SACKVILLE HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATED

Fast Clean Game Played Last Friday Evening—Score 6 to 3.

When the Sackville hockey squad crossed sticks with the Campbellton team last Friday night, a large crowd of spectators witnessed a fast clean game.

In the first period Sackville gave a good exhibition of clean, fast hockey but were unable to check the visitors' onslaught. In the second period the play was very fast and both teams played well. McAllister, Hottle and O'Brien scored for the visitors and McLean, Sharpe and Matthews scored for the Northerners.

In the last period the home team was more successful in frustrating the efforts of their opponents who continued to put up a game fight. McLean notched a goal for the locals thus making the score 6-3 in Campbellton's favor. Below we publish the Moncton Transcript's report of the game:

The Sackville amateurs suffered defeat on Friday evening at the hands of the Campbellton amateur hockey team, score 6-3. The Sackville boys are loud in their praise of the manner in which the Northerners extended their hospitality. They report that Campbellton played a good game and defeated them fairly. After the game the Sackville boys were entertained at the Walter H. Gray restaurant. They also speak well of the hotel accommodations.

The line-up of teams was as follows:

Sackville: G. McManis goal; D. Murray, L. Battersy, M. Taylor, P. McLean, C. McAllister, C. Rainnie, R. W. Thomas, J. Ames, G. Howard, and G. Wilkins.

Campbellton: D. Murray goal; L. Battersy, C. Point, R. Sharpe, R. W. Matthews, F. Thomas, G. Howard, and G. Wilkins.

BUSINESS ACTIVE AT POLICE COURT

Many Cases Came Up For Trial And Inspectors Are Busy—Juveniles in Court.

For the last week or more there has been considerable activity at the police court. Also evidence, with a little more to go, shows that our three local liquor inspectors are on the job.

On Feb. 26th the three inspectors dealt a severe surprise party at the residence of Mr. Arthur Levesque at the east end of town. Mr. Levesque had despoiled with the Christmas tree but, rather than despoil his visitors who seemed interested in the house and its contents, he exhibited a still. A barrel of "mash" which is essential to the manufacture of "hot" kinks" also accompanied the little boot. Levesque appeared before Judge Matheson on Saturday last and was fined $200.00 and costs. Mr. G. Perley Stewart, Special Enforcement Officer of the Inland Revenue Dept., prosecuted the case.

Through the combined efforts of Inspector Keen and Smith, Louis Cyr is charged with having "crash" in his possession suitable for the manufacture of spirits. Of course Mr. Cyr may have intended starting a laundry but—well he's going to tell the judge all about it, and pay for the privilege besides.

The charge against Ray is that of having manufactured spirits in his dwelling. Both cases come up today, G. Perley Stewart prosecuting.

On Feb. 25th, Inspector Doyle assisted the Inland Revenue Dept., in representing Mr. Philip Levesque of Dalnour, on a portion of his roll. The charge was illegal selling of liquor and the fine $200.00 and costs.

Inspectors Doyle and Keen have also rounded up several bootleggers in the vicinity of Sackville. Five of these cases are up for hearing today before Judge Matheson. D. McAllister of Sackville, however, these were with a fine up in Sackville, Mar.

ROSEBERRY STREET

Unnamed Voyageur Dives Fifteen Feet to Loosen Chains From Horses.

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 20.—Once more the "untutored voyageur of the wild" has proved his humanity, his courage and his resource. A logging teamster—as yet "unnamed in dispatches"—is reported for an act of bravery unprecedented in the years of lumbering in the backwoods of North Ontario. He is an employee of the New Ontario Construction Company engaged in hauling logs across Lake Larson to the Canadian Government Railway near Sioux Lookout.

Under a load of 106 logs the ice cracked and broke. The man leaped to safety. The logs floated. Horses and heavily chained sleigh were drawn down and sank. At the risk of his life the teamster plunged into the icy water of the lake to a depth of fifteen feet, and after a hard and numbing struggle, freed his horses. Looming from his load, the teamster removed his heavy mackinaw and plunged in headfirst, grasping the chain fastening, unlocked it and rose to the surface, clinging to the harness of the horses. Scrambling up on the ice edge again, the teamster supported the heads of the horses above water and called for help. With his soaked garments rapidly freezing in the below zero temperature he clung to the animals until assistance came. Both horses were removed.

