MYSTERY OF FOUR DEATHS.

Indicted For Murder of Children and Sister-in-Law.

Woman Now Confined in Jail on Charge of Arson.

Arsenic Found in Bodies Exhumed by Police.

Boston, Mass., March 22 .- An indictment charging the murder of four mem bers of her family has been announced by District Attorney John J. Higgins, of Middlesex County, against Mrs. Mary A. Kelleher, of Soferville. The indictment containing four counts was secretly found by the Middlesex grand jury during the March session at Lowell, and charges the woman with having poisoned the following persons:

twelve, on July 25, 1908. Mrs. Kelleher is accused of having administered arsenic to her alleged vic-tims. The motive is said by the police to have been the desire to obtain money tims. The motive is said by the police to have been the desire to obtain money on insurance policies on the lives of the various members of the family. The woman's husband, Stephen Kelleher, also died suddenly, May 15, 1906, as did Mrs. Kelleher's sister, Bridget Knowles, on June 30, 1905. These two bodies have not been exhumed, and the grand jury has not considered them.

The accused woman is a domestic, who has been employed by well known families and had been known as industrious and peaceful. She is now in jail at Fast Cambridge awaiting trial on charges of arson. It is alleged that on several occasions she attempted to burn the residence of Andrew J. Lovell, an employer.

The accusations of the grand jury, with the number of reported victims, place Mrs. Kelleher in a category with Sarah Jane Robinson and Jane Toppan, a nurse, both of whom were charged with wholesale poisonings. Both of these women were found guilty, Mrs. Robinson having died at East Cambridge jail after many years in prison, while Miss after many years in prison, while Miss Toppan is confined in the Taunton In-

In the accusations against Mrs. Kellethat no suspicion regarding the s was ever made public until Mrs. deaths was ever made public until Mrs. Kelleher was arrested on the arson charges, the other being the small money reward for which the police say the wholesale crimes were committed. The life insurance policies ranged from $50 to $100 each. Since Mrs. Kelleher's

So to $100 each. Since Mrs. Kelleher's arrest she has been frequently questioned regarding the disposal of this money. Professor William F. Whitney, expert of the Harvard Medical School, reported to District Attorney Higgins and Medical Examiner W. D. Swan that the exhumed bodies contained sufficient arsenic to have caused death. It was from one to three years after the deaths that this became known.

Two days after her arrest the police announced the discovery that six members of the Kelleher family had died mysteriously. Immediately an investigation was started, which has been pursued until to-day.

FIRST CATCH. MAY CALL INQUEST BEFORE APRIL 22.

Crown and Police Anxious to Clear Up Kinrade Matter---Three Men on the Case.

Although the Kinrade murder inquest stands adjourned until Thursday, April 22, Coroner Anderson's jury may be called to meet before then if the Provincial authorities succeed in gathering the evidence sooner than they expect. The Crown examiner, it is understood, is anxious to close the inquest without unnecessary delay, and the police are also eager to get the verdict of the Coroner's jury as soon as possible.

So wide is the territory over which the investigation which is now under way will extend that it might take one man three months to gather the information. It is understood, however, that three men have been placed on the case. and that the enquiry will be systematically conducted from three different directions, so that it is possible the evidence will be gathered in two or three weeks. As soon as it is collected the jurors will be called together again. At police headquarters to-day the officials declared that there was nothing new, and that the public would have to wait until the next session of the in-quest for anything that may develop. The police still majusian an air of ser-The police still maintain an air of con-fidence, although the general public is dubious. sion that the family would remain here for a few days.

Thomas Hobson, Mr. Kinrade's family lawyer, had nothing to communicate today regarding the family's movements. "Is there any likelihood of the family moving to Toronto?" he was asked.

"I am not in a position to say. Mr. Kinrade and I discussed the matter some time ago, and I advised him not to do anything until conditions had become normal again."

"Well, do you think the family will occupy the house again?" the Times man asked. "I gave Mr. Kinrade the keys of the

There has been no fire in the house since the family went to the Arlington Hotel, at Toronto, shortly after the funeral of the murdered girl. It is understood that one will be lighted to-day, and this gave rise to a report that the family is going back to the house to live. Friends of the family, however, say that this is very improbable. The reason given for lighting the fire is that the dampness would ruin the furniture. One report to-day was to the effect that the family would seek the quiet of a small place not far from the city.

He dropped dead on the sidewalk.

FINDS HE SHOT WRONG MAN.

Detective Scott ran up to where he lay and peered into his face. The man was not Kilroy!

He had made a mistake!

The Twenty-second street patrol wag-on removed the body to Mutke's undertaking establishment, 423 Twenty-sixth street, and a message was sent from the station to break the news to the victim's widow. She was holding her smonths-old baby in her arms when told of the shooting.

Scott went to the station and made a report of the affair to Capt. Steve Wood. After hearing the detective's version the captain took his star and revolver from him and ordered him locked up pending the coroner's investigation. Later he was allowed to go to his home in custody of two policemen to tell his wife of the occurrence. He then was returned to the station and locked up.

Capt. Wood says that Scott was not under the influence of liquor, although he might have had a drink or two. Half an hour before the shooting Scott left the station to go to Dornik's sadoon to see the saloonkeeper regarding a complaint about a bogus cheque. Eva Reed is said to have passed a cheque for $18 on Dornik. She was arrested by Scott and his team mate, Peter Carney.

Scott was at the saloon less than ten minutes, he declares, when he left. Across the street he saw Finn and Kilcone.

For the last three months every member of the police department has been on the look-out for "Pickles" Kilroy, who is wanted in connection with several bold-up robberies. His picture and description have been printed several times in the daily police bulletin.

Kilroy, who was once tried for murder and acquitted, is known to the police as a gun fighter. The murder for which he was tried was the killing of Harry Ferris, a foreman for the John A. Gauger Sash and Door Company. He was slain several years ago while a strike was on at the factory. It was alleged that Kilroy was hired to put him out of the way. When Detective Scott caught sight of Finn he says he thought it was the long-sought Kilroy. Perhaps they will object, Philippa. Perhaps "with a sudden crimson useing neck to brow—"perhaps they will say, with those other enaritable fools, that I—I caught him."

"No, no!" responds Philippa, hastily. "We shall see," says Carrie, quietly. "Somehow, I do not feel afraid! I could not if I tried. I can only think of one thing to-night, Philippa, and that is

"And that is about enough to think "And 'that is about enough to think of," says Philippa, rising and putting her arm round her. "And now, go to bed and try and get some sleep, or else to-morrow"—with a smile—"you will look so sere and yellow that he will be shocked and repent of his bargain!"

Carrie raises her eyes with a sudden gravity.

Repent of his bargain!" she says, "Repent of his bargain!" she says, slowly, thoughtfully. "Do you think that it is only because he thinks me prefity that—that he cares for me, Philippa? Do you think if anything happened to me—some illness, for instance, that entirely changed my looks—that he would be sorry and—and wish he had not spoken!"

would be sorry and—and wish he had not spoken?"

There is such gravity, such intense anxiety in the question, that Philippa feels a distinct pang of remorse for her light, unmeaning barner.

"My dear child: What a question!
As if Lord Cecil were that sort of man! Of course he likes you because you are pretty; most men prefer pretty wives to plain ones, more's the pity for we plain ones; but it is not for your fair race only that he loves you, rest assured."

Pale as the lily, but not sere and yellow, not wan or haggard, Carrie comes down the next—nay, it is the same morning, but later—to find the breakfast things on the table, and Philippa, pale, too, and with that up-all-nightish air markedly upon her, staring thoughtfully at a piece of dried toast.

"No! That was stupid! But I suppose you couldn't help it! It is not to be surprised at! Carrie! He has been in and you couldn't help it! It is not to be surprised at! Carrie! He has been in and out twenty times asking after you, and he wanted me to come up and see how you were, but I refused to disturb you, so he has gone to his room again, 'to write a letter,' he said. I think I can guess for whom that letter is intended.'
"Can you?" says Carrie. "No, nothing to eat. Give me a cup of coffee with plenty of milk in it—Well, for whom?"
"For the earl, his father, of course," says Philippa, in a confidential whisper. "Of course he is telling his people that he has found a wife to suit him."
Carrie smiles faintly.

Carrie smiles faintly.
"The ball hasn't Carrie smiles faintly.

For the first time in his life, I suppose, he mentioned his pedigree. He seems to think the earl may not—" She stops.
"Go on," says. Carrie, quietly.
"May not like it at first, but that he will give his consent ultimately! And, oh, Carrie, who do you think has been here already?"

A strange tenderness, a new-born consideration for others has sprung up within her heart since she has learnt that she has a heart.

"Go on," says Carrie, quietly.
"May not like it at first, but that he will give his consent ultimately! And, oh, Carrie, who do you think has been here already?"
"I don't know."
"Poor Willie!"
Carrie looks up for a moment.
"Yes! He asked for you, but I told him you wern't down, and he said he would look in again. The ball seems to have quite knocked him up!"
"Yes?" indifferently.
"Poor Willie!" says Philippa, with a sigh. "It will be an awful blow to him! I tried to tell him, but I couldn't. You'll have to do that, Carrie. At any rate, the poor fellow will be out of his misery. Hush! here comes Lord Cecil!
I'll make myself scarce!" and she rises hastily as Lord Cecil comes in.
If there was anything of the invalid about him, if he was ailing when he came to Howells, the Devoushire airror something else—has cured him. He looks, as Philippa pust it, as fresh as paint, and strikingly, markedly handsome. Utterly regardless of Philippa's presence, he goes up to Carrie, and putting his arm over her shoulder, kisses her; and even turns the face, no longer pale, up to the light.
"Bravo!" he says. "I expected to find you worn out, my dearest! How are you this morning? Does she not look well, Philippa?" turning to Philippa with a proud, confidential smile. He has a letter in his hand, and waves it to and for to dry it.

