WASHING WAS VERY SLOVENLY

Mayor Sulman so Characterized the Weekly Flushing of King St.

Matter Will be Looked Into—Will Issue Library Deputations—New Factory Possible.

Mayor Sulman had a big kick to register at the special meeting of the City Council last night. It was in reference to the careless manner in which King street is washed every Saturday night.

"There is a matter which has been called to my attention several times during the summer, but more especially lately," he said, "and he made an attempt to conceal his annoyance, and that is the slovenly way in which King street is flooded every Saturday night. The workmen who do this work are very careless and squirt water up on the sidewalk and into the stores on the street in a manner which is disgraceful."

"These men ought to be made to do their work properly or else they should have them dismissed. Last Saturday night at one of the banks they put the stream directly on the door and in the morning about 20 gallons of water were found in the cellar. The men should be warned against such conduct."

The matter will be looked into by those who have the work in charge and there will, no doubt, be no more complaints of this nature in the future.

The meeting was called for the purpose of passing a by-law for the purchase of the site for the new public library. There were present, the Mayor and Ald. Cowan, McCole, Mounter, Waddell, Taylor, Fleming, and McKee.

According to the by-law, which was passed—the council decided to issue deputations for library purposes whereby they will pay $176.93 annually for the next ten years. The sale of the deputations will be advertised twice in the local papers. The council then adjourned, and a committee meeting of the whole council was held.

Ald. Cowan brought forward a proposition which he had received from a manufacturer of firm who expressed a desire of moving to Chatham. It was decided by the committee to continue the correspondence with this firm and find out what concessions they wished from the city and if possible induce them to locate in Chatham.

CAN'T STAND HEAT

Negro River Men Strike and White Roustabouts Fill Their Places.

Metropolis, Aug. 4.—On two big Cincinnati and Memphis steamers which passed here to-day on their way down the Ohio river was witnessed the spectacle of white men working as roustabouts, a sight, river men say, not seen since long before the civil war. The negro roustabouts are all striking, not so much for higher wages as because of the hot weather and heavy work, shipments, which deprive the roustabouts of much rest.

MUCH-WANTED

Police Greatly Elated Over the Capture of a Notorious Woman.

Boston, August 4.—In the arrest today of Annie Gilbert, 27 years old, the police consider they have secured one of the most successful thieves in the country for whose arrest warrants are awaiting her in many cities and towns. Her lodgings were searched and from them were taken diamonds, bracelets, silverware, wearing apparel, bicycles and household goods worth a big sum. The police claim that a domestic in wealthy families, she acted as confederate to house breakers. She was apprehended in an employment office.

MERCURY CLIMBING IN KANSAS.

Topoka, Kas., Aug. 4.—All heat records for this year were broken today when the government thermometer registered 100 degrees. All other thermometers registered as high as 98. A hot wind has been blowing all day but corn is not injured.

CORONATION DAY AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Que., Aug. 4.—Mayor Cochrane has issued a proclamation making Saturday next, coronation day, a civic holiday. No civic grant can be made for any celebration of the event as $50,000 has already been appropriated for the former day, June 28.

E. A. Drake, travelling freight and passenger agent for the Lake Erie, was in the city yesterday, on business.

CAUGHT A "PEEPING TOM."

Walkerville, Ont., Aug. 4.—Officer John Elliott made his first arrest here last night when he succeeded in landing a "Peeping Tom." For some time past, residents of Walkerville have been annoyed by the fellow's informal calls, but his identity remained unknown until last night when he visited the residence of A. Levasseur. Elliott succeeded in landing him, but owing to his family connections, the fellow was allowed to go after a severe lecture. Elliott, the officer, was appointed last week.

CONVICTS MADE THEIR ESCAPE

Dynamite Wall of Tennessee Penitentiary and Cleared Premises.

Train Robber Led the Desperate Break for Liberty—Paid Penalty by Death.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 4.—Armed with dynamite to blow his way out of prison, Gus Hyatt, train robber and desperado, to-night led a desperate band of 16 convicts to liberty from the Tennessee penitentiary. Fifteen of the escaping party got safely clear of the premises, and only one, Edward Carney, a safe blower, sent up from Nashville, paid the penalty of death in the bold undertaking.

Joseph Loss and James Work were traced down by bloodhounds and captured, but the rest of the prisoners had gotten so far out of bounds that they could be had.

The prisoners were furnished dynamite from the outside, which they used in blowing out an opening in the main wing of the prison. Hyatt stood off the inside guard with a brace of revolvers, which had also been furnished him from the outside, while Carney preceded him, and Carney, the prisoner who was killed, immediately preceded the train robber.

The dynamite was laid by Doe, the Manchester train robber, and he made good his escape with the gang of prisoners that left by the opening made by the explosive material. Six of the prisoners that got away were government men and the others were state convicts. Men and bloodhounds are in pursuit of the convicts.

TELEGRAPH

Joseph Laplaine, of Montreal, was drowned while shooting the Lachine rapids.

A tornado swept over St. Catharines Sunday afternoon, doing about $10,000 worth of damage to property.

L. A. Dunkle, mine superintendent, was killed by a cave-in at Le Roi mine, Rossland, on Saturday.

A car ferry service will be established between Sarnia and Port Huron in opposition to the G. T. R. St. Clair tunnel.

Prof. Jacob M. Hirschfelder, for nearly 50 years a member of the staff of the University of Toronto, died at Toronto, on Sunday.

Walter Burk, a son of the ex-postmaster of Burk's Falls, Ont., died yesterday as the result of injuries received by being thrown from a wagon.

Miss Maria Thompson, of Toronto, leaped from a Mimico electric car and received injuries from which she died a few hours later, on Sunday.

George Pavey, a young boy, was terribly injured by the explosion of a fog signal at St. Thomas, Ont., yesterday. The lad hit the fog signal with an axe and as a result, his left cheekbone was broken, the membrane of his left ear injured, and several serious cuts were sustained.

J. R. Paquin, a Montreal dry goods merchant, was killed in a street railway accident yesterday in a peculiar manner. Paquin was riding on one of the city's suburban lines with his family, when the car suddenly turned into an open switch, throwing him under the wheels. The body was badly mangled.

OIL IGNITED BY COLLISION.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 4.—A Santa Fe passenger train returning from Redondo Beach last night ran through an open switch and into an oil train. Both engines were wrecked, as was also one coach and four oil tank cars. The fuel tank of one of the engines exploded immediately after the crash, setting fire to the wreck. Burning oil was scattered in every direction and the large oil refinery plant of the Combs Refining Co. was set on fire. The plant was destroyed as were all the cars in the wreck except one. T. D. Martin, fireman of the freight engine, is missing, and it is thought his body is under the burned wrecked engine. Four others, two of whom were passengers were badly burned and others injured.

UNITED STATES AND GERMANY

War Predicted Between These Powers Five Short Years Hence.

Admiral Taylor of Navigation Bureau Claims They are Drifting into Conflict.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—The utterances attributed to Rear Admiral Taylor of the United States navy as to a probable conflict between Germany and the United States in 1907 was printed conspicuously here. The Tageblatt says it requires all the wrong-headedness of a jingo combined with complete ignorance of European affairs to imagine that Germany intends to annex the Netherlands. Any German admiral so indiscreet, the Tageblatt continues, would be relieved of his duties immediately.

New York, Aug. 4.—In a recent dispatch from Washington, Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, was credited with having given expression to the ideas referred to in the foregoing message from Berlin.

In this Washington dispatch Rear Admiral Taylor was described as thoroughly alive to the steady set of a current which is carrying the United States and Germany along converging lines in many parts of the globe and bringing these two nations into closer rivalry elsewhere. To Rear Admiral Taylor was given the credit of warning the leaders of the United States army and navy that preparations must begin at once and be vigorously prosecuted from this time forth for a brave crisis in German-American relations in the spring of 1907.

The time of this crisis is fixed coincident with the most efficient sea power Germany now completes—the time when the Panama canal will be in bankruptcy, when the Cuban republic may have about reached the end of its tether, when Jamaica and other West Indian islands will be prostrate in bankruptcy, when the Netherlands—according to Admiral Taylor's predictions—will have been absorbed by Germany, leaving Curacao and the other Dutch islands as the only bones of contention to force a supreme test of the Monroe doctrine.

The Cerberite Co., of Canada, limited, has been organized with a capital of $500,000. The company will handle explosives and their derivatives.

WITH BOOTS ON

Card Game Leads to a Bloody Encounter at Fort Benton.

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—A Fort Benton, Mont., special to the Dispatch says: Last night in a quarrel over a card game, John Allan, sheep herder, shot and probably fatally wounded John Reavis, in the office of the Overland hotel at this place. Before Reavis fell he knocked Allan down, took his gun away from him and bent his head to a jelly with the butt of it. Allan's skull was crushed and it is said he also will die.

AWFUL BEATING

Unmerciful Kentucky Mob Out a Man to Pieces With a Blacksnake Whip.

Owensboro, Ky., August 4.—Wm. Dodwell, a farmer living near Yelvington, in this county, was taken from his home at midnight last night, bound to a tree and beaten with a blacksnake whip until he was almost unconscious from loss of blood. Over 75 lashes were administered and there are more than fifty wounds from two inches to a foot long on his face and body. The bark was worn from the tree where the ropes which bound the unfortunate man touched it and the whip left marks on the tree as if it had been cut with a knife. Dodwell's wife and daughter attempted to go to his rescue, but were prevented by the members of the mob. The cause for the whipping is not known.

