A Good Paint!

There must be something a bit different about

"Matchless" Paint

from all other Paints, for it isn't, it can't be, purely a matter of luck that wherever it goes people speak well of it. Even people who are pushing some other brand will say, "Oh yes, I know 'MATCHLESS,' it's a good Paint."

The Earl's Son;

CHAPTER XXIII

Ralph smiled at the dubious compliment, and, lighting his pipe, went out with a lighter heart than he had owned since he had left Lynne.

The next day when he returned from work, the child was waiting for him at the top of the stairs, and leapt into his arms with that abandon which is simply irresistible to a man with Ralph's tenderness of heart.

"Are you dot the rabbit, Big Man?" she asked, wistfully, as she clung round his neck.

The nurse came out and scolded her for worrying the gentleman, but Ralph begged that she might come in to his room while he had tea, at which not only a rabbit but a barn-door fowl put in an appearance.

From that day the child and he were fast friends; and she looked forward to seeing her elfish form on the stairs waiting for him, and still more for the loving embrace with which she welcomed him. Gradually, as the nurse's confidence increased, the two became so necessary to each other that Ralph often, in the evening, took Ada for a walk. They would saunter along, the child clinging to his hand, through the big thoroughfares, Ralph, with his pipe in his mouth, pointing out the objects likely to be of interest to a child, and answering her innumerable questions. How great a comfort and consolation her love and companionship were to the broken-hearted man no pen could set down. It is possible they saved him from utter despair.

One day he succeeded in finding a vessel that would take him, and he was trying to break the news of their approaching parting to Ada, when she startled him by saying:

"My papa's coming to-morrow. I'm so glad; aren't you? I hope you'll be as fond of him as 'oo are of me, Big man. 'Oo are fond of me, aren't 'oo?"

"Very," said Ralph. "And so papa is coming? I'm very glad, for your sake; though I'm afraid we sha'n't see so much of each other—Look at the soldiers, Ada! They're going

Lumbago's Misery Ceases,
Every Aching Muscle Cured.

JUST RUB ON OLD-TIME "NERVILINE."

Not necessary to drug inside! That awful stiffness that makes you yelp worse than a kicked dog will be cured—cured for a certainty, and quickly, too, if you just rub on Nerviline.

Rub Nerviline right into the sore spot, rub lots of it over those tortured muscles, do this and the pain will go. You see Nerviline is thin, not oily. Therefore it sinks in, it penetrates through the tissues, it gets right to those stiff, sore muscles and irritated nerves that make you dance with pain. You'll get almost instant relief from muscle soreness, stiffness, aching joints, lameness or rheumatism by rubbing with Nerviline. It's a soothing liniment, and doesn't blister, doesn't burn or even stain the skin. It's the most harmless cure in the world for Lumbago, Back Strain or Sciatica. It takes away the ache at once and ends your misery quickly.

Now quit complaining—don't suffer another day—Nerviline, that good, soothing old-time liniment will limber you up mighty quick. Get busy today, the large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, of course, the trial size costs but 25c. Any dealer anywhere can supply Nerviline.

down to the bank to take care of all the money there."

"Is all the money dere?" she asked, after she had stared at the guard marching past her. "P'raps that's where, papa's money is. He said he'd lost nearly all of it. Do 'oo think he'll find it dere?"

"I hope so," said Ralph. "And now I think we'll have to turn back. We'll just get a packet of that special chocolate of yours; eh, Ada; and then we'll toddle home."

His heart ached not a little that night, for he knew that he should lose his little companion; and, sure enough, next evening there was no Ada to welcome him on the stairs. He heard a man's voice mingling with hers in the room next his and knew that her father had arrived. Although he himself was to start in three days' time he felt as if he had been bereaved and thought, as he knocked out his pipe and prepared for bed, that he was doomed to lose everything he loved.

Veronica also reached London "in due course;" and she also had had plenty of time for reflection during the journey. In the enthusiasm of her love for Ralph she had fled from the Court with the intention of following him; but, long before the train had reached the terminus, she realized that it was easier to resolve than to accomplish. In the first place, she was not sure that Ralph would go to Australia, or that he would go at once; and, supposing he had gone, she did not know which part he would ship for. But her earlier knowledge and experience of London stood her in good stead and she was not daunted by the difficulties in her way.

It seemed to her that the best thing she could do would be to go back to her old rooms in Camden Town where she was known; and she was getting into a cab when a voice spoke her name. She looked round and saw a young girl who had been a fellow lodger of hers. At sight of her, Veronica's heavy heart leapt—And yet she had almost forgotten the girl's name! But in that moment of loneliness in the midst of the great crowd it came back to her as readily as if days instead of years had passed since she and Martha Ludlow had dwelt together in the grimy lodging-house in Camden Town.

"Martha!" she cried, holding out her hand. "Is it really you?"

The girl shook hands and eyed her with friendly surprise.

"Lor, now to think of meeting you, Miss Gresham! Why, I thought you'd gone away to live with some swells, and that I shouldn't set eyes on you again."

"But you have, you see," said Veronica as cheerfully as she could. "I have come to live in London again. I am going back to the old place; will you come with me? Jump in!"

Martha laughed, the Cockney laugh of peasant cynicism.

"Why, what's the use of going there?" she said. "It's pulled down and turned into a shop; the whole row is, long ago."

Veronica looked dismayed.

"Oh, then I—I don't know where to go!" she said almost to herself.

Martha's sharp eye scanned her narrowly.

"If you ain't too particular, you might come with me," she said. "I'm living in Sowerby Street; it's near here, and there's a vacant room—a couple of 'em, if they're good enough. Anyhow you'll have to make up your mind pretty quick if you don't want the cabman to have a fit."

Veronica nodded in her quick way.

"I'll come. Jump in!" she said.

In less than ten minutes they had reached the house. It was in a poor but decent street, and the two girls struck a bargain with the landlady, and Veronica, almost breathless with the speed with which circumstance had taken her in hand, found herself talked, and she related her uneventful life, since she had last seen Veronica, in a quick and hurried manner, as if she did not want Veronica to think there was any necessity for confidences on her part. But while Martha was explaining that she was working at a factory close by, Veronica had been considering how much she could tell of her past life, and at

You don't take medicine—you don't take drowsy drugs—just breathe the balsamic essences of Catarrhozone; it does the rest safely and surely.

"For three years I was seriously bothered by a bronchial cough. At night I would awaken with a dry irritable feeling in my throat. I couldn't cough up anything, but very soon coughed my throat into quite an inflamed condition. Once I got Catarrhozone Inhaler I was all right. I took it to bed, and if an attack awakened me a few minutes use of the Inhaler gave me relief. Catarrhozone has cured me and I strongly urge everyone with a weak throat to use it regularly.

last said, with a touch of colour in her face:

"And now I ought to tell you all that has happened to me, Martha, but I can't!"

"I'm sure I don't want to, Miss Gresham," Martha put in. "I always knew you was a lady, one of the swells, and I thought you'd gone to live with rich and high-born people, like you read of in the novelettes, you know. Thinking of you going away like you did, I've often thought that after all there may be some truth in them!"

"Yes, I have been living with rich people," said Veronica; "but I have left them and am quite poor again. See, that's all the money I have."

She displayed her purse, but without producing the effect she, with her recent acquaintance with wealth, had expected.

"Lor, why it's a fortune! And I was going to ask you if you'd care to go to the factory with me!" exclaimed Martha. "But, goodness! you're a regular Cresses!"

