It was a very easy matter for outside parties to send to St. John for liquor. A provincial pro-hibitory law would be better than waiting for the Dominion government to pass such measures. Rev. Mr. Johnson advocated the memorializing of the provincial government to pass of the provincial government to pa prohibitory laws.

At the completion of the address by the Rev. Dr. Borden, Rev. d. M. Campbell moved the following resolution, which was seconded by J. J. Weddall of Fredericton and carried:

"Having heard Rev. Dr. Borden, the successful and energetic principal of the Ladies' College at Sackville, as to the character and extent of the work of the college, and the urgent need of increased accommodation for pupils;

"Having also heard the statements made by the representatives of the board of regents with reference to the new addition to the Ladies' College now in course of erection, and the urgent need of funds to meet the large expense involved;

"Resolved, that this conference places on record its hearty endorsation of the action of the board of regents and proceeds at once to take subscriptions in aid of this laudable project, payment to be made at any time before January 1st, 1804, except in cases where more time is requested."

The following subscriptions were then received: G. M. Campbell, $50: J. J. Weddall of Fredericton, $100; Rev. Mr. Read, $25; Rev. Mr. Strothard, $25; Rev. Mr. Rice, $25; Charles D. Stewart of Sackville, $50: Mr. Cassidy, $10: Rev. Mr. Rice, $25; Rev. Mr. Steb-was begun and will be completed this morning.

Rev. Mr. Matthews said that the support received by their ministers should not be computed in a commercial sense, but as an adequate support while prosecuting the work of God. An amount of financial support should be given sufficient to enable a minister to do his work without the worry incident to straitened circumstances.

What is considered to be an adequate support varies according to individuals and local circumstances. Some would say that $500 was sufficient nothers $2,000. The general conference had de-$2,000. The general conference had de-cided that the minimum should be $750. That he did not consider an ex-

The report impressed upon the conference the great need of looking atter these legacies and properties left from time to time. Rev. Dr. Stewart moved that the proceeds from the said of turniture of the Blackville Hall be placed in the hands of the board of trusts. Carried.

MINISTERS POORLY PAID.

Mr. Matthews dweit upon the necessary of young ministers being supplied with up-to-date literature. Many of them after leaying the universities had debts incurred for their education to pay off, and these coupled with what it took to purchase literature made the burden very heavy. Congregations should take this matter into consideration and provide for it.

A great many people were of the opinion that every minister received the ministum of $750. Only one-fifth of the Methodist clergymen in this conference receives the ministum. The remainder are laboring among their flocks without adequate support. The matters should be more explicitly placed before the people. This memorial was adopted, and it was ordered that a printed copy of the memorial be sent to each member of parliament.

The meeting was dismissed with benediction by Rev. A. B. Lepage.

A short session of the ministerial conference followed the adjournment. Chairmen were given permission to employ as local preachers F. W. Foote, T. Spencer Crisp, J. W. Howe, Allen Strong, J. EVENING OF A LIFE.

Hatfield House.

(William Thorp in Washington Star,)
A few months ago Lord Salisbury swayed the destinies of the British empire. Today he is practically forgottes even by the people of his own country. The long accounts of his career which were published when he resigned the premisrahip read for all the world like ordinary notices, and are remembered as such.

Lord Salisbury has always shunned netoriety, and now that he has retired from politics he is more than ever reticent about his private life. Few people know how he is spending the avening of a life devoted to the service of his monarch and his country.

In politics the late premier was regarded as a bitter-tongued cynic—"the master of the art of jeers and flouts and sneers," Disraeli called him. In seclety he was the aristocrat par excellence, haughtily scorning the "new rich" and the "smart set." Many of his supporters in the house of lords and house of commons were bitterly incensed because he failed to recognize them in the street or the club, although they had been introduced to him and had spoken to him frequently. Not only is Lord Salisbury near-sighted and absent-minded, but he has a bad memory for faces—a rare defect in a public man. It is said that he once asked Mr. Balfour when visiting the house of commons, "Who is that man who spoke so intelligently just now?" That man was Walter Long, the minister for agriculture, a member of Lord Salisbury's own cabinet.

