

GIANTIC ARTILLERY DUEL NOW IN PROGRESS ON SOMME
215th Battalion Will Return to Brantford on Monday for the Winter

BRANTFORD WILL WELCOME 215TH BATTALION HOME ON MONDAY

Local Regiment Will Leave Camp That Day, Returning to City For the Winter-Urgent Appeal Made by W. P. L. For Material For Soldiers' Luncheon

On Monday afternoon next, probably between the hours of 4 and 6, the 215th Battalion will return to Brantford for the coming winter, arriving by special train via T. H. and B., in full strength and with all their accoutrements.

At daybreak on Monday the 215th Battalion will be at work at Niagara engaged in all the necessary packing for breaking camp. As the task will be no light one, it is probable that the majority of the day will be consumed, and that the regiment will not be able to entrain until well into the afternoon.

Reception. Despite the short notice received in the city of the advent of the battalion for the winter, no effort will be spared to arrange for a fitting reception upon its arrival here.

GREATEST ARTILLERY DUEL OF THE WORLD NOW PROGRESSING

Is now Being Waged on Somme Front, Accompanying Anglo-French Offensive-British Guns are Superior to Krupps

London, Oct. 14.—New York Herald cable—Telegraphing an account of the latest Anglo-French attack, launched on the Somme front on Thursday afternoon, Beach Thomas, correspondent of The Daily Mail says—

"Though comparatively small was the infantry advance the day was a colossal artillery duel. Never in the world's history have guns answered guns in such number, power and size. The quantity of them leaves one agghast."

He mentions the new British 18-inch weapons, which are heavier and more powerful than the famous Krupp "fat berthas" or the 16.8 inch Howitzers, and also a mobile gun of 12-inch calibre, itself big beyond the previous imagination of soldiers, and which hit a target eleven miles away; also lesser monsters, especially the 9.2 inch and 8-inch guns, which were in so close places one could scarcely pass between them.

"The German guns," adds Mr. Thomas, "multiply, but always the allies outmultiply their multiplication."

THE PROBS

14.—The low area which was over the great lakes yesterday is now over the Maritime Provinces, where gales with rain are general. Another low area came in rapidly from the west west is causing a gale on Lake Superior.

FORECASTS Fair and cool to-day. Moderate southwest gales to-night. Sunday, fair and a little warmer.

German Gains Did Not Last

Paris, Oct. 14.—Noon.—The Germans delivered a strong attack last night on Ablincourt, south of the River Somme and re-occupied part of the village, as well as trenches northeast of it, it was officially announced here to-day. The French immediately launched a counter-attack. By this move they re-captured all the ground which had been won by the Germans.

Supplies Wanted

In this regard it is desired to impress once more upon the ladies of the city the need for a plentiful supply of sandwiches, cake, coffee, sugar and cream for the luncheon. All contributions will be gladly accepted up to 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the men's mess on Dalhousie street, those occupied last year by the 84th Battalion, where ladies willing to help in serving the luncheon should also apply as early as possible, as it is desired to have all arrangements completed, and no hitch in the program.

Preparing Quarters

The advance guard of the battalion, under the command of Capt. A. M. Jackson, has been reinforced by a second quota of ten men, and the work of preparing the quarters is being proceeded with, with all expedition, so that it is expected that all will be in readiness for the battalion by Monday afternoon. Half the bunks have already been overhauled and re-installed in the armories, while the others will all be similarly treated by the evening. The men's rooms are receiving a fresh coat of whitewash, and no pains are being spared to render as attractive as possible the quarters which will shelter during the coming winter, the men of the 215th Battalion.

LT. N. McDONALD IS NOW WOUNDED

Enlisted in Cyclist Corps and Later Was Drafted to the 4th Battalion.

Word received in the city yesterday by Mr. Wm. G. MacDonald, 35 Peel street, conveyed the information that his son, Lt. Norman F. MacDonald, of the 4th battalion, had sustained in the recent fighting a wound in the knee, and is at present in a hospital in England.

To Lt. MacDonald and his brother, Wm. Ross MacDonald, has come deserved promotion. The two young men enlisted some time ago in Toronto, becoming attached to the Divisional Cyclist corps, from which unit they were transferred upon their arrival overseas, becoming attached to the renowned Mad Fourth Battalion, with the rank of lieutenants.

Both young men enjoyed great popularity throughout the city, being particularly prominent in athletic circles of all kinds, and their many friends will unite in rejoicing at their advance and in wishing Norman a speedy recovery from his injuries.

STORY OF THE DESTRUCTION OF A ZEPPELIN RAIDER BY LT. TEMPEST

Berlin Admits Loss From Raids

Berlin, Oct. 13.—Via London, Oct. 14.—Noon.—Details of the operations of Entente aerial squadrons in their raids in southern Germany on Thursday are given in supplementary reports issued today by the war office. The attacks are declared to have been carried out by from forty to fifty machines, but it is asserted that no military damage was done. A total of seven persons killed, and more than a score injured was the extent of the casualties, says the statement.

Intrepid Young British Aviator Accomplished Splendid Feat With His Plane; Bringing Down Hostile Aircraft

London, Oct. 14.—(New York Times cable)—The Daily Chronicle, discussing the exploit of Lieut. Tempest in connection with the destruction of a Zeppelin on October 1, for which he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order, says:

"On the fateful day, Tempest finished his regular duties, spending the evening with friends at a dinner party. Before the meal was over a call reached him and a few minutes later he was back at the aerodrome. He made a speedy start with the idea of intercepting the Zeppelin, which was reported as approaching. He was not satisfied until he reached a height of upward of 10,000 feet. At the end of two hours a searchlight picked out the Zeppelin and persistently stuck to it, despite its efforts to get beyond the focus of the beam.

Soon other searchlights added to the volume of illumination and the anti-aircraft guns began to pepper at the airship. In a moment a great sheet of fire swept along the Zeppelin and it began to fall at a speed increasing as the law of gravitation came into play. Immediately after the Zeppelin caught fire, Tempest travelled the complete length of the airship from stem to stern, being parallel with it all the time. Then he began to descend, but the falling Zeppelin hampered his movements very considerably. Once or twice he narrowly escaped collision with the flaming mass, and in order to avoid this he was compelled to resort to nose-diving, the work being done under tremendous strain. But Tempest fortunately escaped injury of any kind. The spot where he landed was miles away from the place where he had first taken the air."

NEUTRALS SEIZE INTERNED SHIPS

Proposed as Means of Compensation for Loss Through Submarines. By Courier Leased Wire. London, Oct. 14.—Neutral nations are offered the suggestion that they use German ships interned in their ports to compensate them for submarine losses, by the shipping correspondent of The Times. Discussing the world shortage in tonnage, the correspondent says: "In view of the continued wanton destruction of neutral shipping, British owners are wondering how much longer neutral countries are going to allow German vessels to lie idle in their ports."

After stating that there are ninety German ships in Chilean harbors, the correspondent continues: "Chile, like an neutrals, is suffering from lack of tonnage. Therefore, in the view of British ship owners, Chile, if she will not use these ships to export her products to Europe, should be asked to lease them to a power which can employ them and who will indemnify her for any loss in port and harbor charges."

Waters of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada for his good services in assisting them in the negotiations which they were of considerable assistance to them. The work on this job is expected to last somewhere in the neighborhood of three years.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur with It to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

THE SITUATION

The news from the front with regard to the Rumanians is a trifle better, although not yet by any means reassuring. It is stated that they have stopped the advance of Falkenhayn's troops at some points, but have been forced still further back at others. It is clearly up to Russia to give the sorely harassed little nation reinforcements, and in this regard it is stated that Cossacks are now helping King Ferdinand's cavalry with good results. In the Somme fighting, with the heights of Baupenne firmly in their grasp, the British are making a direct push for the town. Gen. Joffre for his part is endeavoring to throw back the German line on St. Quentin, and it is figured that the move, if successful, would crumple up their whole line in France. The Russians are thinning out their forces in Galicia somewhat, to help in Transylvania and Macedonia, but they are still repulsing fierce counter attacks in the Lemberg region and also driving ahead at the same time. The Italians continue to advance in their smash towards Trieste, and it looks as if they would force Austria to bring up troops from Transylvania.

GERMANY'S PLAN

From the very commencement the Hun plan has been to scare her opponents into peace on her own terms. The frightfulness practiced in Belgium was the commencement of this scheme, and since we have had such instances as the devastation of Serbia, use of poisoned gas, sinking of Lusitania and other vessels, the air raids upon Great Britain and all the rest of the devilish list. An attempt is now being made to make Rumania another victim in the same regard. In the opinion of Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, the recent operations of the German submarine U-53 off the United States coast, also constituted part of a plan to scare neutrals, so that they will be apt to urge such a conclusion of hostilities as Berlin is now prepared to offer. In this regard, the New York Tribune says: "It would be an indefensible weakness—a pitiful surrender of an advantage in position which they have won through enormous sacrifices—for them (the Allies)—to consider such terms of peace as the German Government is now ready to offer. To accept the theory that the war has been a draw and to consent to re-establishing the old status in Europe would mean merely the striking of a hollow truce. Under it there would be no real peace in the world. The security for which the Allied Powers have been fighting would still be unattained. The colossal burdens of the war would have to be borne by all the contestants without any compensation to them, or to neutrals, in the way of international stability and tranquility. Europe would live in the shadow of another war, for which both political combinations would be preparing with feverish energy. The Allied Powers have bound themselves not to accept such a peace, and in so doing they have shown the profoundest wisdom. Better ten years more of war, whatever the cost, with a patched-up peace and ten or twenty years of preparation for new slaughter."

The Teutonic mind seems to be utterly unable to grasp the fact that among free and liberty-loving peoples, deeds of frightfulness and bullying do not awe, but simply lead to renewed determination to throttle the aggressor.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

There can be no doubt that the war has greatly helped the cause of those who favor the giving of the vote to women. From the very commencement of hostilities the members of the fair sex have shown a spirit of courage and self sacrifice which have alike proved admirable. Not only that, but they have manifested a most notable spirit of Empire service and in various activities, in many of which they were hitherto regarded as barred by sex, they have taken the places of men called to the front, with marked success and ability. A vast number of them especially in the Old Land, are only occupying these jobs during war time, but the demonstration of their eagerness to do their share in this time of strife has advanced the suffragette cause more than a regiment of Pankhursts. The ability of Mrs. Pankhurst and her two daughters cannot be questioned; their militant tactics most fittingly have been, Miss Christobel, who is really a most effective platform orator, during her visit to Canada some two years ago, gave addresses on the war, in which she strongly deprecated the wanton destruction of churches and other property by the Germans. She did not of course attempt to square that feeling with a similar course of procedure by the militants. However, all that aside, the suffragette cause has now reached a stage to which the Pankhursts could never have brought it by their violent methods.

