THE above is a view of Wellington Station on the P.E.I. Railway, and in the foreground is seen a little truck over which Mr. J. E. Arsenault, the station master, fell and sustained a bad cut on the front of his leg. He says: "I thought this would heal, but instead of doing so it developed into a bad ulcer and later into a form of eczema which spread very rapidly and also started on the other leg. Both legs became so swollen and sore that I could only go about my work by having them bandaged."

"I consulted a doctor, who treated the sores for a time, but they got no better, so he advised me to stop working. I did not want to do that, and consulted another doctor, having tried every remedy I could think of for six months without avail. The second doctor's treatment gave me no better results. The sores were very painful and continued to spread."

"I tried all the salves, liniments and lotions I heard of, but instead of getting better I got worse."

"This was my condition when I got my first box of Zam-Buk. Gladly to my delight that first box gave me relief. I continued to apply it to the sores, and day by day they got better."

"I could see that at last I had got hold of something which would cure me. I knew that a chronic case such as mine would take a good deal of time to cure, but it seemed to me that Zam-Buk was altogether different and superior to all the other preparations I had tried, and that perseverance with its use would have the right result. Well, I continued the Zam-Buk treatment, and in the end it cured me completely."

"It is now over a year since Zam-Buk worked a cure in my case, and there has been no return of the eczema or any trace of it. It would be impossible to find a case where the sores were worse than those on my limbs, and I think Zam-Buk is a marvellous healing balm or it could not have cured me as it did when all else failed."

A Millionaire's Countess Westerleigh

CHAPTER XXXVI

She trembled, and pressed her hand against the wet rock to steady herself. She was a woman, and could not be deceived. There was love, passionate love, in his voice, in his eyes.

"You never knew?" she faltered.

"Never!" he said. "I did not guess—" He stopped and uttered an exclamation, as the portrait in the lumber-room, the strange manner in which Mrs. Trevanion had spoken to him of Reuben Vale, rose in his memory. "I see it all now! I remember the portrait—it was your mother."

"Yes," she breathed.

He paced up and down the beach, his head upon his breast, trying to unravel the tangled skein; then he stopped in front of her.

"But why did you not, you yourself, write and tell me—send for me?"

Her head drooped, and she turned her face from him.

"I—I thought you knew from the papers they sent you, and—and that you did not want to see me, did not want to come," she murmured.

He stared down at her, then broke into a wild laugh.

"Not care to come, Nora! Look me in the face and say that. Not care to come, when I had been searching for you day and night, when I would have given the whole world to have seen you, if only for a moment, long enough to learn from your own lips that you were safe and happy."

He drew nearer to her, and resting one foot on the rock, bent over her.

"Nora, I would have come to you, if you had been at the other end of the world, if I had had to go through fire and water to reach you! You know why?"

She could not help the "Why?" that rose to her lips.

"Why?" He laughed again. "Because I loved you, because I should have come to you with the hope of winning your love. Yes, if you had sent to me—even if you had not—I should have come to you and—I would have made you love me!"

In the tempest of love's passion, that throbbled and shook him he forgot everything—forgot that his bride of the morrow was even now awaiting him.

She put her hands up to her eyes with a faint cry, almost a moan, and yet a moan not wholly of sorrow. There was another sound in it that went straight to his heart.

"Nora," he said, and let his hand fall on her arm. "Is there more mystery, more confusion and misunderstanding? Take your hands away from your eyes, that I may see them and read the truth."

He drew her hands away from her face and looked straight into her eyes.

"Nora—oh, my darling! what shall I say? How can I show you how dearly I love you—how badly I want you? Why did you deceive me that night at Ladb? Why did you pretend that you loved me, when all the while you were anxious to escape from me—when you preferred to face the world alone rather than marry me?"

The tears began to well into her eyes, her hands writhed together.

"Why did you do it? Did you hate me so much, dislike me so much, that you could not bring yourself to marry me?"

"No! no! no!"

The words seemed to force themselves through her lips and against her will.

"No?" he echoed, his hand tightening on her arm.

"Oh, no, no! You know!" she moaned. "Oh, Vane, Vane! you are cruel—cruel! You know that I loved you, that I loved you too well to let you run yourself by marrying such a one as I was!"

He doubted the evidence of his ears and eyes, for, indeed, her face was as eloquent of the truth as his few broken words.

"Nora!" he exclaimed, breathing hard.

"I loved you," she whispered, simply, humbly, "and I would not let you share my disgrace—for I had disgraced myself. Everybody would have shrunk from you as well as me, if you had married me. I would not fit to be your wife after—after what I had done. I was a leper—"

He caught her in his arms and drew her up to his breast.

"Nora, what is it you are saying? Do you know what you are saying? You—you—loved me—loved me all the time! And it was because you thought that you were not fit—Oh! my sweet, innocent child, you not fit to marry me!" He laughed, and held her at arm's length, devouring her face with his hungry eyes. "Why, how did such wild nonsense get into your head? How could it have done?"

Panting, she rested in his arms, her face upturned to him with a strange look in her lovely eyes, a look of one who wanders blindly out of the darkness of a great sorrow into the dazzling light of a greater joy.

He kissed her, kissed her lips, her hair, the wonderful eyes.

"My God!" he murmured, "is it only a dream? Can it be true that you and I are together again, Nora? That—that you love me, actually love me that night—"

There was silence for a spell then, blushing, she drew away from him and sunk on to the rock again and he flung himself at her feet and held her tightly, as if he still feared that she might vanish.

"Now—now tell me all, everything," he said. "Wait. Just say one word, 'I love you, Vane,' that may get a firm grip of it. You see I am not sure that I haven't gone mad, and that it isn't all a delusion."

She looked down at him, with love radiating from her whole face.

"I—I love you, Vane," she murmured, dutifully.

"And now, to begin with," he urged, "try and imagine how impatient I am to hear your story. Don't forget anything. And you are Reuben Vale's daughter? Why, we are a sort of cousins," he laughed. "And you live at Vale Hall? I know Vale Hall, you know. You remember I was going there. And who was Mrs. Trevanion?"

"My mother's sister," she said.

"Yes, yes, I see. And Reuben Vale did not know who you were, of course. But you'll have to tell me all about that later on. What I want to know is, where you fled to that night, and—and—oh, Nora, if you could guess what I've gone through! But never mind. That's all over and past. I've got you again, and I'll take care I don't lose you," and he drew her down to him and held her tightly for a moment. "Now, then, where did you go that night?"

"Not far," she said. "Only to Killin."

He stared at her.

"But you said you were going to London?"

She looked bewildered and shook her head.

"Never mind. I expect you scarcely knew what you were saying that night, my poor darling. To Killin! If I had only known, guessed that, and he drew a long breath.

"To Killin, or near there," she said. "And there I found some good, kind people—a father and daughter,

"Trust me," he said. "And that is what you meant when you wrote me you were well and happy? But why didn't you write before. Oh, dearest, if you had but written the day—two days—after you met with these people, and told me you were safe, how much less I should have suffered! But never mind, never mind. What is their name?"

Her face had grown pale again and troubled with doubt and perplexity.

"I—I wrote? I did not write!" she faltered.

He looked up at her smiling.

