Bank of Commerce building.

—The Great Northwestern Telegraph Company has a gang of men at work moving their poles to the inside of the sidewalk on Stanley street.

—Ald. J. W. McCallum, South London, is off work for a few days owing to a bad cut on the left hand. The hand was caught in a machine.

—The Springbank agreement was formally signed on Thursday, May 21, and just a year ago the same date the city electric agreement was signed.

—Mr. George Kelley, P. M., Lambeth, accompanied by his wife, has gone on an extended trip east. They will visit Toronto, Belleville, Kingston and Montreal.

—Mrs. Michie, of Grosse Point, Mich., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Davis, 418 King street. She is accompanied by her son, Mr. Sidney Michie, of Chicago.

—The new large cars were placed on the Springbank line this morning. A number of people were not aware of the change, and waited long and patiently for the open motors.

—Mr. Thos. Treleaven, G. T. R. car superintendent, found a purse containing $6 in cash, a return ticket to Dorchester, and some other papers in a car at the G. T. R. station this morning.

—In the report of the farewell concert at the Southern Congregational Church on Thursday night, mention was omitted of the fact that the piano used was a Heintzman, lent by the company free of charge.

—On the Dufferin avenue park boulevard today, ex-Mayor Spencer and another citizen counted fifteen borers actively at work in different parts of one maple. Do our city authorities realize what this sort of thing means?

—Elizabeth Hurnett, of Strathroy, who has been confined here for some time past, was examined by Drs. Jas. McArthur and Waugh, as to her sanity. They made their report to Judge Elliott, who pronounced her insane. She will be conveyed to the Asylum.

—A large photograph of the Arlington Club is displayed in the windows of the Bell Organ and Piano Company, near Clarence street. The picture is the work of Messrs Cooper & Sanders, and is indicative of the high class of photographic art turned out by that firm.

—The G. T. R. and M. C. R. have met the C. P. R.'s cut of $1 25 to Detroit for Monday. This means that all who have purchased tickets at $1 75 will be refunded 50 cents. A cut of 50 or 75 cents on the $2 fare to Toronto, was expected, but it did not materialize today.

—One case was before Judge Elliott this morning, that of McLennon vs. Burnett. It was an application for change of venue from here to Glencoe. The plaintiff is suing for an account for professional services. It was found that jurisdiction should remain here. Jarvis for plaintiff; Fisher for defendant.

—Beattie buttons were pinned on everybody on the market today, regardless of party, age or sex. Mr. Thos. Trebilcock got one pinned to the lapel of his coat. He saw that it was placed on the left side. He said: "I will leave it there. It is in its proper place on the left side, because Mr. Beattie will get 'left' on election day."

—Some gentlemen in the north end are experimenting with paste arsenic for borers. They bore a hole in the tree, insert the poison, and plug up the hole. Elm, maple and basswood have been "inoculated," and the result will be watched with interest. It is said that the arsenic will operate through the sap without danger to the tree.

—The city ticket offices of both G. T. R. and C. P. R. were busy places this morning. On the Grand Trunk the majority of traffic is to Hamilton and Toronto, while a large number of tickets are being sold to Detroit. On the C. P. R. more tickets are being sold to Detroit, but also a large number to Hamilton and Toronto. The cut rate seems to be appreciated by the public.

—Mr. George Wonnacott, one of the oldest residents of the township of Malahide, Elgin county, died suddenly Tuesday night last at his residence at Copenhagen. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon to Dunboyne Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Treleaven, of Aylmer, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Edwards. Deceased, who was aged 87 years and 3 months, was for over 50 years a resident of that part of the county, and leaves a large family of grown-up children.

—Mr. Robert Truesdale, of the Wharncliffe road, was taken in charge by Constable Ward at 5 o'clock this morning. Mr. Truesdale has lost his reason entirely. About one month ago he had a severe illness, which weakened his mind, and has been gradually getting worse ever since. Early this morning he arose, and proceeded to place his goods in the back yard. He would run from one place to the other, then sit down and alternately preach. He was brought to the county jail, where he still continued to expound.

—The funeral occurred in South London today of Mrs. Christena McDiarmid, relict of John McDiarmid, in the 78th year of her age. Mrs. McDiarmid was born in Scotland, and removed to Canada with her parents when about thirteen years old. For many years she was a highly esteemed resident of Yarmouth, removing to South London about twenty years ago. She leaves three sons and three daughters. The sons are: Peter, of St. Thomas; Hugh, Aylmer; A. P., Toronto. The daughters are: Mrs. Hepburn, Sparta; Mrs. Weld, and Miss Tena, on the homestead. The remains were conveyed to the St. Thomas cemetery by way of the Glanworth town line.

THE STEAMER THAMES.

The London and Springbank Pleasure and Recreation Company have made the fare on the steamer Thames 5 cents each way, so that passengers may go down on the boat and return on the cars, or vice versa. The boat will call at Dundas street, at South London and London West. The crew will be uniformed in neat suits. Capt. Joe Woods will guide the boat, and Mr. Owens will act as engineer. Both are reliable men. The steamer was brought up from Wonderland early this morning, and made trips at 1:30, 3:30 and 7:45 p.m. today. On Monday (Queen's Birthday) the Thames will leave her dock, foot of Dundas street, at 9:15 and 11 a.m., and at 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Stops will be made at the usual places down the river. The prospects of the boat are good.

Leitch vs. Molsons Bank; Leitch vs. Armstrong—J. A. Robinson (St. Thomas), for plaintiff, appealed from judgment of MacMahon, J., after the trial, dismissing the actions, which were brought by the administratrix of the estate of Duncan C. Leitch to recover a ratable portion of sums paid by the intestate to the defendants out of the estate of an intestate in satisfaction of the whole of the debts due to the defendants by the intestate, under the belief that the estate was sufficient to pay all debts in full, whereas, as it now appears, the estate will be able to pay only about 30 cents on the dollar. J. S. Robertson (St. Thomas), for defendants the Molsons Bank, and McEvoy (London) and W. A. Wilson (London), for defendant Armstrong, opposed appeal. Reserved.

Lindop vs. Southwestern Loan Company—J. A. Robinson (St. Thomas), for defendants mortgagees, appealed from report of master at St. Thomas in an action for redemption of two mortgages, upon the ground that the master should have allowed 8 per cent, the rate stipulated in the security as well as before. W. A. Wilson (London), for plaintiff, contra. Reserved.

A Double Courtship

"I can't say that it has. Poor Mr. Brentford was one of the queerest of men. He had the most eccentric ways of running abroad, and running to Scotland, and running to America; and I don't know where he didn't run. He was never happy at home."

"I can't understand that," said Gilbert.

Mrs. Brentford gave Gilbert one of her impressive looks, and then looked down shyly at her small shoes and sighed. She was certainly a striking woman, and the air of half-condescension, half protection, with which she treated Gilbert somehow gratified the youth exceedingly.

"I shall be seeing some influential people this evening—people who have to do with the"—Mrs. Brentford whispered the name of a great journal; "and, if you care for it, I should like to speak of you and your work."

"That is exceedingly kind of you," said Gilbert enthusiastically. "I want to get on in the world, and I have made up my mind not to lose any chance of doing so. That's the only way, I think. It is by missing opportunities for hitting that you find, when you are bowled out, your score is not worth mentioning."

"You are quite right—quite right. And be sure to remember one thing."

"That is?"

"That you have a good friend in me. I'll do all I can to help you."

"I can't thank you enough," said Gilbert honestly. "I don't know why you should take so much interest in me; but I am only the more grateful. If I can show you how sincerely——"

"You see," she said hastily, "women are so much more business-like nowadays than they were. At one time they were a quantite negligeable in the serious business of life; but that is changed."

"I am glad."

"Men no longer make faces at women who interest themselves in affairs; unless, of course, the women are silly, and I—well, I'm not silly."

"The reverse."

"Shall we walk across Hyde Park," she asked, "and send the carriage home? I am in the mood for a talk with you."

Gilbert looked at his watch.

"I can listen to you for half an hour," he said; "I wish I could do so for half a century."

"You say things," said Mrs. Brentford, stopping the carriage, "that you don't mean."

"I mean a good many things that I dare not say," answered Gilbert.

"Hush!" said Mrs. Brentford.

It was too early for the gathering of entertainers just within Marble Arch; but one speaker—a dusty, demented, elderly lady—was there, and she was speaking in a kind of subdued scream to one nursemaid and two boys and three babies on the injustice from which she was suffering.

"Oh, my fellow-sufferers!" cried the old lady, untying the black strings of her bonnet, and addressing more particularly the three babies, "oh, my fellow-sufferers! it's time some of us made a stand. It's time some of us made a stand, and put our foot down, and let those in 'igh places see once for all that we are not to be trampled on. I 'old in my 'and a few papers bearing on my case, and I should like to read you some hextracts in order that you may see exactly 'ow I've been treated."

She placed the small bag with no handle on the gravel. and tipped her bonnet to the back of her head. She fixed one of the white, fat, staring babies with a serious eye, and the fat baby seemed to make an effort to enter into the spirit of the game.

"In the year '69," began the dusty old lady, "in the year '69, the bank in which my trustees 'ad invested my money—trustees whom I do not 'esitate to refer to 'ere, in the light of day, as sheep in wolves' clothing—I mean to say——"

Gilbert walked across Prince's Gate walk with Mrs. Brentford. They were as nearly as possible of equal height. Mrs. Brentford walked with the grace that comes to those who have not disdained exercise in the days of early youth; a rustle, a swish of silken flounces, formed an accompaniment to the musical chattering of her voice.

"It's hard, I suppose, to feel that one has a grievance against the world," she said. "It must keep one always at a red-hot point. I think everybody ought to be happy."

"That sounds like a good suggestion," said Gilbert.

"If people would only keep up their spirits——"

"Isn't that rather like the old story, Mrs. Brentford? The full nigger always says to the empty nigger, 'Keep a good heart.' "

"I suppose one ought not to dictate behavior to others. I know that even when I had the letter from the consul telling me of poor, dear, eccentric Mr. Brentford's death, I——"

"He died abroad?"

Mrs. Brentford took out an absurd belaced little handkerchief.

