Marie Corelli Talks "Right Up"

To the Rev. R. J. Campbell of "The New Theology" fame,

In what she considers an unfair attack on her new book, "The Life Everlasting," Miss Corelli says, "That while preaching in the City Temple, London, he deliberately slanders both myself and my work without compassion. He says there is a certain strain of hard, bitter and intolerant depravity running all the way through it, and I challenged him to prove it. Far from any hard or unsympathetic feeling towards human depravity, I endeavour to show how it may be lessened and finally overcome by one's own noble effort when once we realize the eternal law—that evil is always repaid by evil and good by good."

Every person interested in good fiction and in the social conditions of the people should read "The Life Everlasting." Paper, 50c.; cloth, 75c. Postpaid on receipt of price.

No Flour Made From One Wheat Only Is Good For BOTH Pastry And Bread.

Western Wheat makes a strong bread flour which, however, lacks flavor.

Ontario wheat makes the best full flavored pastry flour. This is because of the peculiarities of the wheat itself. Ontario wheat is rich in nutriment and flavor but lacks strength or strong baking qualities. Western Wheat has the strength without the flavor or pastry making qualities.

"Beaver" Flour is a scientific blend of both, giving you all the flavor and nutriment and pastry making qualities of Ontario wheat with the added strength of the Western Spring Wheat.

"Beaver" Flour makes Cakes and Pastry with the lightness and delicacy of flavor of the choicest "Ontario Pastry Flour", and bread that is truly home-made in flavor with the large loaf derived from the strength of the Western Spring Wheat. It is the one flour that is equally good for bread and pastry—and best for both.

"Beaver" Flour is the original blended flour—the first and foremost in quality, strength and reliability. Be sure to specify "Beaver" Flour whenever you order.

CHAPTER XXXVI. THE MEETING.

An hour sufficed to take the impatient wife to the bedside of her husband, who had not awakened from the deep sleep in which he had fallen after the drawing up of the will.

Mrs. Whitney had not yet arrived, and in spite of all effort to preserve secrecy about Major Grant's resurrection, the news spread gradually, until the whole city knew that "Major Grant, who was buried from his residence at Laurel Glade, yesterday, was found alive in the tomb by the sexton to-day, and now has every appearance of a speedy recovery."

Noon came, and yet the sleeper slept on. At two o'clock the carriage from Laurel Glade stopped before the old sexton's house, and Mrs. Whitney, with her husband and Frankie, entered the house.

The stir awoke Major Grant, and he at once called for his wife. She was bending over him when Grant Whitney and his wife entered the room. Her kiss yet lingered upon his pale lips when Mrs. Whitney came forward, and, with her embroidered handkerchief to her eyes, threw herself upon her knees, sobbing:

"Oh, Uncle Grant! How can I express my joy at this wonderful recovery?"

The man replied:

"By kindness to my wife, I learn that she went away from Laurel Glade without the boy."

Mrs. Grant Whitney hung her head with confusion. Her husband came forward, and, extending his hand, said:

"It was by no act or will of mine that Mrs. Grant was driven away from Laurel Glade. Out of respect to you, I would have entreated her to remain with us in our home, had not my wife insisted upon her going. I speak truly, Uncle Grant."

For a moment there was utter silence in that room. Major Grant had not learned of the abuse offered to his wife, and this new revelation came totally unexpected. Then he said, looking sternly at his nephew:

"It is quite evident that you fear the consequences of your infamous action. But I have left you by my late will a snug little fortune. Now, allow me to ask by what right you remain in my home, and drive my poor wife, my loved and cherished wife, into the cold world?"

Mrs. Whitney allowed her handkerchief to fall from her face, and answered defiantly:

"By the right given us by your will, Major Grant regarded her for a moment with grave reproach; then he replied:

"And yet you knew that I meant to make a new will. You heard me deplore my own negligence, which had allowed me to leave the duty of providing for my cherished wife until the last hour. You knew what my intentions were in reference to Laurel Glade. If you had not known all this, Belle, I should not have been here to-day."

He spoke sternly, and Mrs. Whitney hid her pale face again.

Major Grant went on:

"My lawyer is here. He will prepare the papers by virtue of which you will give up all claim to the child, Frank Whitney."

"I have them all ready, waiting the signatures, sir," said Lawyer Mellen, coming forward.

"You may sign them," said Major Grant, with calm dignity.

Exchanging a significant glance, Grant Whitney and his wife signed the papers presented to them by the lawyer.

"Now draw up another will, Lawyer Mellen. I wish to give to my wife and Frankie Whitney all my property, with the exception of the twenty-five thousand dollars willed to Christopher Whitney. Laurel Glade must be sold, and the proceeds given to my lawyer, Christopher Mellen, whom I also intrust with the money bequeathed to his namesake, Christopher Whitney, until the boy has attained the age of twenty-one, the interest to be paid quarterly to the child's parents," said the pale man lying so still upon the bed.

Lawyer Mellen was busy with his pen for nearly an hour; then the new will was read and pronounced satisfactory.

"I had not learned of their cruelty to my wife when I made a will, this morning, giving to Grant Whitney and his wife the sum of fifty thousand dollars. They have nothing to gain by my death now, and my widow will be independent of them. I have done with you now," he continued, turning to Mrs. Whitney. To Grant he said:

"You are my sister's child; I have nourished you since her death; from my means have I fed and clothed you; but you turn upon my young wife before my body is put away from this earthly home. You and yours persecute her and drive her from her husband's house. I must resent this conduct, and in the future you must earn your own living. I have erred her early fault had estranged her from all her former associates and relatives; only Christopher and May remained true. Therefore he welcomed May with more than his usual cordiality of manner."

