FIRST DAY. Monday, Oct. 23. Before the Hon. Mr. Justice Wilson. Court opened at 4 p. m., by proclama-ion. The following gentlemen were called on THE GRAND JURY : John Esson, foreman, A. McD. Allan, James Buchanan, Thos Beattie, Samuel Carnochan, Jacob Eilber, Thos. Farrow, Francis Morris, Hugh McQuarrie, Duncan McEwan, John McKay, Edward O'Connor, Thos. Pentland, Thos. Ryan, Alexander Stirling, Robt. Toung, Thomas Weatherald, William Weir,

Thomas Weatherald, William James Smaill, William Aldridge. The Grand Jury having been sworn and proclamation made, his Lordship then addressed them as follows:

There were five or six cases on the calendar to be brought before the grand jury, but he was not aware that the pre sented any peculiar features for consideration. There were two cases of forgery. Forgery consists in the making of fraudulent paper with the intention of defrauding. Sometimes the entire word-ing of the paper was made, and at other times only a part was fraudulently changed. If the grand jury discovered the writing to be false, the next thing for them to do would be to determine the intent. Two cases of perjury would also come before the grand jury for consideration. It was alleged that election oaths had been unlawfully taken by two persons during the recent contest in persons during the recent contest in West Huron. Perjury was the taking of a false oath in a judicial character. A false affidavit for registration purposes, or a false oath at an electoral pollingbooth was also perjury. Two things to consider in a perjury case were: (1.) was a false oath taken? (2.) Had the person taking the false oath a knowledge of its being false? If these were clearly shown then the offence of perjury had been committed. There was a case of common, and a probability that a case of aggravated assault would also come before them for consideration. After they had performed the duties devolving upon them and visited the gaol, he would be pleased to discharge them so

Mr. Thos. Hodgins, Q. C., asked for a bench warrant against prisoners in the prisoners in the Queen v. Wm. and Jas. Bone, and his Lordship ordered it to box he had given his evidence in an honest, straight-forward manner; even voting, and has also declared that every officer refusing to receive a v te or refusing to swear a voter is guilty of an indictable offence. Some have called the fanchise a trust, and so it is. When a man comes to yote he does not yote for man comes to vote he does not vete for himself, but for his neighbors and his country. Sometimes an election has country. Sometimes an election has turned on one vote, and if that vote was fraudulent, a great wrong might be done; governments have been defeated. od, and governments have been kept in office by one vote. So a single vote may to endeavor so far as in him lay to pre-office by one vote. So a single vote may change the policy of a nation. The law shows who shall have the franchise, and then says "and no others." It does not matter where an "owner" resides. But if he sells his property before the election, and leaves the electoral district, he has no right to vote. He is simply a stranger, who has no right to vote. It is a misdemeanor, whether he be sworn or not. The learned counsel then exat the root of one of our most satisfied the prisoner's case, showing that he had been a tenant who left the district before the election, and was virtually at the root of one of our most satisfied the pure exercise of the franchise. At one election in Quebec there had been hundreds, perhaps a thousand frauds perpetrated, and in an American ally a stranger. He had been warned case pages of a directory from an out-by soms, but he went to the poll, and side place had been entered on the poll by soms, but he went to the poll, and despite the challenge of the scrutineer he took the oath and voted. They had to decide upon the following points: (1) Was the oath administered? (2) Was he the tenant of property? (3) If not a tenhe tenant of property? (3) If not a tenhe administer of the riding of the dear adoubt regarding these points.

A few days since the editor of London Advertiser sent out a circular letter to a number of men prominent in various ways in the province. The letter asked for a brief reply to the three following questions :

1. Do you approve, on the whole, of the Crooks License Act, as a measure for the regulation of the liquor traffic?

2. Are there any amendments you would desire to recommend?

3. Do you desire to see the issuin public licenses placed in the hands of the municipal councils?

So far as yet received, all the answers are strongly favorable to the Act. The fellowing are fair specimens :-

3. I would very much regret to see the issuing of licenses again placed in the hands of municipal councils. The history of the past very clearly shows that local councils have not moral strength sufficient to use such a power aright. But the Crooks Act does not go far enough. Crime should be prohibited, not regulated.

