Here occurs another mutiliation. The message continues as follows: "The next day we abandoned our position, leaving the bodies of fifteen Japanese we were unable to bury. The general situation in this region does not indicate activity of much importance in the near future. The rains have commenced, ruining the roads. Information has reached here from the south that the railway is flooded between Kakchou and Vafangow and that the Japanese being unable to run their engines through the water are moving their cars by horsepower. The Japanese are strongly entrenched south of Tatchekiao and have pushed out their fortifications on both sides of the railway as far as the village of Tavalga, off which they have several large junks. Their apparent object to move along the sea coast to Erdago, two-thirds of the way from Kaichou to Yinkow. Our scouts here are ready to contest the Japanese advance."

Erdago is the last position barring the Japanese road to Yinkow.

The opinion of Major-General Kondratsvitch is that the Japanese Positions, both south and east, are weakly held, but strougly fortified, and that much of the Japanese finentry has been drawn off to reinforce General Kuroki, who is operating age, say Lien General Count Keller. At some Positions south of Simoucheng dumhies are actually being used to man the entrenchments. The Russians are so surrounded by entrenchments to the south and east that it is hard for them to move without coming under fire. There is apparently more artillery than infantry in these positions. The Japanese are lost to disclose the positions of their guns. GENERAL BOOTH HONORED. London, July 23.—General Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salwation Army, was received in audience by Queen Alexandra at Buckingham palace today. Her Majesty was most cordial and talked with him for more than half an hour.

RUSSIANS CLAIM VICTORY. Paris, July 23.—The correspondent of the Matin at Yinkow says a violent cannomade lasting several hours was heard to the northward of Kaicheu on July 22. The roofs of the houses in New Chwang were crowded with Europeans and Chinese looking on. The Russians claim to have retaken Kaicheu July 21, and say the fight reported was the result of the Japanese reassuming the offensive.

Liaoyang, July 23.—Two Japanese divisions have tried to break through Lieut. General Count Keller's left, but General Herscheiman, with the aid of reinforcements hurriedly sent forward, made a successful stand. Details of the engagement are not yet known. The Japanese have left only two divisions at Kaichou. These are strongly entrenched and on the defensive. Other Japanese troops, formerly at Kaichou, were embarked on transports for the vicinity of Port Arthur. The capture of that stronghold has become a vital question for the Japanese. They have been able hitherto to adopt the offensive but they realize that General Kuropatkin himself will be prepared soon to take the offensive and form a strong naval basis. Port Arthur is the key to all the Japanese operations.

ALEXIEFF A NUISANCE.

Viceroy's Old-Wifish Ways Worry Ku-ropatkin Very Much. Berlin, July 21.—A telegram from New Chwang says the anomalous position of Viceroy Alexieff is likely to prove a danger to Russia in the campaign and a serious hindrance to General Kuropatkin.

The viceroy appears to assert his right to retain a considerable body of troops around his person in Mukden, much to the disgust of the officers, who are said to refrain from mutiny only from the consciousness that the representative of the Czar cannot be got rid of by violent means. Admiral Alexieff himself lives in his state car on the railway. A roof has been constructed over the car and flowers have been planted around it.

The viceroy countermands military orders and detains reinforcements by inspecting them, while his chief of staff is sent two or three times a week to Tashichao in order to observe the movements and dispositions of General Kuropatkin.

The telegram declares in conclusion that only the immediate recall of Alexiefi can ameliorate this undesirable state of affairs, since at this juncture the viceroy's presence in the Far East is not only useless, but very dangerous.

SPEED OF THE SALMON. Just how fast salmon can travel has never been proved. Owners of weirs say that a healthy salmon can swim faster than any torpedo boat. Here is some evidence on the subject:

Frank Arey, of Winterport, went fishing the other day at the pool below Bangor dam, at Bucksport, Maine. He landed two small salmon on the flood tide. About 11:30 a.m. he struck a big one which caused his rod to bend until it was perilously near the breaking point. Then the salmon darted under the boat. Then the salmon darted against the keel, severed the fly and against the keel, severed the fly the leader from the silk string and the leader from the sik string and escaped.

Disgusted with his luck, the young man landed and went to Bangor at 11:40, remaining in the city until the afternoon train took him home. His father met him at the station, saying: "I have got your fly and leader all right, Frank. I found them in the jaw of a 26-pound salmon which I took from the weir at high tide today. It was just 12:10 when I cipped the fish from the weir into my punt. What time did you lose your rig?"

On comparing watches, father and son learned that the fish had gone from did you lose your rig?"

On comparing watches, father and son learned that the fish had gone from a mile above Bangor to Bucksport Centre, a distance of thirteen miles, inside of half an hour. The tide was flowing up river at the rate of three or four miles an hour. After making due allowance for every condition, it was proved that the salmon had covered the distance at the rate of about twenty-eight miles an hour,

Fierce Six Round Go in Philadelphia

Fitzsimmons and O'Brien Go the Quaker City's Boxing

Both Men Badly Battered In Novel Out-of-Doors

Philadelphia, July 23.—Jack O'Brien and Bob Fitzsimmons today fought the fastest six-round bout ever witnessed in but both bore the marks of the fight that they had just been through.

Fitzsimmons entered the ring at 5:06 and O'Brien at 5:1.3

After a wrangle of five minutes over the bandages worn by Fitz, the men, at 5:21, were called to the centre and given instructions by the referee.