At the close of the week of May's visit to her sister, Christopher came to escort her home. Minnie came down, too, and a day of social pleasure never to be forgotten by one of that group was enjoyed. Late in the afternoon they parted, and as Major Grant, with his wife and little Frankie, was to sail for Europe the next day, the final farewells were spoken.

During May's visit to her sister, they had thoroughly explained everything that had been mysterious between them.

Goldie thought she understood the reason of Ned Cameron discarding May when he learned of the secret of the old house in the wood. She could not believe that he would scorn May for the actions of another, and after May had returned to her home, she mentioned the subject to her husband, and he had the same views upon the case as herself. Moreover, he advised her to write to Ned Cameron and clear May's fair name of the suspicion of dishonor. She wrote the following letter at the suggestion of Major Grant:

"Rev. Mr. Cameron: I have seen May, and drawn from her lips the story of your estrangement from her. She believes that you despise her on account of her sister, but I give you credit for more nobleness of character in rearing you in idleness. I leave you nothing by my will; but if Mrs. Grant chooses to give you anything from the abundance left her, she can do so. I leave it altogether with her."

"Never! I would scorn to receive a dollar from her hands!" cried Mrs. Whitney.

"Silence, woman! you are yet accountable to me," responded Major Grant sternly. Then he went on in a softened tone of voice: "My dear wife, if you are pleased to forget the injuries and insults offered you in my house by these people, you may be pleased to give them a few thousand dollars. If not, none can blame you. I choose to will them nothing; but the innocent boy should not be made to lose his inheritance for his mother's folly. So I have left him twenty-five thousand dollars. The income of that sum will support him, and, if well managed, educate him. Let me sign the will, Lawyer Mellen."

The pen was given him, and he wrote his name with a bold, dashing stroke. The witnesses added their signatures, and for once villainy was punished. Mrs. Grant Whitney bore her defeat proudly. She declined no word of reproach or entreaty, but followed her husband from the room without even saying "farewell" to the man who had done so much for them, and whom they had so bitterly wronged.

They left Frankie with his mother, who could scarcely believe that fate had forgot to be cruel to her, and given her all this happiness, when her woe seemed to be most heavy and her sorrows greater than she could bear. She held the hand of her kind husband while he slept again, and little Frankie sat beside her, glad to be left alone with his dearly loved mother.

Finally, Lawyer Mellen returned home, and Mrs. Grant was left alone with her husband and child. Then came days of slowly gaining health for the invalid, until he was able to be moved to a quiet hotel. Before he left the sexton's house, he made him a present which greatly rejoiced the heart of the honest old man. It was a deed of a comfortable house and garden near the spot where he had rendered such signal service to Major Grant.

The purchase amounted to over five thousand dollars, and the old sexton felt as rich as any man in New York State. The invalid was quietly settled at a good hotel, and then his health seemed to remain about the same, neither gaining nor losing.

Doctor Gladel advised a warmer and less variable climate, and Major Grant resolved to try a sea voyage. Consequently, preparations were made for a voyage across the ocean. After consulting her husband, Mrs. Grant sent a letter to her sister May, inviting her to visit them at their hotel.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

The Rev. Mr. Cameron.

May Mellen was at Old Home Farm when the letter from Mrs. Grant arrived. She had waited since their father was buried for some token from her sister, and now the expected summons had come. She read the letter, folded it away, and set about the few preparations for her journey.

The following day saw her at the hotel where Major Grant and his wife were boarding.

A tearful meeting between the sisters was followed by a cheerful greeting from Major Grant, who was glad to find another friend for his wife for whom he felt only the tenderest pity and love. He knew that he must leave her before many months had passed, and he was grieved that she must be left so friendless.

Her early fault had estranged her from all her former associates and relatives; only Christopher and May remained true. Therefore he welcomed May with more than his usual cordiality of manner."

At the close of the week of May's visit to her sister, Christopher came to escort her home. Minnie came down, too, and a day of social pleasure never to be forgotten by one of that group was enjoyed. A New Wrestler.

Courdreill, a gigantic Turkish wrestler, is in New York ready to meet all comers. Courdreill is 6 feet 2 1/2 inches tall, has a chest measurement of 55 inches, and tip the beam at 300 pounds. Courdreill has temperate habits but partakes of solids in keeping with his size. He eats but twice a day, the first meal consisting of four pounds of beefsteak, ten cups of coffee and a few other small things thrown in. The second meal usually consists of chicken, three or four in number, with a corresponding amount of trimmings. The sum of $5 a day will be laid aside for Courdreill's edibles. Pierri says the Turk will meet everybody, first come, first served.

Had Lived Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Career.

Springfield, Mass., November 15.—With the exception of hearing the alleged confession of Bertram G. Spencer, that he murdered Miss Martha B. Blackstone, the School teacher on the night of March 31, 1910. An immense crowd surged about the Court House here to-day, where Spencer is being tried for his life. His confession, which the police declare they secured from Spencer shortly after his arrest, has never been made public.

It has been authoritatively stated, however, that Spencer, in the confession, laid bare his career for three years previous to his arrest, admitting that he was the man who caused a reign of terror throughout Western Massachusetts by daring robberies and telling in detail of the killing of Miss Blackstone in the home of Mrs. Sarah J. Dow.

Only four or five more witnesses for the prosecution awaited the call to testify when the court opened to-day, and it was expected that the direct testimony for the Commonwealth would be completed in time for the opening address of the defence to the jury to be delivered by Attorney Young before this evening's adjournment.

Hereditary insanity as an explanation of the "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" career of Bertram G. Spencer will be offered by counsel for the defence, according to an announcement made after the beginning of the trial of the young woman.

Spencer's arrest ended a two years' series of robberies which had terrorized the community. The prisoner had hitherto borne the best of characters and there was no suspicion that he was concerned in the robberies.

These robberies and the killing of Miss Blackstone on the night of the last one are said to have been admitted by the young clerk and his attorneys and they have determined to fight out the case with the insanity plea.

