Pro-Treaty Leaders Expect MacSwiney and Childers To Lose Seats.

FARMERS PROTEST Many Complaints of Interference With Independent Candidates.

BULLETIN. London, June 14.—The Central News says this evening it has learned authoritatively that today's Irish negotiations resulted in agreement on virtually all points.

Belfast, June 14.—Sinn Féiners attacked Killalea Castle, County Wick, last night, but were driven off by members of the special Ulster Constabulary. Col. G. W. R. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton, the owners, were in the castle during the attack. Incendiaries were active in the city.

British bluejackets this morning were still engaged in discharging the cargo of the German steamer Vella, which was stopped by the British warship Decoy. The authorities maintain secrecy regarding the results of their search of the vessel.

MAY LOSE SEATS.

Dublin, June 14.—Leaders of the treaty party manifest increasing confidence in the outcome of Friday's parliamentary elections, and predict the surprise of the anti-treatyists among other things that Erskine Childers and Mr. MacSwiney are again to lose their seats. Many complaints are being circulated of interference in districts where independent candidates are running for election. The Farmers' League continues to protest at alleged interference with its candidates. The raid on Dr. Farrell's house, notwithstanding the comic side of the incident, has excited great indignation, and it is maintained that no one will suffice to bring many of his political opponents to his side in this case.

Will Ward, Dr. Farrell's adherent to the treaty, attacked him for special hostility to his friends only lately had added him to a probable outrage, but he tried to comply with their suggestion. Even now he will not be compelled to resort to the razor, as though of his beard was left after the fight for a barber to trim into sympathy.

The political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal, which favors the treaty, writes "To all outward appearances, the general election of 1922 is fair to the cause of the treaty in the political history of Ireland."

The Labor party organizers show pretty good reason for claiming they will return all their candidates to Dublin. Among the other independent candidates, the Lord Mayor, Mr. O'Connell, and Mr. O'Connell, are in mid-Dublin, his supporters claiming he will lead the poll. The general view here is that the treaty will suffer such losses the panel may sustain.

IRISH BOMBS INTO THEATRE. BELFAST, June 13.—Incendiary bombs were thrown in two theatres on the Falls road last night, one of them being badly damaged.

HYDRO LOWERS POWER RATES IN MUNICIPALITIES

1921 Statement Shows Decided Reduction Following Amalgamation With Commission.

GODERICH REAPS BENEFIT

Town 168 Miles from Niagara Falls Paid 9 Cents, Now Pays 4.7 Cents.

Toronto, June 14.—Reports on the 1921 business of five more hydro-electric municipalities were made public by the provincial commission today. Stratford, with a population of 16,004, is 122 miles from Niagara Falls. Before the city joined the hydro municipal union, in 1912, the average kilowatt rate for electric energy in Stratford was 12 cents, with a monthly meter rental of 25 cents. The first hydro rates averaged 5.5 cents domestic, 4.7 cents commercial. They have been reduced by authority of the provincial commission until they now stand at 1.9 cents domestic, 2.3 cents commercial and $17.15 per horsepower for industrial energy.

In 1912, Stratford's load was 492 kilowatts. The price for this power delivered was 32¢. Now the load is 2,216 horsepower, and the price is 27¢—despite increased generating costs at Niagara. Revenue in 1921 was $121,334.39. Expenditure, which included $14,275 for plant renewal reserve, was $115,911.18, leaving a net surplus of $5,423.21. The assets of the Stratford system are $507,136.20, the liabilities $267,587.36. The reserves and surplus make a total of $239,548.84.

Record of Clinton. Clinton is 156 miles from Niagara Falls, and has been taking hydro power since March, 1914. Before that date the rate for electric energy was 19 cents per kilowatt hour and 25 cents per month for meter rental. The first rate quoted by the provincial commission for Clinton averaged 9.4 cents domestic and 8.2 cents commercial. These have been reduced to 5 cents and 5.7 cents, respectively. Power rates have declined from $31.73 to $27.87. These rate reductions are equivalent to a dividend of $19,173.53 to consumers.

Revenue for 1921 was $16,198.87, expenditure was $14,026.26, which included $14,000 to plant renewal reserve, leaving a surplus of $2,192.61. Assets are $60,924.57, liabilities $40,500. The reserves and surplus funds make a total of $20,424.51.

Low Rate in Goderich. Goderich, 168 miles from Niagara Falls, paid, before it became connected with the hydro-electric system, 9 cents per kilowatt hour for electric energy. The first hydro rates were 8.6 cents domestic, 5.3 cents commercial. They have been reduced successively to 4.7 cents and 3.6 cents, respectively. Industrial power rates have been variable, ranging from $8.00 to $47.07, in accordance with varying demand. The value of the rate reductions to consumers has been $11,261.41. The increasing load made these reductions possible—from 143 horsepower in 1914 to 450.2 in 1921.

Revenue for 1921 was $39,167.77, expenditure, including all reserve allotments, $39,100.84, leaving a surplus of $66.93. Assets are $124,206.77, liabilities are $52,964.94. Reserves and surplus funds make the handsome total of $71,241.83.

Harriston's Good Surplus. Harriston is the same distance as Goderich from the source of supply—168 miles. The pre-hydro kilowatt hour rate was 19 cents. The hydro-electric rates for 1917 averaged 8.8 cents for domestic lighting, and $34.45 for power. They are now 6.6 cents, 5.4 cents, and $34.84, respectively. The money-saving to consumers by reason of these reductions has been $11,261.41.

DENIES WATER HAS BAD ODOR

Acting Manager Hunt Declares Aeration Plant Removes Disagreeable Smell.

Finds Housewives of North End Satisfied With Sunshine Park Supply.

Denial of the allegation that water from the Sunshine Park well, served to residents of North London, "smells bad," was made Tuesday by A. O. Hunt, acting manager of the public utilities commission. Mr. Hunt admitted that sulphur present in the water when pumped from the well produces an odor, but declared that the aeration plant in operation at the well removes this disagreeable feature.

"The Downham said that the water smells bad," said Mr. Hunt. "It does smell bad at the well, but you know we have an aeration plant there and it removes the sulphur and its odor. The water in the north end is just as pure as in any other part of the city."

"I went into three houses in the north end," he continued, "and sampled the water. There was no odor, and the women residing in these houses said they had no complaints and could detect no odor. I do not see any particular disadvantage to the Sunshine Park water so long as it is pure."

"Analysis of this water, conducted at the institute of public health during the past week has shown it to be pure," concluded the acting manager.

SECOND WOMAN CALLED AS AID TO PROSECUTION

Miss Beatrice Seager Appears in Court, Accompanied by Wife of One of Prisoners.

DOUBT MITCHELL'S AID

Defence Counsel Sure Marine City Man Cannot Strengthen Crown's Case.

BY WILLIAM SHARMAN. Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

Sarnia, June 14.—Whether the crown authorities will be able to use to any appreciable advantage in the case proceeding today against Edward A. McMullen, one of the four alleged Wyoming bandits, the evidence of Carmen Mitchell, is now extremely doubtful. That the latter would not aid the prosecution was the unqualified statement of counsel for the defence at noon today to The London Advertiser.

Mitchell is the alleged Marine City resident awaiting trial here on a charge of robbery while armed, and while he has been associated in prison during the past two weeks with the four London men, he was a day or so ago removed from that section of the cell block and placed in solitary confinement. Summoned by the crown and calculated, it is explained, to corroborate, in part, if not in detail, a story told to the police by Mrs. Olive Myrtle Koehler, Miss Beatrice Seager, a close friend of John "Casey" John, one of the alleged bandits, appeared in court this morning, accompanied by Mrs. George Anderson, wife of another of the suspected quartet.

Defence Emphatic. Counsel for the defence is emphatic and insistent, however, that Miss Seager has no evidence to offer concerning the Wyoming episode of the prisoners, that will be damaging to their case.

It is further charged that Miss Seager was subpoenaed at the sole instigation of Mrs. Koehler. H. B. Gadsden, inspector for the United States Fidelity Company, informed The Advertiser this afternoon that his corporation knew the real numbers of a package of new bills to the value of $6,000, which have never yet been placed in circulation as far as he is aware, despite diligent investigation.

Although he appeared supposedly to assist Crown Attorney F. W. Wilson, A. I. McKinley, counsel for the Toronto Guarantee and Trust Company, with whom the bank was insured, was not permitted to act, the court upholding Attorney J. M. McEvoy's contention that he enjoyed no legal status in that court.

Each Case Separate. The crown is prosecuting each case separately. Edward A. McMullen, said by the police to be the leader of the band, being the first called.

Two witnesses only had been called, John Baird of Sarnia and W. H. Lambert, manager of the Wyoming bank, when court adjourned at noon for two hours.

As early as 8 o'clock crowds of eager spectators from every section of the county gathered in front of the Lambton county courthouse.

No person was admitted, however, until all jurymen and witnesses were in their places. At 9:50 Edward McMullen was brought into court alone, escorted by Provincial Officer W. J. Coulter.

Formally charged with implication in the Wyoming robbery he replied in a firm, steady voice, "Not guilty," and through his counsel, John M. McEvoy, K.C., expressed willingness to proceed with the examination.

The first altercation of the trial transpired as the prisoner was led into the dock, Norman Newton, counsel for the latter's three alleged companions, questioning Sheriff Albert Johnson narrowly, because obviously McMullen had not been allowed to shave before entering court, or to wear his best clothes.

Subsequently the court ordered that the prisoners should be allowed

MAYOR WOULD HALT BOOMING OF CITY LIMITS REAL ESTATE

Raps Agents for Boosting Land and Then Leaving Purchasers To Obtain Sewer and Water Facilities As Best They Can—Urges Bylaw Covering Outlying Subdivisions Be Passed.

That an effort should be made to prevent real estate agents from booming property just on the city limits, and then leaving purchasers to obtain sewer and water facilities as best they can, is the declaration of Mayor Cameron Wilson.

Mayor Wilson's comments were made during consideration of an application of real estate men to have Pine Grove survey on the Hamilton Rd. between East St. and Highways Ave. accepted by the city.

"These lots have no sewer or water accommodation," protested the mayor. "There is lots of vacant land well within the city to be sold. It is time we called a halt to these real estate men making a lot of money off the city."

"We ought to pass a bylaw covering these subdivisions," his worship continued, pointing out one such tract of land in East London where lots were sold, and then the purchasers sought to obtain water and sewer accommodation.

The application for Pine Grove survey to be accepted by the city, was recommended by No. 2 committee of the city council Tuesday night. A bylaw accepting this survey providing that it is in accordance with regulations will be prepared.

Another survey is being planned in London South, near Chester street, this property abutting upon the right-of-way of the old traction company line. However, the mayor may change his opinion regarding sale of lots here, as the city owns some of the

BUDGET SPLITS PROGRESSIVES

Decisive Victory of Liberal Government Clears Political Air.

Vote Disperses Talk of General Election in the Near Future.

Ottawa, June 14.—The decisive victory of the Liberal government on the budget clears the political air. Today the government members are in caucus on the vote and its portents.

In the view of political observers it has dispelled for a long time to come all talk of a general election. Nonetheless, considerable significance is attached to the fact that the government majority of eighteen was dependent on the nine Progressives who voted against their leader.

Had they voted with him, the house would have divided on an even vote, and the carrying of the budget motion were dependent on the casting vote of the speaker. There is also considerable comment today on the nature of the split in the Progressive ranks. Of the nine members of that party who supported the budget, seven were from Ontario and two from British Columbia. All Progressives from the prairie provinces voted against the budget.

Does the split, it is asked, indicate a veering of the eastern Progressives towards the Liberal point of view? Liberals are inclined to think that it does.

It had been expected that the government majority would be dependent on a large extent on Progressive absentees. As events turned out, there were no Progressives absent. They were present, but some of them were apparently unaware of the rule which requires every member present in the house during a division who is not paired to cast his vote.

On the Drayton amendment seven Progressives and the two Labor men did not vote, although in their seats at the time and not paired. The speaker's attention was called to the fact, and they were required to vote. "If I must vote," said T. J. Shaw, of Calgary, "I shall vote against the amendment."

"Under compulsion," said G. G. Coote, of MacLeod, "I also vote against the amendment."

There is now talk of prorogation within a couple of weeks. This afternoon the wheat board is scheduled for discussion.

TRIUMVIRATE WILL TAKE PLACE OF PREMIER LENINE

German Socialist Paper Announces That Stalin, Kamenoff and Rikoff Will Hold Reins.

Berlin, June 14.—The Independent Socialist Freiheit declared today that a triumvirate will take the place of Premier Lenine of Soviet Russia, during a six months absence from Moscow which his health will oblige him to take. The three men who will hold the reins, according to this newspaper, are J. V. Stalin, Leo Kamenoff and A. I. Rikoff.

M. Stalin is a Georgian Bolshevik of Turkish nationality, described as a strong man, the newspaper article continues. M. Kamenoff is president of the Moscow soviet and is considered a Liberal. M. Rykoff was one of the first champions of the new economic policy. He is believed to have Liberal views, but, Die Freiheit adds, is not considered a strong man.

LONDON POLICE EXPECT ARREST WITHIN A DAY

Mother of Victim Claims 15-Year-Old Daughter Enticed by Auto.

SOUGHT ALMS ON STREET

Children's Aid Society Co-operating in Search For One-Legged Man.

Following his departure from London, accompanied, it is alleged, by a 15-year-old York street girl, police of London and Hamilton, aided by officials of the Children's Aid Society, have been searching for Charles O'Neil, 28 years old, a one-legged man, who made London his headquarters for several months.

O'Neil, according to the widowed mother of the missing girl, posed as a returned soldier, in receipt of a pension of $100 per month from the government, and a man of wealth. The London police, however, declare that he was in the habit of sitting on Dundas street, cap in hand, begging alms from passers-by, and was never at any time in his country's service.

The frantic mother informed The Advertiser Tuesday noon that her daughter had known O'Neil for one week only, prior to leaving home, and that she did all in her power to dissuade her from keeping company with him.

She declared that O'Neil possessed an auto, and in her opinion the missing couple motored to Hamilton. O'Neil having stated previously that he had a friend in that city, a blind musician, whom he often visited. Inspector W. E. Kelly, of the Children's Aid Society, is co-operating with the London and Hamilton police in an effort to locate the missing girl, and it is expected that O'Neil will be apprehended during the day.

Won't Discuss Case.

While London detectives are reluctant to discuss the case The Advertiser obtained an exclusive interview from the grief-stricken mother of the young girl Tuesday morning. "The only time that I saw O'Neil was one night when he drove up in his car," said the little widow. "I would not let my girl go out with him, as he was so much older. She had only known him a week before she went away."

"A week ago Sunday she told me she was going to see her grandmother in Thamesford and left in time to catch the afternoon train. 'Then some people told me they did not believe my daughter had gone to Thamesford, I called up, but could not get phone connections at that time. When I did get in touch with Thamesford I found out she was not there. I then notified the police.'

"My little girl always had nice clothes and the money she needed. I guess she had too much," continued the mother with tear-stained eyes. "Her father died two years ago, and she was too much for me. If he were living now things would be different. He was kind but firm with the children."

Motors to Port Huron. "O'Neil said he often stayed with a blind musician in Hamilton, and I think they motored there. Thursday before she left home I learned that my daughter motored to Port Huron with him, but she was back home at 9 o'clock that night."

"He had winning ways and told my girl he was a returned soldier, getting a pension of $100 a month, and that he was wealthy. He also owned a car. I think the car was the enticement. I would just like to get

TWO HOUSE GIVES FISCAL POLICY OF FIELDING SAFE MAJORITY AFTER REJECTING TORY PLEA

Seven Ontario Progressive Members Aid Government in Defeating Alignment of Conservative Party With Majority of Crerar Followers — Drayton Amendment Is Turned Down by Adverse Vote of 118 Members.

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL.
Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 13.—By a majority of 18 votes the budget of the Liberal government was sustained in the House of Commons tonight.

It was a glorious victory, following as it did more than two weeks of debate of the bitterest kind, and it was significant in that the government was opposed by the Conservative party aligned in solid opposition and by the Progressive party with the exception of nine members.

The Liberals also received the support of the one Independent member in the house.