"Yes," she said, "abroad. He was always more or less abroad. A dear, good fellow, but so odd. And, of course, it was a great shock to me, but I did not let it disturb me too much."

"Quite right," said Gilbert approvingly.

"And although sometimes, of course, I feel lonely," Mrs. Brentford sighed and put the little handkerchief back into its resting place, "still, I don't allow the feeling to affect me for long."

"You are well off?" guessed Gilbert.

"Oh, yes; oh, dear, yes."

"Even people who are well off are sometimes happy."

"Money," said Mrs. Brentford, "is not an absolute bar. How do you do?" Mrs. Brentford bowed with an indulgent air to someone who was hastening across the grass with a book under her arm to Hyde Park corner. The hastening young person stopped, and the color came quickly to her pretty cheeks.

"I can't stop. How are you, Mr. Gilbert? I have an appointment with an editor man, and you know what they are!"

"We won't detain you, Miss Reade," said Mrs. Brentford politely. "Plenty of work?"

"Miss Reade is always busy," said Gilbert.

"It is the better plan," said the young lady, with spirit. "The idle folk get into mischief, and then busy people have to get them out of it."

"A poet named Watts," remarked Gilbert, "has put the same argument rather neatly. I haven't his poems with me, but I believe they include a reference to Satan. Are you going the Strand way, Miss Reade?"

"'Bus from the corner," said the young lady promptly.

"Then, if Mrs. Brentford does not mind, I think I will come with you. You can manage alone, can't you. Mrs. Brentford?"

"Quite well," she said.

"And you won't forget to speak to that man about me?"

"I will be sure not to forget. Good-bye."

They were near to the band stand. Mrs. Brentford shook hands, lifted her skirt slightly, and walked across Rotten Row. Gilbert and Miss Reade turned east. They walked along for some time without speaking, and when eventually Gilbert remarked that he had been to Lord's to see cricket, his companion said, "Oh!" as though the statement interested her not at all. A long, tired man was asleep on one of the seats with his legs extended, and Miss Reade would have tripped over his feet, if Gilbert had not touched her arm.

"Please forgive me," she said quickly.

"For what?"

"For being a silly, humpish young person. It only lasts two minutes with me."

Tortures of Rheumatism.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conquerer of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says: I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it for some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much, and I was not able to leave my bed, and could get neither sleep nor rest. Hearing from a neighbor that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle, and after taking about the half of it I found myself recovering, and after continuing it for some time I recovered, but when the cold weather set in this winter I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared, and I consider that I am entirely cured.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging, mostly at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue, tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. "Ten people out of a dozen are invalids," says a recent medical authority. At least eight out of these ten, it is safe to allow, are suffering from some form of blood disease which a persistent use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla would be sure to cure. Then, don't be an invalid.

According to the London Times' Vienna correspondent, the Emperor of Austria is the best friend that England has on the continent.

Mrs. Celeste Coon, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For years I could not eat many kinds of food without producing a burning, excruciating pain in my stomach. I took Parmelee's Pills according to directions under the head of 'Dyspepsia or Indigestion.' One box entirely cured me. I can now eat anything I choose without distressing me in the least." These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required.

The General Elections.

A Landslide in Favor of Laurier and Mowat.

Leading Men, Hitherto Conservative, Join the Liberals.

Foolish, Yet Dastardly Attacks Upon the Liberal Chieftain.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross at Lindsay, Messrs. Foster and Tisdale at Lucan, Sir James Grant at Blenheim—A Lively Meeting at Brantford.

THE TIDE IS TURNING.

Halifax, N. S., May 23.—The Chronicle today publishes interviews with four former leading Conservatives, who have publicly announced their adhesion to the Liberal party and pledged their support to Messrs. Russell and Keefe, the Liberal candidates. They are Mr. Robert Moseley, of Dartmouth, manufacturer, head of the Dominion Paint Company; Mr. John Walker, of Dartmouth, merchant; Dr. Smith, of Dartmouth, and Mr. C. T. Burns, of Halifax, manufacturer of slate mantels. These men have been lifelong Conservatives, but have come to the conclusion that a change of government at Ottawa is badly needed. They are confident that Mr. Laurier, Sir Oliver Mowat and the Liberal party will give the country government and a genuine measure of tariff reform which will stop the predatory operations of the combines. They are all frank and outspoken in their views. Mr. Moseley points out that on two articles of new materials used in his paint factory the duties are respectively 75 per cent and 400 per cent. Mr. Walker says he knows dozens of Conservatives in his own neighborhood who are going to vote the Liberal ticket. A perfect landslide of electors from the Conservative to the Liberal party is going on in this Province, and notably in Halifax, and this is having such paralyzing effect on the party here that they have called Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster to their aid. Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster cannot save them from overwhelming defeat.

At a Liberal meeting in ward six last night, one of the speakers was Mr. Forbes, the inventor and manufacturer of the famous patent acme skate, at one time head of the Star Manufacturing Company, and now head of the Forbes Manufacturing Company. He has abandoned the Conservative party and their National Policy absolutely, and declared for the trade policy of the Liberals. His discussion of the trade question last night was most effective.

Mr. Moseley, of Dartmouth, is a brother of Mr. E. T. Moseley, ex-Speaker of the House of Assembly of Nova Scotia, and now president of the Conservative Association of Cape Breton County. Dr. Smith is acting mayor of Dartmouth.

HON. GEO. W. ROSS AT LINDSAY.

Lindsay, May 23.—As fine an audience as ever assembled in Lindsay filled the Opera House last night and listened to an able enunciation of the Liberal principles by Hon. Geo. W. Ross. There was every possible manifestation of enthusiasm, both in regard to the Liberal cause so forcibly presented and to its worthy representative in South Victoria, Mr. George McHugh. Next to the powerful speech of the Minister of Education the feature of the evening was the exposure and condemnation of the method of canvass pursued by the Conservatives in South Victoria. Mr. McHugh, who is one of the most highly respected men in this part of the country, happens to be a Roman Catholic, and this fact is being employed as an argument why he should not be sent to Parliament. Those who advance it have not the courage to give expression to it upon the platform, but they whisper it about the hotels and up and down the side lines.

Mr. McHugh made a noble and patriotic statement of his position last night. He accorded the Roman Catholic Church all authority in matters of faith, but he would resent any interference by any prelate or foreign prince with his political freedom. Nay, more, he declared, that if necessary to combat such an influence he would unsheath his sword, as his grandfather had done, and fight with all the devotion he had displayed in upholding the British flag on the battle fields of Spain.

Mr. Ross deplored the necessity of the defense that the candidate had been obliged to make, and appealed to the electors to treat the Manitoba school question, not as a religious one, but as a political one. Mr. McHugh declared himself to be entirely in sympathy with the Liberal policy on the school question.

A SPECIMEN ATTACK.

Montreal, May 21.—The following from the Conservative newspaper, The Courier de Cherlevoix, is a sample of the attacks made upon Hon. Wilfrid Laurier with a view of inflaming the Catholic electorate against the Liberals:

Who has abjured his religion and his race?

Wilfrid Laurier.

Who has denied to the bishops the right of commanding in matters of conscience?

Wilfrid Laurier.

Who came into one county and made audacious lies, saying that if the Government presented a remedial bill he would vote for it?

Wilfrid Laurier.

Who is the political chief of the Orange and Masonic lodges of Ontario, when these swore never to favor a Roman Catholic?

Wilfrid Laurier.

Who goes to hear the holy services on Sunday in Protestant churches?

Wilfrid Laurier.

Who desires power with all the eagerness of his soul, and who, in order to arrive at this result, has betrayed his co-religionists?

Wilfrid Laurier.

BIG MEETING AT BRANTFORD.

Brantford, May 23.—Mr. Robert Henry, the Conservative candidate for South Brant, opened his campaign in this city last night at the opera house. The building was crowded. Ald. Geo. Elliott presided, Mr. Wm. Paterson was in attendance, and was received with an ovation. The speakers were Messrs. W. F. Cockshutt, Paterson and Henry.

Mr. Cockshutt spoke first. When Mr. Paterson rose to speak, he was greeted with several minutes of uproarious cheering, and was the recipient of a number of beautiful bouquets. He criticised Mr. Cockshutt severely for not mentioning Sir Mackenzie Bowell's name among the past Premiers. In scathing terms he asked Mr. Henry (his opponent) to define his position in the last Provincial election.

Mr. Henry still declined to state his stand in the last election. Throughout his address references to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier were received with enthusiastic cheering.

MINISTERS AT LUCAN.

Lucan, May 23.—Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. Col. Tisdale addressed a large and enthusiastic gathering here yesterday afternoon in the interests of Mr. W. H. Hutchins, ex-M.P.P., speaking from a large stand erected in the park. Mr. John Fox, president of the North Middlesex Association, opened the proceedings in a brief speech, after which an address of welcome was read by Reeve Armitage, Mr. W. Hutchins, Col. Tisdale and Mr. Foster delivered addresses on public topics.

AT SIXES AND SEVENS.

Hamilton, May 23.—The Conservative party have got themselves into no end of trouble here by putting up one candidate in favor of the plank and one against the Government on the same question. The difficulty is well illustrated by an incident in the canvass of R. G. Boville, which the latter commenced bright and early. It is related that he approached an elector and solicited his vote and influence.

"Yes," was the reply, "I am with you. Like yourself I am a supporter of the National Policy and an opponent of remedial legislation. I will vote for you."

"And you will also give my colleague on the ticket a vote, I hope?" continued Mr. Boville.

"No," promptly responded the elector, "nor can I vote for you, either. I see you are not consistent, professing to be an opponent of remedial legislation and yet asking my vote for a man who is pledged to support it."

And no amount of persuasion would move him.

NOTES AND INCIDENTS.

King Dodds has been sent to British Columbia to talk for Conservative candidates.

J. C. Rykert has accepted the Conservative nomination for Lincoln and Niagara.

Mr. Robert McLean, of Goderich, is the Conservative candidate opposing Mr. M. C. Cameron in West Huron. Weismiller has been dropped like a hot potato, but McLean cannot defeat the Cameron men.

Sir Richard Cartwright will address the electors in the town of Welland on Friday evening next.

