SOCIAL LIFE IN QUEENSLAND

In connection with the celebrations of Queensland's jubilee, much has been written about the early history of the state and of those who braved the difficulties of the pioneer life.

of Diamantina. The first of the west, is named after her, so also is the town of Roma, and Roma street, Brisbane, Roma being also one of her titles. Men and women, charmed with her warm-heartedness and her energetic and untiring labours, have been inconsiderable. Lady Bell remembers a young pioneer couple arriving at their station home from Sydney, and the carpenters' shavings having to be hastily swept together for the purpose of drying, as the tears was en route to Ipswich for medical attendance, in the only available means of transit in those primitive days, and in the care of a very old and trusted driver. The jolting hastened matters, and the patient died.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JULY 28.

A GREAT HARMONIZER.

At Sir Wilfrid Laurier's meeting in Humboldt, Sask., the chairman was a Dane, addresses of welcome were read by a German and a Galician, and 60 per cent. of the auditors were American newcomers.

The Premier rose to the occasion. Of French descent, he typified in his own person the amalgamating power of British institutions and the opportunities which Canadian citizenship gives to all races and creeds. His speech was a sermon in patriotism, a lesson in Canadianism, an exposition of true imperialism. Here is a telling passage:

"Let me say to our fellow-citizens, those who have come from the American Republic, those who have come from Scandinavia or Germany or the Danubian provinces or France or Belgium, all our fellow-citizens, that there is nothing we of Canada have that we are not willing to share with them. Let me tell them that I present myself as an example of the breadth of the institutions of this country. This is a British country. It is the blood of old England or Ireland or Scotland that flows in the veins of the great masses of her people. I like many of you, am not of British blood, but my ancestors came from that country, France. Yet, over 22 years ago, on the retirement of Mr. Blake, forgetting my shortcomings, irrespective of alien blood that flowed in my veins, the French descent, which is shared by only a minority of the people of this British country, one of the great patriots which contributes to the government of this country under British institutions asked me to become its leader. I hesitated for personal and political reasons. Was it wise for one of the race of the minority to undertake the leadership of the majority? They told me then, what I have learned since, that a Liberal party knows no difference of creed or race, that whoever is worthy of support will have it given him, whole-souledly. The race is open to all. Whoever the man who comes to Canada, whatever the land from which he kneels, if he becomes a Canadian-British subject he can aspire to the best and highest this land can offer."

The history of Canada today is not like the history of any other nation. All colonies after a certain time have severed their connection with the parent state. The United States severed their connection in the eighteenth century, the Greek colonies in the ancient world separated from the mother country. But we claim that we have founded our independence in the maintenance of a British Empire on the rock of local autonomy, and that local autonomy is connected with imperial unity. That is the position I take, and in taking that position, which I intend to maintain up to the last, we have to fight the prejudice that exists at both ends. I ask the men of all races and creeds, to stand by these two cardinal principles: the autonomy of Canada and the unity of the British Empire."

Sir Wilfrid is performing a great national service by his western tour. He is a cementing and harmonizing influence, a tie binding all races in the sentiment of a common Canadianism. No man in the country could so interpret to an audience of mixed nationalities the meaning, the privileges, and the responsibilities of Canadian citizenship, and the nature of the imperial relationship.

LAWN BOWLING FOR ALL.
Canadian visitors to Glasgow see thousands of men bowling in public parks and upon public greens. These grounds are owned and kept in condition by the city. Players may bring their own bowls, or bowls may be rented from caretakers for a small fee. It is a favorite pastime of the working classes in the evening hours and on holidays.

The game could be popularized in Canada as in Scotland. The men and boys who through the indoor bowling alleys and pool rooms in the summer months could be more healthfully occupied in outdoor bowling. The facilities could be provided by any community at no great expense. No money could be spent to better purpose. Social reformers welcome all such things as aids in the fight against the evil influences which beset young men, especially in the cities. The neglect of this city to provide for the future by reserving vacant spaces for parks and playgrounds is a mistake that will have deplorable results.

THE ACCESSION OATH AGAIN.

Mr. Asquith has amended his amendment to the Royal Declaration of Accession Oath, to placate the Non-conformists.

The bill brought down last month eliminated the reference to Catholic dogma in the Oath, and substituted the words, "I am a faithful member of the Protestant Church by law established in England." This form of words was as exclusive of Protestant denominations outside the Establishment as of the Roman Catholic Church. The Nonconformists threatened to oppose the bill, if the denominational test were retained. As they constitute the bulk of his support, Mr. Asquith yielded to necessity. The clause will simply read: "I am a faithful Protestant."

So long as the Church of England is established by law, it is logical to expect the sovereign to adhere to it, as he is its nominal head. This is guaranteed, however, by statute. The proposed change in the Oath means nothing, except that it puts no repudiation of any Protestant Church into the mouth of the sovereign. It is, however, an acknowledgment of the illegality of the Establishment, both in England and Scotland, when a majority of British subjects throughout the empire adhere to other churches.

The latest amendment will no doubt be strongly opposed by zealous churchmen as an infringement of the authority of the Establishment. They will not prevail in the House of Commons, but the House of Lords is a stronghold of the Church of England, and it is within the bounds of probability that the bill may be rejected there.

It is to be hoped every muzzled dog is regularly fed by his owner. Towser cannot now forage for himself.

It appears that Mr. Bryan went down to defeat in the Nebraska Democratic convention through advocating a county local option law. If that is all, he will probably "come back."

