FIRE DAMAGE $60,000 AT M'LAREN'S, LTD.

Hamilton Coffee and Spice Mills Burned.

Firemen Had a Long and Hard Job.

Thomas Bell Had Leg Broken by Nozzle.

A disastrous blaze, which, it is estimated, did between $60,000 and $65,000 damage, broke out on Saturday afternoon in the McLaren Coffee & Spice Co.'s building, Macnab street, between Main and King, and it took four or five hours of good hard work to get it completely under. Two employees were at work in the building at the time the fire broke out, but did not know that there was such a thing as a fire in the place, Passers-by were the first to notice the blaze and some young boys ran to Constable J. Duncan at the corner of King and James streets, and told him of the blaze, and he quickly sent the alarm in from the C. P. R. ticket office. A minute or two was lost in transmitting the alarm, but this did not make a great deal of difference, as the fire was close at hand. The blaze completely filled the cellar by the time the firemen arrived, and it is estimated that the fire was going at least 25 minutes before the alarm was sent in. It is thought to have originated in the vicinity of the boiler in the ed in the vicinity of the boiler in the cellar in the northwest part of the building, and from there it quickly spread through machinery and the elevator shaft till it arrived at the roof and all the floors were in a blaze from top to bottom. A fire wall cut the south half of the building off from the north part, and this saved probably twice as much loss as was suffered. In putting the elevator in, however, a space was left open in the fire wall on the top floor, and some damage was done by the fire getting through there.

The firm is fairly well insured, and will go on with business at once, as the stock in the south half of their building was practically unhurt and is said to be the most valuable. In the south part of the building there was a lot of alcohol in the extract room, but this was not reached by the fire. There was a stream close to it, and the men were watching for the fire to break through the wall. The blaze was fought from every side, and three steamer streams did fine work, two from the new steamer on King the stream and one from the old one, which cellar in the northwest part of the build

The blaze was fought from every side, and three steamer streams did fine work, two from the new steamer on. King street, and one from the old one, which was stationed on Main street. One of the new steamer lines was worked from the roof of the Duncan Lithographing Co., where it had been hoisted outside by a rope, and this was played through the windows and on the roof, doing great work. After working for almost two hours the word was passed to the chief that the roof was settling, and all the men were ordered out. Numb with the cold and half suffocated, they were some little time in getting to the ladders and reaching the ground, but the alarm was fortunately a false one, and only the centre of the roof went in, and it took little but charred embers with it. Between ten and twelve lines were laid into the burning building, and one was operated from the street.

There was some trouble with the line on the old steamer, which would not stand the pressure that Engineer Omand was giving it, and it broke twice. It was some time, before the first break was discovered, and the firemen lost a lot of time, not knewing what was wrong. Hase jackets were soon applied, however, but not before the erowd in the vicinity had got a good dueking. The crowd was troublesome (Continued on page 5.)

In the case of the death of Joseph cummings the police had little to say to lay. Cummings the police had little to say tofamily of the unfortunate victim, and the boyish prisoner, Kirkpatrick, who is being held for the verdict of the coro-ner's jury, is the subject of both sympathy and pity. The concensus of opinion is not to excuse his act if it is true that he stabbed Cummings as has been described, but to attribute the act to his being overcome by anger in the heat of a fight. The delay in getting medical assistance is attributed to the belief that in Cummings' side, which is the one which caused his death, was not discovered for hours after it had been inflicted. It is believed that if the presence of this wound had been known at first the young man's life might have been saved.

Relief Officer McMenemy was not satisfied with the information he was able to gather himself about the 119 foreigners who were said to be freezing and starving around the city, and he had Budimir Protich, the well known interpreter, make an investigation. Mr. Protich called on Mayor Stewart at noon to-day, and said he had reason to believe that as far as some of the foreigners were concerned it was a put up job. He said that at some of the houses where it was stated that a large number of men were out of work, as a mate ter of fact, they were nearly all working, with one or two exceptions. places where the men are not working, he says it is partly because they do not want to. They made enough money during the summer to keep them all winter. One of the boarding bosses, he declared, told him laughingly yesterday that as long as the city supplied him that as long as the city supplied him with coal and provisions he could save all his money. Mr. Protich says that all the men in this house are working except two fellows, who have saved up considerable money and do not want to work during the cold weather. Another man on the list he says paid $2,000 for a house last summer. The authorities have decided as a result of Mr. Protich's story that they will be careful in dealing out charity to foreigners.

In view of the terrible disaster at Boyertown, Pa., at a moving picture entertainment and two recent explosions in Ontario towns, some anxiety has been felt about precautions taken here to guard against fire and panie. Building Inspector Anderson declared this morning that there was little danger of any such trouble here. There are about half a dozen of these amusement places, and he says they are particularly well provided with fire escapes, each one having a rear exit. The moving picture machines, in addition, are encases in boxes, covered with asbestos, and they are practically all equipped with an automatic device, which would prevent more than a foot or so of the celluloid film burning. It is admitted, however, that there is nothing in the building laws governing these places. It is also admitted that the building by-laws in Hamilton are badly in need of revision in this and other respects. In view of the terrible disaster at Colonel Fairlie had followed ber. Even as that anguished cry left her lips he put out strong, authoritative hands and drew Loraine away from the rector, taking her icy-cold hands into the firm grasp of his.

"Miss Lisle!" the rector exclaimed, in alarm; and the frightened girl turned arms about his neck, forgetting everything but her unreasoning terror, and still shricking so wildly that it brought to the scene—Colone! sureKing so wildly that it brought others rushing to the scene—Colonel Fairlie and Vivian Vane, who, as she saw Loraine clinging with passionate abandon to her husband, thought, with a thrill of despair, of last night's dream. CHAPTER X.

CHAPTER X.

It was a strange and thrilling tableau on which Colonel Fairlie and his lovely companion gazed. There in the flood of silvery moonlight was the scene of Vivian's dream; the green, mossy bank the rippling water wandering like; a silver thread in devious ways through Arcady; here and there the rich green shrubbery and tall treas and to complete the rehere and there the rich green shrubbery and tall trees; and to complete the re-semblance, there was Paul Vane inclos-ed in Loraine Lisle's arms, just as the serpent had coiled about him—the ser-pent that had suddenly changed into haughty heiress. Here, too, were Colonel Fairlie and herself, just as in that start-ling dream. In the distance was the sound of music and here against, the dark shrubberies the exister of fire-flies sound of music and here against dark shrubberies the glitter of fire glancing in the gloom, while over a flood of silvery moonlight poured

A sweet, mocking laugh startled them from their absorption in each other, and, starting apart, they saw Loraine Lisle and her friends advancing through the quaint, old-fashioned garden, with its winding walks and trees whose green boughs interlaced overhead, while the dancing sunshine sifting through made a lying mosaic of light and shade on the proposal of light ber of the bitter wore this woman was to bring into her life. She tried to wask steadily to greet Loraine, but her head swam, and she almost reeled as she went forward to greet the imperious heirers. "How pale you are looking this morning, Mrs. Vanne:" Loraine's voice had so strange a tone that Colonel Fairlie, who was walking by her side, looked quickly at the rector's fair young wife, and saw that the heiress had spoken the truth. The blue eyes that had been so bright and arch when they last met were dark and grave with some inexplicable pain, and her samile, as she met them was and insteadof joyous. What was it't he wondered; for had he not seen her a moment ago with her husband's arm about her, and her head upon his breast? Surely, she could not be unhappy, she who loved and was beloved so tenderly, "You received cards for our lawnparty next week?" Loraine said present; y, with her psetty, patronizing air—just the air proper from the heiress of Lisle to the rector's pretty, simple wife, "You wondered," in the psetty, patronizing air—just the air proper from the heiress of Lisle to the rector's pretty, simple wife, "You wondered," in a stern voice that recalled and her head and some with the shadows, believe me, Miss Lisle," anxiously.