"Astrange tenderation for others has sprung up within he hear this had, heart that she has a heart.

the ball had lasted for a week instead of a night.

"Ah, Fairfold," says Lord Cecil, rising and shaking hands. "How do you do? Capital ball last night, wasn't it?" And with an inclination of the head to Carrie—for Lord Cecil is not the man to forget his manners even before his betrothed—leaves the room.

Willie advances to the table with a determined air, with the manner of a man bent upon a forlorn hope, upon a mission that—though knowing it must fail—he must carry through.

"Good morning." he says, taking Carrie's hot hand and holding it for a moment as if he scarcely knew what to do ment as if he scarcely knew what to do with it. "I came to—to hear how you were this morning after the ball." "I am quite well," says (arrie, trying to speak carelessly. "What a splendid ball it was, wasn't it?"

"Yes," he said, but with anything but enthusiasm. "Yes, I suppose it was.

"Yes," she falters. "Won't you sit down?" He shakes his head, and stands clutch-He shakes his head, and stands clutening his hat, and looking at her with that intense stare which denotes an equally intense nervousness.

"No, thanks. I'd rather stand. I came this morning, because—because I

"No, thanks. I'd rather stand. I came this morning, because—because I could not help it, Carrie."

She raises her eyes to his face and tries to speak, but no words come. And at that moment—for the first time—she understands and realizes what he is suffering.

understands and realizes what he is suf-fering.
"Carrie," he says, with the same stead-fast look, "I came this morning to ask you a plain question. I know that I should have asked it before. Perhaps it would have been better if I had asked it before, but—but I had not the cour-age. Carrie, you know that I have loved you."

Pale and agitated, she raises her eyes to his pale face and tries to speak, but he does not give her time. "You must have known that I loved you, though I have not said se you, though I have not said so in so many words. I wish now that I had, but—but I was afraid, and thought that I would be more likely to win you if I—I gave you time. But I can wait no longer. Carrie, I love you, and I came this morning to tell you so, and to—to ask you to be my wife," and he moistens his dry lips, and gazes steadily down on her.

She lifts her heavy lids and looks up at him sadly, pityingly.

"I—I am so sorry, Willie!" she murmurs.

"Why should you be sorry?" he says.
"Are you sorry for me? Do not waste your pity. You know, you have known, that I love you, Carrie. It is no new thing. I have loved you, and looked forward to make you my wife for years past. You know that?"

"I—I did not know for certain, But,
Willie. I am yery sorry, but it cannot Willie, I am very sorry; but it cannot be. Willie, I—I——" she falters and

A strange tenderness, a new-born consideration for others has sideration for others has sprung up within her heart since she has learnt

"Oh, yes," said Philippa. "Carrie is like the soldier in the ballad, 'ball proof,'" and she considerately takes herself out of the way.

Lord Cecil sits down beside Carrie, and gazes at her with a lover-like look.

"Well, my darling!" he says, taking her hand and kissing it. "Have you any message for my father?" and he waves the letter to and fro.

"What do you wish me to say?" she asks, raising her eyes to his face. "What have you been telling him? That —that I am an ignorant, and altogether unsatination." So, having said my say," he goes on, with a way smile, that in a woman would melt to tears. "I will go. But.

"What do you wish me to say?" she asks, raising her eyes to his face. "What have you been telling him? That—that I am an ignorant, and altogether unsatisfactory creature—"I have told him that you are an angel!" he says, with a smile. "But he will find that out for himself. You don't know how glad and delighted he will be!"

He takes it and holds it in his, almost with a protecting touch. "So, having said my say," he goes on, with a wan smile, that in a woman would melt to tears, "I will go. But, Carrie! Though I—I am not to be your unsaband"—his voice quivers—"you will still let me be your friend—I will say your lover; for while life lasts I shall love you, Carrie!"

BOY DROWNED.

Body of David Brooks Found in Old Well at Belleville.

Belleville March 21 -The drowning ccurred here last night of David Brooks, the three-and-a-half-year-old son of Samuel Brooks, a recently arrived Jewish clothing dealer. The little boy was miss-ed at 5.30 last evening, and searching parties failed to discover him until 10.30 rties failed to discover him until 10.30 s morning, when James Wims, hostat the Albion Hotel, discovered the dy in an unused well in the hotel rd. The boy dropped in feet first, his head was above water. The all was twenty feet deep and covered th loose boards. The remains were not to Toronto for burial.

EMBARGO RAISED.

Caltle From Michigan May Now Enter Canada.

Ottawa, March 21.-The embargo against cattle from the State of Michigan has been raised by order in Council. It is still in force against live stock from New York, New Jersey, stock from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. The relaxation so far as Michigan is concerned is due to the fact that the authorities are satisfied that the foot-and-mouth disease has been stamped out in that State and the raising of the embargo will facilitate the movement of export cattle, many of which go from Chicago across the Niagara Peninsula for shipment from New York or Portland.

A new board of directors has been chosen for the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., with Elias Rogers as president. Senator Jaffray, Sir Henry Pellatt and E.R. Wood resigned rather than serve under the Jim Hill controlling inter-

SHOT AT WIFE.

Struggle For a Wedding Ring Had a Tragic Termination.

Man Then Killed Himself in Hotel at St. John, N. B.

St. John, N. B., March 21 .- After an nsuccessful attempt to murder his wife, Ernest McElman committed suicide in the Ferris Hotel, Main street. Mc-Elman was about thirty years of age, and formerly belonged to Gibson, N. B. For some years they had not been living and formerly belonged to Gibson, N. B. For some years they had not been living together, as McElman was of a roving disposition. At intervals he worked in the lumber woods and mills around the Privince and in Maine. In consequence of this his wife has been forced to support herself, and since last November she has been working as kitchen girl in the hotel. Her husband visited her outwo occasions since, one in January and again early in February. On these occasions their relations were apparently perfectly amiable.

Last night McElman arrived at the hotel again, saying that he had been visiting relatives in Fredericton. No apparent change was noticed in the relations of the couple. This morning McElman seemed to be in excellent spirits, and was laughing and joking with the other men in the hotel. About cieven o'clock he invited his wife to come into his room, and tried to persuade her to go back to fredericton with him. She refused, and thehusband displayed a disposition to quarrel. Finally he tried to pull the wedding ring off her finger, and she broke away and ran out of the room. As she ran, McLiman puilled a revolver, and aimed it at her. She heard a click as the hammer fell, but no shot was fired. Scarcely had she reached the kitchen when she heard the report of a revolver shot, and ran to her husband's noom, to find him lying on the floor with Lie smoking revolver still in his grasp. Life was aiready extinct.

SUICIDE AT TWENTY.

Charles H. Diefenthal Drank Acid in Toronto Restaurant.

> Toronto, March 22.—But twenty years of age and already tired of life, Charles II. Diefenthal, a young electrician, com-mitted suicide in a quick lunch restaur-ant on Saturday night by drinking car-bolic acid. The young man had appar-untly deliberately planned to end his life. for in his pocket was found a note giving a reason for his action and asking that his father in Quebec should be notified of his death. Diefenthal was in the Toronto Lunch on Yonge street late on Saturday night, end, after receiving his check for what he had eaten, went up to the lady cashler. He stood for a moment talking and laughing, and then with a remark, "Well, here goes," pulled the bottle containing the acid from his pocket and swallowed the contents, about three ounces. When the horrified employees of the restaurant ran to him with the intention of giving him some kind of an antidote Diefenthal fought them off and ran out through the back into a lane.

He staggered up to Wilton avenue and back on to Yorge street again, falling dead almost in front of the restaurant. He was carrie dinto Hazelton's drug store, but life was extinct. The patrol wagon was summoned to remove the body to the morrage but before it as.

wagon was summoned to remove the body to the morgue, but before it arrived a business partner of the dead man arrived and had the body removed to Humphrey's undertaking rooms. No inquest will be held.

In a pocket of his coat—the police found a note that Diefenthal had written but an hour earlier. It was dated, gave his address and read: "I am perfectly his address and read: "I am perfectly sane, but am sick of the worry of this life, so good-bye to all." Lower down was written: "Telegraph home, H. Diefenthal, 23 St. Patrick street, Quebec." The slip of paper also contained instructions about his effects.

Culpepper, Va., March 22 .- After murlering his wife by braining her with an axe, Henry C. Wheatley, a Culpeper farmer, placed her head on a block of wood and almost completely severed it from the body.

Wheatley was placed in Culpeper jail late at night. The crime occurred at Wheatley's home near Elkwood, this county, on Wednesday night, but was not discovered until Saturday, when Wheatley's 12-year-old son made the grewsome discovery of his step-mother's body. Beside it lay the blood-covered axe and with it a note from Wheatley confessing to the murder of his wife as the result of a difficulty over their pro perty.

