UNTIMELY END OF R. D. MILBURY

His Dead Body Taken From Annapolis River on Monday Afternoon, Cause of Death a Mystery—Verdict of a Jury.

Between four and five o'clock Monday afternoon the body of Rupert D. Milbury was found floating in the Annapolis River about two miles above town by Harry Stronach and Hugh Langille, who were laying on the Chipman marsh. The body was much bloated from exposure in the water and also probably more so from lying in the river bottom exposed to a hot sun between tides. So far as facial appearance went a short clipped mustache formed the principal part of identification. He was identified by his clothing—a blue suit with pencil check, his general height and build. In the pockets of his coat however, were found copies of orders which had been secured for the Rentfree Manufacturing Company, for whom he has been agent for several years. The last order bore the date of June, 23rd, last and was for a stove sold in Lawrencetown. In his wallet were also found a pair of spectacles, a key and only two cent pieces. In another pocket was a watch and chain and the carried two handkerchiefs in his clothing. Coroner Armstrong was out of town when the gruesome find was made so Dr. Crowe went out and examined the remains, which were brought down to W. E. Reed's undertaking establishment. As soon as Dr. Armstrong arrived he empanelled a jury, who viewed the remains and adjournment was made till Tuesday morning. The jury was made up as follows:

TO THE CITIZENS OF BRIDGETOWN:

We are desirous of calling your attention to a point up campaign that your council thought best to inaugurate.
To an observing eye it can readily be seen that there are quite a few buildings in town that are in need of a coat or two of paint—more especially in the business district. This gives a bad impression to visitors. While much repair and painting has been done this season, much remains that should be done. The committee as appointed by the Town Council is desirous of appealing to the pride of property owners at this time and ask those who may think favorably of painting their premises to do so promptly. We believe that in most cases it will prove a good investment. Arrangements have been made with local dealers to give special prices on lead, oil and paints for a limited time.
This appeal is not made in a manner of personal criticism of anyone's premises—but solely out of a spirit of pride—and loyalty to our town—the best in the Valley—Let us keep it such in every way. Now are you ready? Who will be the first?

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS MADE BY ROTHSAY LODGE TO TAKE OVER PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—WILL MAKE ONE OF FINEST MASONSIC TEMPLES IN VALLEY

Rothsay Lodge, No. 41, R. N. S. A. F. and A. M. held their regular communication on Thursday, when final arrangements were made for taking over the Presbyterian Church property. Thursday being the first communication since the Strawberry Festival, the Lodge expressed by resolution their great appreciation of the assistance given by all, but particularly to the ladies, who they felt were responsible for the splendid success of the Festival.
A resolution was also passed expressing appreciation to the members of the Band who so kindly gave their services which greatly added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

NEW PASTOR OF UNITED CHURCH

Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, B. A., B. D., Has Had a Most Successful Career as Pastor—Short Sketch of Life and Work.

Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, B. A., B. D., pastor of Gordon-Providence United Church has completed his vacation and last Sunday conducted the usual services for the day. Mr. MacKinnon, however, has conducted a part of the services also through his vacation period.
The new pastor who a forceful and able preacher, is a native of Lake Ainslie, Cape Breton, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKinnon, of that place. He is the seventh son and one of a family of eight, all of whom are occupying prominent and honored places in the communities or cities in which they live. Five are in the Christian ministry, two are medical doctors and one, Malcolm, resides at the old homestead at Lake Ainslie. The brothers are Rev. Dr. Alexander MacKinnon, of Vancouver, Supt. of Missions; Rev. Hector MacKinnon, of Fort William, Ont.; Rev. Dr. Murdoch MacKinnon, of Knox Church, Regina; Rev. John Y. MacKinnon, pastor of Zion Church, Brantford, Ont.; D. L. MacKinnon, M. D., Truro, N. S.; Hugh MacKinnon, M. D., Berwick, N. S.; Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, the subject of this brief sketch, received his early school education at home afterward taking his high school course at North Sydney, when W. A. Creelman, now Inspector of schools, was Principal. After completing his course there he went to Kingston, Ont., taking the Arts course at Queens University. His theological course was taken at Pine Hill College, Halifax. During vacation periods of his Arts course he did missionary work in Alberta. After completing his college career he was ordained and inducted into the charge of the Presbyterian congregation at Waterville, Kings County, N. S. About this time he met and married his present wife, who was a daughter of the late Albert Webster, of Cambridge, who was taking a musical course in New York given by her uncle, the late Dr. David Webster, a noted eye specialist of that City. A most unusual and peculiar coincidence appears here, Mrs. MacKinnon is the seventh daughter in her family, while Mr. MacKinnon is the seventh son in his. Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon have three children, one girl and two boys.
From Waterville Mr. MacKinnon went to Boston to Mattapan Square Church and afterwards was a pastor of St. Andrews Church, Boston. From here he went to Inverness town, C. B., and his pastorate previous to coming here was in the town of Lunenburg, where he was a popular and esteemed clergyman for eight and a half years, closing his pastorate there only after his church had voted not to enter the Union. A good proof of his popularity in Lunenburg and appreciation of his work is to be found in the fact that after the vote was taken and his resignation tendered he was invited by the Union church there to become its pastor. He preferred and, we think wisely, to carry on his ministerial work elsewhere.
Mr. MacKinnon has been very successful in his work in the Christian ministry. In Boston the membership doubled during his pastorate. In Inverness during three years pastorate the church membership increased by 100. In Lunenburg there were 250 additions to the church. Mrs. MacKinnon is a skilled musician and active church worker and one fitted in every way to be an efficient help meet to her husband, the pastor of Gordon-Providence United Church. Mr. MacKinnon has here a good field of endeavor and excellent prospects. The Monitor welcomes him most cordially to Bridgetown and trusts that his work here will have every measure of success.

The colony should be prepared for

REPAIR THE PERMANENT STREETS

The present season has probably seen more automobiles from abroad pass through our main streets than any previous year has done. Just what the owners think of the condition of our main business streets would make interesting reading but would scarcely make good advertising for Bridgetown. There may be in some of our Provincial towns so called permanent streets which are in worse condition than those of Bridgetown but we have not seen them and have our serious doubts if there are such. The question of permanent repair work has drifted from year to year and is still drifting. For the credit of the town, for the convenience of its citizens and for the good opinion of the stranger within our gates something better than a policy of drift must be adopted. Every added year makes the work of repair more expensive, but it will have to be faced eventually. Towns as well as country sections find that the building of roads and streets is one thing and the maintaining of them another. When permanent streets are built a little annual attention and resurfacing will keep them in first class condition but if no attention is not put in street conditions grow from bad to worse, till they become eventually a standing disgrace and are accepted outside as the sign manual of an unprogressive community. Bridgetown is not that but the policy of drift conveys an impression very like it. Towns like Middleton do not find it too expensive to keep down dust by oiling the streets, but here barring a few trips with the watering cart which is only a temporary measure after all, the dust blows at its own sweet will and the loss occasioned to goods in the various stores is not by any means small. Example is contagious and no doubt, if our permanent streets were put into first class condition some of the business properties on them would receive a much needed application of paint. Improvements above suggested cost some money of course but are economy in the end. They should not be regarded as expense but as investments for the credit and for the good of our town.

