JOS. E. COLLINS, EDITOR.
FREDERICTON, NOV. 19, 1878.

A Prediction.

What we to-day venture to predict, is a railroad inside three years, across the Island of Newfoundland. This project has been long spoken of in the circles of Canadian and home capitalists, but it has never assumed any practical form, nor upon these capitalists now do we rely for the building of the road. It will come from another quarter: that same broad statesmanlike mind that, moulded the fragments of the British North American possessions into form—into one whole, united by common ties and common sympathies,—speaking the same language, and acknowledging one common ancestry—he it is upon whom we rely for the building of the road.

This announcement immediately gives complexion to our politics, both as a citizen of the great Dominion, and as a native of Newfoundland. We have not yet, it is true, had the experience of many politicians wearing gray beards, who look upon the proposed Union as a blasting spectre to the interests of Newfoundland; yet we lay claim to having had some experience. Before leaving our native country, now four years ago, we looked upon confederation as a threatened curse, upon its promoters as enemies to the country. We have changed our mind: travel and residence in many parts of the Dominion, have shown us that to Newfoundland confederation would mean a blessing. How, we intend to show in subsequent articles.

Then it is through such a project as confederation, that we shall see the railroad built. Unaided, the colonial government can never do it; their $20,000—we believe that is the sum,—granted as a subsidy per annum, will not induce companies to build certain lengths of the road. Four years ago, some thirty or forty thousand dollars—we speak again from memory,—were spent on a survey by Sandford Fleming, and nothing since has been done. The line is there, the trees yet rear their lofty heads in primitive quiet, the rivers with their swarms of salmon flow on through millions of acres of country fresh from nature's hand. Thousands of square miles of land give forth its unsown crop, and naught stirs in that wide and fertile region between St. George's Bay and St. John's, but towns of beaver with their old fashioned manses, otter mink and muskrats playing in their swampy homes, and stately deer that roam the wide forest and the open plain. And so this will remain for all time while the local government has to depend upon its own aid. By confederation the road can alone be built, and this scheme could we but read the secrets of Sir John's mind we should find written there.

The railroad will be 280 miles long and will extend from St. John's the capital, to St. George's Bay. Of the fertility and feasibility of this route, locally considered, we shall speak in another issue. Nor shall we here answer the silly objections of "railroad accidents," "thick fogs" &c., urged by Mr. Chas. Fox Bennett and other prominent opposition men of the Island, against the road.

But beside the local advantages its general feature possesses merits transcending any other line in the Dominion. It will form the wanting link in the great high-road of commerce between the Old and New World. Some hundreds of miles will be saved, and a more speedy and equally as safe transit will be ensured. By steamers from Queenstown, Ireland, freight and passengers will be conveyed to St. John's, which would then be the Dominion Depot, thence by rail across the island in nine or ten hours. St. George's Bay would be the terminus, and thence a line of steamers would ply across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Pasbebiac Bay, to which port, a branch of railway would be built, connecting with the Intercolonial. Thus the communication would be established, making in all, the time between the Old and New World as follows: From Pasbebiac Bay and St. George's Bay, by steamer 24 hours, from St. George's Bay to St. John's in 10 hours, from St. John's to Queenstown, six days, making in all, seven days and a half. We shall return to this subject.

Extermination of Kings.

Society is in a bad state. From Spain in the west to the icy bounds of the Russians territory in the east, the corruption every now and then comes to the surface. Germany is the nursery, and the evil plant fostered is Socialism. It is whispered in the ear of the peasant and grows among the masses. The feeling spreads, then intensifies, and it arms the assassin. Hoedel and Nobelling are its foremost apostles, and they strike at the prime root of the state. Against the life of the Emperor their hand is raised. Then a calm falls over the social sea, and easy "is the head that wears a crown." But what do we again hear. With the electric flash news reach us from Spain. The socialistic monster has risen there and aimed a blow at the young King's life. He is defeated and handed over to the authorities. We then take breath for, think we, in history before we read no such stories as these; security to the crowned head must now follow. But scarce have we begun to breathe the air of security when we pale as we read that too in Italy the poison seeds have borne fruit. Only yesterday was the King of Italy while surrounded by his courtiers and subjects, attacked by a wretch who endeavored to stab him. Courage nerves the royal arm and he strikes at and defends himself against his would-be assassin.

