Bulgaria's Answer to Peace Terms Moderate.

American Flag Hissed at Fiume --- Jellicoe at Honolulu.

AMERICAN FLAG HISSED.
FIUME, Oct. 25. The American flag was hissed when it was unfurled last evening in the Phoenix Theatre and when the Star Spangled Banner was played by the orchestra the audience cried out "Down with America" "Down with Wilson" "Long Live Greater Italy and Fiume." Several score of American sailors who were present stood up when the American National Anthem was played, also were hissed and stinging remarks were directed at them.

JELlicoe AT HONOLULU.
HONOLULU, Oct. 24. Admiral Sir John W. Jellicoe, commander of the British Grand Fleet arrived here to-day aboard the warship New Zealand. He will leave for the mainland November first. Airplanes dropped wreaths and flowers on the vessel as it came into the harbor. Admiral Jellicoe was made a guest of honor at a reception tendered him by the naval and civil organizations.

BULGARIA'S ANSWER.
PARIS, Oct. 25. Bulgaria's answer to the terms of peace presented her by the Allied and Associated Powers is moderate in tone, and adheres unreservedly to the clauses concerning the League of Nations and Labor. It accepts the principle of the protection of the Minorities in Bulgaria on the condition that the same measures are applied to the other Balkan States. On the other hand the reply made reservations regarding the repatriation and protests especially against the totals demanded of Bulgaria objects to the voluntary enlistment charges and requests an extension of the time limit for payment. Regarding the military clauses, Bulgaria objects to the voluntary enlistment system, maintaining that conscription alone can produce sufficient forces to maintain order. The longest part of the reply concerns the territorial clauses and protests against the modification of the frontiers on technical grounds quoting masses of statistics. It proposes plebiscite in Thrace and its formation into autonomous state. Impression prevails in the Congress Circles that the Allies are not likely to consent to any extension or modification of original terms.

PATRIOTIC DECISION.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. Coal dealers represented in the American Wholesale Coal Association doing its annual business on the one hundred million tons in all the principal cities of the country pledged their efforts to-day to prevent any further increase in the price of coal as the result of the impending coal strike or after such strike should be called.

DATE NOT YET FIXED.
PARIS, Oct. 25. The Supreme Council this morning discussed a possible date for the formal ratification of the German Peace Treaty. No definite decision was reached but it was said that the date would probably be fixed at next Tuesday's meeting of the Council.

HOLDING UP CONGRESS.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. Passage by either House of Congress of the Anti-Strike Legislation contained in the pending railroad bill would result in the general strike vote throughout the country, officials of the American Federation of Labor said to-day.

Hammered!

Scenes of Life on the Stock Exchange. There are over a dozen rostrums in the Stock Exchange, two of which are of particular interest, at least to members. These are situated at either end of the "House," and from them is pronounced the financial doom of the defaulting jobber or broker.

When this has to be done a "waiter" ascends each rostrum. Neither could make his voice travel the whole length of the floor, but each can cover his own half of it. Together, then, they strike twice with their hammers. No matter how crowded or excited the "House," instantly there is silence. One never knows what is coming. The man to be hammered may be one's best friend, or a stranger. His failure may mean serious personal loss, or nothing at all. Intent, the "House" waits until each "waiter," reading from a slip of paper, announces:

"Gentlemen, Mr. So-and-So is unable to comply with his bargains."

Making the Best of it. There is no variation in the formula, save when it is a firm that takes the knock, when "Messrs." is substituted for "Mr." Instantly all is bustle and noise again, members estimating their personal losses, discussing the news, or just carrying on as usual.

The broken man's affairs are taken charge of by the committee, and, of course, he is debarré the "House." Perhaps, however, things are not so bad as they look. He may, after all, be able to pay 20s. in the pound, in which case he may be reinstated. If he can eventually settle not less than 50 per cent. of his liabilities, he may be allowed to re-enter the "House" as a "second class" member. His dealings as such being limited to a certain amount.

There is no rule against a member being present at his own hammering, though I have never known it happen; but the antics of the "House" record such an instance. One day a well-known and perfectly solvent member being hammered. The "House" was stupefied—he of all men. Then relief came as the said member roared indignantly: "It's a d—d lie!" And this proved to be the case, an extraordinary blunder having been made.

The year 1899 was noteworthy for two remarkable hammering incidents. A "waiter" about to use his hammer let it slip, and it crashed to pieces on the floor. Instantly there was a great outburst of cheering, and a wild scrimmage for possession of the fragments as souvenirs.

Announcing the Beer War.
There Mr. Carlos C. Clarke, leader of all Stock Exchange demonstrations, made his appearance, walking-stick-baton in hand, and mounted a bench. There was dead silence, all waiting for him to start the National Anthem. Instead, Mr. Clarke smote thrice with his stick, and said solemnly:

"Gentlemen, Mr. Kruger has not complied with his bargains!" Immense cheers and laughter followed this witty sall, and then "God Save the Queen" was sung with tremendous fervour.

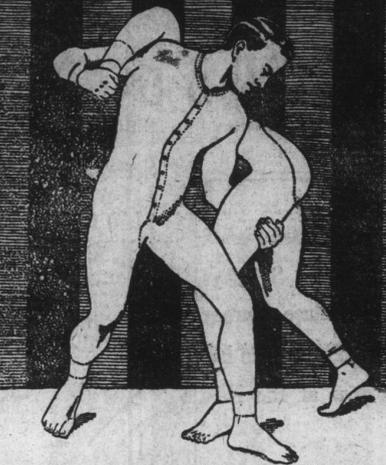

In far off times it is recorded that twenty-five members were hammered on one day alone, but the Blackest Stock Exchange day in my own experience was during the Whittaker Wright crash, when seven leading members of the "House" took the knock simultaneously.

The reading of their names was marked by a dramatic and, I should say, unprecedented incident.

One of the "executioners"—a very old waiter—larly kind and generous to him.

Half-way through his distasteful duties his feelings got the better of him. The paper fluttered from his shaking fingers, and he broke down completely.—Answers.

Metal buckles appear on many waiter suits. Finely plaited ruffles are extremely smart.

Secrets That Can't Be Solved.

Crossing the Atlantic in Two Hours.
Among the seemingly hopeless quests that have long engaged the attention of scientists and inventors, that of discovering the secret of perpetual motion is perhaps the best known.

To the average man it is fairly evident that unless a machine is provided with energy, or some sort of force, it will not work, yet there have been from the earliest times men whose sole aim in life has been to invent a machine that, once it is started, shall run for ever by its own momentum.

All kinds of undoubtedly clever contrivances have been invented with this object in view, from the curious "Concertina" machine, in which a series of concertina-like chambers attached to a revolving band collapse and expand in their progress through water, to the latest effort—a dynamo, which, its inventor asserted, would generate its own power continuously.

Nothing more having been heard of this latest experiment, it is safe to conclude that it was not a success.

Perhaps the nearest approach to perpetual motion ever achieved by man was the invention of a scientist named Strutt, whose device derived its energy from radium emanations.

Radium is a wonderful fount of energy, but since this commodity is so rare and precious, it is hardly likely that it will ever be put to practical use in this form.

But if perpetual motion is one of the greatest secrets that confront scientists, that of the Fourth Dimension is hardly less profound. For ages the great thinkers and philosophers of the world have been striving to penetrate this baffling mystery.

From One Hemisphere to the Other.
It is by no means easy to explain the Fourth Dimension in terms most readily understood by the lay mind, but it may be stated briefly thus:—The Fourth Dimension is supposed to lie at right angles to the three already known, namely, length, breadth and height. And since we are all limited to thinking and working in these three dimensions, it is difficult to come to grips with a fourth in a practical way.

An English air pilot recently recounted how, while flying in France, his machine suddenly slipped into an air pocket. He immediately lost control, and a moment or so later fell plump—into the Pacific Ocean! He sought to explain his rapid transmission from one hemisphere to the other by suggesting that in his flight he had shot into the Fourth Dimension. Needless to say, the story was a joke; but this is no doubt what would happen in such an eventuality.