Earl Grey begins today his 5,000-mile trip from Ottawa back to Ottawa, via Manitoba, Kewatin, the Hudson Bay, and Labrador. His lordship shows some of the pioneer spirit which has led the British race to occupy the vacant places of the world.

Why should someone in authority at the city hall invite the underwriters to test the city water pressure before the permanent pumping machinery is installed, and when only five out of seventeen wells are being pumped? This is not giving the city a fair show.

The Toronto newspapers with one accord pay tribute to the late William Rennie. He retired from business when he had made a competency, and devoted the many remaining years of his life to public service, and to rational pleasures. This is the British custom, but in Canada, as a rule, a businessman keeps his nose to the grindstone until he is too old to enjoy a period of leisure.

"He (Sir Wilfrid) was telling the assembled electors of his purposes that had been gathered in by Finance Minister Fielding, when a hard-headed farmer interrupted with an inquiry: 'If, asked the questioner, Mr. Fielding is creating so many surplususes why does he borrow so much money in England?' And neither George Graham nor his leader could answer the question of this unassuming son of the soil."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

It would have been very easy for George and his leader to answer that question, and perhaps they did. One might as well ask of a prosperous merchant: "If you are doing so flourishing a business, why are you borrowing money from the bank?" Canada is borrowing capital, because her progress demands it, and because the money so invested is yielding great returns.

BRITAIN'S ABUNDANT WEALTH.
[London Correspondent New York Sun.]
For partisan political purposes it has been the habit of many English editors to write about the alleged financial decadence of England. To read them you would think that England was on the verge of bankruptcy. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the other hand, in introducing his budget for next year, said that the country never was so prosperous, and that there was a big boom in trade everywhere.

To judge by the unprecedented amount of new capital that London found in the first six months of this year England is far from being broke. The Economist shows that in the first three months of this year $20,555,000 was invested in new undertakings, and in the next three months $28,721,000.

These figures are indicative of a great boom in business, and of course of speculative activity. Rubber companies account for $16,500,000 of the half-year's total, and all companies for $20,555,000. The tabulated statement in the Economist shows that a fair proportion of the new capital is for the home market, but the larger proportion was invested in enterprises abroad.

There is no reason for disquietude in this fact, it is asserted. What the figures of new capital indicate is the enormous wealth of the United Kingdom. The stream of British capital still flows over the earth like a fertilizing stream. Of the increase in the amount of capital sent abroad the bulk will be for the construction of railways and the development of agriculture or industry.

WHEN THE CLOTHIER FAINTED.

A London clothier was never known to acknowledge that he didn't have anything a possible customer might ask for. One day a customer entered the shop and asked if he had any trousers made especially for one-legged men.

"Certainly," replied the merchant. "What kind do you want?"
"Dress pants," said the man. "The best you've got."

Hurrying into the rear of the shop, the enterprising merchant snatched a pair of trousers and shipped them right legged. He presented them to the customer.
"That's the kind I want. What's the price?"
"Thirty shillings."

"Well, give me a pair with the left leg off." A month later the clothier was pronounced convalescent.

A BLUE ROSE.

[London Daily News.]
No true horticulturist is satisfied with the colors given to blooms by Nature. If a flower is normally yellow or red, he desires to produce a variety which shall be green or blue or black. Formerly the blue rose, the "green carnation" and the "black tulip" were regarded as the impossible; but, thanks to the striving of growers after unnatural tints, such phrases have lost their old significance. From the Alps to the Nile, the Duke of Devonshire, who is a well-known rose specialist, has been experimenting for three or four years with a view to the production of a blue rose. By the process of crossing a different strains he has now succeeded in obtaining the most distinct blue rose yet produced, and has given it the name of "Lady Coventry."

His nursery is near the estate of the late Lord Beaconsfield, at Hughenden, and has previously achieved success by blending the common dog-rose with cultivated roses, a notable example of his work being a climbing rose, pure white, which grows in clusters of from 40 to 60 blooms.

SIXTY KIDDIES

No Rowdiness.
He also said that the gentleman who had so kindly donated the use of the ground would not allow any boy to chase cattle or otherwise make a nuisance of himself. He said that in a kindly way he would like to tell the boys if any disorder was occasioned in camp by any boy making a nuisance of himself he would be sent home on the next train.

After the lady left, the men got their orders. And all through the evening the boys tried to be particular friends of the old Snake Island cook, Mr. Bentley, who said he'd take care of the "kiddies."

BANK FUNDS GONE BEYOND RECOVERY

Huge Sum Believed to Have Been Swallowed Up in Speculation.
New York, July 27.—The "gentlemen's agreement" between the Russo-Chinese bank and its missing cashier, Erwin Widen, who is accused of embezzling $200,000 worth of stocks and bonds, expired today, when the district attorney's office was requested to take action and a private detective agency was put on the case.

The bank is now pretty well convinced that all the huge sum stolen has vanished beyond recovery in the whirlpool of speculation, and that further dalliance with Widen is just so much time lost. A story that Widen had a power of attorney from the bank finds full credence in Wall street, and it was also asserted today that many of the bank's certificates, which were still in blank when they vanished.

If it can be proved it will make the task of the bank recovering from brokers additionally difficult. Thus far there is nothing to indicate that any of the certificates were filled in with forged signatures. No suits against brokerage houses have yet been begun.