So great has been the excitement over the trial that it was expected much difficulty would be experienced in selecting a jury but when the first session ended, the box had been filled and only 125 of the 233 veniremen drawn had been questioned.

"The Pluckiest Man."

It was Field Marshal Sir George White who once referred to General Hunter as "the pluckiest man he had ever met." During the siege of Ladysmith Hunter was entrusted to take a force from the besieged city to silence a Boer gun which had been shelling Ladysmith disastrously. Stealthily in the small hours, he and his men groped their way up the great hill.

"Who goes there?" shouted a Boer sentry. "Half of Old England, old chap," was the commanding officer's response, as he felled the speaker and rushed on the conquest. General Hunter admits that was the most thrilling experience of his career—so far.

The Evening

"I was surprised the other day to hear the lady who always speaks somewhat slightly of a certain kind act on the part of a neighbor of ours."

Molly also noticed the unaccustomed tone in the lady's remarks.

"Why, that isn't like you, big sister," she commented.

The lady-who-always-knows-somehow flushed up a distressed pink. "I should hope it wasn't," she said. "I am ashamed of myself. I have a confession to make, and this is a good chance to make it. I don't like that woman and I can't seem to be just to her. I know she is kind hearted, wonderfully clever, well educated, agreeable, and everything estimable; yet I see everything she does through blue glasses. I know I ought to admire and like her, yet I can't. I try to control my feelings and hide them, but every once in a while they break out in something like what I just said. Won't you please consider it unsaid?"

I wonder how many people could say in all honesty that they never felt towards anyone just as the lady-who-always-knows-somehow confessed she felt towards this person.

Not many, I fancy.

Press up, now. In all your acquaintance, isn't there some excellent and worthy persons to whom you feel an unaccountable dislike and to whom you know in the bottom of your heart that you do not do justice?"

You hear of some kind act of his and you catch yourself looking for an unworthy ulterior motive.

When someone expresses a liking or an admiration for his person, you feel a quick pang of hurt as if the cologne had said something unkind or detrimental to you.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

The Evening Chit-Chat
By MUTH CAMERON

"I was surprised the other day to hear the lady-who-always-knows-somehow speak slightly of a certain kind act on the part of a neighbor of ours. Molly also noticed the unaccustomed tone in the lady's remarks. 'Why, that isn't like you, big sister,' she commented.

The lady-who-always-knows-somehow flushed up a distressed pink. 'I should hope it wasn't,' she said. 'I am ashamed of myself. I have a confession to make, and this is a good chance to make it. I don't like that woman and I can't seem to be just to her. I know she is kind hearted, wonderfully clever, well educated, agreeable, and everything estimable; yet I see everything she does through blue glasses. I know I ought to admire and like her, yet I can't. I try to control my feelings and hide them, but every once in a while they break out in something like what I just said. Won't you please consider it unsaid?'

I wonder how many people could say in all honesty that they never felt towards anyone just as the lady-who-always-knows-somehow confessed she felt towards this person.

Not many, I fancy.

'Pess up, now. In all your acquaintance, isn't there some excellent and worthy persons to whom you feel an unaccountable dislike and to whom you know in the bottom of your heart that you do not do justice?'

'You hear of some kind act of his and you catch yourself looking for an unworthy ulterior motive.'

When someone expresses a liking or an admiration for his person, you feel a quick pang of hurt as if the eulogizer had said something unkind or detrimental to you.

You hear of some mistake made by somebody with which this person is connected, and you immediately assume that all the blame belongs to him.

You are told of some good fortune that has befallen to his lot, and at once you try to find a chance to suspect that he obtained it by undesirable means, or else you hunt diligently for a fly in his ointment, and are not content until you find it, and point it out to others.

And yet none of these things is the least bit like you. You despise such feelings on principle and you never do feel that way towards anyone else.

What is it, then, that makes you feel this way?

I wonder.

If the lady-who-always-knows-somehow will pardon me, I'm going to make a suggestion. I'm frankly confess I found it by searching out the blackness of my own heart, so perhaps she will forgive me for asking her to share the stigma of the explanation.

The lady-who-always-knows-somehow admitted that her scape-goat was a most estimable and much praised person. I think, if you will examine, you will find that yours is of the same nature and never by any chance, a generally disliked, discredited and worthless person.

How does that happen?

Oh, there's the rub. How does it? Would it make it any easier for you to conquer and crush out this unreasonable dislike if you admitted to yourself that it had its deep, unacknowledged roots, not in the unavoidable queeriness of human nature and your own particular eccentricity as you may have been flattering yourself—but right in two of the meanest, most hateful and most shameful of human passions—envy and jealousy?

If it would, I am pretty certain you may give yourself that help.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well.

Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drug. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

Shot at Police.

14 Years' Penal Servitude—Speech From the Dock.

Fourteen years' penal servitude was the sentence passed by Mr. Justice Grantham at the Old Bailey yesterday on Harry de Vene, twenty-one, artist, who pleaded guilty to shooting at Police-Constable Askew, with intent to do him grievous bodily harm, and who also admitted stealing a camera from the shop of the Westminster Photographic Exchange in Oxford-street.

The case for the prosecution, particulars of which appeared in The Daily Mail on October 23, was outlined by Mr. Muir. The prisoner was stated to have broken a shop window and taken a camera, and to have fired a pistol at the police when pursued. He had a very bad record, said counsel, and appeared to be a most desperate character.

Detective-Sergeant Protheroe provided a number of convictions against the prisoner. His real name, said the witness, was Harry Clay, and he was only liberated from prison on September 8. As a boy of sixteen, with a revolver and mask, he was concerned with two men in an attempt to break into an office.

The prisoner's attitude during the proceedings was very remarkable. He laughed frequently, and occasionally whistled incredulously, and he said to one officer, who was describing the Sidewalk Sketches.