TRACY BOBS UP AGAIN.

Spokane, Wash., August 4.—Harry Tracy, the outlaw, is believed to be hiding to-day in the Rock Lake country, west of Harrington. He was seen three miles north of Odessa last evening, travelling north.

KILLED FOR RESISTING ARREST.

Middlesboro, Ky., August 4.—At Cumberland Gap to-day George Williamson, deputy sheriff shot and killed Chas. Vaughn, who resisted arrest. Considerable excitement was caused by the killing. Vaughn belonged to a prominent family.

METEOR BURST OVERHEAD.

Kingston, Ont., August 4.—Capt. Montgomery, of the schooner New Dominion, which has just arrived here, reports that when off Long Point a ball of fire shot off the sky and burst overhead, shooting fiery pieces in different directions. The report of the bursting of the meteor was louder than the discharge of a cannon. The sailors were stunned and the captain, who was at the wheel, thought he would be thrown overboard.

STEAMER SANK OFF THE EAU

Collision Occurred in a Fog and Three Were Drowned and Others Injured.

The American Boat Sank Almost Instantly—Crew Picked up by Canadian Boat.

Special to The Planet.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Word was received here this morning that the steamer City of Venice, a two thousand ton ore boat, and the Seguin, a Canadian freight steamer, collided off Rondeau, Ont., last night just before midnight.

The City of Venice sank in fifty feet of water.

Three of her crew were drowned. They were the watchman, wheelman and fireman. The rest of the crew were rescued by those on board the Seguin, and were taken to Cleveland. Sailors on both boats are reported to have been injured.

The City of Venice was on her way from Duluth to Buffalo, when the collision occurred.

John Sullivan, the mate of the Venice, is so badly injured it is feared that he cannot recover.

The steamers met bow on in a fog, the City of Venice going down almost instantly.

Mrs. Prieur, of Montreal, was accidentally shot by a policeman, who was attempting to arrest Denis Murphy, who was wanted on a charge of assaulting a carter named Nimogue.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5.

THOSE EDUCATIONAL CHANGES.

The Toronto Globe on Saturday announced the issue of a circular by the Educational Department, noting several educational changes and amendments, the text of which is reproduced in another column.

The circular is quite interesting. The substitution of the scientific course for the classics at present required by all teachers, is a step in the right direction. It is the initiative in the movement towards training the Public school teachers in accordance with the demands of their work. Notwithstanding the opposition of the Globe, the Hamilton Times and even the little Liberal hirelings of the Banner ilk, Mr. Whitney's earnest campaign of education for the masses is beginning to bear fruit in the dying hours of the Ross administration.

It would, however, be very interesting to learn why the Ross Government have decided to abolish the Part I, Junior Leaving examination in the high schools just after thousands of pupils throughout the Province have paid in their $2 to the Department therefor.

In a few days thousands of these young people will receive notice that they have been awarded certificates which are now useless, according to the new regulations.

For their effort and their money they will receive from the Education Department of Ontario what? Simply nothing—a useless piece of parchment, which conveys no recognized standing and is no longer honored.

To put it plainly, THE STUDENTS HAVE BEEN PRACTICALLY GOLD-BRICKED.

It looks as though the Government was so used to money-making school book monopolies and capital-producing educational schemes that it was bound to take a last swipe at the pockets of the pupils and their parents.

Just hit them coming and going, as it were.

And the pertinent question arises: Was it done intentionally to secure that large amount of money to distribute among its friends? Or, again, was it the result of a panic at the last moment to do away, to a certain extent, with Mr. Whitney's vigorous criticism, directed against too many examinations?

There is another point. The new regulations mean the abolition of the Fifth Class in the rural schools. They practically make it impossible for the sons and daughters of our farmers to continue their work after the entrance examination in their public schools.

Why this continual discrimination by the Ross Government against the rural schools?

IS OXFORD LAZY?

An irreverent English writer has written an article in the new Liberal Review in which he has had the temerity to come out boldly and fling the epithet of "Lazy Oxford" at the temple of English culture. Shade of Matthew Arnold, has it come to this? Are the Philistines becoming so innocent that they dare to throw stones at the home of the dreaming spire and moulder of fane and break the stained glass windows where sweetness and light find their lowliest abiding place? No pilgrim to Oxford can miss the charm of age-old beauty lingering in that quiet old city which holds "the last enchantments of the Middle Ages," as Prof. Goldwin Smith says. No one who has once heard the mellow sound of the Oxford bells can even fail to hear the sweetness of their chiming across the seas. The flurry and flutter of our modern days have never penetrated this ancient shrine of learning; when the colonial and American scholarship men face the choirs of Christ Church or of Oriel they will find rest for their souls. The atmosphere of Oxford is redolent of ease and grace; it is so conducive to pleasant dreams and luxurious days that the true Oxford man never thinks of study while he is "up"; it is when he is "down," or at home in vacation, when every other student the world over has severed himself from his books, that the Oxford undergraduate gets up his work for the year. His life in Oxford is given over to the social joys, to hand-in-hand strolls with his tutors and professors through the green meadows and to lotus-eating. All this is strangely different from the aggressive, strenuous life at the great American universities, Yale or Harvard or Cornell, and as the English critic declares, "vigor and efficiency" are more noticeable on this side of the Atlantic than in England. But the Oxford ideal is not the Harvard ideal; the Oxford student would spend three days in gazing dreamily at a sculptured reared which the American would pass by after a five minute inspection. The whole question of the efficiency of the Oxford education lies in the doubtful and much-disputed meaning of that vague and comprehensive word, culture. Meanwhile Oxford will pursue her serene and rose strewn path, staring stonily at the vulgar Philistine who criticizes her as the arch abode of laziness.

THE HOLIDAY QUESTION.

The Brantford Expositor says: "The Dominion Government has issued its request that August 9th, Coronation Day, be observed as a holiday throughout the Dominion. This is in accordance with the course to be pursued elsewhere in His Majesty's domains, and will doubtless be pretty generally adopted. There are some places, however, where the observance of the day as a holiday is calculated to be an inconvenience. In Great Britain a Saturday is usually selected for ceremonies of this character because that day is pretty generally kept as a half-holiday anyway. In this country it is different. Saturday is the business day of the week, and it means considerable loss to business men to turn the key in the front door. To make things worse for them, it happens that in Hamilton, Brantford and some other Canadian cities, Civic Holiday falls on August 11. Why these civic holidays should still be kept up seeing that Labor Day is observed on the first Monday in September, it is not easy to understand, and it is possible to overdo the holiday business. However, the fact remains. If, therefore, the merchants of Hamilton and Brantford close on Coronation Day, they will have a holiday on the Saturday, and another on the following Monday. This is asking too much, and it is not surprising that in Hamilton the business men have decided not to pay any attention to the request for a holiday on Coronation Day, and Brantford business men seem disposed to pursue a similar policy." The above applies with equal force to Chatham, our Civic Holiday being fixed for August 11th. It is intended to celebrate Coronation Day here on the date named instead of on the Saturday previous.

Meynell's

Three Doors West From Market,
King St. Chatham

The regrets of every sufferer after visiting MAGI Oaledonia Springs is that he did not earlier know of the great merits of the Waters and Baths.

Gibson, has placed himself in rather a peculiar position.

As attorney-general of the province he framed a law on assessment to protect municipalities against the injustice of the scrap iron assessment law, previously passed.

As president of the Cataract Power Company he appealed against the assessment of the company in the township of Grantham.

As senior member of the law firm of Gibson, Osborne, O'Reilly & Levy, he or his partners for him, conducted the case for the company in the courts, and won the appeal.

The assessment of the company on its immense works at Decoy Falls was reduced from $110,000 to $25,000.

Thus I see Gibson making the law, Gibson breaking the law, Gibson defending the lawbreaker, and in a few days I expect to see Gibson defending the lawbreaker.

ROYAL MUSKOKA NOW OPEN

Guests Are Arriving Daily at the New Summer Resort.

The opening of the new Royal Muskoka Hotel on Lake Rosseau, Muskoka Lakes district, for the season of 1902, has been a source of satisfaction to the proprietors, and the reservations that have been made up to the present for accommodation at this resort assure the success of the venture. Guests are arriving daily, and by next week, hundreds of people will be enjoying the beauties of Muskoka with the advantage of sojourning in one of the best summer hotels in America.

Among the guests at the hotel now are prominent people from Buffalo, Chicago, New York, and other American cities, as well as many Canadians.

The Ontario Government, in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Railway system, is continuing the policy inaugurated last year of restocking the Muskoka lakes with parent bass. The first carload was deposited in lake Rosseau, June 20, and a finer lot of bass have seldom been seen. Last year 10,000 fish were transplanted into the Northern Lakes with much success. The fishing this year in the Muskoka Lakes is good, some excellent catches having been made, the bass weighing from two to four pounds, and picked from two to eight pounds.

