Spokane, Nov. 22. - George Melvin, well-known miner, lost in a snow storm and suffering from exposure, end. ed his suffering by placing a revolver in his mouth and sending a bullet into his brain. Melvin, with a companion named J. G. Ranson, left Republic Monday on a deer hunt. The next day they were caught in a storm, and after hours of wandering Melvin's strength gave out.

Ranson left him to search for help, found his way back to Republic and started out with a rescuing party. Melvin's corpse was found a few miles out from the town, the body still warm.

Divorce Troubles Ended.

Spokane, Nov. 22. - The divorce roubles of William J. Harris, the wealthy mining man, ended today when Judge Prather approved stipulations dismissing six suits aggregating nearly $300,000 brought against Harris by his wife, and Judge Richardson granted her a decree of divorce. Harris agrees to give her $125,000, as provided in the original agreement, and settles $25,000 upon her daughter Louise, besides paying the wife a large additional sum, the amount of which is kept secret.

Harris made his money in Rossland mines, being associated with Senator Turner and others in the War Eagle and Le Roi.

Long Lease of Control.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.-A review of the political situation in Canada, even at this early date after the smoke of the electoral battle has cleared away, reveals at least one prominent fact that stands out above all other developments resulting from the elections, that Liberal administration is now destined to, concede this. Its rehabilitation as a powerful political force can only be accomplished under the leadership of new men. Already the cry is heard in Conservative circles, "We cannot expect to succeed under the leadership of the Tuppers.'

Sir C. H. Tupper has been re-elected, but the unexpected defeat of Sir Charles Tupper, who ran in the safest constituency of his native province of Nova Scotia, is a paralyzing blow to Conservatives, and marks a dramatic finale to the wonderful political career. of that really eminent Canadian statesman. On Wednesday last he suffered his first personal defeat at the polls during the whole of his long and successful political life, which extends over a period of 47 years. His friends are apprehensive that the blow may injuriously affect the venerable baronet, who is verging on his 80th year, but he seems to bear his great reverse with philosophic fortitude, and has even announced that he intends at once to proceed to British Columbia to assist his friends in the two elections which are to take place in the districts of Yale-Cariboo and Burrard at a later date. It will, however, prove the dying effort of the greatest political gladiator this country has yet produced, for Sir Charles Tupper will soon disappear finally from political life.

The letter states that among the many former Dawsonites now in Frisco much sympathy is expressed for Moore whom Goode has ruined for life, a owing to the action of the sympathe nerves, Moore has almost lost the sight of his other eye and has to be let around like a child. Goode disappeared after the encounter and the letter says, has not been seen in San Franc since.

Inquiry among the medical fraternity of Dawson substantiates the claim of Moore that Dr. Goode is responsible for the loss of his eyesight. Moore, who was troubled with something like granulated eyelids, consulted Goode who undertook their treatment. As no favorable results followed the first few days of the treatment Goode suggested to Moore that he take a room at the Good Samaritan hospital which was done. Alaska Coal Fields.

The Corwin Coal Company, whose president, C. A. Cushing, is at present registered at the Brunswick, consider that they have solved the serious question of fuel for Alaska. They have se cured a 7000 acre tract of coal land near Point Lisbon, about 300 miles north of Nome. Mr. Cushing is en route for his home in Boston, where he will endeavor to organize a company with sufficient capital to develop the field and build the necessary tram ways, wharves, etc.

there is a very well grounded imression abroad that the mail service the outside is far inferior to the which prevailed last winter. This impression has been given added seight by the arrival of the mail yeserday. A large portion of this last consignment consists of mail matter which has been sixty days or more n route. Letters sent from the outside in the middle of October arrived yesterday, while former consignments have brought matter which was mailed a month after that time. This certainly indicates a lack of system in transmitting the mails to which the conmetors would do well to give immediate attention. Formerly when the delivery of mail in Dawson was notorjously uncertain, people did not rely upon the service for the transaction of important business. The efficient system which was maintained last winter inspired public confidence in the good faith and ability of the contractors, and it certainly is to be regretted that the solendid record made last winter is not being maintained.