That the house, as a whole, had no faith in the cry of the Conservatives that the Liberal government had disregarded its election pledges was indicated by the fate of Sir Henry Drayton's amendment.

Although supported solely by the Conservatives, by three Progressives and two labor men it was defeated by a majority of 118 votes.

It found favor at the hands of only 51 members.

An earnest attempt was made to defeat the government, as every seat in the official opposition excepting those of three members who were paired, was filled, while not a Progressive member was absent.

Progressive opposition came chiefly from the Western members who, in their desire for an immediate low tariff, voted with unbroken ranks against the budget.

They were led in their attack by Hon. T. A. Crerar.

Ontario Progressives, as expected, were sharply divided on the issue. Seven of the nine members who voted with the government came from the province.

British Columbia contributed one Progressive and one Independent to the government's majority.

Galleries Crowded.

The galleries and even the corridors of the House of Commons were crowded as they never were before this session. Throughout hot hours men and women listened to long speeches until 1 o'clock in the morning.

Breathless suspense while the votes were counted gave way to prolonged cheers when the government emerged with a safe and decisive majority.

Of the nine Progressives who supported the government, seven represented Ontario, and two British Columbia constituencies. They were: Reed (Frontenac), Hodgins (Middlesex-East), Elliott (Dundas), Elliott (Waterloo-South), Saxsmith (Lennox-Addington), Hannell (Muskegon), Rennie (Prescott), McRide (Carleton Place), Humphrey (West Kootenay).

The Independent who voted with the government was Neil of Comox-Alberni, B. C.

Announcement of the vote was received with a tremendous outburst of Liberal applause. Government members flung papers at each other in their enthusiasm.

The vote on the main motion came after a division on the Drayton amendment, which censured Liberals for "flagrant violation" of pledges amounting to "disregard of political honesty" tending "to the degradation of public life." This was declared defeated by a majority of 118, as follows: Against the amendment, 169; for the amendment, 51; majority against, 118.

Conservatives Solid.

The amendment was supported solidly by Conservatives. Liberals voting solidly against it.

As in the vote on the main motion, there was a division in the Progressive ranks, five of their number voting for the amendment and the remainder against it. The two labor members, Woodsworth of Winnipeg Center and Irvine of East Calgary, voted for the amendment, and, later, against the budget.

The actual vote on the Drayton amendment was reached only after a curious incident. When the house divided several Progressives did not vote either way, among them being Miss MacPhail, the woman member. The result of the vote was announced as: For, 44; against, 167; majority against, 123.

Immediately Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, drew the attention of the Speaker to the Progressives' abstention, and emphasized that they had acted contrary to the rules of the house.

"They did not vote and they were in their seats when the vote was taken?" the Speaker queried.

Were Not Paired.

"Yes," Mr. Meighen replied, "and they are not on the whips' lists as being paired."

The Speaker ruled that those in their seats and not paired were obliged to vote.

"No looting on the job," called out a voice from the government side, the house roaring with laughter.

Closing scenes in the long-drawn budget debate had a fitting setting. Everywhere there were eager crowds drawn by reports of an impending critical division. Long before the house resumed after dinner recess lines of inquirers sought admission. Every gallery was packed and, in the public corridors beyond were people waiting in vain to get in. Late evening trains bore contingents of members called away within the last few days, now hurrying back to be in time for the vote.

Yet the later stages of the debate itself were almost listless. Modifications had been announced. Leaders had spoken, the 50 and more speeches had told their tales, members were anxious only for the vote and to know the result. In the afternoon Hon. A. K. MacLean made a two-hour speech in which he approved the budget.

The government had been in office only five or six months and no one expected any great revision of the tariff at this time.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, who followed, criticized yesterday's budget modifications. He thought the new depreciated currency regulations only a Nine Progressives in All Back Fielding Budget.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 13.—By a decisive majority of eighteen the Liberal government this morning carried its budget proposals.

Nine Progressives and one Independent voted with the government, the vote standing:

For the budget 119
Against the budget 101
Government majority 18

half-measure. They would not stop the flooding of the Canadian market with German goods.

In resuming the budget debate today, Hon. A. K. MacLean said the modifications of the original proposals made by the minister of finance had been introduced in the interests of trade and revenue.

The original proposals had been in force since May 22, and the minister had seen that they would not be beneficial to the country. Therefore, he had brought down the modifications. In future the minister would doubtless make further changes, if such were shown to be to the advantage of Canada.

There was a lesson to be drawn from the experience of the last few weeks. That was that taxation affected trade very quickly. If it was unwise, it resulted in the death of trade and the depletion of revenue. Taxation was not an easy process.

Mr. MacLean recommended the policy of the government in regard to countries in which the currency was depreciated. He favored the widest trading between this country and Europe, but under the exceptional conditions prevailing today the government was wise to keep a tight rein.

The debt of Canada was abnormally high and could not be increased without seriously endangering the credit of the country.

There was a tendency, Mr. MacLean declared, to forget the fact that a war had been in progress from 1914 to 1918. Probably the country would pass before the end of the war into a purely economic position. Canada could not recover fully until Europe had done so.

The war had brought home the inter-dependency of nation upon nation and people upon people. Canada could not again revert to a purely Canadian viewpoint. Conditions in Europe were as vital to us as conditions in one of the Canadian provinces.

Work To Be Done.

Mr. MacLean advised the government not to be too strict in regard to immigration. There was work to be done in Canada, and we could not afford to insist that our immigrants be "hand picked."

Turning to the Maritime Provinces, Mr. MacLean declared they were not commercially very closely related to the rest of Canada. Their minerals were bought only in Quebec, and only then in the face of keen competition. The Maritime trade depended more and more each year on world trade, or international trade. Maritime Provinces had not grown in population in 25 years.

The people there did not object to Confederation, and were willing to bear their share of the disadvantages of union, but they must give more careful consideration to this trade isolation with the rest of the country. Trade conditions could never be changed by any tariff policy adopted by Canada.

One of the chief causes of depression in Canada today was that the balance had been lost in the exchange of commodity for commodity. Goods did not exchange on a parity. You could not have leather and hide, selling at a low price and boots and shoes at a high price and have general prosperity.

W. C. Good (Progressive, Brant), asked if it was not reasonable to say that by reducing the tariff, deflation in manufactured articles would be reduced also.

Mr. MacLean replied that possibly the tariff might be used in this way. He went on to deal with the amendment, and said that it performed no good or useful service to the country. He agreed with the statement that political parties should live up to the pledges and commitments to the public, but in his judgment political conventions should only commit themselves to principles and not draft detailed platforms.

Parties Had Erred.

He believed that both the Liberal and Progressive parties had erred when they laid down details of their platforms in convention. It would have been better, he thought, simply to declare as to principle and let the people's representatives in Parliament work out the details.

Protection could not be wiped out in a moment. The United States had placed tariff barriers against Canada, and it would not be wise for Canada to remove her tariff altogether. At the same time Mr. MacLean did not believe that free trade now was possible.

The government had only been in office some four or five months, and the people could not expect any great revision of the tariff at this time. Speaking for his own province of Nova Scotia, he did not believe there was any hope that Nova Scotia would be developed under a protective tariff. However, the people of that province were in a minority in the Dominion, and they must accept whatever the majority decided.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Conservative, Wellington) said that the views of the opposition regarding the budget had been clearly laid before the house in the speech delivered by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Since this pronouncement was made, however, new proposals had been laid down. The minister of finance had received congratulations on the fact that the original budget was his sixteenth, but now he was also entitled to congratulations on having brought down his seventeenth budget. This revision was very unusual, and Mr. Guthrie could not remember a single occasion on which a finance minister had revised a large percentage of his most important tariff proposals.

Assails Fielding.

The chief criticisms leveled against the original budget were in respect to the abolition of the regulations governing depreciated foreign currency, the anti-dumping clause and the marketing regulations. Since the budget was announced on March 8, Mr. Fielding had had abundance of time to consider the whole situation before bringing his budget in on May 3.

On that occasion, however, he had boldly wiped out the regulation dealing with depreciated currency. It was possible that he had not made himself fully familiar with the question. Both the Liberals and Progressives had congratulated him upon this action, especially Hon. T. A. Crerar.

Taking pocket knives as an example, Mr. Guthrie tried to show how the Germans would continue to undersell the home manufacturers in spite of the provision which stated that the cost of production in Great Britain should be the basis for determining the duty.

Pocket knives could be manufactured in Germany at 50c a dozen. The same knives were produced in Great Britain at $2.65 a dozen. The duty figured on the basis of the British cost would be $1.69 a dozen. Therefore, Germany could put pocket knives on the Canadian market at $1.44 a dozen duty paid. The cost in Canada of producing pocket knives was $4 a dozen.

How could the Canadian goods be expected to compete with those manufactured in Germany?

The proposal of the minister of finance was only a half-measure and would not stop the flooding of the Canadian market with German goods. In Australia they had determined that German goods should be valued at the cost of production in Australia. Why should Canada take the same course?

Mr. Guthrie protested against the repeal of the anti-dumping clause of last session. The repeal would work an injury to Canadian fruit growers. Fruit grown in the United States ripened a short time before the Canadian products were ready to be marketed. In Australia they had determined that German goods should be valued at the cost of production in Australia. Why should Canada take the same course?

Members of Egerton Street Baptist Church Await Arrival of New Pastor

Egerton Street Baptist Church looks forward to the coming of the new pastor, Rev. A. Burgess. Born in Dundee, Scotland, he came to Canada some years ago. While working in Brantford, where he was a member of Emmanuel Baptist Church, he received what he was certain was a clear call to the Christian ministry. That was nine or ten years ago, and he at once started to prepare for the work, going first to Toronto Bible College, and following his graduation took charge of the church at Little Current, Manitoulin.

Desiring to further complete his work of preparation, he accepted a call to Schomberg, at the same time entering the English Theological course in McMaster. Stouffville was his next charge, and in that field he has been most successful in his work. His call to Egerton Street Baptist Church brings him to a wider field of service. His pastorate in London commences on July 2.

Extends Payments for North End Residents.

No. 2 Committee Provides for 10-Year Extension of Debentures for Sewer.

When a deputation of north end residents appeared before No. 2 committee of the city council Tuesday night to ask that debentures on their sewer be extended over a period of 20 years, Alderman Douglass moved that the request be granted. Alderman Ashton was the only member to support him.

A compromise was suggested recommending that the debentures be extended to 20 years, stipulating that no concessions of this nature be made in excess of 43 cents per foot.

Alderman Douglass remained firm in urging that the full 20-year term be allowed without any mention of future cases.

"We should not bind ourselves for the future," he said. "Let us use our own judgment and deal with each case on its merits."

The amendment recommending a 10-year extension of the debentures and including the 43-cent clause was adopted. Alderman Douglass' motion to make it 30 years being voted down.

The resolution was introduced by F. H. Fitzgerald and others, representing the brotherhood of railway clerks, and proposed that the "A. F. of L. take the necessary action to secure the union of the various organizations with the ranks of organized labor and that as a first step in this direction that the various international unions be called into conference for the purpose of arranging to amalgamate all the unions in the respective industries into single organizations each of which shall cover any industry."

BLAMES DISCORD ON FREIGHT RATES.

Victoria, June 14.—Unjust and discriminatory railway freight rates are splitting Canada into two antagonistic sections, striking at the very root of confederation and sowing the seeds of a second Irish problem in this Dominion, Premier Oliver of British Columbia declared in an address to the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon yesterday.

Mr. Gompers told the delegates that as far back as 1881 in the first constitution adopted by the federation, a declaration was incorporated for the enactment of laws prohibiting labor by children under 14 years old.

TAIL LIGHT OUT; MOTORIST FINED.

Frank and Eddie Morkin, two London youths, are joint owners of an automobile. Friday night an officer noticed the car proceeding west on Grey street between Adelaide and William streets, without the required three lighted lamps. As the license was taken out jointly by the brothers both were summoned for the offence, although only one was in the auto at the time the officer saw it.

However, Frank came to court to answer for both. After he had heard the evidence of the policeman he stated he did not know the tail light was not burning. This was not considered sufficient explanation and the court imposed the usual fine of $2 and costs.

property, and this survey is nearer the heart of the city than Pine Grove survey.

Many aldermen are of the opinion that it is a mistake in policy to construct sewers and other improvements for streets on which there is much vacant property. While this year's council has not laid any sewers on such streets, echoes of the work of former city fathers is being heard at the city hall when deputations of owners of vacant lots appear to protest payment for sewers on their streets.

Ald. Drake cites the instance of Hill street, which is central, yet in some portions of the city has no sewer accommodation.

"It is a shame," said Ald. Drake, who represents Ward 3 on the city council. "A deputation from the north end rightly protests paying for a sewer which was constructed to serve their vacant lots and without consulting these ratepayers, while Hill street residents in the center of the city want sewer accommodation and have not got it."

OPEN SARNIA TRIAL IN WYOMING CASE

to wear whatever apparel they desired, and to shave as well.

Found Shaved Tuesday.

This last move followed as a result of the four defendants being found shaved Tuesday after all shaving material, it is claimed by the counsel, had been denied them.

A jail probe failed to reveal how the men obtained shaving material, but today after a consultation with Judge Albert A. Taylor, and defence attorneys, the court issued the order.

The selection of the jury claimed but 20 minutes' time, following which, at the instigation of Attorney McEvoy, all witnesses were ordered from the court, to remain until called in separate chambers.

Addressing the jury Crown Attorney Frank Wilson outlined the Wyoming robbery, terming it to be the most serious criminal offense of its nature in Lambton County for many years.

John Baird, formerly city engineer of Sarnia, was the first witness called by the prosecution, in a grim contest actually commenced at 10:40.

Witness produced a plan of the Wyoming bank and immediate vicinity, which he had prepared himself. Examining the maps Attorney McEvoy hinted broadly that in his opinion the same had been prepared with but little consideration for the details.

H. H. Lambert, manager of Wyoming, testified at the Wyoming and Sarnia preliminary hearings as to the robbery of October 20 last. "He was in his office about five minutes to three o'clock on that day," he related, "when the bandit (indicating McMullen) entered the office with drawn gun, at first cautiously and then boldly."

Both Got On Floor.

Witness stated that Alpheus McKay, Wyoming undertaker and furniture dealer, was also in the office, and the stranger ordered both of them to get on the floor.

He evinced no hesitation in his identification of the prisoner. "Get down or you'll be drilled, he told me," testified the manager, who explained further that Miss McIntosh, the bank cashier, was later escorted in by a second bandit unknown to him, who compelled her to be on the floor with them.

Witness stated that he could not identify any other of the band but McMullen.

He placed the amount of money missing at $10,942.47, and when answering that "his books showed this shortage," Attorney McEvoy intervened, holding that the manager's answer was not evidence.

In answer to the crown, witness stated that an inspector audited the books September 15, and Attorney McEvoy demanded that definite proof of this be submitted.

CUSTOMS CLERKS TO HOLD PICNIC

Expect Large Attendance at Annual Outing in Springbank Saturday.

More than 300 are expected to attend the annual celebration of the customs employees as visitors from St. Thomas, Strathroy, Parkhill, Aylmer, Glenora and Port Stanley are asked to be present. All the employees are being urged to bring their wives and families. Capable committees have been appointed to make arrangements for the celebration.

The various committees who have charge of the arrangements are as follows: Refreshment committee, T. Cousins, convener; W. H. Hicks, R. N. Errington, M. DeCoursey, J. T. Robinson, R. Thomas, A. G. ELECTION OF OFFICERS OF VETERANS POSTPONED. G. W. V. A. Takes Up Collection To Aid Blind, Penniless Widow.

At a meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association Tuesday night it was unanimously decided to postpone the election of officers for the ensuing year till a special meeting is called Tuesday, June 20.

It was felt by all present that such important matters as the appointing of the new executive, the election of officers, and the reading of semi-annual report should be deferred until a larger and more representative attendance of the members could be secured. Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles, who has been president of the association for the past five years, and who was re-elected unanimously for 1922, was in the chair.

The only matter brought up last night was the case of a blind widow who found herself in straitened circumstances after the death of her husband, and who has been supported throughout the winter months by a kind-hearted veteran.

