CARRATRACA MINERAL SPRINGS. PLANTAGENET. ONT.

CARRATRACA!

HE well-known Waters from the Carratraca Springs of Plantagenet, Ontario, stand unrivalled in a sanitary point of view, producing effects which are peculiarly their own, and which are not approached by any of the various known waters, either in Canada or the United States. Being the most pleasing beverage possible to be had at all seasons; as a valuable remedial agent in cases of Rheumatism, Gout, Strumous and Glandular Complaints, Epilepsy, Leprae, and various diseases of the Skin, &c., &c., their merits are acknowledged wherever used. Being the most richly mineralized of all the Canadian or American Mineral Waters, their use is attended with certain success in every case of Acidity, Dyspepsia, Gravel, Diabetes, Diseases of the Liver, &c., and in nearly every description of Disease of the Kidneys they are invaluable. In fact, there is hardly any condition of the body that positive benefit will not result from their use; and there is nothing more certain than that, under no circumstances, can any harm result from their use even by the most delicate.

These waters have been locally known for over HALF A CENTURY, and now being on sale throughout the Dominion, and in many of the principal cities of the United States, the attention of all persons is respectfully called to them, and a trial solicited. .

The Works of this Company are completely and fully equipped with Machinery and Tools, for building Railway Locomotives and Cars on the most approved principles, and with facility and despatch.

We have two designs for Broad Gauge Enginess, both of which we confidently recommend to Railway Companies, as the best adapted machines for the peculiarities of road and climate of the Railways of the Dominion. They are both substantially the same Engine, but one has outside and the other inside connexions, to suit the various tastes of Mechanical Engineers on this point.

We have also lately designed and prepared Working Drawings and Specifications for a NARROW GAUGE ENGINE (3 ft, 6 in guage), which has been prepared with a view to cheapness, without sacrificing efficiency.

We also build Locomotives and Cars to any Drawings and Specifications that may be furnished us.

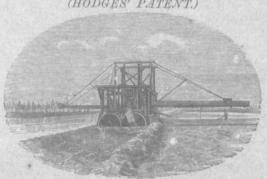

We have already built Locomotives for all the principal Railways in the Dominion, as will be seen from the following

Grand Trunk, Great Western, Nova Scotia, Northern, St. Lawrence and Ottawa, Port Hope and Lindsay, Cobourg and Peterborough.

LOVELL'S SERIES OF DIRECTORIES.

Dominion, Provincial, County, City, and Town Directories.

THE want of accurate, reliable and intelligible Local Directories has been commonly felt and generally expressed by all classes in Canada, and only in a less degree by the inhabitants of the neighboring Provinces. Indeed the complaint has become so common, and the requests to remove it so urgent, that the Publisher of the Dominion Directors has determined to make the experiment, and discover for himself what encouragement may be expected for such books as the commercial public have very generally concurred in asking for. Should the first experiment turn out satisfactorily, it is the Publisher's intention to follow it systematically, and at stated periods, with new and enlarged editions of the same works. He begs further to say that whether such Directories be general in their character, like the Dominion Directory, or local, like the Provincial Directories, or Municipal, like the County, City or Town Directories, they will in either and all cases be prepared with the greatest care, constructed on the simplest plan, printed in a uniform manner and bound according to a uniform pattern,

As the Publisher of the DOMINION DIRECTORY is thoroughly acquainted with the modes in which information for such uses should be obtained, and as he has accumulated an immense stock of the requisite materials, and gathered about him a reliable body of men, who by constant employment as agents or artizans, have made themselves practically acquainted with every branch of this department of industry, he is able to offer guarantees of his ability to satisfy the commonly expressed want by printing and publishing accurate, reliable and intelligible Directories.

The Publisher has no hesitation in guaranteeing as thorough correctness as it is possible to attain, and respectfully points to the accompanying Directory as as example of the character of the work and of the workmanship he will study to maintain in the projected series. Intimation from merchants and gentlemen in localities where the want of a Directory is recognized, would be accepted as a special favor, and acted upon wherever practicable.

HUBBUCK'S PATENT WHITE ZINC PAINT.

By a process, which is patented, the pure White Zinc Paint is cheaper than White Lead. It is the most durable and beautiful paint known, and does not stain or discolor with the London atmosphere.

Those direful maladies, Paralysis and Painters' Colic, which destroy health and entail suffering and misery on posterity, will be entirely avoided. Apartments may now be immediately occupied without danger. It is entirely free from any poisonous or pernicious property.

ADULTERATIONS.—Several Paint Grinders have been selling Zinc Paint adulterated with Sulphate of Barytes, some even to the extent of thirty per cent. No workman can produce good work with such material. Those who have once used Hubbuck's patent Zinc Paint will never willingly use any other Paint for their best work.

To prevent the prejudice which the inferior article must produce, each cask of pure White Zinc Paint is stamped-

"HUBBUCK, LONDON, PATENT."

Inferior Zinc Paint so marked, having been sold in Foreign Markets, the Patentees offer a reward of Fifty Pounds for information which shall lead to the conviction in an English or Colonial Court of those who have pirated their mark. It is to be observed that both exporters and dealers are liable for its sale.

THOMAS HUBBUCK & SON.

WHITE LEAD, OIL, AND VARNISH WORK, 24 LIME STREET, LONDON, ENGLAND.

"For public schools, and all rooms occupied by children, there will now be no excuse for using poisonous paints. Parents have remarked that their children, on returning from the country to newly painted houses, have suffered in health. The reason is evident; the breath extracts the poison from White Lead even after the paint is dry, and the lungs draw in the deadly vapour.

"Among other tests to which it has been subjected, has been that of painting the hold of a sugar vessel, which, after a voyage to St. Kitt's and back, was found, after washing, to be as white as the first day the paint was applied."—John Bull, September 14, 1850.

HUBBUCK'S ANTI-CORROSIVE PAINTS.

The most valuable protection to Iron Roofs, Bridges, Piers, Ships and Buildings, exposed to stormy weather and scorching sun; they soon become extremely hard, do not blister, and are very durable. They are made of Stone, Slate, Copper, White, Blue, Green, or any other Color that is desired.

HUBBUCK'S PALE BOILED OIL

Has less color than Raw Linsed Oil, is a quick, hard and certain drier, and the only Boiled Oil, suitable for White and Light Paints.

EDWARD GRAY'S

HORSE SHOES.

EDWARD GRAY, PATENTEE AND SOLE MANUFACTURER

Grooved Steel and Steel Faced Bars, To be made into Horse Shoes.

This is a most important invention, and one that has long been wanted, as it will enable Horses to obtain a firm foothold, and prevent them slipping or falling, which is of daily occurrence in London and other large cities and towns. Shoes made from this material will not require sharpering in winter, and will be found of universal advantage on the Road or in the Field: they are two-thirds lighter, will last longer, and look much better than any other shoes.

Another great advantage is, they do not shake and heat the Horses' legs and feet like other shoes, the teeth, acting as a spring, prevent concussion. Horses shod with these Shoes will last years longer than if shod with any other. They can be altered, fitted, and put on by any ordinary farrier.

The Patentee is now ready to supply the Material, or Shoes made of any size or thickness to suit all kinds of horses. All orders sent as below, shall have prompt attention.

Extract from tast work [1869] on Horse Sboes and Horse Sboeing, by GEORGE FLEMING, F.R.G.S., F.A.S.L., Member of Council of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, Veterinary Surgeon Royal Engineers, &c.

"For very many years inventors have endeavoured to remedy the defects of calkins in various ways. In this century many plans have been adopted, the iron or steel employed being, in a number of instances, rolled by machinery, and generally channelled into grooves or concavities. The most successful of these attempts to fabricate shoes to prevent slipping appears to be that adopted by Mr. EDWARD GRANY, of Sheffield."

Lovell's Series of Directories.

Dominion, Provincial, County, Gity, and Town Directories.

THE want of accurate, reliable and intelligible Local Directories has been commonly felt and generally expressed by all classes in Canada, and only in a less degree by the inhabitants of the neighboring Provinces. Indeed the complaint has become so common, and the requests to remove it so urgent, that the Publisher of the Dominion Directors has determined to make the experiment, and discover for himself what encouragement may be expected for such books as the commercial public have very generally concurred in asking for. Should the first experiment turn out satisfactorily, it is the Publisher's intention to follow it systematically, and at stated periods, with new and enlarged editions of the same works. He begs further to say that whether such Directories be general in their character, like the Dominion Directory; or local, like the Provincial Directories; or Municipal, like the County, City or Town Directories, they will in either and all cases be prepared with the greatest care, constructed on the simplest plan, printed in a uniform manner and bound according to a uniform pattern.

As the Publisher of the Dominion Directory is thoroughly acquainted with the modes in which information for such uses should be obtained, and as he has accumulated an immense stock of the requisite materials, and gathered about him a reliable body of men, who by constant employment as agents or artizans, have made themselves practically acquainted with every branch of this department of industry, he is able to offer guarantees of his ability to satisfy the commonly expressed want by printing and publishing accurate, reliable and intelligible Directories.

The Publisher has no hesitation in guaranteeing as thorough correctness as it is possible to attain, and respectfully points to the accompanying Directory as an example of the character of the work and of the workmanship he will study to maintain in the projected series. Intimation from merchants and gentlemen in localities where the want of a Directory is recognised, would be accepted as a special favor, and acted upon wherever practicable.

STOP CYLINDER PRINTING MACHINE FOR FINE WORK.

DESCRIPTION.

This machine is of a new pattern, and designed for the finest kinds of Book, Wood-cut and Color PRINTING. The distribution is either by an inking table or vibrating cylinder as may be desired, and the number of form rollers, from two to ten according to size. The bed is driven by a crank, without bed-springs, and without the slightest jar. The impression cylinder is stationary during the return of the bed, and the fingers close on the sheet before the register points are withdrawn; the cylinder then revolves, and, as it gears directly into the bed, perfect register is obtained. The fingers never require shifting, whatever the size of the form, and no tapes are used. When so ordered, the bed is arranged to be run either once or twice, thus passing the form under the inking rollers either two or four times to each impression as may be required.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

FOR

Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicies are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a Hair Dressing, nothing can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

SAW MILLS,

Steel Gates, Soho Friction Set Works for Circular Saw Mills, &c.,

This is an invention intended to so move the Log towards the Saw as to secure a uniform thickness of Lumber, and this it does with greater accuracy than any other known arrangement.

It is very simple, and so constructed 'hat it cannot wear nor break, and is the the only perfect Set Motion ever invented.

Canting Machines, Double Edgers, Butting Saws, Swing Saws, Stave Cutters, Gumming Machines, and every kind of Saw Mill Supplies.

SWARTWOUT'S OSCILLATING GANG.

We would respectfully call the attention of all engaged in the manufacture of Lumber to this valuable improvement in Vertical Saw Hangings. By its peculiar construction the Saw, on its downward motion, strikes at the bottom of the log first and continues an even pressing cut until the pittiman reaches the forward centre, when the lower end recedes and the top is carried forward by inclined Slides, thus producing an even Rotary Cut. This Gang will carry a heavier feed with less power than any Mill working upon straight lines, and will increase the capacity at least 25 per cent.

SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF A. D. COLE'S SAMSON TURBINE WATER WHEEL (PATEINTED JULY 12, 1670.)

The Best Wheel manufactured on the Continent; will do more work, give more power and better satisfaction, with less water and expense; than any other Wheel, having beaten the Leffel Turbine 35 per cent. on the premises of Tuttle, Date & Rodden, St. Catharines, Sept. 1, 1870, in a side by side trial, ning only 550 inches of water while the Leffel used 743 inches. In consequence the Leffel wheel was ordered out and one of our Samson Turbines substituted.

Assurers have the choice of two separate Classes of Assurance.

An allocation of Profit in Cash is made every year in this class to all Policies of not less than five years' standing at the preceding Annual Balance, and each Policy-holder's share is applied in payment of his next Annual Premium. The Outlay required for the Policies has thus, for many years, been only from 62½ cts. to 75 cts. per $1 of the Premiums according to standing, and commencing with those due at the end of the sixth year, CASH PROFITS of more than £375,000 sterling have been distributed in this manner to the Policy-holders during their own lives.

LOVELL'S SERIES OF DIRECTORIES.

Dominion, Provincial, County, City, and Town Directories.

THE want of accurate, reliable and intelligible Local Directories has been commonly felt and generally expressed by all classes in Canada, and only in a less degree by the inhabitants of the neighboring Provinces. Indeed the complaint has become so common, and the requests to remove it so urgent, that the Publisher of the Dominson Directory has determined to make the experiment, and discover for himself what encouragement may be expected for such books as the commercial public have very generally concurred in asking for. Should the first experiment turn out satisfactorily, it is the Publisher's intention to follow it systematically, and at stated periods, with new and enlarged editions of the same works. He begs further to say that whether such Directories be general in their character, like the Dominion Directory; or local, like the Provincial Directories; or Municipal, like the County, City or Town Directories, they will in either and all cases be prepared with the greatest care, constructed on the simplest plan, printed in a uniform manner and bound according to a uniform pattern.

As the Publisher of the Dominion Directory is thoroughly acquainted with the modes in which information for such uses should be obtained, and as he has accumulated an immense stock of the requisite materials, and gathered about him a reliable body of men, who by constant employment as agents or artizans, have made themselves practically acquainted with every branch of this department of industry, he is able to offer guarantees of his ability to satisfy the commonly expressed want by printing and publishing accurate, reliable and intelligible Directories.

The Publisher has no hesitation in guaranteeing as thorough correctness as it is possible to attain, and respectfully points to the accompanying Directory as an example of the character of the work and of the workmanship he will study to maintain in the projected series. Intimation from merchants and gentlemen in localities where the want of a Directory is recognized, would be accepted as a special favor, and acted upon wherever practicable.

PREFACE.

FREQUENT representations of the want of a reliable and correct Directory of Nova Scotia, having been expressed to the Publisher, he decided, during his late canvass for the Canadian Dominion Directory, to issue one for that Province, and now takes pleasure in placing it before the public. In so doing, he would remark that, though the work did not meet with that pecuniary encouragement which he had anticipated, he has received such kind and valuable assistance from gentlemen in every section of the Province, in the revision of proofs of places taken by his agents, that he is strongly impressed with the belief that had a fuller knowledge of his intentions and the nature of his work been earlier made known, the support would have been as hearty and liberal as in the Western Provinces of the Dominion.

Neither pains nor expense have heen spared to render the accompanying work reliable and complete. During the past year agents have travelled from one end of the Province to the other, gathering information and taking the names of the inhabitants of every town, village and settlement; and within the past few weeks their work has been revised and where possible made more perfect by gentlemen residing in the places themselves. Thus has the main feature of the work, —its correctness—been accomplished. To those gentlemen who took such time and trouble in revising, and were so very kind and prompt in returning proofs sent to them, the Publisher takes this opportunity of briefly returning his sincere and heartfelt thanks. He would also state that it his intention to publish from time to time, as occasion may require, his Province of Nova Scotia Directory, that it will be got up similar to the one now produced, and that the same means will be employed to guarantee its being in every part correct.

The reader will observe that the work is much more comprehensive than the title indicates, being est simply a DIRECTORY, where the names of almost every male inhabitant in the Province is to be found, but in some measure a Gazetteer describing the situation of every city, town, village and inhabited place having a name that could possibly be ascertained, its most remarkable feature, principal productions manufactures, population, means of communication, &c.

As exhibiting the growth and progress of the country, the richness of its resources, the extent of its commerce and varied branches of industry, its means of travel, its lines of railways, completed, in course of construction, and projected, the inducements to the settler, and, in fact as giving the fullest and most useful information respecting the chief Maritime Province in the Dominion, the Directory will be specially valuable and will be found an indispensable companion to the public, professional and business man.

The aim of the Publisher has been to give to the people of Nova Scotia a Directory and Geographical Dictionary which should be a credit to their Province, as well as to his establishment, and this he believes he has faithfully performed in the work he now has the honor of placing in their lands.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES

OF THE

VARIOUS PROVINCES

COMPOSING THE

DOMINION OF CANADA,

ALSO, THE

PROVINCES OF NEWFOUNDLAND AND PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF CANADA.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC.

As the division of Canada into two provinces did not take place till 1791, and as the two sections were united again in 1800, and became separate members of the Confederation only in 1867, much unnecessary repetition will be avoided by including in one sketch the principal events in the history of the whole province as it existed previously to Confederation.

I. CANADA UNDER FRENCH RULE.

The history of Canada is naturally divided into two great epochs: the period of French rule and that of British rule. If the former period, the most prominent events are the inessant wars of the colonists with the native inhabitants, and with the neighbouring colonies of Britain. The second priod is remarkable as a century of wonderful expansion and prosperity, especially in Western Canada. The most reminent events are: the introduction of a representative system of Government, the division of the province, the war with the United States, the political struggles arising at of hostility of race, the rebellion, followed by the reunion of the provinces, the institution of "Responsible Government," and the concession to the Legislative Assembly of the control over revenue and expenditure; and, lastly, seafeleration with the other provinces.

EARLY VOYAGES AND DISCOVERIES.

It was on the 3rd of August, 1402, that Columbus, with if little fleet of three vessels, sailed on his memorable voyage of discovery from Palos, a port on the coast of Spain. In the 9th of the following month he passed Ferro, the sit of the Canary Isles, and launched out into unknown seas. Her the lapse of more than another month, during which is spirit of the commander was sorely tried by the murmurs of meances of his mutinous and superstitious crews, Columbur 1slft his ship on the 11th of October, and planted the ag of Spain on an island to which he gave the name faas Salvador. Several months were spent in exploration, and then the great adventurer set sail on the 4th of hamary, 1403, and arrived affely at Palos.

The materials for the historical sketches of the provinces have an derived from Garneau's History of Canada (Bell's translation); solicias School History of Canada and the British Provinces; been's History of New Branswick; Page's History of Newfoundad; Satherland's History of Prince Edward Island; and other sures.

The discoveries of Columbus excited a spirit of enterprise and adventure throughout Europe, and subsequent explorers had not any longer to encounter the great difficulties that so long baffled his efforts to procure means to prosecute his voyage. Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were discovered by the Cabots. Other discoveries followed in quick succession; but it was not till 1534 that the discovery of Canada (Ontario and Quebec) was made by Jacques Cartier, a navigator in the service of Francis I, King of France. The kings of Spain and Portugal protested against the proposed expedition under Cartier as an encroachment on their territorial rights. "What!" Francis is reported to have exclaimed, "do they expect to share all America between them. I should like to see the clause in our father Adam's will that makes them sole heirs to so vast a heritage."

