PAID THE PENALTY OF THEIR CRIME

Italians Went to Gallows Calmly

Andover, N. B., May 4.--The death sentence of Antonio Arosia and Leon Seppell, for the murder of Edward Greene, was carried out in the jail here at one minute past six o'clock this morning. The condemned men walked firmly to the scaffold and showed no lack of courage. Death was instantaneous. At the inquest at eight o'clock, a verdict was returned that the prisoners had died by process of law.
The prisoners were visited by Rev. Fr. Ryan of Indian Point, at 9 o'clock last night and he remained with them until the end. Until nearly 3 a. m. they were engaged in devotional exercises and then took about two hours sleep. On arising they received the Holy Communion, and were waiting for the executioner when he entered their cell at seven minutes to six. They were quiet calm and composed, and after their hands had been manacled behind them the procession started for the scaffold. Following the executioner were Sheriff Tibbitts and Father Ryan, the latter reciting the Litany of the Blessed Virgin. Arosia and Seppell, each in charge of one of the guards, came next.
The way to the scaffold was through the centre of the court house and was a trying ordeal for the condemned men. They mounted the steps which led from the kitchen door to the platform with firm tread and were quickly placed in position on the drop by the executioner. But a minute or two sufficed to place the straps round their knees. Arosia said, "Good-bye, boys," as he took his last look at the spectators gathered round before his head was enveloped in the black cap. Seppell also said something in Italian and then stood quietly awaiting his turn. When Radcliffe had adjusted the ropes round their necks he gave a signal to Father Ryan, who began the Lord's Prayer in English. As the closing words were reached the executioner released the catch and the drop fell.

Death was instantaneous from dislocation of the neck. In the fall the strap which pinioned Arosia's knees became loose and his limbs twitched after he fell, but death had already taken place. Dr. R. W. L. Barle of Perth, the physical in attendance, reported that the pulse of both men beat for about twenty minutes, which about the usual time in such cases. Those who witnessed the execution from the scaffold were Sheriff Tibbitts, William Johnson and Jacob Kilburn, the guards, William Armstrong, Deputy Sheriff of Carleton County George Dionne and Alexander Stevenson of Perth. Father Ryan and Dr. Barle were also present, besides the representatives of the press. Several residents of Perth and Andover witnessed the final scene from the windows of the court house, which overlooked the scaffold.

Early in the night quite a crowd assembled outside the court house in anticipation of getting a glimpse of the execution. Many arrived in teams from across the border, and at first it was feared there might be some trouble. The arrest of one of the unwelcome visitors who was found crouching under a verandah, had a salutary effect and the crowd melted away some hours before the execution. There were not more than a dozen people outside the jail when the final scene was enacted.
After remaining suspended for half an hour the bodies were taken down and placed in the caskets.
Dr. Welton the coroner, summoned a jury for 8 o'clock. The evidence of Johnston, one of the guards, who saw the execution, was taken and Dr. Barle was examined as to the cause of their death, which he said was due to the dislocation of the spinal column in each case. A formal verdict was returned. Those on the jury were: M. S. Sutton (foreman), Bruce Ritchie, J. H. Weaver, Guy G. Porter, Geo. Dionne, H. Dickinson and M. M. Armstrong.
As soon as the inquest was concluded the caskets were taken in a double team to Indian Point, where Father Ryan celebrated solemn High Mass. Interment was in the Catholic burial ground.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.
Three-Masted Iceberg Sighted on Atlantic By the California
New York, May 8.--The first three-masted iceberg ever seen in the Atlantic was sighted by the officers of the Anchor Liner California, which arrived here yesterday from Glasgow.
The big berg which was called the "Leviathan" of the Arctic, was about 300 feet longer than the fast Canarier, and presented much more free board. Through a glass an officer said he could see the outline of a fairly good rig of the foremast, but the mizen appeared to be stripped of their frosty sails. This ice-mountain struck terror to the hearts of the timid passengers when it stood out plainly to them after the sudden clearing of a thick fog.
The California was steaming at reduced speed through the fog when the vapor cleared suddenly and the sun shone on the glistening berg. It was about a mile and a half dead ahead.

Canada's Wild and Woolly West
"It is erroneous," said Colonel Steele, when addressing the Canadian Club of Winnipeg the other day, "to suppose that Canada never had a wild and woolly West"; and then he proceeded to recount a few facts that showed that there was a time, not so many years ago, when Canada beyond the Great Lakes was largely a lawless land where human life was little valued, and men, both red and white, were ever ready to raise their hands against their fellows. That this reign of anarchy was brought to a close before permanent settlement on anything like a large scale was established on the prairies, stands to the credit of the Government of Canada in a general way, but especially to that worthy band of horsemen, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, who prepared the way for the coming of the farmer and rancher. Deputy Sheriff of Carleton County George Dionne and Alexander Stevenson of Perth. Father Ryan and Dr. Barle were also present, besides the representatives of the press. Several residents of Perth and Andover witnessed the final scene from the windows of the court house, which overlooked the scaffold.

