Drives Will Be Hung up Unless Rain Comes Within a Few Days

WATER VERY LOW

Unless there comes a heavy and prolonged rainfall the lumbermen are afraid of having their drives hung up. The river is falling fast and it looks as if it would soon be down to summer level. Leading lumbermen say that at least a week's rain is needed to bring the drives out. Conditions on the St. John and Nashua are no brighter than on the Miramichi.

It is expected, however, that the logs will come down through the South West. In fact a start has already been made on that river, but the North West logs must have rain and have it speedily.

The out this winter was small, but if it comes out with the supply in the booms provide enough to keep the mills going and the market supplied. If a large quantity of the logs are hung up, as now seems not at all unlikely, the mills will have to shut down early and the dealers will not have lumber to keep up the demand. Altogether the outlook at the moment is somewhat blue, for if the mills have to run on short time the laboring people will feel it. Rain is the need of the moment, and plenty of it.

CHATHAM WEDDING

The marriage of W. H. Tapper, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Chatham (N. B.) and Miss Lenore Benson, youngest daughter of Dr. Benson, Chatham, took place Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at the residence of the bride's father.

The bride was beautifully gowned in cream crepe de chine trimmed with cream applique and heavy cording over white tulle and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Benson, made a very lovely bride and is one of Chatham's fairest and most popular daughters.

Mr. Tapper, is a genial and capable bank manager and during his few years residence in Chatham has made many warm friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Durcan Henderson, only the immediate friends being present.

The happy couple left on the Maritime express for a short trip to Montreal and other Canadian cities with the best wishes of their many friends. The brides going away gown was of brown cloth with hat of the same color. Among the valuable wedding gifts was a large cut glass fruit dish from the other members of the Nova Scotia bank staff.

FINE SPEECH BY OUR NEW MAYOR

Mr. Miller Made Fine Impression
On Band Stand Election Night

OTHER REMARKS

As announced in the last issue of the Advocate, Mr. S. W. Miller was elected mayor of Newcastle over his opponent Mr. P. Hennessy, by a majority of ten. Election night the streets were thronged with people and the provincial election smiles were in evidence. About 8.30 the Orange band marched to the band stand and after it had played one or two selections, Mayor-elect Miller addressed the gathering. He made a very eloquent oration and created a most favorable impression. He was greeted with cheers. Mr. Miller said in part—

I come before you tonight to thank you sincerely and from the bottom of my heart for the honor you have conferred upon me in electing me Mayor of the town. Needless to say I appreciate the honor and the only embarrassment I feel at the present time is to find words to express that appreciation for the confidence which you have reposed in me. And while I say I appreciate the honor to so great an extent, so likewise in as great an extent will I strive to execute the duties incumbent upon the office and serve the people in general to the best of my ability. There have been a great many minor canvasses, and against me in this contest I have even found that some whom I thought were my sincere friends were strongly opposed to me and the only reason they give is because of my criticism of some of the acts of the late Council which is not only the privilege but the duty of every citizen to do so. They also used the canvass that I was too young a man to be a Mayor and that I was too young a man to be a Mayor and that I was too young a man to be a Mayor. I would ask those who used that canvass at what time of life would a man who aspired to serve the public be qualified to do so if not at my age, I can only say that I have no desire to be a day older than I am and I only hope that our town is enjoying youth like myself and if that be so it has a future, which according to current events, must be bright and prosperous, as we know that every science and profession is advancing not by steps but by leaps and bounds and if both town and its representatives have youth on their side, if they do nothing more than keep in touch with current events we are bound to make progress.

Mr. Miller then outlined his platform. He dealt at length on the following subjects:—Permanent sidewalks, assessments, the advisability of decreasing the complement of the board of aldermen and the Town bonds.

In conclusion he said that he again wished to thank them for the honorable position they placed him in and he extended to them a hearty invitation to cooperate with him and the Council in general in the manipulation of the town's affairs.

Alfred McHardy spoke next and was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers.

The defeated majority candidate, Mr. P. Hennessy, then stepped upon the platform and addressed the audience. He devoted his time to the reasons for his defeat most important among which he said was the influence of the Advocate. He told the audience that he had always given the Advocate his advertisements and that paper had given him "the negative knock-out blow."

Alfred Lawlor and Desmond followed and both made very pleasing addresses.

DEATH OF MRS. AITKEN

The many friends of the Miramichi and throughout the Provinces will learn with profound regret of the death of Mrs. R. F. D. Aitken. She was confined a few days before her little boy died and gradually sank until Thursday afternoon when she passed away. Mrs. Aitken was a daughter of the late Judge Thompson and one of the most highly esteemed and popular young ladies in Newcastle. She was in her 31st year. Two children survive her.

The funeral took place on Saturday and was one of the largest ever held in Newcastle. Many handsome floral tributes testified the esteem in which deceased was held. The pall bearers were Messrs. A. Park, Allen, Ritchie, S. W. Miller, H. Sinclair, A. A. Davidson and A. E. McCurdy. Interment was made in St. James' cemetery. Rev. Mr. Colquhoun of Derby conducted the funeral service.