CHAPTER IX.

Aready is one blaze of light. The beautiful grounds are lighted up with colored lanterns; statues and fountains gleam in the garden lights that fall upon them, and the harvest moon floats resplendena in the blue, heavens. To-night is Miss Lisle's lawn-party, and all Aready is enfect. The gentlemen are sauntering about, or waiting in the huge, wide half for the ladies to appear. Upstairs in my lady's boudoir all is confusion. Dresses lie strewn about in disorder; silks, sa, ins, laces, jewels glitter in the light; for Loraine Lisle is very hard to please, and she means to look her best to-night. The spectre has not appeared to her again, and all fear of it has passed from her mind as she clasps the splendid jewels on her throat and arms, and, gazing proudly in the mirror, thinks of the name by which Colonel Fairlie had called her—"Queen of Hearts."

Her superb form is draped in a close fitting gown of white brocade flowered with great crimson roses, and great, glowing rubies clasp her throat and arms—a splendid foil for her dark, Oriental beauty.

Annie, the little maid who had assisted at the decking of this goddess of beauty, clasped her hands in delight. "Oh, Miss Loraine! I pity all the men who will see you to-night. You take my breath away!" she cried; and the prond coquette smiled. Even the admiration of this humble girl was balm to her vanity.

"No one will rival me to-night; no one can!" she thought, exultantly, as she turned to go down to receive her quests, who were beginning to arrive.

In the hall she was joined by the guests of the house, and a new one who had arrived that morning from Chicago—Miss Josephine Thoraton, a plump brunctte with lovely blue-grey yess. The young widow, Mrs. Aubrey, had aiready descended, and was engaged in a desperate flirtation with Colone Fairlie, who looked up with a sigh of intense relief as the best of the house, and a new one who looked up with a sigh of intense pressible pain in it. She moved away through the moonlight by her husband's side, a tall, white, graceful shape which the soldier's eyes followed with eager admiration, then was lost to sight in the winding path. Only then did he turn toward Loraine.

"You are better?" he asked, sinking into a seat by her side and carring with "You are better?" he asked, sinking into a seat by her side, and gazing with cold, calm eyes into her pale face.

"So you recall my existence at last?" she flashed, bitterly. "Think you, Colonel Fairlie, that Mr. Vane would have relished seeing you follow with a lover's gaze his wife's fair form until it faded from sight?"

gaze his wife's fair form until it faded from sight?"

"As much as his wife relished the embrace in which your arms held her husband when we came suddenly on you just now, Miss Lisle."

She writhed under the keen, cutting raillery of his tone, and cried:

"But that was explained by my fright. Really I was not conscious of what I did, in my horror of the spectre that appeared to me yonder in the opening of the trees."

"So, then, you really did see a ghost, Miss Lisle?"

"Did I not say so repeatedly?" she "Did I not say so repeatedly?" she cried, indignantly.

"True; but I believed you in jest. I thought you invented the spectre to account to Mrs. Vane for the situation in which she found her husband."
Her dark eyes blazed with wrath.
"How dare you!" she cried, angrily.
"What can you mean!"

"Then she paled again. "I did see something," she whispered, fearfully. "It was a dead man. There was a dead stare in his fixed blue eyes: on his fair, white brow was a bloody stain. mad, that I am haunted thus? wailed Loraine, suddenly dropping her ghastly face in her jeweled hands.

On the stern, handsome face looking at her there was no faintest trace of pity—only bitter exultation. He smiled sarcastically as he said:

of Hearts?"

He saw her shrink and shiver, but went on, pitilessly: "Who, indeed, unless some poor wretch, who had gone mad for love of her fatal charms and died? Are there any such on your lists, Miss Liale, and was the face you saw a familiar one?"

LONDON TIMES NOT SOLD.

Negotiations Had Been in Progress, But No Sale Was Effected.

London, Jan. 18.—Apparently a hitch has occurred in the reorganization of The Times, which on Jan. 6, it was announced had passed from the control of the Walter family to a new company, with C. Arthur Pearson as managing with C. Arthur Pearson as managing director. A paragraph appears in The Times this morning stating that no sale has been effected and that the previous statement only referred to the negotiations that were in progress.

Clews' Report.

New York, Jan. '18.—The stock market has now enjoyed a recovery of from 10 to 20 points in the active shares and a still further advance in some of the specialties. As explained in our previous advices, this was the natural seous advices, this was the natural sequence of improvement in the monetary situation and the uncovering of a large short interest. All panies have been followed by an advance of considerable duration, setting in usually as soon as the disturbance of monetary conditions the disturbance of monetary conditions subsides. The period of recovery generally varies, extending over several months and accompanied by more or less irregularity and occasional recessions. The present recovery has been exceedingly rapid and somewhat corresponds to the suddenness and severity of the panic itself. The fact that recuperation has been so prompt and energetic demonstrates that the crisis revealed no unsoundness or grave disturbance in ation has been so prompt and energetic demonstrates that the crisis revealed no unsoundness or grave disturbance in general conditions. The panie was chiefly financial, and mainly due to the continue of capital from liquid into fixed forms. The storm which began in October has, however, immensely clarified the financial situation. It is quite evident that general business has not been seriously hurt by the late and the continue for a period at least. Readjustment is almost as inevitable. If not quite as necessary, in the merchandise markets as in the security markets.

A great deal is being made of the very poor railroed earnings now being made public. Nearly all of the roads are reporting large decreases in both gross and net. It is also said that 10 ner cent. Of the freight cars in the United States are out of employment.

One of the most satisfactory features is the improvement in the foreign mone-tary outlook.—Henry Clews.

Stocks and Bonds

Mr. Reeves and Mr. Theaker went to Toronto this morning to consult with Mr. J. J. O'Donohue, solicitor for the labor organizations in Toronto, who acted for the Toronto Street Railwaymen's Union in the trouble there a few months ago in regard to the dismissal of four men.

While Mr. Theaker has said that he has no desire to be re-engaged by the company, the union men think it is of importance to the union that an investigation should be held. They look upon the dismissal as an attempt to break up the organization.

OUR CANADIAN WINTER.