The Liberals of Two Mountains, Que., have chosen J. A. C. Ethier, advocate, of Ste. Scholastique, as candidate to oppose the present member, Mr. Girouard. Mr. Ethier was until recently a supporter of the Conservative party.

The two Tuppers spoke at North Sydney to a large crowd on Friday night. They will hunt, as a pair, for votes through Nova Scotia.

Mr. McCarthy spoke at Barrie to a large crowd last night, and left for Winnipeg today.

Mr. Thomas Hayes, of Seaforth, is the Conservative candidate in North Perth.

A noisy political meeting took place in St. Henri Friday night. It was called by Dr. Lachapelle, the late member for Hochelaga, and Mr. Madore, the Liberal candidate, was invited to attend. Although St. Henri has hitherto been strongly Conservative, the meeting was decidedly in favor of Mr. Madore. About 500 electors who could not get in the hall wanted an open air meeting. Mr. Madore was willing, but Dr. Lachapelle refused, and the result was an uproar which lasted for about an hour and a half.

Sir Oliver Mowat goes east on Tuesday next to join Hon. Wilfried Laurier in the campaign.

Hon. Mr. Wood and other leading Conservatives were billed to speak at Blenheim last (Friday) night, but they did not show up. Sir James Grant, of Ottawa, however, spoke for Mr. Ball, as did also Mr. T. W. Crothers, St. Thomas. There was little enthusiasm.

THE BUFFALO CATASTROPHE.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23.—The diggers worked yesterday in the debris of the fallen Brown building, and the body of the missing contractor, Wm. P. Straub, was unearthed and removed to the morgue. The body of the man recovered after midnight Thursday night has been recognized as that of one of the Polish workmen employed by Straub.

A SAVED MAN'S CONFESSION!

"I am Perfectly Cured."

Paine's Celery Compound, the Kind that Cures, Saves a Photographer's Life.

"The kind that cures."

This short sentence implies warning, comfort and joy; but there are some who do not fully grasp its depth of meaning.

"The kind that cures" refers directly to that marvelous disease-curing medicine, Paine's Celery Compound, the only medical prescription of the century that sick people can implicitly trust in and look to for the banishment of all nervous troubles, dyspepsia, neuralgia, rheumatism, and blood diseases.

"The kind that cures" warns you to be ever watchful, lest substituters try to persuade you to take what they term something just as good. The continual anxiety of the substituting dealer is to sell you some worthless medicine from which he derives a large profit.

"The kind that cures" was the medicine used by Mr. Hubert Rainaud, of Roxton Pond, P.Q. After he was perfectly and completely cured, he wrote as follows:

"I desire to inform you in as few words as possible what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I was a photographer in the United States for 19 years, and was obliged to return to Canada in order to regain my health. I used all kinds of medicines that were recommended to me, but they brought me no relief or cure. My troubles were a very bad form of dyspepsia and rheumatism of the stomach. For ten years I was very miserable and suffered much. My wife bought me a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, which I used with wonderful results. I continued until I used twelve bottles, and am now completely cured. I cannot thank you sufficiently for the great good your Paine's Celery Compound has done for me."

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Samuel Poole, 286 Bathurst street, died suddenly at his home last night. Deceased, who was a retired tailor, went upstairs to his room about 8 o'clock, and in a few moments was heard to fall to the floor. Members of the household hurried to his assistance, but nothing could be done, and deceased died before medical aid could be summoned. Dr. Teasdall ascribed the death to apoplexy. Mr. Poole intended going to the old country shortly.

THE BICYCLE GIRL.

"The Bicycle Girl," which will have its first production at the Grand on Monday is described as a cycle-comedy, a satire on the bicycling craze, and new woman insanity, and is said to be full of fun, song and dance. The farce is in three acts. The first shows Briarwood Bicycle Club, with Grace Fordyce, the bicycle girl, as president. She is the orphaned daughter of a rich bicycle manufacturer, who has left her his entire fortune. She is an up-to-date girl, a speculator in Wall street, and founder of the bicycle club. Grace is wooed by two suitors; one is Baron Byke, an American who masquerades as a French noblemean. Byke's father and Grace's were rival bicycle makers. Byke thinks by wedding Grace that the two firms can be consolidated. The other suitor is a student, who resolves to win the affections of Grace. The second act shows a genuine clam-bake of the club. In this act the kinetoscope is introduced for the first time on the stage. The third and last act shows a bicycle meet at the race track and ends with a bicycle race.

Ready for Dedication.

Is the Magnificent New Dundas Center Church.

A Full Description of the Completed Building.

Will Hold 1,500—A Church Model—A Beautiful Dome—Romanesque Architecture.

The new Dundas Center Church will be opened for the dedicatory services tomorrow. The day will begin with an early morning prayer and fellowship meeting at 7 o'clock. Rev. W. Williams, D.D., president of the London Conference, will preach at 11 a.m.; Rev. Dr. Briggs, of Toronto, at 3:30 p.m., and Rev. E. B. Ryckman, D.D., Kingston, at 7 p.m.

It is naturally expected that the crowd will be great at all the services, and to accommodate the pew-holders they will be admitted by ticket from 10:15 to 10:45 a.m. After 10:45 the doors will be thrown open to the general public.

The building is a stately pile, embodying all the pretty effects of the Romanesque style of architecture. The foundation walls are of rubble stone to the ground line, and the first six feet above is a crossing of Cleveland buff and red Credit Valley stone. Above this the building is faced with mottled purple brick, set in a colored mortar and trimmed with buff Ohio stone. The roof is of slate, and the exterior colors of the whole building are restful and harmonious, and pleasing to the eye.

The church is built on the corner of Dundas and Maitland streets, and the outside corner is set off with a 112-foot tower. In accordance with the style of architecture adopted, the top of the building fairly bristles with small towers and minarets.

A wide granolithic walk has been put down in front of the church, and the lawn will be sodded in part, if not in whole, today. The Dundas street frontage is 80 feet, and the depth on Maitland street 144 feet. The Sunday school building, semi-circular in shape, has been used for the regular church services for some time. The church auditorium is a 76-foot square, brought up in octagonal form at the ceiling. The seats will hold comfortably 1,280 adults, but 1,500 of a mixed congregation could be accommodated without the necessity of chairs being placed in the aisles. The furnishings are in oak, and, while the seats will not be cushioned, they are built in such a way as to rest the back and make very comfortable sittings. Under each seat is a wire arrangement to hold gentlemen's hats. The walls and ceiling are very pretty. The latter is finished in salmon-colored adamant, with four arches set off with ornamental plastering in white.

Entrance is effected through four large doorways—two in the center and one in each tower. They lead into a vestibule the whole width of the church, with lobbies formed by glass doors so as to stop all draughts. In each tower there is a stairway running to the gallery, and a shaft of polished granite as a support.

The gallery of the church has a magnificent sweep, forming a complete horseshoe. As the roof of the church is supported by 12-ton steel trusses and the gallery is carried on cantilevers, there is an unobstructed view from any portion of the building.

A peculiarity about the church is [illegible] seeming proximity of the pulpit to [illegible] portion of the house, and the [illegible]ndid acoustic properties. A brick-cork carpet has been put down [illegible]ghout the church, and it will ef[illegible]ally deaden the sqeak of the new [illegible] boots. It has another good [illegible]y—that of being easy to keep c[illegible]

[illegible]out exception, the prettiest part [illegible] new church is the stained glass dom[illegible]n the ceiling. It is 48 feet above the [illegible]r, and is lighted in the daytime [illegible] four dormers. But the grandest e[illegible]t will be had at nigh[illegible], when the m[illegible]nificent chandelier suspended below, [illegible]d which contains 72 electric and 60 [illegible] lights, is turned out and the current [illegible]ned into the 30 lights beyond th[illegible]me. The color work was done by [illegible] Ontario Stained Glass Company, [illegible] the very artistic design of the d[illegible] and the widows is the idea of [illegible] Walter Morgan. The church is [illegible]ghted, whether in daylight or at [illegible]

The magn[illegible]t chandelier is also of very bea[illegible] design and finis, and is one [illegible] church's most attractive featu[illegible]

But the pul[illegible] a genuine work of carver's art. [illegible] is built of highly polished oak, and the design in front includes an angel's face and wings. Under the pulpit in front is a stand or table for the collection plates and communion service. Mr. A. Hamilton had the contract.

The pulpit furniture is the gift of Mr. John Ferguson. Sreaton & Co., who had the carpet contract, have also made a gift of a carpet for the vestry. It is of rich texture and design.

The choir gallery is five feet above the pulpit platform, and has 65 sittings. The organ is 26x26 feet, and is finished in oak, like the rest of the church, but the instrument is not yet in place. In the meantime a piano has been placed on the pulpit platform.

The old church was burnt in Febuary, 1895, and the corner stone of the present building was laid on July 1 of the same year. The building, organ, furnishings, and everything complete, cost $55,000.

The Dundas Center Church was the last of the two to burn down, and the first to be built again, all of which goes to bear out the Scriptural reference to the last being first, and the first last.

HER WEIRD VISITOR.

A Woman Has a Startling Night Adventure—Demanded Her Hand in Marriage.

Norristown, May 22.—At a late hour last evening Mrs. S. A. Benson, aged 50 years, was awakened by a strange man, who leaned over her and threatened to kill her if she made any outcry. Mrs. Benson's presence of mind did not desert her, and, while startled, she awaited the result of the strange visitation from the evident madman. As calmly as possible she asked what was wanted. "I want you to marry me," was the quick response, which was repeated three times an instant later. Following this he grasped her by the throat, but, hearing a noise in the street, he turned and fled, promising to return again. Neighbors were then summoned, but although a rigid search was made, no trace of the man was obtained.

It is supposed the unwelcome guest entered the house while the family were seated on the front step. Mrs. Benson is now completely prostrated by the shock.

Dr. Hutchinson Maintained.

The Charges Against Him of Dishonesty Void of Truth.

This Was the Unanimous Opinion of the Board in Private Session Yesterday Afternoon.

