Two Questions

With so many low-priced so-called anti-skids obtainable, would that great host of motorists pay more for Dunlop "Traction" Tread if they could get its merits elsewhere?

Also, would that other large list of car owners buy "SPECIAL" if tires which somewhat resemble it in appearance resembled it in efficiency?

SPECIAL DUNLOP TRACTION

Overland The Thrift Car

It doesn't cost much to drive the Overland Model 60. That's one of the five reasons why the sale of Overlands in Canada doubled last year. The other four reasons are that this light Overland Four has every advantage of appearance, performance, comfort and service. Buy an Overland and speed up. It will help in winning the war.

Our Taxes.

Canadians, who complain as they sit upon their income statements, may congratulate themselves that they do not live in Great Britain. In Canada a married man earning an income of $250 is exempt. In the United States he is liable to pay a tax of $10. In Great Britain the tax on a similar income is $25. On an income of $5000 the married man in both Canada and the United States pays a tax of $80. The Englishman pays $265 on such an income. On an income of $2500 the married man in Great Britain pays $125. And the comparison runs about the same as the scale of income increases. The Canadian taxation is the lightest that of the United States is a trifle higher, and that of Great Britain is indeed the 'pluch of war.'

Our Gardens.

Backyard patriots of Wolfville are already getting in it. Some are beginning on the back yard plot to prepare it for the vegetable garden. Not many have a garden spot dry enough to work on yet, but seeds are being planted inside and other preparations made for the planting season. From all sections of the country comes the cry for greater production of home food. The citizens of this town are evidently going to do their part in responding to the call. The country is relying more and more on its back yard gardens to meet the threatened food shortage. The vegetable garden soared to an exalted pinnacle of importance last year and is going still further this year. It is the nation depends for that variety in diet which is the goal of every efficient housekeeper per se and which the picnic of meat, fish, eggs and vegetables render it most difficult to maintain. By filling the personal need of the family the home garden releases a generous amount of food for European markets.

The only solution to the problem of feeding ourselves and helping to feed our Allies is increased production, and to make this possible the home gardeners will enter the season of 1918 with far greater responsibility than that of last year.

In Ireland Too!

Irish Homeated: We a nation of agriculturists, are governed by a nation of shopkeepers and that is the recent origin of the many muds which are being perpetrated from day to day. Wherever we go, we meet the exhortation 'grow more food,' 'now more grain,' 'plant more potatoes' or some such jargon, but every law which is made and every order which is issued ignores the fact that the farmers and laborers are the food producers, and all laws and orders are concerned chiefly with upholding the 'nation of shopkeepers' in perpetuity. The chief aim of those in control is to pay the farmer for his produce and the laborer for his toil the lowest possible amount which these food producers will accept, and at the same time to extort the last penny out of the pockets of the consumer of food, leaving a huge middle slice of profit, with all the unkept of the vampire class—the middlemen—who make up the nation of shopkeepers.

Specific for Bronchitis.

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Bypox Linseed and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of the unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from turpentine and spruce gum, and is combined with other valuable ingredients as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Corn Now Moving in the Dominion.

The Canadian Food Board has announced that owing to improvement of transportation situation, corn is now moving into the Dominion and will be available in larger quantities than during the recent months, both for human consumption and for feed for live stock. Persons who wish to import corn either for food or milling purposes, should make application to the Canadian Food Board for an import permit.

Back Yards and Vacant Lots.

Now is the time for organization. There will be a greater need for production in cities, towns and villages this summer than ever before. Plan what you will do with the back yard or vacant lot now, so that when the season begins in a few weeks hence, you will know what to do and will lose no precious time about it, once the planting season starts with a rush. There is no shortage of vegetable seeds except perhaps. Wholesale dealers have plenty of seeds in stock. A handful in hand is worth two that are beyond control.

Good Digestion.