"Have you forgotten it, Nora?" He laughed a short, happy laugh. "Why, my dear child, I have the note, the precious little note, in my pocket at this moment. I say precious, though it hurt as well as comforted me, for it was hard to be told that you could be hiding from me and yet—happy."

"You—you have the note?" She said, her dark brows straight. "Show it to me."

He drew out his pocket-book and took out the letter.

"There it is, dearest. And I say, how nicely you write. I couldn't write such a good fast to save my life."

She took the paper in her hand and gazed at it as if she could not believe her eyes, then she turned her face to him with a troubled frown.

"I did not write this," she said. (To be continued.)

Says It's the Best Remedy

Has kept Joseph W. Spiers in health for so long a time that he recommends Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to anyone who wants a good medicine.

"I have been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a long time and find it to be a very good remedy—the best I have ever used, and I can recommend it to my friends, also anyone who wants a good medicine."—Joseph W. Spiers, Postmaster, McNeill, Miss.

The words of commendation this wonderful tonic stimulant receives from people holding responsible positions in life has done more to spread the truths of its benefits to mankind than anything we can say in print. Word-of-mouth advertising is something which cannot be bought for money, and is the most valuable. For years Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has received more of this voluntary, free-will testimony from person to person in sheer gratitude for the good it has done them than any other remedy in the world, and the reason is not hard to fathom.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has been before the public for half a century and its medicinal value is undoubted. It is an absolutely pure distillation of carefully malted grain. Overworked men and delicate women will find in Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey the health and strengthening properties that are so necessary to them. It is prescribed by doctors and recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

Sold in sealed bottles only by most druggists, dealers and hotels, $1.25 a large bottle. If in need of advice, write our Medical Department.

Time to Wake Up!

BY RUTH CAMERON.

The "nigger" dance seems to find its main origin in the crude and heathen sexual customs of middle Africa, afterwards passing through the centres of prostitution in large cities where the contributions of city savages from Paris to San Francisco have been added to it. — George Kibbe Turner.
 Did you ever have the eyes of your mind opened so suddenly on any subject that you felt almost blinded by the light of understanding?
 That is what happened to me the day before yesterday. Like everyone else in this country I had heard more or less about the "grizzly bear" and all its descendants down to the latest, the "grapevine." But up to the day before yesterday I had taken the description of these dances with that grain of salt with which most of us flavor any—no—credible report. I felt that either the indecency of these dances had been greatly exaggerated, or that they were only danced by low people who knew no better. It seemed incredible to me that the kind of people you and I meet would really dance the kind of dances pictured in the newspapers.
 Day before yesterday I saw with my own eyes young people who came from good (?) families, and who were raised by careful mothers, (save the mark!) publicly embracing each other in a manner which would not have been thought proper ten years ago for a young girl and her affianced husband.

They called this performance the "grapevine."
 Seeing is believing, they say. In this case I almost disproved that axiom. I could not believe my eyes.
 I talked with one of the matrons of the dance. She said, "You'll get used to it. They do that sort of thing now-a-days in some of the smartest houses."
 I used the word "immoral" and she became quite indignant. "To the pure, all things are pure," she sneered. "It isn't what you do that counts, it's the way you feel about it. If a girl is really nice, those dances don't suggest anything to her."
 I gave up the argument, but this is the way I would have continued it if she had been worth arguing with.
 "My dear madam, no moral girl is nice, if by nice you mean without any dormant sex feeling; and I suppose that is what you must mean, because that is the only kind of girl who would not, sooner or later, be affected by the attitudes assumed in these dances."
 The quotation at the head of this column is from a man who has studied this subject deeply. He adds later, apropos of the same kind of dancing, "Never before has dancing been such a provocative to immorality."
 We are so accustomed to warnings from the sensational press that we grow careless about them, but this is a time when the cry of "wool" really means danger.
 Now the best and surest way to get rid of the "grizzly bear" and all its disgusting descendants is to make them unpopular. My hand to every woman, young or old, who does his or her part toward that.

lowed to the representative elected a certain length of parliamentary life, in order to achieve great things. We did not like that the parliamentary trust should be a mere species of power to last for only one session, and then to have another election. We wanted that there should be a trust, in order that the electors themselves should know that they had confidence in those whom they elected; and then, that those who were elected should show in return to those who had elected them, the realization of their promises, made in honor, that they would legislate according to the interests and the welfare of the community at the time.
 Monsieur Guizot, I think, said on one occasion that "Common sense rules the world in the long run." It is so, and consequently, a Parliament of small duration, an annual parliament of too short duration, can never do any great work. With regard to us, we do not see far into the future, but we are good friends with our neighbors, and at this festive board, in the presence of the illustrious minister who represents that great nation (Hear, hear) I am glad to have this opportunity of telling him that with regard to him, and with regard to ourselves, we are as fully in exercise of our freedom as any one on the earth. Our Dominion, our Confederation, is not formed on the democratic principle; the representative element is a part of it, but it is founded on a monarchical basis. Our neighbors have their Confederation based entirely on the democratic principle; they have tried the experiment and it is a great success; but we have tried our system to some extent, and we expect that its trial will result in this—that so long as England shall enjoy the freedom and the advantage of a Parliament, our political gravitation and our political affection will always be towards the mother country (Hear, hear). In order that we may not lose sight of this fact, we have founded a great Empire which will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, we intend that all that immense territory shall be well governed, and governed not merely on a selfish principle as applied to us, but in order to add to the power and to the prosperity of the mother-country (Hear, hear). I am sure that there will never be any cause of difficulty between England and our friendly neighbors on account of ourselves. But it matters not; if that unfortunate day shall ever come, we in Canada are ready to accept our position (Hear, hear). We will accept the situation of the moment. But everyone of us who understands the natural inclination of our neighbors as well as of ourselves or of Englishmen, to enjoy peace, is convinced that that unfortunate day will not come, if, however, it should come, we will meet there. (Loud and continued cheers.)
 My Lord, I have heard a great deal this evening with regard to the Anglo-Saxon race. I had the honor to be presented to Her Majesty when she graciously gave me an invitation ten or twelve years ago, to go to Windsor, and Her Majesty was kind enough to interrogate me about the French Canadians. The shortest definition which I could give (because you must always be brief to Royalty, and perhaps to this meeting), was, that the French Canadians, as well as myself, were Englishmen speaking French (Cheers). They appreciate the work and the value of Saxon blood; and I cannot lose sight of the fact that there is an admixture of Norman blood with the best blood of England. I merely mention this to show that I am not in any way wounded by the admission, because I know a little of past history. With regard to ourselves, on the other side, the two races there are Frenchmen and Englishmen; we are Frenchmen, and the Frenchmen in Lower Canada have proved (or rather Englishmen speaking French) that we can carry out representative institutions. It is said by our neighbors opposite here, that representative and free government cannot be carried out. If they looked to that French colony which a few years ago numbered only 45,000 and which now numbers 1,000,000, they would see that the carrying out of the representative system has been a success. I thank you, my Lords and Gentlemen. (Cheers.)