For example, if you could gain access to the Fourth Dimension and then return to our present state, you would find that your body had changed about—for instance, your right arm would be where your left now is. In short, you would have completely changed places with your reflection in the mirror.

The enthralling problem of gravitation has exercised men's minds ever since Newton observed the fall of the apple, on which every-day happening he founded his now famous universal law. But that law does not solve the problem.

Most of us, of course, have read Jules Verne's famous story "From the Earth to the Moon." The yarn is based on the fact that a body falling to earth from space attains a velocity of about seven miles per second when passing through our atmosphere; so that if a projectile could be shot off the earth at the same—or, of course, a greater—rate, the earth's gravitation, or pulling power, would be overcome, and the projectile would go soaring away into the vast realms of space. A huge fortune awaits the man who succeeds in achieving this stupendous feat, for such an invention would revolutionize human life.

If we could neutralize gravitation, aeroplanes would rise to terrific heights, while they would require no propulsion at all, and the Atlantic could be crossed in two hours.

All this may seem very entertaining, but too fantastic to be taken seriously. Yet the startling fact has quite lately been revealed that gravitation can be neutralized, and in the light of certain experiments now being conducted there is no doubt that we are on the verge of the most amazing discovery of all time.—Tit-Bits.

Golden Jubilee.

AT THE PRESENTATION CONVENT, CATHEDRAL SQUARE.

On Thursday morning, October 23, the Golden Jubilee of the Religious Profession of Mother Mary Ignatius (Miss Mary Garrick, Galway, Ireland) Mother Mary Evangelist (Miss Nora Kean, Orammore) Mother Mary Xavier (Miss Mary Jane O'Malley, Castebar) and Mother Mary Raphael (Miss Melia McCarthy of Limerick) was carried out with unusual pomp and solemnity, the occasion being such an exceptional one. The beautiful altar in the new Oratory was tastefully decorated with choice natural flowers, the gifts of friends, and fifty lights gleamed on the snow-white altar.

The four Jubilarians occupied special places, draped in white and adorned with little sprays of shamrock. At ten o'clock the Episcopal procession entered the Sanctuary and His Grace the Archbishop immediately began the imposing ceremony. There was a pathos in His Grace's voice as he recited the prayers and blessed each crown and staff. As he crowned the Jubilarians and presented a staff to each the scene was most touching and impressive and will be ever cherished in the memories of those who were privileged to witness it. The Archbishop then preached a most eloquent and historical sermon suitable to the occasion as follows:

The twenty-first day of September in the year 1833 will be a memorable date in the history of the Church in Newfoundland. On that day, the Feast of St. Matthew, the first four pioneer Sisters of the Presentation Order and Daughters of Nano Nagle arrived in St. John's and began the noble work which the Nuns of the Order have been continuing amongst the children of Newfoundland for the past sixty-eight years. It will be a memorable day because the introduction of the Sisters into the Colony marked a new era in church development in Newfoundland. Up to that time one of the great difficulties that had to be contended with was the lack of religious teachers and all that that meant in the education of the young. Bishop Fleming under whose auspices the Presentation Nuns came to the Colony, realized this, and it had been his desire for many years previously to bring a community of teaching Nuns to Newfoundland. We are all familiar with the great and glorious achievements which characterized Bishop Fleming's Episcopate, but this work of introducing the Nuns must be looked upon as the greatest of his glorious Episcopate. The building of our magnificent Cathedral was a mighty and noble achievement, the most touching and thrilling in our ecclesiastical annals. We remember reading how on a June morning—it was indeed the 29th of June—in the year 1833 the Bishop visited the Presentation Convent at Galway. He was a stranger to the Community and introduced himself as an American Bishop. After having said Mass he addressed the Sisters, spoke to them of the desolation of his Diocese and of his desire to obtain Sisters to open a foundation in St. John's. The appeal of the Prelate had its effect upon those Sisters whose souls were filled with that missionary spirit of the Celt, and four of them immediately offered to accompany him. We are then told of the preparations made for their departure, the arrangements for their passage and of their leaving the city of Waterford, between which and Newfoundland there was such later communication in these far-off days. We read of the long voyage in a sailing vessel across the Atlantic, of their arrival after three weeks on the ocean in St. John's, of the enthusiastic welcome accorded them by the people and of their taking up their temporary residence in the Bishop's House, the old Palace. Shortly after their arrival the first school was opened, and our Church annals tell us that rarely has there been witnessed in St. John's a scene of deeper interest than that which surrounded the opening of the Presentation Schools.

We have often heard of the difficulties attending the early work of the Sisters in the Colony, of the destruction of their Convent, of their moving from place to place, of the obstacles of all kinds they had to contend with, until finally some seventeen or eighteen years after their arrival they took up their residence in the present Convent and began their work in the schools in which they are teaching to the present time. Having become firmly established in St. John's, the Order next began to branch out in different parts of the Island. Following each other in quick succession came the foundation of branch houses at Hr. Grace, Carbonear, Hr. Main, Fermanagh which were amongst the first foundations, and later on to the various other important centres in which we find them doing their educational work at the present time.

It is not necessary for me, I am sure, to enlarge upon or to eulogise the work that has been done by the Presentation Nuns for more than eighty years amongst the girls of Newfoundland. Even before his death Bishop Fleming had the consolation of seeing the good effects of his work, and he wrote in glowing terms of what had been done by the Nuns since their advent into the Colony. "Hundreds of children" he says, "many thousands are annually sent forth from their schools, trained in the highest principles of virtue and honesty, conferring on our country the blessing incomparably rich, producing a race of mothers of families which Newfoundland may be proud of as having no superior in any part of the world."

With how much greater force and truth could these words be used to-day after the lapse of seventy-five years than when they were spoken by the great and zealous Bishop. It is permissible to recall thus briefly the glorious traditions of the Presentation Order on this unique occasion when four of its veteran Nuns are celebrating their Golden Jubilee. In the great and glorious work which has been accomplished by the Presentation Order in Newfoundland the four venerable Jubilarians of to-day have had their full share. They complete to-day the work of fifty golden years' work in different parts of the country, work unknown it may be except to their Sisters in the Cloister. To-day they see the completion of fifty years filled with days devoted to the honor and glory of God. Their names are not blazoned forth as are those of the great ones of the world, because in religion all individuality is lost, and the glory of each is the glory of all as the glory of all is the glory of each. To-day they are completing fifty years of faithful service and they receive according to the time honored traditions of the Order the mystical crown of their fifty years of labour. When they look back to-day in retrospect over the years that have passed to the day when in the fervour of youth they knelt to receive the White Habit of Religion and to that other day some years later when they received the Habit of Profession they will remember that the "veni coronaberis" (Come, thou shalt be crowned) of their Reception and the "veni, accipe coronam" (Come, receive the crown) of their Profession find their partial realization to-day. To-day particularly will their thoughts bring them back to that far-off morning when they spoke their solemn vows before the Altar of God fifty golden years ago. They will hear again but with a new and added meaning the strains that greeted them as they moved toward the Altar, they will hear again the "veni, coronaberis" of their Reception and the "veni, accipe coronam" of their Profession. Not yet, however, have they received their final crown. The beautiful promises of their Reception and Profession will only find their full and complete realization when they receive from their Divine Spouse the crown of glory, the imperishable crown that awaits them when their life's work here is done.

Solemn High Mass was then sung by His Lordship, Rt. Rev. Bishop March. (Harbor Grace); Rev. Dr. J. W. Carter, (Cathedral), acting as deacon and Rev. Fr. Des as sub-deacon, Rev. F. McGrath, (Bell Island), as High Priest and Rev. Dr. Greene, (Cathedral), as Master of Ceremonies.

The Blessing at Mass was intoned and imparted by His Grace the Archbishop, after which Benediction of the most Blessed Sacrament was given by the Rt. Rev. M. F. Power, Bishop of St. George's.