One of the most notorious of these centres of evil was "Whoop-Up" or Fort Hamilton, situated at the fork of the St. Mary's and the Belly rivers, but a few miles southwest of where the town of Lethbridge now stands in Southern Alberta. This whiskey fort was well stocked, and well supplied with muskets and a cannon. Through a hole in the wall a drink of whiskey could be brought for a buffalo robe, and after having made the Indians drunk it was no uncommon thing for the vile garrison to "put" the reeling savages outside. After a time other traders came up who sold the Indians other things besides whiskey, among them being rifles and ammunition. This, of course, the whiskey-traders did not like, and so they organized a semimilitary force known as the "Spitsee Cavalry," from the Spitsee river in Alberta, and drove out the legitimate trader.
Another centre of crime was the Drunken Lakes, near the site of the present city of Edmonton, where, also Colonel Steele, "massacre and bloodshed had once reigned supreme."
Because the Indians now live for the most part peacefully on their reserves it is a mistake to suppose that they showed any similar disposition in the early years of western history. Our western Indians now have a pretty good name, but what they are capable of doing, even at years of contact with some degree of civilization, was shown at the outbreak of the uprising of 1885, when they began operations as the Frog Lake Massacre. In the early times the Crees and the Blackfeet were almost continually at war in the neighborhood of Edmonton, and whenever members of the two tribes met there was sure to be bloodshed. Colonel Steele related that the first time he went to Edmonton, he slept in a room on whose floor and walls were still the bloodstains of a Blackfeet chief murdered there two years before.
One of the most notorious of the chiefs of that time was Piapot, one of whose blackest deeds was a massacre of old men, women and children of a rival tribe. That bloody day's work was enacted near where Lethbridge now stands.
But in the time Piapot met more than his match in Jerry Potts, a Scotch half-breed, who with his followers, inflicted great "loss" on "Piapot's" band. Potts alone it is said, scalping nineteen Indians. In later life the terrible Potts became a capable and trusted interpreter.
PLYING DIABOLICAL TRAFFIC
All this time the diabolical whiskey traders were plying their traffic. They often had battles with the Indians, and on one occasion, among the Cypress Hills, they massacred an entire tribe.

When news of this wholesale villainy reached the East it roused the Canadian Government and the British authorities too; and the taking over of the country by the former was greatly hastened.
Colonel Steele passed on in his address to the formation of the Mounted Police. He went west with the first division which travelled from Lake Superior by the Dawson road to Manitoba. The second division, under Lt. Col. French, now Major-General Sir George French, arrived by way of the States in 1874. The force then proceeded westward. One division under Lt. Col. Jarvis left the main body at Roche Perce, and proceeded to Edmonton, reaching there late in the autumn. The main body marched across the prairies to Southern Alberta, and back to Dufferin, where it went into winter quarters. The force, led by Lt. Col. French, covered 1,959 miles, the longest march on record of a force carrying its own supplies.
A special force was detached from the main body when in Alberta, and placed in charge of Lieut. Col. Macleod. With the notorious Jerry Potts as guide it proceeded to the whiskey fort, Whoop-up, which was captured without a fight. The liquor was destroyed, and the buffalo robes found there confiscated.
The Indians turned out in large numbers to welcome the force, and witness the downfall of their ancient enemies, the whiskey-traders. At last they knew that the Queen, the great White Mother, would protect her red children.

FORCE TO BE PROUD OF
During all the years that have passed since then that protection has been afforded through the Mounted Police, and if they have protected the Redmen, the force was also kept them in order, protected the homes of the settlers and carried law and order in every part of the Canadian West from the International Boundary to the shores of the Arctic Ocean. There is good reason for the Canadian people to be grateful to and proud of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police.
According to the latest available returns the force numbers 31 officers, 398 non-commissioned officers and constables, 523 horses. Of the 649 men all told, there are stationed in Saskatchewan, 303; in Alberta, 229; in the Yukon, 79; and in the Territories, 28.
In the course of his report to Sir Wilfrid Laurier--for the force is administered from the office of the President of the Privy Council--Commissioner Perry writes: "During the past year new districts have been settled up. Villages have sprung up along the recently constructed railways, and the population of the other settlements has increased. Many places have asked for permanent police posts, which I have reluctantly had to refuse, because I had the men available."
"Our farthest outposts we found on the shores of Hudson Bay and the Arctic Ocean, and scattered over the vast Northland along the lines of communication. They are found along the International Boundary for 600 miles, and dotted over the unsettled districts of the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan."

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any cure of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for particulars, free.

