CHAPTER XXI. The Man From America. 'JOHNNY,' said the stranger, with a little nasal twang and an air that was all confidence, 'who's that young lady that went into the bank just now?' 'What young lady?' asked the groom, sullenly, feeling that young Miss Warner's eyes were upon him. 'The young lady who went in leaning on the arm of the young fellow that looked an aristocratic prizefighter,' explained the unknown, with a puff at his cigar. 'How should I know?' growled the groom, looking away. 'Oh, come, I say!' remonstrated the gentleman in the tweed suit, with a half wink. 'That won't do, you know. Didn't I see her talking to your young mistress? Come, Johnny, don't be unsober, and tell me who she is.'

mured, with what would have been sullen on a less pretty face. 'I did from the first moment I saw her, she was so quiet, and different to other girls; and then there were the theatricals. A thorough actress! Everybody said no amateur could have played like it!' 'But, my dear,' said Lady Warner, 'is it possible for Lillian Woodleigh to have any secret which would induce her, and which Sir Talbot does not know already? What good will it do if you discovered mysterious something? Would it—to speak plainly—would it make matters any easier between Harold and you?' 'He is too good for her!' murmured Laura, between her white, even teeth. Lady Warner smiled, and shook her head. 'My dear you know how heartily I wish it had all gone right between you and Harold.'

'And so it would,' said Laura, with a blush. 'If she had not come between us. He used to spend most of his time with us when he was down here, was—was so very attentive—and now, but I shall wait. I am sure there is something wrong.' Lady Warner sighed again, and shook her head. 'It is not only Harold,' she said; 'Gerald is infatuated with her.' 'Lord Gerald is a boy,' said Laura, almost viciously. 'What should he know about women?' 'Well that business is done,' said Harold, as Lillian drove down the street. 'Not very formidable, was it?' 'Not at all,' said Lillian, with a curious smile. 'By the way,' said Harold, 'did you see a young fellow standing by the bank door?' Lillian thought a moment. 'I think I remember doing so—a man in light clothes, and with a low, soft hat?' Harold nodded. 'That's my opponent of yesterday—Jones' lodger—the man from America, you know.'

CHAPTER XXII. QUITE HARMLESS.

Another week passed in a continuous stream of entertainments—dinner parties, tennis mornings, concerts picnics; the country had not seen half enough as yet of the young beauty who had come into its midst so unexpectedly. 'As Gerald said, it was like a young queen, whom no one had been expecting, coming to pay a province a visit. And as the days wore on, that strange, look of reserve and abstraction which people had noticed at first, gradually grew less frequent. Her face lost the pallor which, though it added a depth to her peculiar style of beauty, was out of place in so young and a sweet face. She smiled oftener, and as the duchess remarked, "looked more at home."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

The showing off of a baby for the enjoyment of a visitor is almost a crime. A very bad practice at any time of the year, it is far worse in the summer, for it excites the little one beyond its capacity and tends to upset its entire nervous system.

"There are only two occasions for handling the little baby, and those are when it is to be fed and when its clothes are to be changed. Handling the little one for any other than necessary care is almost a crime."

"Anything at all tends to fret or worry or excite the little one is most injurious to its health. The baby that is left severely alone, save necessary attention to keep it properly fed and clean, is the baby that is most apt to thrive and grow and be healthy."

"These are a few nuggets of wisdom from a babies' health bulletin sent out by a board of health in one of our large cities.

I commend them most heartily to my reader.

In the bulletin there were also such admonitions as "Do not give little babies raw fruit," "Do not allow them to drink tea, coffee, beer or any other liquor," and several more advices along the same line.

I suppose—in fact know, from my slumming experiences—that there is a class of people who need this latter sort of suggestion.

But I have very decided doubts if it is as large as the class who need the other kind of advice—that is, to let their babies alone more.

"Don't take your baby out to visit the neighbours before it is six months old at least, and better, a year. The excitement of all those new faces and voices is very bad for his nervous system."

"Don't wheel a delicate baby about in his carriage. He is much better off quiet in his crib."

"Don't even undress a baby at night if he is weak or sick. It tires him too much."

"Don't put your sick or weak baby in the tub to bathe him. Just sponge him off in your lap. The tubbing takes too much vitality," are some more bits of advice along this same line that a prominent baby doctor gives all his mothers.

To this doctor a young mother came once, quite indignant—

"Why, that nurse you sent me doesn't pay any more attention to my boy than if he were a piece of furniture," she protested, aggrieved.

"Madam," answered the doctor, "I all babies were treated more like pieces of furniture and less like toys there'd be twenty per cent fewer sick babies and fifty per cent less cros and fussy ones."

Yes, perhaps it is easier and pleasanter to pick the baby up when he fusses and on all similar occasions—doubtless it is more sociable to take him around to visit the neighbour and show him off to all your visitors.

But that's not the question.

The question is, is it worth risking your baby's health and good disposition for?

Woman's Power

Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

An application of lemon juice and salt in a good sun exposure is an old and effective remedy for fruit and many other kinds of stains.

In washing brown stockings, do not use blue water; this is the reason that so many brown stockings look faded after coming from the wash.