Nor is this all. In Russia socialists organize with all the dread characteristics of the "sworn twelve" with all the secrecy of Freemasons. For many years, the Czar has at night seen daggers behind his couch, at day a sword more dread than Damocles, hangs over his head. Let us look nearer home. In the fair America, "the land of the free and the home of the brave," Ben. Butler heads his "working-men" only another name for socialists. Kearney the vulgar fanatic lectures an excited mob from the platform, and tells them he will "capture the fort." Both he and Butler would bring capital, gagged and bound before labor. The people saw through them, and they were rejected. Socialism is an evil wide spread: Demagoguism and Fanaticism are its parents, Unreason is its tutor,—Misery, Rapine, Plunder and Murder are its offspring. The wisdom and staid principles of society alone can crush it out.

The Ameer and the War.

It would now seem indeed as if the "purple testament of bleeding war" were about being opened in Afghanistan. On the morning of the 20th the British troops march for the land of the Ameer. Long and wearisome must that march be, fraught with dangers, if not from untrained Afghans at least from the natural obstacles to be met in the way. The passage of the troops will be through the Khyber Pass, the only route through the mountains to Jellalabad and other strong holds of the Ameer. The mountains through which the pass runs are 15,000 feet high, and inaccessible. The width of the pass varies from two hundred and ninety to forty feet. Till beyond Ali Musjid, a distance of two miles and a half, the pass retains an almost impassable character; but then it enters Lala Beg Valley, about six miles in length. Then again it pierces the very bowels of the mountains, and down through its echoing depths the sunlight scarcely struggles. Two camels abreast can here with difficulty get past. Then the way leads over the rugged sides of an almost inaccessible mountain, and called the Lundi Khana.

Over this route guns could with great difficulty be dragged, but if we contemplate Napoleon dragging his cannon over the icy and rugged Alps we cannot think the task an impossible one here for the English. It is important to be on friendly relations with the tribes holding these passes. By-the-by they are a kind of sovereign princes not acknowledging even the Ameer's claims to their concession or friendship. At present it is thought they will join hands against the English whom they regard as a common enemy of their country.

These are some of the difficulties the English army will have to meet.

Mr. Juglin Confesses

The Freeman is not blind in its error nor unrepentant. It insinuated that we "lightly" made heavy charges against a certain dead and buried politician of York, but finding our charges borne out by outside proof it hastens to make amends. Thus it speaks:—
"We never had a high opinion of Dr. Dow, but we were surprised and shocked when the Fredericton Star stated that he had withdrawn the petition against the election of Mr. Fraser and Mr. Colter for a price, and we protested against such a charge being made against a public man unless it were accompanied by proof. Indeed we thought it incredible that any man who had represented one of the counties of this Province for so many years could be guilty of an act so disgraceful. On the lastings on Saturday last, however, Mr. Blair, one of the gentlemen who resigned after the general election, and who were again candidates, repeated this charge most circumstantially. "It was stated that Dr. Dow received $500 from Mr. Colter. According to the newspaper reports Mr. Colter stated this, and Dr. Dow admitted that he did receive the money. He made any exculpatory explanation we have not seen it. The Dr. paid the electors of York the extraordinary compliment of seeking their suffrages after all these statements were made."

All of which goes to show that what even great minds often think "incredible" may, nevertheless, be true. Mr. Juglin thought the poor wretch incapable of such degradation, but we knew him to be guilty of it.

The Dumb Speakeh.

The tongue of the Telegraph has at last been loosed, and it has spoken. But alas, what a change! Its utterances are no more that of the government oracle, but of one who is "almost-persuaded" to join a new sect. Mr. Elder has for reasons, which we believe the STAR has already set forth, turned his back upon the Government and stepped in with the opposition. Nor can we blame Mr. Elder for this. To the Telegraph in a great measure is the present government indebted for an existence: When bitter days and "evil tongues" fell upon the party, there was always consolation to be found under the Telegraph's wing, and for all this he has been slighted. Mr. Elder inadvertently lets drop the reason why he does not see perfection in the Frazer-Landry government. He says they have made it a point—
"To bestow special marks of favor on the constituencies which went most directly into opposition to them,—the most remarkable illustration of this fact being the County of Westmoreland."

In other words, he charges them with ingratitude; the very thing we laid to their account some days ago. And not the least of this "ingratitude" must Mr. Elder feel—that part toward himself. Yet it will be difficult for him to find fault with such a course, having endorsed so freely as he did the "reconstruction" some months ago.