IMPORTANT SESSION OF TOWN COUNCIL

Estimates Passed, Town Officers Appointed. Animated Discussion on License Fees

Monday evening the Town Council met in regular session. Mayor McGee was in the chair and every alderman present. In calling the Council to order his Worship took occasion to refer to it being his first time to preside at the board, and his deep appreciation of the honor conferred on him by the citizens. He would endeavor to give good service at the Council board, and hoped that the most pleasant relations would exist during the year, and the work would be carried on harmoniously.
A communication was read from W. H. Spofford, St. John, asking that a rebate be made on license paid for selling memorial pictures. A general discussion took place on the license system, participated in by all the aldermen. The matter of collecting licenses or assessing saw mills was settled by a motion to collect a fee from every employe brought here, as well as from the owners and bosses--the amount to be $5.00 for each person. A communication from the school board asking for an appropriation of $3200, for school purposes was read. Mr. J. Sutton Clark addressed the Council on behalf of the board, and said that owing to the intention of the board to employ only first class teachers, and increased pay of principal, with more expense for fuel, insurance, payment of Secretary and Janitor, and also taking up a $500 note, it was necessary to have the amount asked for. It was the desire of all citizens to have the schools up to the standard and the board was earnestly working to this end, and hoped to have the co-operation of the Council. The item passed unanimously.
The assessments were taken up and passed as follows:

Streets	$600.00
Assessors	60.00
Salaries	700.00
County School Fund	410.00
County Contingent	264.15
Poor	300.00
Councillors Pay	12.00
Schools	3200.00
	$5546.15

James McLaughlin was granted an Auctioneers license for one year.

Ald. McKennie, of the wharf committee said that the Pulp Co. was anxious to have a berth for vessels made on the side of the wharf, as they would soon commence shipping lumber. He spoke of the dredge doing the work. Ald. Meating doubted very much that the dredge could do the work properly, without danger of undermining the wharf and moved that the town do the necessary work. Carried.
A number of bills were presented and ordered paid. The Marshal's report from March 15th to May 10th was presented and accepted without discussion. The town officials for the ensuing year are:

Town Clerk, John C. O'Brien.
Treasurer, Henry McDonnell.

Catarrhazone NOTICE
The only cure for Catarrh authorized by the medical profession
Physicians boldly state that every requirement of a perfect cure for Catarrhal diseases is fulfilled in Catarrhazone, and on this account it is prescribed by almost every intelligent doctor.
It is the most powerful antiseptic known. When the lungs are filled with its germ-killing vapor the microbes which cause and maintain the unhealthy condition of the mucous membrane die immediately. Disease germs cannot exist where Catarrhazone is used.
Although very penetrating, Catarrhazone is a soothing and healing treatment. It quickly heals the raw spots and allays irritation and congestion of the mucous membrane.
When using Catarrhazone you don't have to wait all day for relief; it comes with every breath taken through the Inhaler. Head and throat are cleared and cleansed almost at once. Droppings in the throat, headache, coughing, and spitting, and all other disagreeable symptoms of catarrh are banished by a few days' use of this superior remedy.
Catarrhal diseases of every description yield without much difficulty to Catarrhazone. When used for Bronchitis, Lung Trouble and Colds, it affords not only instant relief, but cures it in very short time.
Croup, Whooping Cough and Winter Ills simply won't live any time if Catarrhazone is inhaled four times daily, and as a safeguard for Pneumonia and Consumption it has no equal.
Better get a Catarrhazone Inhaler; use it occasionally, and you won't have a cough or cold in the head or catarrh. These afflictions can be prevented by Catarrhazone as well as cured. ### A CANADIAN INDUSTRY

It has been stated that the consumption of news print by the daily papers of the United States is 3,000 tons a day. It is rather remarkable that the paper making material exported by Canada just about equals the quantity required to produce this amount of paper. If the figures are correct, Canada is today producing and selling to the United States the raw materials for manufacturing the total quantity of paper daily consumed by the newspapers of that country. That is a most significant fact and shows conclusively how absolutely dependent our Southern neighbors are upon Canada for the materials with which to make their paper. If the paper making materials could be obtained in the United States, it is inconceivable that the Americans would pay an average of $5.16 a cord to the Canadian lumbermen for wood and nearly $5.00 a cord freight to get this wood to the mills.

As has been pointed out, in 1907 the United States purchased from Canada sufficient paper-making material, consisting of pulp wood, chemical wood pulp and mechanical wood pulp, to manufacture about a million tons of paper. For these materials is paid $8,205,251. At a conservative estimate, the value of these same materials when manufactured into paper by American labor approximated closely $45,000,000. Thus over $36,000,000 was lost to Canada which would have been put in circulation in this country by the complete manufacture of the paper which the exported material would have produced. This with no additional cost to the United States consumer.

The free admission of paper into United States, coupled with an export duty on paper-making materials from Canada, would undoubtedly result in the acquisition by this country of an industry which could properly exact tribute from the American newspapers to the amount of $45,000,000 a year. This is a substantial industry, one that Canada is by nature designed for and one that wise legislation may procure for this country. Canada has reached that stage in her national existence when she is able to look after and safeguard her own interests. Here is an opportunity to act.—Halifax Chronicle.