Glorious indeed is the Canadian winter, that period of the year when Nature, tired with her generous productive efforts, draws over her a great mantle of spotless white, and couches herself to onate and invigorate for the creative work of the new spring. Of course there are those less red-blooded people who see only stagnation and hardship in the white season. They shiver when the mercury seeks shelter near the bulb; anamatize the occasional north winds, which stir the vast expanse of fleecy whiteness into tourbillions of biting flakes or piercing needles of cold and block the highways with drifts, and they chafe at enforced seclusion betimes be side the crackling wood fire or the comfortable coal stove. They see no joy, no poetry, in the enshrouded landscape, every eyesore thereon painted out by Nature's artist hand. The dun or stormy days to them obscure Nature's beautiful panorama of a world under azure sky and bright sun, or moon and stars, dres ed in a robe scintillating with untold millions of diamonds. They take no enjoyment out of our winter sports, which bring healthy glow to the cheek, hastre to the eye, and keenness to the appetite. They do not even appreciate winter's advantages to locomotion; they would rather be spattered, wheeled through mud, than slide along to the joyful jingle of the sleigh bells. In short, they view the months of winter as so much lost to

This is a distorted view, and to those who hold it causes much loss. Our winter season is the natural complement of our bountiful autumn. Not only that, factories to make life almost unbearable but its own advantages are not proportionately less. That Canadians, who are best able to judge, appreciate this fact, is shown by the solicitude manifested by many of them in this part of Ontario because of increasing mildness and brevity of the winters. Some of little faith seem to fear that we shall suffer because thereof. Hence we have had such saws as "A green Christmas makes a fat churchyard," "A mild winter before an empty grain bin," and so on. But experience goes to prove that the promise of continued seed time and harvest each in its turn may still be relied upon.

And, really, severe and protracted winters with deep snow falls are not so important to the prosperity of this part ago, when to many a great part of their living was obtained from the forest. Frost sufficient to close the swamps, and ing tricks and practical jokes without snow to make logging operations easy, were factors of the first importance to enable the work of the winter to be done. With the disappearance of the ments would be only doing their duty forest resources, the necessity for winter if they would see that none of their severity is no longer felt. Of course the getting of our sleighing in "one stretch hands of their fellow workmen. of weather," avoids much annoyance caused by having to change from wheels to sleigh, time after time, and in other ways is probably generally preferred. But it is very much to be doubted whether city dwellers, as well as those of the farming districts, would not prefer a moderate, steady winter with considerable snowfall. The snow is nature's protection to the herbage. The farmer likes to see his crops covered with a snow mantle. Not only are they protected from winter-killing frosts, but the land is absorbing a reserve supply of moisture against the heat of the summer. Moreover, a supply of water for his stock is being provided. In a season when fall wheat, clover, etc., are exposed to repeated severe frosts and alternate thaws, much injury is apt to occur. The earth is the mother of the weeds; some one has said she is only the stepmother of the plants. However that may be, there is no doubt that the weeds seem better constituted to stand the heaving process the Executive pause in its efforts to which frost and thaw involve. Observe ow mallows, burdocks, rumex, thistles etc. cling to the earth, while red clover is heaved out even to the rootlets. The farmers like the snow's protection. Even in our orchards, where sleet storms occasionally cause some injury, by break ing limbs and even trees, the account is not all one-sided. Indeed, many horticulturists have come to believe that the balance is on the side of profit, and that the destruction wrought to the army of war greatly exceeds the loss caused

PUBLIC HALLS.

Newspapers all over the continent of America are commenting and moralizing on the great Boyertown tragedy, whereby so many persons were hurried into eternity through a panic caused by fire. Unstairs halls where entertainments are given are geing generally condemned as dangerous when anything goes wrong sufficient to cause alarm in the minds of the people who make up the audien exits almost always prove deficient in the face of a panic. Doors and stair-

It is not so important that there should be mapy exits as that the main exit should be ample even for a crowd. There is not be ample even for a crowd. There is not when the complete the complete the complete that the main exit should be ample even for a crowd. There is not use the many exits as that the main exit should be ample even for a crowd. There is not the complete that the complete the complete that the complete the complete that t much thinking in an audience when a hall takes fire. The majority of people act from a blind instinct of terror. They The majority of people make for the entrance they came in by. It may be an easy jump from second storey windows to the ground, but few of the frightened people think of win dows unless the stairs are on fire. There may be several fire escapes, but peopl in a panic do not think of them. They try to get out where they came in. There are fire escapes in Hamilton by which it would be impossible to coax women and children to descend even in broad daylight, instead of expecting them to make the descent in the dark of night, and when crazed with fear. There are also halls and other places in this city which are regular fire traps, and the authorities must know of this. Some stairs leading to them are narrow and winding, and the escapes would require an acrobat to descend them, and it would take too long to empty a hall by their means. The City Council can make no mistake to order a thorough investigafactories within a year caused by fooling among the workmen or "running" upon those not supposed to be as well able to take care of themselves as were the others. Statements have been made that it is a common practice in some to those unfortunate enough to become the butt of thoughtless men and boys. They are teased and annoyed and worried out of pure devilment, and to make fun for the others. It is considered smart to take a "rise" out of these poor fellows, and those who do it think they are superior sort of persons. Now, as a matter of fact, the man who takes delight in such practices is a mean, contemptible fellow, although he may not think it. To take pleasure out of making others miserable shows a perverted disposition and a moral depravity that should be frowned down by all right thinking working men. We know that there are domineering, ill-tempered, illconditioned men to be found in all often capable of doing more harm even other. ## BIG CAMPAIGN FOR MISSIONS

Opened in Methodist Churches of City Yesterday.

Series of Special Services Begun in Gospel Tabernacle.

St. Catharines Minister in Wentworth Baptist Church.

In the Methodist Churches of the city the annual missionary campaign was begun yesterday. This church in Canada, by its special effort of a year ago, very largely increased its missionary givings and this year it has set out to make a still greater advance. The total contri-butions for the church in Canada for last year were $377,144.85, The Hamilton Conference raised $60,521.62, an increase of $6.592.95 over 1906. Hamilton district contributed $13,540.33, of which Centen ary Church raised $2,636.36 and $1,000 for Pakan Hospital; Wesley $1,058.35 and $1,494 for Chentu College and Hos pital; First $1,646.93; Gore $575; Zion $1,093; Simcoe $430; Charlton $644; Emerald $346; Barton $572, and Crown Point $32.50. In most of the churches of the city yesterday special missionary sermons were preached, and the special collections will be taken up either next or the following Sunday.

In First Methodist.

Rev. R. R. Nicholson, of Toronto preached at both services in First Meth reached at both services in First Methodist Church. The congregations were large. Mr. Nicholson is a young man who gave up a splendid position at a large salary, and with bright prospects, to go into the mission work. He is an unusually able speaker, clear and convincing up style and presenting the simple truths of the gospel with great earnestness and force. He spoke last evening from the most familiar of all texts, John iii. 18, "For God so loved the wornd that He gave His only begotten Son that who soever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." He dealt with the Giver, the reason for the gift, the gift itself, the condition and the promise that went with it. His sermon was, rich in illustrations and incidents and made a deep impression.