Cartier, with two small vessels, sailed from the port of St. Malo, on the coast of Brittany, on the 20th of April, 1534. Arriving off the coast of Newfoundland after a favorable voyage, he passed through the Straits of Belle Isle into the Gulf of the St. Lawrence, and sailed southward to the Baie des Chaleurs. It was early in July when he reached the Bay, and the heat of the weather caused him to give it that name. Finally, on the 24th of July, he landed on the peninsula of Gaspé, and took possession of the country in the name of the French king. A few days later he set sail for France, taking with him two of the natives. The report of his discoveries excited so much interest at home that the following year he was sent out with three vessels, well manned and equipped. This season he sailed up the gulf. Having anchored in a little bay at the mouth of the river St. John on St. Lawrence day, he named the bay after that saint, and the name was afterward extended to the gulf and river. Ascending the St. Lawrence, he arrived at the Island of Orleans, where he was received in a friendly manner by Donnacona, the Algonquin chief. He then proceeded to a native settlement, called Stadacona, near the mouth of the St. Charles. Here he moored his vessels, boldly resolving to winter in the country. Having heard accounts from the natives respecting a large settlement further up, he was induced, in the month of September, to ascend the St. Lawrence as far as Hochelaga (Montreal) where he was welcomed with the most friendly manifestations by the Huron Indians.* The beautiful mountain lying to the west was named by him Mount Royal. The winter was now approaching, and Cartier returned to Stadacona, (close by Quebec,) where he intrenched himself near his ships.

The expedition suffered greatly during the long winter that ensued. The cold was intense. Most of the sailors were attacked by scurvy, and before the snow disappeared sketch, we come to the next attempt to found a colour one fourth part of the crews had perished by disease. In Canada. In 1598, the Marquis de la Roche was appo spring, Carter made haste to return to France. De la Roche landed most of his colon friendly natives, in seizing their chief, Donnacona, and four Indians, and carrying them off to France where they all soon

The origin of the name Canada, it may be mentioned here, is somewhat obscure. Some would derive it from the Spanish or Portuguese, by putting together the words Ca, here, and nada, nothing, supposed to have been uttered by the first explorers when they found no precious metals. Others, with better reason, conjecture that Jacques Cartier, having heard the natives apply the Indian word Kannatha (or village) to their settlements, mistook it for the name of the whole country.

Harassed by wars with Spain, and distracted by religious dissensions at home, the French were unable to give that attention to the newly discovered territories which their importance deserved. Five years elapsed after Cartier's return This was placed before another expedition was organized. under the command of a distinguished soldier, the Sieur de Roberval, who received a commission as viceroy of the colony to be founded. Cartier sailed in advance of Roberval, in command of a flotilla of five vessels. After a stormy passage he arrived in the gulf, and again ascended the St. Lawrence to Stadacona or Quebec. Here the French colonists who had been brought out, landed, and began to prepare ground for cultivation. Cartier continued his voyage to Hochelaga, and endeavoured to pass the Lachine rapids, but without success. The summer passed away without any intelligence being received respesting the movements of Roberval, who was to have followed him out: so Cartier resolved to spend the winter in the country. The Indians, mindful of his treachery to their chief, were far from friend-'y, and he deemed it prudent to erect two small forts at Cape Rouge for the protection of his winter quarters. In the spring, the natives showing signs of increasing hostility, Cartier sailed for France, where he died a few years later. He had, however, before his death, been ennobled by the king for his distinguished services, and his heirs received a license to trade in Canada. We read of his nephews being engaged subsequently in the peltry traffic.

Roberval, whose departure had been delayed for a year, met Cartier near Newfoundland (or, as some say, near Quebec), and vainly endeavoured to prevent his return. Roberval then continued his voyage to Cape Rouge, where he remained for some time. Little is known respecting his movements during the year that he in spent Canada. He is said to the havoc caused by each discharge, routed the Iroquest have explored the river Saguenay, and other parts. During this and other occasions. But few years elapsed best the winter fifty of his colonists perished. In 1543, he returned to France at the request of the king, who required his services in the war with Spain which was about to recommence. This was the last expedition for six years.

In 1549, Roberval, having been permitted to organize another expedition, set out for Canada, but he was lost in the passage across the Atlantic, with all his followers. This disaster led to the abandonment of French settlements in Canada. For many years there was no opportunity to renew them, France being engaged in wars with Spain and Austria, and harassed by civil and religious dissensions. PERMANENT SETTLEMENTS IN NEW FRANCE.

We come now to the voyages of Champlain, a distinguis naval officer, whose name is honourably connected w Canadian exploration and settlement. His first voyage was made in 1603, under the auspices of a company of Fra merchants trading in furs. The little fleet consisted of the small vessels of 12 to 15 tons each. Champlain ascended to St. Lawrence to Hochelaga, but was prevented by the Lach rapids from passing upward. He, however, diligently of lected all the information that he could obtain from t natives respecting the country above the rapids, and sketch a map for the king. Henry IV. was well pleased with the count of the expedition, and appointed de Monts, a Hugunot, lieutenant general of Acadie, with extensive trad of Canac privileges. In the ensuing years, settlements were form appointm at Port Royal (Annapolis) and other places in Acadia. resident p

For some years Champlain continued the congenial won of exploration. His enemies, indeed, made it a matter of proach that he was more fond of exploring the country the of improving the facilities for trade and increasing the pr fits of the fur company. About this time the wars between the Iroquois and other Indian tribes appear to have be waged with great ferocity. The weaker tribes, the Hun and Algonquins, sought the powerful aid of their neighb the French, and Champlain unfortunately granted then quest. Franciscans), and a first effort was made to introduce Christanity among the Indians. Monastic establishments began to appear in the land. They were the most prominent buildlags at the various settlements. At this time (1615), Champlain renewed his explorations of the upper Ottawa. Passing the Mattawin river to Lake Nipissing, thence down the French river, he came to the Georgian Bay and Lake Huron. He spent some time in exploring those western parts, and visited several of the lodges of the Hurons. Atlength he reached Cahiague, (now Orillia) one of the chief lodges of the Hurons, near Lake Simcoe. Champlain's relations with this tribe were very friendly, and he was induced to join them in a great expedition against their bitprenemies, the warlike Iroquois. The assault on the enemy was made suddenly and unexpectedly, but the Iroquois speedily rallied, and repulsed their assailants with great tourage and determination. Champlain himself was wounded, and with his Indian allies was forced to retreat. Thus Champlain, who was the first, or among the first, to assist Indian gamst Indian, already began to experience the disastrous consequences of his policy. The thirty years during which he was engaged in exploration are marked by incessant Indian conflicts. Treaties of peace were not long regarded. In 1622, for instance, a solemn treaty of peace was entered into between the Hurons and the Iroquois, but a few years later we read of fresh hostilities.

About 1620, the Prince de Condé ceded the vice-royalty of Canada to Admiral Montmorency, who confirmed the appointment and powers of Champlain as deputy head and resident governor of the colony. About this time Champlain bil the foundations of a government house, known as the tastle of St. Louis, at Quebec. He also promulgated several edinances for the maintenance of order in the colony. Very ttle was done in the way of tilling the soil, the attention of the colonists being engrossed by the more lucrative occuation of trading in furs. The number of permanent resients at Quebes, including the monks, did not exceed fifty. lowever, the colony was re-inforced in 1625 by a band of suit missionaries, who labored with the Recollet fathers. or the conversion of the Indians.

THE HUNDRED PARTNERS.

Disputes respecting trading privileges were-constantly ocuring. The trading associations were bitter rivals. Finally, 1627, a new company, called the Company of One Hundred Partners, or Associates, with extensive trading privileges, ras organized under the patronage of Cardinal Richelieu. be powers of this new association were very extensive. The landred Partners were in fact the rulers of the colony, with ower to make laws within their limits, with attributes of igniory and justiceship, &c. In return for their privileges be Company undertook to send 4,000 persons to Canada uring the fifteen years their charter was to be in force, and aid these colonists in settling on lands to be appropriated o their use.

Shortly after this, war was declared between France and ngland. Tadousac, a trading station, was captured (1628) Sir David Kertk, a French Huguenot refugee, who had stered the English service, and messengers were sent to amplain to demand the surrender of Quebec. The request as peremptorily refused. To disguise the starving condion of the colonists, Champlain is said to have sumpously entertained the messengers of Kertk. The English mmander withdrew his fleet without making any attack the place, but while cruising in the gulf, the ships into his hands. The following year (1629) he resumed hostilities. The inhabitants of Quebec had been half starved during the winter from want of the supplies which had been intercepted; no help came from France, and when in July, 1629, Kertk appeared in sight, the garrison capitalated. This was the first capture of Quebec. At the date of its surrender peace had been concluded between England and France at home. Champlain was carried to England, where he was set at liberty and permitted to return to Franca

Three years afterward, (1632) Canada, together with Nova Scotia and Cape Breton, was ceded to France by the Treaty of St Germain en Laye. The following year Champlain was re-appointed governor, and carried out with him abundance of stores. He sought to strengthen and build up the shattered colony, but his labors were soon stayed by death. He expired on Christmas day, 1635, after thirty years' service in connection with Canadian exploration and settlement.

The new governor sent out from France was Montmagny, who pursued the policy adopted by Champlain. The Hurons and Iroquois were at this time again engaged in a sanguinary war. Some consternation was caused (1638) by shocks of earthquake which were felt throughout the country. Similar shocks were experienced in 1663, and have frequently occurred in our own time.

In 1640, the island of Montreal was ceded by M. de Lauzon (who had acquired it from the Hundred Partners,) to an association of 35 persons, by whom de Maisonneuve was instructed to found a settlement. The new town or colony was established near the Indian village of Hochelaga, and named Ville Marie, on the 18th of May, 1042. The few buildings erected were surrounded by wooden palisades for the protection of the place against Indian incursions. Such was the small beginning of Montreal city.

INDIAN WARS.

The war between the French and Harons on one side and the Iroquois on the other, was now waged with great ferocity. The Iroquois formed a design to wipe their enemies from the face of the land. The French posts were to be simultaneously attacked. The plot failed, but for some years years the Indian braves waged a war of extermination. The French were able to afford very slight assistance to their Huron allies. Their own existence was, in fact, in almost daily peril, for it must be remembered that the whole European population of Canada at this time did not exceed three hundred souls. Soldiers had to be sent from France to protect. the enfeebled settlement. Ville Marie was put in a condition for defence by d'Aillebout; Fort Richelieu was erected at the mouth of the Richelieu, and other measures were adopted to check the incursions of the enemy.

In 1645, a truce was entered into with some of the Iroquois bands. The Company of the Hundred Partners had suffered enormous losses during these Indian wars, and were glad to renounce their rights for an annual rent payable in beaver skins. The inhabitants of Montreal, Quebec, and Three Rivers, accordingly obtained from the company, on the above condition, the privilege of trading on their own account. The sanguinary conflict with the Indians soon broke out afresh. The unhappy Hurons were hunted to death without mercy throughout the length and breadth of the land. The French were wholly unable to afford their allies any protection. Several of the Jesuit missionaries, who were laboring amongst the Indians, died under cruel tortures inflicted by the Iroquois. The Huron tribes were ad stores sent out from France by the new company fell almost annihilated. A few survivors sought refuge within the palisardes of Quebec and other French forts, and continued till, unfortunately for the colony, the governor were finally transferred to Lorette, where some of their descendants may still be found.

So great was the terror inspired by the bitter hostility of the Iroquois, that when the New England colonies (1648-1651) put forward a project of colonial union with Canada, the French governor refused to negotiate, unless the New Englanders consented to aid the French in humbling the power of their Indian foes. Now the Iroquois, while harassing the French to death, had been fast friends of the Engfish, and such a stipulation would have been highly ungrateful on the part of the latter. So the negotiations were broken off. The incident only served to increase the fury of the Iroquois. For some years trade was paralyzed, and the French were in serious danger of being driven from the country. "The war with the Iroquois," says a chronicle of 1653, "has dried up all sources of prosperity. The beavers are allowed to build their dams in peace, none being able or willing to molest them." It must be borne in mind that by this time the Iroquois had obtained fire-arms, and learned to judge appointed by the king, who had full power to decid use them with fatal effect. At length, in 1653, reinforcements being received from France, the governor was enabled to act vigorously on the offensive. European discipline prevailed. The Iroquois lost heart when they saw the number of their foes suddenly doubled by arrivals from of seigniories were also authorized under certain restrictions the unknown land beyond the seas. They were brought to sue for peace, and a treaty was concluded the following vear (1654)

During this time several changes had taken place in the government. It had been decided to change the governors of French dependencies every three years. Montmagny was succeeded in 1347, by d'Aillebout, and he, in turn, was

The mode of colonization had been semi-religious. Jesuit and Recollet missionaries penetrated the country in all directions, and endeavoured to win the natives to the Christian faith. There was not a printing press in the colony till long afterward. A very small portion of the soil was brought under cultivation. The residents, occupied for the most part in trade, did not raise sufficient for their subsistence, and depended largely on supplies from the mother country. The principal buildings seem to have been the monastic establishments. Ecclesiastics exercised magisterial authority in the parishes. An incident related by Garneau, which led to dissension between the governor and ecclesiastical authorities, throws some light upon the state of affairs at this time. Selling liquor to Indians was prohibited under the severest penalties. The governor, d'Avaugour, had caused three men to be shot at one time for this crime. A widow being subsequently taken to prison for the same offence, one Père Lallemant, not only interceded for her but justified her act. The governor angrily exclaimed that if the law was to be enforced in this irregular and partial manner, he would cease to enforce it at all. On ceded to the inhabitants. was recalled. On quitting the reins of government, d'Avangour drew up a document strongly recommending that France should, without loss of time, strengthen her footing in Canada. He advised that three thousand picked soldiers accustomed to agricultural pursuits, should be located in the country, and assisted from Imperial sources till they had firmly established themselves.

SOVEREIGN AUTHORITY RESUMED.

In 1663, the Company of One Hundred Partners, which had not fulfilled the obligations imposed on it, was for. mally dissolved by Louis XIV., and a sovereign council composed of the principal officers of civil government residing in the colony, M. Laval, the first bishop, who had bil of as come out in 1659, and other distinguished persons, was by imp established at Quebec. This council acted also as a coun of appeal from the district courts. In each of the three districts, Quebec, Three Rivers and Montreal, there was a Maister of all matters, both civil and criminal, that arose within the district. Besides the regular courts, judicial authority was vested in the intendant. This power was exercised generally in matters of small amount. The owner to administer justice within their seigniories.

ecouraged to cettle in the country. Talon, being in ill lapse of years, and was embittered by a long course of 'Avaswalth, was forced to solicit his recall in 1668, but the followar year he was persuaded to resume office, and sailed from France with 700 emigrants.

In 1672, Count de Frontenac, who was destined to occupy I in the distinguished place in the history of Canada, came out as overnor in the place of de Courcelles. Talon now retired om his office of intendant. At this date the population ad increased to nearly six thousand souls.

Frontenac was a high spirited soldier of very fair abiliis. Shrewd and discerning in his views, he was also quick ad impetuous in action. The position of Quebec excited is admiration on landing. "It could not have been better inced," he said "if it had been expressly selected as the capial of a great empire.". The new governor was also favor-, was by impressed by the dignity and eloquence of the Indian hiefs. In 1673, having been present at a conference with roquois chiefs at Cataraqui, he remarked, in a letter to the finister of State : "You would assuredly have been surprised, my lord, had you listened to the eloquent oratory, and emarked the subtice spirit with which all the deputies hain the angued and reasoned. in his efforts to improve the condition of the colony, contenac was unfortunate enough to encounter the oppositen and enmity of the Jesuits. Grave dissensions soon emmenced between the governor and other dignitaries that Frontenac having aprisoned Perrot, the governor of land sourceal, for treasonable conduct, the side of the accused as openly espoused by Fénélon, the parish priest of Mon-ral. The ecclesiastics denied that any jurisdiction could exercised over them by the sovereign council, and con-sold that they could be summoned to appear only before aded that they could be summoned to appear only before ber bishop. The intendant, Duchesneau, sided with the classastics. Fresh trouble was also created by the liquor mafic. We cannot follow here the course of these unfornate disputes. The king severely censured his servants, of attempted in vain to check their quarrels; but they proeded to such a height that both Frontenac and Duchesneau ere recalled in 1682.

INDIAN WARS RENEWED.

The new governor, de la Barre, came out at a critical ne. Another Indian war was imminent. The New Engad colonists offered the Indians better prices for their ins, and exchanged goods on far easier terms than the each traders, fettered by trade restrictions, could afford. sch ill feeling prevailed on this account among the tives. The conjuncture required a prudent and conciliary course. De la Barre lacked ability and experience, and oved unequal to the occasion. After some months of decision, an expedition set out and advanced as far as like Ontario. Here envoys from the Iroquois met the vernor, and de la Barre concluded a disgraceful treaty, by lich he abandoned some of his Indian allies to the mercy the Iroquois. The treaty was disallowed by the king, immediately recalled the governor, and sent out the rquis de Denonville to replace him. hostility. At this time, moreover, the Iroquois were incensed by a discreditable act of treachery on the part of the governor. Having decoyed some Indian braves to Catara qui, under pretence of a conference, he caused them to be seized, and sent home to work in the galleys

Having obtained reinforcements from France, the governor led an expedition against the Iroquois, which was successful in the field; but as soon as the steps of the marquis were turned homeward, the foe re-appeared with unabated spirit. The fort at Niagara was suddenly attacked by them and completely destroyed. An ineffectual attempt was made to negotiate a treaty through the intervention of Col. Dongan, the governor of New York. The critical state of affairs was vividly depicted as follows by the governor in a despatch to Paris, Aug. 10th, 1688: "The savages are just so many animals of prey, scattered through a wast forest, whence they are ever ready to issue, to plunder and kill in the adjoining country. To go in pursuit of them after their ravages is a constant but almost bootless task. They have no settled habitation to which they can be traced with any certainty. They must be watched for everywhere and long waited for, with fire-arms ready primed; many of their lurking places could be reached only by blood-hounds. or by other savages as trackers. But those in our service are few, and the native allies we have are seldom trustworthy. They fear the enemy more than they love us; and they dread, on their own account, to drive the Iroquois to extremity. It has been resolved, in the present strait, to erect a fortress in every seigniory, as a place of shelter for helpless people and live stock, at times when the open country is overrun with savages. As matters now stand. the arable grounds lie far apart, and are so surrounded by bush, that every thicket serves as a covert for the foe; se that an army would be needed to protect the tillers of our

The following year (1689) war was declared by France against England for the purpose of aiding James II. A bold project, suggested by Chevalier de Callières, of attack ing the English posts at New York and Albany, was under consideration by the French authorities, when a terrible disaster fell upon the colony. The Iroquois, who for some months had been unusually tronquil, without the slightest warning, in the month of August, appeared in force near Montreal, and in one night massacred the entire population of Lachine. Two hundred persons were slaughtered or burned alive on the spot, and others, more unfortunate, were carried off to be tortured to death. The invaders also assailed and captured the fort at Montreal, and kept possession of the island till the month of October. The French, stupefied with terror, made no effort to drive off their enemies, and everywhere throughout the land the Indians held the upper hand till the approach of winter, when they retired suddenly to their settlements. In the meantime, Frontenae, who had been re-appointed governor, was on his way out to assume the direction of affairs. His coming was hailed with joy by the terrified inhabitants, who had endured so much misery through the incapacity of the last two governors. Fresh spirit was infused into the colonists. The incursions of the Iroquois were everywhere repelled with energy. The Canadian villages were enclosed by palisades, and protected by cannon. The to on duties of great difficulty. that fell into the hands of the invaders were butchered to 620 colonial troops. The British colonies were represented without mercy.