"But I don't want to spend this," said Veronica. "And I shall be very glad if you can get some work for me to do at home. Do you think you can? You know that I am tolerably quick with my needle."

Martha said that she thought she could; and Veronica drew a breath of satisfaction. It seemed to her that she would find some relief for her aching heart in hard work, and some consolation in the fact that she, as well as Ralph, was living a life of toil. The girls talked far into the night, and at last Veronica went to bed—to dream that she and Ralph were married and were working hard for their living; but, ah, so happy, with a happiness which turned this commonplace earth to paradise!

The next day she enquired her way to the shipping agents at the docks, and made enquiries respecting the vessels that were starting for Australia. One had sailed that morning, and the clerk, fascinated by the beautiful face and sweet voice, showed her the passenger list; but the name of Ralph Farrington was not in it, and the clerk, with some surprise at her question, told her that it would be impossible to discover the names of the hands.

"And most of 'em ship under false names, too, miss."

Veronica returned to Sowerby Street with the feeling of helpless despair which must have been experienced by the individual who first engaged in the historic task of hunting for a needle in a bottle of hay; but Martha that night brought home some work for her to do; and Veronica almost flew at it as a source of relief from her anxious thought and longing.

If she had only had the courage to defy the earl and keep Ralph at Lynne, or better—oh, still far better!

—insisted upon going with him! But the earl had hypnotised them both with his worldly wisdom and cynical heartlessness, and she and Ralph were divided!

Almost daily she went to the shipping office, and the clerk, now quite head and ears in love with her, did all he could to help her, but there was no trace of Ralph. And yet if she had but thought of seeking amongst the laborers at the docks, she would have found him; indeed, once she passed within a few yards of the spot where he was toiling!

She grew thinner and paler as the days went on; for, when she went out for the walk which Martha, who was anxious about her, insisted on, all her thoughts were of Ralph, and she was always seeking him, with all her mind and soul absorbed in the search. Absence makes the heart grow fonder, when that heart really loves, and Veronica knew now how dearly she loved him, how necessary he was to her happiness. She felt like one dragging wearily through a desert where no water is, for love is the water of life, and to thirst for it is to know fully what anguish is.

One afternoon she was walking home from her quest, when a gentleman passed her, paused, and after a moment's consideration, turned and following her, lifted his hat.

"Miss Gresham?" he said, hesitatingly, as if in doubt.

NEWS BY CABLE. The Highland Games.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, July 22.—The fact that the conference will again meet suggests that, so far as the principals are concerned, an agreement is in sight, but agreement by the principals does not portend, by any means, a definite settlement of any scheme for the future government of Ireland. The Conservatives have the Ulster covenants, represented by Carson and Craig to reckon with, whilst Premier Asquith cannot deliver any goods without the consent of the Home Rule leaders, Redmond and Dillon. Moreover the Labour party is in revolt, and there is a bolting contingent in his own party. Politicians conversant with the inside workings predict that if the conference reaches any agreement, the Commons will throw it out. The fact that the Premier considered it necessary to resort to such a conference is hailed by his opponents as a virtual surrender on his part. They prophesy, and his radical supporters fear, that Asquith will consent to Carson's loudly proclaimed ultimatum of a clear cut exclusion of the whole of Ulster from the projected new Irish government. Parliamentary experts assert that if such an agreement is laid before the Commons, it will be defeated, because Asquith's majority is dependent upon the Irish and Labour members, while at least thirty bolting Liberals will vote against it. Under these circumstances a general election must follow, and so convinced are the Unionists of a general election that they have sent messages to all party workers to be prepared for such election within three weeks.

LONDON, July 22.—Interest in the Home Rule crisis overshadowed everything else in the British Isles to-day. When the representatives arrived at Buckingham Palace this morning to continue their conference, they found an enormous crowd assembled in the open space before the gates of the Palace. Openly, of course, both sides declare that they cannot withdraw from their present positions, but it is understood that Asquith is likely to submit to the conference a proposal to allow the Protestant counties of Ulster to vote together on the exclusion resolution, and that he may go so far as to change the time limit of six years as embodied in the amending bill, which has already been dealt with by the Lords. Carson will make a fight to have County Tyrone included in this agreement and this proposition will, it is thought, prove a useful bridge between the two sides which will decide the fate of the Conference.

The conference was in session again for half an hour to-day, and then adjourned until to-morrow. At to-day's meeting the claims of the two opposing Irish parties, led by Redmond and Carson, formed the subject, and the question of the boundary and area to be excluded from the operation of the Home Rule Bill was presented to the Conference. As neither the Nationalist nor Ulster Unionist leader possessed plenipotentiary powers, these claims must be submitted for the consideration of their respective party caucuses at each stage, so that the progress of the conference necessarily must be held secret.

As Redmond and Dillon left Buckingham Palace, and passed along the sidewalks in front of Wellington barracks, they were given a great reception by the men of the battalion of Irish guards stationed there.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Secretary Bryan's appeal to the two Constitutional leaders, Carranza and Villa, to eliminate any personal differences that might exist between them, is interpreted at Washington to-day as the American Government's preliminary step to prevent counter-revolts after the entry of Carranza into Mexico city. An appeal to Carranza is made at President Wilson's command by his personal representative, who left Monterey to accompany the revolutionary chief to Tampico. An early answer is expected. Both Wilson and Bryan have reached the determination that when the Constitutionalists have triumphed, and a responsible government is set up, revolutions in the southern republic must end.

BERLIN, July 22.—The North German Lloyds and Hamburg-American lines to-day decided to raise the rates for steerage passengers from Germany to the United States by $2.50 thus bringing them up to $13.50.

PANAMA, July 22.—A premature explosion at the Curaca's side to-day killed five workmen, four white, and severely injured seventeen negroes.

More Fires.
Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected. An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

The Highland Games.

The annual Highland Games, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society, took place at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, and proved very successful. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, attended by Capt. Goodridge, A.D.C., Rt. Hon. Sir Edward and Lady Morris, Sir William and Lady Horwood, Rev. J. and Mrs. Sutherland, Rev. W. H. and Mrs. Thomas, W. A. and Mrs. Munn, Hon. M. P. and Miss Gibbs, Hon. S. D. Blandford and many other prominent citizens. Many of the events were keenly contested, particularly the ¼ mile and wrestling bouts. In the former Kavanagh finished only a yard behind Burns, and in the latter Heunbury and Roberts as the featherweights gave a good exhibition which resulted in a draw, but the honors fell to Roberts on points. Hammond and Rendell as the lightweights also tied, and after a toss, Rendell, who won, was placed against R. Marshall. An interesting bout followed in which the decision was given in favor of Marshall, after a very fine exhibition. J. Kavanagh received Mr. R. C. Smith's prize for breaking the record in the mile race, but the time, 4 min. 46 seconds, will not stand, as the course was afterwards found to be short. Power established a new record for the high jump, clearing the bar at 5 feet 3¾ inches. The following is a list of the events and winners:—