INDIRECT BENEFITS OF WEEKLY NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY

Besides the widely recognized direct benefit that the town merchant receives through judicious advertising in the community weekly newspaper, says the Walkerton Telescope, there are indirect advantages which are not generally recognized.

For instance, many manufacturers are assisting their local dealers to market their product locally through nationally-placed advertising in the local newspapers with dealer's names attached. In placing this advertising the national advertisers are looking to the local retailer to do his part in aggressive publicity and are placing it in local newspapers that appeal to them through their carrying already a good volume of live local advertising. It is newspapers of this character that are getting the bulk of the national advertising that is helping the local retailer to sell his product.

Another benefit of live local advertising has to do with the mail-order situation. Mail order houses at the present time find that their catalogues run into his money. They have to plan carefully where they place them in order to get the best results. In studying a district, there are two things they consider chiefly. One is the buying power of the community and the other consideration is the way in which the district is being served by its home merchants. This can be sized up most easily through the appearance of the local newspapers. If the merchants show indifference and lack of enterprise in their advertising, the mail order people see an opportunity for gaining a larger footing by an aggressive flooding of catalogues and mail order advertising. This statement of the situation is not mere theory, but can be verified by addresses on the subject which have been made by specialists in mail order advertising. The mail order system of advertising is expensive and they have to watch their step. The quickest and least expensive means of reaching the local field would be through the local newspaper. The big city houses realize that and would be in the country newspapers in a minute if they could get there, but time and again they have been turned down by rural publishers who in loyalty to their own community have refused tempting contracts. The live local dealer is just as quick as the mail order advertiser to recognize the value of his local medium and is making the best of his opportunity in that

SETTLEMENT OF COAL STRIKE

Everyone is relieved by the news that a settlement of the coal strike in this Province had been arrived at finally. A settlement had to come within a more or less limited period, though outside the fact that lack of work coupled with small amounts in relief would eventually force an adjustment on the Company's terms, the situation became more tense and more difficult to deal with as time went on. The vote in favor of settlement did not carry by any very great majority and a large proportion of the miners did not vote at all. It is an unquestioned fact that the men were very badly led and an acceptance of the ten per cent cut in the first instance would have been the part of wisdom. Many proposals were turned down, which were really much better than the one which forced a final acceptance, and results can scarcely be considered as anything but a victory for Besco though pur-

NEW BRUNSWICK'S HYDRO

The plans of New Brunswick for greater expansion of its hydro-electric system have reached the stage where work will shortly be commenced to encircle the city with high-tension wires. Three years ago the 11,000-horsepower plant at Musquash, in the southern portion of the Province, was commenced at a cost of $2,600,000. This plant now supplies electrical energy to about 12,000 consumers in St. John, Moncton, Sussex, and a number of other places near the Bay of Fundy. Special attention, too, has been paid to making it possible to deliver current into rural homes.

Now that the international problems affecting the proposed development at Grand Falls in the northern part of the Province, 250 miles from the mouth of the St. John River, have been settled, plans are officially announced for the completion of the so-called "power ring." Grand Falls is the greatest water power in the Maritime Provinces. The initial expenditure of $8,000,000 will build a plant producing 50,000 horsepower, but provision is made for an immediate addition of 25,000 horsepower, with an ultimate capacity of 150,000 horsepower.

The Grand Falls and Musquash plants will be linked up and two power districts have been mapped out. To the north the high-tension lines will reach Edmundston and cross to Campbellton and Bathurst and then south to Newcastle and Fredericton. This ring will be complete with another line from Fredericton through Woodstock back to Grand Falls. To the south are two loops, one comprising Fredericton, St. John, Moncton, Chipman and Miramichi and the other comprising Fredericton, St. John, St. Stephen and Madam St. J. It is pointed out that the advantage of such lines is that every municipality is fed from two directions. In case of trouble in one direction the power can come from the other side, and the hope is expressed that a minimum of inconvenience and a maximum of continuity will be experienced. These proposed rings serve the entire settled area of New Brunswick.

It is estimated that the annual operating cost will average 6 per cent of the net revenue, and the other 94 per cent will be devoted to paying the fixed charges. A sinking fund reserve is provided to retire the bonds within a period equal to or less than the life of the plants, and in no case greater than 20 years.

These behind the hydro movement in New Brunswick are convinced that with the advent of cheap power distributed all over the Province industry will be given new life. It is contended that advantage can then be taken of the untapped raw material resources of the Province, and with the revival of industry will come shipping activity of far greater proportions than at present. That is one way in which New Brunswick plans to provide at least a partial remedy for her own troubles.—St. John Globe.

VALUE OF LOCAL PAPER

The frequency with which small town newspapers in Ontario have been suspending publication, simply because the proprietors could not make a decent living is to say the least alarming. The local weekly paper is the last line of defence which the small town merchant has at his command to tell his weekly store news to his customers, present or prospective. When, from any circumstance, the local paper is forced to close shop, there is no other weapon with which the small town merchant can continue to fight his battle, unless he resorts to dodgers and that is much more expensive.

Probably the most extensive illustration of the consequences ensuing from the cessation of the local weekly was supplied recently in the town of Thorold. Owing to Thorold's proximity to St. Catharines, the daily press of that city found it a fruitless source of business, which was largely obtained at the expense of the Post. So much so that the editor decided that the town needed a lesson which he very effectively taught. He discontinued the Post and devoted his whole attention to job work. In less than a year so anxious did the Thorold Board of Trade become to have the paper again published, that they secured for him more advertising than he could carry in an all home-print eight-page paper, and paid up at a rate almost double that prevailing in Wellington, Thorold, which has a population of over 5,000, did not realize what the home paper really means to a community, until that paper was for a time discontinued.—Simcoe Reformer.

MORTALITY RATE LOWER

Deaths Due to Autos, However, Doubled in June, 1925

Ottawa.—A slight improvement has been made in Canada in the mortality rate during the month of June 1925, as compared with the corresponding period of 1924. The rate for June 1925 has been 8.9 per 1,000, as compared with 9.0 for June 1924. These figures are prepared by an insurance company (Metropolitan Life) having

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Harrowsmith, Ontario.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would take weak, fainting spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, day or night. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to publish this good medicine. I lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will serve to help others."

—Mrs. HARVEY MILLIGAN, R. R. No. 2, Harrowsmith, Ontario.

In a recent canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 said they had been helped by its use. This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

considerable more than two million policies in force in Canada. For certain individual causes of death the rates, for June of this year, differ from those of June 1924. An improvement is shown in diphtheria, measles and scarlet fever, pneumonia and other respiratory diseases and chronic nephritis.