In Canada two of the Western Provinces have by popular vote endorsed the demand and as the Dominion elections are run on Provincial lists, the women in the districts named will cast their ballots in Federal contests. The question is also likely ere long to be put to the vote of the electors in other Provinces, and the outcome is a foregone conclusion except perhaps in the case of Quebec.

OUR DAILY PATTERN SERVICE

Valuable Suggestions for the Handy Homemaker—Order Any Pattern Through the Courier.

LADY'S HOUSE DRESS.

The simplicity and neatness of this utility frock are very striking. Style note is brought in with the diagonal closing of the blouse, which is gathered at the waist-line; the fashioning may be at the right or the left side.
The collar in contrasting note and the buttons carried to match give smartness to the model. Either a short sleeve with a roll cuff, or the full length sleeve finished with a straight hand cuff of material may be chosen as correct.
The four-gore skirt, boasting a pocket in the right side and closing at the side front, is joined to a belt that is formed of material in the collar. If you want a plain dress that is raised out of the ordinary you might develop this model in a plaid voile that is very popular, wearing an apron when duties demand.
For the most practical wear Indian head, seersucker, linen, gingham, &c., trimmed with contrasting color, will be very satisfactory.
The dress pattern No. 7,999 is cut in sizes 36 to 46 bust measure. To make in size 36 will require 4 3/4 yards of 36 inch material, with 3/4 yard contrasting goods.
To obtain the pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

His varied experience in the Motherland, in operatics and other dramatic productions, led to his engagement with this company.

THE MARKET

There was a splendid harvest market this morning with the root crops, and especially potatoes and carrots, being most in evidence. Pumpkins were also quite plentiful. The supply of live fowl was the largest that has been offered for sale for a long time. Plenty of fresh meats were also displayed, so much so that the section allotted to butchers was unable to afford them sufficient accommodation, and they were forced to overspread the other parts of the market. Apples were a trifle more plentiful than last week, and while the quality is slightly below standard, the prices remain high.

Will Be Seen in Brantford Soon.

"The Battle of the Somme," Has Taken Great Britain by Storm.

The greatest moving picture ever taken and the greatest war film yet produced, is the universal verdict in the Old Land with regard to the film story of "The Battle of the Somme."

This picture has taken Great Britain by storm. It is the greatest war film ever taken. Millions of people in England have looked to see it in the last few weeks. It is said a million people visited the theatres where it was shown in the City of London alone during the first week or so of its exhibition. The King and Queen saw it, and the King advised everybody to see it. Mr. Lloyd George, British Minister of War, said the picture should reach to everyone. Sir Douglas Haig, the British Commander at the front, changed some of the sub-titles, but found no other changes necessary.

The British Government sanctioned the film as an official historical record of one of the greatest episodes in British history, and it is the first war film that was ever allowed to pass without coming under the official censorship. The authorities of the War Office ordered that the film was issued for public exhibition. This film is given to commemorate the glorious Empire to commemorate the glorious achievement of the British volunteer army—which broke the deadlock of two years' standing on the western front, and outmatched the best trained and equipped professional army the world ever saw. No sacrilegious changes were to be made in the wonderful film that recorded their victory.

In order to allow Brantfordites to see this great offering the Courier has arranged to have it shown here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 2nd, 3rd and 4th. There will be matinees each day and a grand gala matinee on Saturday morning. Further particulars will be announced later.

VISITED SCHOOLS IN CITY OF LONDON

Teachers of Brantford Travelled There Yesterday—Helpful Observations.

The schools of this city, as well as those of the county, and the town of Paris were exceptionally well represented yesterday on the teachers' excursion to London.

Those who were so fortunate to be in attendance were enabled to take advantage of the opportunity to inspect the splendid school system in vogue in that city.

When the need of a increased accommodation is made evident, the citizens decide what kind of a school would be most satisfactory and then request all the architects of the city to submit their plans. The one which meets with approval is then awarded the contract.

The teachers found the equipment to be of a very elaborate order and in some instances, such as in the Household Science, and experimental Science departments of the Collegiate Institute, the appliances bordered on the lavish. However, this is explained when it was announced that ten mills on the dollar are levied for school purposes only.

After the inspection of the schools had been completed by the local delegation, they were tendered a sumptuous luncheon by the London school board at Smallman and Ingram's. Here addresses of welcome were delivered by the Mayor, the chairman of the school board, the chairman of the school management committee, the School Inspector and by Mr. Rodgers, the principal of the Collegiate Institute of that city. They were replied to by Messrs. J. B. Gamble, E. E. C. Kilmer, T. W. Standing and A. W. Burt, who expressed their appreciation of the excellent and instructive entertainment which they had had the privilege of enjoying.

The visiting teachers were unanimous in declaring that they had been the most profitable that could possibly have been arranged, and that as a result of the visit, many new ideas and methods had been inculcated into their minds from which they will derive inestimable benefit during the coming days.

CELEBRATED 42ND ANNIVERSARY

Social Evening Spent By Court Endeavor, Ancient Order of Foresters.

In 1874, as a result of an advertisement inserted by Mr. T. Priestland in the Courier, some 70 men of Brantford gathered together and organized themselves into Court Endeavor, 5987, Ancient Order of Foresters, with the largest founding membership ever recorded at that time in the history of the order in Canada.

Success and prosperity have since attended the lodge, and last evening in the A. O. F. hall a gathering of several hundred members and members' wives united to celebrate the 42nd anniversary of the founding of the Court. The chair was occupied during the evening by Dr. E. R. Secord, while among the distinguished guests were High Chief Ranger Brother A. Martin, High Chief Companion, Mrs. Martin, and Dr. Martin all of Hamilton. Addresses were delivered by the first two named, as also by the chairman and others, including Capt. the Rev. C. E. Jenkins, returned recently from the front. A program of musical numbers, vocal and instrumental, and readings served to pass the evening in a very pleasant manner.

TORONTO TO JOIN AMERICAN LEAGUE?

Suggested that Ontario's Capital Assume the Washington Franchise.

Boston, Oct. 14.—Chief among the world's series sideliights were the proposed shift of the Washington American League franchise to Toronto and the prospective sale of the Brooklyn club. Sporting writers the country over are evincing a lively interest in the doings of the American League. The National League continues to lose prestige. The attitude of the parent body to the Federal League, when the latter organization saved its hide in the peace pact and the several untoward happenings of the 1916 season are but the culmination of several years of internal dissension and a gradual but steady lessening of interest.

The old league's affairs have been poorly administered. The circuit has been unfortunate in the personnel of its club owners. All of this has tended towards an ever increasing interest and faith in the American League. Naturally the fans of the country are being attracted to it more than ever, and are more and more concerned in its affairs.

Stirring Addresses Delivered by Shaw and Mrs. Plumt of that Institution—P Certificate

It was with a new inspiration a determination to maintain the war so ably carried on in the past that the many Brantfordites left Victoria Hall last evening after enjoying two of the best addresses ever delivered in the city in Red Cross work. Rev. (Capt.) Jenkins, who has recently returned from the front discharged the duties of chairman in most capable manner. In a brief introductory address he stated that it was indeed a pleasure to officiate at such a gathering, that demonstrated the active participation of the women of Canada in the war and in general ministering to mankind.

In opening her lecture, Mrs. Hoshaw likened the experience of returning among old friends as she had visited our city on a former occasion. The purpose of the present lecture was to outline the experiences of a soldier at the front, in being transferred from the firing line to England.

Immediately upon being wounded or as soon as it is practically possible to arrange to move him, the soldier is conveyed to an advanced dressing station where, as the name would imply, his wounds are administered to as carefully as possible under the circumstances. He is removed to the advanced casualty station, where he is further treated and if the need should be so urgent as to warrant an operation, the means are provided to accomplish this purpose. At this point the speaker particularly emphasized the point to which she repeatedly referred during the course of the evening—the consummate efficiency and the adequacy of equipment prevailing in these hospitals in the war zone.

The patient is then transported by means of motor ambulances to a field hospital, which is made up of numberless tents and huts that cover an extensive area, and often stretched out in all directions as far as the eye can see. ELOQUENT AND FORCEFUL APPEALS FOR BRITISH RED CROSS SOCIETY

Stirring Addresses Delivered Last Evening by Mrs. Henshaw and Mrs. Plumtre, Depicting Wonderful Work of that Institution—Presentation of Home Nursing Certificates.

It was with a new inspiration and a determination to maintain the war so ably carried on in the past that the many Brantfordites left Victoria Hall last evening after enjoying two of the best addresses ever delivered in the city in Red Cross work. Rev. (Capt.) Jenkins, who has but recently returned from the front discharged the duties of chairman in a most capable manner. In a brief introductory address he stated that it was indeed a pleasure to officiate at such a gathering, that demonstrated the active participation of the women of Canada in the war and in general in opening her lecture, Mrs. Henshaw likened the experience of speaking to a Brantford audience to returning among old friends as she had visited our city on a former occasion. The purpose of the present lecture was to outline the experiences of a soldier at the front in being transferred from the firing line to England.

Immediately upon being wounded or as soon as it is practically possible to arrange to move him, the soldier is conveyed to an advanced dressing station where, as the name would imply, his wounds are administered to as carefully as possible under the circumstances. He is next removed to the advanced casualty station, where he is further treated, and if the need should be so urgent as to warrant an operation the means are provided to accomplish this purpose. At this point, the speaker particularly emphasized the point to which she repeatedly referred during the course of the evening, to the consummate efficiency and the adequacy of equipment prevailing at these hospitals in the war zone.

Field Hospital
The patient is then transported by means of motor ambulances to the field hospital, which is made up of numerous tents and huts that cover an extensive area, and often stretched out in all directions as far as the eye can see. It was one of the marvels of the war, created out of the wonderful organization of the Army Medical Corps, where the soldiers had the advantage of just as good care even in these advanced positions as they could obtain at home in the best hospitals.