HEALTH RESORTS AND ATTRACTIONS

There is no region in America richer in mineral springs than Colorado, while throughout the state there are pleasure resorts and splendid places of attraction of various kinds in great numbers. It has been truly said that all of Colorado is a health resort, and this statement is sustained by the most eminent physicians of the country. What with its beautiful cities on the plains, its gorgeous mountain peaks and lovely valleys, its awful canons and their rushing torrents, its forests and streams, its broad green parks, and charming crystal lakes amid the mountains, what more could nature provide or man desire for his welfare or his delights. Not only the health-giving mineral and thermal springs, which gush spontaneously from the mountain sides invite the invalid and the weary, but in all the rest of these charms of nature is found a panacea for the ills and cares of body and mind diseased.

To enable persons to reach these favored localities without unnecessary expenditure of time or money, the Union Pacific has put in effect very low rates and splendid train service, three trains leaving Missouri River daily for Denver, one of which is "The Colorado Special," which is the finest train in the West. Accommodations are provided for all classes of passengers, the equipment including free reclining chair cars, dining cars, buffet, smoking cars, drawing room sleepers and day coaches.

BEEN FRIENDS TOGETHER.

We have been friends together, In sunshine and in shade;

Since first beneath the chestnut trees In infancy we played;

But coldness dwells within the heart, A cloud is on thy brow;

We have been friends together— Shall a light word part us now?

We have been gay together— We have laughed at little jests;

For the fount of hope was gushing Warm and joyous in our breasts;

But laughter now hath fled thy lip, And sullen gleams thy brow;

We have been gay together— Shall a light word part us now?

We have been sad together— We have wept with bitter tears

O'er the grave-grown graves, where slumbered The hopes of early years.

The voices that are silent there Would bid thee clear thy brow;

We have been sad together— Oh! What shall part us now?

ROSE TO THE DEAD.

Ah friend, dear friend, and can it be Thy last sweet word is said?

That all too late my token comes, To cheer the unheeding dead?

Here, on thy cold, unheeding breast The promised rose I lay.

The last poor token of a love That cannot fade away.

But thou, 'mid yon perennial bowers, Where angel footsteps roam,

Among the ever fragrant flowers, That deck the spirit's home,

Rememberest thou the mourning friend, Who nightly weeps for thee?

And wilt thou pluck a fadeless rose And keep it safe for me?

Time builds the houses of eternity

Frequent Throbbing Headache.

There's many a cause for headache. Men are not often troubled by headache. When they are it is generally due to biliousness or indigestion. But women have headaches which seem peculiar to their sex, frequent nervous throbbing headaches. Does it not seem as if such headaches peculiar to women must be at once related to womanly diseases? Women who suffer with diseases peculiar to the sex do not realize the drain of vital strength and nerve force they undergo as a consequence of disease. It is this which causes the familiar headaches of sick women.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures such headaches by curing the cause—irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration or female weakness. "Favorite Prescription" invigorates and tones up the entire system, encourages the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep.

"I was troubled with congestion of the uterus and female weakness for five years," writes Mrs. Robt. Kerwin, of Albert, Hastings Co., Ont. "I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do any work. Had severe pain in back, also dizziness and pain in head. My heart would beat so hard and fast at times I would have to sit still till I got all right again. But after taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and entirely well. I also used one box of Lozenges and one of 'Suppositories' as directed. All the symptoms of my trouble have disappeared and I am completely cured. I thank you for your kind advice and your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE

"I'm out for Mayor," was the announcement of Contender McKeough, of the Planet reporter this afternoon, "and I'm going to win, too."

"I served four years of faithful work at the Council Board and have a clear record. I'm going to get right to work. I hear Geo. Cowan has dropped out and I think I can beat Will McKeough."

OLD TROUBLE

"The old trouble about the logs in the creek has come up again this year," said a resident over the creek to The Planet this morning.

"There is a great big raft of logs there now, near the Sixth street bridge, which has been left there so long that green scum has formed. These logs ought to be removed from there, as they are certainly a menace to the health of the people residing in that vicinity."

EDUCATIONAL CHANGE

For the academic year 1902-1903 the following modifications are made in the revised regulations which came into force June, 1901:

Part I, junior leaving—There will be no examination in 1903 for public school leaving or Part I, junior leaving standing (Regulations 28 and 45.)

Part III, junior leaving—At the examinations for 1903, a candidate for select the chemistry option may omit Latin, but he will be required, if he exercises this privilege, to obtain 60 per cent on that oral. (Regulations 43 (3) and 46.)

Junior leaving standing—After June 1903, a Part II, junior leaving certificate will give full junior leaving standing, if endorsed and certified to by any high school principal or public school inspector with a statement that the holder has taken the required course in all the subjects (geography, history, drawing, bookkeeping, reading, etc.) for Part I, junior leaving standing.

Confidential reports—In addition to the requirements prescribed in regulation 43 (3), the name of no candidate for a Part II, junior leaving certificate shall be included in the confidential report who has not satisfactorily completed the course for a Part I, junior leaving certificate.

District certificates—Examinations will be held as heretofore, for district certificates, but such certificates shall be awarded only at the request of the county board of examiners, where there is a scarcity of teachers, and with the concurrence of the Minister of Education. (Regulations 44, 63 and 64.)

A Philippine Anecdote.
The Philippines have such a mania for cockfights that they even go to church Sunday morning with their birds under their arms, so as to lose no time in getting to the pit.

Cocoon Wood.
The hardest wood in the world is not ebony, but cocoon, which is much used for making flutes and other similar instruments.

Babylon.
The river Euphrates flowed through the city of Babylon, and on each side of its banks the walls of the city were carried up to a height as great as at any other point, so that even during a siege the city was as fortifiably defended on the river as on the land side.

The Thumb Nail.
In olden times it was the pressure of the thumb upon the wax of a document's seal that made the deed a valid and binding instrument, and in verbal contracts the thumb ratified the bargain.

Coal Was Known 300 B. C.
The first record we have of coal is about 300 years before the Christian era. Coal was used as fuel in England as early as 562, and in 1231 the first charter to dig for it was granted by Henry III. to the inhabitants of Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Church Bells.
The city of Nola, in Campania, was the first where church bells were used. This was about the year 400 A. D.

What Cheese Looks.
Starch and sugar are two elements lacking in cheese which must be supplied by vegetables or such foods as give the required amount of these elements to make up the requisite bulk of general nourishment.

A New Zealand Geyser.
In Rotomahana, New Zealand, there is an immense geyser which covers an area of an acre in extent and constantly throws columns of water to vast heights, some of them ascending 300 feet, with clouds of steam which go much higher.

The Steam Engine.
The original idea of the steam engine is commonly said to have been suggested by the Marquis of Worcester in his "Century of Inventions," 1629.

The Puma Winds.
The puma winds of the table lands of Peru, South America, are dry and parching, nothing similar being known outside of Africa or Persia. When they prevail, it is necessary to constantly wear a mask to protect the face.

Eggshells.
Housekeepers must remember that good eggs always have dull looking shells.

Smyrna.
Smyrna is the smartest looking town in Turkey so far as trade is concerned. It does a bigger business than Constantinople. It is the headquarters of the wool and of the rug and carpet trade.

A Powerful Explosive.
The most wonderful and the most powerful explosive known is said to be chloride of nitrogen. It is believed to be the only substance that will explode on coming in contact with a bright beam of light, whether the beam be from an electric light or the sun.

A Naval Prejudice.
There is a prejudice in the navy against giving a woman's name to a war vessel of any type. It is believed to be unlucky.

The Giant Ferret.
The giant ferret, slain by Orlando, the nephew of Charlemagne, was twenty-eight feet high and so heavy that no horse could be found that was strong enough to bear him.

Horseflesh.
Russian physicians assert that horseflesh is more nutritious than beef.

To Clean Brass.
When cleaning brass, better results are obtained if the discolored articles are treated to an application of a salt and vinegar solution before the usual brass polish is used.

British Fisheries.
Fish to the value of £10,000,000 is landed in the United Kingdom annually. This unshown harvest of the sea is gathered by some 74,000 fishermen.

Pungent Cresses.
Pungent cresses are of two varieties. The water cress grows freely in wet places and is one of our most common and popular salad greens. It belongs to the mustard family. The cultivated cress is larger and more tender than the wild. The garden variety is known as pepper grass.

The Butternut Tree.
The butternut is a tree that likes best a rocky, uneven soil and in whose shade neither shrub nor herb will thrive. The bark is used as a dyestuff for woollens.

Voices Reversed.
Among birds that have the power of imitation the parrot is the best, but as a matter of fact its voice is decidedly inferior to that of the mynah, a species of starling. Curiously enough, the male bird speaks in a high, clear tone, like that of a child, while the female has a gruff voice.

Swiss Exports.
Switzerland is, population considered, the greatest exporting country in the world, not even England being excepted, and its exports are almost exclusively manufactured articles.

Health Inspector Anson Mouniter, in an interview with The Planet, stated that it is almost impossible to enforce the by-laws as to the disposing of garbage in the city.

"There are a large number of people who have oil and gas stoves, and of course it is impossible to burn their refuse."

"What would you suggest?" enquired The Planet.

"Well," replied the Inspector, "I would suggest that we adopt the same plan as is followed by other cities, that is to have a general garbage wagon, which will call at the different houses at certain intervals and collect all garbage and refuse from kitchens, etc. This system I think would give far better satisfaction than the one now in use."