DEPEND UPON KEEPING THE BLOOD RICH, RED AND PURE. It is not what you eat, but what you digest that is a priceless secret. Good digestion is not a matter of chance. It is a habit that can be formed. If you are not satisfied with your digestion, do not despair. You can improve it by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is a tonic for the stomach that gives it the power to assimilate and digest food, and as the blood goes to every part of the body and improvement in its condition not only results in strengthening the stomach but every organ in the body. Rich red blood is absolutely necessary to good digestion. If your stomach is weak and you are troubled with sourness in the throat, a feeling of pressure about the heart, or nausea after eating, try the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So many dyspepsias have been cured by this medicine that every sufferer from stomach trouble should try it. You will soon know the joy of good digestion and enjoy better health in other ways if you give this medicine a fair trial. Mr. Fred J. Kendall, Darlin Ave., Toronto, says:—For upwards of five years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which gradually undermined my general health, leaving me in a weak, nervous condition. I spent considerable money with one doctor and another, but failed to receive any lasting benefit, and had become quite discouraged. One day my wife urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills but I thought it would be the same old story. But she had so much faith in them that she gave me a box, and to please her I began taking them. By the time the box was finished I noticed a slight improvement, and I continued taking them and soon found myself gaining. I could sleep better and my appetite improved, without the distressing symptoms that had previously followed eating. I think I took in all about a dozen boxes, and to day I am a stronger man than I ever was in my life. When I began the use of the pills I weighed 145 pounds while now I weigh 167. You may use this letter as evidence, if you wish, in any newspaper, if you so desire.

Weight Half a Ton.

When Thomas Wood, said to be the heaviest man in Minnesota, appeared for physical examination for the draft, it was found that the Government scales could not operate when loaded with his huge physique. He was taken to the city weighmaster and on the left ton scales his weight was recorded at 503 pounds. The 176 men in the lot were not lacking in patriotism. Four times he had tried to enlist, but all ways he had been rejected because of excessive weight, although otherwise in perfect health. Wood is 23 years old, and single. He measures 5 feet 8 1/2 inches in height and 60 inches across the chest. He has an expansion of 12 inches, and according to an examining officer is a perfect '75'.

Slippery Nights With Eczema.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker St., Halifax, N. S., states:—After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this great ointment I obtained relief and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure.

His 'Bit.'

A tall, lean recruit had just joined up in England. A sergeant and lieutenant were discussing him. 'It's a thin as a raccoon and he don't even look strong enough to 'rip in the store,' complained the sergeant. 'He will do to clean the rifles,' answered the lieutenant. 'And 'lo's agoin' to pull 'im through' wailed the sergeant in a defiant manner. 'Ifs often but a single step from the divorce court to the stage.'

Gentle Jobs.

Gossips are superintendents in trouble factories. Intellectual improvement is apt to warp a woman's shape. A man's idea of harmony is to have everything his own way. Speaking of home rule, what's the matter with the first lady? When you bury an old animosity never unaid the grave-stone. When a toper sees things double his glasses are a little bit too strong. This world would be a gloomy place for cats if women could purr. In matrimony one and one make one, but in divorce one from one leaves two. Girls should never flirt in public until after they have a strong hold on the art. How thoroughly a pretty woman does 'lope to walk down the street with a 'lovely' as!

Example in Economy.

Discs at the Y. W. C. in England, are reminded by a printed notice that food left on their plates cannot be used for fresh dishes. There is an empty plate on each table and they are requested to put aside on it, before eating, a portion of any helping that may be too large for them. 'It is a matter in which there is no room for false pride or elegant dalliance,' says the British Ministry of Food.

Reasons Why We Will Willow Bank Cemetery.

Have Increased Production in N. S. Here are a few of the reasons Principal Canning of the Agricultural College, gives for his belief that there will be increased production in Nova Scotia: 1. One hundred and fifty-two new plows have been purchased under the provincial government's plan of a 25 per cent. bonus on all such plows purchased before May 1st. During the next ten days it is expected that the number will exceed two hundred. 2. Fourteen Ford tractors are already on the way to Nova Scotia and these have all been purchased to go on Nova Scotia farms. Other farmers are considering securing the tractors which they will get at $751 f. o. b. Detroit, duty free. These are from the 1000 bought by the Canada Food Board. 3. Already fifteen hundred extra tons of fertilizer have been distributed in Canada to men who are reselling it to the farmers and large agricultural orders are coming in. This is in addition to the regular trade. 4. The seed supply in Nova Scotia is sufficient to meet all requirements. Prices are high, but not as high as they would have been but not early precautions been taken to secure the quantities needed.

