Five Years Ago

We believed that the keeping qualities of Beer sealed with corks was superior to that sealed with crown caps. To-day we positively know that retains its brilliancy, effervescence and flavor better when sealed with crown caps. We know this because we have tested thousands of bottles both ways, and these tests compel us to render a verdict in favor of crown caps. Besides, the crowns are infinitely more convenient to both the consumer and the trade. Budweiser is always the same in quality no matter whether sealed with corks or crowns and is bottled only at our home plant in St. Louis.

CHAPTER XXXV.

CLEAN DONE WITH IT.
THERE, below them, seated on a white bowlder, was the tall, graceful figure of a woman, her face turned to the sea, her hands clasped on her lap, her whole attitude eloquent of the utter weariness of despair.

Robert Green sprang to the path, but Dawson Slade grasped him by the arm and held him fast.

‘Stop!’ he said, in a stern whisper. ‘Now, Mr. Slade,’ began the expectative, reprobatively.

Dawson Slade silenced him with a gesture.

‘Do not speak or move,’ he said.

Then, still keeping his keen, stern eye upon him, he drew out a pocket-book, opened it, and took out what looked like a roll of notes.

‘Take these,’ he said, ‘get another horse, and drive to the station. Go to London, or where you please; but wherever you go, keep silent. You understand?’

‘I understand you are trying to bribe me to compound a felony?’ said Robert Green, angrily—and I refuse.’

‘You refuse,’ said Dawson Slade, still in the same calm whisper, and with the same set look on his face.

‘After suffering ten years cured by Lydia E. Pinkham’s Vegetable Compound.’

‘I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham’s Vegetable Compound, so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering.’—Mrs. GEORGE JONES, Box 40, Marlton, N. J.

‘I refuse,’ was the instant reply; ‘it cannot be done. That lady is as good as my prisoner, and I’ve got as fine a case in my hands as ever was known. Come, Mr. Slade, don’t interfere with a man in the execution of his duty.’

And he made a movement toward the path.

Dawson Slade held him in a grasp of iron.

‘Your duty! You have no warrant, your presence is an insult to this lady. You say that you will follow her—dog her heels until you obtain authority to make her your prisoner? Look at me!’

Mr. Robert Green looked at him, and then instinctively glanced at the precipice, to the edge of which they were standing dangerously near.

‘You are right,’ said Dawson Slade, with a smile that made Mr. Robert Green feel very faint and uncomfortable. ‘We are both determined men; you have determined to follow and annoy that lady; I am determined, if you move a step in her direction, to throw you over the edge. I am a strong man and a skilled wrestler; I am nearly a foot taller than you, and I am more devil than man to-night. Make up your mind. Go to London and remain resilient, and here are a thousand pounds—not to bribe you from duty, for you have no duty in this matter, but to compensate you for any probable loss. Come! I have no time to waste.’

Robert Green looked at the notes, and then at the white, set face, and lastly at the sea which beat against the rocks below—horribly far below.

With a shudder, he held out his hand.

‘Give me the notes, sir,’ he said. ‘I don’t want to count them,’ he added, as he put them carefully away inside his coat: ‘I can trust to you, sir, as you can trust to me. If you hear anything said about this affair, rest assured it doesn’t come from me.’

There was a significance in his tone which arrested Dawson Slade’s attention, that for the last minute had been fixed in rapt absorption on the beach. He started and looked round.

‘I trust you,’ he said, calmly. ‘As for your accomplice and confederate, Miss Laura Warner—leave her to me.’

Mr. Robert Green winced.

‘How do you know?’

Dawson Slade waved him away.

‘Go, please, I am waiting.’

Mr. Robert Green raised his hat, and went as rapidly as he could up the path, stopping, nevertheless, at a turn which still enabled him to see the tall, dark figure standing watching, watching that other figure below; and with a nod of admiration, Mr. Green muttered:

‘What a fine detective we’ve lost in Mr. Dawson Slade! He’s beat me all round, and he’ll work this case just as he likes, I’ll lay my life! Well, I’ve done with it. I’ll keep my word. And, by George! it’s better to have your mouth shut by a thousand pounds in bank notes than a sheer fall of a hundred feet. He’d have pitched me over as sure as fate if I hadn’t have given in. He’s right! He did look more devil than man as he stood there. I am sorry for Miss Warner; but she can’t say I’ve betrayed her. I’ve never mentioned her name. How would a word of caution be to her—no! Mr. Slade will warn her to hold her tongue—I’ve done with it!’

‘How beautiful she looks,’ he murmured, a proud admiration forcing itself through the multitudinous emotions which agitated him. ‘How beautiful! Fallen and debased though she may be in other eyes, she is still a queen in mine. Oh, my darling, if you had but listened to me that night, if you had but taken the love I offered you this would not have come to pass.’

With noiseless steps he made his way from his shelf of rock and descended the path. Drowned by the wash of the incoming tide, his footsteps did not reach her ears, and it was not until he knelt by her side and, laying his hands upon her arm, whispered her name, that she knew he was near.

‘With a start she roused, and pressing her cold, white hands against her bosom, looked down at him.

Full on her face the moon poured its white light as if it gloried in the loveliness it revealed. With wide opened eyes she looked at him, a faint delight shining through the doubt and fear that possessed her.

‘Hilda,’ he murmured. Her lips quivered, and she pushed the hair from her forehead. ‘Is it—is it you?’ she asked, wonderingly. ‘Why are you here?’