This absence of mind is partly assumed in order to ward off intrusive intimacies. Similarly Lord Salisbury's apparent cynicism and hauteur are only a mask covering his real nerture. Go to Hatfield in Herifordshire, where his favorite ancestral home is situated, and ask the people there about him. They will tell you of a new Lord Salisbury—of the real Lord Salisbury of whom the world never dreams.

The great statesman might forget one of his own ministers, but he never her payers.

"That's only an example, sir, of what his lordship has done for the people hereabouts. If a girl gets married she is sure of a wedding present from his lordship; and the old people know that he won't let them end their days in the work-house if he can help it. He's a rich man, but the amount of money he gives away in charity here must make a big hole even in an income like his.

"But that's not the only way he helps the people. If he sees a man doing a job clumsily, he will stop and show him how to do it properly. He's a rare handy man with tools. I've seen him patch up a fence as well as a could do it myself, and I'm a carbenter by trade."

"This character given to Lord Salisbenter by trade."

This character given to Lord Salisbury as a "handy man" was corroborated by a visit to Hatfield House. Every rosm in the mansion bears evidence to the old nobleman's fondness for pottering about with tools and his remarkable ingenuity in using them. Hatfield House differs widely from the sverage English country seat in being is well equipped with modern conveniences as a good American hotel. Lord Salisbury is a conservative in collities, and still more conservative in collities.

Frank was SO BADLY FRIGHTENED that he went out to Wilson's house and remained there for a few days hiding, so that he could not be served to appear as a witness. From Wilson's house Sullivan went to North Bay, where the officers caught and served him.

(6) During the visit before Frank went to North Bay, Frank told Wilson that he had an agreement with Stratton, under which he was to be paid five thousand dollars if Stratton got off. Wilson expressed the opinion that Frank would get a great deal more money than that, as Stratton could be sent to the penitentiary if convicted. Wilson again and again told me that he was very sorry that he did not charge them five thousand dollars for that he was very sorry that he did not charge them five thousand dollars for getting out of the country, as they would have paid it. Wilson said that he was sure he would get the five hun-dred dollars promised to him, as he could smash the government, and that if they did not pay up when he got home he would make a clean breast of it.

On the night of April 18th, I, George Palmer, did not go to my room until about twelve o'clock. I had lent 25 cents to Wilson, when he ran out of money. Probably about one o'clock in the morning I was reading in bed, When Wilson came in and told me that Frank Sullivan had been there, and that he (Wilson) was all right now. Wilson took a roll of bills out of his pocket, and showed them to me, at the same time remarking that Frank had given him the money. He paid me the 25 cents, and said he was only sorry that it was not more. This was the last time I saw Wilson.

(8) During a conversation which I had with Wilson, he informed me that previous to the last general election for the local legislature, Captain Sullivan, father of Frank Sullivan, had been despatched by the government up to Manitoulin and the North Shore, with a big satchel full of money, with which to buy votes. Wilson said there was more money in this bag than he or me would ever have in our lives.

MOAT HOUSE MURDER.

LONDON. June 23.—The trial of Samuel Herbert Dougal on the charge of murdering Miss Camille Holland, a wealthy woman with whom he lived at the Moat House, Saffron-Walden, Essex, which began at Chelmsford vesterday, was continued today. The immovable stoicism of the prisoner since his airest continues to be one of the most interesting features of the proceedings. The proceedings and Dougal to the end listened apparently unmoved to the accumulation of circumstantial evidence. The court was again crowded, women being especially anxious to obtain entrance.

The evidence presented was simply a reiteration of the testimony at the inquest.

Mr. Milligan Says Responsibility Rests With Ten People. Names Not Mentioned.

ibel Case Continued—Witnesses for ofence Examined -Mr. Helicown Greatly Worried About Reports of Case in Sun and Star.

Mr. McKeown said that he desired to express his regret at the unfairness of the report of the case in the Sun. It had alluded to the case as the notorious libel suit, and he thought that this unfairly reflected upon the plaintiff. His honor requested the press to refrain from such comments in the future.

C. J. Milligan, continuing his testimony, outlined the procedure in his office at election time with reference to the malling of letters. He did not really have charge of his own office. He was away quite frequently, the office in his absence being in charge of A. E. McIntyre. About January, 1901, he began to make inquiries about the mailing of the letter, and took all the steps he could to find out who mailed it, but never learned who did it.