THEIR HISTORY

Record of the Two Boats Which Met Disaster Off the Eau.

The Canadian boat is owned by the Parry Sound Lumber Company. Walter Piggott says that the plates of the steamer were brought out for the C. P. R.'s boat Manitoba, but it was found that they were too light for her. The Parry Sound Company then purchased them and built this boat, which was supposed to be the best propeller on Canadian waters.

The City of Venice was built at Davidson's yards at West Bay City in 1892, and on her maiden trip took a portion of Coxey's army down to Buffalo. She stopped at Detroit, where she picked up a contingent along the docks. She was 300 feet long by 42 feet beam and 20 feet depth and rated as A1.

PRAISES CHATHAM

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Martin, of Chicago, are the guests of the former's father, Col. Martin, of this city. Mr. Martin is Secretary-Treasurer of the Merchants Transfer Company, of Chicago. He has been away from Chatham since 1886, and during his present visit he has noticed the vast improvements which have taken place in Chatham since that time. When asked his opinion of Chatham as it is today, he said:

"You have here one of the nicest little cities that I have ever seen. I did not really expect to see Chatham such a lively and up-to-date place. I cannot help but wonder why people go away to the Eau for the summer months when they have in Chatham itself such a fine summer resort. If we had a place like it anywhere near Chicago we would go wild. The physical conditions make it an ideal place to spend the summer months. My wife and I took a row down the river last night. Mrs. Martin has never been in Canada before and I wanted to show her the country around us. When I was a boy I used to go to her Alex. Dolsen's house and told her it was a farm residence, she could hardly believe it. She thought it was grand enough to be located in one of the finest residential parts of Chicago."

"Chathamites should indeed be proud of their magnificent city."

PLEASURE TRIP

S. F. Gardiner returned Saturday night from his vacation at Orchard Grove. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ross, of Hastings, England, whom he met in New York, on Thursday on the arrival of the Celtic. Mr. Gardiner gives an interesting account of his vacation trip. Orchard Grove is a most celebrated summer resort under the control of the Orchard Grove Association, and is under the management of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Religious services are held at this Sunday resort every morning. On Sunday morning a large number of people, the most talented divines are secured to preach. Different subjects are taken up every Sunday, such as temperance, King's Daughters, etc. Mr. Gardiner went to New York to meet Mrs. Ross last Thursday. As he walked up Broadway, almost to Central Park, the Chatham man was much impressed by the lofty buildings. Near Central Park a building was in course of construction. It was 22 stories high, and the workmen were still rearing it aloft. Mr. Gardiner marvelled at the immense hotels. He stayed at the Broadway Central, one of the largest in the city. Mr. Gardiner says that the landing of the Celtic is worth going to New York to see. He went down to pier No. 48. The boat Co. has a magnificent building, half of it is devoted to the use of passengers and half to freight. He had to get a permit from the customs house officer in order to get through the gate that surrounds the pier. This permission was granted cheerfully, but it necessitated a run up into the city to Wall street. The landing of the Celtic was an interesting sight to the man from Western Ontario. The boat was 800 feet long, 100 feet wide and 45 feet above the water. She didn't look so large coming up the harbor, but from the pier you had to look up even to the lower decks. The singing of the passengers and the response of the band on the pier, gives a bright touch to the landing. The boat arrived at 7.30. The customs officers work with despatch and by 10.30 Mrs. Ross had her trunk and was able to go to her hotel.

Mrs. Ross is a cousin of Mrs. Gardiner. She has been all over South Africa. Her interest in sight to the war, and Mrs. Ross went out to Africa to be near him. She was a passenger on the first train that went in Lady Smith after the relief. Her son has been in the service and was honored by Lord Roberts.

REV. DR. E. H. DEWART.

Well Known Methodist Clergyman Recently Celebrated His 50th Anniversary.

Recently Rev. Dr. Edward Hartley Dewart preached his jubilee sermon in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, in commemoration of the fact that he was received on probation for the ministry at the Wesleyan Methodist Conference held at Kingston fifty years ago. For twenty-five years of this time, from 1869 to 1894, Dr. Dewart was editor of The Christian Guardian, the principal organ of the Methodist Church in Canada.

Born in the County Cavan, Ireland, 1828, Mr. Dewart was brought to Canada six years later by his parents, who settled in Peterborough County. Educated at the local schools and the Provincial Normal School, for a time Mr. Dewart taught, and on his appointment as a probationer, was admitted on the St. Thomas circuit as a junior. Fully accepted in 1855, his first charge was at Dundas, and in the fourteen years before his appointment to The Guardian, Dr. Dewart held charges at St. Andrew's, Montreal; St. John, N.B.; Collingwood and Ingersoll. In 1873, with Rev. Dr. Nelles, he went to England to arrange the terms of settlement arising from the union. Again he visited London in 1882 to attend the Ecumenical Conference, and was also at that held at Washington ten years later. Dr. Dewart had a large share in the work of compiling a hymn book, to which his own personal tastes gave especial value. In 1897 he received the degree of D.D. from Victoria University. He is a prohibitionist, and President of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance in 1890. President of the Toronto Conference in 1882, and President of the Canadian Press Association in 1889. The wisdom of his work in promoting the union of Toronto and Victoria Universities is justified by its fruits. At different periods Dr. Dewart has published volumes, pamphlets and even original verses. Among the first was an essay against the use of tobacco by Christians. Although superseded by his church in 1894, he conducted a vigorous campaign as Liberal candidate in North Toronto in 1898, but was defeated.

A Toronto Man's Story.
A Toronto gentleman, who has been traveling in Italy, returns with a story illustrating the average Britisher's contempt for every country but his own. The Toronto man is quite sure that imperialism will never go in this country if all Englishmen are like the one he met on the Bay of Naples. It was aboard one of the pleasure steamers, and the Englishman and the Canadian had been talking together over the tariff together. The bay was sparkling in the sunshine; the finest brand of Neapolitan blue Italian sky was overhead; Naples shimmered in the golden haze like a dream city; in the background was an almost riotous verdure shouldering its way up Vesuvius; the fierce old mountain itself was doing a little smoking to entertain the tourists.

"Isn't this beautifully?" asked the Canadian, rapturously.

"My dear fellow," replied the Britisher, screwing his monocle in a little tighter, "nothing is beautiful in the blawstest country where you can't get a mutton chop."

Canadian Spruce Forests.
It is estimated by Mr. J. C. Langellier, Superintendent of Forest Range of Quebec, that the Canadian spruce forests will supply the world's demand for pulpwood alone for 840 years, on the basis of 1,500,000 tons annually of manufactured pulp. The latter amount, according to The Engineering News, is equal to about the present total annual production of the United States. The extent of the spruce forests remaining untouched in the four provinces is given as follows: Ontario, 52,918,420 acres; Quebec, 144,863,454; New Brunswick, 11,224,540; and Nova Scotia, 10,853,544 acres. Out of over five billion feet board measure spruce timber consumed for pulp purposes in 1900, 180,400,000 feet board measure represented pulpwood and of this thirty per cent. was exported to the United States.

Charming Summer Resort

Two interesting little books of the illustrated folder type have been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System, one being entitled "Songs of the Niagara" and the other "The Eastern Coast of Lake Huron." The illustrations are very numerous, are of all sizes, and are scattered through the pages to elucidate the text and appear to the eye just as the story told in the letter press does to the mind. The prevailing note in these little works, upon which a profitable half hour may be spent by the reader, is the craving for change, and there can be no doubt that men and women who live in the stress and strain of to-day, and feel the throbs of advanced and advancing civilization, do require change—complete change for mind and body. The haunts described here minister to the intellectual as well as the physical health of fabled dwellers in cities. The physical exercises that can be obtained among the woods and waters create and promote a perfectly sound bodily condition, while the multifarious life that is to be found, stimulates the intellectual faculties and prompts inquiry and investigation into nature's ways as they are revealed in her flora and fauna. The maps which are in these pamphlets enable the visitor to the wilds, to realize his bearings at whatever part he may be, and the general information given enables him to economize his time and spend it to the best advantage.

Copies may be had on application to W. E. Rispin, 115 King street, Chatham.

Prussian Oil

In doing its work in this province where ever introduced as thoroughly and surely as it has been doing all over the Maritime Provinces and New England since its introduction, it is curing the ill that people are subject to.

Aches and Pains, Bruises and Sprains, Coughs and Colds, Grippes, Rheumatism, La Grippe, Burns and Scalds.

Very quickly when used as directed. Many people in London, St. Mary's, St. Thomas, Ridgeville and Chatham, testify to its wonderful curative powers and say it is the best medicine they ever had in the house, 25c. Use it as you prove for.

James Marshall says that the lot sold to the Public Library Board by the parish is only 46 feet instead of 47, and that the 47 feet includes a foot of his property. He says he's not going to lose a foot of his property, and if they want it they will have to buy it.

Clint Wilson, who left here in April last for South Africa, returned on Saturday. Clint had no fighting, but had several runs through the country. He likes soldiering first rate, but would not care to live in South Africa. Before leaving he was a popular member of "C" Company, 24th Regiment. His folks live in Harwich.