Cartier's Pledge to Motherland

On behalf Canadian loyalty

To readers of the present day the following speech, delivered by Sir George Etienne Cartier at the Inaugural Dinner of the Royal Colonial Institute held at London in March 1869, will prove of more than passing interest. The chair was occupied by Viscount Bury, the President of the Society, and amongst those present on this occasion were the Prime Minister of England, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, His Excellency the Hon. Rensley Johnson, the United States Ambassador, His Grace the Duke of Manchester, the Most Noble the Marquis of Normandy, the Rt. Hon. Earl Granville, the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Albemarle, Lord Alfred Churchill and many other illustrious men of the day, numbering in all two hundred.
 Cartier was at that time in England negotiating the purchase of the North West Territories and his speech at this banquet on behalf of "The Colonial Parliaments of the Empire," forms a page of history which will be read with keen pleasure by all true-hearted Canadians. This speech, which has been heretofore unpublished, proves of unusual value as showing vividly the sentiments and motives which actuated the men who guided the helm of State in the early days of Confederation. Cartier's utterances on this occasion are forcefully eloquent of his loyalty to the British Crown and admiration for British Institutions. His pledge to the Motherland on behalf of Canadian loyalty, and his interpretation of Canadian Nationalism, would well serve as a noble object lesson to the present generation.
 At this time when public interest is aroused in the prospective celebration of the Centenary of Cartier's birth, this page from the historic past will doubtless inspire those in charge of the movement to greater zeal for the fitting celebration of the great event.
 My Lord Bury, my Lords and Gentlemen,—I must say at the outset that it requires from me a certain amount of boldness to address you after the eloquent speeches which have been made, and particularly in the presence of the Premier of England, who stands in this country not merely as the premier in the political world, but who also stands as one of the foremost in eloquence and as a scholar. As a matter of course, if you expect anything eloquent from me, I must tell you at once that you will be disappointed. At all events, I will do my utmost and I am sure you will excuse my shortcomings. My name is connected with this toast as relating to the Colonial Parliaments. I regret very much that the selection fell on me to answer for the representative bodies, as applied and carried out in the colonies which have the happiness to be connected with the British Empire—with the mother-country (Hear, hear). With regard to us, when we formed our Confederation, namely the Dominion of Canada, we were allowed by the liberality of the English Parliament and the English Government to set our brains to work, in order to present our own scheme of representation to the English Parliament for adoption. The Constitution which we enjoy was enacted by us, though it is by virtue of an Imperial Act. It was not the initiative of the British Parliament or of the British nation; we were allowed by the liberality of England to do it ourselves. (Cheers.) We came before the English Government. We came before the English Parliament. We presented a system which was of course a representative system; and it is a great source of pride, but a great source of encouragement to the public men who then took part in that great scheme, that it was adopted by the English Government and by the British Parliament without, I may say, a word of alteration (Hear, hear). We feel grateful for the freedom of action which was given to us on that occasion. When we had to consider what would be the representative institutions which ought to rule the great Dominion of Canada, we had, as a matter of course, to look into the past or the present history of nations which had enjoyed, or were enjoying representative institutions. We came to the conclusion that a legislative body, to be useful, ought to represent the sense of rectitude of the nation, but not the passions of the nation (Hear, hear). Consequently we adopted a system of representative government which al-

The Earl of Devon, Capt. Cartor, arrived at Bonne Bay at 8.30 a.m. to-day with the ballot boxes of St. Barbe on board. At 10 o'clock the Returning Officer commenced the checking of the ballots and the returns of the deputies. About 1 p.m. this was finished and it was found there were 2179 ballots, which shows that 478 more ballots were cast in 1913 than in 1909. At 2 p.m. the count of the poll started.

One up-to-date Dreadnaught with all modern appliances is worth 134,000 out of date "has beens," so it is with motor-engines. The FRASER is the only engine using a kerosene adapter during 1913 and the only engine which will run clean and satisfactory on kerosene. It is the dreadnaught of all motor-engines, we do not need go back twenty five years to count our sale, this would be ancient history but right here in Newfoundland to-day there are more FRASER engines being sold than any other make and to get right down to facts to the minute, since the first of July last when the merits of the FRASER kerosene adaptor with the former splendid FRASER record commenced to tell, we have sold more engines in Newfoundland fishermen than all other leading makes combined have sold and as evidence of good faith in this statement we offer to bet $1000 that the FRASER is the most popular engine in Newfoundland to-day. We now have over 100 contracts signed for next Spring delivery, which is likely as many as all other makes combined have orders for.

In Pouch Cove alone we have nine orders for spring delivery which will make eighteen FRASER engines in Pouch Cove next year, the Pouch Cove fishermen before buying had inquired of the Battery fishermen (St. John's) which engine to buy and where 90 per cent of the Battery fishermen are using FRASER and recommended them, 100 per cent of the Pouch Cove men bought FRASER engines, after carefully considering which Engine is the best.

What does this mean?

At Pouch Cove next door to St. John's where the reputation of every make of engine is known no other engine outside the FRASER is in use.

AFTER THE CONTEST.

What of the Future?

It must be gratifying to the Leader of the Liberal Party, Sir Robert Bond, to have received the largest vote ever polled by any public man in this country, and to have beaten the leading man on the opposing team by two thousand five hundred and ninety-one votes. But, it is no doubt much more gratifying to him to find that a large majority of the voters throughout the country have registered themselves in favor of his Party and Policy. Out of the total number of votes polled in every district, except St. Barbe, the count of which is not yet to hand, Sir Robert Bond's Party received over sixty thousand votes, being some nine thousand, eight hundred votes over and above those polled for the present Government. Sir Robert Bond's manifesto awoke these people to a sense of danger. His message contained in fact a new Declaration of Independence against the despotism of plutocracy and government fraud. A new Proclamation of Emancipation from the tyranny of predatory wealth, to the end that a real Government by and for the people might be established in place of Government by and for a rich corporation, companies and grafters. The poll for the Opposition candidates indicates that the terrible experience of the past four years have brought about a correct, calm, and disingenuous public opinion; that the majority of the people no longer consider themselves made for the use or benefit of those who exercise the powers of government, but that government was established for the use and benefit of those governed; that they, despise pretence and hypocrisy, and discount success achieved by bluff and bluster, aided by ill-gotten gold and a subsidized section of the press.

Then why, it may be asked, have the present Government still the power to rule, contrary to the will of the majority of the people of the land?

The answer is not hard to find. It is because under the present distribution of seats in the House of Assembly, it was possible, by a combined effort on the part of the great majority of our Roman Catholic friends, for the present Government to obtain twelve seats sure, and by manipulating the Roman Catholic votes in Protestant Districts to secure them sufficient support from these districts to hold on to power in defiance of the will of the majority of the electors of the land.

Where, may it be asked, does the remedy lie?

We reply, in a Redistribution Bill, that will give Roman Catholics and Protestants their proper share of representation in the House of Assembly.

At the present time Protestants have not their fair share of representation, and it will be the duty of the Opposition Party to see that they obtain it without delay.

The onus of refusing it, if it is refused, must be thrown upon Sir Edward Morris and his supporters in both branches of the Legislature.

It is an anomaly, it is an injustice, that the Roman Catholic District of Ferryland with a population of only five thousand eight hundred should have TWO REPRESENTATIVES, while the Protestant District of Port de Grave, with a population of nearly seven thousand has only ONE REPRESENTATIVE, and the Protestant District of St. Barbe, with a population of over ten thousand has only ONE REPRESENTATIVE.