List of owners of Willow Bank Cemetery who have paid previous to May 1st to the Cemetery account their accounts 'till up to the end of 1918.

Too Little Exercise

THE necessity of using medicine to regulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels is largely due to the changed conditions of life during recent years. Our fathers lived a life of activity in the open air. If they ate heartily they had sufficient exercise to keep the liver and bowels active and to thereby remove the poisonous waste from the body. Today we get too little exercise and too little fresh air. The food we eat is more concentrated and artificial. The result is much discomfort and the development of serious disease from constipation of the bowels and torpid condition of the liver. Kidney disease, rheumatism, lumbago, backache—all have their beginning in the inactivity of the liver and bowels. The great secret of keeping in health is to look to the regularity of these filtering and eliminating organs, and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is the most satisfactory medicine obtainable for this purpose. If you read the reports appearing in this paper, from time to time, from persons who have used this treatment with good results, you will find that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are effective where ordinary medicines fail. This success is due to their combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose at bedtime as often as is necessary to keep the bowels in healthful action, will also ensure the regularity of the liver and kidneys and thereby keep the blood pure and the system free from the accumulating poisons which cause disease and suffering.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 10, 1918

Germany's treatment of the Russians appears to be breeding trouble to Germany now and developing resentments that will be long remembered.

The fact that three months of government control of American railroads has produced a deficit of more than one hundred million dollars is neither an argument against public ownership of public utilities nor an argument in favor of private ownership.

Dr. J. W. Robertson, Chairman of the Advisory Council, Canada Food Board:—'Unless we can get more food now, we shall go under, and 1,000,000 people will starve. This is my conviction, and I know as much about the situation, perhaps, as anyone.'

A Fine Parade.

Wolfville was the scene of a very spectacular Y. M. C. A. demonstration on Tuesday evening. The parade, organized by the 'Give Service Girls,' included over sixty girls and as many Boy Scouts.

A Great Lone Land.

The biggest and most lonely land on the globe is Siberia. Anyone who would set about its conquest by invasion would find the task a herculean one, for it contains nearly five million square miles, and is about forty-five times as big as the British Isles.

Conserve Your Health. CANADA needs her men in field and factory. No one can afford to be too sick to work.

Dr. Wilson's HERBINE BITTERS. It is probably well within the truth to state that our European Allies are, for the current year, over 100,000,000 bushels short of their absolute needs.

What the World's Authorities say as to Threatening Famine.

Lord Rhonda, Food Controller for Great Britain:—'The Allied larder is dangerously empty, but we are carrying on in a resolute belief that we can rely on the people of North America to prevent our food supplies from becoming so diminished as to imperil the issue for which we are all fighting.'

The British Ministry of Food:—'War is making bare the world's cupboards; the granaries are being emptied; the flocks thinned, the herds butchered, the mines scamped. War is making everything dear except human life.'

Teething Troubles.

Baby's teething time is a time of worry and anxiety to most mothers. The little one becomes cross, peevish; his little stomach becomes deranged and constipation and colic sets in. To make the teething period easy on baby the stomach and bowels must be kept sweet and regular.

Spraying.

Unless many kinds of both useful and ornamental plants are protected from injurious insects and fungous diseases by spraying, the loss in fruit and vegetable crops may be very great, and, in the case of ornamental plants which would otherwise have attractive foliage and bloom, they may be rendered very unsightly.

Food Control Administration in France:—The supply of breadstuffs is very short. The consumption of meat has been restricted to within the limits of the greatly depleted stocks.

Dr. K. Doherty, Commissioner for Canada of the International Institute:—'It is probably well within the truth to state that our European Allies are, for the current year, over 100,000,000 bushels short of their absolute needs.'

At an early hour on Sunday morning at last week the barn of Mr. Henry Rogers with all its contents was destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to have been accidentally set by some one sleeping in the barn. Mr. Rogers' loss is quite a heavy one as the barn contained hay, harness and other articles and the insurance was small.