When the asbestos of a gas log becomes blackened, sprinkle it with salt; then light the gas and the feathery mineral will soon turn white again.

To avoid tearing sash curtains when passing a rod through their hems, put a thimble on the end of the rod when they will slip through easily.

When beaten eggs are added to a hot mixture, always pour the mixture into the eggs, beating vigorously till white. This will prevent curdling.

An Egg shampoo is easily made. Beat two eggs until all stringiness disappears, add the juice of a lemon and use it on the head just as you would soap.

For sleeplessness, take a hot bath then drink a cup of hot milk. If the desire for sleep does not come, repeat after two hours. Have a little salt in the milk.

If the tops of young turnips are thoroughly cleaned they can be used with the diced turnips and be boiled the same as cabbage. They make a very good dish.

If a fine toothed comb is used on the hair, just take a small strand at a time, placing the comb close to the roots and drawing it clear to the end of the strand.

For the picnic luncheon, pine apples, cut into slices, sugared and wrapped in oiled paper, will be found to keep well, be easily carried and will be most refreshing.

Always sift flour, powdered sugar, spices, salt, mustard, baking powder, etc., before measuring, because most of the quantity will be used that called for if measured first.

When changing sheets and pillow cases, put a little dried lavender leaves in the pillow cases. The leaves can be used again and again, and the fragrance is very lasting.

While odds and ends of roast meat may be used for soup, care should be taken never to use any charred pieces as the smallest particle will give it an unpleasant flavor.

Broken aris root has more of the odor of violets and is better than the Ladies of Culture and Refinement Use Salvia Hair Tonic. It Makes the Hair Beautiful.

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy this pest.

That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove Dandruff in ten days or money back.

McMurdo & Co. guarantees it. It will grow hair, stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray, and adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of beautiful hair. A large, generous bottle costs only 50c. at leading druggists everywhere, and in St. John's by McMurdo & Co.

The word "SALVIA" (Latin for sage) is on every bottle. Refuse all substitutes.

powdered variety. When placed in bureau drawers, it imparts a delicate perfume to the contents.

A simple and inexpensive mattress pad is the silence cloth which comes for dining room tables. Cut the desired length and bind with white bias binding. These launder nicely.

An excellent mixture for cleaning steel knives and forks may be made with emery powder and oil. Rub on well and polish, then rub with an oiled rag and polish with a clean duster.

Salt is said to be excellent for lustreless hair. Rub well into the roots at night, then tie up in a large handkerchief or wear a night cap. Brush out the salt in the morning.

Kaiser's Heir to Visit the Far East

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Crown Prince Frederick William will, according to present arrangements, start in November for a long tour of the Far East, including India. It is more than probable that he will return by way of the Pacific, visiting America. Although this is not included in the program for his trip as it is now made up.

The tour of the Crown Prince will bear an official character and arrangements have already been made with the British Government for his reception in India. He will also visit China and Japan.

His consort, the Crown Princess Cecilie, will not accompany him.

Dead Fly Bounty.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Four cents a hundred is the price which has been placed on the heads of flies in the district of Columbia. This is the stimulus by which Washington boys have been aroused by their mothers to abolish the typhoid-breeding house fly.

The boys, it is reported, have started in on their work of slaughter with great glee.

THE VERY TIME

When Powerful Food Is Most Needed.

The need of delicate yet nutritious food is never felt so keenly as when a convalescent gets a set back on account of weak stomach. Then is when Grape-Nuts shows its power for it is the most scientific and easily digested food in the world.

"About a year ago," says a Kansas woman, "my little six-year-old niece, Helen, left the invigorating and buoyant air of Kansas, where all her life she had enjoyed fairly good health, to live in the more quiet atmosphere of Ohio. She had a complete change of diet consisting of a variety of food, and of course a change of water, somehow she eventually contracted typhoid fever."

"After a long seige her case seemed hopeless, doctors gave her up, and she was nothing but skin and bones, couldn't eat anything and for weeks did not know even her father or mother. Her parents, wishing to get something delicate and nourishing, finally hit upon Grape-Nuts food for her and it turned out to be just the thing."

"She seemed to relish it, was soon conscious of her surroundings and began to gain health and strength so rapidly that in a short time she was well, playful and robust as if she had never been ill."

"We all feel that Grape-Nuts was the predominating factor in saving the sweet little girl's life."

A Powerful Appeal.

