CHAPTER II.
A Chance Acquaintance.

She caught her breath, but she did not cry out, for Kittle was courage personified, and, as she set her hat straight, she looked up at her preserver, who was standing beside her. He was a young man, with a face that was not only handsome, but with an indication of some quality in it, which, even at that moment affected Kittle strangely and curiously. She knew, by something more than his dress—which, though somewhat careless, was that of what, again, Hagnes would have called a "swell"—that he was a gentleman. He was looking down at her with a kindly regard, and a touch of anxiety, which made his face a very pleasant one.

"You are not hurt, I hope?" he said.

"Not in the least," said Kittle quickly. "But I should have been, if you had not been there, and hadn't pulled me up. I should have been trampled under foot," she added, gratefully.

"I'm very glad I happened to be near," he said. "I'm very glad to hear that you are not hurt; but I am sure you must be rather frightened. Won't you sit down a moment—just to recover your breath? I know what you must feel like; I've been down in a football scrimmage."

Mechanically Kittle sat down on the seat by which they had been standing, and he seated himself beside her; but he did not stare at her; instead, he looked before him rather thoughtfully. She appeared to be alone; she did not explain that she had lost her friends, or wanted to go in instant search of them. Yes; she appeared to be alone; and yet his first glance at her face, her voice, had told him that she ought not to have been unaccompanied; that she was, in short, "respectable." He was almost convinced that she was a lady. If any doubts as to her respectability had been left in his mind, they were dispelled by Kittle, who at this point exclaimed:

"Oh, I must find Agnes!"

"Your sister?" he inquired. "You have lost her?"

Kittle laughed in her frank way—she would have been frank and unabashed in the presence of royalty itself.

"No; she's our servant. We came together, to take care of each other; and she'll think I'm lost, and will be awfully upset. I must go and find her! Good-by—and thank you very much," said Kittle, hurriedly.

As she sprang up, the little lace handkerchief she had found slipped from her belt, and fluttered to the ground. The young man picked it up, and held it in his hand.

"One moment," he said. "I don't think I can let you go wandering about this place alone. It's just possible that the idiotic crowd will get into another panic—they fancied just now that one of the lions had broken loose—and that you will come to some real harm next time. You must allow me to accompany you in your search. I've no doubt we shall find your maid; if not, you must let me take you home to your people."

"No, no!" said Kittle, looking up at him as if she were aghast at the suggestion. "I could not let you do that. Dad—I mean my father, would be awfully angry if he knew that I had got into such a scrape as this, and lost Agnes."

"Then we must find Agnes," he said, with a smile. "Do you think she was in that crush; what point do you think she would make for in the hope of meeting you?"

"Oh, I'm sure I don't know," replied Kittle, with a little shrug of despair. "There is no knowing what Hagnes Hevangeline would do if she lost her head. I expect she's half-crazed with fright by this time."

They were walking side by side now; and as they came into the brighter light, the young man looked down at her with a thoughtful gravity, and he saw that she was exceedingly pretty; more than pretty, he decided, and that she was as unembarrassed—as, well, a lady would have been; indeed, she seemed to have forgotten his presence, and to be completely engrossed in her search for Agnes.

"Do you like this kind of place?" he inquired.

"She looked up at him absently. "Do I? Oh, yes; it's delightful. The music, the lights, and the people, and all the things one sees. Don't you like it?"

"I suppose I ought to say yes," he replied, with a strange smile.

Kittle regarded him with slight surprise. "That means you don't. Then why did you come?"

"Upon my word, I don't know," he said, musingly. "To pass away an hour or two, I suppose. I happen to be all alone in London; and a man who happens to be alone in London finds it rather a dull place."

Her wondering eyes returned to his face. "Yes; I should think so," she said. "How strange to be alone in London! Do you mean to say that you haven't any friends, any relations?" she asked, her interest aroused.

"Pretty nearly that; in fact, quite that," he said. "Now you, of course, have father, mother, no end of relations and friends?"

"I've a father," assented Kittle, "but no mother, and no relations. Now I come to think of it, to be without relations isn't so curious after all. But I've lots of friends. Oh, I wish I could see Agnes! I think I'm getting a little tired."

"I'm not surprised," he said; "we have been on the hunt for some time. Do you know, I think it would be better for us if we sat down at this table here, and kept a lookout; we can cover a lot of ground from here."

Kittle sank into the chair with a sigh, and leaned forward, beating an impatient tattoo on the table with her slim fingers, while she kept her anxious eyes on the various paths. The young man beckoned to a waiter, and quietly ordered two cups of coffee.

"Oh, it's very kind of you," said

Good Old Home-Made Family Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind—Easily and Cheaply Prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in the world all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare. Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 64 cents and gives you 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils. This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacum, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Kittle, when the coffee was brought; "but I don't want any."

It struck her that she was rather ungracious, so she took a little; then, as if she had suddenly remembered him, she said:

"Need you wait? I shall be sure to see Agnes directly; she wouldn't dream of going home without me. Please don't wait!"

"I hope you will let me stay with you until you have found your maid," he said. "I shouldn't like to leave you in this place alone. By the way," he smiled faintly, "I hope I may say that I am quite a capable—and respectable—guardian. My name is Lashmore." He stopped and waited, and, her attention arrested by the pause, Kittle turned to him.

"My name—" she began; then she stopped, and, for the first time, the color rose to her face; and at that moment the young man knew that she was not merely pretty, but that she was beautiful. "I don't think I want to tell you my name," she said, her eyes meeting his frankly and pleadingly. "No; I don't want you to know. I know it isn't right to be here alone, sitting here with you; father would be very angry if he knew it."

"Then neither he nor any one else shall know it from me," he said, very quietly, but with a genuineness so evident that Kittle gave a nod and breathed a little sigh of relief. He nodded in response. "I will give you a promise if you like, that I will not only never mention my meeting with you this evening, but if I should be so fortunate as to see you again—"

"That's not likely," put in Kittle.

"—I will not even remind you of it."

"Thank you very much," said Kittle; "that's very nice of you. And," she laughed, "I'll promise the same."

He returned her laugh just as he returned her little nod.

"And, just to show you what an honest Injun I am, I will not ask you to tell me your name; though, I must confess," he added, slowly, and with a little touch of color in his face this time, "I should like to know it."

Kittle might have told him; for there was something in his eyes, in his smile, which inspired confidence; but at that moment she caught sight of Agnes, and sprang to her feet, exclaiming:

"There she is! The girl with her back to us, that one with the ostrich feather. Oh, I'm so glad! Good-by, and thank you very much!"