Certificates Presented
At this juncture, the fuse connected with the projecting machine burned out, and during the time taken to effect repairs, the Home Nursing certificates were presented to the candidates.

The lecture was again resumed at the point where the interruption had occurred. The wounded going immediately upon entrance to one of these hospitals, is bathed, and has clothes all placed in the huge sterilizers, with the exception of his socks which are always in too poor a condition to be worth the trouble involved in cleansing them.

Efforts of Red Cross
Referring to the splendid efforts of the Canadian and British Red Cross societies, the speaker stated that "the Red Cross was not an auxiliary to the Army Medical Corps, but a necessary adjunct to it," and that she did not know what the Canadian boys, and in fact all the allies, would do, were it not for the Red Cross.

Base Hospital
The next step taken to effect the convalescence of the soldier, is his removal to the base hospitals, which are of an entirely different institution than the others before mentioned. Gorgeous buildings of every description, elaborate castles, costly palaces, and magnificent chateaux, have all been converted into a series of hospital wards and placed at the disposal of our wounded soldiers. If it is deemed advisable that the wounded soldier should be granted a sufficient furlough home to recover or if he is totally incapacitated he is taken the remaining distance by handsomely equipped hospital trains and ships.

An Appeal
At the close of this effective and instructive address, Mrs. Henshaw made an eloquent appeal for contribu-

FRENCH AVIATOR WHO BOMBARDED ESSEN.
Lieut. Dancourt who, while piloting a machine over the German territory, dropped 12 bombs on the factories where most of Germany's war implements are made. Essen was the scene of the daring Frenchman's bold exhibition, and, after flying 500 miles, he reached home safe.

butions toward providing Christmas stockings for the soldiers in the fighting area. This project was fostered last year by the Red Cross and was heartily supported. No less generous the response made last night to the appeal when the collection was taken.

Reminiscences
Rev. Jenkins stated that in witnessing the splendid views accompanying the lecture, many reminiscences of his own experiences in France were brought to his mind.

Canadian Red Cross.
The work of the Canadian Red Cross was outlined by Mrs. Plumtre of Toronto, the Hon. Secretary of the society, who has been connected with the work since the outbreak of the war in 1914. The Canadian Red Cross, declared Mrs. Plumtre, would be satisfied to remain in the capacity in which it now acted, as an auxiliary of the A.M.C. and to discharge its duties in the future as capably as it had done in the past. The first advantage of the society is that it is a means through which the donations of Canadians are transferred to the men at the front. During the course of the war, $5,000,000 cases of supplies have been forwarded by the society, and the need was at present more pressing than ever before. An anxiety seems to be creeping over the women of Canada, declared the speaker, but if the work is to be maintained at the same standard of excellence, they must arouse themselves to energetic effort. The necessities which are at present in unlimited demand, are flannel shirts, socks, blankets, balalaclava and trench caps, mufflers and wristlets, and unless the present supply is augmented, some hospitals will consequently be neglected.

Notable Achievement.
Another notable achievement accomplished by the society is the establishment of training schools for disabled soldiers, in which they are taught useful trades and handicrafts and are thus prevented from returning home to be a drag on society. Mrs. Plumtre concluded by requesting that the citizens of Brantford assist in every way possible to carry on the splendid work of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Mr. J. H. Spence, in moving a vote of appreciation to the speakers, on behalf of the audience, stated that of all by the inspiring addresses, would spread throughout the community and result in a greater ef-

Are you an

Anæmic Girl?

Vitality is what You Need.

That is the real remedy, want of it the real cause behind all your trouble. You have only white blood in circulation because the batteries of vitality are running down, and the organs they control cannot properly draw nourishment from what you eat.

Re-charge those batteries, get life-force, vital strength, and all that will be changed. In your case a specialist would prescribe just such vital restoratives as are contained in Dr. Cassell's Tablets. Take these Tablets (the most popular remedy in the world) and your food will yield its nourishment, red corpuscles will crowd your circulation, and keen, bright health again glow on your cheek and sparkle in your eye.

Madame Clara Novello-Bavies, the well-known singer and conductor of the Welsh Ladies' Choir, writes: "I have great pleasure in recommending Dr. Cassell's Tablets as a safe and effective remedy. Having obtained almost immediate relief and final restoration to normal health from their use, I have no hesitation in speaking most highly of them."

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are Nutritive, Restorative, Alterative, and Anti-spaemic, and of proved therapeutic value in dependence of the nerve or functional systems of old or young. They are the recognized remedy for:

Nervousness	Electricity	Indigestion
Nervous Breakdown	Anæmia	Palpitation
Neurasthenia	Menstruation	Kidney Trouble

Specialty valuable to Nursing Mothers and Women of Middle Life.

Sold by Druggists and Storekeepers throughout Canada. Prices: one table, 50 cents; six tables for the price of one. War Tax 2 cents per table extra.

THE ONLY WAY TO CURE RHEUMATISM
Must Be Treated Through the Blood and the Poisonous Acid Driven Out.

The twinges and tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people suppose.

Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood. This is a medical truth that every rheumatic sufferer should realize. There is only one way to cure rheumatism—it must be treated through the blood. All the liniments and rubbing and so-called electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism, and the sufferer who tries them is not only wasting money, but is allowing the trouble to become more firmly rooted in the system and harder to cure when the proper remedy is tried. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had remarkable success in curing rheumatism because they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood, driving out the poisonous acid, releasing the stiffened joints, clearing away the torturing pains, and giving the victim renewed health and ease. Mr.

Vincent Brow, Havre Boucher, N. S., says: "For two years I was an almost constant sufferer from rheumatism, the trouble being so bad at times that I could scarcely get about. The trouble seemed to bring with it anæmia, and altogether I was in a very bad condition. I used doctor's medicine for almost a year without relief. Then on the advice of a friend I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I think I took altogether about a dozen boxes, with the result that I am again enjoying perfect health."

You can get these pills through any medicine store or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Submarine Activities in Atlantic Gives Rise to Much Excitement in U.S.

To Capt. the Rev. S. E. McKegney, Chaplain of the 215th battalion, belongs the unique distinction of being one of the few men in Canada today who have seen the armored cars recently put to such good use by the British and nicknamed "tanks."

Capt. McKegney returned yesterday from a visit to New York, where he saw no less than sixteen of the redoubtable chariots of war ready for shipment to England. When in inspection, the tanks are not particularly imposing or impressive in their appearance, apart from the air of massiveness and solidity imparted by them. They were described by Capt. McKegney to the Courier as being about twenty feet in length, and presenting rather the aspect of large moving vans, though of course completely armored, and fitted with shell-proof metal, and given the evidence of being able to withstand any onslaughts made upon them.

Great excitement was felt in New York and other large centres in the United States, according to Capt. McKegney, over the activities of the German submarine U-53, off the coast, the pro-German element being jubilant.

"There were three centres of interest in New York at the time," states Capt. McKegney. "Perhaps the most predominant was the world series, lost by Brooklyn on Thursday; second probably came the submarine question, and thirdly—primarily, to the Hearst and similar publications—the closing down of the International News Service to the Hearst papers, by the British Censorship Department."

While in New York, Capt. McKegney witnessed the sailing of a liner carrying one of the largest shipments of munitions ever made to England. "It was a grand sight," he stated, "to see the mighty vessel steaming down the river, with the Union Jack at her masthead, while across in the docks lay a whole fleet of Hamburg-American liners idle and inactive."

EXCAVATIONS MADE IN EGYPT RESULT IN IMPORTANT FINDS

Material Is Discovered Dating Back Sixteen Centuries, Before Christendom—Statues of Ethiopian Kings.

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 14.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Important discoveries which are said to have supplied much of the hitherto obscure history of ancient Ethiopia were made recently by the Egyptian Expedition sent by Harvard University and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts under the direction of Dr. George A. Reisner, well known as an Egyptologist.

In an interview with a representative of The Associated Press, Dr. Reisner said that during excavations at Gebel Barkal material bearing on the whole period between 1600 B.C. and 100 A.D. had been found and that prospects were most favorable for further excavation to bring to light objects of still greater importance.

Among the more important finds have been ten large statues of kings of Ethiopia. Five of these were nearly complete and five were lacking the heads, but it is believed these will be found. The expedition has also uncovered the foundations of temples built by Egyptian kings of the Eighteenth Dynasty and other monuments of Amenophis III. that the sphinxes of that period found at Barkal belong to these temples and were not brought here in later times as some historians have assumed. Describing the work, Dr. Reisner said:

"Gebel Barkal, which is in the district of Napata, lies 250 miles up the Nile from Kerna in the province of Dongola. Napata was the capital of that kingdom of Ethiopia whose name is mentioned in the Old Testament as the opponents of Assyria in the latter part of the eighth century before Christ. Gebel Barkal is an upstanding, visible for a great distance, from the moment it appears in the Egyptian inscriptions. It is marked as the 'Holy Mountain.' Its selection was no doubt due to its proximity to Napata, the great city which must have lain on both sides of the Nile. The site of Napata was peculiarly fitted for a great role in the political and commercial activities of ancient times. It lies at the head of the navigable stretch of river between the third and fourth cataracts, at the end of the relatively rich agricultural area of its province, and at the junction of five caravan roads through the desert.

"The extent of the city has not yet been determined, but there are traces of ruined buildings on both sides of the river. There are at least four groups of pyramids, that is, royal cemeteries in the neighborhood, and the two most distant groups are nearly twenty miles apart. In this long stretch, which may be assumed to contain the city of Napata, it is Gebel Barkal and its immediate neighborhood which has attracted the attention of modern scholars. Beside the mountain stand two groups of pyramids and under the perpendicular face of the rock on the river side six or seven temples have been traceable, one of which was very large. These temples have in past times yielded a remarkable series of sculptures and inscriptions which have gone to enrich the museums of Cairo, London, Paris and Berlin and form the greatest source of our knowledge of the history of Ethiopia.

"Our expedition reached Gebel Barkal from Cairo on January 24, last. We worked there three months employing a force of about 300 local workmen, and left just in time to escape the hot weather. Many people had worked on the pyramids but no one had yet discovered the plan of the structures and no one knew how to get into them. Fortunately at Gebel Barkal there were two completely ruined pyramids of small size which offered the easiest opportunity of solving this mystery. We worked in the case of each a stairway on the eastern side leading down to chambers under the pyramid. With this hint we attacked the larger pyramids and within a month we had found the entrances of 25 pyramids and had cleared the burial chambers of all but one. Repeatedly plundered in ancient days for gold. Nevertheless we gathered a mass of material from the forms were able to reconstruct the forms and characteristic of the period. This reconstructed group pointed clearly to the first century before Christ as the time in which had lived those little kings who had built these monuments, but in view of the scanty material for comparison this conclusion may be a century away from the truth.