THE AUTUMN LEAF.

The autumn leaf has been the inspiration of more peg-legged poetry of the fig-saw rhythm than any other victim of the poetic art, unless it is the beautiful snow. For some reason or other, whenever the goddess of poetry tackles the autumn leaf she limps worse than a small boy with a stone bruise. Every fall, within fifteen minutes after the poets light on the autumn leaf and turn loose a crop of blank verse that stutters like the defendant in divorce suit. There are only two words that rhyme with leaf in a manner to charm the aesthetic taste, and they are "beef" and "deaf," and they are so badly overworked that they are in the sarage most of the time. The only man who wastes no heart throbs on this kind of poetry is the coarse householder who lets himself into a tin easel-spoon with a whisk broom and tries to head off the autumn leaf before it lands in the cistern. An appeal to this man's better nature with a few mortuary stanzas about the beauty of the fading leaf is about as effective as applying an ice pack to a nervous chill. After a man has spread himself over the front lawn and raked autumn leaves out of the teeth of a high wind until his back has a crook in it like a side comb, he is in no mood to endorse any long-meter rhapsody about nature's shroud. The only things that will arrest his attention are a bonfire and a porous plaster in the full strength of its manhood. If some of our poets who get on a full head of steam with the deceased were obliged to chase a wooden rake over a lot sprinkled with shedding soft maples for a few hours they would lead their muse into the house and chloroform it on the back steps on the spur of the moment.

Zam-Buk Healed Baby's Sores.

Mrs. C. Parly of 479 Seigneurs St. Montreal, writes:—"I cannot tell you how thankful I am for the cure Zam-Buk has worked in the case of my baby son. He was troubled with scap disease and I tried everything I could think of, but in vain.

"Finally I tried Zam-Buk. I could see an improvement after two applications! After persevering with the Zam-Buk treatment he is now completely cured. Zam-Buk is certainly a wonderful balm, and I shall always keep it on hand."

Mothers should use Zam-Buk for all skin sores, ringworm, scalp sores, cuts, chafings, bruises, coldsores, chapped hands, piles, eczema, bad leg, varicose sores, etc. 50c. box, all druggists and stores.

Zam-Buk Soap 25c. tablet is best for baby bath and for delicate skins.

arrest. "You are a gentleman, you are. You ought to get a putty medal." To one witness he said, "You liar!"

"Oh, that's the truth," retorted the prisoner. "You need not hush."

The prisoner then made a remarkable statement: "What was actually done?" he said, "One window broken, one policeman slightly injured. All the rest of the charge is gas, puffed up for the benefit of the police. Press, and the sensation-reading public. As for intention, etc., who knows what I intended? If every man's intentions were known, every man would deserve hanging twice in his life.

"That is one side; what is the other? The Westminster Photographic Exchange has been amply compensated. I have been the means of the promotion, however slight, of the detectives and the police who have been brought prominently forward, and the officer who was shot is no worse off.

"Through that one incident I have been the cause of hundreds of men being employed—printers, lawyers, clerks, and policemen."

(Laughter.)

His object in shooting, he said, was only to keep the policeman back. He was a "crack" shot, and could have shot them dead if he wished. "I am sorry I hurt the constable, but necessity knows no law. If I go back to prison I shall end my life. They can't stop me. This girl (a girl with whom he was living) and I were two wrecks drifting on the high seas of a Christian world, and everyone firing a shot to sink us."

The prisoner received his sentence in silence.—Daily Mail, Nov. 9th.

The "Grey" Crisis.

According to our messages, there seems to be quite a grave crisis in the British Government circles, on the subject of the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, and at the attitude of Britain towards Germany on the Moroccan crisis. Much of the message may be discounted largely as compiled in London for circulation in American newspapers, and this accounts for the references to Ambassador Bryce. It is hardly probable that the Ministry will offer Sir Edward as a victim to Germany, as the French Cabinet offered one of its ministers some years ago. The policy of the Minister it must be remembered was the policy of the Cabinet, and one of the most radical members of that Cabinet, Mr. Lloyd George, was put forward by the Government to give public expression of the policy of the Government towards Germany, and it was the speech of Lloyd George which roused the ire of Germany. Under such circumstances, it would appear that the Cabinet must stand or fall as a whole. Otherwise the Cabinet will show deplorable weakness. There can be no room for doubt that the House of Commons would back the Government by overwhelming majorities in this affair. The aspiration of the Radicals for an understanding is right and proper, but the singling out of Grey for sacrifice is an un-British way of going about it.

Psoriasis 'All Over Body

Most dreaded of skin diseases was cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Psoriasis is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and it is usually considered incurable. But this case proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a cure, in spite of the doctor's prediction. Mrs. Nellie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes: "For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me and one of them told me if any one offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough." Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cts. a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. MONTREAL, To-day. The fund for the relief of McGill University, which is being raised by a five days' whirlwind campaign, passed the million dollar mark yesterday, on the way to the fifteen hundred thousand dollar point, which the Committee must reach to obtain the hundred thousand dollar subscription of Robert Belford.

LONDON, To-day. Questioned as to the entry of Russian troops into Persia, in spite of the compliance of the Persian Government with the Persian ultimatum, the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, stated in the House of Commons, yesterday, that while Persia has agreed to comply, the matter was not likely to be completed for a few days. In the meantime the Russian Government has assured the British Government that the despatch of troops is only a temporary measure taken in order to secure satisfaction.