She held out her hand—she really was very much obliged to him—he took it in his, and held it for a second, raising his hat. As she sped away, she looked over her shoulder, and said, half laughingly, half seriously:

"Remember your promise!"

"Right! I won't forget," he responded with a nod.

He stood and watched her as she ran after and joined the girl with the ostrich feather; and he noticed that they did not turn round and look in his direction, as they would have done if his late companion had spoken to the other girl about him. He was turning away musingly, when he suddenly remembered the pocket handkerchief; and he drew it from his pocket, and took a step or two after the girls; but it occurred to him that he would, so to speak, be breaking his promise, betraying her confidence. He stopped and mechanically turned the handkerchief over in his hand; the light was very strong where he stood, and he saw a name marked on the dainty piece of cambric and lace, and could read it quite distinctly.

"I know her name after all," he said to himself, with a smile. "Eva Lyndhurst."

He folded the handkerchief neatly—one would almost say gently, tenderly—and put it in his breast pocket; then he lighted a cigarette, and went slowly toward the exit. As Kittle, with her quick eye, had noticed, all his movements, deliberate or quick, were marked by a freedom of limb, which to one more experienced than Kittle would have indicated that the young man had moved in broader spheres than the limited one of a London life. He looked not only a gentleman and somewhat of an aristocrat; but there was that indefinable air of the wilds and the woods about him; and for one so young, there was a touch of sadness and gravity in the eyes, a suggestion of resolution and firmness in the set of the lips and the chin that were somewhat remarkable.

As he rose from the seat, a man who was sitting at a table at some little distance behind the young fellow rose also, and followed slowly in the other man's footsteps. Lashmore paused at the gate, the man stopped also, and still behind him at a little distance; and when Lashmore sauntered on again, the man sauntered on likewise. Traversing a part of what has been impolitely called the howling wilderness of Kensington, Lashmore reached one of the quiet streets in Chelsea.

He stopped before an old house, the windows of which showed not the least sign of life, and opening the door with a latch-key, passed in. A minute or two afterward the man who had followed him in the gardens came down the street. He was walking a shade more quickly now; and as he passed under the light of one of the lamps, he bore a striking resemblance to Kittle's friend, Mr. Levison.

Severe Headaches and Pains in the Back

Resulted From Deranged Kidneys and Constipation of the Bowels.

It is in vain to try to regulate and restore the healthful action of the kidneys until the liver and bowels are set right.

And just here is where so many kidney medicines fail. Kidney derangements almost invariably begin with constipation and torpidity of the liver. The whole work of filtering the blood is thrown on the kidneys, and in time they fail to stand the strain. The poison in the system gives rise to severe headaches, pains in the back and tired, depressed feelings.

Because they act directly on the liver and bowels, as well as on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are eminently successful in the treatment of kidney derangements.

Mr. William Loney Marysville, N. B. writes:—"I am glad to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to anybody who is suffering from kidney trouble or constipation. I suffered for a long time from kidney disease and pains in the back, but have found that by using one pill a week the kidneys and bowels are kept in good order, and I do not have any more pains in the back or head like I used to have. I was also a great sufferer from piles, and could get no relief until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. This ailment is entirely cured now, but we always keep both the pills and the ointment in the house for use when they are needed."

This statement is endorsed by Mr. F. Saunders, Town Marshall, who writes that Mr. Loney's letter is true and correct.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ANOTHER PEACE SUGGESTION.
NEW YORK, March 26.
A News Agency despatch from Amsterdam says: Intimation that Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg will make another peace suggestion at the meeting of the Reichstag on Thursday, is contained in a Berlin despatch received here to-day.

BRITISH CAPTURE LAGNICOURT.
LONDON, March 26.
The British this morning attacked and captured the village of Lagnicourt according to an official report from the British headquarters this afternoon. Thirty prisoners and a machine gun were taken. During the afternoon the Germans delivered counter attacks from the east and northeast. These attacks, the statement says, were repulsed.

FRENCH CAPTURE TOWNS.
PARIS, March 26.
Though strongly opposed by the Germans, French troops to-day occupied the towns of Polembray and La Fenilles, south of Coucy forest, says the official statement issued by the war office to-night. Progress also has been made by the French north of Soissons in the neighborhood of Vregny.

FRENCH SUPERIORITY.
At the French Front in France, Sunday, from the Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.—The French troops had a chance to-day to show their dash and skill in semi-open fighting and took ample advantage of it. At the southern pivot of the so-called Hindenburg line, which is supposed to be about at Vally, they came to grips on several occasions with the Germans, who attempted to make a stand on the edge of the Crouy plateau, which is a strong offshoot of the still larger Laon plateau. The Associated Press correspondent watched to-day's engagement from a nearby height, and saw the French soldiers gradually push away the German opposition, attain the points they were seeking, and occupy them with a precision a little short of marvellous. The French had kept close on the heels of the retreating Germans since they quit Soissons, never giving them a moment's respite until the pursuers occupied a sort of triangle formed by three points of Crouy, Misy-Sur-Aisne, and Pont Rouge on the Matbeuge road. At the last named place the Germans evidently expected to cover their retreat as was shown by their abandoning useless work of sawing down fruit trees. It was this wanton devastation by the Germans of the country around Soissons and other places which so incensed the French infantry, composed mostly of peasants and farmers, that they could scarcely be restrained from a desperate push forward after the retreating foe, but prudence prevailed, and careful handling enabled them eventually to capture from German positions which had been prepared for stern defence, such as Vuillery and Pont Rouge. The correspondent watched the country-side over which the attacking troops were proceeding. Not a vestige could be seen of the advancing men on foot. They trickled through under cover of brushwood until they had assembled in sufficient strength near enough for striking a blow. Meanwhile the German air men circled overhead unable to locate them. Then an inferno of artillery fire broke forth from the French guns after which a final spurt by the infantry carried a position which on this occasion was a big farm house near Margival. This was held in the face of desperate counter attacks. The Germans themselves had few trenches in this vicinity, relying for the most part on organized centres of resistance and their heavy artillery. The correspondent had come up from Soissons through territory laid waste by the Germans. Soissons itself is still bombarded, almost daily. A final effort before the Germans left the adjacent trenches on March 18 was an endeavor to set fire to the town and the much battered cathedral. The latter was showered with incendiary shells, but these died out without affecting the heavy stone roof. The remainder of the cathedral had been much damaged during previous bombardments. A German officer's diary found in an abandoned battery position shows that attempt to destroy it was methodical. The French troops are enthusiastic over their recent successes in open warfare in this vicinity, one of the most brilliant features of which was the capture of Pont Rouge by an Alpine rifle corps.