QUEBEC'S FOREST POLICY

The government of Quebec will adopt legislation to preserve and perpetuate the forest wealth of that province, according to an announcement made by Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Crown Lands. The idea is to develop tree planting programmes by which a new tree will be planted for every tree cut in any one year. Apparently the government will take action to assure planting on private lands as well as on the public lands, but just in what way has not been indicated. It is recognized that it is difficult to interest private companies in expenditure for tree planting, as it will be more than a generation before there will be returns from such expenditures. The government may perhaps reasonably offer some assistance to encourage tree planting on private lands, but private corporations and individuals also have a direct interest in the matter, an interest which will grow when big fortunes cannot be made in a short time by the wholesale slaughter of forests without concern for the future.

Another phase of Quebec's forest policy involves a survey of the Crown Lands, and the working out of a plan to have the annual cut correspond with the annual growth.

LABOR AND PROSPERITY.

Australia, still on the threshold of nationhood, has incurred a huge war debt in addition to other outstanding loans. When Australia borrows money she does not receive it as scrips and bank notes. It is obtained as goods for consumption or represents credits for goods. And these loans, aggregating millions of dollars in value, must be repaid in goods, whether such be raw material or manufactured products. Evidently the immediate need is for increased production for it is clear that the sooner the means to pay are provided, the sooner will outstanding liabilities be discharged. A section of the Australian press, in studying the matter, has expressed the above opinion, contending that the only way by which production can be increased is by working to increase it.

What is true of Australia in regard to this question, also applies, in a large measure, to other countries. Canada is also burdened by a large war debt. Every political scheme which suggested a possible means of taxation has been over-turned by those in command of public affairs, in their endless search for additional sources of revenue. Matters attaching to this department of provincial and federal government must essentially be dealt with. But even if increased taxation is an apparently indispensable factor in the scheme for readjustment of national affairs, it has invariably been productive of unrest and has in the past, given birth to revolutionary sentiment. Such dangers should be scrupulously avoided in a time such as the present period of depression for the labor class, taken collectively, are hard pressed.

of any additional tax, whether wise or otherwise, is an unjust imposition and something inimical to their best interests.

Thus taxation in itself embodies no safe means by which the nation's debt may be reduced and an ensuing period of prosperity ushered in.

As far as we can see, what is good for Australia—is good for Canada as well. The one thing that will reconnect the spinal cord of international commerce; opening the arteries of national trade and revive the dormant veins of home industry is increased production. Not "production at any price" but production at the minimum cost.

But before this can be accomplished certain things must come to pass. Certain trade unions must give a clearer insight into the situation and formulate their policy of "make money, labor leaders must cease their utterly illegal outbursts, and laborers themselves must learn to see both sides of the case and consequently become more responsible in their demands. The education and enlightenment of the rank and file of the labor party does not qualify it to capably hold the reins of government, but, nevertheless, the laborer is an indispensable factor in the life of any nation and some sane and egregiously selfish and egotistical employer could wish to deprive him of his rights. If the workmen workmen could realize more fully what a vital part their actions contribute to the character of their country, they would be loathe to revert to any ignoble expedient to attain their own personal objective. Labor can, undoubtedly, do much to stabilize society, one to ameliorate present lamentable conditions but, its utility in this respect will be sadly handicapped unless revolutionary tactics are permanently abandoned and the dictates of right and reason faithfully adhered to.

EDUCATION.

The word education, to many people, means merely a preparation for success in life. But the word in its full sense embodies much more than is usually placed to it's credit. The daily bread must be earned, of course, but to consider the children of the land, when equipped with a good education, merely as potential bread-winners and money-makers is hardly a worthy conclusion to draw from a subject so money-sided and of such import.

Education is, generally speaking, essential to the attainment of financial independence and is manifestly an initial requisite to the achievement of success in any line of human endeavor, but the word in its complete sense embodies much more than the means by which a man of low estate may rise to fame and fortune.

Again, education may be regarded as the torch which heralds the light of knowledge and dispels the darkness of ignorance. But to consider educational training as simply the process which moulds a well-read man from the plastic clay of an illiterate youth, shows lack of discernment of the more vital properties with which his life is endowed.