MR. MARK H. IRISH, ROSSIN HOUSE, TOR-1. I believe the Crooks' License Act

It is a mistake to cut the nails short at It is a mistake to cut the nails short at the sere corners; if the nail is long, cut the upper edge straight across, or in a crescent shape, the crescent in the center, leaving the corners untouched. Then acrape the middle of the nail, for its whole length, quite thin. The scraping may be done with a knife, but much more readily by the use of a bit of freshly broken window glass: The centre of the nail should be made so thin that a slight pressure upon the corners will slight pressure upon the corners will bend it. In some cases it may be well bend it. In some cases it may be well to put a little lint or cotton under the coners of the nail, to aid in the bending. KEEPING EGGS. - Perhaps more than the usual number of inquiries as to pre-serving eggs until the time of high prices, serving eggs until the time of mign prices, has come to us this season. This is probably in part due to the great pretentions of the "Ozone" chaps, who claim that eggs may be preserved very cheaply by their process. As this so-called "Ozone" is nothing but Sulphurous Acid, reduced by the hypring of sulphur. produced by the burning of sulphur, while it may preserve the eggs, we do not believe that it can be used without imparting to them an unpleasant flavor. All the methods for preserving eggs now in use depend upon the fact that the shell is porous, and if these pores can be so closed as to prevent the access of air, she centents of the shell will remain good. for a long time. There are two principle methods. One is, to smear the surface of the eggs with something that will close the pores, and then pack them in some material that will practically exclude the air. The eggs are smeared with lard, coated with Linseed or Cottonseed Oil, or with Shellac Varnish, and are afterwards packed in bran, dry sand, or other similar material. There methods will answer for home use, but whatever may be the coating material, the surface of the shells will have an unnatural appearance, which will prevent their ready sale in the markets. So far as we are aware the only practical method to preserve eggs to be sold, is to place them in Milk eggs to be of Lime. Lime is slacked and prepared as for white-wash and the eggs are cover-ed with and kept in this, until wanted for market. The eggs according to the extent of the operations, are placed in barrels or in brick vats built for the purpose

A False Issue.

Some of the Conservative papers of the other provinces do not approve of the N. P being made one of the issues in the Ontario elections. They say that it would be an imprudent step on the part of the Conservatives to risk the prestige of the N. P. in a contest in which it is in 2. I am not prepared at present to no sense a legitimate issue and in which it may suffer from a defeat of the Oppostion, on account of the weakness of those who compose it. There is a good deal of force in the argument, for as a matter of fact there is no more connection between the Ontario Legislature and It becomes our painful duty to record the death of John Ard, eldest son of Mr. Plumb's poetry and the war in Egypt. The Conservatives must expect that if they go dragging the N. P. all over the which took place on Monday morning at 3 o'clock. He was a young man of 22 years of age, and usually possessed of good health, and was attending the threshing machine all was tending the threshing machine all was tending the triumph of the year preceding. It is wall to the conservative should be sure to step on it. We all saw the result of the electrons for the Local Legislature in 1879, coming so soon after the Conservative threshing machine all was attending the triumph of the year preceding. It is wall the N. P. than there is between Mr. coming so soon after the Conservative triumph of the year preceding. It is well politics if you are sure of winning; but how will it be if you do not win? The logical argument, although not the truth, will be that Ontario has repudiated the N. P.-[Toronto Telegram.

Tory Morality. While the Tory organs blame the Mowat Government for disposing of the timber limits of this Province to the best atvantage, they have not a word to say in con-demnation of Sir John boldly in seizing and selling the timber lands in the disputed territory, and quietly putting in the Dominion treasury the money that of right belongs to Ontario. The Tory theory it will be gathered from this, is that it is wrong to sell timber limits unless you first steal them. —(Advertiser.

THE FIRE FIEND. A Reign of Terror in the Town ship of McKillop.