The New Englanders, who seem to have been taken by surprise by the sudden attack of Frontenac, speedily concerted measures of defence and reprisal. In 1690, a squadron of 35 sail, with 2,000 militia men on board, left Boston under command of Sir William Phipps, afterward governor of Massachusetts. The fleet captured Port Royal, (Annapolis) and other places in Nova Scotia, and on the morning of the 16th October, Quebec was summoned to surrender at discretion. Frontenac returned a haughty refusal, and the batteries opened fire upon the English ships. The strength of the defences baffled all the efforts of the besieging force, and the fleet was compelled to retire. A land expedition under Winthrop, which was to have co-operated with Phipps in the attack on Canada, returned without accomplishing anything.

During the succeeding years hostilities were continued between the French and English colonists. Each side sought to callst as many of the savage tribes as it could, and to render the aid of these allies effective, the Indians were instructed in the use of fire-arms. The Iroquois that fell into the hands of their enemies were often atrocities practised by their own tribes. Under Frontenac's energetic direction, the Canadians were enabled to get possession of the English posts in the Hudson Bay territory.

At length, in 1697, the treaty of Ryswiek put an end, for a time, to the exhausting conflict between the colonies. By this treaty France agreed to restore all places in America that had been taken during the war. The restoration of peace was welcome intelligence at Quebec. The colonists,

In 1703, France and England being again at war, there was as usual a renewal of hostilities between their colonies. On this occasion the French were fortunate in having the formidable Iroquois neutral by virtue of the solemn treaty of 1701. In the spring of 1711, another expedition against Canada was organized by the New England colonies, aided by British troops. The object was to capture Quebec. But the fleet was dispersed in the gulf by a storm, and many of the vessels were lost. Peace was restored by the treaty of Utrecht in 1713.

Vaudreuil, who had succeeded de Callières as governor in 1703, introduced some improvements in the municipal system. and caused a census to be taken. Montreal was walled in, and the fortifications of Quebec were enlarged and strengthened. The governor earnestly called the attention of the home authorities to the weak state of the colony as contrasted with the flourishing condition of the New England provinces. In 1714, he wrote home that Canada contained but 4,484 inhabitants capable of bearing arms for its defence, in addition lacking in energy. Money was freely voted to arm and one inconderoga Vaudreuil was succeeded in 1726 by the Marquis de Beauharnois, whose long administration of twenty-one years was for the most part peaceful. The population increased from 22,000 in 1719 to nearly 50,000 in 1744. The value of the exports in 174 exceeded £100,000 stg. There were some petty conflicts with Indians, and there were some disputes between the governor and the intendant, Dupuis; but up to 1745 the colour enjoyed security from external assaults. In 1745 peace was again disturbed. The contest, however, was not so much on Canadian soil as in the maritime colonies. The strong fortres of Louisbourg was taken by the New Englanders, and as expedition projected against Canada. A French fleet, under the Duke d'Anville, sent to retake Louisbourg, was dispersed by terrible storms. The peace of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 174 put an end to the conflict, and France and England mutual restored the territory acquired by either during the war.

But a warm dispute immediately commenced as to the boundaries of their respective possessions in the New World The territory in dispute was very extensive, comprising the and also the Valley of the Chio, connecting the French possessions in Louisiana with Canada. A joint commission French and British, was appointed to settle the dispute. 1 over five years without any definite result. Meanwhile the dispute in America was daily growing in violence. Each on the territory in dispute. In 1759, three English trades were acrested under the authority of the French governor the disputed territory of the Ohio valley. Redress being withheld, reprisals were made. After some years consume in futile negotiation, the war, generally known as the Sam Years' War, commenced. The colonial forces on both sits were reinforced from Europe. Gen. Braddock came of from England to command the militia and regulars. A strong British force, under his command, marched against Fort Duquesne, at the junction of the Ohio and Monongaleli rivers; but, pressing on too eagerly, in July, 1755, the menfall into an ambuscade near the fort, and were cut to piece Gen. Braddock and most of the mounted officers were killed ar soldiers The celebrated Gen. Washington, who was serving under Brakdock at this time, wrote as follows of the disaster: "We have been beaten, shamefully beaten, by a handful of French, who saving of the color was a strike of the color was a only expected to obstruct our advance. Shortly before the mriched th action we thought our forces were equal to all the enemy's Canada; we have been most unexpectedly defeated, and not vas at varia all is lost." On the other hand, it was not long before the recall as th French met with reverses. Baron Dieskau brought from France ling, reluc a large force in 1755. After some slight successes his amy position of was defeated, and he himself wounded and taken prisoners an attack on Col. Johnson's camp near Fort William, at the promotion : head of Lake George.

The mortant place called Fort Oswego, erected by the English on the south-eastern shore of Lake Ontario, surrendered to Nontcalm, and fourteen hundred prisoners and a large quanfit of stores fell into the hands of the French. This expediion had been planned by the Governor, Vaudreuil Cavagnal, Gen. Montcalm undertaking it apparently against his own adoment in obedience to the governor's orders.

The following summer passed without any important egagement. The inhabitants of Canada suffered during his period great privation from the scarcity of food. In rance dissatisfaction began to be expressed at the great st of maintaining and defending the colony. In 1758 Lord ordon, the English commander-in-chief, who had failed to since any military capacity, was superseded by General apercrombie. Great efforts were made, and with complete recess, to enable the English colonies to send into the field a ageforce of militia. The strong post of Louisbourg, in Cape Reton, fell into the hands of the British forces. In other curters the campaign was a failure. Gen. Abercrombie led respedition against Fort Ticonderoga (Carillon) where Control was strongly intrenched. The attack on the fort, revered in during several hours with great gallantry, was galsed with heavy loss to the English. This misfortune was some measure retrieved by a successful expedition against ort Frontenac under Colonel Bradstreet. The fort was sken, together with a great quantity of stores, shipping, and ereral pieces of cannon. This achievement destroyed the ower of the French on the great lakes.

The English were also successful in their operations in the hio valley. A force of regulars and militia marched against ort Duquesne, and the commandant, despairing of being ale to make a successful defence, destroyed the fort and Provisions were at famine prices. hefarmers, having for the most part been engaged in cambigning, had been unable to cultivate their fields, whilst the carcity of food was increased by the fraud and cupidity of ertain officials intrusted with the purchase of stores, who wiched themselves at the public expense. Montcalm, who asat variance with the governor, earnestly solicited his own call as the only reward he desired for his services. The ing, reluctant to comply with this request in the critical esition of Canadian affairs, recommended the general and overnor to reconcile their differences, and accorded them motion and honors.

The campaign of 1759 did not open till June, when the citish forces took the field in three divisions. One under en Prideaux was to attack Fort Niagara; the second, under en. Amherst, was to make another attempt to take Fort Conderoga at the outlet of Lake George; the third, under the celebrated General Wolfe, was to assail Quebec, where the other divisions of the army were to assemble after carrygoat their parts of the general plan. The expedition mainst Fort Niagara was successful, but General Prideaux to raise the siege and retreat. Ill during the siege. The French retreated from Fort where the British allowed them to remain unmolested during the winter.

The expedition against Quebec is that which is most memorable in the annals of Canada. The French had made every preparation in their power for the defence of the city. The buoys had been removed from the channel of the river. Fire ships were in readiness to be launched into the midst of the enemy's fleet, and booms were constructed across the river St. Charles. All the difficulties of the navigation having been overcome, the English fleet, carrying generals Wolfe, Monckton, Townshend and Murray, and a considerable army, arrived at the Island of Orleans on the 25th of June. The fireships sent against the fleet proved ineffectual. Gen. Monckton took up his position at Point Lévis, and commenced to bombard the city. Wolfe's encampment was on the left bank of the Montmorenci river. The French were intrenched in rear of Beauport. The month of July was spent by the besiegers in preparation. They carefully examined the defences, and endeavoured to find some vulnerable point. On the last day of the month Wolfe attacked Montcalm's camp, but was repulsed. It was now resolved to make the assault from above the city. Mont calm seems to have looked upon his position or this side as perfectly secure. "We need not suppose," he wrote to the governor, "that our enemies have wings to enable them in one night to cross the river, disembark, and ascend steep and rugged paths." Wolfe, however, quietly prepared for the desperate undertaking, disguising his intention from the enemy as far as possible. The landing was successfully effected during the night of the 12th of September, at the point now called Wolfe's cove. The sentinels were overpowered, and before daybreak six thousand men had silently scaled the steep bank and were drawn up on the Plains of Abraham. Montcalm hastily gathered his forces and advanced to give battle. The English awaited the onset, and when the advancing line was close at hand, fired a deadly volley which threw the French ranks into confusion. Wolfe followed up the temporary suc cess by a charge, himself leading on the grenadiers. Soop, however, he received a mortal wound, and was carried to the rear. The French were giving way in confusion. Montcalm, while endeavouring to raily his flying troops, also fell mortally wounded. As Wolfe's last moment was fast approaching, the cry "They run! they run!" fell upon his ear. "Who run?" eagerly inquired the dying hero. "The French," was the reply. "Then I die in peace," he murmured, and immediately expired. The gallant Montcalm also died the following day.

The Citadel held out a few days, but on the 18th of September, the garrison surrendered to Gen. Townshend. The loss of the English is stated at 700, and of the French at 1500.

The announcement that Quebec had fallen was received with great joy in England and in her American colonies. Both sides prepared earnestly for the coming campaign, the result of which was hardly doubtful. The French concentrated their diminished forces with the design of retaking Quebec, which had been garrisoned for the winter with an army of seven or eight thousand men. Gen. de Lévis, who had taken command on the death of Montcalm, pitched his camp, in April, 1760, in the rear of the city, with an army of eight or nine thousand men. Gen. Murray marched out to meet him, but after a sharp encounter was forced to retire within the fortifications. A few days later, having received the reinforcements which he had been anxiously expecting from England, he forthwith compelled de Lévis

Isle aux Noix, where the French had entrenched themselves the previous summer, and Forts Oswegatchie and Lévis, were the next points of attack. These forts successively passed into the hands of the English, and then the victorious armies, from Quebec, Lake Champlain and Oswego, converged on Montreal. The united strength of the beleaguering army under Gen. Amherst was 17,000 men. Resistance was hopeless, and Vaudreuil proposed a capitulation, which was agreed to and signed on the 8th of September, 1760. FROM THE CONQUEST TO THE QUEBEC ACT, 1760-1774.

The Canadian people were secured by the terms of the capitulation in the free exercise of their religion. Vaudreuil and De Levis, with the troops and the principal civil and military officers, and many of the colonists, embarked for Prance, where some of the officials who had been guilty of peculation and abuse of trust, were brought to trial, condemned and punished.

Peace was concluded by the Treaty of Paris signed 10th February, 1763. By this Treaty, France ceded to England the whole of her possessions in North America with some insignificant exceptions.

The Indian allies of the French did not acquiesce without a struggle in the new order of things. A vast conspiracy was hatched in 1763 by Pontiac, a noted chief of the Ottawa tribe, who was not friendly to British power. The object of the plot was nothing less than the simultaneous capture of the chain of forts extending from Lake Michigan to the Niagara. The conspiracy failed of entire success, but nine British posts were assailed, and the garrisons massacred. The Indians sustained a defeat at Eushy Run near Fort Pitt, and the garrison was relieved. Pontiac was soon forced to abandon the siege of Detroit; the Indian forces began to melt away, and the hostile tribes were glad to obtain terms, and accept the proffered friendship and protection of the new lords of the soil.

At the time of the Conquest the population numbered only 75,000 souls, including 8,000 Indians. The pages of this Directory disclose how great has been the advance during the century. It is worthy of note that now, for the first time, was a printing press used in Canada. The first number of the first newspaper—the Quebee Gazette—appeared June 21st, 1764.

The country, which now received the name of the Province of Quebec, remained for some years under military rule. Gen. Murray, after the peace, was appointed the first Governor General; Gen. Gage was in command of the Montreal District, and Col. Burton of the Three Rivers District. The Executive Council was composed of the lieutenant governors of Montreal and Three Rivers, the chief justice, the inspector general of customs, and eight of the leading inhabitants of the colony.

In 1766, Gen. Carleton, afterwards Lord Dorchester, was appointed Governor General. Gen. Carleton, who had taken a prominent part in the capture of Quebec, continued to be connected with Canada for six and thirty years.

The French Canadians, who constituted the immense majority of the inhabitants, soon began to express dissatisfaction at the continuance of military rule. The administration understanding French, the people were under the necessity of carrying on their lawsuits in the English language. Memorials were addressed to the Crown by the discontented majority. In 1770, the Governor went to England to give testimony respecting the affairs of the province. The result of the inquiry was the passing of the "Quebec Act" by the English Parliament in 1774, for reconstructing the government of the Province of Quebec. This measure provided for the free exercise of the Roman Catholic religion by the French Canadians, subject to the king's supremacy, and that the clergy of the church of Rome might "hold, requive and enjoy their accustomed dues and rights, with respect to such persons only as shall profess the said religion." It further provided that " in all matters of controversy relative to property and civil rights, resort shall be had to the laws of Canada, as the rule for the decision of the same." The Act confirmed the criminal law of England as the law to be administered in the province. It further provided for the establishment of a Legislative Council, to consist of residents appointed by the king, not exceeding 23, nor less than 17, in number. Thus, by express provisions of the Legislature of the mother country, the inhabitants of the conquered territory were secured in the enjoyment of their civil rights the free exercise of their religion, and the protection of their own civil laws and customs. This liberality to the French Canadians was displeasing to the British residents, and was denounced by the Congress of the other American colonies which met in Philadelphia in September: but it was highly acceptable to the Canadian clergy, as well as to the principal inhabitants of the colony.

FROM THE QUEBEC ACT TO THE DIVISION OF THE PROVINCE. 1774-1791.

The colonies which had so recently exerted themselves for the extension of British rule in North America were now on the point of offering armed resistance to the mother country. The same year in which the Quebec Act became law, Canada received an invitation to send representatives to Philadelphia to concert measures of union and defence. But if the French Canadians disliked the British, who had recently come amongst them, they hated and distrusted their fellow colonists in New England much more; and the Congress had indiscreetly increased this distrust by its denunciation of the Quebec Act. " Nor can we suppressour astonishment," it had been declared in a document addressed to the people of Great Britain, "that a British Parliament should ever consent to establish in that colony (Canada) : religion that often drenched your island in blood, and has disseminated impiety, bigotry, persecution, murder and rebellion, through every part of the world." Canada, therefore with this document before it, shewed no disposition to take part in the Congress. The following year coercive measure were resorted to by the latter. Gen. Arnold led an army against Quebec, and Generals Montgomery and Schuyler against Montreal. There were few British troops in the province, and the invaders advanced without much difficulty over large tracts of the country. The forts of Ticonderogaand Crown Point, on Lake Champlain; and Isle aux Noix, St. Johns, Chambly and Sorel, fell into the hands of Montgomery. The Americans still hoped that the Canadians would make common cause with them. A conciliatory address to the people was issued and widely circulated. The sympathizes with the revolutionary cause were, in truth, not few, and the butonists, but they likewise refused, for the most part, to bear two-the Province of Upper Canada and the Province of ons against them. The British population was very small. Nontreal could make no effectual resistance, and presently Quebec was the only place that held the enemy in check. The strength of its defences saved the city, and probably the clony. Carleton, with only sixteen hundred men, of whom ir hundred were militia, was able to repel all attacks. eneral Montgomery fell in an unsuccessful assault upon nebec made on the 31st of December.

In the spring of 1776, the English received reinforcements. the American army, weakened by disease, fell back to Three Governor Carleton pursued and captured the nemy's stores and artillery. The retreat was continued to Sorel, which was also retaken by the English troops; and the expulsion of the invading forces was speedily completed. The colonies in revolt now made fresh efforts to detach the Canadians from their allegiance. Franklin and others were ent as special commissioners. The offers were now more beral: the Roman Catholic religion was to be respected, and the people allowed to govern themselves. But, on the other hand, the French Canadians had already got entire freedom of worship, and the protection of their ancient laws. They had almost all they desired, and refused to put in pardy the privileges already secured to them. The American colonies, though successful in shaking off their connection with the mother country, were unable to bring Canada into the Union, and on the recognition of American Independence on the 3rd of September, 1783, Canada mained a colony of Great Britain.

A large number of persons throughout the new confedration, who had remained faithful to the royal cause, being now treated with great severity by the American government, emigrated, and settled in Canada and the ther British colonies, but chiefly in the western parts of Canada, now the Province of Ontario. The number of the United Empire Loyalists, as they were termed, that settled Canada, is estimated at ten thousand. Their property ad been confiscated, but by the liberality of the British government large sums were applied to their relief, and each of them received as a free gift from 200 to 5,500 acres of land in Canada or some other colony. Many of them endured great hardships in thus leaving their homes to egin life anew, but by their energy and enterprise they gave much valuable aid in developing the resources of

There was now a growing agitation in the Province of Quebec for a representative system of government. The French Canadians, it is true, had been admitted from the first to the Legislative Council, but they were not in a majorty there, whereas in an elective chamber they must almost cessarily have a very large majority. One of the most rominent agitators for a representative form of government was Du Calvet, a French Protestant, who was scused of aiding the insurgents during the revolutionary war. He strenuously advocated an elective assembly, and iso the representation of Canada by six members in the British Parliament.