A monster with a lion's head has been seen in the Ottawa river of late. Would that be an aid-camp to the "Lions" soon to be at the Dominion capital?

The Americans, it is said, have decided to pay the award to save their national honor. The Times says if they don't England will no go to war about it.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

KATE'S oysters are A 1. Hon. Mr. Langevin will take the seat of McDougall, Three Rivers.

A dance to-night in Temperance Hall. A slight coat of ice on the river this morning.

Skating on the Nashwaak. What about the rink? Steamers, woodboats and schooners plying on the river have betaken themselves to St. John.

A New York firm is about erecting a silk factory at St. Catharines, Ont., to employ 500 hands.

The Duke of Edinburgh left Gibraltar on the first instant, and will meet the "Saxanian" at Halifax.

The recent inundations of the Nile destroyed 250 human beings and $2,500,000 in property.

MAILS.—The next English Mails land at Halifax, thence taken to other parts of the Dominion via Intercolonial.

MR. ESA JOHNSON has opened a variety and grocery store on the corner of Queen and Westmoreland streets.

The horse Frank Allison, of Truro, won the sweepstakes race for $150 at Boston, last week; time 2.26, 2.28, 2.29.

FORBIDDEN.—The liquor sellers, by order of Police Magistrate Marsh, have been forbidden to sell liquor to George J. Gaunter.

The liquor seized in Aitken's Store will be sold at auction to-day. No doubt many, in anticipation of the coming drought, will invest.

Yellow Fever has thus far carried off fifty-six clergymen. Twenty-four were Roman Catholics, thirty-one Protestants, and one a Jewish rabbi.

DRAWING ROOM.—Low-necked dresses and short sleeves are prescribed for ladies at the drawing room reception to be held by the Princess Louise.

THERE are fewer blind people in Switzerland, in proportion to population, than in any other European country, and more deaf-mutes, idiots and lunatics.

NEWS comes from Winnipeg that the Rev. Mr. Skinner, a missionary of the Methodist Church of Canada, was accidentally killed by his gun on the journey between Carleton and Fort Pitt.

CIVIC ELECTIONS.—There is likely to be little or no stir in the coming City Election. From present appearances the Mayor's seat will not be contested. The aldermen will have to fight for it.

In another column see Mr. T. G. O'Connor's advertisement. Having read that you will be satisfied that what ever you want in the dry goods line will be found there. And you will not be disappointed.

THE DUNKIN ACT.—The temperance people of Prince Edward held a meeting at Pictou to-day to consider the working of the Dunkin Act. They have about arrived at the conclusion that it is a failure.—Daily Ontario.

As the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise are not to visit St. John it is the Mayor's intention to proceed, along with several members of the Common Council, to Halifax, and present to the Vice-Royal party an address from the city of St. John.

In the wide range of journalism through New Brunswick, from the Star down, not one voice is raised for the buried wretch who sold his honor and his manhood. The Telegraph yesterday cuts the very flesh from his bones. This is cruel.

ENTERPRISE.—Mr. John Mackey has entered into partnership with Mr. Rogers of Quebec. They intend starting a nursery of apple and pear trees in the land owned by Mr. Mackey a mile above Fredericton. Next spring Mr. Rogers will put out 20,000 root grafts. We want more such citizens as Mr. Mackey.

Yarmouth has been excited over the kidnapping of a boy of 10 from the house of his adopted father, a few nights ago, by three persons who chained him in the woods. The boy succeeded in releasing himself only after enduring the hardships and the severity of the weather for several days.

The Morning Star, tri-weekly and weekly, Fredericton, N. B., Joseph E. Collins, editor. This is one of the newest lights in the journalistic firmament. It contains eight columns, is well printed and ably edited; of good and original make-up, supplied with spicy local items and judicious selections, and it only seems to want a little more careful proof-reading to send the STAR away up into the milky way of newspaperdom.—Eastern Chronicle.

Ten and a half tons—or about 7,500—of locusts were destroyed at Ajmere, India, in one day, not long ago. The young ones were doing immense damage when the officers of a regiment stationed there got out fatigue parties of men, dug several trenches to leeward of the pests, and sent speys to wave branches and drive the locusts in. As soon as one trench was well packed earth was thrown in, and the mass of hopping creatures, now yet ready to fly, was driven into the next. In two hours 300 feet of a trench a foot wide had been filled to a depth of a foot. A finger-bowl dipped into the trench and struck off with a card contained 566 locusts, and from a unit of weight and number thus obtained the calculation was made.