For several weeks the farmers of Me-Killop have been kept in constant dread of the fire fiend. Night after night watch is kept, nobody knowing whose turn might come next. The first fire was that of Mr. Thos. Govenlock, and as seen coming towards Seaforth by parties prit was found out we would rather be running to the fire, but no notice was in Arabi Pasha's sandals than in the taken of the person at the time. This villian's cotton socks. (Seaforth San. is supposed to have been the incendiary who adopted the attire to escape detection. A few evenings afterwards a man wearing a slouched hat jumped over the fence on the 7th con. and asked Mrs. E. Sparling, who was proceeding home, whether or not "did Mr. Govenlock keep a number of dogs." Mrs. S. re-plied. "she did not know." The stranger then made the remark, "I didn't make any difference." The man was a perfect stranger and looked as if he would cut a throat or burn a barn with out compunction. Third fire, however, being on the farm of Mr. John Cannon-who was not believed to have an enemy in the whole country, this view of personal spite was entirely upset. When the attempt to fire the barn of Mr. Chas. Dulmage took place, and when it was heard that he was twice shot at while endeavoring to extinguish the fire set at his own barn, everybody was driven to their wits end. What could it mean? What reason could any person advance as to the cause of the wholesale incendiarism ? Then came Mr. Samuel Scarlett's fire about half past seven o'clock on a dark night, like all the rest, eyidently the work of an incendiary. Scarlett's dog pursued the perpetrator to the woods on the back part of the farm, barking all the time. So intent, however, were all hands to extinguish the fire that they did not follow the dog or the wretch might have been captured. He escaped in the darkness and may yet perpetrate another eutrage. The last phase these nefarious proceedings have reached is the posting of notices and the writing of letters, indicating the persons who are to be the next aufferers. John which we give below :-McKillop, Oct. 11, 1882.

I suppose you fellows will be thinking this a lot of nonsense, but it is in earnest, sure as day. You and John Brown est, sure as day. You and John Brown are buseying yourselves a little too much in this fire affare. Let me tell you to look to yourselves and keep in respect. We want you to make you, George Nesbit, to be our tool as you think yourself pretty smart. We want you to come to terms with us and meet us at Thomas night next. If not punctual another time will be appointed. Dulmage is a sharp case. We are satisfied with him now. His and I nearly gave gave up the ghost of a night, but my rubber shirt saved my skin. There are rewards and detectives on the alert let them have Govenlock's burnt barns on Sunday detectives on the alert—let them hunt. There are some sniffeys in that fire company, let them cry fire.

Brown and George Nesbitt have been so warned as may be seen by the letters taken from the gate of Chas. Dulmage,

To George Nessir,

To Chas. Dulmage,
Lot 27, con. 6, McKillop.
You are too much for us that time. You are too much for us that time. We had it pretty hot for a time. Thanks to my rubber shirt I felt the shot. I want you to warn the head officers of the Fire Insurance Company of McKillop to do square with these fires that are occurring in this locality, or there will be hot times yet] before yery long. We do not want this to be trifled with. We do not scare at rewards or detactives they

Mr. James Hays, Reeve of McKillop, also received a letter, asking him to meet the writer at McGonigle's hotel to let some jobs, but as he had no such jobs to let be a letter and be letter and be letter for the Teeth and Breath. A man asked for Mr. Hays that evening at the hotel, but in this instance again he was not identified.

Mr. Nesbit did not go to the place of meeting referred to in the letter abeve, but Mr. McDowell volunteered to go on condition that his friends would form a circle around him at a distance and keep their open so that no intruder could reach hun unobserved. No stranger came, but fire signals, supposed to have been made with dark lanterm, were repeatedly observed near the awamp. The watches remained until three o'clock on [2] Hays that evening at the hotel, but in

Monday morning and then returned to their homes. That all these fires are the work of an incenduary cannot be doubted. In the case of the Cannon fire the fiend was tracked through a plowed to the foot of a tree where he pulled on his boots. It was observed by the foot prints in the ploughed field that he had cotton socks on his feet and the great toe of one of his feet protruded through the sock. He had made good time in running over the field in question, springing five feet at a time. The monster in he was gentleman engaged in extensive question has also proved himself to be ms, it was thought a good marksman, as he sent a bullet that he might have have some personal whizzing past Dulmage's ear while Dulenemy who was revenging himself in this diabolical manner. Kincardine Town through the exertions or a few good and true men has again the privilege of ranking as a Reform Municipality. The able and logical speech of the Hon. Edward Blake has had quite a different effect than the Mail anticipated. Will it give him any credit?

seting of the board of Directors was held in the grand jury room last Saturday. The complaint against Mr. John Salkeld was taken up, and that gentleman offered the explanation as given in our last issue, namely, that one of his children had assisted in catching the ducks from a flock, and in the hurry of doing so, Mr. Salkeld had not noticed that both were drakes until the judges at the show called his attention to it.