We publish to-day a powerful appeal from the pen of "Reform" to our civic authorities to exert themselves in the cleaning up of the city. Sympathetically, he refers to sad losses
 which some few of us have sustained,
 but properly draws the conclusion that these losses, much as we feel them, are few in number compared to those wrought by the deadly devastations of dirt.
 Desirable as it is to provide reasonable security against losses of life
 by drowning, it is indeed absolutely essential to make great efforts to insure the city against the constant never-ending heartrending loss of life which follows in the trail of disease due to dirt which can be washed away. The Evening Telegram has advocated safe waters for our boys to resort to and the placing of a swimmer with life lines and boats

DEATH BY DROWNING

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—I have great difficulty in compelling myself to write this letter. I do not wish anyone to understand that I entertain the slightest doubt of the truth of any fact I shall allege or of the soundness of any deduction I shall draw; for I am fully persuaded not only that my facts and my opinions are sound but that it is in the public interest that they should be stated. My difficulty is two-fold. I fear that I may be misunderstood, and I fear that what I write may give pain to those who have lately been bowed under the heaviest weight of affliction. In particular I have shrunk from the task of addressing this letter to you, Sir.
 But as I soberly weigh the pros and cons of the matter I can only come to the conclusion that what I have to say ought to be said and that I must trust to the generosity of those whose hearts have been softened by affliction to impute to me no desire to reopen wounds which are still bleeding, but to appreciate that I write now in the hope that what I say may possibly help to save someone if it should be only one person from the dreadful bereavement which they now suffer. A year never passes over St. John's without exacting its toll of death by drowning, and this year has been more than usually calamitous in this respect. A number of promising lives have been lost, a number of families have been plunged in the deepest affliction, and there is not a heart which has not gone out in sympathy to those who have been bereaved. The appalling suddenness with which the blow falls stirs the emotion and awakens the sympathies of the dullest spirit.
 There is not a man amongst us, I am sure, who would not welcome any device which offers even a probability of avoiding such calamities in the future. And it is in this place that I want to make it clear that I am not deprecating the efforts which are being made to protect the lives of our people from such accidents as continually happen on our ponds and rivers. When the first drowning accident happened several persons in authority moved to project measures to ensure the safety of our children
 from drowning accidents in the future. Amongst them was Mr. Ellis, the Mayor of the town. He promptly urged the necessity of establishing swimming pools where inexperienced bathers might learn to swim in safety,
 and we may take it that next year
 such pools will be established and maintained. I have no word except of commendation of Mr. Ellis's humanity. It is true that I may doubt the efficacy of the expedient devised, knowing as I do the nature of boys
 and their impatience of all restraints,
 but nevertheless, I would not by any word of mine throw cold water upon any scheme which, if well carried out, would save the life of even one child. I think it the plain duty of a municipality to provide every means of safety for the citizens which benevolence and knowledge can compass.
 But I want to point out to the town
 and those who govern it that deaths from drowning are few and that deaths from dirt are many, and that if steps must be taken to protect us from the infrequent evil, steps should all the more promptly and energetically be taken to protect us from the evil which threatens us day by day throughout the whole year. I assert, and I think that no well-informed person will deny, that even in this calamitous year there have been ten deaths in this town from disease born of dirt to set of against every single death by drowning. Where one home has been made desolate by a sudden loss of a son by the perils of the ponds, ten homes have been bereaved by a death which has slowly and painfully come to victims of the plague of dirt. In the one case the bereaved have the solace or sympathy and the isolation of quarantine. When two bright and promising youths sink in Quidi Vidi there is not a soul whose heart does not respond in sympathy with the afflicted parents, the papers give full accounts of the disaster and offer warnings for the future, the Council moves to prevent the recurrence of such a calamity. And it is right that it should be so. God forbid that it should ever be otherwise with us. But a child from York Street dies in Hospital from a disease whose origin, remotely or directly, is the dirt of this town and a line in the newspaper is sufficient to chronicle the sad event.

 This is wholly, utterly wrong. The death of that child should be an event in our city annals. York Street should be cleaned, every street where infection lurks should be cleaned.
 We propose to spend money in providing swimming pools to save a life or two: quite right! But we begrudge money for cleaning our pestilent drains which destroy many, many lives in the course of every year.
 That is quite wrong. We cannot be sure that the swimming pools will actually save even a single life in any year, but we have absolute certainty that the cleaning of the drains will save many a life in every month of the twelve. While I therefore, urge our city fathers to relax no effort which will tend to avoid the drowning accidents which we yearly have to mourn, I still more urgently impress upon them the necessity of saving perhaps a multitude from the peril which stalks by day in the streets of this town.

Yours truly,
 REFORM.

House Fly on Trial.

Twenty-Five Thousand Trapped in Birmingham.
 Birmingham, Aug. 9.—A novel trial is proceeding here. The house fly has been arraigned on a number of counts. The most serious is that it is the principal agent in the production of those infantile intestinal disorders
 which carry off so many Birmingham babies in the hot summer days.
 In the locality of each of four stations four or five houses have been selected and traps set to catch the fly. In one case a barber's shop has been pressed into service. A public house is also harboring other traps, and in one way and another about twenty-five thousand flies have been caught for identification purposes exclusive of those which settled on the adhesive papers and are only used for enumeration.
 From the information collected it is shown in a remarkably convincing manner that at the period when most of the flies were about there also existed the greatest prevalence of fatal epidemic summer diarrhoea and en-teritis. For instance in a week, when only three thousand flies were caught,
 there were six deaths from these diseases; but when the "bag" exceeded eight thousand the death roll reached forty-two. In fact, it is shown that the incidence of the disease and the prevalence of flies correspond somewhat closely.
 It is also worthy of note that the investigations show that the flies pay their visits in the greatest numbers
 at the week-ends, when a lot of food is about, and on wet days following warm periods, when they took shelter from the rain.