"The invaders on to an assault if possible. General Murray decided that he would wait a certain length of time and then force the issue if the Turks had not advanced. It seemed almost like a forlorn hope that the Turks, with their astute German leadership, would be led to an attack on the Roman position, for the whole country in this section is covered with great steep dunes, some of which cannot be climbed in places because of the sliding sands. All these dunes were well protected by the British. However, as had been hoped, at midnight on August 3, the Turks began the attack which ended in complete disaster for them on August 5.

"Just what persuaded the Turks to try to take this apparently impenetrable position is a matter of considerable speculation. Some express the opinion that they were misled as to the nature of the battle-ground. Others think they misjudged the British strength and hoped, despite the difficulties presented, to take the position and establish a base from which they could work against the canal. However that may be, they were cleverly drawn into the sand dune trap.

"They fought bravely and their artillery shooting was very accurate and effective in places, but no body of attacking troops could hope to fight their way through these dunes opposed by artillery, machine guns, cavalry and entrenched infantry. The Turks entered from the lack of water since they had to advance from their base laden as lightly as possible. Both sides undoubtedly underwent almost the limit of human endurance from the great heat. The climax of the battle was the charge of the Anzac light horse who arrayed themselves on a ridge some two miles and a half in length and harried themselves down upon the Turks who were straggling forward in the sandy trap, and were defenceless against the terrible onslaught.

The general opinion is that the Turks must have proven their own satisfaction that while they might bring troops across the desert, yet they could hope for no success during the hot season unless they had communication railways established behind them. For this reason, it is believed, that they will not venture to attack again in force during the summer.

A Turkish prisoner of war, a major who was captured at Romani, gave the correspondent an explanation of the Turkish expedition. The major declared that it was merely a reconnaissance force sent out to pave the way for a real advance which would take place shortly. The 14,000 men were to size up the British strength and make preparations along the way for the bigger army which was to follow. But his somewhat startling assertion lost some of its force when a fellow officer sitting beside him made an ineffectual attempt to hide a smile.

PICTURES FROM SECOND WORLD SERIES GAME. Janvrin opened the 9th with a two base hit. Walsh bunted and Janvrin was safe at third on Mowrey's muff of Smith's throw. Turks Made Desperate Efforts in Invading Egypt Constructed Roads Through Which to Drag Their Heavy Artillery, and Braved Inconveniences of Desert, But Their Attempt Was Vain.

Romani, Egypt, Oct. 14.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Unique features of warfare were developed, according to Military men, in the recent battle of Romani, in which the British defeated the Turks, the invaders losing some 9,000 in dead, wounded and prisoners. The Turkish force numbered approximately 14,000 men, as has been told in cable advices. The crossing of the Sinai desert with big guns and other war equipment during the heat of summer was an unprecedented feat. A representative of The Associated Press who was permitted to travel over the entire battle ground after the conflict, had been told previously, by his military authorities that the feat could not be accomplished and that any force sitting along the Suez Canal would be safe from attack throughout the summer. One of the few disidents, however, was Lieutenant-General Sir Archibald Murray, Commander-in-Chief of the British Forces in Egypt. Immediately upon his assumption of command here last January he began to plan for just such an attack.

"The Turkish expedition undoubtedly was engineered by German officers who laid elaborate plans for the advance from the direction of El Arish, a Turkish post on the northern coast, ninety miles from the canal. About half this distance is through the waterless desert and it is through the heat is intolerable. It would be impossible for men to march, for in these sands one sinks to the ankles at every step, and horses are not fitted for work of this kind. The only means of transporting troops and supplies was by camels and this was the method employed. About fourteen thousand of these beasts were used, and were chained through the loose, deep sands. The Turks constructed roads by digging small parallel trenches, and filling these tracks with the scrubby vegetation which represented the only life outside the oases. These wily plants formed a cushion over which sand was thus kept from sinking in some places where the sand was too loose and deep for this track, planks were laid lengthwise under the wheels.

Progress was necessarily slow and long before the Turks reached the watered positions which they took up, some miles in front of Romani, the British were ready and waiting for them. The defenders did not attack, for it was the plan to draw the invaders on to an assault if possible. General Murray decided that he would wait a certain length of time and then force the issue if the Turks had not advanced. It seemed almost like a forlorn hope that the Turks, with their astute German leadership, would be led to an attack on the Roman position, for the whole country in this section is covered with great steep dunes, some of which cannot be climbed in places because of the sliding sands. All these dunes were well protected by the British. However, as had been hoped, at midnight on August 3, the Turks began the attack which ended in complete disaster for them on August 5.

CHARACTER SKETCH OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN LEADER, GENERAL SMUTTS

Man of Immense Capabilities, the Former Boer Leader is a Man of Quiet, Outward Aspect—Cool and Imperturbable at all Times.

(By one who knows him) South Africa he was a figure of execution; to-day he is the hero of every section of the people with the exception of the disgruntled body of Africaner "Sinn Feiners" who gave a blind allegiance to Gen. Hertzog, the Orange Free State reactionary.

For us too, there is certainly cause for pride in a fact that a territory twice the size of Germany has just been added to our imperial possessions by the genius of a colonial soldier statesman who was one of the right-handed men of President Kruger in the stormy days that immediately preceded the South African war and in the war itself proved himself one of the most dashingly and resourceful cavalry leaders on the side of the Dutch Republics.

Since those days "Jannie" Smutts has done great many things in South Africa but mostly he has been overshadowed in the eye of the British public by the more familiar figure of his friend and political chief General Louis Botha. "Chief" however is not the word to describe the relationship in which Botha stands to Smutts. Personally ever since the grant of responsible government to the Transvaal in 1907 I have never been able to look upon the two men as anything but partners. Their political and personal association during all the years since then has been of the closest and most intimate nature.

A Dreamy-Eyed Visionary. Not an easy subject for portraiture is the conqueror of German East Africa. When I knew him first ten years ago, he was a very slender, very fair dreamy-eyed—a visionary of the veldt, who seemed more than a little out of place among his political associates. Even more out of place he seemed however, when as State Attorney to President Kruger he made his appearance in the Volksraad at Pretoria clad in jaunty light gray suit and was promptly sent home to "change" into the black clothes which were obligatory in that solemn assemblage. To-day Smutts has broadened somewhat and looks more like the farmer that he is in the scant time that he can find to spare from his desk in the government buildings at Pretoria and his place in parliament.

Stopped Strike. Save almost depreciating in manner there was never a more conspicuous case of the "iron hand, the velvet glove." How heavy that hand could be was shown at the time of the great general strike in South Africa in January, 1914, which threatened to dislocate the entire industry of the country. Then it was that practically in a single night he revived the old "commando system" of the Boers and froze the threatened revolution gray in the very moment of its birth.

A few days later he took an even bolder step by laying unauthorized hands upon nine leaders of the strike movement and deporting them to England without the formality of any trial, at that time at any rate among the industrial population of Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 14.—Wilde Pratt Plummer, formerly of Texas and Louisiana, is on trial here for the murder near Crippsdale, Alberta, on October 3, 1913, of his neighbor, Peter Findlay. Plummer was brought here from Troy, N.Y. last May by Sergeant Warrior of the Northwest Mounted Police. He waived extradition.

The finding near North Williamsburg, Ont., of the body of an infant with its throat cut has led to the discovery that Mrs. Loucks, wife of a farmer living near Williamsburg, murdered her child while temporarily insane.

EVERYBODY NEEDS PURE, RICH BLOOD. Pure blood enables the stomach, liver and other digestive organs to do their work properly. Without it they are sluggish, there is loss of appetite, sometimes faintness, a deranged state of the intestines, and, in general, all the symptoms of dyspepsia. Pure blood is required by every organ of the body for the proper performance of its functions. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood, and this is why it is so successful in the treatment of so many diseases and ailments. Its acts directly on the blood, ridding it of scumful and other humors. It is a peculiar combination of blood-purifying, nerve-toning, strength-giving substances. Get it today.

SISTERS THREE

"So mother, you are expecting the little Amazon, and you wish me to make myself scarce?"

"Yes, my boy, that was the pact. 'The little Amazon,' as you call her; does not appear anxious for any fresh encounter with the hero of the wolf episode, of which, I think she has heard something too much."

"I quite agree. I am sick of the whole thing. I would have liked to pitch the editor of the local paper over the cliff by the scruff of his neck—and I told him so!"

Mrs. Lebreton's delicate lips quivered slightly.

"That is the way you make friends of the townfolk, my son!" she said. He looked at her and suddenly laughed. Few persons besides his mother ever saw Gaston laugh, and therefore they were not aware how his face changed and lighted up when he did so. The gloom and somber gravity fell away, and there was a recrudescence of boyish gaiety and buoyancy that was extremely attractive. Whenever his mother saw the return of this one familiar look her heart contracted with a pang. And today the thought came to her with more definite meaning—"Oh for some one who could bring back my boy's youth, which he lost two years ago!"

"I do mean that, my son; and I hope that you will one day find a woman whom you will love as your father loved me."

"Then you had better let me take you away, mother. Let us begin life anew in some quite different place. There is no sort of chance of our ever taking our place among the people here!"

"And yet, Gaston, you love your home."

At those words he almost winced. He had been born and bred here, and like so many sons of the cliffs and sea and moor, he had struck deep roots into his native soil. He loved the place; every tree and rock was dear to him. Through his travels he had always thought longingly of the place that was his home. He had come back to it eagerly, yet only to find estrangement and coldness as his portion. He understood it, yet rebelled; and his rebellion had manifested itself in a demeanor which had done much to widen breaches in every link of the old block—his father's son in every respect. He had been too proud and too much hurt to try in any way to modify this verdict, and gradually he and his mother alike had found themselves alienated from former friends—and left in a very complete isolation.