J. O. Stewart moved, seconded by S. Andrewt, that the board accept of the explanation given, and suspend the enreement of rule 6 in this case. John Washington, seconded by Robert Medd, moved in ammendment, that the Board do not consider Mr. Salkeld's explanation satisfactory, and after a long discussion the amendment was carried by 9 to 5.

E. Butts showed a two-year-old filly or which he was awarded first prize, but afterwards he entered the same animal with another and was about to exhibit them as a team, when the filly being recognised he was ordered to take both from the ring. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sove Throat, Bromentits, influenza, Clergyman's Bore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of Aven's Cherry Forcell are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Cossumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trified with, become deeply seated or incursible. Use Aven's Cherry Perconal, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

THAT PROTEST.

As we anticipated the course of the petition against the return of Mr. Cameron, M. P. for West Huron, has been stayed in court, owing to want of jurisdiction. This practically settles the question so far as West Huron is con cerned. Of course the usual loud talk about appealing to a higher court is indulged in by a few of the less sensible agitators, but the most knowing members of the Lib.-Con. party in this section are heartily tired of the farce, and are quite willing to let the curtain drop on the absurd scene.

What has come over the Tory organs that they don't bristle with the old stereotype, "Mowat must go," any more.

THE MARMION MATTER.

Why the Archbishop Remonstrated—Catholics and Morals—The "Mail" and its Abuse of Archbishop Lynch Set Forth.

Archbishop Lynch, in his discoura sterday morning from the pulpit at Michael's cathedral, said that he had ast remark to make on the Marmion question. On his return from Route le received many letters concerning the propriety of placing Marmion on the list for examination in high schools and collegiate institutes Knowing that we had two-thirds Catholic children frequential of the collegiate in the coll ing the common and high schools, monstated, as was his duty, he said, to the minister of education. THE CATHOLICS MUST BE ONE. They may conscientiously differ in polities. We may add, said the archbishop, that many Protestants of talent, education and high morality, think with us that Marmion should not be forced on the Catholics attending the high schools. Witness the eight members of the Toron-to university senate who voted to have the book removed, as well as respectable writers in the newspapers, who wish to treat Catholics as they would wish to be treated themselves. It is needless to emark that the true Catholics will take their ideas of morality from their bishops and priests rather than from

BLAKE AND TEMPERANCE A Good Opinion of the Crooks Liquor Ac

In Mr. Blake's speech at Kincardine we find some pregnant remarks with respect to the Crooks act and the temperance question. The following synopsis of his speech on this subject, taken from the London Advertiser, is worth giving and worth remembering: "He touched, he said, for the first time in his life, on the temperance question, and if, as he believed, the Crooks act had a most salutary effect on the ple, it was a most mischievous and cen surable proceeding to attack this measure. He had little faith in the faith of a sudden enactment of prohibitory legislation. He was a total abstainer, had been so for eight more. the intemperance abroad in the country upon the moderate drinkers, and in recognition of this fact he had become a total abstainer. He, however, was not in favor of making law faster than public licensed victuallers desired a change. He did not think the municipal councils desired a change. He knew this invidi-ous duty of granting licenses was one of the gravest perplexities with which mu-nicipal councila, under the old condition of things, had to deal. He did not blame his opponents for their jealousy of centralization. He was jealons of centralization himself, but wherein was the virtue of this charge of centralization? Had not the Conservatives a fair proportion of licenses? Surely so.
Why, they had more than two to one.
In his own riding, West Durham, they had 16 to 4, in Kincardine they had 6 Meredith had his tactics on this point. He did allege the Conservatives did not receive a legitimate proportion of licenses. Now, he says they give them licenses to them under their thumb. Why, we not the ballot, cannot a man-vote howsoever he pleases, in utter and absohowsoever he pleases, in utter and absolute secrecy, and as to the charge of intelligent Scotchman would feel his na-

"Vindictive Persecution." An exuberant politician of the Grit persuasion has been found guilty at the Norfolk assizes of bribery during the last general election. Two distinot charges against him have been proven. His mistaken labors on behalf of "Ontario, Ontario" will cost him $490.—[Mail.