TOWN COUNCIL

The first regular meeting of the new council was held Monday night, when the control of all town business passed into their hands. The present board are all capable business men and with the co-operation of the citizens, should be able to introduce important measures and reforms for the betterment of the town. Without criticizing the methods of carrying on the business of the council, it would appear that many petty affairs could be eliminated from long discussion especially where the council meets only once a month and has important business to transact. A more business like system could be established, and work carried on with perhaps more satisfactory results.

The assessment of $5546.15 is somewhat higher than last year, but it will be noticed that the town contingent fund has been dropped, also appropriation for streets is one hundred dollars less than last year, and any slight increase has gone to support of schools, to which very few citizens will object. It is the desire of the school board that the schools be brought to a high standard of efficiency which will, of course, call for more outlay of money, and while it is well to practice economy, an outlay for this important interest of the town is a wise move when exercised with proper judgment. The appointment of town officials will give general satisfaction, especially the board of assessors. It has been the opinion of many of the citizens that due care has not been taken in making the assessment, and the appointment of Messrs. O'Brien, Clark and Franley is a guarantee that the next assessment will be made without fear or favor.

BY THE WAY

Ah! —
Typical errors! —
What do you think? —
The fish liar is abroad in the land. —
The popular breakfast dish is trout. —
Let us have a celebration July 1st that will eclipse any previous effort. —
The Sultan of Turkey has 240 cooks, No wonder his broth is spoiled. —
The fishing enthusiasts are out in force and a few fine trout have been caught, the usual "big one" escaping. —
Grand Forks, B. C., Gazette:—The Shape of this year's hat is different, but some of its features are the same. —
A Nova Scotia paper in a notice to dog owners says, "Anybody owning dogs and not paying the tax on them will be shot." —
The habit of strenuous labor becomes comparatively easy in time, like every other habit. The first year in business is nearly always the hardest. —
Further indication of the growth and progress of Canada is shown by the fact that during the month of March last, fifty-one new Post Offices were opened in the Dominion. —
Radcliffe would not quote wholesale rates for the double hanging. Radcliffe has finer feelings than he is credited with, and feels two executions just twice as much as one, and charges on that basis. —
Since the screen law has been put in force in St. John, the booze dispensers on the back street have received a boost in their trade. Bars on the prominent thoroughfares are not doing much business. —
Mrs. Harley Dow and Mrs. Harry Cook were successful in landing forty of Utopia's finest trout Monday, after a few hours fishing. The gentlemen of the fishing fraternity will please step down. —
Buffalo Courier:—Mr. Jeffries' reported statement to admiring thousands, "Gents, I'll fight the smoke," is certainly to be regarded as one of the tersest examples of far-reaching eloquence the age has produced. —
Calgary—At Stanloff, Southern Alberta, a farmer named Pearson has refused $75,000 for his 4,500 acre farm. He is holding for $100,000. Many other sales are reported in the same district at from $30 to $40 per acre. —
An Illinois editor retired from journalism and his "good bye" is chronicled in the following language: The undersigned retires from the paper with the conviction that it is vanity. From the hour he has been solicited to lie on every given subject, and can't remember having told a wholesome truth without diminishing his subscription list or making an enemy. Under these circumstances of trial, and having a thorough contempt for himself, he retires in order to recruit his moral constitution. —
"Say, mister," said the small boy breathlessly, "take down this order quick; I got to go to school. Two pounds of coffee at 45 cents; three and one half of sugar at 7 cents; six boxes of cocoa at 24; two dozen eggs at 32, and four pounds of butter at 40 cents. How much does it come to?" —
"Four dollars and eighty three cents, my little man," said the grocer. "What address please?" —
"One! thanks!" said the schoolboy as he made his escape. "That was the only one I couldn't do!" —
Four young men fishing at Hoopers Ledge last Friday evening were in a condition bordering on panic for some time. In the excitement, due to the landing of two five inch trout and the prospects of a bite, they failed to notice the passing of time, and night threw her "sable garb" about them, over the ledge, across the lake and in and among the trees and branches that cover the land from the water to the main road. The path through the tangled brush wood is narrow and rough in the daylight, with darkness settled upon it the boys were filled with dismay. They dare not venture into the forest wild, so cried aloud for help. It came after a time, in the form of a comparative stranger in those parts, who guided them through the woods, over the swamps, across the fields to the barn where stood their horse. Once on the main road the horse knew the way home. Arriving in town they wended their several ways quietly and silently, to their respective domiciles, glad to see once more the familiar faces of relatives.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Repairs are being made to the sewers.

Rev. J. R. Norwood became editor of the Eastport Citizen May 1st.

The Charlotte County Teacher's Institute meets in Milltown Sep. 25th and 26th.

Part of the Pulp Co.'s plant has been closed down while repairs are being made to the machinery.

Mr. H. V. Dewar has his new motor boat in the river, and ready for the season's campaign.

It is rumored that Seelye Spofford has sold his farm to Wm. Dewar. The transfer has not yet taken place.