Drawing his attention to the article complained of, Mr. McKeown asked the witness if he had any reason to be a friend of the deaf and dumb. The witness replied that he had made charges against the deaf and dumb institution at Fredericton.

The witness said he had no knowledge of the lands and

He remembered that he or Ed. Armstrong spoke on one occasion of A. C. Fairweather drawing deeds at Rothesay, but no reference was made to any land or grantees.

Mr. Milligan further stated that three rooms in the Walker building were used as headquarters for the liberal party. It was a common thing, for people to come in there with letters and leave them to be mailed alone with the regular mail from the office. He and his assistants did it to accommodate the friends of the party. He did not think that Mr. Scovil was in the habit of leaving mail there. Neither Mr. Armstrong, Gol. He made inquiries of Mr. Gilliland, Col. Domville, W. G. Scovil, W. H. Trueman, James M. Scovil and Mr. Armstrong with a visit to finding out how the affair countred. CROSS-EXAMINED.

O. S. Crockett then began the cross-examination. Asked if he remembered the comment of one of the judges of the supreme court when the Rothessy list matter was before the court, that the forgery of the list was a crime involving theft, forgery, and bribery the witness replied that he thought the comment ridiculous. He immediately explained that as a lawyer he could not conceive of a set of circumstances that would involve the three crimes. Continuing Mr. Milligan said that he was never organizer of the liberal party allowed.

In experiments conducted by Prof. Samborn of New Hampshire and Prof. Henry of Wisconsin, to determine the relative value of early and late cut hay for fattening steers, the advantage was a little in favor of the late out hay.

Whether hay should be cut early or late will depend, therefore, on the following conditions: (1) The stock to be kept; at least enough hay should be cut early to supply the dairy cows and young stock. (2) The season; if the weather be "catchy" it is generally where to defer the cutting until somewhat later. (2) The acreage to be handled; if the crop be large it will be necessary to begin cutting earlier.

By earlier cutting is meant cutting at or before the time of full bloom. By late outting is meant cutting between

There was a wedding in Carleton yesterday which narrowly escaped being postponed, but which by the record breaking speed shown by the should-be officiating clergyman was luckily carried through.

The ceremony was to take place in church and the minister had been given due notice, but the best laid plans of mice and men, etc., and ministers are just as fond of sleeping as are other men. This one was at any rate and his extra forty winks created dismay in the hearts of the wedding party.

The bride and groom, with attendant friends and relatives went to the church. At the appointed instant they appeared in front of the altar and in the happy slience that for an instant followed, they waited expectantly for the entrance of the minister from the vestry door. But he didn't come and the interval lengthened out until on more than one face was seen signs of anxiety. Some one said that the clerayman was in the vestry but this was a false alarm. He was nowhere in the church and the search only resulted in a waste of preclous minutes. A messenger was then hurriedly despatched to the home of him who was wanted, andt here, sleeping the sleep of the just, was the absent-minded minister.

In exactly seven minutes from the time the first word aroused him, he commenced the marriage service. Taking everything into consideration this is a wonderful record and has called forth the admiration of many.

The bride and groom caught their train and went away happy.

The following resolution was passed:
Whereas, this convention of the Lord's Day Alliance of New Brunswick has received and considered the resolution sent in by the trades and labor council of St. John as having been unanimously adopted at a mass meeting of working men held last evening, viz.: Resolved, that we would call the attention of the sentlemen who have

ing of working men held last evening, viz.: Resolved, that we would call the attention of the gentlemen who have addressed us tonight and others associated with them in the Lord's Day Alliance to the immense amount of Sunday work—much of it unnecessary—that has been carried on in past winters, and invite their careful attention to the same in the hope that they will devise means to prevent its continuance, so that the labor men may have the opportunity like others to enjoy Sunday privileges.

Therefore resolved, that we agree to take whatever steps may be necessary toward securing respect for the Christian Sabbath and for the law of this province, and meantime would express the earnest hope that the shippers will agree without compulsion to respect alike the Sunday law and the rights of their employes, and we would refer this matter to the sub-executive for such further consideration and action as it may deem wise and necessary.

EVENING SESSION.

EVENING SESSION. At the evening session Rev. Canon Richardson was the first speaker. He thought the public should adopt a temperate attitude toward the matter of Sunday observance. It was not the object of the Alliance to force the people to be religious, but to make it possible for everyone, rich and poor alike, to observe Sunday.