In connection with the missionary campaign a laymen's meeting was held in Zion Tabernacle last evening, and was very largely attended. Principal Stewart, of the Sophia street school, was in the chair, and the service was opened with prayer by Mr. William Strongman.

Dr. Davey was the first speaker, and his topic was "Gratitude," based on Luke xvit. 41. His address was a vey interesting one. The text is the one of the incident of the text list he one of the incident of the ten lepers who were cleaned by Christ, and only one returned to thank the Saviour. He spoke of how we could show our gratitude by giving to missions, and thus glorify God. "How little, if anything, the majority of the church members give to missions," he said. "Its the small-half who give, and the bulk among us don't give anything. The ones who don't give are like the nine lepers who were cleaned and failed to lepers who were cleansed and failed to return thanks to the Saviour." He said that if these who gave to missions last year gave the same amount this year, and those who did not give any last year used those who did not give any last year were to give five cents a week, the church would give $2,000 to missions instead of the $1.000 it gave last year.

Mr. J. S. Harker took as his text Matthew vi. 22: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth very same devil will not be content with one's ruin, but will drag them to further destruction, after once getting them in his power. God does everything in His power. God does everything in His power to keep men and women out of wickedness, but the mair or woman who refuses to believe the love of Jesus Christ, must surely share the torments of hell. No man or woman knows what peace is until he or she has learned who Jesus Christ, is, and what He can do. God knows the worst of sinners, but He is at all times ready and willing to show them mercy, and take them to His heart and make them heirs of Himself. For what reason does He do this? Simply because Jesus paid the price of all, men's sins on Calvary. "There has never been an age when people are spending so much time in dancing, drinking and merrymaking." declared Dr. Gabelein, "and I believe that the day of judgment is soon to arrive and call the people of the present age to account for the sins and misdeeds they have committed."

Dr. Gabelein said that it was impossible for a man to save himself from the throes of destruction, but with God all things are possible. The gift of God is eternal life, and the only way to receive it was to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

In closing, Dr. Gabelein said that time selves treasures on earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, but lay up for yourself treasures in Heaven., where moth and rust do not corrupt and where thieves do not break through and steal." it was to believe in the Christ.

In closing, Dr. Gabelein said that time did not figure in the saving of men's souls for Jesus Christ. It might take days or years, or it might take but a few minutes. He urged all people within the hearing of his voice to take Jesus as the personal Saviour and Master.

session." In the evening Mr. J. D. Keenleyside, of London, was the speaker. He took his text from Genesis, second chapter and twelfth verse, "The gold of that land is good." All gold is equally valuable, when text from tenests, seed of that land is good." All gold is equally valuable, whether in the mountain undiscovered or in one's pocket after it has been made into coin. The difference of its value is simply in, its position. Some years ago a man coming home from the mines was caught in a storm at sea. He was a good swimmer, and he fastened his belt of gold, dust around him and tried to swim to safety, but his gold carried him down, to the sharks. His gold was an injury, even his ruin. Another miner coming home with his thousands was also caught in a storm at sea, when he took all, his gold and, placing it on a table, said, "Any man who can get me to safety can have it all." No one accepted the offer—his gold was worthless. Another man, in a small hut, hoarded his gold; could not trust the banks or any one giese, but hid his wealta in out of the way places, where he thought it would take it out and count it, which any one else, but hid his wealth in out of the way places, where he thought it would not be found. Occasionally he would take it out and count it, which was all he got out of it save the mere pittance he would spend for the actual necessities to keep life in his body. His gold was of little value to him.

Two young ladies took their gold and turned it into food and carried it to a poor, needy woman with a number of small children, greatly to the jov of all, but especially to themselves. Their gold brought pleasure and happiness to the needy, and also to the givers. Years ago some men put their gold into active survice, and sent a man to a cannibal island, and to-day, the island is Christian and the people are contributing more to land, and to-day the island is Christian and the people are contributing more to send the gospel to others than many wealthier and more numerous communities. Their gold was valuable beyond compare. Many of us have put our money into stocks, and we have the satisfaction of seening the stocks decline till some of them are not even quoted on the stock market. But all who put their gold into Christ's work of exampling the world will find it quoted in the years to come at a great premium in the stock records of God's Kingdom. "I was hungry and ye fed me; I was thirsty and ye gave me drink," etc. "Inasmuch as

Sunday School, in which he explained that Christ himself appeared as a great teacher rather than a great preacher. Wesley's name was largely known because he organized a method of teaching. In the evening he treated as his theme I Corinthians 3, 9. He pointed to nature to show God's power. It is God's brush; he said, that paints the sunset and colors the flowers with beauty, and makes all nature glad to those who can discern. God does not do all things, but works in co-operation with man. Man sows the seed and tills the soil, and God sends the sunshine and rain that it may bring forth crops. If we are given power we should not hesitate to work, but while we are working we should not forget that all is for the Master. We are given six days for work and one for rest. If we could have gone years ago to Nazareth and looked into the workshop where Christ was we would have found him in the garb, of a carpenter, the whole shop would have been filled not only with the smell of the wood, but of the spirit of God. Thus Christ worked, and worked cheerfully, since all was for God. Some people look upon work as an evil because it makes them labor, but we should rest upon God and He will do His part if we do ours. The most important work God has in this world is that of saving souls and they should have as much care as the body.

In closing his address Mr. Bates expressed as his opinion that if we felt that we are with God we will do our work well. He concludes, as a result of his studies of this class of meteorites, that they came originally from a volcano situated in some distant part of space, but that before reaching the earth they were subjected to great heat which metamorphosed their structure. To explain thise he suggests that in the course of their celestal journey they may have passed through the atmosphere of a sun, or may have been fused through the sudden birth of a new and neighboring star. The heat developed during their fall through our atmosphere is not sufficient to explain the changes they have undergone.

at times, and the police had hard work keeping them outside the lines, as they crowded through every available alley into the street and directly opposite the fire. There were five ladders in the front, three on the two lower floors and two of the new truss ladders to the third floor, and a line was laid on each. Another line was put into the cellar. The firemen had an awful time with the smoke, which was full of the odor of burning pepper and spices, and as soon as a front window was opened the wind from the east drove it out in choking volumes, so that the men were compelled to work by feeling, and keep their eyes and mouths shut. One line used from the road on MacNab street threw great quantities of water into the building and did excellent work. Except for the one break in the fire, wall, where the elevator covering was put on, the fire was completely blockaded and did not get near the south half of the building. Little blaze was seen from the street, except in the cellar, but it took more water to extinguish the fire than many big fires of recent years. In the cellar the men were working in water almost up to their waists, which was at an uncomfortably cool temperature. The new steamer worked better than ever, and Engineer MacDonald got strong persure out of it. Several wagon loads of coal were used by the two steamers.