Among the guests were Rev. Brother Ryan of St. Bon's College, Rev. Brother Ryan of Mt. St. Francis; Rev. Brother Conway of Mt. Cashel; also many of the former pupils and old friends of the Jubilarians, including the Rev. Mother General of the Mercy Order and Superior of Littlefield College, St. Clare's, Belvidere Orphanage, Military Road and other Sisters of Mercy.

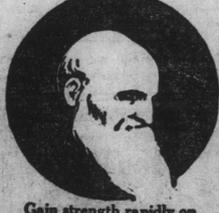

The music was rendered by the Choir of Nuns and was sweet and devotional. At noon the guests were present in the schoolroom where a lengthy program was gone through most successfully, each young lady sustaining her part well, at the conclusion of which His Grace the Archbishop addressed the children. The singing of the Te Deum by the full chorus brought the happy morning to a close.

MONEY JUST LIKE A QUART MEASURE.

The one eternal subject which has almost ousted the weather and the servant problem from their prominent places was on the floor the other night.

The Authorman had been talking about the duty of saving not only for our own sakes, but "pro bono publico."

"I don't see what difference it makes to the public," said Molly. "Of course, I'm going to save for my old age, and goodness knows I can't help saving with all my government loan installments to pay up, but I don't see what difference it makes to anyone else, unless I go to the poor house in my old age, and I have a feeling somehow that I shan't live to be old."

Nobody Expects to be Old.

"Almost everybody has that feeling," said the Authorman dryly, "but I wasn't thinking of saving from that point of view at all. I was thinking of the need of somebody's saving if industries are going to go on. Did you ever stop to think exactly what it means when you spend money and when you save it?"

"You mean--" began Molly uncertainly.

"I mean this," said the Authorman. "There's just one thing that each of us really gets in exchange for the work we do, and that is the work other men do. When you boil it right down that's what it comes to. You do some kind of work and in return you get other men's labor. Money is nothing really but the measure you use to measure the value of your work to the community at large and the measure of other people's work so that you can make an exchange. Do you see that?"

She Thought It Safer to See.

Molly did,--or said so. The Authorman looked rather fierce, as he is apt when he concentrates on explaining things.

"All right," said the Authorman, "if you spend money it means that you are going to claim the labor of other men that you are entitled to and use it up on yourself. And of course you have to use a certain amount of it to live, but what I want you to see is this: what would happen if we all used up all the labor that was coming to us on things to eat and wear and furniture and other things for ourselves?"

"I don't know," said Molly. "Why should anything happen?"

The Authorman said, "Why should anything happen?"

What Would We Do for New Machinery?

"Well," said the Authorman, "where would the labor that has to be put into making machinery and building new railroads and doing all that sort of thing in preparation for production come from, if no one was willing to let some of the labor due to him go into that, and take his reward later? We'd keep on using the machinery we're using now for a while, but when that wore out what would happen. Tell me that."

"I don't know," said Molly, assuming meekness before the challenge of his manner. "And I won't do it again, truly."

The Authorman relaxed with a grin. "See that you don't," he warned, "but it does make things look a little different when you get at it that way, doesn't it?"

And Molly admitted that it did.

Parley, watercress and lemon are the accepted garnishes for fish.

WHAT'S WRAPPED UP IN A LITTLE BOY?

What's wrapped up in a little boy? All that makes for a father's joy: The pride that shall shine in a dimming eye

And an old man's peace in the by and by: Strength perhaps for the manly deeds Which the world we live in so sorely needs; Faith for the black, dark hours of the night; Courage in trial to do his best. What parcels of splendor shall time untie

For a little boy as the years go by? There, in the baby that rides your knee When the stars come out, is the man-to-be. Wrapped in packages, O, so small That you see them not, are the virtues all. Deep in his breast lie the future years

With your happy days and your nights of tears. Time's deft fingers shall break the string Round many a comfort that he shall bring. Do you dream of an age that shall glow with joy? Then it's all wrapped up in your little boy.

There are hours he's bringing when you shall sigh And your heart shall ache, in the by and by: Though he's O so young and he's frail and weak There are glorious words for his lips to speak; There are splendid deeds for his hands to do And parcels of pride which he's bringing you. Do you think at night as you stroke his hair Of the mysteries which are hidden there?

All that you dream of and hope to see Is bound in the boy that bestrides your knee. Time shall open these parcels small And round your feet shall the wrappings fall. Do you pray for an age that is sweet with mirth? Your baby brought it with him at birth. Can greater glory e'er come to you Than the greatest deed that your boy shall do? He is little now, but can't you see A hint of a man that shall some day be?

And don't you know that your every joy Is now wrapped up in your little boy?

Sea Lion Objects to Straw Hats.

A capacious breeze, sweeping about the corner of the arsenal in Central Park, New York, lifted the straw lid from the head of Antonio Durano and waited it into the pool of Prince, the lone sea lion of the Zoo. Despite the comparative uselessness of straw hats on and after this date, Durano climbed the iron wire fence about the pool and, swinging back from the inner side, tried to retrieve his hat. He got the headpiece. At the same time Prince, ordinarily the meekest of amphibians, rose from the muddy depths and seized the invader by the nearest available hold, which was the seat of his trousers. At the first nip Durano plumped backward into the big tub, screaming for help, but still holding the hat. When Head Keeper Jim Coyle arrived with a force armed with pitchforks Prince was thrashing the face of the waters with the unfortunate visitor, uttering grunts and roars of gleeful wrath. The beast was beaten until he released his hold.

THE CAUSE.

All the world is in commotion, forty kinds of dust we raise; every gent with crazy notion has an audience these days; all the peoples rise and clamor for new avenues to tread; every fellow has a hammer, and he'd bash another's head. And the man who once was Kaiser, says, while people cut up thus, "I'm the little early riser who kicked up this beastly fuss." No one's with his work contented, every voter scorns his job; and the autumn air is scented with the curses of the mob. Now that industry is needed, industry is lying low; and the countries all are seeded to the dragons' teeth of woe. Cold the forges of the founder, all deserted is the mill; and the demagogue and boulder aren't for an instant still. Now no stream of smoke is pouring from the lofty stacks of brick, and no looms disturb the roaring of the anarchistic hick. And the man who once was Kaiser, says, as on the fence he leans, "I'm the blatant advertiser who upset the dish of beans." Say the nations, "We shall haul him to the court, and treat him rough;" but no fate that could befall him would be punishment enough. So perhaps we'd better let him linger where he saws and sings; better pass up and forget him, while we try to straighten things.

Manliness versus Hypocrisy.

Much has been said during the present political campaign, of all Squires proposes to do for the sailor and soldier. In fact the Opposition press has said and boasted so much of this aspect of the Squires manifesto, that we wish to draw our readers' attention to it. In Sir M. P. Cashin's outline of policy he proposes to treat our heroes in a manner similar to that meted out by the Canadian Government, but with slight differences due to our peculiar requirements. Squires promises the same thing, and yet in what different wording. The two manifestoes, in dealing with the treatment to be accorded our returned men and the dependents of our boys, are as widely contrasted as are the characters of the two leaders. Sir M. P. Cashin speaks and writes frankly. He appeals not to vanity nor does he revel in the realms of flattery, but simply states in a few terse words what his Government, if returned (as it will be next week) intends to do. Looking at Squires' manifesto, however, we find much, yet little. The matter is dealt with in three ways; first by abusing the Government of neglecting our sailors and soldiers; secondly by effusively dotting over the part Ours played in the war, merely for the sake of getting votes; and thirdly by proposing to do exactly what Sir M. P. Cashin stated his Government would do. Squires could not resist the temptation to make a big "splash" over this, and the result was the long section referred to.