Hurdle Race.—1st, Robertson, 44 seconds; 2nd, Trebble.
100 Yards (handicap)—1st, Burns, 11 2-5 seconds; 2nd, S. Harvey.
Mile (handicap)—1st, Kavanagh, 4 minutes, 46 seconds; 2nd, Robertson.
Football Fives (a)—Nfld. vs. Wales; won by Nfld., 3 goals to nil. (b) Scotland vs. Ireland; won by Ireland, 2 goals and 1 corner to 2 goals.
220 Yards (handicap)—1st, Burns, 25 seconds; 2nd, Kendrick.
Sack Race.—1st, Haynes, 17 secs.
Hammer Throw.—1st, Coffield, 89 feet, 7 inches; 2nd, Kennedy, 78 ft.
High Jump.—1st, Power, 5 feet, 3¾ inches; 2nd, Dick.
Quarter Mile (handicap)—1st, Burns, 59 seconds; 2nd, Kavanagh.
Putting the Shot.—1st, T. Morrissey, 28 feet, 3 inches; 2nd, C. Parsons.
Football Fives.—England vs. Nfld. Won by Nfld., 3 goals and 3 corners to nil.
Broad Jump.—1st, Dick, 15 feet, 7 inches; 2nd, Trebble.
Shoe and Barrel Race.—1st, Kendrick, 1 minute, 8 seconds; 2nd, Haynes.
Pole Vault.—1st, C. Egan, 6 feet, 10 inches; 2nd, Murphy.
1 Mile Walk.—1st, Power, 9 min., 25 seconds.
Half Mile (handicap)—1st, Kavanagh, 2 minutes, 21 seconds; 2nd, Sinnott.
Half Mile (Society)—1st, Dick, 2 minutes, 30 seconds; 2nd, Robertson.
Football Fives (Final)—Nfld. vs. Ireland; won by Nfld., 3 goals to nil. The players were: Quick, Drover, C. Rendell, Tait and Fenwick.

The presentations were made by Lady Davidson and also by Lady Morris, who in doing so warmly congratulated the several winners as they came forward to receive their trophies. His Excellency the Governor displayed much interest during the high jump and many other items that were closely contested. Between the events exhibitions of dancing were given by Messrs. J. Rossley and H. Ross, and also by seven little girls who danced the Highland Fling in costumes. The little performers went through their dance in a very pleasing manner, and were each presented with a souvenir badge. Excellent music was supplied by the C.C.C. Band, under Capt. Arthur Bulley, and the pipes also contributed selections.

Successful Outing Wesley Bible Class.

The Wesley Bible Class excursion to Irvine's yesterday was a complete success. Not the slightest item occurred to mar the enjoyment of the day. The various committees had things so systematically arranged as to decorations, sports, music, evening programme, fireworks, etc., that it was indeed a fine time. Detraining at the Octagon at two o'clock in ideal weather, the breeze from the pond and the charming scenery all around made all feel very happy. Many went walking around, some angling for trout, others enjoyed the games of football, racing, etc. At six over 100 sat down to tea. The class is about one hundred, so there was a good gathering of themselves, lady friends and guests. After partaking of the excellent menu supplied by the proprietor, Mr. Poole, a dozen members of the Guards Band, Messrs. Dutot, Garland, Peet, Pike, Noseworthy and others furnished splendid music. Then the crowd thinned away to many points until recalled at 8.30 for the concert. This was a first class affair several being encored, particularly Miss Walker. The accompaniments were played by Miss Flora Pike and Mr. James Pratt. The distribution of prizes followed, and were handed the winners by Mrs. Royle. The President of the Class, Mr. A. Rooney, then gave a capital address and introduced Rev. Mr. Royle, who struck a very happy note by his witty remarks, expressed his gratification on the success of the day and his pleasure on being present. The superintendent of the Sunday school Mr. A. W. Martin, was also called for, and congratulated all on the admirable arrangements so faultlessly carried out. He was proud of the class, their loyalty to their officers and the esprit de corps amongst themselves. Mr. B. Taylor also spoke. A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Harry Chaplin to the caterer, Mr. Poole, to the members of the band and performers. This was seconded by Mr. J. Driscoll, supported by others and carried by acclamation. Fireworks and fun followed, and home-ward bound, singing all the way, a very merry party reached the station at 11.30 p.m. The genial Mr. Vey made some pictures of the class and visitors and they should sell like hot cakes.

A Contradiction.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—In the Herald of Monday past, I notice a report of the unfortunate disaster which occurred here on Saturday morning, when the Church and School and two homes were destroyed by fire, and the writer states that the fire evidently originated from sparks from a pipe in the pocket of a coat of one of the workmen, which was hung up near the confessional, where the fire started. Mr. Editor, I wish to state emphatically that this version is entirely incorrect and misleading, and the writer either received his information from a poorly informed source, or else somebody is anxious to fasten the blame upon the workman who hung up his coat in the Chapel. I am the only man who was working with Mr. Nangle on that particular morning, and I desire to state publicly that I wore no coat that morning, nor did I bring a coat from home. This statement is a true statement of fact and can be borne out by others. As to the origin of the fire, that is a mystery to me as well as to the foreman, but in justice to myself, I cannot allow a wrong impression to prevail which could only be construed into casting a reflection upon myself. With thanks for space. I am, yours truly, THOMAS DWYER. Kellgrews, July 22nd, 1914.

Home Rule Conference

PESSIMISTIC VIEWS PREVAIL. Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. At the close of the Cabinet Council last night, it became known there was only the smallest prospect of the Home Rule conference arriving at an agreement. Its termination when it reassembles to-day, is regarded as certain. Carson, it is understood, stands out for the complete exclusion of the six counties of Ulster from the operation of the Bill, including Fermanagh and Tyrone, while Redmond declines to go beyond the concessions. Asquith already has made him permitting referendums. Unless some way out of the difficulty is discovered at the eleventh hour, it is believed the Premier will be obliged to announce the failure of the conference. Asquith's assurances to Parliament, assuming full responsibility for the King's speech, declaring no constitutional precedent had been contravened, allayed much of the angry feeling among Liberals, or rather transferred it from the King to the Premier himself. Active negotiations are proceeding outside of Buckingham Palace between the party leaders. The Premier had an interview with Lord Lansdowne and Andrew Bonar Law, opposition leaders, between two separate sittings of the Cabinet. All kinds of rumors are current, one that Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, representing a minority in the Cabinet favoring the Clean Cut exclusion of Ulster, had threatened to resign; another that the King will make another dramatic move at the Conference, and that a speedy general election has become inevitable. The Unionist morning papers take a gloomy view of the prospects of the Home Rule Conference. They assert yesterday's meeting showed that agreement on the exclusion question was impossible and expect the Conference will be broken up to-day. The Morning Post says it has a reason to believe that one of the causes which determined the calling of the Home Rule Conference was a series of recommendations from the Army Council, representing that a grave military situation might arise from a civil war in Ireland, and adds that it understands that the King's speech to the Conference contained reference to matters not strictly Irish, which with the consent of the Conference were omitted from the published report of the speech.

VANCOUVER, To-Day. Rumors are afloat that Hindus have again taken possession of the Komagata Maru, that they have gotten rid of the crew and that four members of the crew have been drowned. Up to the present there has been no means of verifying these reports. It is further stated that two Immigration officials are aboard the Maru whose names cannot be ascertained and that they are being held as hostages. The sixth regiment has been called out and is now patrolling the wharves, while the launch Winimac is patrolling the inlet throwing her searchlight around waters. Gurdit Singh the Hindu leader sprang a new one on the Immigration authorities last night. He sent ashore a letter to Superintendent Reid declaring he would not sail this morning if a number of things are not done for him. Gurdit is kicking about grub. Thousands of dollars worth of provisions were put aboard yesterday, but the Hindu wants more. "Unless I get these things aboard, it will be impossible for us to sail to-morrow morning" is the decisive way the letter put it. Because of the new turn of affairs, Superintendent Reid again called on the authorities to decide whether or not to force matter.

Plan to Steal Murillos.