The Board of Health met in private session yesterday afternoon at the City Hall to consider the evidence taken on Thursday night concerning Dr. Hutchinson, medical health officer. Dr. Cl. T. Campbell (chairman) presided, Ald. Skinner, Prof. J. Bowman, John Christie, Ald. W. Heaman and the mayor being present. The board sat for nearly an hour. Dr. Hutchinson remained in the ante-room, and was occasionally called in to answer some question.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the board:

"That the board are of the opinion that the charges affecting the integrity and honesty of the medical health officer are not proven, but that certain changes may be made in the system of inspection adopted by Dr. Hutchinson, which will lead to greater efficiency and tend to satisfy the milk vendors that perfect justice is done to all parties. That the chairman and Prof. Bowman be a sub-committee to recommend a plan for the collection of milk samples by the health inspectors, and the submission of the same to the medical health officer without disclosing the names of the owners of the samples, and also to provide blanks to be filled up by the medical health officer when inspecting byres and stables, giving date and hour of inspection; also the number of animals inspected, copy of the form to be left with the proprietor in each case."

Dr. Hutchinson was immediately informed. He was unaffected by the verdict, as he was fully conscious that the board could come to no other conclusion. He stated that similar charges were made against Dr. Allen, of Toronto, some three of four years ago, and that after consideration he was maintained in all his actions. He said that out of the 26 milkmen mixed up in the affair, nine of those had at different times offered him bribes. Sending turkeys, etc., to his house was one means employed to rub him up the soft side, "but," said the doctor, "it didn't work."

Storm-Swept Oklahoma

Eight Cyclones in One Section Within Five Days.

A Large Number of Fatalities Reported and Many Buildings Wrecked.

Guthrie, Oklahoma, May 23.—A disastrous cyclone and waterspout passed over this section Thursday night, causing great damage.

At Edmonton twenty houses were demolished, and two persons, Harvey rich and his daughter, were kiled.

At White Eagle, 30 miles north, three cyclones formed within the space of one hour, and swept towards the Osage country. Twelve houses were demolished, and 40 to 50 head of stock were killed in the vicinity of White Eagle.

At Black Bear John Rogers and wife were killed by falling timbers, while a farmer named White was killed and al the members of his family injured by their house being blown down on them.

At Cushing five persons were killed. The storm came up from the south, and traveled north, where it collided with another storm coming from the west.

It is reported that $75,000 damage was done to property and stock in the Osage country. Several lives are reported lost.

Eight cyclones have occurred within a radius of 50 miles in this section within five days. The city of Guthrie has always escaped the fury of the storms, owing to its location. Relief will be sent to sufferers in Payne county.

Arkansas City, Kan., May 23.—The eastern portion of Kay county, in the Cherokee strip, and the southeastern corner of Cowley county, Kansas, were swept by three tornadoes. The storms traversed a section of country thinly inhabited, and, therefore, no los of life has been reported. The destruction to crops and fences is considerable.

CAUSED HER TO FAINT.

Great Pain from Kidney Disease.

With kidney disease, unless the real cause of the trouble is eradicated, the disease becomes more deeply seated.

"That this is the case," said Mrs. J. Halman, wife of a well-known merchant of Berlin, Ont., "was shown in my experience, for I had suffered from kidney disease for eighteen long months."

"Did you suffer much pain?" was an inquiry.

"Yes," said Mrs. Halman. "At times the pain would be so intense that I would lose consciousness and go off in fainting spells."

"What efforts did you make to rid the system of the disease?"

"I did, as I thought, everything, through doctors and proprietary medicines, but it was not until South American Kidney Cure was brought under my notice that I obtained relief. The results were marvelous. Ease came after taking a few doses, and the use of two bottles was sufficient to cure me of all kidney trouble."

Where South American Kidney Cure differs from the many pills and powders advertised is in the fact that it is a liquid, and dissolves the uric acid and oxalate of lime that gathers in the system when kidney disease is present. Allowed to remain, these sand-like particles filter through the kidneys, and in time destroy them entirely.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

Memphis, Tenn., May 23.—The Supreme Council Catholic Knights and Ladies of America elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Supreme Spiritual Director, Right Rev. Bishop Byrne, Nashville; Supreme President, John McGeoff, Kalamazoo, [illegible]; Supreme Secretary, T. M. Hen[illegible] [illegible]ouisville, Ky.; Supreme Treasurer, [illegible]ss Naomie O'Brien, St. Louis.

There are now 138 vendors supplying the city with milk, the average percentage of all being 3.80, which is very fair for the time for the year.

Some vendors ignorantly assert that the butterfat in milk cannot exceed or even reach 5 per cent. As a matter of fact, it has reached 10 per cent. Mr. C. W. Hourd, of Westminster, had a grade cow in his herd, a short time ago, which was milked out in my presence, and a sample taken of the whole, which gave 8 per cent butterfat.

Mr. Peter Lawson, of Nilestown, has a herd of forty or more Jerseys. Samples were taken from seven of these, and the butterfat ranged from 6.25 to 10 per cent, the average of all being 7.81 per cent.

In the last bulletin issued by Thos. MacFarlane, the Dominion analyist, Ottawa, some samples of market milk gave percentages of 5.95.

Milk is, perhaps, the greatest absorber of disease germs known. The present method, therefore, of carting it for hours around the city is very objectionable. Mud, dust and whatever may be floating in the air, get into the cans and measures. The milk should be put in glass jars, air-tight, before leaving the dairy, and delivered in this manner to customers. All of which is respectfully admitted.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

How a Cumberland County, N. S. Man Obtained It.

A Sufferer From Acute Dyspepsia and a Complication of Troubles Following an Attack of La Grippe—He Was Forced to Quit Business and Was Hopelessly Discouraged When Help Came.

From the Amherst, N. S., Sentinel.

Mr. Charles Tucker, who lives about two miles from Lockport, is one of the best known men in that section. He is engaged in business as a lobster packer, and dealer in flour and salt, and in addition has a fine farm. During the past three years Mr. Tucker has been an almost constant invalid, being the victim of a complication of troubles following a severe attack of la grippe. Recently he has been restored to his old-time health, and having learned that he gave the entire credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, concerning which so much has been said through the press, a reporter interviewed him in the matter, and was cheerfully given his story for publication. Mr. Tucker said: About four years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe, which left me in a fearful condition. I had for a number of years before this attack been a sufferer from dyspepsia, but following the la grippe it took a more acute form, and to add to my distress my liver appeared not to perform its usual functions, and my heart troubled me greatly, and there were as well other complications which baffled the skill of four doctors whom I successively called in in the hope of regaining my health. From the knees down my legs were as cold as ice; my bowels would bloat, and I suffered great pain. My case went from bad to worse despite the medical treatment I was undergoing, and at last I got so bad that I was forced to give up business. I could hardly eat anything, but got little sleep at night, and as you will readily understand my condition became one of despair. My father urged me several times to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, but I was so discouraged that I had no further faith left in any medicine. However, more to please him than from any hope of beneficial results, I began the use of Pink Pills. The first beneficial effects I found was that the warmth and natural feeling began to return to my limbs, my bowels ceased to bloat, and with the continued use of the Pills my appetite returned. I slept soundly at night, and the action of my heart became normal. I continued taking the pills until I had used in all fifteen boxes, and I have not felt better in years than I do now. I did some particularly hard work last fall, and was able to stand it with a strength and vigor which surprised me. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, not only a wonderful medicine, but also in the light of what my other treatment cost, the least expensive medicine in the world, and I strongly recommend Pink Pills to all in need of a medicine.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood and nerves, building them anew and thus driving disease from the system. There is no trouble due to either of these causes which Pink Pills will not cure, and in hundreds of cases they have restored patients to health after all other remedies had failed. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take nothing else. The genuine are always inclosed in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." May be had from all dealers, or sent postpaid on receipt of 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

One Point Of View.

BANK clerks were born into this world, so it seems to me, for the express purpose of terrifying the shy ones of the earth. I claim to have a little bit of the metal known as brass in my make-up, but even for me the august creature known as the bank clerk has certain undefined terrors.

I went into one of this city's institutions the other day, a favorite with small depositors, and there for twenty minutes I watched the shy woman at her worst.

How could she help it? Turn which way she might she seemed to feel about her that same dread air of suspicion.

She sought what looked as if it might be a bureau of information, and having found it, in a still small voice, made known her wants to the spick-and-span young man in charge.

O! why could he not have given her just one encouraging smile, one friendly scrap of advice, instead of trying his double pair of eyes to look her through and through. But bank clerks are not made that way!

I could see that she felt it an enormous privilege to be allowed to deposit her money, and when the last ceremony of indorsing the check was over she drew a sigh of relief that must have come from the innermost region of her perplexed soul.

* * * *

The trolley company of this city has done one thing for the shy woman, however, in furnishing a line of cars in which the seats are placed railroad fashion, instead of opposite each other.

It would not be so bad if women were not so merciless to each other. I know of nothing more curious than a woman, unless it be a cow, when once she thinks there is anything to be curious about. She will stare you out of countenance, when once the smallest details of dress or manner catches her attention. Nowhere does she have a better field for action than when seated face to face with a trolley car rider.

Good breeding, of course, prohibits anything approaching a stare, but unfortunately the world at large cannot be depended upon to furnish real gentlewomen.

If it could the shy sister would not suffer as she does.

"Adam Johnstone's Son" is a young man I should enjoy being mother-in-law to. Marion Crawford has just completed him, a creditable specimen of the great army of authors' rag-dolls, all ready for the summer holidays. Arms and legs put on not to dangle, and features carefully sketched in to represent a most speaking and life-like expression, and "bright blue eyes"—alas!

But you will find him and the other characters of the book agreeable people, with whom to spend an idle afternoon over, in a hammock. It is difficult, as the author says, "to sit up straight and be good without being prigs, and do right, without sticking it through other people's peace of mind as one sticks a pin through a butterfly," but in Brook Johnstone, the hero of the book, it seems to me, all these conditions are most satisfactorily fulfilled.

The description of his first meeting with the heroine, at the table d' hote, of a hotel in Southern Europe, which was once a monastery, perched high on the rocks, overhanging the sea, is very pretty; Mr. Crawford always laying his colors on, with the crispest little touches.