At a school examination at Newcastle-under-Lyme, England a boy was told to write an essay on the pleasure of reading. He wrote: "People read for many reasons. Sometimes they read for humor, and then they read such books as 'Don Quixote.' At other times they read for amusement, and then they read the Bible."

JOURNALIST TOILS IN LUMBER CAMP AND THEN RELATES HIS EXPERIENCES.

Standard's Commissioner Praises the Sobriety and Industry of the Lumbermen—Says Immigrants Should be Prepared to Take Things as They Are

(London, Eng., Standard, March 17)

I am still working at the lumber camp of which I treated in my last letter. There are about thirty men in this camp, a third of whom are French Canadians, who speak no English. It is surprising how tenaciously the inhabitants of French descent cling to their own tongue. All are as lively a set of men, physically, as one could wish to see; and courteous and kindly both to each other and to a stranger. Indeed, their standard of manners and of speech is higher than that of men of the laboring classes of England, or, if that is too sweeping a generalization, of my fellow passengers on the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer. I have been in the woods and in camp with them for the better part of a week, and have scarcely heard an oath of deeper quality than a damn.

The arrival of a stranger, with presumably, some little knowledge of the world's latest affairs, was not unwelcome to men who had been out of touch with civilization for four months, and I had many conversations with them. With one exception—that of a quick-witted Bristol man—they were all Canadian born; and if they were a fair average sample of the native population, I should judge that Canada is breeding a race of men of a sane mental and moral, as well as sound physical stock. Will it be believed that Yes Sir, and No Sir are common forms of speech among them? A man here is Sir to his fellow-laborer—not a 'bloke,' a 'cove,' or an 'ole cock,' or such like vulgarisms.

Courtesy of speech, gentleness in the modulation of the voice, seems to be habitual to the Canadian woodsman. The men respect themselves and each other. They work willingly; the foreman have no need to drive them—would not, apparently, be able to do so if they wished. They work and live together like brothers, and in camp here I have been in the company of gentlemen. Their very speech is that of educated men; pointed, reasonably exact and free from obscenities and senseless exuberances. The maritime provinces, I believe spend a large proportion of their revenue on their schools. Better evidence of the excellence of the system of elementary education in New Brunswick and Quebec could not have been furnished than the conservation of these forest workers. Not only did it show a fair knowledge of the world's affairs—it was wondrously rich in woodland lore and in the bird and animal life of hillside, lake and river—but it also revealed a capacity for independent thought a sure grip of an idea, insight, and the qualities which are usually associated with highly-trained minds.

Perhaps, during these long Canadian winters men reflect more than in temperate lands. Not unfrequently a deeper note was suggested. Indeed, take them all around, they were men of superior stamp—certainly above the majority of those in the "steering of the Lake Manitoba. What is the explanation? In the French Canadian it may be sought in their devotion to their church; in the men of Scotch descent—of whom there are several—in that ingrained piety and belief in moral excellence, which, in the eighteenth century at any rate, when much emigration from Scotland took place, was the distinguishing feature of the Scotch character.

In all of them a key to the phenomenon is, doubtless, to be found in the fact that men here lead a free life. They are not crushed by sordid cares or debased by the environments of poverty in great cities. They live in natural conditions, amid lakes and broad rivers. Should not such circumstances result in a better type of human being than that which is born and bred, and lives from hand to mouth in the noisome region—watered by the unsavory Grand Junction Canal—from Shoreditch to the Thames? They do so here, so far as my observation carries me.

I have not yet seen a drunken working man, or any kind of man, in Canada. Drunkards and their like there doubtless are, but public opinion—this laboring man's opinion—is strenuously against them. My companions in this camp have been here since mid-October. They have not seen a drop of drink since they came in, and I gather that they will not see any till they go out in April. They do their work on tea. They are naturally and habitually sober. I may of course have happened upon a quite exceptional camp—upon a group of men who are above the average in this part of the dominion. But I do not think I have.

Imagine thirty British working men, accustomed to a public house at every street corner, living in the forest for six months without a break, and with never a can of beer to be had! Not 10 per cent. of our English working classes would stand the strain. Like the navies who were sent to South Africa on railway construction after the war, they would throw up the job because the beer seller had not followed them into the wilds. There lies a fundamental difference between the English and Canadian laborer. The fact may not be palatable to some of my readers; but it is one which has obtruded itself upon my observation thus far. I present it to Mr. John Burns, for use in his courageous handling of the defects of the class whose social interests he champions with so much ability and self-devotion.

What chance has the ordinary immigrant in the lumbering industry of New Brunswick and Quebec? There is often, I am told, a scarcity of labor. But lumbering is an art which requires to be learned. Anyone can shovel ice into a deep rut in a haulage track; a green hand like myself could earn a subsistence at that, as is proved by the fact that I have been boarded free for four days, and should be entitled to draw $20 (£4 3s. 4d.) if I had stayed my month. I did not stay because it was not my business to do so, but to move on for the purpose of writing articles on other phases of Canadian life; and I had not the effrontery to collect four days' pay from the Messrs. Fraser, being fully conscious of my ineffectiveness as a working unit in the camp. The point I had established in practice was that even a new-comer, ignorant of the woodman's art, can win his bread at lumbering in New Brunswick and Quebec should he find himself stranded in those provinces and unable to get further west.