This veteran addressed the meeting and explained that since he has been out of work he has been unable to aid the unfortunate woman, but stated that a certain party had declared himself willing to care for the lady the rest of her life if a debt of $18 owing for her rent was paid.

A collection was taken up among those present and $8.35 was realized. It is hoped that the remainder will be raised in the near future.

Disciple of Izaak Walton Loses Mess Of Worms To Enterprising Robin

"cocked on one side," which flew away as he approached. But he never suspected the truth until he looked in the box and discovered that every worm had disappeared, and recalled the fact that Mr. Robin was a self-satisfied expression so common to those who have breakfast provided for them by others.

There is a law which forbids persons to slay robins as they are considered useful birds. However, the victim of Mr. Redbreast's keen eye and appetite warns him to stay away from a certain Queen's avenue backyard, as his usefulness is questioned and revenge is sweet.

The latest report stated that the warbler was engaged in busy digging for more worms in his garden, occasionally pausing in his efforts to throw stones at a chubby robin, who perched on the fence, viewed his labor askance.

The disciple of Izaak Walton then retired for the night and dreamed sweet dreams of landing a rock bass that would tax his creel to carry.

Arising bright and early Wednesday he went out to inspect his bait. He perceived a fat robin perched on the edge of the bait box, with head

The Budget Sustained.

THE government at Ottawa has been decisively sustained on a vote on the budget. That means much to the country in many ways, and much to the government. It puts an end to the campaign of slander and suspicion that has been so vigorously carried on in papers opposed to the government, and in part by papers that professed a certain amount of friendship for the administration. It gives the King government the wholehearted indorsement to which it is entitled, and puts out of court the many suggestions that it was carrying on at Ottawa by the grace and assistance of its opponents.

It is well in every conceivable way that the vote turned out as it did. There is much work to be done by the government at Ottawa, and it has been hampered for many days by the prolonged discussion on the budget. It is well, though, that the debate was allowed to run its full course, as there can be no come-back in the way of an allegation that the closure or anything approaching the gag rule of the Conservatives had been applied to shut off free speech in the house.

HON. A. K. McLEAN touched the secret of the whole Liberal idea of budget-making, when he greeted the modifications that had been made as sensible, and as showing how keenly the finance minister was watching the effect of the new proposals on the trade of the country.

It is a fact that the budget was planned primarily as a method of taxation, and taxation touches the volume of trade very quickly. Any person who is willing to follow events at Ottawa with an open mind knows that the King government is not going to adopt the stubborn attitude of putting certain forms of taxation into effect and then sit back and see them fizzle any legitimate trade or enterprise in the Dominion.

Should they adopt such an attitude the best thing the people of the country could do would be to turn them out of office at the very first opportunity. The attitude of the premier all through his election was that he was not going to be tied hand and foot by any political platform. He stated that time and time again, and he stated it in all parts of the country, and the attitude of the Liberal party, now in power, of watching closely how each regulation is going to affect business is entirely in keeping with the stand of the premier prior to the election.

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE made a laborious effort at criticism, but he spoke as a man without conviction, as one who had been told by his leader to say certain things. The member for South Wellington is not happy in his political surroundings; he did not want to run at the last election, and he told his leader as much. Mr. GUTHRIE contented himself with saying that he did not know of a case where changes had been made in regulations after the budget speech had been delivered. There is no strength in such a claim; in fact, it is not even a good argument. As stated previously, the Liberal idea of budget-making is to raise sufficient revenue, and at the same time place the burden where it will not be crushing to any legitimate enterprise. Mr. GUTHRIE has failed absolutely to grasp that point, or, if having grasped it, he is not a big enough man to admit its existence.

Mr. FIELDING's last statement on the changes in the budget was such as to make it perfectly plain he intended to watch closely the workings of his enactments, and where changes were necessary, in order to encourage or relieve certain callings, he would make them as quickly as possible.

Protests the Bonus.

SEVERAL letters have been received by this paper protesting against the action of the Ontario government in voting an added bonus of $600 to members because the session was a little longer than usual, and on that account they had to stay longer in Toronto, and pay more for their expenses there.

One veteran from near Stratford writes, stating that there was nothing in the way of a bonus for the returned man. A man who came back unharmed from the front, after his discharge papers were signed, got nothing at all from the country for which he had risked his life for years.

Now, it is possible that the government members may never have thought of this when they were passing the measure that granted them an extra $600 per year. It is a fact, though, that there are thousands of men all over the province who will look at the veteran in the same light as the man who writes from Stratford.

A man who has fought for his country, and who has received nothing for it but his $1.10 per day and field allowances, has about the best right of any class of citizens to state his views of questions affecting the expenditure of the money of the nation. That is what gives particular point to the letter of the Stratford soldier who feels that an injustice has been done in giving $600 to members of the Ontario Legislature and nothing to the returned men.

School Examinations. RIGHT now every little head in the country is being crammed to the bursting point with all sorts of knowledge, fortified with questions that have been asked in previous years, and prepared generally for the ordeal of getting through the midsummer examinations.

If the youngster can absorb enough of all these things in advance to get over this midsummer hurdle, then all will be well, and he can look forward to the reward that has no doubt been promised to him if he does the trick.

After all, there is a certain amount of incentive to a grandstand finish on the part of the child, but a grandstand finish is good only for about one minute, and then the cheering dies away, and the hero is down to earth again.

The trouble with the examination system as we have it in many of our schools even yet is that it is a test of memory and not of intelligence.

A child with a retentive memory can soak up enough dates and names and events and definitions to pass high up in history and geography.

In arithmetic the child must have a knowledge of the fundamentals of the subject, and be able to apply them to the questions set for the paper.

There is a growing feeling that the set examination has served its day and generation. There are children who become so nervous and rattled when they know they are trying an examination, especially a final, that they are not able to do work that compares with what they are capable of doing, or with what they have been doing right through the term.

It is a broad question that is receiving considerable attention in many places, and THE ADVERTISER would be pleased to have the views of any of its readers on the advisability of having examinations as they are used now, or judging a pupil's standing by the work that has been done through the term.

Lay or Die.

THE HEN that doesn't lay enough eggs to pay for its corn, bran mash, oyster shells and worms is going to have a ticket nailed to her that means she's done for.

Such is the decision of the egg experts around Woodstock, for one of the O. A. C. poultrymen is at work in that district. There may be some trouble in the matter, for unless one of these trap nests is used, fair play is not apt to get a chance.

Still, it's just as well that some person should start out now and then to put the hens on the right track, and make them understand that their one big job is to lay eggs.

Hens are like a lot of human beings—they are apt to get off on a tangent, and tangents don't lead any place particular.

It's a bit cruel the way they talk to the hens, and we would probably resent the same treatment applied to humans, viz., you get on the job and show something or off comes your head.

We hope the discipline that is being exercised around Woodstock gets well noised abroad in Western Ontario generally, for it's just as easy to gather up 60 eggs a day as 40.

LITTLE 'TISERS

The latest things in men's trousers in Toronto are women.

Never count your chickens until they return from the garden next door.

The average life of a dime is 25 years. That's what it gets for traveling so fast.

A giraffe in a Philadelphia zoo died of quinsy. No doubt, after a long illness.

It's a neck-and-neck race to see which is growing faster, the public debt or Hansard.

Several million Russians are homeless. Several thousand Canadians couldn't be home less.

And now a Moscow paper says that Russia holds the key to peace. Why not use it, instead of an axe?

Ontario collection agencies report that married men make the best collectors. They ought to—they know all the excuses.

St. Thomas always gets excited when a circus comes to town, because they assassinated the biggest circus elephant in the world there.

Stratford Beacon says many cellars there were flooded. But it goes on to say that it was due to the rain, so Mr. Raney, don't you bother about it.

A Canadian girl has been declared the prettiest in Boston, which causes the Vancouver Province to rise up on the coast and holler that the bean-feds aren't in it with the No. 1 hard fed.

A report issued by the bureau of statistics shows that in 1921 there were 15,127 fur-bearing animals born in captivity. The total sales for that year amounted to $1,415,236. The total value of fur-bearing animals on these properties in 1921 was placed at $5,775,095.

Toronto is getting to be quite a city, and now the latest thing is that they are going to sell their ice and carry it home. If they don't move faster than they have with their station the stuff will be melted before the old man gets his chunk half way up the lane.

Advertising columns of papers announce there is a school started for auctioneers. Well, that's a new one. A real good auctioneer is a wonderful combination of steam, oratorical excellence, gesticulatory perfection and repartee undiminished. Can it be that these qualities are contained inside of a school?

And now they have it! The new milk container, made of paper, where milk will be gushed in, sealed and delivered, and will never touch the hand of man, and the container never used again. Thus will we have pure milk, free from microbes, bacilli, flies, smells and all such things. All of which makes us pause to think what a lot of these things we must have been consuming when we were young and used to carry the milk home in an old lard pail.

Our Own Country

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY. Q.—What is the Hudson's Bay Company, and its age?

A.—The Hudson's Bay Company is the oldest joint stock company in Canada, having been chartered in 1670 by King Charles, with Prince Rupert as its head, for the prosecution of trade in the Hudson Bay territory. The company fought the French rival trading companies,

CANADA'S FIRST FARMER.

Q.—Who was Canada's first farmer?

A.—The first farmer in Canada was Louis Hebert, who came from Acadia to Quebec in 1617 with his family, earning his living by tilling the soil.

When in Acadia he was the first to utilize the salt water marshes of the Bay of Fundy by building dykes to keep out the tides.

JEST

THE EXPERIMENT.

The wife of the great botanist beamed at him across the supper table. "But these mushrooms," she exclaimed, pointing to a dish that had been set before her, "are not all for me, Aristotle, are they?"

"Yes, Mabel," he nodded, "I gathered them especially for you with my own hands."

She beamed upon him gratefully. What a dear, unselfish husband he was! In five minutes she had demolished the lot.

At breakfast the next morning he greeted her anxiously. "Sleep all right?" he inquired.

"Splendidly," she smiled.

"Not sick at all—no pains?" he pressed.

"Why, of course not, Aristotle," she responded.

"Hurrah!" he then exclaimed, "I have discovered another species of fungi that isn't poisonous!"—London Opinion.

TO THE EDITOR

HELD IN CUSTOMS.

Editor Advertiser: Sir,—The enclosed letter refers to a Penny Book that was paid for and should be delivered to the addressee. It seems to be a very small business for a good Grit government to enforce an annoying and useless hang-over law from a past grab-all regime. Such books, and some helpful and instructive catalogues of plants and things that one cannot get except through importing seem to be held up for test work when the one here who wants them would make no objection to paying the few cents duty demanded.

The past spring two parcels of valuable bulbs sent to me for test work were held up or "lost" while coming across, and it seems there should be something done to remove such annoyance and loss, particularly to the many amateur horticulturists who work and experiment to improve and benefit their surroundings, and send for such books merely as an aid to advancement. Your inquiry and help of your valuable columns would be of great aid to many. Will you help to get this matter straightened out?

The letter referred to above follows: "I have not supposed that you are becoming exasperated at the book you ordered. I have been disgusted myself with your postal and customs departments more than once. I never sent a circular or catalogue into Canada that I did not have to pay customs duty on it, and the worst of it is that I cannot prepay the duty, as I do not know what to pay, and the next worst is that it is a practice of your departments to hold up mail of that character until they have an accumulation of it. They will then write me that they have fifty or one hundred pieces subject to duty, and ask me to remit them two or four dollars, as the case may be."

"Now, I do not doubt that the government needs the duty, but I must say that holding up matter of that kind that is going through the mails, and holding it up in that particular way, so as to get an accumulation before asking for the remittance of duties, is hardly satisfactory either to the sender or to the addressee."

"I have mailed you the book, together with many others, and if you have not received it, I have no doubt that it is being held in your customs office."

SMOKING PREACHERS.

Editor Advertiser: Sir,—Having noticed an article regarding the Methodist conference in Thursday morning's paper, I thought I would like to say a few words along the line of Methodist ministers wooing Lady Nicotine. It has come to a serious time in our church life when our young ministers are called to be allowed to smoke.

If they are called by God to preach the gospel, they will be converted, and his spirit will guide them in all truth. The spirit of Jesus cannot dwell in unclean temples, and if these young men are converted they will not ask to be allowed to smoke.

If the professors in our colleges smoke they should not be there. Why not get a special professor to teach our young men?

Oh, Methodist conference and Presbyterian assembly, awake to the fact that you are letting the world into our churches, and sinners cannot be saved in a worldly church.

OLD-FASHIONED METHODIST.

ENJOYED THE PARK.

Editor Advertiser: Sir,—In your paper a few days ago I saw an article about closing Victoria Park to autos. Now, I would like to say a little on the subject. Of course, I am only a stranger; still, I have known London for years, and visited there, and I certainly always appreciate its beauty spots, but never so much as a year ago.

Being a helpless invalid, I am not able to go any place often. It was necessary to see a specialist, so I drove the thirty miles in. I had to be carried into the doctor's office, but it would have been embarrassing to be carried into a hotel or restaurant, so we took a lunch along and drove in the park. We ate our lunch in the car. Then, as it was necessary for me to rest, they placed pillows and cushions around me, and went up town to do their shopping. I rested there in the shade, and could see the lovely flowers and shrubs. How I enjoyed it only a shut-in can tell. When ready to come home I was rested, both in mind and body, and have recalled it so often during the long months since then.

Now, if we had been shut out of the park, we would have been obliged to park the car along the roadside, and that would not have been pleasant, I am sure, and I am sure it caused to injury to either the park or the city of London, and the pleasure given was of untold value to me, a poor, helpless, suffering woman.

Therefore, I enter a plea for the sake of other sufferers, to have the park left open to give others the pleasure such as I enjoyed there. Certainly there should be no speeding, but what a treat for those who are not able to walk, to drive slowly through such a beauty spot that the Heavenly Father has placed there. The well people can go to many places, but the helpless can only go where they can ride.

Trusting this plea will help to give some other sufferers pleasure. Respectfully, A SUFFERING ONE.

PRaise FROM INMATES.

Editor Advertiser:

Sir,—Would you kindly insert the following in the early edition of your paper? We, as inmates of the House of Refuge, think it only proper that the public should know the true facts as regards the condition of affairs at this institution. In the first place, the grand jury reports that the dungeons are not a proper place to confine inmates. We agree with them to a certain extent, but they must remember that these places were not intended to be used as a parlor, or a place of comfort, but for punishment, and no person need see the inside of them if they only obey orders and be good inmates.

Secondly, re the sanitary conditions: The grand jury should also remember that closets are used by very old and infirm people, but closets are flushed out and a strong disinfection used freely.

Thirdly, with regards the separated milk being given us, no doubt the whole milk would be more beneficial, but with sugar added the separated milk is palatable, and seems to be enjoyed by everyone. We would like to ask the complainant in this case whether there was not a time when he could use sugar and milk with his porridge without sugar.

We might say that we have one of the best superintendents that was ever over this house. He is always very obliging and willing to do anything in reason for us. We get all we can eat, and no person need go without tobacco. You may be sure that this is appreciated by all the inmates. To show you what respect the inmates have for the house and its management, a visitor once asked one of the old people of his relatives' names. He was here, and his reply was: "No; if they did, they would all want to come."

Might we suggest that the municipal authorities use more discretion in the selection of jurors in future?

In conclusion we might add that we think it would be advisable for visitors not to come here with the intention of creating discontent among the inmates, as there are always superintendents in quite capable of managing the affairs of this institution without the aid of irresponsible persons.

Signed on behalf of the inmates: Charles Foley, T. J. Hodgins, Cecil Blackman, S. R. Hodgins.

PROTESTS THAT $600.

Editor Advertiser:

Sir,—The Ontario Government is the servant of the people who elected them. They are allowed a salary by the people for their services. How can they, the servants, or employees, of the province, grant themselves extra pay? Such a thing could not be done in any other walk of life. Should not the people be considered when their money is being so disposed of, and they taxed to pay it?

Moreover, if the government can get such a bonus for a few days sitting around, how about a little bonus for the men who gave years of their time when the country needed them? A VETERAN.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

APOPLEXY

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

YOU often read of one another of our prominent men succumbing to apoplexy. The fact that they died of such a stroke is hardly to their credit. Apoplexy almost always is the result of bad or careless habits.