Mexico City, July 18.—A bold attempt to rob the San Carlos Fine Art School here of six of its priceless paintings, four of which were Murillos, was made Thursday night last by Ignacio Martinez, a young Mexican artist, who recently returned from Italy, where he had been studying art. Senor Martinez hid himself in the San Carlos school after closing hours and shortly after midnight he took down the paintings, which he attempted to steal. Before leaving the gallery with the paintings he started a fire in the hall, expecting it would spread rapidly, and destroy all evidences of the theft. Luckily the fire was discovered by employees of the school living on a lower floor, before it caused serious damage. The absence of the paintings was immediately discovered, and Martinez was caught while he was attempting to leave the building with the paintings. The latter were restored to their places. Martinez confessed that he intended to take the paintings to New York or Europe and sell them for at least six million pesos. The Murillos are "The Immaculate Conception," "St. John the Evangelist," "St. Sebastian" and "St. John of God."

Honor Paid to Sir Edward Clark

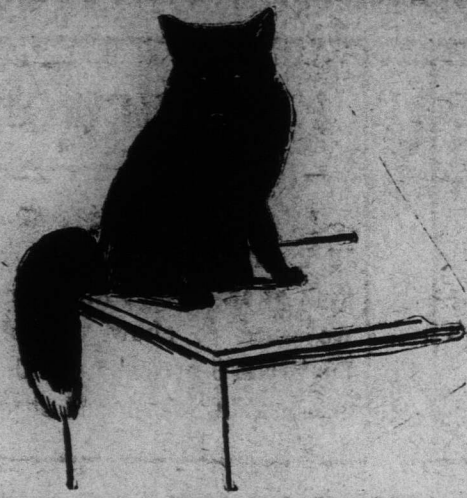

London, July 18.—There was a notable gathering at the Bar at Lincoln's Inn last night at a banquet tendered to Right Hon. Sir Edward Clarke, the noted lawyer, who is retiring after fifty years' practice. Among the guests were the Lord High Chancellor, the Attorney-General and the Lord Chief Justice. Sir Edward Clarke has handled some celebrated cases and was Solicitor-General from 1886 to 1892. He was counsel in the trial of Dr. Jameson and was also in the Baccarat case. He has written a number of works on law and other subjects. He was born in 1841, and was admitted to the practice of law at Lincoln's Inn in 1864.

WILL GIVE SMITH A RETURN MATCH IF HE WANTS IT.

London, July 17.—"If Gunboat Smith wants a return match right away, he is not going to encounter the slightest difficulty," said Carpentier's manager this afternoon. "It is Carpentier's wish, as it is my wish that the King will make another dramatic move at the Conference, and that a speedy general election has become inevitable. The Unionist morning papers take a gloomy view of the prospects of the Home Rule Conference. They assert yesterday's meeting showed that agreement on the exclusion question was impossible and expect the Conference will be broken up to-day. The Morning Post says it has a reason to believe that one of the causes which determined the calling of the Home Rule Conference was a series of recommendations from the Army Council, representing that a grave military situation might arise from a civil war in Ireland, and adds that it understands that the King's speech to the Conference contained reference to matters not strictly Irish, which with the consent of the Conference were omitted from the published report of the speech."

Foot Passengers.

Pedestrians should be suppressed, all motorists avow; long since they ceased to be a jest, and they're a nuisance now. There's nothing harder on a car than running over men; it gives the works a deadly jar, and wrecks the springs again. This spring I bought a new machine that took most all my pile; I filled its tank with gasoline, to try it for a mile; two neighbors got beneath the wheels—their nerve was cold and raw; what wonder that a driver feels there ought to be a law? It takes all pleasure from the game, it spoils the joyous graft, to find that some wayfarer's frame is wound around a shaft. The walkers say they have a right to alley, street and lane, and just to demonstrate their spite, they let themselves be slain. Pedestrians will go too far, they're claiming now, 'tis said, that every man who runs a car should stop and plant his dead. With jealousy their breasts are filled; since they can't ride in cars, they take delight in being killed, in gaining wounds and scars; by this they're hoping to create a sentiment adverse to this, the pastime of the great—could jealousy do worse? Our legislatures and our courts should shield us from such shocks, should guard the noblest of all sports, and jail the man who walks.

The Whaling Voyage

POOR OUTLOOK.

The whale fishery this year promises to be the worst on record. The catch for the whole fleet so far is 24 fish divided as follows:—

Hump, Puma and Lynx, 6 each; Cabot, 4 and Cachelot, 2. The latter, though having the smallest catch now, is reckoned to be the most successful as she can continue operations later in the season than the others and last year at this time she had neither whale to her credit.

To-Night's Match.

The Stars and C. E. I. will be the contestants in to-night's football game, and the players are as follows:—

C. E. I.—Voisey, goal; L. Stick, Hartley, backs; R. Stick, Drover, Fox, halves; Hunt, Evans, M. Churchill, Ankinleck, E. Churchill, forwards.

STAR.—Phelan goal; Hart, Thompson, backs; Christopher, Vinnicombe, Kavanagh, halves; Phelan, Caul, Brien, Morgan, Power, forwards.

Not His Fault.

A certain shopwalker in one of the large drapery establishments in the West End of London was noted for his severity to those under him.

One day he approached a junior assistant, whose counter a lady had just left.

"You let that lady go without making a purchase?" he asked severely.

"Yes, sir, I—"

"And she was at your counter fully fifteen minutes?"

"Doubtless; but then, you see—"

"Exactly. I saw that, in spite of all the questions she put to you, you scarcely answered her, and never attempted to get what she wanted."

"Well, but—"

"You need not make any excuse. I shall report you for carelessness."

"Well, I hadn't what she wanted."

"What was that?"

"Six shillings. She's a book canvasser, selling 'The Life of Napoleon the Great!'"

The shopwalker retired crestfallen, and the audible titters of all the assistants in the department, who greatly enjoyed his discomfiture.

The Banner of St. George.

It comes from the misty ages;
The Banner of England's might,
The blood red cross of the brave St. George.

That burns on a field of white;
It speaks of the deathless heroes,
On fame's bright page enrolled,
And bids great England ne'er forget
The glorious deeds of old.

O'er many a cloud of battle,
That Banner has floated wide,
It shone like a star o'er the valiant hearts.

That dashed the Armada's pride;
For ever amid the thunders,
The sailor could do or die,
While tongues of flame leaped forth
below

And the flag of St. George was high.

O ne'er may the flag beloved
Tartan in a strife unmet,
But ever give strength to the righteous arm

And hope to the hearts oppressed;
It says through the passing ages—
"Be brave if your cause is right,"
Like the soldier saint whose cross of red

Still burns on your Banner white.

Great race whose Empire of splendour
Has dazzled a wondering world;
May the flag that floats o'er thy wide domains

Be long to all winds unfurled;
Three crosses in concord blended
The Banner of Britain's might;
But the central gem of the ensign fair

Is the cross of the dauntless Knight.

Regatta Notes.

This day fortnight and the Regatta will be come and gone.

Last evening the boat houses were crowded with intending rowers while their was a surprisingly large gathering of enthusiasts on the bank.

The cutie man with the stop watch was very much in evidence, although handicapped in judging the "times" owing to the absence of the buoys at the foot of the pond.

The Torgay fishermen had their first spin for the season at 7 o'clock last evening in the Togo with "Sonny" Whitten again in charge of the tiller ropes. Only two of last year's crew are left. The new team are not up to expectations and will have to get busy and improve to win.