But felling and the handling of logs requires practice. To use an axe efficiently calls for skill and knack. The life, I should judge, is a hard one. The work begins when the stars pale in their light, and ends only when they again illumine the skies. It is continued however heavily and persistently the snow may fall, and whatever may be the leanness of temperature and the keenness of the wind; for not all the days are glorified by the sun. Yesterday was such a day, and the lofty forest hills and lake-gemmed valleys were scenes of matchless beauty—an almost silent fairy land of white and gold, the stillness broken infrequently by the cry of the moose bird, or of the blue jay, and the short sharp song of the white-throated chickadee. But to day there is no sun and snow is falling so heavily that a towering range of hills a few miles away can hardly be discerned, while ever and anon a keen cutting wind tears through the forest, bringing down masses of snow from the tree tops and whirling it furiously about—a kindly act of nature, from the point of view of the wind life of the woodland, for while, yesterday, the forest was crossed and recrossed with tracks of hare and squirrel, fox and caribou, there is now scarcely a footprint to be seen.

Of the animals themselves, one is fortunate if one gets a glimpse of a squirrel. The others are too cunning to show themselves, though their footmarks prove that they pass over the haulage tracks at will. Nor would one fare better if one plunged into the recesses of the woodland, for the first few steps would bring one breast high in the dry snow; and it is no more possible to progress far in such conditions, even with snowshoes, than it is to cut the timber and drag out the logs! As for the moose, that animal is "yarding," away from the sound of an axe or sled bells; he travels far in winter, keeping to the area he has selected as his granary until the spring. Young spruce and snow are the only diet he needs. The caribou roams far afield for the whiffs of light green moss on which

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS SICK?

Let your morning urine stand for 24 hours in a glass or vessel, and then if it is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish brick-dust sediment, or if particles or germs float about in it, your kidneys are diseased. If the kidneys are well they filter just so much blood, but if they are sick or weak from any cause, they leave the poison in the blood, and this poison affects the entire system.

It is natural to pass urine three times a day, but many who regard themselves as healthy are obliged to pass water six to ten times daily and are obliged to get up frequently during the night. They have sick kidneys and bladder and don't know it. Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills cure Rheumatism and all Kidney and Bladder diseases, and make new, rich blood.

We will send you a generous sample post paid free, together with our large book on the above mentioned diseases. Address, W. F. Smith Co., 185 St. James Street, Montreal, Canada.

Overloading Horses.

Don't overload the horse, for this causes more balky horses than any other cause. There are many other causes. It may be bred in the horse. I know of one tribe of horses, all of which are effected could be prevented by being careful in loading; when the ground is a little soft is a good time to overload or by getting into ruts on the road when the wagon is heavily loaded.
If we watch all these little points most cases could be prevented. Be careful, as there is no medicine which comes in a bottle will cure a balker.

Kidney Disease and Rheumatism

These terribly painful ailments are thoroughly cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Since rheumatism arises from derangements of the kidneys it can never be cured until these organs are restored to health. By acting directly on the kidneys Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure both kidney disease and rheumatism.

Mrs. MOLLAR, Newmarket, Ont., states:—
"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for kidney trouble, and would not be without them for a great deal. They have certainly done me a world of good, and I would not think of using any other medicine for an ailment of this kind."

"My husband is troubled with sciatic rheumatism and is using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are doing him more good than any medicine he ever used, and we both heartily recommend them as an excellent medicine."

Interesting Wedding.

On Saturday morning, March 4, the marriage was solemnized at the Roman Catholic church of Michael and Martin, in the Bath-road, of Charles Frederick, the second son of Mr. A. H. Lane, of Gray's Inn-road, London, member of the editorial staff of the Morning Post, and Louisa Madeline, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fisher of Gordon-house, Inwood-road, Hounslow. The interior of the church was beautifully adorned with flowers, fine palms and various foliage plants, and a large number of friends of the contracting parties assembled to witness the ceremony, to show their regard for the young couple who have always been actively identified with the work of the Catholic Mission here, and who are both greatly liked by the congregation. The Rev. Father, G. Knott officiated. The bride who was given away by her father
Mr. H. Fisher, was becomingly dressed in cream voile and crepe de chene, with veil and wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, and wore a pearl necklace and pendant, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Jennings and Miss Mary Fisher. The former was attired in cream nuns veiling, with insertion, mauve hat, trimmed with chiffon roses, white ben-not of silk straw. Each bridesmaid carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations and lilies of the valley, and wore a true lover's knot brooch of brilliants, also the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Alfred Lane acted as best man to his brother. At the close of the service, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Mrs. Grinter, and the bridal party then proceeded to Gordon-house, where Mr. and Mrs.
Fisher entertained a large party of relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lane were the recipients of numerous presents. The bridegroom to bride, pearl necklace and pendant and a set of ivory backed toilet brushes. Bride to bridegroom, gold signet ring. Mr.
and Mrs. Fisher, cheque.
The bride is the niece of Mrs.
James Dalton of this town.

Animals that Weep.

There are many scientists and men who are accustomed to deal with animals who give authentic instances of having seen animals shed tears as a result of some strong emotion. Humboldt tells us that he had a monkey which wept when it was seized with fear.
Rengger says that he has often seen the eyes of a small South-African monkey fill with tears when he was deprived of some coveted object or made very much afraid of something. Darwin cites the case of a monkey from Borneo in a Zoological garden which was frequently moved to tears when grieved or pitted.