In 1785, Lord Dorchester returned to Canada as Governor General, Sir Frederick Haldimand who had held the office since 1778, having solicited his own recall. Notwithstanding the popularity of Lord Dorchester, discontent generally prevailed. At length, after petitions and counter-petitions had been canvassed for years, and transmitted to Britain, in 1789, the draft of a new constitution was sent to Lord Dorchester by Lord Granville, the colonial minister. By Lower Canada. Each section was to have a Legislative Council and Assembly. "This separation I hope," said Mr. Pitt, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, will put an end to the competition between the old French inhabitants and the new settlers from Britain and the British colonies." The Upper Province was to give a great majority to the one nationality, and the Lower Province to the other. Att taxes were to be imposed and the money dicbursed under the control of the Legislature of each section.

The division of the Province was contrary to the advice of Lord Dorchester, but the measure finally became law in 1791. The Act provided that the Legislative Council of Lower Canada should be composed of not fewer than fifteen, and that of Upper Canada of not fewer than seven persons. Members were to hold their seats for life. The number of members to be elected to the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada was not to be less than sixteen, and of Lower Canada not less than fifty. The Council and Assembly were to be called together at least once in every year: the Assembly to be elected for four years.

During the 30 years that the colony had been under British rule, the population had doubled in number. In 1761 it was about 70,000 souls, now it was over 135,000, of whom 120,000 were French Canadians. The inhabitants of the new Province of Upper Canada numbered only 10,000, and were nearly all of British origin. Within 80 years, however, the preponderance of population has been reversed the inhabitants of the Upper Province now outnumbering by hundreds of thousands those of the other section.

FROM THE DIVISION OF THE PROVINCE TO THE UNION.

The first elections in Lower Canada under the new form of government took place in June, 1792. Fifty members were returned. Fifteen persons had been nominated legislative councillors. The Legislature was opened on the 17th of December by Gen. Clarke, (in the absence of Lord Dorchester) and sat till May, 1793. A contest took place at the opening of the Legislature as to the election of a speaker, and as to the language in which business should be conducted Mr. Panet, the French candidate, was elected by 28 to 18, and it was resolved that the minutes, &c., be recorded in both languages. The revenue of the Lower Province was this year only $25,000.

The Parliament of Upper Canada met at Newark (Niagara) on the 17th of September, 1792, and was opened by Lieut. Gov. Simcoe. The Council numbered 7, and the Assembly 16. The Legislature in its first session passed an act introducing the English law "as the rule of decision in all matters of controversy relative to property and civil rights." The second act introduced trial by jury. The eighth and last act gave the names of " Eastern, Midland, Home and Western" to the four districts into which the province had been divided by Lord Dorchester in 1788. These divisions were afterward abolished in 1849. The following session (1793) the Legislature of Upper Canada abolished slavery. The owners of slaves then in the Province were to keep their rights, but the children born of female slaves were to become free at 25 years of age. In 1803, it was decided by Chief Justice Osgoode that slavery was incompatible with the laws of Lower Canada. In 1796, the seat of government of Upper Canada was removed from Niagara to York (Toronto) by Gov. Simcoe.

Lord Dorchester, who had been a faithful friend of has it was proposed to divide the Province of Quebec into Canada for more than thirty years, was succeeded in 1796 by Gen. Prescott. The country was now enjoying repose fabricators of falsehood!" he exclaimed in an addimes to the and steadily advancing in wealth and importance.

The bitterness which had previously existed between the French Canadians and British inhabitants of Lower Canada was now considerably moderated. This will be evident from the remarks of M. Plessis, parish priest of Quebec, in his funeral oration over Bishop Briand. "Our conquerors," he said, "regarded at first with a jealous eye and lowering brow, inspired in us feelings only of detestation or aversion. We could not be persuaded that a race of men strangers to our soil, to our language, and to our worship, could ever be willing to render to Canada an equivalent for what it lost by changing its masters. Generous nation, that has made us aware, by so many proofs, how ill founded were our prepossessions. Pardon us then, for that my friends. I remain among you only in obedience to the our first (and now past) distrustfulness of a foreign race, whose virtues, not being then experienced by us, we had not the happiness to know." &c.

Sir R. S. Milnes succeeded Prescott as lieut, governor of Lower Canada in 1799, and remained in office till 1805. On ters as they were, to unite the two Provinces. In the session his retirement, the Hon. Thomas Dunn acted as administrator until 1807. Le Canadien newspaper, entirely in French, was first issued in November, 1806.

The relations between England and the United States at this time were beginning to cause no little disquietude and uneasiness. Mr. Dunn called out the militia of Lower Canada, and the response was prompt and satisfactory, and gave an emphatic contradiction to the reports which had been diligently spread, that the Canadians were only waiting for the approach of the invading army to flock to its standard. At this critical time Sir James Craig, a military officer, came out as Governor General, and remained till 1811. Sir James did Britain and the United States commenced the following not become popular with the French Canadians. It was a time of great irritation and disquietude. The Governor issued | this occasion to claim the restoration of the rights and states a general order exhorting the people to be on their guard of the Church as they existed in Canada before the conquest against treasonable designs, and directing all militia men to | The Legislature of Lower Canada passed an act empowering watch attentively the actions of aliens amongst them. Col. Panet and other officers were dismissed from the militia on the charge of exciting discord and animosity between the two classes of British subjects. The Assembly, in 1808, adopted a bill by twenty-two to two excluding judges from seats in Parliament. The Legislative Council rejected the measure, and the Governor approved their course. The following session the Assembly engaged in discussions on constitutional questions, and was dissolved by the Governor after a session of five weeks, on the ground that the House was neglecting the matters submitted for its consideration, and wasting the time in fruitless debates. The new Parliament met in 1810, and forthwith proceeded to declare that it was an infringement of parliamentary privileges for the governor to censure the acts of the Assembly. The House also sought to bring the government officials under its control by offering to assume the payment of their salaries. The Assembly further demanded that a budget should be presented to it showing in detail all the estimated expenditure for the succeeding year. The Council and Assembly were at variance on the question of excluding Judge de Bonne. The Assembly passed a resolution that a judge of the Court of King's Bench could not sit or vote in the House. The Governor declared that he felt bound to oppose this assumption, and prorogued the Legislature. In his letters to Lord Liverpool he drew a dark picture of the discord and enmity between French and British colonists and suggested that it would be better, rather than leave matof 1810-11, the bill for excluding judges of the King's Bench from seats in the Assembly was again carried, and this time it received the Royal sanction. Shortly afterward Sir James Craig returned to England in consequence of ill health, and died the same year. Mr. Dunn assumed the administration of the government for a short time. Then Sir George Prevost, who had been lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia was transferred to Canada. Under his conciliatory policy. much of the irritation and animosity between the two nationalities was removed.

The war which had long been apprehended between Great year. M. Plessis, the Roman Catholic Bishop, profited by the Governor General, in case of invasion, to embody the whole militia of the country, and also voted £15,000 per annum for five years toward defraying the expenses of defending the Province. The Legislature of Upper Canada also passed measures for the defence of the Province and for raising and training the militia. The population of Upper Canada had increased at this date to 80,000, and that of the Lower Province to 200,000.

Success attended the first steps taken against the enemyly the British forces in Canada. Fort Michilimackinac, situated on the island of the same name, in the strait between Lakes Huron and Michigan, was captured, and an American force, under Gen. Hull, which had crossed over from Detroit, was forced to retire. Gen. Brock, commander of the forces is Upper Canada, on the 11th of August advanced on Detroit Hull, the American general, capitulated, and 2,500 prisoners, and thirty-three pieces of cannon, fell into the hands of the English general.

Another attempt was made to invade the Province is October. A crossing was effected above Queenston on the night of the 12th. The following morning Gen. Brock was engaged in opposing the crossing of the Americans near the village, when the body that had already crossed above took possession of Queenston Heights. The British general immediately led a force to regain possession of the Heights, made in November, was also repelled. In Lower Canada he invading force, under Gen. Dearborn, retired without eccomplishing anything. The campaign proved favorable to England, and the Canadian militia gained some renown. Hostilities were resumed early the following year. The todians, under the command of their gallant chief, Tecumsh gave valuable aid to the British forces. One of the most notable events of the campaign was the battle of Chateauguay. An American army of 3500, under Gen. liampton, was on the way from Lake Champlain to Montreal. A thousand Canadian militia under Colonel de Salaberry opposed their progress at the junction of the Outarde and Chateauguay rivers. A battle ensued in which the Americans were defeated and forced to retreat. Meanwhile the enemy, who had gained some successes in Upper Canada, was concentrating his forces to co-operate with Gen. Hampton in the attack on Montreal. While on the way down the St Lawrence, Gen. Wilkinson, the American commander, landed part of his troops under Gen. Covington to give battle to a small Canadian force under Col. Morrisson, that had been sent to intercept the invaders. A battle was fought at Chrysler's Farm, county of Dundas, where the Americans, though three times as numerous as the force opposed to them, were completely routed, and their general killed. The defeat of Hampton at Chateauguay, and of Wilkinson at Chrysler's Farm, led the Amedefeated at Lacolle, and their depot at Oswego was destroyed. The English failed in an attack on Sackett's harbour, and were foresd to retreat at Chippewa, A hard fought which had ceased during the war now commenced afresh. M.L. J. Papineau was chosen Speaker in the place of M. Council. The eldsr Papineau had long been one of the and his son, the new Speaker, was destined to become the greatest agitator of his time.

Canadians as their firm friend, went home at the close of the war to defend himself against some charges that had been made against his conduct of military affairs during the last campaign. He died shortly after his arrival in London. Sir Gordon Drummond administered the government for a short time, when he was succeeded in 1816 by Sir John C. Sherbrooke, ex-governor of Nova Scotia, who, like Sir George Prévost, endeavoured to gain the good will, or at least remove the animosity, of the French Canadian majority. M. Plessis, the Bishop, was invited to take a seat at the Council board, with the reservation that the right should not extend to his successors. A similar honor was conferred on M. Papineau. The principal topic of discussion now was the Estimates. The Legislative Assembly claimed the right of controlling the entire expenditure. In Upper Canada a similar discussion was proceeding.

Another subject that engrossed much attention was the Clergy Reserves. A large amount of territory had been reserved by the Imperial Act of 1791 for the support of the exclusively to the support of the Church of England in Canada. At first, they had yielded no revenue, the rents being insufficient to cover the expenses of management. They remained in the hands of government, and the only money paid to the Church of England up to 1821 was a sum of £427 in 1816. Other bodies of Protestants began to lay claim to a share of the fund, and addresses were passed by the Houses of Assembly recommending the distribution of the money among all denominations. The subject was not finally disposed of till 1855, when, after certain provision had been made for the widows and orphans of deceased clergymen, and for securing the incomes then enjoyed, the rest of notwithstanding these political discussions, was in a highly prosperous condition, and the great majority of the people, busy and contented, took little interest in the debates on constitutional questions.

In 1818, Sir J. C. Sherbrooke was permitted to retire from office, and the Duke of Richmond came out as Governor. His administration was brief; being bitten by a fox, he died of hydrophobia, August, 1819. The Earl of Dalhousic succeeded him. The struggle of the Assembly on the question of voting the supplies continued. Between the Legislative Council, of which the majority of members were British, and the Legislative Assembly, composed almost exclusively of French Canadians, there was continual strife and animosity. The Assembly objected, in particular, to

A Bill for the union of the two Provinces was introduced into the Imperial Parliam t in 1822, but thrown out on the second reading. When the French Canadians learned that this Bill had been introduced by the government, they loudly denounced the project. The people of Upper Canada were not in favour of it, and when the Lower Canadian tions condemning the Bill, and Messrs. Papineau and Nelson were dispatched to London to protest against it. The project was therefore abandoned for a time.

plies continued more fiercely than ever. In 1827 the Lower Canada Assembly again stopped the supplies, as they had done for several years previously. Lord Dalhousic prorogued the Chambers the next day. A new parliament was summoned, which elected M. Papineau to be Speaker. The Governor disapproved of the selection, and requested the House to propose some one else. The House, refusing to comply, was immediately prorogued. The House of Commons appointed a committee that reported at length on the state of Canadian affairs, but no definite action was taken. Sir James Kempt, from Nova Scotia, replaced Lord Dalhousie in Lower Canada, and Sir John Colborne came out to Upper Canada.

Matters were becoming more serious. In Upper Canada there was a strong republican element that looked with admiration at the rapid growth of the neighboring states. The fact that the leading positions in the government were held by a small number of officials and their family connections was another cause of much dissatisfaction. In Lower Canada there was the ancient hostility of race. Concessions which, if made in time, would have allayed the discontent, were withheld. In the Lower Canadian House of Assembly 92 resolutions condemning the government for their management of affairs, for the exclusion of the French Canadians from office, and setting forth other matters of complaint, were introduced and passed in the spring of 1834. inquire into the grievances complained of. The report of June, 1841. In September of that year, Lord Sydenham, who the commission was submitted to Parliament in 1837, but the majority of the House of Commons was opposed to most of the demands of the Lower Canadian opposition. The Imperial Act of 1791 had authorized the establishment of Church of England rectories in the parishes of Canada. Under the authority of this act, fifty-seven rectories were established in Upper Canada by Sir John Colborne in 1836. This act caused increased excitement. Steps were taken by the leaders of the malcontents to enrol the disaffected. In this their success was not great, for few of the common people were disposed to take up arms to enforce the demands made by their leaders. The clergy, and all the most prudent and moderate chiefs of the opposition, strongly opposed any resort to violence. Some of the more violent agitators, however, could not be restrained. The first outbreak occurred in Montreal on the 7th of November, 1837, when the "Sons of Liberty," an organization of young men of Montreal, assailed a body of volunteers in the street. In the course of the month, several encounters took place between the insurgents and the military at St. Denis, St. Charles, St. Eustache, and other points. At St. Denis, the British troops, being few in number, were repulsed; but at St. Charles, the rebels were routed with great slaughter by a detachment under Col. Wetherall. At St. Eustache also, the loss of the insurgents was very heavy. In Upper Canada, the insurgents, under the command of W. L. Mackenzie, were defeated near Toronto by a force of volunteers commanded by Sir F. B. Head. The Earl of Durham, the new Governor General, came out with special powers to inquire into the state of Canadian affairs. The constitution of Lower Canada had been suspended and a special council appointed. The Governor reported strongly in favour of the union of the provinces, but some acts of his administration being censured in the House of Lords, he was recalled. Before the rubellion was finally suppressed, several attempts were made to invade Canada from the American frontier by sympathizers on the other side, but these attempts were all speedily defeated. The subsequent risings were punished with greater severity than the first, a number of the leading rebels being executed under sentence of sourt martial, and many more transported. Some of the chief instigators of revolt, however, escaped. Mackenzie, Papineau, and others were, some years later, permitted to return to Canada, and obtained seats in the Legislative Assembly.

The insurrection being at an end, the project of uniting the two Canadas was urged on by the British ministry The Right Hon. C. P. Thompson, an eminent merchant, (afterwards Lord Sydenham) came out as Governor General (1839). The assent of the Special Council of Lower Canada, and of the Legislature of Upper Canada, was obtained to the measure. A bill was drafted and sent to England by Lord Sydenham, and passed in 1840. The Union took effect by royal proclamation on the 10th of February, 1841.

FROM THE UNION TO CONFEDERATION-1841-1867.

Canada was now fully under "Responsible Government," the ministry having seats in the Legislature, and holding office so long only as they enjoyed the confidence of a majority of the members of the Lower House. The Local Legislatures were abolished. Upper and Lower Canada were represented by an equal number of members in the Legislative Assembly of Canada. To the House was conceded also entire control over the expenditure. The Legislative Councillors were to be appointed by the Crown for life.

The first United Parliament was opened at Kingston in had been a very able and popular Governor, died from the effects of a fall from his horse. Sir Charles Bagot thon came out as Governor General, and held office till 1843. In 1844, the seat of government was removed from Kingston to Montreal Lord Metcalfe administered the government from 1843 to 1845. Being then obliged to retire in consequence of ill health, he was succeeded by Lord Cathcart, who held office till 1847, when the Earl of Elgin was appointed Governor. The administration of this able statesman was prosperous and satisfactory. Some agitation occurred during his term of office respecting the "Rebellion Losses Bill," for indemnify. ing persons who had sustained loss during the insurrection of 1837-8. Violent opposition was made to this measure. which was considered by many to be too liberal as well as too indiscriminate. Lord Elgin, after assenting to the Bill, was hooted and pelted in the streets of Montreal, and the Parliament buildings were set on fire by the mob, and a large amount of property, including the library and valuable records, was destroyed. The seat of government was afterwards removed to Toronto.

The succeeding years were years of steady progress and prosperity. A few events only will be noted here, but historical details respecting various subjects will be found under other headings. In 1850, a free banking law was passed. In 1851, five cent postage was introduced. In 1853, the Legislative Assembly was increased from eighty. four to one hundred and thirty members, sixty-five from each section of the Province. In 1858, the decimal system of currency was adopted. Sir Edmund Head succeeded Lord Elgin in 1854 and continued in office till 1860. In 1855 the Clergy Reserves question was settled by the Legislature, and Seignioral Tenure in Lower Canada was abolished. In 1856, the elective principle was applied to the Legislative Council, and it became an elective chamber. It was to be composed of the members appointed by the Crown before the 14th of July, 1856, and of forty-eight members elected for forty-eight electoral divisions, into which the Province was divided. In 1858, Ottawa was selected by the Queen as the permanent seat of government, and Parliament buildings were erected there. In 1859-60, the Statutes of the Province were consolidated into three volumes, one volume containing the Acts relating to all Canada, and the other two volumes embracing the Statutes relating to Upper and Lower Canada respectively. In 1860, the British Provinces were visited by the Prince of Wales. Whilst in Canada the Prince inaugurated the Victoria Bridge and laid the corner stone of the Parliamentary buildings at Ottawa. The seizure of Mason and Slidell on board the British steamer Treat towards the close of 1861, and the prospect of a war between England and the United States, caused intense excitement throughout Canada and prompted the organization and enrolment of numerous bodies of volunteer militia. These come in later years have twice done good service (1866, 1870) in repelling incursions of Fenian marauders. In 1865-6, the Civil Code of Lower Canada, the compilation of which had been entrusted to three commissioners several years before was completed and promulgated. In 1864, great difficulty was experienced in carrying on the government. The majority of Lower Canadian members and the majority of Upper Canadian members were arrayed on opposite sides of the House, and the two parties were very evenly balanced. The number of members in the Legislative Assembly was the same for each section of the Province, and although the population of Upper Canada now greatly exceeded that of Lower Canada, the Lower Canadian members opposed the concesthe sion of any increase of representation to Upper Canada, S because at the time of the Union, the representation had been thus settled notwithstanding the fact that at that time | S the population of Lower Canada was by far the largest. The demand for "Representation according to Population" was now every year becoming more urgent on the part of I Upper Canada. A project for uniting the British North American Provinces under one Confederation had been] before the country from time to time for eighty years, I and more especially from the date of Lord Durham's administration. The desire to carry out this scheme induced some of the leaders of the Upper Canada opposition to form a coalition with the Lower Canadian majority. A government was thus formed, pledged to introduce the federal system. After conference with the other Provinces, Confederation was carried, to take effect 1st of July, 1867. The Act of Union will be found in this volume. The construction of an Intercolonial Railway was one of the stipulations of the Confederation Act, and this is now in course of construction.