It is due either to the rupture of a blood vessel within the skull, blood escaping, with consequent pressure on the brain; or to the plugging up of a blood vessel, the blood supply to some part of the brain being thus cut off.

The rupture of a blood vessel is predisposed to by chronic alcoholism, chronic kidney and heart disease, gout, rheumatism, syphilis, and all kinds of hardening of the arteries.

Its exciting cause may be sudden physical exertion, excitement, cold-water bathing, excessive eating and drinking, or a strain of any sort.

The attack is sudden, with convulsions and coma; or there is coma alone; or there is little or no loss of consciousness; or the sufferer falls as if shot. In the conscious, speech and swallowing are difficult. The face is flushed. The pupils are dilated; or one may be dilated and the other contracted. The breathing is irregular and snoring. The pulse is slow, full and hard. Such a condition may come on during sleep.

Paralysis generally accompanies apoplexy. If a paralyzed limb is raised it will be found entirely relaxed and powerless. If the patient makes any movement it will be by the hand and leg of one side only. The face is usually paralyzed on the same side as the arm and leg. The mouth is pulled away from the affected side of the face by the unaffected muscles.

Until the doctor comes, the sufferer is placed in a reclining position, his neck freed of clothing, his head moderately elevated, his shoulders slightly raised. An ice bag or cold wet cloths are placed on his head, and hot bottles to the extremities.

Even in the mildest cases the patient remains in bed a fortnight. The diet is light; constipation is avoided. Surges have of late years done wonders by trephining, removing the clot and thus removing the pressure from the brain.

Favorable Outlook in Canada

BY A. E. AMES CO., TORONTO.

REPORTS dealing with the outlook in the great fundaments of this continent are daily being received from all parts of Canada and the United States.

In Canada, after a series of unfavorable years, these reports are being examined with more than ordinary attention. It is being more fully realized what a large factor our crops are in relation to our whole business world. Though the conditions from coast to coast in some parts of our country fall short of ideal conditions, it is, however, conceded and the consensus of opinion of those whose opinions are regarded as most authoritative is that the present crop outlook is the most favorable which Canada has had since the record crop of 1915. Such opinion brings with it great encouragement, and comes as a relief after the strain of the past few years.

The feeling of depression which has gradually replaced by a spirit of hopefulness. This spirit of hopefulness is being backed by more determined, serious effort in all parts of our economic fabric.

Owing to the curtailment in buying power of Canada's agricultural community, our retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, business enterprises, railroads, etc., have gone through extremely trying periods. The present more hopeful outlook, the higher prices for farm products, the better labor situation, the lower transportation costs, and many other factors, are having considerable effect, as indicated by the larger volume of inquiry for manufactured goods.

Building permits in fifty-six of Canada's cities indicate an improved feeling to a marked degree. In May this year building contracts awarded amounted to over $3,000,000, as compared with $2,000,000 in May, 1921. There is a conviction that the depression in Canada really reached its culmination in the fall and winter of 1921.

NO. 240—SELLING THE COLD HANDSHAKE.

If you are a salesman you should never reject an opportunity to shake hands with your prospective customer. It's not only that the sincere handshake tends to encourage friendly relations which mean so much in business, but the handshake will give you many a valuable tip on how to talk to your prospect. It will give you the sort of sales argument which will make the strongest appeal to him.

Suppose, for instance, you have just shaken hands with a prospect and you have noticed that he has one of those cold hands. There is little warmth or vigor in it. How will you talk to this man? What arguments, in a general way, will be the ones which will interest him? You will find by experience, if you neglect the cue, that this type of man will not be interested by any emotional appeal. The figurative parallel is the true one in this case. The man's hand is cold. He is cold. You'll have to show him how he can calculate on profit on whatever you have to sell him.

It is a book which will be very pleasing to disciples of Maxim Gorky, who repudiates utterly the necessity or desirability of sacrifice.

"Tell England" reads the title of the book, but that does not exactly mean to tell the England of insurgent workers or submerged classes forced to a hungry by high food prices. Even so, has real thrills of adventure to the man who has never gone hungry or sheer necessity.

"Tell England" is a message, rather, for the England of cricket fields, cool shaded estates and high manorial towers, England of boy gentlemen who never grew old and hardened because they never have to. They were splendid heroes in the great war, those boy gentlemen. But they were not the only heroes, and despite the evidently leisured and ordered thought processes of writers of the class and type, one wonders whether after all if the philosophical, tolerant and kindly viewpoint of the war, retrospect is as desirable as the "never again" attitude of street sweepers and ordinary "blokes," who at least registered something distinctly new and radical in mental activity for their class as a result of the war.

After reading "Tell England," one begins to think rather too tolerant of war as a great and glorious opportunity to test one's capacity for sacrificing one's life and wondrous hopes and dreams of youth.

Had "Tell England" been written by a Low Churchman or an evangelist the message would have been probably a good deal more "preachy and moralistic. There would have been no mistaking or ignoring the reason why "the Christ was crucified."

It would have been clearly set forth that it was for the sins of the world or to permit of victory over the Satanic forces of the Kaiser Wilhelm. But the Kaiser and the sinful war are not emphasized. They are hard introduced at all. It is nearly a vainless book. There is just a danger, the morbid, subtle menace of it. And there isn't very much of the idea of gaining immortality or beautiful Paradise after death in the book either. It's all pure, beautiful, transcendent sacrifice.

"Tell England" is a beautiful, sublime book, but—it is necessarily a healthy book?

Wednesday, June 14, 1897.

Weather—Fair and warm.

The honor lists of the first and second years in the Toronto University are also creditable to London students. J. R. Bone, in the second year, took honors in three distinct departments, standing head in physics and chemistry, and also in chemistry and physics. In each of the first two departments he won a scholarship, though the regulations may compel him to resign one to the man standing next to him in the honor list. In the department of moderns of the second year Miss J. Taylor and Miss T. G. Davidson, both of London, took third-class honors. Miss G. O. Burgess, of the same year, took third-class honors in classics. W. J. Dringole was granted standing of the third year in the general course on passing superior examinations in English supplementary examinations. In the first year J. H. R. Gillespie took third-class honors in mathematics.

The services of Sunday afternoon in the Auditorium were closed yesterday, and will not be resumed until fall. The attendance yesterday numbered 850. M. Spencer, president, Rev. Capt. H. Kimball, of Aylmer, delivered an excellent address, and H. Ruthven McDonald sang in fine voice. Jubilee day was celebrated by singing "God Save the Queen." During the summer season parlor meetings will be held on Sunday afternoons in the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. J. W. Brown preached in the morning, and Rev. R. Hatchett in the afternoon at the Bethanuel Church yesterday. At the afternoon service the hymn "The Church is the Body of Christ" was sung. In the evening Rev. R. Holden, the pastor, preached an impressive farewell sermon.

At a recent meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Fred Heath was elected chairman of the entertainment committee.

Rev. J. G. Stuart, B.A., of Knox Church, South London, preached at St. Giles Church, Winnipeg, last Sunday evening.

Leonard Atkin Arrested On Farm of Father At Paris.

Revenue Officers Allege Being Showered With Sticks and Stones.

Special to London Advertiser.
BRANTFORD, June 13.—Clubs, sticks and stones featured in the arrest of Leonard Atkin, Windsor, at Paris, according to reports received here this evening.

Atkin, it is alleged, had a large quantity of "Seagram's 83" in his possession, and this, it is alleged, was on the property of his father, Alex. Atkin, when the inland revenue officers arrived on the scene.

The arrest followed information laid by Chief Green of Paris. Atkin is charged with having liquor in an unauthorized place.

When the officials arrived at the scene of the cargo, it is alleged they were received with a fusillade of sticks, stones and many other miscellaneous weapons, and it is stated they suffered considerably as a result.

Soon after the arrest the accused was taken before Magistrate Patterson on the charge, and he pleaded guilty to having liquor in an unauthorized place. Magistrate Patterson decided to reserve judgment until Thursday morning.

How large the cargo was, Chief Green declined to state when asked, but it is reported that the shipment exceeded 20 cases.

When asked for the details of the case, Chief Green stated, that while he had preferred charges against Atkin, he declined to discuss the matter.

Lethbridge, Alta., June 14.—"Almost unanimous is the verdict," reports the Lethbridge Herald yesterday in a summary of crop conditions in its district, "that the crops could hardly look healthier and more promising."

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

When the liver becomes slow, sluggish and torpid it is not working properly and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow, among which are sick or bilious headaches, heartburn, water brash, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, pain under the right shoulder, coated tongue, bad breath, yellow eyes, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS
quickly remove the secretions, clear away the effects and waste matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Mrs. Alice Methyl, Napanee, Ont., writes: "I was very badly run down for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials and I am a different person today."

"I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to anyone troubled with Liver trouble."

Urges Increase in Birth Rate As Safeguard.

LONDON, June 13.—In advocating an increase in the birth rate, the Bishop of Exeter said the next war would be decided by the efficiency of generals and man power.

"This is no time for a diminution in the birth rate," he declared. "The war was not so easily won that we could allow ourselves to take a risk in the future. Who can say there won't be another war? A man with many children is contributing to the capital of the country."

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA
BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL, Staff Correspondent The London Advertiser.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 13.—With the rescinding of the order-in-council passed by the late government restricting the immigration of Mennonites into this country, W. D. Euler, Liberal member for North Waterloo, saw the fulfillment of one of his chief election pledges.

It was directly through Mr. Euler's efforts that the ban on Mennonite immigration was lifted.

Believing that such legislation wrought hardship on people of a faith who have long been established in this country, and have proven themselves excellent citizens, Mr. Euler fought against the order-in-council when it was passed in 1919.

When his efforts proved of no avail he promised his constituents, among whom a large number of Mennonites are to be found, that he would do all within his power when elected to rescind the order.

True to his pledge he went directly to the premier on his arrival in Ottawa and eventually was successful in having the ban lifted.

The order was passed by the late government apparently without reason. The Mennonites drew upon themselves considerable notoriety during the war by holding aloof as conscientious objectors, but the war had ended before the order was passed.

All through Western Ontario are to be found thousands of Mennonites, who came to this country chiefly from Pennsylvania as pioneers. The order-in-council interfered greatly with relatives from the United States visiting these families and on the whole cast reflection on their desirability as citizens.

A SHORTHORN bull calf, valued at $33,000, owned by Elliott & Son of Fergus, was used as an argument by Hon. Hugh Guthrie against the soundness of a bill introduced by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, fixing the amount of compensation for cattle slaughtered for disease at two-thirds of a maximum value of $150.

Mr. Guthrie wanted to know if any special provisions would be made for an animal of this kind if it became diseased. He thought that $150 would prove poor compensation for a loss of $33,000.

Mr. Motherwell replied that he and his staff had tried hard to work out a solution for the problem, but they had not arrived at any practical conclusions. He believed that by recognizing such value for individual animals considerable dissatisfaction would result, as many owners would believe their animals should be placed in high categories. He had also tried to give special classifications, he said, for cows with outstanding dairy records, but so many difficulties stood in the way he was forced to fix a flat rate for all animals.

The flat rate was increased Monday, however, to $200, making the maximum compensation for any one animal $150. The bill carried.

MISS AGNES MACPAIL is a distinguished personage today, not only because she alone breaks the monotony of the long rows of sombre maids, but because she filled successfully a heroine's role when she saved eight or ten helpless members from a position which was decidedly uncomfortable, to say the least.

The members were riding downward in one of the elevators, when without warning it stopped between the first and second floors. Although the operator frantically manipulated the machinery the lift balked at successfully any more.

For ten minutes the prisoners lifted their voices in protest, and they pounded upon the floor, but the noise was deadened by the closed doors of the shaft.

It remained for Miss MacPail, while waiting her way down the corridor to the House of Commons, to hear faint strange sounds of distress.

With womanly intuition, she immediately diagnosed the trouble, and straight away hurried to find the engineer. The engineer switched on a second current and the car which was standing in high rushed without warning to the bottom of the pit. Everyone survived.

MEMBERS of the Progressive party from Western Ontario as a whole are not in accord with the statements made by R. H. Halbert, member from North Ontario, at a U. F. O. picnic in Russell County Saturday last, when he declared that the government would be forced to change the budget to aid the farmers, even if an election was forced upon the country.

In the corridor occupied by the Western Ontario group considerable criticism was passed upon Mr. Halbert's words Monday. It was generally admitted that they did not express the sentiment of the Progresssive party, as far as Eastern Canada was concerned, and many members even went as far as to say that Mr. Halbert was injuring the party by his actions.

ALTHOUGH he was entirely ignorant of what was to happen, and although he had never before heard of the parties concerned, W. G. Raymond, member for Brantford, was made sponsor for three bills of divorce which received their second reading in the House of Commons Saturday.

In the absence of the original sponsors of the bills, the Speaker picked a member of the Liberal party at random to make the motion, and in each case he picked on Mr. Raymond. Mr. Raymond was not even given the opportunity of expressing his views on the great American pastime.

DECLARE SIEGE IN BOLIVIA

BUENOS AIRES, June 13.—A state of siege has been declared at La Paz and Oruro, Bolivia, according to advices received by the foreign office from the Argentine legation at La Paz. The proclamation is attributed to the disturbed political conditions in Bolivia.

HURT WHEN TRAIN RUNS OFF RAILS

HALIFAX, N.S., June 13.—Lewis Corkum, fireman, was badly crushed, John McLeod, driver, was injured, and a number of passengers were severely shaken up when the Halifax and Southwestern passenger train from Halifax for Bridgewater left the track at Eastover, near Chester, at 5 o'clock. The wreck is said to have been caused by a spread rail.

The engine toppled over with Fireman Corkum under it, and he was not released for an hour.

Several of the cars were badly smashed, and the roadbed was torn up. A special train was sent from Bridgewater to take the passengers to their destinations, and another went from Halifax to take the injured men to hospital here.

World News CUT SHORT

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 13.—Two Russian Soviet aviators are being held at Kishinev by Rumanian military authorities, following a forced landing of their airplane near Tighina, Bessarabia.

The machine developed motor trouble, and when the aviators found they could not again take to the air, they set fire to their airplane. Rumanian bandages were able, however, to extinguish the flames, and they found the machine loaded with Bolshevik manifestos printed in the Rumanian language, apparently intended for purposes of propaganda in Bessarabia.

BUENOS AIRES, June 13.—Government troops and Paraguayan revolutionists have been engaged in a sanguinary battle in the outskirts of Asuncion, the capital.

A dispatch to La Nacion of this city says machine guns and artillery were used by the contending forces. The government forces repelled the attack of the revolutionists, who were compelled to retreat, abandoning guns and ammunition. Prisoners were taken.

VIENNA, June 13.—A modified currency union with Germany is being advanced by the Social Democrats as their final effort to save the country, unless foreign credits are quickly forthcoming.

The plan, proposed by Dr. Otto Bauer, former foreign minister, contemplates seeking allied permission to approach Germany with a view to establishing a German mark bank of issue at Vienna and the fixing of the ratio between the mark and the crown and establishing of a stable medium between the two countries.

The pan-Germans will support this as a step toward political union. It is believed.

MUNICH, June 13.—Special precautions are being taken to guard President Ebert during his trip from Frudenstadt to Munich, and while he is visiting at Munich tomorrow. It is announced that the Exposition of Applied Arts, which he is to inspect, is to be closed to the public during his visit here.

The Staats Zeitung, the official organ of the Bavarian Government, urges that President Ebert receive due respect as the lawful head of the German Republic, and that he be not blamed for holding his high position or for his inability up to the present time to secure new elections.

RIGA, June 13.—Ilidor, "the mysterious monk of Russia," who claims to have presented the famous monk Rasputin to the former Russian Emperor, is still being held in jail here. Ilidor was arrested last week by the Latvian police because his papers were not in order. He said he was on his way to Canada and the United States to preach against Bolshevism.