Elephants have also been known to show their grief in this way. During an elephant hunt in Ceylon one of the spectators relates that many of the elephants when bound showed no feeling except grief and remained perfectly motionless while the tears streamed down their eyes.
Female elephants are often affected in the same way when their young are taken from them.

EVERYONE WITH SORE THROAT
Should know how quickly Nervine cures. "I can recommend Nervine very highly for sore throat," writes Mr. B.
McKenzie of St. George. "I once had a very sore throat and my chest was full of cold and aches. Every cough hurt me. I cured myself quickly by rubbing my chest and throat vigorously with Nervine and using it also as a gargle.
I believe Nervine to be the best general remedy for congested sickness that can be used. We have used it for twenty years in our house." Price 25c.

TRAGEDY AND TRIUMPH.

Good Friday and Easter Sunday are not days set once and never again in the year's calendar. They are not days at all, they are principles and motives and ideals. The Gethsemane and Golgotha of Good Friday belong to every age and cast their shadow athwart every life. The strange stir in the new tomb and the haunted enchantment of the gray dawn in the Arimathea's garden, with their forefeeling and assurance of Eastertide, are not solitary incidents in the legends of the Syrian land, but Life's unbroken pledge that Duty triumphs at the last, and that in the end Grief is disproved and Earth shall die. The light of common day may make our routine life drowsy and weary, but standing beside every man's path is the tragedy of Good Friday, and beckoning before is the triumph of Easter.

Good Friday stands for the oughtness of life; Easter for its triumph. It was because His life was charged with the moral imperative Duty that the Christ set His face steadfastly to go up to Jerusalem, even though the way led on to Calvary. It was because in a moral world Life is more than Death and the compulsions of moral obligation issue in moral triumph that it was not possible that He should be holden of the grave. The oughtness which compelled and inspired the tragic self-sacrifice of Good Friday found its justification and its reward in the masterful resurrection of Easter.

And life is the same today and for every man. It is neither a joke nor an accident. Through the short span of the individual's life, as well as through the wide circuit of the ages, there runs the increasing purpose that makes life real, and the issue of it all is that

"Far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves."

No man's life has dignity or authority or power that is void of the constraint of what ought to be. Ought is the one imperious idea in a moral world. What ought to be must be, is the authoritative maxim of a moral life. There is no condition or circumstance or relationship in life in which a man may find relief from the insistent obligation of what ought to be. It may seem to carry with it the failure and defeat of life's most splendid vision. It may involve the bitterness of Gethsemane and the shame of Golgotha. That matters not. The imperative of what ought to be admits neither condition nor alternative. Man has to do with loyalty to the sense of oughtness in his own soul; the consequences of that loyalty are bound up in the issues of those great laws which hold the moral universe together. To blot Good Friday and its tragedy out of one's life is to make impossible the triumph of Easter.

And loyalty to the "ought to be" of Good Friday makes inevitable the "shall be" of Easter. Not alone for the Man who first bore the cross of Death and shame, but every man who in his own place and for the sake of Truth and Love stands fast, unseen hands roll away the stone, and the spirit of life is astir. There may be tragedy, in a world like this, there must be tragedy, but no "if" is a mistake or a failure that is true to its highest ideal. It may pass through the shadow of Good Friday, but for it somewhere in the sunshine, the hills of Easter are waving.

IT'S THE OTHER WAY.

"Is beauty a fatal gift?" asks a Star correspondent. We have found it embarrassing, at times, but not fatal.—Montreal Star.

We have found that homeliness is quite often a fatal gift.

The other day the Christian World pointed out with pride some of the rich possessions of that town, among which it named The Wall. The Christian organ neglected to mention the smallpox.

HOW IT'S DONE

Judging from the following incident, which took place in a Filipino school taught by an American teacher, the Filipinos are not likely to lose soon their national spirit. The class was one in American colonial history, and was discussing Captain John Smith's attempt to induce the Virginian colonists to raise corn and potatoes for themselves, as the Indians did. A bright-eyed boy asked very respectfully:

"Where did they obtain the seed?"

"From the Indians, of course," said the teacher.

"If the Indians disliked them so and wished them away, why did they give them the means to stay?" he asked.

"Probably the English bought and paid for it," the teacher said; but the boy persisted:

"We learned yesterday that the Indians had no money and no use for it, and that they did not care for the gold or how much of it the English took with them, if they would only go away."

"Well, I don't know how they obtained the seed," the teacher replied. "I only know what the book says that they got it."

"I myself do not know," the boy said, most politely. "But I saw a picture of which Capt. Smith held an Indian by the throat, with a pistol at his head, saying, 'Your money or your life?' I myself do not know that it was true. I was only thinking of—of the Philippines."

There was a sparkle—a glint—in many dark eyes, and many dark lips were smiling all around the room, as the boy sat down.

All we the world stand in a glass vessel for two or three hours and if at the end of that time we are found to be afloat, we may be sure that our kidneys are diseased. ## AN AFFAIR OF LIFE.