Even as a man is known by his writings, so is Squires known by his manifesto. Nowhere in his outlined policy (?) can be found anything praiseworthy, for through it all there runs the strain of egotism and hypocrisy. The people know exactly what the Government has done in the past, and Squires' abuse of his opponents is characteristic of the man, who, knowing the weakness of his promises, tries to delude and impose upon the public by long-winded and meaningless epistolary writings. All the Opposition writers by their discreet silence upon this wonderful masterpiece (?) of Hon. R. A. Squires, have shown their lack of appreciation of their leader's writings. Even they cannot extol their leader's hypocrisy. Cashin's policy, outlined, is crisp and clear, nothing foggy about it, and every voter can read and understand what is meant. Every sailor and soldier can see clearly what treatment will be given him. They know the uselessness as well as the merit of fulsome sayings, and they will, according to the dictates of their conscience, on polling day, vote for the man who has sufficient manliness to ask for their suffrages for him and his colleagues without appealing to them by giving them flattering words and empty promises, as the leader of the Opposition has done in his manifesto. Sailors you know the value of Squires' promises, because you know what he has been capable of in the past. Soldiers you too, understand the motive of Squires in thus appealing. Is his war record sufficient guarantee that he will do the utmost for you? We question it. The country questions it, and because you question it, you will vote for those in whom you can rely, Sir M. P. Cashin and his party, because you all know that SQUIRES CAN'T BE TRUSTED.

Another Admission.

Coaker, in Saturday's Advocate, reckons up how that Morine will get 1203 votes in Bonavista Bay. Coaker has pranced and prophesied much in his time, but this last prophesy of his is really laughable. Besides its surface absurdity, for who told Coaker 1203 men were going to vote for Morine, there is the admission, again unwittingly made, of the popularity of Morine and his colleagues in Bonavista District. Coaker, judging by the message he is again in the "sanctity of inspiration" at his bungalow, Port Union, and we presume that he was inspired (?) there to tell the exact vote to be polled by his opponent. Eighty votes for Morine at Bonavista, the place where Coaker was continually interrupted, because of his lack of argument and plentitude of abuse. Seventy votes from Newtown, where the people are practically a solid unit for Morine and Co., and thus the list might be extended. Coaker said nothing of his sickness on the message, but to-day he's more than sick in spirit. With his fellow aspirant Squires, he sees the people disgusted because of his lies and broken pledges, and in fear he awaits the verdict (a second kaiser) of next Monday.

All who know anything of Coaker's record and his unfulfilled prophesies, know that his estimate of Morine's polling in Bonavista, can be easily doubled. Coaker worded the message thus in an endeavor to convince the electorate of his frankness. How little he knows the voters of Newfoundland when he practices such a policy. The town to-day is full of outport visitors, here in schooners, with their season's produce. Many of their laugh when you speak to them of Coaker and the price of fish. Talk to them and you realize exactly what hold Coaker has on the minds of the outport voters, for these fishermen, whom Coaker has boasted of as his followers, see through the shallowness of the man's protestations, and behold Coaker for what he is, a blatant demagogue. The climax is reached when Coaker, in the coziness of his bungalow, can gauge the exact number of Morine's supporters even to 1203. Verily it is to laugh! People are asking what will be the next admission of this wonderful Prophet. Will it be that the Coakerites are not as popular as the candidates of the Government? It evokes no surprise to know that a well-known sport of St. John's has wagered that Morine will be elected in Bonavista Bay. His money is safe, for even Coaker's message admits it. Although Coaker is so engagingly (?) frank thus far, yet he has never explained why Squires is fit to be premier if he was not worthy to retain his seat in the Legislative Council. Neither has Coaker ever said if W. D. Reid financed part of the present political campaign, nor what Squires and he are going to give W. D. Reid in return. Voters you have seen how Coaker views his chances in Bonavista District. The Opposition's lying and despicable tactics among the outport fishermen, of which more anon, will not gain the day, for these same methods are disgusting honest people, and the fiat has even now gone forth, that neither Coaker nor Squires can be trusted and that

Cashin Will Come Back.

The Star that Guides the Wise Voter.

Its Place in the Sun is Assured.

Remember This!

Remember, voter, that Coaker charged Squires with accepting $5,000 from the Reids at a time when this same Squires was appointed by the Government to investigate claims made by the Reids against this Colony. Coaker furthermore charged that when this secret deal was exposed, Squires, to save his skin, went up to H. D. Reid to request him to sign a letter that this money was not paid over to Squires. And Coaker further charged that H. D. Reid refused to sign this letter. Now voters, every intelligent man amongst you, ask yourselves the question what is the construction to be put upon this deal? How would you class the character of any man over which hangs a cloud like that? Are you going to say by your votes that a man over which hangs such a cloud is a fit and proper person to entrust with the care of the public revenues of this Colony, with the guardianship and trusteeship of the people's money in the Savings Bank, for which the Government are responsible? Are you going to approve of that man taking charge of all that money to safeguard it in your interests and on your behalf? Are you going to say, "yes, Squires, although you, when you were appointed to stand between this Colony and Reid's claims, took from Reid, as Coaker charged, a graft of $5,000, still it is a man like you we want to protect our revenue and the monies of the people in the Savings Bank?" You also say to yourselves, "it is individuals with blackened characters whom we want to handle the public monies; it is men who should not be trusted, that we want to rule; it is men like Squires whom Coaker claimed was bribed, that we, the Liberal voters of Newfoundland are proud to vote for."

Colony, is that represented by the blasted character of R. A. Squires. We cannot believe that the Liberals of Newfoundland are going to tell their children on the third day of November next, that the high position placed at their disposal is going to be given by them to a man who, under the circumstances, charged by Coaker, and not denied by Squires, has committed an offence contrary to the trainings instilled into the minds of these children by the parents who cast these votes. From the pulpits of the land we hear every week the sound warnings and instructions as to how our careers should be guided, and parents who wish to rear up children to be worthy citizens of the land, daily endeavor to keep them along that road of honor and of honesty. The youth of the country are not taught to fashion their careers so that over their heads would hang such stigma of reproach as that which hangs over the head of R. A. Squires upon the evidence of W. F. Coaker. Then we see further that though W. F. Coaker made this public charge against R. A. Squires, and that R. A. Squires did not refute it, this same Coaker, unable to get any other party to join him politically, joins hands, in an endeavor to get control of the public funds, with this self-same Squires of the blasted reputation. What can be the motives then, Liberals of Newfoundland, that has brought about this union between the accuser and the accused? If Coaker claimed that Squires should have been driven from public life upon this charge, why does Coaker now want you to exalt this man and place him in a position where it is your money and not Reid's, that he will obtain control of? This is the pair then that claim to be Liberal, but you can quite understand that they are not so assessed in the merits of real Liberals. Vote Squires down then and the candidates he has chosen, and you will prevent that man, with his stigma of reproach, from handling your money and your property.

THE NEW PROPHET.

During the past eight years or so, Mr. Coaker has played a diversity of roles in the political drama of this country's affairs. In former years, he instilled it into the minds of his followers that he was an emissary from heaven, sent forth to release them from their bondage. He commenced his pilgrimage by the most virulent and blasphemous abuse of the merchants, and denounced them as being the curse of the country from generation to generation. The result—he had to bend his knee to the merchants to carry on his business. The next act in the drama was—a continuous attack upon Lord Morris and all associated with him. Coaker repeatedly stated that he would rather die a hundred deaths (or words to that effect, but too vulgar to print) than be identified with Morris. Result—Morris got him when he wanted him, as he said he would, when Coaker was abusing him.

Young Peoples' Rally.
A grand Rally of the young people of the Methodist churches of the City will be held this evening at 7.45 o'clock in the auditorium of Gower St. Church. Rev. Dr. Bond, President of the Conference will preside. The speakers will be Rev. Manson Doyle of Toronto, Secretary of Young Peoples' Work for the Methodist Church of Canada and Newfoundland and Rev. Samuel Soper, Missionary from China, who for the last seven years has been supported in his work in that country by the Sunday Schools of Newfoundland. It is expected that the church will be filled with a representative gathering of the young Methodists of the city. There will be good music.