BLOCKADE SATISFACTORY.
LONDON, March 26.
Replying to Admiral Neux, member for Portsmouth, Bonar Law said that the question of blockade had been fully considered by the cabinet with naval advisers, and that they were satisfied that the present policy was right in principle and efficient in administration. Advice from Germany through neutral sources, the Chancellor said, seemed to confirm this view.

LONDON, March 26.
Field-Marshal August Von Mackensen, of the German army, according to a despatch from Bern, has arrived at Constantinople to re-organize the Turkish army.

LONDON, March 26.
Reuter's Petrograd correspondent announces the arrival of Alexander J. Guchkoff, the Russian Minister of war at Riga.

EQUAL RIGHTS FOR JEWS.
WASHINGTON, March 26.
Absolute equality of the Jews in Russia with all others who own property and reside at any place and serve in the army and navy, to participate in educational advantages and at the polls, is proclaimed officially, say advices received at the Russian Embassy. Therefore it is understood there will be no further restrictions upon the issue of passports to Russian or American Jews who desire to visit Russia, than those in common with other persons.

GENERAL ELECTION.
Melbourne, via Reuter's Ottawa Agency, March 26.—This city is in the throes of a general election. Most of the members of the Federal Parliament have gone to their constituencies to open the campaign, which will be bitterly fought out between supporters of the Hughes Government and Labor party which broke away from Hughes on the conscription issue. Hughes, who has been offered thirty-two seats, has decided to contest Bendigo, and makes an important speech there next Thursday. Hon. Mr. Tudor, ex-Minister of Customs, now Leader of the Opposition, has issued an electoral address stating that if returned the Labor Party will do its utmost, under the voluntary system, to secure every fit man for the front. It will also extend shipbuilding and help the Allies by stimulating food production. A scheme of tariff revision will be immediately introduced with a view to the protection of Australian manufacturers. He views the Daylight Savings Act as a vexatious matter and promises its repeal, and also says that war profits will be further taxed. "We will again," the address continues, "submit to a referendum the proposal to extend the powers of the Commonwealth Parliament, and we will provide pensions for widows and orphans." Tudor opposes a compulsory levy on wealth, favoring instead a revenue by income tax. He declares the decisions of the Imperial Conference affecting Australia should be submitted to the Central Parliament for ratification. Ministry in the Lower House, but it is generally felt the result of the Senate election is doubtful.

WILL ASK FOR RELEASE OF PRISONERS.
WASHINGTON, March 26.
Inquiry to learn whether any Americans are among the 593 prisoners taken to Germany by the raider Moe-we, it was said at the State Department to-day, had been sent forward by the States through the Spanish Ambassador at Berlin. It is considered practically certain here that there are a large number of Americans among them. The States Government, it is expected, will follow the precedent set in the Yarrowdale case, and demand their immediate release. No doubt is felt that Germany will comply.

PASSED OVER TO OWNERS.
WASHINGTON, March 26.
The immediate transfer of the prize ship Appam at Newport News to the British, was ordered to-day by the Supreme Court. This is the last step in taking the vessel from Lieut. Berg and the German prize crew, following the Court's recent decision that the Appam violated American neutrality.

KEEPING IT UP.
LONDON, March 26.
Andrew Bonar Law to-day asked the Commons, in order to expedite business to suspend until Easter the rule under which the House rises at eleven o'clock daily. John Dillon, Nationalist member for East Mayo, thereupon gravely warned the Government, under a deep sense of responsibility, if it allowed the Easter recess to pass without any indication whether it was in earnest with regard to Ireland, his party would be beset with difficulties and it might find the situation worse than before. Sir Jas. Henry Dalziel, Liberal, having stated that since the debate of last Thursday, Premier Lloyd George had devoted every possible moment of his time to the subject of Ireland, Bonar Law added, the Government had a full sense of its responsibility in this matter, there would be no avoidable delay, but the Government thought it would make a statement. If it possibly could not absolutely promise it before Easter he asked the indulgence of the House not to press the Government unduly.

SOCIALISTS FORMING NEW PARTY.
COPENHAGEN, March 26.
The Radical Socialist organization of Germany, which, after having been read out of the regular Socialist ranks is now forming a new party, has issued its programme as a Reichstag resolution. The programme demands among other things speedy peace and no annexation by any of the belligerents. Other planks in the programme demand the assent of the Reichstag to all treaties of alliance and declarations of war and peace, the responsibility of the Chancellor to the Reichstag by which he may be dismissed, and Imperial legislation introducing universal equal suffrage in all federal states. The influence of the new party, though it is considerable among the working classes in a few big cities, is absolutely nil with the Government, and its demands in Parliament are not apt to accelerate peace by a day. The old Socialist organization, on the other hand, is patriotic, and cannot be expected under the leadership of Philip Scheidmann, to waver its support of the Government, as long as the attitude of the Entente Allies towards peace negotiations remains unchanged.

PEKING, China, March 26.
The German Minister, Admiral Von Hintz and the staff of the legation left here to-day by special train for Shanghai. The German colony gave the departing diplomats a rousing farewell. From Shanghai the minister will proceed to San Francisco, thence across the continent, thence by steamer to Europe.

EXPRESS LOYALTY TO THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, March 26.
The Volynsky Guardsmen, the first regiment which declared for revolution, marched on Monday to Tauride Palace to express its loyalty to the Government and the necessity of carrying on the war to a victorious end, says a Reuter Petrograd despatch. The Guards carried a number of red banners, and their band played the Marseillaise. Among the inscriptions on the banners were, "Don't betray your comrades in the trenches; make shells." Attempts by former pacifists to obtain a hearing were promptly crushed. Great crowds of peasants, soldiers and workmen went singing to the house of the late Count Tolstoy, at Yasnaya Poliana, and sent a deputation to the great widowed Countess on behalf of the Russian people. The Countess was asked to come out with the portrait of Count Tolstoy. She complied, thereupon the crowd knelt and chanted.

WILL TAKE A REST.
LONDON, March 26.
The Imperial Conference will have Easter recess now. Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues recognize they will be unable to return to Canada on the date originally planned. The recess takes place ten days hence.