Subsequently Wheatley's apparently lifeless body was found in a well on his place. He was taken out by a crowd of neighbors who had been summoned by his son, and he soon revived. Later he was arrested and taken to jail, charged with the murder of his wife.

Special Services in Baptist Church --- Y. M. C. A. Meeling.

Dundas, March 22.—The services in the Baptist Church yesterday were in charge of the Woman's Mission Circle, and of a most interesting character they were. Miss Armstrong, of Toronto, who has been reared in mission work in Burmah, by her brather and mother who earst ill. Home the standard of the late Mr. Frank Hildreth, of Caistor, who been reared in mission work in Burmah, will soon take possession of his new home. Miss Armstrong, of Toronto, who has been reared in mission work in Burmah, by her brother and mother, who are still engaged in the work in that far away country, was present. Miss Armstrong was accompanied by Miss Isaacs and Mr. Salamon, Burmese converts to Christianity, who are now attending McMaster University, Toronto. Miss Isaacs was attired in Burmese costume, and by ser simple, meek and carnest manner and the sincerity of her address she certainly found a way into the hearts of her hearers. Miss Armstrong was, of course, the principal speaker, and in missionary work she is unmistakably an enthusiast. Her addresses on missionary and educational work aroused the deepest interest in the large congregations she addressed. The addresses of Miss Isaacs and Mr. Salamon, which were given in very good English, were simple and impressive, and it may safely be reckoned that the visit of these three representatives of missionary zeal will greatly stimulate the already deep interest taken by the church in mission work. The visitors sang a number of Burmese hymns and songs.

On Friday evening, in the Sunday school room of the Methodist Church, Professor McLaughlin, of Victoria University, lectured to a fair-sized and very appreciative audience, his subject being. "Mahommed and the Koran." The career of this wonderful man and the propagation of the faith he established was treated in a manner as masterful as it was interesting and instructive. The good points in Mahommed's wonderful career were chiefly dwelt upon, and extracts from the Koran, illustrating the general trend of its teachings, were given. At the close a warm vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer, on motion of Rev. Mr. Gray and W. F. Moore. Hon. Thos. Bain spoke a few brief sentences in commendation of some of the teachings of the Koran.

Another interesting talk was given on Friday evening in the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. The speaker this time was W. J. Kerr, of the Kerr Milling Co. His subject was, "From Seed to Bread," and in discussing it he gave a very instructive and fascinating description of the changes that take place in the wheat grains from the time it is sown until it is made into food.

Deacon, Ph.D., conducted both services. At one of them the sermon was especially for women. was especially for women.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

MONDAY MARCH 22 1909.

WHY THIS CHANGE?

A few days ago the senior local Tory organ had all but chosen Tory Ward Chairman Sturdy to succeed Mr. Birrell its readers that the Tory machine had met and chosen him as the man to be recommended for the position; and while there were other aspirants, it significantly, almost menacingly, remarked that, "It is reasonable to suppose that the Minister in charge of this department will pay some attention to any recommendation that may be made by the party heads before deciding upon the new official." The organ made in very clear that the machine having is sued its ukase, Sturdy was the coming

But something seems to have happened since to cause it to revise its opinions We now have it questioning the wisdon selecting him for the job. Somehow Sturdy does not hold the organ's ap proval. In some way he' lacks "pull. It says: "To be a ward chairman is no an offence against respectability; to be a 'machine' man is hemous only in the eyes of one's political opponent." But that the organ has a more favored candi date in view is made clear by its point ing out that Sturdy's alliance with liquor interests will make it hard for him to give satisfaction! It says "h has for years been politically active in a ward in which there are more liquo licenses issued than in any other in the city. Already the enemies of the Whi Government are prophesying that his appointment will mean an between the party machine and the li-quor interests." Now, who is the man for whom the organ would have Sturdy given "the double cross"?

A BIRTH-RATE PROTEST.

Vancouver City is credited with only 118 births in 1908, while Victoria is giv en 205. This makes the Province, edited by Walter Nichol, thoroughly angry, and he proceeds to express himself in

As a productive area Vancouver sur-passes Victoria as much as a country garden surpasses a town one. The number of children —native children in Vancouver is legion. They are like swarm of bees, or the blossoms on a shoal of herring-anything that sug British Columbia is not more proverbial than the capacity for producing olive branches ic Vancouver. It is said that an Englishman brought over some water-crees plants from England and put them in a creek near New Westminster. They have multiplied so rapidly that he can now walk over his creek. But, that record is matched in Vancouver where, as is well known, couples who have given up hopes of a family come here and raise one. We are in fact a close second to Quebec. Not for us the sterile streets of the cities of Ontario. We can look to Quebec. Not for us the sterile streets of the cities of Ontario. We can look with derision at Hamilton, and with pity at Toronto. We wonder at Toronto, pity at Toronto. We wonder at 1010a.c., and try not to be Pharasaic as we do

He insists upon knowing how such a libel upon Vancouverites has placed on the public records. Pursuing with an almost personal interest leclares that it is time this matter was looked into and quotes the pastor of one church as saying that in it 100 babies a year are christened. Can it be, Walter, that additions to the family are such frequent incidents in Vancouver that parents become indifferent and neglectful in the matter of registration? And why the neglect to demand a police census of babies under a year old

PERSONAL TAXATION.

The New York Journal of Commerce lustrates the folly and injustice of the personal property tax by pointing out that the value of the personal property of New York "fully equals, if it does this State its assessment for purposes of taxation is considerably less than one-tenth." It argues that "the great bulk of what is called personal property is owned and used in connection with the value of the latter is due to such use of But for the capital employed, the business carried on, and the tangible property used and dealt with in connection with real estate, the latter would be most of its value; and for the most part the beneficial interest in the two kinds of property attaches in fair proportions to the same persons. Taxes upon real estate do not rest as their sole burden upon the holders of the title, but are diffused' among those who make use of it either directly or indirectly, that is, among the owners of personal property The owner of the land, if he has build ings upon it and uses capital in connecwith it, is paying a tax upon the value which other property gives it. If he leases the property he passes the tax on to the lessee in the rental, and every tenant of real estate is paying his share of the tax. If it is rented for productive purposes, whether in manufacturing or or the agencies of distribution, taxes and the rent which contributes to taxes enter into the cost of conducting business and into the charges and price that it involves, and everybody pays taxes in proportion as he derives benefit use of the real estate."

The matter of taxation is one that calls for more study than the average man gives it. To assume that were pe sonal property, or personal property and exempted from taxation, and only real estate, or land values, levied entirely by the owners of real estate, ally a change in that direction would go to relieve to some extent, those who are least able to bear the burden, and upon whom under present systems, the greater part of the burden falls. But the man whom the collectors' bill is presented might be very far from "bearing" all, or even the greater part, of the burden. As our contemporary points out, "personal property, or the owners and users of personal property, in reality pay the taxes imposed upon real estate and colected from it, approximately in protheir benefit, whether they are themmerely the customers of owners or ten There is no escape from this contribution to the support of government ministration of government, whether tributes the burden much more equit personal taxation that can be devised. may be advisable, like that upon frantaxable character, and upon the estates known as personal taxation can only be made equitable by being abolished."

The local power monopoly organ makes the guarded admission that the peak load does offer difficulty where there is a large "number of customers taking power at all times of the day and night and in varying quantities." Ah! So, if the city went into the sell ing of current and lighting it would tackle a problem? And if a number of municipalities take power from the Hy dro-Electric Commission the problem will be presented to it, and the price o

(Brockville Times.) (Brockville Times.)

There is not one man out of a hundred who would eare to have his past life held up and dissected piecemeal in an open court with a little army of reporters hurriedly jotting down the examination and making it as readable as possible for the public. In the average human being's record there are plenty of episodes which are innocent enough in themselves but which he does not care to have displayed prominently before the eyes of the world. There are many things which he could not explain without causing suspicion to fall upon himself.

THEY DESERVE SYMPATHY. (Kingston Whig.)

The Itamilton mystery deepens. There have been new clues, new inferences, new conclusions, even an admission from twelve anonymous correspondents that they committed the crime. The family's peace of mind has been forever destroyed. The home has been ruthlessly invaded and ransacked to no purpose. The keys of it were taken by representatives of the Crown and they pried into every nook and cranny of it. The daily gossip wounded afresh the lacerated feelings of the bereaved ones, and, worse than all else, suspicion settled down on the little group and added to their sorrows. Later evidence may relieve the situation and incidentally bring redress to the family. Meanwhile its members are deserving of the public sympathy.

frost and snow are unknown, but where abides perpetual spring and summer, with green and luxuriant vegetation the year around.

It must be admitted that a sea tempestuous enough to make a man think twice, unless he be a good sailor, before he goes down to the dinner table, lies between one's own home land and this little El Dorado of the Atlantic, but the thrill of pleasure that comes to one from the north to be able to discard his great coat at this time of the year, to feel the Readers have not forgotten that we were constrained to rebuke the falsehood of our contemporary when it tried to make its readers believe that while the Hydro contract provided for monthly peak measurement the Cataract Company insisted on a yearly peak load system. He who tries to triumph by falsehood should have a good memory.