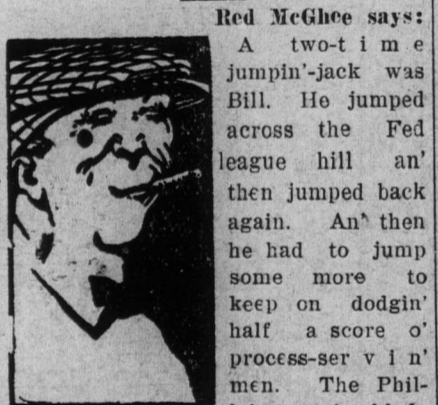

The Logy Bay boys were out at the same time in the Mary and Andy Devereaux brought them over the lake a couple of times. Judging by their exhibition last evening those who profess to know say that Logy Bay will fetch championship honours "dead easy" this year.

Come on Outer Cove and pull up. Don't stay in the background.

All told there are now approximately 50 crews practicing.

The public request that was given up in despair has been at last acceded to and last evening two men and a horse were engaged clearing the rubble around the edge of the lake on the north side.

Bill Killifer.

Red McGhee says: A two-time jumpin'-jack was Bill. He jumped across the Fed league hill an' then jumped back again. An' then he had to jump some more to keep on dodgin' half a score o' process-er v i n' men. The Phil-lies chuckled: "Bill is ours." The Chifeds hiked for legal powers to rule Bill couldn't play. Judge Sessions in Grand Rapids, Mich., said: "Nit, you guys don't get your wish. The game ain't played that way."

The Chifed gang appealed o' course, but meanwhile Killifer, of horse, was playin' right along. Each day he gets behind his mask an' goes about his catchin' task like not a thing was wrong. The higher court in Cincy town horned in an' threw the Chifeds down jus' like the low court judge. So Bill plays on with Doolin's nine an' tries his doggone best to shine. The Feds can't make him budge.

He's worth the sorap they made, at that. He ain't no Ty Cobb at the bat—but backstop? Say, he's there! Last year he caught near every game. His phiz'd hit the hall o' fame with-out this court affair. The hammer gang may treat him rough for this here double jumpin' stuff—he'll get a lot of knocks. But while Bill keeps on playin' ball Red Doolin's laugh will drown 'em all, it's safe to bet your socks.

Drying Up Niagara.

"The industrial development of Niagara has so steadily increased that at the end of the year 1913 nearly half a million electric horse-power was developed and sold by the various companies at Niagara. It is estimated that if every drop of water were diverted from the Falls into power-houses, from one to two million horse power might be developed. Which ever estimate we take," says the Outlook, "the maximum or the minimum, it is apparent that at present we are from one-quarter to one-half way towards drying up Niagara as a scenic waterfall. It is certainly a proper thing for the people of the United States to consider and determine what general policy they wish to pursue with regard to Niagara Falls.

"There are only three possible policies. One is that the Falls shall be made wholly a scenic asset of the country and shall not be used in any way, shape, or manner for industrial purposes. The second is that it shall wholly be given up to the utilitarian service of the people, and that all effort to preserve its scenic qualities shall be abandoned except in so far as the power-houses may be made neat, orderly and architecturally respectable. The third policy is to fix absolutely the point beyond which it is not safe to go industrially, and beyond that point to preserve the Falls wholly for their scenic beauty.

"It is physically conceivable that all the power houses may be torn down, and all the machinery deported, and all the wires coiled up and carried away, thus returning the Falls to the condition in which they were in aboriginal days. This, however, is wholly impracticable, and nobody advocates it.

"It is equally conceivable, and much more logical, to advocate the abandonment of the Falls to industrial purposes. There are many good citizens who reason that the utilitarian needs of society demand the sacrifice of Niagara Falls as a phenomenon of natural scenery. We do not share this belief. It is this policy which has destroyed many of our forests, denuded many of our mountainsides, and has made the country around many of our great mines barbarous and distressful to the eye.

"If the people really want Niagara saved from a complete absorption by those who believe in the utilitarian policy they must make their wishes felt by the President, the Secretary of War, and by Congress. We think ourselves that the danger-point has been reached, and that no further water for hydro-electro purposes can be used upon the American side, and no further amount of power can be admitted from the Canadian side, without endangering the scenic value of the Falls."

The Waiters Took Their Revenge.

A story is going in Parliamentary circles about Senator "Tom" Davis, the "father" of the Anti-Tipping Bill. It was during the height of the debate in the Upper Chamber on the bill, which it will be remembered got a front place in the despatches on several days. On one of the days when he was not on duty, Senator "Tom" ran down to Montreal, and put up at the Queen's Hotel.

Dinner time came, and the Senator went in and took his seat at the table. He sat in undisturbed quiet for a few minutes, and no water came near to interrupt his cogitations. Then he began to look about him. He looked. He snapped his fingers. Still he could attract the attention of none of the napkinned gentlemen. Finally he got up and strode indignantly over to the head waiter. He reported the case and made a complaint.

"It's not my fault, sir," replied the head waiter. "I have done my best for you. I have asked every waiter in the room to wait on you, and none of them will do it."

Divorced Life
By Helen Hesson Fuesle

The Ingenue Again

The afternoon sunshine, flooding Marian's room, found her toiling in dogged determination over her writing pad. The flash of an idea had come to her out of the turbulent currents of life on leaving the magazine office after her chat with Gilley, and she strove to convert it into marketable shape.

All over New York there were similar little hives of feverish industry, where men and women, old and young, were driving their pencils or pens, or thumping their jabbering typewriters with the same studied seriousness, urging into words and sentences some idea which had sifted into their minds out of the city's confusing sights and sounds. Pitiful records of forlorn ambitions! The bounding dice of hope struggling to endure! The clinking battles against odds in the groping search for fame!

"Gibberish!" exclaimed Marian, as she ran her eye down a completed page. She tore the sheet of paper into ribbons, and listened to a hurdy-gurdy in the street below tearing into more syncopated ribbons the mild spring air.

That evening she slipped out of the boarding house with aimless purpose.
She dreaded to spend a long evening
alone in her room with her ambition and her rejected manuscripts. The Barkers were spending the day and the night over in East Orange. So Marian set out in her quest of diversion, and chance led her to one of the down-town theatres where second-rate stock performances were billed.
She spent a quarter for a seat in the first balcony.

The rising curtain held a startling surprise for her. She beheld back of the footlights none other than her friend, the sprightly ingenue whom she had known and developed a great affection for during her brief engagement with Ratzenhauer back home.

The actress' familiar tones came to Marian like a voice from the past,
like a warm glow of friendship in a strange city. With daggers Marian awaited the fall of the final curtain, then hurried around to the stage
door, to find and greet the player.

The "stage door Johnnie" is the pest of the girl who is brought near to the theatre's professional portals. Unbidden, he haunts the dimly-lighted alleyway which leads to the stage door. Musical comedies, with their shimmering, dancing choruses and rollicking music, draw him and his brethren like moths to a flame. But his responses even to the most staid and serious drama. Its women, emerging from their toil, lead him into the most absurd advances. Its footlights seem to mesmerize him. Marian had already encountered the pestilential tribe. To-night, as she gilded apprehensively up the dim alley, she was accosted by a young fellow who swaggered toward her with the grand assurance of a veteran in the game.

"Hello, you beautiful doll," he began. "What's your hurry, kiddo?" he demanded, starting after her as she hastened by, filled with loathing and disgust. She went to the stage door, slipped quickly past the doorkeeper
and inquired for the ingenue.