On the other hand, there is a slightly higher rate of mortality due to cancer, diabetes, cerebral hemorrhage and accidents—especially those due to automobiles. The rate for the latter has been practically double in June 1925 of what it was in June 1924.

There has been no improvement so far as the rates are concerned for tuberculosis and organic heart disease.

BOSTON BOXER BADLY BEATEN BY ROY MITCHELL

The Colored Heavyweight Won Another Decision Over Dan Dowd. Over Three Thousand Persons Witnessed the Bout at the Arena

Over three thousand people packed the Arena Tuesday night and saw Dan Dowd of Boston, take a terrible beating from Roy Mitchell, the hard hitting Granville heavyweight. Floored for the count of nine in the seventh. Dowd showed his gameness by staying the full distance, and the bell at the end of the twelfth found him badly battered but still on his feet. Only in one round, the fourth, did Dowd have anything like a wide margin on Mitchell. For the rest of the time, although he outboxed the Halifax boy in spots, he took some jolting rights from Mitchell that seemed to leave him more or less groggy. Mitchell failed to follow up many of his advantages and had he done so could probably have scored a decisive knockout.

The fight began at a fast clip, but just as he had done in their meeting last week, so Mitchell did last night. He shook and rocked Dowd with vicious rights until the Boston man had backed away. The second round was about even, but Mitchell took the third. Dowd opened up in the fourth and did the best of his fighting in this stanza which he took by a wide margin. Rounds five and six were about even.

In the seventh Mitchell wavered his man, and after scoring several stiff rights caught Dowd flush on the jaw with a hard right cross and the Bostonian hit the canvas with a thud. The referee began to toll off the count, but Dowd staggered to his feet at the count of nine and weathered the remainder of the round to the bell. From this point to the end of the bout there was little to the affair. Mitchell hammering the visitor and jolting him with heavy rights and Dowd using all his ring generalship to keep his feet until the bell, occasionally shooting his left to Mitchell's face, or jabbing in close to the body. The weights were Mitchell, 175; Dowd, 176.

Battling McCroary was introduced by the announcer as the next boxer to take place next Tuesday. If satisfactory arrangements can be made in the preliminary matches, Clyde MacGuinness got a decision over Mickey Morris, while Peter MacIsaac of Glouce Bay was given a referee's decision over Honeyman of this city. Mr. Todd Wren refereed the two preliminaries and Ted Power the main go.

Summary: First Preliminary: Mickey Morris, 117 lbs., Clyde MacGuinness 116 lbs., (6 three minute rounds), MacGuinness by decision.

Second preliminary: Peter MacIsaac, 142 lbs., Frank Honeyman, 141 lbs. (6 three minute rounds), MacIsaac by decision.

Main Bout: Dan Dowd, Boston, 176 lbs., Roy Mitchell, Halifax, 175 lbs. Mitchell by decision. (Twelve three minute rounds, Chronicle.)

ARE WE ASHAMED TO REMEMBER THE WAR!

By Sir Sidney Low
In the old days we were proud of the old wars. Perhaps we were unduly proud. They were not always quite so glorious as we imagined, and of course they were trumpery, tin-pot affairs compared to what closed nearly seven years ago.

We boasted of our hard-won and often indecisive battles and told our children and children's children about them, and we saw to it that the deeds of our little armies and wind-borne fleets were kept green in the national memory. So it falls that Waterloo, Trafalgar, the Peninsula, Balaclava, are still names that mean something to Englishmen and Englishwomen.

Muddled Through
Perhaps they have mostly forgotten the details. They do not know how often we just muddled through to victory after years of failure; how many of our leaders were incompetent; how costly and disastrous were the blunders of the Admiralty, the War Office, the Cabinet. Our strategy was frequently insane, our administration shockingly defective, and dearly did the country and its armies pay for the rash ignorance of military commanders and the intrigues of politicians.

But, looking back, the nation cared for none of these things. It fixed its gaze on the valor and endurance of the troops, the unflinching spirit and indomitable resolution which made good all the blunders of ministers and generals, and in the end prevailed over foes more numerous, more thoroughly prepared, and often better led.

The rank-and-file and the regimental officers were accounted, and rightly accounted, the real heroes of our campaigns. Many things went wrong, but not the men from the fields and villages and back streets, and the lads from the rectories and country houses and public schools who marched with the companies. So we could not forget our wars. Perhaps we could not have very clearly explained why British soldiers were dying in Flanders and Spain in Upper—Mixed farming scene in Saskatchewan. Lower—Sheep on a mixed farm in Alberta. Centre—The Canadian Pacific Supply Farm, at Strathmore, Alta. Bottom—These belong to a wheat farmer who has seen the wisdom of keeping at least enough stock to supply the needs of his household.

That the history of the agricultural adversities in the north-western regions of the United States is full of significance for the farmers of western Canada is shown in an article by Marquis James in a recent edition of the "New York Times." In 1917, 1918 and 1919, writes Mr. James, there were in the Dakotas, Montana and Minnesota, three complete crop failures in succession which had deplorable economic effects and produced something like a panic in the three states primarily concerned. But, continues the writer, this misfortune had one desirable result in that it pointed out to the farmers themselves and to the country at large the value of mixed farming, as compared to the one crop methods which had obtained up to that time. The depression demonstrated the necessity for a change in farming methods and in adopting a policy of more extensive and intensive general or diversified farming. Mr. James believes that the North-western States solved their problems. For a time, says Mr. James, prior to the large successive failures, the wheat growers enjoyed a period of uninterrupted prosperity. They were wheat-growers, but not all of them were farmers. In an official survey by callings of the inhabitants of the bench county, one finds in one township, exhibitors, bookkeepers, actresses, a school-teacher, Y.M.C.A. secretaries, dentists, motormen and one-wire dispenser and pursuing their regular vocations, but farming, or perhaps, it is better to say, growing wheat. They were making money. The wheat boom from 1913 to 1914 was a phenomenal one and it is in that wheat boom that the

ARE WE ASHAMED TO REMEMBER THE WAR?

By Sir Sidney Low In the old days we were proud of the old wars. Perhaps we were unduly proud. They were not always quite so glorious as we imagined, and of course they were trumpeted, tin-pot affairs compared to which closed nearly seven years ago.

We boasted of our hard-won and often indecisive battles and told our children and children's children about them, and we saw to it that the deeds of our little armies and wind-borne fleets were kept green in the national memory.

So it falls that Waterloo, Trafalgar, the Peninsula, Balaclava, are still names that mean something to Englishmen and Englishwomen.

Muddled Through Perhaps they have mostly forgotten the details. They do not know how often we just muddled through to victory after years of failure; how many of our leaders were incompetent; how costly and disastrous were the blunders of the Admiralty, the War Office, the Cabinets.

But, looking back, the nation cared for none of these things. It fixed its gaze on the valor and endurance of the troops, the unflinching spirit and indomitable resolution which made good all the blunders of ministers and generals, and in the end prevailed over foes more numerous, more thoroughly prepared, and often better fed.