If Widen had a power of attorney his task was only too simple, for Assistant District Attorney Nott said that the bank indicated that the management took only the most elementary precautions against fraud. The case was reported to him, three or four persons had access to the safety deposit box in which the securities were kept, and the contents were not regularly or even frequently checked up.

FREIGHT MOVING UP STRATFORD WAY

The Situation on Bruce Branch of the Grand Trunk.
[Special to The Advertiser.]

Stratford, July 28.—Conditions are improving daily in the strike situation. At 10 o'clock yesterday morning a freight train arrived from London, and also one from Sarnia. The way freight from Sarnia Tunnel also arrived about 6 o'clock in the evening, besides which the trains are running from Palmerston and Southampton. Last evening at 5:25 a mixed train consisting of about 25 or 30 empty stock cars and passenger coach and mail coach, left for Goderich.

Some thirty-five to forty Indians and squaws passed through the city en route for Sebringville to pull the freight car. The car was finally got out of the track after considerable difficulty. The accident has done, no doubt, to the hauling of the cars on the part of the men.

GREY STARTS LONG TRIP

Leaves Capital To Penetrate Northern Wilds of Canada.
Ottawa, July 28.—His Excellency Earl Grey left Ottawa yesterday afternoon for Winnipeg. From there he will start early next week under guidance of a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, for Port Nelson on the Hudson Bay, via the Hayes River from Norway House at the foot of Lake Winnipeg.

The 600-mile trip down the river will be made in a motor launch, and the Governor-General will investigate en route the character of the unsettled Canadian hinterland soon to be tapped by the Government-constructed Hudson Bay Railroad.

From Port Nelson His Excellency will proceed by Government steamer through Hudson Bay and Strait down the Labrador coast to Newfoundland and thence to Montreal.

PRESSURE SHOWN

cost would be perhaps $300,000, but it would be well worth it.

"It would pay the citizens in a very short time," declared Secretary Robertson. "The returns would be immediate, and it would be a guarantee of safety."

Condition Improved.
Both admitted that London was in a perilous position two years ago. A million gallons of water had been added to the supply, and in short time 3,500,000 would be available.

"I doubt that the city will install a high pressure system, although it is being considered," declared the city engineer. "If you had a modern fire engine at once, say one of 1,000 gallons a minute capacity, you would not be in a bad position, with your fire engine in a bad position, that would give you a number of extra streams of fine pressure."

"Would you give a reduction in the key rate if that were done?" Mr. Robertson was asked.

The secretary promptly side-stepped the question, and would not give a direct answer.

"London has been a good risk," Ald. Ashplant pointed out. "We have never had any serious conflagrations, and our fire loss compares favorably with other cities."

"That does not mean that you are always safe to be free from serious fires," said Mr. Howe. "I have seen cities go along for many years without a serious fire, and then would follow a series of extremely heavy losses."

"The fire loss in the case of the Montreal has just had a similar experience."

A New Main.
Both Mr. Robertson and Mr. Howe suggested that a new main be run from the city to the water works.

Ald. Ashplant and Fire Chief Aitken both thought that this would be a good thing.

Erect a new reservoir and lay a new main, the underwriters will have to come down in their rates," declared Chief Aitken.

"The best and most certain way to obtain a reduction in insurance is to have all the business houses in the city install a sprinkler system," declared Commissioner Pocock. "Then lower rates are certain to follow. I think a new modern engine, motor driven, would be a good investment."

Inspector Objects.
Inspector Howe backed up on a motor-driven engine in this climate, being of the opinion that the climate was against the successful operation of the machine.

Chairman Pocock, of the water commission, and Ald. Ashplant, of the new pumping plant on Horton street, and also to Springbank, where an inspection was made.

It was the intention of No. 3 committee to deal with Mr. Howe's report last night, but it was laid over, pending the result of the tests made today. A resume of this report was given in the Advertiser some time ago.

The main points are covered in Mr. Howe's criticism of the test today. He alluded to the improvements made in the fire fighting apparatus, and the increased water supply, but insisted that the pressure was lacking as yet.

"We threw twelve inches of water from an 18-inch main," said Chief Aitken. "That was when we had the test streams, and took the cap off the hydrant. We could not get more than 23 pounds pressure. It was a very severe test, more than we will ever need in this city."

Only five of the seventeen wells on Horton street are being pumped, and the pumping plant is only a temporary one.

HEAVY HAIL KILLS ST. MARYS CHICKENS

Was Too Much for the Turkeys —Quarry Reopened—The Ceece Factory Burned.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Marys, July 28.—Miss Jennie Moore, of Galt, formerly of St. Marys, is visiting friends here.

The Blanchard cheese factory owned by Mr. Prouldove was burned to the ground at midnight Tuesday. The cheese was nearly all saved. The building was insured in the Perth Mutual for $25,000. The fire is supposed to have caught from the engine used in the factory.

Weather permitting the L. O. F. Band will this evening give their weekly open-air concert.

Seaforth, July 27.—Mr. F. G. Nash, in his return from Bayview, where he had been enjoying the lake breezes. Miss Margaret Kehoe, of Toledo Ohio, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James Kehoe.

MESSAGE TO OUR NEW BROTHERS

Grand Gathering at Humboldt—All Countries Were Represented.

PREMIER MUCH MOVED

More Than 4,000 People Crowd Into the Great Arena—Canada's Welcome to the World.