Ex-Mayor Lawrence imported two thoroughbred Jersey cows and a heifer last week. They are fine looking animals.

Telephones have been installed at the Pulp Co.'s saw mill, A. C. Gilmor's residence, D. R. McIntyre's, M. V. Dewar's residence.

Large quantities of pulp are being shipped every week by the Pulp Co. Five cargoes have already been shipped and an immense lot is awaiting transportation.

A large moose was seen Tuesday evening near the residence of James Woodbury. It did not seem alarmed at the approach of some fishermen who were returning from Utopia.

Three Sackville tots died from suffocation as a result of a fire which destroyed the home of Chas. Crossman at Sackville on Tuesday last. The parents were out spending the evening. A fourth child was rescued with difficulty by a boarder.

Considerable ballasting will be done on the roadbed of the Shore Line during the summer months, the work to start as soon as the frost is entirely out of the ground. Several ballast beds along the line of the road have been purchased by the management.

The smelt came in Wednesday evening last, and large catches were made during the week by me, and boys with dip nets. These little fish come in from the sea and deposit their spawn on the rocks above and below the Lower bridge. They stay in about a week. As a food they are delicious eating, equal to the trout in the estimation of many.

Friday last was Arbor Day. After roll call at the schools the children were given a holiday. The object of Arbor Day is to impress upon the minds of the young a love of the beautiful in nature. Trees are set out and flowers planted by the teachers and children, a general cleaning up of the school grounds takes place and instructions on the care of flowers and trees are given. A number of the boys, under the supervision of Mr. Wathen, gave the flag pole on the school grounds a coat of paint.

An effort is being made to have the old park on the Manor Road put in commission again. The improvement in the stock, in horses, cows and sheep, in and about town has a tendency to raise ambition among the farmers. To further impress upon the minds of the people the desirability of possessing blooded stock, it is the desire of a number of those interested to have the annual fair of the Eastern parishes held here. It is believed the old park offers facilities no other location near town possesses.

Mrs. Carrie Nation has retired from her battle with John Barleycorn and will bury her little hatchet on a farm she has purchased in Arkansas, where her next neighbor will be Cain Harvey, of freer silver fame, who is also rich through simulated philanthropy. Whether Carrie considers that her fight has been won, or has reached the conclusion that it is hopeless, this deponent can not say. But her retirement from the field is a distinct gain for law and order, and will entail no loss to the cause of real temperance.

Several of the factories have received new flaking machines this spring and it now looks as though this branch of factory hand work, and one of the most lucrative, was to be crowded out by the new comer. The old machines would not do their work satisfactorily and were thrown aside, but the new one with its improvements is said to fill the bill in all respects, and will prove but another of the many cases in the business, where machines have taken the place of hand labor, and thrown the laboring man and woman out of employment.---Eastport Sentinel.

See the new adv. of A. G. Brown on front page.

About thirty men will be employed in and about the new saw mill.

Carpenters and painters are rushing the work on M. E. Frauley's new hotel.

The meetings held here last week by the Salvation Army were well attended.

It is said that one of our citizens will bring an automobile to town this summer.

Steamer Granville carried a large cargo of freight and a number of passengers on her first trip last week.

Herb. Parks, Horace Hickey and Harry Perry caught a fine string of trout at Utopia Thursday.

Some very large catches of sardine herring were made last week in the weirs at Back Bay and L'Etete.

Judge Hamington passed away at his home in Dorchester, Thursday morning, after an illness since February 1st, of acute heart trouble.

Mr. Gupzell, of Grand Manan, has a large number of smoke houses at Shediac carrying on an extensive business in curing herring.

Jessie Milliken will make some extensive improvements on his cottage at Utopia this Spring. Already several parties are booked for this popular resort.

Sch. Ruth Robinson, being loaded with pulp at the public wharf, started leaking Thursday. After a thorough examination the cause of the trouble was located and repairs made.

A handsome monument, in memory of the late Henry McGrattan, was set up last week in the new Catholic cemetery by the firm of H. McGrattan & Sons. The monument is of light red granite in the form of a rustic cross, and stands thirteen feet high.

The street committee has been looking over the public thoroughfares and have commenced work on some of the streets. It is the intention of the committee to work along definite lines, with the object of making all work done of as permanent a character as possible.

With the dissolution of the Maine Mercantile Co. it was thought that there would be considerable cutting by the independent firms; but The Gazette is informed that this is now improbable. Indeed, it is said, that the leading packers are already trying to discover some method short of actual union whereby there may be harmonious action.---Fishing Gazette.

On Tuesday morning, Commissioner Calder resumed his enquiry into the ownership of the weirs held by the St. Andrews Company Limited.

The first witness examined was Mr. F. P. McColl, vice-president and general manager of the Sea Coast Packing Company, of Eastport, Me., who testified that he had bought the weirs for the purpose of forming a company to operate them and a sardine factory on the Canadian side of the line. He had been unable to interest sufficient capital to carry out the idea. Pending the carrying out of the project, the titles of the weir property had vested in Mr. Clark and Mr. Grimmer. The Sea Coast Canning Company, of Eastport, financed the weirs. The assets of the St. Andrews Company Limited consisted of cash, weir properties--"and a good board of directors." He held 45 shares of the Company's stock.