Perhaps we could not have very clearly explained why British soldiers were dying in Flanders and Spain in the reign of King George the Third, or in a remote corner of Russia under Queen Victoria. But we held a member like rocks while waves of Napoleon's horsemen surged round them; of the infantry at Albuera who would not accept defeat, though beaten by all the rules of war; of the thin red line topped by a streak of steel at Inkerman; of the wearied Highlanders forcing their way to the relief of Lucknow under the fiery Indian sun.

Such things were collected, and it was well we did so. It was not to exult and rejoice over militarism. War is terrible and barbarous, and we in Britain have never loved it; on the contrary, we regarded it with deep aversion.

The panache of the military profession, its pomp and trappings, have not attracted us; the uniform with us is not seen against a background of romantic sentiment as in Continental countries. Our officers can help, and they get out of it as soon as they can.

That side of war did not appeal to Englishmen, but the other side. We did not care for its splendors and its triumphs, but we appreciate the revelation of the human soul that shines amid its horrors. We saw that our soldiers found scope in it for some of the noblest of human qualities—courage, self-control, contempt for ease and comfort and life itself; the strength to endure privation, hardship, suffering, indignity, pain and death.

How could we fail to honor those who had given all that man can give for us and for those who shall follow us? Our praises and our memories were wreaths of smoke from the offerings laid on those altars of self-sacrifice.

If there was call for these obligations it might seem to be in these years of ours that follow the greatest war of all. There is nothing in our annals to exceed, scarcely anything to equal, the heroism of those who served the peoples of the British world on land and sea between 1914 and 1918.

None of our stories of campaigns and encounters in the past can show the British soldier in finer guise than the men who lay month after month in the sodden trenches of Picardy, or sweltered on the Euphrates, or were

GRAVES OF LOYALISTS FORMALLY TAKEN OVER BY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Barial Place Of James DeLancey Whose Name Inspired Terror In Revolutionary War, Is Taken Over Near Tupperville, Annapolis County, Where He Lived And Died.

Annapolis Royal—Monday, the Historical Association of Annapolis Royal was made memorable by the formal taking possession of the DeLancey burial ground, near Tupperville, and the pathway of four hundred feet leading to it, by the Association.

Beautiful weather marked the proceedings, and enabled a large number to be present at the simple but impressive ceremony. At the entrance of the pathway, leading from the main highway, and marked by concrete posts and a tablet, a flag was placed, which on being withdrawn by Mrs. J. M. Owen, President of the Association, was raised on the flag-staff. The guests present then followed Mrs. Owen up the pathway to the burial plot, which has been thoroughly restored and surrounded by a neat fence.

The monument is a square block of white marble with the following inscription, now re-cut, on one face: "In memory of the Honorable Colonel James DeLancey, who died May 1804, anno aetatis, 58. He lived respected and died universally regretted.

That here in dust low lies the mortal part That once contained a brave and honest heart To all engagements true, The sword must rise and virtue triumph in the skies."

On another side: "Martha Tippet, wife of Colonel James DeLancey. Died 1837. Aged 73."

And on a third face: "This old family burial plot of the DeLanceys, and its memorials, were formerly taken over by the Historical Association of Annapolis Royal, A.D. 1922, for perpetual care."

The Union Flag of George III, under which DeLancey served, was placed over the inscription, and removed by Mrs. Owen, with a few well chosen words.

Society's Guests Returning to town, tea was served to the especially invited guests at the home of DeLancey P. Harris, after which a motor drive was taken to Lower Granville, where on August 3, 1924, the Cairn was unveiled, which marked the site of the first stronghold of Port Royal.

The evening meeting was held in the Town Hall, with the President, Mrs. J. M. Owen, in the chair. A paper was read by L. M. Fortier, in which he explained that the acquisition and rehabilitation of the DeLancey burial plot resulted, from a suggestion made by Maj. J. P. Edwards in a letter to Mr. Fortier, in March, 1922.

Mr. Fortier's paper then went on to give the following sketch of the DeLanceys: "James DeLancey was a notable figure in the American Revolutionary War. He was a Tory of the Tories, and acquired the nickname of 'Commander of the Cowboys' and 'Outlaw of the Bronx'."

Name Inspired Terror. "The terror his name inspired is alluded to in the incident in Fenimore Cooper's story, 'The Spy' where an American officer is upbraiding his men for a hasty retreat on a false alarm. The officer is made to exclaim, 'What in the name of fury seized your coward hearts? From your fright I thought a party of DeLancey's men were upon us!'"

"There are many references to him also in Stephens' 'The Continental Dragon', and in one of the notes at the end of this book the author states that 'No Tory family did more for the King's cause in America, or lost more than the DeLancey family, and further that the troop commanded by James DeLancey 'raided and fought for the King untiringly, until it was almost entirely killed off.' The members of this corps, Stephens explains, were called 'Cowboys' because in their duty of procuring supplies for the British Army they made free with the farmers' cattle."

"James DeLancey was antipathetic by the new State Government, his property confiscated, and historians draw a picture of his departing alone from his estate by the Bronx, turning for a last look, from the back of his horse, at the fair mansion and broad lands that were to be his no more, and riding away with a heavy heart."

"Not long afterwards we find him joined by his fair wife and children and settled on the farm where now his body lies, and where today we have done honor to his memory. DeLancey Pine Tree. "There is a famous 'DeLancey Pine Tree' in the New York Zoological Park, with respect to which this

TRUNK OF TREE STANDS

"Twenty-four (24) feet of the trunk of that old tree still remains standing, and two feet from the ground it measures fourteen (14) feet in circumference. The tree had been dead for several years before it was partially cut down. Its height was 109 feet, and its age when it died, as ascertained by expert examination, was 205 years. A photograph of this historic tree, taken in 1898, has been found and sent to me by the Zoological Society, and a piece of one of its main branches has been most kindly sent forward by the same Society, to be placed in the museum of Port Anne."

Stephen Jenkins in "The Story of The Bronx" has a poem beginning: "Where gentle Bronx clear winding flows The shadowy banks between, Where blossomed bell or wilding rose Adorns the brightest green, Memorial of the fallen great, The rich and honored line, Stands high in solitary state, DeLancey's ancient pine."

DeLancey Descendant We know little of Mrs. DeLancey beyond her name and the entry of her burial in 1837, aged 73. Stephens, in "The Continental Dragon" uses the place names "Tippetts Vale" and "Tippetts Brook" and I presume we may infer from this that the Tippetts were people of some consequence in the old Colony in New York.

A grandson of James and Martha DeLancey, Mr. Unacke DeLancey, is still living in this country, and I had the pleasure of meeting and conversing with him not many days ago. He lost a son, a distinguished soldier in the late war, and other bereavements have left him much alone in the world, but he carries his weight of years and carries most cheerfully and I greatly enjoyed my visit to him.

I have brought here to exhibit to you tonight the piece of the "DeLancey pine" referred to above; two photographs, a shoe buckle which belonged to Colonel James DeLancey and a button from the uniform of his great grandson, Major James Arnold DeLancey, who fought and died so nobly in the late Great War."