Gaston chose for the most part to ignore this—to take a gloomy pride in it, and speak with contempt of those who had once been on friendly terms with them. Yet, all the same it cut; and he passed through moments of keen revolt when the temptation to shake off the dust of England from his feet and make a home in some bigger, more primitive place was very strong. He was bitterly angry that his mother should suffer for his father's harshness and ill-judged acts, yet he himself was following far more in his father's than his mother's footsteps—making foes instead of friends—and he knew it, yet could not "change his spots," as he sometimes half laughingly, half bitterly told his mother.

"Of course I should hate to go," he answered; "but if it were best for you—"

"Nay, nay, my boy, that is not the point. My life has been lived; yours is before you yet. It is what is best for you that matters. And if you, my dear son, could be happy here in your own place, that is what would be best for me—to see you taking the position which is rightly yours and which other Lebretons have held here before you."

"Till my father flung it all away by—"

"Your father is dead, Gaston. We will not speak of his mistakes, although we know him to have made many."

"Which we suffer for still."

"I do not suppose I shall ever marry, if that is what you mean."

"I do mean that, my son; and I hope that you will one day find a woman whom you will love as your father loved me."

"Then you had better let me take you away, mother. Let us begin life anew in some quite different place. There is no sort of chance of our ever taking our place among the people here!"

HEALTHIEST ONE IN THE FAMILY

No Sign Of Dropsy And Kidney Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

HATTIE WARREN
Port Robinson, Ont., July 8th, 1915.

"We have used 'Fruit-a-tives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Hattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The Doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally, we decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' She began to show improvement after we had given her a few tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-tives' and would never be without them."

They looked at each other fixedly, and Gaston's face suddenly softened. He put his hands upon his mother's shoulders and looked down into her eyes.

"If there was another later edition of you in the world, madame, I would go a-wooing to-morrow! And then he bent his head and kissed her on the lips.

Take Four Story whatever "Keep your eyes open, my boy, and perhaps you will find her yet!" Mrs. Lebreton's face looked almost young at that moment. The love of her tall strong son was very sweet to her. "I fear not, mother mine. The world does not turn out that sort now—only little Amazons like the one I must make myself scarce for now. Well, she's a plucky little girl—no one knows that better than I—but that's not the kind of woman for me. We should come to desperate longers before we had got through the honeymoon."

"You would find kindred tastes."

"Too many. Husbands and wives ought to be contrasts, not rivals. Fancy marrying a girl who breaks horses and rides cross-saddle as well as I do, and shoots like a man, and defies one to one's face the first time of it."

"And incidentally saves your life."

"Quite true; I shan't ever forget that. I'm one of Miss Gillian Vere's warm admirers—that goes without saying. But we were talking just then of wives."

"On be off with my boy, and go a-wooing where you will! But I am expecting a guest who wants to meet you as little as you want to meet her. So that all works in together, and you must not intrude upon us."

"No fear!" answered Gaston as he strode away, holding high his handsome head. His mother looked after him with a smile on her delicate lips and an enigmatic expression in her dark, luminous eyes; and as she sat musing in the silence of the summer afternoon she softly breathed half aloud the words—

"I wonder—I wonder!"

Gipsy looked very bright and plump as she was shown into the shadowy room where Madame Lebreton awaited her. It seemed as if some of the gold of the outside sunshine had cmeshed itself in her hair and shone in the golden-brown eyes. There was a rose flush on her cheek, and the clearness by the white-plexion was enhanced by the brightness of her dress. She came forward, holding her dainty head rather high, and her eyes swept round the room in a fashion that reminded Madame of a battlesome young horse's terrors.

"I am all alone, my dear," she said; "I have forgotten the terms of our pact."

Gipsy laughed, and the flush deepened.

"You see too much," she said, and she returned the kiss imprinted on her lips. And then the tea came and they talked on a while, each, as it were, taking the measure of the other, while Gipsy's eager eyes roved round the room admiring its furnishings, pictures, and fine proportions, and took

SHIPS RELEASED
By Courier Leased Wire.
London, Oct. 14.—The Russian Government has released twenty-one Swedish vessels which have been held in Russian harbors, according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The release of the ships is the result of negotiations which have been in progress between the two governments for the last two years.

The death occurred at Manchester, in his 63rd year, of John Angell, the founder 60 years ago of Salford Working men's College, and headmaster of the Manchester Mechanics' Institute.

RIPPLING RHYMES

GHOSTS.

Often when I cannot sleep, in my dark and quiet room, ugly phantoms round me creep, grinning at me in the gloom. Oh! they come in grisly bands, to my sorrow and my shame, beckoning with fleshless hands, clanking chains and breathing flame. Many sinful things I've done, in the days that are gone by; that advantage might be won, I have sprung the vicious lie. Adding to this wad of mine, I've been tricky, mean and low, and I skinned a learned divine in a horse trade long ago. In my scheming for the khalé, at no trifles would I stop; when I had some spuds for sale, all the biggest were on top. I've committed many crimes; I confess it, now I'm gray; I have voted seven times on the same election day. And when sleep from me recedes and I lie in bed awake, ghosts of all these evil deeds come and flit me with an ache. Man of his achievements boasts, of the "killings" he has made; but he can't escape the ghosts—spectres which are never laid.

SOLDIERS INVEST IN WAR LOAN

Such Is Suggestion Strongly Favored by General Joffre.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The French soldiers are urged to invest their superfluous cash in the new French war loan in a general order to the army issued by General Joffre, the order says:

"France for the second time issues a great loan to pay the expenses of the war. Already, thanks to the first few days' subscriptions, its success is assured. Everyone, both in France and abroad, knows that however heavy the charges of the war may be they are not disproportionate to the wealth of France, which will be increased by the advantage and credit resulting from a glorious peace.

"It is a sacred duty, not less imperative than military duty itself, for every Frenchman to subscribe to this loan. Soldiers who do not spare their energies and give their lives, should avoid useless expenditure and buy rentes with their superfluous cash. The more money France has the more ammunition she can expend in her struggle for her true wealth—and hastening the approach of victory."

Corporation Counsel Harry J. Dingsman, of Detroit, declares that the blame for the grade crossing tragedy at Forest avenue and Dequindre street rests with the Grand Trunk railroad, with the D. U. R. also at fault, through its conductor. Carranza's chief of staff says that an agreement must be signed with withdrawal of American troops from Mexico before any other questions can be considered by the Mexican members of the international commission.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Spurred by reports from many cities that various municipal chambers of commerce approve the "daylight saving" plan, the turn the clock forward committee, composed of a number of leading New York businessmen announced to-day its purpose to campaign actively for adoption of the plan by congress to become effective in the summer of 1917. Advice received by the committee show, it was stated, that civic organizations in Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, New York and Rochester generally approve the plan and a referendum vote is to be taken soon by the United States chamber of commerce comprising hundreds of chambers throughout the country.

Toronto is suffering from an automobile-stealing epidemic, no less than sixteen thefts of motor cars having come to the attention of the police during the past few days. Twelve cars were stolen on Saturday and four on Sunday.

Receiver For Land Holdings

By Courier Leased Wire.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 14.—Receiver for the Southern Pacific Company's extensive California oil lands holdings in the San Joaquin valley estimated to be worth approximately one billion dollars, will be asked by federal agents in the United States district court in a few days, according to statements made here to-day by persons in close touch with the progress of the government's suit to recover the railroad company's holdings. The matter of a receivership is expected to come before Judge Eidesoe in the form of a motion and it is said that his decision will be based on an exhaustive report on the company's property by J. H. G. Wolff, expert of the bureau of mines on special duty with the department of justice.

The government will argue for the receivership, it was said, on the ground that it can keep exact account of the output and can conserve the property of which it claims ownership only by means of a receivership.

requested the management of the Alexandra Players, as a personal favor to him, to play Brantford for one week, and reproduce, at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents, some of their big successes. They had played at the Royal Alexandra, where the admission was 75 cents and $1.00.

Louise Huff has been practicing before the mirror at home to ascertain the most effective manner of wearing pigtails. The dainty little star is going to play Jane in the Famous Players adaptation of "Seventeen," in which she will co-star with Jack Pickford, and she is determined that this delightful little character is going to be one of her very best performances on the screen.

The "treaks" have departed from the Famous Players studio. Which means that Ann Pennington has completed the circus portions of "The Rainbow Princess," in which she is starring under the direction of J. Searle Dawley. Out of the building they trooped, the Fat Woman leading the Midget by the hand; Slat, the human spaghetti, strolling along with the "smallest lad-ee in the world"; the Giant Cowboy slouching along in the rear with the clown waddling along at his side.

"It looks like a hard winter," boomed the Fat Woman, in her triple bass voice. "Wonder if there is anything doing in the South."

Nobody seemed to know, and they rumbled, toddled, strode, minced, slouched and waddled along to await the next call of Opportunity.

Ann Pennington is four feet eight inches short. With her hair down her back, she looks about two feet tall. One of those jovial, expansive old gentlemen whose beaming smile embraces all humanity, was an interested spectator at the Famous Players studio while she was working in a picture. As she stood near him watching for a cue, he patted her on the shoulder and rumbled good-naturedly:

"Well, little maid, are you going to spend all your life in the movies?"

"Not the first twenty years," replied Miss Pennington, as she walked over to her scene.

Notes of the Movies

If you have a legal turn of mind, crack this nut, John Bowers and Lotie Pickford were married the other day by a bona fide priest. They had a wife and a husband, respectively, before this ceremony, but they have the whole movie world as the witnesses of the latter marriage because it was performed in the Famous Players-Paramount picture, "The Reward of Patience," which is being shown all over the country at the present time. Now the question is, are they married to each other and have they committed celluloid bigamy by being wedded by this real priest?

"You'll have to look as French as possible, Owen," remarked Director Del Henderson, as he finished reading the script for the Famous Players-Paramount picture "The Kiss," in which Owen Moore and Marguerite Courtot are to co-star. "Oh, that's easy," replied Moore, and proceeded to grin with that engaging smile which only an Irishman can muster.

Every day seems to bring new complications in the way of motion production. Not so very long ago the producer painted furniture on a back-drop and never thought of having a three-sided room for a setting. To-day he builds remarkably substantial backgrounds. For one scene in "The Rainbow Princess" in which Ann Pennington is to star, Director J. Searle Dawley had a set constructed which showed two rooms, a complete grand staircase, with the second and mezzanine floors. The camera was placed on the mezzanine floor and focused through the opening of the grand staircase into the great library beyond, making an extremely effective setting.

COMING TO THE BRANT IN "STRONGER LOVE."