The PAPAL BLESSING Bestowed by His Grace Archbishop Howley.

A very large congregation assembled at the R. S. Cathedral last evening at Vespers to receive the Papal Blessing. His Grace the Archbishop occupied the pulpit and delivered a most interesting description of his recent visit to Rome and the audience which it was his privilege to be granted by His Holiness Pope Pius X., who is a wonderfully preserved Pontiff for his years, who is enjoying good health and a cheerfulness of spirit quite the reverse of what we often read in the newspaper dispatches and the sensational telegraph messages from correspondents. The reception accorded the Archbishop was most touching and sympathetic, evincing as it did a warm interest in all that concerned the welfare of the Church in Newfoundland. His Grace then went on to explain the reason of the recent change in the administration of the Church in this country as follows:

Our Holy Father, Pope Pius X., having laid down as the guiding inspiration of his Pontificate, the sublime words of St. Paul (Eph. 1, 10) "in-staurare omnia in Christo" ("to re-establish all things in Christ") has already, in the short period of seven years, during which he has occupied the throne of Peter, done much towards the accomplishment of this great object. Among the many reforms which he has introduced into Church Discipline, one of the most far-reaching was the remodeling and consolidating of the work of the Great Congregation of the Propaganda Fide.

This world-wide Institution was founded in the beginning of the XVII. Century by Popes Gregory XV. and Urban VIII., for the purpose of educating students for the most uncivilized and primitive parts of the world. The administration of those distant Churches was entrusted to a Congregation of Cardinals who had most ample powers to dispense with such of the restrictions of regular Church Law, as might be found unfit for the application of Canonical Government, such as are, in a vague, in the long established Churches of the Old Countries of Europe. These Countries thus placed under the management of the Propaganda were called Missionary Countries, and they comprised all parts of the world except the Countries of Southern Europe.

So great has been the growth of these new countries, owing to the advance of modern civilization and the increased facilities of communication that great cities and populous communities began to arise everywhere and to vie in extent, in riches, in commerce, and population with the older countries of past centuries, and as a consequence the work of the Congregation of Propaganda developed to such an enormous degree that it was found impossible that it could any longer efficiently fulfil all the duties required of it. Hence Pope Pius X., by his Decree of June 29, 1908, Sapienter Consilio, removed from the jurisdiction of the Propaganda several of the more populous and prosperous countries of the New World. Among the rest our Church in Newfoundland, which a few years before (Feb. 1904) had been erected into an Ecclesiastical Province, was separated from the Propaganda and subjected to the regular canonical law of the Church. Thus our Church is no longer a Missionary Church, but a regular hierarchy.

There remained however one more act to complete our Ecclesiastical State. When the Apostolic Delegation was erected in Canada in 1893, the Church of Newfoundland being then in an informal condition was excluded from participation in the Benefits of this Delegation.

In the month of May last year, 1909, the hierarchy of Canada was summoned by His Excellency the Apostolic Delegate, Monsignor Sbarretti, to meet at Quebec to hold the first Plenary Council of the Canadian Church. The Prelates of Newfoundland were not included in the citation. I wrote immediately to His Excellency, asking that the invitation should be extended to us, as I considered it would be of the greatest advantage to the Church of Newfoundland that her Bishops should have the right to participate in that great and important Ecclesiastical assemblage, and have an active voice in the Canonical Legislation to be instituted therein. His Excellency immediately replied, regretting that it was not in his power to summon us as we were excluded from his jurisdiction. He promised however to refer the matter to Rome and to forward my petition immediately to the Cardinal Secretary of State of His Holiness, warmly seconding my request.

I am now able to state that the prayer of the petition has been granted. I have recently received from His Eminence Cardinal De Lal, the Decree of the Consistorial Council announcing that the Holy Father has been pleased to grant the prayer of the petition. It may however be well to explain that while the Church of Newfoundland is subjected to the jurisdiction of the Apostolic Delegate of Canada, it is not amalgamated or incorporated into that Church. It still maintains its autonomy, and while participating in the current of Ecclesiastical life prevailing the great Church of the Dominion it still remains independent, so that "the Delegate Apostolic of Canada" shall have the double qualification of Delegate Apostolic for Canada and for Newfoundland.

It has pleased Our Holy Father to remove from the Church of Newfoundland and to promote to a higher dignity the worthy Bishop McNeil, of Bay St. George. I have received from Cardinal De Lal formal instructions to proceed in conjunction with the Suffragan Bishop of Harbor Grace, to the proposal of three names to be submitted to the Holy Father for the selection of one of them to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Bishop McNeil. The selection of these names will be made during the coming week, and knowing as we do from Sacred Scripture, and the Constitution of the Holy Church that the words of St. Paul (Acts xx, 28) "The Holy Ghost places the Bishops to rule the Church of God," the hymn to the Holy Ghost "Veni Creator, Spiritus," with the appropriate prayer will be sung this evening immediately before Benediction, and all the Congregation are earnestly requested to offer up prayers between this and the day of selection that the Holy Spirit may guide our deliberations and inspire our action, so that a priest may be selected who may be endowed with the virtues and talents that will make him worthy to assume the duties of the spiritual government of that distant and arduous mission. May the blessing of God be with you all. Amen.