NO PEACE MEDIATION.
LONDON, March 26.
Reuter's Stockholm correspondent cables that the Swedish Minister for Foreign Affairs has let it be known that no attempt at peace mediation will be made by Sweden. This denial was called forth by a New York despatch published in the London paper with regard to alleged attempts in this direction by Sweden and Spain.

LINER ST. LOUIS ARRIVES.
WASHINGTON, March 26.
The American liner St. Louis, the first armed ship to cross the Atlantic, has arrived safely at her destination.

RUMORS DENIED.
LONDON, March 26.
Rumors which have been in circulation for several days of the landing of Germans in Scotland or at a place on the English coast, received their quietus in the Commons to-day. Chancellor Bonar Law said that as it was impossible to give any reason for the origin of rumors they probably were due to the fact that home defence troops had been told to be ready for an emergency. This often happens but in the present instance it created an unusual commotion.

Anxious Days.

It would be blindness to deny and foolishness to belittle the danger that is beginning to take shape in the Russian situation. The Stock Exchange, a sensitive though none too reliable barometer, indicates by its depression that there are more elements of peril in it than even the plain hints of the messages convey. Yet if we have regard to the course of events that have led up to it—a course almost the opposite of that upon which Germany confidently relied—we see that we have more than one good reason to hope that another great German plan will miscarry and to see in the whole affair another huge German miscalculation.

The matter seems to stand thus. Hindenburg is an "East" man—he believes that a favorable decision can be reached there and there alone. He owes his apprehension of Falkenhayn mostly to his promise that Russia would shortly be defeated and conclude a separate peace. All his major plans are based on these premises. He and all the other leaders of Germany knew intimately the condition of things in Russia; being a German, he knew all about Russia except the Russians. He knew a revolution was coming, and when. And so a great offensive was planned to coincide with it, and doubtless the peace overtures, now predicted, were part of the programme to finish Russian resistance.

How have things turned out in fact? A great concentration of German troops is reported on the northern Russian front. These movements are not carried out in a few hours, or even days, and it is safe to conclude they were ordered before the great revolution had taken place or ended as it did—in other words (and this is most important) they were to prepare an attack which was to strike Russia at a moment when she was torn merely by internal dissension but by actual internal strife. How great the disorganisation of Russia's affairs is cannot be known, but we know that the issue of the revolt has been a terrible blow to Germany, so that this latest move of hers is transformed from an ingenious and dangerous manoeuvre into an act almost of desperation. There is but one need, that Russia stand firm, and against this there is but one threat, not from the Royalists and their adherents, as Germany had hoped, but from the other extreme, the Socialists. If this element, which exists in every country, which has no clear view of anything but its own ideals, and which produces in England the breed of Snowden and Pensonby, in America of Bryan and LaFollette, obtains an artificial prestige from the democratic impulse of the revolution, it may be capable of much mischief at this very critical time. But there is not much danger, we think. The rational and level-headed Duma controls the nation and the army; if the latter but stand fast and oppose what strength it can to the German onslaught, however strong this be, there is nothing to fear.

Germany will need a tremendous striking force to win success from an attack in this quarter. She has lost her invaluable naval supremacy in the Baltic; it may be doubted if the weather conditions are yet favorable in Russia; her submarine campaign, part of the same programme, is already a failure; and most of all she is being pressed in France with a fury that she probably did not anticipate. By diverting so large a body of troops from what will be to the end the main theatre of war to one in which no half decision will be of the slightest benefit to her, she is taking great risks. She may win some success, but it will be the mistaken success of 1915 over again, with far more terrible consequences following the mistake than did then. It is at Petrograd, not at Riga or Drinsk, that the issue of this adventure must be awaited.

The Price of Fat.

The price to be paid for seals brought into this port was the principal topic on all sides in and around town this morning. The Sable I. is berthed at Job Bros. & Co's premises, but has not as yet discharged a peck. The men's share of the cargo has been bought by the Union Trading Co. for $7 per hundredweight and the rise. The other two shares (ship and owners) are likely to be purchased by Messrs. A. Harvey & Co., Ltd., who, we understand, have made an offer of $7 per cwt., but this offer was not fully decided upon up to 1 p.m. to-day. The crew's share of the seals will go to Harbor Grace, we hear, to be landed and manufactured at Crawford & Murray's premises, arrangements to that effect having been made here with Mr. W. B. Grieve.

COUNTRY STORE TO-NIGHT.

At Rossley's Theatre to-night the Country Store will be presented and its safe to say there will be a packed house and this week's articles are better than ever and more of them. Oh, what a lot of useful things will be handed out. There will be all new vaudeville and pictures; Jack Rossley will be there. The Pantomime Co. will do some new songs and dances and there will be lots of good clean, harmless fun. A good hearty laugh is a good thing to get these hard times, and that costs nothing. Thursday night the children also will have a big night. Such a lot of lovely things for the youngsters and a big show. Don't miss to-night's Country Store. Doors open early to avoid crush. Look out for the big show at Easter.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Government officials look upon the speeding up of food stuffs production by the States as one of the most important means of assisting in the war against Germany, should the States take an active part. Of the two most important things this country could do for the Allies in case of war, namely, finance and feed them, perhaps the more important is to maintain a steady flow of food stuffs to their shores, says an authorized statement by Assistant Secretary Vrooman of the Department of Agriculture. It looks, the statement adds, as though it would be a good business stroke for the farmer this spring to sow a normal oats acreage and spring wheat, and it is certain it would be a valuable step in the direction of National Agriculture preparedness, since the policy of stimulating food production would have to be supplemented by a policy guaranteeing the farmer against loss due to possible overproduction. The Department holds that Congress alone can deal with this question effectively, although the Department can do something toward speeding up production within certain economic limits.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DOMINIONS COMMISSION.

LONDON, via Reuter Ottawa Agency To-day. The final report of the Dominions Commission which has just been issued sets forth numerous conclusions and recommendations which it brings to the notice of the Imperial and Dominion Governments and declares regarding the scientific development of natural resources that it is vital that the Empire be placed in a position enabling it resist any pressure which a Foreign Power or group of powers could exercise in time of peace or war through control of essential raw material commodities. It recommends that a complete survey should accordingly be made of the relation between Empire production with reference to such material and commodities as are mainly produced and controlled outside of the Empire, such as cotton, petroleum, nitrate and potash. A most careful inquiry is needed regarding the possibility of new commodities supply and of finding substitutes within the Empire. A survey and investigation in this respect should be entrusted to a new Imperial Development Board, which could work through the existing Departments of the United Kingdom and the self governing Dominions, and to local scientific Departments and Imperial and Overseas Agencies for selection. It urges the creation of an emigration authority for the purpose of supervision and a further consultative Board to effect proper connection between the central authority and the activities of the Dominions. It urges the need of providing adequate capital, training and assistance for intending soldier settlers and for greater attention to the emigration of women from Britain. The same proposal is made for the interchange of school teachers between the United Kingdom and the Dominions.