The potential and priceless thing in education is that occult faculty it possesses which develops in every human personality under its tutelage, the ability and insight to choose, not between the good and the bad but between the worth-while and the useless, between the practices and associations that tend to lift our destinies to a loftier plane and those things which constantly seek admittance to our lives with no definite or helpful quality to impart.

It is this element in education, then, which pilots the life course of the educational youth and enables him to draw from the world's wells of intellectual and spiritual enjoyment all that he needs to enrich and sweeten his life of toil. On the other hand, the uninformed, without this power to discriminate, choose according to the dictates of mere sensual desires and thus miss the real joys of life.

This is the element in education which is seldom given a thought-by people to-day, but nevertheless, it is this teaching, which education almost imperceptibly imparts, which places institutions of learning beside those of the church and raises those who come under its ameliorating influence to a higher plane where finer and nobler impulses actuate the lives of men.

PRISONERS GOT TO SEIZED LIQUOR

Twenty-Seven Reeled Into Court at Lynn Next Morning.

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 28.—Twenty-seven dice players and twenty-seven barrels of wine were locked up in the jail corridor on Sunday night. When the prisoners reeled into the court room yesterday, the court told them severely that they should know better than to drink liquor in the law's custody and fined them four dollars each. They paid, some of them remarking that the wine was well worth it.

Jail officials were ordered to keep prisoners and seizures separate hereafter.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our darling mother, Mrs. C. Boudreau, who died February 12th, 1921 at the age of sixty-four years. Gone but not forgotten.

In a lone and silent graveyard where the trees and branches wave, Lies a dear one calmly sleeping in a dark and silent grave.

Friends may think we soon forgot her, And our wounded hearts are healed, Little do they know the sorrow That's within our hearts concealed. (Inserted by her Daughters.)

PAINFUL INJURY.

Mr. W. H. Miller sustained a painful injury last Sunday when a two year old colt, one of the several horses which Mr. Miller owns, made a playful race and struck him above the eye with one of its forward hooves, inflicting two nasty cuts and loosening some of his owner's teeth. Dr. Lanam was called and dressed the injury but owing to the ragged nature of the wound was unable to insert any stitches. Mr. Miller's left eye had a narrow escape but he is now able to use it a little and is resting comfortably.

Capt. Kidd Was Pirate Hunter

On the black list of pirates there is no rightful place for Capt. Kidd. But the truth about him gets as shabby a welcome now as it did in 1701 when he swung at Execution Dock, for literature can hardly spare his hat and jaw, his boots and cutlasses; and his high-placed employers could be no means spare his life. It is time, nevertheless, thinks Joseph B. Gilder, latter-day friend to the captain and for years a student of his story, to separate history from myth. That daunting picture of Howland Pyle's shows the Capt. Kidd of fiction, not the upright, Scottish skipper that—Mr. Gilder and the records declare—our hero was. So goes a fine figure from the past of romance. "There is not a scrap of evidence to prove that he ever committed a single piratical act in his whole life," said his defender, who presented his case to the Admiralty, the Secretary of State, the Governor of New York and the King, for the former governor bore the Great Seal, of which the Lord Chancellor, the sole keeper in every one knows. Now, these gentlemen were all of the Whig party, then in power. The Tories were keen on the hunt for a scandal to be used against them. The rest of the story, and its sad conclusion, follows from that fact. There had to be a scapegoat, and Kidd was the man.

"His history is simple and honorable. His father was said to have been a Non-Conformist minister, who was put to the torture of the rack. Late in his career he ran a packet between New York and London, but in 1699, when William III. had become King, and there was hot fighting in the West Indies, he did good service on the British side against the French. There were troublous times in New York when he returned, a lieutenant-governor being in office pending the arrival of the new governor sent out by the King, for the former governor had fled. Jacob Leisler was the popular leader, but Capt. Kidd supported the aristocratic party; and he served the cause so well that in 1691 the Provincial Government rewarded him with a substantial gift. Moreover, he married a rich widow, and those two facts account for the only treasure that in all likelihood he ever possessed.