Will Gervin, of the Standard Bank, and Wilfred Smith, last Friday evening missed the Chatham train at the Eau, but caught the Ridgetown one and rode as far as Blenheim, where they dismounted and walked the remainder of the way to the city—about 12 miles. They arrived in the city in time to go to work the next morning.

The lot for the new public library was surveyed yesterday by Engineer Shackleton, and the building was located. It is now ready for the builders, who start this week. The masonry must be completed and ready for the roofing by the first of October. By next June the building will be completed. A meeting of the Board will be held to-morrow night.

SPLENDID SHOWING

The firemen had a test run last night. Chief Pritchard, with a party, including Mr. Turner, of Detroit, pulled box 21 on the corner of Selkirk street and Victoria avenue.

Two minutes after the alarm was rung, the firemen were at the box. This is an exceedingly good run.

The new harness was also tested and found to be in good working order. "The men in the hall did not know that I was going to pull the box," said Chief Pritchard, "so it was a fair test."

Sympathy is easy to get, but when you need help you will find that is a different question.

LETTER BOX

To the Editor of The Planet:

Dear Sir,—It is proposed that, for the sake of our country visitors, our leading cricketers and baseball players should have their names attached to them when they play, so that their identity can be established by the crowd.

Quite so! With this plan we are most sympathetic.

And gladly we'll help into blossom this bud.

For why draw the lines at those heroes athletic.

At whom "Poet" Kipling so lately flung a dart?

Why not furnish more of a like information

To those whom as guests Chatham does greet.

And label all men of pronounced reputations

To add to the joy of the Man in the Street?

To meet a mere form in a coat gives no pleasure

To those who are eager impressions to view;

But fancy how they such a meeting would treasure

Once they knew that the form in the coat was McKenough.

So, too, they would never be in ecstasy, even

If a grey headed gentleman they should regard;

But say that his hand revealed the three supports,

Then, you may be assured, they would stare at him hard.

But it would not be hard to arrange a selection

Which could not but brighten King street and the park;

And where, after all, is the serious objection

To legally marking all persons of mark?

Let men who are great be encouraged to show it,

(It might by a neat little ticket be shown)

And then if we meet Mayor Sulman we should know it.

Nor could George Cowan pass by us unknown.

The scheme must be worked through, of course, with discretion,

And with such restrictions as caution suggests.

And then we are sure 't would enhance the impression

That Chatham would have on its numerous guests;

For as folks at the play like to fix the identities

Of any performers in whom they delight,

So, too, in the Drama of Life, we needlessly

Love dearly to know the chief actors by sight.

Yours,
J. J. WILDE.

TWO SIDES TO A STORY.

To The Planet:

Sir,—A romantic story appeared in your paper yesterday headed "By the Window." Every story generally has two sides, this one not excepted.

According to the writer's story of yesterday Mrs. Baird did not leave her husband, but rumor had it that she left her bed, kissed and bade him good bye several times. This last time, although he bears the name of hero, his patience gave way, and in the morning he took his departure as stated by the writer. Writer did state that Mrs. Baird went out shopping. Someone craving news, and also trying to be very foxy, must have witnessed the scene at the window, which was not an unusual way of entrance to his home on his return from the toils of the day, to find neither wife nor tea awaiting him, and still she claims to have been exceedingly attentive to him. Mrs. Baird stated that she would not attempt to follow him, and that she was left without any means wherewith to provide for herself. By some way she got relief, and only a few hours elapsed till she also was whirling on her way to the city, where she states her husband had gone.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

DAY'S DESPATCHES

BIG FIGHT IN TAYABAS

Manila, Aug. 4.—Gov. Bandholtz, of Tayabas province, has telegraphed Acting Governor Wright that the combined police forces of five towns attacked and defeated a force under Ruperto Rios, leader of a mythical Filipino Society. Many of Rios' followers were killed or wounded, but only a few of the police were hurt. The fight occurred near Antimoon. Gen. Del has arrived here from Mindanao, and has had an extended conference with Gen. Chaffee on the Moro situation.

HIS LAST DRINK.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 4.—The right to sell liquor in Hunt county, adjoining Dallas on the north expired at midnight Saturday, and prohibition went into effect at that hour for the next two years. Saturday there were many intoxicated men in Greenville, the county seat. Beal Austin, Toby Jackson and Pete Dewey formed a group and determined to "drink whiskey till the last minute under the law." Each had a large bottle, and the party terminated in passing the liquor around. The three men were standing in a farm wagon just before 12. Austin raised the bottle to his mouth, saying as he did so, "Here goes the biggest drink ever taken in Hunt county." He took a long "pull" at the bottle with his head bent backward. Suddenly he fell to the wagon floor. He had taken his last drink and his last breath.

OBSTREPEROUS STEVE

Stephen Corbett, Dr. Thornton's protegee, was released by Judge Houston on the charge of vagrancy. Corbett left the House of Industry and went wandering. He found that he had no home about a week ago and he asked Judge Houston to send him up for six months to the Central Prison. At first there was no one who would lay an information against the veteran police court character. Dr. Thornton took an interest in the man's care and, after a futile effort to get him into the Home of the Friendless or the House of Industry, laid the requisite information and Corbett was remanded for a week for sentence. In the meantime, Dr. Thornton succeeded in securing admission for Corbett to the House of Refuge and when the aged man came up for sentence Judge Houston released him. Steve was very penitent yesterday morning, and in the County Clerk's office he promised to faithfully obey all the rules of the institution. It only took till this morning for the ancient bricklayer to forget all about his promises. When Caretaker Arnold instructed Stephen to carry some swill to the pigs he forgot all about his promises and refused quite pointedly. At last reports he was peacefully sojourning in the cells at the Home.

DIMINISHED VITALITY.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality. They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends. Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, straggling and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

QUESTION OF COIN

Deby Williams had a little difference with her husband, in which she claimed he used her roughly, and she laid a charge against her husband of elopement. The husband visited the police station this morning and settled by paying the costs. He said he had saved up some money and gave it to his wife to put in the bank. She deposited the current coin of the realm in her own name. Williams didn't object to that. Yesterday he wanted a dollar. His wife wouldn't give it to him. He objected to that. Not only in words, but also with force he objected, and slapped his wife's mouth. He was forced to pay the court costs as a result of his ungallant conduct.

A GIRL OF THE PEOPLE

By Mrs. C. N. Williamson

Mrs. Jennett opened a whisked something out, threw off a loose layer of tissue-paper, and with pathetic delight held up a garment of white, soft satin and lace.

"Bought at Liberty's," she exclaimed, almost in awe. "The name was on the box. What do you think of it?"

"That—that Mr. Bourke ought not to have done this," I stammered, on the verge of tears.

Mrs. Jennett's quaint, rosy apple face straightened into lines of distress.

"Oh dear!" she ejaculated. "Perhaps I oughtn't to have told you. He didn't say not, that I can remember, but I dare say he took it for granted I'd have sense enough to keep it to myself."

She, too, was almost crying. My first impulse had been to refuse to wear the elaborate tea-gown which I owed to a stranger's charity, but her grief dismayed me. I knew that any slight put upon her (it was easy to see that John Bourke was that) would hurt her far more than the cruellest insult to myself.

In my palmy days I had possessed nothing more beautiful, and I experienced a very curious sensation in wondering if he had used his own taste in the selection, troubling himself so much for me.

On the deck-chair in the study, where I had awoke to a new world the other night, were three or four ruffled silk cushions of pretty pale tints, which I was sure had not been there before.
But this time Mrs. Jennett was the soul of discretion, if there were a secret which she might have betrayed. She merely pointed to a great bunch of white lilacs in a vase on the table, saying:

"Those are for you, my dear. From
—from Mr. Bourke and me."

Then, before I could answer, she had begun bustling about the room, drawing down the blinds so that the light
did not come into my eyes as I reclined on the big chair, and asking me what books I would like to have from the shelves.

There certainly seemed a magnificent collection to choose from. Everything worth reading which I had ever heard of, and many, many learned-sounding books which I never had heard of,
lined the walls.

I had no wish to read. I was reckless, though not as unhappy as I ought to have been after breaking with my past so ruthlessly at Waterloo Bridge;
and my strongest desire was for Mrs.
Jennett's companionship.

I wanted her to talk to me; and deep down under the surface of my thoughts I knew exactly on what subject I desired her to talk, though by no means did I confess this openly to myself.

I begged her to bring her sewing, or some sort of work, and sit with me,
which she cheerfully consented to do,
after giving a few instructions to her maid-of-all-work, whom I had not yet seen.

At first I vaguely intended to angle for information, without letting her understand what I was about; but it occurred to me that this would be a dishonorable mode of procedure, and I blushed at myself for having entertained it. Because, no matter what mistakes Mr. John Bourke had made in his tactics, he had behaved generously and—I believed—meant chival-rously by me.

"Do you think Mr. Bourke would mind my asking you a few questions about him?" I hesitatingly began.

"You know, perhaps, how it was that—he brought me to you?"

"I only know that he saw a lady almost fainting, and that she was too ill to tell him anything much about herself, so he thought she would be better off with me than at a hospital," said the little old woman, clicking her needles over a pair of long worsted stockings, which she was busily knitting—for him, perhaps. "I'm sure he wouldn't mind your asking questions, and I should be only too pleased to answer 'em, for there's nothing in his whole life that I'm not proud to talk about."