LONDON, To-day. Sir Edward Grey, who during the earlier years of his occupancy of the Foreign Office, received almost the unanimous support of all parties, recently has been the object of continuous attack, not from the Opposition, but by the members of his own party or rather by the extreme Radical element of his party. The secrecy with which diplomatic negotiations have been carried on, aroused the ire of the Radicals. The disclosures regarding Anglo-German conversations in respect to Morocco, and the statements that the countries were on the verge of war, have given the Radicals another opening, and they are now understood to be pressing for the retirement of Sir Edward Grey, declaring "We won't be drawn into war without knowing the reason why." The Radicals favour an Anglo-German understanding and accuse Sir Edward Grey of balking their efforts in this direction, either by design or through the influence of anti-German officials at the Foreign Office. Should Sir Edward resign, Mr. Haldane, Secretary for War, and Mr. McKenna, the Home Secretary, will likely follow him. Ambassador Bryce is likely to be drawn into the controversy. He would be supported by the entire party. The lobby is full of rumors of other troubles besetting the Government. It is said in London quarters that the Cabinet will not be able to satisfy Mr. John Redmond's Home Rule demands, which have been created through fear of the influence of O'Brien's strength in Ireland. The Labourites are dissatisfied with the findings of the Royal Commission of last August in respect to the railway strike. They blame the Cabinet for the failure to secure recognition of the Unions. The Prime Minister, however, is under a moral obligation to avoid a crisis during the King's absence, but it may be beyond his power to do so.

Twenty-Five Hours on a Raft

Sole Survivor of a Crew of Eleven. Landed at Grimby yesterday by the German steamship Gretchen Muller. H. Frenneson, the mate of the Swedish barque Heeta, told a thrilling story of shipwreck. The Heeta, with a crew of eleven, was overtaken by Sunday's storm while in the North Sea.

The barque sprang a leak, had her boats and masts torn by the heavy seas, and drifted helplessly before the gale until she finally, on Monday morning, sank. The captain and all the crew had donned life-belts, and Frenneson stated yesterday that he saw his companions swimming about for a time in the heavy seas, but he is of opinion that ultimately they all sank.

Frenneson saved himself by seizing a part of the barque's cabin as it drifted past. This made him a sort of raft.

A sea chest which he also recovered he fastened to the raft, and made an improvised sail out of some canvas. He had neither food nor water, and owing to the heavy seas was unable to sit down on his raft. Drenched to the skin, he clung to the sea chest and drifted about for twenty-five hours, when the Gretchen Muller sighted him and picked him up. He was then in a very exhausted condition.

Terrible Experience of Crew of the Scher Riseover.

From the officers of the s.s. Fogota, which returned from the north last evening, we get the following particulars about the loss of the Scher Riseover and two of her men. The Riseover, with Skipper Wm. Pomeroy, James Pomeroy, William Percy, William Jones, John Pomeroy and Arch Spracklin, left Seldom (Come By) last Saturday morning for St. John's with a cargo of lumber. In the afternoon the wind hauled around to the S. E. a smart breeze, which by night had increased to a gale. The schooner, having a deck load of lumber, labored heavily in the gale, so the skipper decided that it would be best to run back to Seldom and make a harbor for the night. She was put under single reefed foresail, jumbo and jib, and was going along at about 12 knots. The skipper gave orders to look out for the Shaq Rock, which he knew to be in the course. He climbed into the fore rigging in order to get a better look out. The whole crew spent a most anxious hour peering out in the darkness and thinking that at any moment they may strike the rocks and go down to a watery grave. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the skipper saw the white combing of the breakers a gunshot ahead. He knew at once that the "Muddy Shag" was just ahead. He shouted to the man at the wheel "Hard down!" He in the excitement mistook the order or else did not hear it, and put the wheel hard up. In less than half a minute the Riseover was on the rocks and going to pieces. The bottom was ground out of her and the twisting of the keel on the rocks threw the two spars out of the keelson and they were forced through the deck and toppled over. The skipper saw that the only thing left to do now was to make a raft out of the lumber on the deck. This was done accordingly, as well as possible under the circumstances, and shortly before 10 a.m. Sunday, having taken a small supply of grub on the raft, the six men got it out clear of the breakers and steered as best they could for Fogota's Island about four miles away. The wind and tide were favorable for getting there. Good pro-

Sale of Work.

At 3.30 yesterday afternoon the Rev. J. Thackeray opened the Annual Sale of Xmas Novelties in the Lecture Room of the Congregational Church. The stalls were nicely arranged and laden with a great variety of attractive articles. The ladies in charge were kept busy attending to the numerous customers. There were served from 4 to 8 o'clock, and at 9 p.m. a concert was commenced, of which the following is the programme:—
Piano Solo—Miss M. Mitchell.
Song—Miss B. Langmaid.
Recitation—Mrs. T. J. Duley.
Song—Miss Irving.
Song—Miss Gladys Duley.
Song—Miss T. McKinley.
When the concert was over, teas were served again, and the Rev. J. Thackeray brought the sale to a close by a few appropriate remarks, extending thanks to those who had contributed to make the affair a success.

Sale of Work.

It was reported here yesterday that the search did not begin there, therefore till Tuesday morning. The Fogota went off to the Wadhams, inquiry of the lightkeeper there, but got no report. Capt. Barbour then ran a course to the S. E. for ten miles and came back on a zig-zag track so as to cover every yard of water with the naked eye. The wreckage of the Riseover was met 10 miles out of the Punks and scattered pieces of lumber were steamed through for fifteen minutes. They came across what the captain believed to be the raft on which the two men were driven off. After a careful search in the vicinity Capt. Barbour decided that there was no hope of striking the men and turned the steamer's bow for land, reaching Cat Harbor Wednesday morning. It is believed that the heavy sea running swept the two men off the raft, they having become easy victims of the storm by reason of cold and long exposure. One was 24 years old, a married man, and Spracklin, 20; unmarried.

Fogota Returns.