Police Court Doings.

11 A. M., YESTERDAY.

John Talbert answered to his name. He is a son of Africa and was charged with the ungalant crime of assaulting a lady with a dark skin. Emma then deposed to the facts and John acknowledged. He then stood erect, directed the spots of his eyes towards the judge drew one long deep sigh of compunction—probably—and without giving the court the slightest intimation of the fact flopped on his knees before his Dalceina, seized her by the hands and asked forgiveness. It was a touching scene, for she laid her hand on his woolly crown and absolved,—blessed him and let him go. The magistrate was satisfied. Blessed is the peace maker.

There were other cases too. Joseph Arnold for being drunk and disorderly, was fined $5. James Gloss (colored) charged with assault; discharged. Some other cases were also promptly disposed of.

SERGEANT WOODWARD IN DANGER.—The Sergt. was in the act of laying his hands on an escaped prisoner yesterday, when the latter suddenly raised an axe and rushed through the door. This young man should quietly give himself up.

Declaration Day.

Yesterday afternoon Sheriff Temple held his court and declared Messrs. Blair and Thompson elected. Scarcely two dozen electors were present. Mr. Blair returned thanks for his handsome majority. He thought he was the "best elected member" of the Assembly. He was very much surprised at the large vote polled when so many throughout the county were unaware that there would be an election until the day came.

Mr. Thompson was gratified at the result but not surprised. He said that Mr. Hansen, encouraged with the substantial (?) support given him, intended contesting the county again at the earliest opportunity. He thanked York County for the confidence expressed in him and would try to prove himself worthy of it.

Mr. Hansen and the other minor-candidates did not put in an appearance. Mr. Blair moved a vote of thanks to Sheriff Temple for the worthy manner in which he had discharged his duties in connection with the election, and this closed the dulllest election that ever was held in York County. Appended is the vote—comment is unnecessary:—

OFFICIAL RETURN YORK COUNTY ELECTION. Table with columns: DISTRICT, Who vote cast, Blair, Thompson, Hansen.

Mr. Blair will take his seat with the full consciousness that he has been elected by the honest unbiassed vote of the yeomanry of his native county. We predict for him an honorable and useful career, and expect to see him take a leading position in the ranks of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition. Mr. Thompson, too, we have no doubt, will make an excellent member. In him one of our most important industries will be represented.

The Late Disaster.

To the Editor of the Star. Sir,—Your readers are, perhaps, aware by this time of the dreadful accident that happened on the N. B. Railroad, and of course words and sighs of regret will be emitted by everyone possessed of a heart, who learns the particulars. Not wishing to derogate anything of any one of the unfortunate victims of the disaster, I should like to call your attention to the heroic death of your little Beaty—the newsboy. Hence more goes to show that under a ragged cap at may palpitate a noble heart, and that true honor does not consist in fine clothing sneering language and positions acquired through anything but merit. According to the statement of one of the surviving sufferers, made to the reporter of the St. John Daily News, a child, who was no other than poor little Beaty, who had, after the car had caught fire, succeeded to keep the flames from reaching him, when a little boy who had managed to keep clear of the flames long after the clothing of many of the other passengers had caught fire several times, in the anxiety for the safety of some of his friends, rushed into the flames and was so badly burned that he only lived a short time. Now let it be known that poor Beaty had among his fellow victims a friend that was nearer to him than you and I are to the swells that parade the streets of large cities. Remember the car by rolling down the embankment had caused some persons to be badly hurt and disabled, and, unfortunately, that were not able to relieve themselves from their perilous position in the flames, were the friends of Beaty, for whose safety he was anxious. We can do no more for Beaty, who went to receive his reward from a merciful God for his heroic act of charity and self-sacrifice; but let us reflect and remember that honor and true nobility does not know distinction of rank, and could be more frequently perhaps found in humble or low positions if we only wish to appreciate them, as they truly existed in that blessed little news-boy. May these few lines prove a balm of consolation to the afflicted hearts of the parents, and may the lesson of poor Beaty's example not be lost on those who read it. Requisite in pace. Thanking you for your kindness in granting me so much space, I remain yours truly, OBSERVER.

Bad Books.