Mr. G. D. Grimmer gave evidence, the tenor of his testimony being that he had held the weirs referred to as a trustee for Mr. McColl. He had also held 45 shares of the St. Andrews Company stock for the same gentleman.

Mr. George J. Clark gave testimony along the same lines.

It was stated that steps would be taken to eliminate all control or ownership by the Sea Coast Canning Company in the weirs under enquiry.

This brought the enquiry to a close.

Commissioner Calder will probably report the evidence at once and make a recommendation in the matter.---Beacon.

MAN'S WEAKEST POINT

Over one Quarter of the Civilized Races Die of Lung Diseases.

Careful records, extending over many years, show that from one-fourth to one-third of the deaths of young and old, in any community, are caused by consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, or some other disease of the throat or lungs. No other organ or system of organs is responsible for half as many deaths.

Scientists explain that the air contains millions of germs of these different diseases, ready to pounce upon us the moment our defence is weakened. A run-down condition or a neglected cold is in thousands of cases a sufficient opening for a deadly attack.

The way to be safe is to keep on hand a bottle of Father Morrissey's No. 10 (Lung Tonic) and use it at the first symptoms of even a common cold. It clears out the mucus from the passages, allays the inflammation and brings a speedy cure.

More than that, it tones up and strengthens the lungs and the whole system to resist further attacks. Trial size, 25c a bottle. Regular size 50c. The Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

The Penhatchet's Girl

"Pick out a girl that looks good and strong," said Mrs. Penhatchet when her husband was leaving for town in the morning. "Don't get one that will be sick half the time, as Hilda was."

"You forget, my dear," said Penhatchet, mildly, as he drew on his gloves, "that, although Hilda was sick half the time, we had her valuable services at the gas range the other half of the time. That beats nobody at all, doesn't it?"

"And be certain to have her out here by 11 o'clock. I may see something in the advertisements that I will want to go downtown for and I can't sit around here all day waiting for a girl to come."

Having accomplished his mission at the intelligence office and directed the chosen maid to depart immediately for the Penhatchet flat, even advancing car fare with the laudable intention of speeding her on her unfamiliar way. Penhatchet was indulging in roscate dreams of the dinner she had assured him she was able to prepare, when the telephone rang and he found his wife on the other end of the line.

"Where on earth is that girl you were going to send out to me?" she demanded. "Here it is nearly half past 10 and I haven't seen a sign of her."

"She ought to have been there long ago," said Penhatchet, "but you know you told me to have her there by 11. I believe I mentioned that hour to her. She'll be there all right," he added, consolingly.

"Yes, but I won't," said his wife, sharply. "I got a telephone message at half past 9 that mother was down sick with a cold and wanted me to come over here. So of course I came over."

Penhatchet grew cold as visions of the perfect dinner faded away.

"Where are you now?" he demanded. "Aren't you at the flat?"

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Penhatchet. "I'm over at mother's. I waited until 10 o'clock and then I locked up the house and put the key under the doormat. The girl can get in if she has any sense."

Her husband groaned. "How on earth is she going to know the key is under the mat?" he demanded. "She may be out there now, sitting on the step! Don't you realize that we may lose her? She won't wait around there all day. She looked to be just the sort of girl we have been hunting for."

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" asked his wife, severely. "You surely don't expect me to leave mother with nobody but Brother Jack and the girls and the servants to look after her, do you?"

Penhatchet breathed hard. "You stay where you are," he shouted into the phone. "I'll jump into a taxicab and get right out to the flat and let that girl in. I wouldn't lose her now for anything."

"Whatever you think best, dear," said his wife, submissively, but don't blame me if she telephones for a moving van during the day and has all our furniture carted off to some warehouse."

Penhatchet hung up the receiver with a bang and dashed into the street to summon a taxicab, donning his hat and overcoat as he went. There was a cab in sight when he reached the street and in another moment he was tearing toward his distant home, clicking off dimes and quarters on the fare register with startling rapidity.

He had his head out of the window when the cab turned his corner, but no welcome sight of a waiting maid-servant greeted his eyes when the steps leading to his flat came into view.

"She's gone!" he muttered as he jumped from the cab and hurried into the hallway.

The key was under the mat, but as he inserted it in the lock he hesitated. The girl could not be in the house with the key outside, and if she were not there what object would he have in going in? It would be simply a waste of time, he decided. Tucking the key into his pocket he slowly climbed into the cab again and bowled back to the office, plunged in bitter thoughts.

"That's the way with a woman," he snarled as he slammed into his office. "Just when you get everything fixed right they break in with some unlooked-for proposition and spoil everything."

He got Mrs. Penhatchet on the telephone an hour or two later when his temper had cooled sufficiently to permit of his conversing with the light of his life in his usual manner. She was still on guard at her mother's bedside.