A special despatch from Milan, Italy, to the American says: In the midst of the great throng gathered in St. Duomo, the famous cathedral of Milan, during the Good Friday afternoon services, the Marchioness Maria Pallavicini, Viscountess of Trent, Austria, shot and killed herself under circumstances intensely dramatic and extraordinary. In the cathedral were gathered several thousand devout Catholics of Milan. The revolver shot rang out when the congregation knelt silently about the crucifix in the church during the solemn moments of the veneration. The ceremony of the stations of the cross had just been concluded. An Austrian priest hurried to the side of the Countess and found her dying with a wound in her forehead. Her death occurred a short time later, while she was on the way to the hospital. The Marchioness Maria Pallavicini was renowned throughout Italy for her great beauty. She was not yet thirty. Her great domestic unhappiness, following her separation from her husband, is supposed to have been the cause of her suicide.

Results will shortly be published of an official analysis of samples of maple syrup and sugar which go to show that it is practically impossible to obtain these products in their unadulterated form. ## THE TURBINE.

(St. John Sun.)

Whatever disappointment may have been felt over the speed of the Victorian on her first voyage will be dispelled by the record of her sister turbine ship. The Virginian has made a record passage to Halifax, though she experienced some of the same trouble with her boilers which retarded the speed of the Victorian. It may be expected that the time made by the Virginian will be considerably improved in future voyages. The turbine has evidently come to stay.

VILLAINOUS IT IS

(Toronto Globe)

We should like to ask Mr. Borde, the leader of the Conservative party, if he endorses the villainous doctrine set forth in The Hamilton Spectator's editorial last night in these words: "The attempt made by Sir Wilfred Laurier to force separate schools upon the new Province of the west will settle one thing. Never again will a French Canadian be entrusted with the Premiership of Canada; never again will a French Canadian have opportunity to betray the people of this country. Canada cannot afford to take chances again."

Coughs, colics, hoarseness, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Croscote's tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

A TEST OF REFINEMENT

The truest test of refinement is a uniform regard for the welfare and interest and feelings of others. There is a refinement which is by education, but in each case the sure indications of refinement are the same. You can recognize the difference between those who have and those who lack refinement by their bearing in a crowd. Indeed this difference is easier in a street car or in a market or in a thronged highway than in a drawing room. A person of true refinement takes up the less room and claims the less concession and is readier to yield position than an unrefined person. The way in which a man carries a cane or umbrella in a crowd settles the question in his case. And again the keeping of one's market basket in the way, or out of it, as at the busiest market hour, is an infallible test of the bearer's inner grain. And so in many other minor cases.

PRICE OF LUMBER ADVANCES RAPIDLY

It Will Not Be Long Before European Market Entirely Recovers.

THE RUSSIAN DEMAND.

The price of lumber is reported to be going up in a remarkable manner and it is said that it will not be long before the market recovers completely from its depression. One lumberman says lumber is going up at $1.00 a crack.

Some lumber merchants are getting $19 a thousand for rough deals from American concerns. This is an advance of $5 or $6 over the price at this time last year.

From Europe comes word that the Russian stocks are all sold out and competition for the Canadian sellers from that direction is therefore eliminated until such time as the country recovers from its present war with Japan. The fact of the European market being without its Russian supply means a greater demand for Canadian lumber and it is believed that the drives do not come out the St. John river lumbermen will be unable to supply their share.

TWO STRANGE BIRDS

Two very welcome visitors from Japan may cheer us with their song and presence in future years—During the first week of April two visitors of the feathered tribe made their appearance for the first time in this locality, not far from the mouth of the Battagou River. The residents that saw them, say that they are about the size of our swamp-robin. Their song is sweet and varied,—"most pleasing and of greater length than that of our native song birds," say those that heard them. They are not shy, but, on the contrary, they like to perch and sing on the barn house-top.

Compared to the notes of our native robin, theirs are not so loud, nor pipe-like, but far more numerous and varied. Their throat, it is said, is said to be white; head, black; and the rest of their body, brown. They are probably the much-prized wood thrush, that is, song thrush, that sings as well in captivity as in freedom.

The American Wood Thrush, Turulus Mustelinus, is eight inches long; its body stout; tail nearly even. Apart from its breast and sides, which are pure white with dark or black spots, the color for most part is brown of reddish cast. Its bill is brown ending in a yellow band at the base. The legs are yellow. Its eggs are light blue.

As these birds are found in several parts of the United States, and as their food consists of berries, small fruits and some insects, the probability is, that it not molested in any way, after summering there once, the abundance of berries and small fruits, found on our river banks, and in our woods, will make them constant visitors to this part of New Brunswick.

The smallpox situation in Chatham shows no improvement. There were twenty three cases there yesterday and about double that number of houses quarantined. A case was also reported in the parish of Chatham yesterday. The latest victim lives near the old Morrison mill.

If the Chatham Board of Health were as energetic and capable as the Newcastle County boards the disease would never have made such headway.

DOAKTOWN

Local and Personal.

The weather for the past week has been very fine. The roads are quite dry and bicyclists are enjoying them. There is every appearance of "The good old summer time."

Mr. Frank Edwards of the Queen Hotel, Fredericton, visited our town last week.

Miss Jessie Murray has gone to Ludlow to take charge of the school at that place.