He looked at her in loving reproach.

‘Are you not here?’ he asked, in a low voice which he forced to be calm. ‘Where else should I be but at your side?’

She looked at him as if she could not comprehend his meaning, then shook her head.

would have caught her up long before she had reached the shore.

Motionless as a statue she sat, her saturated clothes clinging tightly round her, and setting forth the exquisitely graceful lines of her lithe figure; her face, though pale, showed no signs of the mental and spiritual storm which had raged so wild; instead a calm, significant of exhaustion, sat upon her curved lip and shone placidly in her full, dark eyes.

Once or twice at intervals the lips quivered and the eyes glistened; it was when the deep, wistful tenderness and ineffable love that shone in Dawson Slade’s glance rose before her.

‘And yet now he must despise and hate me!’ she thought. ‘Me, the lowest of womankind, who, already steeped in near crime, was ready to secure my position by marrying Harold. Oh, it is well for me that I shall never see him again—never again!’ and to her ears the springing of the waves seemed to echo sternly—‘Never again!’

Motionless as herself, Dawson Slade stood and watched her; he could not take a step toward her until the man from whose clutches he had rescued her, had moved out of sight. He longed, with aching impatience, to have her alone with him to show her, in the stillness and solitude of the night, how deeply rooted was the love which he had borne her, and which she had thrust from her—not once, nor twice.

‘How beautiful she looks,’ he murmured, a proud admiration forcing itself through the multitudinous emotions which agitated him.

‘How beautiful! Fallen and debased though she may be in other eyes, she is still a queen in mine. Oh, my darling, if you had but listened to me that night, if you had but taken the love I offered you this would not have come to pass.’

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Dear Niece Joan:

Yes, I was all ready for that discouraged letter. Ready, and waiting, in fact. For you see, in my younger days, I was one of those sentimental folks who keep a diary and when I was looking it over the other day, I found this—

"I know I never in this world can learn to be a stenographer. Things went pretty smoothly at first, but lately it doesn't seem to me that I get ahead one bit. I had three bad mistakes in my test letter to-day, and Mr. M. said my paragraphing was poor. If I hadn't borrowed the money to take this course and spent half of it, I do believe I'd stop right now and get a job behind a counter or as an errand girl. Seems as if that is about all I am fit for."

So I wasn't at all surprised to-day when I got your letter telling how Mr. R said your speed on the machine wasn't increasing as it ought to, and how you had an "a" for a "the," and a comma for a semicolon. In your test letter, and how you were beginning to believe you'd made a mistake in thinking you were fitted for a business woman, and were almost ready to go home and let father support you.

Instead of being surprised I was actually glad to get that letter.

Why, child, if you missed out that spasm of discouragement I'd know right off there was something the matter with you.

I've talked with a good many girls who were studying stenography first and last, in the course of my experience, and I never found but one who didn't have an attack of discouragement along about the middle of the course. And that one was the kind who are too complacently, smugly, self-satisfied to know what discouragement means, and consequently to know what improvement and success mean.

So when I didn't get that discouraged letter when I expected it, I was just the weakest bit worried about you, and when I did get it, I was right glad to have you confirm my conviction that you didn't belong in the complacent class.

Cheer up, niece. The man who said: "It's always darkest just before dawn," was no nature fakir. He knew.

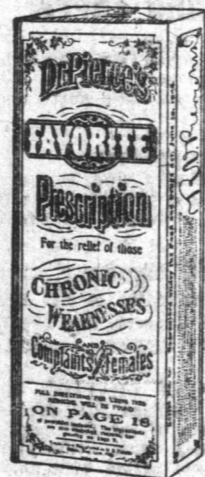

Why, even by the time you get this letter, your dawn and sunrise, too, will probably have come in a sunburst of commendation and success, and you'll be wondering what on earth I'm writing about.

How about it, Joan? Be sure and tell me next time I hear from you if I didn't prove my claim to the title of Yankee by guessing dead right.

As ever,
Your Interested Old Aunt.

Honored by Women

When a woman speaks of her silent secret suffering she trusts you. Millions have bestowed this mark of confidence on Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Everywhere there are women who bear witness to the wonder-working, curing power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—which saves the suffering sex from pain, and successfully grapples with woman's weaknesses and stubborn ills.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG IF MAKES SICK WOMEN WELL.

No woman's appeal was ever misdirected or her confidence misplaced when she wrote for advice, to the WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets induce mild natural bowel movement once a day.

Fads and Fashions.

Canvas shoes may be cleaned with soap and water if one works quickly, so that the moisture does not penetrate the canvas. Make a thick lather of pure white soap and warm water.

In scaling a fish, hold it under the water to keep the scales from flying. The scaling may be much more easily done if the fish is first dipped for an instant into boiling water.

For a refreshing dessert, partly fill sherbet glasses with vanilla ice cream. Put over each service a spoonful of very sweet currant jam and cover with a pyramid of whipped cream.

Excellent butter may be made in a small ice cream freezer, but care should be taken that there is not a particle of rust in the can, and it should be polished until it shines.

When cold habits are left from dinner, cut it into slices large enough for individual plates, put them on salad plates with slices of tomato and green pepper, and serve with mayonnaise.

Washing lamp chimneys by immersing them in water often makes them brittle. A safer way to clean them is to hold for a few minutes over a steamer. Then polish briskly with a soft cloth.