The S. S. Fogota, Capt. Baxter Barbour, returned from Change Islands at 5.45 last evening. The trip was a very stormy one and great risk and difficulty were experienced in making ports of call. Last Saturday night when the heaviest storm raged from the N. E. with snow, Capt. Barbour harboured in Dog Bay till morning. The ship took a small freight and the following passengers in the saloon: T. Lane, W. T. Beninger, Miss L. Barbour, Miss C. Parsons, J. Winsor, Engelen Supple, Capt. J. Winsor, K. Oakley, B. H. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. A. Coffin, William Pomeroy, James Pomeroy, William Percy, William Jones and 20 in steerage.

The Fogota went off the coast from the Wadhams last Tuesday in search of the two men missing from the Scher Riseover, and had a very stormy time. The weather was stormy, but a thorough search was made for a circuit of 15 miles from the Wadhams to the Punks, but they saw no sign of the missing men.

FUNERAL TO-DAY.—The funeral of the late Miss Mary Ann King took place at 2.30 this afternoon from 138 Water St. West, and was largely attended.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Nov. 23. Lord Charles Beresford, speaking at Southsea, with reference to the Moroccan situation, said he had avoided mentioning the naval crisis recently, because under the conditions that then prevailed about the party and support the Government. Now the crisis was past, but it had been a blessing in disguise, because it would result in placing the service on the right footing. At the time of the crisis, continued Lord Charles, the British fleet was divided. It had no reserve of coal or oil fuel. There were no guards over the magazines or dockyards, or on those parts of the railways which might have been destroyed in a few minutes. In many other ways the navy lacked efficiency. All might be remedied, continued Lord Charles, by having a War Staff at the Admiralty. Every other nation has one. The revelations of the German Foreign Minister have caused a great sensation in London, as showing how Europe was on the brink of a war over Morocco. Sir Edward Grey's version of the transaction last Monday in the House of Commons is awaited with intense interest. The London newspapers are reserving comment until they hear the British side. The Telegraph, in an editorial, remarks, "Europe looked into an abyss and recoiled with horror."

LONDON, Nov. 23. The Pekin correspondent of the Times says that the revolution has reached Tibet, the Chinese Customs officials being compelled to withdraw. Word that the Tibetans have risen against the Chinese may be expected at any time.

PEKIN, Nov. 23. Yuan Shi Kai is now practically dictator. The indications are that he has decided to embark on a vigorous campaign against the rebels in Pekin and Tien Tsin.

COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 24. The Foreign Secretary's explanation leaves no doubt that an Anglo-German clash was imminent in July last, according to an apparently inspired despatch from Berlin to the Cologne Gazette, which further adds: "An acute crisis has passed, but the situation remains grave. Germany awaits with the greatest anxiety the decision of the Kaiser and the Emperor of Austria. The Kaiser's decision is awaited with the greatest anxiety. The Kaiser's decision is awaited with the greatest anxiety."

LONDON, Nov. 23. The first court-martial in King George's reign ended with violence when the King's Domestic Chaplain, and also Honorary Chaplain to the King, Alexander, charged with drunkenness and immorality have been made against the deposed Chaplain, and are now being tried by the Bishop of Norwich. Mr. Farrar is missing, and a number is being made for him. The sensation caused by his downfall is being felt in the public, as a recipient of royal favour. It is confidently believed that he would soon have been made a Bishop.

LONDON, Nov. 24. It was reported here yesterday that Mr. Farrar's appointment as Chaplain to the King and Honorary Chaplain to Queen Alexandra was cancelled by the King without any motive being made public, has gone to Canada. He is travelling incognito. The name of the steamer on which he sailed is as yet unknown.

LONDON, Nov. 24. The belief prevails that a political crisis is at hand, and that Foreign Secretary Grey will resign from the Cabinet after his eagerly awaited expedition on foreign relations Monday next, and that Ambassador Ervy will succeed him. The resignation of Grey is almost certain to be handed the Premier, should any lack of confidence be shown by the House of Commons before his departure. His statement Monday next.

SALMON, Prince, Nov. 23. Sixty passengers lost their lives today through a train plunging into the river Thonet, owing to a breakdown of a railway bridge. The train was travelling to Porters and contained 100 passengers. While crossing the bridge the structure, which was recently weakened by recent floods, broke down, crashing with the whole of the cars into the stream.

The Present Offer

Of the new, 11th edition, of the Encyclopaedia Britannica at Low Prices must be withdrawn very shortly.

PRESENT PRICES IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

These are the same as were those in force in the United Kingdom and the United States up to May 31st last, viz.—for cash payments—

- $123.25 India Paper, cloth binding, light green
- $152.25 India Paper, sheepskin, dark green
- $195.75 India Paper, full morocco, dark red

At a small increase in price—payment can be made in 4, 8 or 12 monthly instalments.

A PAYMENT OF $5.00 SECURES DELIVERY

Further, an immediate payment of $5.00 will secure delivery of the complete set of 28 volumes and index volume.

MONTHLY INSTALMENTS OF ONLY $5.00

The purchase may then be completed by 27, 33 or 42 monthly instalments of only $5.00, according to the binding selected.

THE FUTURE PRICES WHEN THIS OFFER IS WITHDRAWN

Each set, in whatever form, will cost at least $10.00 more and the price will be raised gradually or quickly, until it reaches nearly double the present rate for that, the original cost of the 9th Edition, is the ultimate price at which the new (11th) Edition will be sold.

THE OBJECT OF THE RISE IN PRICE

It is only by this gradual and steady rise in price that the publishers can protect their subscribers. Usually publishers produce an expensive Edition of a work and subsequently issue the same book in a cheaper form. This naturally causes a considerable fall in the price-value of the more expensive Edition and a feeling of dissatisfaction among earlier purchasers who realize that it would have been wiser to have waited for the issue of a cheaper Edition.