The movement was not started for the purpose of making money for itself, and in fact it was not an organization at all. The appeal of the Laymen's Missionary Movement was not to women, but to the mature men of the church, who should realize the importance of the problem. The work was a man's work, and it would be no use giving the work to a boy. The problem might seem an appalling one when one considered the hundreds of millions of heathen, but the only way was to take a firm grasp on the condition of affairs. It has been stated that one missionary could evanstated that one missionary could evan-gelize 25,000 people during his term of office. Moore and Mr. Thomas Findlay, both of Toronto, were the two proved the movement. It had to do with foreign and home mission field as well. The home department has need of attention just as much as the tageing department, He considered that prayer was a mighty force in the forward movement of Laymen's Missionary cause. It was shown that the movement was born in prayer. There was a large difference in the missionary work of 10 years and thought that the movement was born in prayer. There was a large difference in the missionary work of 10 years and the movement of the missionary. To the missionary work of 10 years the missionary work of 10 years the missionary work of 10 years and the movement of the missionary. To the missionary have the missionary work of the missionary work of the project ward the work of the missionary. In the missionary work of the project ward the work of the missionary. In the missionary work of the project ward the work of the missionary. In the mission that the movement of the movement of the project ward the work of the missionary. In the plan of the project ward the work of the missionary. In the plan of the movement was not a condition of affairs in heathen lands, such as the people of a generation ago never had. It was indeed a wonderful, and there was every reason to believe the purpose of making money for itself, and there was every reason to believe that such a task would be accomplished. The work mush be done on a business basis, in a business way and by business methods. The fide of these meetings was to show the man in the seat just how much responsibility came to him.

Mr. Gibson followed with an address on the problem might seem an appaling one when one considered the hundreds of milions of heathen, but the only way was to take a firm graspoin on the condition of affairs. It has been an imporent to the force of the movement was not to women, the condition

It is possible that there may be some small inconvenience experienced while the change is being made from the license system to local option. This might be expected, but, as before intimated, these matters would very soon be adjusted and the benefits that would accrue from the change would be more than compensated in an improvement in business and otherwise.

Now, Mr. Editor, instead of local op-Now, Mr. Editor, instead of local option making matters worse than they now are, in many places the very opposite will be the result, and that instead of travelters avoiding local option districts, many of them will time their trips so that they will stop in local option districts.

trips so that they will stop in local option districts.

However, on a recent trip I had an experience well calculated to justify such a conclusion. In a neighboring county I stopped at a town and hotel where they had a license to sell intoxicating liquors. The next day I stopped at a hotel in the same county where local option prevailed. The accommodation at the latter hotel was decidedly the best. To be sure, we had to pay 15 cents more for our meals, but who would object to this, especially when the place was minus undesirable features, which frequently are so much in evidence where liquor is sold.

I think that those who have the real good of the country at heart could devote their energies to a much better purpose than in trying to discredit the very thing which has invariably proven to be a benefit to all communities where it has been given a fair trial. Thanking you for such liberal space, I remain,

THE I. P. B. S. AT CHURCH.

Annual Sermon by Woodstock Preacher Las Night,

To a Large Congregation in Church of St. Thomas.

Dishonesty the Great Evil of the Day, He Says.

Eloquent and philosophical was the address given in St. Thomas' Church last night when Rev. T. D. Wallace, of Woodstock, preached the annual sermon to the Irish Protestant Benevalent Society. In his compiler wellow, evolent Society. In his opening remarks he said he appreciated the honor of being invited to preach the annual sermon to the society and desired to thank them and also the rector for being privileged to occupy his pulpit The subject for the sermon was from the story of Abraham and Lot and a brief reference was made to the present theological controversy now being waged, and all were urged to cultivate a spirit of tolerance and be broad minded on all questions. But whatever attitude we took on the controversy no man with any conscience could deny the spiritual value in some of the beautiful stories in the book of Genesis and all should be thankful to God for such spiritual narratives. The subject for the sermon was from thankful to God for such spiritual narratives.

Then the speaker drew a beautiful word picture around the story of Abraham's unselfishnes and how in spite of what, at the time, seemed a loss, yet nobody would dispute the wisdom of Abraham's choice, for Lot's gain was immediate but Abraham's gain was ultimate and eternal. From that choice could Canada in the 20th century learn a lesson. All have the privilege to follow higher or lower motives and the choice was made every day, and every day brought its own moral issue. To-day in Canada the greatest evil we have to face is dishonesty and there is an eager desire to follow selfish ends and material advantages instead of higher motives.

The evil of dishonesty must be grant.

terial advantages instead of higher motives.

The evil of dishonesty must be grappled with, for it sprang from base motives and was eating like a cancer at the heart. Is the business morality of Canada anything to be proud of? There is a tremendous amount of dishonesty behind it all and even in our national life the same evil confronts us. Not only is there dishonesty in business and national life but it is in religion itself, and philantrophy to-day, in many instances, springs from a spirit of self interest. If what is given is not given for a springs from a spirit of self interest. If what is given is not given for a pure motive it loses its value. How many follow good for the sake of good and right for the sake of right? All of us follow for the sake of gain to a scartain extent instead of for the to a certain extent instead of for the highest deal. People used to be told to be Christians to avoid be build to be Christians to avoid be build there need be no bribe to follow Christ. In conclusion the speaker pointed out it would be an excellent thing to examine ourselves and take pointed out it would be an excellent thing to examine ourselves and take away anything that is base and follow Christ. Dollar worship must not predominate or Canada's future would be small indeed. Cultivate the fear of God and follow righteousness. Men who will not live for purely personal gain are what are wanted—men who realize the truth of God's word, which says, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

(Special Despatch to the Times.)
Brantford, March 22.—A peculiar fire occurred here on Saturday night at the G. T. R. round house, when a cabin on an engine caught on fire, probably from a lighted torch. There was a lively blaze and the city fire department was summoned. One stream of hose had to be put on the engine, and while this order was being carried out, Firemen F. Howarth and Ribby, who had hold of the nozzle, stumbled down a hole made between the tracks from which to repair the under part of engines. Howarth had between the tracks from which to repair the under part of engines. Howarth had four ribs crushed in and his back was severely hutt. Ribby was severely shaken up. The place was pitch dark, and filled with steam from the engine. A large quantity of packing also ignited and made things worse. Before it could be extinguished the outer casing around the boiler had to be cut into and the packing removed. The condition of the injured fireman is critical. GENERAL NOTES.

His navy was the apple of John Bull's eye. His supremacy at sea was incontested, and, he thought, incon-testable.

MR. M'KENNA'S BOMBSHELL.

The revelations as to German progress in shipbuilding which the week brought forth were veritable bombshells. Mr. Reginald McKenna, the First Lord of the Admiratty, attested and Mr. Asquith, the Prenner, admirted the truth of the statement that the German shipbuilding programme was German shipbuisting programme was advancing with a speed which had falsified all previous British calcuations. Germany, which had been represented as building slowly and as far behind Great Britain in capacity, was completing ships of the first class results.

The Government last year calculated that nine German vessels of the Dreadnought type would be ready for sea at the end of 1911, whereas the number will be thirteen. The Government calculated that twelve German ships would be completed in 1912, whereas probably seventeen will be ready. Two years ago Germany had no ships capable of accommodating the Dreadnoughts; now she has fourteen and three more under way. The First Lord went on to say that whereas two years ago the idea of Germany building ships in two years would have been ridiculed, now such possibility could not be dismissed. The Government last year calculated or only not be dismissed.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, the leader of the Opposition, painted the prospect in even blacker colors. Figures had been supplied him by a naval expert, whose authority he vouched for, which were much more serious than those admitted by the Admiralty. He had never risen to speak in the House with a graver sense of responsibility, a graver sense of the immense effect on mational destines of the decision which Parliament would have to make, and from which decision there could be no appeal.

It was Mr. Balfour who told his countrymen that it was no longer a question of maintaining the two-power standard, but a one-power standard, so far as it concerned the latest and most formidable type of ship. He had information that Germany last year laid down four ships of the Dreadnought class of which the British Government had no knowledge. By 1912 Germany might have twenty-five Dreadnoughts to Britain's twenty. For the first time in modern history Britain was face to face with a naval situation so new, so dangerous, that it was difficult to realize all its import.

cult to realize all its import.

NATIONAL EXISTENCE IN PERIL.

England's national existence may be in peril within less than a generation from the tremendous navy now being hurried on in Germany, from the domineering ambition of German chiefs and the aspirations and increase of the German race," writes Frederic Harrison, leader of the Tagish positivists. "It is no question of loss of prestige, no question of shrinkage of empire. It is our existence as a foremost European power, and even as a thriving nation. How idle are the fine words about retrenchment, peace and brotherhood, while we lie open to the risk of unuterable ruin, to a deadly fight for national existence, and to war in its most destructive, most cruel form."

These are the words, not of an habitual scaremonger, but of a man who for forty years has been at the head of a school whose doctrines include the abolition of militarism. They are extracts from a two-column letter published in Thursday's Times by Mr. Harrison. The letter was evidently written before Britain was subjected to the severe shock which it received during the naval debates in Parliament. Its present publication not only shows the temper which prevails at the moment, but also indicates the view which thinking men here take of the difficulties facing the British Empire.

contest likely included in the elements of a contest quite natural in the ultimate solution of national destinies. With the normal growth of these mighty nations it may well come within the actual generation. It is an antagonism like that between Athens and Sparta, Rome and Carthage, Spain and Britain, Germany and France—one which seems to be independent of persons, even of the will of peoples, to be borne on by the elemental springs of national destinies. It seems inevitable. Our supremacy at sea will be met by a determined challenge within a reasonable time. The German navy is not built for distant voyages, he continues. "It is built to act as the spearhead of a magnificent army. This army, as we know, has been trained for a sudden transmarine descent on the coast, and every road as well as bridge and smithy in East England and Scotland has been docketed in the German War Office.