There was an idea prevalent that the churches were for the capitalists alone. On the other hand they existed for the laboring man as well as for the capitalists, and he hoped that the false impression which seemed to be prevalent among the laborers would speedily become rectified.

en of he feared that people became accustomed to revere it too little. It accustomed to revere by leading nominations, including Roman Catholic as well as Protestants. Rev. Fr. Gaynor, Rev. Fr. McDonald and Archbishop O'Brien were spoken of as being active workers in the allience.

The speaker then stated that the attorney generals of some of the provinces had ordered that all persons desecrating the Sahbath be prosecuted.

With some few exceptions that giant evil of Sunday excursions had been made a thing of the past. In the west the transportation of produce on Sunday was also a thing that was disapproved by public opinion, notwithstanding the great rush in the west to ship grain. He knew of only three or four instances where an attempt in the past year was made to do so on the Sabbath.

LIME-BURNERS WANT DAY OF

opposed to working on Sunday, and would ask the authorities to stop the doing of manual labor on the Lord's day. "(Sgd.) MOULDER'S UNION." Similar resolutions were received from the Order of Railway Clerks, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, the I. C. R. freight handlers, the St. John Teamsters' Protective Association, and the Cigar Makers' Union. REV. W. C. GAYNOR, PRESIDENT. REV. W. C. GAYNOR, PRESIDENT.

The St. John branch of the Alliance met at 7.30, when reports for the year were submitted and the following officers were elected: President, Rev. Father Gaynor: vice-presidents, H. C. Tilley, W. H. Coates; secretary-treasurer, Rev. W. J. Kirby. Rev. Dr. Wilson pleaded age and a multiplicity of duties as reasons for declining the nomination for president. In electing a successor a high appreciation was expressed of the valuable services he rendered to the Alliance. The Alliance also felt very grateful to the retiring secretary, Rev. A. H. Foster, for the inestimable services he rendered.

> Statesman England Has Ever Had.

A. B. Morine, late leader of the opposition party in the Newfoundland government, passed through Sydney yesterday on his way home from a trip to England for the benefit of his health. Mr. Morine was accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

In an interview with the Post at the Sydney, Mr. Morine stated that from what he could learn Joseph Chamber lain was looked to in England as on of the foremost statesmen that coun try has ever had. In genius, and grasp of political situations and needs of the day he towers mightily above his of the day he towers mightily above his confreres. He is without a doubt the centre of political life in England to-day, and Mr. Morine felt that his imperial policy would ultimately be carried into effect. He thought it might possibly take some time, as the English are a very conservative people and do not court tinkering with their tariff; but once the masses become Chief Event in Presbyterian Centennial Celebrations at Maitland.

HALIFAX, June 23.—The chief ever in the centennial celebration of Pres-byterianism in Maitland today was an address by Rev. T. C. Jack, a former pastor, on The Days of the Fathers in East Hants. An oration was delivered possibly take some time, as the English are a very conservative people and do not court tinkering with their tariff; but once the masses become cognisant of the real merits of this policy it will undoubtedly be made a successful issue.

The liberar party in England, Mr. Morine said, has no definite policy; its great purpose now is to get a leader, and this secured then look about for a policy.

Speaking of Newfoundland, Mr. Morine referred to the Timbers Estate Co., Ltd., which recently acquired very extensive areas in that colony. The company was capitalised at $3,000,000 and intended to operate several large mills in addition to those taken over with the properties.

MONTREAL, June 23.—The Star's London cable says: Leading manufacturars, including Albert Lickman, M. P., Hon, J. C. Guest, M. P., Kean and Nettlefolds, the British Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, Bessemer & Sons and others, have given their names as sympathizing with Chamberlain's proposals. They propose to create a war chest, supplementary to that of the conservative central office, to carry on a vigorous orusade. On the other hand the Canadian Club and liberal organizations are also soliciting subscriptions. The executive committee of the national liberal federation has summoned a special meeting to consider the denunciation of the resolution to be proposed by Hon. H. H. Asquith. Liberal journals are accusing the government of making false suggestions regarding differentiation against Canadians and that the matter was never brought up at the colonial conference, hence they argue the absence of urgency of a strong Canadian grievance. The Standard (government organ) still hesitates, although it admits a predisposing tendency favoring Chamberlain, but warns against a premature decision, and says that cautious critics will postpone enthusiasm for Chamberlain's plan till they know what it is. The Standard especially urges Chamberlain to keep taxation proposals independent of old age pensions, with which they were not concerned. "If it is right to modify the tarift," it says, "we ought to do so without offering a huge bonus to the working classes in order to gain their assent to the change."