The line on the street in front of the burning building caused a great deal of trouble, as there were few men who were not inside the building. Once it got away and knocking several of the men down, struck a farmer on the leg and snapped the bone like a pipe stem. The men had to gather together in a body and jump on the hose to get it under control again. The injured farmer was taken to the City Hospital, where the fracture was reduced. He gave his name as Thomas Bell, of Glanford Station.

The fire was under control in about two hours after the work first started, and several hours later it was completely out, but two lines were left in the building ready to turn on in case any smouldering snots were discovered. The watch was taken away before midnight, when it was judged that everything was safe for the night. The nolice placed extra men around the building will not amount to more than $8,000 or $10,000, and the rest will be on the stock, which was metable by the water, which ran in rivers.

Mr. W. H. McLaren, President of the Company, was at North Bay, and did not return till yesterday morning, when he at once went to the ruins, and he it was who estimated the loss as $865,000. Wilkinson & Kompass and the Duncau Lithographing Co. will probably have claims for flooded cellars, as the broken hose poured streams of water into the road, which soon started for the cellars, as there is not a sign of a trench cert at the sides of the road. After the water was mostly gone a few men were sent to cut trenches.

water was mostly gone a few men were sent to cut trenches.

The firm and Chief TenEyck speak highly in praise of the work done by the men, and the Chief wishes to thank the firm for so kindly supplying sandwiches and coffee. Hot coffee was supplied in plenty, and it was the right stuff, being judged the best stimulant for a man working in smoke, cold or heat. Several outsiders did good work at the fire, but the Chief did not call for asistance, as he had to at the last big fire. The wires in the alley north of the building prevented the raising of a ladder on that side, where it was badly needed, but the Duncan Company loaned their roof, for which the Chief is grateful. The wires being cut caused delay at the Spectator and Herald offices.

The wreck of the building this morning when gone over showed how well the firemen had worked. A large number of little partitioned rooms prevented them from getting at the heart of the fire, but from getting at the heart of the fire, but it was stopped beautifully before it reached the back of the south side of the building. Salvage work will commence as soon as the insurance valuators get through, and if is expected that a great deal of the stuff will be saved. Chief TenEyek, after examining the spot where the fire is thought to have started, said that it had better be classed as unknown, as there were electric wires and machinery and a boiler all bunched together, any of which might have started the fire.

In response to questions from Mr. Littleton, the witness told again, but more briefly than last year, of her experience in the 24th street house, where she was taken to lunch with Stanford White, and drank champagne and became dizzy. She told again of the velvet swing and the mirrored room, and the big Japanese parasol attached to the ceiling.

"Every time you were swung up to the ceiling your feet would crash through the paper of the parasol," said the witness, "and a fresh one would be pro-

Evidently induced by Mr. Jerome's constant objections and his manner of interrupting his square-shouldered figure immediately between her and her husband, Mrs. Thaw's voice had a tone of womanly defiance in it that was lacking at the first trial, and that did not add to the effectiveness of her recital.

When the prosecutor occasionally would take his seat, Thaw would gaze intently at his wife, fixing her with a constant stare. Mrs. Thaw said it was the day after she had gone with Stanford White to a studio in East 2nd street to have some photographs taken in costume, that she received a note from him, asking her to lunch with a party at the 24th street house after the theatre. "When we got to the house there was no one there except Mr. White and myself." continued the witness, "and he said. They have all turned me down, but, never mind, well have our supper, and then I'll show you all over the house. You have never seen it."

Mrs. Thaw's voice broke at last, when she tokl of all that happened, and she went on with some difficulty. Thaw broke down completely, and wept into his handkerchief, which he held constantly to his eyes.

Mr. Littleton attempted to assist Mrs. Thaw when she was in difficulty, and seemed about to cry, but the harsh tones of the District Attorney's voice raised in objection, seemed to give her all the strength or stimulus she required, and composure quickly reasserted itself.

Mr. Littleton argued that the story of the early life of the witness of her hardships and the poverty of her family, had a great deal to do with impressing Thaw with the truth of her story and thus had a direct effect as to inducing insanity.

Upon this presention of the matter, Justice Dowling reversed his former ruling and allowed the witness to proceed. Mrs. Thaw said she was 15 years old when she came to New York and 16 when she came to New York and 16 when she came to New York and 16 when she met Stanford White. NONE OF THE SOVEREIGN BANK DIRECTORS SOLD STOCK.

Public Take News Quietly-There Was No Sign of a Run at Any of the Outof-Town Branches.

Toronto, Jan. 20 .- "I am no prophet, ut we have done the very best thing ossible under the circumstance to safeguard the interests of the shareholders."

This was the statement made yesterday regarding those who had a financial interest in the business of the Sovereign Bank. As the surprise occasioned by the news of the absorption Saturday morning passed away, and business men began to get at the real facts of the case, a brighter feeling was prevalent. It had been expected in some quarters that there might be a run on some other banks, but nothing of the kind occurred. Probably the outstanding example set by Canadian banks when the Ontario Bank failed over a year ago had much to do with allaying any excitement which might otherwise have arisen. All went along as on an ordinary business day with the exception that customers were notified where their banking transactions had been placed under the plan as outlined by the committee in charge. There was never any doubt as to the depositors being protected, but there was some natural anxiety on the part of the shareholders. day regarding those who had a financial the shareholders.

Realizing on the Assets.

The realization of the assets will of course be a rather slow process, but, as President Jarvis has stated, very good results might be anticipated. Owgood results might be anticipated. Owing to the prevailing scarcity of money in the States some of the assets can hardly be realized upon for a few months at least. Senator Campbell, a director, and one of the largest private shareholders, went so har as to express the opinion last night that there seemed to be good grounds for believing that the shareholders would eventually receive one hundred cents on the receive one hundred cents on the dollar.

A comparison of the list of shareholders for 1906 with those of 1907 shows that the two largest holders of stock, the Dresdner Bank and the subsidiary Morgan firms, have not sold their stock.
A representative of the foreign intercests who was here at the time of reorganization, it was understood, was not personally optimistic that the efforts to re-establish the bank would meet with success. Since then these interests have been kept cognizant of the condition of the institution, and it was with their cincurrence that the present step was incurrence that the present step was aken. It is also understood that the taken. It is also understood that the bank managers feared that sooner or later there might be danger or difficulty in redeeming the bank's currency as the result of clearing-house operations. It is further reported that, while not able, twing to the commercial conditions, to Legicate the bank's business as rapidly as they had expected, the management of the Sovereign Bank have placed the discounts on a more solid basis by requiring further security from those borrowers-to whom advances had been made under the previous administration.

Yo Adverse Action.

Whatever meetings of the shareholders may be necessary to confirm any action of the directors, the latter have fear of any adverse action by the reholders. The directors have in their possession, or are sure of having, it required, practically all the proxies of absent shareholders, as well as having the support of those who generally attend the bank meetings. It is stated on pretty good authority that not less than ninety-five per cent, of the whole body of shareholders have already ex-pressed their approval of the action

From legal sources in close touch with the Sovereign Bank it was learned on Saturday that no legal proceedings were expected from any shareholders. Since the bank had not "failed," the shareholders would not be able to file the necessary declarations for any such action.