If a hardwood floor is sticky after being treated with "balled oil" and turpentine, get a pall of strong cider vinegar, wring a cloth out of this and wipe the floor with it. It will cause great improvement.

If a ham that is to be broiled for breakfast is allowed to soak overnight in milk, it will have a delicious flavor. If it is not too salty, the milk need not be thrown away, but may be thickened and used for gravy.

To prevent a steak from being tough, place it in a pan in the refrigerator with about an ounce of olive oil, into which has been stirred half a tablespoonful of vinegar, and turn over several times at intervals of a day.

To clean white marble, wash it thoroughly with soap and water, then brush it over well, especially in the crevices, with whiting, mixed with a little blue, as for ceilings. Allow it to dry thoroughly and then polish with a clean, dry cloth.

To clean suede gloves, put the gloves on "trees" or on your hands and rub well with fine oatmeal, which should finally be brushed off with a fine nail brush. Any obstinate stains may be removed with benzine, applied with a piece of flannel.

Our Amazing Parliament.

"To Englishmen who have lived in one of the great Dominions it seems astonishing," says the Quarterly Review, "that the people of Great Britain and Ireland should attempt to govern not only themselves, but a vast Empire, by one Parliament. Canada has ten Parliaments to govern some seven million people; Australia, six Parliaments to govern some four-and-a-half million people; South Africa, five Parliaments to govern one million white people and five million Kaffirs. The single British Parliament governs forty-five million people, and the whole Empire."

Two Masked Men

HOLD UP TOURING CAR.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Three belated automobilists, hurrying into Poughkeepsie at a 40 miles an hour pace in a big touring car, were halted at a lonely spot on the New State Road, near Rhinebeck, N.Y., early to-day by the swinging of a pair of red lanterns. As their machine stopped the lanterns went out, and two masked men hopped lightly to the high step of the car. There was one of them on each side of the automobile and each carried a revolver.

"Get out here while we search you," said one of the men, as he swung open the door of the car. The automobilists stepped down, while the barrels of the two revolvers covered their every movement. "Up with your hands and no fooling," was the next command. Then, while one of the highwaymen stood on the seat of the car, the other went through a search of the pockets, missing nothing in his deliberate search. He took out a handkerchief, and carefully tied up in his boot—$175 in cash, three watches worth $300, and some negotiable papers, the value of which is not stated.

The highwaymen stepped back to allow his victims to return to the car, when one of the trio, J. W. Townsley, of New York, stooped quickly, picked up a huge rock and sprang upon one of the men. The second highwayman, afraid to fire at Townsley for fear of injuring his companion, rushed to the rescue, shooting twice into the air as he came. He pulled Townsley away, hurling him sprawling toward the car, which the other two automobilists were entering.

The highwayman grabbed his companion and disappeared in the darkness at the side of the road. The automobilists made record time to Rhinebeck, and from there telephoned the authorities in Poughkeepsie and neighbouring towns. Deputy sheriffs were at once sent out in pursuit of the highwaymen. Nearly a score of automobile hold-ups have occurred in his neighbourhood during the past few weeks.

What Would They Say?

What would our grandmothers say if they were permitted to revisit the earth and to take a peep at the bathers, of both sexes, disporting themselves at the various bathing places, sitting tete a tete on the settees or strolling up and down the platforms, clothed chiefly in sunshine, drops of salt water, smiles, blushes and "abbreviations"? The venerable old ladies would be shocked to the point of horror, and wonder what sort of an institution they had come upon. We of this generation, however, seem largely to have thrown aside these old-time scruples, and are, perhaps, only too ready to call delicacy prudery and shrinking modesty mere make believe. Yet it is a question whether the views of our grand-dames were not more in accordance with a higher civilization and a more genuine religion. The present day world has grown altogether too fond of condemning persons, customs and opinions, merely on the ground that they are "old fashioned." It is too much the case that the merely calling of a thing "new," or "modern," or the "latest style," is a sufficient recommendation for it, and a complete defense of its character. In times gone by there have lived, thought, spoken and acted a goodly number of men and women to whom the Creator granted a large share of comprehension, common sense and sound judgment in matters of morality and propriety, and their opinions are not invalidated merely by the passage of time.

Question VI.

We have already expressed the opinion that the Award of the Hague Tribunal is satisfactory. We do not mean by this expression of opinion to imply that Newfoundland obtained the concurrence of the Tribunal on all her contentions. We do, however, mean that she obtained that concurrence on every issue of prime importance except one. The exception to which we refer relates to the contention under Question VI. Newfoundland contended that the treaty waters on the West Coast did not include the bays, harbours and creeks. In advancing this contention in 1905, Sir Robert Bond pointed out its importance in these words:—

"If the position that I have taken up in regard to this section of the coast of this Colony is correct, the exclusive rights to the winter herring fishery are under the British flag to-day, and always have been since the dominion of the British flag was first established in North America."

Its importance is, however, quite apart from the question at issue which was whether liberty to fish in these inlets had been granted to Americans by the Convention. Great differences of opinion existed as to the meaning of the terms of the Treaty.

In a letter to the Daily Mail, W. T. Stead, who paid two visits to the

PRESSED HARD

Coffee's Weight on Old Age.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

A superintendent of public school in a Southern state says: "My mother since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach."

"Some time ago, I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavor of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum. I was so pleased with it that, after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal; the whole family liked it so well that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely."