If NAVY WERE OVERWHELMED.

iff ever our naval defence were brokea through and the military occupation of our arsenals, docks and capital effected, the ruin would be such as modern history cannot parallel. It would not be the empire, but Britain, that would be destroyed. Occupation by the foreign invader would be to the empire what the hursting of a boiler would be to a Dreadnought. Capital would disappear with the destruction of credit. Famine, social anarchy and an an incalculable change in the industrial and financial world would be the inevitable respectively.

sult. Britain might live on, as Holland lives on, but before she began life freely again she would have lost half her population, which she could not feed, and all her oversea empire, which she could not defend."

REDERIC HARRISON CONVERTED.

FREDERIC HARRISON CONVERTED.

Contemplation of this "appalling catastrophe" leads Mr. Harrison to abandon the anti-militarist policy which he has consistently maintained for forty years. He says Great Britain needs more than one line of defence. Exactly how that second line should be constituted, whether by expansion of the new territorial army or conscription is a problem he leaves others to solve.

"For more than forty years," he concludes, "I have raised my voice against every form of aggression, Imperial expansion, and continental militarism. Few men have protested more earnestly against postponing social reforms and the well-being of people to Imperial conquests. But how hollow is all the talk about industrial reorganization until we have secured our country against catastrophe that would involve untold destitution and misery on people in the mass."

In some respects the situation verges destitution and misery on people in the mass."

In some respects the situation verges on a panie. There are wild appeals made for a great national movement which will compel the Government at once to lay down a number of Dreadnoughts and Invincibles which will figure on the present programme. Public meetings are being arranged throughout the country to demand a greater navy, and possibly the most striking feature of all is the suggestion made that a royal or Parliamentary or some other commission should be appointed to investigate the navy, and especially the Admiralty.

pects is comic. Among the strangest supporters of naval increase are to be found the partisans of Admiral Sir John found the partisans of Admiral Sir John Fisher in his controversy with Lord Charles Beresford. Now that the Admiralty has admitted that its calculations of a year age, were wrong, the Fisherites are in a dilemma, while those who sided with Lord Beresford find their hands tremendously strengthened.

Sir John Fisher's retirement from the Admiralty is called for clamorously by that section of the press which espoused Lord Beresford in the quarrel. "It has repeatedly been suggested by Admirals," says one caustic commentator, "that Admiral Fisher should be rewarded with a Peerage for his services to the country. Agree to give him two Peerages, but retire him from the Admiralty." Admiralty

There is little likelihood of this idea being carried out at present. Admiral Fisher will stand or fall with the Government.

ON THE BIBLE.

He Replies to Critics of His Previous Lectures.

"Common Sense" and "Myth" Misinterpreted by Others.

His Faith Not Shaken in Divine Authority of Bible.

Toronto, March 22 .- To a gathering of men which filled the great auditorium of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, Rev. George Jackson spoke yesterday afternoon on the question, "Does the Old Testament Contain a Divine Revelation?" which concluded a series of five ad-dresses to men on Old Testament inter-

Rev. Mr. Jackson began by stating tory.

"That, of course, 'common sense' alone will not put a man into full possession of the truth of the scriptures; spiritual things must be spiritually discerned, and if a man is spiritually blind all the 'common sense' in the world will not reveal to him the deep things of the word of God. I did not say this in the lecture of God. I did not say this in the lecture because it did not lie within the scope of my argument to do so; but surely the absence of an affirmation should not be construed into a denial

THE WORD "MYTH."

THE WORD "MYTH."

"(2) Again, great objection has been taken to my use of the word "myth," as applied to some of the early stories in the book of Genesis. I admit that the term is not free from reproach, because, unfortunately, to the minds of many it suggests simply what is false. But this is a misunderstanding of the word. A nation in its infancy clothes its thoughts in a mythical form, just as a little child towes to clothe its thoughts in the garb of a story. And just as we use the picture-word of the child to reach him, so has God used the primitive ideas of primitive men to teach us eternal truths concerning Himself. Thus, in the opening chapters of the book of Genesis, we learn that God is the creator of all things, that man was made in His image, that sin has defaced that which He made 'very good,' and so forth.

"But notine I, said in my previous."

and so forth.
"But notring I said in my previous

"But notring 1 said in my previous lecture in any way weakens my faith in the inspiration of the Old Testament or its divine authority.

"The whole object of the following lecture is to show that the historical study of the scriptures, so far from disturbing that faith, establishes it more firmly than ever.

"And, last of all, does this method of study touch our raith in Jesus Christ as Son of Man, Son of God and Saviour of the world? Whatever some may mistakingly suppose to be the consequences of accepting the point of view of modern criticism, for myself I desire most solemnly to reaffirm my unshaken faith in scripture as the word of God, and as the only perfect rule of faith and life, and in Jesus Christ as the one hope of a sinful race, 'My Lord and my God.'" in Jesus Christ as the one hope of sinful race, 'My Lord and my God.'"

UNITY OF OLD TESTAMENT.

"The first thing to which I would call attention is the remarkably unity of the Old Testament, We think and call attention is the remarkably unity of the Old Testament. We think and speak of the Old Testament as if it were a book. And yet it is not so much a book as a collection of books, a national literature, with something like a thousand years between its carliest and latest contents. Among the various contributions to this literature there is controllions to this interactive there is nothing that can be called collaboration. And yet when you bring together these seemingly casual writings, produced at widely separated intervals, the work of men unknown to each other, the result men unknown to each other, the result is a living whole; a writing whose parts are closely knit by a single purpose and fire i by a common hope, that for centuries men have spoken of it not as a literature, but as a book. This is a literatry phenomenon without parallel. This unity of language—whence came it? Is not the answer of faith likewise the answer of reason, that behind the individual minds another and larger mind was at work that central intelligence which directs and gives unity and purpose to the scattered movements and driftings of men?

"From the unity of the Old Testament it is but a short step to its uniqueness. A hasty survey of a very wide field is all that is here possible, yet it may be sufficient to show that the psalmit's words: 'tool hath not dealt so with any nation,' are not merely a poet's imagin-writings their place in the Canon of the Old Testament? The mass of the Old Testament books gained their canonical position because they commended themselves in practice to the experience of the Old Testament Church, and the spiritual discernment of the godly in Israel. Proved spiritual worth, that is te say, was the great principle of selection; and all that the scribes had to do, when late in the day they turned their attention to the subject of the canon, was to recognize the verdict already pronounced by the voice of God's people. But the test which was applied by the spiritually minded in Israel may be "pplied still. 'If I am asked,' said Robertson Smith, 'why I receive scripture as the word of God, and as the only perfect rule of faith and life, I answer, "—and let everyone who is in doubt mind these words about his neck, and write them upon the table of his heart—"I answer with all the fathers of the Protestant church, because the Bible is the only record of the redeeming love of God, because in the Bible alone I find God drawing near to man in Christ Jesus, and declaring to us, in Him. "I'wo points in my previous lecture," explaimed Rev. Mr. Jackson, "on the early marratives of Genesis, appear to have led to very considerable missappretension, and I wish to take this opportunity to add a brief explainatory word.

"(1) First of all, in regard to what I said-about the use of 'common sense,' as the supreme arbiter and test of holy scripture. All I meant, all I said, was that to meet the particular objection to which I was replying, nothing more was necessary than the use of the same common sense method as we always apply to the study of other biblical history.

"That, of course, 'common sense' alone."

"That is a heated controvery had untorted that one than Good Himself is able to speak such words to my soul."

"And this, not the pedantic infallibility which mobody ever did or ever condition, the real miracle of the Ald Teather than Good ever condition, the real miracle of the Ald Teather than Good if it does not do that for me, it matter what opinions and test than nothing, that I believe every syllable of it to be infallibly true. If it does bring me to Good, equally little does it matter what opinions in the

"It may still remain something of a problem to some to understand how one who speaks as I have done throughout this lecture should yet feel free to say what I have said in earlier lectures concerning certain portions of the Old Testament. But the apparent contradiction revolves itself and wholly disappears, once the point of view 'as been gained for which all that I have said has been a plea. Meanwhile, I can only ask those who view these things with different eyes from mine to believe me when I say again, alike for myself and for the Christian scholars at whose feet I have learned what I have tried to tell to you, that criticism has not taken away our Bible; I have tried to tell to you, that criticism has not taken away our Bible; rather it has opened its sealed pages, it has lighted its dark ways, it has removed the stones from our feet, it made the rough places plain and the crooked straight; the Bible is still ours, a larger and diviner book than before we knew."

Frequently during the lecture Rev. Mr. Jackson's voice vibrated with suppressed emotion, and at the conclusion sympathetic remarks were heard throughout the large congregation, and arrest of two persons, a man and woman, and the seizure of a collection of properties connected with the game. Those under arrest are Moses Shatern, aged 32, a4 Austrian Jew, and his wife. Malie. They were taken into custody in a room at 133 York street, and according to the police are part of a gang of five who came here from the United States about a week ago with a scheme to prey upon ignorant people.