BREAKS WORLD'S GOWN WEARING RECORD

In "The Quest of Life," in which Maurice and Florence Walton are making their motion picture debut at the Famous Players studio, Miss Walton breaks all motion picture records by wearing twenty-five different gowns. Numerous other stars have, from time to time, worn a number of dresses in the same production, but no such display of the modiste's art has ever been assembled in a single production as in this.

There is one dress in which Miss Walton appears for exactly two scenes which cost over five hundred dollars. There is another one which merely flashes on the screen that cost nearly seven hundred dollars. There are others that are equally costly but are not permitted to grace the screen for more than a brief flit. Miss Walton has not had time to make an accurate estimate of the total value of the wardrobe which she will display, but there is little doubt that it is the most costly that has ever been worn by a single star in any picture.

According to Miss Walton's maid, the stars has cost nearly two weeks of the six which were required for the picture in changing her costumes. According to Ashley Miller, who is directing the picture and has therefore waited for Miss Walton to make these changes, the maid's estimate is very conservative. Some of these gowns have been worn on the stage and in Europe, but a number of them have never been worn in public and are making their professional debut in "The Quest of Life."

Help to Make Her Dream Come True

The agony of blood and tears which swept over Belgium has left nearly two millions of its people absolutely without food or money. Because they scorned to sell their national honor—because they dared to fight for the right, against odds that were overwhelming—because by their sacrifice they saved the day for us and our Allies—they are face to face with grim starvation.

The wives, mothers and children of King Albert's gallant soldiers, dream not of pleasures and luxuries, but of BREAD! They are helpless to provide it themselves—and the Belgian Relief Commission, efficient though it is, can only procure it for them with cash supplied by the voluntary contributions of people like ourselves. The is provided almost entirely by the British Empire and the United States, and administered by a neutral "Commission for Relief in Belgium", co-operating with the "Belgian Public Food Supply Society".

This Commission has for months been the sole means of providing food for the Belgian people—for the Germans positively refuse to feed their victims. Some 5,000,000 are still able to pay for the food, while nearly 2,000,000, absolutely destitute, must be fed free.

For money to buy food for these Belgians, the Commission appeals to us all. If we do not furnish it—if we sit back in plenty and let our heroic Allies seal their sacrifice with their lives—we shall be eternally disgraced!

Patrons of the Brant have been loud in their praise of the excellent attractions offered this week, and will be glad to hear that the management are sparing no pains or expense to keep up this high standard of features throughout the season. Extra musicians are being added to the orchestra, Mr. Moule having been to Toronto, Hamilton and London, as well as being in touch with other leading musical circles to get the class of artists that will complete one of the best orchestras in Western Ontario. A gold fibre screen, to assure perfect projection, is being installed at a heavy expense, and a great improvement in clearness and detail of the new excellent photo play bill will be the result.

Among the many special features offered for the coming week are Quintano's Concert Band, one of the finest musical organizations in vaudeville. The ever popular team, Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid, in the 5 act Paramount success "The House of Golden Candles"; Charlie Chaplin in the screening comedy success "One A.M." in this picture the famous comedian is to be seen all alone, and the excellence of his work is well shown; and the 13th episode of "Who's Gilty?"—the series classic. Each of the above attractions are special features, and seldom will more than one of this class be seen on the same bill, but the Brant are offering this complete feature program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

For the last half of the week, Marion Kealakai's Hawaiian Troupe featuring "Princess Hluweki," and without doubt the finest Hawaiian troupe before the public, will be presented along with other stellar attractions.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions, and are responsible for the readiness with which many people contract disease.

For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. Get Hood's. No other medicine acts like it.

The Woman Traveller the Vogue in England

Occupation Suits Many, Who Intend to Continue It After the War—Handicapped by Heavy Samples.

The woman commercial traveller is steadily making her way into the profession in Great Britain. She is to be seen up and down the country doing business quietly and efficiently, and in many cases making it evident that she can hold her own with the best of business men.

The secretary of the United Kingdom Commercial Travellers' Association informed a representative of the London Times that there had been women members before the war, but they were very few and were mainly travellers in women's goods and lighter merchandise, such as sheet music. "Under present conditions," he said, "many of them are doing their husband's journeys, and are in the road with heavier goods. We have cases of women replacing men who travel in groceries and in directories. In the majority of cases the difficulty women find is carrying heavy samples, and in dealing with the men who push along the samples in their burrows.

"It is probable that when their husbands and male relatives come back most of the women will return to the fireside and leave the road in heavy goods to the men. Some of them, of course, will have found their vocation through the war and will keep on. They are most useful at present in dealing with goods which do not require technical knowledge for discussing them and which can be bought by weight. We have no available figures of the women who have come on the road since the war, nor do we know at what rate they are being paid, though we hope that it is the same as that which was given to the men."

Before the war, says the Times, there was a certain feeling of resentment among the men who travelled in drapery goods at the ease with which the women succeeded in reaching the buyers. There was nothing to distinguish them from customers, as they were usually smartly dressed, walked in at the front entrance of big shops and went straight to the buyer, whereas the men arriving with their bags were directed to the trade entrance where their goods could only be shown at fixed hours.

Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious, or feverish children a whole Cascares any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

A topic that is of interest to almost everyone. It is engaging the attention of Government officials, Boards of Trade, Societies and Economists. It is a broad question, and one to which it is very difficult to find a satisfactory answer. The fact remains, however, that while prices are high generally, money is for the most part more plentiful, thus keeping an even balance between out go and income.

While the present conditions exist, it is decidedly to the interest of the buying public to take advantage of every opportunity to save on its day to day requirements.

The firm of E. B. Crompton and Co., Limited, anticipating a year or more ago, heavy advances and scarcity of merchandise, bought, and also contracted for large quantities of staple goods at old prices. Advance they buy now—although at first they intended to postpone.

POLICE CAPT. MUST APOLOGIZE

For Rebuff Offered Montreal Alderman in Riot There.

By Courier Leased Wire.
Montreal, Oct. 14.—Mayor Martin came out with a statement yesterday morning that Captain Dice, who commanded the police in the Laval student fracas on October 4, must either apologize to Ald. Duhon, whom he told to "mind his own business," when the alderman tried to calm the police, or leave the force. The mayor contends that someone has told Capt. Dice to refuse to apologize to the alderman. His worship made his announcement at a Board of Control meeting yesterday morning, when Commissioner Ross, head of the police department, presented a report on the Laval incident, and the alderman's claim that he was insulted by the police. Capt. Dice resigned from the police force at the time, but withdrew his resignation.

which have come their way, and the result is that while Merchants have advanced prices on numerous lines, they have so far as possible maintained the old low standard, and will continue to do so, while present stocks last. This means that the purchaser can buy from this firm, and effect many very marked savings. In to-day's issue their announcement of how you can help to reduce the high cost of living, is well worth careful perusal.

The family conclude decided that after seeing the quality and prices for rugs, carpets and linoleums at Crompton's "High Cost of Living" didn't cut any figure there, so they'd buy now—although at first they intended to postpone.

NEWS FROM PARIS

Representative Meeting Regarding Red Cross Appeal.

Paris, Oct. 13.—(From our own correspondent.)—It was a large and representative gathering that responded to the call of Mayor J. A. Patterson, last night in the Council chamber, to discuss ways and means for the raising of money in response to the appeal of the British Red Cross Society. Among those present were Messrs. T. Bonnar, M. Heddie, J. Inkster, C. Dear, A. Emmer, A. S. Lovett, T. Mauer, S. T. Davidson, M. Felker, also the Misses Martin, James, Pitts, O'Brien. Messrs. Snook, Harold, Stewart, Murray, T. Evans, McCausland, Bonnar, Heddie, Hicks, Reider, Featherstone, J. Inkster, Rev. Adamson and Langton.

In addition to the appeal for the British Red Cross Society, Mayor Patterson read one, asking aid towards the support of wounded sailors of the British Navy, and Mercantile Marine, as also the widows and children of the men who had given their lives in the defence of the Empire.

It was stated that the Municipality had voted to grant a certain sum to meet such appeals as above asked for, and to issue debentures for the same. After some discussion it was moved by James R. Inkster and seconded by Henry Reider that the Council be asked to grant the sum of $5,000 towards the above, to the British Red Cross Fund and $2,000 to the fund for sailors of the British Navy and Mercantile Marines, said debentures to be extended over a period of five years.

Wheeled Stretchers—Official Film, "Battle of the Somme."

THE British Red Cross again appeals to the generous heart of Ontario for funds to carry on the splendid work of caring for our sick and wounded defenders on every front. It is the deep concern of British subjects everywhere to aid and hearten the workers in their splendid, self-imposed duties. All can help—will YOU?

By proclamation of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario Thursday, October 19th, "OUR DAY" is set aside as a day of giving to

The British Red Cross

Here is a call to touch Men's hearts, and Women's, too. Give generously, that the cry of your anguished defenders may not go unheeded.

The British Red Cross maintains hundreds of hospitals in Great Britain and on every battle-front. It provides and runs hundreds of motor ambulances, steamships, motor launches, rest stations and convalescent homes. In France, Flanders, Italy, Salonika, Mesopotamia, Armenia, Galicia, Russia, East Africa, Egypt, Arabia its blood-red emblem of healing is known and blessed.

Give through the Treasurer of your Local Committee, or send your subscription to the Clerk of your municipality, or make it payable to Hon. T. W. McGarry, Treasurer British Red Cross Fund for Ontario, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Do it on "OUR DAY," October 19th, or sooner.

These Suffering Ones Need YOUR Help

A Wounded Comrade—Official Film, "Battle of the Somme."

Why Should You Give to the British Red Cross?

- BECAUSE your gift may save some gallant life.
- BECAUSE without Red Cross work thousands of soldiers and sailors would die.
- BECAUSE trained men are vitally necessary to the Empire's safety, and their lives must be saved.
- BECAUSE your own friend, son, brother, husband may be the next to call for Red Cross aid.
- BECAUSE you may not be able to fight, but you CAN heal with your gift.
- BECAUSE the British Red Cross is the greatest physical agency for good in the world, and the most efficient.
- BECAUSE your money does more good in the hands of the British Red Cross than spent in any other way.
- BECAUSE the Motherland's only direct appeal to us Canadians is for assistance in the great mercy work.
- BECAUSE Ontario's shining gift of $1,514,000 last year should be an inspiration to us now.
- BECAUSE the number of sick and wounded is ever increasing as the price of victory.
- BECAUSE if you do not give you will have missed a great opportunity for doing good—"the Angel of Mercy will move on, abashed, from your doorway."