"He watched Clare's hands as she prepared an orange in the Italian fashion, taking off the peel at one end, then passing the knife twice completely round at right angles, and finally stripping the peel away in four neat pieces. The hands were beautiful in their way, too thin, perhaps, and almost too white from recent illness, but straight and elastic, with little blue veins at the sides of the fingerpoints and exquisite nails, naturally polished. The girl was clever with her fingers. She could not help seeing that her neighbor was watching her, and she peeled the orange with unusual skill and care. It was a good one, too, and the peel separated easily from the deep yellow fruit." This book is one of Macmillan & Co.'s, but it can be procured from the Copp, Clark Co., of Toronto.

Another little anecdote of the bewildering person named "Sarah," who visited us this spring comes floating back. "One night, when the audience in a small town was especially bad, Sarah Bernhardt, bored by the small size of the audience, and its stupidity, resolved to make the most of it. The play was "Camille." But instead of speaking the lines as Dumas wrote them, Sarah made up the play as she went along, interpolating such opinions as, from minute to minute, she had of the audience. She called them unutterable things, and in a highly dramatic way. The innocents applauded these sentiments vigorously, upon which she called them something worse.

The play was called "Camille," you will note, so that the name of that town could not have been London.

* * * *

The bicycle fever is sweeping from continent to continent in a seven-leagued boot fashion, that reminds one of the mighty swath cut through space and the universe, by "La Grippe." It seems as if neither old age nor innocence can escape. I know of a youngster who accosted his father very early one morning, after the following manner:

"Papa, I'm so sorry sometimes about all the trouble I give mamma."

"She hasn't complained."

"No, she's very patient. But she often sends me to shops for things, and they are a good way off, and I know she gets cross waiting when she's in a hurry."

"Not often, I fancy."

"Oh, she's nearly always in a hurry. She gets everything all ready for baking, and finds at the last moment she hasn't any baking powder; or she gets the pudding all mixed and finds she hasn't any nutmeg, or something; and then she's in an awful stew, 'cause the oven is all ready, and maybe company coming, and I can't run a very long distance, you know, and I feel awfully sorry for poor mamma."

"Humph! Well, what can we do about it?"

"I was thinking you might get me a bicycle."

OBSERVER.

The Intelligent Elephant.

London Tit-Bits.

"Speakin' about animals, to my experience the elephant is the smartest of the whole caboodle," said the ex-canvasman. "I remember back in '56 when I was with Barnum ole Emp'ror showed one day he could read." "Oh, come off." "I won't come off, neither. An' I'll prove it to you in about two minutes. Well, as I was sayin, the old fellow got into a scrap with the royal Bengal tiger, and 'fore we could get 'em separated he got his trunk perty badly chewed up. After the scrimmage was over, Emp'ror he breaks loose and starts down the street on a dead run. "He's goin' wild,' somebody hollers. 'Don't you believe it,' says I. Now, where do you suppose that elephant went to?" "Went straight to the surgeons, I suppose. Say, can't you get up a better yarn——" "Naw. He didn't go to no surgeon's, neither. He went straight to a little portmanteau shop which had the sign out that said: 'Trunks repaired while you wait.' Of course he had made a mistake, but what do you expect of a poor dumb brute?"

SOUTH VICTORIA SURE.

Chas. Fairbairn, M. P., Speaks Out in Definite Terms.

Just what conclusions South Victoria's member may have reached on some questions is perhaps uncertain, but that Mr. Fairbairn has clear and definite views as to the nature of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder there can be no doubt. Accustomed to dealing frankly with matters as they come before him, he has, with every plainness, told of the effective character of this remedy in the case of catarrh or cold in the head. The quick relief that comes from the use of this medicine is a point in which not alone Mr. Fairbairn, but hundreds of others have freely testified. If a cure is desired, avoid cheap, worthless imitations. Sample bottle and blower sent by S. G. Detchon, 44 Church street, Toronto, on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

FAME AT LAST.

"Just think, Mr. Wright," said the young woman who was trying to be pleasant, "all the children in the neighborhood are repeating that poem of yours that appeared in last month's magazine."

"That is flattering. Very."

"Yes. They are using it for a counting-out rhyme, you know; dear little things."

STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW

B.B.B.

TO THE MARK.

In all diseases that affect humanity there is some weak link in the chain of health, some spot that is the seat of the trouble. It may be the liver, it may be the stomach; perhaps it is the bowels or the kidneys; most likely it is the blood. Burdock Blood Bitters goes straight to that spot, strengthens the weak link in the chain, removes the cause of the disease, and restores health, because it acts with cleansing force and curative power upon the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood.

With good red blood health is assured, without it disease is certain to come and Burdock is the only remedy that will positively remove all blood poisons. In ulcers, abscesses, scrofula, scrofulous swellings, skin diseases, blotches, old sores, etc., B.B.B. should be applied externally, as well as taken internally according to directions.

John Bohl, secretary of the Cigarmakers' International Union, thinks the next convention of that union will indorse the project of establishing co-operative factories.

The labor unions of the Cripple Creek district are taking care of their own members who have been burned out, and no assistance has been asked of the relief committee.

Twenty-one Canadians have been sent back by Immigration Inspector McGlogan, of Detroit, this month. He is keeping a close watch for the benefit of the men engaged in strikes.

Whitehead & Lewis, of Detroit, the only firm refusing to grant the demands of the Tin, Sheet Iron and Cornice Workers' Union for a nine-hour day without reduction of pay, have given in.

Lathers' Union, No. 1, of Cincinnati, has under discussion at the present time the advisability of discontinuing piece work, and working either by superficial measurement or journeyman day work.

One thousand carpenters went on strike at Newark, N. J., during the past week for an eight-hour day. The close of the week found one-third of their number at work, being successful in obtaining the demand.

The threatened strike of railway employes in Switzerland was compromised, the men receiving an advance of 25 per cent in wages and receding from their position on the rules governing the discharge of employes.

Kansas employed 9,000 men and 350 boys around its coal mines last year, producing 3,000,000 tons. Considerable foreign labor was represented, and it is noticeable that its accident rate is far in excess of the casualty record of mines in Colorado, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois.

Not half of those who desired were able to gain admission to the lecture of Eugene V. Debs in Cincinnati May 8, and he will speak there again at his earliest vacant date. Mr. Debs has been invited to address the students of the Chicago University, and has accepted.

The Journeymen Horseshoers' Internal Union of the United States and Canada held its 22nd annual convention in Buffalo this week. There was a large attendance of delegates. There are 60 subordinate unions with a membership of over 23,000, affiliated with the Horseshoers' organization.

The striking carpenters of Detroit say that while there have been no big walkouts, men are constantly joining them in squads of four or five to a dozen. The carpenters claim that they will gain the eight-hour day before very long, twelve contractors having already agreed to sign the agreement.

The strike at the American Steel Barge Works at West Superior, which involved about 300 men, from the riveters', fitters' and caulkers' department at the outset, and threatened to assume serious proportions, is a thing of the past, the management conceding the men the advance of 25 cents per day.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is very much in evidence at the present time. The grand work of building up and strengthening the Brotherhood is going on from one end of the land to the other. New charters are being issued daily, and old members returning to the fold.

The union carpenters of Cripple Creek held a meeting immediately after the great fire and decided not to ask for an advance in wages, as they were planing to do before the fire. All carpenters are warned away from Cripple Creek, as a lumber famine makes it impossible to give work to more men than are already in the district.

The 31 members of the Russel Wheel and Foundry Company, of Detroit, together with the laborers connected with that department—making about 50 men in all—went out on strike Wednesday. The trouble is an outgrowth of the refusal of the company to pay the minimum wages of $2 50 a day demanded for floor workers.

President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, said to a representative of the Indianapolis Centinel, who asked what the general result of the eight-hour movement would be: "The result will be steadier employment, longer seasons of employment, lesser numbers of unemployed, higher wages and a greater purchasing power of wages; in short, a healthier, more stalwart and more intelligent manhood. It will result in a truer and more independent citizenship in which the independent citizen will have a greater voice in deciding political affairs of state and nation than the party boss."

Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, having been disgusted with the methods of Secretary-Treasurer Hays, and seeing the early dissolution of the order, is making overtures to the American Federation of Labor to bring the remnant of Knights into the Federation camp, which has already absorbed the larger portion of them. Among trades unions Mr. Sovereign is regarded as an honest, well-meaning man, somewhat extravagant in speech, but thoroughly loyal to labor. With the addition of the K. of L., the independent Bricklayers, and other organizations that have recently affiliated, the Federation membership would approach close to a million men, and at the present rate of increase would be doubled in less than two years.

John C. Dernell, international financier of the cigarmakers' was in Detroit Wednesday morning and addressed the striking cigarmakers. He gave them a bracing talk. In the annual financial report, Detroit, No. 22, is credited with 566 members. Initiation fees for the year amounted to $429, dues $7,990, and receipts in aid of the strike were $10,350. The strike benefits paid out were $19,612. Total receipts $20,975, with balance on hand $11,280; total expenditure $32,365. Detroit No. 284, is reported as having 17 members. Total receipts, including balance on hand, $1,694; total expenditure, $1,603, leaving a balance on hand of $91. The strike benefits paid out were $560. No. 22 does not appear in the deficiency list at all, and No. 284 is only charged with $82. The entire amount paid in by cigarmakers' unions during the year was $538,033, and the entire disbursement was $642,609. The balance on hand at the beginning of the year was $340,788, and at the close $236,213. Loans outstanding were $88,000. The membership throughout the country, Jan. 1 last, was 27,760.

For the annual convention of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, which commences Aug. 3, in Chicago, the city council has granted free use of the council chamber. Only once before has this privilege been accorded to trades unionists, and that was on the occasion of the Chicago convention of the American Federation of Labor. Members of the Painters' Union have other matters in connection with their forthcoming big gathering on which to felicitate themselves, and are confronted with the brightest prospects in the career of their organization. Besides delegates from 50 cities who will represent the brotherhood's own membership of 7,000, it is probable that delegates from nearly all of the largest unions of the Elliott faction will be seated. Many applications have come in from them, and they are being welcomed by officers of the brotherhood. Two years ago the split in the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators took place. John T. Elliott seceded from the union and took with him 1,800 members, establishing headquarters at Baltimore. He left behind 1,600 members, and the two figures represented the then total organized strength of the painters of a large part of the country. Now the Elliott faction has a membership of 3,500, and the western faction, which has headquarters at Lafayette, Ind., and is recognized in the west as the bona fide organization, has a membership of 7,000. Despite the bitterness of the contest between the two factions, the split has been of great benefit to the painters, for the rivalry has incited effort that has resulted in a gain of 7,000 members of one craft to organized labor in two years. The convention will devote its attention to drawing all the union painters into one fold.