Another fire occurred on Monday evening when the dwelling on Centre avenue owned by Mr. Ernest Eagles and occupied by Mr. Alex. Becker, was badly damaged. The alarm was given about 7 o'clock. The house was occupied at the time. Mrs. Becker and child were being visited at the former's old home, and Mr. Becker had driven to Grand Falls after getting his tea. The fire was discovered in the room and evidently had its origin from the gas. Most of Mr. Becker's furniture was rescued, but a considerable quantity belonging to Mr. Oscar Whitman and stored in the house, and on which there was no insurance, was destroyed. The upper part of the house was very badly burned before the firemen got it under control. Other buildings in the vicinity were in danger but were saved.

The Y. M. C. A. Campaign.

The Campaign for the Military Y. M. C. A. Fund carried on in Wolfville has been the most notable and successful ever undertaken. Wolfville has more than sustained her reputation as one of the most generous and public spirited communities in the province. While all the returns are not yet received it is confidently expected that $3000 will be raised within the town limits, that is, that our allotment is doubled. The county has already exceeded $8000 when $6,500 was asked for. Kentville will reach and exceed its allotment, and when all reports are in the county will approximate $9000.

The Give Service Girls too have our special gratitude for their splendid work at the Party Sale and for their services as waitresses at the supper. The Sec'y read an interesting letter from L. E. Miller, a former Acadian boy, now on active service, acknowledging the receipt of 12 pairs of socks and 9 of mitts, sent by the Chapter. There followed a discussion of the Rummage Sale to be held at an early date. Six new names were received for membership in the Chapter.

CAPTAIN CRAWLEY WEDS MISS TUCKER OF HAMILTON

A military wedding of more than ordinary interest took place at the Bermuda Cathedral on Saturday afternoon when Captain Hugh A. Crawley, 8th Battalion Nova Scotia Highlanders, was married to Catherine St. George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Tucker of this city. The ceremony took place at five o'clock in the afternoon and was performed by the Rev. Henry Marriott, Canon of the Cathedral. The sacred edifice was filled almost to its capacity, and the interior was appropriately decorated with flowers and ferns. The service was choral throughout, and a special item was a solo, 'O Perfect Love,' by Master Wil. Lamb. The organist, Mr. A. M. Purcell, rendered the preliminary music, while the church was filling. The bride entered the church by the west door leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's 'Bridal Chorus.' Robed in white liberty silk, she looked very charming and her appearance was further enhanced by a beautiful bouquet of white roses which she carried. Miss Jane Tucker, her sister, accompanied the bride, attractively gowned in pale blue silk and chiffon trimmed with pink rosettes, which was perfectly matched by a shower bouquet of pink roses and asparagus fern. The bridegroom was attended by Lieut. Manning, Northamptonshire Regiment, as best man, and Messrs. Sydney Nelmes, H. S. George Butterfield, Thomas Tucker, and Captain C. Pitt were the ushers.

In keeping with the times a reception was held only for the relatives of the happy couple at the home of the bride.

Captain Crawley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crawley, of Wolfville, N. S. He is a nephew of Mrs. H. A. Pitt, and met his bride during his brief stay at his aunt's residence. He has seen much active service and was wounded in the famous capture by counterforce of the Vimy Ridge, a year ago. Lieut. Manning is also fresh from active service and has been wounded.

The young couple sailed for C. de da this week by the north board steamer, where they will carry with them the heartiest wishes of the community for a happy future, and a long life in which to enjoy it.

[The above from the Bermuda Colonist and Daily News, of April 30th, will be read with interest. Capt. Crawley and his bride returned to Wolfville this week and are receiving congratulations of a host of friends with whom THE ACADIAN brevity forbids.]

Why He Became an Abstinence.