NO CHEAPER EDITION OF THE NEW ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

There will be no cheaper Edition issued by the Cambridge University Press of the new (11th) Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. So far from that being the case, the price will, as has been stated, be steadily raised till it reaches nearly double the present rate.

NO "PIRATED" CHEAPER AMERICAN EDITION CAN BE SOLD

In the past cheap "pirated" and unauthorized Editions of the Encyclopaedia Britannica have been sold. The present (11th) Edition has been fully protected against this form of fraud, fraud not only against the publishers, but also against the purchasers who have bought unwittingly poor reproductions with serious omissions, inaccuracies and other glaring defects. The new (11th) Edition, in accordance with the United States Copyright Act of 1909, has been "manufactured" in the United States, simultaneously with its production in England. Full protection is, therefore, granted against unauthorized cheap Editions. The Volumes now on delivery in Newfoundland have been produced in England.

THE PROSPECTIVE LIFE OF THE NEW EDITION

Former Editions have been published at intervals of some 12 years, but, produced volume by volume over a lengthy period, the conclusion of the issue has seen the earlier volumes long out of date. The new Edition has been written, edited and published with a view to its publication at one time as a complete and uniform whole. The lasting value is thereby enormously increased and its life correspondingly prolonged.

NO NEW EDITION BEFORE 1925 AT THE EARLIEST

The Cambridge University Press, the owners of the copyright, will not publish any new Edition before 1925 at the earliest and that date, considering the time and cost required for the making of a new Edition, should be extended, in all likelihood, until 1930.

The India paper impression of the new, 11th edition, of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in the two-tier mahogany bookstand, of which the outside measurements are: 34 in. high, 19 in. high, 10 in. deep.

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

There are a limited number of sets of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica now in St. John's. To prompt applicants, they will be delivered immediately on receipt of a cash payment of $5.00 only. Purchase may then be completed by monthly payments of $5.00 or in 4, 8, or 12 monthly instalments at very little more than the cash price.

THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA BROUGHT WITHIN REACH OF ALL

By this method of easy instalments of only $5.00 each month, the new work, with all its wealth of fascinating reading, its store of authoritative information, its high educational value, is brought within the reach of all. Rightly considered the Encyclopaedia Britannica is a collection of books, a complete library in itself, which, if quantity of reading matter were alone considered, would, at ordinary book prices, cost at least eight times as much as its present price. To purchase, however, in separate books, an equivalent to its contents in value and authority, would entail the most careful and lengthy choice and an expenditure of several thousand dollars.

THE PRESENT OFFER IN NEWFOUNDLAND MUST BE SOON WITHDRAWN

The representative of the Cambridge University Press must leave St. John's very shortly. At that date the offer of the present low prices will be withdrawn and the higher prices will then be in force. Further, orders will then be received in London only and will thus have to wait for delivery a considerable time. Immediate orders can receive delivery at once from the limited stock at present in St. John's. While the St. John's office remains open a reserve stock is available in London awaiting order for further shipments, and subscribers will receive delivery from this in strict rotation. When, however, the present offer is withdrawn, the reserve stock will be withdrawn also and as the sale in England during the coming winter and spring is expected to be very large, subsequent orders from Newfoundland will be subject to considerable delay.

To secure quick delivery, therefore, prompt application is essential. Fill up the appended coupon at once and send to Court on Circuit.

Yesterday the Supreme Court on Circuit was opened at Harbor Grace by Mr. Justice Johnson, who addressed the Grand Jury. A true bill for bigamy was presented against a Mr. Poldier, who on arraignment pleaded not guilty. The trial was set down for Saturday. Mr. Squires defends the accused.

Davis vs. the Catholic Cadet Corps was set down for to-day. Mr. McNelly for plaintiff; Mr. Higgins for defendant.

Trappell vs. Coady was heard yesterday and a settlement arrived at between the parties. Mr. Howley, K.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Squires, for defendant.

Quarantine Tax.

Dear Sir.—There is a quarantine tax of $10.00 collected by the authorities from all steamers arriving at this Port from Sydney, C.B., since April last, and I understand from parties interested, that this charge on shipping is owing to the S. S. Newfoundland on arrival from sealfishery, bringing smallpox to this port, which was supposedly traced to Sydney.

It is somewhat difficult to imagine why ships from the above Port should be quarantined, while arrivals from all other Canadian Ports are exempt, but the ridiculous side of the matter is, that a local ship makes the voyage to Sydney and back, in five or six days, and smallpox takes any time up to twenty one-days to develop.

The writer is unaware of what performance, if any, is enacted at Port aux Basques, but any one can understand that a passenger could come here from Sydney and be at St. Anthony or in Great Britain before the smartest medical expert could truthfully say he had smallpox.

Thanking you for space, sir,
I remain, yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Be Warned by Headache

It tells of Serious Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys—Try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

You can stop a headache with powerful drugs. But it is not generally wise to do so. A headache almost always warns you of derangements of the digestive system, the liver, kidneys or bowels. Awaken the liver to healthy action by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you not only free yourself of headache, but remove the cause which will soon lead to more dangerous results than headache.

Pains are the result of poison in the system and whether you have headache, backache or aching limbs, you can be almost sure of relief and cure by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are wonderfully prompt, as well as definite and thorough in action. You can depend upon them, no matter how long-standing or complicated your case. One pill a dose; 2 cents a box; all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Tinklings.

Symptoms of the land grant mania still prevalent in other parts of the country are being exhibited rather much about here of late. The "germ" is so large as to be discernible to the naked eye, but it seems no effort is being made to combat it. We have a specialist here from Trepassey who claims that cure is better than prevention and who thinks, strangely enough, that it can only be effected by the application of a few acres of land.