A Knocker of Pure Gold.

Mr. James Payn has just been telling that at Ottford, in Kent, there was formerly a palace of the Archbishop of Canterbury in which Wolsey is said to have held his court. "It was a small place, and is now a farmhouse, picturesque enough, but exhibiting no special signs of prosperity. The other day, however, this little incident happened: 'The farmer sent for a carpenter to do some odd jobs about the house, and among other things to mend the knocker. The man took it off, and said, after a close examination of it, "Do you know what this knocker is made of?" "Why, brass, I suppose." "No; it is pure gold." And it was. Think of the years that that rich prize had hung at the mercy of every tramp!"—Westminster Gazette.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To Those Who Use South American Nervine

A LADY OF 80 YEARS PERMANENTLY CURED BY THIS WONDERFUL MEDICINE.

Three Doctors Said "Old Age Was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODIE, FLESHERTON, ONT.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age beautiful and free." These are conditions that come to the man or the woman though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact, it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of the day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does some one tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to, or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch of the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoodie, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for 40 years. No person in the town and country side around is, perhaps, better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sadness to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoodie. She supposed her end had come. She doctored for one year with three doctors and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age, and no one, or any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time, she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is today completely cured of that breaking up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in th

A Famous Anniversary.

The Historic Fight of Culloden—Only One Hundred and Fifty Years Since the Conflict that Decided the Fate of the Sturdy North.

It is difficult for us in these busy, unromantic times to realize what is meant by civil broil, political intrigue involving life and liberty, and the setting in deadly array of rival hosts on battlefields by our doors. Yet it is only 150 years on the 16th of this pleasant month since the last struggle of civil warfare took place on Scottish soil, giving to the national history one of its darkest pages, and to national story and song some of their most romantic themes. For not even such names as Bannockburn and Flodden are more familiar to Scottish ears than the ominous syllables of Culloden. In the jocound "stoury" barn, with the winter winds whistling by, on the sunny hairst rig, in the hall, by the lowliest fireside, are yet sung the lays that came of the last adventure of the Stuarts, and kept the blood warm in brave and loyal hearts—never mind which side they beat for. Even in the murky, roaring city street the voice of the wandering singer takes upon itself a spirit worthy of more congenial surroundings when it ceases from the ignoble and strikes the notes of a Jacobite song. And as the lay rises you will, if you observe, not many a hurrying footstep linger on the pavement, many an eye glance, and now and again a "bawbee" tinkle, to reward him or her who sings:

"Cam ye by Athol, lad, with the philabeg,
Down by the Tummel or banks o' the Garry,
Saw ye the lads wi' the bonnet and tartan plaid
Leaving the mountains to follow Prince Charlie?
I hae but ae son, the gallant young Donald,
But if I had ten they should follow Glengarry;
Health to MacDonald and gallant Clan Ronald—
These are the men that shall die for their Charlie!"

Or, it may be the rattling canter of "Johnny Cope," the wild raising of the "Standard on the Braes o' Mar," or the eerie wail that in so many lines tells how

"A' is done that men can do,
And a' is done in vain!"

We do not stay to analyze the strange illogical sentiments; we feel, and are content to pass. To most it is a touching of the still strings of memory, and some of us step onward, seeing peat fires in the shop windows and hearing voices in the clatter of the wheels. "Out in the Forty-five!" He who can point to a forebear who was so distinguished will forget all the turmoil of the day to speak of it, much as the Irish peasant tells how his great grandfather was "out in the thrubles." Surely, then, at this anniversary of events so notable a brief glance backward at the closing tragedy will not fail to be of interest.

The rebellion of 1745 was, like that of the '15, a result of the revolution of more than half a century before. The exiled Stuarts never gave up hope of regaining the sovereignty James had finally forfeited, and in 1715 the "old Pretender" had made a vain effort to this end. In July, 1745, his son, Chares Edward Stuart, the "Bonnie Prince Charlie" of songs he never deserved, took advantage of the embroilment and disasters of Britain abroad to make another attempt. Utterly unprovided for such a venture, with neither money, arms, nor supplies, with only 17 followers, he proceeded to raise the clans. George II., the reigning King, was in Hanover, and the leader of the armies, the Duke of Cumberland, was in Flanders, with most of the available troops. Aided by Lord Lochiel and other influential chiefs, Charles made a brave show, and, had he been a capable leader, there is no guessing what in these circumstances he might not have accomplished. To the terror of the South, he shattered Sir John Cope's forces at Prestonpans in September. The Duke of Cumberland was recalled from the continent, and was repulsed in Penrith by the Highlanders, who were retreating after a desperate invasion of England.

On Jan. 17, 1746, Charles fought and won the battle of Falkirk, and, continuing his retreat, with an idea of holding out for a summer campaign, he at last, early in April, found himself at Inverness, with the Royalists rapidly closing upon him by land and sea. This brings us to the situation of the final struggle, which we will mainly review, not from more or less recent descriptions, but from the actual newspaper reports, such as they were, at the time. We will in fact, deal with the accounts of eyewitnesses.

The concentration of the Highland forces at Inverness was the signal for a very considerable show of activity on the part of Charles and many supporters and opponents. The fiery cross was sent round, and ladies, not a few of whom had husbands and sons in the Royalist ranks, lent their powerful assistance. A spirited guerilla warfare was successful in Athole, and indeed for a space, Charles's position was far from being regarded as desperate. But it was the flicker before the quenching of the light. Time was passing, money run done, the country, not at any time too rich, was literally eaten up; the winter was passing away and thus permitting the Royalists to draw nearer and nearer, well appointed and resolved to spare no severity or resource of war to crush the adventurous men who had twice overthrown them disastrously in fair fight, foiled them in many small engagements, and baffled them in strategy.

Lord George Murray, one of Charles' ablest officers, was recalled from his daring siege of doughty Sir Andrew Agnew in the Castle of Blair, and all preparations were made with the idea of meeting Cumberland at the fords of Spey. For, after all, it was by a mere accident that Culloden proved to be the scene of the struggle which decided Charles' fate. A show was made of disputing this passage, but no effective resistence was made, and the Royalists crossed easily. The rebels retreated, and on Monday, April 14, the Duke and his army arrived at Nairn, where, the 15th being his birthday, the troops rested and got all ready for the morrow. On hearing of the near approach of his enemy Charles rode out of Inverness with what artillery and troops he had, and ordered a rendezvous on Drumossie Moor, to the southeast of Culloden House. Even then it was not anticipated with any certainty that here would be the scene of battle.

The rebels were by this time in most piteous case. Food was barely to be had—anything like an ample supply was an impossibility, and the men were worn out with exposure by night and day to the inclemency of the weather. The force was terribly thinned by desertion, discipline was naturally lax, and division of opinion filled in the detail of the miserable situation. It is difficult to keep up a fighting spirit on a shred of biscuit and cold water, especially after a night spent behind a whin bush. Poor fellows! how many of them were to make that bed their last resting-place before many hours were over, their valor making the unknown heath memorable for all time.

It seemed as if the relentless fate of his unfortunate line now closed in upon Charles. The wise advice to occupy broken ground a short distance away was rejected, though this would have minimized the importance of Cumberland's artillery and cavalry, in both of which arms he was exceptionally strong, while Charles was as exceptionally weak. The fatal moor, on the other hand, gave splendid scope for artillery, and, as events proved, excellent opportunity for the horse.

The night and morning preceding the day of battle were occupied in a singularly daring and desperate attempt which resulted in lamentable failure. It was resolved, and the idea found much favor, to steal a night march on Cumberland and cut his forces to pieces at Nairn. The Highlanders set out, but the Frenchmen with them were not able to march as swiftly as the hardy hillsmen, and this caused some delay. The darkness, the necessity for making detours for safety, the staying of the van for the laggard rear, settled the fate of the march. Daylight was near, and it was apparent Cumberland could not be reached before daylight, and within sight of his camp-fires the weary, famished Highlanders had to turn back—back to the fateful moor.

The history of that march, as told by a survivor, is a pathetic tale. Had there been but one hour more of darkness on that April morning, who can say how British history might have run.

Back to the moor the weary men dragged themselves, and flung them down exhausted, or made renewed efforts to obtain food. Cumberland's fresh troops in a few hours came in sight, marching with the artillery as if on parade, and all became bustle in the Highland camp. The Highlanders instantly called in all stragglers, so far as possible, and took up position. An old plan of the field, published a month after the battle, gives the clans the following order of position, beginning from the left: "Glengarry, Keppoch, Clanronald, Maclean, Macleod, Mackintosh, Lovat, Cluny, Appin, Lochiel, Athol." Lord John Drummond was in command, with Lord George Murray on the right, and the Duke of Perth on the left. The Prince was in the center behind the line, while reserves were disposed in rear and on the flanks. The plan to which we refer gives the total number as: Royalists, 8,811; rebels, 8,350; but various estimates of strength are discussed in the contemporary accounts of the battle. On the right of the rebels were park walls, which too late, they thought of breaking down, and these gave fatal opportunity to the active Campbells in the Royalist ranks. Their few guns were in the center of the front rank of the clans and on the wings. During the battle the Macdonalds, who were enraged at not being placed on the right of the Prince, stood sullenly still, and saw their leader shot before their eyes while vainly trying to lead them to the charge.

The battle began with an interchange of cannonading, which severely galled the Highlanders, who clamored to be led on to the charge, and soon were on the point of breaking all restraint and hurling themselves headlong on the enemy. A murmuring cry rose from end to end of the line, and was carried through the dull drizzle to the Royalists, who nerved themselves for the coming shock. Suddenly the clans surged forward, firing their small arms, and dropping these, taking to the beloved claymore. It was the last battle charge of a galant race on their native soil:

"Like wave with crest of sparkling foam,
Right onward did Clan Alpin come,
Above the tide each broadsword bright
Was brandishing like beams of light,
Each targe was dark below;
And with the ocean's mighty swing,
When heaving to the temptest's wing,
They hurled them on the foe!"