Humboldt, Sask., via Prince Albert July 26.—The Laurier meeting here tonight was a remarkable and never-to-be-forgotten one. The great arena, capable of accommodating four thousand people, was packed to the doors by an audience who listened with rapt attention to the Premier, who delivered his memorable message to the new Canadian citizenship, and told of his aspirations for the country, his aims, his ideals. The Premier was moved. He was addressing young Canadians of alien blood. His message was personal and sympathetic. He talked as one who knew. He spoke from his own life. His story carried meaning and inspiration.

The gathering was a notable one. Mr. H. M. Thores, president of the Grain Growers' Association, estimated that sixty per cent of those present were United States settlers. The balance included a large representation of Germans, Scandinavians and Galicians, men, women and children. Chairman Mayor Andrews was a Dane, who spoke the language brokenly. Addresses of welcome were read by Henry Miller, a big German, and Minnesota. Eugene Androskovic presented the greetings of the Galicians in quaint, sympathetic phrasing. We are perfectly happy and satisfied. We have honest, good education, and happy homes. Canada our country, too. We wish you goodspeed.

The Premier spoke.

"My fellow-Canadian citizens," was Sir Wilfrid's happy and hearty salutation. He spoke words of welcome. "We want you to help us to make Canada the greatest nation in the British Empire. We extend the right hand of fellowship. What we have in common is our language, laws, our institutions, our freedom, equal rights and justice to all. We are British subjects. We believe British institutions are the best of all, barring none. We believe in the monarchical form of government, and are proud of our King and Queen."

"Let us say to our fellow-citizens, those who have come from the American Republic, those who have come from Scandinavia, or Germany or the Danubian provinces, or France or Belgium, all our fellow-citizens, that there is nothing we of Canada have that we are not prepared to share with them. Let me tell them that I present myself as an example of the breadth of the institutions of this country. This is a British country. It is the blood of England, or France or Scotland, that flows in the veins of the great masses of her people. I like many of you, am not of British blood; my ancestors came from old Brittany. France, yet, over twenty-two years ago, on the retirement of Mr. Blake, forgetting my many shortcomings, irrespective of alien blood that flowed from my veins, the French descent which is shared by only a minority of the people of this British country, one of the great parties which contributes to the government of this country, the British institutions, what I have learned to know from experience since, that the Liberal party knows no difference of creed or race, that whoever is worthy of support will have it given him, wholeheartedly. The race is open to all. Whoever the man who comes to Canada, whatever the land from which he may come or the altar at which he kneels, if he becomes a Canadian-British subject, he is entitled to the best and highest this land can offer.

"Whatever can be claimed by men of British origin will be given him. (Cheers). The British constitution knows no distinctions; all are equal. Therefore," added Sir Wilfrid, "I say to my fellow-citizens, the Galicians, who favored me with this address, we have they shall have. We ask only one thing: it is this, that all who come to this land shall accept, along with the rights we offer them, the duties and obligations of Canadian citizenship. (Cheers and applause).

The Canadian Navy.

"One of these obligations," the Premier proceeded, "was the duty of defending our own country and the empire of which we are a part. That is one thing I have to lay before my new fellow-countrymen, as well as my old fellow-countrymen. In the parliamentary session recently closed, legislation had been adopted for the creation of a Canadian navy. They were very far from the sea in this part of the country, and perhaps the matter consequently had not specially appealed to them. But whether they lived by the sea or in the centre of the continent, as Canadians they had similar duties as well as similar rights and it was for all of them to take part in the defence of their country and their King and constitution. We have been told this is the first step towards militarism," observed the Premier. "I do not agree with anything of the kind; for my part, I shall ever be opposed to militarism. But defence does not mean military, any more than militarism means defence.

IT IS OUR DUTY TO LOOK AFTER OUR OWN COUNTRY.

"Up to the present time our country has been looked after altogether by the mother land, but, sir, the time has come when Canada should assume the rights of a nation. We claim to be British subjects. We have the sovereignty of King George over us. But while we acknowledge the sovereignty of the King of Great Britain, Ireland, and Emperor of India, we say also that Canada is a nation, and we say the part Canada shall play is not the part of a dependency, but the part of a nation, such as we are at the present time. There are independent nations existing which have neither the population nor the wealth of Canada. Belgium, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, have not the population nor the wealth of Canada; and Canada, with now a population of seven millions, claims that she is a nation, and therefore ready to assume all the duties and responsibilities which pertain to the history of a nation. There has been no nation with a sea coast which ever existed without having a navy. This is the reason we are going to have a navy. We claim the right of manhood. We should relieve the British taxpayer of the duty of defending us. We can do it ourselves.

A New World Spectacle.

"We are the only nation we have at present will not cause independence or separation. We will show the world a spectacle that has not been presented before. The history of Canada is the history of the world. Any nation, of any other nation. All colonies after a certain time have severed their connection with the parent state. The United States severed their connection with the British Empire. The world separated from the mother country. But we claim that we have founded our independence in the maintenance of our allegiance to the British Empire on the rock of local autonomy, and that local autonomy is connected with imperial unity. That is the position I have to take, and in taking that position, which I intend to maintain up to the last, we have to fight the prejudice that exists at both sides. I ask the men of all races and creeds to stand by these two cardinal principles: the unity of Canada and the unity of the British Empire."

Country First.

The Premier explained the dual Conservative attack on the naval policy. The campaign of Mr. Borden, which urged a contribution of Dreadnoughts, claimed it would lead to independence and separation. The campaign of Mr. Monk, which opposed any action, claimed it would cost Canada her autonomy as a nation. "Both are wrong," declared Sir Wilfrid. "We will find our independence in the maintenance of our allegiance, and our local autonomy in imperial unity." (Cheers).