As matters now stand, a far better ervice must be given or there will be first-class grounds for general complaint.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The growth of our local public chools is very satisfactory. Our well attended schools form one of the very could possibly be suggested. They indicate that the restless, unsettled period of former days is passed and that Dawson's population has now entered upon a settled and well established era. Instead of being here today and there tomorrow, the people of our little city for the most part have located here for s stay of an indefinite number of years and are making their plans accordingly. While the schools are entirely inadequate to accommodate the requirement of the school population, a splendid beginning has been made toward the establishment of a first-class system, which doubtless will be improved from have no present knowledge. time to time until Dawson's public schools will rank along with those of other cities of similar size in any portion of the Dominion. THE MINING CAMP.

The fascination which clings to life in a mining town arises from the existence of possibilities which at any time may develop into living actuali-Mittle for the average man to look for pected that we will get mail in about paign. His method of living resolves itself eventually into a sort of mechanical process which borders closely upon the automatic. The spirit of the times is against the realization of any great ambitions which he may cherish, and once he thoroughly comprehends this lact his life becomes largely a matter of mere routine.

In the atmosphere of a mining camp, the conditions are entirely different," There, it is that hope, which some one has said springs eternal in the human trade. Santa Claus will be as much in breast, has full sway. The man who evidence in Dawson, from all indicatoday walks the street without a dollar may be the millionaire tomorrow, and in that possibility lies the explanation of the whole matter.

True it is that not in one case out of a hundred does any such thing occur, this week at which time Commissioner Of the tens of thousands of men who have followed the mining stampedes cient teacher. Sister Mary Edith, is of the past half century, the really fortunate ones have been remarkably few. But what of that? It is the province of every man to believe that sooner or later he is to be counted among the lucky minority; that he has been selected by the gods for the bestowal of special favors, and that fickle fortune must in the end turn her smiles in his direction.

Thus he lives on and hopes on unmindful of the failure of others and looking forward to the day when hope deferred will become hope realized.

His life is neither commonplace nor humdrum. He does not move in a rut nor does dull routine reduce him to an automaton. He is a man with expectations and a man with expectations is always interesting if not to others at least to himself.

The atmosphere of the mining camp it is difficult to withdraw from its inmen and yet in the whole there is more is a roughness about the life which may grate on the nerves of the aesthetic but which constitute real, robust manhood it cannot be excelled.

There are several sides to be considered in determining the advisability of transforming Dawson into an incorporated municipality. The affairs of the town are well handled at the present time, and aside from natural opposition to the prevailing system of local government few people have any particular objections to offer. A Good Snake Story.

The latest authentic snake story is from North Glenwood Farm, near Easton, one of the country places in Talbot county, Md. The other day a big black snake was seen emerging from an ice pond. It was killed. A protuberance was noticed about the middle. The snake was chopped in two, and a porcelain turkey nest egg rolled out. Captain Noble Robinson was tenant on the farm last year. Mrs. Robinson raised turkeys, using china eggs in their nests. She says that 14 months ago she missed the nest egg from a nest near the ice pond. She supposed a boy who had the range of the meadow had taken it. When the egg from the snake was shown to Mrs. Robinson, she identified it as one she had lost by a certain incised mark upon it. The snake had carried the china egg 14 months in his vermiform appendix, apparently without appendicitis. But he must have thought very hard of it and that it was very singular that it could not be digested.

Countries That Teach Gardening. School gardens were established in Belgium many years ago, and it is said that to them is due the prosperity of the rural population, the larger portion being engaged in truck gardening. After the introduction of agriculture into the public schools of France, by a law passed in 1885 school gardens increased in that country. Annual appropriations have been devoted to an extension of the system in Switzerland since

And Their Troubles Here Which Ended in a Shooting

Exhibition at Short Range in San Francisco-They Often Scrapped for Fun.

The troubles of Dr. Goode and Whitey Moore having culminated in San Francisco by Moore's taking a couple of ineffectual shots at the physician, whose treatment of his eyes Moore objected to, on the ground that a tooth brush was not calculated to improve the eyesight and had no place in an oculist's outfit anyway, has fled to considerable talk about town, and the recalling to mind of many things which transpired when Dr. Goode was treating Moore's eyes before he lost one ofthem in the Good Samaritan hospital later, and just previous to his departure from here.