General Cruickshank's Paper. S Brig. Gen. Cruickshank was unable to be present, his interesting paper on "James DeLancey and his Times" was read by F. W. Harris, Vice President of the Association. The Honorable Colonel James DeLancey was born in Westchester County, New York, and after taking a leading part in the Revolutionary struggle from 1777 to 1781, came to Nova Scotia in 1783, and settled on the farm where he was afterwards buried, and where the monument which has been honored today, was erected to his memory. He was the father of ten children—the descendants of some of them being able to attend today's ceremony.

After a vote of thanks had been passed to General Cruickshank, and to the reader, it was moved, seconded and passed that L. M. Fortier, the founder and first President of the Association, be made a Life Director.

At the regular quarterly meeting in November, the election of officers will take place when, to the regret of all, Mrs. Owen will retire, having served her three years of office, with great efficiency, and arranged an especially interesting series of papers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TRIBUNE

"Sir:—May I give you a little romance connected with the old DeLancey pine tree?" "Colonel James DeLancey took refuge in that old tree when the federal troops took up their quarters in that vicinity. For two weeks each evening after nightfall his sweethearts, Martha Tippet, took provisions to him and eventually helped him to escape. After the war they were married, and in company with other Loyalists migrated to N. S., where they took up a permanent residence. My grandmother, Martha Ryer, was named for Martha Tippet, her mother's sister, and I am giving this little bit of colonial history to you as my grandmother gave it to me.

"I am happy to know that part of the old tree will remain, and I hope the ivy will encircle it so securely that for many years to come we may look upon the spot where stood the DeLancey pine."

LABOR M. P.'S WOULD ABOLISH HONORS

Bill to Prevent Trafficking in Titles Read in Commons. London.—The bill to prevent trafficking in titles which already has been passed by the House of Lords was given its second reading in the House of Commons.

In the course of the debate on the bill Labor members urged that honors and titles should be abolished altogether.

Captain Wedgwood Benn, Liberal favored the abolition of hereditary honors. He said Great Britain should follow the example of the Dominions with regard to honors. He instanced the Australian rule that no honors should be given unless a resolution in favor thereof was passed by the State Parliament concerned.

Sir Douglas Hogg, Attorney-General, in moving the second reading of the bill to prevent abuse in the conferring of honors and titles, said that even if the bill did not put an end to trafficking in honors the fact that Parliament deemed this a penal offence was calculated to make it less possible for people to engage in such traffic, dishonorable to themselves and to the country.

"The Bread Basket of the Country"

That the history of the agricultural adversities in the north-western regions of the United States is full of significance for the farmers of western Canada is shown in an article by Marquis James in a recent edition of the "New York Times." In 1917, 1918 and 1919, writes Mr. James, there were in the Dakotas, Montana and Minnesota, three complete crop failures in succession which had deplorable economic effects and produced something like a panic in the three states primarily concerned. But, continues the writer, this misfortune had one desirable result in that it pointed out to the farmers themselves and to the country at large the value of mixed farming, as compared to the one crop methods which had obtained up to that time. The depression demonstrated the necessity for a change in farming methods and in adopting a policy of more extensive and intensive general or diversified farming. Mr. James believes that the North-western States solved their problems. For a time, says Mr. James, prior to the large successive failures, the wheat growers enjoyed a period of uninterrupted prosperity. They were wheat-growers, but not all of them were farmers. In an official survey by callings of the inhabitants of the bench country, one finds in one township, cobblers, bookkeepers, actresses, a school-teacher, Y.M.C.A. secretaries, dentists, motormen and soda-water dispensers—not mentioning these various vocations, but farming, or perhaps, it is better to say, growing wheat. They were making much less, however, than 1913 for 1914 there was a phenomenal reduction in the wheat market and the

MISERY JOSTLES ELBOW OF WEALTH

Gold Rush to Bolsheviki Klondyke in Siberia Produces Contrast.

London.—Men loaded down with gold rubbing elbows with starving prospectors begging for a crust of bread, is the strange contrast offered at the newly opened gold fields in Siberia, described as "the Bolsheviki Klondyke."

The contrast of rich and poor there is due to the fact that the reputed wealth of the district is attracting such crowds of persons desiring to get rich quickly that many fall utterly and eventually are reduced to misery. The new gold area is in the Aldan region of Siberia, northeast of Irkutsk, in a wild and partly unexplored region. The Bolsheviki Government estimates that 400 tons of gold is available in an area of 6000 square miles. Gold transportation is difficult because the fields are about 300 miles from the nearest station on the Amur railway. Prospectors are precariously supplied with the necessities of life by irregular river and air routes.

The Soviet Government already has organized a branch state bank and levies toll on all gold found. Diggers are forced to surrender to Bolsheviki agents from ten to forty pounds for each claim, according to its productivity, after which they may dig for themselves. But all nuggets found must be turned over to the authorities who pay for them in Soviet currency at the rate of about $14 an ounce. No man is allowed to take more than five pounds of gold when leaving the fields.

Twelve thousand prospectors already are in the district and more are flocking there from Russia, Korea and Japan. A Japanese company is said to have applied for a concession covering most of the fields.

ITALY ENDANGERED BY BRITISH HOLD ON SEA, SPEAKER SAYS.

Declares One of Wilson's 11 Points "Foundered in Atlantic"

Williamstown, Mass.—Britain's hold on the Mediterranean Sea is endangering the very life of Italy, Count Antonio Clippello, Italian Fascist Senator said tonight in his second lecture at the Institute of Politics here. That one of President Wilson's fourteen points which deals with the freedom of the seas, "foundered in the Atlantic," the speaker added.

Picturing his country as dependent for her existence upon the good-will of those holding Gibraltar and the Suez Canal, Count Clippello urged that steps be taken in time to secure a just settlement between the civilized nations on a basis likely to insure peace.

"Today the Mediterranean has been acquired by former British colonies," he said. "With the Suez Canal more than ever it is the imperial road which leads from the Atlantic to India, East Africa and Australia. Its gates are hermetically closed by a nation whose shores are not bathed by its waters."

THE TERRIBLE "HOUSE-HOUSE"

L. H. Martell, K.C., M.P., of Windsor, has been up in arms against the game of "House-House" which he appears to consider a terrible form of gambling. Backed by that wonderful broadminded organization, the Social Service Council, he prosecuted Ray Rogers under the Criminal Code for operating this awful game at a fair in aid of the Payzant Memorial Hospital parties in Halifax. This was convicted by Judge Webster on Monday. Martell also introduced an amendment to the Criminal Code at Ottawa during the last session repealing the section which exempts fairs for charitable or religious objects but, we understand that he did not get much support. The conviction was made on a technicality the prizes not having first been exposed for sale. Mr. Martell should induce H. R. Grant to accompany him and attend some of the women's card parties in Halifax. They should then spend some time in the stock brokers' offices and afterwards drop in upon some of the men's poker and bridge games in this city and they would get a better idea of what real gambling is. Such observation might modify their views of "House-House" as a dangerous gambling game. Perhaps it would be better if men and women did not gamble at all but the proper procedure would be for Martell, M. P., to introduce a Bill to change human nature.