Round 1.—Fitz lead with his left, but missed, and as O'Brien ducked he landed a right on the back of the neck. O'Brien landed a light left on Fitz's face and the men clinched. Fitz landed a light right on O'Brien's wind and the latter caught Fitz's mouth. Jack again landed a left to Fitz's nose and got away without a return. O'Brien then knecked the skin from Fitz's nose with a light uppercut. Fitzsimmons missed a fierce cross right and O'Brien, in attempting to get away, fell to the floor. O'Brien had all the best of the round.

Round 2.—Both feinted and Fitz miss. that they had just been through.

The war has not prevented the Japanese from celebrating, as usual, the anniversary of their first Emperor, Jimmu, whose reign was some 660 years B.C. According to legendary history, he disembarked at the age of two years at Kasida, in the province of Satsuma, being accompanied by his grandfather, Hikohono Ninighi.

When he became a man he penetrate. when he became a man he penetrated into the interior of the country and took up his abode at Kashiwahara-no-Muja, at which place the present Empire of the Rising Sun was founded, and where the tombs of the first Emperors are still preserved. The founder of the line, which has continued down to the present time, reigned for seventy-five years, and died in his 127th year. So runs the legend, at least. The youngest British admiral is only eight months old. eight months old.

The infant Marquis of Donegall is the hereditary Lord High Admiral of Lough Neagh, but the office carries with it neither emoluments nor duties. It is an obsolete naval command, which dates from the time of Queen Elizabeth, when it was necessary to maintain a naval force on Lough Neagh to overawe the natives of Tyrone, Derry, Armagh, and Antrim, with whom several actions were fought.

VICTOR HUGO'S CONCEIT.

In the diary of Sir Montstuart Grant Duff the following story is told regarding Victor Hugo; finely illustrating his megalomaniacal tendencies:

An ardent admirer had once said to Hugo: "The nation has never treated you quite properly; no street has been called after you; there ought to be a Rue Victor Hugo." "Cela arrivera, mes enfants, cela arrivera," said the master. Then another disciple took up the running, and said: "A street! That indeed yould be nothing; a whole quarter of the city should be called after you." "Cela arrivera, mes enfants, cela arrivera," said the master. Thereupon a third disciple joined in—"Paris should cease to be Paris, and be renamed the city of Victor Hugo." "Cela arrivera," mes enfants, cela arrivera, mes enfants, cela arrivera, mes enfants, cela arrivera." VICTOR HUGO'S CONCEIT. arrivera, mes enfants, cela arrivera!'

ROOSEVELT AS CHILD'S STORY
TELLER.
Writing of Theodore Roosevelt in the pages of the Reader, George Horton points out that it is unfortunate for children that the President hasn't time to write a book for them. Mr. Roosevelt, the author declares, is a really "remarkable story-teller for children and his stories are not of the sor which so many grown-ups write, pro-

JOKAI'S METHODS

One who knew Jokai says that the novelist never troubled to work out his plot in detail beforehand. "He trusted to his imagination for guidance as to what his characters were to do at a given moment, and often when he had completed a chapter of a feuilleton which half Hungary was waiting to read, he would remark to his friends, as the printer's devil rushed away with the copy, "I should like to know what those people will find to do and say to morrow." Jokai started his characters on their careers, eulogizing them if he liked them, or caricaturing them if he meant them to excite amusement or de-birthday of the Conservative leader on June 20th. To look at Mr. Borden-keen, active and muscular—one would not suppose that half a century had a passed over his head. Such untiring vigilance, such enthusiasm, such elasticity belong to the very youth and dey day of life. Combined with physical qualities are the maturity of thought, the robust intellectuality, and the quet, sconscious power of riper years. In this combination of strength and stability, of dash an i determination, men see what they call leadership, and they honor the great talent whether it is found in friend or foe.

The Ladder of Life.

The Ladder of Life.

The leadership of one of the great political parties in the state is second only to that of the Premiership itself, which the Opposition chieftain may at any time be called upon to fill. Rarely, indeed, is it the fortune of any man to rise rapidly to political leadership. As a rule a long apprenticeship is necessary. There are the usages and traditions of parliament to be learned. There are public questions to be intimately mastered. And beyond that the critical judgment of the political party must be convinced by slow degrees of the special fitness and character of the man to whom the interests of the state and the fortunes of the party are to be confided.

And in a very few years he was selected for the foremost planding Borden was to all Canada, but him are province, an unknown man. In 1901 Conservatives from the Atlantic to the Pacific cordially accepted his leadership. The honor was unsought by Mr. Borden. With characteristic modesty he resisted it until convinced that it was his duty to shoulder the great responsibility.

A Choice Vindicated.

But rapid as was the rise of Mr. Borden to the leadership. his subsequent progress in a confidence of his supporters is still more remarkable. Mr. Borden has a quiet way of doing big things. He has the capacity for taking infinite pains which is the true stamp of genius. In the early days on his father's farm at Grand Pre he had been a thorough workmana. And between

THE WINGS OF THE MORNING.

This great food cure is doing wonders for the weak, worn out and discouraged women.

Many medicines which are prescribed in such cases are merely stimulants which give temporary relief and arouse false hope.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new, rich blood and increases the vitality of the body, its benefits are thorough and lasting and its cures permanent.

Mrs. M. A. Clock, Meaford, Ont., writes.—Three years ago I became very much run down in health and suffered from weak, tired feelings, if digestion and rheumatism. At times I was so badly used up that I required help to move in bed. While sick and down-hearted I received Dr. Chase's Amnanc and sent for some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"Under this treatment I soon began to improve, and by the time I had used eleven hoxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
