" Dickens Had One Trick." struck me as an oddity. I mean his habit of pinning some distinctive word or phrase on a character, which must be uttered on all occasions. Now people in real life don't iterate like parrots. At least, I know of only one person who is liable to such criticism—young Bowden, my neighbor. The picture of health isn't he? Ruddy cheeks, sprakling eyes, ringing voice. Well, his pet phrase, which I've heard him repeat to perhaps a score of people suffering from coughs and weak lungs, is, 'Take Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.' No wonder, either, for it saved him from a consumptive's grave."

To Editor Advocate.

DEAR SIR—In your issue of this date re. Restigouche Council.

I have a few words to say regarding so-called inaccuracies of the return of the Board of Valuators and deny the charge.

The Valuators having by order of said Council to do both the work of the assessors and their own and not being provided with the Books and Sheets till late in the season, had a difficult job to get through in time for Council and in order to explain or amend anything in the Books waited two days on Council, meantime the books were not brought up and as they refused to pay for the work already done, they left for their homes. The Auditor refused to accept the Books before an order from Council guaranteers sum of one thousand the Parish of Batharst the Alms House. Carlingly.

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the tasta and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhea and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refrashing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents. WANDERING FARMERS

If we would learn to do, it must be by doing. The best way-the only way-to learn farming and a farm is to go upon it and do every detail of how to perform it properly. If during this time the senses are kept alert, ways of improvement will naturally be found in many places.

Learn the theory and apply it in practice, and in pine seese out of the practice, and in nine cases out of ten success will follow. In many cases, however, theory must yield to pracstored if sufficient patience is allot- lice, in part at least, and the very best results have been reached when gin to apply the same methods. It will take time to adopt and learn to apply new principles.