This scheme, the police say, was to select a likely victim, gain his confidence, and then introduce him to a plan of making counterfeit money by which he could make thousands of dollars. The intended victim was told that by putting up capital to admit him to partnership he could have a share in the profits of a machine that would make counterfeit bills that an expert could not detect. He was then shown the machine, a gigantic brassing segg-shaped affair, filled, with the exception of a small receptacle, with electric batteries. All that had to be done was to put a piece of paper in this receptacle, turn on the current, and out came a bill. The intended victim was treated to a demonstration of the working of the affair. The op-erator placed in the blank paper and by a clever slight of hand substituted a genuine bill. This was then pulled cat and exhibited. and exhibited.

SUNDAY IN CHURCHES.

Dr. Shearer Tells of Rev. Mitchell's Mission to West.

Rev. W. B. Caswell at Charlton Sunday School Anniversary.

Former Pastors in Several City Pulpits Yesterday.

After the regular evening service Knox Church last evening Rev. Dr. J. G. congregation in the school room eral Assembly's Committee on Evangel ism, and the object of his talk was to explain why the Assembly had asked for the services of the pastor, Rev. A. E.

Mitchell, during the months of April and May. Dr. Shearer said that the committee on Evangelism had planmed many things for the year. One of them was a Presbyterian simultaneous campaign of evangelization in one of the districts of Mantoba. This method is to have a number of evangelists cover a wheat district, and all work at once, thereby cecupying the mind of the people and driving all other matters from their thoughts while the campaign is on.

The second great experiment is to take place in the mountains of British Columbia, in the Kootenay district. The communities are scattered. It is a railroad, lumbering and mining district, Dr. Shearer went on to tell of the awful concolumbia, in the Kootenay district. The church," he said, "has never until the present day had the courage to take up the challenge thrown down by the devil in these places. To undertake a campaign in this district will cost from $5,000 to $6,000 by the most economical arrangements. It was hard to find the money, but we have obtained the most of it, and the rest is in sight. Then it was difficult to find the men. It needs at least twenty men—men who will not become discouraged; men who won't down; men who will go in and possess the country. Now we have the men. We come to Knox Church, Hamilton, for one of them. You have generously consented, and he will be away during the months of April and May. We are getting the help of the Chapman-Alexander evangelists, and many other competent men. I am heré to tell you why we want Mr. Mitchell and thank you, on behalf of the Assembly for consenting to let him go. It involves on your part considerable sacrifice."

Mr. Mitchell told how he had been asked to do this work. "Mr. Shearer," he said, "telephoned me about a week ago and asked me to go. I left the matter entirely in the hands of the Session, who consented to my going. Trusting in that strength that God gives to His own children, I hope to make my mission there a success. I go in His name to do the Master's work?

Rev. Mr. Shearer preached an i ly through immoral literature and immoral amusements, and the church should make every effort to bring about a healthy moral sentiment in each community to offset it and the other evils referred to. The Presbyterian Church, he said, is the first to engage in the special ministry of interpreting the church to the working man, and the working man to the church, and to assist in the solution of the various problems that engage the attention of those in industrial life.

CHARLTON SUNDAY SCHOOL

CHARLTON SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHARLTON SUNDAY SCHOOL.

At Chariton Avenue Church yesterday
Sunday school anniversary services were conducted by Rev. W. B. Caswell, B. A., of Brantford. Mr. Caswell was formerly pastor of the church, and large congregations attended both services to hear him. In the morning be took as his text, "Show Me a Penny." He illustrated by showing a real penny that was used in the time of Christ, and a penny of the present day. All coins dated from about the time of Christ, therefore it was Christian money, and should penny of the present day. All coins dated from about the time of Christ, therefore it was Christian money, and should be used for Christian purposes, and not for evil purposes, such as graft, tobacco and other injurious things. Mr. Caswell next held up a plugged coin, and related its probable history from the time it came clean and bright from the mint until it reached its present dirty and mutilated condition. It had passed from good hands to bad, had been, no doubt, used for both good and evil purposes until finally it had become worn out and had to be plugged. It was then taken to the mint, melted and the impurities removed, and was sent out again a bright and useful coin. Such is a man's life. He may go into the world and by his own foolishness become as unclean and as worthless as the coin, but he has the same chance of being made over again as the coin; his redemption lies in Jesus Christ.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Caswell and Rev. Isaac Couch made short addresses before the children in the Sunday school. Mr. Couch told of the great pleasure it afforded him to see such a fine school and such a large attendance. He impressed upon the children the importance of attending Sunday school, and told them what a lasting and beneficial effect it would have on their after life. Several excellent selections were given by the orchestra and a solo was sung by Mr. Roy Mills.

Mr. S. O. Dimmick presented the sec-the day go to missions. The monthly receipts have been as follows: November $18.63, December $24.71, January $21.73, February $21.86.

The library contains 586 volumes, Cards issued during the year 304. Average weekly exchange of books, 75. Mr. J. Kneeshaw very kindly donated a set of twelve volumes of Pansy books to the juvenile section of the library. About $50 copies of the leading Sunday school papers are provided for distribution every Sunday, in addition to which every teacher and scholar is supplied with a lesson help.

The members of the orchestra are deserving of special mention. These young men, under the leadership of Mr. H. Reid, not only furnish a high grade of instrumental music at all the sessions, but have organized a class, with Mrs. Bell as teacher, and take their share in the ordinary work of the school.

The organization of a men's Bible class on new movement lines is being arranged, for which the hearty co-operation of the men of the congregation is requested. J. H. Turner is superintendent, and S. O. Dimmick secretary.

REV. H. W. CREWS HERE.

Dimmick secretary.

REV. H. W. CREWS HERE.

Rev. H. W. Crews, of Guelph, formerly of Zion Tabernacle, this city, occupied the pulpit in Wesley Church yesterday. There were fair-sized congregations at both services. Mr. Crews is an excellent speaker, and his sermons were bright and to the point. In the morning he spoke of the quality faith needed to carry men and women to Jesus Christ. Faith stood for the moral character of the soul, and every man should have an abundant supply. The faith of man was in the future, rather than in the present. The present age was swallowed up in a desire to get money. Character was more than money. Faith in God made a Christian irresistible against the forces of sin. Mr. Crews spoke on the service in the Master's cause in the evening. Jesus Christ was seeking recruits for His army, and He has laid down on those applying the terms of His enlistment: "Take My yoke upon you, and learn of Me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ys shall find rest unto your souls." Jesus came to relieve life, not to add injustice and burdens to it. The yoke that He asked everyone to bear was the harness of Christianity, and the burden was the duty, that every Christian was called upon to perform. Christ does not expect mankind to look upon life from an armchair, but rather that one jump into the fray with the determination that there was work to do, and that it must be done immediately.

"How This Age Will End and What REV. H. W. CREWS HERE.

AFTER THIS AGE.

"How This Age Will End and What Will Follow" was the title of the subject of Rev. P. W. Philpott's address yesterday morning in Gospel Tabernacle. The speaker said that at the end of this age the church will be taken out and the Jews will occupy the position prophesied in the Old Testament and corroborated in the new. There is a mighty revival coming, and the revivalists will be the Jews, and the nations who have ill-treated the Jews will be paid back. David's tabernacle will be built again in Jerusalem, and there will be 144,400 missionaries as great as St. Paul from the twelve tribes of Israel.

EVANCELISTIC SERVICES. AFTER THIS AGE.

EVANCELISTIC SERVICES. The Victoria Avenue Baptists menced a series of evangelistic services on Sunday evening, the 14th, to continue Itill Friday, April 2, every evening except Saturday. Great interest is being manifested and many souls are being saved. Evangelist Burrell will be in charge during the remainder of the period, and large results are confidently expected.

BROTHER SUED.

Harry Bradley Must Pay His Sister For Her Services.

Windsor, March 21.—Because he mar ried a second time, thereby violating an implied agreement made with his sister, a verdict of $1,520 was returned against Harry Bradley, a prominent jeweler of this city, yesterday in Judge McHugh's court. After the death of Bradley's f'rst wife and while his children ne mother's care, Miss Susan Bradley, his sister, left a lucrative dressmaking busimother's care, also successful a lucrative dressmaking business in Toronto at Bradley's request, and came here to take charge of the two motherless children, in return for which she was to have a home for life.

Bradley's second marriage invalidated the agreement, and Miss Bradley was compelled to give up her home. In rendering his decision, Judge McHugh explained that the statute of limitations prevented the payment of the entire amount claimed, but he allowed $1,530, based on a salary of five dollars per week for six years, less forty days. Miss Bradley asked for $700 additional, on the ground that she expended that amount out of her private purse for household expenses.

Forty miles out of her course the steamer went to avoid the ice, and even then she did not get rid of it all. From her foremasthead as far as the eye could see there was nothing but ice for three days, and one night Capt. Phillips stopped the engines and lay to rather than proceed in the darkness. Heavy ice cakes were also encountered off Canso, and the steamer had to run nearly as far south as Sable Island to avoid this.

to the final climax of the fourth act, the mystic, enthralling story is skillfully told in spirited, subtle style. It is a play of startling action, replete with astonishing telephatic denouements and marvelous hypnotic climaxes. Flashiag, forceful and impressive feats of mental suggestion are shown with telling effect. But hypnotism and telepathy are but a part of the mosaic construction of this great drama of throbbing, vital, human interest. It is a play which appeals to all creeds and classes. In the all-round company of excellence engaged in its production are: Howard Gould, Edward See, Robert Barton, Herman Hirschberg, Alma Chester, Eleanor Barry, Tanet Dunbar, Franklin Jones, George Howell, Charles Mailes, Frederick Roberts, W. C. Bristor, S. Kent, W. P. Jackson and J. L. Wilson. The sumptuous scenic environment which will be shown with "The Witching Hour," bears credit to the lavish provision made by the Shuberts for all of their attractions.