"We are not yet as we should be," confessed the Premier. "There are those—God pity them—who would seek to divide the land of Canada into discord among men of different origins who compose our nation. Appeals are made to the passions of men of my blood. There is no possible excuse for this. I conceive it, I appeal earnestly from the bottom of my heart to our people, our people of the east and of the west, of all races and all creeds, put aside their local interests, and make her what she may be—she may be. Stand together, one grand citizenship, should be the motto of the British Empire. The people cheered, and cheered again when Sir Wilfrid was called to the stand and acknowledged the tribute.

I thank you, fellow-Canadians. I thank you from the bottom of my heart," was all he said.

HER LIFE SAVED BY PANE OF GLASS

Woman Murderously Attacked by Young Man in Paris. Train.

Paris, July 26.—It is to the little square pane of glass placed in the partition between railway carriages in France that Miss M. Suggs, of Paris, owes her life. This woman was returning to Paris from Verneuil l'Etang and had taken her seat in a first-class carriage. Suddenly she was overtaken by a young man, the only other occupant of the carriage, and he threw himself upon her, trying to kill her. She resisted violently, crying out and biting the man's hand.

The gentleman in the next compartment, hearing the cries, looked through the little window, broke the glass with his umbrella, and shouting "assassin," rang the alarm bell. The would-be murderer jumped on the line and was killed shortly afterward by an express train whose approach he had not seen.

Mme. Suggs, though terribly shaken, is recovering from her injuries. Her aggressor, Balleux, who was in desperate straits for money, and who had planned this means of enriching himself. He belonged to an honorable family, but had given himself over for some years to a life of dissipation. His young wife, who lately obtained a divorce from him, had been so driven to despair by his vile conduct that a few years ago she tried to commit suicide.

COST ERNIE TWENTY

Famous Hockey Player Fined for Part in Brockville Riot.

Brockville, July 26.—The detachment of the permanent corps from Toronto arrived here yesterday morning and relieved the local men of the Forty-first Regiment, some of whom had been on duty twenty-four hours. The R. C. E. are camped inside, in the school grounds. Everything is quiet here, and while the atmosphere seems charged with a determination to "show the company up," there will hardly be any more attempts at violence while the soldiers remain.

Ernie Johnston, of Montreal, one of the strikers, and a famous hockey player, who was brought here under arrest last night, charged with having assaulted William McCree, a special constable, who was doing duty as a haggard man, was placed on trial in the police court here today. He pleaded guilty, but urged leniency. Magistrate Murphy imposed a fine of $20 and costs or three months in jail. The fine was paid.

A report of Postmaster Morgan for last year shows that the receipts at the New York postoffice were $22,833,500.51. This is an increase of $2,418,204.76, or 11.11 per cent, over the receipts for 1908.

SWEATING PROCESS FOR GOLD COINS

Swindlers in New York Working an Old-Time Method—Operators Traced.

New York, July 27.—Secret service agents have been trying for several days in Maiden lane to trace swindlers who are working an ancient method of coin sweating. The coins are put in a burlap bag and shaken vigorously for an hour or so. The result is that tiny pieces of the metal are knocked off the surfaces and edges and cling to the texture of the bag. After the coins have been shaken sufficiently they are taken from the bag and passed into circulation apparently no more worn than the rest. The circumstances point to jewelers or jewelry workmen as the only class of men who have the technical knowledge which would enable them to collect the gold dust and sell it. The sale of the melted gold arouses no suspicion, as gold scrap and dust are regularly sold to refiners who make a business of extracting the metal from the sweepings of the shops.

The sub-treasury and the treasury department at Washington have been getting back of late large quantities of gold coins, many of them not long out of the mint, which were short in weight from 5 to 15 per cent, and which experienced eyes seemed more cut up, scratched and battered than are coins when subjected to only ordinary wear and tear. Under the microscope it became evident that these coins had been handled with violence, and the large number aroused suspicion.

The greater number of the maltreated coins were of the $20 gold denomination and some of them lacked $2 or $3 or more in value in gold. Special agents were sent here from Washington to investigate and they got clues to the industry of shaking the coins in burlap bags.

DIVORCED COUPLE AGAIN LINKED

Had Been Separated 41 Years and Neither Had Married.

Des Moines, July 27.—Divorced more than 40 years ago, but still retaining the flame of love that prompted their first marriage, John Castle, aged 70, appeared in the county clerk's office in the courthouse this morning to secure a license for their second marriage.

John Castle is a resident of Herkimer County, New York, and it was there that he met Letitia Lawrence, back in the early fifties. After an ardent wooing, the couple were married in 1861, he being 25 years old and she 21. Eight years later Mrs. Castle secured a divorce from her husband in New York State and came to Mount Airy, Ia., to live.

The reconciliation between Castle and his wife was secured by the sister with whom Mrs. Castle has lived. Although Mrs. Castle refused to say anything from her former husband during their separation of 41 years, their hearts beat true to the first love and neither married. When the sister found that Castle had remained true to his first wife and was still single, she began a correspondence which resulted in his coming to Iowa last week to reclaim his wife. They came to Des Moines to marry.

THE FAMILY CAMP.

[By Leonard Dewitt Sherman.]