She had not long to wait. The young actress soon came swinging along, the flush of traces of her make-up still in evidence on her face.

"Winthrop, you dear old tramp,
what are you doing in the Big Town?"
demanded the ingenue, throwing her arms around Marian and kissing her cheek.

Marian hastened by with loathing and disgust.

"Gee, but I'm glad to see you! I made my getaway from that tank-show in the middle west, and I've landed here like a cat. The next time I wander away from Manhattan, it'll have to be raining bullets—believe me! Say, I'm as hungry as a bear.
Come on, I'll lead you to a chow-house worthy the name, and you can tell me the story of why you pulled your stakes there and dug out without kissing me good-bye."

Sold Auto for 5 Cents.

Young Wife in Need of Money—Search for Buyer.

Los Angeles, July 11.—How a young wife when in need of money disposed of an automobile, given to her by her husband, for a nickel, came to light
when Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Williams asked for a warrant for the arrest of Henry Warren, a moving picture man. Warren is the man who "bought" the machine.

A month ago Mr. Williams gave a valuable automobile to his young wife. Mrs. Williams wanted to go to San Francisco to visit friends and decided to sell the car. Warren offered $300. She accepted the offer. Warren told her he didn't have the money with him but would meet her at the Lankershim Hotel and pay her. She said she wanted something down and he gave her a nickel, saying she could use it for carfare and get to the meeting place. She waited, but he didn't appear.

Boys Were Stung.

A local merchant who went on Monday afternoon to gather up the boxes at the rear of his store so that the boys wouldn't burn them on the bonfires on election night, discovered a huge wasp's nest in one of the boxes,
and foxily left it for the kids to take.
As he expected a big bonfire was lit
on the street, when it became known that Mr. Cargill was elected, and the boys in their search for fuel to keep the blaze going, came upon the joke
box and were conveying it in pomp to the flames when the wasps emerged and lit on them, causing a howl and scatter in the ranks that listened awfully as if the White Hopes were in pain.

Household Notes

Scald new brooms in hot suds to toughen the fiber.

If you wish fish to be crisp, do not cover it while cooking.

When serving apples whole on the table, polish them with olive oil.

Celery is a good nerve tonic, and it is said to ward off rheumatism.

If a chicken or duck is tough,
steam it for an hour before roasting.

When ironing, have a number of coat hangers upon which to put waists, children's dresses, etc.

The preserve closet should be cool
and dark. If it has a glass door, hang a black curtain over it.

If the contents of the garbage can are drenched with kerosene daily it will discourage the flies.

If the outside of wire screens are given a coat of white paint the outside world cannot see in.

Apply a few drops of paraffin to a cut and it will give instant relief and assist in the healing.

Do not throw away one drop of sour milk. Many things can be made with it if one knows how.

The furniture will be improved by being wiped off occasionally with a cloth dipped in linseed oil.

Sliced pineapple is much more delicious if sliced and sugared about twelve hours before serving.

Cotton crepe in white and colors is a labor saver when made up into children's underwear and dresses.

It takes no longer to prepare ices than to make pies, and they are far more wholesome in hot weather.

To measure hard butter and other solid fats, pack solidly into a cup or spoon and level with a knife.

All remnants of fat should be saved, whether cooked or uncooked;
then try them out and clarify them.

The short grass trimmings from the lawn make very good food for fowls, especially if their runs are bare.

If pease are trifle old, try boiling
them with a lettuce leaf and a tablespoonful of sugar in the water.

Summer bed spreads should be made of material that is easily washed. There is nothing prettier than the inexpensive dimity.

Tin is an undesirable material for a coffee pot. Tannic acid acts on such metal and is apt to form a poisonous compound.

Two small pointed knives and a small scrubbing brush, for the purpose of preparing vegetables, should be found in every kitchen.

Meat should be removed from the paper as soon as it comes from the market, otherwise the paper will absorb some of the juices.

If one's finger is swollen so tightly that a ring will not come off, the best way to remove it is to dip the finger in ice-cold soapsuds.

In summer food must be carefully watched or it will spoil. If the milk bottle stands on the doorstep a minute too long the milk may turn sour.

A little vinegar added to the water in which vegetables are washed will prove effectual in removing dirt and insects. Salt will do the same thing.

Several thicknesses of disks cut from the good portions of the kitchen old cloth make excellent mats to put under the flower pots in the various windows.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia
and Nitrate of Soda are the two prin-

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a

MARSHALL BROTHERS.

Shall We Promise Obey?

By RUTH CAMERON.

My readers friends have been contributing some interesting points of view lately. Two of them have something to say to you to-day on the most discussed institution in the civilized world.

"I was interested in your article some days ago in stinging with money towards one of its parents," writes one woman. "Do you think that that often happens? It seems to me that the opposite is more frequently the case. I have known of so many girls who were brought up in foolish luxury, and not taught to do anything useful. When they married their parents gave them a large wedding and trousseau and perhaps furnished their house. Then the generosity stopped.

"The girl loved the man she married and was ignorantly willing to try to do her best to make ends meet—but her best was pretty poor. No one can learn to cook and sew in a week or a month, with all the good will in the world. Sometimes the girl tried to keep a cheap, incompetent maid, and sometimes she attempted the cooking herself. Often she struggled bravely for years, spending many hours doing work she hated and was unfitted for. Her parents seemed to think that their duty was ended the moment the daughter was given to a husband to care for. Often they, the parents, lived in real luxury, but they apparently did not realize the desires of the child they had brought up in idleness or they declared that it was well for young people to learn the value of money.

"You know that in France a girl is either taught to do something or she has a certain lot settled on her at her marriage so that she is able to live in something like the comfort she has been accustomed to at home. We are supposed to be a practical nation, but on the subject of money and marriage we have a lot to learn.

"The black type are mine because I think that is a tremendously suggestive sentence.

The other contributor has strong ideas about the marriage service. Much has been said about omitting the word obey, and I believe the legality of marriages solemnized without that word has been questioned. My letter friend would satisfy the advocate of equal rights in another way.

"Instead of removing the word obey from the marriage service," she writes, "each should promise to obey the reasonable requests of the other, for if there is not obedience on both sides and both are obstinate the house will be divided against itself and a house divided against itself cannot stand.

"When people with unselfish natures fall in love their desire is to please, to obey and to serve each other, and if both disagree on any matter they generously take turns in yielding to each other's wishes as they believe in giving each other a square deal. They believe in the old-fashioned motto that marriage halves one's rights and doubles one's duties.

"Here is another error in the marriage ceremony that an enlightened clergy ought to notice. Is it honest and sensible to ask people about to marry to promise to love and cherish each other. Love is not under human control and comes and goes irrespective of promises. Everybody knows that ill treatment will eventually kill love. Where people seem to love the unworthy they probably love an ideal of what the unworthy one once was, not the degenerate. The question should be, 'Do you love,' etc."

Self Starters.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old St. John's."
A self starter is a cruel and unwarranted attack upon the prosperity of the medical profession.

It is an attachment to an automobile which supplies the horsepower necessary for cranking the same. Before the self-starter was invented it was necessary for the owner of the automobile to supply this horsepower. This made it difficult to decide whether to classify the automobile as a pleasure or a penal institution.

In the early days, automobiles were started with a crank. By exerting 1 1/2 horsepower, the owner was able to turn the motor over so fast that it got the habit. Sometimes, however, the motor absent-mindedly started backward. When this happened the crank few back and hit the cranker, producing broken wrists, fractured shoulders, bent skulls and other phenomena.