DESCRIPTION OF ONTARIO AND QUEBEC.

The Provinces of Ontario and Quebec extend in an easterly direction from near the Red River settlement to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and from Michigan to New Brunswick. They extend northward from the Canadian lakes and the St. Lawrence to the high ridge of land which separates the rivers of Canada from those of the territory hitherto known as the Hudson Bay territory, but now forming a part of the Dominion of Canada.

The provinces are bounded north by the Hudson Bay territory; east by the Gulf of St. Lawrence; south by the 1701 States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York, 1706 and Lakes Erie and Ontario; and west by Lakes St. Clair, 1709 Huron and Superior, and the north west Indian territories.

The area cannot be accurately stated, as the northern and western boundaries have not yet been surveyed. The language and the acrest approximation is 331,280 square miles, of which 121,230 are included in the Province of Ontario, and 210,020 in the Province of Ouebec.

the province; the St. Maurice, nearly 400 miles in length; Monts sailed in March, 1604. Part of the expedition west the Saguenay noted for its fine scenery; the Richelieu, the Niagara, and others. The Province of Ontario has for its southern and western boundaries five great lakes-Superior. Huron and Georgian Bay, St. Clair, Erie, and Ontario, of which the total length is 1,085 miles, and area 80,000 square miles. In some parts of the Province of Quebec, especially in the Eastern Townships, the scenery is extremely picturesque. In the Province of Ontario the surface is undulating rather than mountainous. A main water shed separates the waters of the St. Lawrence from those of the Ottawa.

The system of inland navigation is the most extensive and perfect in the world. The statistics given under separate beads will convey some idea of the extent of railway communication; of the agricultural and mineral wealth; the volume of trade, and the vast resources and general prosperity of the provinces.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF NOVA SCOTIA.

I. From its discovery to 1784.

Nova Scotia, up to the year 1784, included the Province mow called New Brunswick, and it also formerly included part of the present state of Maine, the whole being known under the name of Acadie. This was the term used in the original commission of the king of France, and is found in public documents as far back as 1604. The country was discovered by Sebastian Cabot in 1498, but may have been noticed by John Cabot in his voyage the previous year. A few years after the discovery by Cabot, French fishermen from Basque and Bretagne arrived at a promontory of an island to the southwest, and named it Cape Breton. This name was afterward applied to the whole island, which now forms part of Nova Scotia.

In 1518, Baron de Léry, an adventurous Frenchman, anxious that France should have a share in the newly discovered territories, proposed to found a settlement in Acadie. He accordingly set sail with a company of settlers, but owing to tempestuous weather and other adverse circumstances, the enterprise miscarried, and the expedition was abandoned. In 1590 Cape Breton was resorted to by persons from England. In 1598, the Marquis de la Roche made an attempt to colonize the country by convicts. Fearing to set his settlers free on the mainland, he first landed forty of them on Sable Island, a spot ill suited to support life. But when the Marquis attempted to return to the island from the mainland, his ship was driven by a storm to France. There he was immediately taken prisoner, in a civil war then raging, and it was not till five years had elapsed that the wretched survivors, twelve in number. were rescued from their miserable position.

No further attempt was made till about 1603 when Sieur Dupont Gravé, a merchant of St. Malo, lured by the prospect of gain, sought to obtain a monopoly of the fur traffic in Canada and Acadie. With the assistance of de Chaste, governor of Dieppe, a company of Rouen merchants was organized, and an expedition fitted out and placed under the command of Champlain. In 1603, Champlain sailed up the St. Lawrence as far as the Lachine rapids; and Henry IV of France was so well pleased with the result of the expedition, that he granted to M. de Monts, a Huguenot, who succeeded to de Chaste on the death of the latter, a monopoly of the fur traffic in all parts of North America lying between Cape Race, in Newfoundland, and the 50th Britain. degree of north latitude. The second expedition under de In 1624, Charles I. granted a large extent of land in New on to Canada, but de Monts remained at Acadie. This wes considered the finest country of La Nouvelle France. 1: possessed fine ports, a fertile soil, and a temperate and salubrious climate. The Micmae Indians, a branch of the Algonquin family, who then inhabited the country, received the French with kindness. De Monts landed first at Port Rossignol, now called Liverpool, and afterward coasted the peninsula as far as the Bay of Fundy. The expedition also stopped at Port Royal, now called Annapolis, where Baron de Poutrincourt, a companion of de Monts, formed a settlement. De Monts sailed on round the bay, and discovered the River St John. He finally wintered on a rocky islet at the mouth of the St. Croix. Thirty-six of the party died of scurvy during the winter. In spring de Monts went further south. During his absence, Dupont Gravé arrived from France with supplies and forty additional colonists, and on the return of de Monts, the entire body set out for Port Royal, where they began to establish a settlement. In this work, the celebrated Lescarbot, a friend of Poutrincourt. is said to have afforded much valuable assistance. Under his guidance the colonists constructed a variety of apparatus and machines which were very useful to them in their new settlement. But unexpected misfortunes led to the abandonment of the colony. A marauding party of Dutchmen from the New Netherlands seized a whole year's stores of peltries: and, some months later, the merchants of St. Malo, jealous of the monopoly of the fur traffic enjoyed by the Rouen company, succeeded in getting de Monts' charter revoked. In 1607, Poutrincourt, Lescarbot and the other colonists abandoned the settlement at Port Royal, and returned to France.

Three years later, Poutrincourt, the governor, who had obtained a grant of Port Royal from de Monts, which had been confirmed by the king, returned with a number of skilled artisans and resumed his labors. But the Jesuits, after the assassination of Henry IV., having succeeded in effecting an entrance into the country, and having founded a settlement of their own at St. Sauveur, dissensions sprang up which eventually led to the abandonment of the colony a second time; and many of the Huguenot settlers withdrew from the country in disgust. The colonists of Virginia also interfered, claiming Acadie for Britain by right of discovery. Captain Argall, from Virginia, following up this pretension, appeared suddenly before St. Sauveur, the Jesuit settlement, founded by La Saussage, and carried the place by storm. The government of Virginia subsequently resolved to exel the French from every point south of the 45th parallel of north latitude, including the central region of Acadie; and Sir Samuel Argall, with three armed vessels, was commissioned to carry out the resolution. Port Royal was capturel and destroyed in 1613, the colonists were dispersed, and Poutrincourt returned to France. This is stated to have been the first conflict between English and French in the new world.

The Virginians, however, soon left Acadie. In 1621, Sir William Alexander obtained from James I. of England a grant of the territory lying to the east of a line drawn from the St. Croix to the St. Lawrence. The land was called Nova Scotia in the patent. In 1622, Sir William sent a body of colonists to begin a settlement. Arriving late in the season, they were obliged to winter in Newfoundland. In 1623, they reached Cape Sable, but finding the French in possession of the places they intended to occupy, they returned to

The object was to promote the colonization of the country, each baronet receiving 16,000 acres of land, and being bound to send out six settlers. In 1628, Port Royal was taken by Sir David Kertk, a Huguenot officer in the English service. The following year, Sir William Alexander coded part of his territory to Claude de la Tour, a French prisoner who had married an English lady. At this time the French still held possession of Cape Sable and other places in the south. De la Tour was sent to take possession of Acadie, but his son, who held one of the forts, refused to give it up. A few years later, by the Treaty of St. Germain en Laye, in 1632, Charles I. renounced the pretensions that had been put forward to Acadie by his subjects, and possession of the colony was confirmed to France. It was now divided into three provinces, of which the governors were de Razillai, young de la Tour, and Denys. Razillai was succeeded in 1635, by Charnizay. Disputes now commenced between de la Tour and Charnizay as to the bounds of their respective territories. Louis XIII, interfered, and in 1638, defined the boundaries anew; but de la Tour would not submit, and for several years a fierce struggle was carried on. Finally, in 1645, Charnizay, in the absence of de la Tour, assaulted the fort of his enemy. Madame de la Tour made a gallant defence, and obtained favorable terms of capitulation. But Charnizav, mortified at finding the band of defenders so small. treacherously hanged all but one. Madame de la Tour died soon afterward. Charnizay was then named chief governor of Acadie. On the death of Charnizay in 1650, de la Tour returned. In 1651, he married Charnizay's widow, and claimed Nova Scotia, as his right; but he was soon assailed by a creditor of Charnizay, named La Borgue, who destroyed the settlement of La Hève. Before the contest was decided an enemy from without interfered. Cromwell, who was now Protector of England, sent out an expedition in 1654, under Colonel Sedgwick who defeated both de la Tour and la Borgue, and made himself master of all the strong posts in the colony. De la Tour appealed to Cromwell for redress. His claim was allowed, and Cromwell granted to him and two English gentlemen the greater part of Acadie. The rights of de la Tour were afterwards purchased by the other proprietors; but in 1667, by the Treaty of Breda, Acadie was again transferred to France.

During these vicissitudes, little had been done by either Bagish or French towards the development and improvement of the country. In 1685, the population was reported to be about nine hundred. The French establishments were so ill protected that a band of pirates, numbering only one hundred and ten, captured Pentagoet, the headquarters Gov. Chamble.

In 1690, when the Canadians and New Englanders were engaged in hostilities, Port Royal surrendered to Admiral Phipps from Massachusetts, and other Acadian posts were captured by Col. Church. The British remained masters of the greater part of Acadie till 1696, when it was once more restored to France by the Treaty of Ryswick. M. de Villebon, who was governor at this time, having died July, 1700, Brouillon succeeded.

War being declared against France at the beginning of Queen Anne's reign, the possession of Acadie was again disputed. The New Englanders organized another expedition for its conquest in 1707. On the sixth of June of that year, a squadron of two ships of war, and twenty-three transports carrying 2000 men, appeared before Port Royal. The fortifications being well manned and defended, the attack was Phillsel: but in 1710 Port Royal was forced to surrender to another colonial expedition under Gen. Nicholson, and the loss of Acadie was involved in the surrender. The power of France being weakened by protracted war, sle was compelled by the Treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, to cede to Britain not only Acadie, but also all her pretensions to Newfoundland and the Hudson Bay Territory. The Island of Cape Breton, however, was retained by the French, and after the loss of Nova Scotia they began to construct fortifications at Louisbourg, at a cost of more than one million sterling, as a protection to their Canadian possessions. The island became an important fishing station, and Louisbourg continued to be the capital for many years.

France having declared war against England in 1744, Gov. Shirley, of Massachusetts, formed the design of taking Louisbourg, though the fortress was supposed to be almost impregnable. New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, and other colonies furnished troops, provisions and munitions of war. The expedition, which was placed under the command of General Pepperell, sailed from Boston, and arrived at Canseau on the 5th of April, 1745. Here it was joined by some English ships under Admiral Warren. A landing was effected in rear of the town early in May, and the siege commenced. Preparations had been made for an assault, when the French governor, Duchambeau, capitulated on the 16th of June. The garrison marched out with the honors of war. An immense booty, valued at a million sterling, fell into the hands of the victors. The Canadians, in great alarm at the conquest of this stronghold, sent to France for help, and a formidable expedition was sent out the following year under the command of the Duke D'Anville, to retake Louisbourg and Acadie. But the hostile fleet met with terrible disasters. The ships being dispersed and wrecked by violent storms, and the soldiers and crews thinned by disease, nothing could be accomplished. The duke died of vexation, and the viceadmiral, d'Estournelle, killed himself in despair. Only a remnant of the expedition returned to France. By the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1748, Britain agreed to restore Cape Breton to France, but the cost of the New England expedition was refunded to the colonies by the mother coun-

After the Treaty, disputes commenced as to the boundaries of the French and British possessions in America. A joint commission was appointed in 1749, but the disputes led to hostillities from time to time between the colonists of the respective countries. To prevent encroachments on the territory in dispute, the governor of Canada induced three thousand Acadian French to settle on the north shore of the Bay of Fundy, and on Isle St. Jean (Prince Edward Island).

The harassing alternation of proprietorship had hitherto prevented any attempts to develop the resources of Nova Scotia. At this time, however, an effort was made to colonize it by emigrants sent out at the expense of the British government. Free grants of land, together with tools, arms and provisions for a year, were offered to all soldiers who were willing to settle in the colony. About four thousand disbanded soldiers and their families, attracted by these liberal offers, arrived at Obebucto Harbor on the 21st of June, 1749, and the town of Halifax was founded on its shores. Cornwallis became the first governor of the colony and appointed a council of six members. In 1753, about 1500 Germans joined the colony, and settled in the county of Lunenburg.

a squadron of two ships of war, and twenty-three transports carrying 2000 men, appeared before Port Royal. The fortifications being well manned and defended, the attack was replaced; but in 1710, Port Royal was forced to surrender | (1756—1763) which resulted in the cession of Canada to

Britain, and thus put an end to the boundary question, soon after commenced. In 1755, the French fort Beauséjour, on the north shore of the Bay of Fundy, (part of the disputed territory,) was captured by an expedition from Boston under Col. Winslow, assisted by regular troops under Col. Monckton. An incident of much interest now occurred, for the explanation of which we must go back a few years. After the cession of Acadie to Britain by the Treaty of 1713, many of the Acadians remained in the country, but refused to take the oath of allegiance. They were allowed to follow their own mode of worship, and to have magistrates of their own selection. Being exempted from bearing arms against their countrymen, they received the name of neutral French. By intriguing with the Indians who had also resented the cession of the country to Britain and were hosthe to the English settlers, these neutral French proved troublesome and dangerous neighbors. In the course of the boundary disputes they assisted and encouraged the hostile Indians, who were a source of great annoyance and uneasiness to the British. It was resolved, therefore, to remove the entire population and disperse them through the other colonies. This resolution was rigorously carried out; the greater part of the Acadians, about 7,000 in number, being hurried on board ship, their property destroyed or confiscated, and themselves scattered over the continent. Some of the exiles returned to Nova Scotia after the peace of

In 1758, a constitution was granted to Nova Scotia. From the year 1719, the administration of public affairs had been vested in a governor and council. On the 2nd of October, 1758, the first Parliament assembled at Halifax. The House of Assembly comprised 22 members elected by the people. and the combined Executive and Legislative Council, of twelve members, appointed by the Crown.

The capture of the important post of Louisbourg was one of the objects most ardently desired at the commencement of the war. An attempt to take it was made without success in 1756. In 1758, however, the stronghold was forced to surrender to a powerful expedition under Generals Wolfe and Amherst, and Admiral Boscawen. The fortifications were destroyed, and the inhabitants sent to France. Isle St. Jean also passed from French hands, and was annexed to the government of Nova Scotia.

The Treaty of 1703 restored peace, and the colony now made rapid progress. The island of Cape Breton was at this time annexed to Nova Scotia, and in 1765, was formed into a county. In 1770, St. John's Island, (Prince Edward Island) was separated from the government of Nova Scotia, and became a separate colony.

At the close of the American Revolutionary war, the population of Nova Scotia was greatly augmented by the influx of about twenty thousand loyalists from the revolted colonies, who settled in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton.

In 1784, all the part of Nova Scotia north of the Bay of Fundy was separated from the rest of the Province, and constituted a separate colony, called New Brunswick. The same year a separate government was given to Cape Breton, with Sydney as the chief town.

FROM THE SEPARATION FROM NEW BRUNSWICK TO CONFEDERA-TION.

The events of this period are of a pacific character, and relate to internal development and improvement. The great Pictou road was opened in 1792; the militia organized in 1806. The next important event was the re-union of Cape Breton with Nova Scotia in 1820, when it was allowed to send two members to the Legislature. In 1823, Roman Catholics were freed from all disabilities, and placed on the same footing as members of other denominations. In 1832 the combined Executive and Legislative Council was dia solved, and separate Councils substituted. In 1848, Respon sible Government was fully introduced.

In 1861, the Legislature of Nova Scotia unanimous adopted a resolution favorable to Inter-colonial Union. The resolution reads as follows:

Whereas, The subject of a Union of the North America Provinces, or of the Maritime Provinces, from time to time has been mooted and discussed in all the colonies;

And Whereas, While many advantages may be secured by such an union, either of all these Provinces or a portion them, many and serious obstacles are presented which car only be overcome by mutual consultation of the leading me of the colonies, and by free communication with the Imperagovernment,

Therefore Resolved, That His Excellency the Lieutenast Governor be respectfully requested to put himself in conmunication with His Grace the Colonial Secretary and Ba Excellency the Governor General of the N. A. colonies in order to ascertain the policy of Her Majesty's government and the opinions of the other colonies, with a view to the eslightened consideration of a question involving the highest interest, and upon which the public mind in all the Province ought to be set at rest.

This led to a conference at Charlottetown to consider to advantage of an union of the Maritime colonies. But Cana having proposed a more extensive scheme, the conferen was adjourned to Quebec. Delegates from Nova Seet took part. But after the Quebec conference, a strong onno. sition was made to the scheme proposed. In 1866, however the House of Assembly, by a vote of 31 to 19 authorized is Lieutenant Governor to appoint delegates to arrange win Cobequi the Imperial Government a scheme of union. Delegates was through appointed, who, together with the delegates from Canada and New Brunswick, met in London in December, 1866. Bill for the Confederation of the Provinces was intro into the Imperial Legislature, and received the Royal asse on the 28th of March following. The minority continuelts oppose the scheme, but the anti-confederate party is dimisishing, and it may be hoped that all discontent will have vanished in the course of a few years.

DESCRIPTION OF NOVA SCOTIA.

The Province, including Cape Breton, is about 350 miles in length, and 100 in breadth. The country is beautifully variegated by ranges of lofty hills and broad valleys, both of which run longitudinally through the Province. Its Atlantic frontier, for twenty miles inland, is composed of a poor soil, though rich in gold and other valuable minerals. The Cobequid range of mountains, as it is called, runs through the interior of the Province. The summits of a few of the conical mounts of this range ascend 1100 feet, and the Province. land may be cultivated nearly to the top. On each side of these mountains is an extensive range of rich arable lands, where agricultural operations are carried on extensively, and with profit,

The Province is 900 miles in circumference; and, with the exception of fifteen miles, where it joins New Brunswick, it Less the Atlantic, Bay of Fundy, Straits of Northumberland, and Gulf of St. Lawrence. Deep and spacious harbors intent its seaboard; and the interior is pierced in all directions y navigable rivers, the country being thus admirably adapted | trading vessels. for commercial enterprise.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

The leading events in the history of New Brunswick up to be year 1784 will be found under the head of Nova Scotia, ad aced not be repeated here.