An example of admirable grit and determination is, "The Master", an enterprising mill-owner of this place so designated owing to the fact that he was once schoolmaster. His steadfast determination to succeed despite great difficulties in the form of exceptional type displayed by Bruce of Scotland, and must eventually win out. "The Master" was for years a resident in the city of Boston, but returned subsequently to his native village, thinking apparently, with a modern writer, that it is better to be a big man in a small town than a small man in a big town.

Two of our local sports, in fact the "Big Two," went in the deer country last week to look for some venison. They did not get any. Why? You ask. Hayseed shot. I believe, not only too much of it but too little of anything else. Well, I never supposed hayseed shot to be the proper thing to go after deer with, except it would be to wound the pride of the noble animal.

"Big No. 1" emphatically states that if the trail could be held, "that deer would certainly be found dead," which I think not at all improbable. The eventual cause of death, though would not be so clear to HUGH N. MEE.

Salmionier, Nov. 1911.

Here and There.

LEAVING MONTREAL.—The S. S. Rosalind is supposed to have left Montreal to-day for St. John's. The St. Lawrence navigation will likely close this week.

RETURNS BY S. S. PORTIA.—Mrs. Linahan, of John's Pond, St. Mary's Bay, who had a successful operation at the General Hospital, will return home by the S. S. Portia to-morrow quite recovered.

FOOTBALL DINNER.—A dinner will be given at Woods' Restaurant to-night by the "Old Boys" of the Methodist College in honor of the football team of the school which won the championship.

LINE STILL DOWN.—The telegraph lines are still out of order up week. The repairs have been out since yesterday morning, but there are so many breaks to repair and poles to erect that it will take several days before the whole line is O.K. again.

CONVINCING

It is impossible for any argument in favour of Sunlight Soap to be more convincing than a trial of the Soap itself.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

TRY THE SUNLIGHT WAY.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

The man whose appetite is fine, can, when he sits up to dine, dispose of sundry chops or steaks, and finish up on pies and cakes, who goes clean through the bill of fare before he rises from his chair—that THE GOOD man should envy none on earth—the gods were smiling at his birth! He may be doomed to humble toil—to pushing plowshares through the soil, to packing swill for hungry sows, to sawing horns for muley cows, to digging gumbo in a ditch—but he can view the idle rich, and he can look on sceptred kings, and say: "I'm better off, by Jings!" For what avails all wealth or pomp if one is not inspired to romp when sounds the gladsome dinner horn? I'd rather chew an ear of corn, or eat a shoulder or a ham, or fill myself with prunes and jam, and know I can digest the same, than bask in wealth or roll in fame." The world with sorrow is replete for those who vince when they must eat, who have to exercise the jaw on predigested chop and straw, who look with horror on a roast, as though it was their father's ghost. But life is full of wholesome glee for him whose stomach, bold and free, is always ready for a chore, takes what it gets and looks for more.

Social Ethics.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir.—There are some of us who have been wondering why so much enthusiasm should be expended in the crusade against drunkenness and so little attention given to movements which deal with matters which to many people seem to be of equal if not greater importance, and it has been suggested that perhaps the time is ripe for the formation of a Society on the lines of the White Cross League of England, whose objects amongst others are the promotion of "clean living," "a chivalrous respect for womanhood," "a higher tone of public opinion."

I have been requested to invite communications from any who might wish to take part in a private discussion of the subject, and I am desired to make it plain at the same time that we are not superior persons trying to set every body else right, but only very ordinary, common-place folk seeking the cooperation of those who like ourselves have sometimes found the world a queer place to be in, and think that by meeting and talking things over we may make it a bit easier for ourselves to live in and perhaps, indirectly, for others as well.

We should feel grateful if you would kindly find space for these few lines in your columns.
I remain, sir,
Your obedient servant,
ALFRED H. ALLEN.

Here and There.

CAME TO HOSPITAL.—Mrs. Spurrell came in from Harbor Grace yesterday by the 1 p.m. train to go to Hospital. As there was no vacant cubicle she was taken to a boarding house by Mr. E. Whiteaway. She is very ill.

BODY SENT HOME.—By the S. S. Portia to-morrow the body of the late Laurence Gibbons will be sent home to St. Vincent's, St. Mary's Bay, for burial. Deceased, who was a fine smart young fisherman of only 20 years of age, underwent an operation for appendicitis.

MEDICINE Versus NATURE

Why turn yourself into a medicine-chest, filling it with every new concoction that comes along?
Nature does the curing, not medicine.
Ask your Doctor if SUNSHINE AND SCOTT'S EMULSION is not the treatment for Coughs and Colds, Grippe, and many other ills.

$25 in GOLD Given Away

The great "QUEEN LINIMENT" COMPETITION" open to every Man, Woman and Child in Newfoundland. On the 1st of March, 1912, will be given away to the Four or more successful winners of this competition the sum of $25.00 in Gold.

We have on exhibition in the window of our Medical Hall, Theatre Hill, a rectangular box having an inside space as follows: length, 8 inches; breadth, 4 inches; height, 3 inches. This box is filled with Antibiotic Pills of about the size of a pea. The competition is to guess as near as possible the number of pills contained in the box. The person guessing the exact number, or the nearest number of pills in the box, will receive for the first prize $10.00; second prize, $5.00; third and fourth prizes, $2.50 each.

In the event of two or more persons guessing the same number, the amount of the prize will be proportionately divided amongst the successful winners. That rule will apply to all prize winners. Every person purchasing a bottle of our "QUEEN OF LINIMENTS," whether in the city or outport towns, and mailing us the outside green wrapper of bottle, with the number of guess, together with their name and address, will have a chance of winning the grand prize.

On the same date the box will be opened by two reliable and competent judges, who will carefully count the number of pills, and make the awards to the successful competitors. "STAFFORD'S QUEEN OF LINIMENTS" is one of the most perfect and penetrating Liniments that can be purchased in Newfoundland, and it ought to be in every household. Once used always used.