It is a further anomaly and injustice that while the Roman Catholic District of Harbor Main, with a population of only nine thousand four hundred has TWO REPRESENTATIVES, the Protestant District of Fortune Bay, with a population of nine thousand nine hundred has only ONE REPRESENTATIVE.

We might continue this comparison further, but at present we are only concerned in proving what we set out to prove, namely the unfair predominance of Roman Catholic influence in the representation of the House of Assembly, which in the present instance defeats the rule of the majority.

It may be asked why this anomaly was not adjusted before, and to such a query we reply, that the necessity did not appear until after the object lesson was presented in 1909, and was emphasized by the elections which have just terminated.

There are to-day over 134,000 FAIRBANKS MORSE ENGINES in successful use. WHAT DOES THIS PROVE!—nov11,tf Football.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slivash"

Football, which becomes epidemic in September of each year, is a perpetual contest between the rules committee and the corner, with the former at present several laps in the lead. Football is a concerted endeavour on the part of eleven impetuous young men to tunnel through eleven other stubborn and strong-minded youths, with the object of carrying a $3.00 leather ball to a goal line not far away. The ball could be sent by parcels post or aeroplane in much less time and at far less expense, but this would not be sport. Sports consists of doing an easy thing in the most difficult manner possible—which is why golfers play their game with the aid of a caddy instead of a messenger boy.

When eleven husky young men try to go through a place occupied by eleven other husky young men something has to give way. In the case of football it is usually a collar bone, though the tibia and fibula are also great sufferers. When football had progressed to a perfection which necessitated the delaying of the game after each play in order to piece the players together, the census authorities interfered and the rules committee came to the rescue.

Football in its new denatured form is played by a referee and umpire, with the assistance of the revised rules, neatly bound in 11 volumes, at $1 per volume or $3 for full leather. The new game is as interesting as parchesi. The player takes the ball and rams it through five men for four yards. The officials then bring it back ten yards on account of rule 22, series b. Another player then carries it forward 25 yards. The officials take it back 40 yards and give it to the opposition. The opposition then trips on its own feet, falls down in a heap, loses the ball, busts a garter and is awarded 25 yards by rule 478, ring twice. The opposition then kicks goal for which it loses the ball and ten yards, and receives a warning.

This so heartens the other side that it tumbles the ball ten yards back of its own line and is given twenty yards by the referee on the ground that the left guard kicked an opponent while brushing past him. The attacking side now makes ten yards more by sitting on the ball and yelling for help, and ten yards when the center passes the ball over the full-back's head. Victory is now in sight, but unfortunately the attacking half-back now makes a 70-yard run and touchdown. For this his side loses the ball and 7 points, the quarter-back is ejected from the field, the business manager is conditioned in history B and the game is declared a draw on points.

Football is still inspiring to watch and is now a safe game, except as regards the officials, who must be men of great endurance and education. Too much time is now taken out to allow the umpire to keep his books and recover his wind, and it has been suggested that the game can be speeded up by allowing the officials to play while the players, who are in better physical condition any way, do their work.

Girls! Just Try It, Beautify Your Hair

Make it thick, glossy, wavy, luxuriant and remove dandruff—Real surprise for you.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as young girl's after a "Dandarine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandarine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandarine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandarine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Nickel's Great Feature

The attendance at the Nickel Theatre last evening was unusually large considering the inclement weather. The great feature was the popular picture "The Lady of the Lake," after Sir Walter Scott's famous poem. All present were delighted with it and the other pictures as well. The singing was also highly appreciated. This evening there will be a new program.

CHURCH POINT, July 31, '08.
Blacking & Mercantile Co., Ltd., Amherst, N.S.

Dear Sirs.—Nearly one year ago I had my first order of "Mathieu's Syrup" from you. It was not known in this country, and gave samples to several families whom I knew would use it. After a few weeks I began to have a call for it, and made no doubt that it will soon be the best selling remedy for coughs, colds, etc., on the market. In my store here sales are good and our people ask for it. Several stores in this county now keep it in stock and report sales increasing. I have bought from you since August 18th, 1907, 4 Gross and have only three dozen on hand at this date, and which I am holding for retail trade in my store.

Yours truly,
LOUIS A. McLANSON.

Mendel Belias was acquitted by the jury to-day of the alleged "ritual murder" of a young boy, in March, 1911.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 11.
Details of the damages done by Sunday's big blizzard are arriving slowly. Four are reported to have lost their lives; and many were injured throughout the State.

BUFFALO, Nov. 11.
The lightship No. 82, carrying a crew of 6 persons, stationed on Lake Erie, off Point Abino, fifteen miles west of this city, is reported lost by incoming vessels. It is believed she foundered during the recent storm.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.
All hopes for the Dominion coal steamer, Bridgeport, now 10 days overdue from Sydney, have been abandoned. Shipping men believe that she was so heavily loaded that she split in two and foundered with all on board. She had eight officers and a Chinese crew of thirty-three. One Chinaman in Montreal was to have sailed on her, but was imprisoned for deserting the ship.

LONDON, Nov. 11.
Preparations for the 1915 centenary of peace between English-speaking peoples are being pressed forward. The suggestion is being revived that 1915 should also witness the celebration of a complete century of peace between France and England. Such would be greeted heartily on both sides of the Channel. Waterloo Day should henceforth be regarded by the French, just as Trafalgar Day is now.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11.
Zapata, the rebel, whose operations have caused the Government so much trouble in the Southern States of Mexico, is again on the point of surrendering, according to official information. An emissary from Zapata is said to have conferred with President Huerta, who has offered the rebel safe conduct to the Federal capital, in order to conclude peace. It is not generally expected that Zapata will accept. He has been periodically reported as suing for peace, but nothing comes of it.

LONDON, Nov. 11.
Five wonderful turbines will drive the mammoth Cunarder, Aquilania, whose engines are now being installed on the Clyde. There are more than a million turbine blades, the combined length of which is over 110 miles. They vary from 1 1/2 to 20 inches in length. These turbines are absolutely the latest production in Marine Engineering. Thousands of pounds have been spent in experimenting, and full use was made of the experience gained by the Cunard Company in the construction and running of their other turbine ships, the Germania, Lusitania and Mauretania.

PORT HURON, Nov. 11.
As the result of a gale which prevailed on Sunday night, a steel freighter turned turtle on Lake Huron. It is believed that every member of the crew has gone to bottom. The name of the boat is unknown. The gale wrecked the life-saving stations and all the lifeboats here, so that assistance was impossible. When the tug Sarnie City returned this afternoon after an all-night watch over the big steel freighter which lies upside down, she brought no additional information as to its identity. The waves are still rolling high. The captain of the tug believes that thirty or forty men must have perished.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 11.
Cleveland-to-day is still paralyzed by the worst storm in its history, 48 hours of snow, preceded by rain and sleet. Traffic is so crippled as to be almost annihilated. Business is at a standstill, and there is little hope of recovery for several hours, perhaps days. Half the street car system is out of commission, and half the homes of the city are without electric lights. The local telephone service is partially in operation, but there is no connection with the outside world. A few trains are staggering into the city, but few have attempted to leave and of those that have no news has come. A food famine is threatened, the supply of meat and vegetables being sufficient only for two days.