"You'd better come downtown and meet me about dinner time," he said "and we'll dine together. That girl went out there, I suppose, and then continued on her way when she found nobody at home."

"Why can't you come up to mother's to dinner?" asked Mrs. Penhatchet sweetly.

"No, not for mine!" announced her husband decidedly. "I've had enough to try my temper today without trying to eat in a house where somebody is sick, with everybody waiting on 'em. Your mother can spare you for the rest of the evening and we might as well add on the expense of a dinner downtown to my cab bill. I'm not going to that empty flat—I want something good to eat for a change."

The dinner was a success, the check was $3.40, the tip was 40 cents and Penhatchet was at peace with all the world when they rode home on the elevated. Mrs. Penhatchet's spirits rose as she felt assured that they would get a maid next day who would be eminently satisfactory.

"I don't care whether we do or not, to tell the truth," said her husband, opening the door of the flat. We can scratch along somehow for a few days."

He was interrupted by a scream from his wife, who had spied a gaunt female figure striding toward them from the rear of the flat.

"Good evening," said the figure. "I thought yees were never comin' home so I had me dinner."

"It's the girl!" gasped Penhatchet. "How did you get in?" demanded Mrs. Penhatchet.

"Sure, the back door was open and I walked in," said the nonchalant stranger; "ye wouldn't have me sittin' outside the door all day, would ye?"

Mrs. Penhatchet looked at her husband and thought she detected a malicious gleam in his eye.

"Very well," she said, stiffly, to her new servant. "We won't need anything else this evening. What is your name?"—Chicago News.

An Electrical Snow Melter

A Berlin scientist advocates the use of electricity for clearing away snow. He claims that the method is cheaper than the one in vogue. The apparatus consists of a platform, on to which the snow swept off the road-way is shoveled, and beneath which are a series of pockets formed of thin metal kept hot by electrical radiators.

A Real Lung Tonic

There are many preparations that will relieve a cough—few that will cure it. The first class, containing such drugs as Opium and Morphine, simply deaden the irritation and stop the cough, but do little or no permanent good.

Rev. Father Morrissey

"Father Morrissey's No. 10"

does not contain a trace of these dangerous drugs, but is an absolutely safe and scientific preparation of Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams.

It entirely removes the irritation that caused the cough, by cleaning out the mucus, stopping the inflammation and healing the delicate membrane of throat and lungs.

Moreover, it tones up and strengthens the whole system, particularly the lungs, and protects against future coughs and colds.

Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c. At your dealer's.

Beresford, the Idol of The Nation

The popularity with the "man in the street" of Lord Charles Beresford, whom he remembers particularly as hero of the Condor and holder of three medals for saving life, was strikingly demonstrated the other day in London and Portsmouth, when the gallant admiral came ashore on the haul; down of his flag as Commander-in-Chief of the Channel Fleet.

After the leave-taking of his fleet in Portland Roads on the previous day Lord Charles, on his flagship, King Edward VII., arrived at Spithead late the same night, and anchored until the following morning. At 9 o'clock the King Edward VII., on its flood-tide, prepared to make its final entry into Portsmouth Harbor with the Commander-in-Chief's flag at the fore. Steaming slowly and majestically up to the dockyard, the flag-ship passed between the lines of leviathan ships assembled in the harbor.

The crews manned ship to salute Admiral's flag, and cheered as the flag-ship passed, while farewells signals from the King Edward saw an ever-changing array of flags flying from her main. At easy speed the ship came abreast the North Railway jetty, where she was to be moored. The whole of her officers and men were visible on her deck. As soon as the gangway was run up she was boarded by Admiral Fanshawe, Admiral of the Port, and Admiral Superintendent Robinson.

For the first time Lord Charles appeared on the quarter deck attired in a heavy long overcoat, and wearing a silk hat. After greeting his visitors, the little party went below.

At this moment the Admiral's famous bulldog Glory was led down the gangway on a leash, and removed to the station by one of his lordship's servants. The dog's appearance excited much interest amongst the crowds of onlookers. Then a bugle sounded, and the entire ship's company mustered on the quarter-deck, the officers assembling in a long line in front, the "middles" at one end, and the captain and commander at the other. After a few minutes Lord Charles appeared again, and, stepping to the front, looked long and silently at the company. Lifting his hat, he approached the nearest midshipman, and, shaking him warmly by the hand, uttered a few words. Passing down the whole line, he greeted each of the officers in turn. Then, with one foot on the gangway, he again turned, and raising his hat bowed in stately fashion to his late comrades. Slowly he turned, and came down the gangway to the carriage in waiting which was to drive him to the Harbor Station en route for London.

ECHO OF FIFTY YEARS AGO
 As he did so, the sailors burst into loud cheering, the officers joined in

Hats and caps were thrown into the air in the enthusiasm of the demonstration of the affection entertained by the men for their late chief. Before his carriage drove off, Lord Charles once more turned towards his ship, and standing up, again doffed his hat and bowed.