THREE VILLAGES TAKEN.

LONDON, To-day. Three additional villages have fallen into the hands of the British and French troops operating against the Germans between Arras and Soissons in France. One village was taken by the British and two were captured by the French. Lagnicourt, situated about six miles northeast of Bapaume, fell into the hands of the British, and Folembray and Le Feuille in the forest of De Coucy region, as the base of a salient that has been driven into the German line at La Fere, are now in the hands of General Nivelle's forces. The French have also gained some additional terrain northeast of Soissons.

FASTER RECESS FOR IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

LONDON, To-day. The Imperial Conference will have its Easter recess now. Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues recognize that they will be unable to return to Canada at the date originally planned. The recess takes place 10 days hence. During that period the Premier and his colleagues will pay visits to the Canadian training camps. Sir Robert has been overwhelmed with invitations to address gatherings at various parts of the United Kingdom. Most of these he has been compelled to decline. On his visit to Edinburgh on April 10th to receive the freedom of the City and a degree, the Canadian Premier, the correspondent understands, will be accompanied by General Smuts, South Africa's representative at the Imperial Conference.

GERMAN SAVAGERY.

COMPIEGNE, France, To-day. The villages beyond Ribecourt in the direction of Noyons were completely destroyed on the eve of the rapid flight of the Germans. Of Bally there remains nothing but a mass of ruins; only a few agricultural implements escaped the systematic destruction. Leaving this little village the first houses can be seen at Carlepoint. Of Fremont and Chateau only the western wing remains. The road from Ribecourt to Bally and Carlepoint is encumbered with an impenetrable mass of barbed wire. The woods in this vicinity, which are privately owned, have not been so badly damaged as those belonging to the Government. Of Bally there remains nothing but a mass of ruins; only a few of the many fruit trees also remain standing. At Huleval houses still have walls, gables, chimneys and roofs; their interiors, however, have disappeared, doors, windows, castings, stairs, beams, joists and floorings having been used for fires to warm the German soldiers. The centre of the village preserves its former appearance. The oven of the co-operative bakery is still intact and the mechanical dough mixer is left untouched. The Presbytery and Post Office are still standing. The cemetery of the Presbytery, however, gives evidence of pillage, two coffins in the vault having been tampered with. All the fruit trees at Huleval as well as telephone and electric light posts were destroyed. Fragments of a post bear the following inscription: "A great Russian revolt, good-bye to Paris."

PRUSSIAN PRINCE DIES OF WOUNDS.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily Express says, it learns that Prince Frederick Karl of Prussia, reported by a Madrid despatch as having been shot down by artillery while flying in an aeroplane over the British lines near Peronne, has died of his injuries.

FRENCH AND BELGIAN VICTORIES.

PARIS (Official). (Via Anglo-American Tel. Co.)—Between the Somme and the Oise our artillery entering into action dispersed the German concentrations. Between Bernay, south of the Oise, we realized a very important advance in the lower Coucy Forest. In spite of the difficult ground and strong and stubborn resistance our troops threw the enemy back and occupied Folembray and La Feuille. Our troops are also advancing north of Soissons in the Vregny District. Belgian Official.—During the night of the 25th Belgian detachments entered German trenches near Steenstraete. After inflicting exceedingly heavy losses on the Germans and destroying completely their trenches, works and disports the Belgians returned to their lines with prisoners. In the direction of Dixmude, Belgian batteries are vigorously bombarding the enemy. In the East on 25th March east of Dolran Lake the British troops advancing captured prisoners. In the Monastir district the enemy using inflated Hquids, managed to dislodge us from one trench, but by a counter attack we regained immediate possession.

1.30 P.M.

FRENCH CONTINUE THEIR GAINS.

PARIS (Official) To-day. South of the Oise we continue to advance. In the lower Coucy Forest we occupy all the northern part of the Forest, and the enemy is thrown beyond the Sarris-Servais line. During the attack our troops assailed brilliantly the village of Coucy, the Chateau of which was strongly defended by the Germans. Both the village and the castle were captured. North of Soissons we captured a farm northwest of the Margival Strongerman position. Elsewhere was quiet, apart from a successful raid against the German lines in the Four de Paris sector and throwing back German attacks at Perlicourt sector.

EXPECT ATTACK ON ITALY.

ROME, To-day. A great Austro-German offensive on a salient that has been driven into the Italian press from Switzerland has convinced the newspapers that such action has been planned by the Central Powers for this Spring. There is no uneasiness apparent, however, but a general confidence that Italy is fully prepared and can meet any blow directed against her. General Cadorna is quoted by the Giornale D'Italia as saying to Salkators Barzani, Governor of the occupied Austrian territory, "whether they come or not, I am acting on principle that they will, and in force. I am conscious of having neglected nothing that past experience may have taught, and I am certain of having at my command a magnificent army full of energy and faith and strengthened rather than worn by war. I have put at its head with strict impartiality chiefs possessing the greatest aptitude for their posts. The first element of success is the active faith of the nation in itself. For the army to resist, the country whose every feeling is reflected by the army must resist. Also let it have faith in itself; it will have victory."

GERMANS IN THEIR NEW LINE.

WAR CORRESPONDENT HEAD-QUARTERS, in France, Mar. 26.—Days apart from the outposts of infantry with machine guns and cavalry patrols, the enemy is now back on his new line of defence, popularly called the Hindenburg line; along the whole of this line the German and British troops extend, we are keeping in touch with his outposts by our outposts. Around St. Quentin the French are fighting heavily against a strong defence and threatening to turn his line at that section. It is northwards round the village of Beaumont, Cambrai, east of Bapaume, that the British and German forces have been fighting more important actions than mere skirmishes, and where the fighting on both sides are most active. Within this neighbourhood there is high ground, giving a clear view of the position which the enemy wishes to hold while he is consolidating his main defences, and for this reason he has ordered the men to attack and counter-attack in order to drive us back from this observation ground. It was last Tuesday afternoon that small bodies of our troops advanced through the village of Berthaucourt and surrounded Beaumont. The enemy immediately launched a counter-attack near a little place called Permes, and this was easily repulsed under our machine gun fire. The next day, curious as it seems, Beaumont village was seen to be unoccupied and our men went in among its ruins and stayed there.