Sad Circumstance.

Two apprentices, named Bolton and Sullivan, who were rescued from the City of Glace Bay, lost some months ago, are on the S. S. Bridgeport for some time missing and now given up as lost. The other members that formed the crew of the City of Glace Bay were sent to England, but the two lads were ordered to join the Bridgeport. Both lads were born in Ireland, one is an orphan, and the parents of the other are living in India.

A Child's Laxative Is "Syrup Of Figs."

They love to take it and it doesn't harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs." and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

Good Pay.

The man who pays his bills on time finds life a journey most sublime; he has a minimum of care; the glad hand greets him everywhere; on every doormat there appears the "welcome" word, through all his years; and parents see he's in the swim, and name their babies after him, and lovely girls he rounds him finds, with "Bridal Chorus" in their minds. And when he's old, his whiskers white, he's held up as a shining light; the young are urged to gang his gait and keep their credit clean and straight; and when he shuts his world-worn eyes, and kicks the bedclothes off and dies, deep sorrow does the town unfold, and all the bells in grief are toll-ed. When to the boneyard he is borne the people all turn out to mourn and see that he is planted right, and "ouching elegies" indite. But he who doesn't pay his bills is always faced by grievous ills; no girls are camping on his trail to work him for a wedding veil, and people view him with disdain, and say he gives the town a pain. He slinks through life with furtive step, to dodge the sheriff or his dep.

Backache a Warning You Should Heed

It is One of Nature's First Signs of Kidney Troubles, if Neglected, Serious Diseases May Follow.

When the kidneys are clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you. Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders, have attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired and feel all worn out; puffy swellings show under the eyes or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's Disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, when a little Croxone now will quickly and surely end all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for all such troubles than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to end the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

Encourage Home Industries.

We have the past month tried to bring before the public notice the many advantages to be gained by buying

HOME MADE GOODS.

For instance since the factory started in our building we can get Mattress Springs, &c., made to any size and any order—a real convenience. We now refer to the other side of the question, that of keeping the abor in the country. Hundreds of men find employment through these agencies. For instance, we employ hundreds to cut and prepare the lumber for use—lumber that up to now has lain dormant waiting for a market. Having had same tested by experts, they pronounce our hardwoods as good, if not better, than the imported for furniture purposes. We have the finish, in fact we have everything that goes to make as good or even better furniture than the imported, as inspection will prove. We need not tell you that the cost will be less, considering the high duty and freight paid on the imported. We will sell you a Surface Oak Sideboard for $15.00, that can't be sold less than $20.00 imported. We will sell you our Famous Felt Mattress, as good as the Ottoman, that sells at $20.00, for $15.00.

Then all things considered, don't you think it to your advantage to buy Home Made Goods and thus Encourage Home Industries and keep the money in the country. Let us talk the matter over when in need of Furniture and Furnishings.

Cabinet Backs Wilson.

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, To-Day. President Wilson's Cabinet stands firmly behind him in his efforts to force the retirement of Huerta as a necessary step to the pacification of Mexico. For more than two hours yesterday the Cabinet discussed every phase of the Mexican situation, and the consensus of opinion was that the States Government should not take a single backward step in its announced programme looking to the restoration of constitutional government. Though the secretaries were reticent afterwards about expressing their views, it became known that they all favoured steps which would convince Huerta that the States was in earnest in its demands that he eliminate himself from the situation. On the question of raising the embargo on arms, the Cabinet members expressed various opinions. Some of them recognize in this method a practical and perhaps an early solution of the difficulty, but there was no final decision on the point. There was a hope on the part of both the President and Secretary Bryan that a measure so radical as permitting the exportations of arms

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well. You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc." That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more then his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percie Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

A Pleasing Presentation.

This morning, at 11 o'clock, Governor Davidson personally presented each member of the City Hockey Team who defeated the Halifax Wanderers in a series of hockey games last winter, with a handsome gold Stick Pin. The following are the names of the team:—Gus Herder (Capt.), S. Walsh, E. Collier, F. Brien, L. Stick, E. Pinson, Ralph Herder, W. J. Higgins, Referee. The different members of the team were presented to His Excellency by Mr. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A. Mr. Higgins, who refereed the games, was also presented with a pin in recognition of his good work for the game. The Pins are of solid gold in the form of a hockey skate with the recipients name on one side, and N.D. 1913, on the other.

Shot Accidentally

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Smith, manager of the Empire Wood Working Co., was shot accidentally. Four boys, named Morgan, Carter, Tobin and Lindstrom, whose ages ranged from 9 to 15, were in a boat shooting bull-birds in the harbor. On this occasion, the latter lad put a cartridge into the gun they were using. On sighting a bird, Lindstrom pulled the trigger and discharged it, with the result that the contents was embedded in the left leg of Mr. Smith, who was standing on an East End waterfront premises. All four lads appeared in court to-day, and were given a sound lecture by the Judge.

Our many customers who had the pleasure of examining and trying our sample of this very useful household article will be pleased to hear that we have just received a shipment, so that all orders can now be filled. What is a Savory Roaster? It is such a good thing that it must be seen to be properly understood. A Savory Roaster is a Pan for roasting meat; but it is more than this, it is a self baster. No torment or burning your fingers removing it from oven to baste the meat. You simply place your roast of meat in the roaster, close the pan—trouble no more about it until it is cooked. The meat is really steamed all through. None of the nutritious properties of the meat can escape. It is a marvel and the price is within the reach of everybody. $1.50.

The schooner Freedom arrived in port to-day from Macelo, after a 40 days' passage. Coming on this coast the vessel had a very rough experience. Three times she was driven back over the Grand Banks by strong head winds. For the last month at sea the Freedom encountered adverse weather but came through without damage. The vessel came in ballast.

Two neighbours who are friends living at the Battery each own a motor engine of the same size, their boats are about equal—one has a FRASER engine up-to-date with kerosene attachment, which is claimed to be the dreadnaught of all motor engines made. The other has the ancient history type, whose forefathers are said to have made 134,000,000; however, they could not agree as to which engine was the fastest, so arranged a friendly race for $2.00 each, and a few days ago started from Messrs. New Styles in Hairdressing.

Small heads are now the fashion. Smart girls have quite a boyish look in their neat, round heads, with the hair parted at the side and sleekly dressed without perceptible chignon. One result of this is that the beauty of the neck comes into its own after having been more or less obscured by the elaboration of puffs and curls. Another is that one can take off one's hat without any of those furtive dabs and fluffing out with a hatpin when one removes one's hat at the theatre. Indeed, the wearing of a hat leaves one's hair smarter than ever, because flatter. One way of doing the hair is to part it at the side, bring the whole mass down to the nape of the neck, leaving it just a little loose at the top, and turn the ends under as tight and flat as possible. This is not easy for those who are blessed with luxuriant tresses. Another way is to bring the hair down simply to the nape of the neck as before and then fold the ends over once or twice, pull tightly round to the side, and fix with two ornamental shell pins. Both styles demand Marcel waving, and are usually worn with a straight fringe in front.

