The Supreme Court of Ontario, which is a superior court of record, having civil and criminal jurisdiction, and which superseded the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, was constituted by The Law Reform Act, 1909, 9 Edward VII, Chapter 28, of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, assented to 13th April, 1909, which came into force on the 1st January, 1913, by Proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor, dated 4th July, 1912, and The Judicature Act, 3-4 George V, Chapter 19, assented to 6th May, 1913, (Chapter 56, R.S.O., 1914), and consists of two branches or divisions, which are designated respectively, "The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario," and "The High Court Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario."

The Appellate Division consists of a Chief Justice, called the Chief Justice of Ontario, who is the President of the Division, and four other Judges, called Justices of Appeal, and of the other Judges of the High Court Division who for the time being constitute or are members of a Divisional Court.

The High Court Division consists of fourteen Judges.

The said Court, as originally constituted, consisted of a Chief Justice, styled "The Chief Justice of Saskatchewan," and four other judges, called the Justices of the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan. The number of Judges was increased from four to five other Judges by the Act 3 George V, Chap. 20, (Sask.), assented to 11th January, 1913, which came into force, by proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor, on the 15th May, 1913.

The Supreme Court of British Columbia.

The Supreme Court of British Columbia, which is a Court of original jurisdiction in all cases, civil as well as criminal, arising within the Province, consists of a Chief Justice, who, so long as the present Chief Justice continues to hold such office, shall be styled the “Chief Justice of British Columbia,” and thereafter “Chief Justice of the Supreme Court,” and five Puisne Justices, called “Judges of the Supreme Court.” Prior to the Act 3 George V, Chapter 15, (B.C.), assented to 1st March, 1913, amending The Supreme Court Act, being Chapter 58 of the Revised Statutes of British Columbia, 1911, the said Court consisted of a Chief Justice and four Puisne Justices.

The present Chief Justice of the said Court, who is styled “Chief Justice of British Columbia,” has rank and precedence over all other Judges of the Courts in British Columbia, and when he ceases to hold that office his successors shall have rank and precedence next after the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeal, who shall then be styled the “Chief Justice of British Columbia.” The Puisne Judges have rank and precedence immediately after the Justices of Appeal, and among themselves according to their seniority of appointment.

(County Courts Act, 1905, Chap. 14, Chap. 53, R.S.B.C., 1911;
3 George V, Chap. 14, 1913.)

The following County Courts have been established in the Province of British Columbia:

- The County Court of Victoria.
- The County Court of Nanaimo.
- The County Court of Vancouver.
- The County Court of New Westminster.
- The County Court of Yale.
- The County Court of Cariboo.
- The County Court of Atlin.
- The County Court of East Kootenay.
- The County Court of West Kootenay.

Each of such Courts is a Court of Record presided over by a Judge, who is styled the "Judge of the County Court" for which he has been appointed to act. More than one County Court Judge may be appointed for any County Court if deemed necessary, and in such case the other Judge or Judges of the same Court are styled the "Junior Judge" or "Junior Judges" thereof. A County Court Judge or Junior Judge may be appointed for one or more County Courts, and the several Judges of the Supreme Court of British Columbia have power, authority and jurisdiction to preside in any County Court of the Province, and to dispose of the business in any such County Court as fully and effectually as could be done by any County Court Judge.

Jurisdiction in Probate.

Each County Court has jurisdiction concurrently with the Supreme Court of British Columbia in all questions relating to testacy or intestacy, and to the validity of wills of persons dying within the territorial limits of the Court, where the personal estate does not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars, and may grant probates of wills, or orders under Part II. of the "Administration Act," and letters of administration of the personal estates and effects of persons dying within the territorial limits of the Court.