And do any Reform papers squeal and say that "it is a vindictive prosecution."
Not much. But because Mr. Cameron is punishing "exuberant politicians of the Conservative persuasion" all sorts of epithets are applied to him.—[New Era.

A Bad Blunder.

The worst blunder of the Conservatives was the proposition to reverse the legislation of the Mowat Government on the question of licenses, and to give the control of the liquor traffic once more to the municipalities. By doing so they aroused the moral sensibilities of the whole country, and did not even secure

PARNELL IN TROUBLE. Why the Land League was Clo ed-Opin

Dub'in, Oct. 21.—There is great excitement here to day over a letter in the Irish T mes positively accusing the Parnell parliamentary party with using without warrant £98,000 of the land league funds for their own transfer. funds for their own private purposes, and circumstantially, alleging that Parnell and his party by collusion with the managers of the league, attempted to hush up the matter by dissolving the league without accounting for the funds. OPINIONS OF THE DUBLIN PRESS.

The Irish Times says the act is one of the greatest pieces of political villainy ever perpetrated in modern times, and urges the Irish people to press for the accounting of the land league funds. The Express states that no explanations or answers have been made by Parnell or his colleagues to these accusations although every effort has been made by friends to secure a statement from them. The Express says the impression made upon the people by the charges and by the absence of denials is very bad, and growing hourly worse. The friends of the people are becoming thoroughly aroused against Parnell and his party, and unless some reaction is at once seand unless some reaction is at once secured the downfall of Parnell and the parliamentary party of Ireland is inevita

THE ACCUSING LETTER CONSIDERED. LONDON, Oct. 22. - Justin McCarthy and Michael Davitt, trustees of the laud eague fund, and McCarthy, jr., who is his father's secretary, have been interviewed regarding the alleged misappropriation of the fund. They declare from personal knowledge that the allegations are utterly unfounded and is a rehash of charges which have been circulating charges which have been circulating among the landlord party ever since the land league was organized. All three point to the fact that the nom de dume, "One who Knows," by which the communication making allegations is signed, is one used by Arnold Forster in a pamble to the league, which like phlet attack on the league, which like this was first sent to the organs in Ireland favorable to landlordism. Mr. Davitt scouts the charges as false and says Egan did not receive anything from the ladies' league. Every sixpence collected by the ladies was expended by them and they moreover drew on Egan for £50,000. The ladies, league now is preparing a balance sheet entirely independent of Egan, which will demonstrate these facts. When Egan and Davitt met Parnell on his liberation, they had a con-versation in which Parnell spoke of the When Egan and Davitt met ladies' league as being somewhat profuse in their expenditure. Relative to the charge in the letter that Parnell stated at a meeting that the expenses of the organization never should have exceeded £150 a week, neither Mr. McCarthy nor Mr. Davitt remember such an utterance by Mr. Parnell. Davitt declares that on account of the great activity of the league the expenses must have been frequently doubled at all points. He says the publication of the letter in the Irish Times has made no stir in Ireland

On the evening of Wednesday after the returns brought in showed Mr. O'Con nor to be ahead by at least 500, a large crowd gathered at the Queen's Hotel Markel Square, and speeches were delivered by Mr. H. Strange as it may seem, it is, nevertheless, a fact that animals which are withdrawn from the ring at a certain price are bought up before they leave the ground, even at higher figures. So that one of the greatest advantages of this annual gathering is the bringing of buyers and sellers together, and the opportunity which it affords purchasers of comparing the stock of different breeders. In this way, probably, fully as much good is excomplished to both buyer and breeder as is done by the actual cales made under the auctioneer's hammer, although the one seems to be a necessary accompaniment of the other. Godfrey Stiehlpen sat at his table in the sanctum of the Morning Tamboree his idle pencil in his listless figers, and his aching head resting upon one weary hand. The solitary bell in a distant steeple had just tolled 1:00 A. M. There was a famine of copy on the hook, and the echoes of the clamors of inappeas able compositors came nibbling in ghostly cadences down the speaking-tube, and once the sarcastic tones of the forman's voice penetrated the dismal sanctum, conveying to Mr. Stichlpen the entirely superfluous information that this "was not an afternoon paper," and furthermore that he "would like to go to press before the men went to dinner." Stiehlpen sighed heavily, and in an abstracted manner turned over the closely written pages of his note-book.