In a late article on Degrading Literature, we referred to the influence of novels, locally considered, upon the young people of Fredericton. To-day we return to the general topic with no word of apology to our readers. We had rather say that the revival of the subject is a joy to us. It partakes of the gleefulness of the game chase, notwithstanding that the prey is a mean one; for, mean as it is, it is significant by the viciousness, and might reasonably excite the soberist of mankind to its extermination. The hunted, we need not say, is that impious and devastating malefactor known as "the bad author." That his fame and his works, that is his crimes, are commensurate,—we leave it to the past history of centuries to attest. That greater conquests remain for him in the future than he has acquired in the past,—we leave it to the tastes of three-quarters of the reading people of the world to testify. And that his existence now and his promise of existence in the years—in the centuries to come should be combated by every conscientious man, let the common sentiment of humanity affirm. It may be that individually our efforts may be of no considerable importance; but we will, at least, sound the warning in New Brunswick; and, if the glory should come to us of seeing the chase grow into a crusade against immoral books in this Province, we shall have the genuine satisfaction and gratification of duty done well.

What then is our object, and what the end in view. Our purpose is to aid in extirpating the vice of the age, namely the reading of bad books. The ultimatum to which our endeavors tend, is the preservation or redeeming of the morals of men. These are broad statements; but they are in no wise presumptuous. It is almost impossible for any deep and well-thinking person to regard without dismay the headlong drift of modern idea to error on the preponderance of new theories, or, in other words, to regard the diversity of opinion,—religious, political, or otherwise,—and the palpable absurdity of many of them that obtain amongst the various nations or classes in the nations at the present day. Demagogues tell us that we live in an era more prolific of men of erudition than any other from the beginning of the world; that the press is the great engine which is raising the mind to its highest developments, which stores it with intellectual fire; and that books are the invaluable means whereby it nourishes the flame. Upon the first statement opinions are variform; but upon the last the conviction of every observing man is settled for a certainty. Books and the printing press, the production and the producer, are both, doubtless, a most useful invention of genius. They have proved the greatest auxiliaries to civilization; they have ministered beyond calculation to the enlightenment of the race; and have, in a word, opened the great treasures of science to every intelligent people. Nevertheless with all these transcendent advantages coming down to the nations and growing in power with the generations, what is the status of mankind to-day? There is no disguising the fact: it is a state of skepticism. We stand in the glamour of an infidel age, where the beacon light of faith is nurtured by the few; and from forgotten time the question comes to us—were it not better that we had "gone with the years beyond the food?" This is not capricious; it is no whim of fancy: the condition is an alarming one, and the sober soul cannot but be aroused by it. Need the causes then be sought which have instilled the dominant inclination to atheism that has become a second human nature? Or, to be clear, must the reason be looked for why this inclination is general and omnipresent where even letters are known. The unlearned says "Amen;" the reader of history says "no;" and his judgement is confirmed—too sadly confirmed, by the record of society for the last 200 years. Bad books, the perusal of bad books, may be taxed as the main spring and continuous propagation of the evil. From the time when Voltaire and Rousseau were dragging the novelty loving and pertinacious Gaul into the horrors of the Reign of terror, till to-day when Communism is spreading by means of a book blight over the United States, and the Empire of Germany uses the press curb for the prevention of a socialist rebellion,—these inflammers of the passions and pervertors of taste and truth have been a gangrene, a contagion and a curse upon the human heart. They have been the vane of thousands, and they are the bane of thousands to-day. England and Italy are even now putting forth a mercenary crew whose works, if universally read, would demoralize the very name of virtue; men who are combining the influences of politicians with the powers of authors in an attempt to shackle false impurities upon christianity and entices into her fold those whom degrading literature may have already filled with the fire-religious sentiment of the age. And these works of these identical persons are those to which the majority of the intellectual classes devote their most interested attention. The readers know that there were saints before a quarto volume was ever compiled or letters invented, whilst they are, many of them, unapprised of the fact that the species of writings in favour among them is slowly but surely eating the core of society, and subverting the end for which a wise Creator had benevolently intended the institution of books. It must not, however, be thought that the infection can extend far without the aid of the daily press. Those of the newspaper editors who are heedings are the first to be presented with a volume of every worthless production of the kind; and in order to appear foremost among the dilettanti of the time they muster wind and signalize the forth-coming of each new tome by an in very many cases, insignificant Toot! The human mind prone as it is to evil becomes victimized by the imposition; like the royal ruler of old Rome, it drinks a libation with death from the conspiracy against it, and it falls down. "Whilst bloody treason flourish over it."

Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summers, and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Serofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Gout, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Sore, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, &c. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Itches, Spots, Pimples, Pastules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