"I had already been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us."

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but in a more marked degree in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long-standing."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Canadian Trade supplied by Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Windsor, Ontario.

Hague during this arbitration, declares it "was never seriously defended by anybody at the Hague."

In an article written in 1906 in the Empire Review, Sir Kinloch Cooke, declares that whatever strength the contention may have had in the Convention, it had been given away, and pointed out that there was an awkward admission made before the Commission which sat at Halifax in 1877 to settle the amount due from America under the compensation clause of the Washington Treaty. On that occasion Newfoundland put in evidence a map of Newfoundland with the extent of the territory marked in blue ink which was subject to American rights under the Convention of 1818. The blue mark on the map was drawn round all the creeks, harbours and inlets of the Treaty Shore.

That the Tribunal decided as it has was not unexpected.

A Cave-in Buries Man.

About 11 a.m. to-day while W. Hanlan and Jno. Marshall were at work in the rear of Mr. W. S. Munn's residence on Gower Street and had started to prepare for the erection of a wall there, and when they had delved in the earth for about three feet, the clay bank above them gave way, and heavy stone pressing on his legs. Mr. Jeremiah Byrne and some other employees of the City Council went to the man's aid and digging with picks and shovels it took an hour to extricate him. A message was phoned to the police station and Supt. Grimes and Sergt. Mackey were quickly on the scene and lent every assistance to liberate Hanlan, who providentially escaped with a few slight bruises.

The Coal Contract.

The man on the street was somewhat surprised when the announcement was made during the week that the firm of Morey & Co., had been given the full contract for the supply of coal to the Government institutions. This is all the more surprising when it will be remembered that the firm of Kennedy, Mullaly & Co., coal dealers of the west end during the last two elections were strong supporters of the People's Party, and that one of the firm is a sitting member of the Government and was one of the eighteen who stood to his gun, and helped to make Sir Edward Morris Premier of the Colony. Of course the members of the Board of Works, Bennett, Whiteway, Gibbs Bishop and others will look wise and tell the people that they had accepted the lowest tender—a good principle if always acted upon; but the man in the street would like to ask those gentlemen if they apply it generally, or if the case is singled out because of the independent attitude of a member of the firm referred to in exposing the misdoings of some of those people who happen to be in opposition to the people they would never fill.

The public would like to get the figures, not alone this year but also of last year, and they would be in a position to judge as to whether those professed patriots are sincere or whether they are actuated by other motives.

Wedded To-Day.

Mr. F. W. Angel and Miss B. M. Bartlett were united in marriage at Brigus this afternoon by Rev. Mr. Snowden, of that town. The groom went out from St. John's by last evening's train accompanied by his best man and several other friends. The premises of the Angel Engineering Co. are decorated profusely, with bunting to-day in honour of the event.

Fined $100.

Mr. Hutchings, K. C., Deputy Minister of Justice, had a telegram from Magistrate Oke, of Harbor Grace, this morning stating that Richard O'Shea, of that place, had been convicted of selling liquor without a license, and it being his second offence, was fined $100 or two months.

Anniversary Sports at Grand Falls.

Grand Falls was en fete last Saturday, the occasion being the first anniversary of the opening of the mammoth paper mill. From an early hour people gathered from all directions, and during the day special trains from Millertown, Botwood and Bishop's Falls brought large numbers of spectators, visitors and athletes. An immense amount of entertaining went on at the various houses. Lord and Lady Northcliffe and Mr. and Mrs. Beeton kept open hospitality all day. The hotels were filled and on the sports grounds alone there were, by actual count, nearly 3,000 spectators. Few athletic grounds have so favourable a location as the Loughouse field at Grand Falls, situated in full sight of what is known as the "Magic City," and lying on a very beautiful reach of the Exploits River, between the town and Earl Grey Avenue, of which more than three miles has already been completed. A notable feature was the Horticultural and Domestic display, the awards of which were as follows:—

Twitching of the Nerves

Wonderful cure brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can ever hope to ward off locomotor ataxia or paralysis.

Mrs. E. J. Vanderburg, of Easter Wellaud, near St. Catharines, Ont. states:—"For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, all twitching of the nerves and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep."

"I tried a hundred remedies in vain. After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my old trouble had entirely vanished, and I was enjoying better health than I had since girlhood."

Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficacy of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way, by enriching the blood and for this reason enriching the blood and its benefits are lasting. 60 cts. a box, all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Boys' Brigades of Grand Falls and Millertown during the afternoon gave an excellent exhibition of drill under Captain Hiscock.

In the evening an immense concourse of people gathered in the Town Hall for the purpose of witnessing the distributing of the prizes. Prior to the arrival of the party from the Log House and Grand Falls House, an excellent cinematograph exhibition, arranged by Mr. J. Judge, was given. Mr. Mayson M. Beeton took the chair and opened his address by hoping that everyone had enjoyed what might be called the first birthday of Grand Falls. It seemed but yesterday, he said, that they had all met together in the Town Hall to celebrate what might be termed the christening ceremony of Grand Falls and that since that time the accomplishments of all those who had contributed to the successful birthday festivities, making special reference to the Sports Committee, who had so successfully organized the athletic contests, and the Ladies' The Bengore Head's Salvage.