No Anxiety for Shareholders.

With the depositors and borrowers of the Sovereign Bank amply provided for, some anxiety among the shareholders is pardonable. Mr. Jarvis, the President, in speaking of the prospects of the shareholders, said he was not a prophet, but the steps taken were the very best in the interests of the shareholders, and so far as it was at present possible to judge, there did not appear to be any ground for anxiety on their part. The business of the Sovereign Bank would be looked after with the utmost care, he said, and it might take eighteen months or two years before all was settled. The realization of the assets of the bank would necessarily be a slow process, he added, and if conditions were normal very good results might be anticipated. Assets of the bank, which less even than a year ago were looked upon as sound, a year ago were looked upon as sound, and which may even yet be sound, could not at present be realized upon, because of the financial stringency in the United Mr. W. The Real Estate.

A valuation of the real estate of the Sovereign Bank was recently made so as to be included in the report which the bank in common with all similar institutions must make to the Government on or before the 31st day of January in each year, and, although the actual figures are not yet available, the total will probably reach about half a million dollars. The bank has only a lease of its present head office buildings and the most important real estate it possesses in Toronto is the new market branch, which is rapidly approaching completion. As the Bank of Commerce, which takes over the Sovereign's market branch, has just moved into its own new market branch building, it follows that the new Sovereign branch will be for sale. The Sovereign Bank also has a fine central new building in Montreal, with a splernlid new branch building on St. Catherine street. Both of the Montreal buildings will easily sellor lease should the oanks which take over the Montreal business not require the offices. It is a covering of a specially prepared asbestos paper in laminated form, thoroughly impregnated and coated with a water-proof insulating compound. It acts as an insulating medium between the pipe and the ground, and, being made of indestructible materials, is permanently durable. The covering is from one-quarter to three-eights of an inch thick and is made in three-foot sections to fit various sizes of pipes. All joints are sealed by strips and insulating cement.

DUBLIN IEWELS STOLEN BY NO COMMON THIEF.

Revenge, Not Booty, is Said to Have Been the Motive—Well-Known Name Mentioned as That of Guilty Person.

Dublin says that the promised sensational scandal concerning the disappearance of the Dublin Castle jewels has to all intents and purposes materialized, since a well known name is on almost every lip there as the person who removed the jewels through motives of revenge toward Sir Arthur Vicars or some other person or persons. Excitement is at fever heat, and every effort is being made to counteract plans for a vote of censure in Parliament and the consecensure in Parliament and the conse-quent Cabinet crisis.

The first theory that the regalia was stolen, quickly broken up and disposed of seems to be dissipated, the belief being that the jewels are now held-by certain persons, and that with due vigilance they may be recovered after the mis-creants find their object frustrated. Doubts at first cast on Sir Arthur Vicars' action in refusing to testify be-fore the Vice-regal Commission of In-vestigation are now turned to a general feeling of admiration for him, and his course is generally thought to have been vindicated by events.

The ramifications of the political ven-

Touching on the great Pan-Anglican conference to be heid in London next June his lordship declared the assembly would be unique. There would be six delegates from every diocese in the world and the great service in St. Paul's Cathedral to mark the close would be the greatest to which the great domes of that great building had resounded in a century. He explained that every cent of money sent from Canada for the great thank-offering would be returned to this country. The offering from the Niagara Diocese had been designated, half to the poor clergy and the remainder for missionary work in the west. First there would be a vast body of men and women ever ready to work for Christ. The Sunday seady to work for Christ. The Sunday Schools would not be as they were so frequently now destitute of teachers, one trying to address half a dozen classes and fill the places of the absences. There would be an abundance of men in the Sunday Schools and what a tremendous thing that would be. There would be a band of women engaged in a sublime work and an abundance of material for the choirs. There would be workers who would go out on the streets in the lanes and novels seeking the fallen, the poor, the degraded and miserable and take them by the hand. There would be constant prayers and intercessions and an abundance of givers. In week days people would be found in the churches praying and on Sundays every seat would be occupied. Were these things impossible? Were they unreasonable? Were they not what Christ had asked for when He showed His love in the gift, of his Divine Son for our salvation? #### M'HARDY MEETINGS.

Yesterday Was Last Sunday in the Revival Series.

Evangelist McHardy conducted both services in Charlton Avenue Church yesterday. In the morning he took for his text 2nd Peter, third chapter for his text 2nd Peter, third chapter and last verse, "But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." In all of the services Mr. McHardy has conducted in his series there has been none more thoughtful or helpful, especially to the new convert, or to the Christian searching after a deeper knowledge of Christ. The spirit, said Mr. McHardy, requires exercise to develop it, just as the body, without physical exercise, will not grow and develop as it should. The more one participates in Christian work, every little kindness extended to their neighbor. every act of self-sacrifice, (though et first hard to do, will become easier with use), will tend to that true Chris et first hard to do, will become easie with use), will tend to that true Chris

The comedy has been well received in the west. An excellent company of players surrounds Miss Russell, among its members are Boyd Putnam, Will Archie, Herbert Corthell, Hugo Toland and Annie Buckley. The scenes of the play are laid at Hempstead, L. L. and the trainer's quarters of a metropolitan race track. The complications of the plot arise from the eld it of a young widow to run a racing ctable under an assumed name. The attempt of a bookmaker to have a race thrown and the folling of the scheme by womanly wiles, is the big secen of the play. The comedy will be well staged and Miss Russell takes advantage of the opportunities afforded her in wearing beautiful gowns. Seats will go on sale Wednesday morning.

At the Savoy.

The demonstration of thought transmission by telepathy given by the great Sevengala, who opens a week's engagement at the Savoy theatre to-day, it is said has to be seen to be appreciated. Sevengala has a reputation of being a master entertainer and a proficient artist in the occult sciences. That portion of his entertainment dealing with hyprotism is said to furnish a continual laugh, his subjects ranging from the small boy to the experienced business man, giving a series of screamingly funny tests. Irish affairs are sure to occupy much time, for besides the Irish University bill promised the Catholies, and a bill to use all with the grazing lands, over which cattle-driving originated, the Opposition I have threatened to move the adoption of a clause to the address in reply to the speech which will give them a chance to criticize the Government's Irish policy.

In course of time Belgium secured my release, and here I am and here I samel stay."

After Ireland, in point of public interest, will come a dramatte license bill, to ofight which the brewers, distillers and license-holders throughout the kingdom have already organized. The measure is not expected to meet all the demands of the temperance party. It will provide for more direct local control of licenses. Old-age pensions occupy a prominent place in the Government programme he principle is supported by all parties, but on details there is a wide difference. On the question of how the money is to be applied there are hardly two opinions aiks.

LATEST SUFFRAGETTE FREAK. The Chained Andromeda Idea Very Popular in London.

The Chained Andromeda Idea Very Popular in London.

London, Jan. 19.—There is great Suffragette exultation over what is considered Friday's triumph of the chained Andromeda idea, when several of them padlocked themselves with the importance of the city and of the Premier's residence at 10 Downing street.