The Celebrations at Harbor Grace.

The Harbor Grace Guy Executive and Committees are working with might and main to make the Celebration worthy of the occasion.

A large influx of visitors are expected, and big efforts are being made to accommodate all that will come. The Public Building has been fitted up with lodging for gentlemen, and meals will be furnished there at reasonable rates. In addition to local caterers the F. B. Wood Co., purpose opening up restaurants at the Victoria Hall building, the Regatta and at Bristol's Hope. No effort will be spared to provide accommodation. The ladies of the Guy Hospital Garden Party will do their part well.

The improvised Park at Coughlan Hall grounds is nearing completion. Evergreens surround it and bedstut it, with a long line of electric lights stretching around them. Two gateways, one at the south-west on Victoria Street, and one at the west on Harvey Street, have their pillars erected and are surmounted with an arch of electric lights. The walks lead to an evergreen arched portico at the door of the building, that will no doubt blaze with light, while a fountain will play in the centre. The arrangements for the ball are progressing.

Exhibits are coming in for the Exhibition; and by Tuesday arrangements will doubtless be completed. We trust the weather will be fine, and our Hedges and visitors enjoy themselves to the utmost—The Standard.

Fox Harbor Notes.

Better late than never. Mrs. Thos. Murray, of this place, had a visit from the stork on August 3rd, bringing her three babies. Two of the babies died and one is living. Mrs. Murray and babe are doing well.

The weather for the past week has been very fine, and no doubt it was a welcome guest to the people trying to cure their fish. They have it pretty near all secured now.

Mrs. Kelly, of Argentia, is here on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. M. Healey.

It is rumored that fish will be a good price this year.

All the boats arrived this morning from the fishing grounds with fairly good trips of fish. They report both fish and squid scarce.

Miss M. A. Hammond, of Long Hr., is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. P. Healey.

Mr. Peter Mullins arrived from Grand Falls by Thursday's train. Mr. Mullins is very sick, but we hope he will recover very soon again.

The Argyle arrived this morning bringing as passenger Mrs. King of Long Harbor.

It is reported that quite a number of our young men will embark on a matrimonial tour this fall—fish or no fish.

When I speak of matrimonial tour, it reminds me of a wedding which took place here on July 26th, when Miss Ellen King, of this place, and Mr. Patrick Smith, of Long Harbor, were united in the sacred bonds of matrimony. The bridesmaid was Miss Lizzie McCue, and bridesboy Mr. George King. Dancing was kept up till a late hour and a very enjoyable time was spent by all. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and many years of happiness.

Nutritive Hypophosphites

When a person feels "blue"—"all tired out"—"doesn't feel like doing anything"—cannot concentrate his mind on his work—feels weak mentally and physically—doubts his powers—complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness—suffers from headaches—then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic. Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to trying family cares overstudied, etc.

Nutritive Hypophosphites forms the best nerve and brain food known, and have restored thousands of sufferers to health. Large bottle, $1.00.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

The host of friends here of Mr. John Strathie were pleased to see him in town a few days ago.

Nearly all the accommodation at our hotels has been taken up for next week, but still there is plenty of room for all the visitors who may favor us with their presence. Nothing is forgotten, so come along and enjoy the birthday of your home—Newfoundland.

The day of holding the Regatta has been changed from Friday to Wednesday, and preparations for that event are complete. This year's races will start from a more eastern part of the lake than on former occasions. A new road has been made, and much credit is due Mr. Rogers and the other men who worked on the job. It will prove a short and easy way to the scene of the day's sports.

It is said that a couple of crews of young ladies are going to enter for a race. This will be something novel and very interesting.

Mr. W. H. Thompson had a letter from his son, Master Ian, a few days ago, who is now undergoing treatment at the Battle Harbor hospital. A rather serious operation had been performed, but the lad was doing well and writes in pleasant terms of hospital life, particularly when one is progressive. The large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will be glad to hear of the success of the operation and the rapid recovery being made by Master Ian.

The grounds around Coughlan Hall will be very pretty when completed, and with hundreds of electric lights around and over the entrance it will be the centre of attraction during the night time at least.

Married, at the R. C. Cathedral, on Tuesday last, by Rev. W. Finn, Mr. Richard Smallcombe, mate of Messrs. McRae's schr. Clara, to Miss Mary K. Butler, of this town. Congratulations!

Sixteen telephones are now in use in this town, and a number of others are ordered and will be installed in different places when they arrive.

The different crews are practising nightly for the Regatta, to take place on Wednesday next. A naval race will likely be on the programme this year.

The first message over the Direct Company's cable was received by A. H. Seymour, Esq., a few days ago.

The Labrador Outlook.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—As I was in hopes last spring when I went to the Labrador as a shaman to do a little with the fish, I would not have to come home at this time of the year with scarcely a cent made; but as the season was getting on and a poor prospect, the skipper decided it would be better for some of us to come home and try and get work at the railway or go to Sydney to obtain enough to put my family through the winter.