The impact was terrific, and but for supports Barrel's and Monroe's regiments would have been torn to pieces by the maddened swordsmen, who wielded their weapons with desperate fury. But cannon and musket fire was concentrated upon them; reserves closed up, the Campbells, followed by horse, broke through the walls on the right flank; the cavalry on Cumberland's right swung round on the left flank, and both parties of horse charged home to the center. The Royalist infantry, too had met the Highlanders' charge in a different manner from former occasions, each soldier being instructed to strike not the man in front of him, who would parry the bayonet on his targe, but to lunge instead at the opponent to his right front, who would have his right side unprotected in using his sword arm. Torn by grape shot and bullets, cooped in by infantry, charged by cavalry, utterly unsupported, the clans recognized that the day was lost. They melted away from the field as if by magic, leaving plaid and red coat mingled thick in bloody swathes. Some 1,500 Highlanders were mowed down in the brief struggle, while the Royalists lost between 200 and 300.

It is said that Lord Elcho rode up to Charles and implored him to lead a last charge and win or die, as became the last of his race, and, on the Prince turning t ogo, the fiery soldier cursed him bitterly, and swore he would never look on his face again. Another account, however, is to the effect that Elcho saw him shortly after the battle, and "represented to him that the check was nothing * * * to think only of rallying his army and putting himself at its head, and trying once more the fortune of war, as the disaster might be easily repaired." But Charles was not made of the stuff that can bear up against reverses, and after a period of miserable wandering, safe-guarded by a devotion that has no parallel in modern history, he escaped to France. The sum of £30,000 was offered for his capture, but the bribe was scorned; not a man among those he had deserted would have it. And this weak remnant of a royal house—he for whom so much valiant blood had been shed on field and scaffold, for whose sake the land had patiently borne devastation by fire and sword, for whom man and maid had vied in devotion peerless of pathetic—died a miserable drunkard at Rome in 1788. His brother, Cardinal York, "the last of the Stuarts," claiming to the end to be "King by the grace of God, but not by the will of man," died within this century, in 1807.

To return to Culloden Moor. The battle was fought at 1 o'clock, and lasted for only about half an hour. The clansmen were buried where they fell, as far as possible those of the same clan being buried together. An eyewitness of the stricken field, writing in the Scots' Magazine of May, 1746, and referring to the dead Highlanders, says: "Everybody allowed who saw them dead in the field of battle that men of a larger size, larger limbs and better proportioned, could not be found." Today the visitor to the moor will find memorials everywhere of the fight—the little stones above the mounds bearing the simple tribal names, beside which, otherwise nameless, sleeps the warrior dead till the great reveille. A huge cairn near by in the shelter of a dark wood which now grows on a portion of the battlefield, bears the legend:

THE BATTLE of CULLODEN
was fought on this Moor,
16th April, 1746.

The Graves of the GALLANT HIGHLANDERS
who fought for
SCOTLAND and PRINCE CHARLIE
are marked by the names of their Clans.

Not far from the field of battle lies the celebrated "Cumberland Stone," a huge grey boulder, from which, tradition says the Duke watched the struggle.

We need not speak of the after-consequences of the battle, or of the infamous outrages which won for Cumberland the title by which he will ever be remembered by the kin of the clans—"The Butcher." The old animosities are dead, old grudges are forgotten, and we are content to recall only the gallantry and manly loyalty that will for ever touch quick the heart at mention of Culloden and the '45.—R. A. Dakers, in the Weekly Scotsman.

A Dialogue in the Night.

The man in the upper berth leaned over its edge, and, jamming his frown firmly down on his brow, cried in a harsh, coarse voice that was audible above the rattle and rumble of the engine:

"Hi, you, down there. Are you rich?"

"Heh?" ejaculated the man in the lower berth, almost swallowing his Adam's apple. "Whazzer mazzer?"

"I say, are you rich?"

"What's that sir! Rich? What do you mean by waking me up in the middle of the night to ask me such a question as that?"

"I want to know—that's why."

"Well, then, confound you, I am rich. Now, I hope your curiosity is satisfied and you will let me go to sleep.

"Very rich?'

"Millionaire, confound you. Now shut up, and——"

"Well, then, why in torment don't you charter the whole train to do your snoring in?"

THE GLOBE is the best paper in Canada, the best edited, the best conducted, the most enterprising, and deserves all the success that it enjoys.—Kingston Whig.
THE GLOBE is Canada's greatest newspaper in every sense of the term.—St. John, N.B., Sun.
THE GLOBE improves every day. Its news columns contain more and truer news than any other paper in Canada, and its editorials are models for any writer to study.—Cornwall Freeholder.

The St. Thomas Journal says :—"THE GLOBE is once more established in its own home. We are glad to note that the circulation of THE GLOBE has been increasing of late very rapidly. The reasons are not far to seek. The principal reason for THE GLOBE's prosperity is THE GLOBE's quality. It is the best newspaper in Canada."

For Boys and Girls

A Complaint.

By Katharine N. Birdsall.

I have a little brother boy,
But he's so very small,
I can't see what he's made for—
He's just no good at all.

No one could call him handsome;
He's only eight weeks old;
He stays in bed most all the day,
And doesn't like the cold.

He cannot talk as I can,
Nor eat nice meat and bread;
He cannot even walk around
Or stand upon his head!

But what provokes me most is
To hear him wail and cry;
Then mamma hugs and kisses him
And sings a hushaby.

But if I fall upon the floor
And hurt my precious head,
Nurse says, "You are too big to cry—
I'll put you right to bed!"

And I am only three years old,
With lovely curly hair—
I only cry for kisses;
Now, do you think it's fair?
—The Outlook.

Trade No. 47—The Samsons.

By Harriet Caryl Cox.

The little town of Kentville was going to celebrate, and that in great style. It hadn't been growing steadily since its start 50 years ago, and outstripped all the adjoining towns for nothing. Indeed, it was going to show the country how the thing ought to be done. The great feature of the celebration was to be a trades' procession.

For months previous, the merchants and tradesmen had been planning all sorts of floats and unique ideas whereby to illustrate their own particular business, and as the time drew near a general air of mystery and suppressed excitement pervaded the place. The members of the committee on the procession became men of importance, for they alone knew what the remarkable features were to be, and to them all must apply for position in the procession.

"And it's got to be something pretty good, too, else they won't let you be in it at all," said Eddie Marks, the butcher's son, as he unfolded portions of his father's secret to Jesse Samson, as they sat on the back door-step and talked the matter over.

It wouldn't do to tell everybody what Eddie had just confided, for there was a big prize offered for the best feature, but then it didn't matter any if he told Jesse. Jesse was only the washerwoman's boy anyway, and he had no interest in the procession, save as an interested on-looker.

He might have had if his father had lived, for he, too, would have been in the procession, Jesse was sure, And he sighed a little sigh as he thought how splendid his father would have looked in that procession. He was such a big man and he had such a jolly laugh, and he'd be sure to get the prize for he was always doing such smart things. He had almost got an invention once, only somehow at the very last some one else managed to get a patent on the same thing, and that had spoiled it all.

That was just the way it had always been. Nothing seemed to go just right with the Samsons, but they should some day, Jesse determined, as, with sudden resolve, he took up the empty basket and started for home.

He was the man of the family now, and by the time the town was 75 years old, he'd be a big man and he'd be in the procession, and have something that would outdo everything else.

He'd have 25 years to think of it in, and he guessed he could manage something pretty good in that time. But 25 years was a pretty long time to wait. He just wished he was big enough to be in it now.

Well—wasn't he?

The idea struck him suddenly and he put down the basket and sat on it heavily. Wasn't he big enough? The conditions didn't say anything about age. He pulled out the printed circular that had been sent around, and slowly unfolded it. He was in no haste.—It was pleasant to think of and there was no hurry to be disappointed.

Down the creased page his dirty finger went—"Conditions!—Any citizen of Kentville"—

Yes—he was a citizen, of course. Hadn't he been born there twelve years ago?

"Engaged in any business."

Well, he was, that is, his mother was, and that was the same thing, he'd represent her, and it was part of the business, after all, to go for and carry home the clothes, just as much as the milkman delivering milk. In that case the cow was really engaged in the business, and the milkman was the same as he, the carrier.

Yes, that was all right. "Must apply," etc. No, there was nothing about age.

Well, then why wasn't it all right? He just guessed he'd see about it at once and make no mistake, so with his basket swung over his shoulder, he started off for the office of the committee.

They were holding a meeting, and when finally Jesse was admitted his courage had sunk pretty low, for they all looked so important. And there was rich Mr. Foster who was so particular, and whom everyone tried to please, and he looked sharply at Jesse as he stood twisting his cap and wishing that he hadn't come.

But finally when he managed to tell his story and how he wanted to be in the procession too, it was Mr. Foster himself who had listened gravely to the petition and who checked the smiles of the others, and said slowly, "The boy is perfectly right, we can not debar him, nor would we if we could."

This had settled it, for while the others suggested that Jesse could do nothing worthy of the procession, Mr. Foster had smiled and said, "Well, let the boy try, and we'll see what he can do."

And then there was nothing more to be said. He was given the position in the procession, and then he ran home somewhat but decidedly jubilant. Now he could be mysterious, too, and he wouldn't tell a soul, except his mother, of course, and she wasn't exactly anyone else. No, he wouldn't even tell one word to Eddie Marks. He'd surprise everybody. Of course, he wasn't trying for the prize. Everybody would understand that.

He would just be in the procession, that was all. He owed that to the town; of course, he did. And then, perhaps, it would let folks know what his mother did. She hadn't had very much work lately. This would sort of advertise it, you know. Anyway, he would be in the procession, a part of it, and that was the main thing.

It was a great day for Kentville. Never had there been anything like the decorations, the gayly dressed crowds, the bands of music and the general air of celebration.