It is wonderful what a politician wi fit is wonderful what a politician will bometimes do in order to escape newspaper oriticism. When the Grand Frunk Pacific bill came up in the house last night, Mr. Pringle, of Cornwall and Stormont, moved an amendment similar in every respect to that offered by him when the bill was up in the railway committee. He sought to compel the company, before it receives a subsidy, to give a guarantee ceives a subsidy, to give a guarantee that all its supplies would be purchas ed in Canada whenever possible. These supplies would include steel rails, rolling stock, locomotives, coal, and every necessary which is to be found on a railway. Mr. Johnston, of Cape Breton, and H. J. Logan, both of whom have large iron and coal interests in their constituencies, voted against Mr. Pringle in the railway committee. Lest night, however, they turned about and voted for Canadian manufacturers Mr. Johnston's friends endeavored to induce him to stand firm by the liberal party and vote against "Canada for Canadians," but after a hurried consultation with some of those about him, the junior member for Cape Breton managed to summon up courage enough to cast his vote in favor of allowing Sydney to supply for the work which the building of the Grand Trunk Railway will render necessary.

There was another resolution introduced by the opposition Wednesday evening which brought out more government inconsistency. Mr. Leonard, of Laval, during the election which resulted in his return to the house of commons, promised his constituents to de all in his power to secure for market. het gerdeners adequate protection for their produce. Mr. Leonard has been true to his promise, and in this he dif-fers materially from some of those who occupy seats opposite him. The young French Canadian conservative made out a good case in favor of his resolu-tion and was heartily supported from the opposition benches. But Hon, W. the opposition benches. But Hon, W. S. Fielding was ready with his denunciation of the proposal as being in-opportune, and of course Mr. Leonard was expelled from court. Three years ago, under the very same circum-stances which attended Mr. Leonard's move, a resolution was brought down by Dr. Russell with regard to the British preference and the government accepted it without a murmer. On that occasion the resolution was "oppor-tune." When conservatives bring something to the attention of the house in the way of tariff revision on going into supply, it becomes "inopportune." Mr. Fielding's definitions of "opportune" and "inopportune" are somewhat different from Webster's or other standard authorities, but perhaps that may be due to political bias,

A year ago Mr. Fielding had other in in in ideas about this very matter. Mr. Leonard at that time made exactly the same motion that he submitted could be same motion. this year, with this difference, that he placed it on the order paper and placed it on the order paper and took it up when an opportun-ity of doing so was afforded him. But minister of finance knew that in the minister of mannes and who his own party there were men who his own party there were men who having to rd a vote on the question, and he therefore moved to adjourn the debate and succeeded in shelving Mr. Leonard's proposals. That was an invitation to the opposition to adopt some other course, and as the only one open was to move an amendment to the motion to as into sunny. Mr. Leonard tion to go into supply, Mr. Leonard availed himself of that privilege. Tr. Fielding again escapes immediate responsibility for tariff revision, but not before Archie Campbell and some other strong market garden produce protectionists were forced to get out into the open and declare that they would rather support the government than support their constituents.

If Mr. Fielding had desired to do Canada signal service, he should have supported to the fullest extent the views which are now being advocated in Great Britain by Mr. Chamberlain. The effect produced in England by the remarks of the finance minister has already been indicated by the cable despatches from the mother country. Even the little that Mr. Fielding did say is having a good effect, but disappointment is expressed that he did not go further and accord Mr. Chamberlain that full sympathy which he professes to have for him. But liberal statesmen are unable to see further than their own party interests, and it probably never occurred to Mr. Fielding that in turning down the Right Hon, the Colonial Secretary.

One statement made by the finance minister is one well worthy of notice. Mr. Borden asked the finance minister if he would deny that in 1894 his leader over and over again stated in No. Canadian road in the future can

The rice-throwing continued after the train stopped at the station and until the couples had boarded the train, much to the discomfiture of the newly married couples and of the people who left the train in this city.