Though charming in their way, especially for very young girls, these styles will not suit everybody. For those who cannot face such a severe style there is a revival of the pompadour; not the hard, ugly pompadour of the past over a solid frame, but a new loosely waving, unpadding version of the style, in a waved plait chignon on the crown of the head. One coil is held out with large shell pins somewhat in the manner of the old "teapot handle." Another way of arranging the back hair with a pompadour front is to coil it in one long coil up the back of the head and a little way on the crown. This Paris style has a slight suggestion of getting ready for the bath. But then, is that not quite in the movement?

First Electrically Propelled Ship.

"The completion of the 'Tyne-mount' by Messrs. Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson, Ltd., Wallsend-on-Tyne, marks the dawn of a new era in marine propulsion," says the Sphere. "The 'Tyne-mount' is the first electrically-propelled vessel ever built. It is 250 ft. long by 42 ft. 6 in. beam, 19 ft. deep, and carries 2,400 tons of cargo. Built for the Marine Electric Propulsion Company, Ltd., of Montreal, for service on the American Great Lakes, she has propelling machinery consisting of two six-cylinder Diesel engines, each developing 300 h.p., running at 400 revolutions per minute, and to each is direct coupled a three phase alternator. The power of both these generating sets is led into a three-phase squirrel-cage motor of special construction which is direct coupled to the propeller. The length taken up by the propelling and auxiliary machinery of the 'Tyne-mount' is only 36 feet, as against about 46 feet in a vessel of similar type and style fitted with ordinary boilers and steam engines."

"Spend-a-Million Gates."

New York, Nov. 4.—The remains of Charles G. Gates, the multi-millionaire, who died suddenly at Cody, Wyoming Tuesday last, is expected to reach New York to-day.

Charles Gilbert Gates was born at Turner Junction, now known as West Chicago, Ill., on May 21, 1876. His father was John W. Gates and his mother Dellora R. (Baker) Gates. His early education was obtained in Chicago schools and he later attended Smith Academy at St. Louis, and an Academy at Lake Forest, Ill. He was not fond of school and entered business when seventeen years old, as a clerk for the Consolidated Steel and Wire Company. After serving in various capacities he was made assistant to the president.

In 1897 he became partner in the company of Baldwin, Gurney & Co., stock and commission merchants in Chicago, and was instrumental in organizing the First National Bank of Port Arthur, the Port Arthur Rice Milling Company and the Port Arthur Light and Power Company. All of these interests were located at Port Arthur, Texas, where his father, John W. Gates, had his most extensive holdings.

Mr. Gates, on November 22, 1898 married Miss Mary W. Walker, at St. Louis. On August 5, 1911, Mrs. Gates obtained a divorce from her husband at Chicago, and a few months later, soon after the death of his father, he married Miss Florence Hopwood, daughter of Frank Hopwood, a wheatbroker, at Minneapolis. The younger Gates, soon after the death of his father, began a spectacular career, spending money with the greatest liberality and making frequent announcements of the fact since he "could take none of it with him when he died, he proposed to get all the joy possible from the spending of it."

He became noted for long and fast trips from point to point in this country on trains which he chartered. One of these trips was from Yuma, Ariz., on February 20, 1911, and at that time his train exceeded many speed records in traversing the three thousand one hundred miles to New York. The last lap of 143 miles from Albany to New York, was made in 143 minutes. The purpose of the trip was to bring Mr. Gates to New York for treatment when blood poisoning developed after an automobile accident.

His gifts to waiters and others who provided for his comfort won him the nickname "Spend-a-Million Gates." On July 29, of this year Mr. Gates gave a nine hundred dollar tip to a waiter at Minneapolis. This is believed to be the largest individual tip ever given by Mr. Gates, but he at various times attracted attention by distributing twenty dollar and fifty dollar gifts to persons whose service pleased him.

Arriving in New York in a special train from Minneapolis on July 6 of last year Mr. Gates made a typical statement of his philosophy regarding money. He had been asked about his large tips.

"It's all true," Mr. Gates said. "I'm the busiest kid alive and I ought to be able to dispose of a million a year. I can't take this money with me when I die, so I'm for spending a whole lot of it before that unhappy time. I've got it and I'm not going to keep all of it. That's just what it was made for."

Mr. Gates was about to go to Europe when he heard of the shooting trip arranged for the Prince of Monaco at Cody. He cancelled his booking on the Lusitania on September 28 last and arranged to head a party of New York men at Cody. He arrived at Cody in September, and with his companions, made a trip into the mountains, returning to Cody at about the time the Prince and his friends completed their sport.

Little Maidens.

How should little maidens grow When they're ten or over? In the sunshine and the air. Wholesome, simple, fresh and fair. As the bonny daisies blow, And the happy clover?

How should little maidens speak When they're ten or over? As the birds do, and the bees, Singing through the flowers and trees Till each mortal fain would seek The merry-hearted rovers?

How about her eyes and ears, At this stage of growing? Like the clear, unclouded skies. Not too angry, nor too wise. So that all she sees and hears May be worth the knowing?

And the little maiden's heart? Ah, for that we're praying That it strong and pure may grow, God, who loveth children so, Keep her from all guile apart, Through life's mazes straying.

Another Marine Disaster Expected.

According to despatches received from Montreal the Dominion coal steamer Bridgeport, bound from Sydney to Montreal with a large coal cargo, is given up as lost. She is ten days overdue and hopes of her turning up are abandoned. Experienced mariners express the opinion that the ship, being so heavily laden, broke in two and foundered.

The Bridgeport had on board forty one lives—8 officers and 33 Chinamen. Her crew all told was 42, but a member of the Chinese crew deserted the ship at Montreal and is still in prison there.

The Bridgeport was 6,164 tons gross; 3,380 nett; 443 feet long and was only launched a year ago. She was a sister ship of the S. S. Glace Bay which met her fate in Trepassay Bay in June last while on her way from Sydney to Bell Island for an ore cargo.

The Bridgeport was owned by the Bridgeport Steamship Company, of London, England, and was under charter to the Dominion Coal Company, of Sydney, N.S.

An Oil Only Battleship.

A battleship of unique character was launched at Portsmouth Dockyard recently. She is to be driven by steam raised in water tube boilers heated exclusively by oil instead of coal; she is expected to develop a speed of about thirty knots; she is to have eight 10-in. guns, besides sixteen 6-in. guns; and she is designed so as to offer her crew protection from the attack of airship or aeroplane," says the Telegraph. "In each of these respects this British vessel—the Queen Elizabeth—stands first in the world's fleets; nowhere is her like under construction, except in England, and here there are four sister ships building."

"The steam turbine has taken its place as the most efficient motor for warships of all classes, and although the Admiralty are to experiment in several destroyers with oil motor engines and steam turbines acting in combination, there is very little chance of the turbine being ousted from first place for many years," says the Glasgow Herald. "Turbines supplied by steam generated in oil-fired boilers have been proved to be far more efficient than similar engines fed from coal-fired boilers, and it is this combination to which the Admiralty look for the propulsion of all their small, light craft, and of a limited number of large ships. Possibly the internal combustion engine will supersede steam in time, but the day of the boiler-less battleship is not yet in sight. The day of the coal-less battleship has come, and the advent of the Queen Elizabeth shows that it has now more than dawned."