The above from the Halifax Citizen tells of the terrible (3) dolphins of Ray Rogers in Windsor. There he fell a victim of the Social Service Council, and was convicted on the mere technicality that the prizes awarded were not previously offered for sale. We do not know anything about this "house-house" game, but apprehend that the people who played it found enjoyment, hence the prosecution. Somewhere in MacAulay's History of England he tells of the trouble over "bear baiting." Bear baiting simply means the baiting of two bears in a pit. It was suppressed. From our viewpoint we think rightly so. MacAulay, however, states, the declaimer against the game was not out of sympathy for the bears, but because the public enjoyed seeing the combat. It is an even guess that the declaimer against Ray Rogers' "House-House" is not because it injured anyone but because people enjoyed participating in it. It is the same old world as MacAulay knew it. BEST MEDICINE SHE EVER USED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Highly Praised by a Nova Scotia Lady

Among the well known and esteemed residents of Hentford, N.S., is Mrs. Amanda Woodworth. Some four years ago Mrs. Woodworth had the misfortune to lose her husband, and as a result of caring for him during his illness, and attending to farm duties, she became terribly run-down. Mrs. Woodworth says she felt as though her blood had turned to water. The least exertion would leave her tired and breathless. She was often attacked by spells of weakness that left her almost speechless, and frequently suffering from severe headaches. The medicine she took did not help her, and she almost despaired of gaining her health. In this condition she one day read in a newspaper of a case very similar to her own, in which health was restored through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This made her decide to give these pills a trial. After using a few boxes she found the pills were helping her, and she continued their use until her old-time health and vitality were restored. Now Mrs. Woodworth looks after a small farm of fifteen acres, besides doing all her household work, and says she never felt better or more energetic in her life. She gives credit for her present splendid health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which she says are the best medicine she ever used, and strongly recommends the pills to all run-down people.

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FISHERMAN RIDES ON DOLPHIN

The Sydney Post is responsible for the following: The best fish story of the year came to the pen of a Post reporter yesterday in connection with the capture of a school of dolphins by fishermen at Glace Bay Monday morning. These were the "squad" banded dolphins referred to in a despatch from North Sydney. Believe it or not, said the reporter of the tale by way of preface to his narration. The Post passes it along with the same observations. The dolphins were chasing the schools of squid which have been running inshore along the coast and had struck in close to the shore. A number of fishing boats set out to round them up and effect their capture by driving the fish on the beach. Several times the fishermen had the squid headed for the beach and each time they wheeled when approaching the shallow water and darted out to sea again. Finally one of the fishermen dismounted with the fruitless attempts to drive the fish ashore decided that the only way to land them was to personally conduct them to the beach.

Running his dory alongside the largest of the school, and grabbing a piece of iron pipe to use in lieu of a whip, he poised lightly on the gunwale and then with a grace that even Tom Mix could not improve on vaulted lightly to the back of the leading dolphin and with a wild whoop headed his piscatorial steed in the general direction of the land and in the language of the race track "threw the leather into it" (only leather was the piece of pipe which he plied vigorously to the dolphin's tail bones. The Post's informant states that he never saw a wilder rider even in a western movie thriller and as far as he is concerned the exploits of the "riders of the pines" have paled into insignificance. The fisherman "backseater" stayed with the charger till it hit the shore when he piled off and despatched it. There were 11 dolphins in the school, and six followed the leader with its rider, and these were captured.

It is understood that as a result of the buckaroo fisherman's exploit the fishermen in the vicinity of Lunenburg are putting forth in their "spurs" and it is predicted that "punching" dolphins opens up a new line of adventurous employment for Cape Breton seafarers. Too long have these hairy trousered guys from the west usurped the limelight as the kingly riders of the western continent. But it took a Cape Breton to emulate the deed of the mighty Neptune himself.

NOVA SCOTIA FIRM OPENS NEW MARKET

Will Manufacture Fish Meal For Sale In The United Kingdom.

According to weekly report issued from the office of the High Commissioner for Canada in London, an important Nova Scotia fish curing firm has recently installed machinery, obtained from the United Kingdom, for the manufacture of fish meal. This firm looks to the United Kingdom as an outlet for a considerable portion of its output.

As a result of throwing open increased areas for Michael Fishing, by the Canadian Government, an industry for the production of fish meal and other waste products, is being organized in British Columbia. Trade Commissioners in the United Kingdom have been asked to investigate prospects. Several London importers are preparing to consider business if quality and prices are competitive.

The Glasgow Commissioner reports that important Glasgow firms are prepared to handle meal up to 1,000 tons a month if satisfactory arrangements can be made, and they might, also, be prepared to render financial assistance. (Hullfax Herald.)

REV. CLYDE ROBBINS, A FORMER PASTOR HERE, CONDUCTS SUCCESSFUL CHURCH SCHOOL

The Commencement exercises of the Rosindale Church Vacation School were held in the First Baptist Church, Rosindale, July 26th. This school, the first one held in any church in Rosindale, has proved a great success. The total registration has been 190, including a faculty of 25 teachers and assistants. The average daily attendance for the four weeks has been between 90 and 100. The sessions have been from 9 to 11.30 every morning from Monday to Friday.

The children have carried out the motto of the school, "Others," by giving $30 to sick children of the hospitals of Boston. A great deal of Bible memorization has been accomplished, songs and hymns have been learned. A parade, a picnic, and a party have been held. All the departments have done considerable hand work. The Kindergarten has made things with blocks, sand table, crayons and drawings. The primary children have made scrap books, illustrated the "Shepherd Psalm" and the "Good Samaritan," and made sheep villages. The junior boys have made electric maps of Palestine, a customer boys of wood, etc. The junior girls have made illustrated hymn books, scrap books, dressed dolls for missions, etc. The intermediate girls have made posters for the church, Arabian tents, a model of the tabernacle, etc. These things are all to be on exhibition in the church.

The programme followed the general daily orders, consisting of an opening period of worship, a period of songs, "Welcome song," "Others," "Help Somebody Today," etc. Then will follow a period of Bible memorization by all the various departments. The presentation of "Ruth" by the junior girls and "Joseph" by the junior boys will be one of the interesting features. There will be a Bible salute and the salute to the Christian flag as well as to the American flag.

The children of the school are from all churches in town and the people of all the churches have been generous in the giving of time and money for the enterprise. It is anticipated that the entire expense of the school, approximately $300 was provided for in a special offering.

The faculty has consisted of a principal, Rev. Clyde W. Robbins, the pastor of the church, five superintendents of departments; Miss Evelyn Gilman in the kindergarten, Mrs. Gladys Barron in the primary, R. E. Baker the junior and intermediate boys, Mrs. George Gilman, junior girls; Miss Dorothy Pease, intermediate girls; Miss Helen Babb, secretary and eighteen assistants in the various departments. The school has proved so successful from a number of standpoints that it is hoped it may become a much larger and more representative community enterprise next year.