For an out-and-out good time, where you can get right down to the ground, and enjoy yourself in the most convenient way, a tent is the thing. But a tent is not all. Camping in a dry pasture may attract a few and certainly offers a change of environment. But it is not the ideal camp that most of us are seeking. A river, or preferably a lake, at your front door, so to speak, will add a thousandfold to your enjoyment, and as wild a woodland as possible in which to pitch your tent adds about the last word to your happiness.

Perhaps you may care to own a more substantial camp than a tent will offer, but if you are so fortunate as to be one of those who have at last decided to purchase and put up a long-looked-for acre of land along the shore of some clean river or lake up in the woods, let me urge you to camp on it before you build, to erect a tent and live in it one season at least. By so doing your permanent camp will be better placed to take advantage of every attractive corner and charming outlook.

Your friends may tell you that, having once earned a summer in a tent, a cottage will lose its attractiveness, and you will return year after year to your tented home with ever-increasing enjoyment. However that may be with you, we have studied plans for cottages and drawn others of every design and price (no small pleasure in itself), and abandoned them finally for the more independent tent. So now if we are dissatisfied with the location of the camp we can easily move it to another site. From an article in Recreation.

MONEYED MEN FIND THEMSELVES IN LIMBO

French, German and American Financiers Feel the Strong Grip of the Law.

Paris, July 27.—Henry Rochette, the French promoter, was today found guilty of swindling, through a violation of the corporation laws, and condemned to two years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500.

Rochette was arrested in March, 1908, accused of having fraudulently obtained more than $1,000,000 through the medium of his various companies and securities.

Dortmund, Germany, July 27.—Herr Ohm, a director of the Nieder Deutsche Bank, which was closed on July 13 to permit an investigation of its condition, was arrested today. The bank has branched in ten industrial towns in the west of Germany. The inquiry has not been completed, but preliminary reports concerning the institution are current in financial circles.

New York, July 27.—Arthur Heinze, the copper man and broker, who was recently sentenced to ten days' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $250 on conviction of obstructing the administration of justice during the federal grand jury investigation of the acts of his brother, F. Augustus Heinze, while the latter was president of the Mercantile National Bank, was taken into custody today with his four sons. The court granted a stay until October, so that an appeal might be taken to the United States supreme court from the decision of the United States district court of the lower court. Judge Hand said he would hear argument in the case later.

CHARGE OF MURDER AGAINST JAS. BURKE

Man Who Was Struck by North Bay Grocer Dies in Hospital.

[Associated Press Dispatch.]

Toronto, July 27.—James Burke, of North Bay, a grocer, is in custody here on a charge of murdering George Matthews, of Horning's Mills, who was struck by a horse in the Winnipeg Hotel, North Bay, July 11. Matthews was severely mauled and went to the hospital. Two days ago, it is alleged, Burke got the North Bay hospital authorities to allow him to see Matthews in the courthouse. Matthews signed a document, exonerating Burke from all criminal liability in the case on condition the latter paid for all medical expenses.

Burke brought Matthews to Toronto General Hospital this morning and the man died in the rotunda. Burke was arrested at the dead man's bedside. He then produced the document signed by Matthews, which is said to have been drawn up by a North Bay lawyer, and witnessed by Dr. J. S. Bedaw, of North Bay.

Burke, in a statement to Inspector Duncan, said that they fought over payment for the loss of a horse. Matthews was struck on the jaw. The injured man was carried into the yard, laid on a door, and the proprietor of the hotel made a suggestion that a doctor be summoned. When the doctor arrived he pronounced it a case of drunkenness. After some time it was suggested that they take Matthews to the hospital.

Burke got a rig, and while on the way to the hospital, Matthews recovered consciousness, and said that he would prefer to be taken to his boarding-house. There he was refused admittance. Then he was taken to the doctor's house. The police were consulted, and Matthews was taken to his boarding-house, where he passed the night. There, Burke states, he found the atmosphere so stuffy that he had the man removed to the hospital, where he remained until yesterday.

It was found that Matthews was suffering greatly, so it was decided to take him to his home at Horning's Mills. Burke says that the hospital staff said they could do nothing more for him, that he was in a dying condition. Matthews by train to Sudbury, then took the C. P. R. back towards Shelburne, which is seven miles from Horning's Mills.

On the way it was found that the man was dead. Matthews was moved to a coffin and taken to Toronto, and as the man's condition appeared to be getting rapidly more serious, they got the conductor to phone for a doctor to meet them at Alliston. According to his account, Matthews was given him at Alliston to give to Matthews. These appeared similar to the first, but only one was taken. The authorities have samples of each dose of medicine, and in appearance they are very much like the ordinary morphine powder.

A city ambulance met them at the station, but before the man could receive any attention in the General Hospital he died. The coroner, Mr. Rogers, of the provincial police, has taken the matter up and it is understood that the inquest will be held in Toronto.

Matthews was 41 years of age and leaves a wife and three children. Burke is a short man, quite stout and dark. He is 30 years of age.

CYNIC'S POINT OF VIEW.

Of course we all like to know that our enemies are vulnerable, but it is only the cynical elect who can appreciate with fine epicurean fastidiousness the glorious revelation that our friends are human, after all. And it is not only the weaknesses of those who are near and dear to us, it is their misfortunes and annoyances which give a thrill of illicit joy to these honest contentions who can look into their own hearts. I once heard a young mother say that there was only one thing which gave her greater pleasure than hearing that the children of her friends were sick, and that was to hear that they were bad. No one but a Bromidiot (to borrow the excellent root with which Mr. Gleett Burgess has enriched us) would think of condemning this young woman of being malicious or unkind. Misery is not the only human quality that loves company. Some of her distant relatives—anguish, discouragement, annoyance—are equally sociable.