"The first flotilla of ocean-going destroyers dependent wholly on oil fuel was created in 1909, and since then one flotilla has been built in each successive year. There are now built and building considerably over 100 such vessels. In addition, oil has been employed during the past five years in coal-burning cruisers and battleships for the purpose of raising steam quickly."

Kitchener's Mysterious Bullet.
Lord Kitchener, one of the most distinguished of the Knights of the Bath, who recently was installed at Henry VII's Chapel, in Westminster Abbey, once had as narrow an escape of his life as ever befell a soldier. It was in the course of the prolonged and fiercely fought campaign in the Soudan in the eighth year of that decade in fact.

There was a lively skirmish going on at a place named Handoub, just outside Suakin, when Kitchener, who was then a rising young officer of Engineers, was shot at by one of the Mahdi's negro soldiers. The bullet found its mark in the side of Kitchener's face at the back of the cheek. It was a Remington bullet and inflicted a really dreadful wound breaking the bone at the base of the jaw. It took a long time to get the splinters of bone out, and the doctors were unable to operate, as the bullet and fragments of bone were too close to the jugular vein. The ball could not be located, and the doctors pronounced his case as hopeless. They said the patient could not live and his sister, accordingly, was sent for from England.

The future savior of the Soudan however, differed from the surgeons and steadily refused to believe in their gloomy prognosis of his case, and, though he had to endure a journey down the Nile to the hospital at Cairo, confined in a small cabin in sweltering heat, his thin, muscular physique and iron will-power kept the dreaded fever at bay. The hospital doctors also failed to find the bullet, and came to the conclusion that it had worked its way out during the voyage down the Nile. Kitchener himself was of the opinion that the bullet had, by some means,

and is Depended On to Right Spleen and Liver Disorders.
Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known, they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ailments arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

"Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: 'We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking a treatment of several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders.'"

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, trembling, headaches and nervous indigestion.
Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.
Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: 'Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them.'" come out, unnoticed by the surgeons or himself, and gradually the terrible wound healed, and Kitchener returned to duty.

A year or so after the skirmish at Handoub, Kitchener one day sat down to dine off a beefsteak which had been served up by Sergeant Bilton, of the hospital staff. Suddently Kitchener clapped his hand to his jaw.

"Bilton," he said, "was there a bone in that steak?"
"No, sir," replied the sergeant.
"Then that bullet was in my jaw after all," said Kitchener, "and I've swallowed it, for I felt it go down."

That proved to be the case, and the great soldier preserves the flattened piece of lead on his key-chain.—London Tit-Bits.

Household Notes

A delicious sweet sandwich is made of thin slices of white bread spread with jam, topped with cream cheese. It is best to give linens a long soaking before washing. If this method is followed, stains will wash out easily.
If the bright parts of the kitchen range turn black from heat, dip a cloth in vinegar and rub on the blackened parts.
A few drops of paraffin added to shoe blacking will impart a good polish to damp shoes and also help to preserve leather.
The secret of the delicious omelet lies in the use of more yolks than whites, a little rich cream and a seasoning of cheese.
A good mixture to set color in cotton materials is one tablespoonful of turpentine, a handful of salt and a pint of cold water.
Things will be saved if a frying pan or griddle is wiped with a piece of newspaper to remove the surplus grease before it is washed.
When hats have become grayish and shabby, they can be brightened by rubbing over them a flannel sprinkled with a few drops of kerosene.
When serving any of the rich cheeses, like Brie Gorgonzola, or Roquefort, many hostesses now pass cream cheese or some milder cheese with it.
It is more pleasant for the guest if the hostess will make plans for every minute of the day, rushing her about from place to place.
It is best to buy fresh meat and vegetables. A can of salmon costs as much as a beef stew, and is not half as nourishing or satisfying.
If the enamel inside a rusty teakettle is not cracked, it may be thoroughly cleaned by putting in soda and cold water and bringing to a boil.
A small sewing bag with needles, thread, thimble, etc., and hooks, eyes and buttons, is a great convenience to the occupant of the guest-chamber.
To clean a brass plate without polishing the woodwork around it, cut a piece of cardboard the shape of the plate and place it around it when cleaning.
Clean white enameled furniture by dissolving one tablespoonful of baking soda in a pint of warm water. Saturate a soft cloth and wash the furniture.
To keep milk toast from becoming soggy, serve the boiling buttered milk in a covered pitcher, so that each person may himself pour it on his toast.
Fur coats should be packed on their hangers; it is a mistake to put them back in the boxes. Don't use a wool padded hanger; a stout wire or wooden one is best.
Aluminum ware can be polished with a mixture of borax and ammonia and water applied to the article with a soft cloth. Rinse well through several waters.

RETURNED HOME.—A young lad named Clayton Dunn, of Salmontier, St. Mary's Bay, has returned to his home from the General Hospital. The boy is thirteen years old, and had come here to receive treatment for a crippled arm, for which nothing could be done at the institution.

SALE OF WORK.—A sale of work in aid of the C. L. B. Armoury will take place in Cason Wood Hall this evening.

Why is Salt Fish Scarce?

The following, which recently appeared in the New England Grocer, is worth reprinting in its entirety: "Having information from a high authority that the packers of dried fish in various forms, such as boneless cod, and other fish, are being 'put to it' to supply the demands of their trade, that they are in danger of not being able to supply their customers with all required because of the fact that they have been unable to obtain enough raw material to answer the demands upon them, it occurs to us that this state of affairs may have something to do with the interesting fact that every year more provision dealers, retail grocers and general merchants are running fish markets, something which, not so many years ago, was unknown. Through education, by the medium of the trade papers and directly through missionary work of the fresh fish houses, grocers are everywhere including fish in their market departments, so that towns, formerly dependent upon the fish pedlar who drove about with a cart of fresh fish, in connection with the grocery store. This, and the general education to consumers who have been taught how to prepare fish in a greater number of ways, and other progress in the preparation of fish for food, has undoubtedly greatly increased the consumption of fresh fish.
The taking of fish from the waters of the briny sea as dependent upon the weather as the maturing of crops, and perhaps more so. Fair weather, providing the fish are present, means plenty of fish, but if there are days and weeks of inclement weather, making it either dangerous or impossible for the fishermen to remain out, there is a dearth of fish. Now, anyone who has followed the fish markets for a number of years or has been more or less conversant with the practices in that business, knows that the fresh fish demand is satisfied before the cutters are thought of, and the fish that are not demanded for the consumers of fresh fish are turned over to the cutters to be salted. So really, except in the case of a few great concerns who catch their own fish, own their fleets, the supply of salt fish is quite dependent upon the fresh fish fishermen, those who make it their principal business to supply the demand for fresh fish.
Of course, the reputed shortage may be due to the fact that the fish were scarce in the waters of the ocean. Salt water fishermen are not always lucky, and fishing is fishing, and there is fishermen's luck on both salt and fresh water. We all know the erratic nature of the mackerel, and also that sometimes cod bite and sometimes hake are cod, although cod are rarely hake. The catching of fish on the whole is rather a hazardous sort of business.

Sugar From Sawdust.