As I went down to the Labrador on the steamer for five dollars ($5.00), I was under the impression that that amount was enough to bring me back again; but I found out to go was one thing and to come home was another, and I had to pay seven dollars and seventy-five cents to be landed at my place in Conception Bay. So much for the Government arrangement with the R. N. Co. for the passages of fishermen up and down from the Labrador. Well, I must say that the arrangement up to the time I left the coast for a second steamer to go north was only a farce. First we had the Ingraham with Judge Winsor on board and a lot of others living like kings, and we poor fishermen eating fog, and a poor kind of that. Then the Shub passed along. Where she went and what she did we could not find out, only she passed south calling at Domino and heard she was going home, and the Stella Maris was coming down. I suppose when the Stella Maris makes a trip another steamer will be sent to replace her. What a way to fool the poor fishermen of northern Labrador having our mails and freight all over the shore with no head or tail to the arrangement. I consider it a waste of public money to have the second steamer on at all, and especially to send a steamer down and take the poor planters of the coast, or to send the value of the fish in provisions to distribute amongst the almost destitute fishermen, who are to-day scattered along the coast, not knowing where to get a barrel of flour, as the voyage is so bad that no merchant or agent will let go one barrel on credit, and in a good many cases they have not fish enough to buy a barrel. The people here cannot imagine what the voyage is like.

World's Fair Wiped Out.

WILD SCENES AMONG ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND SIGHTSEERS AT THE BRUSSELS EXPOSITION YESTERDAY.

Special Evening Telegram.
BRUSSELS, Aug. 14. The White City of the World's Fair, as the Belgians have called their 1910 Exposition, is to-night a mass of flames and smouldering ruins. A spark falling into inflammable material in the telegraph building burst up into flames which driven by a high wind swept rapidly in all directions. Soon the Belgian, English and French sections were destroyed. To the left of the main building arose the picturesque roofs and spires of "Brussels Kermesse," a Belgian Coney Island with water shuttles, toboggan slides, and scores of side shows. This place was alive with Sunday crowds, and before they could be got out in any kind of order, the Kermesse was afire. The crowds became panic stricken and men, women and children fought madly to escape. The exits became choked with the struggling mass, and men used their fists to clear the pathway. Many were trampled under foot and badly injured. An engineer corps from Antwerp attempted to dynamite the bridge of the French section in the hope of checking the fire but the flames leaped across and engulfed the Italian, Russian, Austrian, Japanese, Chinese, and Norwegian buildings. Forty houses on an avenue adjoining the Exposition were destroyed. At the time of the outbreak not less than 100,000 persons were circulating in the grounds. Troops were ordered out and came in double quick time and aided the police in clearing the grounds. The loss is $100,000,000.

The Red Earl Dead.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Aug. 13. J. Poyntz Spenser, the fifth Earl of Spenser, died here to-day. He was born in 1835. The Earl twice held the posts of Viceroy of Ireland and First Lord of the Admiralty from 1892 to 1895. Up to 1907 he was Chancellor of the Victoria University. Viscount Althorp, half brother of the Earl, succeeds to the title. The Red Earl, as he socially was called on account of his flaming red beard, was one of the last of the early Victorian political warriors; perhaps the most conspicuous service of his notable career were his two terms as Lord Lieut. of Ireland. He was an eyewitness of the Phoenix Park assassinations from a window of the Vice-Regal Lodge.

Florence Nightingale Passes Away.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Aug. 14. Florence Nightingale, the famous nurse of the Crimean War, and the only woman who ever received Order of Merit, died yesterday at her London home. Although she had been an invalid for a long time, rarely leaving her room, her death was somewhat unexpected. A week ago she was quite sick but she improved, and on Friday was cheerful. Hearing the night she gradually sank until 2 a.m. Saturday when an attack of heart failure brought the end. Her funeral will be as quiet as possible in accordance with her wishes. During recent years, owing to her feebleness, she had received but few visitors. Florence Nightingale was born May 14th, 1820. She was the first woman to follow a modern army into battle as a nurse, and in the Crimea where she gained the title of "The Angel of Crimea."

Hungarian Exodus.

Special Evening Telegram.
VIENNA, Aug. 13. The wholesale emigration of Hungarians to America is having a detrimental effect upon the army. The recruiting movement hitherto confined to the poorer districts in the north has now been extended to the rich and productive region of Southern Hungary. It is expected that despite the favourable harvest the emigration of Hungarians in 1910 will exceed all former figures. The denudation of the country of its able-bodied youth is exciting prolonged attention in Government circles.

Drexel's Daring Flight.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Aug. 13. Armstrong Drexel's daring flight Thursday night when he reached a height of 6,700 feet, and still more daring volplane descent at a terrific pace, have made him the hero of the hour. This morning's newspapers print an extended interview with Drexel, and stories of his experiences.

The Bell Isle Excursion

Refrain: The Old Oaken Bucket.

On August the twelfth,
With the sun shining brightly,
And old Mother Earth
Giving forth a sweet smile,
We all, with glad hearts,
Boarded the steamer "Euphrates,"
Embarked for an outing
To bonny Bell Isle.
The good folks of Brigus,
Clarke's Beach and Bay Roberts,
Each vied with the others
In making the day
A source of enjoyment,
Of unalloyed pleasure,
That Bell Isle Excursion
From over the Bay.