Miss Ethel Mersereau has returned from Fredericton.

Mr. Harding Pond of Ludlow was in town last week.

Mrs. J. M. Gunn of Belmont, N. S., preached in the Baptist church Sunday evening to a large congregation, her subject being Missions. Her graphic description of the Grand League Mission was especially interesting. The choir furnished some beautiful music. This choir is the special pride and boast of Doaktown and vicinity.

We are glad to hear of the recovery of Mrs. Wm. Midway who has been very sick for the past five weeks.

There was an Easter service in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening conducted chiefly by the children of the Mission Band.

Miss J. Marion Wright who has been the guest of Mrs. W. A. Curtis for the past week has gone to Newcastle for a few days before returning to her home in Boston.

Mr. Daniel Murray of Nova Scotia is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murray.

We are sorry to hear of the very severe illness of Miss Sadie Boyce.

H. & F. Swin's bustling foreman Mr. C. B. Butts is having his home remodelled inside and the place beautified generally. Nothing short about Charlie.

Mr. William Scott of the Scott Lumber Co., has spent another Sunday in our town. Rumor has it that there is a definite object in Mr. Scott's visits which have been somewhat frequent of late and that it relates to wedding bells and orange blossoms and that kind of thing.

Doaktown always held up with other towns in regards to good singers, but the local talent has lately improved wonderfully. The Presbyterian and Church of England have practiced every Thursday evening.

The Murray House under the new management is doing a prosperous business. They are said to have furnished as high as 507 meals in one day.

Times are quiet around our little town at present, as the lumber kings have taken away the majority of the young men. This event also has placed H. & F. D. Swin in a bad position, as they are unable to get men to run their mill by night, so they only have a day crew now.

SAME OLD STORY

(Fredericton Gleaner)

The Cosmopolitan Editor in dealing with the question of longevity summarizes the rules for health that will best minister to self preservation briefly in these, namely, take plenty of sleep, a daily bath, and abstain from over-eating, from liquor, from overwork, and from worry. There is no doubt that the public mind today looks more carefully into the value of formulas of this kind than it has hitherto; and, with the rising generation well inoculated with the expenditure of such a daily regime, the fruition of that knowledge of the future to look with pleasant retrospect upon the Osler Chimera of 1905, if indeed it will not then have passed into oblivion.

One of the largest of the manulalia of Tibet is the Yak, or grunting ox. Standing between five and six feet high at the shoulders, the bulk of this strange looking creature is not a little exaggerated by the enormous growth of hair upon the lower part of the body and tail. Beneath the outer coat, moreover, there is a layer of wool known as pashm, which is highly prized for the making of cloth.

PAINFUL PERIODS

Suggestions How to Find Relief from Such Suffering.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. If it is painful or irregular something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

More than fifty thousand women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes painful and irregular menstruation.

It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases. The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Matilda Richardson of 177 Wellington Street, Kingston, Ont., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—Some four years ago my usual good health began to fail. I had severe pains in my back, my head ached, I would have dizzy spells, and during my monthly periods would suffer intense pain. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad that I did, for it brought new life and health to me. My monthly periods were natural and painless, and my general health improved. I have not had an ache or a pain since, and I feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to tell you what your medicine has done for me.

Mrs. Louise McKenzie of Mount Carmel, Montreal, Canada, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—I had heard so much good about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I asked Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Frye was ruined. He gave one low moan, the first and only one during those three long weeks of agony.

The devil's teeth kept snapping; the boy continued his drawl, but Frye paid no heed. Only those spider legs on the wall seemed kicking at him, and that fatal seventy-one—one—one—kept ringing in his ears. He arose and staggered out and with bowed head made his way to the office.

Click, click, click! Seventy-one—one—one! It was the last he heard, and then he sank forward on his desk in a stupor.

At this moment Uncle Terry, with Frye's letter in his pocket and right-cousin in his heart, was speeding toward Boston as fast as steam could carry him.

The clear, incisive strokes of an adjacent clock proclaiming midnight awoke Frye. He raised his head, arose, lit the two gas jets and sat down.

Seventy-one—one—one! They brought it all back to him, and now, alone in his misery, he groaned aloud, and with his despair came the dread of the morrow, when he must go forth crushed, broken, despairing, penniless.

All would know it, and all would rejoice. Out of the many that hated or feared him not one would feel a grain of pity, and he knew it.

Then his past life came back to him. He had never married, and since he had looked down upon his dead mother's face no woman's hand had sought his with tenderness. All his long life of grasping greed had been spent in money getting and money saving. No sense of right or justice had ever restrained him. Year after year he had added to his hoard, carefully invested it, and now it had all been swept away!

He drew a pen and wrote a brief letter. Then he went to his tall safe, opened both doors, and taking a small, flat packet from an inner till, returned to his desk, placed that and the letter in one long envelope and sealed and directed it.

Once more his head sank forward on the desk, and he remained thus, living over the past three weeks of agony, and then there smote upon his tortured nerves the sound of many clocks striking 11. It sounded as if they were mocking him, and from far and near, some harsh and sharp, some faint in the distance, came that fatal, one, one, one. He arose and, going to a small locker in his room, grasped a half filled bottle of liquor and drank deeply.