The mule is supposed to be an accurate shot with his hind legs, but the mule is no marksman at all beside the automobile, which can reach over and slap its owner on the wrist nine times out of ten tries in cold weather.

Since the self-starter has been invented the automobile has become a great pleasure and is also so healthful that the only way to get into trouble with it is to run into something. Nowadays, he driver not only presses a button, but he does the rest—at least he does the resting, while the small electric motor, which can not be kicked in the head by a crank, no matter what happens, starts the machine.

Self-starters have worked so well on automobiles that their use should be extended. There is no reason why a self-starter could not be applied to the young man who goes to call on a young lady and stays until she excuses herself to set the breakfast table.

If a mule could be equipped with a self-starter the mere look of chagrin on his face as he stopped balking without any intention on his part, would be well worth the cost.

It is even possible that nine or ten self-starters applied to a conservative politician might jar him loose from the glorious, graft-spangled past. But this is asking a great deal of any appliance, no matter how ingenious.

Single Tax Now Through Alberta.

Little Or No Desire to Revert to Old System, Says Deputy Minister Perre.

Edmonton, July 18.—Single tax is now in force practically throughout the province of Alberta, which claims the distinction of being the only single tax province in the Dominion. With one or two minor exceptions all taxes but those on land values have been abolished and there is little or no desire to revert to the old system of taxing improvements.

"The fact that this province has gone so far in the elimination of taxation on personal property and improvements is causing a widespread interest," says John Perre, deputy minister of municipalities for Alberta, in the annual report of the department, "and I have received queries in regard to our system of taxation from practically all parts of the world."

"An important change is going on in Alberta in regard to rural self-government. This is being brought about by the gradual change of local improvement districts into rural municipalities with their larger power of rural municipalities now the rural municipalities set passed at the beginning of 1913, rural districts are organizing into rural municipalities and at the present the number of rural municipalities now approaches the number of local improvement districts. The fear that reorganization on the new basis would result in increased taxation has not been realized."

Wife Didn't Get Supper.

Hubby Locked Her Out, Says Egyptian Papyrus.

London, July 13.—At Burlington House will shortly be seen Egyptian papyrus which throws new light on the lives of the ancients, and which show that men and women were much the same thousands of years ago as now.

In one place we find an inquest on a slave who had fallen off a roof in his endeavors to get a good view of dancing girls performing in a harem; again, there are allusions to horse racing and athletic sports, with the names of the runners.

A gay spark of those early times left with his "uncle," the pawnbroker, while an ill-used wife filed a curious indictment against her ill-tempered husband, who locked her out of the house because she dared to go to church instead of stopping at home to get his supper.

Head-on Collision.

Engineer of Freight Train Sealed to Death at Edmonton.

Edmonton, Alta., July 14.—In a head-on collision in the Edmonton yards of the C.N.R. last night between an incoming freight train from Morinville, and a yard engine switching some freight cars, George Mitchell, engineer of the freight train, was sealed to death by escaping steam.

Frank Scott, fireman of the freight train, saw the danger and jumped, shouting to Mitchell to do the same. Instead the engineer blew his whistle and jammed his brakes but was unable to stop in time.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessary this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—4217.

Death Rate Goes Down

Lowest for Week in History of New York City.

New York, July 13.—The lowest weekly death rate in the history of the city was that of the week ended July 4, according to the bulletin issued by the health department.

There were 1,160 deaths, or 10.84 a thousand, which is the first time that the weekly death rate has gone below 11 a thousand. The rate for the corresponding week of last year was 12.54 and of 1901 was 40.82, which was due to the excessive heat.

Teaching Greenland How to Fish.

In 1908 and 1909, at the instance of the Danish Minister of the Interior, practical scientific investigations were conducted on the West Coast of Greenland, under the direction of Herr Adolf Jensen, with the object of starting a regular fishery there, and ascertaining how it could best be utilized to the advantage of the natives.

"In his report," says a writer in the Fishing Gazette, "the leader of the expedition advised the formation of fishing stations at a number of points on the coast, and sending out Danish fishermen to teach the Greenlanders how to manipulate the modern contrivances now in use, and how to prepare the fish for export."

"On the basis of this report action was taken, and when it is remembered that such employment used to be looked upon with contempt by the Greenlanders even in seasons of severe want caused by the failure of the sealing, the way in which it has been taken up by them may be looked upon as highly satisfactory. The experiments were conducted from eight different places along the West Coast, extending from about 60 deg. to 68 deg. N.L., and they were made under the direction of seven fishermen who had been sent out from Denmark, and of the Danish personnel of the 'Colonies.' In each case the plan adopted was the same. With his motor boat the professional towed a number of the Greenland boats to the fishing grounds. While there he instructed the men as to the proper methods of baiting, setting the lines, taking these in, and so forth, afterwards towing them back to the station. He then showed them how to clean and salt the fish, and put and pack them in barrels.

"Most of the fishing is done during the summer months, when the fish approach the land, and can be taken from the small craft that are employed. The halibut fishing forms an exception, inasmuch as it goes on all the year round; but at the station of Sydproven business in fish is suspended from May 15, till July 15, that being the period when the field ice brings with it to the coast the great hooded seals, from which the Greenlanders reap annually so rich a harvest.

"While thus not interfering with the regular sealing, the fishing industry is expected to induce a good many men to give up reindeer hunting. Should such prove the case, it can hardly be described as matter for regret, as in the past vast numbers of reindeer have been destroyed by the natives for the sake of the skins and sinews alone, the remainder being left to the foxes and ravens.

"As showing the effect upon the Greenlanders of the fishing thus instituted, it appears that some of them are building new houses, others have been purchasing modern rifles, and some have even deposited money in the savings bank. When the difficulties are recalled under which the fishing is carried on, the hard climate, with frequent gales and fogs, the constant interference by drift ice and finally the Greenlanders' incomplete comprehension of the necessity for regular work, the results are looked upon as very promising."

Hearty Reception Accorded His Grace.

There arrived by the Red Cross Liner Stephano this morning from Halifax His Grace Archbishop How-ley, accompanied by Rev. Monsignor Reardon and Rev. Monsignor St.
John, who had been on the usual decennial official visit to His Holiness
the Pope in Rome.

The three church dignitaries enjoyed their trip immensely and are looking well. They left here last winter before the Lenten season commenced.
Their first experience was on board the S. S. Morwenna which ship picked up in a crippled condition and towed into Boston a big coal collier. It may be remembered on that occasion that owing to a mistake in the transmission of a wireless message the Morwenna was thought to be the wrecked vessel and naturally enough anxiety was generally felt for the esteemed dignitaries. Since then the clergy visited the Eternal City, Ireland and several American cities. On returning this morning they were given a hearty reception. Long before the ship hove in sight of the Narrows hundreds of people, young and old, could be seen wending their way to the Red Cross pier. When the steamer was docked the pier was thronged with people while representative officers from the R. C. Societies boarded the steamer and gave His Grace and Monsignors Reardon and St. John a warm welcome after which they drove to the Palace.

When the ship berthed at the pier
the joy bells from the Cathedral peal-ed forth a welcome to His Grace and party, which united with the hearty cheers of those assembled on the wharf.

The Cathedral grounds are beautifully decorated to-day and a string of bunting extends from the Cathedral to Rawlin's Cross.

To-night the several societies will wait on His Grace at the Cathedral steps and present him with an address of welcome on behalf of the R.
C. Community after which a display of fireworks will be given.

Garden Parties.

ST. PATRICK'S.