Palcentia & St. Mary's Solid for Government.
If any doubt ever existed in the mind of even the most pessimistic supporter of the Government candidates, as to their success in Placentia Bay, all doubt has now completely vanished, and victory is a foregone conclusion. Mr. M. S. Sullivan, one of the Government candidates has returned to town for a day or two, after making a thorough canvass of the district in company with his colleagues, and the result is, in plain English, a clean sweep from one end of the district to the other. Well done Placentia and St. Mary's. Now Trinity Bay, join hands with your neighbor and sweep the Tory hirelings and their Canadian barrel out of existence in the political life of the Country.

KEAN HOLDS GREAT MEETING AT ROCKY HARBOR.

(Special to Evening Telegram.)
ROCKY HR., Oct. 25.
Capt. Kean held the best meeting ever held at Rocky Hr. in a school house last night, and gave us a full explanation of everything that Scammell failed to do. It was certainly an eye opener for the Scammell men, and everyone came away from the meeting feeling satisfied that Capt. Kean is the man for this District. He will poll the largest vote from Rocky Hr. that any man has polled.

A Vote for Squires Is a Vote for Coaker!

And Coaker Would Boss Squires and Force Bolshevick Legislation. Keep Them Out!

There are a great many electors in the country who, knowing the menace of Coaker's programme, and what he is capable of doing, say nevertheless that they will vote for Squires and his men, but would not like to see the revenue of the Colony under the control of Coaker. Such people are living in a fool's paradise when they think along these lines. A vote for Squires or his men is a vote for Coaker, because Squires will have to do what Coaker wants to have done, if by any chance (which is not likely) that they should get the Government. No man who has had anything to do with Coaker in public life, and very many in private life, will tell you that "he is a man impossible to get along with." He wants to have his way on all occasions, and the two gentlemen who have had the keenest experience of this fact are Sir Robert Bond and Sir W. F. Lloyd. He will serve Squires worse or set him crazy before it reaches that stage. People then who are justifying their consciences by saying that they will vote for Squires or his men, but not for Coaker, are cheating themselves, for it is Coaker's programme that Squires will have to take up or else get out. Already there is said to be knife sharpening going on and it is only their mutual political hatred of Cashin and his party that is keeping them quiet. It is a well known fact that Coaker expected that Squires would say something about guaranteeing the price of fish in the manifesto, and that Squires failed to do so because he knew that though it might get votes for Coaker, it would ruin his own chances in the South and West. But he will be up against this proposition should he and Coaker get enough men to make a majority—an event which is not very likely to occur.

The point we wish to emphasize is that the man who votes for Squires votes for Coaker, because Coaker will be in a position to boss Squires, and all his crazy plans will have to be carried out, or Squires himself will have to be carried out—a political corpse. If the whole revenue is required to boost up his own crazy schemes, it will have to be forthcoming. The interests of Conception Bay, St. John's, the South and West Coasts will have no more consideration in Coaker's plans than if they were on the planet Mars. No, this is no fiction, but is said in sober earnest. If you want the proof you have only to look over the back files of his Advocate. It is all concerned with the interests of "Port Union's" friend Guppy and a few hundreds of men whose money given to him so freely enabled him to have a good time ever since 1910. As far as any impartial observer can see, the Union has been successful in one particular only, and that is in enabling Mr. Coaker to live well, dine well, travel well, and have a good time generally. He is fighting desperately now to keep this up, and the fact that he was ready to unite with Squires after all the venom that they spat at each other, is a poor compliment to both, and shows also a poor appreciation of the intelligence and the memory of the general public. Neither one or the other can be trusted with the public revenues, and certainly the people will not trust them. Coaker will not succeed in getting the public funds to guarantee the price of fish, not that he would not be able to force Squires to do it if he got the chance, but for the very good reasons (1) that both combined will not get the men to make a Government; (2) that CASHIN IS COMING BACK!

above his own. He has taken advantage of our weakness to further his own selfish ends, to make himself popular and rich at our expense. It's time, God knows, for such talk as making St. John's streets run red with blood, tearing down this thing, and destroying some other, to stop. We hear from day to day that mob rule and riotous acts are taking place in some of our outports, such unholy and vile business springs up in so-called Coaker strongholds, and if allowed to continue, must result in placing us in the same condition as Russia, with its terrible consequences that follows crime.

No wonder then that the ministers of God are denouncing this evil; too long have they been silent, no conscientious man can uphold the doctrine of Bolshevism in this country, and we all would do well to remember, that for which our fathers fought and died, Freedom and Right. Therefore fishermen of Trinity District, be careful how you mark your ballot; don't be a party to evil, and bring the curse of your children upon your heads. Think well, act well, and all will be well with us. Let us be Union men by all means, to live in unity with all men that should be the motto. But certainly not Coaker men who would lead us to our undoing. Away with such deceivers of the people. Give us good men and true men.

Verily we have them in Stone, Mathews and Carnell.
(Signed)—
TRINITY BAY FISHERMAN.

Honourable?

The Opposition press make a big "splurge" over the speech-making of R. A. Squires at Bell Island, but we are credibly informed that the enthusiasm was far less than the Liberal Reform (?) leader wanted, and so he as usually reverted to the abuse of his opponents, particularly Hon. W. J. Higgins. In fact he grew quite fluent, and admitted that Coaker whom he has so bitterly accused and who asked for the dismissal of Squires from the Legislature, was a great friend of the workmen of St. John's. Coaker is no friend of the workers of this city, but is a friend only to himself and to Squires outwardly now, for the advancement of their own political designs. Squires did not say anything about his writing to Halifax and importing foreign workmen to do his house, because as he stated the workmen of St. John's were unable to do it. Some encouragement of St. John's industries is Hon. R. A. Squires. Some friend of the workmen is Squires, and well worthy (?) isn't he to abuse another as to his attitude towards the workmen? Will Hon. R. A. S. import foreign labor to do up his residence, "Beaconsfield" if he is fortunate enough to possess it? It is current topic that this is one of the things Mr. Squires is desirous of getting after he has won the premiership? What about it workmen? We know your answer. With Squires' importations, and Coaker's statements to kill St. John's industries, it is certain that November 3rd will answer that you have chosen wisely in refusing to vote for the Liberal reformers (?)

A FISHERMAN'S APPEAL.

TO THE INDEPENDENT ELECTORS OF TRINITY DISTRICT:—

Gentlemen,—On the 3rd day of November, you will be called upon to record your votes for the candidates of Sir M. P. Cashin, or those of the two-in-one party led by W. F. Coaker and R. A. Squires.

Now come let us reason together. I am a Union fisherman, and have as much interest in my native district, as any of my brother fishermen, and was, until very recently a Coaker man, but my conscience has convinced me, and I have decided to cut clear of party prejudice. Yes to throw off the shackles of Coakerism, and to vote on principle, and that alone, regardless of who I offend.

I simply thought it out for myself how could I uphold the teachings of Coaker and do justice to John G. Stone, a man I am sure who did more for Trinity District than any member we ever had.

Come then, straight talk, let us reason together in a common sense way, for any other way is really no way.

Take the leaders. In Sir M. P. Cashin we have a self-made man, a Newfoundlander who have made good by his ability as a fisherman and as a business man, and we can take it from Coaker's own mouth-piece our Advocate (save the mark) that Sir Michael Cashin is the only man fit to run the Government, who helped us in our dark hour by putting up his money for us. These are facts no sensible man can deny, because Coaker himself has told us—hence my reason for the stand I take.

Now, let us take the other two, Coaker and Squires, and reason once more. A few short months ago both these men were attacking one another with all the devilish and most vehement hatred one man could scrape up to assail the other, and mark you well, Union men, Mr.

Coaker's words to us. Not to allow R. A. Squires, the black rascal, to put his nose in any of our Union Districts.

What do you think of that, fishermen friends. Here now we find these same two men coming before us asking us fishermen to support them. Certainly gracious they must think us all dense fools. I must take my stand on the defence of right and common sense and vote against such schemery.

Let us fishermen, be true men, let this District do right, regardless of Coaker or anybody who would dare to insult our intelligence.