ARGENTINE WHEAT EMBARGOED.

BUENOS AYRES, To-day. A presidential decree just issued forbids the exportation from Argentina of grain and flour. The object of the measure is to assure the stocks necessary for the country.

Food Production.

SUB-COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE AFTER VACANT LAND.

The certainty that the price of all food stuffs will be excessive so long as the war lasts and for some time after, and that it is of paramount importance to all that the best use should be made of every acre of land suitable for cultivation, has induced the sub-committee, after a great deal of consideration, to ask the owners of uncultivated tracts of land in the immediate neighbourhood of the city if they would be good enough to lend it free of rent to the committee to be divided up in small lots for persons who would undertake to cultivate the same, and it is believed that there would be a large number eager to do so.

Already certain blocks of land have been offered to the committee, and as soon as they are now definitely how much will be available and the location, they will be able to advertise for applicants. From the standpoint of the community's need for food stuffs, it would be quite as useful if all owners of land undertook themselves to raise produce of some sort upon their unused plots, but from the individual point of view it is obvious that it would be far more beneficial if poor men were given the opportunity of utilizing their spare time by raising in this land the food they would otherwise have to buy. The sub-committee have received from the Municipal Council the names of owners of vacant land, and personal application will be made to each for hearty co-operation in the proposed scheme. At this critical juncture when everyone is most anxious to do something to help the Empire in the great work it has in hand, the suggestion of the committee will afford an opportunity for most valuable assistance, and it is hoped that land-owners will find it convenient to co-operate with the committee and place their uncultivated or uncultivated lands at the committee's disposal. Word was received this morning that the steamers Seal and Thetis are jammed off Cape Bonaville, the ice there being reported to be heavy and tight-packed.

Household Notes.

Lemon will clean stains from zinc. Black beans are excellent for soup. Ammonia will help to remove blood stains. Potatoes have much more food value than rice. Every cellar should be aired and sunned very often. Apple marmalade is improved if flavored with lemon. Be sure that bluing water is always perfectly clear. The kitchen stove should be near both table and sink. Fish left over from dinner may be used up in salad. A refrigerator built in the wall is a delightful possibility. Never buy fruit out of season if you would be economical. The boiling of milk reduces its nutritive value considerably. It is always best, if possible, to dry a washing in the open air. Almost any fruit, vegetable or meat may be served as a salad. Wheat bran is rich in lime and peculiarly valuable in a wholesome diet.

WARNER'S RUST-PROOF CORSETS.

More exacting than Dress fashion, is the fashion for Corsets, since the gown is entirely dependent for its lines and fullest beauty upon the foundation of Dress—the Corset.

Have you ever counted the cost in disappointment of the gowns that failed to fit, all for want of a fashionable fitting Corset beneath? The Warner's trademark on a Corset ensures the right lines to fit over—and, best of all, that those fashionable lines will last to the last day of wear.

Wear a Warner's Corset

and your figure will be correct; your gowns will look their best; and you will still be wearing it long after an ordinary Corset would have gone to pieces, for Husbands and Wives.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"And among the merits and happiness of Elmer and Marianne, let it not be ranked as the least considerable that though sisters, and living almost within sight of each other, they could live without disagreement between themselves or producing coolness between their husbands."

That is the concluding sentence of one of my favorite novels, Jane Austen's "Sense and Sensibility."

It seems to me that in this as in many of Jane Austen's apparently commonplace sentences, there are volumes of suggestion packed away.

She thinks Wives Produce This Coolness.

It is the latter part of the sentence which particularly interested me. You notice she says "producing" coolness between their husbands. She evidently intimates that the coolness which so often does come between husbands and their wives' families is sometimes the fault of the wife.

I can just imagine how some wives will resent that!

They will say, "How foolish! That's the very last thing we would want. It makes life that much harder for us. Why should we have any hand in producing it?"

Why indeed?

One Way In Which They Do It.

And yet I think many women do. And this, I think, is one way that they do it.

Some little disagreement comes up between the wife and her family. She has a grievance against them. She magnifies it (as people with grievances do); she goes back into the past, and drags out other grievances to keep it company. And she pours all this into her husband's ears.

Of course he sympathizes with her and agrees that her family are unappreciative and unreasonable.

He Doesn't Get Over it so Easily.

Then by-and-by the wife has her grievance out with her family with one of those storms of air clearing frankness which is permissible within families. She gets all over her "mad" and forgets all her resentments. And she expects her husband to forget as quickly. But he has not had the same air-clearing thunder-storm and he cannot have the same change of heart. He may appear to on the surface but underneath there is often a residue of resentment of the grievances she painted to him so vividly.

After several such experiences this residue may have become great enough to produce that coolness which the wife will then bitterly regret and try in every way to do away with.

I wonder if any wife will recognize this picture.

NERVES AND MOODS.

It is absurd, and very uncomfortable for other persons, for one to indulge publicly in moods. Almost every woman has moments when she could scream or weep from sheer irritability and will power to control these moments should be exercised with extreme determination.

It is very necessary to learn how to rest properly. Do not think that change of occupation is rest for there is no greater delusion. To acquire perfect rest, settle yourself in a corner, arrange your feet and arms, and laced your whole body, until you feel comfortable from head to foot.

Sit in this position for five minutes, motionless. Don't do anything but take long, chest developing easy breaths. Whether you close the eyes or leave them open makes no difference, but don't move. At the end of five minutes you will feel very much rested. If possible take these rest treatments two or three times a day. At any rate force yourself to observe the treatment at least once a day. You will be surprised at the amount of good it will accomplish.

The nervous woman who feels inclined to scream if the door bangs or anyone drops anything; the girl who is not cross in the least, although all her family thinks she is, but cannot help being irritable needs ten minutes of absolute relaxation at least once a day in a quiet, darkened room. She is simply over-worked and run-down—a victim of nerves.

On nervous days, when you feel like flying out of the window from sheer irritability, stand erect, hands clasped, in front and head bowed, having expelled all the breath from the lungs. Now slowly lift the head and shoulders until the head is very erect, and while inhaling deeply through the nostrils, center the thoughts on perfect peace. This exercise will, in a few minutes, cause the nervous feeling to completely subside and, incidentally, is an excellent way of reducing a double chin.