The political police daily are questioning Ilidor regarding his former connection with the Soviet. They say they suspect him of being a Bolshevik agent, and are inclined to disbelieve his story that he left Russia because of fear of his life. Ilidor, however, continues to contend that he is desirous of preaching against the Bolsheviks, who, he says, murdered his father, mother and other relatives. Thus far he has failed to name wealthy friends who, he asserted, had promised to finance his trip across the Atlantic.

Costs $5 To Look Through Hole in Fence.

KITCHENER, June 13.—Watching a ball game through a hole in the fence is a poor practice, according to the experience of a young Kitchener man who was fined $5 in police court this morning for assaulting a special officer. The young man was shoved away from the peak hole three times by the special officer, and as a matter of squaring things up a bit he hurled a stone at the officer when the cop's back was turned, causing injury to the officer.

True Descriptions Save Us All From Deception~

If the world had listened to Louis XV of France when he called Canada "a few acres of snow"?

What a deception!

But Canada, the real name, reflecting a true description and radiating welcome, was cherished. Men and women sought and found "The Lady of the Snows" and her warm beating heart.

False descriptions of goods you buy, typified in nicknames, may be just as full of deception as Louis' remark. They lead to imitations and substitutes. They make it doubtful whether you get what you want. They drag buying and selling down to a plane of dickering and tricks.

True description is in the real name. A worthy product reflects its value in its name. The good name is an assurance you will get what you expect—saving buyer and seller alike from deception.

Women's Sanatorium Aid Shows Splendid Achievement For Money Expended.

Re-Elects Mrs. John Stevely President For Twelfth Term.

With a grant of $3,500 from the United Welfare Fund for the past year the Women's Sanatorium Aid has been looking after 500 families that have one or more sufferers from tuberculosis, providing the nourishing food which otherwise would be lacking, yet which is so indispensable in effecting cure, seeing that the patients have the proper clothing, looking after dependent families while the bread-winner is in the sanatorium. Not only is the mission of the aid abetting the efforts of medical science in curing the disease, but still more important, prevention from its spread and persistent measures towards stamping it out.

Reference to all this service to the community was made at the annual meeting held on Tuesday afternoon, a particularly enjoyable as well as interesting event, owing to the fact that it took place at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawson, "Woodholme," London Township.

For the twelfth time, Mrs. John Stevely was the unanimous choice for the presidency, and other officers elected, as their names were submitted by the nominating committee, of which Mrs. A. E. Miller was convener, were: First vice-president, Mrs. T. H. Purdom; second vice-president, Miss Minnie Stewart; third vice-president, Mrs. W. F. D. Jarvis; recording secretary, Mrs. B. C. McCann; treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Greer.

Assist at Birthday Party. The Sanatorium Aid, with the Ladies' Auxiliary Board, will act as joint hostesses Saturday next with the London Health Association at the birthday party of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, to be held at the institution, in order to afford the public an opportunity of seeing the tremendous development.

Mrs. Joseph Judd was appointed convener to take charge of the tea-room and Mrs. Ibbotson Leonard convener of a committee to look after the fees, which will be served from a marquee on the lawn.

Emphasis was laid by the retiring secretary, Mrs. H. C. McNeil, in her report, on the fact that the greatest work of the aid is done with the children. Having built the sanatorium as its first big effort, the aid now has from one family alone four children being treated there, lying side by side in cots, while other members of the family are at home, safe from infection. Detecting the disease in its early stages with the children, perfect cures are the almost invariable rule.

The Sanatorium Aid is in reality a clearing house for the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, it was stressed, at the annual meeting, which was held at the station, attended by from 15 to 25, if the patients are permitted to stay in their own homes for treatment, the nurses follow the cases there, seeing that necessities are provided and proper precautions observed. If a bread-winner is ordered to the sanatorium, the aid looks after his family in his absence. On an average 60 quarts of milk a day is distributed, in addition to groceries and clothing.

The treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Greer, stated that during the past year $1,102.24 has been expended for groceries, $1,619.42 for milk, $257.30 for meat, and $200 has been allowed the two nurses to use in cases of emergency.

KEEP UP RECORD FOR RAPID WORK

Owing to the Holy Name celebration of Sunday, June 11, and the celebration of the Feast of Corpus Christi next Sunday, the June meeting of the Catholic Women's League has been postponed until Sunday, 25th. The meetings will then be discontinued until the autumn, although the social work in which the league has been actively engaged for months will be carried on as usual.

From the proceeds of "The Little Tycoon," successfully presented some weeks ago under the society's auspices, the league has on hand a donation of $200 pledged to the War Memorial Children's Hospital. The members are desirous of having some special articles of furniture or equipment bought with the subscription bearing the name of the Catholic Women's League. Under the circumstances, they are waiting to make the payment until decision is reached by the hospital committee with regard to its use.

London's division Catholic Women's League holds the record in all Canada for quickness and efficiency with which organization was completed in the diocese by the president, Mrs. B. C. McCann, and Mrs. Joseph Leach, president of the London (city) subdivision. Paralleling the 100 per cent organization of parishes in the diocese were named the great extent of illiteracy, the caste system which would make a general uprising herculean task, owing to lack of cohesion, and the lack of background and experience in democratic government.

"I talked to one of the captains of industry in Calcutta," said the speaker, "a man of education and training. We discussed Lloyd George's bill for autonomy in India, which had been

The Japanese note, which is to predominate in decorations, arrangement of booths, costumes, etc., those in the Knox Church choir garden party, to be held Friday afternoon in the grounds of "Beechwood," the home of Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore and Mrs. Gartshore, South London, will be further emphasized by the presentation, by special request, of the Japanese operetta, "O Hara San," by the choir, under the direction of Charles E. Percy. Another feature which has aroused pleasurable anticipation is the promised presentation of "Earth's Awakening," by pupils of Miss Edith Wynne-Pryce, physical director of the Y. W. C. A. A most picturesque event as witnessed in the armories some weeks ago, its charm will undoubtedly be much enhanced by the sylvan setting.

ENTERTAIN SUPREME DEPUTY.

An interesting event for the Ladies of the Macabees of the city was the meeting Monday evening in the Alma Block of Olive Hive, at which special guests of honor were Miss Elfrida Greene of Toronto, supreme deputy of the Ladies of the Macabees in Ontario, and the members of Forest City Hive of London. The new ritual was most clearly and ably exemplified by Miss Greene. At the close of the meeting a tempting supper was served, under the convener'ship of Mrs. L. MISSIONARY STARTED

INDIA'S FIRST PAPER

Lecturing on Telugu Mission, D. D. McTavish Emphasizes Far-Reaching Influences.

As an illustration of the enduring and far-reaching influence of foreign mission work, D. D. McTavish of Toronto, lecturing on Tuesday evening under the auspices of Talbot Street Baptist Mission Band, made the statement that William Carey, founder of the foreign mission movement, introduced the first newspaper in India about the year 1761, called "The Statesman."

"The paper," said Mr. McTavish, "is still published in Calcutta, and has the largest circulation among the English-speaking people of any paper there. Since it is published in English, it is read by all in India, and have a copy of it at the present time in my house in Toronto. Reference in this connection was made to the fact that William Carey, as a Baptist, had been the founder not only of Protestant, but Baptist missionary work in India.

Having recently returned from a trip around the world, the lecturer dealt especially with the subject of "Our Indian Telugu Mission," which he graphically described and vividly illustrated with lantern slides. The chain of missions, he stated, is established north of Madras, among the Telugu people, one of the oldest races in India, the station embracing among many others, Ramachandrapuram, the headquarters of the leper mission.

In reference to the fact that the audience was a mixed one, including a large number of children as well as adults, the stories of the mission fields in India, the station embracing among many others, Ramachandrapuram, the headquarters of the leper mission.

Striking examples were cited of splendid service which is being rendered by converts who have become doctors, and otherwise used their ability to promote the welfare of their own people.

Concerning the unrest in India and its causes, much was attributed to the after-war conditions, in which high prices figured. Again, numbers of young men from India have been going away to British and other universities. With their education, they have got the idea that want to govern India. "But that does not say degrees fit them for such a task," said Mr. McTavish.

Among insuperable difficulties in the way of self-government at present were named the great extent of illiteracy, the caste system which would make a general uprising herculean task, owing to lack of cohesion, and the lack of background and experience in democratic government.

"I talked to one of the captains of industry in Calcutta," said the speaker, "a man of education and training. We discussed Lloyd George's bill for autonomy in India, which had been

THIRTEEN FROWNS, BUT PARTIES GO ON Tuesday Is Popular Day For Outdoor Fetes Despite Superstition.

Many organizations, church and otherwise, which chose Tuesday, June 13, for picnics, garden parties and other outdoor events for which the month is usually the most ideal of the year, had reason to feel they were bringing down around their ears all the baleful prophecies connected with the No. "13," as they viewed the clouds which persisted in hanging lower and lower in the afternoon. With commendable optimism which justified itself, plans were carried through, and barring the need of extra wraps and a marked preference for hot drinks over cold, nobody was the worse.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD PICNIC.

The "best kind of" weather for baseball and sports, declared the members of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, who brought their long, busy and useful season to a close with the annual picnic at Springbank Park Tuesday afternoon. Numbers of husbands and friends of the ladies enjoyed the event with their presence, participating in the ball game and sharing in the general enjoyment.

Acting as picnic convener, Mrs. E. J. Liddicoat took a heavy weight of responsibility from the shoulders of the energetic president, Mrs. A. R. Roux. Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, rector of the church, acted as convener of sports, the program of races including such novel and amusing features as balloon, potato, and driving-the-nail races. A bountiful and tempting picnic high tea was served at 6 o'clock.

THE GARDEN FETE.

For the garden fete held by the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist Church on Tuesday afternoon and evening, the glamour of fairyland was thrown over the attractive grounds of the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Manning on Queen's avenue, by the addition of a rose-embowered trellis entrance, arches twined with countless ox-eye daisies and numbers of Japanese lanterns which twinkled picturesquely when the lights were turned on. Many cosy corners for chatting were to be found on the grounds, and a inviting place with "comfy" chairs and clusters of flowers to give a decorative touch. Owing to the sprinkling of rain tea was served there in the afternoon.

While Mrs. H. E. Boomer is president of the aid, Mrs. S. L. Taylor acted as general convener of the garden party, ably assisted by Mesdames S. M. Kennedy, A. E. Barbour, A. D. Jordan, J. E. Keneley, side, Johnston, J. Henderson, Kendall, Frank Harley and Alex. Harvey. Special honor guests of the afternoon were Dr. Wallace Crawford and Mrs. Crawford, returned missionaries from China. Dr. Crawford, having a happy reply to an address of greeting, Lila Grant and Lillian McCormick added much to the enjoyment of the guests with recitations.

Mrs. G. F. Brickenden and Mrs. C. L. Mara poured out tea, Mrs. J. S. Barnard and Mrs. Alex. Harvey, Sen. Cling the love. Two little girls, Frances Williams and Barbara Gifford, have the thrilling experience of seeing six little Dresden china figures come to life and step out of a cabinet to dance a gavotte of grace and dignity. The "china figures" were portrayed by Beth Harkness, Allen and Natalie Beltz, Lucy Noeham, Eleanor Green and Shirley Fraser, who were taught the dance by Miss Mary Manley.

The garden party held by Olive Hive, Ladies of the Macabees, in Queen's Park in the evening had as a strong drawing card an excellent musical program presented by the Salvation Army Band. Ice cream and light refreshments found a ready sale, notwithstanding the chill in the air. Mrs. A. E. Tutt convoked the event.

Introduced some time before, The opinion of the Hindoo gentleman was that it wouldn't work, yet they wanted it, just the same.

"Why?" I asked. "Because we want to govern ourselves. We have confidence in the British judges, and any in those of us who get self-government, in fifty years we will probably have chaos. It wouldn't work, but we want to govern ourselves."

Benjamin Foulkes, president of the band, presided, and Lavina Chute gave the scripture lesson, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Bowley Green, offering prayer. Miss Beryl Wainwright contributed a solo.

MILLS-McDONALD.

A quiet and pretty wedding took place at 32 Rogers avenue, when Ora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McDonald, was married to Herbert W. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Mills. Rev. Mr. Wright officiating. Following the ceremony, a wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Mills left on a honeymoon via Port Arthur and Duluth on a honeymoon.

One of the charming events of the week, in honor of the much-feted bride-elect, Miss Isabel Cowan, was the tea party given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Russell Beattie in her cosy home in Oxford street. Quantities of pennies added a gay decorative touch to the living-room, while the tea table in the dining-room, presided over by Mrs. Gordon Hunt and Mrs. E. W. Grange, was daintily and prettily adorned with pink roses. Those invited included Mrs. Hugh McCrimmon, Mrs. E. W. While much business was transacted at the annual meetings of the Women's Sanatorium Aid, held Tuesday afternoon at "Woodholme," the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawson, the social side was a delightful feast. Miller cutting a mammoth strawberry shortcake, which had the place of honor. Among those noticed who were present were Mrs. John Stevely, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. J. C. Jamieson of Chicago, sister of the groom. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Westland left for a trip to New York.

WHITE RIBBONERS RETAIN PRESIDENT

Re-elect Mrs. Ashplant by Acclamation—Are Supporting Budget Well.

Mrs. Hubert Ashplant was re-elected by acclamation president of the London Women's Christian Temperance Union at the annual meeting, presided over by Mrs. May R. Thornley, in the headquarters, Clarence street, on Tuesday afternoon. In a touching little address, Mrs. Ashplant thanked the union for the confidence shown in her, as manifested by the re-election, expressing also her heartfelt gratitude for the loyal support given her by the members, and their sympathy expressed in many ways in her recent bereavement and illness.

Mrs. H. W. Paddell was the choice for corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. R. White re-elected recording secretary, Mrs. Amy Patterson re-elected treasurer, and Mrs. J. Chapman named first vice-president. Owing to the length of time occupied, it was necessary to adjourn at 5 o'clock without completing the business. The rest of the executive and board will be elected at a later meeting.

The treasurer, Mrs. Patterson, presented a most encouraging report, stating the total receipts for the year amounted to $5,208.30, including returns from the dining-room at the Western Fair. Already $305 has been paid in for the budget fund, for educational and missionary extension work of the Ontario Provincial Union. The balance on hand to start a new year is $831.

A solo by Mrs. Philippo during a lull in business was a pleasing break.

RHODES-STEVENSON.

An interesting event drew a large gathering to the Knox Church, Cayuga, on Saturday, June 11, when Elizabeth Cole, daughter of Mrs. and the late John Stevenson, was quietly married to George, son of Thomas and Mrs. Rhodes. In the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. G. Blake, the ceremony was performed by Rev. D. N. MacKinnon of Caledonia. The bride was unattended, and looked very charming in her chic suit of gray homespun with Alice blue hat and armful of lovely pink roses. Miss W. Ralston, organist of the church, played the wedding march. At the close of the ceremony, the newly-wedded couple left by motor for a trip to Buffalo and other points.

A DECEMBER BRIDE.

Dear Miss Grey,—Not seeing my last letter in print, I will try again. I saw where the rats had been at the mail in London, so perhaps they ate my letter and swallowed the mite, so I am sending another, and will you please send me a packet of pink aster seeds, Miss Grey?

A little was asking if Japanese roses can be grown from the seed. Yes; a neighbor close by had two lovely plants from the seed, but mine were a failure. I am going to try again. Another boxite asked about marmalade. The secret of good marmalade is very slow boiling for three hours before sugar is put in. If the fruit is not thoroughly cooked, adding sugar, your marmalade will be very dark with a peculiar flavor and fruit will be hard. Grape fruit makes the best marmalade, as it jells so easily, and is a good spring tonic. Well, dear Miss Grey, I'll fade away, and call again another day. With best wishes to Cynthia and boxites.

A DECEMBER BRIDE.

I am sorry but your last letter did not reach the Mail-Box. December 1st I am sorry but there are no garden huckleberries or pinks in the Mail-Box, but maybe some of the boxites have some to spare, but I am mailing you the pink asters, as requested. Thanks for the tip for making marmalade.

WANTS PATTERN.

Dear Miss Grey,—I noticed in the paper where one of the boxites wanted a grapefruit marmalade. I am sending one that I cut out, one of the boxites sent in some time ago. Have made it every year, and it is a real good one, and please find inclosed some crochet edgings. You need not return. Can anyone let me have some good pattern for dresser scarf. Find inclosed a mite.