Mr. Robbins will spend the month of August with his family at Chebogue Point, Yarmouth County. (Ed. Monitor.)

TREATMENT OF LEPROSY

Whole Outlook in Fight Against Disease Changed

Vancouver.—The whole outlook in the fight against leprosy has been changed by comparatively recent results in the use of the latest method of treatment, according to W. H. P. Anderson, general secretary of the Mission to Lepers with headquarters in London, England.

Mr. Anderson, who is a native of Guelph, Ont., has been engaged for the last 20 years in work among the lepers, 12 years of which were spent in India and during the last nine months has visited 26 leper stations in various parts of the Far East in which there were 700 inmates. He reached Vancouver from Australia on the liner Aorangi Friday.

"When I first went out to India," Mr. Anderson stated, "lepers in their dreadful misery, expressed a desire to die. Today, they say: 'we are alive for the second time!'"

In India, where the main work of the mission was being carried on, the secretary said, about 55,000 lepers are being cared for in its own aided institutions.

The "Beatty Boys," four British youngsters, brought out here by E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to study Canadian farm methods, arrived in Canada on the "Montcalm" this month. They are expert farmers selected by the Minister of Agriculture from the members of the Young Farmers' Club of Great Britain and will remain in Canada for two months as the guests of Mr. Beatty.

That elk, in the Panther River country, not far from Banff, are rapidly increasing in number and may possibly become a menace, is the opinion of Baltimore Brown, an artist of New York who recently returned from a painting tour through the Rocky Mountains. Mr. Brown is regarded as an authority on wild animals and states that there will be, ten years from now, 10,000 elk in the district, unless steps are taken to decrease their numbers.

French-Canadian agricultural experts, theologians, students and others, touring the country under the auspices of the University of Montreal express unanimous amazement at the agricultural development of British Columbia, the scenery of Alberta, the prairies of Manitoba, the beauties of Northern Ontario and the vastness of the country in general. A similar excursion left Toronto recently under the auspices of the Teachers' Federation of Canada also over Canadian Pacific lines, and will return the middle of August.

VISCOUNT BURNHAM PAYS BIG TRIBUTE TO C. P. R. SERVICE

Disclaims Flattery or Hyperbole When He Calls It Greatest British Enterprise.

SPLENDID TRADITIONS Corporation Has Always Been Much More Than a Road—A. R. Calder Is Honored

Vancouver.—High tribute was paid to the C. P. R. here today by Viscount Burnham, president of the Empire Press Union, and head of the delegation on its way to the Imperial Press Conference in Australia.

Speaking before one of the largest audiences in the history of the Vancouver Canadian Club, Lord Burnham said: "I am not using the language of flattery or hyperbole when I say that the C.P.R. is the greatest not only of all Canadian enterprises, but because it is essentially Canadian, the greatest of all British enterprises in our modern world. No other race could have done it. They might have done it about it perhaps but they could never have carried it through half a century ago out of the far-seeing genius and the unquenchable courage of the plain citizen."

"No more, no corporation, either public or private, ever created and maintained so splendidly a tradition in so short a time. Espirit de corps never had a finer embodiment than in the service of a road, which has always been much more than a road, and which Lord Shaftnessy loyally called on his deathbed a great Canadian enterprise."

"Maybe this is hardly worth saying in this city of Vancouver, but I feel impelled to say it once more because it is so heartening for the future of western Canada. I call to mind the famous prophecy of Sir William Van Horne, whom I met here more than thirty years ago, when standing on the rocks and stumps which are now the centre of this city. He predicted that 'from this place, an all-year-round port, will sail fleets of vessels engaged in trade all over the world.'"

Later in the day after the delegates had been entertained at the beautiful home of R. J. Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, Viscount Burnham presided at a happy presentation to Arthur B. Calder, special representative of the C. P. R., who has done so much to make memorable the trip across Canada of the distinguished British press men.

Referring to the fact that five years ago Mr. Calder had acted in a similar capacity for a similar party, Viscount Burnham paid tribute to the unflinching native courtesy, the consummate tact and the constant care which had the whole trip across Canada a perfect delight and had made every member of the party regard Mr. Calder in the light of "guide, philosopher and friend."

He expressed the hope that when another Imperial press party came to Canada again it would find Mr. Calder still in office and again delegated to care for it as part of his delightful duty as a true "ambassador to the human race."

A feeling reference to Alexander Calder, veteran railroad himself and father of the guest of the occasion evoked much enthusiasm among the delegates. The presentation took the form of a handsome travelling bag fully equipped.

Mr. Calder replied briefly. He spoke of the pleasure he had taken in association with so happy and distinguished a party but disclaimed personal credit, declaring that he was but one of the best of loyal servants of the Canadian Pacific who value above every monetary consideration the opportunity to serve and assist in the upbuilding of so great an organization.

TO PAY HALF COST OF COLONIZATION

British Government Willing, Lord Burnham Says At Vancouver. Vancouver, B. C.—Any workable scheme of immigration to colonize with people from Britain would be added by the British Government to the extent of half the expense, Lord Burnham announced in his address to the joint luncheon of the Canadian Club and Woman's Canadian Club today.

"While I have no right to speak for the Government, I have some authority to say to you, there is no considered scheme for settlement which may be agreed on, to which the Government will not contribute half the money which may be required. The British Government will, as the saying is, go fifty-fifty with you. The Government has spent but a small part of what has been asked for colonization purposes," said Lord Burnham.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS KILL LITTLE ONES

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets or in a few hours they may be beyond aid. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the well child, and will promptly relieve these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A TOURIST CAMP AT NIGHT

The blazon sounds the knell of parting day. Some late arrivals through the dust clouds creep. And three hours after we have hit the hay. The noise calms down so that we can get to sleep. Save where, from yonder pennant-clad Sedan. The radio set emits its raucous squeal. And underneath a nearby light a man pounds until daylight on a busted wheel.

Beneath those tattered tops, those patent tents. Where falls the dust into each sun-burned pore. Each on his folding bed of slight expense. The rule explorers of the highway snore. Let not ambition mock their weary cars. Their khaki clothes of vintage quite obscure. Nor grandeur view, with hauteur like a czar's. The short and simple flippers of the poor. The hoist of shiny paint, the pump of power. And all that charms the motoristic cop. Await alike the inevitable hour—The paths of touring lead but to the shop. Can streamline hood or silver-plated hubs. Back to its mansion call the missing spark. Can plush upholstery foil the clumsy dubs. Who hang into your tenders in the dark? Full many a boob or preet ray serene Succumb each summer to the touring itch. Full many a car is doomed to bluish unseen. And waste its sweetness in a highway ditch.