Yesterday the Telegram exclusively reported the fact that the salvage claims on the Bengore Head, which was towed in here disabled on January 21st, had been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. The ship was 25 days out from Maryland, Cumberland, deeply laden with manganese and pig iron and, it will be remembered, was picked up at sea by the Allan liner Pomeranian, but after three or four hawsers had burst the Bengore Head drifted to sea and the Allan liner hove up off this port and reported the ship's predicament. The Wobun then went on the search for the ship, and meeting her the captain refused to be towed, though the vessel remained by her all night. Later the Adventure got her and after a hard experience towed her to port. She was labelled in these amounts: $50,000 on behalf of the Pomeranian; $25,000 for Bonaventure, and $5,000 for Wobun. What the awards are to each is not yet known.

The Cricket Ground.

A number of young men who wish to revive the game of cricket in this city called on the Premier last evening with a view to securing what is left of the Parade Ground. Mr. J. S. Munn was spokesman of the party and made known their wishes. He said that if the Cricket Association were given sole control of the Parade Ground they would spend a large amount of money on it and put the place in good condition. Sir Edward, who discussed the subject with the delegation for nearly an hour, said he would be pleased to help them in any way possible to revive the game of cricket, but he would not like to do anything that would deprive the public from having access to any part of the Parade Ground at all times. The Association will have another meeting Friday night.

Vagrant Arrested.

Last night Sergt. Byrne arrested a well known character named Jos. Baird, who has on several occasions done time for larceny. He was arrested in this instance on suspicion of being guilty of the larceny of a leather bed and about $10 in cash from Mr. J. Fitzgerald's house on Maxse Street, as exclusively reported by the Telegram. He is also suspected of having stolen a number of pepper castors, salt celars and other articles from the S. A. Food Depot. Joe is without home or friends, before now he has committed himself to get a term in the Penitentiary so that he may be comfortably clad, housed and fed.

Sanitary Man Arrested

A sanitary man created a row at the stables, Hayward Avenue, last evening. Constables Tobin and Fitzgerald proceeded there, arrested the offender and brought him to the lock-up. He resisted violently and the officers had to put the handcuffs on him before they could get him along.

Good Run From France

The Norwegian three topmast schr. Rosenhiem, Capt. Petersen, arrived here from France yesterday at 4 p.m. after the excellent run of 15 days. Water! Water!!

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—Now that the Government has placed a large loan at the service of the City Council, a great many people would like to see an extension of the water service along Pennywell Road. There are upwards of fifty families living on that street, and they have to depend entirely on wells for their supply of drinking water, and these wells are almost always to be found on private property, so that the people there are shut out in most cases from securing water near at hand, and have to carry it a distance of about 1,700 or 1,800 feet—that being the distance to the tank. If the Council can see its way clear to extend the service, surely it would not cost a very large sum to erect a pump about midway from each end of the road, and give the people a chance to secure this indispensable commodity. I have not mentioned the risk the whole city is running from this lack of water. Let a fire take place there, and the conflagration of 8th July, 1892, would only be a small affair in comparison with it. Come, then, Councilors, let us have water on Pennywell Road. The need is urgent and delay means disaster to somebody.
Thanking you for space, I remain,
Mr. Editor,
Yours truly,
AQUA.

Food That Makes It a Pleasure. "I have a large amount of laborious brain-fatiguing work to do," writes a young lady from Richmond, Va.

"I tried several expensive tonics without effect, and finally noticing an advertisement of Grape-Nuts as a food recommended to brain workers, I purchased a package and tried it."

"I found it extremely palatable, and after a week's use two meals of it a day I noticed a general improvement in my condition. The feeling of extreme exhaustion was growing less, and strength visibly increased."

"I began to put on flesh, and felt ready to enter into amusements of the other members of the family, and now after using the food for eleven months I am like a new person. I do not have the sensation of fatigue; my brain is clear, eyes bright, skin rosy and healthy and my muscles have strengthened to a marked degree."

Weasels Infest Suburbs

One Dose Makes Indigestion Go.

Heartburn, Gas, Headache and other stomach misery vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, burp or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Permentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARGET IN COWS.

Exit Appendicitis.

(20th Century Magazine.) The following from Ellingwood's Therapeutist for June of this year, is of general interest and affords an admirable illustration of the empirical character of medical practice, even in its most scientific department—that of surgery.

"Now it happens that the appendix is not to blame at all. That all the fuss and flourish that has been made in the last twenty years as to the cause and offense of the vermiform appendix as the seat of such serious disease has been entirely unfounded and that the colon alone is to blame for all the trouble." Mechnikoff has contended for some time, and his articles have been widely published, that the difficulty lies in the colon in every case, and now McEwen of the university of Edinburgh has set his face hard and fast against appendectomy, holding that this organ is absolutely inoffensive and is most useful in pouring its lubricating and digestive secretions into the colon, and by this act preventing inflammation of this larger gut.

"So convinced was Mechnikoff of the correctness of his idea that he advocated removal of the colon as a means of prolonging life. Sir Henry Burdette, an eminent English surgeon, claims that the tendency at the present time is to put the knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext.

"And now comes Dr. Page of Boston in the Medical Times, and makes a very strong plea against operations on the appendix at all, claiming in the light of the above statements and his own experience, that it is just as justifiable to cut off the little toe for a case of inflammation in the calf of the leg; that the name appendicitis is a false name, given to an inflammation of a part of the colon, and that by the simplest measures—these inflammations are readily reduced."