Three grapefruits, 4 large lemons; slice up 3, and to every pint of pulp add 3 pints of water; let stand 24 hours, then cook till fruit is tender; let stand another 24 hours, then to every pint add 1/2 pounds of sugar; boil till clear and light.

Cookie Recipe: Two eggs, 1 cup brown sugar, 3/4 cup butter, 1 teaspoon soda in a tablespoon of hot water, 1 pound dates, 1 cup raisins, 10 cents nuts, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves. This is a good recipe. MRS. D. R. Thank you for the pattern, Mrs. D. R. As you did not sign a pen name I am giving you one. Thanks, too, for the hospital mite and recipe. I have placed your envelope on file in case anyone sends in patterns for you.

WILL CHEER LONESOME GIRL.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I come again to your cosy corner? It is a long time since I have written last. Please find inclosed a stamped addressed envelope for the little girl who cries herself to imagine the soil would have to be black and like swamp earth to get the best results, also transplanting will be necessary, of course.

I heard the other day what I thought a good suggestion, re making salad dressing: Instead of using salad oil or butter, a can of condensed milk was used as a substitute with splendid results. Have not tried it, but intend to and shall let the readers know how it turns out. It is supposed to give a rich, creamy taste, far superior to either butter or oil. I am passing this on for what it is worth. Again thanking you for kindness and promptness in sending bulbs.

Has Western Ontario Any Perfect Ladies?

EVERY member of the fair sex considers herself a perfect lady. Persons doubting this statement should tell Miss Western Ontario that she does not come in this category, and then watch the result.

The woman in the case would represent such an institution, and quite naturally. Even though she may not be a perfect lady, she is continually striving to become one, and it is a laudable objective.

But what is a perfect lady? The Advertiser is in search of a clear-cut definition of the term, and is willing to pay $5 for the best answer to the above question. For the next five best answers, $1 will be paid.

Already more than a hundred answers have been received, and to those who contemplate taking part in the contest but have neglected to do so, it is pointed out that replies must reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, June 14.

A PERFECT LADY.
Well, like the perfect gentleman, she is very likely not on earth, but as near as earthly mortals come, I think, is a gentle-voiced, quiet-mannered woman, cheerful, and helpful, and kind, clean in mind, body and dress, whether it be of satin or cotton. And all ladies do not aspire to eat.

Many more nearly such are found in call. Slow to take offence, and never intentionally giving it; not above apology, if necessary. Loving and giving, not expecting a reward for every good deed.

A lady must be a student of human nature and be able to size up persons she meets as separate individuals, according to their requirements, as all are not by any means alike.

Some require handling with gloves to be able to keep things going peacefully, so a lady requires instinct as to how to treat such, and much tolerance, for people with these "unfortunate dispositions," are not only easy to take offence, but if not properly understood, are continually giving it, by their untidiness of speech and inconspicuousness.

Able to fit herself to any environment in which she may find herself, having a perfect balance of her own, so finely adjusted that she is not embarrassed in the home of those richer than herself, nor does she make those who are poorer than she may be feel that she is most fortunate.

Never to say unkind things of anyone, able to hide the wound if her own feelings are hurt, especially if unintentionally.

A perfect woman is far above riches; if she is fortunate enough to have money, she adds the need as much as possible, finding it a pleasure to do good to others. Doing her best wherever she may be in life, what more could a woman be and be human?

A PERFECT LADY.
We might take the quotation from Brent, "Oh, what makes lady lovely? Virtue, faith and gentleness in suffering; an endurance through scorn or trial. These call beauty forth, give her the stamp celestial and admit her to sisterhood with the angels."

Some might reply that their ideal perfect lady would possess qualities and perquisites exactly opposite to those usually thought of in speaking of a perfect gentleman. I would not agree with this, however. In a perfect gentleman, one looks for strength, endurance, truthfulness and personal purity, and these a perfect lady should embody.

The perfect lady is not always one who has been pampered and sheltered by a luxurious home life. Down in our shops and factories and offices you will find ladies, young and not so young, who combine all the essen-

What Charming June Bridesmaids Will Wear

COPYRIGHT BY M'CALLS

LEAVING the bride out of the question just by way of variety, one notes that bridesmaids' dresses are being shown in cornflower blue and orchid. Stockings match the color of the frock and silver slippers are worn with them.

Hats are of straw and are shown with ostrich feather trimmings. Anybody else at the wheel and—well, dead girls tell no tales!

As Dick's keen ears focused attention he could recognize Ruth's laugh.

"Vira, that sounds good—because I know you mean it. After what we went through last night, we're pals for ever. I feel a little shaky yet. I think I'll lie down for a while on this chaise longue. Some more of your massaging would do my poor back a lot of good. If you ever go broke and have to open a beauty shop or something, count on me as your best patron."

Vira chuckled. "Well, it wouldn't take much to get ahead of Glenn these days. He looks worried—and that makes me worried. Have you noticed it, Ruth?"

"Not through your eyes of love, dear," kidded Ruth.

"Dick, at the other end, had been a bit worried about the ethics of what Garrick's detective proclivities had got him into. He told himself that he would stop if it were not for what Guy would say. If he had stopped long enough he might have admitted that he was just like the other millions in similar circumstances, who would have liked an earful on the other fellow."

The fact was that Dick was almost beside himself with jealousy as he heard Ruth discussing Jack. The only consolation to which he could treat himself was that she spoke of him. He wondered. Did he imagine that because he wished it?

Then he heard another voice over the wireless. He recognized it as Brock's voice, and Brock did not seem in the best of tempers with the girls.

"You oughtn't to butt in and try to stop anything, Ruth—not when it has gone as far as that thing did last night. You'll get somebody caught one of these days and—"

There was a thinly-veiled threat in the gruff breaking off of Brock's remark.

"Because it was the Parris some friends of—"

"I know," interrupted Ruth. "But when you all picked up us after the smash-up and took us to Vira's—why did you leave the bulky stuff at her house? Suppose someone comes in there and finds it. A pretty little front-page scandal!"

Ruth had been characteristic. Without entering a defence she had shifted the subject until the other man was on the defensive.

"Don't worry. No one will find anything. Jack will take care of that."

Vira made a little suppressed exclamation. "I can imagine my Mater if I was caught in a bootlegging clean out! That'd be the last straw on the dromedary. She'd be looking for some new sheik for me in the shape of a grand old octogenarian husband. I was straight on the road to perdition when I went into picking up the four new—dozen scoundrels! Go, get thee to a nunnery, Vira!"

"Speaking of mothers . . . in Ruth paused, nothing flippant in word or tone.

Dick at the other end was aghast. It was all surprising news, this clue to where Ruth had been the night before. Also, it was some mitigated relief. She had got back to town shaken up by the accident and had gone with Vira to Vira's empty town house. More than that, there was something he did not get; but somehow her smash-up had been concerned with trying to frustrate something, not perpetrate it.

"I won't go back there tonight, Vira," she said at length. "I'm going to stay at the Usonia. A nice little lecture is coming to me for being out two nights and smashing my car. Think of it—her getting put there and getting it towed in herself—to the same garage we telephoned to for a wrecking car—only first! That's some of Garrick's work. I'll bet . . . Well . . . no rum-running arrest yet . . . It might dampen the ardor of someone I know whose ardor I do not want dampened . . . Brock, you said this would be a lark. It's a lark, all right. We wake up the lark."

"Ruthie, old sore-bones, how do you feel? I heard you talking about on one that took a nose dive . . . If there is any lark, let me in on it."

It was Rae who was at least one of the new arrivals.

"Lark!" This from Ruth, contemptuously. "Yes. One thing leads to another, all right. First we start this place. Then we begin getting our heads. Then we begin getting our heads. Then we begin getting our heads."

On Wings of Wireless

by ARTHUR B. REEVE

Chapter VII.

INTERFERENCE.

FOR an hour or more Dick waited patiently at his wireless dictagraph in Garrick's room.

In the silence, broken now and then by some amateur, he had plenty of time to think of Ruth. In spite of himself his suspicions carried him on to the Parr robbery, now known to have included the taking of valuable jewels as well as the looting of the Parr cellar of some of its choicest vintages. His thoughts ran beyond that, to the radio dance and the suspicious signalling from the tower of the Gerard House.

Who was the ringleader of this miserable affair? He thought of Brock, of Georges—and of Jack Curtis. He gritted his teeth. He hated the very name of the debonaire adventurer.

Dick started from his reverie. The dictagraph was working!

Through the high-resistance headphones he heard voices, almost as if from one of the old phonographs. He strained his ears to recognize the voices. It was Vira speaking. To Ruth?

"Well, here we are again. For a second last night I thought we were never going to get to the old fane. Circle again. You're some driver. Anybody else at the wheel and—well, dead girls tell no tales!"

As Dick's keen ears focused attention he could recognize Ruth's laugh.

"Vira, that sounds good—because I know you mean it. After what we went through last night, we're pals for ever. I feel a little shaky yet. I think I'll lie down for a while on this chaise longue. Some more of your massaging would do my poor back a lot of good. If you ever go broke and have to open a beauty shop or something, count on me as your best patron."

Vira chuckled. "Well, it wouldn't take much to get ahead of Glenn these days. He looks worried—and that makes me worried. Have you noticed it, Ruth?"

"Not through your eyes of love, dear," kidded Ruth.

"Dick, at the other end, had been a bit worried about the ethics of what Garrick's detective proclivities had got him into. He told himself that he would stop if it were not for what Guy would say. If he had stopped long enough he might have admitted that he was just like the other millions in similar circumstances, who would have liked an earful on the other fellow."

The fact was that Dick was almost beside himself with jealousy as he heard Ruth discussing Jack. The only consolation to which he could treat himself was that she spoke of him. He wondered. Did he imagine that because he wished it?

Then he heard another voice over the wireless. He recognized it as Brock's voice, and Brock did not seem in the best of tempers with the girls.

"You oughtn't to butt in and try to stop anything, Ruth—not when it has gone as far as that thing did last night. You'll get somebody caught one of these days and—"

There was a thinly-veiled threat in the gruff breaking off of Brock's remark.

"Because it was the Parris some friends of—"

"I know," interrupted Ruth. "But when you all picked up us after the smash-up and took us to Vira's—why did you leave the bulky stuff at her house? Suppose someone comes in there and finds it. A pretty little front-page scandal!"

Ruth had been characteristic. Without entering a defence she had shifted the subject until the other man was on the defensive.

"Don't worry. No one will find anything. Jack will take care of that."

Vira made a little suppressed exclamation. "I can imagine my Mater if I was caught in a bootlegging clean out! That'd be the last straw on the dromedary. She'd be looking for some new sheik for me in the shape of a grand old octogenarian husband. I was straight on the road to perdition when I went into picking up the four new—dozen scoundrels! Go, get thee to a nunnery, Vira!"

"Speaking of mothers . . . in Ruth paused, nothing flippant in word or tone.

Dick at the other end was aghast. It was all surprising news, this clue to where Ruth had been the night before. Also, it was some mitigated relief. She had got back to town shaken up by the accident and had gone with Vira to Vira's empty town house. More than that, there was something he did not get; but somehow her smash-up had been concerned with trying to frustrate something, not perpetrate it.

"I won't go back there tonight, Vira," she said at length. "I'm going to stay at the Usonia. A nice little lecture is coming to me for being out two nights and smashing my car. Think of it—her getting put there and getting it towed in herself—to the same garage we telephoned to for a wrecking car—only first! That's some of Garrick's work. I'll bet . . . Well . . . no rum-running arrest yet . . . It might dampen the ardor of someone I know whose ardor I do not want dampened . . . Brock, you said this would be a lark. It's a lark, all right. We wake up the lark."

"Ruthie, old sore-bones, how do you feel? I heard you talking about on one that took a nose dive . . . If there is any lark, let me in on it."

It was Rae who was at least one of the new arrivals.

HOW TO PLAY BASEBALL

Eddie Collins Gives Ten Rules For Playing Second Base

BY EDDIE COLLINS, World's Greatest Second Baseman.

FIRST—Cover the bag. That should be the slogan of every second baseman. On every ball hit a play may arise at your bag; be there ready for it.

SECOND—Have a perfect understanding with your co-worker, the shortstop. Have a simple but obvious sign with the shortstop, that will permit one another to know who will cover the bag.

THIRD—The second baseman must cooperate with the first baseman under certain conditions. With a runner on first and no one out, always be ready to cover first on a bunt. In order to be in proper position to make this play, move a trifle closer to first and do not play as deep as usual.

FOURTH—It is always advisable to know the catcher's signs, so as to be familiar with what style ball is to be pitched.

FIFTH—If the second baseman covers on an attempted steal, he should arrive at the bag in ample time to take the throw. Never wait until the ball is in the catcher's hands. Leave your position as the runner starts.

SIXTH—When anticipating such a play it is wise for the second baseman to move a couple of steps closer to the bag than is customary.

SEVENTH—With a runner on first, play closer to second than is customary.

EIGHTH—The second baseman must learn to get the ball away quickly. In making a double play the secret of success lies in speed. Be in a position to receive as well as throw it.

NINTH—If your batter is known to be a so-called right field hitter, the shortstop should always cover with a runner on first. If he is a left field hitter, the second baseman should cover.

TENTH—Have mind, attention and every thought on the game at all times. Carry on no conversation except such as is absolutely necessary. Concentrate. Be alive to every situation. Worry a base runner on second all you can by not permitting him to get much of a lead. Do it in such a way, however, that you won't leave your position unprotected. In conclusion, never lose sight of the ball.

'EXILED' FROM MARS TO JAIL

Mother and Two Sons, Feet Bare, Hair Long, Talk To Stars.

Police Charge Trio Mentally Affected by Addiction To Drugs.

DETROIT, June 13.—Nightly a mother and her two grown sons, all shoeless, the boys unshorn, tenants on the third floor of an apartment building at 3684 Trumbull avenue, staged a conversation with the planets, Mars, Neptune or Jupiter.

Occasionally in the daytime they held a talk-fest with the sun from their back porch, their arms waving, their hands gripping heated pieces of steel, tin or copper wire, while they shouted to old Sol: "Come down, be good to us," and the neighborhood perched itself on nearby barns and sheds enjoying the "show."

But the other tenants of the building didn't enjoy the midnight versions of the "show." It kept up for hours nightly for seven weeks, winding each time with a grand concert of battling and the breaking of furniture.

Policemen Stop It.
Early Tuesday it broke up with a half dozen patrolmen dragging the participants, Mrs. Anna Kearney, 50, and her sons, Stanley, 24, and Philip, 26, to jail, on a warrant charging them with disturbing the peace.

Wherefore, the tenants of the Trumbull apartments Tuesday lined up in recorder's court with stories to tell about the defendants, still shoeless, the men unshorn and coatless.

It seems the Kearneys, to quote them, once lived on Mars, got in bad with the powers up there, were liquidated by electricity and sent over to Neptune or some other planet. They got their bodies back, but not their manners, and were electrically liquidated again and banished over to the sun. There they proved bad tenants once more and got the gate in snappy fashion. Being incorrigibles, they finally were exiled to earth, which, it seems, is about the lowest place to be on.

Disatisfied Here.
Since then they've been terribly dissatisfied and went to get back. Any old planet will do.

Patrolmen showed the court a couple of bales of scrap tin, iron junk and copper wire, which they claim, the Kearneys burned to liquidate themselves back to another planet. These were heated on the kitchen gas range, the Kearneys inhaling the smoke "to warm their stomachs," and give them the power to communicate with the sun and other celestial bodies. While the other tenants testified it gave them bad moments, and nearly always drove them from the building.

The mother and the sons were ordered sent to the city psychiatrist for observation.

Another son, Dan, 14, was ordered sent to the juvenile detention home.

Police declare the trio mentally affected by addiction to drugs. None of them worked or ever left their home, neighbors say, refused to visit with the other tenants, and kept their men had to subdue all three to place them under arrest early Tuesday.

Raps Delorme Story As "Veritable Lie."