For twenty-two years he had sat at that table and praised everything that ever came within fifty miles of Shawneetown. Horses, bird-dogs, new houses, ministrel troupes, new goods, lectures, eminent citizens, big radishes, tall corn, long jumps, speeches, brass bands, imported cows, fine waltzers, new roadwagons, fancy gates, concerts, fairs, hops, and debating societies. He had noted the uprising of the eminent citizen, and observed his lying down; he watched his coming and going, and to-night he was weary. He had written up two speeches, a social hop, a nine hundred-dollar horse, an imported pig, a new fence, a big egg, a seventeen-pound tumor, a lecture, and here was a concert to be written up. He knew what a delicate matter this was. He knew that woe waited upon his footsteps if he failed to notice each performer at length and in perfect detail. Wrath and denunciations hovered above his head, ready to fall in one destroying deluge if he said anybody sang and played better than anybody else. How could he meet the father of the young lady who wore the most expensive dress on the stage, and yet got a notice four lines shorter than the shoemaker's daughter who had nothing in the world but her voice to commend her at all to public notice? How could he look Miss Uppercea in the face when in his description of her exquisite rendition of "Monastery Bells" he forgot, or perhaps with malice aforethought intentionally omitted, to mention the cost of sadly familiar to our suffering people, the diamonds? He sighed as he remembered how often he had been through all this, and here it was one o'clock in the morning, his hand was tired and his head ached, and the notes of his one hundred and eleventh concert were still echoing in his own transcription.

He rose, and dragged from its dusty shelf an old bound volume of the Tamboree, looked over some of his old reand names, and using them over, to save before. But his head was heavy, and ning. We are pained to notice that his the concert of the previous evening dif- habit of playing on the edge of the piane terprising house traded off the old dulcilike a walking match; the sarcastic uttera long waving line, two dots, and a dash was "commencement," "communion," "incineration," or "emancipation." Mr. Stiehlpen laughed hoarsely as he heard the gream. "Howl for copy, will you?" he chuckled defiantly. "I'll give you copy that will make your hearts ache."

And he wrote more wildly than ever, and only said, "Ha, ha!" when word came that the distracted proof-reader in the next room had hanged himself.

Next morning, while Godfrey Stiehlpen slept, the Tamboree was opened at a thousand happy breakfast table, and joy was turned into mourning as, acmid weeping and wailling and gnashing of teeth, the first thing the subscribers read was as follows : A PHANTOM Hoss. - Ben Harrigan came all the way to our office last evening to tell us that he had just received an imported invertebrate thorobred from England, a magnificent stepper, with a record of 2:25, that cost him nine hunnred dollars. Warnock, at whose stables this matchless wonder is housed, informs us that it is a Maxall County horse, sevsnteen years old, and worth about twe n ty dollars for lady's driving. It seems to us Harrigan lies worse as he draws nearer the grave.

After this came the annexed para. graph :

CHEAP PIG. - Farmer Thistlepod dragged us seven blocks through the scorching sun yesterday down to a freight depot to see his two-hundred dollar imported pig. Marshall Henry afterward thing new. told us that is was a pig that had been in pound for three weeks, and Thistlepod only paid two dollars for it. But the crowning glory of the Morning Tamboree was the concert notice. It read as follows :

GRAND CONCERT.—The regular annual exhibition of good clothes and bad music that has grown to be a feature of the musical world in Shawneetown, came off last evening at the Opera House. Every seat in the hall was taken, for our patient community has become accustomed to this affliction, and submits to it without a murmur four or five times a year, very much as they take quinine in n the spring.

Those people who came stamping in late, as usual, after the Shawneetown style, are to be congratulated this time as they escaped hearing the "Arion Quartette" sing "Here in Cool Grct." It is due to the "Arion Quartette" however to say this was not the worst singing of the evening. The audience thought it certainly would be the worst; and so indeed, it was, until later in the evening the same quartette butchered "Come Where my Love Lies Dreaming." It was dreadful beyond description, and the deafening applause which followed it only testified the great joy of the audience, on being assured that the "Arion Quartette"would sing no more that even-

Miss Abigail McGinnesy rendered a recitive and aria, by Cappola, in the manner that has long ago become so and is always a source of profound embarrassment to the accompanist, who floundered along last night in the petient but vain hope of getting even with the singer somewhere by serambling across lots, and heading her off in some unusut ally prolonged run. But this was impossible, and singer and accompanis were never within six bars of each othe during the whole of the alleged performports, with a view of changing the dates ance. Mr. Poundawa, the timehonored accompanist in all these affairs, by the time and trouble, as he had often done way, did even worse than usual last eve-

He is trying to get up a class in this city, and if this man attempts to teach our boys to play the fiddle as he does, he ought to be lynched. And he will be, if the Tamboree has any influence in musical circles.