He arose again, and taking a letter opener, crowded bits of paper into the keyhole of the door and up and down the crack. Then he closed the one window, turned out the two gas jets and opened the stopcocks again. An odor of gas soon pervaded the room, into which came only a faint light from the statehouse dome.

CHAPTER XXXI.

ALBERT PAGE had just finished reading his morning mail the first day of September, when his office door opened and Uncle Terry entered.

"Well, well," exclaimed Albert, springing to his feet. "How are you, Uncle Terry? How are your good wife and Terry, and when did you arrive, and why didn't you let me know so I could meet you?"

"Waal," answered Uncle Terry, seating himself. "I got in pretty late last night 'n' put up at a tavern near the depot."

"But why didn't you write or wire me, so I could have met you at the train?"

"The fact on't is," replied Uncle Terry, removing his hat and laying it on the floor beside him, "I've allus pulled my own bait in this world, an' if sorter goes agin the grain now, I'll hit the oars over to 'nother fellow." Then, reaching into his pocket, drew out a letter and handing it to Albert, he added: "Bout two weeks ago I got this 'ere from that thief Frye. I was 'spectin' the gov'ment boat 'long most every day an' so couldn't cum any sooner."

Albert read the letter and gave a low whistle. "Frye must have been either very hard up when he wrote," he said, "or else the other parties are crowding him, and this is his last effort to fleece you. I have heard that he has been speculating in wheat lately, and it may be he has got caught. I hope so, so it will be easier for us to bring him to terms. I have my plans all mapped out, and I think we had best go for him at once while he is likely to be in his office." Then, calling to Frank and rapidly writing a check for $500 while that surprised young man was shaking hands with Uncle Terry, he continued: "Please go up to the station, Frank, and get an officer at once and step into the Maverick bank on your way back and get this check cashed. We will go prepared for the worst."

When Frank had gone Uncle Terry said: "There wa'n't no need of yer gettin' money, Mr. Page. I've brung three hundred, which is all he asked fer."

"We may need more nevertheless," answered Albert, "and as I wish to make but one visit to Frye's office, it's best to go prepared." Then after filling out a writ of replevin he added: "Excuse me a moment, Mr. Terry. I will be back soon."

He was absent perhaps five minutes, and then Uncle Terry was astonished to see a strange man enter from an inner room. He wore a full black beard, small glasses, broad slouch hat and a clerical coat which was buttoned close to his chin. Uncle Terry looked at him in surprise, waiting for the stranger to speak.

"Don't you know me, Uncle Terry?" said the new arrival.

Very often the vital resources are small at forty two, but it is not then, between fifty seven and sixty two years of age that there is a strange slowing down and loss of vitality. The wise man will use Ferrozone whose potency is particularly applicable to these critical periods. ## Speechless.

Two workmen were engaged in digging a well when suddenly a portion of the earth gave way, falling on and knocking down one of the men. His companion called to him and listened anxiously for a reply.

"Pat, speak, man," cried Mike again from above. "Are you dead?"

"No, Mike, came the answer, with a groan. I am not dead, but I'm speechless."

Without more ado Mike set off for help as fast as his legs could carry him. Thumping loudly on the door of Pat's kinsfolk, he summoned help, explaining that Pat had been knocked speechless and was buried by the earth in the well. Who told ye so? was the unexpected matter of inquiry.

He told me himself, retorted Mike, indignant at his word being doubted, and, begorra, woman, if ye don't believe me come and ask him, and he'll tell ye its the truth I'm speaking.—London Tatler.

Willie had swallowed a penny and his mother was in a state of much alarm.

"Helen, she called to her sister in the next room, "send for the doctor. Willie has swallowed a penny."

The terrified boy looked up imploringly. "No, mamma, he interposed; "send for the minister."

The minister exclaimed the mother.

"Yes, because papa says our minister can get money out of anybody."

REASON NO 15 WHY YOU SHOULD USE Red Rose Tea

Because it is absolutely guaranteed.

Buy a pound or half-pound package from your grocer, and use about one-quarter of it.

Then, if you do not consider it better value than any tea you have ever used before at the same price, return the balance to your grocer and he will refund you the full price of the package.

I know just how good the tea is, and if you will accept my offer and try it, you will not be surprised that I am willing to guarantee every package.

Journalist in Lumber Camp.

he subsists. He must perforce cover much ground, for though a tree may be hung with moss up to the topmost point, the accessibility of his food supply is measured by the height to which he can stretch his muzzle. The fox seeks his prey over a wide area. The bear is hibernating and will not be seen until the end of March or early in April. Beaver and otter are hidden away in their homes in the frozen brooks.

But this is a digression from the point that the work of the lumberman is severe because it has to be done in all weather. Still, the men are as healthy and as "hard as nails," despite or perhaps because of the unattractive fare. The average immigrant, accustomed to manual labor, or young enough and willing enough to adapt himself to it, would find the work and the life tolerable, if not enjoyable. At the end of a season's toil in the woods, even as a "green hand," he should have at least £20 in his pocket, for in the forest his only possible expenditure would be on jerseys, moccasins, socks, and tobacco; and with £20 a man here is something of a capitalist. In England all he can do with it is to put it in the post office at 2½ per cent; but here it will get him 100 acres, and leave him with £15 with which to build a log house. By working in the summer partly for himself and partly for other farmers he can keep himself going in fair comfort, and another winter in the woods should enable him to devote the whole of the following season to the clearing of his own land.