MONTREAL, June 13.—Mr. Justice Monet, sitting in the court of king's bench, today heatedly referred to an article published in La Presse embodying a statement to the effect that the alienists engaged to ascertain the mental fitness of Adelard Delorme to stand trial for the murder of his half-brother Raoul had decided the prisoner was insane, declaring the article to be a "veritable lie" and stating that unless La Presse publishes a retraction he has prepared, he would close the doors of the court to that paper's representatives for the rest of the Delorme trial.

To the jury of the court of king's bench his lordship said: "The article is absolutely false. You should conduct yourself as though you had never seen it."

Four Killed in Detroit Blast

Two Overcome in Battling Ammonia Fumes To Reach Dead in Tunnel.

Firemen Waist Deep in Water Recover Bodies of Three of Victims.

DETROIT, June 13.—Four men were killed and one injured by the explosion of a tank in the ammonia room of Parker, Webb & Co., Michigan avenue and Twentieth street, here today.

Two firemen were overcome and had to be revived by pulmotors in attempting to reach the bodies through rooms filled with ammonia fumes.

Fire followed the explosion, doing $15,000 damage to the ammonia engine and boiler rooms.

Trapped in Tunnel.
The four men, company officials say, lost their lives in rushing into the tunnel leading from the ammonia room, under the engine and boiler room, to the refrigerator plant on the upper floors, in a heroic effort to turn off the flow of ammonia along the tunnel pipes.

The bodies of three of the workmen were recovered by firemen, protected with gas masks, and with ropes about their bodies, who waded through the tunnel, waist deep with water.

Only one was positively identified, as that of Robert Birney, 41, married, 1749 Beecher street, a pickler.

The other bodies are believed to be those of Charles Newman, 29, single, 101 Montcalm street west, a steam-fitter, and of William Nagel, 34, married, 5553 Maxwell avenue.

One In Ruins.
Firemen late this afternoon were ordered by fire chiefs, at the suggestion of Dr. James E. Burgess, coroner, to halt the attempts to recover the fourth body, believed to be that of J. Gallanias, 35, married, 4572 Vancouver avenue.

Firemen found it wedged under a boiler, but it was bloated to three times its natural size by the fumes and could not be extricated. They emerged when the fumes began to penetrate their gas masks. Dr. Burgess said the danger was too great to attempt recovery until the fumes had become less dense.

The bodies of two men were recovered in a tunnel, underneath the engine room by firemen Martin LeBouef and George W. Delaney, who, wearing gas masks, had gone through a tunnel for 100 feet in water up to their waists. Both firemen were nearly overcome before they could fight their way back to safety. They were revived with pulmotors.

Ropes Save Lives.
Access to the tunnel was gained by breaking away the floor of the outside loading platform, outside the engine room building. Were it not for the ropes attached to their waists LeBouef and Delaney would have lost their lives in making their way back to the street.

Other firemen, also carrying gas masks and roped together, brought the bodies of the two workmen to the street. They were so badly swollen and the flesh so badly disintegrated from the action of the fumes that they were not recognized, and could be handled only with the greatest difficulty.

FIND LONG LOST TREASURE BOX

Needle of Magnetic Divining Rod Locates Gold.

Was Buried Beneath Waters of River Three Hundred Years Ago.

PENETANGUISHENE, June 13.—Buried beneath the waters of the River Wye for more than three hundred years, the long lost treasure box of the Jesuit Mission to Huronia, has been located at last by the needle of a magnetic divining rod. It lies beneath twenty feet of water and mud and divers are now starting to raise it.

Just what the box will show when it is brought to light, is at present a matter of conjecture, but the needle shows that it contains gold in great quantities.

This finding is verified by the records of the Society of Jesus, which shows that one of the seven big boxes brought into New France in the year 1650 and laboriously carried to Fort Sainte Marie by canoe, was lost and never recovered. An examination of the records indicates that the box contains the altar candelabra and the pay chest of the troops which accompanied the black-robed missionaries into the wilderness of Huronia. If this be so the value of the treasure will be enormous, as the vestments were the present of the court of France and were of solid gold. So far as is known to date, they were sent into the wilderness and disappeared.

Although tradition had it that the seventh box was buried beneath the waters of the Wye, no serious attempt was made to locate it until a few days ago. This search was stimulated by the recollection of a story told by a raftman some thirty years ago that he had touched the box when polling logs. The story recently was told Diver Captain Carson and he interested Ed. Jeffery, who had invented a peculiar magnetic divining rod which had given great satisfaction in showing ore and mineral deposits.

The two rows about the river, testing its depths until at length the needles of the divining rod showed strong reaction to the influence of gold. The place in the river was charted and subsequently the position and measurements of the chest were confirmed by steel rods. Its dimensions correspond exactly to the one lost by the Jesuit Fathers when Fort Sainte Marie was in building.

EXETER

EXETER, June 13.—Sunday marked a red letter day for the Salvation Army. Several of the brethren of London, accompanied by the silver band, came up Saturday and remained over for Sunday. Meetings were held in the parks, to which scores went from far and near. The rain cut short the meeting Sunday evening.

The numerous downpours of rain lately have left the gardens and fields in lakes of water. This supply of moisture should prove a boon to the farmers.

HOLD MEETING AT OWEN SOUND

Grand Lodge of Oddfellows
Put On Secret Work At Convention.

Attend Memorial Service Held in City Hall To Departed Brethren.

OWEN SOUND, June 13.—The day of the Grand Lodge convention of the Independent Order of Oddfellows in Ontario was largely occupied in secret lodge work by the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario and the annual cantonment of the Patriarchs Militant.

The program of the Rebekah assembly was in full swing today, close to 300 delegates arriving yesterday noon and last evening, and the civic reception to them was given last evening. Registration and billeting was completed yesterday. This morning the 32nd annual session of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario opened in the First Methodist Church. There were sessions in the morning and afternoon, to which only members of the order were admitted. At 8 o'clock tonight the delegates to the assembly gathered in the city hall, where a memorial service to those of the order who had died recently was held. The service was open to members of the order in the city. At 9 o'clock Viola Rebekah Lodge, No. 53, of Toronto conferred the Rebekah degree.

The annual cantonment of the Patriarchs Militant was established at the curling rink yesterday. Quite a large number of the members of the order are here to attend the camp. This morning the Patriarchs formed an escort to the officers of the Rebekah assembly, and at 9 o'clock the department council held its first session in a local lodge room. The sessions were continued throughout the afternoon, and tonight the Patriarchs Militant degree competition was held, and the first part of the officers' proficiency test was also held. The sessions of both divisions will be continued tomorrow.

There are from 250 to 300 Rebekahs in the city. About 300 Oddfellows are expected tonight, and from 500 to 600 delegates should arrive tomorrow at noon.

GIVE GOOD TIME TO INV ALID SOLDIERS

Ninety patients at Westminster Hospital were treated to a real Kiwanis time Tuesday night, when they were given a motor ride in 26 automobiles provided by Kiwanis Club members, landing eventually at the fruit farm of Ernest Moore on the Springbank Hill, where light refreshments were provided. The boys had all the watermelons they could eat as well, and after a sing-song and general good time, were motored back to the hospital.

BANK SUES SIR HENRY PELLATT

TORONTO, June 13.—The Bank of Montreal is the plaintiff in a writ issued against Sir H. M. Pellatt, in a claim for $47,522.45 at Osgoode Hall. The claim is based on a demand note given the Merchants Bank, dated July 7, 1921, for $45,000, the balance being arrears in interest. The Bank of Montreal became possessor of the note owing to the failure of the Merchants Bank.

Climbing Higher Than Man Has Ever Gone Before Englishmen Near Goal

MT. EVEREST IN THE HIMALAYAS.

To reach the peak of Mount Everest has been man's ambition for many years. Three Englishmen, Mallory, Somerville and Norton, have gone 28,500 feet, farther than man has ever gone before, without artificial supply of oxygen. They are just 2,200 feet below the summit, ready to advance with tanked oxygen. This photo was taken as the expedition crossed the snow barren at Jelep, La., in Tibet.

LLOYD GEORGE IS AGAIN VICTOR

Maintains His Cabinet Secretariat by Vote of 205 to 111.

Majority Smaller Than Customary, However, Evokes Shouts of "Resign."

LONDON, Eng., June 13.—Premier Lloyd George successfully resisted another powerful attack in the House of Commons today, when a proposal to reduce the vote for the cost of his cabinet secretariat, was rejected by 205 to 111, amid scenes of excitement. The majority was considerably smaller than customary and caused shouts of "Resign."

The secretariat consists of the premier's private secretaries, with a large staff, costing about £23,000 per annum. It is an outgrowth of the war and in the opinion of the opposition parties is no longer needed, giving the premier too great an executive control, especially in the domain of foreign policy, besides destroying cabinet secrecy, as the members of the secretariat now attend cabinet meetings and take notes.

Mr. Asquith attacked the system mainly on this ground, inasmuch as it destroyed the confidential nature of cabinet councils.

J. Austen Chamberlain, defending the vote, said he had experience with both systems and greatly preferred the new one. He would not think of returning to the old unbusinesslike practice when the only record of cabinet business was a brief letter, perhaps, from the premier to the king.

Mr. Lloyd George, in discussing the subject, predicted that no responsible minister in the future would cast away this new machine. He denied that the secretariat exercised mysterious functions or usurped the functions of parliament, or enabled the prime minister to over-ride the parliament's decision.

The secretariat had nothing to do with politics; it had no control over foreign policy. He asserted that the world wanted new methods and ridiculed the idea that there should be a return to the old system, which had plunged the world into war.

Guns Boom While Third Session of Ontario 15th Parliament Ends

TORONTO, June 13.—The third session of the fifteenth parliament of Ontario was prorogued at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The house was far from full. The premier, the attorney-general, and others were absent; and the attendance of members was relatively scant.

But Hon. Manning Doherty was acting premier; the lieutenant-governor officiated in the usual way; the guns boomed in the park to the north of the buildings, and the legislators were at liberty to return to their farms, offices, etc.

Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt was escorted by a guard of honor from the Royal Canadian Regiment. Captain Skay, M.C., commanded the field artillery. Besides Mr. Doherty, the following ministers represented the government: Messrs. Nixon, Rolfe, Bowman and Mills.

Royal assent was given to a long list of bills, and the lieutenant-governor read the speech from the throne, which referred to the splendid crop reports from various parts of the province, and reviewed legislation enacted during the session.

Provincial Secretary Nixon moved the prorogation. And it was all over until next session.

Widows with families who could be placed in the country and in the smaller towns will be brought over to the number of about 2,500. The third class would consist of boys around 15 years of age.

WEAR-EVER
ALUMINUM
TRADE MARK
MADE IN CANADA

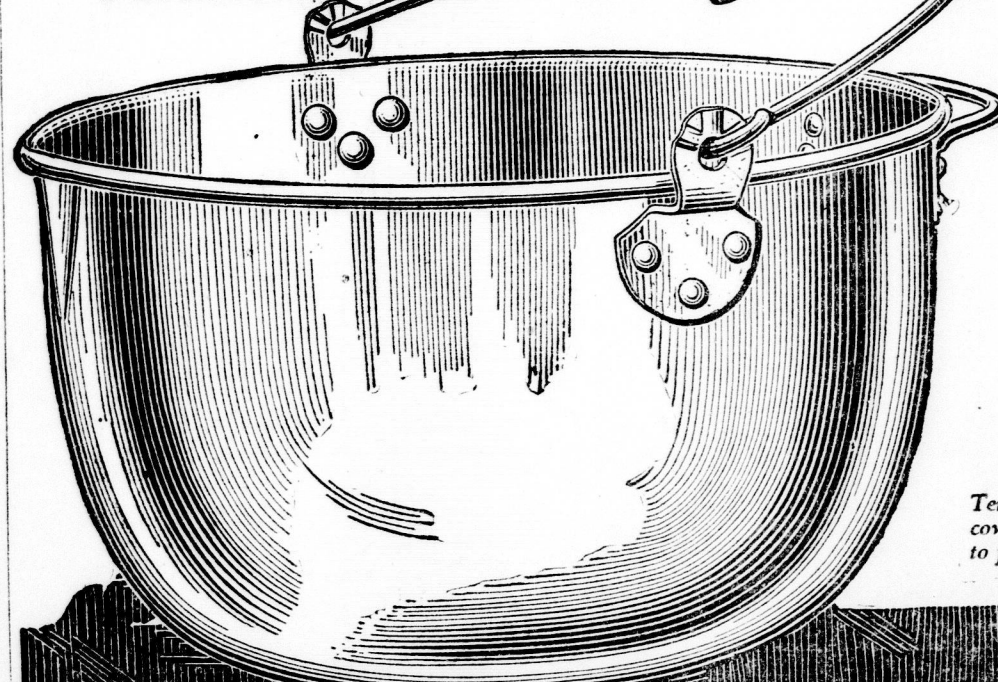

IN CANNING fruits or in making preserves, jams or jellies, the "Wear-Ever" Aluminum Preserving Kettle provides three distinct advantages for the housekeeper—it SAVES fuel, it insures better results and it SAVES the work of constant stirring.

The heat-conducting properties of the hard, dense, THICK, sheet aluminum used in "Wear-Ever" utensils are such that they carry the heat AWAY from the bottom and distribute it EVENLY throughout the utensil. This prevents the heat from collecting at the bottom of the utensil. Hence, with "Wear-Ever" utensils it is not necessary to stand over a hot stove and stir continually as is the case when thin aluminum utensils are used.

The "Wear-Ever" trade-mark on the bottom of aluminum ware is a GUARANTEE that the utensil is made of the hard, THICK, sheet "Wear-Ever" metal that insures years and years of service in saving fuel and in lightening the burden of kitchen work. There are thousands of "Wear-Ever" Preserving Kettles in use today that have been giving such service for 20 years! "Wear-Ever" stores have these kettles in stock now. LOCAL KIWANIS FETE ST. THOMAS

True Spirit of Club Prevails at Weekly Luncheon.

Witness London-Bay City Ball
Game at Tecumseh
Park.

The true spirit of Kiwanis prevailed at the weekly luncheon of the London Kiwanis Club Wednesday noon, when more than thirty members of the St. Thomas Club, including Mayor Frank Brinkman, were the guests of the local Kiwanians. After the luncheon, all assembled at the Tecumseh Park to witness the ball game between London and Bay City. Following that, a London Kiwanian team plays a representative nine from St. Thomas.

Charge of Program.

The visitors had entire charge of the program, President Reg. Kidner, of St. Thomas, acting as chairman, and Frank Holcom, Tom Keith and Doug McIntyre acting as hostesses. Pardon Love, a prominent fruit-grower of this city, was the special booster, and presented each member present with a dainty box of strawberries from Love's Farm. Attached to the handle of each basket was a tag tied with purple and gold ribbons, the club colors which served as the booster's luncheon speech. It read in part:

"Hello, Mr. Kiwanian.
"Kinda formal greeting, but you'll know us better soon.
"Us strawberries all grew up on 'Love's Farm,' Pardon Love's 32-acre fruit farm at Springbank Hill, 200 yards east of the reservoir. We will admit we're pretty good, but you ought to see his raspberries, cherries, grapes, plums and apples. Drop in and see them when you are motor-ing."

"The farm has 287 cherry, 283 plum, 234 pear and 147 apple trees on it, as well as six acres of bearing raspberries and 500 grape vines. Strawberries, black currants and blackberries are being brought up in the way they should go for next year."

"The speaker of the day, Rev. J. McGillivray, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, St. Thomas, addressed the gathering on "Short Cuts."
"We all love short cuts," he said, "we would sooner go through the hole in our neighbor's fence than to enter by the gate. There is more romance in beating a track through the bush than to take the road, and it isn't the lazy gratification of a labor-saving device, but the spirit of the explorer."

"Short Cuts Dangerous.
"But short cuts are dangerous, and sometimes very disastrous. It is far better to stick to the public highway, to the rules and roads, which represent the experience of thousands, than to blaze our own trails.
"The speaker then went on to show how all the modern inventions were the results of men seeking short cuts, how short cuts dominated politics, and how the wish of a short cut to world domination was the cause of the late war."

In concluding, Mr. McGillivray criticized the arm-chair critics and declared that Canada needs men and women who would get out and do things rather than those who take pleasure in telling how things ought to be done."