The first colonists were the settlers brought out by de lonts in 1004. In 1639 French settlements were made on the Bay of Chalears. This bay was so named by Jacques Cartier from the intense heat of the weather on the 9th July, 534, when he entered the Bay in the course of his memorable Toyage to the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

In 1672, the French established settlements on the river framichi, and at other places on the eastern coast. After nession of the country to Britain in 1713, part of what is now New Branswick, was claimed by the French as belongpretensions led to collisions between the settlers. The its staple commodity; ships clustered on our scaboard; colonists also suffered much from the Indians, who remained unfriendly to the English for many years. Finally, in 1761, the Indians consented to a peace, and the hatchet was buried.

The northern counties remained uninhabited till the middle of the eighteenth century. In the summer of 1764, the first British settler, Mr. Wm. Davidson, a gentleman from the At this time not a single house was erected, nor a single European resident within the limits of the county.

In 1784 the present limits of New Brunswick were divided from Nova Scotia and erected into a separate Province by a special constitutional charter, the administration of the government being confided to Col. Carleton. In the autumn of 1785 the first general election of representatives bly was held at St. John. Two years after the governor's appointment the city of Fredericton was selected by him as the seat of government, and has since remained the metropolis. The place at that time was composed of a few irregularly built buts; and St. John, now an opulent and flourishing city, was not of much greater extent.

At the time of the separation from Nova Scotia the entire population was only 11,457.

In 1790, Davidson, the pioneer, died. A brisk trade was carried on about this time by Fraser & Thom in the exportation of fish, furs, peltries, and sawed lumber. When the United of the exiled loyalists, about five thousand persons, emigrated to New Branswick, where they were supplied with land, provisions, tools and clothing, by the British government. These "United Empire" loyalists may be looked upon as the founders of New Brunswick, and their descendants now form a considerable part of the population. It was about this time (1783) that the first newspaper was published in the

The colony has steadily increased in wealth and importance during the present century. The timber trade was greatly stimulated by an act of the British Parliament in 1809 admitting colonial timber into England free of duty, while timber coming from the Baltic was taxed. The trade became a profitable branch of industry, and ship building was commenced. A tide of emigration flowed in, and rapidly augmented the population. St. John, St. Andrews and Miramichi were annually resorted to by a large number .*

In 1803, Gov. Carleton was removed to England, after having governed the Province for nearly twenty years, during which period it had grown from a wilderness to an

The state of the Province in 1825 is thus described by Cooney: "Our trade was looking up; and brightening were our prospects. But this year a remarkable conflagration occurred, which caused the loss of many lives, and the destruction of much property. The summer had been unusually warm and dry, and extensive fires had raged in different parts of the country. Throughout the northern part of New Brunswick hardly any rain had fallen, and from the 1st to the 5th October, the heat was extraordinary. The fire, which had been creeping the heat became more intense. About 9 o'clock in the night rear of Newcastle, and that town, together with Douglastown, and the northern side of the Miramichi, for a hundred miles, were enveloped in smoke and flame. The area swept by the flames was about 0,000 square miles. In this conflagration 160 persons were burned, or drowned in the river, 595 balldings and 875 head of cattle were destroyed. The loss of property was estimated at £204,323, of which only £12,050 were covered by insurance. were received from Great Britain, the United States, and soon rebuilt in a style of greater solidity and beauty. In 1837, another extensive fire occurred in the city of St John, when property to the value of one million dollars, (including 115 houses) was destroyed.

The provincial revenues were this year surrendered to the tocal government on condition of paying the salaries of certain officials amounting to $58,000 per annum.

New Brunswick joined in the conference at Quebec on the subject of Confederation, but a ministry opposed to the scheme came into power shortly afterward. In 1806, however, the ministry resigned, and a new government, favorable to Confederation, was formed. A general election followed, and the friends of union were victorious at the polls. New Brunswick consequently became a member of the Federation.

The Island of Newfoundland, the oldest of the B. N. A. Ok 11 onies, was discovered in 1497, by Sir John Cabot and hisse aid to he 12 Sebastian, in a voyage made that year under the patrons ailed from 13 of Henry VII. of England. Sebastian Cabot also toucheld Cabot's discovery is well authenticated, and the island was thereafter claimed by Britain. But it is not improbable that long before this date, the coast of the island had been fillen in with by voyagers animated by the love of adventure, or carried out of their usual course by stress of weather. One account has come down to us of a voyage Rardson, a follower of Eric the Red. Heriulf is said to have emigrated from Iceland to Greenland, and formed a settlement there. At this time his son Biarne was absent on a voyage to Norway. On his return home, Biarne resolved to join his father in Greenland. The account of his voyage is even in the London Geographical Journal for 1838. It would appear that Biarne, who was imperfectly acquainted with the course, while seeking for Greenland, toward the end of his voyage, fell in with various unknown lands, sferward Biarne, while on a visit to Eric, Earl of Yorway, mentioned the fact of his having seen these unknown lands. Curiosity was excited, and Leif, a son of Eric, having equipped a small vessel, sailed on a voyage of emloration in the year 1000. He also observed the lands described by Biarne, and pushed on southward as far, it is apposed, as the coast of Massachusetts, to which he gave the name of Vinland. In 1002 a brother of Leif, named Thorwald, undertook a voyage to the unknown west, arrived safely at Vinland, and remained in the country two whole years. But while coasting along with the intention efreturning home, Thorwald lost his life in an encounter with some Esquimaux.

These early discoveries are apparently entitled to credit, but not being followed up by the establishment of settlements were soon forgotten, and are now of little interest except to the antiquary.

When Cabot visited the island, the natives called the codúsh which abounds there, bacalléos, which is also the name of the cod in the Basque or Breton idiom. Hence it as been conjectured that Breton fishermen may have resorted to the banks of Newfoundland previous to Cabot's

Three years after Cabot's voyage, the coast of Newfoundand was visited by a Portuguese explorer named Cortereal, shose report respecting the abundance of fish to be found there induced his countrymen to establish fisheries. The French, English, and Spaniards followed the example of the Portuguese, and in 1517 there were fifty vessels engaged in the fishery.

In 1524 Verazzani, a Florentine navigator in the service of the French king, touched at Newfoundland, and surveyed large part of the coast of the United States. Verazzani and his entire expedition perished during a subsequent royage undertaken soon afterward, and his sad fate for ome years damped the ardor of the French for exploration h the new world.

In 1534 Jacques Cartier passed the coast of Newfoundand on his memorable voyage to the Gulf of the St. Lawrence. At this time the fisheries were growing in importance. In 1540, the ports of London, Barnstaple, lideford and Bristol were prosecuting an extensive rade. In 1578 there were nearly 400 vessels engaged in he enterprise, of which 150 were French.

assistance of his step-brother, Sir Walter Raleigh, he soon fitted out another expedition with which he sailed for Newfoundland in 1583. On arriving at the harbour of St John's in the month of August, Gilbert took formal possession of the country in the Queen's name, and issued some laws for regulating the fisheries. On the return voyage, Sir Humphrey's ship, a vessel of only ten tons, foundered in undertaken in the tenth century by Biarne, son of Heriulf a storm near the Azores, and the gallant commander perished.

> Among the subsequent attempts to colonize the island may be noticed that of a company of English gentlemen, including Lord Bacon and others, to whom James I., in 1610, by letters patent, gave all that part of the coast between Capes Bonavista and St. Mary. This association appointed as their agent a Bristol merchant, numed Guy, who established a colony at Musquito Cove in Conception Bay.

In 1615 Captain Whithourne was sent out by the Admisupposed to be Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, &c. Ten years ralty to take steps for the removal of the great abuses which prevailed at the fisheries. Whitpourne introduced some of the English forms of administration of justice, and endeavoured to establish order in the settlements.

In 1622 James I., by letters patent, granted to Sir George Calvert, secretary of state, the peninsula formed by the Bays of Placentia and Trinity. Sir George (afterward Lord Baltimore) called this peninsula Avalon, and sent out as governor Capt. Wynn, who erected a large dwelling house and granary. Sir George himself subsequently visited the island, and resided there a short time.

In 1626 the fisheries had increased to such an extent that 150 vessels resorted to them from Devonshire alone. In 1633 another settlement was formed by Lord Falkland. About this time a code of regulations was promulgated by Charles I. with a view to preserve order and punish crime. The following year, the French, rather than relinquish the privilege of fishing on the coast, agreed to pay the British government a tribute of five per cent. on all fish caught by their fishermen.

Another settlement was established in 1654 by Sir David Kertk. "At this time," says Page, in his history of Newfoundland, "fifteen different settlements existed, containing about four hundred families." The jealousy of the merchants engaged in the fishery trade impeded the extension of permanent settlements. About 1670, an attempt was even made to break up the existing settlements.

In 1692 commenced a struggle between England and France for exclusive possession of the fisheries. Placentia, the principal French post on the island, was attacked and partially destroyed by a squadron of five ships under Admiral Williams. The French now resolved to become sole masters of the island. In 1696, a French fleet from Placentia, under Brouillon, aided by a military force under D'Iberville, attacked and destroyed the town of St. John's, and captured all the British settlements, with the exception of Bonavista and Carbonear, which were successfully defended. The Treaty of Ryswick in 1697, restored the rights of the respective powers as they existed at the commencement of the war.

In 1702 hostilities were again resumed. Sir John Leake, who was sent out with a squadron by Queen Anne, captured a number of French vessels; but the French obtaining reinforcements from Canada, succeeded in destroying most of the British establishments on the island. Treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, it was provided that Newfoundland should be ceded to Britain, the French having the right reserved to them of catching and drying fish on that part of the coast lying to the north of Cape Bonavista, and stretching along the western shore as far as Point Riche, but having no right to erect fortifications, or to remain high prices and scarcity of provisions. The island was divided into districts; Surrogate courts were established, and various improvements in the administration of justice introduced. In 1737, a Court of Over and Terminer was established, consequent upon the increase of crime, and the expense of sending offenders to England for trial. In 1741, a Vice-admiralty Court was established. In 1761, the island again suffered from the attacks of the French. The following year, St. John's was surprised and captured by a French fleet. The Treaty of Paris, in 1763, restored peace, and confirmed the title of England to the island. The French simply retained the privilege granted them by the Treaty of Utrecht, of fishing along part of the seaboard.

About this time, Capt. James Cook, the celebrated navigator, was employed by the English government in making surveys of the coast. In 1763, the coast of Labrador was annexed to Newfoundland. When peace was restored in processes of curing and drying the fish were to be carried on in the unsettled creeks and harbors of Nova Scotia, the Magdalen Islands, and Labrador.

As soon, however, as peace was proclaimed, there commenced a season of great comm depression. Two years afterward, a destructive fire occurred at & John's, causing a loss of $500,000. The aboriginal inhabitants seem to have fared worse in Kwfaundland than their countrymen elsewhere. DESCRIPTION OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The island of Newfoundland is situated on the north east side of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, between 46° 37" and 51° 40" N. latitude, and 52° 41", and 59° 31", W. long. It is bounded on the north by the strait of Belle Isle, which is from ten to twenty miles wide. On the east and south it is surrounded by the Atlantic. The island is exceedingly irregular in form, being indented with deep bays, the principal of which are Trinity and White Bays on the eastern, and Placentia and Fortune Bays on the southern coast. The peninsula of Avalon, on which the greater part of the population is resident, is almost severed from the rest of the island by Trinity and Placentia Bays, there being an isthmus only some four miles in width between the heads of these bays. The greatest length of the island from north to south is 350 miles, and the average breadth about 130 miles. Estimated area about 40,200 square miles, equal to 25,728,000

The coast is for the most part steep and rugged; the sea cliffs are bold and lofty, with deep water at the base. The harbors on the east coast are easy of access.

The geological survey shows the aqueous or stratified rocks to consist of the following formations, which are arranged in descending order: Upper and lower coal formation, magnesian limestone, upper and lower slate formation gneiss and mica slate. There are also chlorite, quartz rock, primary limestone, granite, syenite, porphyry, trap, basalt, serpentine, hypersthene, and greenstone. An extensive lead mine exists at La Manche, Placentia Bay, and has been worked for several years with profit; veins of copper of great value have also been discovered and are being successfully worked.

In the interior the surface of the island is uneven and hilly. Some of the peaks rise to a height of 1000 feet and upwards. The lakes are numerous. The trees consist of fir, spruce, birch, pine, juniper, wych-hazel, mountain ash, alder, and aspen.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF PRINCE EDWARD

This small but flourishing colony received its present name in 1798, in honor of Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, father of 2 | Queen Victoria. Its ancient name was Isle St. Jean, or St.

John's Island. It was discovered by John and Sebastian veyed by Captain Holland by order of the British Govern Cabot in 1497. The Indians that resorted to the island at that date were of the Abenagui and Micmae tribes. For two centuries after its discovery the island was covered with dense forests to the water's edge, and remained unoccupied save by Indians, being considered of too little importance to justify the establishment of a permanent settlement. It was included with Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Cape Breton, under the general name Acadie. Fortunately it escaped many of the disasters and conflicts that harassed other parts of Acadie and Canada, and there are few stirring or momentous events in its history to chronicle.

In 1663 a French naval captain named Doublet, received from the government of Canada a grant of this island. together with the Magdalen Islands, for the purpose of establishing a fishery. At this time stages and huts were erected near the best fishing grounds, but no permanent settlement was formed. The persons employed by Doublet came in the spring and left in the fall, abandoning the island during the winter to its original inhabitants.

In the beginning of the eighteenth century a few solitary families, attracted by reports of the beautiful scenery and fertile soil of the island, began to settle on some of the most accessible parts of the southern coast. After Acadie had been ceded to Britain by the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713, many of the younger Acadians left their fathers' homes in Nova Scotia, and commenced to form the first permanent settlements in Isle St. Jean, which was still retained by France. The number of settlers slowly increased from year to year as the fertility of the island became better known. In 19. Capt. Walter Patterson, (afterwards Governor) as 1728, about thirteen years after the settlements began, there were only sixty families on the island. In 1745, there were about 150 families, numbering 800 souls.

It has been supposed that Isle St. Jean fell into the hands | 22. John Gordon and Capt. W. Ridge. of the New Englanders in 1754, after they had captured 23. A. & L. McLean. Louisbourg. Campbell, merchant for the surrender of Isle St. Jean. Gen. Amherst immediately despatched Lieut. Col. Rollo to take possession, and the Treaty of 1763, Isle St. Jean, together with Canada and Cape Breton, was formally ceded to Great Britain. It was then placed under the government of Nova Scotia. At this time the inhabitants numbered 4,100, but many of the French inhabitants left the island when it came under English rule.

The Legislature having been convened on the 25th of March, 1851, the governor informed the Assembly that he had been empowered to introduce Responsible Government on condition that some compensation be allowed to certain retiring officers. This condition was complied with, and the Executive resigned on the 23rd of April. On the 25th of April, the new administration, having the support and confidence of the majority of the House of Assembly, was gazetted. During this session was passed a measure establishing a uniform letter postage rate of two-pence, to any part of the island, and three-pence to any part of British North America. The following session an important act, known as the Free Education Act, became law; and next year (1853) was passed an act which conferred universal suffrage under certain restrictions.

By the census taken in 1855, the population was ascertained to be 71,496. There were 252 school-houses and 127 places of public worship.

An agitation commenced in 1857 with the object of introducing the Bible into schools as a book for daily use. The proposal met with much opposition; but finally in the year 1860, an act was passed by the Legislature declaring the introduction of the Bible into all public schools to be legally authorized. During the session of 1860, the extersive estates of the Earl of Selkirk, embracing 62,059 acres, were acquired by government for the sum of £6,580 stg. In the same year a land commission was appointed to of lands, with the object of converting on equitable terms the leaseholds of the whole island into freeholds. Three commissioners were appointed, the Hon. J. H. Gray as the representative of the Crown, the Hon. The commission collected a great deal of evidence, and in August, 1861, made a report of which the principal points are as follows:-1. ROADS AND BRIDGES.

METAPEDIAC ROAD.

The Metapédiac road leaves the St. Lawrence at Ste. Flavie, 201 es below Quebec, and extends to the Restigouche river, at a bt 19 miles above its mouth.

The Restigouche road is a continuation of the Metapédice road. It follows the north shore of the Restigouche river from Sollars to Cross Point, at the mouth of the river, a distance of 101 miles.

The Temiscounta road is the main line of communication between anuda and New Brunswick.

Its length from Rivière du Loup to the boundary line between launda and New Brunswick is 67 miles.

The present road was mude to replace an o'der one. It follows he same to occal direction as the former one, but with many

HISTINGPON AND PORT LEWIS ROAD.

This road leads from Port Lewis, on Lake St. Francis, to Huntheyin, and extends over 8 miles. It was originally constructed by the Hunthurdon and Lake St. Francis Road Co., organized in 1849 under the general Act for the formation of Road Companies, 12 Vic., eap., 6, but was allowed to fail into decay.

The Communior of Her Majesty's Forces in Canada, having certified that this road should be minimized for defensive purposes, the Government directed that it should be repaired. The remains were undertaken and executed in the summer of 1898.

The Huntingdon and Lake St. Francis Road Co. having expressed its willingness to transfer this road, it was assumed by the Dominion Government, under the authority of an order in Council, dated the 9th of April, 1899.

This road crosses the peninsula of Nova Scotia, and extends from Annapolis, on the Bay of Fundy, to the harbor of Liverpool, on the Atlantic ocean.

There are no roads between the valley of the St. Lawrence and the British possessions in the North-West territory. At about five bundred miles to the north-west of Lake Superior is found Lake Winneger, one of the largest halves to be mer with on the continent of America—to which are tributary the three considerable rivers called the Saskatchewan, the Assinaboine, and the Bed River, forming together, an innue se extent of navigable water, which is discharged into Hudson's bay through Nelson river

Anticipating a future union with this territory, the Government of the late Province of Canada set on foot an exploration, as long ago as 1858, with the view of ascertaining the best mode of establishing a direct line of communication between Lake Superior and these northern waters. An exploration was accordingly made and reported on. Her Confederation, Mr. Dawson, who had con-ducted the previous survey, submitted, at the instance of the Minister of Public Works, a report on the line of route between Lake Superior and the Red River settlement with an estimate of the cost of opening the communication in the manner therein suggested.

suggested.