TAKE THE SUNNY SIDE

Let's oftener talk of noble deeds. And rarer of the bad ones. And sing about our happy days. And not about the sad ones. We are not made to fret and sigh. And when grief seizes, to wail it. Bright happiness is standing by. This life is what we make it.

The Tourist's Eternal Triangle

Someone has just published a book about Canada. It is only a little book—about eighty pages—but it contains an astonishing amount of information. It will tell you how many cities there are in Canada; how many people there are in those cities; how many bushels of wheat were grown in 1924 and how much money the government makes out of the business of governing. It will also tell you, incidentally, that Victoria, B.C. is one of the most beautiful cities of the world and that Vancouver has the second finest harbor there is anywhere.

These two cities are linked with each other and with Seattle, to the south, by what is known as the Triangle Route of steamships of which the Princess Kathleen, of the Canadian Pacific Coastal service is a member. The "Kathleen" recently made her inaugural trip on this route and is now permanently in the service.

Columbia and as such is the centre of the province's recreational, industrial, and social activities and that's saying a whole lot. Then there's Vancouver. Look at its bathing beach. No wonder the citizens have built the second finest harbor in the world when they have a great and beautiful slab of the Pacific Ocean to fling themselves and each other into to revive their weary bodies and minds whenever the business of operating their famous harbor becomes burdensome.

"MY CROSS."

Mine was a hard rough road to tread. The gaps were deep and wide. No summer sun on me did shine. No flowers grew by my side. The hill I chose to climb was steep. Old wrecks strewn on its shelf. And oh my cross was heavy, too. I made the cross myself. I chose the heaviest wood I could. I nailed it firm and strong. I bound it round with iron bands. Few could have borne it long. It never thro' my mind had pass'd. That it was meant for me. I would have made a lighter cross. To bear to Calvary.

TO LIVE—BUT TO BE WELL!

SUMMER DIARRHOEA. August and September are the months during which Summer Diarrhoea takes its heaviest toll of life. Especially among children of one or two years of age are the losses occasioned by it severe. In one Nova Scotia town last year no less than 44 infants died in those months, the births during the two months in the same town totalling 167. In other words the mortality represented the loss of 3 infants out of 10, and this was mostly due to diarrhoea. Much can be done to prevent this: 1. Breast feeding, especially in hot weather, is the most important single factor in keeping infants well.

cool well ventilated places, and protect him from flies. If he must be fed from the bottle, see that the bottle and nipple are boiled before being used. 4. Milk is probably the basis of the food of all babies. See that it is good and as pure as can be obtained. Pasteurize or boil it if necessary, after which cool it rapidly. If you do this remember that the baby may require with the milk the vitamins which may be obtained from living food. 5. Be sure your milk mixture is correct. No two babies agree in respect to their food requirements or their tastes. 6. Do not forget that baby gets thirsty, as you do. Give him water, but be sure the water is pure. Boil the water and cool it, if you are not sure of its purity. 7. When in doubt, or at the first appearance of illness, see your Doctor.

Heved on Saturday afternoon near the end of the iron bridge.

Dr. L. L. Crowe testified as to the condition in which he found the body and said on account of its condition it would not be possible to determine whether the man was dead or not when his body went into the water.

John H. Bent testified to seeing Milbury on Friday afternoon in town. He then said he was going to Grandville and showed no sign of drinking.

Mrs. Sarah Henshaw, Centeria, testified that Milbury came to her place Thursday night under the influence of liquor. He told her he had been robbed of $150.00 and his watch had been taken from him but by whom he did not know.

Wm. Howse testified that on Friday morning Milbury and John Bent had come to his shop but he did not see the deceased afterwards.

Harry Parker and Walter Milbury of Belleisle were examined but their evidence was not material to the case.

Ingram Mader stated he did not believe Milbury had been at Arthur Sims.

Sims had been asked to appear Tuesday afternoon but it was necessary to send Chief Bishop out to get him to attend.

Theories as to the cause of Milbury's death are more or less numerous and include suicide, accidental drowning and foul play. At time of writing it had not been established by sworn testimony who the white man who was seen at Arthur Sims on Friday and Saturday. This information may prove of value.

Arthur Sims was called and stated that he did not know Rupert Milbury at all and that he had not been at his place. A man named Marsh who might be mistaken for a white man

MERCHANTS CLUB HAVE A GALA DAY

Accompanied by Bridgetown Band Local Business Men Put in a Busy Afternoon and Evening at Margaretville, in Their Annual Outing

On Wednesday afternoon last the Merchants Club of Bridgetown enjoyed their annual outing in the pretty village of Margaretville, famous for its cooling breezes, its banana royals and the hospitality of its inhabitants.

About 130 the cars began to roll away toward the seaside and in all about forty-five of the merchants, business and professional men generally took in the outing which was pronounced a howling success. All roads led to Margaretville even if one or two cars went through Port George and Melvern Square. The only halt was made at Spa Springs where the merchants drank of the invigorating waters and pursued their way to the bay shore.

On arriving at Early's Hotel the Bridgetown band discoursed a splendid programme which drew a large audience for the merchants were not alone on their picknicking. At least two other large parties also were on. At the close of the musical programme the procession wended its way to a large open field near the shore and for a considerable period two baseball teams chosen from the members "The White Sox and Red Sox", put up a mighty struggle.

The line up was as follows: Red Sox: M. Young, (p.); C. Troop, (c.); H. T. MacKenzie (1st. b.); P. Longmire (2nd. b.); R. Longmire (3rd. b.); H. S. Magee (s.s.); J. Ruggles (l.f.); P. Connell (c.f.); B. N. Messinger (r.f.).

White Sox: J. A. Myers (p.); J. McLean (c.); H. Young (1st. b.); E. Burns (2nd. b.); A. J. Burns (3rd. b.); A. B. MacKenzie (l.f.); Clifford Porter (c.f.); Capt. W. E. Gesner (r.f.); J. S. Moses (s.s.); Umpire at plate, W. D. Lockett; on bases, A. C. Charlton.

There were many features including a three bagger by H. T. MacKenzie. Home run Dr. Jack Ruggles. Double play. Troop, P. Longmire, MacKenzie. The field was not exactly favorable for avoidance of errors but the work was snappy and kept the Editor on the quiver and he may have missed a few brilliant plays at that. After mature consideration and careful calculation it was found that a draw was the result and it was decreed that the second match in the series would be played a year from date, the winners to be presented with a loving cup.

After this match a short exhibition was played by some of the younger members with the Torbrook team, which resulted to the advantage of the former. The last three innings of the first match were umpired by Mr. Bruce Graves, of Kingston, who proved very strict in the rules and let nothing get by him. Everything went according to Hoyle at his best. After baseball quots were pitched and general sports took place including rifle shooting competition. 1st. R. V. Arnold 64; 2nd. Ross Bishop 59. Cash prizes were awarded in these. The hundred yard dash for contestants under 175 pounds proved a stubborn and strenuous contest. Harry Magee by superhuman efforts romped in a winner with Max Young a close second. The first gentleman on the box of cigars and the second