Ran-dom Reels

THE GAB FIEND.

The gab fiend is an engaging individual with a retreating forehead and a tongue which can accelerate to 50 miles an hour from a standing start.

The tongue is one of the greatest blessing man enjoys, but it was not constructed for race track purposes.

The mission of the tongue is to promote digestion and enable the family doctor to tell at a glance whether the patient has liver trouble or a sprained ankle. It was never intended that the tongue should be used to discharge vast volumes of detailed, itemized conversation which never gets anywhere in particular and finally trails off into space like the exhaust from a hot-air furnace. Yet all around us we see gab fiends whose tongues run in a bath of oil and who take three-quarters of an hour to tell a story that should have been strangled in infancy.

The gab fiend is a soothing solace to the business man who has laid out his work for the day and would like to get through by midnight. It is a maddening experience to have an industrious and care-free gabber deposit himself on the opposite side of the desk and after taking careful aim at his victim turn his vocabulary loose upon the surrounding atmosphere.

As much as the conversation of the chronic, steel-hardened gabber is always confined to first-hand information on religion, politics and the crop situation, after it has been stretched out for a few thousand cubic feet it becomes slightly monotonous in character.

One of the sorest trials in business life is the gabging employee who is unable to work and talk at the same time. One of the crying needs of the age is a mute which can be attached to employees with swivel tongue action, so that men who are working in the same room will not have to add up a column of figures four times in succession. Paralysis of the vocal chords is a distressing malady, but it sometimes seems that if it were more common in business circles the harassed employers would have a chance for his white ally.

What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

The gas range is a muscle savor and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.

No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Care.

Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of ashes rise and settle on the furniture.

It Eliminates Hard Work.

Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and, best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

BOY DRY.

In Kansas they have passed a law—the tightest thing you ever saw—w h i c h makes you feel if you try to keep on hand a flask of rye. The jointist trembles in his shoes; if he is found providing booze, he takes a journey to the pen and never will get out again. The man who's found transporting gin is by the hall's gathered in; the cad strips him of his kale, and gives him fifty years in jail. An empty bottle in your hall, a corkscrew hanging on the wall, is proof that you've defied the law—for you a cell, with moldy straw. The man whose breath suggests a drink—four fingers, say, of old red ink—is hunted down with horse and hound, and locked up in the village pound.

And if your nose is red, dry man, you'd better bleach it while you can; in Kansas noses must be pale, if people would stay out of jail. Oh, whose are our God-given rights, since we can't show ourselves o'rights? Where was the sense in Bunker Hill, if we can't sell a cork at will? And while for a r'p'y I pause, the victims of these Kansas laws, seem prosperous and happy, too, and ask no sympathy from you.

Your Boys and Girls.

Children and babies should be allowed to roll and tumble about on the floor as much as they will. The sun bath is too little appreciated as an aid to your child's beauty and health. The room should be warm and a sheet or quilt spread on the floor in the sunlight and kept away from draughts, and the child allowed to roll on the floor.

If he should fall asleep allow him to have his nap lying flat on the floor, do not provide him with a pillow for his head. Lying flat on the floor permits better circulation and keeps the spine and shoulders erect. As soon as old enough teach the child to stand erect, hands at sides, and then to bend forward and down from the hips several times. This will strengthen the spine.

PILES

Nothing known to science is better for this painful ailment than Zam-Buk. It reduces inflammation, stops bleeding, ends the agony. Easily applied and clearly. Why go on suffering? Why not try it? Read the following cures.

Mrs. C. Hanson, Poplar, E.C., says: "I suffered for years with bleeding piles. The pain was often so bad I could hardly walk. I tried remedy after remedy, and finally underwent an operation, but only got temporary relief. At last I tried Zam-Buk. Perseverance with this remedy completely cured me, and there has been no return of the trouble."

Mr. W. J. Donovan, of New Edinburgh, Ont., writes: "For two years I suffered with bleeding piles. The pain was most intense. I tried one after another of the so-called remedies, but without effect. At last I decided to try Zam-Buk. This gave quick relief from the dull, gnawing pain, and perseverance with Zam-Buk cured me. The cure has been permanent."

ZAM-BUK ALSO CURES ECZEMA, BLOOD POISON, ULCERS, COLD SORES, CHAPPED HANDS, SCALP SORES, CUTS, BURNS, BRUISES, SCALDS, and ALL SKIN INJURIES and DISEASES. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, post free for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and preparations advanced as "just as good."

Energetic Totts.

Little Violet Norman, of 47 William Street, assisted by four other little girls, namely:—Nita Martin, Dorothy Itove, Florence Soper and Gladys Martin, held a successful Tea and Sale of Work at her home on Wednesday last, in aid of the Cochrane Street Mission Band, and the sum of $15.50 was realized. A similar event will be held shortly at the same place for the benefit of the Red Cross Fund.

25 cents Destroys Your Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—try this!

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which, if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A Little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Gower and Cochrane

Members of Gower and Cochrane Street Churches are reminding of the union services being held in the Cochrane Street School Building every night this week with the exception of Saturday. Last evening's service conducted by the Rev. Dr. Bond was probably the most sympathetic since these services commenced. The Rev. D. B. Hemmion's address on "Some reasons why I should be a Christian" was to the point and left a deep impression on many of those present.

Come to-night! Plenty of room. Don't forget that five to six hundred can be accommodated. Dr. Bond will refer to some of the difficulties found in the way of some people who are seeking to lead a better life. Song service at 7.45. Regular service 8 o'clock.

WON BIG SWEEPSTAKE.—We understand that a well-known city millionaire, who had the Sable I. yesterday, was the recipient of one of the largest amounts ever paid out for a prize in this country.

STOWAWAYS RETURN.—Four boys who were at the icefields in the Sable I. returned yesterday, after having a delightful trip, weather conditions being all that could be desired by the chummy tourists. When the steamer struck the seals, the lads were not allowed to leave the ship, owing to this broken condition of the ice.

RETURNING HERO SICK.—L. Corp. Humphries who was returning with the last batch of volunteers was taken sick at North Sydney and had to be placed in hospital. His illness is not of a serious nature and in a short while he will be able to leave for home.

WAR REVIEW.