In these reports it is proposed to improve the navigable portion of the route by the erection of doma and other works, in order to diminish, as far as practicable, the distance to be travelied by land, deviating at the same time re little as possible from the direct line. The engineer states that if the improvements he had suggested were carried out, the following would be the table of railway from Halifax to Quebee. In his report on Canadian affairs, dated, 31st January, 1839, in which he urged the "intercourse with England during half the year, they " would possess a far more certain and speedy communica-" summer. " a matter of ten or twelve days, and Halifax would be the great port by which a large portion of the trade, and all the conveyance of passengers to the whole of British North America, would be carried on." The construction " North America, would be carried on." of the railway, it would appear, had been before his time suggested by Chief Justice Sewell, and the plan had received the approval of the father of the Queen.

ment declared that it appeared to him "this railroad may " an object of great national interest, both in a military, a " commercial, and every other point of view." " tant than the establishment of a communication by which " they might have access from Canada to one of the nearest " colonial ports to this country in all seasons of the year, "and at the same time, of course, equally easy of access " from Halifax to Canada."

Major Robinson's Survey-A survey at the joint expense of the three provinces, Canada, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, was undertaken by Major Robinson and Capt. Henderson, R.E., who reported thereon to the Imperial Government, on the 31st August, 1848.

The Report referred to the facilities for constructing the railway; most of the land was to be had for nothing, timber and stone were to be had nearly along the whole line for cutting and quarrying. It also set forth, in detail, the advantages to be expected from it; increase in value of property along the line, facility for commercial inter-course, for the conveyance of troops and munitions of war, avoiding the long passage by the gulf, etc.

Canada offered to contribute £20,000 stg. a year and ten miles of the ungranted lands on each side of the line, if the Imperial Government would undertake its construction as a military work. The other colonies interested made somewhat similar offers, but the Imperial Government merely proposed to guarantee loans to be raised by the colonies. and required that the colonies should make the interest on these loans a first charge upon the Provincial revenues. The negotiations were frequently suspended and renewed The reader will find a detailed sketch in the B. N. A. Almanac, (Montreal, Lovell, 1864.)

By Major Robinson's Report, the cost of the longest or coast route of 635 miles, was £7,000 stg. per mile, making the cost, in round numbers £5,000,000, stg. The railways, however, subsequently constructed in Canada and in the maritime provinces greatly shortened the length of line to be completed. In 1861, the length necessary to complete the communication between Halifax and Quebec was estimated at 350 miles, and the cost at £3,000,000 stg. In this year the three provinces again offered to contribute £20,000 per aunum each to pay half the interest on this sum, the Imperial Government to pay the other half. This offer, however, was not entertained, the Imperial Government adhering to their original proposition to simply guarantee the interest, and thereby enable the colonies to obtain the money on easier terms. The provincial delegates then drew up the following memorandum on the subject:

"The undersigned, representing the three governments of "The undersigned, representing the three governments of Cana-ua, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, convened to consider the despatch of His Grace, the Duke of Newcastle, of the 12th April, 1982, with reterence to the Interco onial Railway, having given the very important matter contained in that despatch their attentive consideration, are agreed—1at. NOVA SCOTIA GOLD FIELDS.

In a work of this kind it is only possible to give a condensed review of the above interesting subject, but we will try to gather within the allotted space the latest and most reliable information, marking, for convenience of reference, each paragraph by a descriptive heading.

FIRST DISCOVERY OF GOLD.—The auriferous character of the country appears to have been suspected, if not absolutely known, at the beginning of the seventeenth century, as it is stated in "Murdoch's History of Nova Scotia," that "the Sieur de St. Etienne de la Tour, of the Province of Champagne, in the hope of finding mines of Gold and Silver there, as was pretended, formed the project of settling a colony in Acadia, and obtained permission to do so from Louis XIII., in 1609, who granted him a large part of this colony, with the title of his Governor and Lieutenant (a corruption of Jeu or Jet d'ar) also indicate a knowledg of the existence of the precious metal on the part of the early French emigrés. There are many traditions of dis-coveries of gold by the subsequent English settlers, but the most ancient and best authenticated is ascribed to Joseph Gray, a prominent loyalist, who was born at Boston, Massachusetts, in 1729, and removed to Halifax about 1750 where, established as a merchant, he likewise became much devoted to mineralogical pursuits. His descendants in a direct line, the late Rev. Dean Gray, his grandson, and Mr. Benjamin Gerrish Gray, solicitor, of Halifax, his great grandson, inherited remarkable confirmatory evidence that him are in parts of the Province now recognized as gold districts. It is also stated upon the authority of Dr. How lege. Windsor, N. S., that about sixty years ago, gold was washed in the River Avon, near Windsor, and that the value for each man. The next well established discovery is that ascribed to a captain of the Royal Welsh Fusileers, who, in River, near Chester, at once proclaimed the gold bearing character of that district; but, as the river was then swollen and the ground partly covered with snow, examination was away with his regiment, the hint slumbered in the mind of his Nova Scotian companion during twenty-one years, and it was not until the discoveries at Tangier began to attract general attention, that search was made, in the place indicated, and the long unbeeded assertion verified. Meanwhile Dr. J. W. Dawson, Principal of McGill College, in the first edition (1855) of Acadian Geology, had suggested the possibly auriferous character of the region in which gold was subsequently found; and in 1857, Messrs. John Campbell and Robert G. Fraser, had panned gold from beach sand near Halifax; in August, 1858. Mr. E. A Mychell showed a piece of gold-bearing quartz to Mr. W. D. Styllenand, a clicitor, of Halifax; the same year Captain Cramparsh L'Estrange, R.A., found gold in the solid rock at Mooseland, Tangier, where in May 1861. Mr. Law Chreme West. Tangier, where, in May, 1861, Mr. John Gerrish Publiver made the discovery which actually laid the foundation of the gold mining industry of the Province.

Geological Age.—The principal gold-bearing meles of this Province have hitherto been described as of Lower Silurian age, but Mr. Sekwys, the present Director of the Geological Survey of Canada, who, during fifteen years, held a similar position under the Government of Victoria, Australia, and who also surveyed the gold region of Wales, places then among the Cambrian group. Gold, however, has been profitably washed in sub-carbonifer or stratu near Gay's River, and it is stated to have been found in still more recent formations in Annapolis county.

EXTENT.—The region is variously estimated at from 3,000 to 10,000 square miles, but the country is so imperfectly explored at present, that to assign a true extent would be impossible, and therefore the estimate of 6,000 square miles, as given by Dr. Sterry Hunt, may be considered as the just military.

Gold in Quartz.—The greater part of the gold produced has been obtained from quartz. Until quite recently only the lodes which contained visible gold were sunk upon, but now all that yield gold by crushing are brought to the mil and treated. The lodes worked vary from half an inch to twenty feet in width. It is but a short time ago, however, that those wider than three feet have been experimented with. The quartz is extracted from the enclosing rock, generally quartzte (or whin) and slate, by means of shafts and galleries. The ore is then conveyed to a mill, something like a large oblong mortar, containing from four to twenty-four huge pestles, which are called stamps, and divided into sets of four or five, each set making what is called a hattery. The stamps are raised and let fall by machinery, the broken ore is placed under them, and, as it is finely crushed, it is driven, by aid of a stream of water, through a metal sieve in front of the battery, and then made to flow over inclined tables, covered with copper plate, which are coated with quicksilver. A certain quantity of quicksilver is also kept inside the battery. The crushing of the quartz liberates the gold, which immediately attaches itself to the quicksilver, forming a paste called amalgam. When the operation of brushing is over, the amalgam is collected, squeezed through a piece of chamois leather, and the residue put in a retort and placed over the fire. The heat drives off the mercury, which is saved, and the gold is left behind in a porous, unsightly mass. This, again, is smelted, when it resumes its bright metallic color, and it worth about $20 the onnee. In the older gold producing countries, the quartz is made to undergo a variety of operations in order to extract the last particle of gold; but it is only recently that, in Nova Scotia, the sulphurets, which contain a notable proportion of gold, were attempted tobe saved. The 'tailings,' as the quartz sand passing through the sieves is termed, are never assayed, or, as in Australia, reworked.

, ALLIVIAL GOLD.—No persistent systematic search his yet been made for allivial gold, the opinion having been ponounced by Professor Sillaman and Mr. John Campbell, the the surfice outside the surfice of past ages had been washed into the sea; but acknowledged experts in gold mining, such as M. M. Trowass Blell, M.E. John Karrutz Phillers, M.E. and Acutsta Michille, assert views to the contrary, in which it is gratifying to state they are fully sustained by Mr. Szlava, who bimself critically examined this gold region during the months of August, September and October, of 18% The districts in which alluvial gold has thus far bee obtained, are Tangier, Wagamatcook, Wine Mile River, Gay's River, Gold River, Indian Path, and the Ovens. At the fics hand a mugget containing 23 onness of pure gold was found within a foot of the surface; at the second, nugges weighing I7 dwts, and under, have been obtained; and at the last named, the gold was principally derived from beach washings.

GROSS GOLD PRODUCT.—The total amount of gold peduced, according to the departmental returns, between is January, 1892, and 31st December, 1869, was 157,682 os. of which only 873d oss. were obtained from alluvious, and the rest from quartz; but, adding to the above the carefully estimated amount produced during 1830 and 1861, and the quantity stelen and not reported for the whole period, the totals to the end of 1869 are as follow:—

Alluvial gold 3,000 cm Quartz do 176,450 "

It, to which is wadded the approximate amount for 1870, declared and undeclared, 20,550 the general total will be$290,000 ozs.

So that 4,000,000 may be assumed as the value of the gross production during nine-and-a-half years

Average per tox.—The average yield of 200,555 tons (of 200 lbs.) crushed between 1862 and 1869, was 15 dwts.and 5 grs., or S15.60 per ton, a much higher mean than is looked

To gra, or statorice tolta and a grant and a form the Ural, in the Brazilis, or in Australia.

The gold varies in many districts, but some, such as Mostague, have maintained a rate uniformly high, and nearly every district can boast of one or more exceptionally ride returns. During the present year quartz crushed at Mostague yielded as much as eighteen owness per ton, and one and-shalf toos from the Hall lode at Oldham, actually gave one hundred and eight comes of gold.

Average Earnings for Man.—The actual wages of miners vary from 90 cents to $1.25 per day; but the proportion of gold won by each man employed during eight years ended sixt December, 1869, was equal to $553.25 per annum.

Distructs.—The localities in which gold has been found in quantity, and in which pernanent mining operations are become established, are termed "Districts"; those which have been officially recognised and gazetted are distinguished as "Proclaimed," and those which have not yet been so recognised are styled "Unproclaimed." To the former belong Stormont, (Isaucs' Harbor and Country Harbor, Wine Harbor, Sherbrooke, Tangier, the Ovens, Montage, Waveley, Oldham, Renfrew, Unincke, Caribou, (formerly Musquedoboit, Jennings) and Lawrencetown; to latter Wagamateook, Stewincke, Gay's River, Beaver ham, Ecum Secum, Gold River, Yarmouth, and others as a imporfed by known.

Mixes.—The most steadily producing mine in the Province is the Wellington, at Sherbrooke, which was opened in the fail 1833, and from that period until the end of November, 1870 yielded 14,248 ozs. of gold from 11,488 tons of quartz. The step profits of the mine for last year amounted to S18,000 but they could be increased one-shird were the works vigorously pashed. Nearly all the gold has been obtained from one lode averaging thirteen melies in width, worked 200 feet in length, and to 400 feet in depth. Still richer, though less producitive at present, was the Ophic. at Renfrew which gave 14,4694 ozs. from 18,4324 tons in 32 years; while hargest yearly return from any one property was obtained from the Beraxxan mine, at Waverley, which it is 1835, yielded 8,7274 ozs. Results like those cited prove that the Nova Scatta gold mines are capable of permaneut an inolitable development, and that they recally laxe a substantial claim to the recognition of capitalists.

The mines in operation during 1870 have made the following returns for the past eleven months, small capitals representing the districts; italies the mines; the first quan-

Many hopeful mines which do not figure this year as producers, have either lain fallow pending a change of ownership, or have been engaged on dead work necessary to the proper opening of the auriferous lodes.

Mixixo Riburs.—The districts are laid off into areas of 150 feet on the general course of the lodes, by 250 feet across it. The right to mine may consist either in a prospecting license, renewable quarterly, or a lease, tenandale for twenty-one years, but subject to a rental of $2 a year, or one hundred days' labor per area. A license may embody one hundred acres, or 116 areas; a lease one hundred areas.

It is now conceded that large areas are necessary for companies which propose to work on an extended scale, but in former times adventurers were limited to six

Reports have also been published by Professors Silliman and Marsh, of Yale College.

Advantages.—A healthful climate, abundance of fuel and water, cheap labor and provisions, and security of life and property, are the chief advantages which can be claimed for this Province, as a gold-mining region. Some districts have been constantly worked since 1861, but as the first official returns begin with 1862, it may be said that the mines have had a fair nine years' trial, and where wisely chesm and developed their productiveness has not been inferior to mines of the same class in less accessible and less favored countries.

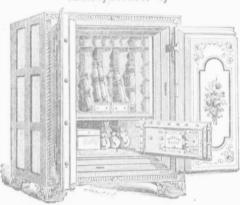

The slow progress which is apparent, is due partly to native apathy, partly to a vexatious royalty of three per centum imposed upon the gross yield, and partly to a strong prejudice which exists against the country in financial circles abroad on account of the mismanagement and failure of the Land and Amalgamating Company of London, the extravagant prices generally asked for untested properties, and the continued political agitation of the past few years. When those obstacles shall have been removed the gold mining industry of Nova Scotia will rapidly expand and ensure to the nation commercial greatness and prosperity.

ACADIA MINES-A thriving vilon the Cobequid mountains, famed for their iron deposits, township The Intercolonial railway, now building.comes to a point within 3 miles of the iron works, and the cars are expected to run this far next summer. A very extensive bed of the ore exists here. This mine attracted attention as early as 1840. It was opened; smelting furnaces were put in operation and iron of the finest quality was made. The enterprise has recently been taken up by an enterprising company. The vein contains a variey of iron ores, such as magnetic, specular, hematite, &c. It is in one place 120 feet thick; its length is said to be about 7 miles, and it is apparently wedge-shaped. Its irregular *The post office is at Pictou. Somees called South Pictou.

Distant from Truro, a station of the Nova Scotia railway, 22 miles, fare $1.50; from Halifax 83 miles, Mail daily. Population about 500.

GAV'S BIVER—A gold district situated on the Cold Stream brook, a tributary of Gay's river. Gold was first discovered here in 1862; it was immediately proclaimed a gold district, but systematic mining did not commence until late in 1863, and hus attrict, but systematic mining did not commence until late in 1863, and hus trict, but systematic mining did not commence until late in 1863, and hus trict. The gold chiefly occurs in a curious conglomerate, a ridge of which may be traced across the country a distance of 60 miles, and is known as the Boar's back; and although 50 miles in the interior has all the appearance of being at one time the sea shore. The deposit in appearance is the near-set to alluvial gold as found in the placer diggings of California, of any yet discovered in the province. In the washings in the stream as high as an ounce per man a day has been obtained. Mining has of late been resumed here with vigor, and proper exploration will probably lead to the discovery of rich quartz veins in the vicinity from which the alluvium has received its deposits. Lead also occurs in this vicinity. Distant from Shubenacadie, a station of the Nova Scotia railway, 7 miles, from Halifax 45 miles. Mail bi-weekly. Population about 350.

Many who expectdown by Thompson George Peter, J.P., miner were soon disappointed, and left the Watson Henry, carpenter field in disgust to others who practiced mining as a business and a science. The consequence is that Ren-frew gold mines are looked upon as the most valuable in the province, and prove that good management is alone required to make quartz mining remunerative. The yield of gold for 1863 was double that of 1862; the yield for 1864 exceeded that of the two previous years, and the yield for 1866 was double of all the former years put together. Equally satisfactory has been the average yield per man, which in 1866 amounted to $1050. According to the Gold Comr that year was 3097 ounces, valued at $61,940. SHERBROOKE-A village in the township of St Mary's, county of Guysborough, situated on both sides of the St Mary's river, twelve miles from its mouth. It is at the head of navigation. This beautiful river is the largest in Nova Scotia, the Shubenacadie alone being navigable to a greater distance. Ship building is carried on here to some extent, and large quantities of deal are annually are about 14 miles distant. The first discovery of gold here was made in October, 1861. There was then a general migration to the spot. Gold was found at Wine Harbor at the same time. According to the prospects which the superficial working at each place showed, the miners changed to either one or the other. Since 1863 Sherbrooke has steadily improved. At the close of 1868 it was the first gold district in the province. The works are upon a larger scale here than elsewhere, no less than ten quartz crushers being employed. A packet sails for Halifax weekly. Distant from Antigonish 40 miles, fare $2; from Guysborough 48 miles, fare $3; from New Glasgow, a station of the Nova Scotia railway, 56 miles, fare $3.50. . LAWRENCETOWN-A gold district in the township of Law-rencetown, county of Halifax. Gold was discovered here in 1861, in boulder quartz on the surface, and among the sands in the streams. The dis-trict was immediately surveyed and claims taken up freely the same year. From the present aspect of the place, the impression of the first gold seekers appears to have been that the precious metal would be found in thick layers at a few feet below the surface of the soil. Two companies began with something like system, but expended so much capital in mere preparations that there was nothing left for actual mining purposes, and through their failure the district acquired a bad name. strata resembles those at Wine Harbor, and form the second band from the sea shore of the auriferous metamorphic belt. The ordinary course of the lodes are east and west. One lode has been bared 1000 feet in length, and as many as 40 lodes have been discovered on a single area of 150 feet. rage, but a quantity of 25 tons, crushed in 1862, gave 3 oz 7 dwts to the ton. 173 tons of quartz and slate crushed in 1863 gave 11 dwts 18 grs. per ton. More recent crushings gave and if resumed on a large scale with proper gold saving appliances may yet become a source of considerable profit. The Supreme court holds its sittings here in June and October. A brisk trade is done in lumber. Fishing is actively pursued. A large West India business is carried on. The soil is fertile. The gold mines of the Ovens and of Indian Path are contiguous. Slip building resources are extensive. Western Union Telegraph Co. has an office here. The steamer M. A. BIOONELAND—A mining district in the county of Halifax. The first actual discovery of gold in quartz in the province occurred here, and was made by Captain L. Estrange of the Royal Artillery, in September, 1838. The first mining company began operations here in 1860, and its developments attracted 1890, and its developments attracted many hundreds to the spot; since then several companies have been at work with varied success. Ac-cucling to Campbell's geological report the nuriferous band observed here is the one that lies nearest the sea shore and may be traced through Halifax harbor to the Ovens mines, a distance of 90 miles. The veins vary in thickness from 1 inch to six feet. Several handsome nuggets have been set from here, one specimen of quartz weighing 12 oz. contained 8 oz. of pure gold. The maximum yield has been 4 oz. 8 dwts. per ton. The difficulty of access to the section from the want of proper roads has prevented its resources being fully developed. Distant from Halifax, the terminus of the Nova Scotia railway, about 60 miles. Mail weekly. Popu-