"I think it is excellent," said Mrs. Lawrence, one of the leaders, yesterday, "It gave our workers a chance to demonstrate more at length their views of the Government's attitude toward women before policemen were able to remove them; but this is only one of our schemes. We have many up our sleeves."

It is pointed out that the Suffragette leaders who planned Friday's move did not consider that opposite the Cabinet Minister's 2house, where the Cabinet Minister's 2house, where the fracas took place, lay Mrs. Herbert Gladstone, who was just operated on for appendicitis, and who must have heard the screaming women.

The general sublic has received the greatest Suffragette freak with much amusement. Nothing is so good in the current pantonimes in popular estimates as these serio-comic Andromedias, with policemen Perseuses uncertain how to liberate them.

ton, Preparing For the Boston Marathon.

Toronto, Jan. 20 .- In an exciting game of basketball on the West End floor, Hamilton succeeded in defeating West End on Saturday night by 42 to 31. For many a day there was not such a combat in the form of a basketball game as this one.

The game was fast and furious from start to finish and both teams were dead in earnest. Every man was on the move with his check close on his heels.

Montgomery played a star game on the defence. He was with the seniors last year, and looks very good to do the same with this bunch. Toronto's defence was weat and with another man like Montgomery they would be safer in a game of this kind. The house was crowded and every seat sold, so there is no doubt that this game is becoming more popular every game. The teams lined up:

They were pretty evenly matched and as a result both teams had their hands full. All Saints had the lead at different stages, but not at the final. The score was 27-21. Art Burn, the Calgary long distance Art Burn, the Calgary long distance runner, announces that in order to make OLD FITZ. MADE sure of a place upon the Canadian Olym pic team, he has decided to run in the Boston Marathon race, which is a good four months away. Burn is considered to be a middle distance runner, but he has done the long distances and beat a Marathon record as far as twenty-three miles, when he sprained his ankle. The Boston Marathon is over what is considered the hardest long-distance course in America. It is a distance of twenty-five miles with bad hills. Longboat won the race last year, but will not compete this year, as he is being pointed for the English Marathon by the Irish-Canadian A. C. of Toronto.

COTTER IS ANXIOUS, TOO.

COTTER IS ANXIOUS, TOO.

Word comes from Burlington that Ed. Cotter, the crack long distance runner who won the long race at the village on Christmas Day, is anxious to go to Boston for the Marathon. He has been doing light training in the hope of securing sufficient backing to go to the big east; ern event. Cotter paid his own way to the race at Yonkers, N. Y., a few months ago, in which he was disqualified when he looked like a sure winner. It has been suggested that the sports of the village promote a benefit concert or benefit athletic entertainment to assist Cotter to raise the wherewithal. Cotter is only 19 years of age, and is a comer.

Killing on Youthful at New Orleans on Saturday.

Fair Grounds, New Orleans, La., Jan. 20.-The local betting ring, to use the vernacular, was "murdered" on the third event, when a wise coterie backed No chance of being left alone to think Youthful, a 100-to-1 shot, in some over the matter, but kept busy all the books, but which opened at an average of 50 to 1 to a close of 16. Those in over the matter, but kept busy all the time.

The first half was very fast, Hamilton going in for a lead, but West End couldn't see it that way and held them down to order. Arnold, of Hamilton, was unable to fool Parkes in centre this time, and the Toronto lad gobbled the ball on nearly every jump. The West Enders seemed to have a jonah some place, as the ball would roll around the basket only to drop on the outside, and if the shots that were taken had gone where they were meant for the tale would no doubt be different.

Chadwick and McKeown both played fast games for Hamilton, and with Smith and Gray on their forward line, they were down in full strength. McKenzie, of Toronto, was good and probably he and his partner, Miller, are the best, forwards in the business. Hamilton have a great desire to get hold of McKenzie, and would no doubt offer him the glad hand to live in the Ambitious City.

Grimsby Hockey Team Defeated by 8 to 5.

The first race of a new series of one mile roller skating contests for gentlemen in couples took place in Alexandra Riuk on Saturday Evening when ten of the fastest local skaters competed for prizes. It was necessary for two heats and two finals to decide the winners. In the first heat young McMichael and Elmer Hawkes had an easy win while in the second Fred. Garson and H. Peters accomplished the trick. These two teams came together in the final but after going more than the distance and being on even terms the judges declared it a dead heat and ordered them to skate over at the close of the session. The last final proved to be the speediest of the night. Both pairs fell but Hawkes and McMichael were the quickest to gain their position arasin and won handlly. Manager Thomas was starter and referee and declared them the winners. He presented each with a gold scarfain. om their victory over Beamsville, St. Catharines played in Grimsby on Sat-urday night, and defeated the home urday night, and defeated the home team by 8 goals to 5. St. Catharines played as steady as ever, and their second victory in two nights hand running, against formidable opponents, is very commendable. The fricton between Grimsby and Beamsville came out in its true colors when the eastern town sent a car load of rooters up to cheer on the Saints, as Grimsby had done in Beamsville the previous evening. Lew Marsh, of Toronto, was referee and was impartial and accurate in all his decisions. St. Catharines had a lead of 2 goals in the first half, and the game

You can choose an antique Attec god of Mexico, carved in heavy stone and hideous enough to scare a burglar; you can purchase a marble deity from Mandalay, a wooden atrocity from the Ju-Ju land of West Africa, or a gilt ioss from a Chinese temple.

Your taste may perhaps lie in the direction of antiques. There was recently offered at auction in King street, Covent Garden, a maryelous collections of mummies, most of them of Peruvian origin. They went very cheap. A withered old gentleman and his gray-haired wife, who had lead a highly civilized existence in days when our ancestors pranced through Britain's principal forests attired in blue dye, fetched but a beggarly 2 pounds apiece. A boy went, for 31 shillings only, and a lady, who had been found walled up. presumably burned alive, was sold for 3 pounds. At the same sale there was put up the complete outfit of a certain Congo medicine man, who admitted at his trial at Boma that he had killed more than 1,000 persons. This was sold for 8 guineas.

than 1,000 persons. This was sold for 8 guineas.

Another remarkable curiosity which was for sale at a similar auction was a piece of the hide of a myodon or giant sloth, an animal which was rather larger than an elephant, and which has been extinct for a good many thousands of years. The hide was found in a cave in the Andes, and fetched no less than 70 pounds per square inch.

Insomnia to Delirium Tremens.

In London there is a musical guild of St. Cecilia, which has been having wonderful experiences among hospital patients, says the New York Sheltering Arms. It seems that a patient suffering from insomnia had been sent to sleep twice by their music, but as some doubt about the fact was expressed by a physician in the hospital the choir determined to try the effect of their charms upon the whole ward—and actually succeeded. They sent four patients out of fourteen into sound slumber, and rendered drowsy all the others in the short space of twenty minutes.