The Bell Isle Excursion,
That dear old Excursion,
That jolly Excursion
From over the Bay.

I ne'er shall forget it,
That trip so attractive,
But deeper than all—
On my memory's dial—
Is printed the kindness
Of those who endeavoured
To brighten our visit
To dear old Bell Isle.

They showed us its treasures,
Explaining each feature,
While we roamed about
Just like children at play,
Amazed and delighted Almost beyond measure,
With bonny Bell Island
Just out in the Bay.

The bonny Bell Island,
The glorious Island,
The dear old Bell Island
Just out in the Bay.

Arguments at the Hague Concluded.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 14. Senator Root, speaking of the meaning of "bays," in the renunciation clause of the treaty, said that the negotiations had in view the territorial waters within the usual three mile limit; that Britain had never claimed an extension of her jurisdiction outside that limit in the large bays. He said that in 1907 the Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs had declared in Parliament in the name of the Government that territorial waters were those within a distance of three sea miles from the shores and bays with a breadth less than six sea miles; unless this limit were extended by long established usage, and by treaty or by special convention. If the negotiators of the treaty had anticipated the exclusion of American fishermen from the great bays, Senator Root contended that they would have employed other terms of definition, such as "areas between headlands," which was the expression then used to define larger bays. The treaty should be framed in such a way that the line of demarcation would be indicated as three sea miles from the shore, otherwise fishermen would never know whether they were inside or outside of the prohibited waters. Root has now concluded his speech, and the Tribunal will proceed immediately to prepare its decision. Although the agreement allows two months wherein to publish the award, it is anticipated that not more than half this time, or until the middle of September, will be required. Counsel, representative of both nations, will be asked to return to the Hague to hear the decision and see it put into proper form.

Sailing for Labrador.

The s.s. Pions will sail for Labrador the latter part of the week. The Fishery Board will purchase a couple of hundred barrels of squid and send down to the fishermen for trawl fishing. In view of the failure of the fishery from Indian Harbor to Battle Harbor, the new regulations, imposed this season, against the use of trawls will be suspended.

Coffin Unearthed.

While digging at the foundation of the new wing for St. Mary's Church, South Side, last week the workmen unearthed a coffin. The board was eaten away as though by a shilling and the body that was enclosed in it had turned to dust long ago. Not even a bone was to be seen. It was evidently placed there over a 100 years ago. Some say 200 years. As there never was a cemetery in this locality as far as is known, it is a matter of wonder and speculation to those who are speaking about the discovery how and under what circumstances the body came to be buried there. Perhaps some of the older people of the city may be able to throw some light on the subject.

Unofficial Attempts at Compromise.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
ROME, Aug. 13. Unofficial attempts are being made both at Madrid and in Rome to find a middle course between the intransigent attitudes of both parties in the religious question, which has caused a rupture of diplomatic relations of Spain and the Holy See. The plan favoured by prominent Catholics is the resumption of negotiations with the intention of both sides to complete them before the re-opening of the Cortes. President Canalejas pledged himself to present to Parliament bills agreeing with the result of the negotiations.

A Bible Ter-Centenary.

"Just three hundred years ago was published the Authorised Version of the Bible, and those who recognise the stupendous importance of this event and its epoch-making character are already busy with arrangements for its due celebration," says the "Telegraph." "The exact date of publication was 1611, so that such ceremonies as are possible ought to take place next year. But, meanwhile, it will not be unprofitable to recall some of the reasons why a ter-centenary of such a kind has a wider appeal to every class and every religious community of the people than almost any other national enterprise which has stirred the spiritual and intellectual life of our country.

How the Authorised Version Began.
 "The facts are simple enough. In June, 1604, a conference of the two great parties in the English Church was called to consider a petition of the Puritans against the rites and ceremonies of the Established Church. It is said that one of the leaders of the Puritan party, a certain Dr. Reynolds, inveighed against the inaccuracies of the so-called Bishop's Bible, and that King James I. suggested a new revision, which might prove acceptable to all shades of religious opinion. The idea, after some delay, was taken up seriously three years later, and it is thus interesting to discover that the great Version owed its inception not only to the learned Monarch on the Throne, but more specifically to the remonstrance of the Calvinistic section.

"Six companies of nine scholars each began to work at Westminster, Oxford, and Cambridge, one company at each place taking the Old Testament, and another the New, and, naturally, they were to base their labours on the translations which had preceded their own.

The Splendour of the Old Version.

"The Authorised Version, executed in a great flowering time of English letters, stands as a conspicuous monument of scholarship and language and style. If it possesses defects—if it was necessary for the sake of exactness of translation that a new version should be produced in the latter half of the nineteenth century—it must be remembered that King James's scholars worked under inevitable limitations. The fruit of their labours appeared three hundred years ago, at a time when even the erudite were only just becoming conversant with Hebrew, and hardly anyone thought of employing for critical purposes ancient versions, like the Septuagint, in order to throw light on text and interpretation. Eastern scenes and customs were not familiar to them, as they have become to recent travellers, nor yet had our Elizabethan fore-fathers any knowledge, such as we possess, of countries connected with Israel, like Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, and Persia.