Tattooed by Lightning.

Two men named Caspian and Smith were killed by lightning and another badly injured at Linton, England. The men, who were fishing, took shelter from the storm under a larch bush, when they were struck by a flash of lightning. Two were killed instantly, and the third was much burned, but was breathing, and was revived with the aid of artificial respiration.

Chinese Children Are Happier.

In "The Streets of China," described in the English Illustrated, the writer declares that:—

Children on the whole, however, look happy in China, happier than their peers in the Western world. They are everywhere to be seen playing and working, mudpie-making, bricklaying, sowing—if they are girls—and generally imitating their parents without fear of being driven away by angry scolding, as might happen elsewhere. If the child is very young, in summer time he may go about entirely unclad, and I have seen a sewing woman sitting in a lane at work while her little boy rolled on the ground naked and cheerful, his stomach calmly distended with the meal of steamed rice which had just been administered to him.

Cooked Their Own Grub

There was no kitchen Committee at the House of Commons in the days when Pitt was Premier. Members of those times used to buy a chop or steak on their way to the House, and cook it for themselves over a big fire in Westminster Hall. Members who were averse to strong meats went to the House with their pockets stuffed full of oranges and nuts, which they sucked and cracked during the debates.

The local Conductor Howlett, arrived at 9.35 last night bringing Miss Horwood, Rev. J. St. John, Hugh Fraser, Mr. O'Neill, F. Winsor, Mr. Berteau and bride and 30 others.

Lieut. Sutor's Pamphlet Attacks the Army System.

Extracts From Publication That Has Caused Sensation in Britain by Its Revelations.

Lieut. Sutor's now famous pamphlet criticizing the organization of the British Army, and which cost its author his position in the army, has reached Toronto, and a copy of it now is in the Reference Library. This booklet, which has caused such a sensation in Britain, consists of 39 pages and is paper bound. The copy in the library was sent over by the chief librarian, who is now in Great Britain.

"The Army System; or, Why Muddle Through Thirty Million's a Year During Peace?" is the title of the pamphlet, and from first to last it is a withering and sarcastic attack on the War Office and on army administration.

MEN ARE MACHINES.

"A Secretary of War, to-day," writes Lieut. Sutor, "is as sure of the efficiency of his army as is a Home Secretary of the comfortable cremation of his White-Lover miners. The relatives of the miners are alone victims of doubt. So it is with the soldiers and the army."

"In the army, the aim is uniformity. It may be uniformity of mediocrity. It may even be uniformity of ineffectuality. It must be uniformity.

"An inspection is the same use to a soldier as high mass to a Primitive Methodist. On the occasion of inspecting his troops, a general orders a soldier to open his tunic and show him his shirt. If it is discovered that one of the service pattern buttons has been replaced by an ordinary button the regiment is disgraced."

Speaking of a rehearsal of some King's birthday evolutions: "The commanding officer noticed that several officers were wearing black boots, and the others were wearing brown boots. The battalion was halted. All the officers were called out. A discussion then took place to ascertain which color of boots was the most suitable for the King's birthday. It was much better talking than walking about. So there was a long discussion, each officer giving his views on the subject. Then the C. O. summed up the various opinions. He said, 'Gentlemen, there is a general consensus of opinion that brown boots ought to be worn. I think, therefore, we will wear brown boots, but, of course, if anyone wants to wear black boots, he can do so."

Five chapters compose the pamphlet. General remarks and anecdotes intended to support charges of inefficiency and uselessness are given through two chapters. One entire chapter is devoted to describing the methods in teaching signalling in a certain army school, giving many instances of the mismanagement and slackness claimed to be prevalent there.

SYSTEM STIFLES EVERYTHING.

Another chapter gives full details of a scandal and subsequent court of enquiry in connection with the signalling school. Sutor played an important part in the enquiry, the climax being "dismissal from school in disgrace, charged with bribery, loss of certificate, and honor impugned, also loss of adjutancy." As for the enquiry, the result was a decision of the Army Council that there were no irregularities. The chapter concludes:

"No body of men are more zealous—more desirous of efficiency—than the officers and N. C. O.'s of the Brit-

Eczema's Tortures

All treatments failed for three long years—Cure complete with DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker St., Halifax, N. S., writes: "After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure. It is six months since I was freed of this wretched skin disease, and as there has been no return of the trouble I consider the cure a permanent one."

Such cures are not brought about by imitations and substitutes for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is therefore necessary for you to be certain that the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on the box you buy. 60 cts. a box, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for a free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

From a Duke to Bottle Washer

Sensational Falls From High Estate.

The Canadian newspapers just to hand report that among the fortune-seekers who are rushing to Bitter Creek is the youngest son of an English duke, the scion of one of the most ancient families of England. His occupation until recently was washing bottles in an American hotel at the magnificent remuneration of six dollars a week!

There are many stories of downfalls of aristocratic Englishmen which only a few people ever hear about, because they are always cleverly hushed up.

How many, for instance, are aware that in Florida an English baronet is working as a day labourer for five dollars a week? He hopes to be able to come home again some day and marry a wealthy lady who is "waiting" for him. His career has been a strange one and not altogether creditable. Cheating at cards was the cause of his downfall.

A Count in the Pauper Ward.