The great event of the day was the procession, of course, and there was intense interest as feature after feature neared the judges' stand and passed on through the cheering crowds. Suddenly down the line there was laughing and cheering from the bystanders. The people craned their necks to see what new conceit was coming. It was an odd affair, strangely out of place with what had gone before.

A hay-cart, drawn by two slow-moving oxen. Supported by the poles at the four corners, in big black letters on a long strip of cotton cloth, extending around the cart, ran these words:

"The Samsons. Washing and Ironing. Mending Neatly Done. Errands Run."

Jesse drove. At the front end, Mrs. Samson stood at the wash-tub, her bare arms glistening in the suds from the clothes she was washing. From a line, spotless shirts and handkerchiefs swung in the warm air. At the other end stood two little girls, with bright, happy faces. One with apron and dress torn and ragged, holding the placard: "Before Mending." Beside her, in neatly patched apron, another, bearing the words: "After Mending." Beside these, little Tom, in a pair of faded blue overalls, and an empty basket on his arm, smiled down upon the upturned faces of the crowds.

A hush followed the first laugh and cheer. Men looked once, then turned away. Tears came into the eyes of many as the bright-faced little group moved slowly onward, and then paused for a moment before the judges' stand.

A stately figure in front slowly arose and a gray head was uncovered. In a moment not a man but held his hat in his hand. There was a hysterical giggle from someone in the crowd.

Jesse turned toward the stand. "You see I did it!" he cried, with a glad laugh. Then as if suddenly remembering that he was part of the procession, and not Jesse Samson the boy, at all, he jerked his head back, fixed his eyes straight ahead, and gave the oxen a gentle cut with the whip.

With a lurch, the cart started again, while a gaily-equipped float with gauzy angels and golden cherubs, took its place. So on, and on, the procession passed, till finally the last number had been taken by the clerk and the committee retired to consult.

The town hall was crowded to suffocation. The Governor was there, and had made some very complimentary remarks, and had been enthusiastically cheered. A quartet had sung an original song composed by the town poet, and the whole audience had patriotically sung "America."

Jesse and his small sisters, crowded into the very back seat, had joined in the chorus, and now the decision of the judges was to be rendered. There was a hush as Mr. Foster stepped to the front of the platform.

"In coming to its decision," he said, "the committee has taken into consideration the appropriateness of each feature, that is, the truth to life of the thing represented. There have been many unique and beautiful trade pictures today, but by the unanimous vote of the commitee, the prize is awarded——"

Here his keen eyes swept the hall, while one could hear the quick breathing of the anxious crowd.

"The prize is awarded," raising his voice a little, "to Trade Number 47—The Samsons."

The instant's hush was broken by a burst of applause. Then as the hand of the chairman was raised to enjoin silence, a boyish voice was heard to exclaim:

"Why, do you s'pose that means us, Tom?"—Interior.

If you want to preserve apples, don't cause a break in the skin. The germs of decay thrive rapidly there. So the germs of consumption find good soil for work when the lining of the throat and lungs is bruised, made raw, or injured by colds and coughs. Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, will heal inflamed mucus membranes. Courtship Among the Boers.

The Forum.

Courting among the race is a novel proceeding. A young man, having, of course, asked permission of his father to court the hand and heart of some neighboring damsel—by neighboring I mean anywhere within 50 miles—proceeds to purchase the most loudly colored and decorated saddle cloth for his horse that he can possibly find. He will spend large sums on this article of equine adornment, and one knowing the country can never mistake a young Boer going out courting. Mounted on his most spirited steed, he approaches the house of the father of his lady-love. Unlike the youth of more civilized life, he avoids the lady and seeks her father, from whom he reverentially asks permission to court his daughter. The old man returns no answer, but consults his vrou, and the youth joins the young folks.

No more notice is taken of him during the day, but if his request be agreeable to the parents, when the hour for retiring comes, the mother solemnly approaches the young man and maiden with a long tallow candle in her hand, This she places on the table, lights, and bidding the couple an affectionate good-night, retires. This is the silent signal to the lover that his suit is successful. The young couple are permitted to sit up together in the kitchen so long as the candle lasts, when the lady retires to the one dormitory of herself and her sisters, and the youth shares the bed of the brothers or male portion of the family.

With the Poets.

Over the Hills.

Over the hills and far away,
A little boy steals from his morning play
And under the blossoming apple-tree,
He lies and he dreams of the things to be:
Of battles fought and of victories won,
Of wrongs o'erthrown and of great deeds done—
Of the valor that he shall prove some day,
Over the hills and far away—
Over the hills and far away!

Over the hills and far away
It's, oh, for the toil the livelong day!
But it mattereth not to the soul aflame
With a love for riches and power and fame!
On, O man! while the sun is high—
On to the certain joys that lie
Yonder where blazeth the noon of day,
Over the hills and far away—
Over the hills and far away!

Over the hills and far away,
An old man lingers at close of day;
Now that his journey is almost done,
His battles fought and his victories won—
The oldtime honesty and truth
The truthfulness and the friends of youth,
Home and mother—where are they?
Over the hills and far away—
Over the hills and far away!
—Eugene Field.

La Tricoteuse.

The fourteenth of July had come,
And round the guillotine
The thieves and beggars, rank by rank,
Moved the red flags between.
A crimson heart upon a pole—
The long march had begun,
But still the little smiling child
Sat knitting in the sun.

The red caps of those men of France
Shook like a poppy field;
Three women's heads with golden hair,
The standard-bearers wield.
Cursing, with song, and battle-hymn,
Five butchers dragged a gun;
Yet still the little maid sat there,
A-knitting in the sun.

An axe was painted on the flags,
A broken throne and crown,
A ragged coat upon a lance,
Hung in foul black shreds down.
"More heads!" the seething rabble cry,
And now the drums begun;
And still the little fair-haired child
Sat knitting in the sun.

And every time a head rolled off,
They rolled like winter seas,
And, with a tossing up of caps,
Shouts shook the Tuileries.
Whiz—went the heavy chopper down,
And then the drums begun;
But still the little smiling child
Sat knitting in the sun.

The Jacobins, ten thousand strong,
And every man a sword;
The red caps, with the tricolors,
Led on the noisy horde.
"The Sans Culottes today are strong,"
The gossips say, and run;
But still the little maid sits there,
A-knitting in the sun.

Then the slow death-cart moves along,
And, singing patriot songs,
A pale, doomed poet bowing comes
And cheers the swaying throngs.
Oh, when the axe swept shining down,
The mad drums all begun;
But, smiling still, the little child
Sat knitting in the sun.

"Le Marquis!"—linen snowy white,
The powder in his hair,
Waving his scented handkerchief,
Looks down with careless stare.
A whir, a chop—another head—
Hurrah! the work's begun;
But still the little child sat there,
A-knitting in the sun.

A stir, and through the parting crowd,
The people's friends are come;
Marat and Robespierre—"Vivat!
Roll thunder from the drum."
The one a wild beast's hungry eye,
Hair tangled—hark! a gun!
The other kindly kissed the child
A-knitting in the sun.

"And why not work all night?" the child
Said, to the knitters there;
Oh, how the furies shook their sides,
And tossed their grizzled hair!
Then clapped a bonnet rouge on her,
And cried—"'Tis well begun!"
And laughed to see the little child
Knit, smiling in the sun.

A woman visiting in Ireland was delighted with a certain hot cake served at breakfast. From the native cook of her hostess she duly got the receipt: "You must take more than you think of flour, ma'am, just what you'd know of butter, the slightest taste in life of baking powder, and the fill of the small jug of milk."

Jim's Diplomacy—"Here, Jim, take these two cakes and give the smaller one to your brother." James examined the cakes carefully, appeared undecided, and finally took a herioc bite out of one of them, which he passed over to his brother, with the remark: "There, Tommy, I've made you a smaller one; they were both the same size."

Teacher—I should like some scholar to recast this sentence, expressing the same meaning in fewer words: "When Mr. Flood, accompanied by his wife and children, stopped the horse before his house, he threw down the reins and they all alighted."

Scholar—Please, sir——

Teacher—Well, Johnnie, how would you express it?

Scholar—The reins descended and the Floods came.

Professor A.—Do you know, I find it difficult to tell the ages of my children.

Professor B.—I have no such trouble. I was born 2,300 years after Socrates; my wife 1,800 years after the death of Tiberius Caesar; our son John 2,000 years after the entrance into Rome of Titus Sempronius Gracchus for the re-enactment of the "leges Liciniae," and our Amanda 1,500 years after the beginning of the Folk-wandering. That is perfectly simple, you see.

A young woman from out of town went to a tea among the literary set recently. She was introduced to a whole roomful of people, and afterward she went about trying to call everybody by his right and proper name—she rather prides herself on that sort of thing, you know. She remembered an amazing number of names, but when she came to one distinguished looking man she paused in despair.

"I know everybody else's name," she said, "but when I try to remember yours I am completely at sea."

"Then you're not far wrong," said the distinguished looking man. "My name is Atwater."

A NEW SUNDAY DRESS!

Cost Only Ten Cents.

A lady who understands the use and value of Diamond Dyes writes as follows:

"I had a light blue dress, made of expensive material, but so light in shade that it faded quickly. It was too good to be cast aside, so one evening I took it to a dyeing establishment, and was surprised when they told me they would dye it some dark color for $2. I did not care for dark colors, so I took it home again. The next day I bought a package of Diamond Dye, and colored it a beautiful cardinal red, and it now looks just like new, so that I now have a new dress for Sundays, and it only cost ten cents.

Virtues of the Apple.

The apple is such a common fruit that very few persons are familiar with its remarkably efficacious medicinal properties. Everybody ought to know that the very best thing they can do is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. Persons uninitiated in the mysteries of the fruit are liable to throw up their hands in horror at the visions of dyspepsia which such a suggestion may summon up; but no harm can come to even a delicate system by the eating of ripe and juicy apples just before going to bed. The apple is excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than other fruits. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthy sleep, and thoroughly disinfects the mouth. This is not all. The apple helps the kidney secretions and prevents calculus growths, while it obviates indigestion and is one of the best-known preventives of diseases of the throat. Everybody should be familiar with such knowledge.—Dr. G. R. Searles, in Detroit Bulletin of Pharmacy.