TRAIN COLLIDED WITH TROLLEY
One Dead, and Several Are Injured as a Result.

By Courier Leased Wire.
Troy, N.Y., Oct. 14.—One man was instantly killed, another crushed so severely that he may die, and five other men were injured when a Delaware and Hudson train struck a United Traction Company trolley car on a crossing in Green Islands opposite here early to-day. Hector Gippeau, son of the comptroller of the city of Cohoes, was the man killed. The accident was caused by slippery rails, the motorman being unable to prevent the car going onto the railroad crossing.

NOTES OF THE MOVIES
Blanche Sweet and her company who are producing "The Tides of Barnegat" under the direction of Marshall Neilman, a forthcoming Lasky-Paramount picture, are now at Balboa Beach, California, getting some water stuff.
Sessue Hayakawa, Japanese star, and Myrtle Stedman, are nearing the completion of the Lasky-Paramount production of "The Girl of Karu" under the direction of Edward J. Le Saint. The scenes of this photodrama that were laid in Japan were made by members of Hayakawa's Japanese stock company which will soon open its winter engagement at this playhouse in Los Angeles.
Anyone wishing to receive a substantial reward can do so by applying to Cecil B. De Mille, Lasky Company director-general, with a scheme to keep flies out of sets without injury to the sets or disturbing the actors. All the flies in the studio seem to be attracted to his particular production and every known device has been employed to remove them, but to no avail.
The Lasky Company has now a full fledged company of Coast Artillery Federal Reserve, in command of Captain Harry Light. The organization was effected by Theodore Duncan, former Captain of the Volunteers and H. T. Woodward, former Captain of the Philippine Constabulary. The Company is eighty strong, and will at once begin their studies under the direction of one of the officers in the big fort of San Pedro.

Swift and Company have concluded the most prosperous year in its history. Gross sales crossed the $600,000,000 mark a gain of more than 20 per cent over the previous year and 100 per cent over gross sales of 1912. The 1916 statement will show at least $25 a share in profits.

A PAGE OF INTERESTING NEWS FOR "MY LADY"

LADY'S DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.

Great diversity in styles of one piece dresses has increased the demand for them, and it is due to the perfection of the designers' handwork that this will be the biggest season ever for one piece frocks.

In the illustration we show a garment made in one of the best of the fall styles. Because fashion favors the scheme the fronts of the plain blouse are gathered, and joined to a French yoke of the material. The collar, which overlays and almost covers the yoke, is formed of contrasting goods. The white collar on a plain frock is so effective that women seem loath to give it up. The sleeve is worthy of remark, very full, banded at the wrist and finished with a ruffle that falls over the hand.

The cord shirring at the top of a two gore and gathered skirt give the effect of the new twice around girdle where the waist is joined. The width of the lower edge of the skirt in size 24 is 3 yards. Foulard silk, figured voile, gabardine and like weaves are suitable for such design, and even though it be your first attempt with a pattern you can count upon success because the instructions make every detail clear as daylight.

The dress pattern, No. 7,997, is cut in sizes 26 to 42 bust measure. To make in size 36 will require 5 to 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch material and 3/4 yard 18 inch goods for the collar.

To obtain the pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

THE TOP COAT AND FROCK

Woman May Change Her Mind Till Spring About the Length of Suit Coat.

Dimensions Are Fixed—Highest and Longest and Fullest Ever.

Perhaps it is because the afternoon dress is lovelier and smarter than ever that the top-coat is so much in evidence, but even aside from this consideration, the uses of a good top-coat are a hundred and one. Wonderful coats they are straight, long and full, with a fullness which comes from a hidden source. They are all made of rich materials, usually materials with a moss-like nap, such as domino glove-skin, duvetyn, and chenille cloth. The fabrics are thick and warm but so light in weight that they cannot do other than fall in graceful folds.

Our Warmest Friend, the Top-coat. Some of these coats have large pockets, others have not, and the matter of fur collar and fur trimmings is left to one's own discretion. But rows of stitching in heavy silk or wool seem to be a form of trimming which has come to stay throughout the season. The new colors are all charming; there are several tones of green, and Bordeaux, beige, blue-gray, and tobacco brown are among the smartest colors.

The linings this season are unusually surprising. There are neutral shades in soft printed and plain silks; other linings are brilliant in coloring and sheen. Some of the more elaborate fur coats and evening wraps are lined with the softest lightest chiffon imaginable, usually in one tone. Other linings are of satin in white, gray or some brighter monotone, veiled with Georgette crepe or cashmere chiffon in delicate tan, gray or brown.

A really smart coat is of beige velveteen cloth, belted back and front with a two-inch belt which disappears at sides under shirred fullest, deep monk collar, turned-back cuffs, and buttons of the material. The lining is of soft silk in the new prunelle shade, printed in a simple design of dull yellow.

Another model owes its smartness partly to the long maven age line of the waist section, partly to the very full and plaited skirt section, and partly to the high collar of fur. The cording around the coat is of the material, as are buttons which run from neck to hem. Glace suede in Bordeaux color could be used to great advantage for this coat, because this soft material would fall gracefully into plaits.

Another model wears its smartness in the form of the long-wearing kilt, or racoon. A lining of plain silk in the new Elsie blue shade would make with the Bordeaux wool a very smart combination for such a formal wrap as this.

Our Most Constant Friend, The Suit. There is no one length which suits coats must be to smart. There are coats to the hip and coats to the knee, and there are practically all lengths between. One tailor remarked, "The high cost of materials,

FALL'S NEWEST EVENING OR DANCING FROCK.

No. 111—Very smart evening or dancing frock made of the new soiree silk, with bouffant skirt, the new crinoline effect. Corded of same material with rosebuds. The bodice of the dress is trimmed with silver spangles, and the sleeves are made of meline edged with narrow velvet ribbon.

SIDE TALKS

A QUEER TRICK

With the exception of very small children, every one in the world knows that he cannot stay in it indefinitely.

But almost no one realizes it. Death, in the abstract, is something with which we are on perfectly familiar terms, but when it comes to death in connection with ourselves, we prefer to regulate it to the dusty, unvisited garrets of the mind. And is it not fortunate that this is so?

We Couldn't Be Happy if We Really Sensed It

How could we be happy if we really sensed the inevitability of death? We couldn't. Doubtless Nature has liberally provided us with this mental astigmatism to keep us busy and happy in our business.

All of which leads up to an astonishing habit, which I have noticed on the part of otherwise loving children, of referring in their parents' presence to the time when their parents will no longer be with them. I'll give you two instances.

"Not While Mother's Living" In the presence of her mother, a very devoted daughter actually said to me, "I'm very fond of traveling and some day I'm going to have my fill of it. But of course I can't do much while mother's living."

Another woman once asked me if I were to inherit a family heirloom of which I have always been very fond. When I told her that the matter had never been mentioned, she said, "I shouldn't think you'd like that. I've made mother promise I should have all the old pieces I'm especially fond of."

There may be some who think I'm unduly finical to depreciate these references, but I think the older people will understand.

It's Easy Enough When You're Young

It is comparatively easy to contemplate death when one is young because it seems so remote, but older people know that while "the young may die, the old must" and they hate anything that brings the thought home to them.

On the other hand, I do think the older folks owe it to the younger generation to anticipate anything like this cold-blooded demand for a division of their goods, by making a will.

A failure to do this often results in family troubles. It isn't always these things that count, but there is the danger that if the matter is left to the heirs to settle among themselves, there may be misunderstanding and a sense of injustice. A will prevents this, and besides gives those to whom you leave your little treasures a warm sense of your love and thought for them.

workmanship, and the scarcity of everything most fashionable has a great deal to do with the coat length." From this can be drawn but one conclusion—that the shorter coat will certainly be worn. A suit that is not too elaborate for general wear and yet is not too severe for a somewhat formal occasion, is made up in velvet or velours de laine in navy blue or brown. The collar, revers, and opening of sleeves are faced with seal, with the buttons also of seal. The skirt has a narrow belt of the material.

Our Dearest Friend, the Frock. When the coat and suit questions have been answered, the smart woman turns to the pleasant task of selecting her afternoon frock. Each is almost more charming than the other. An afternoon frock in castor velvet or satin with Georgette crepe in the same shade, or in black velvet with slate gray chiffon, would be extremely attractive. Beaded motifs on waist, skirt, and cuffs would give the effect of hand embroidery, and they can be purchased separately at almost any shop. The lines of the frock should be straight, and the skirt is shirred under a one-inch belt and is open down the front over a Georgette crepe skirt. It would be individual to line the velvet or satin skirt with a soft printed silk or satin in a contrasting shade, using this same lining as a slip to show through the Georgette crepe. The sleeves of this frock are very unusual, for the top part is of the material so shaped as to make a decided puff at the wrist, while the under part is a straight piece of Georgette crepe which matches that in the skirt.

The McAlpin Tobacco Company's factory, 2 McAlpin avenue, Toronto, was the scene of a bad blaze on Tuesday, which is estimated to have cost about $5,000. About thirty-five hands will be thrown out of employment for some time.

CHIC FALL TAILORED SUIT

No. 104—Original model of novel cut developed in Bolivia cloth, also suitable for broadcloth or wool velour. Jacket is cut on the Russian type with standing collar and the novel raglan sleeve. The jacket is trimmed with squirrel fur. The skirt is on circular type and gathered at the waist band. This model is very suitable for the new pastel colors, also in blue and black.

People More Particular

THE demand for package goods grows greater every year. Why?

Because the world is ever growing more and more particular about foods.

Packages keep the goods in wholesome, sanitary condition. They keep out dust, flies, moisture and odors, preventing deterioration.

They preserve flavor, freshness and strength—insuring value for the money.

Complaints Of Non-Delivery

Under ordinary circumstances the distribution of a Daily Newspaper is a big task, even with an organization trained for the purpose. When great numbers of new subscribers come all together, the difficulties become greater. The rush during the Great Prize Contest now on is an illustration.

At this time it will probably be impossible to avoid all mishaps and mistakes, although every precaution will be taken by the publishers to ensure the delivery of each number of the paper.