It was just before the appointment of Dr. McArthur to succeed Dr. Goode as health officer that the latter was confined to his room for some time by reason, as it was commonly reported about town, of a too free indufgence in the ardent spirit familiarly spoken of as hootch. There was another reason, or rather two of them, according to Moore. for the doctor's seclusion, and these were sombre. They were two badly bruised eyes, commonly spoken of as black, and had been caused by Moore, who in the statement made to a Nugget reporter at the time had found it necessary to chastise the doctor, or be himself wolloped, and all because the doctor was drunk and insisted upon giving Whitey some instruction in the manly

At the time, notwithstanding these little spats which were of frequent occurrence, the two were fast friends, and although Moore told the Nugget man of their troubles he was careful to stipulate before hand that the information was not for publication, as, he explained: "The doctor is a good fellow, and a good doctor if he would only let hootch alone and attend to business, and I wouldn't say anything against him for the world. "

It seems, however, that even his friendship for Dr. Goode could not stand the loss of an eye and the treatment of the other one with a tooth brush, and so he went gunning.

It is a pretty generally conceded opinion here among those who know the parties that the only reason a tooth brush was used instead of a mon-

"His lordship, by the way, a nice title for a man who would take advantage of a friend, came up with me last year, and after looking over the property purchased ten of my quartz claims on the continuation of he Anaconda division, knowing at the time that the crown surveyor had made a mistake and had included three of my claims in the ten sold to him. What His Mither Would Say. 'A poor old Scotsman, who could no longer till his "wee bit land," was obliged to accept the kindly proffered hospitality of some English friends. On the day of his arrival they, thinking he would enjoy it, procured some cress, which was added to the luxuries already on the table. The poor man accustomed all his ilfe to a fare of the plainest kind, hesitated to partake of such a decided novelty as cress, and was induced to try it only by fear of hurting his hostess' feelings. In a short time she noticed that tears were coursing down Andrews' cheeks, and inquiring elicited this reply:

"I'm thinking what ma puir mither would say gin she could see her son eating grass like a coo!"

Editor Nugget:

Sir-In reading your weekly issue of December 13th, I notice an editorial from the Daily Nugget of December 12th under the caption "A Word to Mr. Wilson."

In reply allow me to state that I have always refrained from airing my personal affairs or opinions through the press, although possibly you may agree with me when I say, there have been times since the late elections in this territory when I have had righteous cause for so doing. And there may not be any room for argument between us, when I say I have had cause to seek redress before a higher tribunal than the public press. But, sir, this has nothing to do with the question in hand.

First of all permit me to correct a slight error on your part when you. speak of any local newspaper as my "own personal organ;" there is no such article in existence. I have no strings on any newspaper, neither has any newspaper strings on me.

Speaking of holdups, Dr. J. N. E. Brown tells a thrilling story of a Quaker who was stopped in a lonely wood by an Irish bandit, who, thrusting a revolver in the other's face, gave him the option of handing over his money or losing his life then and there.

"Mine friend!" answered the Quaker, 'if thou robbest me thou art a thief and it thou slayest me thou are a murderer; take, I pray thee my money and I will take the weapon; then thou wilt have what thou cravest without thee being either a thiet or a murderer.'

POLICE COURT NEWS.

For the first time in many days has the monotony of the police court been broken by the old and once common charge—"drunk and disorderly." Yet that charge was heard this morning and the electric lights in the courtroom were a more brilliant hue when it was being read, as it foretold the return of the good old times when it was a poor session of police court that was not good for fully half a column of "hot stuff." Speaking of hot stuff, there is a beautiful little poem that says!

Kate and Molly on the beach, Talking gossip folly; The wind blew cold around Kate's ears, But the sand was hot tomale.

All of which has nothing to do with All of which has nothing to do with the fact that Duncan Cameron got drunk last night and interfered with the games at the Aurora No. 1. Constable Borrows appeared on the scene and Duncan was taken to the skookum house, after which the white-winged dove of peace spread her pinions over the place where the little ball goes round and large fortunes are frequently won by the judicious ase of "markers," "coppers" and other gaming para-"coppers" and other gaming para-phernalia. In court this morning Dunphernalia. In court this morning Dun-can pleaded guilty and Magistrate Scarth brought the case to a speedy termination by saying "Ten dollars and costs." Duncan dug up the "roll," paid the bill and stepped into the irongray winter morning.

Wm. Nagle thought he was entitled to $150 for leaving Whtehorse as a sailor before the mast of a scow en route to Dawson which paused and still lingers on a bar (a sand bar) near Selkirk.