So then I did ask questions, timidly at first, eagerly as I went on. And she answered with evident delight.

Why, Mr. Bourke was the great Mr.
Bourke. How extraordinary that those words should bring no light of comprehension to my eyes! Where had I lived that I hadn't heard of him? Didn't I read the papers? Oh, I hadn't been allowed to read them! That was quite a different thing. Some people were so particular with young girls;
and quite right, too, no doubt. But as for Mr. Bourke—well, to begin at the beginning, it was just like a storybook.

He'd been a poor boy, without friends or money. He'd sold newspapers and run errands in shops. Every penny he could save he spent in buying books.
He had taught himself to read, and he had gone to a night-school. There he attracted the notice of the teachers, one of whom got him apprenticed to a firm of engineers. He was eighteen by that time, and he began to send articles to a London paper, which were published, and brought the author great praise. The editor found out who he was, and, taking a great fancy to the wonderful boy, sent him to Oxford, as a non-collegiate.

That was a hard life, so Mrs. Jennett had heard—to be among a lot of more fortunate young men, who had plenty of money and fun, but to remain an outsider. However, Mr. Bourke won many honors, and he wrote several books on Socialism which made a great deal of talk among people who cared about such things.

When he was only twenty-two, he was editing an important Socialist paper; and now, though he was but six-and-twenty, he was a member of Parliament—a "Labor member," Mrs.
Jennett thought was the right name for it. And he made such brilliant speeches that all England talked about them. And dukes and duchesses and earls and countesses invited him to their houses, but he would never go when he could help it.

When he was at home she had orders invariably to provide such and such

At every meal for several unexpected guests, and it was seldom that they failed to appear. Such guests! In rags, generally. And sometimes very distinguished men, friends of Mr.
Bourke's, had sat down at the same table with them. He never apologized.
"There was a story about him, which Mr. Bourke did not mind that she had heard, but the lady concerned in it had told it herself to Mrs. Jennett one day when she had called at the house and waited a long time, loyally in vain that Mr. Bourke would come in. A beautiful young lady she was, too, and very rich. Who knew but, after all, he would marry her one day? If he did, with her money and position to help him on, why, he might rise to be Prime Minister of England."

But the story—oh, yes, Mrs. Jennett would tell it! Mr. Bourke had once been persuaded to dine at the house of this young lady of whom she had just spoken. Nobody else had been asked, and after dinner the lady had begged Mr. Bourke to tell her how she might begin to work as a Socialist—because she believed in the doctrines he taught.

"You can begin by washing the flour from the hair of my brothers in your hall," he had said, meaning the footmen, of whom the lady kept several in livery and powder. At first she was very angry, but soon she forgave him, and liked him better than ever—she had remarked to Mrs. Jennett—for being "so original and so daring." Afterwards she had seen Mr. Bourke her photograph, and Mrs. Jennett had recognized it at once as the portrait of the charming young lady who had chatted with her for so long.

I listened to all this gossip with a strange diversity of feeling. The part of the disjointed narrative which concerned the beautiful "woman in the case" fascinated me oddly. "I should like to see the picture!" I said, rather wistfully, at last feeling even more insignificant and vaguely homesick than I had felt before the story began.

Mrs. Jennett rose and went to the mantelpiece, returning in a moment with a framed photograph in her hand.

With an air of importance, she placed it in mine, and as my eyes fell upon those that looked out from the picture
I gave a low cry of surprise, almost alarm.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Woman Who Would Be a Socialist.

It was a beautiful face, and I knew it well. Now, my heart gave a quick throb as I gazed at it. For the woman who owned it belonged to that part of my life which had come before the deluge. She was of the "ultra smart" set, which for a little while had petted and welcomed me as a promising de-bante. She had been "nice" to me; but I had not valued her kindness highly after hearing her remark one day, with a characteristic laugh: "I always make a point of being charming to girls; one never knows whom they may marry."

Looking at her "counterfeit presentment," taken (in a ball dress with becoming backdrop of crimson) by the most popular woman-photographer of the moment, I seemed to hear her sweet, though slightly metallic voice saying the words again.

She would, according to her maxim,
no longer care to charm me, since it was now certain that if I ever married at all, it would not be a man of importance.

So Lady Feo Ringwood was a disciple of John Bourke, the "man of the people!" I could imagine nothing more incongruous than that she should advertise herself as a "Socialist."

She was a young widow, the daughter of an impecunious earl. The middle-aged city knight whom she had married when she was eighteen had considerably died three years later, leaving his fortune all to her. She was now five-and-twenty, with a beautiful house in Park Lane, and more money than she could well know what to do with. I had not met her so often during my butterfly days that it seemed strange I had never met the man she apparently delighted to honor. But,
then, those butterfly days had been so few, and Mrs. Jennett declared that her hero went as seldom as possible into society.

Somewhat, I did not like to think of Lady Feo Ringwood as a friend of John Bourke's; and the sight of her portrait in his study brought me so nearly into touch with old times that I felt vaguely disturbed. I had disappeared from Lady Feo's set for ever;
and I did not relish the thought of being discovered, the miserable secret of my Easel street connections set up, perhaps, and discussed as a spicy bit of scandal in evening-rooms.

While I lay with the photograph in my hand, there was a ring at the doorbell and a light tapping of the knocker.
"That's Mr. Bourke, I'm sure, come to see you," said Mrs. Jennett, exclaiming. "How you are!" exclaimed Mrs.
Jennett, jumping up from her chair.
"He won't use his key and walk in, because he says the house is yours
and mine, not his at all for the present.
I'll just run and let him in myself."

Two minutes later and she was back again, peeping through a crack of the door. "It was Mr. Bourke," she announced. "He's delighted to hear that you're downstairs, feeling better; and he'd be glad to see you for a few moments if you are quite up to it. But you are not to say 'Yes' otherwise; for he will come back to-morrow."

"Please tell him I shall be pleased to see him," I replied, with an attempt at indifference of tone; but in reality I was curiously excited. Mrs. Jennett disappeared; and when Mr. Bourke came she was not with him.

The blood rushed up to my face as I saw his eyes fall upon the tea-gown
and brighten into a smile of pleasure.
I had almost forgotten it for the moment, but his look brought back all my resentment.

"I had to wear it," I cried out, like a child, "or poor Mrs. Jennett would have been hurt. But I am vexed and grieved.
You had no right to buy this gown for me."

He blushed boyishly, the sudden color and look of embarrassment making his grave face appear very young. "Oh, please don't say that!" he exclaimed,
coming impulsively closer to the deck-chair which was my throne, then checking himself abruptly. "I'd rather have done anything than vex you. I didn't want you to know. I thought Mrs. Jennett would have managed without telling me."

To be Continued.

King of the South.

There is a little story about the young King of Italy which is being printed in the Italian papers, and which is worth reading:

The King was staying in the country at his palace in Racconigri.
He is little known to the people there, for in his walks about the country, he always strives to appear as inconspicuous as possible. Hence some curious adventures. One day, while out tramping, he got very thirsty, and, seeing a woman milking a cow in a field near by, he went up to her and asked her for a glass of milk.

"I can't give you any of this, but if you'll mind the cow, I'll go to the house and get you some."

So the King minded the cow till the woman returned with a glass of cool milk. Then he asked her where all the farmers had gone.

"Oh, they're always running away now to try and see the King," answered the woman.

"And why did you not go? Don't you want to see the King?"

"Some one must stay and look after the things."

"Well, in my mother," smiled the girl, "you see the King without running away from your work."

"You're joking!" exclaimed the woman, who could not believe that a monarch could be so quietly described. But when the King put a gold coin in her hand, she fell on her knees, while he continued his walk, laughing over the incident.

Royal Poultry Keepers

Poultry keeping is one of the modern delights of society. That it should be so may puzzle those who base their ideas on some disreputable type of farmyard hen, and who have never visited a big poultry show where fancy fowls are staged in all their glory. No lover of the beautiful in nature can fail to be impressed by the delicate coloring of some of these aristocrats of the poultry world, the exquisite markings and the quaint eccentricities of others. The arts and sciences of breeding may remain a closed book to us. But the wonderful products of modern fancery demand admiration, says London M. A. P.

The Queen is the first poultry keeper in the Kingdom, and a regular exhibitor and prize winner at all the great shows. One of her favorite varieties is the Silkie, a quaint little fowl with white plumage of a silky texture. The King, if he is not actually a poultry fancier, has a sincere respect for the Silkie fowl, for they are wonderful mothers for rearing pheasants and are much in request at Sandringham. The Queen also has some of the tiniest and smartest bantams in the country, and their excellence from a show point of view is proved by the number of prizes they win.

DAIRY ANIMALS FOR SHOW.

Well Known Breeder Tells Something of
Fitting Them for the Ring.

The modern tendency is to make
the animal conform to an arbitrary
standard of excellence, or scale of
points, and its ability to win prizes
varies directly do the conceptions of
the various judges who pass upon the conformity to that scale. One of the primary requisites of all dairy animals regardless of age or sex, is capacity. A judge likes an animal
with large punch as it is very essential in economically converting a
large amount of coarse feed into milk. How can we develop this capacity?