Again we all know, that Coaker has been abusing everybody that dared to express an opinion contrary to his, denounced clergymen and Governor and men whose name is far

BAULINE

FALLS IN LINE WITH THE REST OF THE SHORE.

On Saturday afternoon "The Fighting Trio" visited the settlement of Bauline and held a splendid meeting in the school house there. Although the meeting was held at an inconvenient time, in the early afternoon, the residents showed their appreciation of the candidates' visit by turning out in their numbers to attend. Mr. Ralph King, an ex-Reservist, who has done such work in the Senior branch of the Service, was appointed chairman of the meeting, and conducted it capably and with great credit to himself. Amongst the audience were numbered some returned soldiers and sailors. The presence of these men shows the interest taken by them in the country for which they have fought so valiantly and well. Mr. Higgins spoke to the meeting on local matters, and also explained the manifesto of his leader, Sir M. P. Cashin. He pointed out the improvements which have taken place in that part of the District during the past few years, and showed that the interests of Bauline always received his best attention. He then introduced his two colleagues, who spoke at some length on the policy of the Liberal-Progressive party, pointing out the advantages it contained in comparison with that of the leader of the Opposition. They made a profound impression upon the people of Bauline, who acknowledged them to be the proper types to represent them in the House of Assembly.

Before closing Mr. Higgins thanked the men for their kindness in leaving their work to attend the meeting, and trusted they would feel well recompensed by what they had heard. He adjured them to vote the straight ticket for Higgins, Vinicombe and St. John's. After the singing of the National Anthem, the meeting closed with cheers for the "Fighting Trio," and their leader, Sir Michael Cashin.

Wedding Bells.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Oct. 16th at the Wesley Parsonage when Mr. George Taylor, cooper of the South Side, and Miss Florence V. Harris were united in the silken bonds of matrimony by the Rev. W. B. Bugden, B.A. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. H. T. Meadus, while Mr. Meadus ably assisted the groom. The presents received were both numerous and costly, including a handsome rocker from the employees of the Nfld. Knitting Mills.

HARRIS-RUSSELL.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Wesley Church Methodist Parsonage on the night of Saturday, 25th inst. when Miss Florence Russell, adopted daughter of Mr. R. C. Russell, F.M.C. was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Fred L. Harris, assistant cutter at the Royal Stores Ltd., Clothing Factory; Rev. W. B. Bugden, B.A., officiating. The bride who was prettily attired, was attended by Mrs. S. G. Grimes, sister of the groom, while Mr. Grimes supported the groom. After the ceremony the party motored countrywards, thence to the future home of the bride and groom, York St., where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. They were the recipients of gifts both costly and numerous, showing the esteem in which both were held.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Capt. William Jackman took place yesterday evening from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James J. Maher, Garrison Hill, and was very largely attended by all classes of the community. The ceremony at the Cathedral was conducted by His Lordship, Rt. Rev. Dr. Power, Bishop of St. George's, assisted by Rev. Dr. Carter and Rev. E. J. Rawlins, after which the funeral procession wended its way to Belvidere, where all that was mortal of a truly good woman was laid to rest. Mr. J. T. Martin had charge of the funeral arrangements.

- 7.—VINNICOMBE.
Nicholas J. Vinnicombe, of St. John's, Grocer.

Of which all persons are hereby required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.
Given under my hand this 24th day of October, 1919.

J. B. WADLAND,
Returning Officer.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Every volunteer, as defined by the Election Act 1919, shall be competent to vote at the Poll on 3rd November.

A volunteer is one who has served outside of the Colony during the present war, as a member of the Regiment, Naval Reserve or Forestry Corps.

J. B. WADLAND,
Returning Officer.

Directions for the Guidance of Electors in Voting.

Each elector on entering the booth room where the Poll is to be held shall declare his name, surname and addition.

After doing this he shall receive a Ballot Paper in the above form.

Each elector, if required by the Deputy Returning Officer, the Poll Clerk, one of the Candidates, or one of their agents, shall, before receiving his ballot paper, take an oath of qualification.

The voter is to vote only for three candidates.

After receiving his Ballot Paper the voter shall go into one of the compartments, and, with a pencil there provided, place a cross in the division containing the name or names of the Candidate or Candidates for whom he intends to vote, thus X.

The voter will then fold the Ballot Paper, so as to show a portion of the back only, with the initials of the Deputy Returning Officer, and shall hand it so folded up to the Deputy Returning Officer, and the Deputy Returning Officer shall, without unfolding it, ascertain that it is the Ballot Paper which he furnished to the elector, and then immediately place it in the Ballot Box. The voter shall forthwith leave the Polling Station.

If a voter inadvertently spoils a Ballot Paper he may return it to the Deputy Returning Officer, who will give him another.

If a voter votes for more candidates than he is entitled to vote for, or places any mark on the Ballot Paper which he can afterwards be identified, his vote will be void and will not be counted.

If a voter takes a Ballot or Ballot Paper out of the Polling Station, or fraudulently puts any other into the Ballot Box than the paper given him by the Deputy Returning Officer, he will be subject to be punished by Fine of Five Hundred Dollars, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding Six Months, with or without hard labour.

Team 16 Denies Insinuations.

OUR REPLY THERETO.

Dear Sir:—In connection with a statement in the Daily News of October 16th, and reprinted in the Evening Telegram in reference to Team 16, of the Methodist Education Extension Campaign, the Team denies categorically each and every insinuation in that statement.

On account of the absence of some of the members of that Team from town, this denial has been delayed to this date. This matter is being referred to the Board of Governors of the Methodist College for further action.

Yours very truly, J. W. McNEILLY, H. MACPHERSON, A. SALTER, A. V. ROSS, CHAS. R. DUDDER, F. H. STEER, JOSEPH SELLARS, PHILIP TEMPLEMAN, E. LINDSAY.

St. John's, October 25, 1919.

In publishing the foregoing letter we desire to say that we do not accept their disclaimer in the light of information that we possess of a character contradictory thereto, as well as documentary evidence that we publish below showing that everything tended to confirm our view of the matter and bring us to no other conclusion than that arrived at in our first deductions.

ing, and sponsored by prominent members on that occasion of team 16, and who were parties to the low-down, contemptible paragraph in Squires' manifesto with relation to Sir Michael Cashin's alleged issuing of a script for whiskey, together with the manifesto prohibition. The man who could write such a thing and the men who could be parties to their leader's words re prohibition scripts himself, could not be acquainted with the meaning of the word "hypocrite." We invite our readers to read the message below, and feel that not only Methodists, but citizens of every denomination will repudiate the men connected with the Squires party who could so far forget themselves as to send such a message over the wires to Montreal.

Great enthusiasm over Educational Campaign. Aim is two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. There are sixteen teams. We are the sixteenth team, and took hold when it seemed that organization likely to be liquidated. We are high liners every night and must put over fifty thousand dollars for our team. We want to do sixty if we can. Must whip the good, non-smoking bunch stiff when it comes to doing business, even if we may not have such a good chance for a diamond crown and gold footstool a century hence. Harry Reid has helped us like a joker and telegraphed us ten thousand dollars. We have dug the fifty here out of our own pockets until we are running Light For God's sake telegraph us ten thousand or so by Sunday, as we must beat the bunch by Monday, when it is all over. This is really a great movement; figures show there are 23 hundred children here in St. John's who cannot learn to read and write as there are no schools to handle them at all. One firm here has given twenty thousand dollars. Most of big pledges are for annual payments for five years. We are having the time of our lives and if you will wire us at least ten thousand, we will make the beams of the old place ring. The whole bunch was enthusiastic when you got that handle. Hearty congratulations and good luck.

HERE IS THE MESSAGE: St. John's, Nfld., June 14th, 1919. Sir John Crosbie, Ritz Carlton, Montreal, Que.