It was as good as a circus to hear Madame Parapluie sing 'Rebert, toi que j'aime." If the old lady's lungs were as big as her feet she might sing more and wheeze less. The only excuse for putting Miss Maltby on the programme every time there is a concert in Shawneetown, is that her father is worth eighty thousand dollars and owns the biggest brewry in Lowell County. With a voice, musical education, and general ability about up to the grade of "Baby Mine," she sang her old stand-by last night, the "Spinning-wheel Song" from "Faust." Marguerite could have sung it as Miss Malthy sang it, it would have saved the poor child a world of trouble. It would have scared Faust, Mephistopheles, and the whole gang of them out of the country. There is more music in Mr. Malt.

by's bung-starters than there is in his daughter. Much has heretofore been said in these columns about Miss Malt by's beauty. While the spirit of truth is upon us we are free to admit that she is pretty in the dark.

Mr. Bellows sang "Oh, ye Tears." Mr. Bellows has a rich baritone voicewheelbarrow tone, that is, Unfortunately for his effort last evening, nobody knew he was singing until he finished the butchery of Art and bowed himsel off the stage. Everybody thought he was just trying his voice. If ever his voice is tried, it will be convicted on its own evidence.

James H. Blowson and Elbert Hafut sang "Larboard Watch." It is a great pity these young men are not aware that their mouths were made to catch flies with, rather than for singing. Hafut's voice is so like a fog-horn that he may be pardoned for a tendency to sing marine songs; but aside from a plea of natural depravity and fiendish misanthropy there is no excuse whatever for Blowson's attempting to sing in public. These miszuided young men were down on the HALLS CATARRH CURE. programme for a second atrocity, but it was ommitted at the urgent request of Black silks for street wear have a splen did finish similar to sheen of eatin.

All wool cloth is now brought out in various shades, buth light and dark. Short skirts, with light strain, are introduced for favor—a style not all becoming, and one that is far from being neat. Let us hope this fashion will not find favor with our society fashionably.

The Nerisan costame is a beautiful modef; it is cut with a polonaise that is tight fitting, the back is shirred over a tight-fitting lining; the drapery is very artistic, although this design can lay claim to much that is picturesque.

The "Regia" costu ne is arranged with a gored walking skirt, trimmed with fan-plaited flounces, al ernating with gathered ruffles, over which is a tight-fitting princess overdress with shirred panier draperies on the sides, and extending in a long and gracefully draped polonaise at the back.

This graceful costume is composed of a gored skirt and a polonaise, arranged in a Wattesu plait at the back. A small shoulder cape gives a pretty finish to this lovely design—a heavy cordeliere is knotted loosely around the waist—a style of dress very appropriate for travelling.

A Great Reformer Justified.

Conservatives and Conservative newspapers view the "Mackenzie Rebellion" in a totally different light now. As a speci men of their change of heart we give the following from the Kingston News, a Tory organ "When Mackenzie placed himself at the head of an ill-advised novement, precipitating civil strife and entailing considerable loss of life, the Province of Upper Canada was ground down by an odious and grasping oligar known as the Family They monopolized office, land and influence; made the the courts subservient to their designs; stayed all improvement and the growth of the Pr opposed civil and religious liberty. The people, on the other hand were forpeople, on the other hand were for-bidden under severe pains and penalties from meeting in public to petition against their grievous wrongs. Mackenzie led the to the Divine will, we deeply deplore the loss of our former fellow student. Resolved, that by his early demise the profession has been dervised of the felt was the public welfare. We reap now what he sowed, and enjoy the fruits of his labors in the fullest possession of responsible government. If, therefore, we trial. Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of value the privileges of free men, we will nurse a feeling of gratitude to the great Reformer, William Lyon Mackenzie.