"In the early days of the late Senator Hanna's ownership of the Euclidavenue Opera House in Cleveland," went on Mr. Walsh, "it was quite a failure, owing to the uncertain policy pursued by the acting manager. Mr. James was so sure of doing a light business that when Duncan Ross, the professional athlete made a cash offer for the theatre for Monday night, it was accepted, and Mr. James and his company went to Sandusky or Oberlin for the night, while Ross and a gang of wrestlers and prize fighters held the stage.

Kingston, Ja.—The Government is taking measures to stamp out the foot and mouth disease that has appeared among the cattle in the banana district of Jamaica. It is thought the malady came to Jamaica through American and Canadian corn and hay. Members of the council are urging the introduction of a bill to prohibit the importation of fodder from the United States and Canadian points, and the measure will be introduced and probably passed as urgency business next Tucsday. The act will apply to hay and corn afloat at the time the bill is passed.

Indian Runs Down Welves.

Charley Taylor, a half-breed Indian living at Solon Springs, a small town near Superior, is in the wolf hunting business for the bounty there is in it, and catches the wolves by running them down. He hit the hot trail of one of the timber beasts February 10 and overtook the exhausted anmial on February 22. He killed it with a stout club which he carries when "hunting."

Taylor says that there is nothing remarkable about hunting wolves in this manner. With snowshoes a man can run down a wolf, whose pace is slower in snow, in from one and a half to two days, but Taylor was without snowshoes. All one needs is endurance, patience and the ability to follow the trail of the wolf after dark. The Indians usually hunt in pairs.—Superior Correspondence St. Paul Pioneer Press. New York, March 22.—Noon.—The early market developed important strength, London taking 25,000 shares at the start, and nurried short covering following promptly on the appearance of fresh buying power. A large short interest is believed to exist in Steel, Copper, Locomotive, and Reading, and other issues. The proposition on which hopes of a spring rise are based are: First, that there is a new Administration at Washington. A tariff is being formed and stocks should be accumulated until the bill is passed, making good news on which to sell.

OBITUARY.

Unexpected Death of Mrs. Peregrine Causes Much Sorrow.

daughter of Mr. Frederick C. Webber, of this city. Mrs. Peregrine had not been in good health for some time past, but her illness was not thought to be serious. A week ago she became worse, and was taken to the City Hospital, it being thought that an operation which her physicians advised would be the means of ultimately restoring her to health. The hopes of her people were not to be realized, however, for she passed away yesterday morning. Mrs. Peregrine was a superior weman, amiable and gentle, and her death will be deeply mourned. Besides her husband she is survived by two brothers, Charles S. Webber, of Rochester, and A. E. Webber, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. G. W. Foster, of Buffalo, and Mrs. C. G. Pearee, of Palmerston. The funeral will take place from her late residence, 223 Jackson street west, to-morrow afternoon at 2.30.

Celia Halsted, wife of J. Halsted, pass-Celia Halsted, wife of J. Halsted, passed away on Saturday at the City Hospital, aged 44 years. Deceased was born in Simeoe, Ontario, and had been a resident of this city for the past two years and a half. She had a wide circle of friends, to whom she had endeared herself by her kind and Christian ways. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock from Blachford & Son's rooms. & Son's rooms.

The death of Mrs. Milissa Rutherford occurred on Friday evening at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Lewis Wright, South Parkdale, Toronto. The interment will take place in Hamilton cemetery upon the arrival of her son from California.

The last sad rites were held over the remains of Thomas Grundy in Hamilton Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, the funeral taking place at 2 o'clock from his late residence, 135 Simcoe street east. The services were conducted at the house and grave by Rev. H. B. Christie. The pallbearers were J. W. Dixon, J. Hoey, T. Dutton, F. Washley, T. Tucker and J. Horrocks. The burial service of Unity Lodge, S. O. E., was read at the grave, the members marching to the cemetery in a body. CONKLE FOR CHICAGO.

Jack Curley, the noted Chicago promoter, was at the Armory rink on Saturday night, along with Mahmout and Antoine Pierre, Mahmout's manager and interpreter. He was much pleased with Conkle's work, and said the Hamilton mat artist's reputation was known to Chicago fans, who were anxious to see him in action. He offered Conkle $100 to go on in one of the preliminaries at the championship bout next month, and the offer was accepted. A time limit of one hour is placed on the preliminary, He stipulated that Conkle's opponent will weigh less than 145 pounds ring-side. CONKLE FOR CHICAGO.

GABRIEL STAKES.

Rocky O'Brien Defeated Carroll and Ashton.

Lon Angeles, Cal., March 22 .- One of the best cards of the meeting was instrumental in drawing a big Saturday crowd. Most interest centred in the San Gabriel Stakes at 4½ furlongs for two-year-olds, one of the richest of the meeting. The best youngsters now in training here participated, the Thomas entry, consisting of Carroll and Sir Ashton, the former having the prestige of the Undine Stakes to win him supporters, being made favorite. Third was the best they could do. J. McManus' Rocky O'Brien proved an easy winner, with Donau second and Sir Ashton third. Phil Chinn and his friends cleaned up well on the victories of Lady Irma and Donald Macdonald, both well backed, but lost some back on the defeat of John Carroll in the last race. Betting was unusually heavy. POST AND PADDOCK.

The mare Lalonde broke a leg at Los Angeles last week and was destroyed. Secretary Horace Wilson, of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, said Saturday that the entries for the 20th Kentucky Futurity far foals of this year, which closed last Monday, had so far amounted to 1,251 mares, a number far in excess of last year.

It is r, orted that Eddie Dugan, the American jockey who went to Lingland to ride for H. P. Whitney, has been denied a license by the Englisa Jockey Club. Dugan arrived in England only a few days ago, but the reports of his rough riding, in America had preceded him, and it is said that the stewards of the Jockey Club promptly rejected his application for a license. It is said Mr. Whitney is now trying to secure third call on Otto Madden.

U. S. BICYCLISTS WON IN GERMANY.

Berlin, March 22.—In the presence of the Crown Prince and an immense throng of spectators, the American team, composed of Floyd McFarland and James Moran, finished winners of the six-day bicycle race at 10 o'clock last night, and received a magnificent ovation, the cheers of the crowd mingling with the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner." The Americans won by a full lap, there being fourteen laps to the mile. Stol, of Holland, and Berthelet, of France, finished second. The total distance covered was 2,425 miles, 3 1-2 miles less than McFarland and Moran made when they won the six-day race in New York in 1908.

The Americans say they finished fresh-er than in the New York race, and were never pushed to win. The Crown Prince will receive them at the palace to-night.

Gossip and Comment

"I'll have a bet on Gotch," said Billy Carroll, after Mahmout finished his work at the Armory Rink on Saturday night. "The Turk is a strong man and a tough one, but I think Gotch's speed and generalship will be too much for the foreigner." Mahmout is a follower of Mahomet, according to his manager, Antoine Pierre, a Greek who speaks English and French. This information was given in the Royal Hotel, after the bout, when a local sporting man apologized for not being able to buy the distinguished foreigner "a drink." Bars close in this country at 7 on Saturday night, he explained. "You mean seme drink that intoxicates?" asked Mr. Pierre.
"Well, let me tell you, but not insult you, Yussif no drink intoxicating liquor, as he is a Mohammedan. Mohammedans think that is unclean, worse than pork, and only unwise people put it in their stomachs."

Burns, for instance, will probably ciear nearly £10,000 from the einema-tographs of his battle with Johnson; and if a fight did come off between Jeff-ries and Johnson in America there would be a huge fortune in the picture show.

Already there is on record a no-hit game, inflicted by Detroit on San Antonio. The Tigers used three pitchers, and to clean up Ty Cobb had to throw a man out at first base from his position in right field, showing the speed of the champion batsman in the throwing department. Just four of the San Antonios reached first base. Each pitcher handed out a pass, in addition to which a juggled bounder let another runner on. In no case did the man advance to second. Two of the veterans, Mullin on. In no case did the man advance to second. Two of the veterans, Mullin and Willett, were sent three innings apiece, and Bumpus Jones finished it. For the first time this spring the pitchers used occasional curves, which partially explains the change in the hitting of the home team since the last contest. Mullin depended on speed, but the other pair bent them. Neither pitcher really had to exert himself. The support of all was fine. On the one chance that San Antonio had for a base hit, off Willett in the fourth, Cobb grabbed on the first bound what looked to be a sure single from Shan's bat and by a beautiful throw to first beat the runner to the bag nearly two steps. The score was 11 to 0.

Jeffries says he won't fight Johnson at any price. He says he has all the money he wants. Yet the purse offered by Mr. Hillman is over £2900,000, of which 70 per cent. would go to the winner and 30 per cent. to the loser.

Jeffries is probably perfectly right. When he beat Fitzsimmons in 1899, the money paid for admission to see that historic fight was a matter of £15,000, of which £12,000 was divided between the two principals.