It is done by feeding coarse bulky food, in a manner best suited to the individual tastes of the animals.
Many have had good success by giving cut or chaffed hay and straw,
with a mixture of ground oats and
bran, a little salt, and a handful of
oil meal, a small amount of the concentrates, and all the coarse food she will eat. The principal object is to make her eat much to get a small amount of grain.

The next thing that appeals to the eye of the judge is the temperament
of the animal, which indicates whether
or not she is using in the right way the food she has consumed. All dairy cattle should be free from tendency to lay on flesh, thin, and under condition rather than too fleshy. A show animal should possess quality
also, but this to a large extent is determined by nature, although we
can assist by keeping her in perfect
health, the hair well groomed and
protected from the sun, which makes it harsh and dry. Kerosene should never be applied to the hair. When great stress is laid on secretions dispense with the use of water for cleaning animals, as it makes the skin
appear pale.

There is a great diversity of opinion among judges as to the importance of udder development. However, when a heifer is developing an udder we should help her on all we
can, as the time to assist nature is
when she is doing her best work.
Many advocate increasing the grain ration of a heifer at this stage, even though she becomes fleshy, as she
will soon milk it off again. All cattle should be handled and well broken to lead. It is also good practice to teach an animal to stand in a position that will show her to the
best advantage.

Polishing of horns and hoofs,
grooming, watering from pails, etc.,
should be practiced before leaving for
the fairs, as there are enough new conditions to become accustomed to
it. It is wise to get a new harness taken. This may seem a trivial affair, but many prizes have been lost
by leading into the ring a shrunken
animal which has refused to drink
from a pail, or a fringed tail. I would commence feeding about six
or eight weeks previous to starting
for the fairs. Do not hurry or the stock will have reached their bloom
before the exhibition. Avoid feeding
to show animals, as it is heating to the blood, makes grease instead of bone and muscle, and upon
the first exertion, the animal will fail. A dairy animal should not be fed heavily on grain ration at any time, as she will be very easily upset.

Big Loss to Photographers.
Some idea of the loss which falls on the photographic fraternity in England by the King's lamentable illness may be gathered by the consideration of the cinematographers.
One firm alone secured in and at the Solent no less than 20 London
"pitches" or locations. For only one of these no less than £150 was paid. Probably the total bill for special positions would not be far short of £1,000. In order to cope with a large and immediate demand the printing premises were enlarged to three times their ordinary size,
and an equivalent addition of apparatus and skilled labor was contracted for. In connection with this cinematographer lantern displays were
made "for a week" in many of the large towns, in which the chief attractions were to have been cin-ematographs of the processions and of the naval review. Mr. J. Williamson affords another example. To keep abreast of the demand he had brought up his staff of specialists
from Hove, and installed it in a London factory, where it would have worked night and day in the preparation of miles of film. On the morning preceding the day that was to have been, determined not to go away empty, Mr. Williamson perched a cinematograph on a motor-car, and,
traversing the route, took a thousand feet of salient decorations and
the never-ending crowds of sight-
seers.

Don't Judge by Appearance.

"I LOVE
MALT BREAKFAST
FOOD."

Young and Old Who Have Used
This King of Foods Say it is
The Most Delicious of All Cereals.

Malt Breakfast Food, delicious, appetizing, easily digested, rich in nourishing properties for blood, flesh and brain, is the chosen breakfast food of all who prize good health. The pronounced verdict of each man, woman and child is: "I love Malt Breakfast Food." No other grain food has had such a welcome into the homes of all classes; no other is now so popular at the morning meal. If you would be strong, vigorous and happy, use Malt Breakfast Food. Do not be induced to take a substitute from any grocer. Insist upon having Malt Breakfast Food every time. All grocers.

DAIRY ANIMALS FOR SHOW.

Well Known Breeder Tells Something of
Fitting Them for the Ring.

The modern tendency is to make
the animal conform to an arbitrary
standard of excellence, or scale of
points, and its ability to win prizes
varies directly do the conceptions of
the various judges who pass upon
the conformity to that scale. One
of the primary requisites of all dairy
animals regardless of age or sex, is
capacity. A judge likes an animal
with large punch as it is very essential in economically converting a
large amount of coarse feed into milk. How can we develop this capacity?

It is done by feeding coarse bulky
food, in a manner best suited to the
individual tastes of the animals.
Many have had good success by giving cut or chaffed hay and straw,
with a mixture of ground oats and
bran, a little salt, and a handful of
oil meal, a small amount of the con-
centrates, and all the coarse food she
will eat. The principal object is to make her eat much to get a small amount of grain.

The next thing that appeals to the
eye of the judge is the temperament
of the animal, which indicates whether
or not she is using in the right
way the food she has consumed. All dairy cattle should be free from tendency to lay on flesh, thin, and under condition rather than too fleshy. A
show animal should possess quality
also, but this to a large extent is
determined by nature, although we
can assist by keeping her in perfect
health, the hair well groomed and
protected from the sun, which makes
it harsh and dry. Kerosene should never be applied to the hair. When
great stress is laid on secretions dispense with the use of water for cleaning animals, as it makes the skin
appear pale.

There is a great diversity of opinion among judges as to the importance of udder development. However, when a heifer is developing an
udder we should help her on all we
can, as the time to assist nature is
when she is doing her best work.
Many advocate increasing the grain
ration of a heifer at this stage, even
though she becomes fleshy, as she
will soon milk it off again. All cattle should be handled and well broken to lead. It is also good practice to teach an animal to stand in a
position that will show her to the
best advantage.

Polishing of horns and hoofs,
grooming, watering from pails, etc.,
should be practiced before leaving for
the fairs, as there are enough new
conditions to become accustomed to
it. It is wise to get a new harness
taken. This may seem a trivial affair, but many prizes have been lost
by leading into the ring a shrunken
animal which has refused to drink
from a pail, or a fringed tail. I
would commence feeding about six
or eight weeks previous to starting
for the fairs. Do not hurry or the
stock will have reached their bloom
before the exhibition. Avoid feeding
to show animals, as it is heating to the blood, makes grease instead of bone and muscle, and upon
the first exertion, the animal will
fail. A dairy animal should not be
fed heavily on grain ration at any
time, as she will be very easily up-
set.

ematographer lantern displays were
made "for a week" in many of the
large towns, in which the chief attractions were to have been cin-
ematographs of the processions and of

affords another example. To keep abreast of the demand he had
brought up his staff of specialists
from Hove, and installed it in a London factory, where it would have
worked night and day in the preparation of miles of film. On the morning preceding the day that was to
have been, determined not to go away
empty, Mr. Williamson perched a cinematograph on a motor-car, and,
traversing the route, took a thousand feet of salient decorations and
the never-ending crowds of sight-
seers.

BASEBALL

What promises to be one of the most hotly contested games of the season is scheduled for next Saturday afternoon on the Athletic Park, Queen St. The contesting teams will be the Boston Bloomers (girls) and the Chatham Mfg. Co. nine. Manager McAuley fully realizes that he has a hard proposition before him, and will therefore place the strongest team available on the field on Saturday afternoon.

The Walpole Island Indian nine will visit this city on Civic Holiday, Monday next, and try conclusions with the C. M. C. stalwarts. The Indians have a very fast team this year and a good game may be expected. The game will be called for four o'clock on Tecumseh Park.

BOWLING

SOUTHERNERS VICTORIOUS.

In the war between the North and the South, the North came out victorious, but the tables were turned yesterday in the bowling match between North and South Chatham. South Chatham won handsily all three Southern rinks defeating their opponents by good margins.

The South led from the start. At the end of the third end on rink No. 3 the score stood 10-0 in favor of the South. South Chatham, on rink No. 2, opened the battle with four on the first end. On rink No. 1 the South was five points ahead at the end of the third end.

Rink No. 2 was a remarkable one. On the South were two prominent shoe men, Peace and Turrill, while arrayed against them on the North side were two grocers, McCorvie and Anderson. Then there was Mr. Plimomeault, of the customs department, whose initials are N. P. (National Policy). There were four T's on this rink, not that anyone had a cold and needed the medicine—but Taylor had two bowls and so did Turrill. It happened once that two T's were shot.

Dr. Fleming, who skipped No. 1 for the North, made some phenomenal shots, which his opponents say were flukes, but we think the Doctor is a good bowler.

N. H. Stevens, rink No. 2, played in hard luck and was six points behind when play stopped.

On rink No. 3, Dr. Bray started off with a big rush, but Sowerby picked up some and at the finish was tied behind.

The stenorous tones of one, known best as Blue Ruin John Lee, were heard on the field encouraging one side then another, and also deciding on the close decisions which was closest.

ROAD-BUILDERS USE DYNAMITE.

Up-to-date Methods in the Temiskaming District.

Colonization road builders in the Temiskaming district are using dynamite for the first time for the removal of the stumps, and are enthusiastic in praise of its superiority over the older system of "grubbing." Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, who returned to Toronto recently from a three weeks' visit to the district, where he planned and saw the work completed, brought this information with him. "Dynamite," he added, "does away with tedious and laborious work in clearing, and is of course very effective." He said that there were 300 men engaged on road work, and the forty miles mentioned would be completed this season. Grading machines are also being used for the first time, so that the work will proceed as rapidly and as thoroughly as up-to-date methods permit. Following previous methods, all the new roads will have a uniform grade and a width of twenty feet, with ditches on either side part of a complete system of drainage. A twofold object is attained by this system, namely, substantial roads and the drainage of the frontal portions of farm locations, which is of great assistance to settlers in the work of clearing. No corduroy roads will be built, as the initial expense is heavy, and they require considerable repair every spring.