Charge of Bribery. At a meeting to organize the Cardiff branch of the Comrades' Association in support of its candidates for the City Council Major Henry Davies made startling allegations. He stated that immediately it was known that the ex-Service men of Cardiff would contest the elections the representative of a rich syndicate interviewed the secretary (Mr. J. W. Evans) and informed him that if the candidates would adopt a certain policy in regard to a matter in which he was financially interested he would give $1,000 per annum to the organization and pay the expenses of the candidates. Mr. Evans told that individual something that was remarkable for its luminosity and its phosphorescence. The Executive endorsed his action, and told him if the individual approached him again he was to treat him as he would treat a nun. Mr. J. W. Evans, in an interview on the subject, said: "Major Davies' statement is perfectly true, but does not go far enough. Our society was to benefit to the extent stated, and another popular local institution was to benefit financially to the extent of $1,000 a year."

Household Notes. Salt in white wash makes it stick. The best soups are very slowly cooked. A good color for nursery walls is soft green. Milk should never be kept in an open vessel. Lay white lace away in blue or yellow paper. Flour should always be kept in a cool, dry place. Chicken fat is almost better than butter for cake. Place a broom on its handle end when not in use. Laundry bags of Turkish towelling are excellent.

C. P. EAGAN, Duckworth Street and Queen's Head.

for a Lord God or whatever the next step is. Here is Sir John Crosbie's reply—a well-merited rebuke—and the reason why he did not subscribe to the campaign fund which people were wondering about at the time: REPLY. Montreal, June 16th, 1919. Winter is Coming.

Already the chilly days of Autumn are here, and you should not risk the chance of catching cold in a house where the fires die out, or where a great delay of time is necessary to start them on a frosty morning. A little Gas Heater, Gas Grate, or steam radiator will furnish you with just as much heat here as you require, and just as little, by simply turning a tap. We have Radiant Fires, Chill-Chasers, Set-In-Grates, Steam Radiators, and appliances to suit all requirements of the Home.

Garden Competition.

Dear Girls and Boys,— We hope that all who were interested in the Garden Competition last summer will plant some bulbs for spring blooming, in the house or in the garden. The bulbs are sold very cheaply, but you should have difficulty in obtaining the varieties required, we have secured a quantity which may be bought from us at cost price. Prizes:—Six prizes of two dollars each are offered. Three for flowers grown in the house and the same number for flowers grown out of doors. Intending competitors are requested to send in their names as early as possible to A. M. A., Post Office Box 476.

No entries will be received after November 1st. Everyone who enters will give directions when and where to obtain the bulbs which will not cost more than thirty or forty cents. Full instructions for planting will be given each applicant. A. M. A., E. G. S.

YOUR GOOD TURN. Boys, don't think that you are only to do one good turn in a day. Do as many as you can but do at least one. Don't forget it, it is too important. Here is a good hint don't wear your badge properly until you have done your good turn; that is, wear it upside down. Take my tip, "Scouting for Boys" urges you to tie a knot in your neck-tie but that spoils your tie and I am sure he would not advise if he knew the price of ties here (also it is difficult to tie a knot in the fashionable "broad-ends"). Don't keep your badge upside down too long.

WOLF CUBS.

We have not forgotten that there are Cubs in the city for the Cubsmaster of the Gower St. Troop reminded us. Thanks. He said that some had passed their tenderpad's test. Here is the test for the "Two Star Test." (1) Have six month's service as One Star Cub. (2) Elementary First Aid. (3) Know semaphore or Morse for every letter. (4) Kim's Game 16 out of 24. (5) Go a mile in 15 minutes, Scout's Pace. (6) and (7) Light a fire with two matches and cook two potatoes and ¼ lb. of meat. (to be continued.)

WHAT IS YOUR TROOP YELL!

Have you a yell? I hope so, because every troop should have its own distinctive yell. Get something original, not the "One, two three" stuff. Put all your troop poets on the job and get a decent yell. Here is the yell of all the Scouts—"Een gonyama Gonyama" Choms—Ivoo! Ya-boh! Ya-boh! Inboohoo!

STOMACH ON A STRIKE

"Pape's Diapepsin" puts Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomachs in order at once! Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.

Obituary.

It is with deep regret that we record to-day the passing on Saturday of Mrs. Ethel Brady, wife of Mr. Francis Brady of this city, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Woolridge, of Trinity. Deceased had been in poor health for a year past; but two months ago her illness became acute, since which time she suffered greatly, but with a fortitude that was an inspiration to those around her, and whose loving ministrations could not ward off the "last great enemy." While she knew of the inevitable result of her illness, her solitude for her family never wavered. Of a bright and cheery disposition, deceased will be greatly missed by the many friends who knew her and esteemed her very highly. Besides her husband and parents she leaves to mourn two daughters, one son, and a brother and sister, Miss Emma Woolridge, who is matron of a nurses home in Canada, and several relatives in the city, to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy in their sad bereavement.

The White and the An Apparition Th proaching

(London Times) Most people have heard of the white Lady of the Hohenzollerns, that weird, mysterious figure who, according to legend, has appeared to royal members of the Hohenzollern family again and again when any great disaster has threatened their throne. There are many conflicting statements as to her origin: the most probable, however, is that she was the Lady Bertha von Rosenberg, the daughter of Ulrich von Rosenberg, and the wife of Johan von Lichtenberg, a wealthy noble, whose prodigality and cruelty broke her heart, and somewhere about the year 1800, her portrait is still to be seen in several old Bohemian castles, when she is always represented as wearing white widow's dress, with a white veil partially covering her face. It is said that Lady Bertha was of singularly devout and religious disposition, and that it was with the prospect of warning them to reflect and prepare for approaching disaster or death that her apparition manifested itself to doomed members of the reigning family. And, if rumor is to be believed, the figure of the tall, beautiful lady has appeared, comparatively recently, to no less a person than the ex-Kaiser!

Three Appearances. In a book published in Paris about three years ago—"La Dame Blanche de Hohenzollern," by the author, J. H. Lavaur, states that certain of his countrymen, who had been in Germany a few weeks before the outbreak of the European War, declared that a rumor was rife in Berlin that early in the summer of 1914 the famous white Lady of the Hohenzollerns had been seen by the Emperor. The White Lady and the ex-Kaiser.

An Apparition That Foretold Approaching Doom.

Most people have heard of the White Lady of the Hohenzollerns, that weird, mysterious "figure" who, according to legend, has appeared to various members of the Hohenzollern family again and again when any grave disaster has threatened their house.

There are many conflicting statements as to her origin: the most probable, however, is that she was the Lady Bertha von Rosenberg, the daughter of Ulrich von Rosenberg, and the wife of Johan von Lichtenstein, a wealthy noble, whose pro-miscuity and cruelty broke her heart, born somewhere about the year 1400, her portrait is still to be seen in several old Bohemian castles, when she is always represented as wearing a white widow's dress, with a white veil partially covering her face.

It is said that Lady Bertha was of singularly devout and religious opinion, and that it was with the object of warning them to reflect and prepare for approaching disaster or death that her apparition manifested itself to doomed members of the reigning family. And, if rumor is to be believed, the figure of the tall, spectral lady has appeared, comparatively recently, to no less a person than the ex-Kaiser!

Three Appearances.
In a book published in Paris about three years ago—"La Dame Blanche" that certain of his own countrymen who had been in Germany a few weeks before the outbreak of the European War, declared that a rumour was rife in Berlin that early in the summer of 1914 the famous White Lady of the Hohenzollerns had been seen by the Emperor. The Emperor attempted to suppress circulation of the disquieting report, but, whispered first of all at Court, it was repeated to the nobility, and then spread rapidly amongst the people. Eventually there was anecdotally a person in the neighborhood who did not say—irrespective of whether he believed the rumour, or not—that the sinister specter, whose appearance always foreboded disaster to the Imperial House, had recently been seen, not only once, but three times, by the Emperor!

The first of these appearances, it was stated, took place one night in later, he asserted that he had been visited a second time by the dread apparition, they must have begun to think that there was some truth in the uncanny legend after all.