The expedition to the Indian Ocean, the Red Sea and neighboring waters on which Captain Kidd sailed forth in the galley Adventure in 1699 had for its powerful backers the great folk mentioned, says Marion Storm in the New York Post. Nevertheless, it was miserably manned, for the captain's pilot crew with which it started was taken off by a private gang and Kidd had to come to New York to drum up recruits. "The King left that city Governor Fletcher believing that he would never be able to control for a long period the gangs of ruffians that composed his crew, inasmuch as they were to get no pay except on a share of the spoils which were 160 men," said Mr. Gilder, "and they were to receive a quarter of the wares. They were not content among them all! The King was to draw a tenth of the proceeds—a third more than Kidd's own share."

After long hardships Capt. Kidd returned from the West Indies on one of his prize vessels. "He was beggled to come ashore at Boston—although he knew that the false charges against him made that dangerous—by his one-time friend, the Earl of Bellmont, now Governor of New York and the greater part of New England," said Mr. Gilder, "into jail, and passed the good word on to the anxious King and the Whig nobles, whose Tory rivals were in full cry on the scent of this scandal. 'Treason, piracy, and mutiny'—For a year Captain Kidd lay in prison in Boston, and there was where at last he was brought to trial, as they called it, and convicted of piracy on five indictments and of murder also. He had no friend. There was nobody to whom his life was not an inconvenience. The trial was a tragic-comedy. The sole damning evidence consisted of the perjured stories of two men who had deserted him to go off with a self-confessed pirate in Madagascar, and who were provoked their own consciences by swearing away his, as he told them to their faces.

"So he was hanged as a murderer and a pirate. 'He roams around the neck rocks the first time and the Newgate chaplain' who had set his heart on getting a confession was mustered to the gallows. 'While for particulars of our plot whereby you can work in our chains to pay for part of your training for one of these big

OPERA HOUSE HAS WONDER FILM COMING

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse"—the Picture of the Century
Duo Here Soon.

The long-awaited Rex Ingram production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is coming to the Opera House for two nights and two matinees beginning Friday, March 10th. Critics agree that all other efforts at production on a grand scale have been surpassed by this artistic masterpiece and record runs have been made wherever it has played. Fifty principles and 2,500 extras were engaged in the filming of the photodrama, an entire French village and an elaborate chateau were erected to be destroyed under the artillery bombardment of the German invaders, and more than 125,000 tons of masonry, steel, lumber and furniture were used in creating back-grounds that are said to reproduce with absolute fidelity the shifting panorama of the story.

The appeal of the story itself has already been proved through the success of the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, upon which the photodrama is founded. Its sale throughout the world runs into the millions, but millions more will probably have it revealed to them the first through the medium of the screen production. This production is reported to have followed faithfully the epic tale of human passion against the background of the Great War as related by Ibanez.

Team of Huskies for Quebec Visitors

One of the chief innovations at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, in connection with the winter sports programme is the introduction of a husky dog team. In order to secure the genuine article, a representative visited the North Country to select dogs suitable for this purpose. Previous to the journey telegrams were sent to all important posts, north of the Great Lakes, but owing to the unusual conditions prevailing during the fall of 1921, little success was met with. A variety of replies were received—some from the Bay of Fundy, some from the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and some from the St. Lawrence Valley. Finally, a party of the husky dog team was secured from the St. Lawrence Valley, and after a long and arduous journey, they arrived in Quebec on the morning of the 15th inst.

The husky dog team, consisting of five dogs, was accompanied by a driver and a sled. The dogs were of various breeds, but all were of the husky type. They were all well trained and were able to pull a sled of 150 lbs. weight. The team was shown to the visitors at the Chateau Frontenac, and they were all well received. The dogs were all of the same color, and they all had the same kind of harness. They were all very well trained, and they were all very obedient. They were all very well behaved, and they were all very well liked.

Nearly Insane From Leg Ulcers

Head these two letters from Frank B. Larkin of London, Ontario, to the Editor of this paper. I have suffered for years with leg ulcers. I have tried every remedy known to me, but nothing has done me any good. I have been nearly insane from the pain and suffering. I have been unable to work and have had to depend on my family for support. I have been a great disappointment to my family and friends. I have been a great disappointment to my family and friends. Charles Heard, aged 48, met a horrible death Thursday afternoon when he fell into one of the digesters of the Bathurst Pulp Mill, Bathurst, N. B. He was working with another man, Charles Dugway, helping the chutes through which the chips were dropped into the digester, and both failed to see the danger until it was too late to be of any use.