The publishers are determined not only to remedy any such mishaps and mistakes, and to reduce them to the lowest degree, but to spare no trouble or expense to prevent them in future.

With this end in view the publishers request subscribers to communicate every complaint regarding late or non-deliveries by letter, card or Phone 139.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

A NEW FRUIT PUNCH

A very pretty fruit punch has for its foundation grape juice. Take a large crockery or enameled ware bowl, or even enameled milk pail, mix the grape juice with one-third water, then add a little lemon, not more than the juice of one lemon to two bottles of grape juice. Put into this any fruits available. Slices of pineapple are good, whole berries look well and oddly enough thin strips of cucumber cut the long way of the vegetables are an improvement. Use sugar to taste. Set the pan away on the ice and just before serving add a couple of bottles of club soda or any plain carbonated water. This gives a sparkle to the punch which is much enjoyed. The use of enameled ware is necessary here to obviate the danger of action of the fruit acid upon metal such as other kitchen wares are made of.

Buttermilk Uses in Cooking. With the increasing use of buttermilk by doctor's orders, there has come back, in some measure, the practice of using it in cooking. This is fortunate for the taste as well as the health. No cakes are more delicate than those prepared with buttermilk. Use one and one half more buttermilk than the meal or flour. Mix thoroughly and when smooth add a salt spoon full of soda or more. A large quantity of cake is to be made. Cakes can be made in this way of grape or white flour, buckwheat or rye meal, and all are delicious. There are just two secrets about the use of buttermilk in making cakes. The first is, always use mixing as the acid of the buttermilk easily affects metal. The second is, be careful only to use just enough soda to offset the acid.

Baked Apple Dumplings. Peel and core as many good cooking apples as dumplings are required. Cook them for a few minutes in a little syrup flavoured with clove or ginger. Have ready some good short pastry. Roll out into squares big enough to wrap round the apples. Lift the apples from the pan, place one in the centre of each square of pastry. Dredge with sugar, dip, and bake in a quick oven for a quarter of an hour. It is not absolutely essential to cook the apples partly before placing them in the pastry, but it ensures their being properly cooked. An apple dumpling with the fruit still raw is not very pleasant, however good may be the pastry.

Too much indigestible food and lack of power to throw off the poisons that come from indigestion—these lead to a long line of distressing disorders. FAIRY HAY

The next time the elf took Jane and her doll, Clarissa, to the doll convention in the fairy forest, Jane met Anna, the German doll, and had a most wonderful experience with a hay-rake.

Now Anna was as quaint a doll as you'd find in a day's journey. Jane liked her at once. Her long, yellow braids hung down from a snowy, perky cap. She wore a blue skirt, a white apron and blouse, a broad black velvet belt with shoulder straps and bright ribbons in her hair. And she carried a wooden hay-rake in her hand.

"What—what do you do with the hay-rake?" asked Jane, her eyes very big and full of questions.

Anna gave her a small candy to eat and at once she was able to repeat her question in German. All the dolls seemed to have with them this sort of fairy candy so they could talk together.

Jane raked and raked. She thought she was raking hay, but when a pile of it lay at her feet it shone like purest silver. Each separate wisp of the fairy hay was silver! There wasn't a doubt of it.

"Anna! Anna!" exclaimed Jane. "I must take a bundle of it home with me. It shines so!"

So together Anna and Jane, the German doll and Jane, the little girl who was having such queer adventures these moonlight nights, bound up a bundle of the silver hay with one of Anna's hair ribbons. Jane put it on her back. But, my dears, she'd scarcely taken a step when from every bush in the fairy forest sprang up strange little bearded men, wood-gnomes, Anna said they must be.

"She's stealing fairy moonbeams!" they cried. "She's stealing fairy moonbeams. She raked them up with a wooden hay-rake and tied them with a hair-ribbon."

It was true. That silver fairy hay was moonbeams. Jane took to her heels. So did Anna. The little bearded men rushed after, yelling wildly. Then all at once Jane knew what she must do if ever she was to get out of that fairy forest in safety. She must loosen the pack of moonbeams from her back. This she did, and the dreadful little men seized the pack and rushed away with it. Jane was glad that night when the elf came with his silver balloon and told her it was time to go home.

EMPLOY RETURNED SOLDIERS ON IMPROVEMENT OF ROADS

Practical Suggestions is Made by Dominion Hospitals Commission at Recent Sessions

The Dominion Hospitals Commission meeting in Toronto recently, under the presidency of Senator Loughheed, adopted important resolutions advocating the building of a national highway by the Federal Government and the promulgation of a comprehensive land settlement policy for returned soldiers. The resolution set forth: That as a considerable number of the men who have enlisted and are at present overseas, or about to proceed thither, are unskilled laborers for whom it may be difficult to provide employment immediately on their return, the commission advocates the building of a national highway by the Federal Government. It would respectfully submit to the government that such an undertaking would be a work of the great value. Among the advantages would be: (1) Temporary employment would be provided for thousands of men who would not otherwise find work. (2) No public work would provide so large an amount of employment at so small a capital outlay. (3) The highway would be of immense value as a means for the transit of agricultural and other produce. (4) It would be the means of attracting numbers of tourists, entailing the spending of money within the borders of Canada. (5) It would solve the problem of demobilization, as it would allow of a gradual disbanding of the troops from coast to coast. (6) It would be a most practical memorial to Canada's part in the great war.

WHO SHOULD TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY

Pedestrian Usually Receives Blame for Auto Accidents.

In connection with the public outcry against the reckless use of motor cars, the following remarks by Mr. A. G. Lupton, President of the Hoosier State Automobile Association, on the subject of accidents are interesting: "A large per cent. of the fatalities in automobile accidents is the fault of pedestrians. It seems that people do not realize that the automobile has revolutionized traffic conditions. Especially in towns and cities pedestrians carelessly or absent-mindedly cross the streets any place, at time, and deliberately step in front of cars. Furthermore, the average pedestrian, it seems, makes no effort to learn what is expected of him in the way of observing traffic regulations which are for his benefit the same as for the motorist. "The number of accidents is increasing each year, for two main reasons—first, the number of automobiles used is steadily increasing; second, the number of irresponsible people driving cars is also increasing. I personally would be in favor of a law making certain requirements of any individual in order to be eligible to drive an automobile; for instance, no child should be allowed to drive an automobile; any person partially incapacitated on account of bad eyes, poor hearing, or loss of limb, should, in many cases, bar that person from the privilege of driving an automobile; also, a drunken man found driving an automobile should forfeit his right to drive a car."

NEW PISTONS ARE OF ALUMINUM

Alloy Used Has Many Advantages Over Iron or Steel.

Much attention is being given to aluminum alloy pistons, says the "Scientific American," and although they have been under investigation for some years, the user generally supposes that their value lies in their light weight. This is not the case, for, as a rule, little is gained in this direction. These alloys are so soft that it is necessary to fit larger wrist pins in order to secure them properly from coming loose, and to put in considerable metal to hold these pins, so that the resulting piston is little lighter than a good steel piston. There is, however, an advantage in using these alloys, for they are approximately three times better conductors of heat than cast iron or steel, and this is an advantage worth having, as the heads keep cooler than cast iron, and less carbon is produced. Also, owing to the metal being softer, there is less liability of such a piston seizing, and little litigation results if it does. They also wear well in a cast iron cylinder.

MUST DIM ALL HEADLIGHTS

Such Is Law Enacted in the State of California Recently.

California has made a law requiring headlights to be permanently dimmed on State or public highways, and prescribes that the centre rays must not strike the ground further than seventy-five feet in front of the automobile. A correspondent of that State tells how he has arranged his lights, as follows: The lower part of the headlight is covered with "lamp frosting" up to the level of the centre of the electric globe, and this cuts out the rays that shine upward, and only permits the free passage of downwardly directed rays from the upper half of the reflector. The lamp must be properly focussed, and the lamp itself is tilted slightly downward if necessary. This arrangement gives the full power of the light on the road, but does not dazzle approaching drivers. This method of dimming is directly contrary to the usual practice, in which the upper half of the lamp glass is frosted, but it obviates excessive tilting of the lamp, and the results are stated to be superior.

revenue from motor car taxes amounted to $8,192,253; in 1914 to $12,381,951, and in 1915 to $14,245,711. Of the revenues from this source available for road work $11,555,459 is under the control of the State Highway Departments and $4,657,929 is under the direction of the local authorities. The enormous increase in motor car traffic is bound to affect favorably the condition of the public roads of the country, as the number of cars and the revenues increase.

OIL NEEDED IN EVERY SECTION

Constant Lubrication Is Necessary for all Motor Cars.

It is by no means unusual to find automobiles that require lubrication in eighty or more different places. says "The Scientific American," and every one of these requires careful attention, some every day, others once a week, while a few points will go six months without renewals; but it is very probable that some owners never discover all the little cups and holes provided for the lubrication of more or less essential parts. In such cases there is bound to be excessive wear on the undiscovered points. One of the most interesting cars seen at the show in New York was a foreign car where simplicity had been carried to most surprising degree; and in it there were but eleven oiling points in the centre motor and chassis, and even these required attention but once in six months. This result was attained by ingenious oil circulating systems, and the providing of capacious reservoirs for the drilling out of various shafts and fittings. Best of all, there appears to be no doubt as to the efficiency of the arrangement.

LARGE INCREASE IN MOTOR TRAFFIC

Number of Cars Owned Has Doubled in Two Years.

There is now one and a fraction motor cars for each mile of rural road in the United States, according to the following from the American Highway Association: In 1905 there were 48,000 motor cars, including commercial vehicles, in the United States, according to the registrations statistics assembled by the Division of Road Economics of the United States Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering; in 1915 there were 2,445,664. This was an increase of 5,000 per cent. Ten years ago of the expenditure on account of the building of rural roads and bridges in the United States less than three-tenths of 1 per cent. was derived from the tax on motor vehicles; last year nearly 7 per cent of the money available for this purpose was derived from this source. In 1913 there were in the United States 1,258,062 motor cars; in 1914, 1,711,333 motor cars, and in 1915, 2,445,664. In 1912 the gross

More Eyes Are Ruined

because the owner fails to obtain Glasses when needed than from any other cause.

If you suspect that you need Glasses at all, you should obtain them immediately. Many cases of defective vision that can be permanently relieved by simple lenses if taken in time, results in serious complications if neglected. You cannot afford to take any chances with your eyes.