In the course of a paper read before the London Royal Society of Arts, Mr. A. Zimmerman described a process by which sugar might be manufactured from sawdust.
In its natural state, he pointed out, wood contains no sugar, but when sawdust has been subjected in closed retorts to digestion with a weak sulphurous acid solution under pressure of six to seven atmospheres, a very remarkable transmutation takes place, as much as 25 per cent. of the material being converted into sugar. In this Mr. Zimmerman claims that we have a valuable feeding stuff for horses, cattle, and sheep.
Draught horses in whose daily ration 4 lb. of "caneholose-molasses" were substituted for 4 lb. of oats were kept under observation for seven months, and were all found to have increased in weight, while a colt which was in so weak a condition that veterinary surgeons advised its destruction put on 260 lb. in six months, and is now in excellent condition.
The food has also been tried in a large Durham colliery, with the result that it kept the pit ponies and horses in good hard condition. Many other uses, it was suggested, would be found for this converted wood—for example, in the manufacture of explosives, of margarine, of synthetic rubber, and, in virtue of its characteristics as a non-conductor of heat, as packing for refrigerators, incubators, ice-chambers and so on.

Help Lighten the Load

Humanity stumbles ahead on its road, Urged on over the deserts, beset by the winds. Men bend under burdens of hunger and care; And women must suffer and toil and despair. Yes, even the children astray in the strife. Are bowed by the weight till they weary of life. Hark! unto each soul that is here, not slave. How clear sounds the call to arise and be brave. Help lighten the load!
Help lighten the load! With all of the strength that the heart can command, With all of the power of brain and of hand, With wills set to sacrifice, struggle and dare. With love that seeks ever each burden to share. With unflinching endeavor that stops not to ask The length of the journey, the cost of the task. Come, sons of the Kingdom! Come, children of God! And along the dark path by the world's anguished tread, Help lighten the load.

Toilet Hints.

When the hair splits clip or since the ends.
For ink stains on the fingers try lemon and salt.
Red hands should be washed in tepid water only.
Apples form a good laxative when eaten on an empty stomach.
Corns can be removed by daily rubbing with a toilet powder.
Massaging the scalp will stop falling hair and increase the amount of natural oil.
For an oily skin dissolve three grains of borax in three ounces of orange flower water.
Orris root, which can be bought in small sticks, sweetens and gives a delightful fragrance to the breath.
A hot water bath in which has been dissolved about two ounces of coarse salt will cure tired, swollen feet.
ENTERED CONSUMPTION CAMP.
A little girl named Nichols, of Battery Road, who has shown symptoms of consumption, was admitted to the consumption camp, on Blackmush Road, yesterday.

Three Reasons Why POSTUM

Instead of Tea or Coffee

A Food Drink Postum made of choice whole wheat, roasted, with a small portion of New Orleans molasses, contains the nutritive elements of the grain, and is wholesome and nourishing. Tea and coffee have no food value whatever.
Has Fine Flavour Postum has a dark, seal brown color, which changes to rich golden brown when cream is added. It has a delightful aroma, and a rich, snappy flavour, which many say they like as well, if not better, than that of tea or coffee.
Free From Drugs Postum is absolutely free from any drug. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a poisonous drug, from 1 1/2 to 3 grains to the cup. It often causes biliousness, headaches, heart agitation, nervousness, sleeplessness, and other ills. Postum, being pure and free from caffeine or any other drug, may be used freely by young and old.

Postum comes in two forms:
Regular Postum must be boiled to bring out the flavour and food value.
Instant Postum is a soluble powder. Made instantly by stirring a spoonful in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added.

THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company executes the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance—In St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $651,300.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, again, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars.

The Company now administers many estates which is value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

The Eastern Trust Company can execute this function of executor or administrator as efficiently in Newfoundland as it can in Nova Scotia, Quebec, or New Brunswick.

The Eastern Trust Company requires commodious offices on Water Street. Apply to

The Song of the ship.

Oh, the sweep of the toppling crests,
The ocean's salt sea foam,
Where the rolling billows comb,
When I dance upon her breast—
With the winds abeam and the skies gleam,
In the light of the crimson west:
My sails a white cloud and I sing aloud
To a glory of beauty dressed!

When the tempests upon me pour
My body groans and creaks,
And my cordage walls and shrieks
Mist the battling billows' roar:
Oh, I sob and cry, for 'tis hard to die
And be known by the seas no more.
Though torn by the strain yet I laugh again,
If I win when the storm is o'er.

When I'm safe and my voyage is done,
All stowed aloft, blow,
Then the winds may rail and blow,
Who cares when the battle's won?
Oh the sea, the sea! 'tis the place for me;
'Tis my home! Why its dangers shun?
Up, up, and away! Though I die today,
I shall die where my life begun!

Healthy and Unheal by Lighting

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what these eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Although not definitely decided upon yet, it is more than likely that the S. S. Lloydsen will prosecute next spring's seal-fishing. The Lloydsen went to Sandefjord, Norway, six months ago and was engaged to go with an expedition party, but the trip did not materialize and ever since the ship has been plying in northern Russia.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The schooner Procyon, Capt. Noseworthy, left this morning for the N. E. Coast with a cargo of coal. She will take a load of fish from there to St. John's.

Several young lads were before the court here to-day charged with placing large stones on the railway track in the West End of this town. They, no doubt, did it so as to see the fun when the engine would strike the obstruction. Little thinking what serious consequences might result from such action.

Rev. Mr. Beck gave a moving picture show in the British Hall, on Saturday night. The pictures were very instructive to people anxious to hear of the mission cause in foreign lands. The show was not so well attended as it should be.

His Lordship Bishop March arrived by train yesterday from Avondale where he had been officiating at the blessing of the church bell.

Mrs. Bridget Dwyer, widow of the late Peter Dwyer, of Riverhead, passed away on Sunday last after a long illness. The funeral took place to-day in charge of Undertaker Rogers.

Mr. Power, of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. was in town to-day on his usual rounds. He has many friends in this and neighbouring towns who are always glad to see him.

A dancing assembly will be held in the Academy Hall, on Thursday night, and from what we have learned of it a very enjoyable time awaits all who attend.

Rev. Mr. Magner, the new pastor for St. Andrew's Kirk here arrived on Friday and preached very acceptably at both services on Sunday. In welcoming Mr. Magner to Harbour Grace we trust that his stay here will be very pleasant and profitable to both pastor and congregation.

We are glad to be able to report that Miss Gertrude Parsons (daughter of Mr. Edward Parsons), who has been confined to her room with an attack of diphtheria is now almost completely recovered and will be able to get out in a day or two. All Gertrude's friends will be pleased to hear this.

The "Battle of Waterloo" at the Palace U last night was very real. The hall was well filled. There will be a matinee this afternoon for the school children. The company deserve thanks for giving the children an opportunity of seeing this, one of the greatest events in history.

Little Girl Assaulted.

As two little girls, of tender years, were proceeding from the Railway Station to their home on Hamilton Avenue last night, they were assaulted by a man of about 35 or 40 years of age. The police have a description of the scamp and are on the watch for him.

Waterfront Theft

The season has again come round for the waterfront thief to operate, and, according to police reports, he is getting in his nefarious work this fall with as much daring and effectiveness as ever. The police authorities have taken special precautions for the protection of craft owners now in port.