Jeffries made a good many thousand before that, and, as he never was a waster, he has probably got enough to life. He cleared an enormous sum out of his fight with Sharkey—some say as much as £40,000, Pretty good for a man who started in life as a boilermaker!

Some years ago Terry McGovern and Ben Jordan boxed six rounds in Tattersall's Athletic Club, Chicago. For this pretty little turn up, McGovern's pay came to £5.5 6s 8d per minute. In 2½ years McGovern made in the ring nearly £6,000. And it must be remembered he was only a lightweight!

The great John L. Sullivan was king of the ring from 1882 to 1892, when Corbett defeated him. Two hundred thousand pounds is the sum he made during his amazingly successful career. Ackerman-Conkle Bout to Take Place Here.

Greensville, S. C., March 22 .- (Special)-Al. Ackerman announced night that he has accepted the offer of a Hamilton Sporting Club for the Ackerman-Conkle match for the welterweight man-Conkle match for the welterweight championship of America, which was to have taken place before the Lake Shore Club at Dunkirk, N. Y. The Hamilton Club offered a bigger purse, on account of that being Conkle's home city. Ackerman will insist on an outside referee, however. The match was arranged last week, for $150 a side, and 60 per cent. of the gate receipts. As the Hamilton offer looked better to Ackerman he decided to accept it.

Ackerman has been training here for the past week. He will leave to-night for his home in Marion, Ind., and will go from there to Hamilton on Friday. The bout is to take place within a week, at 142 pounds ringside, and should be one of the greatest contests of the season. Ackerman, it will be remembered, took the title away from Fred Bartl, who defeated Conkle at Hamilton in 1896. Conkle at the time claimed Bartl was overweight and demanded a return match, but the "Demon" refused to meet him. Bartl has since grown out of that class, weighings about 155 or 160.

About 300 wrestling fans, who were curious to see Yussif Mahmout, the Turk, who is to wrestle Frank Gotch in Chicago next month for the catch-ascatch-can championship of the world, 'paid in' to the handicap match in Armory Hall on Saturday night. The Sultan's grappler downed his two opponents, Fred Ulrick, of Buffalo, and Charlie Conkle in less than half of the allotted time—one hour. He showed himself to be a very strong and powerful man, but he did not display the speed that Gotch has shown here. But perhaps he did not think he needed to. The bout was interesting only in so far as a champion of the old world was in the fray.

The Turk griged all the fight.

Johnson in an interview in Chicago said that he had decided not to fight Langford in London because $4,000, the winner's share of the purse, wouldn't pay him to make the trip across the Atlantic and lose thereby at least ten weeks on the vaudeville stage at $1,500 a week. Johnson declared, however, that he would fight Langford in California or anywhere else after he got through with Ketchel. But that doesn't alter the fact that Johnson's treatment of the National Sporting Club is on a par with that accorded to his recent manager, Sam Fitzpatrick.

The clause is as follows: "No. 23. The company further cove-nants and agree with the city that it will, during the continuance of this contract and any renewal or renewals tract and any renewal or renewals thereof, supply for their own use private users of power in the city of Brantford with electric current at prices which shall be ten per cent. less than shall be regularly charged to private users for said purpose, by any municipality using power supplied by or contracted for by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, provided said municipality is not supplying power to customers at less than cost; due allowance being made for differences in the cost of transmission.

By the authority of the Executive Committee of this company I can say that we will undertake to make this clause above quoted applicable to and apply the same to our business in Ham-ilton. Yours truly

W. C. Hawkins,
General Manager. To the above communication the Mayor sent this reply to Mr. Hawkins:
Dear Sir.—I thank you for yours of the 20th, which I can assure you will be carefully considered, as I am sure that what the majority of the public want, and have a right to have, is to be assured of the best value possible to be got without regard to individual or private corporate interests. I do not think the council, or the people generally, have any disposition to injure your company, but feel that you have not given sufficient attention to the interests of your home city and citizens. We will welcome a disposition to turn in and help us, which I feel sure will well repay you.

"Died" 15 Years Ago.

New York, March 21.—Police Inspector McCafferty, according to an announcement published here, has detailed detectives to search for Latora, S. Baker, formerly cashier of the Northern National Bank, of Big Rapids, Mich., a man who has been legally dead for fifteen years.

The search, it is stated, has peen and the state of the first poportunity of another job that the department has at its disposal.

City Engineer Barrow says he will advise the Fire and Water Committee to make no further improvements or ad-City Engineer and Water Committee vise the Fire and Water Committee make no turther improvements or additions to the waterworks system after the new pumps are installed for at least the new pumps are installed for at least five or six years. He thinks the city make no lutther improves system after ditions to the waterworks system after the alias, Kabor La Toras, his real name, with the letters transposed. Chickering told Inspector McCafferty that it was necessary for him to find Baker in order to clear up the 'itle to timber lands valued at $3,000,000.

After Baker's bank failed he came to New York. In February, 1894, after he bad been here but a few days, word was sent to his family that he had died in Bellevue Hospital as the result of injuries received in an encounter with high the system. A body was sent to Big Rapids, and this, it is stated, was identified as that of Baker by his wife and children.

Mr. Barrow this morning announced that he would advise the Fire and Watter Committee to instal the air pressure system for pumping water to the top of the mountain without going on the incline company's property. He wrote the company three weeks ago, but has received no reply. The way he proposes to instal it now will effect a big saving in time, and he says the pipe which will be out of the ground can be covered to protect it against the frost in cold weather. Mr. Barrow says the mountain people will have a water supply before the end of June.

The City of Duluth is tangled up i Intigation over tar and asphalt pavement and the city solicitor of that place has written to City Engineer Barrow for in-formation that will be used as evidence.

Mr. Barrow is making a valuation of the waterworks property and equipment for the Mayor. He estimates the total value at about $2,500,000.

Permits have been issued to Jame Permits nave been street houses at the corner of King street and Fairview avenue for A. Stewart, to cost $6,000, and to E. B. Patterson for a frame house on Gibson avenue, between Barton street and Princess street, to cost $1,200.

This afternoon the special committee appointed by the Council to name the terms on which the city will annex a portion of Barton, east of Sherman ave nue, is having a conference with the township people.

"Tired Feeling" Has an Antidote.

"Tired Feeling" Has an Antidote. For "that tired feeling" take chemicals. Prof. Angelo Mosso, of Turin, found in his experiments that the illness caused by over-fatigue was due to the absorption of certain compounds into the blood, and that these substances when injected into other animals produced the same symptoms. The presence of such toxins is thought to be the explanation of the illness sometimes caused by eating the flesh of over-hunted game or of overdriven cattle.

Liebig mentions a case in which the flesh of a roebuck which had struggled violently after being caught in a snare gave rise to symptoms of poisoning. Similar cases are recorded by Gautier, including one in which pigs were fatally poisoned through being fed upon the flesh of a horse that had died during its struggles when being broken in.

At first these poisonous products of latigue were regarded as animal alkalids similar to plant poisons like strychnine and bromme. But Dr. Weichart succeeded in isolating from the muscles of wearied animals a specific toxin, which when injected in small doses into animals gradually produced immunity and formed an antitoxin. In large doses the toxin produced all the symptoms of fatigue, foilowed by death. A simple method of producing an antitoxin has been described in a recent German patent.

When albumen is gently heated for about ten hours with a chemical agent like dilute nitric acid it is broken down into various products, one of which yields all the physiological effects of fatigue. In continuing the heating for a long period or on boiling the mass this toxic substance is destroyed, and is one that neutralizes its action. This new substance may be separated from the defended of the decomposition and from the accompanying mineral salts. When injected into the body it is stated to act as an antidote to the toxin of fatigue, preventing its injurious ef-

Heroism in the Pit.

(Lloyd's Weekly News.)

Death cannot come to men under more appalling conditions than in a always with a suddenness that, in most ayways with a suddenness that, in most ayways with a suddenness that, in most ayways with a suddenness that, in most against a suddenness that is most a suddenness that is most a suddenness that is most a suddenness that is sufficiently as a suddenness that is a suddenness that is most as a suddenness that is most a suddenness that is most a suddenness that is most as a suddenness that is sufficiently as a substitute of the sum o miners. In the forbidding groompit they can only wait and pray if praises, and the lamentable disasthe West Stanley pit this week ha the occasion for renewing the fa the occasion for renewing the far testimony. The toll of the pit is 1,000 lives annually, but happily testimony. The toll of the pit is about 1,000 lives annually, but lappily it is not often that so many as 150 are sacrificed in any single disaster. In 1890, at the Llanerch colliery, Moomouthshire, 176 lives were lost, and public sympathy was so strongly aroused that a sum of 22,000 was subscribed for the benefit of the victims' dependents. We have no doubt that the sympathy of the public will go out strongly and as practically towards the widews and orphans of the dead of West Stanley. Every circumstance of horror seems to have attended the disaster, but neither foul air nor the possibility of being crashed to death by falling coal or timber deterred rescue parties from descending the mine again and again in the hope of bringing out all their comrades alive. That they failed in their heroic endeavor was not their fault, and that they did not lose their own lives in the effort was the result, perhaps, as much of lack as of any thought for consequences on their part, and they are not worth amplies.

Vulgarity is amusing only to the vul-gar, and they are not worth amusing.— Chicago Record-Herald.