Many Europeans will still remember that a famous count died in the pauper ward of one of the New York hospitals. He was the son of a prince and a grand-nephew of that great German Field-Marshal who helped the Duke of Wellington to win the Battle of Waterloo. Another count, a man who left England because of the bitter opposition of his relatives to his marriage with an actress, is now acting as hotel manager in one of the small hotels at San Francisco.

There is a remarkable hotel in Chicago. The proprietor is an Englishman who has been an officer in a crack cavalry regiment, and the manageress is the widow of an English clergyman, while the book-keeper is alleged to be Count Szechenyi, the nephew of one of the Austrian Ambassadors at Berlin; and to crown all the hall porter of this exceedingly aristocratic hotel is a real live baron—once a cavalry officer in the Austrian army!

Aristocratic Riding Masters.

A nephew of a Prussian Cabinet Minister, and a cousin of Princess Bismarck, has been a member of the Salvation Army in New York. Before finding a refuge among the followers of General Booth he had experienced all the bitterest miseries of poverty. His career has been a very strange one, and before departing for the States he had some exceedingly interesting adventures in South America.

Quite a number of noblemen are to be found employed as teachers at the New York riding academies. Some years ago it was said that a cousin of the late Prince Consort was the chief instructor at one of these schools near Central Park, though why he occupied the post has never been explained. Teaching the art of riding seems to be a popular profession for aristocrats down on their luck; even to-day two barons and a count hold similar posts.

Down on Their Luck.

At the Grand Pacific Hotel in Chicago there was once a waiter in whom could be recognized Count G—, a former officer of the German army. The Count had crossed to America for the purpose of cattle ranching, and having lost all his money in the business, had been forced to seek other means of earning a livelihood. One day a wealthy merchant who happened to be staying at the hotel took such a fancy to him that he offered him a place as clerk in his counting house, and the Count is writing invoices to this day!

A former heir to the earldom of Perth and to the French dukedom of Melfort spent the last two years of his life as the porter of a great publishing house; a prince bearing one of the grandest names of Europe finished his career as a waiter in a cheap restaurant; and a clergyman of the Church of England, who had been ordained by the Bishop of Durham, is supporting his old age by stripping bark far away in Australia. Hundreds of men connected with the noblest families of Europe are working in obscurity to bring back the fortune and reputation which they have thrown away. Some of them succeed, but they are comparatively few in number, and the remainder, discouraged and broken-spirited, drift downward from one grade to another until at length they sink out of sight.—Tit-Bits.

Discretion is a good thing, and Reilly, the tailor, had a heap of it. One morning Mrs. Murphy, a customer, came into the shop and found him busy with pencil and paper. She asked him what he was doing.

One Too Many.

"Oh, 'm'makin' a list as the min in this block that Oi kin lick."

"Hev yer got Murphy's name down?" asked she.

"Murphy heads me list."

Home flew Mrs. Murphy and broke the news to her man. He was ir.

Reilly's shop in a jiffy.

"Me woman tells me that ye're after makin' a memorial tablet to the min that ye've got lick, and that ye've got me at the head of it. Is that true?"

"Shure and it's true. What of it?" said Reilly.

"Ye good-for-nothin' little grass-hopper, I could commit suicide on ye with me little finger. I could wipe up the flure wid ye wid me hands tied behind me."

"Are ye sure of that?" asked Reilly. "I'm sure and more about it."

"All right, then," said Reilly, "if ye're sure of it I'll scratch ye off the list."

WRONG KIND OF COMFORT.

"I'm going over to comfort Mrs. Brown," said Mrs. Jackson to her daughter Mary. "Mr. Brown hanged himself in their attic last night."

"Oh, mother, don't go! You know you always say the wrong thing."

"Yes, I'm going, Mary. I'll just talk about the weather. That's a safe enough subject."

Mrs. Jackson went over on her visit of condolence. "We have had rainy weather lately, haven't we, Mrs. Brown?" she said.

"Yes," replied the widow; "I haven't been able to get the week's wash dried."

"Oh," said Mrs. Jackson, "I should not think you would have any trouble. You have such a nice attic to hang things in."

Pioneers in Petticoats.

Remarkable Feats Accomplished by Plucky Women.

A ten-thousand-mile journey from Chicago to the Arctic regions, traversing Canada from the southern boundary to the northernmost, mainly on foot, horseback, and in bullock wagons. Such is the record of Miss Agnes Deans Cameron, the intrepid lady explorer, who is in London at the moment of writing for the purpose of giving a lecture. A quiet, sweet-faced, middle-aged lady, Miss Cameron's feat ranks as one of the most remarkable accomplished by the steadily-growing band of women explorers, who vie with men in discovering new wonders of the world.

Many an exciting incident happened during her 10,000 mile trip. On one occasion she had to traverse over 100 miles of rapids, and narrowly escaped drowning through her boat capsizing. She passed through country where no woman had previously trod, discovering unknown tribes and unheard-of sources of wealth.

The story of Miss Cameron's career is exceedingly interesting. She was born in Victoria, Vancouver, and, like most girls in the Colonies, was brought up to do something to earn her own living. This she did as a school teacher, and presently she became a head-mistress, ultimately turning her attention to journalism.

In Her Husband's Footsteps.

Another daring feat of Canadian exploration was carried out by one of Miss Cameron's countrywomen—Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard—in 1905. It was a journey across 600 miles of unexplored Labrador. The hardships of this journey can be better understood when it is explained that Mrs. Hubbard's first husband perished in an attempt to accomplish the journey. With a couple of companions he had pushed into the utterly barren country, when provisions gave out, and the party were faced with starvation. Mr. Hubbard was the first to collapse, and his companions, leaving him in a tent went in search of food to a provision depot which they had previously established. They got back too late to save Mr. Hubbard's life.