THE GREATEST SULPHUR MINE.

One of the strangest mines in the world is located underneath the prairie of Louisiana. In this mine there are no shafts. No one goes into it with a pick and shovel, and they need no cutting machinery or safety lamps. Hot water and compressed air do all the work. From this mine more sulphur is taken than from any other place in the world, and as a result of its discovery the United States stands today as the greatest sulphur producing nation in the world.

Here is the unique method of mining the sulphur. Boiling water is forced down the space between the ten and six-inch pipes, which turn the sulphur into a liquid and this is sucked up to the top through the smaller pipes by compressed air, whence it flows by gravity into great vats. Some of these vats are 250 feet long, 250 feet wide and 40 feet in height. They are made of heavy planking, and as the sulphur flows into them it becomes a solid mass like a lot of coal or iron. The sulphur is broken into lumps with hand picks and shovelled into cars like coal.

Some of the single wells actually produce 500 tons of sulphur daily. This region now supplies more sulphur for the world's use than the combined output of all the other mines.

Automatic Sealer

Fruit Jars

The manufacturers of the Schram Fruit Jar have decided to distribute

$50.00 in Gold

At their Fruit Preserve Exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. There will be $50.00 prizes given for the best jars of Peaches, Cherries, Strawberries, Pineapples, Peaches, Green Gages Plums and Gooseberries.

There are no restrictions and no entrance fee.

They are using this method of making the excellence of the Schram Fruit Jar more widely known—although there are 60,000,000 of these jars already in use on this continent. "The Schram Automatic Sealer" is the one perfect fruit jar. It is as clear as crystal, and as durable as plate glass, because all green glass is rejected when it comes to manufacturing the Schram Jar.

The Schram Fruit Jar has no equal for canning all kinds of vegetables.

The mouth of the Schram Fruit Jar is wide and smooth, admitting whole fruit easily. It's easy to seal. It's easy to open. Seal your preserves in the Schram Jar.

LONDON AND DISTRICTCoroner Improves.

The condition of Coroner MacLaren, who is seriously ill at his home, is reported somewhat improved today.

Constables Sworn In.
Hamilton Times: Constable Darroch, of Stuart street station, has returned from Sarnia Tunnel, where he had charge of all the new constables sworn in since the strike. He also swore in men at Stratford and London, where he had several runs-in with the strikers.

Struck by a Stone.

Clifford Leigh, a driver for a Richmond street grocery, was driving along Clarence street the other day when some person threw a stone, hitting him in the eye and very nearly causing a runaway. The eye swelled greatly and caused the lad much pain, but his condition is greatly improved today.

Boy Run Over.

Yesterday while riding a bicycle around the corner of Taibot and Dundas streets, Earl Kipp, messenger for the National Drug Company, was run into by a lady driving a horse and buggy. He was knocked off the wheel and had his side badly injured. His clothes were also badly torn. The wheel was smashed.

Archbishop Improves.

Most Reverend Archbishop of Toronto, all will learn with joy, is very much better. He left Mount Clemens on Thursday week with Dr. Burke, president of the society, and went straight through to Newport, Rhode Island, where the doctor had selected a suitable place for his recuperation. Word from Dr. Burke assures us that Archbishop McEvoy made the journey well and is doing splendidly. There is no doubt now of his speedy and entire recovery.

Hugh McEwen's Condition.
Mr. Hugh McEwen, of Falkirk, who is in Victoria Hospital as a result of being kicked in the neck by a horse yesterday, spent a quiet night. His face, neck and chest are still very much distended as a result of the air which came in through a tear made in his windpipe by the horse's foot. The case is a most peculiar one, and has been watched with considerable interest by a number of doctors.

Splendid Advice

You have not felt much need of coal lately, but we feel quite safe in predicting that we will have at least four months of real winter before May 1st, 1911, so we are taking this means of advising our friends to lay in a good supply of Cross Creek Lehigh Coal now while the price is low. It will certainly pay well to wait to buy coal. Thanking you for your past generous patronage and soliciting a continuance thereof, we are, yours truly,

CITY ARCHITECT MAKES PLUMBING SUGGESTIONS

List of Recommendations Submitted to No. 3 Committee.

At the meeting of No. 3 committee held last night, the report of City Architect Nutter on the request of the Plumbers' Union for a plumbing inspector was read, and the committee decided to act on it. In the meantime, a copy of Mr. Nutter's report will be given to each member of the council for his consideration.

The recommendations are: 1. The repeal of the existing bylaw and the preparation of a new bylaw in keeping with the city's needs and in line with the modern practice of other cities.

2. The formation of an examining board of plumbers to consist of three members, viz.: the building inspector, the city engineer and a master plumber of not less than ten years' experience.

3. The examination and registration of all master plumbers and journeymen and the issuing of an annual license and certificate to all qualifying. It is suggested that the fee for examination be $1 and the registration fee be $5 for master plumbers, $10 for journeymen, and $5 for apprentices.

4. The filing of plans and the issuing of permits for all alterations to existing plumbing and new work. The testing of work to be made compulsory and a fee of $1 charged for each examination.

5. The appointment of an assistant building inspector to act as plumbing inspector and to assist in the inspection of buildings generally.

6. The same.

The recommendations are practically the same as made by the Plumbers' Union, with very slight modifications being noticeable.