Thus, in a few years he would lay the foundations of independence, as nearly all the men in camp here have done, for each of them, in one part of New Brunswick or another, has a farm of his own, with wife and children, who keep the cattle feed in his absence. Of course, a man who can bring capital with him has a great advantage, he can buy the best land, with the greatest accessibility to the railway, or a farm which is already and stocked; but as I have cleared said before, many of the most successful farmers in the province are men who began without capital, took up land, and by labor in the woods, winter by winter, earned the money for the development of their properties. And what one man can do another may do. Even if an immigrant does not take up land he can live well—provided that he will work hard and keep away from drink. Take the case of the Bristol man I have mentioned. He has been here twenty years and owns four hundred acres. He does not work them now, because he finds farming lonesome, and is one of those talkative people who cannot live happily without a succession of new faces and unfamiliar voices. Hence, by choice, he follows the life of a laborer—now with an axe in the woods or, in the summer, behind some one's team.

Yet with all his instability of character, he has been seven times across the Atlantic to see his own people. He takes holiday with the frequency of a second-rate actor's "rest" and of as long duration. When his funds run out—I imagine that much of them goes into the publican's till in "treating" friends—he comes out here again to his farm, and gets other work forthwith. He is going home this year—second-class in a C. P. R. steamer. The fare to Liverpool will cost him £7 10s. Whatever heard of the English laboring man taking seven ocean return voyages for a holiday in twenty years? His imagination would not carry him further than a day trip, and in a lifetime, by a Belle steamer to Boulogne and back. And so far from such a man having land of his own, his only foothold—the only spool which he can call his own (so long as he pays rent)—is the single room in the back street in which he lives. I am not kidding him; it is not his fault that his environment is what it is, but I am putting the case of my Bristol friend in this way, in order to bring into clear relief the prosperity of the laboring classes of New Brunswick. It is not to be compared with the want of means and narrow social limitations of the laboring man in England.

But let me repeat that whoever comes to the maritime provinces should be young, in vigorous health, and of abstemious habits. He would be prepared to endure a severe though exhilarating climate, to perform hard and prolonged labor, and to fare rough in a forest camp at any rate.

Minard's Liniment Cures Danl-ruf.

There is a New York joke at an Englishmen's expense, which even Englishmen will enjoy.

The Americans said the visitor when you get out of the cars you say, "Where am I at?" Now we should say: "Where is my 'at'?"

Wedding Superstitions.

The bridegroom who carries a miniature horseshoe in his pocket will always be lucky.

The bride who dreams of fairies on the night before her wedding will be thrice blessed.

Never give a telegram to a bride or bridegroom on the way to the church. It is a sure omen of evil.

Marriages on board ship are considered unlucky. If you can't be married on dry land, remain unwed.

The finding of a spider on the wedding gown by a bride is considered a sure token of happiness to come.

If during the marriage ceremony the wedding ring should fall down the bride's fate will not be an enviable one.

If a bride should by chance see a coffin as she starts off on her wedding tour, she should order the driver of the carriage to turn back and start over again.

A pompous, well-dressed gentleman, whose specialty was mortgages, rose to address a meeting of the unemployed.

"The chief of distress in this country," he began, "is a lack of equality and thrift. You talk of the wolf at the door; he never comes to my door."

I suppose he is afraid of getting skinned," shouted an irreverent person in the audience.

This week is Oddfellows' week, and the eighty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the order is being celebrated by over a million members in Canada, Newfoundland and the United States; also by the order in New Zealand, Australia and Europe, who are working under what are termed quasi-grand lodges. In Canada lodges are situated in every important town or city from Cape Breton to British Columbia and the Yukon. Although April 26th is the actual date, the proclamation of the Grand Sir through the G. and Masters calls upon the members to celebrate at or about that date. No stated form is laid down for the celebration and every lodge chooses its own mode to carry out the celebration. Newcastle lodge, No. 93, will attend church in regular

The tendency of the times is to use the best of everything. The remarkable sale of the new flour, ROYAL HOUSEHOLD, made by the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Montreal and Winnipeg, is an excellent illustration of this fact.

D. G. Smith, the New Brunswick fishery commissioner, is at the Royal say's Monday's Telegraph. Asked as to the progress made in the recently established provincial trout hatchery on the river Bartibog on the North Shore, Mr. Smith said he expected to double the business of last year. Applications for fry have been received from Albert, Kent, Charlotte and York counties, also from a number of private persons who asked for from 4,000 to 10,000 fry to be supplied them. In addition to supplying the North Shore district rivers when the trout are taken to be stripped, Loch Lomond will this season secure 50,000 fry and a large number will be sent to other public waters. The eggs were removed from the parent fish in October and November and the fry began to hatch out about three weeks ago. Mr. Smith expected they would all be out in a fortnight's time.

The commissioner said the results hitherto had been most encouraging, and he expected to again double the work by next year. He regarded it as important that all public waters near large centres of population in the province should be well supplied with young fish to compensate for the loss by fishing the streams and lakes.