Mr. Davidson immediately issued an order to all of the employes of the company on the Hartford Division in this city to stop the practice. He deemed the practice to be a nuisance and directed the men at the station to call on the station pelicemen if necessary and have rice-throwers arrested for breach of the peace. Later in the afternoon a bridgl couple went to the station to take a train leaving here shortly after five o'clock. This bride and groom were followed by many friends and the rice-throwing practice was again begun. Station Agent Collins called on Policeman Tucker to arrest one of the wedding party who had thrown rice, but as the one complained of had no knowledge of Superintendent Davidson's order, no arrest was made. The rice-throwing stopped, however, and the bridal couple took the train in comfort.—Hartford Courant.

It was to men, surrounded by the beautiful, living in a city noted for its superb architecture that St. Paul shows the limitations of sensation. The Christ to them was but a crucified malefactor. He was indeed "a root out of a dry ground." "He had no form or comeliness;" there was no beauty that they should desire him." The cross to the Jews was a tree of shame and horror, "the crucified," the "accursed of God." To the Greeks, "the gibbet of a siave's infamy" and a murderer's punishment. Their eyes "could not behold the infinite eye will you behold the infinite. The pure in heart shall see God. Why? because they walk in the light of His presence. How? They see Him now by faith, as they will see Him in heaven with the eye of a purified mental vision. They already in degree possess the kingdom.

Never with the finite eye will you behold the infinite. The pure in heart shall see God. Why? because they walk in the light of His presence. How? They see Him now by faith, as kney will see Him in heaven with the eye of a purified mental vision. They already in degree possess the kingdom of heaven. Again. By no possible analysis of man can the truths of God be discovered. The facts of modern science appeal only to the senses, "Canst thou by searching find out God?" Science to an only attest truths, its shrine is neested without. It a great temptation is sails, and tests your integrity or the ense of duty, the strength to overcome epends upon the spiritual vitality you iready possess. Thus it is that scientists, lacking an eye of faith and a buil of love come out from their laboration in the spiritual vitality of the scientists.

There are many men who listen to the glorious story of the Gospel Sunday after Sunday but the sermon conveys no real meaning. They have ears and hear not. Most of them are good men, highly moral, and possessed of integrity of character. They believe the Bible is the Word of God; they feel certain that what the minister says is true. They have a certain amount of religion. They have heard with the ear that God is love, that He is a

WOMAN'S DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 25.—A well dressed refined looking woman, apparently about forty years of age, jumped in front of an approaching train here today and was instantly killed. Just before jumping she tied a handkerchief over her face. The engineer saw her and tried to stop his train, but could not. A small gold watch with the initials "M. A. M." and a crescent of six diamonds on the case was found on the body and is the sole clue to her identity.

by searching find out God?" Science can only attest truths, its shrine is nature. Exploring the wonders of creation by the faculty of reason, it is powerless to reveal the perfection of the Almighty.

There are many men who belive in mothing but what they can prove by sefentific methods. They forget or ignore the greatest "fact" of all "Revelation." The God of nature and the God of revelation is one. Science exists only, as the handmaid of religion and is "but the statement of truth found out." We can not find immortality in the convolution of a nerve, nor can we by spontaneous combustion produce life. Life can only tome by the fesh or, of the Spirit." If we examine the wonders of the natural world with the eternal in our hearts we shall find in every blade of grass, in every flower of the field a thousand types and corroborations of that which we believe. MULLAH'S CAPTIVES TORTURED. Wounded British Officers Murdered, Their Heads Cut Off and Paraded

LONDON, June 23.—With reference, to the report that there are in the Multo the report that there are in the Mullah's camp some British officers, survivors of the disaster to Colonel Plunkett's column, the Daily Mail's Aden correspondent telegraphed that a Somali who had been with the Mullah's force affirmed that two Europeans and ten Yaos were captives with the Mullah, and that, according to the Somali's information, the two former were probably volunteers from the Boer contingent.

A later telegram from our correspondent says that the members of the balloon section, which has just returned to Aden, state that spies brought them the information that among the Mullah's captives was one Boer, who was being fearfully tortured. They had received the information that many officers who were with Colonel Plunkett's force when it met with disaster were only wounded, and that when they fell into the hands of the Mullah's mental their heads were cut off and paraded through the principal villages, being