TORONTO BEAT GUELPH.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Toronto 7, Guelph 2 is the story of the professional game at Mutual street on Saturday night, the locals having very little trouble in dissonsing of the westerners. The half-time score was 5 to 1.

That professional hockey has come to stay is evident, over 2,000 people turning out to witness the game. The bleachers were crowded before 8 o'clock, and as the game did not start till 8.40 the ice soon grew sticky, but nevertheless some fast hockey was witnessed.

The showing of Lalonde and Mercer, the locals new men, was exceptionally good, and when Bert. Morrison comes back from Montreal—if he does—the locals will have, without doubt, the fast-est team in the league. Lalonde is a great centre player, is always on the joh and never afraid to take a chance. Mercer fills out the weakness on the wing line, and what's more be never hogs the puck, Mercer scored the last Toronto goal on the prettiest rush of the night.

The teams played good combination, but for the most part individual rushes were in order.

The visitors braced up the last half, the same and control to the decide of the d when once the habit of smiling at them becomes confirmed. Above all, children should be early taught this important lesson, that they may flarm to shed trouble as the duck's back does water, but also that they may be constant delight to the household, instead of the very trying little animals that they may be if they go to the other extreme. Another valuable feat is that one who habitually smiles away the unbidden tears inevitably draws toward him the good will of all with whom he comes in contact, and an ever-widening circle of friends is one of the most desirable acquisitions in life, and tends as well to make the home happy and cheerful. It has been said that "a man may smile and smile, and be a villain still," but that is only an exception to prove the rule good.

Chapel Royal at Holyrood.

It apepars that there is now no hope of the Chapel Royal at Holyrood, Edinburgh, being restored by that £40,000 left by the late Earl of Leven for the purpose. The trustees under his will have announced that by the advice of council they have determined to throw that sum into the residue of his estate, and to divide it among the beneficiaries accordingly. Perhaps it is because we are 3,000 miles away from, the centre of discussion, but we cannot help admiring the sturdy flight which these trustees have made. In their opinion, and that of the best experts whom they consulted, the Royal Chapel cannot now be restored, and that it would be nothing short of throwing away the money entrusted to their care to attempt it. This they have refused to do. The ruins of the Royal Chapel form a very interesting relic as they stand; and they will outlast this and many future generations; but them the restored chapel would have formed a conspictous and creditable monument to the late Earl of Leven.

Need a Pure Food Law.

A writer who signs himself S. R. G. has contributed to the Revue of Paris eome revelations of the nether side of court life in Russia. The Revue says that the writer is a Russian prince and belongs to the suite of the Car.

He begins with reference to the Czar's attack of typhus fever in 1999 and the wonder expressed throughout kurope that a potentate whose life was so carefully guardel should have contracted the infection. There would have been no wohder, as says, if the secrets of the imperial kitchens were known.

"Where have you been dining?" asked the ""Where have you been dining?" asked the coctor.
"I had luncheon with the Czar yesterday, and I came right home and went to bed. I was so lil," was the answer.
The doctor treated him for ptomaine poisoning and puiled him through.
The Czar's table is financed on a scale of enormous extravagance. Each dish provided is put down at ter rubles, or about 5s. and each eingle article of food counts as a dish, though it may be only a few oilves the figuring is still higher that dinners the figuring is still higher at the firm of the

There is a man in St. Petersburg who is famous for his dinners and his wine. As he is not wealthy his friends wonder how he does it. One day the writer solved the menteer.

HORSE SHOES IN TORONTO

"The Honest Blacksmith" Forges Plates For Lillian Russell's Horse.

Toronto Star:-Before Bob Fitzsimmons took to the prize ring he was an industrious hard-working blacksmith. When he entered the pugilistic arena he pounded the anvil as part of his training, and in the ring delivered sledge-hammer blows: then he starred dramatically in "The Hon-est Blacksmith," and made horseshoes at every performance; so it has be-come a habit with him, and nowadays when on tour with his theatrical company he finds an hour or two company he finds an hour or two at the forge a sort of pleasant relaxation from the mental task that confronts him in his chosen-profession. It is a matter of record that Fitz is the champion horseshoe maker of th, world. He made 36 shoes in 35 minutes in a competition with Harry Corbett—no relation to Jim—and any blacksmith will tell you that a man who can do that is nothing short of a wonder—and then some more. The average days' work of a journeyman is ten dozen, and making the even dozen an hour is considered a good performance.

WESTERNERS ARE SORE.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 20.—Western athletes are up in arms, and will demand recognition from the committee which will select the team for the Olympic games at London. So far, western athlete organizations have been ignored by castern clubs, but with such great distance men as Arthur Burn, of Calgary, and Will Chandler, of this city, both of whom can travel any distance with the best men in Canada, clubs here have decided that they must be given a chance for a place on the Canadian team, and will appeal to the committee in charge. That the west is being slighted is evident by the fact that no western man has been selected to take a place on the committee, and two organizations west of the Rockies are indignant at the manner and methods of eastern men, who have not as yet asked western men to try out for places on the team. How-enjoyed himself, and the other blacksnuths watched his work admiringly

"They don't make 'em this way now; horseshoe making is a lost art, said Fitz, as he turned a piece of red-hot iron over the anvil and hammered it into shape in a masterly fashion.
"Bob uses the sledge with one hand as well as most men would with two," commented Mr. Staines, as he watched him flatten out the shoe.
Fitz worked against time and turned out three or four shoes of regular size, finishing up by making a racing plate for Lillian Russell, who is to play here next week, and whose predilection for the races is well known.
When Fitz turned out, his first shoe he held it up for inspection, and the blacksmiths gathered around and passed their criticism, all of which was of a most flattering character. A novice stood by looking on, and was a much interested as everybody else.
Fitz held up the shoe.
"What do you think that weighs?"
he asked.

SOVEREIGN BANK.

Prelimary Steps to Winding Up Bank.

Toronto Ont. Jan. 20.—(Special.)—A preliminary step towards winding-up pro preliminary step towards winding-up proceedings against the Sovereign Bank was taken on Saturday by the filing of material at Osgoode Hall. The nature of the material was not divulged, as Fulford Arnoldi, in whose hands it was placed, was not to be found when the representatives of the press tendered the usual fees for searching public documents. This morning Mr. Arnoldi protected himself further by obtaining an order from Chancellor Boyd and the Chief Justices of the Divisional Courts instructing him not to exhibit the papers filed until further notice. It is understood that the filing of the papers was largely a precautionary measure by parties heavily interested in the Sovereign Bank, and that no further steps will be taken if the transfer of the business to the other banks and the arrangements for the liquidation of the Sovereign Bank's assets is carried out to the satisfaction of these parties.

He was heard singing, and at times speaking to the horses.

heard singing, and at times speaking to the horses.

A loud cry alarmed the help a few minutes later and they ran into the horse barn quickly with their lights. One of the horse was trampling about in his stall, uneasily, and under his hoofs lay the body of Ernest Holmberg.

It was an easy matter to get the man out, for the horse was in no way frac-tious. There was still some life flicker-ing, but it went out very soon after the body was dragged from under the horse.