Two years later Mrs. Hubbard decided to undertake the work upon which her husband had set his heart. Fearing opposition, she kept her intentions secret, setting out with three Indian guides and an Eskimo boy. It was her secret disappearance which led to the report of her death, but ultimately she returned after passing through some thrilling adventures.

The "White Donna."

No woman, however, has been so far North as Mrs. Peary, the wife of the famous Arctic explorer. As a bride she followed her husband to the Arctic regions, and is the only woman who has ever wintered with an expedition in that portion of the globe. Her daughter, indeed, was born in the Arctic regions.

Miss Cameron's 10,000-mile journey occupied six months, but even this is not a record for a woman, for it may be remembered that Miss Charlotte Mansfield, who ultimately married a well-known South African mining engineer, last year made a journey through Africa, from the Cape to Cairo, covering 16,728 miles in seven months.

What is more, Miss Mansfield accomplished this journey unaccompanied by any other white person. She only took natives with her, and had to traverse many hundreds of miles on foot or in a hammock swung on a pole carried by native bearers. Though she was accompanied only by natives, however, Miss Mansfield was treated everywhere with the greatest veneration, and she told with some amusement on her return how the people called her the "White Donna," and signalled with drums from village to village that she was on the road.

Weeks Among Cannibals.

While, however, Miss Mansfield was the first woman to make this complete journey overland, she had several adventurous predecessors of her own sex in African travel, notably Lady Baker, who was for several years her husband's companion in Central African exploration; and Miss H. M. Kingsley, niece of Canon Kingsley who, with a small native escort, explored the dreaded gorilla country in Western Africa. At almost daily risk of her life she spent weeks among cannibals, and traversed thousands of miles through countries never before visited by Europeans, much less by a white lady.

Mrs. French Sheldon, who enjoys the distinction of being the first woman to be appointed a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, has also accomplished some daring exploration feats. Mrs. French Sheldon is now sixty-four years of age, and made her first voyage round the world, when she was sixteen. Possessed of great wealth, she was able to choose her own life, and after two more voyages round the world she decided to specialize in exploration on the African Continent.

A Blood Brotherhood.

Unaccompanied by any white person, she went beyond the Stanley Falls and the Kasl District. She has camped in the midst of cannibals been through regions where the men ranged upward in height from 6ft 4in., and has had pigmies as members of her caravan. In order to learn all about fetishism and cults and secret societies in East Africa and the Congo she actually entered into a Blood Brotherhood with about thirty tribes with whom she came into contact during her travels.—Tit-Bits.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disfigured for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.
Yours truly,

"He That Giveth to the Poor Lendeth to the Lord."

Editor Evening Telegram.
Mr. Editor,—This beautiful motto was delightfully illustrated last night when the Rev. Fr. Sapp called together the Assyrian Colony to consider some means whereby they could assuage the sorrows, and lend a helping hand to those of their country and others who were in distress. The rev. gentleman, who is an exquisite speaker, in well chosen words delivered an address that touched the hearts of those simple and pure minded sons of Assyria. He took them back to their native fertile fields clustered around Mount Libanon. He told them that though they sought refuge under the shield of Britain they should not forget their own beautiful homes, and the way to show their love of their homeland was to practice the most sublime of the cardinal virtues; and to show the love of their race was to hold out the hand of charity toward their not so fortunate fellow countrymen. His burning words seemed to infuse new life into his flock, for there and then the meeting resolved itself into what in future will be known as the "Syrian Charitable Society of St. Joseph." Telling speeches were made by Messrs. M. Carbage, President; M. J. Gosine, Treasurer; M. Nikosy, Secretary; B. Basha and Jos. Murphy. Each gentleman seemed to be impressed with the spirit of the Rev. Fr. Sapp. There was also formed a ladies' branch with Mrs. Thos. Basha, President, and Mrs. M. Carbage, Secretary, and a goodly sum was collected. No nation, perhaps, have suffered so much for their faith as these courteous sons of Assyria, sweating under the iron yoke of the Turk. They have been baptised in blood, and rather than give up the faith of their fathers they have left the fruitful hills of their beloved country and sought refuge under the flag of more hospitable nations; but they brought with them that attribute that is indigenous to the Far East, a courteous hospitality apart from their business. To know them is to admire them, for removed from us Northern men in custom, manner and dialect, when once they come amongst us they change into exemplary citizens; they have also brought with them their religious ritual, and it is beautiful and decidedly soul-stirring, inasmuch as their Mass is celebrated in the same tongue as the Divine Master spoke. How must their thoughts sometimes travel back to home when their priests entone the Mass; again, in fancy are they walking in the olive gardens that encircle the sea of Galilee, and travelling the same roads that the Redeemer once trod. Truly can they sing with bursting hearts: "I have lost for that faith more than thou canst bestow."
As the God who permits us to prosper doth know;
In His hand is my heart, and my hope and in thine
The land and the life which for Him I resign.
These people have a peculiar interest for us, and in this particular they have showed us an object lesson, clear of any lodge, society or any other motive. They are only following in the advice of the Divine Master, who told us to "LOVE ONE ANOTHER."