Charles was carried into the mill in the afternoon and died in the afternoon. He was not until about eight o'clock, Saturday morning that his body was recovered. The unfortunate man leaves a wife and five small children.

KEEP FIT

Never let your system get run down - keep fit all the time

As long as you keep yourself strong and healthy you are not liable to be overcome by colds and other contagious diseases.

Don't wait until your system becomes weakened, but immediately you notice you are not feeling up to the mark, start fortifying your system against disease by taking Carnel. These remarks apply especially to children who do not realize the importance of taking proper care of themselves.

The peculiar feature about Carnel is that while it is a preparation containing cod liver oil it has a delicious taste. It is the ideal preparation for all children, for it is palatable and all-aroundly beneficial. It is a natural food supply. Carnel provides all the vitamins, iron and phosphorus, and is a natural food for the body. It increases weight and builds up the whole system.

Carnel is especially valuable in the treatment of all chronic conditions, such as rickets, scurvy, and other diseases of the vital forces and glands caused by lack of natural strength. Carnel, by its own power, restores the system to normal.

Carnel has proven an excellent remedy in Rickets, that common disease of ill-nourished children, and in other ailments.

Carnel is composed of that wonderful nerve tonic-glycophosphoric acid. This is commonly known as the world over as "The Blood Salt." It is the best blood builder and nerve invigorator yet discovered. Carnel also contains the soluble nutritive properties of fresh cod liver oil.

In addition, there is cod liver's extract with all the nauseating and irritating elements removed.

Carnel is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say "I've tried it and it's good," return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

How to Make a Speech

Merchants called upon to make a speech will find this formula from "Life" helpful.

Three long breaths. Compliment the audience. Outline what you are not going to talk about. Points that you will touch on later. Two familiar quotations. Outline what you are going to say. Point that you have not time to touch on now. Reference to what you said first. Funny story. Compliment the audience. Ditto to the city, state and country. Applause.

EDITOR'S MAIL

March 1, 1922. Why not have the law changed to conform with the rest of the continent. If Nova Scotia wishes to stand apart what of it. Let New Brunswick lead and Nova Scotia will quickly follow. Where are all our Auto Associations? Yours, 1922. A great deal has been written in the past regarding the change in our New Brunswick Road Law. It would appear to the writer that with so many cars coming in from other parts of the Dominion that we should fall in line and turn to the right instead of to the left. Could not we revive the idea and have the change? I wish to refer to a case I have in mind. So many people will say if you meet a car coming from the State of Maine or Quebec, if they insist on keeping to the right just stick to your own side. This is right and proper in New Brunswick and the foreign car will have to pay the damage. A certain farmer did not believe in changing the road law. He was driving to town and happened upon a short turn in the road to meet a motorist accustomed to turning to the right, assured that he was in his own province and following the rules of the road he stuck to his left side. The motorist could not stop in time to avert an accident, the farmer held his ground, he was perfectly right, but he is now dead and the motorist back on his own territory still living. Did it pay the farmer to stick to the New Brunswick Road Law? Yet, if he, at the last moment had turned to the right to save his life and then appeared in court he would have been equally guilty, and he held so by the courts of any country. Many farmers are not opposed to the change. Yet, I am familiar with one up to date farmer who drives a white horse, who is opposed, and strongly so, to any change. I have repeatedly met this same gentleman and found he always takes the Safety

He Gets Paid by the Thrill

Charles Hutchison

The Thrill-a-Minute King

"HURRICANE HUTCH"

A Fifteen Episode Pathe Serial

He dives from a precipice into the roaring rapids. He leaps from one automobile into another, both going at a mile-a-minute speed. He drops from a bridge onto the top of a moving automobile.

On a motorcycle he leaps across a broken bridge as a puffing locomotive steams underneath. He walks the tight rope across a chasm. He races a train on motorcycle and dashes in front of the locomotive.

He fights a shark under the water. He makes a human bridge of his body to save a girl from a flaming building. Hanging by his knees from an aeroplane he swings down and saves a girl from a motor boat.