Held Out Her Arms.
On this second occasion the White Lady made herself visible to him at Berlin, and the time chosen was about three o'clock one afternoon.
The Royal Standard floated gaily over the Imperial residence, and the townfolk were going happily about their various occupations, as unconcernedly and unsuspectingly as if no war-cloud was at that very moment rising higher and higher above the horizon. They did not see the Emperor, who, shut away from the breeze, was pacing, wrapped in heavy thought, up and down the long gallery within the palace.

His walk was agitated, his countenance frowning and anxious.
Every now and then he withdrew from his pocket a document, which he scanned carefully, and then, raising his eyes, gravely studied the portraits of his ancestors which gazed down upon him from the walls. Suddenly withdrawing his eyes from the portrait of that fair English princess who had been his own mother, he saw coming slowly towards him, from the other end of the long gallery, a shadowy figure dressed in flowing white, and carrying a bunch of keys in her hand.

Rooted to the ground, he gazed at her with horror and, as he admitted afterwards, felt the hair rising on his head and the perspiration standing out on his brow. Gazing fixedly at him, she continued to advance, slowly, noiselessly, her ghostly footsteps making no sound upon the floor. As she drew nearer to him she held out her arms towards him, as if to enfold
him. The stricken man, his horror increasing, made a violent effort to move, but his limbs refused to obey him. He was literally paralyzed with fright.

Then, just as she came close up to him, she turned aside abruptly and moved away in the direction of a small side door. Through this, after opening it with her uncanny bunch of keys, she disappeared.

In a State of Collapse.
At this moment the Emperor recovered his powers of speech and movement. He uttered a loud, terrified cry, which resounded throughout the palace, and officers, chamberlains, guards, and lackeys came running to the gallery in hot haste to see what had happened. They found their master in a state bordering on collapse, and, to the anxious questions they put to him, he was only able to give rambling and incoherent answers. Eventually he retired to his own apartments, and it was many hours before he returned to his normal state of mind.

A few weeks later the dreaded White Lady appeared a third time to Wilhelm II. This manifestation took place in a forest, though exactly where situated has not been satisfactorily verified. It was said that while on a hunting expedition Wilhelm suddenly encountered a phantom female figure, dressed in white, who, springing apparently from nowhere, stopped in front of his horse and blew a shadowy horn, the animal —which evidently saw the apparition also—being so frightened that its rider was almost thrown to the ground. The figure then disappeared as mysteriously as it had come.
About this third appearance of his family spectre the Emperor apparently kept silence himself, but this time two officers, who were riding by his side, are alleged to have seen it too, and it is through them that the facts became known.

Household Notes.

It is a good idea to serve vegetables as a separate course.
When cooking beef in a fireless cooker, do not salt until done.
In making candy, a teaspoonful of vinegar will prevent stickiness.
Pickled mackerel contains more nutriment than most other fish.
Keep court-plaster on hand to mend tears in heavy garments.
When apples for pies are insipid put a little lemon juice in them.

Mrs. Moores Weighed Only
Eighty Pounds

Now Weighs Exactly One Hundred and Twenty Pounds
After Taking Tanlac.

Still another comes forward and adds her voice to the hundreds who have already endorsed the wonderful medicine, Tanlac. This time it is Mrs. M. Moores, residing at 25 Adelaide Street, St. John's, Newfoundland.

Mrs. Moores says she suffered for years as a result of which she had fallen off until she weighed only eighty pounds, but the now weighs one hundred and twenty pounds.
"Beginning twelve years ago with indigestion," said Mrs. Moores relating her remarkable case to a special Tanlac representative, recently, "my troubles kept multiplying until it seemed like nearly everything was the matter with me. I don't believe there was a whole day passed during those twelve years but what I suffered in some way or other was the matter with me. My food would invariably sour on my stomach causing gas and almost unbearable pain and distress. I was subject to bilious attacks, which made me almost deathly sick, and sometimes I thought I would go distracted with headache. There was an awful burning sensation in my stomach and a severe pain in my back all the time. I tried every medicine that was recommended and was under treatment a number of times, but nothing helped me. In fact, I kept getting worse and lost weight and strength until I was just a shadow of what I used to be and so weak it was all I could do to get around.

"When I began taking Tanlac I weighed only eighty pounds, but I now weigh one hundred and twenty.
If you had seen me before I began using this medicine you would not recognize me as the same person. I was so nervous and miserable I could not sleep and would lie awake night after night suffering and wondering if there was nothing made that would help me. After seeing Tanlac recommended so highly by my husband I decided to try it, and never had any idea there was a medicine that could make such a difference in a person in so short a time. Why, I had never seen any one else who I have been built up until I feel just as well and happy as I did when a young girl. I am just full of energy all the time, never have a headache, eat just anything I want, and my house work is no effort for me at all.
A number of my neighbors are now taking Tanlac, and I can see a difference in them already. I am praising it all the time for it certainly has made the world with living for me, and I am glad to give this statement to be used in letting others know what it is that has given me back my health."

A dull dragging feeling of the body, a sluggish mind, dull memory, depression of spirits, nervousness, irritability, stomach trouble, indigestion, backache, headache and general debility are among the numerous symptoms from which a surprisingly large number of people suffer. Experience has taught us that ninety per cent of all chronic ill health is caused by poor digestion and non-assimilation of the food, which produces a catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane.

Tanlac benefited Mrs. Moores because it contains certain medicinal principles which combat these very troubles. Thousands are now using this famous medicine in all sections of the American continent and scores of men and women expressing deep gratitude as a result of having found such a great source of relief.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M.
Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac Representative.—

The Fish Trade.

During the month just closed shore fish prices held out well in the local market and there is good reason to believe that the price for hard cured shore will endure at $11 and $12 in the local at least. There is, it must be remembered only a limited quantity of this quality and it is quite likely that the value will increase in the coming winter.

Whilst Oporto has been carrying a big stock of Newfoundland fish the past two months, the markets of the Mediterranean have so far received very little of our fish of 1919 catch, which leads to the belief that prices will improve later in the season. Now as to soft Labrador, the proportion is one to cause more doubt. There is certainly a very large catch this year, we estimate not much less than half a million quintals.

Only about 200,000 quintals have yet come into St. John's, which is an unusual circumstance for this time of the year. The price which opened at $10.50 in September declined gradually every week till it got down to $8.00. Unless a ship is loading for the foreign market at the time this fish is offering the merchants are not inclined to buy. They are evidently not willing to take the chance of buying from others than dealers whom they supply, and risk storing large quantities on speculation for winter and spring shipment. They say the outlook in the foreign markets, where this fish is sold, will not warrant their doing so, and the memory of last spring's losses in this quality of fish in Italy and Greece tends to make them move with caution. First cargoes of the fish (Labrador) offering this fall was not well made and in some cases the merchants refuse to take it at all. This is remarkable in view of past experience and the warnings that were given to the fishermen from all quarters last spring to make good fish.

ately, one day's sun, and was as damp and limp as dish cloth. It is strange that the owners would expect to sell this kind of fish and get the best Labrador price for it! If the fish weighs better they should also see that every day's sun means about fifty cents more on the price, and there is no delay and no trouble in selling. In several cases this damp fish was in the under part of the cargo and after being half-charged the schooner had to haul away from the wharf as the merchant would not take any more. The owners had to haul to the South Side, put the fish ashore and give it two or three days' sun, a bit of experience that could have been avoided.
It seems that it is necessary that our people have to be taught a few hard lessons like this before they will do what they should do.—Trade Review.

'Operation' on Chimney
LEANING STRUCTURE STRAIGHTENED IN FIVE DAYS.
Threatening at any moment to collapse over a mill, a stone chimney at Bradford, 100 feet high, and leaning 2ft. 8in. out of perpendicular, has been straightened by a Yorkshire firm of steplejacks. A hole was made in the side, and 14 jacks, capable of bearing 300 tons, were inserted. The stones above the jacks were then removed,
and the stack began gradually to right itself. The movement occupied five days, and the stack has now been reported plumb. The feat, it is believed, has never before been accomplished in the case of a stone chimney.