Outside the dockyard gates was a great mass of people, who completely blocked the Hard as far as the station. When the carriage appeared it was momentarily held up until the police could clear a passage for it. Cheers arose on every side, and one or two admirals tried to grasp the gallant Admiral's hand. A long line of motor-cars stretched on either side, their horns adding to the general din. The windows of the buildings were crowded, and flags flew everywhere.

The crowd fell in behind the carriage and followed it to the station. Here the throngs of people were so great that Lord Charles had to have assistance to reach the platform, and he was subjected to much pushing and jostling before at length he managed to reach his carriage. Many were the encouraging cries addressed by the crowd to the departing Admiral and mingling with them were frequent shouts for "Speech." At last Lord Charles, seeing that his admirers would not be quieted, came to the window and attempted to deliver a little address. At almost every word he was interrupted by cheering, and his remarks were thus rendered almost inaudible except to those in front.

"I am greatly touched and very sensible of the extraordinary and kindly feeling which has been manifested to me by the people of Portsmouth on hauling down my flag (he said). What has perhaps touched me even more is that I have recognized and many of my old shipmates and comrades who have been in the Fleet with me for the last thirty or forty years. I see some of the men who were with me on the old Marlborough. (A voice: 'I am one, sir.')

"That must be fifty years ago. I can assure them that although my flag has come down in accordance with the Admiralty order—and they are quite within their authority to remove any man from his command—still my heart is in the service, and there are other fields of energy which I hope to take up. (A voice: Parliament.) I shall never forget that the welfare of the British Fleet is my desire, and its efficiency and readiness for war will be what I shall aim for, and also the comfort, happiness and well-being of every officer and man in that Fleet. (Loud cheers.)

Amidst the singing of "For he's a Jolly Good Fellow," the train moved off. Lord Charles standing up bared his head in his carriage and bowing.

ARRIVAL AT WATERLOO
 Lord Charles arrived at Waterloo Station at 2.30 p. m. amidst similar scenes of enthusiasm. As it happened, two trains from Portsmouth were scheduled to arrive at Waterloo within four minutes of each other. Lord

Charles was on the second train, but the expectant crowd concluded the gallant admiral would travel on the first, and loudly cheered as the train steamed into the station. Although disappointed for the moment their enthusiasm was in no way damped.

When the second train arrived the crowd bodily swept aside barriers, and police, and surged on to the platform. One of the demonstrators wore a placard, "Well done, Condor, on his hat."

Lady St. Helier was the first to greet his lordship when he stepped on to the platform.

The police did their best to clear a way through the cheering assembly for the smiling but somewhat embarrassed hero.

One lady dashed up to Lord Charles and, imprinting a kiss on his cheek, exclaimed "Dear old Charlie!" Another lady impetuously followed suit. This greatly took the fancy of the crowd, who cheered more than ever. Everyone within a yard of his lordship tried to shake hands with him.

The pressure rapidly increased as Lord Charles proceeded up No. 1 platform to his motor, and the police found an escape for him by means of one of the offices which has an exit on the other side of the building.

But the crowd quickly realized what had taken place, and rushed round to the cab-stand, where Lord Charles was again the subject of an ovation. It was several minutes before the people could be cleared sufficiently to admit a passage for the car.

At last Lord Charles accompanied by his secretary, got away, and drove off to his residence in Grosvenor Square.

The retiring admiral will report himself at the Admiralty today. In a final memorandum issued to the Channel Fleet Lord Charles said:—

"I wish to convey to the flag officers captains, officers, petty officers, non-commissioned officers and men, my keen appreciation of the loyalty, zeal and enthusiastic support invariably accorded to me during the period of my command.

"The smartness and efficiency of the Channel Fleet has been most worthily upheld.

"The conduct of the men of the Fleet has been exceptionally good. Cases of inebriety and leave-breaking have shown a most remarkable decrease."

Lord Charles Beresford has rented Rathmullen House for the coming summer. The residence is situated on the west side of Lough Swilly, County Donegal. Lord Charles is very fond of this district, and his last official cruise was made to Lough Swilly.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must necessarily falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Rats Moving on Winnipeg

Toronto, April 27.—Southern Manitoba is suffering from an invasion of big destructive rats, according to a Winnipeg despatch. The matter is so serious that the Deputy Minister of Agriculture has been sent South to make enquiries, and the Mayor, Sanford Evans has announced that the City will take action as the rats are said to be marching to Winnipeg.

A Gretna, Man., correspondent says that they are doing a vast amount of damage more especially among chickens the raising of which is quite an industry in the district. One farmer said it was almost impossible to tell the extent of the damage in one place, as they had gnawed holes in the studding and sills and ratters of his building. Very little more of the same work would make the building unsafe. They also worry the hogs, horses and chickens.

stopped in 23 minutes sure with Dr. Shoop's Group Remedy. One test will surely prove. No waiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—50c. Druggists.