Dean Pajaro, one of the best-known clergymen in the Church of England, thus tells why he became a total abstinence:

"About ten years or more ago I became a total abstinence because I was easily convinced that the use of alcohol was not a necessity, and a great deal turns upon that. I saw, for instance, that whole nations had not only lived without, but had flourished without it. I saw the remarkable fact that there were some twenty thousand persons in England who, through many of them had made themselves mere funnels for drink, though many of them had been accustomed to drink from their childhood, though most of them had been brought to prison either directly or indirectly through drink, yet the very day they entered the gates of a prison all drink was entirely taken from them, and yet there was not a single instance on record in which any of them had suffered in consequence. On the contrary men who had aered prisons sickly and blighted have been made sober by act of parliament, and after a few months left prison hale and strong and hearty; and women who have been put into prison perfectly horrible and hideous in their loathsomeness and degradation, after a short period of deprivation from the source of ruin, left prison with the bloom of health and almost of beauty. All these proofs and many others convinced me very speedily that it was not necessary for me to continue to touch any form of alcohol. Thus the great philanthropist and politician, wise Benjamin Franklin who said these words: 'Temperance puts wood on the fire, meat in the barrel, flour in the tub, money in the purse, contentment in the house, and clothes on the children.' Well, then, coming to these conclusions, believing that total abstinence would tend to simplicity of life, to health, to strength of body, to clearness of mind, to length of days, I then saw that for me, at any rate, it became a desirable thing to give up alcohol altogether, and I did so, for these reasons with perfect gladness, and without ever being suffered in consequence of the fact so much as even a single day. Selected.

Some men's littleness is by far the biggest part of it.

We ourselves, of course, possess the virtue that our neighbors lack.

The Manure Value of Clover.

(EXPERIMENTAL FARMS NOTE)

The amount of semi-decomposed vegetable matter or humus present in our cultivated soils—sandy and clay loams—bears an intimate relation to their productive capacity.

Humus not only fulfils the mechanical function of rendering soils porous and more retentive of moisture, but furnishes also the essential medium for the activities of the bacteria which liberates plant food in the soil. Furthermore, humus constitutes the chief natural source of the soil's nitrogen supply.

Applications of barley manure may be considered the chief means employed in the maintenance of humus in the soil. Supplementary means are the growing and ploughing in of a green cover-crop such as rye, buckwheat, rape, vetches or clover. Of these, clover, where conditions are conducive to its satisfactory growth—is in general preferred.

By means of its deeply ramifying roots, clover disintegrates and carries the lower soil layers, bringing up therefrom plant food supplies unavailable by other more shallow rooted crops.

An additional advantage which clover, in common with all members of the legume family, possesses is that of its ability to assimilate the free nitrogen of the soil atmosphere by means of minute bacterial organisms living and operating in small tubules on its roots. Thus clover gathers the greater part of its nitrogen from the air, and its phosphoric acid, potash and lime largely from soil depths beyond the reach of the roots of ordinary crops, consequently enriching the surface soil with these constituents for the benefit of succeeding crops.

How does clover compare with manure as a fertilizer? Barley manure of good average quality contains approximately 10 pounds nitrogen, 5 pounds phosphoric acid and 10 pounds potash per ton. Therefore to tons of barley manure would furnish about 100 pounds nitrogen, 50 pounds phosphoric acid and 100 pounds potash.

Experiments conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa have shown that a vigorous crop of clover will contain, at a moderate estimate, in its foliage and roots, from 10 to 150 pounds nitrogen, 3 to 45 pounds phosphoric acid and 185 to 115 pounds potash per acre.

A good crop of clover from one acre if it were turned under, say, in the fall, would furnish, in fertilizing value, to an application of ten tons of barley manure.

In the experiments referred to 10 pounds per acre of common red clover was sowed down with various grain crops, while adjoining plots were seeded with grain alone. In no instance did the growth of clover depress the yield of grain with which it was sowed.

In the following year, 1000 cwt. (Leaming) produced 8 tons, 48c pounds more, after wheat with clover than after wheat without clover. After barley and oats, increases of 11 tons, 1280 pounds and 3 tons, 1440 pounds respectively, of corn, per acre, were obtained on the clover plots.

With potatoes the results were equally striking. After wheat, barley and oats with clover the increases were, respectively, 43 bushels, 20 pounds; 29 bushels, 40 pounds and 24 bushels of potatoes, per acre, as compared with the yields from adjoining plots without clover.

The tub benefits from clover will as a rule be noticeably persistent for several years.