On motion of Ald. Fitzgerald it was decided to allow the matter to go over until the members of the council could become more acquainted with the subject.

BISHOP WAS NOTIFIED OF CANON DANN'S DEATH

Telegram Also Received by The Advertiser From Mr. Alfred

Dann, Who is Now in St. John, N. B.

Bishop Williams received a cablegram yesterday from Lady Creeve, of Limerick, Ireland, sister of the late Canon Dann, stating that the canon died on Sunday last at Bristol, England.

Mr. Alfred Dann, formerly of London, and now accountant in the Bank of British North America, at St. John, New Brunswick, telegraphed The Advertiser yesterday that he had received a cablegram announcing his father's death on Sunday, but had no further particulars.

In some quarters, it was thought at first that it was Bishop Dunne, of Quebec, who had died at Bournemouth, as it was known that he was stopping there and was very ill. A cable from Bristol states that Canon Dann died on Sunday night very shortly after he had arrived at the home of his brother, Rev. J. W. Dann, of Downend, a town five miles from Bristol. Canon Dann intended to visit his brother, in whose church he was to preach on Sunday next. He was not expected until Monday. On reaching Downend, he was seized with fits of vomiting, and sank rapidly, notwithstanding the efforts of doctors who were called in. The funeral will be held Thursday.

WHILE TYING THE BOAT

Young Deckhand Drowned Off Hurley's Dock, Windsor.

Windsor, July 27.—Eugene Laroti, 18 years old, employed as a deck hand on the steamer City of Hamilton, of the Montreal and Lake Erie Steamship Company, was drowned off Hurley's dock last night as his boat came alongside the dock to tie up. Laroti, with a line in his hand, jumped from the deck of the boat to the dock, and was attempting to make the line fast, when he slipped into the water.

JOHNSON TURNED DOWN

Colored Champion Pugilist Cannot Appear on Indianapolis Speedway.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 27.—Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, was turned down yesterday by the Indianapolis Motor Speedway management, when they refused to let him appear on the speedway at the coming automobile race in his high power car. Johnson made application sometime ago for a place in the racing programme, and his request was refused. He then asked for the privilege of giving an exhibition race during the September meeting. The directors of the speedway took the matter under advisement, and President Fisher announced that this request had been refused.

WANT ANOTHER ROAD TO HUDSON BAY

Prince Albert Citizens Think That It Is Necessary.

Prince Albert, Sask., July 28.—The splendid reception which have marked the Premier's tour, since he left the capital, has aroused much interest here. Sir Wilfrid received the closest attention from a great crowd, his reference to the Canadian navy, evoking cheers. Among the petitions submitted to the Premier on his visit, was a second line to be built to Hudson Bay, running from Prince Albert to Fort Churchill. A deputation of the Prince Albert Board of Trade asked that the parcel post system be extended to Saskatoon.

BOLT PLAYED HOB WITH POWER HOUSE

Storm at Chatham Tied Up Factories and Street Cars.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Chatham, July 28.—At 3:15 o'clock this afternoon a violent lightning storm struck a ground wire at the power house, and all the cars on the C. W. and L. E. Railway and every factory in the city run by electrical power was stopped for a short time. The bolt struck suddenly at the beginning of the storm.

Sent to Mimico.

Another boy was sentenced to Mimico Reformatory yesterday by Magistrate Johnston. The charge of stealing six dollars was proven against him. The money was taken from the till in C. H. Seal's store while the proprietor was in the cellar securing ice cream, which the boy had ordered. The same boy has been in scrapes before.

Alva Clark was today fined $3 and costs for making a disturbance on Gray street. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Eugene Martin, of Mitchell's Bay, came up in county court yesterday, charged with being under the influence of liquor while on the restricted list. There was not enough evidence to prove the charge, and he was dismissed with costs.

A 600-foot dock is to be built at Erie beach for boats from Cleveland to land. The Erie Beach Company are negotiating with the Cleveland Navigation Company over the matter. There will also be a breakwater 150 feet long.

Joseph Stanley, the former C. P. R. hotel bartender, who ran away with Mrs. Darton, of Palmyra, and who has been in the county jail for the past week, awaiting trial on the charge of being accessory to the stealing of $300 of Darton's money, was again remanded yesterday. Darton has his wife with him at his home, and she is inducing him to pay for Stanley's defence in court, notwithstanding the fact that he ran away with his wife.

G. T. R. EARNINGS.

Montreal, July 28.—Despite the fact that the earnings of the Grand Trunk System for the third week of July took such a slump on account of the trainmen's strike, the company is still ahead of what the earnings of the month to date and the corresponding period of last year are compared.

The loss for the past week is offset by the good gains made in the first two weeks of July, and the company is still $137,032 ahead for the three weeks comparing the current receipts with those of 1909.

Of course it should be recollected that the figures for what is termed

A MYSTERY SOLVED

Remains of Young Man Found in the Mountains—Missing Two Years.

San Francisco, July 27.—Members of the Sierra Club, returning from the King's River Canyon, bring news of finding, in a spot 23 miles from Kanawyer's cabin, bones, locks of hair, a watch, notebook and clothing, identified as belonging to Kenneth Archibald, formerly of Boston, and a small tin cup with the name Kenneth Archibald scratched upon it.

Archibald was lost in the mountains in 1908. He was the son of Rev. Andrew Archibald, a Boston clergyman, and left a $75,000 estate. Although bloodhounds were placed upon the young man's trail, and all other efforts used to solve the mystery, his fate had become a mystery for more than two years.