An English Book.

"The wonder is not that the translators made mistakes, but that, on the whole, they made so few. One reason is that they wanted to bring the Scriptures home to the business and bosoms of every Englishman, so that, as Erasmus said, 'the husbandman might sing parts of them at his plough, the weaver might warble them at his shuttle, the traveller might with their narratives beguile the weariness of the way.' In other words, the translation must be direct, simple, homely, couched in the idiom which everyone could understand — an English book, when all was said and done, and not merely formal adaptation.

"When religious feeling is a matter of life and death, men write with a conviction unknown in more leisurely and careless times. The Authorised Version is a conspicuous example of a literature which has been lived as well as written, a vivid and picturesque document compounded of human tears and an unconquerable faith."

The "Bo'n Oratah."

It is narrated that Colonel Breckinridge, meeting Majah Buffo'd on the streets of Lexington one day, asked "What is the meaning, suh, of the co'co'se befo' the co't house?"

To which the Majah replied: "General Buckneh, suh, is making a speech. General Buckneh, suh, is a bo'n oratah?"

"What do you mean by a bo'n oratah?"
 "If you or I, suh, were asked how much two and two make, we would reply 'foh.' When this is asked a bo'n oratah he replies: 'When in the co'se of human events it becomes necessary to take an intehge of the second denomination and add it, suh, to an intehge of the same denomination, the result, suh—and I have the science of mathematics to back me in my judgment—the result, suh—and I say it without feah of successful contradiction, suh—the result is fo'. That's a bo'n oratah."

Presentation to Father Battcock

On Sunday morning last at Holyrood, immediately after last Mass, a committee of men of the parish, on behalf of the congregation, issued from the congregation and proceeded to the altar rail and presented Rev. Father Battcock with a complimentary address, read by Mr. Thomas R. Dwyer, and a purse of gold containing one hundred and fifty dollars. The rev. gentleman was taken quite by surprise, and touched to the inmost recesses of his heart. Fr. Battcock's sterling qualities and nobility of character cause him to be loved by all classes. He is ever the kind and gentle priest and generous to the extreme; the true and substantial friend of the needy; no lover of money and ever ready to help others. As one of the most likeable of priests and men we congratulate him on his neatly-worded and complimentary address and generous gift and wish Rev. and Dear Father Battcock ad multos annos.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

To Rev. Gregory J. Battcock, P. P., Holyrood.

Rev. and Dear Father,—We, the congregation of the Parish of Holyrood, have gathered around you here to-day to express our feelings of high appreciation of the good work you have been doing amongst us the past year as pastor of our church. If we take a retrospective glance we find that nearly thirty years ago you were the dearly beloved Priest of Holyrood, and here for nine years after you laboured acceptably and successfully. Now looking back to the happy date when you became for the second time our pastor, we cannot but express our admiration and gratitude for your zeal and devotedness to the work of your sacred ministry, your real interest in our temporal advancement and your earnest desire for our spiritual and eternal welfare. Our intercourse has been pleasant, bonds of affection have been found; your preaching has been instructive, consoling and encouraging. To-day standing at the foot of God's Altar you serve so well, amid your loving and beloved people, particularly the little ones—the future men and women of your parish—who have learned to love you as a father and a friend, and to recognize your noble and praiseworthy plans for their future educational advancement and refinement, we ask you to accept this purse of gold—the amount of subscriptions from your congregation to the harness and wagon present—as a slight token of our appreciation and love for you. We also ask you to remember us sometimes in your prayers at the altar, and earnestly pray you may be spared many years to continue your good work for the good of humanity, the benefit of religion and the glory of God.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of Holyrood:—John Lewis, R. J. Kennedy, Richard Dwyer, J. P., Edward Loughlin, Philip O'Neill, Michael C'Rourke, James Carroll, James Duff, John Healy, John Quinlan, J. J. Hicks, Walter Kennedy, Garrett Besan.

REPLY.

Father Battcock was moved at this outburst of kindness and consideration, and said he thought that some of the things said about him were too flattering. But the kind words contained in their address and their generous gift did not at all surprise him. Sympathy, goodness of heart and co-operation with their pastor were ever the characteristics of the people of Holyrood, and the generosity which prompted the presenting of the purse was only another characteristic of a devoted people. He had been in different parishes, and had always done his best for his people and taken an active interest in their spiritual welfare. But he liked Holyrood, and was glad when His Lordship Bishop March appointed him to the Parish. He would aim to make his sermons instructive, impressive and understood by all, and as to the little one, their educational advancement and musical culture would have his immediate attention and practical encouragement. In a few well chosen words he thanked the people heartily for their nicely-worded address and substantial gift. Since his coming amongst them they had always shown in many ways their appreciation of his work. 'Twas a great pleasure to him and a source of congratulation to them to know that all their efforts had been crowned with success. Suggestive and encouraging indeed were those expressions of sympathy, fidelity and generosity which he to-day received from his congregation whom he desired to love as the Good Shepherd loves his sheep, and whom he would remember in his prayers at God's holy altar.