On soils which are deficient in lime a satisfactory growth of clover will be encouraged by an application of say two tons of ground limestone per acre. As a phosphatic fertilizer, designed to benefit both the grain and the clover, 300 pounds of superphosphate or 300 pounds of basic slag, per acre, may be recommended. Unleached wood ashes contain, on an average, from 4 to 6 per cent of potash, about 2 per cent of phosphoric acid and from 20 to 30 per cent of lime. They are eminently suitable as a fertilizer for clover and, when procurable at a reasonable price, should be applied at the rate of from 25 to 40 bushels (1000 to 1600 pounds) per acre.

Insult to Injury

A Western business man, who always insisted on meeting men personally before employing them, summoned a recently employed worker to his office.

"When I hired you last week," he said, "did you tell me the whole truth about yourself?"

"Why, yes. What do you mean by the whole truth?"

"Well, I have a letter about you. I will take your word if you tell me it is false. The letter is anonymous."

"Wh—wh—what does it say about me?"

"Don't be scared. It doesn't accuse you of any kind of crime. It merely says you are a reformed drunkard."

"That, sir, is a malicious lie, made out of spite."

"That's all I wanted to hear you say. Don't worry about it."

"And as the new employe went forth in the pride of his virtue, he said to himself, 'The ideal! And I never thought of reforming.'"

Looking at It Legally

By C. B. Lewis

Should you imagine that Miss Florence Gale, eighteen years old, was the first girl that ever fell in love with a dancing master because he was a dancing master, then you are mistaken. They have been doing it ever since there was a dancing master to fall in love with.

Miss Florence was the daughter of a merchant, and ranked well up in the social circles of her town. There had been a private dancing class made up of half a dozen girls and young men, and Professor Paul Revillon had been engaged as director at a high hour.

Mind you, he had not been hired, but "engaged." He was not a teacher, but a "director." He wasn't a salary, like a bookkeeper, but on a honorarium. If you please, his name was not Jim Scott, nor Joe Saunders, but Paul Revillon.

And the professor was nice—very nice. He was nice all over, like a rare, ripe peach. It was noticed even before the first dance was held that he had white teeth and long eyelashes.

The six young men who were to pay their money for learning the art of dancing looked the professor over, and each and every one determined to kill him as soon as the term of lessons was finished.

The six young women cast sheep's eyes at him and mentally vowed to fall in love almost at once. It is to the credit of the sex that they kept their word. Yes, within a fortnight it was apparent to themselves and others that they were learning to love as well as to dance. The young men read the signs aright and greeted their teachers. They could not do "spat" with the foolish damsels, but they couldn't kill the professor until they had had the worth of their money.

So far so good. A very serious flirtation every girl went into. Each one had reasons to believe that she was the chosen one. Each one under the impulse of romance and girlish silliness, wrote a little pink or violet note, and they were repiled to with an outpouring of the heart. The little notes and replies were pretty much alike, but it happened that Miss Florence was more industrious than the others. She wrote two notes to the other.

It therefore logically followed that when the end of the term drew near and Professor Revillon was ready for business, he possessed a packet of pink notes signed "Florence" that numbered way up above the half-century mark. It did his heart good as he counted the number written to him by the other maidens.

One day Miss Florence Gale received a note from the professor that set her heart to throbbing as it had not done yet. Some friend in human form had broken open his trunk at his boarding-house, and among other things there was a letter from her. The thief had had the audacity to write that he had had, and that he would return them for $200, and not a cent less. If the professor refused to give the money the letters were to be offered to Mr. Gale at the same price. Mr. Gale was a stern parent.

It was most unfortunate that the professor didn't happen to have $200 in his vest pocket. He could never forgive himself for his carelessness. What would "Dear Florence" do about it? Would she raise the cash or would she let the professor have the money? She would be granted three days' grace, and then she was to meet the dancing master at a certain spot at a certain hour and let him know her decision.

"Believe me, my dear one," he wound up with, "I am thinking of suicide as I pen this. If I am not almost sure that you could get the money of your father I should say farewell to my kind love notes. The thief had had the audacity to write that he had had, and that he would return them for $200, and not a cent less. Would she raise the cash or would she let the professor have the money? She would be granted three days' grace, and then she was to meet the dancing master at a certain spot at a certain hour and let him know her decision.