NEW YORK, March 26. Three additional villages have fallen into the hands of the British and French troops operating against the Germans between Arras and Soissons in France. One village was taken by the British and two were captured by the French. Lagnicourt, situated about six miles northwest of Bapaume fell into the hands of the British, and Folembay and La Feuille in the forest of the Coucy region at the base of the salient that has been driven into the German line at La Fere, are now in the hands of General Nivelle's forces. The French have also gained some additional terrain northeast of Soissons, but no important changes in position have occurred in the St. Quentin sector where the Germans apparently are stiffening their line to keep down fresh inroads by the French. Paris reports the dispersal of German assemblages in this district by artillery fire. Considerable aerial activity is still in progress between British and Germans. London reports in fighting done by British airmen, the destruction of five German airplanes east of Neuville St. Vaast and Armentieres, but says seven British machines failed to return to their bases. The Germans who reported to be in force on the north Russian front are again becoming active south of the Dvinsk region of Postavy. After having loosed gas yaves against the Russians, the Germans essayed to advance, but, according to Petrograd, they were repulsed. East of Baronovichi another Teuton attack was put down by the Russian artillery fire. Still another crossing of the Persian frontier into Turkey has been effected by the Russians, who have entered the Vilayet of Moslem through which flows the Tigris River, along which the British are still in pursuit of the Turks retreating from Bagdad. To the southeast on the Turco-Persian frontier near Khanikin, the Russians captured the Turkish fortification at Kalachahin, thereby placing a further menace in the way of the Turks making their way up the Diala River before the British. In the Austro-Italian theatre and Macedonia the situation is unchanged.

DIED FROM BULLET WOUND.

PHILADELPHIA, March 26. Harold Ellis Yarnall, Secretary-Treasurer of the Midland-Valley Railroad, and prominent socially, died early to-day from a bullet wound sustained while defending his wife from an attack of a negro burglar at their home last night.

FRENCH ADVANCE.

PARIS, March 26. Notwithstanding bad weather and the difficulties of the ground the French continued last night to advance south of the Oise. The war office announces that French patrols reached Folembay, south of the forest of Coucy. The Germans made heavy and useless sacrifices, the statement says, in several attacks yesterday on positions captured by the French between the Somme and the Oise. Wherever they approached a French position they were thrown back by counter attacks. The statement follows: Between the Somme and the Oise Germans made repeated attacks during the night on the front between Essigny and Benany. All these attempts were checked by our fire or repulsed by our counter-attacks. Serious losses were inflicted on the enemy. We maintained completely the positions captured yesterday. South of the Oise our advance continued. Notwithstanding the state of the ground and bad weather we pushed forward our patrols beyond Folembay, south of the lower forest of Coucy. North of Rheims our batteries caused an explosion of a munition depot of the enemy east of Dugotat Farm. Elsewhere the night was calm.

SERBIANS REVOLT.

LONDON, March 26. Reuter's Corfu correspondent says the Serbian Press Bureau has issued a statement to the effect that the inhabitants of Eastern Serbia are revolting against the Bulgarians and are organizing bands which are operating in mountains and forests. The Bureau's statement says the action of the Serbians is due to forced recruiting, wholesale requisitions and inhuman treatment by Bulgarians.

HARBOR CLOSED.

LONDON, March 26. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam, says the Wilhelmshaven newspapers, announces that the Harbor of Wilhelmshaven will be closed to the public for the next fortnight and that a special permit from the Admiralty Board will be necessary for admission to the docks.

CARRIED AMERICAN CITIZENS.—WASHINGTON, March 26. The torpedoing of the Norwegian steamer Wilfred, with two Americans aboard, and the British steamer Chorley with three Americans, is reported to-day to the State Department. The Wilfred was warned by the German submarine which sank her, but carried no contraband or armament. No casualties are reported. The Chorley was 3,828 tons, 340 feet long, built in 1901; the Wilfred was 1,121 tons gross, 221 feet long, built in 1905.

Western Bank Fishery A Big Voyage.

Appended is a late report of the Western fishery between Rose Blanche and Hr. LeCout received by the Board of Trade.

The catch to date is 5,519 quintals with 2,500 for the last week. Sixty-nine dories and skiffs and 87 bankers are fishing. This has been an unprecedented week's fishing, the boats and skiffs operating every day, there being no ice of any kind to contend with, and resulted in the largest catch ever known on this part of the coast. Fully 2,500 qtls. have been secured by the 69 shore dories. The firm of R. Moulton Ltd., took 956 quintals from 17 dories for four days' fishing. All the boats had to remain in two days this week to enable the men to split the catches. The schooners also did well, but not in proportion to the average of the shore dories. Capt. Thornhill, of the schr. "Dorothy Melita," is hauling for 1,206 qtls. Captain Vatcher, of the "Rota M. Cluett," has 1,000, and the other schooners that have been here some time are also well fished. There have been 7 more arrivals this week, and news of the big catches is making the fleet on the alert.

Lewisport.

Colonel Otway visited this rising and important town on Thursday last, for the purpose of Dedication of the site for a new Salvation Army Citadel. Captain Parsons, the energetic Officer has already formed a Corps of enthusiastic Salvationists. A large audience assembled in the Orange Hall to hear the Colonel speak of the "War of Nations," showing by 110 lantern slides the work of the Salvation Army, on the battlefield by the Chaplains and Ambulance Workers. The Salvation Army has 50 Ambulance Cars in France, working under the direction of the Red Cross Society. On Friday morning the new site was dedicated, and the S. A. Flag is now flying at the mast head. The new Hall will be erected to seat 300 persons, and will be opened in September next.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That the Benevolent Irish Society, in meeting assembled in the 112th year of its existence, place on record the earnest desire of its members that the land of their fathers may be granted the boon of self-government for which its people have so long yearned. AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Prime Minister of Newfoundland be asked to co-operate in any proposals made at the Conference which may tend to give effect to the wishes of the Irish people.

Newfoundland Agricultural Board.

BULLETIN No. 2.

To District Agricultural Societies:

The Agricultural Board has ascertained that there are considerable stocks of potatoes held in the country over and above what will be required as seed for the coming season's crop. The Agricultural Board, however, thinks it desirable to warn Societies and individuals against the inducement that prevailing high prices will offer, and which might possibly conduce to the selling for food purposes of a portion of the quantities that could with much greater advantage be kept for seed.

Present indications point to the continuance of high prices for another year or longer, and therefore those holding stocks of potatoes can certainly derive a larger measure of profit therefrom by planting more largely than usual, and selling the product, than by selling all their potatoes for food purposes only, now or later in the season.

Your own interests and the Country's can best be conserved by each holder of potatoes first providing amply for his own seeding requirements and next by selling to others requiring seed, before disposing of any for consumption.