The Garden Party in aid of St. Patrick's Church, held yesterday afternoon at Bowling Park was largely attended, and proved highly successful.
The grounds were prettily decorated,
and the stalls were laden with fruits,
loaves, cakes, candies, etc., and the ladies in charge were kept busy catering to the wants of their patrons. Excellent teas were served during the afternoon, while an interesting series
of sports enlivened the proceedings,
and contributed much to the amusement of the younger folks. The T.A.
band furnished the music and discouraged selections specially prepared for the occasion. Amongst the visitors were Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, Rev.
Fr. McDermott and several other clergy, Rt. Hon. the Premier, Messrs.
M. J. Kennedy and W. J. Ellis and several other prominent citizens. The proceeds of the affair were quite satisfactory, and the committees are to be congratulated on the success of the event.

ST. THOMAS'S.

A most enjoyable and highly successful Garden Party was also held at St. Thomas's Rectory grounds yesterday afternoon. The affair was largely attended and was honored by the presence of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson. The grounds which are naturally adapted for such an affair, were further beautified by suitable decorations which gave the place an attractive appearance. The tables were placed in the shade of the trees and the ladies in charge did a brisk business, and at the close practically all the goods had been sold. Punch and Judy, and Aunt Polly did much to make the day pleasant for the little ones, and the C.L.B. Band furnished an excellent programme of music. The proceeds, which were quite substantial, will be devoted to Church purposes. Congratulations are due the promoters whose untiring efforts resulted in making the Garden Party such a success.

In Field Unconscious.

Last evening the police found a man who resides on Mundy Pond Road, lying in a field off Central St.
in an advanced state of intoxication
and bleeding profusely from a gash in the back of the head. It is thought that he fell on a sharp stone or piece of glass and was rendered unconscious. The man was taken to the police station, where Dr. Fritchard attended to his wounds. The police are enquiring into the matter.

Mr. W. Piercey of James Baird, Ltd., arrived by the Stephano this morning from New York and other American and Canadian centres where he has been on business for his firm.

Doing Well.

We thank Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Deputy Minister of Customs for the following information:

Thos. Hynes of Woods Island, while fishing 10 miles off Cape St. George picked up a case containing 4 pieces dress goods, 1 piece velvet, 1 piece padding canvas, 1 piece flannelette, 1/2 doz. table cloths, 1 doz. towels.

The case must have been a long time in the water as the goods were
of very little value.

The schooner "Carl" sailed from Ramea to-day with 2,800 qtls codfish.

There has been the finest fishery at Lamaline, for traps, the last 3 days,
in the memory of the oldest trapper;
approximately 15,000 qtls landed between Lords Cove and Point May.

Wedding Bells.

JANES—FORSEY.

On Wednesday afternoon, July 15th,
Miss Belle Janes of Clareville, Nfld., was united in marriage to John E.
Forsey Esq. of Lewisporte by Rev. J.
Wilfred Winsor. The happy couple left by the express en route to Grand Falls where the honeymoon will be spent. Their future home will be at Lewisport Newfoundland. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents. Many friends extend congratulations. Boston papers please copy.

Wanderers Win.

The protested baseball game between the B.I.S. and Wanderers, took place at St. Bon's field yesterday afternoon, and resulted in the defeat of the B.I.S. by 13 runs to 2. The exhibition was a good one, though the fielding of the B.I.S. was rather weak.
Messrs. Chesman and Smith were the umpires. The Wanderers will now play in the final game for the Reid Cup at the Mount Cashel Garden Party on Wednesday next.

At the Crescent.

The public of St. John's are to be favoured with an opportunity of seeing the 1913 World baseball series at the Crescent Picture Palace when the two real special feature: New York Giants versus Philadelphia Athletics are seen in action. The great picture is 2,000 feet long, very interesting, showing the different players and the individual work during the historical clash. Two other feature subjects and a popular song comprises the grand programme. Feature for tomorrow, "In the wilds of Africa."

Cape Report.

talion and Band will parade at the Armoury to-night at 7 o'clock. As the Corps will be required to line the grounds, a large attendance is expected.

FISH SLACKING OFF.—There was a very poor sign of codfish on the local grounds yesterday. The voyage thus far is good.

A Very Busy Child.

"I have so many things to do,
I don't know how I shall get through.
"To-day I had to watch the rain
Come sliding down the window-pane.
"And I was humming all the time,
Around my head, a kind of rhyme;
"And blowing softly on the glass,
To see the dimness come and pass.
"I made a picture, with my breath
Rubbed out to show the underneath.
"I built a city on the floor;
And then I went and was a War.
"And I escaped from square to square
That's greenest on the carpet there.
"Until at last I came to Us,
But it was very dangerous;
"Because if I had stepped outside,
I made believe I should have died!
"And now I have the boat to mend,
And all our supper to pretend.
"I am so busy every day,
I haven't any time to play."
—Josephine Preston Peabody.

An Englishman's Home in 1272.

Building Still Standing Among the Kentish Hills.

In a fold of the Kentish Hills, surrounded by apple orchards and hop gardens, there stands a humble building whose walls are eloquent of the past. It is almost the only one of its kind left standing—so far as the exterior is concerned—in its entirety. The adjoining land was granted to one of his knights by Edward I, in 1272 and the most reliable antiquarian opinion is in favour of the house having been built shortly after. Our knight in the matter of building did not despise the record of the past, for he adopted the Norman method then dying out, of placing his living rooms on the second floor. This made for safety, and the ground floor apartments were simply windowless, dungeons and storerooms.

In those days they built for strength and the walls of Kentish rag, are of great thickness, calculated to withstand the assaults of any quarrelsome neighbors, while by the turret which gives admittance by a stone spiral staircase to the living rooms above, is guarded top and bottom by massive oaken doors and is lighted by eyelets through which a rain of arrows could be poured upon intruders below. The main style of building is that of the transition from Early English to the decorated. Oblong in form it has gables north and south and at either end of the long east wall is a square projection.

Ascending the stairs we find ourselves in a room of truly noble proportions, occupying the length and breadth of the building, twenty-eight feet by eighteen and a half, and lighted by windows east, west, north and south. It is open to the roof, which contains nearly if not quite all its original form and has a fire place and an "membrey" or cupboard in which cooking and table requisites and aims for the poor were kept. In this "aire" or "aire" the family lived and worked, and here visitors and better class retainers slept. Here, perhaps, from the beams supporting the roof hung the store of dried provisions for winter use, and the herbs collected by the squire's dame.

It was here in the "aire" that at even the family gathered round the firelight (candles were expensive luxuries in those days) to listen to the story of battle or chase. The windows were unglazed, but glass might be fixed in the shutters, the iron hooks for which still remains. Oaken settees did duty as seats by day and as resting places by night and meals were served on a board placed on trusties—hence, perhaps, the phrase "the festive board."

From the hall a doorway gives admittance to one of those square chambers already noticed as built on the ends of the east wall. It is the "Lord's Chamber" the sleeping room of the women and children. The walls are thick and lancet slits, high above reach, let in a dim light by day while the shutter hooks, still tightly wedged in the wall, show how jealous the retreat was guarded by night. It was the inner sanctum, the most protected part of the house, where those dearest to the knight found refuge in troublous times his wife and children obtained privacy from the more public life of the hall.

The other projecting room throws further light on the disposition of our knight. A soldier, a domestic man, a man of taste, he was also a man of religion. For this little room, a little larger than the Lord's Chamber, is a chapel. It has a long, narrow, early English window, and two smaller ones, and retains on window arch and piscina, tracery of much architectural beauty.