"Believe me, my dear one," he wound up with, "I am thinking of suicide as I pen this. If I am not almost sure that you could get the money of your father I should say farewell to my kind love notes. The thief had had the audacity to write that he had had, and that he would return them for $200, and not a cent less. If the professor refused to give the money the letters were to be offered to Mr. Gale at the same price. Mr. Gale was a stern parent.

It was most unfortunate that the professor didn't happen to have $200 in his vest pocket. He could never forgive himself for his carelessness. What would "Dear Florence" do about it? "I don't believe he was robbed at all!"

If she didn't, then what conclusion must she arrive at? No need of spending much time over the question. Love and romance had been scared away, and common sense had taken their place.

Why, he wants to hold those letters over me to extort money!" was her exclamation.

If there had been no robbery—if the professor had the letters—if he meant extortion, then he had a great advantage and meant to use it. What could be done to stop him?

Beverly Dare was a young man of twenty-five, who had graduated as a lawyer and hung out his shingle in the town. Up to date he had had but few clients and counted no profit. He was spoken of as a nice young man who would make his way, but was not much given to society. Miss Florence Gale had never met him to be introduced. But she went to him for help.

"I want legal advice," she quietly explained.

"Please state your case."

She had been a silly girl. She had been more than that, and as she usually had found herself at the mercy of a blackmailer. She told all there was to it, and then handed over the professor's letter.

"Do you want advice as to whether you shall pay the $200 or not?" he was asked when the letter had been read.

"I couldn't pay it if I wanted to, and I don't want to," she replied.

"Looking at it legally, Professor Revillon can be arrested and punished for extortion."

"And I can be held up to ridicule and scandal," she replied.

"Well, your letters would have to be read in court."

"Never!"

"And if it is legally again, Miss Gale, I might try to scare the fellow into giving up your letters. Not too much give up, but just enough."

"I want something worse than a scolding."

"I'll fall to get your idea."

"I want to meet him. I want to be firmly satisfied that he is what I believe him to be. Then I want you to come with me, and we will take the letters away."

The lawyer turned away to smile, and then turned back to say:

"I can assault and batter a man in the interest of a client."

"Then why not look at it some other way?" she asked.

"As Mr. Beverly Dare."

"I'm! I think I could do that. I cannot cite a precedent, but we can make one."

"I'll give you details that were not strictly according to Blackstone, and that might Miss Florence didn't suffer for the money."

"For the love of Heaven, have you got the money?" she asked.

"Yes—yes!"

"Professor, I cannot get the money!"

"What! But you must! Think what it means to you!"

"But you have the letters and can hand them to me right here."

"But my honor is pledged."

"To a robber!"

"See how you silly kitten, it's $200 for this package or I raise a scandal!"

Miss Florence turned her back on the scoundrel just as something lit on his bosom. He rolled him to the ground and dived and dived with him. It pushed him and it slugged him. It applied epithets to him, and then applied the belt.

It was months and months later when Mr. Beverly Dare said to Miss Florence Gale:

"Looking at it legally, my dear child, I ought to be married on Thanksgiving."

And he also won that case.

To Give and Take.

Very often one's efforts and good intentions are not appreciated, but even so we should not lose faith in those around us. The human heart craves company and a few good friends are golden treasures, especially if the woman alone, or getting along in years, but she must respect their rights and privileges. Says the New York Evening Telegram: "She should not make herself unobtrusive or over-familiar to those nearest and dearest to us, so demonstrate the irritation they feel if we infringe upon their interests or good nature."

Keep at a safe distance the woman who does not see lots of redeeming features in others. Over-familiar persons bore their closest friends, and tactless people are the very ones who declare that all humankind is heartless.

Red and Black Hair.

In Eastern countries red hair and warts are in the same category; but coming west as far as Constantinople, where red hair is very uncommon, we find that just as greater esteem is given to make it red than to let it be a traveler. In England, "Titton red" as it is called, is greatly admired.

Yes, in Africa a crop of the blackest, curliest, closest hair imaginable makes a girl the belle of the kran, especially if she be plump, with piggy eyes, thick lips, a nose like an Indian, and a skin that shines like a cooling stove.