OVENS—A gold district situated in the county of Lunenburg. At the entrance of Lunenburg Harbor, on rises a promontory fifty feet in height which contains a dozen or more cavties facing the sea. Those cavities, from some fancied resemblances, are called ovens. The whole peninsula, three quarters of a mile in width and amile and a half in length, to which the gold district is at present limited, bears the same name. The regularity at which these openings occur almost confutes the idea of their being merely created by the action of the waves; they appear ra-ther to have been made by human less for mining, it is difficult to con-Three of those are about 70 feet at the mouth and extend inwards upwards of 200 hundred feet. The discovery which led to this place being proclaimed a gold district occurred in 1861. The estimated quantity of gold obtained from washing during the autumn of that year was upwards of 2000 ounces, valued at $40,000. The reported yield for 1862 was 311 ounces, since then they have been almost abandoned. But very little quartz mining has been done in this vicinity; the greatest depth reached was 60 feet, at which the average yield was 1 oz. 15 dwt. per ton. As the process of denudation at the cliffs continue that of deposit must continue also, and washing may again be resumed with profit. *PORT HASTINGS, C.B .- A thriving village pleasantly situated on the east side of the Strait of Canso, township of Canso, county of Inverses. It has a good, safe harbor accessible from the south the greater part of winter, with a government wharf of twenty feet depth of water. This place has good hotel accommodation, is the residence of one of Lloyd's agents, and a United States consul, and is the great telegraph repeating station on Two telegraph companies have their offices here—the Western Union and the New York, Newfoundland and Lon-don. The former has a submarine cable across the Strait of Causo connecting with all telegraph offices in the Dominion and the United States, and the latter two submarine cables between Cape Breton and Newfoundland, connecting at Hearts Content with the English, and at St Pierre Miquelon with the French Atlantic cables. The building in which these offices are located is a fine two story one, situated near the water's edge, at a narrow part of the strait. RENFREW-A gold district situated in the township of Douglas, county of Hants. The first discovery of gold occurred here in 1861, but it was not proclaimed a gold district until 1862, when prospecting and mining promptly followed. Here, as in other districts, experience had to be dearly purchased. Many who expected to make fortunes in a few days by digging a hole here and a trench there were soon disappointed, and left the field in disgust to others who pracence. The consequence is that Renfrew gold mines are looked upon as prove that good management is alone required to make quartz mining remunerative. The yield of gold for 1863 was double that of 1862; the yield for 1864 exceeded that of the two previous years, and the yield for 1866 was double of all the former years put together. Equally satisman, which in 1866 amounted to $1050. According to the Gold Commission-$61,940. Average yield per ton 16 dwts.,maximum yield per ton 8 ounces. Distant from Enfield, a station of the Nova Scotia railway, 7 miles, from Mait daily. Po-claims fully the ignorance and extravagant views which prevailed with regard to the distribution of in the province. The ground is fairly honey-combed with pits for a range of over two miles, some not deeper Many lodes, too, were actually laid bare, and then set down as worthless because they were not plated with the metal. This district now emopened to the depth of 95 feet; the veins increase in richness as they descend, the average yield being 3 oz 7 dwts. per ton. Profitable shore washings were carried on here in 1861 and 1862, and could be again resumed if suitable machinery were adopted. A nugget weighing 27 oz., the largest as yet found in the province, was sent from here to the Dublin exhibition. According to the gold commissioners at $22,052, average yield per ton 17 dwts. 21 grs.; maximum yield per ton 75 oz.; average yield per man for 12 months $430. WAVERLEY — A gold district sit-uated in the county of Halifax. The first discovery of gold in this district was made in 1861. The specimens obtained during two day's search were sold for $80. From the proximity of this place to Halifax a large num-ber of people were immediately on the ground and many claims applied for. Subsequently veins of gold-bear-ing quartz together with a most re-ing quartz together with a most reing quartz together with a most remarkable deposit known as the barrel formation was discovered. This au-riferous deposit is different from any-thing yet found, and when open presents the appearance of trees or logs of wood laid side by side after the manner of an American corduroy road. From this circumstance the miners have applied the name of bar-rel quartz, which in many cases is not unlike a series of small casks laid together side by side and end on end. The rock covering this remarkable horizontal vein is exceedingly hard, but beneath for some little distance it is somewhat softer. According to the Gold Commissioner's report for 1869, the total yield of gold for that year was 1,591 ounces valued at $31,820; average earnings per man $545. Distant from Rocky Lake, a station of the Nova Scotia railway, 3 miles, from Halifax 12 miles. Mail daily. Population about 600.

WINE HARBOR-A gold district situated in the county of Guysborough, about 3 miles from the mouth of St Mary's river. Gold was first discovered here in 1860 in the sands on the sea shore; afterwards in the quartz formation on the north-east side of the harbor, which led to the immediate survey and proclamation of the field. This district ranks third as a producer, and second in its average yield per man. The regularity and breadth of its lodes gives security for its profitable working for years to come. Even with its small average of 12 dwts to the ton in 1865 it gave an average proportion of $946.80 per man, or $234.45 more than Victoria, the richest mining district in Australia. The most noted lodes in this district are the Smith, Middle, Major Norton, Barasois, Halliday, Wiscasset, Gillespie and Eureka; they vary in thickness from one inch to four feet; the principal lode being the Smith Five tons from this lode gave 125 ounces of gold, and at 50 feet yielded a steady average of 3 ounces to the ton. The suspension of work pending the transfer of large developed areas, and the employment of men in prospecting on new ground, has e-ated a decrease in the amount of gold produced for the past two years. numerous shafts, drifts and tunnels tell of the vigor in which mining has been prosecuted. One of those prospecting tunnels extends horizontally through the solid rock a distance of 700 feet. According to the Gold Commissioner's report for 1869 the total yield of gold for that year was 719 ounces, valued at $14,380. Average yield per ton 5 dwts. 6 grs. : maximum yield 5 oz. 7 dwts.; average earnings per man $204. YARMOUTH -A wealthy and flourishing town on the Atlantic and south-western coast, township and county of the same name. It is the second town in importance in Nova Scotia, not exactly in population but in the wealth of its inhabitants. A large ship building and fishing trade is carried on. In 1761 there was only I vessel measuring 25 tons, owned in the county. In October, 1869, there were 284 vessels, measuring 93,896 tous. It is believed its progress would be still furthur marked were there better communication. A movement has of late taken place to build a railway to connect with the one at Annapolis. Over $100,000 have already been subscribed by the merchants of this town towards the project. It is thought the local Government will encourage the work, so that in less than three years direct railway communication will be had not only with Halifax, but with Montreal and other cities. The town possesses several handsome buildings churches, educational institutions, three banks, three seminaries, a circulating library and two weekly newspapers. Western Union Telegraph Co, has an office here. Steamers ply to Halifax, St John, N.B., and Boston once a week. Distant from Annapolis, the terminus of the Windsor and Annapolis railway, 88 miles, fare $4.75; from Halifax, via Annapolis,216 miles, fare $10; via Lunenburg 205 miles, fare $12; fare by steamer to Halifax $6, to Boston $6, to St John, N.B., $4. Mail daily. Population about 3500.

RAILROAD AND STEAMBOAT ROUTES IN THE PROVINCE OF NOVA SCOTIA.

This Province at present enjoys but limited means of communication by Railway or Steamer, but movements now going on-the building of the great Intercolonial, and of a road from New Glasgow to Sydney, C.B., on the east, and another from Annapolis to Yarmouth, on the west,-will place it in favorable comparison with other portions of the Dominion. There are two Railway lines in the Province, the principal one of which is owned by the Dominion Government, and connects Halifax with the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy. The other is the Windsor and Annapolis road, which was only opened the past year. It connects with the Nova Scotia Railway at Windsor and passes eastward to Annapolis Royal, the first European settlement formed in Nova Scotia. The total length of these Railways is 229 miles. Another short line of 12 miles, from Sydney to the coal fields at Lingan, has recently been completed in Cape Breton. The other Railway lines in course of construction, and to be constructed, will prove of incalculable benefit to this Province. The Intercolonial, now completed to Amherst from the New Brunswick side, and in a short time expected to be running to Truro, will give Nova Scotia direct railway connection with New Brunswick, and ere long with the whole Dominion. As regards Steamers, there are but few running in any direction. One makes a weekly trip to the towns east of Halifax; others ply between New Glasgow and Pictou, and another on the Bras d'Or Lake in Cape Breton. Steamers also run between Halifax and Portland, in connection with the Grand Trunk Railway, Halifax and Boston and Pictou, the Straits of Canso, Port Hood, C.B., Charlottetown, P.E.I., Shediac, N.B., and Quebec, and between Annapolis and St. John, N.B. What Nova Scotia lacks in Railways or Steamers, however, she possesses in good roads and the best of stage accommodation. The traveller need therefore experience no delay or difficulty in arriving at any place he may desire. In the arrangement of the following Table of Routes it has been endeavored to point out to him the easiest and best means of doing so.

Railway Routes are designated by letters; Steamboat Routes by numbers. Stage connections are made at those places in italic.

Rates of Postage on Letters.—The rate of postage on pre-paid Letters between any one place in Canada and any other place in Canada, is regulated by weight, irrespective of distance, and is as follows:

" " 1½ oz. " 2 " 12 cts. 11 OZ. # 2 oz. 11 21 " 15 cts.

And so on, 3 cents being charged for every additional 1 oz., or fraction of half ounce.

If the weight be exceeded to the smallest extent, even though the balance be merely turned, the letter becomes liable to an additional rate.

Letters posted in and addressed to any place within the Dominion of Canada, if sent unpaid, are hable to a charge

In applying the 5 cent unpaid rate to letters passing within the Province posted unpaid or not fully pre-paid—it should be observed that a letter passes either as pre-paid at 3 cents per ½ oz., on condition that the whole postage due be fully pre-paid—or at 5 cents per ½ oz. if posted unpaid, or only partly pre-paid—in the latter case the full rate at 5 cents per 1 oz. will be marked, and a deduction made there-from of the amount which may have been paid—thus on an ounce letter pre-paid 3 cents only—the rate will be 10 cents and crediting the 3 cents paid—7 cents will remain to be charged, and collected on delivery.

The object of the 5 cent unpaid rate is to induce pre-

The object of the 2 cent unpaid rate is to induce pre-payment, and thereby relieve the Post Office from costs and trouble of account and collection, but this object is equally defeated whether the letter be wholly unpaid, or but par-tially pre-paid—and therefore the 5 cent rate applies to the whole charge upon the letter in both cases.

The charge of local or drop letters, viz., letters posted at an office in Canada for delivery from that office is one cent for each letter, which must be pre-paid, or the letter will be sent to the dead letter office for return to the writer.

on delivery, in addition to the ordinary postage rate.

Letters posted in the United Kingdom, for Canada, unless specially addressed "By Canadian Steamer," or "By Cunard Steamer," are despatched in the first mail that is made up—whether for Canadian or Cunard line—after the letter is postad as the letters jumined for the Canadian Pecket posted, so that letters intended for the Canadian Packet must either be posted on the proper days for the Canadian Packet Mails, or bear the words "By Canadian Mail Steamer on the address. All letters and other mailable matter to and from the Postmaster General and the Deputy Postmaster General; and all official communications to and from the Post Office Department, and to and from the Post Office Inspectors, are to pass free of Canada postage.

Abating and Refunding Postage.—Postmasters in Canada are allowed to refund postage in the following cases, only:— Letters originating and for delivery in Canada, charged as weighing more than the actual weight.

Postage incorrectly charged on editors' notices addressed to publishers and editors, and exchange papers, which should legally pass without charge.

All other claims for the return and abatement of postage must be specially referred to the Postmaster General for his decision, with the letter or packet on which the return is claimed.

Undelivered and Dead Letters.—All letters remaining undelivered in the post office on the first of each month, excepting drop letters and such letters as are daily called for, are advertised in a list posted at the office door for the information of the public.

If a newspaper is published in the neighborhood, the Postmaster is, at the discretion of the Postmaster General, directed to insert this list therein, provided the proprietor will give it insertion at the authorized rate.

Parties applying at an office for advertised letters should always ask for them as such.

Letters and papers after remaining undelivered in an office for two months are sent to the Dead Letter office, as also are all letters refused by the person to whom they are addressed, or letters addressed to persons deceased.

Letters are opened in the Dead Letter office in order that they may, when necessary, be returned to the writers; but no Postmaster is at liberty to return a letter to the writer direct. All undelivered correspondence must be sent to the Dead Letter office.

Registration.—By the pre-payment of the following fee, in addition to the ordinary postage, letters and parcels can be registered at the office at which posted:

On letters addressed to any place in Canada or the other British North American Provinces.... 2 cents. On letters addressed to any place in the United Kingdom. 8 Con books addressed to any place in the United Kingdom. 8 Con research to any place in the United Kingdom. 8 Con research to any post of the December 1.

Every letter or parcel containing value should be marked for registration and presented to the Postmaster or his clerk, and a receipt obtained therefor. On no account should it be dropped into a letter box.

When letters are registered, both the postage and the registration fee must in all cases be pre-paid.

Books, periodicals, newspapers, circulars, and other printed matter cannot be registered (except books addressed to the United Kingdom) unless pre-paid the full letter rates, in addition to the ordinary registration fee.

Registered letters and packets can only be delivered to the parties to whom they are addressed or to their order; and a receipt must be given on the delivery of each registered letter in a book kept by every Postmaster for that purpose.

It should be clearly understood that the post office is not responsible for the safe delivery of a registered letter or parcel. The registration simply makes its transmission more secure, by rendering it practicable to trace it, when passing from one place to another in Canada, from its receipt to its delivery; and when addressed from any place in in Canada to any place in the United States, the United Kingdom, or parts abroad, if not to its delivery, at least to the frontier or port of despatch.

Postage Stamps .- Every Postmaster is required to have on hand a sufficient stock of postage stamps, and to sell them to the public at \(\frac{1}{2} \) cent, 1 cent, 3 cents, 6 cents, and 12\(\frac{1}{2} \) cents,

Letters cannot be pre-paid partly in stamps and partly in money; the postage must be pre-paid either wholly in stamps or wholly in money.

If the stamps affixed to a letter addressed to any place in British North America be not adequate to the proper postage, the letter is rated with an amount equal to the deficieacy; the whole postage being calculated at the unpaid rate, e. g. a single letter pre-paid 1 cent would be rated 4 cents additional; a double letter pre-paid 5 cents only would be rated 5 cents additional.

Number of commercial messages sent over the lines during the year 1870, was 1,060,000. Number of words transmitted over Atlantic cable 153,092. Number of words furnished to the press upwards of 8,000,000. To give an idea of the facilities that the Company has at its command it is only necessary to mention that during the last Parliamentary Session it was customary to transmit night after night, from its office, at Ottawa 20,000 to 50,000 words to the press, and on the night of 17th February, as many as 07,251 words were transmitted.

The lines of the Company begin at Lake Huron.

the St. Lawrence.

extend to Sarnia, at the outflow of Lake Huron.

They also run from the United States border to the Georgian Bay and the most northern towns of Canada.

The Company has wires along all the Railways in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and as soon as the Intercolonial Railway is built their wires will be extended over the whole of that road.

In transmitting cable despatches they are sent direct to Sackville, N.B., the present terminus of the Company's lines, over a circuit of 750 miles.

The Company has likewise branches from Montreal working direct through its connections to the following cities in the United States:

Portland, Maine,...300 miles. Oswego, N. Y.,.....300 miles. Boston, Mass.,......350 " Buffalo, N. Y.,....450 " Detroit, Mich.,.....550 "

During the year 1870, the Company erected 821 miles of poles, strung up 1920 miles of wire, and opened 86 new stations. In 1871 they will string an additional wire of 450 miles from Montreal to Buffalo, and have agreed to build lines through the remote districts of Bonaventure and Gaspé, which will be of great service to the fishing interest in that neighbourhood, as well as to the shipping entering the St. Lawrence.

SUPPORT THE ONLY ILLUSTRATED PAPER IN CANADA.

THE FOLLOWING

OPINIONS THE OF PRESS

Are a sample of the remarks with which our exchanges from one end of the Dominion to the other greet our weekly issues.

Its artistic excellence places it alongside of the standard illustrated weeklies of the world.—Montreal Daily Witness.

An excellent family paper, free from all objectionable matter.—True Witness, Montreal. We have great pleasure in calling attention to the great improvement in the illustrations of the Canadian Illustrated News. Mr. Desbarats deserves to be assisted by the Canadian public in his coatly enterprise.—The Globe, Toronto.

Such a publication should receive the hearty support of every true Canadian.—Evening Herald and Prototype, London, Unt.

No Canadian gentleman's library will be complete without this valuable paper.—Hamilton Evening Times.

The paper is so well got up that it should be supported and be in every Canadian house. -Hamilton Evening Journal.

Its engravings are very fine and its literary department complete.—Cayuga Sentinel. It should command the support of all Canadians .- The Paris Transcript.

BE TO THE CANADIAN ILLUSTRATED

An illustrated paper fully equal to those of London, Paris, Berlin, or New York.—The News, St. John's and Nelsonville.

No Canadian family should be without it .- Stanstead Journal,

One of the most beautiful illustrated papers on this Continent .- Halifax Citizen.

Compares favourably both in literary and artistic excellence with any of the leading illustrated periodicals of the day.—Globe, St. John, N. B.

The merits of this admirable publication ought to, and doubtless will, ere long, secure for it a place in every family of intelligence throughout the Dominion.—Yarmouth Tribune. Considerable ability is displayed both in the literary and artistic portions of the paper. The Court Journal, London, Eng.

The Canadian Illustrated News is undoubtedly one of the best artistical papers published in the Colonies which we have received up to this date, and the tout ensemble does great credit both to editor and artist, on whom the task of success of so attractive a weekly depends.—European Mail, London, Eng.

This excellent weekly periodical now comes to us greatly improved in its style of illustrations. The credit of establishing a weekly newspaper, profusely and regularly illustrated by photographic plates, belongs to Canada. There is no other paper like it in the world that we know of.—Scientific American, New York.