President Reg. Kidner of the St. Thomas club invited the London Kiwanians to come and visit the made-in-St. Thomas exhibition this week. Colin McKenzie, a visiting Kiwanian, entertained with many delightful solos.

Harry McCallum of the local club reminded the members of the Kiwanis convention, which begins in Toronto Monday, and urged that as many as possible should be there to represent the London club. Some delegates will motor and others will leave via C. P. R. Monday noon.

Among the visitors were Mayor Cameron Wilson, London, and the following St. Thomas Kiwanians: Reg. Kidner, Walter Edwards, Arnold Elliott, Stan. Oliver, Roger Black, Jack Handford, Doug. McLaughlin, Frank Brinkman, Doug. Gerrard, Bob Christie, George Small, Fred Sullivan, Hal Tansey, Chas. Montgomery, Walt. Montgomery, Charlie Butler, Murray McCulloch, Doug. McIntyre, Bill Agnew, Pete Birdsell, Tom Keith, Frank Holcom, Lorne Hart, Beck Taylor, Jack Dowder, Jim Stewart, Bill Owen, Howard Vair and Jim Mulligan.

Trustees find extra $72,000

Result of Debuture Duplication for New Victoria School.

As the result of duplication of debentures issued for the new Victoria school, the board of education possesses a credit of $72,000, which the members did not realize was at their disposal.

In 1920 debentures totalling $70,000 were issued for this school. Last year the board of education authorized a debenture issue of $188,726.50, which included the $70,000 not known, which the issue of 1920 covered it. It is not known what will be done with the extra $70,000, but City Treasurer Bell declares that it will offset any debt charges of the board of education.

"The board of education will not have to increase debt charges," said Mr. Bell. "The Dakota Street School which is proposed is in the estimates this year, and the $70,000 surplus will look after this now."

"I do not know whose blunder caused this $70,000 to be included in debentures twice," said the city treasurer.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 14.—A crowd estimated at 400 persons left here today in automobiles after announcing their intention of closing every mine in operation between Terre Haute and Brazil, ten miles east of here.

The first stop made was at the Hones mine, near Stanton, Ind., where two trucks loaded with coal were seized and the contents dumped into the river, according to reports received here.

Claims Church Report Biased

Dr. Nelson Demands Apology Because of Records of Presbyterian Witness.

Editor Confesses Inability To Get Copy of Unionist "Chained Lightning."

Winnipeg, Man., June 14.—(Canadian Press)—Charges of bias in reporting proceedings of last year's Presbyterian general assembly at Toronto were leveled against the Presbyterian witness at this morning's sederunt of the House of Commons by Dr. S. Banks Nelson of Hamilton, in the course of the general debate.

Dr. Nelson demanded an apology from the witness for a paragraph that appeared in the publication regarding the church union debate last year to the effect that Dr. Nelson spoke for 30 minutes, and was reproved by the moderator. His speech was against church union, and he claimed it should have been reported and not left to the judgment of the editor as to what was printable. On the other hand, the speech was not reported at all and only a reflecting remark published.

D. S. Carson, an associate editor of the witness, denied charges of bias in dealing with the church union question. It was not easy to report "chain lightning," he said. An accurate summary of Dr. Nelson's speech was not obtainable, he declared. The incident was closed.

S. & I. EMPLOYEES PICNIC AT PORT

Staff of London Departmental Store Hold Annual Outing At Lakeside.

Yellow ribbons, signifying the wearer to be a member of Smallman & Ingram's annual picnic party, will predominate at Port Stanley Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The store doors closed promptly at 1 o'clock and the picnicers, headed by the W. O. R. Band, which is to be in attendance at the outing, and with the Smallman & Ingram banner prominently displayed, marched to the L. and P. S. station, where a special train of six cars had been provided for the members of the firm and their families, about 400 in number.

Smallman & Ingram's store presented a gala aspect Wednesday morning, and even the casual observer might have noticed that there was something in the air.

Instead of the quietly efficient looking black dresses behind the counters there were all sorts of gay colors and pretty frocks, and in the dining-room, usually a white-clad dinner, the waitresses emerged dressed in the pretty muslins and gingham of picnic frocks. Business ceased at 12:30, and by 1 o'clock all the picnicers were well started on the day's enjoyment.

Immediately on arrival at Port Stanley the sporting events of the day will be run off on Invererie Heights. Novel features have been introduced in the program, for instance, a blind pig race and rum-runners race, so that it is anticipated that plenty of fun will result from the carrying out of sports.

In the afternoon there is to be a giant push ball game between men of the firm, also a girls' volleyball game.

The Irishmen will be the guests of Philip Pocock, honorary president of the society, at a banquet Monday night in the cafeteria. They will also travel to the lakeside by special train.

EXTENDS SEWER TAXES TEN YEARS

The fourth deputation comprised ratepayers of Florence street, who announced that although they desired a sewer on their street, they considered the estimated cost prohibitive. They pointed out that nearby streets obtained sewer facilities at a greatly decreased expenditure.

Quickened and Springs.

City Engineer Brazier explained that the presence of quicksand and springs in the Florence street subsoil will necessitate a cement bottom for the sewer, and for this reason the estimated cost is higher than usual. Unless the taxpayers are willing to pay the price, they must do without sewer accommodation.

What Dr. Nelson appeared with his forces, Chairman Ashton took him to task for statements made concerning the city council last week.

"I see by the papers that you said the city council put one over on you," commented Ald. Ashton. "This question had to come back to No. 2 committee again, and it went the same course as if you had been here."

Mr. Lance stated that Ald. Watkinson informed him that the council meeting of last week was to be postponed, and consequently his deputation did not appear.

"When the council met, the council had concluded that the council had 'put one over on them.' After this matter was straightened out to the satisfaction of all parties, Mr. Lance pointed out that both sewers and the Richmond street north pavement had been put down without consulting the ratepayers."

He drew the attention of the committee to the fact that the sewers served vacant lots and very few residences.

Take Care of Motorists.

"Because you wanted to lay a pavement to take care of motorists of London that do not live in the blocks of pavement, a comfort station that runs 365 days in the year, in order to take care of three houses," Mr. Lance alleged. "All the rest is vacant property."

"Because the pavement was put down it has been impossible to sell property," he continued. "When the people know the taxes they do not want the property at all," declared Mrs. L. McDougall, one of the members of the deputation, in answer to a query from the mayor.

"With all the sins this year's council has committed you can't blame us," replied Mayor Wilson. "William Andrews stated that in one year his taxes have jumped from $375 to $602.10."

"Previous to that I sold 150 feet of land," he said. "If I owned that land now, where under the sun would my taxes soar to? My case is similar to the others."

"While I am in sympathy with these people, I do not think it is fair to saddle a debt on the city for thirty years," said Mayor Wilson. "The only reason we should grant their request is because we were foolish enough to do it for others. It is not a sound business proposition."

Opposed to Principle.

"In the first place, that sewer should not have gone down," declared Ald. Douglass. "I am opposed to the principle. This is not a precedent."

"It will be just the same thing," replied the mayor. "There is $500,000 in sewers coming up this year."

"That will be next year, and we won't be here," interrupted Ald. Ashton. "No, thank goodness for that," murmured the mayor.

No action was taken on the Motor Club request that Queen's avenue be widened from Richmond to Wellington street, as a petition of ratepayers has been prepared against such an improvement. There are also 1,600 ratepayers in the yards. Trade shows more activity than yesterday, with good to choice stock being sold. Choice loads are bringing $8.75 per cow. Good butchers choice, $8.50 per cow. Good butchers choice, $8.50 per cow. Good butchers choice, $8.50 per cow.

ROME SILENT ON FRENCH DISPUTE

Rome, June 14.—The Vatican authorities are maintaining strict reserve regarding recent reports of strained relations between France and the Holy See. It was said yesterday that the Holy See has not received any communication from the French Government, but that it had been favorably impressed with the declarations of M. Poincare, the French premier, in which he affirmed that the published reports of tension between France and the Vatican were erroneous.

CORONER DECIDES DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Will Not Hold Inquest Into Brantford Crossing Fatality.

Special to London Advertiser.
BRANTFORD, June 13.—It was announced today by Coroner C. C. Fissette that an inquest would not be necessary into the death of Samuel B. Cox, aged Brantfordite, who died yesterday as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Mr. Cox was struck by a machine driven by Allan Varey, Leonard street, late Sunday night. He was rushed to the hospital, where he later passed away.

Will Be No Inquest.

It is understood that Mr. Cox, who did not hear well, stepped off the curb at the corner of Richmond street and Brant avenue late in the evening, at a time when he did not see Mr. Varey's car approaching. The motorist tried to stop his car, but the aged man was run down and thrown on the pavement. He suffered internal injuries as well as a severe shock. Mr. Varey took Mr. Cox to the hospital and notified the police. Asked last night concerning an inquest, the coroner stated that he did not think one was necessary, as Mr. Cox's death was purely accidental. He attached no blame on Mr. Varey.

Mr. Cox lived at 158 Darling street with his sister, Mrs. Lawrence, from whose residence the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon to Mount Hope Cemetery.

DEFERS DECISION IN ELECTION CASE

OTTAWA, June 13.—(By Canadian Press).—Concluding argument was heard by the supreme court of Canada today in the controverted election case of Calgary West. The case is an appeal by Hon. R. B. Bennett, claiming that he is entitled to represent Calgary West in the Dominion Parliament.

On election day the returning officer declared Mr. Bennett elected with a majority of six votes, but this was changed on recount to a majority of sixteen for Mr. Shaw, and on the petition to judges to a majority of seventeen for Mr. Shaw. The supreme court reserved judgment.

Report Meighen May Quit Leadership For Rail Job

Special to London Advertiser.
HOUSE OF COMMONS, June 13.—Persistent rumors are afloat in the parliament buildings that the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen has been offered the position of solicitor for the Canadian Pacific Railway, and that he probably will resign the leadership of the Conservative party at the end of the present session.

Interviewed by The Advertiser today Mr. Meighen would neither deny nor confirm the rumor. He stated that he did not wish to be quoted either way on the matter. Such stories, he said, made him tired, something of the kind was always being said.

RAISE $46,760 IN WELFARE DRIVE

Canvassers Report Excellent Success On First Day of Campaign.

Speakers At Dinner Predict Objective Will Be Reached.

The sum of $46,760 has been subscribed towards the $125,000 objective of the United Welfare Fund Association of London, on the first day of the campaign. This was the cheerful news announced by A. E. Silverwood, general campaign manager, at the complimentary dinner tendered by Philip Pocock to the workers in the Tecumseh Hotel, Tuesday night.

The total of $46,760 has been collected by the following teams: Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Salvation Army teams, $45,322; Ad Club, K. of C. and Life Underwriters, 1,438.

$46,760

District No. 1, three teams headed by R. H. Dowler, lead in the percentage contest, having secured 43 per cent of their objective.

Get Away To Good Start.

Districts No. 3 and 4, the former comprised of three Kiwanis teams under Arthur Ford, and the latter three Rotary teams under Frank Harty, tied with 40 per cent. The two Lions and one Salvation Army teams getting 22 per cent of their objective. "We are away to a good start," declared Mr. Silverwood. The teams have done well. Let us go to it tomorrow determined to bring in an equal amount, if not more.

W. R. Vandell, reporting for the work being done in the larger factories, stated that there was better organization than ever before. There was a general recognition of the fact that the welfare fund had made good, and the employees wanted a share in it in a reasonable way.

George Clark, on behalf of the Advertising Club, and E. C. Killingsworth reported excellent progress.

Congratulates Workers.

George M. Reid, president of the association, congratulated the workers on their wonderful work of the day, and thanked them for their unselfishness in giving up their time for the work. He had been told by a number of canvassers that they had been received courteously wherever they went. A great many citizens wanted to get off as cheaply as possible, but as a rule, the people were beginning to realize what a splendid thing the welfare organization was.

Dr. Horace A. Brittain of the Citizens' Research Institute, Toronto, told of the work done in Cincinnati. "I am here not because you need me, but because I am interested in co-operative welfare work, and the City of London. What co-operation will do in financing it will do in anything else. We have been suffering from lack of determination in co-operation. "I think that the fact you have raised over 40 per cent of your objective on the first day shows that you don't need any more enthusiasm."

Dr. Brittain spoke of the importance of getting the small subscriptions, because members were just as important as dollars.

Pay Tribute to Organization.

"Every man who has a job and is getting a living wage should be a member, and when we pay that we will have a real welfare fund, whether the subscription is 50 cents or $500," said Dr. Brittain.

"It is just as much our duty as it is to pay taxes. Why shouldn't it be true that these people should all give? I would be very sorry if the time should come when I don't have to do something for my fellowmen." The speaker paid a tribute to the publicity organization, stating it was a wise thing to tell the people all about the organizations that were being cared for in the campaign, as it undoubtedly increased the number of givers.

The main thing after raising money co-operatively was to spend it co-operatively. Dr. Brittain cited instances where vast sums have been saved in Toronto by the central council, and a price-getting committee, which was able to buy such supplies as coal and cement for all the institutions at a great saving in price.

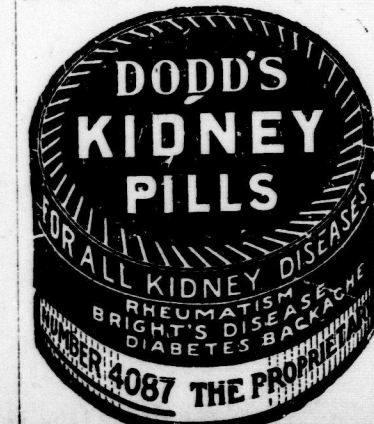

A welfare association was a unifying force in city life, the speaker asserted, although Canadian cities did not need this force as much as those in the United States.

Appeals for Co-operation.

"The real spirit behind it all is a belief in the community," declared Dr. Brittain.

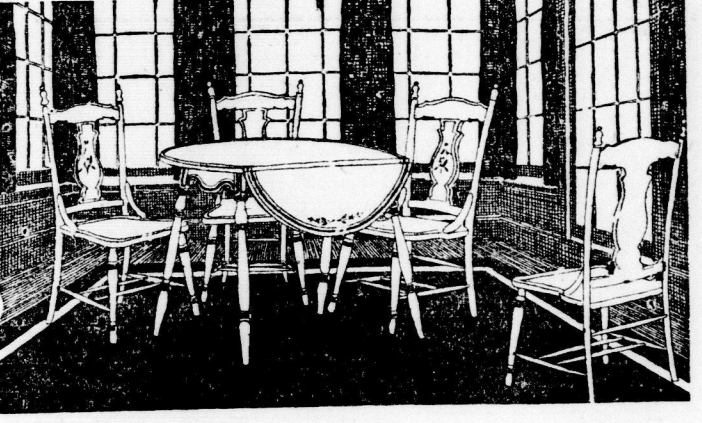

Rev. Father Brennan in a spirited address, told the workers how necessary it was to bring the campaign to a successful conclusion. He spoke of the biblical days, in which it was contended that reapers in the fields were told not to go back for a sheaf that had been missed, but to leave it for the poor and needy.

The field of corn today was the safety deposit box in a vault. The sheaf of grain was the sheaf of victory bonds and the sickle a pair of scissors to clip the coupons. "You are the gleaners for the needy," Father Brennan declared. "The poor have a right and claim."

Auctions Watermelon.

A huge watermelon auctioned off in a professional manner by Mr. Silverwood, was bid in by Arthur White for $14, who immediately put it up for sale again. This time it went to Frank Ashplant for $10, who handed it over to the host of the evening for the kiddies in the north end of the city.

Lt.-Col. C. M. R. Graham moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Pocock, stating that half a dozen men like him would make a city.

Mr. Pocock would make a city. The motion was seconded by Frank Ashplant, three hearty cheers being given for Mr. Pocock.

Following are some of the larger subscriptions secured yesterday. It is the intention of the association to acknowledge in the press each and every subscription to the welfare fund this year. Owing, however, to the large number of subscriptions received by the canvassers yesterday, it was not possible to prepare the list in time for the morning edition of the local newspapers. A complete list will be published as quickly as it can be prepared by the audit committee.