Mr. Campbell says that many settlers are going into the district. The majority are from the older portions of Ontario, have horses and implements, a little money, and strong determination to succeed. They are putting up good houses and substantial buildings.

GREAT SHOOTING

President Roosevelt Beat an Expert Boer Marksman.

New York Aug. 4.—The Herald's Saturday special from Oyster Bay says: President Roosevelt has beaten the Dutch. That is to say, he defeated a Boer officer at target practice this morning, making a remarkable record with a 32-caliber revolver at 50 yards. He drove five bullets, one after the other, through the hole made by the first, in the center of the bull's-eye.

No such shooting has ever been done before around Oyster Bay, and Commandant W. D. Snyman, an officer on Gen. De Wet's staff, declares he never saw such skill in South Africa. The match was between the president, his son Archie, Commandant Snyman, Joubert, son of former Secretary of State of the Orange Free State, and Mr. Chanler. President Roosevelt received a new revolver as a gift of a friend in Germany and said he would like to try it.

Snyman, who is celebrated all through South Africa as a crack shot, proposed a match. The president was quite ready. So a new target with a three-inch bull's eye was produced and set up in a field back of the president's house. Fifty yards were measured off and the president took the first shot. The bullet struck the bull's eye almost exactly in the center.

"Bully shot!" shouted Snyman, "but an accident, I do believe," he added, jestingly.

"Let me see if I can't give you another accident nearly as good," said the president, raising the pistol. Crack, it went again, and when Snyman and the others saw that the second bullet had penetrated the hole made by the first one their faces became very stern. The president smiled.

"Bully good gun," he exclaimed, and took aim for the third shot. That, too, followed the other two shots so accurately that only the one hole, a trifle enlarged and ragged, appeared in the bull's eye. The men standing about him were surprised, but the president continued to talk about the "bully good gun" it was and fired twice more. All five bullets struck so nearly in the same hole that it looked as though but one bullet, a large and jagged one, had penetrated the bull's eye. When the last of the five shots had been fired the president handed the pistol to Snyman and said:

"Now, Snyman, you try it. There's a good fellow, for you, but a Boer ought to beat it."

Hesitatingly the commandant took the pistol, and, stretching himself on the grass, blazed away. He missed the bull's eye by about half an inch.

"I'll make it the second time," he said, and again fired. But again he missed the bull's eye.

"That's enough," he said, getting up and handing the pistol back to the president. "I can shoot on the level, Mr. President, as well as any man in South Africa, but I don't believe there's a man in all Africa can shoot with you."

"It's a Boer's luck, the same old fate of defeat over again," said Reitz, putting his hand on Snyman's shoulder. The president smiled, and taking the commandant by the hand, shook it heartily, and said:

"Well, commandant, you've been beaten by a Dutchman, and that isn't so bad."

"Excavating by Compressed Air."

In sinking the Brooklyn caisson for the third bridge over the East river it has been found possible to make compressed air do the work of shovels in removing the sand, through a thick stratum of which the caisson is being forced down toward the bedrock beneath. The sand is so pure and loose that the force of the compressed air supplied for the workmen in the caisson suffices to drive it up through blowpipes inserted into the caisson for the purpose. Jets of water are directed against the sand around the bottom of the blowpipes, and when thus dislodged the sand readily passes up through the pipes with the strong air currents that are continually pouring into them from the compressed atmosphere of the caisson.

No Ear Lobes in Japan.

Japanese have no ear lobes. This is a discovery which has apparently been made for the first time by Dr. Von der Heyden, director of the public hospital in Yokohama. Even if he is not the first to discover it he is certainly the first to draw public attention to it.

The absence of ear lobes, he claims, is sufficient to drive it up through blowpipes inserted into the caisson for the purpose. Jets of water are directed against the sand around the bottom of the blowpipes, and when thus dislodged the sand readily passes up through the pipes with the strong air currents that are continually pouring into them from the compressed atmosphere of the caisson.

Japanese have no ear lobes. This is a discovery which has apparently been made for the first time by Dr. Von der Heyden, director of the public hospital in Yokohama. Even if he is not the first to discover it he is certainly the first to draw public attention to it.

The absence of ear lobes, he claims, is sufficient to drive it up through blowpipes inserted into the caisson for the purpose. Jets of water are directed against the sand around the bottom of the blowpipes, and when thus dislodged the sand readily passes up through the pipes with the strong air currents that are continually pouring into them from the compressed atmosphere of the caisson.

The Bargain Roll

Summer clothes, straw hats, bicycle and outing gear—a big broad list, covering nine-tenths of a man's present needs in the line of things to wear.

Reductions range from one-fourth upwards; all straw hats at half price, bicycle and golf wear away below half,—much of it.

Prices look wrong, but the goods are right. Careful, smart, up-to-the-hour in style. Why not buy for next summer as well as this? An instance or two of how we're doing it:—

Men's fancy flannel 3 pc. suits, dark and light chalk line effects, reg. $6.00 clearing at..... $4.50	Bicycle suits, in medium colors, reg. $4.00, $4.75 and $5.50, all one price..... $1.50

TILBURY

Aug. 5.—Mrs. (Dr.) Wallace, who has been visiting relatives here the past three weeks, returned to her home in Elmer, Mich., yesterday.

The baseball club go to Wallaceburg today on a gasoline yacht from the lighthouse, and another yacht will carry a crowd of "rooters."

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Searf and their guests, Mrs. Mac Bruce, of St. Thomas, and Mrs. Hutchison, of Salt Lake City, are spending the day in Chatham.

Mrs. S. Sloan returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. J. Tierman and children leave today for Montreal, where they will in future reside.

Nervous Dyspepsia

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds a real misery to life. Not the stomach but the nerves are affected. Starved nerves make the whole trouble. You need Ferrozone because its a nerve food. It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. This is the savings bank of health. The richer the blood in red cells, the richer you're sure to be in health. Ferrozone quickly makes blood, strengthens the nervous system, strengthens the digestive organs and, presto! the nervous disturbance disappears. Sold by McCall & Co.

DRESDEN

Aug. 5.—Miss Charlotte Wicks, of Cleveland, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Wicks, St. George street.

Miss Emma Oldham has accepted a position with the Sydenham Glass Factory, of Wallaceburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper, Victoria avenue, spent Sunday in Wallaceburg. Their daughter, Mrs. Merrill, accompanied them and will remain for a week.

Miss Rene Whitehead is still very ill.

Judge Woods, of Chatham, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. W. H. Hughes and son Hubert returned from a visit to Chatham yesterday.

Miss Grace is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Allison, of Kent Bridge.

For fighting on Sunday night Fred. Coe and Chas. Slicker appeared at court yesterday. Slicker was fined $5.00 and Coe $8.00 and costs.

Rev. Hugh Cowan and wife are visiting with Mrs. Cowan's parents, in Rutherford.

Mrs. A. Trerice, who has been visiting here, left for Port Lambton today to spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Clancy.

The Cause of Nervous Headache

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest and most efficient remedy is Poison's Nerviline. Twenty drops in sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment should be supplemented by bathing the region of pain with Nerviline. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

This famous national park offers to the tourist and sightseer more novelties and curiosities than perhaps any other spot on earth. The stage ride from Monida is through scenery hardly inferior to the park itself, and this ride is one of the very many enjoyments of the trip.

The new route to the Yellowstone is via the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line Railroads to Monida, Montana, thence daily by railroad to the coaches of the Monida & Yellowstone Stage Company to all points in the Yellowstone National Park.

ALL CANADA AT TORONTO

There will not be a province or piece of territory in the Dominion that will not be represented at exhibition to be held in Toronto year from Monday, Sept. 1st, to Sunday, Sept. 13th. To mark the occasion of this evidence of the country's confidence, the Executive have increased the prize list and now it is proudly boasted that, with specials, upwards of $37,000 will be distributed in prizes among the exhibitors, six-sevenths of which will find its way to the agricultural community. While this large sum proves the magnitude of the exposition, the enterprise of its managers, and the comprehensiveness of the exhibits, the fact that $30,000 is to be spent in attractions and special features, the latest inventions as well as the latest novelties in the amusement world and including $7,000 for music, show that while the agricultural and industrial interests of the country are to be well looked after, the people of America and Europe have been secured for all that is best in every line of attraction.

Bolossi Kiralfy, the greatest master of spectacle on earth, has been secured to produce in all its brilliancy and gorgeousness his stupendous production "The Orient," which was the wonder of London Eng., at Olympia for a year, and that is only one of the really costly features that have been engaged or are being negotiated for.

There are the new Dairy Building on the new Art Gallery, which will greatly increase the value of the exhibition as a factor in the education and elevation of the people. In the Dairy Building not only will there be exhibits of dairy products, utensils and so on, but lectures and demonstrations will be given twice daily in a hall provided with seating accommodation for 600 people. Reduced rates will, of course, be available on all lines of travel.
